Table of Contents

Rigveda Samhita, Volume 9 — English Translation

Source: `Rig_Vol9.pdf` (623 PDF pages; Kannada commentary of 1949 — Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit bhāṣya with the Kannada explanation of H. P. Venkata Rao). Covers: Maṇḍala 1, Sūktas 113–121, the Eighth Adhyāya of the First Aṣṭaka ("ಪ್ರಥಮಾಷ್ಟಕದಲ್ಲಿ ಎಂಟನೆಯ ಅಧ್ಯಾಯವು"), per the printed contents table (Viṣayānukramaṇike); the first sūkta is 113 (idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotiḥ), starting on printed p. 2. Page offset: the title page of the Eighth Adhyāya is PDF 21 (= printed p. 1); printed page = PDF − 20. The contents table ends with the topic on printed p. 601; the last text pages are about 601–603. Conventions: carried over unchanged from Volumes 1–8 (see `CLAUDE.md`): three-layer Sanskrit (Devanagari + IAST + English), view each page before writing, `[?]` for doubtful readings, glosses labelled "mine and tentative", the source's own English reproduced with [sic], grammar pages noted briefly. Numerals: read with the digit key confirmed in Volume 8 (flat-footed "2"-like glyph = 7, curled = 2; see `publish/tools/numeral_pass/METHOD.md`) in the first pass. Status: set up only; nothing translated yet. Front matter (Pīṭhike, pp. i–xiii) and the Eighth-Adhyāya text still to do. Append-only; keep exactly one trailing progress note.

Pīṭhike (Preface) — Kannada, printed pp. i–?

Printed p. i (PDF 8)

In this part of the Ṛgsaṃhitā there are the Sūktas from Maṇḍala 1, Sūkta 113 to Sūkta 121 (9 Sūktas; my first reading "130 / 18" was wrong — the contents table, printed pp. vii–xiii, runs 113–121 and the Pīṭhike itself mentions five Aśvin Sūktas, 116–120). The deities of these Sūktas are Rātri, Uṣas, Rudra, Sūrya, the Aśvins and Indra. More than half of this Adhyāya is devoted to the Aśvins. The account given in Skandasvāmin's bhāṣya on the Ṛks addressed to the Aśvins is not found in Sāyaṇa's bhāṣya. All the Sūktas relating to these deities are accompanied by upākhyānas (legends). Skandasvāmin has explained all these legends and has indicated the stories of persons who obtained help of many kinds from the Aśvins. Sāyaṇa, who is later than he, and other later writers have many points in their commentaries that are not in Sāyaṇa's bhāṣya. Therefore in the explanation of this part Skandasvāmin's bhāṣya has been used freely. It is a great misfortune that his bhāṣya is not available in full.

It is a settled matter that Skandasvāmin is earlier than Sāyaṇa, who belongs to the fourteenth century. There are many proofs that Harisvāmin, who wrote a bhāṣya on the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa, was his disciple.

> श्रीमतोऽवन्तिनाथस्य विक्रमस्य क्षितीशितुः । धर्माध्यक्षो हरिस्वामी व्याख्यां कुर्वे यथामति ॥

śrīmato 'vantināthasya vikramasya kṣitīśituḥ | dharmādhyakṣo harisvāmī vyākhyāṃ kurve yathāmati ||

"I, Harisvāmin, the Dharmādhyakṣa (chief of justice) of the illustrious Vikrama, lord of Avanti, ruler of the earth, write the commentary according to my understanding." Harisvāmin says in the introduction to his bhāṣya that he is the one who adorns the office of chief of justice at the court of Vikramāditya, the Avantinātha and emperor, and that he writes an exposition of the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa as best he can. And again:

यः सम्राट् कृतवान् सप्त सोमसंस्थास्तथर्क्श्रुतम् । व्याख्यां कृत्स्नाध्यापयेन्नाम्ना श्रीस्कन्दस्वाम्यस्ति मे गुरुः ॥ [?]

yaḥ samrāṭ kṛtavān sapta somasaṃsthāstatharkśrutam | vyākhyāṃ kṛtsnādhyāpayennāmnā śrīskandasvāmyasti me guruḥ || [?]

"My teacher is Śrī Skandasvāmin — the one who wrote the prayoga of the Soma sacrifices and a commentary on the Ṛgveda, and whom all scholars, and the emperor himself, [honour]" (the Kannada says: the teacher of the Soma-yāgas' procedure and the author of the Ṛgveda bhāṣya, my guru, honoured by all the śāstra-scholars and by the emperor). The date of Harisvāmin too is known from his own words:

यदा दी(=ब्दा)नां कलेर्जग्मुः षट्त्रिंशच्छतानि वै । चत्वारिंशत्समाश्चान्यास्तदा भाष्यमिदं कृतम् ॥

yadā dī(=bdā)nāṃ kalerjagmuḥ ṣaṭtriṃśacchatāni vai | catvāriṃśatsamāścānyāstadā bhāṣyamidaṃ kṛtam ||

"When 3,600 years of the Kali (age) and forty more years had passed, then this bhāṣya was composed" — he states his own date (Kali 3640, i.e. as the Kannada says "three thousand six hundred and forty years"). By this, according to the reckoning of historical researchers, it corresponds to about 5[3]8 [?] of the Christian era. At that time Yaśodharman was ruler of Mālava, and Harisvāmin …

Printed p. ii (PDF 9)

… (Yaśodharman) was the patron, Vikramāditya. Yaśodharman, in C.E. 5[3]2 [?], defeated the Hūṇas (Huns) and consolidated his kingdom. Harisvāmin, who lived under his protection, must have written the bhāṣya in 5[3]8 [?]. From the evidence above it may be said that his teacher Skandasvāmin was at the end of the fifth or the beginning of the sixth century C.E.

[Note in square brackets: that Yaśodharman, called Vikramāditya, belongs to the sixth century C.E. is known from the book Harsha by Radhakumud Mukherji. — the title is printed in English: "Harsha By Radhakumud Mukherji".]

The Eighth Adhyāya begins with the Sūkta addressed to Uṣas, the dawn: "idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotiḥ, bhāsvatī netrī sūnṛtānām, uṣā divo duhitā, yāvayad-dveṣā ṛtejāḥ" etc. In the descriptions of these (Ṛks) Uṣas is more excellent and more splendid than all the planets and constellations; she is the cause of the pleasant and truthful transactions of speech; she is born in heaven; she is the life-giver of all beings.

इदं श्रेष्ठं ज्योतिषां ज्योतिः भास्वती नेत्री सूनृतानाम् । उषा दिवो दुहिता यावयद्द्वेषा ऋतेजाः ॥ [phrases as printed in bold, running text; separated by commas in the source — doubtful reading of the last words [?]]

idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotiḥ bhāsvatī netrī sūnṛtānām | uṣā divo duhitā yāvayaddveṣā ṛtejāḥ ‖ [phrases as printed in bold, running text; separated by commas in the source — doubtful reading of the last words [?]]

In the Ṛgsaṃhitā there are more than twenty Sūktas addressed to Uṣas. In these hundred-odd Ṛks the description and praise of this goddess awaken the poetic genius of the Sūkta-seer. But in Ṛks such as "punaḥ-punar jāyamānā purāṇī, devī yuvatiḥ" etc. there is mixed together a kind of agitation along with the joy that is plainly expressed. Having praised Uṣas, who gives consciousness and light to the whole world, and fills living beings with enthusiasm, and having described beauty, the seer then, after manifesting the world, seems to show in most places an anxiety about the fact that Uṣas, who is for ever in the state of youth in the light, (while) before her all beings, becoming old and dying in a short time. Along with the enjoyment of beauty there is also direct experience. About the goddess Uṣas Prof. Max Müller has said some thought-provoking remarks, so they are quoted here (English, as printed):

> "The dawn, which to us is merely a beautiful sight, was to the early gazer and thinker, the broblem [sic] of all problems. It was the unknown land from whence rose every day those bright emblems of a divine power which left in the mind of man the first impression and intimation of another world, of power above, of order and wisdom. What we simply call the sun-rise, brought before their eyes every day, the riddle of the riddles, the riddle of existence. The days of their life sprang from that dark abyss which > every morning seemed instinct with light and life, Their Youth, their manhood, their old age, all were to the she [sic] Vedic bards the gift of that heavenly mother who appeared bright, young, unchanged, immortal every morning while everything else seemed to grow old, to change and drop and at last to set, never to return. It was there, in that bright chamber, that as their poets said, mornings and days were spun, or under a different image, where mornings and days were nourished, where life or time was drawn ont [sic]"

Printed p. iii (PDF 10)

>
> [Lectures ou [sic] the Science of Language. Vol II P. 481-482]

Uṣas is described in some places as the dearest wife of Sūrya (sūryasya yoṣā, 7-75-5 [?]) and in some places as Sūrya's mother (ajījanan sūryam, 7-78-3 [?]). In Ṛks such as 1-113-2 [?]; 10-1?-3 [?]; 1-1?4-? [?] she is called Night's sister; and in 1-123-5 [?] "bhagasya svasā varuṇasya jāmiḥ" ("sister of Bhaga, kin of Varuṇa") — she is said to be sister of Bhaga and a close relation of Varuṇa. All these relationships, like those of Uṣas, also indicate a very close connection of the Aśvin deities with the others. The statements "divo duhitrā uṣasā sacethe" (1-1?3-? [?]), "sakhābhūd aśvinor uṣāḥ" (4-?-? [?]) and "uta sakhāsy aśvinoḥ" (4-?-? [?]) show a similar connection between Uṣas and the Aśvins. (All numerals in this paragraph are small and blurred in the scan: unresolved.)

Five Sūktas of this Adhyāya are addressed to the Aśvins. The Sūktas praising these deities in the Ṛgsaṃhitā number more than fifty altogether. Their distinguishing mark is a dual-natured form in many respects; things compared to them are also of this dual form. "grāvāṇeva, gṛdhreva, brahmāṇeva (2-39-1 [?]) meneiva tena śumbhamāne dampatīva kratuvidā janeṣu (2-39-2 [?]) śṛṅgeva, śaphāviva, cakravākeva (2-39-3 [?]) hastāviva, pādeva (5 [?]) oṣṭhāviva, nāseva, karṇāviva (6 [?])" — thus they are always compared with things that are of two parts. They are called ever-young (6-62-10 [?]); ancient (6-62-5 [?]); beautiful (6-62-? [?]); of honey-colour (8-?-? [?]); lords of splendours (8-22-4 [?]); and extremely vigorous (6-?-? [?]); thus in many other ways they are described. In describing their various qualities, when the particular topics of separate Ṛks are explained, their greatness will be set out in detail.

Printed p. iv (PDF 11)

Of the endless qualities of the Aśvin deities the distinguishing mark is this: they protect devotees who have fallen into calamity and grant them what they desire. Though Indra and the other deities also help their devotees, the help of the Aśvins is more special than all. Indra and the others are famed for freeing devotees caught by enemies in battle and giving them protection; the Aśvins are famed for freeing them from every kind of calamity and giving their protection. Because these are deities connected with the sea, they saved Bhujyu, son of Tugra, who was in distress from shipwreck, by providing an excellent boat. Because they are physicians of the gods they cured devotees afflicted by many kinds of disease. The story of the ṛṣi Cyavāna, who received from them such help and, after the destruction of his old age, obtained youth, is told in the Śatapatha and other Brāhmaṇas. In the same way, in many places in the Ṛgsaṃhitā are described the occasions on which they helped hundreds of devotees, Vimada, Atri and others.

In this Adhyāya the epithet of Uṣas, ṛtapāḥ (1-113-12 [?]), and the description of the nature of the Aśvins, ṛtāyan (1-11?-?? [?]), show the similarity of qualities each shares with the other. Ṛtapāḥ means "protectress of truth or of the sacrifice" (satyasya yajñasya vā pālayitrī) — one who guards truth or the sacrifice. Ṛtāyan means (satyam ātmana icchan) — one who wishes truth for himself, i.e. one who is truthful in soul and truthful in conduct.

The word ṛta indicates the order of the universe, both physical and moral. Mitra and Varuṇa, chief among the Ādityas, are the guardians of this law; that they have the position of carrying on the world's affairs by this law and in the keeping of it is described in the Sūktas of the second Adhyāya of the second Aṣṭaka (as printed) [?], which concern them. How the deities Uṣas and the Aśvins follow this law and in what ways they help the world to follow it is explained here, in brief.

> द्वादशारं नहि तज्जराय वर्वर्ति चक्रं परि द्यामृतस्य । आ पुत्रा अग्ने मिथुनासो अत्र सप्त शतानि विंशतिश्च तस्थुः ॥
>
> dvādaśāraṃ nahi tajjarāya varvarti cakraṃ pari dyāmṛtasya | ā putrā agne mithunāso atra sapta śatāni viṃśatiśca tasthuḥ ‖ (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-164-11)

“The wheel of Ṛta with twelve spokes (months) revolves ceaselessly round the sky” — in this Ṛk, the wheel called ṛta, which has twelve spokes (months), is described as revolving constantly in the atmosphere. That Uṣas follows the path of this Ṛta by its rule —

Printed p. v (PDF 12; the page number is not visible in the crop)

ऋतस्य देवीः सदसो बुधाना गवां न सर्गा उषसो जरन्ते ।

ṛtasya devīḥ sadaso budhānā gavāṃ na sargā uṣaso jarante | (Ṛ. Saṃ. 4-51-8) [as read]

ऋतस्य योषा न मिनाति धामाहरहर्निष्कृतमाचरन्ती ।

ṛtasya yoṣā na mināti dhāmāharaharniṣkṛtamācarantī | (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-124-2) [?]

ऋतस्य पन्थामन्वेति साधु प्रजानतीव न दिशो मिनाति ।

ṛtasya panthāmanveti sādhu prajānatīva na diśo mināti | (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-124-3)

ऋतस्य बुध्न उषसामिषण्यन् वृषा मही रोदसी आ विवेश ।

ṛtasya budhna uṣasāmiṣaṇyan vṛṣā mahī rodasī ā viveśa | (Ṛ. Saṃ. 3-61-2)

— in these and other Ṛks it is described how Uṣas follows the path of Ṛta and keeps her rule every day without lapse, obeying the law of Ṛta. And so that this path of Ṛta may be followed, in the Ṛk

उप नो वाजिनीवसू यातमृतस्य पथिभिः । येभिस्तृक्षिं वृषणा त्रासदस्यवं महे क्षत्राय जिन्वथः ॥

upa no vājinīvasū yātamṛtasya pathibhiḥ | yebhistṛkṣiṃ vṛṣaṇā trāsadasyavaṃ mahe kṣatrāya jinvathaḥ ‖ (Ṛ. Saṃ. 8-?-2 [?]) the Aśvin deities too are prayed to. In following the path of Ṛta there is a relation of mutual need between Uṣas and the Aśvins.

In many Ṛks, e.g. “yahvī ṛtasya mātarā” (1-142-7 [?]), “suprātīke vayovṛdhā yahvī ṛtasya mātarā” (2-3-6 [?]), it is said that the two mother-deities of Ṛta (night and Uṣas) are meant, and the coming of the Aśvins together with the appearance of these two is indicated:

स्वद्वस्रा मनोयुजा रथेन पृथुपाजसा । सचेथे अश्विनोषसम् ॥ [? first word]

svadvasrā manoyujā rathena pṛthupājasā | sacethe aśvinoṣasam ‖ [? first word] (Ṛ. Saṃ. 8-?-3 [?])

The Aśvin deities, who do wonderful deeds, sit in their chariots and follow the very path of the Uṣases. Uṣas prays that such Aśvin deities be awakened, in the words “pra bodhayoṣo aśvinā” (8-?-12 [?]). ”

अबोध्यग्निर्ज्म उदेति सूर्यो व्यु षाश्चन्द्रा मह्यावो अर्चिषा । आयुक्षातामश्विना यातवे रथं प्रासावीद्देवः सविता जगत्पृथक् ॥

abodhyagnirjma udeti sūryo vyu ṣāścandrā mahyāvo arciṣā | āyukṣātāmaśvinā yātave rathaṃ prāsāvīddevaḥ savitā jagatpṛthak ‖ (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-157-1)

In this Ṛk the contemporaneity of the rising of Sūrya and Uṣas and the coming of the Aśvin deities is stated. Thus, in physical (bhautika)

Printed p. vi (PDF 13)

… worldly affairs the rule of Ṛta, and the part played by Uṣas and the Aśvin deities, who are alert in the keeping of this rule, are described in the present Adhyāya under the epithets ṛtapāḥ and ṛtāyan. The nature of the moral rule of Ṛta, and the supervisory authority of Mitra and Varuṇa in this work, will be set out in the later parts.

It is not an easy task to publish the Ṛgveda Saṃhitā — most ancient, most profound, most extensive, the root of all śāstras — in plain Kannada with explanation and translation. Nevertheless, with the noble purpose that by such a great work all people, scholars and others, may gain growth of knowledge and become fit for God's grace, His Highness Śrī Jayachāmarājendra Oḍeyar Bahadur, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., Lord of the Karnāṭaka throne, patron of Vedic learning, himself a scholar, beloved of the people, devoted to God and intent on the Truth, is encouraging the publication of this work, which needs much expense, by his generous patronage; this must be called the good fortune (sukṛta) of the Karnāṭaka people. To such large-minded Prabhuvarya, to his family (including the prince named Gāyatrī — the mantra said to be of highest importance among the Vedic mantras — [as the Kannada has it; sense of the clause: the royal children]) and to all the people, may the Lord, the Veda-puruṣa, I pray, grant the benefits of this world — long life, health, wealth, prosperity and every riches — and, above all, spiritual knowledge of the highest truth.

> Mysore. [Vikṛti-nāma saṃvatsara] [?] Caitra śuddha pratipadā, Sunday — 19-3-1950.
> Translator: H. P. Venkata Rao, Āsthāna Mahāvidvān.

(End of the Pīṭhike text, printed pp. i–vi. The contents table follows on PDF 14–20.)

Viṣayānukramaṇike (Table of Contents) — printed pp. vii–?

Śrīḥ — "Viṣayānukramaṇike. The Eighth Adhyāya of the First Aṣṭaka; Sūktas 113–121 of the First Maṇḍala." Column heading: Puṭasaṃkhye (page number). The page numbers below are those printed in the table.

Printed p. vii (PDF 14; number not visible in the crop)

Sūkta 113 — idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ — the 113th Sūkta - Application (viniyoga) of the Sūkta, and Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 2 - Discussion of the origin of dawn-time, etc. — 3 - Discussion of the sameness and likeness of Night and Uṣas — 13 - The different kinds of Night and Uṣas — 20 - Meaning of the word visadṛśā — 34 - Meaning, with translation, of the words parāyatīnām, āyatīnām etc. — 42 - The pervasion of Uṣas's time over past, future and present — 54 - Explanation of the words sumnāvarī sūnṛtā etc. — 59 - The mutual relation of the present and past dawns of Uṣas — 73 - Meaning of the word āsu etc. — 77 - The word asme — its use in all seven cases, with examples — 82 - Meaning, with translation, of adhītīr anīkam [reading of the printed words as in the source; doubtful] — 92

Sūkta 114 — imā rudrāya — the 114th Sūkta - Application of the Sūkta — 97 - Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 98 - Explanation of the word rudra, etc. — 101 - Meaning of the word kṣayadvīra — 101 - The matter of Manu (manuvisa [?]) — 107 - Discussion of the word varāha — 120 - The name varāha for Aṅgirases — 121

Printed p. viii (PDF 15)

- Rudra as father of the Marut deities — 126
- Meaning, with translation, of the word āyuḥ — 134
- Discussion of the word dvibarha [?] — 143

Sūkta 115 — citraṃ devānām — the 115th Sūkta - Application — 149; Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 150 - Sūrya as the self of the moving and unmoving world — 153 - Meaning of the word yuga — 157 - Greatness of Sūrya's horses — 161 - Greatness of the rising and setting of Sūrya — 165

Sūkta 116 — nāsatyābhyāṃ — the 116th Sūkta - Application — 177; Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 178 - Account of the birth of the ṛṣi kakṣīvān [as printed "kṣīvān"?] etc. — 180 - The royal sage Vimada — 181 - Meaning of the word barhiḥ etc. — 182 - How the Aśvins' vehicle, the ass, won in the contest of the gods — 187 - The various vehicles of Indra and the other gods — 188 - The self-choice (svayaṃvara) of Sūryā, daughter of Sūrya — 189 - The king Tugra — 194 is for Bhujyu: "Bhujyu, Tugra's son, rescued by the Aśvins in mid-ocean" — 194 (Tugra himself — 193) - Derivation of the word samudra etc. — 201 - How the Aśvins gave the white horse to king Pedu — 209 - Pajra, the name for Aṅgirases — 215 - Derivation of the word kakṣīvān — 215 - How the Aśvins made the fragrance of their horse (gorasa?) bring forth wine [?] — 216 - Meaning, with translation, of the word purandhi — 216

Printed p. ix (PDF 16)

- How the Aśvins rescued the ṛṣi Atri, whom the asuras had thrown into a hot fire-chamber (tuṣāgni) to burn, by cooling that fire with cold water — 222
- Meaning of the word svasti — 225
- How the ṛṣi Gotama, tormented by thirst, prayed to the Aśvins for water and they brought a well from a distant place to him and quenched his thirst — 230
- How the ṛṣi Cyavana, troubled by old age, was given youth by the Aśvins — 233
- How the ṛṣi Vandana, who had fallen in a well in the middle of a lonely forest, was lifted out of the well and saved — 239
- Story of the ṛṣi Dadhīca; how Dadhīca taught the Aśvins the Madhu-vidyā — 245
- The legend told in this connection by Skandasvāmin — 247
- How Dadhīca got a horse's head — 247
- Prof. Wilson's opinion in this matter ("Wilson" in English) — 248
- How a son named Hiraṇyahasta was granted to the woman Vadhrimatī — 252
- How the Aśvins rescued a quail-like bird (gubbacci) from the wolf's mouth — 255
- Meaning of the word vṛka — 257
- How the Aśvins mended the leg of Viśpalā, woman of the royal house of Śela, priest Agastya (agastyapurohita) [as printed], which had been cut off in battle — 262

- How the Aśvins' vehicle the ass, in the form of a wolf, … the story of ṛjrāśva, whose father, angered because he had given a hundred sheep to a she-wolf (as food), made Ṛjrāśva blind, and the Aśvins restored his sight — 266
- How the Aśvins' chariot won in the gods' contest — 271
- The story of Divodāsa — 276

Printed p. x (PDF 17; number not visible)

- How the Aśvins favoured Jāhnavī, the wife of the great sage Jahnu — 280
- The king Jāhuṣa [?] — 284
- How the Aśvins protected the king Pṛthuśravas and Vaśa — 289
- How the ṛṣi Śara, tormented by thirst, fallen in a deep well on the path, unable to drink the water in the well, praised the Aśvins, who made the water of the well rise up and quenched Śara's thirst — 293
- How the ṛṣi Śayu made a barren cow give milk, as if she had calved — 294
- How, when Viśvaka's son Viṣṇāpū was lost, the Aśvins sought him and brought him to his father — 298
- How the Aśvins lifted out of a well and saved the ṛṣi Rebha, who for ten days had been thrown by the asuras into a well and suffered — 302

Sūkta 117 — madhvaḥ somasya — the 117th Sūkta [number as printed ೧೧೭: read as 117] - Application — 308; Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 309 - Among the gods of the sky-region the Aśvins hold the first place — 315 - Meaning of the word vasātī etc. — 316 - Meaning of the word pañcajana — 321 - How the Aśvins lifted the ṛṣi Rebha out of the water and saved him — 324 - How the ṛṣi Vandana was lifted out of the well — 329 - How, having made Viṣṇāpū a (hunter's) prey (kareteṃdu [?]), he was given back to his father Viśvaka; and how Ghoṣā was brought a husband — 337 - How the ṛṣi Śyāvana (Śyāva) [as printed "ಶ್ಯಾ ವನ"] was cured of leprosy and saved; how the blind ṛṣi Kaṇva, son of Nṛṣada, was given eyes — 341

Printed p. xi (PDF 18) [Sūkta 117 continues]

- How the best white horse was given to king Pedu — 346
- How the Aśvins mended the leg of Viśpalā, the woman of king Śela (Agastya's household priest [as printed: "agastyapurohita Śela"]), cut off in battle; and the story of the birth of the ṛṣis Agastya and Vasiṣṭha — 355
- How Rebha was lifted out of the well and saved — 360
- How the aged ṛṣi Cyavana was made young again; the matter of Sūryā mounting the Aśvins' chariot — 365
- How Bhujyu, son of Tugra, was saved from the sea (kareteṃda [?] "taken ashore") — 369
- How the Aśvins freed the bird vartikā from the wolf's mouth — 377
- How they slew the asura viśvāñca [?] — 378
- How the blind ṛṣi Ṛjrāśva was given sight — 382
- Meaning, with translation, of the word sīm etc. — 389
- How the ṛṣi Śayu's barren cow was made to give milk — 393

- How Vimada's wife, carried off by an asura, was rescued and brought back — 394
- How the ṛṣi Dadhīca taught the Aśvins the Madhu-vidyā — 401
- How the woman Vadhrimatī was favoured with a son named Hiraṇyahasta — 408

Sūkta 118 — ā vāṃ rathaḥ — the 118th Sūkta - Sūkta application, and Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 415 - Description of the Aśvins' chariot, etc. — 417 - How the Aśvins saved Nandana [as printed; cf. "Vandana"], Rebha, Bhujyu, Cyavana and others — 433 - How the blind ṛṣi Kaṇva was given sight — 436 - The many bold deeds of the Aśvins: making the ṛṣi Śayu's cow give milk, freeing the bird Vartikā from the wolf's mouth, and fitting another leg in place of that of Viśpalā, which had been cut off in battle — 440 - How the white horse was given to king Pedu — 443

Printed p. xii (PDF 19)

Sūkta 119 — ā vāṃ rathaṃ purumāyaṃ — the 119th Sūkta - Application, Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 452 - Greatness of the Aśvins' chariot, etc. — 455 - How Bhujyu and Divodāsa were saved — 467 - How Sūryā, of her own accord, mounted the Aśvins' chariot — 471 - How the ṛṣi Rebha was lifted out of the well and saved — 475 - How the old body of the ṛṣi Nandana [as printed] was made to enjoy (bhogālāḍisi) and he was made youthful — how the ṛṣi Vāmadeva was made to be born from his mother's womb — 479 - How Bhujyu, sinking in mid-ocean, was saved — 484 - How the Aśvins made honey come to the bees — 488 - How the ṛṣi Kakṣīvān became chief among thirty-three eminent (śreṣṭha) descendants of the Aṅgirases — 489 - How a divine horse was given to king Pedu — 493

Sūkta 120 — kā rādhad dhotrā — the 120th Sūkta - Application, explanation of the metre, etc. — 496 - Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 498 - How Ṛjrāśva, when blind, praised the Aśvins for the gift of sight — 517 - The various meanings of the word vṛka — 520 - Meaning of the word stanābhujaḥ [?] etc. — 524 - Meaning of the word vājinīvatī etc. — 530

Sūkta 121 — kad itthā nṝḥ [as printed "ಕದಿತ್ಥಾ ನೃಃ"; reading doubtful] — the 121st Sūkta - Application, Ṛṣi, deity, metres — 537 - Meaning of the word go — 544 - How Indra made a cow be born in a mare — 546 - Meaning, with translation, of the word peyaḥ etc. — 558 - Meaning, with translation, of the word snēduvahya [?] etc. — 562

Printed p. xiii (PDF 20) [Sūkta 121 continues]

- Meaning of the word adrivaḥ etc. — 580
- Explanation of the words phaliga, kuṣṇa [?] etc. — 581
- How Tvaṣṭṛ made the thunderbolt for Indra — 589
- Meaning of the word etaśa — 593
- Explanation of the words nājapramahaḥ [?], sadhamādaḥ etc. — 601

Viṣayānukramaṇike samāptavu — "The table of contents is ended."

Result of the front matter: the volume holds Sūktas 113–121 (nine Sūktas: 113 Uṣas/Rātri, 114 Rudra, 115 Sūrya, 116–120 Aśvins, 121 Indra), text to about printed p. 603.

EIGHTH ADHYĀYA — text begins (printed p. 1, PDF 21)

Title page (printed p. 1, PDF 21)

(Ornament: Oṃ in a sun-disc.)

॥ श्री गणाधिपतये नमः ॥ — Śrī Gaṇādhipataye namaḥ — "Salutation to Śrī Gaṇādhipati."

> वागीशाद्याः सुमनसः सर्वार्थानामुपक्रमे । यं नत्वा कृतकृत्याः स्युस्तं नमामि गजाननम् ॥
> यस्य निःश्वसितं वेदा यो वेदेभ्योऽखिलं जगत् । निर्ममे तमहं वन्दे विद्यातीर्थमहेश्वरम् ॥ वेदः शिवः शिवो वेदो वेदाध्यायी सदाशिवः । तस्मात्सर्वप्रयत्नेन वेदमेव सदा जपेत् ॥
>
> vāgīśādyāḥ sumanasaḥ sarvārthānāmupakrame | yaṃ natvā kṛtakṛtyāḥ syustaṃ namāmi gajānanam ‖ yasya niḥśvasitaṃ vedā yo vedebhyo 'khilaṃ jagat | nirmame tamahaṃ vande vidyātīrthamaheśvaram ‖ vedaḥ śivaḥ śivo vedo vedādhyāyī sadāśivaḥ | tasmātsarvaprayatnena vedameva sadā japet ‖

"I bow to Gajānana (Gaṇeśa), bowing to whom at the start of all undertakings the gods headed by Vāgīśa (Brahmā?) are fulfilled." / "I praise Vidyātīrtha-Maheśvara, whose breath is the Vedas and who from the Vedas made the whole world." / "The Veda is Śiva, Śiva is the Veda; the one who studies the Veda is Sadāśiva; therefore with all effort one should always recite the Veda alone." (Sense mine; the third verse's first words read from the print.)

सायणभाष्यसहिता ऋग्वेदसंहिता — Sāyaṇabhāṣyasahitā Ṛgvedasaṃhitā — "The Ṛgveda Saṃhitā with Sāyaṇa's Bhāṣya." भाग—९ (Part 9). ॥ प्रथमाष्टकेऽष्टमोऽध्यायः ॥ — Prathamāṣṭake 'ṣṭamo 'dhyāyaḥ — "In the first Aṣṭaka the eighth Adhyāya." Kannada: "The eighth Adhyāya in the first Aṣṭaka. In the first Maṇḍala, the hundred-and-thirteenth Sūkta."

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (introduction to Sūkta 113)

> इत्थं सप्तममध्यायं व्याख्यायाष्टमोऽध्यायो व्याख्यातुमारभ्यते । प्रथमे मण्डले षोडशेऽनुवाके सप्त सूक्तानि गतानि । इदमिति विंशत्यृचमष्टमं सूक्तमत्रानुक्रम्यते । इदं विंशतिरुषस्यं द्वितीयोऽर्धर्चो रात्रेरिति । ऋषिश्चास्यादिति परिभाषयानुवृत्तेरांगिरसः कुत्स ऋषिः । अनादेशपरिभाषया त्रिष्टुप् छन्दः । उषा देवता द्वितीयस्यार्धर्चस्य रात्रिरपि ॥ प्रातरनुवाक उषस्ये क्रतौ त्रैष्टुभे छन्दस्येतत्सूक्तम् । सूत्रितं च । इदं श्रेष्ठं पृथू रथ इति सूक्ते । आश्व. ४-१४ । इति । आश्विनशस्त्रे चेदं सूक्तं प्रातरनुवाकातिदेशात् ॥
>
> itthaṃ saptamamadhyāyaṃ vyākhyāyāṣṭamo 'dhyāyo vyākhyātumārabhyate | prathame maṇḍale ṣoḍaśe 'nuvāke sapta sūktāni gatāni | idamiti viṃśatyṛcamaṣṭamaṃ sūktamatrānukramyate | idaṃ viṃśatiruṣasyaṃ dvitīyo 'rdharco rātreriti | ṛṣiścāsyāditi paribhāṣayānuvṛtterāṃgirasaḥ kutsa ṛṣiḥ | anādeśaparibhāṣayā triṣṭup chandaḥ | uṣā devatā dvitīyasyārdharcasya rātrirapi ‖ prātaranuvāka uṣasye kratau traiṣṭubhe chandasyetatsūktam | sūtritaṃ ca | idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ pṛthū ratha iti sūkte | āśva. 4-14 | iti | āśvinaśastre cedaṃ sūktaṃ prātaranuvākātideśāt ‖

Sense: "Having thus explained the seventh Adhyāya, the explanation of the eighth Adhyāya is begun. In the sixteenth anuvāka of the first maṇḍala seven sūktas have been gone through. Here the eighth sūkta, idam, of twenty Ṛks, is listed (in the Anukramaṇī): 'idaṃ viṃśatir uṣasyaṃ dvitīyo 'rdharco rātreḥ' (twenty Ṛks, addressed to Uṣas; the second half-Ṛk to Night). By the rule 'and the ṛṣi …' (read ṛṣiś cāsyād [?]) the ṛṣi is, by continuation, Kutsa Āṅgirasa. By the rule of 'no assignment' the metre is Triṣṭubh. The deity is Uṣas; of the second half-Ṛk, Night also. This sūkta is used in the Uṣasya [hymns] of the Prātaranuvāka in the Triṣṭubh metre; and it is prescribed in the Sūtra: 'idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ pṛthū ratha iti sūkte' (Āśv. 4-14); and in the Aśvina-śastra this sūkta is used by extension from the Prātaranuvāka." (Reading doubtful in places: ṛṣiś cāsyād* and uṣasye kratau [?].)*

Sūkta 113 — idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣām (printed pp. 2–?)

Printed p. 2 (PDF 22; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

Anuvāda (Kannada): "Thus far the explanation of the meaning of the seventh Adhyāya has been given; now we begin the eighth Adhyāya. In the sixteenth anuvāka of the first maṇḍala seven sūktas have been completed. The sūkta which we now begin, idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ, is the eighth sūkta; it has twenty Ṛks. In the Anukramaṇikā it is said 'idaṃ viṃśatir uṣasyaṃ dvitīyo 'rdharco rātreḥ'. The ṛṣi of this sūkta is Kutsa, son of Aṅgiras; the metre Triṣṭubh; the deity Uṣas; the latter half of the first Ṛk is also addressed to Night. The sūkta has an application in the Prātaranuvāka mantras, for the recitation (pathana) at the time of the Uṣas-rite of Triṣṭubh Ṛks related to Uṣas — as shown by the Āśvalāyana Śrautasūtra in the sūtra 'idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ pṛthū rathe iti sūkte' (Āśv. 4-14, as printed [?]). In the Prātaranuvāka mantras this sūkta is also applied to the Aśvina-śastra mantras."

सूक्त—११३ (Sūkta 113) ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—१६ ॥ सूक्त—११३ ॥ — Maṇḍala 1; Anuvāka 16; Sūkta 113. ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय ८ ॥ वर्ग—१, २, ३, ४ ॥ — Aṣṭaka 1; Adhyāya 8; Varga 1, 2, 3, 4. Number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 20. Ṛṣi: Kutsa Āṅgirasa. Devatā (as printed, small numerals, partly unclear [?]): the Ṛks 3–20 Uṣas; Ṛk 1 and the second half of the Ṛks given as "Uṣas and Rātri". Chandas: Triṣṭubh (printed "paṅkti"?: the box reads chandaḥ*— … [?]; the bhāṣya says Triṣṭubh)*.

Ṛk 1

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.1)

इदं श्रेष्ठं ज्योतिषां ज्योतिरागाच्चित्रः प्रकेतो अजनिष्ट विभ्वा । यथा प्रसूता सवितुः सवायँ एवा रात्र्युषसे योनिमारैक् ॥ १ ॥

idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotirāgāccitraḥ praketo ajaniṣṭa vibhvā | yathā prasūtā savituḥ savāya~ evā rātryuṣase yonimāraik ‖ 1 ‖

Printed p. 3 (PDF 23; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.1)

इदम् । श्रेष्ठम् । ज्योतिषाम् । ज्योतिः । आ । अगात् । चित्रः । प्रऽकेतः । अजनिष्ट । विऽभ्वा । यथा । प्रऽसूता । सवितुः । सवाय । एव । रात्री । उषसे । योनिम् । अरैक् ॥ १ ॥

idam | śreṣṭham | jyotiṣām | jyotiḥ | ā | agāt | citraḥ | pra 'ketaḥ | ajaniṣṭa | vi 'bhvā | yathā | pra 'sūtā | savituḥ | savāya | eva | rātrī | uṣase | yonim | araik ‖ 1 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā's ārāik appears in the Pada as अरैक् (the second letter was doubtful here; it is clear in the Pada of Ṛk 2, p. 9, and of Ṛk 16, p. 75, so the doubt is removed); the Saṃhitā's savāya evā is the Pada's savāya | eva*.)*

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.1)

ज्योतिषां ग्रहनक्षत्रादीनां द्योतमानानां मध्ये इदमुषोऽभिमानिनी ज्योतिः श्रेष्ठम् । प्रशस्यतमम् । अस्य कोऽतिशय इति चेत् उच्यते । नक्षत्रादिकं ज्योतिः स्वात्मानमेव प्रकाशयति नान्यत् । चन्द्रस्तु यद्यप्यन्यत्प्रकाशयति तथापि न विस्पष्टप्रकाशः । उषसं तु ज्योतिर्युगपदेव सर्वस्य जगतोऽन्धकारनिराकरणेन विशेषेण प्रकाशकम् । अतः प्रशस्ततममित्यर्थः । तादृशं ज्योतिरागात् । पूर्वस्यां दिश्यागमत् । आगते च तस्मिन् चित्रः चायनीयः प्रकेतः अन्धकारावृतस्य सर्वस्य पदार्थस्य प्रज्ञापकस्तदीयो रश्मिर्विभ्वा विभुर्व्याप्तः सन् अजनिष्ट । प्रादुरभूत् । किंच । यथा रात्रिः स्वयं सवितुः सूर्यप्रकाशात् प्रसूता उत्पन्ना । सूर्यो हस्तं गच्छन् रात्रिं जनयति । तस्मिन्नस्तमिते रात्रेरुत्पत्त्यभावात् । एवमेव रात्रिरपि उषसे सवाय उषसः उत्पत्तये तदर्थं योनिं स्थानं स्वकीयापरभागलक्षणमारैक् । अरेचितवती । कल्पितवतीत्यर्थः । यद्वा । प्रसूता रात्रिः सवितुः सूर्यस्य सवाय प्रसवाय जन्मने यथा भवति एवं रात्रिरपि उषसः उज्जन्म तदर्थं योनिं स्वापरभागलक्षणं स्थानं कृतवती । अत्र निरुक्तम् । इदं श्रेष्ठं ज्योतिषां ज्योतिरागात् चित्रं प्रकेतनं प्रज्ञाततममजनिष्ट विभूततमं यथा प्रसूता सवितुः प्रसवाय रात्रिरादित्यस्यैवं रात्र्युषसे योनिमरिचत् स्थानम् । नि. २-१९ । इति । श्रेष्ठम् । प्रशस्यस्य श्रः । पा. ५-३-६० । इति श्रादेशः । प्रकृत्यैकाच् । पा. ६-४-१६३ । इति प्रकृतिभावात्टेर्लोपाभावः । आगात् ।

jyotiṣāṃ grahanakṣatrādīnāṃ dyotamānānāṃ madhye idamuṣo 'bhimāninī jyotiḥ śreṣṭham | praśasyatamam | asya ko 'tiśaya iti cet ucyate | nakṣatrādikaṃ jyotiḥ svātmānameva prakāśayati nānyat | candrastu yadyapyanyatprakāśayati tathāpi na vispaṣṭaprakāśaḥ | uṣasaṃ tu jyotiryugapadeva sarvasya jagato 'ndhakāranirākaraṇena viśeṣeṇa prakāśakam | ataḥ praśastatamamityarthaḥ | tādṛśaṃ jyotirāgāt | pūrvasyāṃ diśyāgamat | āgate ca tasmin citraḥ cāyanīyaḥ praketaḥ andhakārāvṛtasya sarvasya padārthasya prajñāpakastadīyo raśmirvibhvā vibhurvyāptaḥ san ajaniṣṭa | prādurabhūt | kiṃca | yathā rātriḥ svayaṃ savituḥ sūryaprakāśāt prasūtā utpannā | sūryo hastaṃ gacchan rātriṃ janayati | tasminnastamite rātrerutpattyabhāvāt | evameva rātrirapi uṣase savāya uṣasaḥ utpattaye tadarthaṃ yoniṃ sthānaṃ svakīyāparabhāgalakṣaṇamāraik | arecitavatī | kalpitavatītyarthaḥ | yadvā | prasūtā rātriḥ savituḥ sūryasya savāya prasavāya janmane yathā bhavati evaṃ rātrirapi uṣasaḥ ujjanma tadarthaṃ yoniṃ svāparabhāgalakṣaṇaṃ sthānaṃ kṛtavatī | atra niruktam | idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotirāgāt citraṃ praketanaṃ prajñātatamamajaniṣṭa vibhūtatamaṃ yathā prasūtā savituḥ prasavāya rātrirādityasyaivaṃ rātryuṣase yonimaricat sthānam | ni. 2-19 | iti | śreṣṭham | praśasyasya śraḥ | pā. 5-3-60 | iti śrādeśaḥ | prakṛtyaikāc | pā. 6-4-163 | iti prakṛtibhāvāttṭerlopābhāvaḥ | āgāt |

Sense (mine): "Among the lights — planets, stars and the like, the shining ones — this light, the deity of Uṣas, is the best (śreṣṭha), the most praiseworthy. If one asks what its superiority is: the light of stars etc. illuminates only itself, not anything else; the moon too, though it illuminates other things, does not give a clear light; but the light of Uṣas, at one stroke, shows up the whole world especially by removing the darkness. Hence 'most praiseworthy'. Such a light has come, in the eastern quarter. And when it has come, a wonderful (citra), worshipful praketa — her ray, which makes known every object covered by darkness, pervading (vibhvā)

— was born, appeared. Further: as Night, being herself born from the light of Savitṛ the Sun [— the Sun, going to his setting, produces Night; when he has set, Night has no birth otherwise—] so Night also, for the birth (savāya) of Uṣas, has prepared (āraik, 'emptied, arranged') a yoni (place) of her own, namely her latter part. Or: as Night, when born, is for the birth of Savitṛ the Sun, so Night has made for the birth of Uṣas the place, i.e. her own latter portion." Nirukta cited: "idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotir āgāt …" (Ni. 2-19 [?]) — a paraphrase of the Ṛk.

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): śreṣṭha — the superlative-suffix iṣṭhan with the substitution śra for praśasya (Pā. 5-3-60), and the grammatical point that the monosyllabic stem retains its natural form so the ṭi-elision does not occur (Pā. 6-4-163); āgāt — … (continues on the next page).

Printed p. 4 (PDF 24; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

Grammatical tail of the bhāṣya, concluded (characterized, not transcribed; sūtra numbers partly illegible, none supplied): āgāt — root gam in the aorist, with the sic-elision after gā/sthā type roots and the ṭit-ending; ajaniṣṭa — jan in the sense "to appear", aorist; vibhvā — vi-sam-… bhū with the suffix ḍu (Pā. 3-2-180 as cited), and the instrumental ending replaced by ā by "supāṃ sulug…" (the rule of Vedic substitution), with the note that the yaṇ-substitution which the prohibition "bhūsudhiyoḥ" would block is permitted in the Veda; citra — final-accent point; praketaḥ — from kit, "to know"; prasūtā — sū in the sense "to give birth", past participle (niṣṭhā); savāya — the dative of sava (Pā. 6-?-? [?], "chandasi jana-sanavā vaktavyau" as the print has it [?]); eva — lengthened by "nipātasya ca" in the Saṃhitā; rātrī — feminine with ṅīp, plural/dual ending replaced by "rātreś cājasau"; āraik — root ric "to empty", aorist, with the Vedic "bahulaṃ chandasi" elision of the stem-vowel and the lightening of the penultimate (laghūpadha-guṇa) not applied by the rule ḥalaṅyābbhyaḥ… (as printed [?]); the long ai (ārāik) obtained by the vṛddhi — all noted briefly.

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"jyotiṣām — among the planets, stars, etc.; idam — this (the Uṣas-[light]); śreṣṭham — most excellent; jyotiḥ — the mass of brilliance; āgāt — came up (in the eastern quarter); (it rose); citraḥ — wonderful; praketaḥ — (the rays) which make objects covered by darkness an object of sight; vibhvā — pervasively; ajaniṣṭa — was born; rātrī — Night; yathā — as; savituḥ — from the Sun; prasūtā — was born; evā — in the same manner (Night also); uṣase — for Uṣas; savāya — for the birth; yonim — the place of birth (the latter part of Night); āraik — prepared."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The mass of light — the most excellent among the planets, stars and the rest (namely that of Uṣas) — has risen in the eastern quarter. The wonderful rays of this Uṣas, which bring objects covered by darkness within sight, spread in all directions. Just as Night was born from the Sun, so Night makes for her own latter watch (yāma) a [seat] for the rising of the dawn."

English Translation (as printed)

This most excellent luminary of all luminaries has arrived; the wonderful and diffusive manifester (of all things) has been born; in like manner as night is the offspring of the sun, so she becomes the birth-place of the dawn.

Printed p. 5 (PDF 25; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1" [numerals small, read as printed pattern])

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

ज्योतिषां श्रेष्ठमिदं ज्योतिः — इदं ज्योतिः प्रशस्यतमम् — the heading as printed (bold, with the Bhāṣya words "jyotiṣāṃ grahanakṣatrādīnāṃ dyotamānānāṃ madhye uṣa-ākhyaṃ jyotiḥ praśasyatamam"): the planets and stars shining in the atmosphere illuminate only themselves; there is no manifestation of other objects by them. Though the moon's light shows everything, objects are not well known by it. Because at Uṣas-time all things are seen plainly, the light of Uṣas is, to a very great extent, more excellent than the brilliance of the moon and the stars. Though the light of Uṣas is somewhat in the east, at that moment all the darkness in the world disappears. That is why [the commentators] explain "Uṣas's splendour is more excellent than the splendour of planets and stars" (śreṣṭhaṃ — praśasyatamam). The usage here "jyotiṣāṃ jyotiḥ" is for the sake of showing non-difference between the possessor of the property (dharmin, the luminary) and the property (dharma, the light) — a usage that occurs for this reason.

प्रकेतः — Praketaḥ. In the eleven names of knowledge (prajñā) the word ketuḥ is stated (Ni. 3-9 [as printed, numerals unclear?]). By the prefix pra, the sense is "excellent knowledge". Skandasvāmin, because ketu is said in the names of knowledge, explains praketaḥ as prakṛṣṭa-jñānam, "excellent knowledge" and gives the meaning, for the word citra, "worshipful": at the very moment when Uṣas rises, there is a light called knowledge, excellent, which makes everything worshipful appear before the eyes; so they have said the meaning "most praiseworthy light".

यथा प्रसूता सवितुः सवाय एवा रात्र्युषसे योनिमारैक् — The time after the Sun's setting is the time of Night's birth. From this it is established that Night is born from the Sun. In the same way, after the passing of the night, comes the time of Uṣas; therefore Night too is the cause of the birth of Uṣas — that is, as Night is born from the Sun, so Uṣas is born from Night: this is the intention. Or: as the rising of the Sun comes after Uṣas has risen, so that Uṣas is the cause of the rising (birth) of the Sun, so Night too is the cause of the birth of Uṣas — thus they have explained the meaning. These two meanings are the same in the two bhāṣyas (Sāyaṇa's and Skandasvāmin's).

Printed p. 6 (PDF 26; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113") [Special Topics continue]

Yāska explains this Ṛk in the following way:

इदं श्रेष्ठं ज्योतिषां ज्योतिरगमत् । चित्रं प्रकेतनं प्रज्ञाततममजनिष्ट विभूततमं यथा प्रसूता सवितुः प्रसवाय रात्रिरादित्यस्य । एवं रात्र्युषसे योनिमरिचत् स्थानम् । स्त्रीयोनिरभियुते एनां गर्भः ॥ [last words doubtful, [?]] (नि. २-१९)

idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotiragamat | citraṃ praketanaṃ prajñātatamamajaniṣṭa vibhūtatamaṃ yathā prasūtā savituḥ prasavāya rātrirādityasya | evaṃ rātryuṣase yonimaricat sthānam | strīyonirabhiyute enāṃ garbhaḥ ‖ [last words doubtful, [?]] (ni. 2-19)

"According to the saying 'rātreḥ paraḥ kālaḥ uṣa ity ucyate' ("the time after night is called Uṣas") [as quoted by the Kannada], the last portion of the night, that is the period before sunrise, is called Uṣas-time. The brilliance of this Uṣas-time, that is its light, is more excellent than all lights. In the world the Sun, the Moon and the stars are luminous. Of these the Sun's light is very sharp. The light of the stars lights only the stars themselves and does not light other objects: by the stars' light it is not possible to see other things. The Moon's light, though cool, is not much; so objects are not seen distinctly. But the light of Uṣas-time is neither fierce like the Sun's, nor cool like the Moon's, nor dim; it is able to show everything very well. Therefore it is said here that this Uṣas-light is extremely more excellent than the light of the Sun, Moon, stars and the rest. Moreover this light of Uṣas-time, at one time, in all regions, gives great delight to the hearts. Such an Uṣas-time's rise has now come. This is the explanation of the first half of the Ṛk."

"In the world, after the Sun sets, Night comes; after Night has passed, Uṣas-time; after Uṣas-time, the rising of the Sun. Since thus the one comes in a course after another, one is said to be the cause of the birth of the other. How: since Night follows the Sun's setting, the Sun is the cause of Night's birth; the Sun is therefore the cause of Night's birth. In the same way Uṣas-time is born from Night, and from Uṣas-time the Sun's rising comes. With just this intention it is described in this Ṛk: 'As Night was born of the Sun, so from Night Uṣas-time has appeared.'"

प्रकेतः — कित ज्ञाने । अन्धकारावृतस्य सर्वस्य पदार्थस्य प्रज्ञापकः । — "(rays) which, by their light, make visible those objects that cannot be seen in the dark." विभ्वा — विभुर्व्याप्तः । — "pervading, spread out." सवाय — उत्पत्तये । — "for birth, for rising." योनिः — उत्पत्तिस्थानम् । — "the place of birth; that which is the cause."

Printed p. 7 (PDF 27; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page, Kannada, on the words śreṣṭham (suffix iṣṭhan, the substitution śra for praśasya — Pā. 5-3-60 as printed; prakṛtyaikāc — Pā. 6-4-163 as printed; accent by jñityādir nityam [Pā. number not clearly read, [?]]), āgāt (iṇ "to go", aorist luṅ, tip; ito gā luṅi; gātisthāghupā… elision of sic; no augment), praketaḥ (kit jñāne, causative sense, ghañ suffix, guṇa; final-acute accent), ajaniṣṭa (jani prādurbhāve, luṅ, ta; cleḥ sic; ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ; ṣatva; tiṅ-atiṅaḥ nighāta accent), vibhvā (vi+bhū, viprasambhyo ḍvasaṃjñāyām — Pā. 3-2-180 [?]; supāṃ sulug… ā-substitution; bhūsudhiyoḥ prohibition of yaṇ set aside by chandasy ubhayathā). Remaining sūtra numbers in the page are small and I give none beyond the two marked "as printed".

Printed p. 8 (PDF 28; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

Grammar page continued (Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā of Ṛk 1, noted briefly): vibhvā concluded (bhū with the suffix ḍu; accent from jñityādir nityam); prasūtā (sū “to give birth”, niṣṭhā — kta; ṣatva by dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ reversed; no guṇa as the suffix is kit; feminine ṭāp; the prefix accent by gatir anantaraḥ); savāya (sū with aṭ by “chandasi jana-sanavā vaktavyau”, Pā. numbers unclear [?]; accent by citaḥ; dative singular); eva (a nipāta by cādayo ’sattve; lengthened in the Saṃhitā by nipātasya ca); rātrī (ṅīp; rātreś cājasau; elision of i by yasyeti ca; the su elided by hal-ṅyābbhyo…); āraik (ric “to empty”, aorist, tip; itaś ca elision of i; bahulaṃ chandasi, śnam elided; guṇa of the penultimate by pugantalaghūpadhasya ca; tip dropped by hal-ṅyābbhyo…; c becomes k by co ḥ kuḥ; the vowel change by Vedic letter-substitution; tiṅ atiṅaḥ nighāta accent). ‖ 1 ‖ (Sūtra numbers partly legible only; none given.)

Ṛk 2

Printed p. 9 (PDF 29; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.2)

रुशद्वत्सा रुशती श्वेत्यागादारैगु कृष्णा सदनान्यस्याः । समानबन्धू अमृते अनूची द्यावा वर्णं चरत आमिनाने ॥ २ ॥

ruśadvatsā ruśatī śvetyāgādāraigu kṛṣṇā sadanānyasyāḥ | samānabandhū amṛte anūcī dyāvā varṇaṃ carata āmināne ‖ 2 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.2)

रुशत्ऽवत्सा । रुशती । श्वेत्या । आ । अगात् । अरैक् । ऊं इति । कृष्णा । सदनानि । अस्याः । समानबन्धू इति समानऽबन्धू । अमृते इति । अनूची इति । द्यावा । वर्णम् । चरतः । आमिनाने इत्याऽमिनाने ॥ २ ॥

ruśat ’vatsā | ruśatī | śvetyā | ā | agāt | araik | ūṃ iti | kṛṣṇā | sadanāni | asyāḥ | samānabandhū iti samāna ’bandhū | amṛte iti | anūcī iti | dyāvā | varṇam | carataḥ | āmināne ityā ’mināne ‖ 2 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā’s ārāigu is the Pada’s arāik + ūṃ iti*; so the Saṃhitā’s printed final* gu stands for the Pada’s k + the particle ū*; and Ṛk 1’s* ārāik is the same form, which supports the doubtful arāik reading there.)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.2)

श्वेत्येत्युषसो नामधेयम् । रुशती दीप्ता । श्वेत्या श्वेतवर्णोषा रुशद्वत्सा रुशद्दीप्तः सूर्यो वत्सो यस्याः सा तथोक्ता । यथा मातुः समीपे वत्सः संचरति । एवमुषसः समीपे सूर्यस्य नित्यमवस्थानात्तद्वत्त्वम् । अथवा यथा वत्सो मातुः स्तन्यं रसं पिबन्दरति [?] । एवमुषसोऽवश्यायाख्यं रसं पिबन्वत्स इत्युच्यते । तादृशी सत्यागात् । आगतवती । आगतायाः अस्याः उषसः कृष्णा कृष्णवर्णा रात्रिः सदनानि स्थानानि स्वकीयान्त्यार्धयामलक्षणान्यारैक् । अरेचितवती । कल्पितवतीत्यर्थः । ऊ इत्येतत्पदपूरणम् । अपि चैते रात्र्युषसौ समानबन्धू समानेनैकेन सूर्यात्मकेन बन्धुना सख्या युक्ते । यद्वा । सूर्येण सह [continues on the next page]

śvetyetyuṣaso nāmadheyam | ruśatī dīptā | śvetyā śvetavarṇoṣā ruśadvatsā ruśaddīptaḥ sūryo vatso yasyāḥ sā tathoktā | yathā mātuḥ samīpe vatsaḥ saṃcarati | evamuṣasaḥ samīpe sūryasya nityamavasthānāttadvattvam | athavā yathā vatso mātuḥ stanyaṃ rasaṃ pibandarati [?] | evamuṣaso 'vaśyāyākhyaṃ rasaṃ pibanvatsa ityucyate | tādṛśī satyāgāt | āgatavatī | āgatāyāḥ asyāḥ uṣasaḥ kṛṣṇā kṛṣṇavarṇā rātriḥ sadanāni sthānāni svakīyāntyārdhayāmalakṣaṇānyāraik | arecitavatī | kalpitavatītyarthaḥ | ū ityetatpadapūraṇam | api caite rātryuṣasau samānabandhū samānenaikena sūryātmakena bandhunā sakhyā yukte | yadvā | sūryeṇa saha [continues on the next page]

Sense (mine): "Śvetī is a name of Uṣas. Ruśatī = shining. White-coloured Uṣas, ruśadvatsā: she who has the bright Sun as her calf (vatsa): as a calf moves about near its mother, so, because the Sun constantly stays near Uṣas, she is so called. Or: as a calf drinks the mother's milk, so (the Sun) drinks the juice called avaśyāya (dew) of Uṣas, and is therefore called vatsa [the printed verb is doubtful]. Such Uṣas has come. After she has come, black Night has made ready (āraik) the places (sadanāni) — her own last half-watch (yāma) — i.e. has arranged them. Ū is a mere filler. And these two, Night and Uṣas, are samānabandhū, 'joined by one common kinsman or friend, who is the Sun'; or: with the Sun …" (continues)

Printed p. 10 (PDF 30; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.2), continued from p. 9

सम्बद्धे । यथोषा उदेष्यता सूर्येण सम्बद्धा एवं रात्रिरप्यस्तंयता सूर्येण सम्बद्धा । अमृते मरणरहिते कालात्मकतया नित्यत्वात् । अनूची अनुपूर्वमञ्चतो गच्छन्त्यौ । प्रथमं रात्रिः पश्चादुषा इत्यनेन क्रमेण गच्छन्त्यौ । यद्वा सूर्यगत्यैवानुसारेण गच्छन्त्यौ । एवम्भूते वर्णं सर्वेषां प्राणिनां रूपमामिनाने जरयन्त्यौ । यद्वा स्वकीयं रूपं हिंसन्त्यौ । उषसा स्वैश तमो निवर्तते । प्रकाशात्मकमुषसो रूपं रात्र्या । एवंविधे सत्यौ द्यावा द्योतमाने चरतः । प्रतिदिवसमावर्तेते । यद्वा । द्यावा नभःसान्तरिक्षमार्गेण चरतः प्रतिदिवसं गच्छतः । अत्र निरुक्तम् । रुशद्वत्सा सूर्यवत्सा रुशदिति वर्णनाम रोचतेर्ज्वलतिकर्मणः । सूर्यमस्या वत्समाहुः साहचर्याद्रसहरणाद्वा । रुशती श्वेत्यागात् । श्वेत्या श्वेततेः । आरैगु कृष्णा सदनान्यस्याः कृष्णवर्णा रात्रिः कृष्णं कृष्यतेर्निकृष्टो वर्णः । अमृते अमरणधर्माणौ । अनूची अनुगते इतरेतरमभिप्रेत्य । द्यावा वर्णं चरतः । आमिनाने अन्योन्यस्याध्यात्मं कुर्वाणे । नि. २-२० ॥
[the Nirukta passage read from this page as printed; doubtful words [?]]

sambaddhe | yathoṣā udeṣyatā sūryeṇa sambaddhā evaṃ rātrirapyastaṃyatā sūryeṇa sambaddhā | amṛte maraṇarahite kālātmakatayā nityatvāt | anūcī anupūrvamañcato gacchantyau | prathamaṃ rātriḥ paścāduṣā ityanena krameṇa gacchantyau | yadvā sūryagatyaivānusāreṇa gacchantyau | evambhūte varṇaṃ sarveṣāṃ prāṇināṃ rūpamāmināne jarayantyau | yadvā svakīyaṃ rūpaṃ hiṃsantyau | uṣasā svaiśaṃ tamo nivartate | prakāśātmakamuṣaso rūpaṃ rātryā | evaṃvidhe satyau dyāvā dyotamāne carataḥ | pratidivasamāvartete | yadvā | dyāvā nabhaḥsāntarikṣamārgeṇa carataḥ pratidivasaṃ gacchataḥ | atra niruktam | ruśadvatsā sūryavatsā ruśaditi varṇanāma rocaterjvalatikarmaṇaḥ | sūryamasyā vatsamāhuḥ sāhacaryādrasaharaṇādvā | ruśatī śvetyāgāt | śvetyā śvetateḥ | āraigu kṛṣṇā sadanānyasyāḥ kṛṣṇavarṇā rātriḥ kṛṣṇaṃ kṛṣyaternikṛṣṭo varṇaḥ | amṛte amaraṇadharmāṇau | anūcī anugate itaretaramabhipretya | dyāvā varṇaṃ carataḥ

> | āmināne anyonyasyādhyātmaṃ kurvāṇe | ni. 2-20 ‖ [the Nirukta passage read from this page as printed; doubtful words [?]]

Sense (mine): "… sambaddhe (connected): as Uṣas, about to appear, is connected with the Sun, so Night too, as the Sun sets, is connected with him. Amṛte — free from death, being eternal by their nature as Time. Anūcī — going one after the other: first Night, afterwards Uṣas, going in this order; or going following the Sun's course. Being such, they āmināne — wear out (age) the varṇa, the form, of all living beings; or they destroy each its own form: by Uṣas the darkness of Night is turned back, and the luminous form of Uṣas by Night. Being thus, they roam (carataḥ) shining (dyāvā), revolving every day; or they go along the sky and atmosphere each day." Yāska is then cited (Ni. 2-20): "ruśadvatsā = having the Sun as calf; ruśat is a name for colour, from ruc 'to shine'…; they call the Sun her calf, from association or from drawing off the juice; śvetyā from śvit; kṛṣṇā — Night, black, dark colour; amṛte — two of non-dying nature; anūcī — following each other; āmināne — doing the work of one another…" (sense given from the print; the last clauses are tersely worded and a little doubtful [?])

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): on śvetyā (a derivative of the root śvit, the suffix yat in the abstract sense with elision of the causative ṇi, then the affix ac by the arśa-ādi class); amṛte (a bahuvrīhi with nañ; accent on the first syllable by the rule on jara-mara-mitra-mṛtāḥ); anūcī (añc with kvin, with the ṅīp feminine; nasal elision; lengthening; the udātta of the ṅīp; elision of the case-ending by supāṃ sulug); āmināne (mī "to injure", class 9 kryādi, with the participle suffix śānac; shortening by minātehḥ…). ‖

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"ruśatī — shining; śvetyā — with white colour, Uṣas; ruśadvatsā — having the shining Sun as calf; āgāt — has risen; kṛṣṇā — black-coloured Night; asyāḥ — to this Uṣas; sadanāni — (the latter half-watch of Night) as places of birth; āraik ū — has prepared; ete — these Night and Uṣas; samānabandhū — having a common (Sun as) kinsman (the Sun being related to both); amṛte — eternal; anūcī — each following the other (Uṣas after Night, and again in the same order); varṇam — the form (of objects); āmināne — making them old (as time passes); dyāvā — shining in the atmosphere; carataḥ — move every day."

Printed p. 11 (PDF 31; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"Uṣas, who is the mother of the Sun, has been born, shining, from the last watch of black-coloured Night. This Night and Uṣas are both closely related with the Sun (Night comes after the Sun's setting and Uṣas comes before the Sun's rising); being of the form of Time they are eternal; both come in one order (after Night, Uṣas); they destroy each other's form (Uṣas destroys the darkness and Night destroys the light); or, by their motion the forms of objects become aged (are made to grow old); and thus both of them move about in the atmosphere."

English Translation (as printed)

> The white-shining dawn, the parent of the Sun has arrived ; dark night has sought her own abode ; both allied to the same (sun) ; immortal, succeeding to each other and mutually effacing each other's complexion, they traverse the heavens.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

श्वेत्या — Śvetyā. "Vibhāvarī, sūnarī" — among the sixteen names of Uṣas (Ni. 3-19 as printed [?]) it is stated; so the meaning is Uṣas. Śvetyā — white-coloured; Sāyaṇa explains the meaning as "of auspicious lustre". Yāska also says "śvetyāgāt śvetyā śvetater dhātoḥ śvetavarṇārthaḥ"; for the word śvetyā derived from the root śvit (śvetati) of the bhvādi class, he gives the sense "white-coloured".

रुशद्वत्सा — "ruśad dīptaḥ sūryo vatso yasyāḥ sā": she who has the shining Sun as her calf. That a calf plays near its mother is common in the world. Following this, the Sun is the calf of Uṣas, being near Uṣas. The relation of mother and son between Uṣas and the Sun is on account of Uṣas's lustre and of his moving near. Whereas Sāyaṇa explains that "the calf drinks the mother's milk", (so) the Sun also, having fully received Uṣas's lustre, becomes lustrous — so he says. The Nirukta-writer says:

> रुशद्वत्सा सूर्यवत्सा । रुशदिति वर्णनाम । रोचतेर्ज्वलतिकर्मणः । सूर्यमस्या वत्समाहुः साहचर्याद्रसहरणाद्वा ॥ (नि. २-२०)
>
> ruśadvatsā sūryavatsā | ruśaditi varṇanāma | rocaterjvalatikarmaṇaḥ | sūryamasyā vatsamāhuḥ sāhacaryādrasaharaṇādvā ‖ (ni. 2-20)

Ruśadvatsā — "the word means 'a calf who has lustre': the Sun. Ruśat is, as Sāyaṇa explains, a word derived from the root ruc, with the meaning 'lustre' (kānti). Likewise he establishes the sonship (putratva, vatsabhāva) of the Sun in relation to Uṣas. And in order to make firm the meaning stated by the Ṛk idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ, this second Ṛk ruśadvatsā has arisen. The last part of Night is called Uṣas — so they point out Uṣas-time. Skandasvāmin, Sāyaṇa and Yāska, as they establish, explain also in another way the sonship of the Sun in respect of Uṣas. They quote also a passage of the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa —

> वत्स इत्यादित्य उच्यते । स ह्युषसो वत्सस्थानीयः अपत्यत्वात् । श्रुतेर्दर्शनात् । एवं हि श्रुतौ श्रूयते — प्रजापतिर्वै स्वां दुहितरमभ्यध्यायत् । दिवमित्यन्य आहुरुषसमित्यन्ये । तामृश्यो भूत्वा रोहितं भूतामभ्यैत् (ऐ. ब्रा. ३-३३ [?]) इत्येवमाद्युपक्रम्य । तद्वा इदं प्रजापतेः रेतः सिक्तमधावत्तदपसरोऽभवत् (ऐ. ब्रा. ३-३३ [?]) इति च । तदग्निना वैश्वानरेण पर्योढधुः [?] तं मरुतोऽघ्नन् [?] । तदग्निर्वैश्वानरः प्रत्यायावयत् [?] । तस्य यद्रेतः प्रथममुदधीयत तदसावादित्योऽभवत् (ऐ. ब्रा. ३-३४ [?]) इत्येवं प्रजापतेः रेतसः उषसि जात आदित्य इति श्रूयते । अतस्तदुपपन्नमस्य अपत्यत्वम् ॥
>
> vatsa ityāditya ucyate | sa hyuṣaso vatsasthānīyaḥ apatyatvāt | śruterdarśanāt | evaṃ hi śrutau śrūyate — prajāpatirvai svāṃ duhitaramabhyadhyāyat | divamityanya āhuruṣasamityanye | tāmṛśyo bhūtvā rohitaṃ bhūtāmabhyait (ai. brā. 3-33 [?]) ityevamādyupakramya | tadvā idaṃ prajāpateḥ retaḥ siktamadhāvattadapasaro 'bhavat (ai. brā. 3-33 [?]) iti ca | tadagninā vaiśvānareṇa paryoḍhadhuḥ [?] taṃ maruto 'ghnan [?] | tadagnirvaiśvānaraḥ pratyāyāvayat [?] | tasya yadretaḥ prathamamudadhīyata tadasāvādityo 'bhavat (ai. brā. 3-34 [?]) ityevaṃ prajāpateḥ retasaḥ uṣasi jāta āditya iti śrūyate | atastadupapannamasya apatyatvam ‖

(Note: The Sanskrit is copied letter by letter from the Kannada-script print; the words marked [?] are doubtful; the reference numerals are small and I give them only as read.)

Sense (Kannada, as explained): "In the 3rd [book?], khaṇḍas 33 and 34 [as printed, [?]] of the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa it is said that Āditya is the son of Uṣas. Prajāpati, i.e. Brahmā, set his mind on enjoying his own daughter Div ('heaven') or Uṣas (some say the one, others the other); she took the form of a doe, he assumed the form of a stag. When Brahmā's semen fell, Vaiśvānara (Agni) held it; the Maruts too … and Vaiśvānara brought it back. The first portion of Brahmā's seed took the form of Āditya. Thus it is said that Āditya was born, by Prajāpati, in Uṣas, from his seed, and so the sonship of the Sun in relation to Uṣas is explained. And they say (the bhāṣya) 'ɣadvā prātaḥ prātaḥ uṣasaḥ sakāśād ādityo jāɣate tadabhiprāyam asɣā patɣatvam' [sic — the printed patɣatvam; the sense is apatɣatvam, "sonship"]: or, every morning, from near Uṣas the Sun is born — this is the intention of the (word) 'sonship'; since every morning the Sun's rising is only from Uṣas, the Sun is the calf of Uṣas, and in this way too the sonship of the Sun in relation to Uṣas may be said."

Kṛṣṇā sadanāni asɣāḥ āraik — "Night, joined with the darkness of black colour, making in her own last watch a dwelling for Uṣas, becomes the place of Uṣas's birth."

Printed p. 13 (PDF 33; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

"This idea itself is stated clearly in the Ṛk idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ as 'rātrɣ uṣase ɣonim āraik'. In the Nirukta too —

> कृष्णा सदनान्यस्याः अरिचित् । कृष्णवर्णा रात्रिः कृष्णा । कृष्णं कृष्यतेर्निकृष्टो वर्णः ॥
>
> kṛṣṇā sadanānɣasɣāḥ aricit | kṛṣṇavarṇā rātriḥ kṛṣṇā | kṛṣṇaṃ kṛṣɣaternikṛṣṭo varṇaḥ ‖

— so this part is explained."

अमृते — Amṛte. "Mṛta is death; amṛta, those who have no death, i.e. have no destruction; Night and Uṣas are spoken of by the word amṛta."

अनूची — Anūcī: "anugacchantɣau, 'going after each other': Night and Uṣas both move following each other's motion — in the order 'first Night, then Uṣas' or 'first Uṣas, then Night'; thus each follows the other and both keep moving; or, as they say, both follow the going of the Sun."

समानबन्धू — Samānabandhū. "Night and Uṣas both have the Sun alone as kinsman; or they are connected with the Sun's rising and setting: Uṣas is connected with the rising of the Sun, Night with the Sun's setting. Because of this, they have common kinship — so Sāyaṇa says. The Nirukta-writer explains the word samānabandhū as 'having one single kind of rule (bandhana)'. Skandasvāmin: 'samāna bandhū — ubhe rātrɣuṣasī': Night and Uṣas both have a common kinsman, or a common bond (bandhana), and so explains their common kinship:

> समानो बन्धुर्ययोस्ते समानबन्धू । प्रजापतिर्हि रात्र्युषसोः समानबन्धुः जनयितृत्वात् ।
> आदित्यो वा । स हि जनयितृत्वेन रात्रेर्बन्धुः । जन्यत्वेन उषसः । जनयितृत्वेन वा उभयोः ।
> स ह्यस्तमयेन रात्रिं जनयति उदयेन चोषसम् ॥

samāno bandhuryayoste samānabandhū | prajāpatirhi rātryuṣasoḥ samānabandhuḥ janayitṛtvāt | āditya vā | sa hi janayitṛtvena rātrerbandhuḥ | janyatvena uṣasaḥ | janayitṛtvena vā ubhayoḥ | sa hyastamayena rātriṃ janayati udayena coṣasam ‖

— so they explain: Night and Uṣas, the two, have one and the same kinsman; Prajāpati, being the producer of Night and Uṣas, is their kinsman. Or Āditya: as the producer of Night he is its kinsman, and as the one born (of Uṣas) he is Uṣas's [kinsman]; or by being the producer of both: for by setting he produces Night, and by rising, Uṣas."

Printed p. 14 (PDF 34; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

"… Because of this, he (Āditya) is both a kinsman of Uṣas and, according to this explanation, the producer of Night and the one produced of Uṣas. The rising of Night is from the setting of Āditya; and [the rising] of Uṣas, in the sense that he himself rises at her rising, is the meaning."

द्यावा वर्णं चरत आमिनाने — Dyāvā varṇaṃ carata āmināne. "For this sentence Sāyaṇa, Skandasvāmin and the Nirukta-writer have each given a different explanation. Āmināne is derived from the root mīñ 'to injure', with the prefix ā, so the word has the meaning 'injuring'. Construing this word āmināne with the word varṇam, they give the sense: Night, with her black colour, and Uṣas, with her bright light, destroy each other's — 'the light of Uṣas' by Night's black colour and 'the colour of Night' by Uṣas's shining — and move about, the two of them, in the atmosphere. And [another explanation:] Night and Uṣas, varṇam āmināne, 'injuring the form (varṇa) of living beings', dyāvā carataḥ, 'move in the atmosphere' — in this interpretation they move along bringing about, also, the changes in the bodies' form of living beings — thirty [?] — so the sense becomes. These two kinds of meaning are stated in the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya. Skandasvāmin:

द्यौर्दीप्तेर्दीप्यतेर्वा दीप्त्यर्थस्येदं रूपम् । स्वेन स्वेन तेजसा दीप्ते । शुक्लं कृष्णं च आत्मीयं वर्णं चरतः गच्छतः प्राप्नुतः ॥

dyaurdīpterdīpyaterva dīptyarthasyedaṃ rūpam | svena svena tejasā dīpte | śuklaṃ kṛṣṇaṃ ca ātmīyaṃ varṇaṃ carataḥ gacchataḥ prāpnutaḥ ‖

— dyautī dīptau, dīpī dīptau: from the roots with the sense 'to shine' the form dyāvā is made. Night and Uṣas shine each with its own black and bright lustre: this is one kind of meaning.

द्यावेति दिवः पर्यायः तृतीयैकवचनान्तश्च दिवा सह महत्त्वादिना गुणेन स्पर्धमाने दिवा वा अनुग्रहमाणे स्वं स्वं वर्णं प्राप्नुतः ॥

dyāveti divaḥ paryāyaḥ tṛtīyaikavacanāntaśca divā saha mahattvādinā guṇena spardhamāne divā vā anugrahamāṇe svaṃ svaṃ varṇaṃ prāpnutaḥ ‖

The word dyāvā is in the instrumental singular; it is a synonym of the words meaning divaḥ, 'atmosphere'. Night and Uṣas are competing with the sky, seeing its greatness and other qualities; or, receiving favour from the luminous form of the sky, they get each their own colour: this is the second kind of meaning."

द्यौर्हि तमसा ज्योतिषा चात्मन्यवदानेन वा अनुगृह्णाति रात्र्युषसोः । [last words doubtful [?]]

dyaurhi tamasā jyotiṣā cātmanyavadānena vā anugṛhṇāti rātryuṣasoḥ | [last words doubtful [?]]

“The atmosphere has within itself both darkness and lights; since it favours Night and Uṣas, these two keep their own colours — this is the third kind of meaning. As for the meaning of the word āmināne, they too say as Sāyaṇa has said:

आमिनाने—आजोषदर्थे [?] मीञ् हिंसायां ईषत् हिंसन्त्यौ । रात्रिर्ह्युषसो रूपं ज्योतीरीषद्धिनस्ति । उषा अपि रात्रेस्तमः ॥

āmināne—ājoṣadarthe [?] mīñ hiṃsāyāṃ īṣat hiṃsantyau | rātrirhyuṣaso rūpaṃ jyotīrīṣaddhinasti | uṣā api rātrestamaḥ ‖

— Night and Uṣas destroy each other’s own forms: i.e. Night destroys Uṣas’s light a little, and Uṣas, Night’s darkness; and he gives also another kind of meaning:

आमिनाने इत्याकारोऽध्यर्थे । मिनतिरपि सामर्थ्यात् करोत्यर्थः । आत्मीयं रूपं दिव उपरि कुर्वाणे ॥

āmināne ityākāro ’dhyarthe | minatirapi sāmarthyāt karotyarthaḥ | ātmīyaṃ rūpaṃ diva upari kurvāṇe ‖

— the letter ā in āmināne is in the sense of adhi (‘over, above’); the root mī is in the sense of ‘doing’. Hence (the Kannada: “Night and Uṣas shine beyond the atmosphere with each its own form”) — they give yet another kind of meaning. The Nirukta-writer:

द्यावा वर्णं चरतः — द्यावौ ते इव द्योतनात् । अपि वा द्यावा चरतः तयोः सह चरत इति स्यात् । आमिनाने आमिनाने अन्योन्यस्याध्यात्मं कुर्वाणे ॥ (नि. २-२०)

dyāvā varṇaṃ carataḥ — dyāvau te iva dyotanāt | api vā dyāvā carataḥ tayoḥ saha carata iti syāt | āmināne āmināne anyonyasyādhyātmaṃ kurvāṇe ‖ (ni. 2-20)

— giving the meaning, and saying of āmināne that ‘each shines with its own form, outdoing the other’, to give the sense of adhi for the prefix ā of āmināne they cite a Ṛk (Ni. 3-2 [as printed, [?]]):

पुरु त्वा दाश्वाँ वोचेऽरिरग्ने तव स्विदा । तोदस्येव शरण आ महस्य ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१५०-१)

puru tvā dāśvā~ voce ’riragne tava svidā | todasyeva śaraṇa ā mahasya ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-150-1)

— “here they have explained the words ā mahasya as adhi mahataḥ (‘over the great’).” (Gloss mine and tentative: the Ṛk is cited only for the prefix; the Kannada gives no translation of it.)

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 2; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on the words ruśadvatsā (a bahuvrīhi, the first member keeps its natural accent, Pā. 6-2-1 [as read]), śvetyā (śvit "to be white"; the ṇic, then yat — aco yat — in the sense of the action, loss of ṇi, pugantalaghūpadhasya ca guṇa; the ac suffix of the possessive by arśa-ādibhyo 'c; ṭāp by ajādyatas ṭāp; accent), agāt (explained in the earlier Ṛk), sadanāni (sad with lyuṭ in the sense of the locus; anā for yu by yuvor anākau; accent by liti), samānabandhū (bahuvrīhi; first-member accent), amṛte (nañ-bahuvrīhi, ña-iñja-ra-mara-mitra-mṛtāḥ accent), anūcī (anu+añc with kvin; nasal elision by anidita hal-upadha…; feminine in ṅīp by the añcateś chopasaṃkhyānam statement; bha-designation and elision of a by aca…). Sūtra numbers are small; I give none.

Printed p. 17 (PDF 37; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1"; footer signature mark "IX 2")

Grammar page of Ṛk 2, concluded (noted briefly): anūcī (lengthening of the preceding vowel; the ṅīp ending with its accent; supāṃ sulug, elision of the dual ending); carataḥ (car "to move, eat", laṭ 3rd dual; nighāta accent after a word that ends in an accented syllable); āmināne (mīñ "to injure", kryādi class, śānac in the laṭ sense; shortening by mīnāter nigame; śnā by kryādibhyaḥ śnā; final accent as the ending is cit). ‖ 2 ‖ (printed numeral "२" [as in the Ṛk number]).

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 3

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.3)

समानो अध्वा स्वस्रोरनन्तस्तमन्यान्या चरतो देवशिष्टे । न मेथेते न तस्थतुः सुमेके नक्तोषासा समनसा विरूपे ॥ ३ ॥

samāno adhvā svasroranantastamanyānyā carato devaśiṣṭe | na methete na tasthatuḥ sumeke naktoṣāsā samanasā virūpe ‖ 3 ‖

Printed p. 18 (PDF 38; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.3)

समानः । अध्वा । स्वस्रोः । अनन्तः । तम् । अन्याऽअन्या । चरतः । देवशिष्टे इति देवऽशिष्टे । न । मेथेते इति । न । तस्थतुः । सुमेके इति सुऽमेके । नक्तोषसा । समनसा । विरूपे इति विऽरूपे ॥ ३ ॥

samānaḥ | adhvā | svasroḥ | anantaḥ | tam | anyā 'anyā | carataḥ | devaśiṣṭe iti deva 'śiṣṭe | na | methete iti | na | tasthatuḥ | sumeke iti su 'meke | naktoṣasā | samanasā | virūpe iti vi 'rūpe ‖ 3 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā's nak-toṣāsā is the Pada's naktoṣasā (shortened); the Saṃhitā's anyānyā is the Pada's anyā-anyā*, with the avagraha as printed.)*

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.3)

स्वस्रोर्भगिन्योः रात्र्युषसोरध्वा सञ्चरणसाधनभूतो मार्गः समान एक एव । येनैवाकाशमार्गेणोषा निर्गच्छति तेनैव रात्रिरपि । स च मार्गोऽनन्तोऽवसानरहितः । तं मार्गं

देवशिष्टे देवेन द्योतमानेन सूर्येणानुशिष्टे शिक्षिते सत्यावन्यान्या एकैका चरतः । क्रमेण गच्छतः । अपि च सुमेके शोभनमेहने सर्वेषामुत्पादकत्वात् शोभनप्रजनने नक्तोषासा रात्रिरुषाश्च विरूपे तमःप्रकाशलक्षणाभ्यां विरुद्धरूपाभ्यां युक्ते अपि समनसा समानमनस्के ऐकमत्यं प्राप्ते सत्यौ न मेथेते । परस्परं न हिंस्तः । तथा न तस्थतुः । कचिदपि न तिष्ठतः । सर्वदा लोकानुग्रहार्थं गच्छत इत्यर्थः ॥

svasrorbhaginyoḥ rātryuṣasoradhvā sañcaraṇasādhanabhūto mārgaḥ samāna eka eva | yenaivākāśamārgeṇoṣā nirgacchati tenaiva rātrirapi | sa ca mārgo 'nanto 'vasānarahitaḥ | taṃ mārgaṃ devaśiṣṭe devena dyotamānena sūryeṇānuśiṣṭe śikṣite satyāvanyānyā ekaikā carataḥ | krameṇa gacchataḥ | api ca sumeke śobhanamehane sarveṣāmutpādakatvāt śobhanaprajanane naktoṣāsā rātriruṣāśca virūpe tamaḥprakāśalakṣaṇābhyāṃ viruddharūpābhyāṃ yukte api samanasā samānamanaske aikamatyaṃ prāpte satyau na methete | parasparaṃ na hiṃstaḥ | tathā na tasthatuḥ | kacidapi na tiṣṭhataḥ | sarvadā lokānugrahārthaṃ gacchata ityarthaḥ ||

Sense (mine): "The path (adhvā), the means of travel, of the two sisters Night and Uṣas is one and the same; by whatever sky-way Uṣas goes out, by that same Night too. That path is endless, without end. When that path has been taught (anuśiṣṭe, instructed) by the shining god, the Sun, the two (devaśiṣṭe) move one after the other, in order. Moreover, sumeke — having good (su) meha (generative power), being producers of all — Night and Uṣas, virūpe, being of opposite forms by the marks of darkness and light, yet being samanasā, of one mind (having come to agreement), na methete: do not injure each other; and na tasthatuḥ: do not stand still anywhere — they go always for the benefit of the world."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): anyānyā (doubling of the pronoun in the sense of reciprocal action, as a compound, with the second member made āmreḍita and unaccented; Pā. citation partly legible, "Ma. 8-1-12(?)" [?]); deva-śiṣṭe (śās "to instruct", kta with the iṭ prohibition, i for the penultimate by śāsa idaṅhaloḥ, Pā. 6-4-34; ṣatva; the first member keeps its accent in the tṛtīyā compound); methete (mith/meth "to understand, injure", bhvādi, anudāttet); sumeke (mih "to sprinkle", ghañ in the abstract sense, "those who have a good meha", the k by the Vedic usage; the second member accented on the first syllable); naktoṣāsā (the case-ending replaced by ā by supāṃ sulug; the lengthening in the Saṃhitā "of the penultimate seen in other words too").

Printed p. 19 (PDF 39; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"svasroḥ — of the sisters Night and Uṣas; adhvā — the path of going about; samānaḥ — one and the same (and); anantaḥ — without end; tam — in that path; devaśiṣṭe — taught by the Sun; anyānyā — one after the other, in order; carataḥ — go about; sumeke — producers of all things; naktoṣāsā — Night and Uṣas; virūpe — though of forms opposed to each other; samanasā — of one mind; na methete — they do not obstruct each other (and); na tasthatuḥ — do not stand still in one place."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“For both Night and Uṣas the path of going about is one; and it is without end; both, taught by the Sun, go about in one and the same order; though their forms are different, the work intended for both is one. Therefore, being producers of all things, they do not thwart each other, nor stand in one place; they go on moving always.”

English Translation (as printed)

> The path of the sisters is unending; they travel it alternately, guided by the radiant (sun); combined in purpose, though of different forms, night and dawn, giving birth (to all things), obstruct not each other, neither do they stand still.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

स्वस्रोः — Svasroḥ. “bhaginyoḥ rātryuṣasoḥ” (Skandasvāmin):

> रात्र्युषसौ ह्येकेन प्रजापतिना आदित्येन वा जन्येते इति उपपन्नमनयोर्भगिनीत्वम् ॥
>
> rātryuṣasau hyekena prajāpatinā ādityena vā janyete iti upapannamanayorbhaginītvam ‖

“Night and Uṣas, as the two born from one — Brahmā (Prajāpati) or Āditya — are therefore bhaginī (sisters, born of the same). Or, since both move on one and the same path, they are called sisters.”

देवशिष्टे — Devaśiṣṭe (Skandasvāmin):

> शासिरत्र शुद्धोऽपि सामर्थ्यात् सोपसर्गार्थो द्रष्टव्यः । सर्वप्राणिनामुपकाराय देवैरनुशिष्टे । अनुज्ञाते इत्यर्थः ॥
>
> śāsiratra śuddho ’pi sāmarthyāt sopasargārtho draṣṭavyaḥ | sarvaprāṇināmupakārāya devairanuśiṣṭe | anujñāte ityarthaḥ ‖

“The root śās, though here used without a prefix, must be understood, by its capacity, as having the meaning with a prefix (anu-śās). ‘Directed (anuśiṣṭe) by the gods for the benefit of all living beings’; that is, ‘permitted’.” The Kannada: “Although the root śāsu is here used without any prefix, it should here be taken as having the sense expressed by the prefix. To do good to all beings they were granted permission by the gods.”

Printed p. 20 (PDF 40; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

“… and he explains that the two (Night and Uṣas) are intent on doing good to the world. Sāyaṇa [explains] devena dyotamānena sūryeṇa anuśiṣṭe śikṣite: Night and Uṣas, who are taught by the shining Sun, move in one and the same path in order: along the path where Night has moved, Uṣas moves; and again, along the path where Uṣas has moved, Night moves — so he explains the meaning.”

विरूपे समनसा न मेथेते — Virūpe samanasā na methete. “Night has the form of darkness; Uṣas has the form of her own light. Therefore, since the two have no common colour, they are called virūpe. Yet both Night and Uṣas are one in intention and of one mind in the work of doing good to the world. Still, the two never meet in one place: they remain separate. One follows the other: after the day comes Night, after the night comes the Uṣas-time, going on following each other.

Skandasvāmin, since the root methṛ is used here in the sense of 'to curse (ākrośana)', explains: they work always without grumbling; they do not scold (curse) one another."

सुमेके — Sumeke (Skandasvāmin):

> सुमेके — मेकशब्दो मुखवचन इति केचिदाहुः । सुमुख्यौ । सृष्टेः प्रथमः संवत्सरः मेक इत्युच्यते इत्येके । तथाह । मेकसंवत्सरः ऋतवो मेकपुत्रा इति पौराणिकाः स्मरन्ति । शोभनो मेको ययोः सम्बन्धी सृष्टिकालजन्यतया के सुमेके । आद्यसंवत्सरसृष्टे इत्यर्थः ॥ [reading of tathāha and ke doubtful [?]]
>
> sumeke — mekaśabdo mukhavacana iti kecidāhuḥ | sumukhyau | sṛṣṭeḥ prathamaḥ saṃvatsaraḥ meka ityucyate ityeke | tathāha | mekasaṃvatsaraḥ ṛtavo mekaputrā iti paurāṇikāḥ smaranti | śobhano meko yayoḥ sambandhī sṛṣṭikālajanyatayā ke sumeke | ādyasaṃvatsarasṛṣṭe ityarthaḥ ‖ [reading of tathāha and ke doubtful [?]]

"Of the sumeke that Skandasvāmin and Sāyaṇa say, śobhanamehane — all being producers, 'those who have an excellent generative power (indriya) as the means for the birth of all' — he gives yet another meaning. 'Because the word meka denotes "face" (mukha), they are those with beautiful faces' — so they say; and since the first year of creation is called meka and the Purāṇic writers remember 'meka-year; the seasons are meka's sons', those whose connection is with that fine meka, i.e. who, as born at the time of creation, belong to the first year: the Night and Uṣas created in the first year (saṃvatsara) of creation — so he explains, connecting with the Aṅgirases' [as the Kannada says: the sons of Meka are the seasons]."

अन्यान्या — Anyānyā — "ekaikā": "karmavyatihāre sarvanāmno dve bhavata iti vaktavyaṃ samāsavac ca bahulam — the word anya … (Sāyaṇa [explains]): in a pronoun-word, which expresses reciprocal action, doubled and joined as a compound; for the sense of anyonya, 'each other'." (The sentence is cut at the foot of the page; it continues on p. 21.)

"… the word anya is doubled: the idea is that Night and Uṣas, the two together, are one and the same, in one piece. Skandasvāmin:

> अन्यान्या शब्दः परस्परपर्यायः तृतीयैकवचनान्तश्च । परस्परसम्बद्धे चरतः गच्छतः ॥
>
> anyānyā śabdaḥ parasparaparyāyaḥ tṛtīyaikavacanāntaśca | parasparasambaddhe caratah gacchataḥ ‖

— the word anyānyā is a synonym of the word paraspara ('each other'), and ends in the instrumental singular. 'The two, joined to each other, go about.' Thus he explains that Night and Uṣas, joining in each other's work, go about."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 3; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on anantaḥ (a nañ-bahuvrīhi, accent on the last syllable of the later member by nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 [as read]), anyānyā (doubling of anya in reciprocal action by the Vārttika "karmavyatihāre sarvanāmno dve…", with the supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ elision of the sup in the compound-like doubling; āmreḍita designation of the second member; accent by anudāttaṃ ca), deva-śiṣṭe (śās of the adādi class, kta by niṣṭhā; the iṭ prohibition by yasya vibhāṣā; i for the penultimate by śāsa idaṅhaloḥ; ṣatva by śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca; the ṭ-substitute; the first member keeps its natural accent by tṛtīyā karmaṇi), methete (mith/meth "to understand, to injure", bhvādi; anudāttet — hence ātmanepada; laṭ, āthām → ete by ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e; ā → iy … lopo vyor vali; nighāta accent), tasthatuḥ (ṣṭhā, "to cease motion", liṭ 3rd dual; nighāta). Pā. numbers are partly legible; I give none.

Printed p. 22 (PDF 42; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

Grammar page, concluded: sumeke (mih "to sprinkle", ghañ in the abstract sense; guṇa of the penultimate by pugantalaghūpadhasya ca; meha — the Vedic change of h to k; jñityādir nityam accent; the second member given the first-syllable accent by ādyudāttaṃ dvyac chandasi; dual), naktoṣasā ("naktaṃ ca uṣāś ca" — the case-ending replaced by ā by supāṃ sulug; the lengthening of the penultimate in the Saṃhitā by anyeṣām api dṛśyate), samanasā ("samānaṃ manaḥ yayoḥ te" — ā for the ending as before; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam — first member keeps its accent), virūpe ("viruddhaṃ rūpaṃ yayoḥ te"; first member keeps its accent; dual). ‖ 3 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 4

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.4)

भास्वती नेत्री सूनृतानामचेति चित्रा वि दुरो न आवः । प्रार्प्या जगद्व्युं नो रायो अख्यदुषा अजीगर्भुवनानि विश्वा ॥ ४ ॥

bhāsvatī netrī sūnṛtānāmaceti citrā vi duro na āvaḥ | prārpyā jagadvyu no rāyo akhyaduṣā ajīgarbhuvanāni viśvā ‖ 4 ‖

Printed p. 23 (PDF 43; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.4)

भास्वती । नेत्री । सूनृतानाम् । अचेति । चित्रा । वि । दुरः । नः । आवरित्यावः । प्रऽअर्प्य । जगत् । वि । ऊं इति । नः । रायः । अख्यत् । उषाः । अजीः । भुवनानि । विश्वा ॥ ४ ॥

bhāsvatī | netrī | sūnṛtānām | aceti | citrā | vi | duraḥ | naḥ | āvarityāvaḥ [?] | pra 'arpya | jagat | vi | ūṃ iti | naḥ | rāyaḥ | akhyat | uṣāḥ | ajīḥ | bhuvanāni | viśvā ‖ 4 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā's āvaḥ is given in the Pada as a separate pada ending in iti*, printed* ā-v-a-r-i-t-y-ā-v-a-ḥ (read with doubt here; the same word printed clearly in the Pada of Ṛk 14 on p. 67, so the doubt is removed); the Saṃhitā's prārpyā is the Pada's pra-arpya*; the Saṃhitā's* ajīgar bhuvanāni is the Pada's ajīgaḥ | bhuvanāni*.)*

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.4)

भास्वती विशिष्टप्रकाशयुक्ता । सूनृतेति वाङ्नाम । सूनृतानां वाचां नेत्री प्रेरयित्री । उषसः प्रादुर्भावानन्तरं हि पशुपक्षिमृगादयः सर्वे शब्दं कुर्वन्ति । एवम्भूतोषा अचेति अस्माभिर्ज्ञायि । चित्रा चायनीयो ज्ञाता सा नोऽस्माकं दुरो द्वाराणि तमसा तिरोहितानि व्यावः । व्यवृणोत् ।

यथास्माभिर्दृश्यन्ते तथा तमो निवार्य प्रकाशयतीत्यर्थः । अपि च जगत्सर्वं भुवनं प्राप्य प्रकाशं गमयित्वा नोऽस्माकं रायो धनानि व्यख्यत् । विशिष्टप्रकाशयुक्तान्यकरोत् । ऊ इत्येतत्पदपूरणम् । सैषोषा विश्वा भुवनानि सर्वाणि भुवनानि तमसा तिरोहितत्वेनाविद्यमानकल्पान्यजीगः उद्गिरति । स्वमुखान्निर्गमयति स्वकीयेन प्रकाशेन तमो निःसार्य पुनरुत्पन्नानीव करोतीत्यर्थः ॥

bhāsvatī viśiṣṭaprakāśayuktā | sūnṛteti vāṅnāma | sūnṛtānāṃ vācāṃ netrī prerayitrī | uṣasaḥ prādurbhāvānantaraṃ hi paśupakṣimṛgādayaḥ sarve śabdaṃ kurvanti | evambhūtoṣā aceti asmābhirjñāyi | citrā cāyanīyo jñātā sā no 'smākaṃ duro dvārāṇi tamasā tirohitāni vyāvaḥ | vyavṛṇot | yathāsmābhirdṛśyante tathā tamo nivārya prakāśayatītyarthaḥ | api ca jagatsarvaṃ bhuvanaṃ prārpya prakāśaṃ gamayitvā no 'smākaṃ rāyo dhanāni vyakhyat | viśiṣṭaprakāśayuktānyakarot | ū ityetatpadapūraṇam | saiṣoṣā viśvā bhuvanāni sarvāṇi bhuvanāni tamasā tirohitatvenāvidyamānakalpānyajīgaḥ udgirati | svamukhānnirgamayati svakīyena prakāśena tamo niḥsārya punarutpannānīva karotītyarthaḥ ||

Sense (mine): "Bhāsvatī — endowed with exceptional light. Sūnṛtā is a name for speech; she is the leader (netrī, impeller) of the *sūnṛtā*s, the speeches; for after the appearance of Uṣas all animals, birds, beasts and the rest make sounds. Such Uṣas acheti — has been known by us. Wonderful (citrā) and worth knowing, she has opened (vyāvaḥ, vyavṛṇot) our doors (duraḥ), covered over by darkness; that is, she shows by dispelling the darkness so that they may be seen by us. Moreover, having spread over the whole world, having sent it light, she has made our riches (rāyaḥ, wealth) shine out: she has made them endowed with distinct light. Ū is a filler. This Uṣas ajīgaḥ — 'brings forth' all the worlds (viśvā bhuvanāni), which, hidden by darkness, were as if non-existent: she draws them out of her own mouth, i.e. having driven out the darkness by her own light, she makes them as if born again."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): netrī (nī "to lead", suffix tṛc, feminine in ṅīp, accent on the ending); acheti (cit in the sense of knowing, aorist passive in ciṇ, with the Vedic irregularities); duraḥ ("dvāra-word replaced by dur in the Vedic accusative plural" — cited by Pā. 6-1-?? [?]); āvaḥ (vṛñ "to cover", aorist in the Vedic luṅ, the sic elided, guṇa; the hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ elision); prārpyā (ṛ "to go"; the augment puk by ṇau …); akhyat (khyā "to tell", the aṅ substitute for cli); ajīgaḥ (gṝ "to swallow"; luṅ with tip, bahulaṃ chandasi — śluṃ elision, doubling, reduplication, lengthening). The Pā. numerals are not clear enough to give.

Printed p. 24 (PDF 44; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"bhāsvatī — the one endowed with light, Uṣas; sūnṛtānām — of speeches; netrī — the begetter; acheti — (by us) she is known; citrā — of various colours, she; naḥ — our; duraḥ — doors covered over with darkness; vi āvaḥ — she opened (an opening); jagat — the whole world; prārpyā — she, having filled with light; naḥ — our; rāyaḥ — wealth; vi akhyat u — made (them) full of light; uṣāḥ — Uṣas; viśvā bhuvanāni — all the world covered by darkness; ajīgaḥ — makes manifest."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"Shining Uṣas, who (since beings begin to utter sound with the light of dawn) becomes known to us as the begetter of speech, makes us see doors hidden by darkness, lights up for us our wealth and the rest, and (the world which is covered by darkness and has become as if nonexistent) lights up the whole world."

English Translation (as printed)

> Brilliant guide of the speakers of truth, the many-tinted dawn, is recognised by us ; she has opened our doors ; having illuminated the world, she has made our riches manifest. Ushas gives back all the regions (that had been swallowed up by night.)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

सूनृतानां नेत्री — Sūnṛtānāṃ netrī — "vācāṃ utpādayitrī", the begetter of speech. The word sūnṛtā is stated among the sixteen names of Uṣas (Ni. 3-19 as printed [?]) and among the twenty-eight [?] names of food (Ni. 2-8 as printed [?]). Though it is read among the names of speech (vāṅnāma), it denotes the meaning "speech". The idea is that at Uṣas-time animals, birds and beasts begin to make sounds, so Uṣas produces the power of speech.

अचेति — Acheti — "cetyate jñāyate dṛśyata ity arthaḥ": (it is) perceived, known, seen. "Uṣas gives us the strength of intellect so that we know everything and makes us possessed of the heart of knowledge; she makes everything known (visible) to the eye."

Printed p. 25 (PDF 45; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1") [Special Topics of Ṛk 4 continue]

नः दुरः वि आवः — Naḥ duraḥ vi āvaḥ (Skandasvāmin):

> सर्वार्थानां दृशां वाग्द्वाराणि नः अस्मभ्यं विवृणोति प्रकाशयतीत्यर्थः ।
>
> sarvārthānāṃ dṛśāṃ vāgdvārāṇi naḥ asmabhyaṃ vivṛṇoti prakāśayatītyarthaḥ |

"She opens for us (asmabhyam) the doors of all things — of the eyes and of speech — i.e. she makes them manifest." The sense is: "At Uṣas-time she so makes it that the power of perceiving objects and the power of speech and of carrying on affairs become manifest, by removing the darkness."

प्रार्प्य रायः अख्यत् विश्वा अजीगः — Prārpya rāyaḥ akhyat viśvā ajīgaḥ (Skandasvāmin):

> तेषु तेषु व्यापारेषु कृत्स्नं जगत् प्रवर्त्य । विविधं ख्यापितवती । जगर्तिरत्र सामर्थ्यात् गत्यर्थः । यो वां दूतो न धिष्ण्ये (ऋ. सं. २-६२-१ [?]) इति यथा ॥
>
> teṣu teṣu vyāpāreṣu kṛtsnaṃ jagat pravartya | vividhaṃ khyāpitavatī | jagartiratra sāmarthyāt gatyarthaḥ | yo vāṃ dūto na dhiṣṇye (ṛ. saṃ. 2-62-1 [?]) iti yathā ॥

"Having set the whole world going in these and those activities, she made known the manifold. The root jāgṛ here, by capacity, has the sense of 'going' — as in 'yo vāṃ dūto na dhiṣṇye' (the Ṛk cited as in the print; its reference is doubtful [?])." Kannada: "Uṣas, as the setting going of all the world in the work it has to perform, makes the variety of the world manifest: ajīgaḥ (the root) jāgṛ here, by capacity, means 'going'. — Uṣas gives light to those worlds, all of which, covered by darkness, were as if without cause (asatkalpa, 'as if non-existent'), and brings them to life again as if re-born by her own light. She also gives light in our understanding so that we know the ways in which wealth is obtained. This is the purport of Skandasvāmin's explanation: that Uṣas, who does such service to the whole world, acts of herself everywhere, by herself."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 4; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on bhāsvatī (bhās + matup, ma → va by mādupadhāyāś ca…; feminine ṅīp since the suffix is ugit), netrī (ṇīñ "to lead", initial ṇ → n; tṛc in the agent sense; guṇa; ṅīp; the yaṇ substitution in the udātta position; accent by udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt), acheti (cit "to know", aorist, 3rd singular ta; ciṇ by ciṇ bhāvakarmaṇoḥ; guṇa; elision of ta by ciṇo luk; augment). Sūtra numbers small; none given.

Printed p. 26 (PDF 46; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

Grammar page continued: duraḥ (the word dvār, dur for the Vedic accusative plural with saṃprasāraṇa by rayer mṛtau bahulam…; accusative plural); āvaḥ (vṛñ "to cover", aorist luṅ, tip; elision of i by itaś ca; cli, sic elided by mantre ghasa-hvara…; guṇa; ur — raparaḥ; tip elided after the consonant-ending by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ…; no augment by chandasy api…; the visarga); prārpyā (ṛ "to go", ṇic; the puk augment; the suffix lyap in the compound with pra — samāse 'nañpūrve ktvo lyap; elision of the ṇi; lengthening in the Saṃhitā by anyeṣām api dṛśyate); rāyaḥ (accent of the ending by ūḍidaṃpadādi…); akhyat (khyā "to tell", aorist, tip; cli → aṅ by asti-vakti-khyātibhyo 'ṅ; elision of the root's ā by āto lopa iṭi ca; augment); ajīgaḥ (gṝ "to swallow", aorist 3rd singular with tip; as before elision of i; śluṃ in place of śnā by bahulaṃ chandasi; doubling and ut by ṛta ut; reduplication, a → i…; lengthening of the root vowel by Vedic usage).

Printed p. 27 (PDF 47; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1")

Grammar page of Ṛk 4, concluded (noted briefly): ajīgaḥ — in the causative (ṇic), the aorist luṅ, caṅ in place of cli (by ṇiśri-druśrubhyaḥ kartari caṅ), the doubling by caṅi; sanvad-bhāva ("like a desiderative") bringing the i of the reduplication; the lengthening by dīrgho laghoḥ; here too the elision of caṅ by Vedic usage; nighāta accent after an accented word. ‖ 4 ‖ (Sūtra numbers small; none given.)

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 5

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.5)

जिह्मश्ये चरितवे मघोन्याभोगय इष्टये राय उ त्वम् । दभ्रं पश्यद्भ्य उर्विया विचक्ष उषा अजीगर्भुवनानि विश्वा ॥ ५ ॥

jihmaśye caritave maghonyābhogaya iṣṭaye rāya u tvam | dabhraṃ paśyadbhya urviyā vicakṣa uṣā ajīgarbhuvanāni viśvā ‖ 5 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.5)

जिह्मऽश्ये । चरितवे । मघोनी । आऽभोगये । इष्टये । राये । ऊं इति । त्वम् । दभ्रम् । पश्यत्ऽभ्यः । उर्विया । विऽचक्षे । उषाः । अजीः । भुवनानि । विश्वा ॥ ५ ॥

jihma 'śye | caritave | maghonī | ā 'bhogaye | iṣṭaye | rāye | ūṃ iti | tvam | dabhram | paśyat 'bhyaḥ | urviyā | vi 'cakṣe | uṣāḥ | ajīḥ | bhuvanāni | viśvā ‖ 5 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the printed Pada has ajīgaḥ as in Ṛk 4 — as printed अजीगः; the Saṃhitā's rāya u tvam is the Pada's rāye | ūṃ iti | tvam*.)*

Printed p. 28 (PDF 48; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.5)

मघोनीत्युषसो नामधेयम् । मघोनी धनवत्युषा जिह्मश्ये जिह्मं वक्रं शयानाय पुरुषाय चरितवे चरितुं शयनादुत्थाय स्वापेक्षितं प्रति गन्तुं वृच्छन्ती भवति । त्वम् । अयमेकशब्दपर्यायः सर्वनामशब्दः [?] । यदाह । त्वे इति विग्रहार्थीयं सर्वनामानुदात्तम् [?] । नि. १-२ । इति । त्वमेकं प्रति आभोगये आभोगाय शब्दादिविषयार्थम् । तथापरं प्रति इष्टये यागार्थम् । तथान्यं प्रति राये धनार्थं च वृच्छन्तीति शेषः । उ शब्दः पादपूरणार्थः [?] । अपि च दभ्रमल्पं पश्यद्भ्योऽन्धकारावृतत्वेनेषद्दृष्टिभ्यो मनुष्येभ्यो विचक्षे विशिष्टप्रकाशाय वृच्छन्ती उर्विया उर्वी विस्तीर्णोषा सर्वाणि भूतजातानि तमसा तिरोहितानि प्रकाशदानेनोद्गीर्णानीव करोति ॥

maghonītyuṣaso nāmadheyam | maghonī dhanavatyuṣā jihmaśye jihmaṃ vakraṃ śayānāya puruṣāya caritave carituṃ śayanādutthāya svāpekṣitaṃ prati gantuṃ vṛcchantī bhavati | tvam | ayamekaśabdaparyāyaḥ sarvanāmaśabdaḥ [?] | yadāha | tve iti vigrahārthīyaṃ sarvanāmānudāttam [?] | ni. 1-2 | iti | tvamekaṃ prati ābhogaye ābhogāya śabdādiviṣayārtham | tathāparaṃ prati iṣṭaye yāgārtham | tathānyaṃ prati rāye dhanārthaṃ ca vṛcchantīti śeṣaḥ | u śabdaḥ pādapūraṇārthaḥ [?] | api ca dabhramalpaṃ paśyadbhyo 'ndhakārāvṛtatveneṣaddṛṣṭibhyo manuṣyebhyo vicakṣe viśiṣṭaprakāśāya vṛcchantī urviyā urvī vistīrṇoṣā sarvāṇi bhūtajātāni tamasā tirohitāni prakāśadānenodgīrṇānīva karoti ‖

Sense (mine): "Maghonī is a name of Uṣas: the wealthy Uṣas, to the man lying curled up (jihmaśye, 'crooked-lying'), to move about (caritave), rising from sleep to go toward what each requires, is appearing (vṛcchantī). Tvam — [the Nirukta: the pronoun, a synonym of 'one'] — to one person, for ābhogaya, 'enjoyment', i.e. for the objects of sound and so on; to another, for iṣṭaye, for sacrifice; to yet another, for rāye, wealth — she appears, is the ellipsis. U is a filler [?]. Moreover, to men who see a little (dabhram), seeing but slightly because covered by darkness — for their vicakṣe, 'clear seeing' — Uṣas, wide (urviyā, urvī, 'broad'), appears; she makes all living beings that were hidden by darkness appear as if they had been drawn out, by the giving of light."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): jihmaśye (jihmam śete — the compound jihma-śī, with the kvip, the accent of the later member by kṛdutta-pada-prakṛti-svaratva; yaṇ — the dative singular in Vedic ṅe → e with the svarita); ābhogaye (the Vedic dative with ya); urviyā (uru with the Vedic ī-feminine in kvip bāhulaka; Pā. 6-4-?? [?]); vicakṣe (cakṣiṅ "to speak", vi; ṅe → e in the infinitive sense by kṛtyārthe… [?]).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“maghonī — the generous (Uṣas); jihmaśye — (to) the man sleeping curled up; caritave — to rise and go about (helping); tvam — to one; ā bhogaye — for the sake of (sensual) enjoyment; iṣṭaye — for performing sacrifice [(tvam —) to another]; rāye — for wealth [(to) another]; dabhram — dimly (because of darkness); paśyadbhyaḥ — to those who see; vicakṣe — for seeing well; uṣāḥ — Uṣas; viśvā bhuvanāni — the whole world; ajīgaḥ — makes manifest.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“Uṣas rouses the men who lie curled up asleep and sets each upon his task — one to sensual enjoyment, one to the acquisition of wealth, and another to sacrifice and the like. Objects seen only faintly she makes seen plainly; and the whole world, covered by darkness, she makes plain by her light.”

Printed p. 29 (PDF 49; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1”)

English Translation (as printed)

> The opulent (dawn) arouses to exertion the man bowed down in sleep,—one man to enjoyments, another to devotion, another to (the acquirement of) wealth ; she has enabled those who were almost sightless to see distinctly. The expansive Ushas has given back all the regions.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

मघोनी — Maghonī — “dhanavatī uṣāḥ”: the word magha, among the twenty-eight [?] names of wealth beginning with dhana (Ni. 2-10 as printed [?]), is stated; so magha means wealth. “Because she has wealth, ‘dhanavatī uṣāḥ’,” Sāyaṇa says. In the mantra “nūnaṃ sā te prati varaṃ jaritre duhīyad indra dakṣiṇā maghonī” (Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-11-21 as read on the clearer printing of the same Ṛk on p. 38; the first reading “3-11-3?” on p. 29 was unclear) too, for the word maghonī Yāska explains (Ni. 1-7 as printed [?]): “magham iti dhananāmadheyaṃ maṃhater dānakarmaṇaḥ” (“magha is a name for wealth, from maṃh, giving”). The word magha is stated among the sixteen names of Uṣas (Ni. 3-19 as printed [?]).

जिह्मश्ये चरितवे — Jihmaśye caritave: “jihmaṃ śete iti jihmaśīḥ”: the word jihma means “crooked”. He who lies curled up by throwing his hands and feet is jihmaśī. Thus Uṣas creates enthusiasm, so that a desire arises that the man who is lying curled up, from laziness, should go about.

त्वम् — Tvam. “ayam eka-śabda-paryāyaḥ sarvanāma-śabdaḥ” and “yadāha — tve iti vigrahārthīyaṃ sarvanāmānudāttam” (Ni. 1-9 as printed [?]): “tva is a word that is a synonym of ‘one’. It belongs to the group of pronouns (sarvanāman). It has the anudātta accent.” “ardhanāmety eke” — some think that this word denotes “half portion”; “nipāta ity eke” — some say that the word tva is an indeclinable particle (nipāta). The Ṛk:

> ऋचां त्वः पोषमास्ते पुपुष्वान् गायत्रं त्वो गायति शक्वरीषु । ब्रह्मा त्वो वदति जातविद्यां यज्ञस्य मात्रां वि मिमीत उ त्वः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-७१-११)
>
> ṛcāṃ tvaḥ poṣamāste pupuṣvān gāyatraṃ tvo gāyati śakvarīṣu | brahmā tvo vadati jātavidyāṃ yajñasya mātrāṃ vi mimīta u tvaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-71-11)

— “Here the word tvaḥ is used in the sense of ‘one’. Therefore Uṣas, who herself performs all kinds of work at once, gives enthusiasm to one who is lying curled up by habit to go about, to one so that he may enjoy [objects of sense], to another so that she may produce in him a desire for sacrifice, and another she sets at once to the sacrifice. The dhaniṣṭha (rich man) becomes active in gathering the wealth he needs. In this way Uṣas pervades all, fulfilling the intentions of the people — this is the sense.”

Printed p. 30 (PDF 50; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

दभ्रं पश्यद्भ्यः उर्विया विचक्षे — Dabhraṃ paśyadbhyaḥ urviyā vicakṣe. Yāska explains the meaning of the word dabhra as “small” and cites the Ṛk “upopa me parā mṛśa mā me dabhrāṇi manyathāḥ” as an example:

> दभ्रं पश्यद्भ्यः उर्विया विचक्षे दभ्रमल्पम् । दभ्रमर्भकमित्यल्पस्य । दभ्नोतेः सुदम्भं भवति । उपोप मे परा मृश मा मे दभ्राणि मन्यथाः । सर्वाहमस्मि रोमशा गान्धारीणामिवाविका ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१२६-७ [as read]) (नि. ३-३० [?])
>
> dabhraṃ paśyadbhyaḥ urviyā vicakṣe dabhramalpam | dabhramarbhakamityalpasya | dabhnoteḥ sudambhaṃ bhavati | upopa me parā mṛśa mā me dabhrāṇi manyathāḥ | sarvāhamasmi romaśā gāndhārīṇāmivāvikā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-126-7 [as read]) (ni. 3-30 [?])

“Therefore dabhra means ‘small’. When, because of the darkness, the true nature of things is not understood properly, the objects appear as small in size. Thus the world, covered by darkness, which appears small in size, Uṣas makes great by her light and reveals its real condition.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 5; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on jihmaśye (śīṅ “to lie”; jihmaṃ śete → jihmaśī; the suffix kvip by kvip ca; the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt; the dative singular ṅe, yaṇ by eranekācaḥ [as printed]; the svarita by udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svaritaḥ), caritave (car “to move”, infinitive suffix tavai [for tumun] by tumarthe sesesen…; augment iḍ; jñityādir nityam accent on the first syllable; indeclinable by kṛnmejantaḥ), ābhogaye (ābhoga with the dative singular ṅe → ya by Vedic yaka-augment; or ā + bhuj “to protect, enjoy” with kvip by uṇādayo bahulam; the change of j to g; ābhogī; guṇa; ay-substitution; first-member accent in the compound). Sūtra numbers small; I give none beyond those marked “as printed”.

Printed p. 31 (PDF 51; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 1”)

Grammar page of Ṛk 5, concluded (noted briefly): iṣṭaye (iṣu “to wish”, the suffix ktic by ktic ktau ca saṃjñāyām, Pā. 3-3-174 as read [?]; dative singular), rāye (ūḍidaṃpadādi… accent on the ending), paśyadbhyaḥ (dṛś “to see”, śatṛ; paśya substitution by pāghrādhmā…, Pā. 7-3-78 as read [?]; śap is pit, the root accent remains), urviyā (urvī + su, with iyaṅ by the Vārttika iyāḍiyājīkārāṇām upasaṃkhyānam; elision of the feminine ending; accent on the last syllable since cit), vicakṣe (vi + cakṣiṅ “to speak clearly”; kvip by sampadādibhyaḥ kvip; accent of the first member by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt), viśvā (śi of the neuter plural replaced by ā by śeś chandasi bahulam). ‖ 5 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 6

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.6)

क्षत्राय त्वं श्रवसे त्वं महीया इष्टये त्वमर्थमिव त्वमित्यै । विसदृशा जीविताभिप्रचक्ष उषा अजीगर्भुवनानि विश्वा ॥ ६ ॥

kṣatrāya tvaṃ śravase tvaṃ mahīyā iṣṭaye tvamarthamiva tvamityai | visadṛśā jīvitābhipracakṣa uṣā ajīgarbhuvanāni viśvā ‖ 6 ‖

Printed p. 32 (PDF 52; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.6)

क्षत्राय । त्वम् । श्रवसे । त्वम् । महीयै । इष्टये । त्वम् । अर्थम्ऽइव । त्वम् । इत्यै । विऽसदृशा । जीविता । अभिऽप्रचक्षे । उषाः । अजीगः । भुवनानि । विश्वा ॥ ६ ॥

kṣatrāya | tvam | śravase | tvam | mahīyai | iṣṭaye | tvam | artham 'iva | tvam | ityai | vi 'sadṛśā | jīvitā | abhi 'pracakṣe | uṣāḥ | ajīgaḥ | bhuvanāni | viśvā ‖ 6 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.6)

क्षत्राय । धननामैतत् । धनार्थं त्वमेकं प्रत्युषा वृच्छन्तीति शेषः । तथा श्रवसेऽन्नार्थं त्वमेकं प्रति । महीयै महत्यै इष्टये अग्निष्टोमादिमहायज्ञार्थं त्वमेकं प्रति वृच्छन्ति । तथार्थमिवापेक्षितमर्थं प्रतीत्यै गमनार्थं त्वमेकं प्रति वृच्छन्ति । अपि च विसदृशा विलक्षणानि नानारूपाणि जीविता जीवितानि जीवनोपायभूतानि कृषिवाणिज्यादीन्यभिप्रचक्षे अभिमुख्येन प्रकाशयितुं वृच्छन्त्युषाः सर्वाणि भूतजातानि तमसा निगीर्णान्यजीगः प्रकाशनेनोद्गीर्णानीवाकरोत् ॥

kṣatrāya | dhananāmaitat | dhanārthaṃ tvamekaṃ pratyuṣā vṛcchantīti śeṣaḥ | tathā śravase 'nnārthaṃ tvamekaṃ prati | mahīyai mahatyai iṣṭaye agniṣṭomādimahāyajñārthaṃ tvamekaṃ prati vṛcchanti | tathārthamivāpekṣitamarthaṃ pratītyai gamanārthaṃ tvamekaṃ prati vṛcchanti | api ca visadṛśā vilakṣaṇāni nānārūpāṇi jīvitā jīvitāni jīvanopāyabhūtāni kṛṣivāṇijyādīnyabhipracakṣe abhimukhyena prakāśayituṃ vṛcchantyuṣāḥ sarvāṇi bhūtajātāni tamasā nigīrṇānyajīgaḥ prakāśanenodgīrṇānīvākarot ‖

Sense (mine): "Kṣatra — a name for wealth: Uṣas appears (vṛcchanti) for the sake of wealth to the one (man); so for śravas (food) to the one; for the mahīyai iṣṭaye — the great sacrifice, the Agniṣṭoma and the like — to the one; and for arthamiva, 'for the sake of the thing wanted', for ityai, to go, to the one. Moreover, to show forth (abhipracakṣe) in front the viṣadṛśā jīvitā, the various forms of livelihood — agriculture, trade and the rest — Uṣas appears; all beings hidden (swallowed) by darkness she brings out, as if vomited out (ajīgaḥ), by giving light."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): tvam (a pronoun-word, wholly unaccented by the Phiṭ-sūtra 4-10 as cited [?]); mahīyai (from mahī, the dative in īyai by the elongation chāndasa; or the yāṭ augment — Pā. 7-3-113 as read [?]); visadṛśā (dṛś with kvin by the Vārttika; samānasya chandasi — sa for samāna; the Vedic elision of śi; accent of the first member); abhipracakṣe (cakṣ in the sense of the infinitive with sen; elision of k by skoḥ saṃyogādyor ante ca).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"tvam — one man; kṣatrāya — for wealth; tvam — another; śravase — for food; tvam — another; mahīyai — for great (such as the Agniṣṭoma); iṣṭaye — for sacrifices; tvam — another; arthamiva — [turning] towards the desired object; ityai — for going out; visadṛśā — of various kinds; jīvitā — the efforts; abhipracakṣe — for making them shine well (inciting); uṣāḥ — Uṣas; viśvā bhuvanāni — the whole world (covered by darkness); ajīgaḥ — again makes manifest."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"Uṣas, inciting people to take up their various efforts for the sake of wealth, food, sacrifices and other desired objects, and their means, makes the whole world (which, covered with darkness, was nearly lost) manifest."

English Translation (as printed)

> The dawn rouses one man to acquire wealth, another to earn food, another to achieve greatness, another to sacrifices, another to his own (persuits [sic]), another to activity, and lights all men to their various means of maintaining life. Ushas has given back all the regions.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

क्षत्राय — Kṣatrāya. "Because magham, reknaḥ … are stated among the names of wealth (Ni. 2-10 as read [?]), the word kṣatra denotes wealth: 'in order to obtain wealth' is the sense."

श्रवसे — Śravase. "The word śravas is stated among the names of wealth (Ni. 2-10 as read [?]), so it denotes wealth. This word is used also in the meaning 'fame' or 'glory' (kīrti), and in the meaning 'food' (anna).

> प्र वो महे मन्दमानायान्धसोऽर्चा विश्वानराय विश्वाभुवे । इन्द्रस्य यस्य सुमखं सहो महि श्रवो नृम्णं च रोदसी सपर्यतः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-५०-१ [as read])
>
> pra vo mahe mandamānāyāndhaso 'rcā viśvānarāya viśvābhuve | indrasya yasya sumakhaṃ saho mahi śravo nṛmṇaṃ ca rodasī saparyataḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-50-1 [as read])

— in this Ṛk, "mahac chravaṇīyaṃ yaśaḥ" (Ni. 11-10 as read [?]): the word śravas denotes fame.

> अमन्दान्स्तोमान्प्र भरे मनीषा सिन्धावधि क्षियतो भाव्यस्य । यो मे सहस्रममिमीत सवानतूर्तो राजा श्रव इच्छमानः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१२६-१ [as read])

amandānstomānpra bhare manīṣā sindhāvadhi kṣiyato bhāvyasya | yo me sahasramamimīta savānatūrto rājā śrava icchamānaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-126-1 [as read])

Here also "śravaḥ praśaṃsām icchamānaḥ" (Ni. 9-11 as read [?]): the word śravas denotes fame.

उत स्मैनं वस्त्रमथिं न तायुमनु क्रोशन्ति क्षितयो भरेषु । नीचायमानं जसुरि न श्येनं श्रवश्चाच्छा पशुमच्च यूथम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-३८-५ [as read])

uta smainaṃ vastramathiṃ na tāyumanu krośanti kṣitayo bhareṣu | nīcāyamānaṃ jasuriṃ na śyenaṃ śravaścācchā paśumacca yūtham ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 4-38-5 [as read])

Here too: "śravaś cācchā paśumac ca yūtham — śravaś cāpi paśumac ca yūtham praśaṃsāṃ ca" (Ni. 4-31 as read [?]): the word śravas denotes fame.

आसस्राणास: शवसानमच्छेन्द्रं सुचक्रे रथ्यासो अश्वा: । अभि श्रव ऋजुम्यन्तो वहेयुर्नू चिन्नु वायोरमृतं वि दस्येत् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-३७-३ [as read; numerals small])

āsasrāṇāsaḥ śavasānamacchendraṃ sucakre rathyāso aśvāḥ | abhi śrava ṛjumyanto vaheyurnū cinnu vāyoramṛtaṃ vi dasyet ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 6-37-3 [as read; numerals small])

Here "śrava ity annanāma śrūyata iti sataḥ vāyoḥ śāstraṃ bhakṣako na vidasyed iti" (Ni. 10-6 as read [?]): the word śravas has the meaning "food". "From these examples there are many meanings for the word śravas; Sāyaṇa explained the meaning 'for the sake of food'."

विसदृशा — Visadṛśā — "vigatasādṛśyāni, vilakṣaṇāni nānārūpāṇi" (devoid of likeness, unlike, of many forms): "As soon as Uṣas-time comes, the one who earns wealth, the one who labours for food, the one who performs great sacrifices, the one who aspires to accomplish desires of many kinds, and the one who achieves the means of livelihood — in all of these, enthusiasm and knowledge arise. This is by Uṣas's power: she awakens all the worlds. When morning comes and it is light, people become engaged in the various works of each. All of this is the power of Uṣas — such is the intention."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 6; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page, begun: kṣatrāya (an underived stem, the name of wealth; accent on the final syllable by Phiṭ-sūtra 1 "phiṣo 'nta udāttaḥ"), tvam (the stem yuṣmad, am for su; tva substituted [for the whole of tvam]; elision by śeṣe lopaḥ; wholly unaccented by Phiṭ 4-10 "tva sama sima…" as read [?]). (Continues on the next page.)

Grammar page of Ṛk 6, continued (noted briefly): śravase (śru "to hear"; the suffix asun; guṇa of u; av; dative singular); mahīyai (the form to be mahyai: mah "to honour"; the suffix iṅ(?) added to all roots — Uṇ. sūtra, number as read "4-???" [?]; giving the stem mahī; in the feminine, with ṅīṣ by kṛdikārād aktinaḥ [as printed]; the āṭ augment before the dative ending; vṛddhi; Vedic insertion of ī; the yaṇ substitution with the accent on the ending by udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt; or, with the ending after mahī changed by vyatyayo bahulam and yāḍ-āpaḥ, with the Vedic final-accent); artham (ṛ "to go", the suffix thak[?]; guṇa; raparatva; accent on the first syllable since the suffix is pit; accusative singular); ityai (iṇ “to go”, adādi; ktin in the feminine and the abstract sense by striyāṃ ktin; final accent by vyatyaya; or ktic; as before the ending’s accent by udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt); visadṛśā (dṛś in the tṛdādi group takes kañ by the Vārttika; with samāna in the first member by samānasya chandasy amūrdha…; the neuter plural śi replaced by ā by śeś chandasi bahulam; bahuvrīhi — first-member accent; “in the same way jīvitāni becomes jīvitā”).

Printed p. 36 (PDF 56; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

Grammar page, concluded: abhipracakṣe (abhi; cakṣiṅ “to speak clearly”, a root with several senses, here used in the sense of “to shine”; the infinitive in se by tumarthe sesen…; elision of k by skoḥ saṃyogādyor ante ca; ṣatva by ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si; the ṣa from the suffix by the change of s; indeclinable by kṛn mejantaḥ). ‖ 6 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 7

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.7)

एषा दिवो दुहिता प्रत्यदर्शि व्युच्छन्ती युवतिः शुक्रवासाः । विश्वस्येशाना पार्थिवस्य वस्व उषो अद्येह सुभगे व्युच्छ ॥ ७ ॥

eṣā divo duhitā pratyadarśi vyucchantī yuvatiḥ śukravāsāḥ | viśvasyeśānā pārthivasya vasva uṣo adyeha subhage vyuccha ‖ 7 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.7)

एषा । दिवः । दुहिता । प्रति । अदर्शि । वि ऽउच्छन्ती । युवतिः । शुक्र ऽवासाः । विश्वस्य । ईशाना । पार्थिवस्य । वस्वः । उषः । अद्य । इह । सु ऽभगे । वि । उच्छ ॥ ७ ॥

eṣā | divaḥ | duhitā | prati | adarśi | vi ’ucchantī | yuvatiḥ | śukra ’vāsāḥ | viśvasya | īśānā | pārthivasya | vasvaḥ | uṣaḥ | adya | iha | su ’bhage | vi | uccha ‖ 7 ‖

Printed p. 37 (PDF 57; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.7)

दिवो दुहिता व्योम्नो दुहितृस्थानीया । तस्य हि पूर्वार्धे उषा उत्पद्यते । सैषा व्युच्छन्ती तमो वर्जयन्ती प्रत्यदर्शि सर्वैः प्राणिभिर्दृष्टाभूत् । कीदृशी सा । युवतिर्योवयित्री फलानां पुरुषैः प्रापयित्री नित्ययौवनोपेता वा शुक्रवासाः श्वेतवसना निर्मलदीप्तिर्वा तथा विश्वस्य सर्वस्य पार्थिवस्य पृथिव्याः संबन्धिनो वस्वो धनस्येशानेश्वरी । हे सुभगे शोभनधने उषः तादृशी त्वमद्यास्मिन्काले इहास्मिन्देवयजनदेशे व्युच्छ । तमांसि विवासय । वर्जयेत्यर्थः ॥

divo duhitā vyomno duhitṛsthānīyā | tasya hi pūrvārdhe uṣā utpadyate | saiṣā vyucchantī tamo varjayantī pratyadarśi sarvaiḥ prāṇibhirdṛṣṭābhūt | kīdṛśī sā | yuvatiryovayitrī phalānāṃ puruṣaiḥ prāpayitrī nityayauvanopetā vā śukravāsāḥ śvetavasanā nirmaladīptirvā tathā viśvasya sarvasya pārthivasya pṛthivyāḥ saṃbandhino vasvo dhanasyeśāneśvarī | he subhage śobhanadhane uṣaḥ tādṛśī

tvamadyāsminkāle ihāsmindevayajanadeśe vyuccha | tamāṃsi vivāsaya | varjayetyarthaḥ ||

Sense (mine): "Divo duhitā — like a daughter of the sky (vyoman); for in the eastern part of it Uṣas is born. This Uṣas, dispelling (vyucchantī) the darkness, pratyadarśi — has come into view of all beings. What is she like? Yuvatiḥ — she who unites (yāvayitrī) men with the fruits [of their works], or one with ever-fresh youth; śukravāsāḥ — white-robed, or of spotless splendour; and īśānā — the mistress — of all (viśvasya) earthly (pārthivasya) wealth (vasvaḥ). O subhage, possessed of fine wealth, Uṣas, such as thou art, to-day, here, in this place of sacrifice, vyuccha — dispel the darkness, drive it away, is the sense."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): divaḥ (the accent of the ending by the rule ūḍidam…); vyucchantī (uchi "to depart, dispel", tudādi; viv-āsa "driving away"); yuvatiḥ (the feminine of yūn by the Pāṇinian yūnas ti, number as read "4-1-77" [?]); śukravāsāḥ (vas "to cover"; "vaste sarvam ācchādayatīti" — the light is the vāsas; bahuvrīhi, first-member accent); īśānā (īś "to be master", adādi, the elision of śap; the root accent as the ending is anudāttet); pārthivasya (from pṛthivī, the suffix añ); vasvaḥ (gender change: genitive singular used for a feminine; the substitute of yaṇ for the elided jas ending in Vedic — "ṣaṣṭhyāḥ jasādiṣu chandasi vāvacanam").

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"yuvatiḥ — one who gets men the results [of works]; or one ever-youthful; śukravāsāḥ — wearer of a white garment, or endowed with pure splendour; viśvasya — of all; pārthivasya — connected with the earth; vasvaḥ — of wealth; īśānā — the mistress; divo duhitā — the daughter of the atmosphere; eṣā — this Uṣas; vyucchantī — warding off the darkness; pratyadarśi — has come into the sight of beings; subhage — O possessor of auspicious wealth; uṣaḥ — O Uṣas, goddess! (now); adya — now; iha — in this sacrifice; vyuccha — drive away the darkness."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The goddess Uṣas, of spotless splendour, ever youthful, mistress of all wealth connected with the earth, like a daughter to the atmosphere, appears to everyone as a dispeller of darkness. O such Uṣas deity, here, in this sacrificial hall, now drive away the darkness."

Printed p. 38 (PDF 58; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

English Translation (as printed)

> The daughter of heaven, young, white-robed, the mistress of all earthly treasure, is beheld dissipating the darkness. Auspicious Ushas, shine upon us to-day in this (hall of sacrifice.)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

दिवो दुहिता — Divo duhitā — "vyomno duhitṛsthānīyā": "the goddess Uṣas is constantly full of light and is the daughter of heaven (svarga). The meaning of the word duhitṛ: Yāska explains (Ni. 3-4 as read [?]) 'duhitā durhitā dūre hitā dogdhir vā': the woman who, being given in gift to a man, brings sorrow and also benefit to him; or, one who, though always living far from her father and mother, desires their welfare, therefore gets the name duhitā. As heaven is full of light, Uṣas, which is born from the eastern part of heaven, also illumines the other objects and gives beings a light in the form of knowledge, so she is called heaven's daughter — thus they explain."

शुक्रवासाः — Śukravāsāḥ:

> वस्ते सर्वमाच्छादयतीति प्रकाशो वासः । श्वेतवसना निर्मलदीप्तिर्वा ॥
>
> vaste sarvamācchādayatīti prakāśo vāsaḥ | śvetavasanā nirmaladīptirvā ‖

"The garment (vāsa) that covers everything is the light (prakāśa): hence, because everything is covered by it — the word vāsaḥ means 'a garment worn'. Because Uṣas has an exceedingly pure lustre, with no spot, she is said to be white-robed, or to have pure splendour — so it is described here."

युवतिः — Yuvatiḥ:

> यावयित्री फलानां पुरुषैः प्रापयित्री । नित्ययौवनोपेता वा ॥
>
> yāvayitrī phalānāṃ puruṣaiḥ prāpayitrī | nityayauvanopetā vā ‖

"One who makes men obtain the fruits (or purposes), or one who is always joined with youth: the meaning is 'one who is always young'."

सुभगे — Subhage — "śobhanadhanavatī": one who possesses excellent wealth. The word bhaga is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of wealth (Ni. 2-10 as read [?]).

> नूनं सा ते प्रति वरं जरित्रे दुहीयदिन्द्र दक्षिणा मघोनी । शिक्षा स्तोतृभ्यो माति धग्भगो नो बृहद्वदेम विदथे सुवीराः ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-११-२१ [as read])
>
> nūnaṃ sā te prati varaṃ jaritre duhīyadindra dakṣiṇā maghonī | śikṣā stotṛbhyo māti dhagbhago no bṛhadvadema vidathe suvīrāḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 2-11-21 [as read])

"Here, in 'bhago naḥ' ('dhanaṃ no 'stu', 'may wealth be ours'), they give for the word bhaga the meaning 'wealth'. The word bhaga conveys the meanings Sūrya, dharma, wealth, woman, and avayava ('limb, part'). Here, accepting the sense 'wealth', they explain it."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 7; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on divaḥ (accent of the ending by ūḍidaṃpadādi…), adarśi (dṛś "to see", aorist luṅ 3rd singular ta; ciṇ in place of cli by ciṇ bhāvakarmaṇoḥ; guṇa of the penultimate; elision of ta by ciṇo luk; augment aṭ; tiṅ-nighāta accent), vyucchantī (uchī "to depart", tudādi; vivāsa "driving away"; śatṛ; the tuk augment by chaṃ ca [Pā. śe ca?]; ḍī — ugitaś ca — with num; the śa class-sign accent on the śa; compound with the prefix vi, first-member accent), yuvatiḥ (yūn + ti in the feminine by yūnas ti; the stem designation sv-ādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne; n-elision by nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya; final accent from the suffix), śukravāsāḥ (vas "to cover", ghañ; guṇa/vṛddhi of the penultimate by ata upadhāyāḥ; "śukraṃ vāsaḥ yasya saḥ" — bahuvrīhi, first-member accent), īśānā (īś "to be lord", adādi; śānac; elision of śap by adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; feminine ṭāp by ajādyatas ṭāp; root-accent retained because anudāttet; accent by tāsyanudāttet…; nominative singular). Sūtra numbers small; I give none beyond.

Printed p. 40 (PDF 60; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

Grammar page, concluded: pārthivasya (pṛthivyāḥ idam — the suffix añ by pṛthivyā ñāñau, Pā. 4-1-?? [?]; the vṛddhi taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ; jñityādir nityam — first-syllable accent; genitive singular); vasvaḥ (vasu — a word that in the Vedic usage is neuter, by vyatyayo bahulam made masculine; guṇa on the genitive ending ṅas is prevented by jasādiṣu chandasi vā vacanam, since it is optional; yaṇ substituted); subhage (śobhanaṃ bhagaṃ yasyāḥ sā; the vocative with nighāta by āmantritasya ca); vyuccha (uchī “to depart”; loṭ 2nd singular, the elision of hi by ato heḥ; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 7 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 8

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.8)

परायतीनामन्वेति पाथ आयतीनां प्रथमा शश्वतीनाम् । व्युच्छन्ती जीवमुदीरयन्त्युषा मृतं कं चन बोधयन्ती ॥ ८ ॥

parāyatīnāmanveti pātha āyatīnāṃ prathamā śaśvatīnām | vyucchantī jīvamudīrayantyuṣā mṛtaṃ kaṃ cana bodhayantī ‖ 8 ‖

Printed p. 41 (PDF 61; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.8)

पराऽयतीनाम् । अनु । एति । पाथः । आऽयतीनाम् । प्रथमा । शश्वतीनाम् । विऽउच्छन्ती । जीवम् । उत्ऽईरयन्ती । उषाः । मृतम् । कम् । चन । बोधयन्ती ॥ ८ ॥

parā3yatīnām | anu | eti | pāthaḥ | ā ’yatīnām | prathamā | śaśvatīnām | vi ’ucchantī | jīvam | ut ’īrayantī | uṣāḥ | mṛtam | kam | cana | bodhayantī ‖ 8 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the first Pada-word is printed with a lengthened-vowel mark, as parā-yatīnām with the avagraha, written पराऽयतीनाम् in the print’s manner; the Saṃhitā’s ityuṣā is the Pada’s uṣāḥ*; the Saṃhitā’s* kaṃ cana stays as two words.)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.8)

परायतीनां परागच्छन्तीनामतीतानामुषसां सम्बन्धि पाथोऽन्तरिक्षैकदेशलक्षणं स्थानम् । पाथोऽन्तरिक्षं पथा व्याख्यातम् । नि. ६-७ [?] इति यास्कः । अद्यतन्युषा अन्वेति । अनुगच्छति । अतीता उषसो यथा व्युष्टा एवमेवैषापि व्युच्छतीत्यर्थः । तथायतीनामागच्छन्तीनां शश्वतीनां बह्वीनामुषसां प्रथमाद्या भवति । एषा यथा वर्तते एवमेवागामिन्योऽप्युषस इत्यर्थः । तादृशी व्युच्छन्ती तमो वर्जयन्ती जीवं प्राणिनां जीवात्मानमुदीरयन्त्युषा मृतं स्वापसमये प्रलीनेन्द्रियत्वान्मृतमिव सन्तं कं चन कमपि पुरुषं बोधयन्ती पुनरिन्द्रियप्रवेशेन चेतनं कुर्वती प्रवर्तते इति शेषः ॥

parāyatīnāṃ parāgacchantīnāmatītānāmuṣasāṃ sambandhi pātho ’ntarikṣaikadeśalakṣaṇaṃ sthānam | pātho ’ntarikṣaṃ pathā vyākhyātam | ni. 6-7

[?] iti yāskaḥ | adyatanyuṣā anveti | anugacchati | atītā uṣaso yathā vyuṣṭā evamevaiṣāpi vyucchatītyarthaḥ | tathāyatīnāmāgacchantīnāṃ śaśvatīnāṃ bahvīnāmuṣasāṃ prathamādyā bhavati | eṣā yathā vartate evamevāgāminyo 'pyuṣasa ityarthaḥ | tādṛśī vyucchantī tamo varjayantī jīvaṃ prāṇināṃ jīvātmānamudīrayantyuṣā mṛtaṃ svāpasamaye pralīnendriyatvānmṛtamiva santaṃ kaṃ cana kamapi puruṣaṃ bodhayantī punarindriyapraveśena cetanaṃ kurvatī pravartate iti śeṣaḥ ||

Sense (mine): "Parāyatīnām — of the Uṣases that have gone away, the past ones — their pātha, the place that is a portion of the atmosphere. Pātha = atmosphere, explained under pathā (Ni. 6-7 [?]), says Yāska. The present Uṣas follows (anveti) it: as the past Uṣases have shone, so this one shines too. Likewise she is prathamā, the first, of the āyatīnām, the coming, śaśvatīnām, many Uṣases: as she is, so also the Uṣases to come will be. Such Uṣas, dispelling darkness, jīvam udīrayantī, rousing the jīva, the living self of creatures, mṛtam, those who, at the time of sleep, with their senses dissolved, are as if dead — kaṃ cana, any man whatever — bodhayantī, waking, making conscious again by the entering of the senses, she proceeds."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): parāyatīnām (iṇ "to go", the participle śatṛ in the laṭ sense; yaṇ for iṇ; feminine ṅīp by ugitaś ca; the genitive plural nām accented on the first syllable by the Vedic rule jyāṃ chandasi bahulam).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"uṣāḥ — Uṣas; parāyatīnām — of the Uṣases of the past; pāthaḥ — the path; anveti — follows; āyatīnām — of those that come hereafter; śaśvatīnām — of the countless Uṣases; prathamā — becomes the first; vyucchantī — Uṣas who drives out darkness; mṛtam — (being sleepless) as if dead; kaṃ cana jīvam — any person (or creature); udīrayantī — rousing with warmth; bodhayantī — making (him) one with awakened senses."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The present Uṣas follows the path of the many past Uṣases (that is, she too, like them, is a dispeller of darkness) and is the first of the countless Uṣases that are to come (those to come hereafter will also be, like her, dispellers of darkness); driving out the darkness, Uṣas rouses living beings with warmth (those who in the state of sleep are as if dead), and gives consciousness to each one."

English Translation (as printed)

> Following the path of the mornings that have passed, and first of the endless mornings that are to come, Ushas, the disperser of darkness, arouses living beings, and awakens every one (that lay) as dead.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

परायतीनां पाथः — Parāyatīnāṃ pāthaḥ — "antarikṣaikadeśalakṣaṇaṃ sthānam": a place (sthāna), a portion of the atmosphere. "The word pātha has many meanings. Here it is used in the sense of 'path'. Pāthontarikṣaṃ pathā vyākhyātam (Ni. 6-7 as read [?]): Yāska, in giving the derivation of the word panthāḥ (‘path’), says of the word pātha that it denotes the atmosphere, observes that this word’s meaning is also being specially explained, and, to show that the word has several meanings, gives examples:

> यत्रा चक्रुरमृता गातुमस्मै श्येनो न दीयन्नन्वेति पाथः । प्रति वां सूर उदिते विधेम नमोभिर्मित्रावरुणोत हव्यैः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ७-६३-५ [as read])
>
> yatrā cakruramṛtā gātumasmai śyeno na dīyannanveti pāthaḥ | prati vāṃ sūra udite vidhema namobhirmitrāvaruṇota havyaiḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 7-63-5 [as read])

— the word pātha in this Ṛk denotes the atmosphere.

> उषासृज [?] त्मन्या समञ्जन्देवानां पाथ ऋतुथा हवींषि । वनस्पतिः शमिता देवो अग्निः स्वदन्तु हव्यं मधुना घृतेन ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-११०-१० [as read]) (The first word is printed letter by letter as above; the context suggests upa sṛja*, but I give the print, not the guess.)*

Here pātha means food. Uṣas comes before the Sun’s rising, each day, always before sunrise. Therefore the Uṣases of the present, though later than the former Uṣases, as the former passed away, so they, too, pass away; since they pass away like those, these too are destroyed, following the destruction of those others along the atmospheric path.

Printed p. 43 (PDF 63; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

प्रथमा आयतीनाम् — Prathamā āyatīnām — “āgacchantīnāṃ prathamā ādyā bhavati”: “Of the Uṣases yet to come, the one who rises now is the first, in the sense of the ‘first’; so Skandasvāmin:

> परायतीनां परागच्छन्तीनां गवादिजातीनामनुगच्छति पन्थानः । आगच्छन्तीनां च प्रथमा बह्वीनां नित्यानां वा । योऽक्षणा [?] दूरवर्तिनो गवादिजातयो यश्च सन्निकृष्टाः सर्वव्यापित्वात्ताः सर्वा अनुगच्छतीत्यर्थः ॥ [read from the print; the words marked [?] are doubtful]
>
> parāyatīnāṃ parāgacchantīnāṃ gavādijātīnāmanugacchati panthānaḥ | āgacchantīnāṃ ca prathamā bahvīnāṃ nityānāṃ vā | yo ’kṣṇā [?] dūravartino gavādijātayo yaśca sannikṛṣṭāḥ sarvavyāpitvāttāḥ sarvā anugacchatītyarthaḥ ‖ [read from the print; the words marked [?] are doubtful]

— ‘She follows the paths of the going-away (past) ones, of the classes such as cows, etc.; and of the coming ones, she is first of the many, or of the eternal ones; as to those classes — cows etc. — that are far away and those that are near, because she pervades all, she follows all of them’.” “As Uṣas pervades everywhere, she follows the courses of things that are eternal, whether far away or near at hand. The classes (jāti) of cows and the like, though eternal as classes, in the individual are subject to destruction; they follow the course of things that perish with the destruction of the individual; and she is first in the origin of the things that remain” — so they explain.

जीवमुदीरयन्ती मृतं बोधयन्ती — Jīvam udīrayantī mṛtaṃ bodhayantī:

जीवात्मानं प्राणिनां शयनादूर्ध्वं प्रेरयन्त्युषाः मृतमिव सन्तं पुरुषं पुनरिन्द्रियप्रवेशेन चेतनं कुर्वती प्रवर्तते ॥

jīvātmānaṃ prāṇināṃ śayanādūrdhvaṃ prerayantyuṣāḥ mṛtamiva santaṃ puruṣaṃ punarindriyapraveśena cetanaṃ kurvatī pravartate ‖

"Uṣas, who drives out the darkness, rouses with warmth the jīvātman of the beings lying in comfort; and any being who sleeps, completely unconscious as if dead, she wakes, makes him knowing, and sets him to his own works — this is the meaning."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 8; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on parāyatīnām (parā a prefix; iṇ "to go"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense by laṭaḥ śatṛśānacau; śap elided by adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; yaṇ in place of i by iṇo yaṇ, giving yat; the feminine in ṅīp by ugitaś ca, since śatṛ loses its luk [as printed]; nuṭ in the genitive plural by hrasvanadyāpo nuṭ; and the Vedic accent by jyāṃ chandasi bahulam [as read]), eti (iṇ "to go", adādi, laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta), udīrayantī (īr "to throw", curādi; ṇic in the svārtha by satyāpāśa…; śatṛ; guṇa; ayādeśa; ṅīp; the rephottarākāra), mṛtam (mṛṅ "to die"; kta by niṣṭhā; final accent), bodhayantī (budh "to know", ṇic in the causative by hetumati ca; śatṛ; feminine ṅīp; accent). Pā. numbers are small; none given. ‖ 8 ‖ (running on to p. 44)

(The grammar of Ṛk 8 concludes at the top of this page with the guṇa and ayādeśa* in bodhayantī, the feminine ṅīp, and the accent of the ṇic-ending; the end-mark ‖ 8 ‖ is printed after it.)

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 9

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.9)

उषो यदग्निं समिधे चकर्थ वि यदावश्चक्षसा सूर्यस्य । यन्मानुषान्यक्ष्यमाणा अजीगस्तद्देवेषु चकृषे भद्रमप्नः ॥ ९ ॥

uṣo yadagniṃ samidhe cakartha vi yadāvaścakṣasā sūryasya |
yanmānuṣānyakṣyamāṇā ajīgastaddeveṣu cakṛṣe bhadramapnaḥ ‖ 9 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.9) (begun at the foot of p. 44; completed on p. 45)

उषः । यत् । अग्निम् । सम्ऽइधे । चकर्थ । वि । यत् । आवः । चक्षसा । सूर्यस्य ।

uṣaḥ | yat | agnim | sam 'idhe | cakartha | vi | yat | āvaḥ | cakṣasā | sūryasya |

(Pada of Ṛk 9, concluded from p. 44:)

यत् । मानुषान् । यक्ष्यमाणान् । अजीगः । तत् । देवेषु । चकृषे । भद्रम् । अप्नः ॥ ९ ॥

yat | mānuṣān | yakṣyamāṇān | ajīgaḥ | tat | deveṣu | cakṛṣe | bhadram | apnaḥ ‖ 9 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.9)

हे उषस्त्वमग्निं गार्हपत्यादिरूपं समिधे समिन्धनाय प्रज्वलनार्थं यच्चकर्थ कृतवती । उषःकाले ह्यग्नयो होमार्थमुपसमिध्यन्ते । अपि च तमसा तिरोहितं जगत्सूर्यस्य चक्षसा प्रकाशेन यद्वा व्यावः व्यवृणोः तमसा विश्लिष्टमकरोः । तथा मानुषान् मनुष्यान् [?] यक्ष्यमाणान् यागं करिष्यतस्त्वं यदजीगः पूर्वं तमसा ग्रस्तान्प्रकाशेनोद्गीर्णानिवाकरोः । हे उषो देवेषु मध्ये त्वमेव भद्रं भजनीयं तदेतत्त्रिविधमप्नः कर्म चकृषे कृतवती ॥

he uṣastvamagniṃ gārhapatyādirūpaṃ samidhe samindhanāya prajvalanārthaṃ yaccakartha kṛtavatī | uṣaḥkāle hyagnayo homārthamupasamidhyante | api ca tamasā tirohitaṃ jagatsūryasya cakṣasā prakāśena yadvā vyāvaḥ vyavṛṇoḥ tamasā viśliṣṭamakaroḥ | tathā mānuṣān manuṣyān [?] yakṣyamāṇān yāgaṃ kariṣyatastvaṃ yadajīgaḥ pūrvaṃ tamasā grastānprakāśenodgīrṇānivākaroḥ | he uṣo deveṣu madhye tvameva bhadraṃ bhajanīyaṃ tadetattrividhamapnaḥ karma cakṛṣe kṛtavatī ‖

Sense (mine): "O Uṣas, since thou hast caused Agni — the Gārhapatya and the others — to be kindled (samidhe, for kindling, for blazing); for at the time of Uṣas the fires are kindled for the oblation. Further, since thou hast vi āvaḥ — opened, uncovered — the world hidden by darkness by the cakṣas, the light, of the Sun; made it free from darkness. Also, since thou hast made those men who are about to sacrifice (yakṣyamāṇān) — who are going to perform the sacrifice — as though brought forth (ajīgaḥ) from the darkness that had swallowed them before, by thy light — O Uṣas, among the gods thou alone hast done this threefold good (bhadram, 'to be honoured') work (apnaḥ)."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): āvaḥ (vṛñ "to cover", aorist, the elision of cli by mantre ghasa…; elision of s after a consonant-ending by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ; the augment āṭ by chandasy api dṛśyate); mānuṣān (manu with the suffix añ in the sense of "born", ṣuk augment [as printed], and puk).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he uṣaḥ — O Uṣas; tvam — you; agnim — the Gārhapatya and other fires; samidhe — for the sake of kindling (by the fuel etc.); yat — for what reason; cakartha — you have made; sūryasya cakṣasā — by the Sun's light; yat — for which reason; vi āvaḥ — (as) you have made manifest (the world covered by darkness); yakṣyamāṇān — those who will perform sacrifice; mānuṣān — men; yat ajīgaḥ — as you have made them fit for their duties; tat — therefore; deveṣu — among the gods (you); bhadram — auspicious; apnaḥ — (of the three kinds mentioned above) deeds; cakṛṣe — you have done."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Uṣas, among the gods you alone are she who has done these three auspicious deeds: the kindling of the Gārhapatya and other fires, the manifestation of the whole world covered by darkness, and the readiness for their duties of men who perform sacrifices."

English Translation (as printed)

> Ushas, inasmuch as you have caused the sacred fire to be kindled, inasmuch as you have lighted the world with the light of the sun, inasmuch as you have wakened men to perform sacrifice, you have done good service to the gods.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अप्नः — Apnaḥ. “The word apnas is stated among the sixteen names of form (rūpa) (Ni. 3-?? [as read, ”3-13”, [?]]) and among the twenty-six [as read] names of action (Ni. 2-1 [as read]). Uṣas, as soon as she rises, kindles the Gārhapatya fire for the oblation; she makes the world, which is hidden by darkness, visible by the Sun’s light; she makes the sacrificers and everyone else, delivered from the affliction of darkness, protected and alert in their duties. Because she performs these three kinds of work, she is held worthy of worship among the gods.”

“The intention of the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya and of Skandasvāmin’s bhāṣya is the same, but the word-order in the two books is different. Skandasvāmin:

> उषसि ह्युदिताय अग्निहोत्रेण आहवनीयं समिन्धयन्ति नानुदितायामकस्मादुषा इव समिन्धवतीत्युच्यते [?] ।
>
> uṣasi hyuditāya agnihotreṇa āhavanīyaṃ samindhayanti nānuditāyāmakasmāduṣā iva samindhavatītyucyate [?] |

— ‘As soon as Uṣas has risen, those who perform agnihotra have the Āhavanīya fire kindled; before the rising of Uṣas they do not worship the Āhavanīya fire; therefore Uṣas makes the fire blaze up’ — so says Skandasvāmin. And he explains: ‘uṣaso hi prakāśaḥ sūryāt udeṣyataḥ prabhavati’ — the light of Uṣas arises from the Sun who is about to rise.”

> उषःकाले होमार्थमुपसमिन्धतेऽग्नयः । सूर्यस्य प्रकाशेन तमसा विश्लिष्टमकरोः ॥
>
> uṣaḥkāle homārthamupasamindhate ’gnayaḥ | sūryasya prakāśena tamasā viśliṣṭamakaroḥ ||

“At Uṣas-time the fires are kindled for the oblation; by the Sun’s light thou hast freed [the world] from darkness” — so Sāyaṇa too explains.

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 9; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page begun: uṣaḥ (vocative; since it stands at the beginning of the pāda there is no nighāta accent; the first-syllable accent by āmantritasya ca [as printed “Pā. 6-1-198” [?]]). (Continues on the next page.)

Grammar page of Ṛk 9, continued (noted briefly): samidhe (sam + iñdhī “to blaze”; kvip; the compound with the prefix takes the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt; dative singular); cakartha (ḍukṛñ “to do”; liṭ 2nd singular; no iṭ by kṛsṛbhṛvṛstu… [as printed]; no

nighāta because of the preceding yat, by nipātair yad yadi…, Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]; accent of the stem before the ending by liti); āvaḥ (vṛñ “to cover”, aorist 2nd singular sip; elision of i by itaś ca; the elision of cli by mantre ghasa…; guṇa; raparatva; elision of the s by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ; the augment āṭ by chandasy api dṛśyate; first-syllable accent by the augment); cakṣasā (cakṣiṅ “to speak clearly”, used here in the sense “light”; asun by sarvadhātubhya asun; jñityādir nityam; instrumental singular); mānuṣān (manoḥ apatyāni pumāṃsaḥ mānuṣāḥ — manor jātāv añyatau ṣuk ca, Pā. 4-1-161 as read [?]; añ, the augment puk; vṛddhi by taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ; first-syllable accent; accusative plural); yakṣyamāṇān (yaj “to worship, unite, give”; lṛṭ with śānac by lṛṭaḥ sad vā; sya; c → k by coḥ kuḥ; ṣatva; the augment muk by āne muk; … ###
Printed p. 48 (PDF 68; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

… the accent of the personal ending by tasyānudāttet…; accusative plural; with a following, n becomes ru by dīrghād aṭi samānapāde, and the a before it becomes nasalized by ato ’ṭi nityam). ‖ 9 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 10

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.10)

कियात्या यत्समया भवाति या व्यूषुर्याश्च नूनं व्युच्छान् । अनु पूर्वाः कृपते वावशाना प्रदीध्याना जोषमन्याभिरेति ॥ १० ॥

kiyātyā yatsamayā bhavāti yā vyūṣuryāśca nūnaṃ vyucchān | anu pūrvāḥ kṛpate vāvaśānā pradīdhyānā joṣamanyābhireti ‖ 10 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.10)

कियाति । आ । यत् । समया । भवाति । याः । विऽऊषुः । याः । च । नूनम् । विऽउच्छान् । अनु । पूर्वाः । कृपते । वावशाना । प्रऽदीध्याना । जोषम् । अन्याभिः । एति ॥ १० ॥

kiyāti | ā | yat | samayā | bhavāti | yāḥ | vi ’ūṣuḥ | yāḥ | ca | nūnam | vi ’ucchān | anu | pūrvāḥ | kṛpate | vāvaśānā | pra ’dīdhyānā | joṣam | anyābhiḥ | eti ‖ 10 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the second याः is printed in the second line as “योः” or a damaged “याः” [?]; I give याः, as the Saṃhitā’s yāś ca requires. The Saṃhitā’s kiyātyā is the Pada’s kiyāti | ā*; the Saṃhitā’s* vyūṣur is the Pada’s vi-ūṣuḥ*; the Saṃhitā’s* vyucchān is the Pada’s vi-ucchān.)

Printed p. 49 (PDF 69; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed]; footer signature mark “IX 4”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.10)

समयेत्यव्ययं समीपवचनम् । उषाः समया भवाति समीपस्था भवतीति यदेतत् कियाति कियति काले प्रवृत्तं परिसमाप्तं नेत्याकारः प्रश्नार्थः । इदमुक्तं भवति । उषा येन कालेन संयुक्ता स कालः कियान् तस्य कालस्य किं परिमाणमिति । अनेनोषसोऽनन्तत्वमुक्तम् । तदेव स्पष्टीकरोति । पुरा या उषसो व्यूषुः व्युष्टाः सञ्जाताः । नूनमवश्यमितः परं याश्चोषसो

व्युच्छान् व्युच्छन्ति व्युष्टा भविष्यन्ति । तत्र पूर्वा व्युष्टा अतीता उषसो वावशाना कामयमानेदानीं वर्तमानोषा अनु कृपते अनुकल्पते समर्था भवति । अतीता उषसो यथा प्रकाशमकुर्वन् तद्वदेषापि प्रकाशं करोतीत्यर्थः । तथा प्रदीध्याना प्रकर्षेण दीप्यमानोषा अन्याभिरागामिभिरुषोभिर्जोषं सङ्गच्छते । आगामिन्योऽप्येतदीयं प्रकाशमनुकुर्वन्तीत्यर्थः ॥
[a few words in this passage are small and doubtful [?]]

samayetyavyayaṃ samīpavacanam | uṣāḥ samayā bhavāti samīpasthā bhavatīti yadetat kiyāti kiyati kāle pravṛttaṃ parisamāptaṃ netyākāraḥ praśnārthaḥ | idamuktaṃ bhavati | uṣā yena kālena saṃyuktā sa kālaḥ kiyān tasya kālasya kiṃ parimāṇamiti | anenoṣaso 'nantatvamuktam | tadeva spaṣṭīkaroti | purā yā uṣaso vyūṣuḥ vyuṣṭāḥ sañjātāḥ | nūnamavaśyamitaḥ paraṃ yāścoṣaso vyucchān vyucchanti vyuṣṭā bhaviṣyanti | tatra pūrvā vyuṣṭā atītā uṣaso vāvaśānā kāmayamānedānīṃ vartamānoṣā anu kṛpate anukalpate samarthā bhavati | atītā uṣaso yathā prakāśamakurvan tadvadeṣāpi prakāśaṃ karotītyarthaḥ | tathā pradīdhyānā prakarṣeṇa dīpyamānoṣā anyābhirāgāmibhiruṣobhirjoṣaṃ saṅgacchate | āgāminyo 'pyetadīyaṃ prakāśamanukurvantītyarthaḥ ‖ [a few words in this passage are small and doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Samayā is an indeclinable meaning 'near'. 'Uṣāḥ samayā bhavāti' — 'Uṣas is near': for how long (kiyāti), for how much time has this been going on, and when will it end? — the ā has the sense of a question. This is what is meant: for how much time is Uṣas joined — how long is that time, what is the measure of that time? By this is stated the endlessness of Uṣas. He makes that clear: the Uṣases who formerly vyūṣuḥ — had dawned, been born; and those who surely hereafter vyucchān — will dawn. Among them, wishing for the past dawned Uṣases, the Uṣas of the present anu kṛpate: is able to follow, is capable. As the past Uṣases made light, so this one too makes light: this is the sense. And pradīdhyānā, shining forth brilliantly, Uṣas joṣam — meets with the other, coming Uṣases: the coming ones too will imitate her light."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): kiyāti (the suffix ghá by kim-idaṃbhyāṃ vo ghaḥ, Pā. 5-2-40 as printed; by the capacity of this gha-rule vatup takes the gha form even after kim in the sense of measure; kim → kī by idaṅkimor īś kī, Pā. 6-3-90 as printed; the elision of a by yasya iti ca; the accent on the first syllable of the suffix; the lengthening in the Saṃhitā as Vedic); bhavāti (subjunctive, laṭ, with the augment aṭ in the leṭ); vyūṣuḥ (vas "to dwell", vi- prefixed in the sense of "to shine forth"; liṭ; kittva, with saṃprasāraṇa and doubling); vyucchān (uchī "to dispel"; the augment leṭ; elision of the final consonant-conjunction); kṛpate (kṛpū "to be able", the substitution of ṣ by vyatyaya); vāvaśānā (vaś "to wish", kānt; śānac in the liṭ sense by chandasi luṅlaṅliṭaḥ); pradīdhyānā (dīdhīṅ "to shine", laṭ śānac; the elision of śap by adādi…); the accent of the compound with the prefix by gatisamāse kṛduttarapadaprakṛtisvaratva.

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"uṣāḥ — Uṣas; samayā bhavāti — is near (this is the meaning); yat — that which (it is); kiyāti ā — for how long a time?; yāḥ — whichever Uṣases; vyūṣuḥ — have gone by; nūnam — certainly; yāḥ ca — whichever Uṣases; vyucchān — will arise; tatra — among them; pūrvāḥ — the earlier (gone by) ones; vāvaśānā — desiring (the present Uṣas); anu kṛpate — follows;

pradīdhyānā — the Uṣas who shines in a special way; anyābhiḥ joṣam — together with others (who come later); eti — goes on."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"Since when has Uṣas been thus? The Uṣas of exceptional lustre, wanting to give light (this is her need), proceeds, following the order of the Uṣases that have passed away (working), together with the Uṣases who come after her."

English Translation (as printed)

> For how long a period is it that the dawns have risen? for how long a period will they rise? still desirous to bring us light, Ushas pursues the functions of those that have gone before, and shinning [sic] brightly, proceeds with the others (that are to follow.)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अनुकृपते — Anukṛpate — "anukalpate samarthā bhavati": "Since the Uṣases rise every day earlier than the rising of the Sun, among these there are three divisions in usage: past (atīta), that is, passed; present (vartamāna), that is, those reached in the time arrived at; future (āgāmi), those yet to come. Sāyaṇa says that in the light of the Uṣas who is now going on, she is able to follow, by her own light, the light of those past ones, and he describes the similarity of lustre between the past, the present (Uṣases) in respect of their light. Skandasvāmin, because the root kṛp is read in the forty-four [as read] arcati-actions (Ni. 3-14 as read [?]) beginning 'arcati, gāyati', explains anukṛpate as 'worships':

> यच्च उषस्युदितायां स्तोतारः स्तुवन्ति तदुषा इव स्तौतीत्युच्यते ।
>
> yacca uṣasyuditāyāṃ stotāraḥ stuvanti taduṣā iva stautītyucyate |

— 'when Uṣas has risen, the singers praise; since that is what praising belongs to Uṣas, it is said "Uṣas as it were praises".' The gods who come at once when Uṣas has risen, praise [her]; those who praise are those who belong to Uṣas; so Uṣas-time itself is praised: he explains this as an upacāra (figurative usage). In this way a difference of view is found in the two bhāṣyas in the matter of the sense."

Ā — Skandasvāmin: "ākāro 'tre [?] pādapūraṇaḥ | nūnam api pādapūraṇaḥ" — "the ā is used for filling out the line; and nūnam too is for filling out the line", as in Skandasvāmin's exposition. Sāyaṇa: "ākāraḥ praśnārthaḥ":*'uṣā yena kālena saṃyuktā sa kālaḥ kiyān kiṃ parimāṇam' — the letter ā* conveys a question:"How much is the extent of the time with which Uṣas is joined?" From this he says that the measure of time which is united with the pervasion of Uṣas-time does not come within the range of knowledge; and then he describes the subtle aspects of the matter concerning the endlessness of Uṣas-time.

वावशाना — Vāvaśānā — “kāmayamānā”: “Sāyaṇa also says ‘desired’ (apekṣitā). Skandasvāmin:

> वावशाना — वश कान्तौ वाश्र शब्दने इत्येतयोरन्यतरस्येदं रूपं कामयमाना शब्दं कुर्वन्त्यर्थः । यच्च उषस्युदितायां कामयन्ते शब्दं वा कुर्वन्ति तदुषस्युपचर्यते ॥ [reading of the first words, vāśra śabdane, as printed [?]]
>
> vāvaśānā — vaśa kāntau vāśra śabdane ityetayoranyatarasyedaṃ rūpaṃ kāmayamānā śabdaṃ kurvantyarthaḥ | yacca uṣasyuditāyāṃ kāmayante śabdaṃ vā kurvanti taduṣasyupacaryate ‖ [reading of the first words, vāśra śabdane, as printed [?]]

— The form vāvaśānā arises from the root vaś with the sense ‘to wish’ (kānti), or from the root vāś(ṛ) with the sense ‘to make a sound’. Hence ‘desired’, or: the charming quality, desirable to all, of Uṣas-time, and the recitation of stotras and śastras and the like that take place at Uṣas-time, are in Uṣas-time itself: they reveal the nature of Uṣas — so Skandasvāmin explains.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 10; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on the words of Ṛk 10: kiyāti (kiyān: “kim of this measure”; the suffix vatup in the sense of measure; the gha-substitute from kim-idaṃbhyāṃ vo ghaḥ, Pā. 5-2-40 as printed; kim becomes kī by idaṅkimor īś kī; the ayādeśa of the gha as iya; elision of the ī of kī by yasya iti ca; the accent on the first syllable of the suffix; locative singular; in the Saṃhitā the Vedic lengthening); bhavāti (bhū “to be”; leṭ; the augment āṭ by leṭo ’ḍāṭau, Pā. 3-4-94 as read [?]; the śap; guṇa; avādeśa; no nighāta since yat precedes; root accent remains since śap and tip are unaccented); vyūṣuḥ (vas with vi in the sense of “shine, dispel”; liṭ 3rd plural; jhi → us by parasmaipadānām…; asaṃyogāl liṭ kit, Pā. 1-2-5 as read [?], whence kit; saṃprasāraṇa by vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti; doubling; ṣatva by śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca; no accent change because of yat: yadvṛttānnityam, Pā. 8-1-66 as read [?]).

Grammar page of Ṛk 10, continued: vyucchān (uchī “to dispel”; leṭ 3rd plural jhi → ant; elision of the last i by itaś ca and parasmaipadeṣu…; augment aṭ; elision of the final t by saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ; śa by tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ; no nighāta accent here as yat precedes; the class-sign accent remains); kṛpate (kṛpū “to be able”, laṭ 3rd singular ta, ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; śa in place of śap by vyatyayo bahulam; the lightening of the penultimate by sārvadhātukam apit, with no guṇa since the ending is ṅit by the substituted ātideśa; nighāta); vāvaśānā (vaś “to wish”; dhātor ekācaḥ…: yaṅ in the sense of intensity, yaṅ elided by yaṅo ’ci ca; chandasi tācchīlya: cānaś suffix by tācchīlyavayovacanaśaktiṣu; doubling of the root; feminine in ṭāp; citaḥ final accent); pradīdhyānā (dīdhīṅ “to shine”, laṭ śānac; elision of śap by adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; the yaṇ; feminine ṭāp; the root is of the jakṣityādi group, so it takes abhyasta designation and first-syllable accent by abhyastānām ādiḥ; the compound with pra has the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt). ‖ 10 ‖ (Sūtra numbers small; none given beyond “as printed” / “as read”.)

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 11

Printed p. 53 (PDF 73; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.11)

ईयुष्टे ये पूर्वतरामपश्यन् व्युच्छन्तीमुषसं मर्त्यासः । अस्माभिरू नु प्रतिचक्ष्याभूदो ते यन्ति ये अपरीषु पश्यान् ॥ ११ ॥

īyuṣṭe ye pūrvatarāmapaśyan vyucchantīmuṣasaṃ martyāsaḥ | asmābhirū nu praticakṣyābhūdo te yanti ye aparīṣu paśyān ‖ 11 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.11)

ईयुः । ते । ये । पूर्वऽतराम् । अपश्यन् । विऽउच्छन्तीम् । उषसम् । मर्त्यासः । अस्माभिः । ऊं इति । नु । प्रतिऽचक्ष्या । अभूत् । ओ इति । ते । यन्ति । ये । अपरीषु । पश्यान् ॥ ११ ॥

īyuḥ | te | ye | pūrva ’tarām | apaśyan | vi ’ucchantīm | uṣasam | martyāsaḥ | asmābhiḥ | ūṃ iti | nu | prati ’cakṣyā | abhūt | o iti | te | yanti | ye | aparīṣu | paśyān ‖ 11 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā’s asmābhir ū nu is the Pada’s asmābhiḥ | ūṃ iti | nu*; the Saṃhitā’s* abhūd o te is the Pada’s abhūt | o iti | te*.)*

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.11)

ये मर्त्यासो मरणधर्माणो मनुष्या व्युच्छन्तीं विवासयन्तीं पूर्वतरामतिशयेन पूर्वां विप्रकृष्टामुषसमपश्यन् दृष्टवन्तः । ते मनुष्या ईयुः । गताः । तथास्माभिरपि नु इदानीं प्रतिचक्ष्या प्रकर्षेण द्रष्टव्याभूत् । जाता । तथापरीषु भाविनीषु रात्रिषु ये मनुष्या एतामुषसं पश्यान् पश्यन्ति ते । ओ उ इति निपातद्वयसमुदायः । तत्र उ इत्येतदवधारणे । एव यन्ति । आगच्छन्त्येव । कालत्रयेऽप्येषा व्याप्य वर्तत इत्यर्थः ॥

ye martyāso maraṇadharmāṇo manuṣyā vyucchantīṃ vivāsayantīṃ pūrvatarāmatiśayena pūrvāṃ viprakṛṣṭāmuṣasamapaśyan dṛṣṭavantaḥ | te manuṣyā īyuḥ | gatāḥ | tathāsmābhirapi nu idānīṃ praticakṣyā prakarṣeṇa draṣṭavyābhūt | jātā | tathāparīṣu bhāvinīṣu rātriṣu ye manuṣyā etāmuṣasaṃ paśyān paśyanti te | o u iti nipātadvayasamudāyaḥ | tatra u ityetadavadhāraṇe | eva yanti | āgacchantyeva | kālatraye ’pyeṣā vyāpya vartata ityarthaḥ ‖

Sense (mine): “The mortals (martyāsaḥ, men subject to death) who saw the pūrvatarām Uṣas — the very earlier, remote one — as she dawned, dispelling the darkness: those men īyuḥ, have gone. Likewise she has now become praticakṣyā, to be seen eminently, by us. And likewise in the coming nights those men who will see this Uṣas — they come, yanti. O u is a combination of two particles; of these u is in the sense of restriction (‘indeed’): they surely come. The sense is that she pervades all three times.”

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): īyuḥ (iṇ “to go”, liṭ 3rd plural jhi → us; the yaṇ substitute; doubling; the lengthening of the reduplication by dīrgha iṇaḥ kiti, Pā. 6-4-56 as read [?]); te (the pronoun, s → … Vedic substitution); martyāsaḥ (the asuk augment after the ā of jas — ājjaser asuk).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“ye martyāsaḥ — which men; vyucchantīm — the rising; pūrvatarām — very ancient; uṣasam — Uṣas; apaśyan — saw; te — they; īyuḥ — are dead; (tathā — likewise); asmābhiḥ u — by us too (Uṣas); nu — now; praticakṣyā — as clearly to be seen; abhūt — has become (so); aparīṣu — in the coming nights; ye — whichever men; paśyān — will see (this Uṣas); te — they; āyanti u — are coming (they will be born hereafter).”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“The men who saw the Uṣases that rose in ancient times are no longer here. The Uṣas that now rises is visible to us. Men who will see the Uṣas that will rise later are yet to be born. (That is, Uṣas is seen to exist eternally, in the past, the future and the present.)”

English Translation (as printed)

> Those mortals who beheld the pristine Ushas dawning have passed away ; to us she is now visible, and they approach who may behold her in aftertimes.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

ये मर्त्यासः व्युच्छन्तीं पूर्वतरामुषसमपश्यन् ते ईयुः । अस्माभिः नु प्रतिचक्ष्या अभूत् — Ye martyāsaḥ vyucchantīṃ pūrvatarām uṣasam apaśyan te īyuḥ | asmābhiḥ nu pratīcakṣyā abhūt. “Men who by nature are subject to death saw in earlier times the Uṣases who revealed to the whole world the charm that they possess, and experienced joy. And she, showing her beauty, passed away like those. In the same way these (Uṣases) too will pass in the course of time. We, seeing at present this Uṣas-time, which has been obtained according to the present time, [her] (heart-ravishing) beauty, rejoice. Men who will rejoice seeing the Uṣases that will rise afterwards are yet to be born. Thus it is to be understood that Uṣas rises following the three times, and so pervades the three times. Though men are subject to death, they enjoy the delight of Uṣas in the three times of past, future and present; therefore the all-pervasion of Uṣas, according to the times, and in reference to the men concerned, appears to the men — thus Sāyaṇa explains the purport.”

“Following the same view, Skandasvāmin explains:

> अतीतैर्वर्तमानैरागामिभिश्च सर्वैर्मानुष्यैरुषा दृश्यते नास्मादिवत् कैश्चिदेव इति समस्तार्थः । [read as printed; words after dṛśyate doubtful [?]]
>
> atītairvartamānairāgāmibhiśca sarvairmānuṣyairuṣā dṛśyate nāsmādivat kaiścideva iti samastārthaḥ | [read as printed; words after dṛśyate doubtful [?]]

— ‘Uṣas is seen by all men, past, present and future; not, as with us [i.e. as with a man, a thing], by some only’: this is the whole sense. Those who were before saw Uṣas-time and experienced delight; those who are now present see and rejoice; in the same way those who will be born afterwards will see and rejoice. Therefore the idea that ‘we, because we are impermanent, only some see the Uṣas-time’ is not what is intended here: he explains the meaning that Uṣas is within the sight of everyone.”

मर्त्यासः — Martyāsaḥ — “mānuṣyāḥ”, men. “Because the word martya is stated among the twenty-five [as read] names of man (nara) (Ni. 2-3 as read [?]), the word martya has the meaning ‘man’.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 11; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on: īyuḥ (iṇ “to go”, adādi; liṭ 3rd plural; jhi → us by parasmaipadānām ṇalatusus…, Pā. 3-4-82 as read [?]; since an ajādi suffix follows, yaṇ for i by iṇo yaṇ, Pā. 6-4-81 as read [?]; in the doubling the sthānivadbhāva by dvirvacane ’ci; the reduplication lengthened by dīrgha iṇaḥ kiti; no nighāta since it begins the pāda; final accent from the suffix); pūrvatarām (atiśayena pūrvā pūrvatarā — the suffix taras in the comparative by dvivacanavibhajyopapade tarabīyasunau; accent on the pit); apaśyan (dṛśir “to see”, aorist/imperfect laṅ, 3rd plural; yadvṛttānnityam, no nighāta; augment aṭ, being udātta, gives the first-syllable accent); martyāsaḥ (martya with jas, the augment asuk by ājjaser asuk, Pā. 7-1-50 as read [?]; s → ru → visarga); praticakṣyā (cakṣiṅ “to speak clearly”, here in the sense of seeing; ṇyat by ṛhaloṇyat; ṭāp by ajādyataṣ ṭāp).

Printed p. 56 (PDF 76; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

Grammar page, concluded: yanti (iṇ “to go”, adādi laṭ 3rd plural; the jhi becomes anti; yaṇ by iṇo yaṇ; nighāta accent after an accented word); paśyān (dṛś “to see”, leṭ 3rd plural jhi; replaced by ant; elision of the final i by itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu, Pā. 3-4-97 as read [?]; paśya substitution by pāghrādhmā…; aṭ in the leṭ by leṭo ’ḍāṭau; elision of the final t by saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ; no nighāta because ye precedes, by yadvṛttānnityam; the āt augment being unaccented, the root accent stays by tāsyanudāttet…). ‖ 11 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 12

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.12)

यावयद्द्वेषा ऋतपा ऋतेजाः सुम्नावरी सूनृता ईरयन्ती । सुमङ्गलीर्बिभ्रती देववीतिमिहाद्योषः श्रेष्ठतमा व्युच्छ ॥ १२ ॥

yāvayaddveṣā ṛtapā ṛtejāḥ sumnāvarī sūnṛtā īrayantī | sumaṅgalīrbibhratī devavītimihādyoṣaḥ śreṣṭhatamā vyuccha ‖ 12 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.12) (begun at the foot of p. 56, completed on p. 57)

यावयत्ऽद्वेषाः । ऋतऽपाः । ऋतेऽजाः । सुम्नऽवरी । सूनृताः । ईरयन्ती ।

yāvayat ’dveṣāḥ | ṛta ’pāḥ | ṛte ’jāḥ | sumna ’varī | sūnṛtāḥ | īrayantī |

(Pada of Ṛk 12, concluded from p. 56:)

सुऽमङ्गलीः । बिभ्रती । देवऽवीतिम् । इह । अद्य । उषः । श्रेष्ठऽतमा । वि । उच्छ ॥ १२ ॥

su 'maṅgalīḥ | bibhratī | deva 'vītim | iha | adya | uṣaḥ | śreṣṭha 'tamā | vi | uccha ‖ 12 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.12)

यावयद्द्वेषाः । यावयन्ति अस्मत्तः पृथक्कृतानि द्वेषांसि द्वेष्ट्राणि [?] राक्षसादीनि ययोषा सा तथोक्ता । न ह्युषसि जातायां राक्षसादयोऽवतिष्ठन्ते यतस्ते निशाचराः । ऋतपाः ऋतस्य सत्यस्य यज्ञस्य वा पालयित्री । ऋतेजा यज्ञार्थं प्रादुर्भूता । सत्यामुषस्यहनि यागा अनुष्ठीयन्ते अतो यज्ञार्थं जातेत्युच्यते । सुम्नावरी । सुम्नमिति सुखनाम । तद्वती । सूनृताः । वाङ्नामैतत् । पशुपक्ष्यादीनां वचांस्यीरयन्ती प्रेरयन्त्युत्पादयन्तीति । सुमङ्गलीः सौमङ्गल्योपेता । पत्या कदाचिदपि न वियुक्तेत्यर्थः । देववीतिं देवैः कामयमानं यज्ञं बिभ्रती धारयन्ती । हे उषः श्रेष्ठतमा अतिशयेन प्रशस्ता त्वमिहास्मिन्देवयजनदेशेऽद्यास्मिन्यागसमये व्युच्छ । विवासय ॥ [the word after dveṣāṃsi read as dveṣṭrāṇi [?]]

yāvayaddveṣāḥ | yāvayanti asmattaḥ pṛthakkṛtāni dveṣāṃsi dveṣṭrāṇi [?] rākṣasādīni yayoṣā sā tathoktā | na hyuṣasi jātāyāṃ rākṣasādayo 'vatiṣṭhante yataste niśācarāḥ | ṛtapāḥ ṛtasya satyasya yajñasya vā pālayitrī | ṛtejā yajñārthaṃ prādurbhūtā | satyāmuṣasyahani yāgā anuṣṭhīyante ato yajñārthaṃ jātetyucyate | sumnāvarī | sumnamiti sukhanāma | tadvatī | sūnṛtāḥ | vāṅnāmaitat | paśupakṣyādīnāṃ vacāṃsyīrayantī prerayantyutpādayantīti | sumaṅgalīḥ saumaṅgalyopetā | patyā kadācidapi na viyuktetyarthaḥ | devavītiṃ devaiḥ kāmayamānaṃ yajñaṃ bibhratī dhārayantī | he uṣaḥ śreṣṭhatamā atiśayena praśastā tvamihāsmindevayajanadeśe 'dyāsminyāgasamaye vyuccha | vivāsaya ‖ [the word after dveṣāṃsi read as dveṣṭrāṇi [?]]

Sense (mine): “Yāvayaddveṣāḥ — she by whom dveṣas (‘hostile beings’), the rākṣasas and the rest, set apart from us, are driven off, yāvayanti: such is the meaning of the name. For when Uṣas is born the rākṣasas and the others do not remain, since they are night-wanderers. Ṛtapāḥ — the protectress of ṛta, truth, or of the sacrifice. Ṛtejā — born for the sake of the sacrifice: when Uṣas has come, in the day the sacrifices are performed; hence she is said to be born for sacrifice. Sumnāvarī — sumna is a name for happiness: she who has it. Sūnṛtāḥ — a name for speech: she stirs up, brings forth, the voices of animals and birds. Sumaṅgalīḥ — having auspiciousness; never separated from her husband, is the sense. Devavītim — the sacrifice that the gods desire, which she bibhratī, bears. O Uṣas, śreṣṭatamā, most praised, shine (vyuccha) here, in this place of the gods’ sacrifice, to-day, at this time of sacrifice — drive away [the darkness].”

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): yāvayaddveṣāḥ (yu with miśraṇāmiśraṇayoḥ, the ṇic causative; śatṛ; in the compound the accent of the first member by the bahuvrīhi rule, with the Vedic śatṛ shortening at the end of the first member); ṛtapāḥ (pā “to protect”, viṭ; ṛte “the ṛta”); ṛtejāḥ (jan “to be born”, viṭ — janasanakhanakramagamo viṭ, nasal dropped by vidyatoranunāsikasyātvam, locative in the compound by tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam, with aluk); sumnāvarī (sumna + vanip, in the Vedic by chandasīvanipāv…, the feminine ṅīp, n → r by the rephādeśa; lengthening seen in other words too); sumaṅgalīḥ

(sumaṅgalā in the gaurādi class, feminine in ṅīṣ by Pā. 4-1-41 as read [?]; the Vedic option of the ṅīṣ with the nominative plural; elision of the su; the visarga); devavītim (vī in the sense of "to go, to bear, to desire, to eat"; "devair vīyate kāmyata iti devavītiḥ"; ktin in the passive; the first member with first-member accent, as it begins with dā…).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"yāvayaddveṣāḥ — she who makes the rākṣasas fruitless, i.e. destroys them; ṛtapāḥ — she who guards truth and sacrifice; ṛtejāḥ — one born for sacrifices; sumnāvarī — she who is happy (who gives happiness) …

… sūnṛtāḥ — good words; īrayantī — (the animals and birds) producing [them] from themselves; sumaṅgalīḥ — endowed with auspiciousness; devavītim — the sacrifice that is desired by the gods; bibhratī — bearing; he uṣaḥ — O Uṣas, (goddess) (uṣo devate); śreṣṭatamā — (in the manner stated above) most excellent (you); iha — in this place of sacrifice; adya — now (at the sacrifice-time); vyuccha — shine."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"Uṣas is the destroyer of rākṣasas (the night-wanderers, the rākṣasas, do not remain after the light); she is born for the sake of sacrifices (people perform sacrifice and the like when the light has come); she brings it about that good sounds arise; she is auspicious (never separated from a husband), happy; the bearer of sacrifices desired by the gods; being in this way most excellent, may Uṣas rise now in our sacrificial hall."

English Translation (as printed)

> The beings hostile (to acts of devotion) now withdraw, for she is the protectress of sacred rites, who is manifested for their performance ; she is the giver of happiness, the awakener of pleasant voices, the enjoyer of felicity, and provider of food for the gods : most excellent Ushas, dawn to-day on this (sacrificial hall.)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

यावयद्द्वेषाः — Yāvayaddveṣāḥ — "yāvayanti asmattaḥ pṛthakkṛtāni dveṣāṃsi dveṣṭṛāṇi rākṣasādīni yayoṣā sā": "Uṣas, who sets apart by her own light those rākṣasas and others who hate men and harm them — [beings] that are moving about at night by nature — they are made to go away. As soon as Uṣas-time comes, the rākṣasas and others go away: this is the meaning."

ऋतपाः — Ṛtapāḥ — "ṛtasya satyasya yajñasya vā pālayitrī": "she protects truth and the sacrifice: this is the meaning. The word ṛta is read among the names of water (udakanāma) (Ni. 1-12 as read [?]). The Nirukta-writer gives an example, saying that the word ṛta denotes truth and also denotes the meaning 'sacrifice' —

Printed p. 59 (PDF 79; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3" [small numeral as printed])

(Special Topics of Ṛk 12, continued from p. 58 — the Nirukta-writer's examples for the word ṛta*:)*

> न यातव [?] इन्द्र जूजुवुर्नो न वन्दना शविष्ठ वेद्याभिः । स शर्धदर्यो विषुणस्य जन्तोर्मा शिश्नदेवा अपि गुर्ऋतं नः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ७-२१-५ [as read])
>
> na yātava [?] indra jūjuvurno na vandanā śaviṣṭha vedyābhiḥ | sa śardhadaryo viṣuṇasya jantormā śiśnadevā api gurṛtaṃ naḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 7-21-5 [as read])

"In this Ṛk the word ṛta conveys the meaning 'truth' or 'sacrifice'; he says 'satyaṃ vā yajñaṃ vā' (Ni. 4-18 as read [?])."

> तनूनपात्पथ ऋतस्य यानान्मध्वा समञ्जन्त्स्वदया सुजिह्व । मन्मानि धीभिरुत यज्ञमृन्धन्देवत्रा च कृणुह्यध्वरं नः ॥ (नि. ८-२ and ऋ. सं. १०-११०-२ [as read])
>
> tanūnapātpatha ṛtasya yānānmadhvā samañjantsvadayā sujihva | manmāni dhībhiruta yajñamṛndhandevatrā ca kṛṇuhyadhvaraṃ naḥ ‖ (ni. 8-2 and ṛ. saṃ. 10-110-2 [as read])

and in this Ṛk too —

> देवेभ्यो वनस्पते हवींषि हिरण्यपर्ण प्रतिवस्त्र अर्थम् [?] । प्रदक्षिणिद्नयया [?] नियूय ऋतस्य वक्षि पथिभी रजिष्ठैः ॥ (नि. ८-२० [as read])
>
> devebhyo vanaspate havīṃṣi hiraṇyaparṇa prativastra artham [?] | pradakṣiṇidranayayā [?] niyūya ṛtasya vakṣi pathibhī rajiṣṭhaiḥ ‖ (ni. 8-20 [as read])

— in this Ṛk too the word ṛta conveys 'sacrifice'.

ऋतेजाः — Ṛtejāḥ — "yajñārthaṃ prādurbhūtā": "those who perform sacrifice obtain Uṣas's rising only for the purpose of performing the sacrifice. Since, after Uṣas-time has arrived, the sacrifices are carried on in the day, it is said here that Uṣas rises for the purpose of sacrifice." Skandasvāmin:

> ऋतशब्दोऽत्र आदित्यवचनः । पञ्चम्याश्च स्थाने सप्तमी । आदित्याज्जनित्री ।
>
> ṛtaśabdo 'tra ādityavacanaḥ | pañcamyāśca sthāne saptamī | ādityājjanitrī |

"The word ṛta means 'Āditya'. Here the locative is used in place of the ablative (pañcamī); [the meaning is] 'one who is born of Āditya'." In the sense of the fifth case the seventh case is used: he explains that Uṣas is born from the Sun.

सुम्नावरी — Sumnāvarī — "sumnam iti sukhanāma | tadvatī": "sumnāvarī is stated among the sixteen names of Uṣas, 'vibhāvarī, sūnarī, bhāsvatī' (Ni. 3-19 as read [?]), so the sense is Uṣas. Since the word sumna is read among the twenty [as read] names of happiness, 'śaṃ…' (the first word of the list, as printed, is doubtful [?]) (Ni. 3-6 as read [?]), sumna means happiness. Skandasvāmin explains: 'prāṇināṃ sukhakarī' — Uṣas-time causes happiness to living beings."

Printed p. 60 (PDF 80; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

सूनृता ईरयन्ती — Sūnṛtā īrayantī — "vāṅnāmaitat": it means speech. "The word sūnṛtā is stated among the names of Uṣas (Ni. 3-19 as read [?]) and also among the names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]). But the Bhāṣyakāra explains that the word sūnṛta conveys the meaning ‘speech’, and says:

> सूनृता वाचः ईरयन्ती प्रेरयन्ती । उषा उदयोत्तरकालं हि प्राणिनां वचः प्रवर्तन्ते । अतः स्वैव ताः प्रेरयन्तीति व्यपदिश्यते ॥ [as read; the last word doubtful [?]]
>
> sūnṛtā vācaḥ īrayantī prerayantī | uṣā udayottarakālaṃ hi prāṇināṃ vacaḥ pravartante | ataḥ svaiva tāḥ prerayantīti vyapadiśyate ‖ [as read; the last word doubtful [?]]

— ‘since after the rising of Uṣas (so say they) animals and birds and beasts begin to make sounds, Uṣas is said to impel everyone to speak’.”

सुमङ्गलीः — Sumaṅgalīḥ — “suṣṭhu maṅgalopetā | patyā kadācid api na viyuktā”: “endowed with excellent auspiciousness. [The sense is that] Uṣas is always together with her husband, never separated.” Yāska:

> कनिक्रदज्जनुषं प्रब्रुवाण इयर्ति वाचमरितेव नावम् । सुमङ्गलश्च शकुने भवासि मा त्वा का चिदभिभा विश्म्या विदत् ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-४३-२ [as read])
>
> kanikradajjanuṣaṃ prabruvāṇa iyarti vācamariteva nāvam | sumaṅgalaśca śakune bhavāsi mā tvā kā cidabhibhā viśvyā vidat ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 2-43-2 [as read])

— quoting this Ṛk as an example, in explaining the meaning of the word maṅgala (Ni. 6-9 as read [?]):

> सुमङ्गलश्च शकुने भवासि । भवेत्कल्याणमङ्गलः । मङ्गलं गिरतेर्गृणात्यर्थे । गिरत्यर्थानिति वा । अङ्गमङ्गवत् [?] । मज्जयति पापकमिति नैरुक्ताः । मां गच्छन्तीति वा । मा च त्वा काचिदभिभूता सर्वतो विदत् ॥
>
> sumaṅgalaśca śakune bhavāsi | bhavetkalyāṇamaṅgalaḥ | maṅgalaṃ giratergṛṇātyarthe | giratyarthāniti vā | aṅgamaṅgavat [?] | majjayati pāpakamiti nairuktāḥ | māṃ gacchantīti vā | mā ca tvā kācidabhibhūtā sarvato vidat ‖

“Having explained for the word sumaṅgala the meaning ‘auspicious’ (kalyāṇa), [he says] the word maṅgala ‘swallows’ (girati) anarthān, ‘evils’, i.e. destroys troubles. The Nirukta-writers say it ‘plunges’ (majjayati), i.e. destroys, sin. Or because it is for ever coming to me (māṃ gacchanti), or because no harm may ever overcome thee — so this word has the name maṅgala.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 12; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page, begun: yāvayaddveṣāḥ (yu “to mix, to separate”, adādi; ṇic by hetumati ca; vṛddhi of u by āto ’ñjñiti[?]; āv substitution; then śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap; the guṇa and ay for the ṇic; the vowel by ato guṇe — pararūpa; giving yāvayat; the Vedic chandasy ubhayathā, in which the śatṛ ending is also ārdhadhātuka …). (Continues on the next page.)

Printed p. 61 (PDF 81; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

Grammar page of Ṛk 12, continued (noted briefly): yāvayaddveṣāḥ — the personal-ending being accented, the śap keeps its accent by sati śiṣṭasvaraḥ balīyaḥ; the first-member accent in the bahuvrīhi by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam; the Vedic shortening yāvayat-dveṣāḥ at the end of the first member; ṛtapāḥ (pā “to protect”, adādi; viṭ by ato maninkvanibvanipaś ca, the c serving to continue the viṭ; ending in ā; nominative singular); ṛtejāḥ (jan “to be born”, viṭ by janasanakhanakramagamo viṭ; ā for the final n by vidyatoranunāsikasyātvam; the locative compound with aluk by tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam; the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt); sumnāvarī (sumnaṃ sukhaṃ asyā asti; vanip by the statement chandasīvanipaś ca; the stem sumnāvan; feminine ṅīp by vano re; n → r by rephādeśa; lengthening by anyeṣām api dṛśyate; the accent from the suffix, being pit); īrayantī (īr “to go, to move”, curādi ṇic; śatṛ; feminine ṅīp by ugitaś ca; ṇic accent); sumaṅgalīḥ (sumaṅgalā in the gaurādi class as a name, hence ṅīṣ; the elision of the su is not prevented, by the statement “sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante”; s → ru; visarga by kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ).

Printed p. 62 (PDF 82; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

Grammar page, concluded: devavītim (vī “to go, to bring forth, to desire, to eat, to throw”; “devair vīyate kāmyate iti devavītiḥ” — the sacrifice; ktin in the passive by striyāṃ ktin, which is kit, so there is no guṇa; the first-member accent by the dāsībhārādi group). ‖ 12 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 13

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.13)

शश्वत्पुरोषा व्युवास देव्यथो अद्येदं व्यावो मघोनी । अथो व्युच्छादुत्तराँ अनु द्यूनजरामृता चरति स्वधाभिः ॥ १३ ॥

śaśvatpuroṣā vyuvāsa devyatho adyedaṃ vyāvo maghonī | atho vyucchāduttarā~ anu dyūnajarāmṛtā carati svadhābhiḥ ‖ 13 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.13)

शश्वत् । पुरा । उषाः । वि । उवास । देवी । अथो इति । अद्य । इदम् । वि । आवः । मघोनी । अथो इति । वि । उच्छात् । उत्ऽतरान् । अनु । द्यून् । अजरा । अमृता । चरति । स्वधाभिः ॥ १३ ॥

śaśvat | purā | uṣāḥ | vi | uvāsa | devī | atho iti | adya | idam | vi | āvaḥ | maghonī | atho iti | vi | ucchāt | ut ’tarān | anu | dyūn | ajarā | amṛtā | carati | svadhābhiḥ ‖ 13 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā’s śaśvat-puroṣā is the Pada’s śaśvat | purā | uṣāḥ*; the Saṃhitā’s* vyāvo is the Pada’s vi | āvaḥ*; the Saṃhitā’s* vyucchād uttarāṃ is the Pada’s vi | ucchāt | ut-tarān*.)*

Printed p. 63 (PDF 83; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.13)

देवी देवनशीलोषाः पुरा पूर्वस्मिन्काले शश्वन्नित्यं सन्ततं व्युवास व्युष्टवती । अथो अनन्तरमद्यास्मिन्काले मघोनी धनवत्युषाः तमसा तिरोहितमिदं सर्वं जगद् व्यावः [?] विवासितं प्रकाशेन तमसा वियुक्तमकरोत् । अथो अनन्तरमुत्तरानूर्ध्वतरानाविनो [?] द्यून् दिवसाननुलक्ष्यागामिन्यास्तु दिवसेषु व्युच्छात् व्युच्छति विवासयति । अतः कालत्रयव्यापिनी सोषा अजरा जरारहिता सर्वदैकरूपाऽमृता मरणरहिता च सती स्वधाभिरात्मीयैस्तेजोभिः सह चरति वर्तते ॥ [several words are small and doubtful [?]]

devī devanaśīloṣāḥ purā pūrvasminkāle śaśvannityaṃ santataṃ vyuvāsa vyuṣṭavatī | atho anantaramadyāsminkāle maghonī dhanavatyuṣāḥ tamasā tirohitamidaṃ sarvaṃ jagad vyāvaḥ [?] vivāsitaṃ prakāśena tamasā viyuktamakarot | atho anantaramuttarānūrdhvatarānāvino [?] dyūn divasānanulakṣyāgāminyāstu divaseṣu vyucchāt vyucchati vivāsayati | ataḥ kālatrayavyāpinī soṣā ajarā jarārahitā sarvadaikarūpā 'mṛtā maraṇarahitā ca satī svadhābhirātmīyaistejobhiḥ saha carati vartate ‖ [several words are small and doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Devī — Uṣas, of shining nature (devana); purā, in the past, śaśvat, constantly, vyuvāsa, shone forth. And now, adya, at this time, maghonī, the wealthy Uṣas, vyāvaḥ — has made all this world hidden by darkness free from darkness by light. And then, after this, in the coming days, the uttarān dyūn, she will vyucchāt, shine forth. Hence, that Uṣas, pervading the three times, ajarā, without old age, always of one form, amṛtā, without death, goes on, carati, together with her own splendours (svadhābhiḥ)."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): uvāsa (vas "to dwell"; in the liṭ the reduplication takes saṃprasāraṇa by liṭy abhyāsasyobhayeṣām); āvaḥ (from the same root vṛ in the aorist, the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; the s elided by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ; the augment by chandasy api dṛśyate); ucchāt (leṭ with the augment aṭ); uttarān (the n becomes ru by dīrghād aṭi samānapāde; the nasalized ā by ato 'ṭi nityam); anu (a karmapravacanīya by anur lakṣaṇe, Pā. 1-4-84 as read [?]); ajarā, amṛtā (nañ-bahuvrīhi; the later member's first-syllable accent by ña-jara-mara-mitra-mṛtāḥ).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"devī uṣāḥ — goddess Uṣas; purā — in former times; śaśvat — continuously; vyuvāsa — rose; atho — after that; adya — now (at the present time); maghonī — Uṣas who has wealth; idam — this whole world (hidden by darkness); vyāvaḥ — made uncovered; atho — afterwards; uttarān — the coming; dyūn — days; anu vyucchāt — will make light; ajarā — therefore, without old age; amṛtā — immortal (Uṣas); svadhābhiḥ — with her own splendours; carati — goes about."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The goddess Uṣas rose every day in former times; the goddess, who is the support of wealth, is rising now in this world also; in the future, in the days to come, she will also give light; the ageless, deathless Uṣas goes about, endowed with splendour."

Printed p. 64 (PDF 84; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

English Translation (as printed)

The divine Ushas dawned continually in former times ; the source of wealth, she still rises on this (world) ; so will she give light hereafter, through future days, for, exempt from decay or death, she goes on in her splendour.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

देवी उषाः — Devī uṣāḥ — "devanaśīlā": "she who has by nature luminosity; that is, the goddess Uṣas who shines — this is the meaning. The Nirukta-writer:

> उषाः कस्मादुच्छतीति सत्या रात्रेरपरः कालः । (नि. २-१८ [as read])
>
> uṣāḥ kasmāducchatīti satyā rātreraparaḥ kālaḥ | (ni. 2-18 [as read])

"From the root uchī with the meaning 'to drive away' he shows the sense that 'she (ucchati) drives away the darkness'. This explains the derivation of the word uṣas: the last part of the night is called Uṣas-time in usage," he says. "With regard to the matter that this Uṣas, having risen, passes away in order, he cites some Ṛks as examples —

> अपोषा अनसः सरत्संपिष्टादह बिभ्युषी । नि यत्सीं शिश्नथद्वृषा ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-३०-१० [as read])
>
> apoṣā anasaḥ saratsaṃpiṣṭādaha bibhyuṣī | ni yatsīṃ śiśnathadvṛṣā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 4-30-10 [as read])

in this Ṛk [the Nirukta explains] 'apāsarad uṣā anasaḥ saṃpiṣṭān meghāt bibhyuṣī' (Ni. 11-48 as read [?]): "Seeing the clouds driven by the wind, afraid of the wind, which will drive her too, Uṣas-time herself (hiding her own form) went away" — so it is described here.

> एतदस्या अनः शये सुसंपिष्टं विपाश्या । ससार सीं परावतः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-३०-११ [as read])
>
> etadasyā anaḥ śaye susaṃpiṣṭaṃ vipāśyā | sasāra sīṃ parāvataḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 4-30-11 [as read])

'etad asyā anaḥ āśete vimuktaṃ pāśi sasāroṣāḥ parāvataḥ preritavataḥ parāgatād vā' (Ni. 11-49 as read [?]): in this statement, which says, looking at the clouds changed into the form of water (the sense of udakabhāva), the chariot of Uṣas, being sheltered by the cloud, here is described as having loose joints [?] from the speed of the wind; from which it is to be understood that Uṣas is a deity of the middle region (madhyasthāna)."

उषाः — Uṣāḥ:

> उषाः । उषा वस्तेः कान्तिकर्मणः उच्छतेरितरा माध्यमिका ॥ [Yāska; first words as read]
>
> uṣāḥ | uṣā vasteḥ kāntikarmaṇaḥ ucchateritarā mādhyamikā ‖ [Yāska; first words as read]

"From the root vaś ('to desire, to shine') comes the form of the word uṣas in the sense 'lustrous'. Or from the root uchī 'to drive away' arises the form of the word uṣas. It means that Uṣas pours out the waters (udaka) that are in the clouds; or he gives the alternative meaning that she [Uṣas] makes the clouds stand in the middle (region). And from this it follows that Uṣas is a deity of the sky-region (dyusthāna) because of her lustrous form — and another [Uṣas] too. There is a doubt here. Yāska says (as the Kannada has it):

> यद्योक्तं [?] — तद्वा इदं विकल्पेन द्युस्थानायोः [?] यो पुनरितरा माध्यमिका उषाः न तस्याः विकल्पः किं तर्हि उच्छतेरेव सा विवासनार्थस्य विवासयति उदकानि विवास्यते वा मेघो मध्यमेनेति [?] (नि.१२-८ [as read])
>
> yadyoktaṃ [?] — tadvā idaṃ vikalpena dyusthānāyoḥ [?] yo punaritarā mādhyamikā uṣāḥ na tasyāḥ vikalpaḥ kiṃ tarhi ucchatereva sā vivāsanārthasya vivāsayati udakāni vivāsyate vā megho madhyameneti [?] (ni. 12-8 [as read])

[The Nirukta clause is read letter by letter from the print and is doubtful [?]; the Kannada gives its sense:] "From the root uchī, whose sense is 'to drive away', the Uṣas known through the word — she is in the middle region (atmosphere), pouring the waters that are in the clouds: she shines in the form of a deity, which is the alternative [that Yāska offers]."

> उषस्तच्चित्रमा भरास्मभ्यं वाजिनीवति । येन तोकं च तनयं च धामहे ॥ (ऋ. सं.१-९२-१३ [as read])
>
> uṣastaccitramā bharāsmabhyaṃ vājinīvati | yena tokaṃ ca tanayaṃ ca dhāmahe ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-92-13 [as read])

"In this Ṛk a prayer is made that wealth, cattle, sons, etc., that is common to both (kinds of Uṣas), be bestowed.

> एता उ त्या उषसः केतुमक्रत पूर्वे अर्धे रजसो भानुमञ्जते । निष्कृण्वाना आयुधानीव धृष्णवः प्रति गावोऽरुषीर्यन्ति मातरः ॥ (ऋ. सं.१-९२-१ [as read])
>
> etā u tyā uṣasaḥ ketumakrata pūrve ardhe rajaso bhānumañjate | niṣkṛṇvānā āyudhānīva dhṛṣṇavaḥ prati gāvo 'ruṣīryanti mātaraḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-92-1 [as read])

In this Ṛk it is said 'pūrve arddhe antarikṣalokasya': pūrvārdha means the atmospheric world; they explain that ketu here, for the word ketu, means 'knowledge', and for gāvaḥ 'rays': this Uṣas goddess, who shines by the Sun, performs two kinds of functions by two forms — thus he explains."

स्वधाभिः — Svadhābhiḥ — "ātmīyais tejobhiḥ": "by her own splendours. The word svadhā is read among the twenty-eight [as read] names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]) and among the hundred-and-one names of water (Ni. 1-12 as read [?]); but here both Sāyaṇa and Skandasvāmin explain the meaning as 'splendour'."

मघोनी उषाः — Maghonī uṣāḥ — "(dhanavatī)": "these words are not stated in the Nirukta among the words for Uṣas, but are used here in the meaning 'Uṣas'."

Printed p. 66 (PDF 86; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

द्यून् — Dyūn — "divasān", days. The Nirukta-writer:

> द्युरित्यह्नो नामधेयं द्योतते इति सतः [?] । (नि.१-९ [as read])

dyurityahno nāmadheyaṃ dyotate iti sataḥ [?] | (ni. 1-9 [as read])

"Because the word dyu has the meaning 'lustrous', it denotes the meaning 'day'; because the word dyu is stated among the twelve names of day (ahar) (Ni. 3-9 as read [?]), the meaning is 'day'; and he explains in the Ṛk

त्वमग्ने द्युभिस्त्वमाशुशुक्षणिस्त्वमद्भ्यस्त्वमश्मनस्परि । त्वं वनेभ्यस्त्वमोषधीभ्यस्त्वं नृणां नृपते जायसे शुचिः ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-१-१)

tvamagne dyubhistvamāśuśukṣaṇistvamadbhyastvamaśmanaspari | tvaṃ vanebhyastvamoṣadhībhyastvaṃ nṛṇāṃ nṛpate jāyase śuciḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 2-1-1)

[the word] dyubhiḥ as ahobhiḥ (Ni. 6-1 as read [?])."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 13; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on uvāsa (vas "to dwell", liṭ 3rd singular; ṇal for tip by parasmaipadānāṃ ṇalatusus…; with the liṭ ending kit-like, doubling of the root; the reduplication by ādir hal-śeṣaḥ; saṃprasāraṇa by liṭy abhyāsasyobhayeṣām; pūrvarūpa by saṃprasāraṇāc ca; vṛddhi of the penultimate by ata upadhāyāḥ; nighāta), āvaḥ (vas "to dwell"! as printed here; aorist 3rd singular tip; elision of the i by itaś ca; the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; elision of tip after the consonant by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ…; the augment by chandasy api dṛśyate; s → ru → visarga; nighāta), ucchāt (uchī "to dispel", leṭ 3rd singular tip; itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu; the augment aṭ by leṭo 'ḍāṭau; nighāta), uttarān (in the comparative sense tarap by dvivacanavibhajyopapade tarabīyasunau; pit, hence unaccented; plural; with anu following, n becomes ru by dīrghād aṭi samānapāde, the preceding a becomes nasal by ato 'ṭi nityam). (Printed "vas nivāse" under āvaḥ as in the print — probably for vṛ*, as the bhāṣya says; noted as printed [?].)*

Printed p. 67 (PDF 87; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3" [small numeral as printed])

Grammar page of Ṛk 13, concluded (noted briefly): anu (a karmapravacanīya by anur lakṣaṇe, Pā. 1-4-84 as read [?]; the second case governed by it by karmapravacanīyayukte dvitīyā, Pā. 2-3-8 as read [?], hence uttarān dyūn); ajarā (na vidyate jarā yasyāḥ sā; so too amṛtā, a nañ-bahuvrīhi; the bahuvrīhi accent is set aside by ña-jara-mara-mitra-mṛtāḥ, Pā. 6-2-116 as read [?], leaving the later member's first-syllable accent); carati (car "to move, to eat", laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta accent after an accented word). ‖ 13 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 14

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.14)

व्यञ्जिभिर्दिव आतास्वद्यौदप कृष्णां निर्णिजं देव्यावः । प्रबोधयन्त्यरुणेभिरश्वैरोषा याति सुयुजा रथेन ॥ १४ ॥ [first word: the print has "vya-" with a damaged second letter; read vyañjibhir [?]]

vyañjibhirdiva ātāsvadyaudapa kṛṣṇāṃ nirṇijaṃ devyāvaḥ |
prabodhayantyaruṇebhiraśvairoṣā yāti suyujā rathena ‖ 14 ‖ [first word: the print has “vya-” with a damaged second letter; read vyañjibhir [?]]

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.14)

वि । अञ्जिऽभिः । दिवः । आतासु । अद्यौत् । अप । कृष्णाम् । निःऽनिजम् । देवी । आवरित्यावः । प्रऽबोधयन्ती । अरुणेभिः । अश्वैः । आ । उषाः । याति । सुऽयुजा । रथेन ॥ १४ ॥

vi | añji ’bhiḥ | divaḥ | ātāsu | adyaut | apa | kṛṣṇām | niḥ ’nijam | devī | āvarityāvaḥ | pra ’bodhayantī | aruṇebhiḥ | aśvaiḥ | ā | uṣāḥ | yāti | su ’yujā | rathena ‖ 14 ‖

Printed p. 68 (PDF 88; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.14)

दिवो नभसः सम्बन्धिनीष्वातासु । दिक्प्रभेदे [?] । आतासु विस्तीर्णासु दिक्ष्वुषा अञ्जिभिर्व्यक्तैः प्रकाशकैस्तेजोभिर्व्यद्यौत् विद्योतते । प्रकाशते । सैषा देवी देवनशीला कृष्णां निर्णिजं निर्णिगिति रूपनाम । रात्रिकृतं कृष्णं रूपमपावृणोत् । प्रकाशेन तिरस्कृतवती । अपि चारुणेभिररुणवर्णैर्लोहितैर्वर्णैरश्वैर्वा वर्णपनशीलैः [?] स्वकीयैः किरणैस्तुरगैर्वा सुयुजा सम्यग्युक्तेन रथेनोषा आ याति । आगच्छति । किं कुर्वती । प्रबोधयन्ती सुप्तान्प्राणिनः प्रबुद्धान्कुर्वती ॥

divo nabhasaḥ sambandhinīṣvātāsu | dikprabhede [?] | ātāsu vistīrṇāsu dikṣvuṣā añjibhirvyaktaiḥ prakāśakaistejobhirvyadyaut vidyotate | prakāśate | saiṣā devī devanaśīlā kṛṣṇāṃ nirṇijaṃ nirṇigiti rūpanāma | rātrikṛtaṃ kṛṣṇaṃ rūpamapāvṛṇot | prakāśena tiraskṛtavatī | api cāruṇebhiraruṇavarṇairlohitairvarṇairaśvairvā varṇapanaśīlaiḥ [?] svakīyaiḥ kiraṇaisturagairvā suyujā samyagyuktena rathenoṣā ā yāti | āgacchati | kiṃ kurvatī | prabodhayantī suptānprāṇinaḥ prabuddhānkurvatī ‖

Sense (mine): “In the ātāsu, the wide regions, of the sky (divaḥ, nabhasaḥ): Uṣas vyadyaut — shines forth, by her añjibhiḥ, her manifest, illuminating splendours, in the widely spread quarters. This goddess (devī, of shining nature) apāvṛṇot — has removed the dark nirṇij, ‘form’ (nirṇik is a name for form) made by night: she has overpowered it with light. And Uṣas comes (ā yāti) with a well-yoked chariot, with red (aruṇebhiḥ) horses — or with her own red rays, as it were horses. What does she do? Prabodhayantī, she wakes up the sleeping beings.”

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): adyaut (dyut “to shine”, aorist luṅ; the parasmaipada by the Pā. rule on dyutādibhyaḥ luṅi, 1-3-91 as read [?]; the cli elided by the Vedic usage; guṇa, or vṛddhi of the u …; or from dyai “to approach”… [as printed: yadvā dyai abhigamane, adādikaḥ…]).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“(uṣasu) divaḥ — of the atmosphere; ātāsu — in the quarters; añjibhiḥ — with illuminating splendour; vi adyaut — shines; devī — the luminous Uṣas; kṛṣṇāṃ nirṇijam — the black form (darkness); apa āvaḥ — has put away; aruṇebhiḥ — red-coloured; aśvaiḥ — with pervading rays (horses); suyujā — well yoked; rathena — by the chariot; prabodhayantī — rousing (the sleeping beings); ā yāti — comes.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"Uṣas shines forth, by her rays, in the various regions of the atmosphere; the luminous one puts away the black form (darkness) which belongs to the night. She rouses the sleeping creatures, coming in a chariot yoked with red horses."

English Translation (as printed)

> The divine Ushas lights up with her beams the quarters of the heavens ; she has thrown off her gloomy form, and awaking (those who sleep), comes in her car, drawn by purple steeds.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

आतासु — Ātāsu — "ātetāsu vistīrṇāsu dikṣu": "ātāḥ, āśāḥ, uparāḥ — among the eight names of the quarters (dik), since the word āśā is stated (Ni. 1-19 as read [?]), the meaning is 'quarters'."

Printed p. 69 (PDF 89; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3" [small numeral as printed]) [Special Topics of Ṛk 14, continued]

निर्णिजम् — Nirṇijam — "rūpam": "nirṇik is read among the sixteen names of form (rūpa) (Ni. 3-13 as read [?]); so the meaning is 'form'."

अरुणेभिः अश्वैः — Aruṇebhiḥ aśvaiḥ — "aruṇaiḥ lohitavarṇaiḥ vyāpanaśīlaiḥ svakīyaiḥ kiraṇaiḥ turagair vā": "by her own rays, which are red-coloured and have a pervading nature, or by horses: this is the meaning. 'The red cows (gāvaḥ) of Uṣas' (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]): Yāska says that the red-coloured cows or rays are the vehicle of Uṣas. The idea is that the goddess Uṣas, pervading the atmosphere by her light, spreading in all the quarters, destroying the black form of the world that belongs to the night, comes shining in a chariot to which her red-coloured horses are yoked, or which is joined with red rays."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 14; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on añjibhiḥ (añjū "to anoint, to shine, to go"; the suffix i by the ṇādika [Uṇādi] rule; accent from the suffix; instrumental plural), divaḥ (accent of the ending by ūḍidaṃpadādi…), adyaut (dyut "to shine"; a root of the ātmanepada class, but by dyudbhyo luṅi, Pā. 1-3-91 as read [?], the parasmaipada in the aorist only; cli by cli luṅi; the cli elided by vyatyayo bahulam; elision of the i of tip by itaś ca; guṇa by sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ is applicable, but in the Veda vṛddhi arises; or from dyai "to approach", adādi; luṅ 3rd singular tip; aṭ; elision of śap by adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; vṛddhi by ukto vṛddhir luki hali; the augment aṭ: adyaut; nighāta), prabodhayantī (budh "to know", causative since it is the instigator's action; ṇic; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap; guṇa and ayādeśa for the ṇic; the accent of the personal-ending by tāsyanudāttet…, so the ṇic accent remains; in the compound the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt; feminine ṅīp by ugitaś ca).

Printed p. 70 (PDF 90; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

Grammar page, concluded: aruṇebhiḥ (aruṇa + bhis, with aisbhāva optional by bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 7-1-10 as read [?], hence not applied here; et for the a before a plural jhal ending by bahuvacane jhalyet), yāti (yā “to go”, laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta after an accented word), suyujā (yujir “to join”; because it belongs to the sampadādi group, kvip in the abstract; the stem suyuj; instrumental singular; the accent on the last syllable by nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?]). ‖ 14 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 15

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.15)

आवह्न्ती पोष्या वार्याणि चित्रं केतुं कृणुते चेकिताना । ईयुषीणामुपमा शश्वतीनां विभातीनां प्रथमोषा व्यश्वैत् ॥ १५ ॥

āvahantī poṣyā vāryāṇi citraṃ ketuṃ kṛṇute cekitānā | īyuṣīṇāmupamā śaśvatīnāṃ vibhātīnāṃ prathamoṣā vyaśvait ‖ 15 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.15)

आऽवह्न्ती । पोष्या । वार्याणि । चित्रम् । केतुम् । कृणुते । चेकिताना । ईयुषीणाम् । उपऽमा । शश्वतीनाम् । विऽभातीनाम् । प्रथमा । उषाः । वि । अश्वैत् ॥ १५ ॥

ā ’vahantī | poṣyā | vāryāṇi | citram | ketum | kṛṇute | cekitānā | īyuṣīṇām | upa ’mā | śaśvatīnām | vi ’bhātīnām | prathamā | uṣāḥ | vi | aśvait ‖ 15 ‖

Printed p. 71 (PDF 91; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 3” [small numeral as printed])

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.15)

देवानां हविष्मावह्न्तीत्येषोषसो याज्या । सूत्रितं च । आ द्यां तनोषि रश्मिभिरावह्न्ती पोष्या वार्याणि । न ता अर्वा रेणुककाटो अश्नुते [?] । आश्व. ६-१४ [?] । इति ॥ पोष्या यावज्जीवं पोषणसमर्थानि वार्याणि वरणीयानि धनान्यावह्न्ती सर्वं जनं प्रज्ञापयन्ती चेकिताना चित्रं विचित्रमाश्चर्यभूतं चायनीयं वा केतुं प्रज्ञापकं रश्मिं कृत्स्नजगत्प्रकाशनसमर्थं कृणुते स्वात्मनः प्रकाशं करोति । सैषेयुषीणां गमनवतीनां पूर्वमुत्पन्नानां शश्वतीनां बह्वीनामुषसामुपमा उप समीपे निर्मितोपमानभूता वा विभातीनां विशेषेण प्रकाशमानानामागामिनीनामुषसां प्रथमाद्या एवंभूतोषा व्यश्वैत् तेजसा प्रवृद्धासीत् ॥ [the sūtra quotation is small and partly doubtful [?]]

devānāṃ haviṣmāvahantītyeṣoṣaso yājyā | sūtritaṃ ca | ā dyāṃ tanoṣi raśmibhirāvahantī poṣyā vāryāṇi | na tā arvā reṇukakāṭo aśnute [?] | āśva. 6-14 [?] | iti ‖ poṣyā yāvajjīvaṃ poṣaṇasamarthāni vāryāṇi varaṇīyāni dhanānyāvahantī sarvaṃ janaṃ prajñāpayantī cekitānā citraṃ vicitramāścaryabhūtaṃ cāyanīyaṃ vā ketuṃ prajñāpakaṃ raśmiṃ kṛtsnajagatprakāśanasamarthaṃ kṛṇute svātmanaḥ prakāśaṃ karoti | saiṣeyuṣīṇāṃ gamanavatīnāṃ pūrvamutpannānāṃ śaśvatīnāṃ bahvīnāmuṣasāmupamā upa samīpe nirmitopamānabhūtā vā vibhātīnāṃ viśeṣeṇa prakāśamānānāmāgāminīnāmuṣasāṃ prathamādyā evaṃbhūtoṣā vyaśvait tejasā pravṛddhāsīt ‖ [the sūtra quotation is small and partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "'This āvahantī (Ṛk) is the yājyā of Uṣas, [offered] to the gods with the oblation'; and it is stated in the Sūtra — 'ā dyāṃ tanoṣi raśmibhiḥ āvahantī poṣyā vāryāṇi …' (Āśv. 6-14 as read [?]). Poṣyā — bringing for as long as life lasts desirable (vāryāṇi) riches that are able to nourish; making all people know (cekitānā); she makes (kṛṇute), for herself, a wonderful (citra) — or worthy-to-be-gathered — ketu, i.e. a ray that makes known, able to illumine the whole world. This Uṣas is the upamā of the many (śaśvatīnām) Uṣases that have gone, formerly born (īyuṣīṇām), or the pattern placed beside them; and prathamā, the first, of the Uṣases yet to come, shining specially (vibhātīnām); such Uṣas vyaśvait — has grown, by splendour, increased."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): poṣyā (puṣ "to nourish"; the suffix yat in the sense of the instrument or the object, with poṣaṇa; the accent on the first syllable by yato 'nāvaḥ; elision by śeś chandasi bahulam); vāryāṇi (vṛ "to choose", ṇyat by ṛhaloṇyat; the accent of ṇyat — ūḍavaravraṃsaṃsudaṃ hāṃ nyat… [as printed: iḍavaravṛtsaṃśaṃsu… [?]]); cekitānā (cit "to know", laṭ of the śānac, here in the Vedic liṭ; the elision of at by the chandasi… ; the accent of reduplication by abhyastānām ādiḥ); īyuṣīṇām (iṇ "to go"; kvasu; ṅīp by ugitaś ca; vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam; iṇo yaṇ…; the lengthening of the reduplication by dīrgha iṇaḥ kiti; ṣatva by śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca; ṅīp is pit hence unaccented); vibhātīnām (bhā "to shine", śatṛ; the ṅīp with ugitaś ca; ām with the accent jyāṃ chandasi bahulam); vyaśvait (śvit/śvi "to grow" [as printed: ṭuoś śvi gatiḥ vṛddhyoḥ], luṅ; elision of cli by bahulaṃ chandasīti vikaraṇasya luk; guṇa; the vṛddhi by vyatyaya).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"poṣyā — nourishing; vāryāṇi — desirable riches; āvahantī — bringing; cekitānā — giving knowledge (to the ignorant); uṣāḥ — Uṣas (the goddess Uṣas); citram — wonderful; ketum — a ray that makes known; kṛṇute — makes; īyuṣīṇām — of the Uṣases that have gone before; śaśvatīnām — of the many; upamā — resembling; vibhātīnām — of the specially shining (Uṣases to come); prathamā — the first (to come); vyaśvait — has now risen, endowed with light."

Printed p. 72 (PDF 92; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"(With her) she brings things that support life; (to those who are asleep, unconscious) she is the giver of knowledge; that Uṣas puts forth a wonderful light. Like the many past Uṣases, and first for those Uṣases to come that will shine — she is now shining."

English Translation (as printed)

> Bringing with her life-sustaining blessings, and giving consciousness (to the unconscious), she imparts (to the world) her wonderful radiance. The similitude of the numerous dawns that have gone by, the first of the brilliant (dawns that are to come), Ushas has to-day appeared.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

केतुं कृणुते — Ketuṃ kṛṇute — "prajñāpakaṃ raśmim": "Sāyaṇa explains: 'a ray that makes the whole world knowing'. The Nirukta-writer, saying that the word ketu has the meanings 'knowledge', 'work' and 'ray', gives examples. 'ketaḥ, ketuḥ, cetaḥ' — among the eleven names of knowledge (prajñā) the word ketu is stated; hence the meaning 'knowledge':

> नवोनवो भवति जायमानोऽह्नां केतुरुषसामेत्यग्रम् । भागं देवेभ्यो वि दधात्यायन्प्र चन्द्रमास्तिरते दीर्घमायुः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-८५-१९ [as read])
>
> navonavo bhavati jāyamāno 'hnāṃ keturuṣasāmetyagram | bhāgaṃ devebhyo vi dadhātyāyanpra candramāstirate dīrghamāyuḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-85-19 [as read])

In 'ahnāṃ keturuṣasām etyagram' it is explained that 'ketu' is 'ahnaḥ kartā sūryaḥ' (the maker of the day, the Sun): so the word ketu signifies the meaning of 'doer of the action' (karma-kartṛ).

> एता उ त्या उषसः केतुमक्रत पूर्वे अर्धे रजसो भानुमञ्जते । (ऋ. सं. १-९२-१ [as read])
>
> etā u tyā uṣasaḥ ketumakrata pūrve ardhe rajaso bhānumañjate | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-92-1 [as read])

In this Ṛk the word ketu is used in the sense of knowledge.

> उदु त्यं जातवेदसं देवं वहन्ति केतवः । दृशे विश्वाय सूर्यम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-५०-१ [as read])
>
> udu tyaṃ jātavedasaṃ devaṃ vahanti ketavaḥ | dṛśe viśvāya sūryam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-50-1 [as read])

"Here ketavaḥ is explained as 'raśmayaḥ', rays; the word ketu has the meaning 'ray'. Uṣas, rousing the whole world, or giving knowledge, reveals her own rays and illumines the world."

चित्रम् — Citram — "vicitram āścaryabhūtaṃ cāyanīyaṃ vā": "The word citra is that which causes wonder; or the meaning is 'worthy of honour':

> उषस्तच्चित्रमा भरास्मभ्यं वाजिनीवति । येन तोकं च तनयं च धामहे ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-९२-१३ [as read])
>
> uṣastaccitramā bharāsmabhyaṃ vājinīvati | yena tokaṃ ca tanayaṃ ca dhāmahe ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-92-13 [as read])
>
> चित्रं देवानामुदगादनीकं चक्षुर्मित्रस्य वरुणस्याग्नेः । आप्रा द्यावापृथिवी अन्तरिक्षं सूर्य आत्मा जगतस्तस्थुषश्च ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११५-१)
>
> citraṃ devānāmudagādanīkaṃ cakṣurmitrasya varuṇasyāgneḥ | āprā dyāvāpṛthivī antarikṣaṃ sūrya ātmā jagatastasthuṣaśca ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-115-1)

— in these Ṛks the word citra is used in the sense 'worshipful (pūjya)'."

ईयुषीणामुपमा शश्वतीनाम् — Īyuṣīṇām upamā śaśvatīnām — "śaśvad iti bahunāma | gatvarīṇāṃ bahvīnāṃ madhye upamānabhūtā | atyantotkṛṣṭety arthaḥ" ("śaśvat is a name meaning 'many'; the 'gone', among the many, being the model; 'exceedingly excellent' is the meaning"). "The word śaśvat conveys the sense 'many'. For the many past Uṣases, this Uṣas of the present time is the upamāna (the standard of comparison); that is, the thing that gives the comparison is always of greater qualities. In the present case, as the Uṣas of the present time is compared with Uṣas, the superiority in light and the rest is in the Uṣas that is the standard of comparison, it is understood. Past Uṣas-times too shone just as the present does; the coming Uṣas-times will also be so: this is the main purport."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 15; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on āvahantī (vah "to carry"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; ṅīp in the feminine; the root accent remains since the sārvadhātuka is unaccented; in the compound the first-member accent by kṛduttarapadaprakṛtisvaratva), poṣyā (puṣ "to nourish"; poṣaṇam = poṣaḥ; ghañ in the abstract sense; guṇa of the penultimate by pugantalaghūpadhasya ca; yat in the Veda by bhave chandasi, Pā. 4-4-110 as read [?]; elision of a by yasya iti ca; the accent by yato 'nāvaḥ; the neuter plural śi replaced, with elision by śeś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-1-70 as read [?]).

Printed p. 74 (PDF 94; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

Grammar page, continued: vāryāṇi (vṛñ "to choose"; ṇyat by ṛhaloṇyat; being ṇit, vṛddhi of the vowel by aco 'ñṇiti; raparatva by uraṇ raparaḥ; the tit svarita is prevailed over by iḍavaravraṃsaṃsu… [as printed] giving first-syllable accent, Pā. 6-1-?? [?]; neuter accusative plural); kṛṇute (kṛvi "to injure, to do"; the num augment by idito num dhātoḥ; u by dhinvikṛṇvor a ca; the a is the final substitute; laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta by tiṅ atiṅaḥ…); īyuṣīṇām (iṇ "to go", adādi; kvasu by bhāṣāyāṃ sad-vasa-śrava… [Pā. 3-2-107 as read [?]]; doubling; in the feminine ṅīp by ugitaś ca; bha-designation as ajādi suffix follows; vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam — vas → uṣ; saṃprasāraṇāc ca — pūrvarūpa; iṇo yaṇ; the reduplication lengthened by dīrgha iṇaḥ kiti; ṣatva by śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca; ṅīp is pit, thus unaccented; the accent of the uṣ from vasu); cekitānā (kit "to know"; yaṅ by dhātor ekācaḥ halādeḥ kriyāsamabhihāre; doubling by sanyaṅoḥ; the halādiśeṣa; cu for the ku by kuhoś cuḥ; guṇa of the reduplication by guṇo yaṅluk; śānac after the yaṅ-ending; chandasy ubhayathā making it ārdhadhātuka; elision of a by ato lopaḥ; elision of the y by yasya halaḥ; the first-syllable accent by abhyastānām ādiḥ).

Printed p. 75 (PDF 95; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed])

Grammar page of Ṛk 15, concluded (noted briefly): vibhātīnām (bhā "to shine", śatṛ in the laṭ sense; as before the feminine ṅīp; the genitive plural nām with nuṭ, the Vedic jyāṃ chandasi bahulam — Pā. 6-1-?? as read [?] — giving the accent on the nām); vyaśvait (ṭuoś(v)i "to grow" [read as printed: ṭuośvi gativṛddhyoḥ], luṅ 3rd singular tip; elision of the i by itaś ca; elision of the vikaraṇa by bahulaṃ chandasi; guṇa when the tip is the cause, as sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ, gives in the Veda ai; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 15 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 16

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.16)

उदीर्ध्वं जीवो असुर्न आगादप प्रागात्तम आ ज्योतिरेति । आरैक्पन्थां यातवे सूर्यायागन्म यत्र प्रतिरन्त आयुः ॥ १६ ॥

udīrdhvaṃ jīvo asurna āgādapa prāgāttama ā jyotireti | āraikpanthāṃ yātave sūryāyāganma yatra pratiranta āyuḥ ‖ 16 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.16)

उत् । ईर्ध्वम् । जीवः । असुः । नः । आ । अगात् । अप । प्र । अगात् । तमः । आ । ज्योतिः । एति । अरैक् । पन्थाम् । यातवे । सूर्याय । अगन्म । यत्र । प्रऽतिरन्ते । आयुः ॥ १६ ॥

ut | īrdhvam | jīvaḥ | asuḥ | naḥ | ā | agāt | apa | pra | agāt | tamaḥ | ā | jyotiḥ | eti | araik | panthām | yātave | sūryāya | aganma | yatra | pra 'tirante | āyuḥ ‖ 16 ‖

Printed p. 76 (PDF 96; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.16)

हे मनुष्या उदीर्ध्वम् । उत्तिष्ठत । यतोऽयं नः अस्माकं असुः शरीरस्य प्रेरयिता जीवो जीवात्मागात् । आगतवान् । केनोपस्प्रागात् [?] । अपक्रान्तम् । उषसः प्रकाशे सति सर्वजीवनव्यापारयोग्यः [?] । तस्य प्रेरणात्मा [?] रूपतेयासु [?] च जीवस्तद्देव ज्योतिर्वृत्ती [?] । आगच्छति । सूर्याय सूर्यस्य पन्थां मार्गमारैक् विविक्तं करोति । यातवे गमनाय । तस्मिन्देशे गन्म गच्छानो [?] यत्र यस्मिन्देश आयुः अन्ननामैतत् । अन्नं प्रतिरन्ते । प्रवर्धयन्तीत्यर्थः । उदारा दानेन प्रवर्धयन्ति ॥ [This passage is in small close type; I read it letter by letter and mark the words I could not settle [?]; the Kannada below gives the sense.]

he manuṣyā udīrdhvam | uttiṣṭhata | yato 'yaṃ naḥ asmākaṃ asuḥ śarīrasya prerayitā jīvo jīvātmāgāt | āgatavān | kenopasprāgāt [?] | apakrāntam | uṣasaḥ prakāśe sati sarvajīvanavyāpārayogyaḥ [?] | tasya preraṇātmā [?] rūpateyāsu [?] ca jīvastaddeva jyotirvṛttī [?] | āgacchati | sūryāya sūryasya panthāṃ mārgamāraik viviktaṃ karoti | yātave gamanāya | tasmindeśe ganma gacchāno [?] yatra yasmindeśa āyuḥ annanāmaitat | annaṃ pratirante | pravardhayantītyarthaḥ | udārā dānena pravardhayanti ‖ [This passage is in small close type; I read it letter by letter and mark the words I could not settle [?]; the Kannada below gives the sense.]

Sense (mine): “O men, udīrdhvam — rise up! For this life (jīva, the living self) — asuḥ naḥ, the impeller of our body — āgāt, has come. The darkness apa prāgāt, has gone out. When there is the light of Uṣas, [the creature is] fit for all activities of life. The light comes (eti). For the Sun (sūryāya) she has cleared (āraik) the path (panthām) to go (yātave); let us go (aganma) to that place where food (āyuḥ is a name for food) they cause to increase (pratirante — pravardhayanti) — the generous, by giving, make it increase.”

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): ūrdhvam (from īr “to go”, adādi; anudāttet); āraik (ric “to empty”, aorist; the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; guṇa by vyatyaya giving ai); panthām (accusative: the pathimathyṛbhukṣām āt rule by vyatyaya — the a); aganma (gam in the aorist luṅ; the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; mnoś ca, Pā. 8-2-64 as read [?], the m → n in the ma-ending).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"(he manuṣyāḥ — O men!) udīrdhvam — rise up (with warmth); naḥ — to us; asuḥ — the impeller; jīvaḥ — the jīvātman (of the nature of light); āgāt — has come; tamaḥ — darkness; apa prāgāt — has gone out; jyotiḥ — light; ā eti — comes; sūryāya — for the Sun; yātave — for going about; panthām — the path; āraik — is made clear; yatra — where; āyuḥ — food; pra tirante — they cause to grow (tatra — there); aganma — let us go."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O men, rise! The jīvātman who impels us has come (after the light the creatures all take up their works); the darkness has gone; there is light; the Sun's path has been made plain; let us go to the place where food is to be had."

English Translation (as printed)

> Arise ; inspiring life revives ; darkness has departed ; light approaches. Ushas has opened the road for the sun to travel : let us repair to where they distribute food.

Printed p. 77 (PDF 97; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed])

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

आयुः — Āyuḥ. "Andhaḥ, vājaḥ and so on — among the twenty-eight [as read] names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]) the word āyus is stated; so āyus means food."

"The meaning explained in this Ṛk is, as it were, a prayer addressed to the deity Uṣas, whether by the priests (ṛtvij) or by the sons and grandsons of the sacrificer. Uṣas-time has now arrived. The darkness has gone; Uṣas's light has increased. Uṣas has appeared in order that our vital breath, which stands in the place of the soul (jīvasthānīya) and was nearly dead (mṛtaprāya) in sleep, may be made ready to act. Our Uṣas — the one standing in the place of our vital breath — now having arisen, shows the way for the Sun, who is to move on. Since the Sun's rising is the end of Uṣas, the priests, Adhvaryu and the rest, [begin] to prepare, as food for the sacrifice, the oblations — Soma, Pavamāna and the like — thus Skandasvāmin explains."

"When the light of Uṣas has appeared, in all creatures the impulse arises to accomplish their own affairs. In this body, the light of the jīva, which exists in the form of the Supreme Self, shines forth. Uṣas has cleared the path for the Sun's going. Therefore, in whatever place men of excellent mind give food in abundance — to that place let us go: thus Sāyaṇa explains the meaning."

असुर्न आगात् — Asur na āgāt — "asur iti prāṇanāma" (a name for the breath); "asuḥ śarīrasya prerayitā" (the impeller of the body). "Skandasvāmin explains that the word asu conveys the meaning 'prāṇa' (life-breath). The Nirukta-writer, explaining the word asu as meaning both 'life-breath' and 'prajñā' (intelligence), gives examples suited to both meanings —

> तेदद्य वाचः प्रथमं मसीय येनासुराँ अभि देवा असाम । [first words doubtful [?]] ऊर्जाद उत यज्ञियासः पञ्च जना मम होत्रं जुषध्वम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-५३-४ [as read])

tedadya vācaḥ prathamaṃ masīya yenāsurā~ abhi devā asāma | [first words doubtful [?]] ūrjāda uta yajñiyāsaḥ pañca janā mama hotraṃ juṣadhvam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-53-4 [as read])

And again —

असुराः असुरताः स्थानेष्वस्ताः स्थानेभ्य इति वा । अपि वासुरिति प्राणनामास्यः शरीरे भवति तेन तद्वन्तः । असोरसुरानसृजत तदसुराणामसुरत्वम् ॥ इति विज्ञायेते [?] (नि. ३-८ [as read])

asurāḥ asuratāḥ sthāneṣvastāḥ sthānebhya iti vā | api vāsuriti prāṇanāmāsyaḥ śarīre bhavati tena tadvantaḥ | asorasurānasṛjata tadasurāṇāmasuratvam ‖ iti vijñāyete [?] (ni. 3-8 [as read])

Printed p. 78 (PDF 98; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

“— here he explains that the word asu denotes life-breath.

उदीरतामवर उत्परास उन्मध्यमाः पितरः सोम्यासः । असुं य ईयुरवृका ऋतज्ञास्ते नोऽवन्तु पितरो हवेषु ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-१५-१ [as read])

udīratāmavara utparāsa unmadhyamāḥ pitaraḥ somyāsaḥ | asuṃ ya īyuravṛkā ṛtajñāste no ’vantu pitaro haveṣu ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-15-1 [as read])

Here also the word asu denotes life-breath (Ni. 11-19 as read [?]).

असुरिति प्रज्ञानामास्यत्यनर्थान् [?] अस्याः श्यामर्थाः [?] ॥ (नि. १०-३४ [as read]) asuriti prajñānāmāsyatyanarthān [?] asyāḥ śyāmarthāḥ [?] ‖ (ni. 10-34 [as read]) — the word asu conveys the meaning ‘prajñā’ (intelligence). Intelligence drives away troubles; there is no one possessed of intelligence who is without [the means of] intelligence” — so they explain [the Kannada sentence is compressed; the Sanskrit is doubtful [?]]. “Of these two views, Skandasvāmin, taking the meaning ‘life-breath’, and Sāyaṇa, taking the view ‘intelligence’ [as printed], give their explanation.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 16; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on ūrdhvam (īr “to go”, adādi, anudāttet; loṭ 2nd plural, dhvam ending; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e — e for the final; the e → am by savābhyāṃ vāmau, Pā. 3-4-91 as read [?], the ām substitution; nighāta after an accented word), āgāt (ā + iṇ “to go”; aorist 3rd singular; iṇo gā luṅi, Pā. 2-4-45 as read [?]; the gā substitution; gātisthāghupābhūbhyaḥ… elision of sic; the augment aṭ; nighāta), āraik (ric “to empty”, luṅ in the present sense by chandasi luṅlaṅliṭaḥ, Pā. 3-4-6 as read [?]; 3rd singular tip; elision of the i by itaś ca; the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; guṇa of the penultimate by pugantalaghūpadhasya ca, Pā. 7-3-86 as read [?]; elision of the ending by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ…; k for c by co ḥ kuḥ; the augment aṭ; the ai from e by vyatyaya; nighāta is not applied because of the preceding word eti, since in tiṅ atiṅaḥ the word ati- gives… [as printed, compressed]; the aṭ being udātta, the word has the first-syllable accent).

Printed p. 79 (PDF 99; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4” [small numeral as printed])

Grammar page of Ṛk 16, concluded (noted briefly): panthām (the stem pathin, accusative singular; pathimathyṛbhukṣām āt, Pā. 7-1-85 as read [?], by vyatyaya gives the a; thau/[the substitute] nthā for thas by tho nthaḥ, Pā. 7-1-87 as read [?], giving panthām); yātave (yā “to go”, tavai in the sense of the infinitive by tumarthe sesenasen…, Pā. 3-4-9 as read [?]; the first-syllable accent by jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?]); aganma (gam “to go”, aorist; as before the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; the 1st plural ending mas; the s elided by nityaṃ ṅitaḥ; mnoś ca, the m of the root becoming n before the m-ending, Pā. 8-2-64 as read [?]; the augment aṭ; no nighāta because it stands at the beginning of the pāda; the augment being udātta, first-syllable accent); pratirante (tir “to grow” [as printed: tira vṛddhau], laṭ 3rd plural; the nighāta prevented by nipātair yad yadi…, Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]; since adupadeśa, the sārvadhātuka tāsyanudāttet… is unaccented, the accent of the vikaraṇa remains). ‖ 16 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 17

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.17)

स्यूमना वाच उदियर्ति वह्निः स्तवानो रेभ उषसो विभातीः । अद्या तदुच्छ गृणते मघोन्यस्मे आयुर्नि दिदीहि प्रजावत् ॥ १७ ॥

syūmanā vāca udiyarti vahniḥ stavāno rebha uṣaso vibhātīḥ | adyā taduccha gṛṇate maghonyasme āyurni didīhi prajāvat ‖ 17 ‖

Printed p. 80 (PDF 100; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.17)

स्यूमना । वाचः । उत् । इयर्ति । वह्निः । स्तवानः । रेभः । उषसः । विऽभातीः । अद्य । तत् । उच्छ । गृणते । मघोनि । अस्मे इति । आयुः । नि । दिदीहि । प्रजाऽवत् ॥ १७ ॥

syūmanā | vācaḥ | ut | iyarti | vahniḥ | stavānaḥ | rebhaḥ | uṣasaḥ | vi ’bhātīḥ | adya | tat | uccha | gṛṇate | maghoni | asme iti | āyuḥ | ni | didīhi | prajā ’vat ‖ 17 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.17)

वह्निः स्तोत्राणां वोढा रेभः । स्तोतृनामैतत् । स्तोतोषसो विभातीः प्रकाशमाना उषोदेवताः स्तवानः स्तुवन् वाचो वेदरूपायाः सम्बन्धीनि स्यूमना स्यूमानि सुस्तुतानि सन्ततान्यृक्छान्त्यादिय [?]न्युदियर्ति । उद्गमयति । उच्चारयति । अतो हे मघोनि मघवत्युषः अद्यास्मिन्समये गृणते स्तुवते तस्मै पुरुषाय तदुच्छ दृष्टिनिरोधकतया प्रसिद्धं स्वैशं तमो विवासय । वर्जय । अस्मे अस्मभ्यं च प्रजावत् प्रजाभिः पुत्रपौत्रादिभिर्युक्तमायुरन्नं नि दिदीहि नितरां प्रकाशय । दीदेतिश्छान्दसो दीप्तिकर्मा । प्रयच्छेत्यर्थः ॥ [this passage is in small close type; the words marked [?] are doubtful]

vahniḥ stotrāṇāṃ voḍhā rebhaḥ | stotṛnāmaitat | stotoṣaso vibhātīḥ prakāśamānā uṣodevatāḥ stavānaḥ stuvan vāco vedarūpāyāḥ sambandhīni syūmanā syūmāni sustutāni santatānyṛkchāntyādiya [?]nyudiyarti | udgamayati | uccārayati | ato he maghoni maghavatyuṣaḥ adyāsminsamaye gṛṇate stuvate tasmai puruṣāya taduccha dṛṣṭinirodhakatayā prasiddhaṃ svaiśaṃ tamo vivāsaya | varjaya | asme

asmabhyaṃ ca prajāvat prajābhiḥ putrapautrādibhiryuktamāyurannaṃ ni didīhi nitarāṃ prakāśaya | dīdetiśchāndaso dīptikarmā | prayacchetyarthaḥ ‖ [this passage is in small close type; the words marked [?] are doubtful]

Sense (mine): "Vahniḥ — the bearer of the hymns, rebhaḥ (a name for a singer): the singer praising Uṣas, who shines forth (vibhātīḥ, the deity Uṣas), raises up the well-praised, continuous (sūmanā, 'stitched together') utterances, the chants of the Veda, and utters them. Therefore, O maghoni, wealthy Uṣas, adya, at this time, tad uccha — for him, the praiser (gṛṇate), drive away that darkness which is known as the obstructor of sight, remove it. And asme, to us, give prajāvat āyuḥ, food (āyus) together with progeny — sons, grandsons and the rest; ni didīhi, bestow constantly, make shine. The verb dīdeti in the Veda has the sense of shining (dīpti): 'give', is the sense."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): syūmanā (sivu "to sew", in the sense of continuation; the suffix manin in the passive, as the "seen" (dṛśi) in the rule covers all cases; accent by the augment etc.; the plural-neuter śi with the Vedic ā); iyarti (ṛ "to go", juhotyādi class, with śap → śluk; doubling; ṛ → iy; the reduplication of abhyasta gives the first-syllable accent); stavānaḥ (ṣṭuñ "to praise", śānac; the elision of śap by adādi; the śānac being ārdhadhātuka by chandasy ubhayathā, guṇa, avādeśa, the first-syllable accent from the suffix); vibhātīḥ (bhā "to shine", śatṛ, ṅīp by śatranumo nadyajādī; accent); gṛṇate (gṝ "to praise", kryādi; pā-... [the printed rule on prefix accent]); asme (the substitute asme for asmabhyam, by supāṃ sulug..., the dative: ṅe → e, śeḥ ādeśa).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha / Bhāvārtha (the Kannada Pratipadārtha and Bhāvārtha of Ṛk 17 are on p. 81)

Printed p. 81 (PDF 101; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed]; footer signature mark "IX 6")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"vahniḥ — one who offers the stotras; rebhaḥ — the stotṛ; vibhātīḥ — shining by driving away darkness; uṣasaḥ — the Uṣas deities; stavānaḥ — praising; vācaḥ — words related to the Veda; syūmanā — joined (well-connected) ṛk-s (the *stotra*s); udiyarti — utters (hence); maghoni — O Uṣas deity, who possess wealth; adya — now; gṛṇate — to the praiser; tad uccha — remove that darkness (which obstructs the sight); asme — to us also; prajāvat — endowed with sons, grandsons and offspring; āyuḥ — food; ni didīhi — make shine well (bestow)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The singer praises the shining Uṣases with Vedic hymns. O wealthy Uṣas deity, to such a singer take away the darkness. Give us food together with progeny."

English Translation (as printed)

> The offerer of praise, the reciter of praise, celebrating the brilliant Ushas, repeats the well-connected words (of the Veda). Possessor of affluence, dawn to-day upon him who praise [sic] you ; bestow upon us food, whence progeny may be obtained.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

स्यूमना — Syūmanā — "sukhanāma": a name of happiness. "The word syūmana is stated among the twenty [as read] names of happiness (Ni. 3-14 as read [?]): the meaning is 'happiness'."

रेभः — Rebhaḥ — "stoṭṛnāmaitat": this is a name of a singer. "Among the many names of the praiser (stoṭṛ) — 'jaritā', 'kāruḥ' and the rest — the word rebhaḥ is stated (Ni. 3-18 as read [?]). The count of the names printed in the Kannada ('hundred-…') is not clear to me [?]."

"When Sāyaṇa explains the word syūmanā: 'syūmāni anusyūtāni saṅgatāni uktāni stotrāṇi' — stotras, when sung, in which the words of the hymn are connected with each other and give a good meaning. The singer recites stotras of such kind, he says. Skandasvāmin, since the word syūmanā denotes 'happiness', explains: 'sukhena akleśena stutilakṣaṇā vācaḥ udiyarti' — he recites, easily, without trouble, the Vedic sentences that have the nature of praise — [he gives the sense] 'he, of himself, performs the stotra-reciting with ease'. And (as the Kannada continues on the next page) …

Printed p. 82 (PDF 102; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

… ātmanaḥ [read as printed, small [?]] parokṣarūpeṇa prathamapuruṣeṇa vyapadeśaḥ hotrākhyaṃ ṛtvik kutsanāmā vā ṛṣiḥ udgamayati uccārayati [read letter by letter from the small type; doubtful [?]]: 'the poet Kutsa, who acts as the hotṛ priest, referring to himself here indirectly, in the third person, as one who is engaged as hotṛ, utters this praise' — so he says. Further 'rebhaḥ — the stotṛ, vahniḥ — because of the capacity to carry (vahana), Agni too, being able to bear the oblations, praises the many kinds of lights of Uṣas, [and so] he explains the greatness of Uṣas."

अस्मे — Asme — "asmabhyaṃ ca": "In the Ṛk the prayer of the deity Uṣas is described: 'to the singers, to the sacrificers also, grant sons, grandsons and the rest, and food' — so both commentators explain the meaning. The Nirukta-writer explains that the word asme, though it has one form in all the cases, conveys the meaning of a particular case according to the context, and gives the following examples in the particular cases —

(1) अस्मे ते बन्धुः । वयमित्यर्थः ॥ अस्मे इत्येतत्पदं सर्वविभक्त्यन्तम् । तस्मादनेकार्थम् । एकमेव ह्येतच्छब्दरूपं सप्तस्वपि विभक्त्यर्थेषु वर्तते । प्रकरणादिवशात् तस्य नियमो भवति । तद्यथा — प्रथमायास्त्वात् — अस्मे ते बन्धुः । वयमित्यर्थः ॥ [as read; the second passage is in small type, doubtful [?]]

asme ityetatpadaṃ sarvavibhaktyantam | tasmādanekārtham | ekameva hyetacchabdarūpaṃ saptasvapi vibhaktyartheṣu vartate | prakaraṇādivaśāt tasya niyamo bhavati | tadyathā — prathamāyāstvāt — asme te bandhuḥ | vayamityarthaḥ ‖ [as read; the second passage is in small type, doubtful [?]]

— that is: the word asme is used, according to the context, in the sense of all seven cases. Which case's meaning is to be taken is to be said according to that context. For example, in the sentence 'asme te bandhuḥ' the word asme has the sense 'vayam' — 'we'. This is an example of the sense of the first case.

(2) अस्मे यातं नासत्या सजोषाः । अस्मानित्यर्थः ॥ द्वितीयायास्त्वात् — [asme has the sense of the second case]; ‘asmān’, ‘us’.

dvitīyāyāstvāt — [asme has the sense of the second case]; ‘asmān’, ‘us’.

“As an example of this meaning —

आ श्येनस्य जवसा नूतनेनास्मे यातं नासत्या सजोषाः । हवे हि वामश्विना रातहव्यः शश्वत्तमामा उषसो व्युष्टौ ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११८-११ [as read])

ā śyenasya javasā nūtanenāsme yātaṃ nāsatyā sajoṣāḥ | have hi vāmaśvinā rātahavyaḥ śaśvattamāmā uṣaso vyuṣṭau ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-118-11 [as read]) they cite this Ṛk. The word asme in this Ṛk has the meaning ‘asmān’ — ‘us’.”

Printed p. 83 (PDF 103; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4” [small numeral as printed]) [asme in the seven cases, continued]

(3) अस्मे समानेभिर्वृषभ पौंस्येभिः । अस्माभिरित्यर्थः ॥ तृतीयायास्त्वात् —

tṛtīyāyāstvāt —

“Here asme means asmābhiḥ, ‘by us’ — the sense of the third case. In this matter —

भूरि चकर्थ युज्येभिरस्मे समानेभिर्वृषभ पौंस्येभिः । भूरीणि हि कृणवामा शविष्ठेन्द्र क्रत्वा मरुत्वो यद्वशाम ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१६३-२ [as read; numerals small [?]])

bhūri cakartha yujyebhirasme samānebhirvṛṣabha pauṃsyebhiḥ | bhūrīṇi hi kṛṇavāmā śaviṣṭhendra kratvā marutvo yadvaśāma ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-163-2 [as read; numerals small [?]])

— they cite this Ṛk as an example. Here asme means asmābhiḥ, ‘by us’.”

(4) अस्मे प्रयन्धि मघवन्नृजीषिन् । अस्मभ्यमित्यर्थः ॥ चतुर्थ्यास्त्वात् — caturthyāstvāt —

“Here asme means asmabhyam, ‘to us’, the sense of the fourth case. Example —

अस्मे प्रयन्धि मघवन्नृजीषिन्निन्द्र रायो विश्ववारस्य भूरेः । अस्मे शतं शरदो जीवसे धा अस्मे वीराञ्छश्वत इन्द्र शिप्रिन् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-३६-१० [as read; [?]])

asme prayandhi maghavannṛjīṣinnindra rāyo viśvavārasya bhūreḥ | asme śataṃ śarado jīvase dhā asme vīrāñchaśvata indra śiprin ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 3-36-10 [as read; [?]])

— the word asme in this Ṛk has the sense of the fourth case, ‘asmabhyam’, ‘to us’.”

(5) अस्मे आराच्चिदद्वेषः सनुतर्युयोतु । अस्मदित्यर्थः ॥ पञ्चम्यास्त्वात् — pañcamyāstvāt —

“Here asme means asmat, ‘from us’ (from our region): the sense of the fifth case. Example —

तस्य वयं सुमतौ यज्ञियस्यापि भद्रे सौमनसे स्याम । स सुत्रामा स्ववाँ इन्द्रो अस्मे आराच्चिद्द्वेषः सनुतर्युयोतु ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-४७-१२ [as read])

tasya vayaṃ sumatau yajñiyasyāpi bhadre saumanase syāma | sa sutrāmā svavā~ indro asme ārāccidveṣaḥ sanutaryuyotu ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 6-47-12 [as read])

— the word asme in this Ṛk has the sense of the fifth case, 'from us'."

(6) ऊर्व इव पप्रथे कामो अस्मे । अस्माकमित्यर्थः ॥ षष्ठ्यास्त्वात् — ṣaṣṭhyāstvāt —

"Here asme means asmākam, 'our', 'to us'. For the explanation of this meaning —

आ नो भर भगमिन्द्र द्युमन्तं नि ते देष्णस्य धीमहि प्ररेके । ऊर्व इव पप्रथे कामो अस्मे तमा पृण वसुपते वसूनाम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-३१-१८ [as read; [?]])

ā no bhara bhagamindra dyumantaṃ ni te deṣṇasya dhīmahi prareke | ūrva iva paprathe kāmo asme tamā pṛṇa vasupate vasūnām ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 3-31-18 [as read; [?]])

— the word asme in this Ṛk has, for asmākam, 'our', the sense of the sixth case."

Printed p. 84 (PDF 104; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

(7) अस्मे धत्त वसवो वसूनि । अस्मास्वित्यर्थः ॥ सप्तम्यास्त्वात् — saptamyāstvāt —

"Here asme means 'in us': the sense of the seventh case. Example —

अग्ने वाजस्य गोमत ईशानः सहसो यहो । अस्मे धेहि जातवेदो महि श्रवः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-७९-४ [as read])

agne vājasya gomata īśānaḥ sahaso yaho | asme dhehi jātavedo mahi śravaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-79-4 [as read])

— the word asme in this Ṛk has the sense of the seventh case, 'asmāsu', 'in us'."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 17; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on syūmanā (sivu "to sew", in the sense of continuation; the suffix manin by anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante, Pā. 3-2-75 as read [?], stated to apply, by the word dṛśi, in all the specifications; the passive manin after the root; the ūṭh substitution for v by chvoḥ śūḍ anunāsike ca, Pā. 6-4-19 as read [?]; the yaṇ; the form syūman; with the jas-neuter, śi → ā, elision by śeś chandasi bahulam; or ṭha, vuk in the abstract by ṇādika; "bound with bonds" is the sense; in the second view the first syllable is accented by vyatyaya), vācaḥ (genitive/accusative with the accent of the ending in jas/śas by sāvekācas tṛtīyādiḥ, Pā. 6-1-168), iyarti (ṛ "to go", juhotyādi, laṭ 3rd singular tip; śluḥ by juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ, Pā. 2-4-75 as read [?]; the doubling of the root by ślau; i in the reduplication by arti-pipartyoś ca; guṇa of the root's ṛ by sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ; raparatva; abhyāsasyāsavarṇe, Pā. 6-4-78 as read [?], the iy substitute for the reduplication's i; tiṅ atiṅaḥ nighāta).

Printed p. 85 (PDF 105; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4” [small numeral as printed])

Grammar page of Ṛk 17, concluded (noted briefly): stavānaḥ (ṣṭuñ “to praise”, adādi; śānac in the laṭ sense; śap elided by adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; the śānac is made ārdhadhātuka by chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], so it is not jit… [as printed, compressed]; guṇa of the root’s u; av; the śānac is cit, yet by vyatyaya the first syllable takes the accent; nominative singular); uccha (uchī “to dispel”, loṭ 2nd singular; nighāta); gṛṇate (gṝ “to praise”, kryādi; śatṛ; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; prādīnāṃ hrasvaḥ in the root; kryādibhyaḥ śnā; sārvadhātukam apit makes the śatṛ ṅit, so śnābhyastayor ātaḥ, Pā. 6-4-112 as read [?], elides the ā; with the ṇatva of the n after ṛ; the stem gṛṇat; dative singular; the śatṛ without num is followed by the ajādi ending, hence by śatur anumo nadyajādī, Pā. 6-1-173 as read [?], the accent is on the ending); vibhātīḥ (bhā “to shine”, śatṛ, ṅīp by ugitaś ca; as before the accent of the ṅīp ending by śatur anumo…; accusative plural); asme (the stem asmad; the dative singular ṅe following; supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], the śe substitution; śeṣe lopaḥ, Pā. 7-2-90 as read [?], elision of the part of asmad ending in m …). ‖ 17 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 18

Printed p. 86 (PDF 106; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.18)

या गोमतीरुषसः सर्ववीरा व्युच्छन्ति दाशुषे मर्त्याय । वायोरिव सूनृतानामुदर्के ता अश्वदा अश्नवत्सोमसुत्वा ॥ १८ ॥

yā gomatīruṣasaḥ sarvavīrā vyucchanti dāśuṣe martyāya | vāyoriva sūnṛtānāmudarke tā aśvadā aśnavatsomasutvā ‖ 18 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.18)

याः । गोऽमतीः । उषसः । सर्वऽवीराः । विऽउच्छन्ति । दाशुषे । मर्त्याय । वायोःऽइव । सूनृतानाम् । उत्ऽअर्के । ताः । अश्वऽदाः । अश्नवत् । सोमऽसुत्वा ॥ १८ ॥

yāḥ | go ’matīḥ | uṣasaḥ | sarva ’vīrāḥ | vi ’ucchanti | dāśuṣe | martyāya | vāyoḥ ’iva | sūnṛtānām | ut ’arke | tāḥ | aśva ’dāḥ | aśnavat | soma ’sutvā ‖ 18 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.18)

दाशुषे हवींषि दत्तवते मर्त्याय मनुष्याय यजमानाय गोमतीः गोमद्भिः बहुभिर्गोभिर्युक्ताः सर्ववीराः सर्वैः शरणसमर्थैर्वीरैः शूरैर्युक्ताः या उषसो व्युच्छन्ति । तमो वर्जयन्ति । वायोरिव वायुवत्प्रेरितं [?] प्रवर्तमानानां सूनृतानां स्तुतिरूपाणां वाचामुदर्के समाप्तावश्वदा अश्वानां दात्र्यस्ता उषसः सोमसुत्वा सोमानामभिषोता यजमानोऽश्नवत् । व्याप्नोतु ॥ [a few words doubtful [?]]

dāśuṣe havīṃṣi dattavate martyāya manuṣyāya yajamānāya gomatīḥ gomadbhiḥ bahubhirgobhiryuktāḥ sarvavīrāḥ sarvaiḥ śaraṇasamarthairvīraiḥ śūrairyuktāḥ yā uṣaso vyucchanti | tamo varjayanti | vāyoriva vāyuvatpreritaṃ [?] pravartamānānāṃ sūnṛtānāṃ stutirūpāṇāṃ vācāmudarke samāptāvaśvadā

aśvānāṃ dātṛyastā uṣasaḥ somasutvā somānāmabhiṣotā yajamāno 'śnavat | vṛāpnotu ‖ [a few words doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "To the mortal (martyāya), man, the sacrificer (dāśuṣe) who has given oblations: the Uṣases that dawn (vyucchanti, drive out darkness), gomatīḥ — possessing many cows, sarvavīrāḥ — possessed of all the heroes, valiant men able to protect; vāyor iva — as of the wind, impelled, moving sūnṛtānām — of the speeches in the form of praise, at the udarke, at the completion [of the hymns]: those Uṣases that give horses (aśvadāḥ) — may the Soma-presser (somasutvā), the sacrificer, attain (aśnavat), obtain them."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): dāśuṣe (dāś "to give", kvasu suffix, with the nipāta accent; dative singular with vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam; ṣatva by śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca); aśnavat (aśū "to pervade", leṭ, by vyatyaya the parasmaipada; the augment aṭ in the leṭ; elision of the i of the ending by itaś ca); somasutvā (ṣuñ "to press", kvanip by anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante; ṭuk augment hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk).

Printed p. 87 (PDF 107; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed])

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"dāśuṣe — to the sacrificer who offers oblations; martyāya — to the sacrificer who is a man; gomatīḥ — endowed with rays; sarvavīrāḥ — joined with strong men, able in every way; yāḥ uṣasaḥ — whichever Uṣases; vāyor iva — like the wind (moving swiftly); sūnṛtānām — of speeches of praise; udarke — at the end; aśvadāḥ — those who give horses; tāḥ — those Uṣases; somasutvā — the sacrificer who prepares the Soma juice; aśnavat — may he obtain, may he come near (to him)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"In the sacrifice the sacrificers and others praise the shining Uṣas deities with mantras that are quickly recited. After the end of their praise, may the Uṣas deity, who bestows wealth, such as horses, on the praiser, come near the sacrificer who has prepared the Soma and is awaiting [her]."

English Translation (as printed)

> May he who has offered the libation obtain, upon the conclusion of his praises, (enunciated), like the wind, (with speed), (the favour of) those Ushasas who are givers of horses, and of cattle, and of progeny, and who shed light upon the mortal presenting to them (offerings).

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

दाशुषे — Dāśuṣe — "havīṃṣi dattavate": "to the sacrificer who offers oblations — this is the meaning. That dāśvān, sāhvān, and mīḍhvān [as printed: dāśvān sāhvān mīḍhvāṃś ca] are irregularly formed (nipātita) [by the grammarians]. The Nirukta-writer explains the word dāśuṣe as 'dattavate' (to him who has given) and cites the Ṛk —

धाता ददातु दाशुषे प्राचीं जीवातुमक्षिताम् । वयं देवस्य धीमहि सुमतिं सत्यधर्मणः ॥ (अथ. सं. ७-१२-३ [as read; Atharvaveda, [?]])

dhātā dadātu dāśuṣe prācīṃ jīvātumakṣitām | vayaṃ devasya dhīmahi sumatiṃ satyadharmaṇaḥ ‖ (atha. saṃ. 7-12-3 [as read; Atharvaveda, [?]])

as an example."

दाशुषे मर्त्याय — Dāśuṣe martyāya — "dāśvān iti yajamānanāma śākapūṇinā paritam [reading of the last word doubtful [?]]; tādarthye caturthī yajamānasya mānuṣasya cārthāya": Skandasvāmin says that the word dāśvān is the name of the sacrificer (yajamāna) — this is the view of Śākapūṇi; the fourth case is in the sense of 'for the sake of' [tādarthya]: 'for the sake of the sacrificer who is a man'.

गोमतीः — Gomatīḥ — "gomatyaḥ bahubhir gobhir yuktāḥ": "possessing many cows. As is said in the Nirukta, 'aruṇo gāva uṣasām' ('the red cows of the Uṣases'): because the Uṣases harness to their chariot cows of red colour, Skandasvāmin explains that the Uṣases are 'those who have cows'. The Nirukta-writer, explaining that the word go has many meanings — the earth (pṛthivī), the skin of a cow, [śleṣman (phlegm) [?]], the bow-string (maurvī, jyā), the rays of the Sun — gives different examples for each meaning."

सर्ववीराः — Sarvavīrāḥ — "sarvaiḥ śaraṇasamarthair vīraiḥ śūraiḥ yuktāḥ": "joined with all heroes, who can offer protection: the Uṣases are joined with strong, courageous men in every way, who go forward."

उदर्के — Udarke — "samāptau": "at the end. Sūnṛtānām udarke: at the end of the sentences of the form of stotras, so Sāyaṇa says: 'udarka ity ūrdhva ucyate yadvā yadvāyor [?] …' [the Sanskrit here is in small type and broken; I give its sense]: 'at the time of the dawn (prabhātavelāyām) of the (praise) words'. Skandasvāmin says: 'in the morning twilight, which has continuous production of stotras, like the rush of the wind' [as the Kannada has it]. The Uṣases having risen in time, the people in the sacrificial halls praise [her] with stotras hurriedly; therefore the morning that follows the passing of Uṣas also has the stotra-words produced — this is the idea."

अश्वदाः — Aśvadāḥ — "aśvānāṃ dātrīḥ": "the Uṣases give horses to the sacrificer who performs the sacrifice — so says Sāyaṇa. Skandasvāmin: the Uṣases give horses, etc., to the singers of stotras and to those who sacrifice (yaṣṭṛ); or, in the giving of the dakṣiṇā, because the giving of horses is also prescribed, 'aśvadā' is an adjective of somasutvā — not of Uṣas: aśvasya dātā yajamānaḥ. Because the sacrificer who presses the Soma gives a horse when giving the dakṣiṇā, they are 'donors of horses'; the word aśvadā does not qualify Uṣas. He explains that it means the sacrificer who is the donor of horses."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 18; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page begun: gomatīḥ (gāvaḥ āsāṃ santi — matup by tad asyāsty asmin … iti matup, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?]; ugit-hence unaccented; the feminine; the nominative/accusative plural jas/śas, with the lengthening of the preceding by supāṃ sulug (pūrvasavarṇadīrgha), Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?]). (Continues on the next page.)

Printed p. 89 (PDF 109; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4” [small numeral as printed])

Grammar page of Ṛk 18, concluded (noted briefly): sarvavīrāḥ (sarve vīrāḥ yāsāṃ tāḥ sarvavīrāḥ — a bahuvrīhi; the first member keeps its accent by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?]); vyucchanti (uchī “to dispel”, laṭ 3rd plural; there is no nighāta since yāḥ is connected, by yadvṛttānnityam; the accent of the śa class-sign remains); dāśuṣe (dāś “to give”; the kvasu suffix by dāśvān sāhvān mīḍhvāṃś ca, Pā. 6-1-12 as read [?], made irregular at the end; the dative singular; saṃprasāraṇa of vas by vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam; pūrvarūpa; ṣatva by śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca; the accent from the suffix); aśvadāḥ (aśvān dadāti iti aśvadāḥ, viṭ by ato maninkvanibvanipaś ca, Pā. 3-2-74 as read [?]; the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt); aśnavat (aśū “to pervade”; though ātmanepada, the parasmaipada by vyatyayo bahulam; leṭ 3rd singular tip; the i elided by itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu; the augment aṭ by leṭo ’ḍāṭau; śnu by svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ; guṇa and av in the vikaraṇa; nighāta); somasutvā (ṣuñ “to press”; kvanip by anyebhyo ’pi dṛśyante; the ṣu → su by dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ; the augment tuk for the short vowel before a pit kṛt by hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk, Pā. 6-1-71 as read [?]; accent of the suffix being pit; in the compound the first-member accent). ‖ 18 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 19

Printed p. 90 (PDF 110; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.19)

माता देवानामदितेरनीकं यज्ञस्य केतुर्बृहती वि भाहि । प्रशस्तिकृद्ब्रह्मणे नो व्युच्छा नो जने जनय विश्ववारे ॥ १९ ॥

mātā devānāmaditeranīkaṃ yajñasya keturbṛhatī vi bhāhi | praśastikṛdbrahmaṇe no vyucchā no jane janaya viśvavāre ‖ 19 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.19)

माता । देवानाम् । अदितेः । अनीकम् । यज्ञस्य । केतुः । बृहती । वि । भाहि । प्रशस्तिऽकृत् । ब्रह्मणे । नः । वि । उच्छ । आ । नः । जने । जनय । विश्ववारे ॥ १९ ॥

mātā | devānām | aditeḥ | anīkam | yajñasya | ketuḥ | bṛhatī | vi | bhāhi | praśasti ’kṛt | brahmaṇe | naḥ | vi | uccha | ā | naḥ | jane | janaya | viśvavāre ‖ 19 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā’s vyucchā no is the Pada’s vi | uccha | ā | naḥ*; the Saṃhitā’s* viśvavāre is the Pada’s viśva-vāre*.)*

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.19)

हे उषस्त्वं देवानां माता जननी । उषसि सर्वे देवाः स्तुत्या प्रबोध्यन्ते अतः सा तज्जननवतीत्युच्यते । अत एवादितेर्देवानां मातुरनीकं प्रत्यनीकं प्रतिस्पर्धिनी त्वमित्यर्थः । यद्वा । दीव्यन्तीति देवा रश्मयः । तेषां निर्मात्री अदितेरखण्डनीयाया भूमेरनीकं मुखम् । यथेन्द्रियाश्रयत्वान्मुखं प्रकाशकं तथैवमुषा भूमेः प्रकाशयित्रीत्यर्थः । यज्ञस्य केतुः ज्ञापयित्री [?] बृहती महती सती वि भाहि । प्रकाशयस्व । अपि च प्रशस्तिकृत् सम्यक् स्तुतमिति

प्रशंसनं कुर्वती नोऽस्मदीयाय ब्रह्मणे मन्त्ररूपाय स्तोत्राय व्युच्छ । विवासय । तदनन्तरं हे विश्ववारे सर्वैर्वरणीये उषो नोऽस्मान् जने जनपदे आजनय । अभिमुख्येन प्रादुर्भावय । आवस्थापयेत्यर्थः ॥ [a few words doubtful [?]]

he uṣastvaṃ devānāṃ mātā jananī | uṣasi sarve devāḥ stutyā prabodhyante ataḥ sā tajjananavatītyucyate | ata evāditerdevānāṃ māturanīkaṃ pratyanīkaṃ pratispardhinī tvamityarthaḥ | yadvā | dīvyantīti devā raśmayaḥ | teṣāṃ nirmātrī aditerakhaṇḍanīyāyā bhūmeranīkaṃ mukham | yathendriyāśrayatvānmukhaṃ prakāśakaṃ tathaivamuṣā bhūmeḥ prakāśayitrītyarthaḥ | yajñasya ketuḥ jñāpayitrī [?] bṛhatī mahatī satī vi bhāhi | prakāśayasva | api ca praśastikṛt samyak stutamiti praśaṃsanaṃ kurvatī no 'smadīyāya brahmaṇe mantrarūpāya stotrāya vyuccha | vivāsaya | tadanantaraṃ he viśvavāre sarvairvaraṇīye uṣo no 'smān jane janapade ājanaya | abhimukhyena prādurbhāvaya | āvasthāpayetyarthaḥ ‖ [a few words doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O Uṣas, thou art the mother (mātā, producer) of the gods: at Uṣas-time all the gods are awakened by praise; therefore she is said to have produced them. For that very reason aditeḥ anīkam — thou art the counterpart of Aditi, the mother of the gods, her rival, is the sense. Or: devāḥ are the rays, 'those that shine'; thou art their maker; aditeḥ, of the indivisible earth, anīkam, 'face': as the face, because it is the seat of the senses, is what shows, so Uṣas is the shower of the earth. Yajñasya ketuḥ — the one who makes the sacrifice known, thou, being great (bṛhatī), vi bhāhi, shine forth. Moreover, praśastikṛt — thou who makest praise, brahmaṇe naḥ, for our hymn-prayer (stotra) in the form of a mantra, vyuccha, dispel the darkness. And afterwards, O viśvavāre, desired (varaṇīya) by all, Uṣas, naḥ jane ā janaya — bring us forth among the people, make us appear to the front, cause us to be established, is the sense."

(The bhāṣya continues on the next page with the grammatical tail of bṛhatī*.)*

Grammatical tail of the bhāṣya on Ṛk 19, concluded (characterized, not transcribed): bṛhatī (the feminine in ṅīp by bṛhan-mahator upasaṃkhyānam; accent on the ending); praśastikṛt (kṛ with kvip, the ktin in the abstract sense for praśasti; tuk augment by the pit-kṛt rule; elision of the tu in the compound with the locative; the aniditām nasal elision); jananya [as printed janaya] (jani "to be born", ṇic; mitāṃ hrasvaḥ, the root is shortened by the rule mitāṃ hrasvaḥ; vṛddhi); viśvavāre ("viśvaiḥ vāryate" — the first member of the compound keeps its accent; dhātu … mitrīye as the Dhātupāṭha number as printed "Dhā. 1-?-?? [?]").

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"(he uṣaḥ tvam — O Uṣas deity, you) devānām — of all the deities (of the rays); mātā — the mother (the place of origin); aditeḥ — of Aditi (of the indivisible earth); anīkam — the counterpart (she who is like the face); yajñasya — of the sacrifices; ketuḥ — the one who makes known (you who are such); bṛhatī — in a large form; vi bhāhi — shine well; praśastikṛt — as the praiser of stotras; naḥ — our; brahmaṇe — to hear the stotras; vyuccha — dawn (afterwards); viśvavāre — O Uṣas deity desired by all; naḥ — us; jane — among the people; ā janaya — make us foremost (face-bearers)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Uṣas, goddess, you are the mother of all the gods (of all the rays); a counterpart of Aditi (like a face to the earth); the revealer of the sacrifice; being such, shine in a great form. Approve our hymns and dawn for us. You who are desired by all, make us foremost among the people."

English Translation (as printed)

> Mother of the gods, rival of Aditi, illuminator of the sacrifice, mighty Ushas, shine forth ; approving of our prayer, dawn upon us ; you are cherished by all ; make us eminent among the people.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

माता देवानाम् — Mātā devānām — "he uṣaḥ tvaṃ devānāṃ jananī": "Uṣas is the mother of the deities. As soon as Uṣas has risen, the priests who praise the deities awaken the deities in the sacrifices; therefore the motherhood of the gods is proper to Uṣas.

Printed p. 92 (PDF 112; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

> देवशब्देनात्र आदित्या उच्यन्ते । तेषां हि माता उषाः । प्रतिमासं च आदित्यभेदमङ्गीकृत्य बहुवचनम् ॥ (स्कं. भा.)
>
> devaśabdenātra ādityā ucyante | teṣāṃ hi mātā uṣāḥ | pratimāsaṃ ca ādityabhedamaṅgīkṛtya bahuvacanam ‖ (skaṃ. bhā.)

— by the word deva the Ādityas are meant, and Uṣas is the mother of them (since Uṣas rises before the rising of the Ādityas), and, accepting for each month a different Āditya, the plural is used in devānām, Skandasvāmin explains."

अदितेरनीकम् — Aditer anīkam — "devānāṃ mātuḥ anīkaṃ pratyanīkaṃ pratispardhinī": "she is a rival to the divine mother Aditi, because she is the mother of the deities, or of the Ādityas. Since upamā, utprekṣā and other ornaments are made to explain a quality or an action property, in this Ṛk, which resembles the style of poetry to a great extent, the motherhood of the gods is attributed to Uṣas, and the anīka-hood of Aditi is also stated. Or, because the devas are luminous, the word deva means 'rays'. Thus, because she creates rays, Uṣas has the motherhood of the gods. In the same way the word aditi means 'the indivisible earth'. As a face to this earth, Uṣas exists. Because she illuminates the senses and the rest, the word anīka conveys the meaning 'face': thus the Bhāṣyakāra explains that Uṣas illumines the earth." Skandasvāmin:

> अदितिशब्देनात्र अदीनत्वात् समग्रं ज्योतिरुच्यते । अनीकशब्दोऽपि ब्राह्मणानीकमितिवत् समूहवचनम् । अदीनस्य समग्रस्य प्रकाशाख्यस्य ज्योतिषः समूहः । अथवा अनीकशब्दः स्वाङ्गमुखवचनः इहाग्रत्वसामान्यात् उषसि प्रयुज्यते । अदीनस्य समग्रस्य अहर्लक्षणस्य ज्योतिषो मुखभूतेत्यर्थः ॥ (स्कं. भा.)
>
> aditiśabdenātra adīnatvāt samagraṃ jyotirucyate | anīkaśabdo 'pi brāhmaṇānīkamitivat samūhavacanam | adīnasya samagrasya prakāśākhyasya jyotiṣaḥ samūhaḥ | athavā anīkaśabdaḥ svāṅgamukhavacanaḥ ihāgratvasāmānyāt

uṣasi prayujyate | adīnasya samagrasya aharlakṣaṇasya jyotiṣo mukhabhūtetyarthaḥ ‖ (skaṃ. bhā.)

"The word aditi here, because of 'not being poor' (adīnatva), means 'the whole light'. The word anīka (like brāhmaṇānīka) denotes 'a mass'. Hence aditer anīkam — the whole mass (samūha) of light, which is called 'luminous mass'; or the word anīka means 'face' of the whole, undiminished, body: here, by the likeness of being at the front, it is used of Uṣas. Because the word uṣas denotes 'being of the form of light', it is said that she is the face of the light called ahas, 'day', which is shining — thus says Skandasvāmin."

यज्ञस्य केतुः — Yajñasya ketuḥ — "since the word ketu denotes knowledge, [Uṣas] gives rise to the knowledge by which one performs the sacrifice."

Printed p. 93 (PDF 113; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed])

ब्रह्मणे — Brahmaṇe — "mantrarūpāya stotrāya": "(for the stotra which is in the form of a mantra). The word brahma is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of wealth (Ni. 2-?? as read"2-10" [?]), so it conveys the meaning 'wealth'. Here it is used, however, in the sense of the stotra recited by those who perform sacrifice."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 19; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on yajñasya (yaj "to worship, to unite, to give"; the suffix naṅ by yajayācayatavichaprachrakṣo naṅ, Pā. 3-3-90 as read [?]; the accent on the last syllable from the suffix), bṛhatī (feminine ṅīp by ugitaś ca; by the statement bṛhan-mahator upasaṃkhyānam the ṅīp has the udātta accent; nominative singular with elision by hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ…), bhāhi (bhā "to shine", loṭ 2nd singular; nighāta after an accented word), praśastikṛt (śaṃsu "to praise", ktin in the abstract by striyāṃ ktin, Pā. 3-3-94 as read [?]; the iṭ augment prevented by titutratatheṣu…, Pā. 7-2-9 as read [?]; the nasal elision of the penultimate by aniditāṃ hala upadhāyāḥ knīti, Pā. 6-4-24 as read [?]; praśasti standing as the upapada, ḍukṛñ "to do" takes kvip by kvip ca; the augment tuk by hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk; in the compound the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt), uccha (uchī "to dispel", tudādi; loṭ 2nd singular; nighāta), janaya (jani "to be born", causative since it is the instigator's act, ṇic by hetumati ca, Pā. 3-1-26 as read [?]; vṛddhi of the penultimate by ata upadhāyāḥ; the root is mit by janīj… — hence mitāṃ hrasvaḥ, shortening by Pā. 6-4-92 as read [?]; the hi of the loṭ substituted by a, elided by ato heḥ; the śap's a elided by ato lopaḥ…; guṇa of i of ṇic; ay; nighāta).

Printed p. 94 (PDF 114; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

Grammar page, concluded: viśvavāre ("viśvaiḥ vriyate iti viśvavārā": vṛñ "to choose", ghañ in the passive; vṛddhi of ṛ by aco 'ñṇiti; the vocative with nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]). ‖ 19 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 20

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.20)

यच्चित्रमप्न उषसो वहन्तीजानाय शशमानाय भद्रम् । तन्नो मित्रो वरुणो मामहन्तामदितिः सिन्धुः पृथिवी उत द्यौः ॥ २० ॥

yaccitramapna uṣaso vahantījānāya śaśamānāya bhadram | tanno mitro varuṇo māmahantāmaditiḥ sindhuḥ pṛthivī uta dyauḥ ‖ 20 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 113.20)

यत् । चित्रम् । अप्नः । उषसः । वहन्ति । ईजानाय । शशमानाय । भद्रम् । तत् । नः । मित्रः । वरुणः । ममहन्ताम् [as printed; a misprint for māmahantām? [?]] । अदितिः । सिन्धुः । पृथिवी । उत । द्यौः ॥ २० ॥

yat | citram | apnaḥ | uṣasaḥ | vahanti | ījānāya | śaśamānāya | bhadram | tat | naḥ | mitraḥ | varuṇaḥ | mamahantām [as printed; a misprint for māmahantām? [?]] | aditiḥ | sindhuḥ | pṛthivī | uta | dyauḥ ‖ 20 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 113.20)

चित्रं चायनीयमप्न आप्तव्यं यद्धनमुषसो वहन्ति आनयन्ति । ईजानाय हविर्भिरिष्टवते शशमानाय स्तुतिभिः संभजमानाय पुरुषाय भद्रं भजनीयं तद्धनवतीति शेषः । यदनेन सूक्तेनास्माभिः प्रार्थितं तस्मिन्मित्रादयः षट् देवता मामहन्ताम् । पूजितं कुर्वन्तु ॥
[continued on the next page with the grammatical tail]

citraṃ cāyanīyamapna āptavyaṃ yaddhanamuṣaso vahanti ānayanti | ījānāya havirbhiriṣṭavate śaśamānāya stutibhiḥ saṃbhajamānāya puruṣāya bhadraṃ bhajanīyaṃ taddhanavatīti śeṣaḥ | yadanena sūktenāsmābhiḥ prārthitaṃ tasminmitrādayaḥ ṣaṭ devatā māmahantām | pūjitaṃ kurvantu ‖ [continued on the next page with the grammatical tail]

Sense (mine): "The wonderful (citra), worthy-to-be-gained (apnaḥ) wealth that the Uṣases bring (vahanti) — good (bhadra), to be enjoyed, for the man ījānāya, who has sacrificed with oblations, and śaśamānāya, who praises with hymns: may [the Uṣases] have that wealth — is the completion. What has been prayed for by us in this Sūkta, in that may these six deities, Mitra and the rest, māmahantām — make it honoured, make it worthy (made to be of success)."

Printed p. 95 (PDF 115; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed])

Grammatical tail of the bhāṣya on Ṛk 20 (characterized, not transcribed): apnaḥ (āp(ḷ) "to obtain" — the asun suffix by the Uṇādi rule with the wide reading of "bahulam"; the shortening of the root vowel and the augment nuṭ); ījānāya (yaj, liṭ in the Veda; kānac; vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti — saṃprasāraṇa; doubling; the lengthening of the reduplication); śaśamānāya (śaś "to leap" [printed: śaśa plutagatau]; tācchīlya suffix cānaś; śap elided in the liṭ sense; the accent by sarvadhātukāsvarābhāve…).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"citram — wonderful; apnaḥ — which should be obtained; yat — which wealth; uṣasaḥ — the Uṣas deities; vahanti — bring (that); ījānāya — to him who performs sacrifice with oblations; śaśamānāya — to him who praises; bhadram — becomes auspicious; naḥ — our; tat — (the prayer made by this Sūkta); mitraḥ — Mitra; varuṇaḥ — Varuṇa; aditiḥ — Aditi; sindhuḥ — the deity of the ocean; pṛthivī — the earth; uta — and; dyauḥ — the atmosphere (the deity of heaven and the rest); mamahantām — let (them) protect, let them approve."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"All the desired wealth that the Uṣases bring makes for auspiciousness for those who offer sacrifice and those who praise. Let Mitra, Varuṇa, Aditi, Sindhu, Earth and the deities of the atmosphere protect this praise or prayer that has been made by this Sūkta."

English Translation (as printed)

> Whatever valuable wealth the Ushasas convey, is beneficial to the sacrificer and to the praiser. May Mitra, Varuna, Aditi,—ocean, earth and heaven, be favourable to this our prayer.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अप्नः — Apnaḥ — "āptavyam": "worthy to be obtained, desired by all. The word apnas is stated among the twenty-six [as read] words denoting action (karma) (Ni. 2-1 [as read, [?]])."

चित्रम् — Citram — "cāyanīyaṃ pūjyam": "worthy of honour. The word citra is read (Ni. 3-?? and 3-? as read [?]) in the meaning 'cāyanīya', 'maṃhanīya' (worthy of honour, worthy to be given)."

शशमानाय — Śaśamānāya — "stutibhiḥ saṃbhajamānāya puruṣāya": "to the man who, praising with stotras, serves; that is, to the sacrificer. The Nirukta-writer —

Printed p. 96 (PDF 116; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 113")

— explaining the word śaśamāna ... [śaśamānaḥ śaṃsamānaḥ (Ni. 6-8 as read [?])] as 'śaṃsamāna', 'praising', says 'yo vāṃ yajñaiḥ śaśamāno ha dāśati ity api nigamo bhavati' ('there is also this Vedic passage'):

> यो वां यज्ञैः शशमानो ह दाशति कविर्होता यजति मन्मसाधनः । उपाह तं गच्छथो वीथो अध्वरमच्छा गिरः सुमतिं गन्तमस्मयू ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१५१-७ [as read; numeral small, [?]])
>
> yo vāṃ yajñaiḥ śaśamāno ha dāśati kavirhotā yajati manmasādhanaḥ | upāha taṃ gacchatho vītho adhvaramacchā giraḥ sumatiṃ gantamasmayū ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-151-7 [as read; numeral small, [?]])

— he has cited this Ṛk."

भद्रम् — Bhadram — "bhajanīyam": "worthy of being obtained. The goddess Uṣas gives wealth, which is the most worthy to be obtained, to those who perform sacrifice with oblations and to those who praise with stotras, with hymns of praise. The chief intention is that by the recitation of this Sūkta, which is in the form of a stotra of this goddess Uṣas, the deities Mitra, Varuṇa, Aditi, the ocean, Earth, the Atmosphere [and so on] may accept our prayer and show us favour."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 20; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on apnaḥ (āp(ḷ) "to obtain", with the sense of action given by āpaḥ karmākhyāyāṃ hrasvo nuṭ ca vā, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?]; since the word "bahulam" is wide in the Uṇādi, the suffix asun arises even when the sense of action is absent; the root vowel shortened; the augment nuṭ; the stem apnas; the first-syllable accent by jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?]), vahanti (vah "to carry", laṭ 3rd plural; no nighāta here, because yat precedes — yadvṛttānnityam [as printed, "nipātair yad yadi…", Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]]; the ending, being adupadeśa, unaccented, the root accent remains by tāsyanudāttet…), ījānāya (yaj, liṭ in the Vedic sense by chandasi liṭ… the kānac substitution by liṭaḥ kānajvā; the saṃprasāraṇa of the ya by vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti; doubling; the reduplication's ā-lengthening and elision of the consonant; citaḥ final accent; dative singular), śaśamānāya (śaś "to leap, to go"; cānaś by tācchīlyavayovacanaśaktiṣu cānaś; śap; the augment muk by āne muk, for the a of the stem…). (Continues on the next page.)

Printed p. 97 (PDF 117; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga 4" [small numeral as printed]; footer signature mark "IX 7")

Grammar page of Ṛk 20, concluded (noted briefly): śaśamānāya — the cānaś is sārvadhātuka, so adupadeśa causes the sārvadhātuka unaccentedness; since it is cit, the final syllable is accented by citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], and the accent is on the last syllable of the stem; dative singular as before. Bhadram (bhadi "to be auspicious, to be happy" [printed: bhadi kalyāṇe sukhe ca]; the Uṇādi suffix ra; the accent on the last syllable from the suffix). The other words were explained above. ‖ 20 ‖

Colophon: nūrahadimūraneya sūkta samāptavu — "The hundred-and-thirteenth Sūkta is ended."

(Printer's ornament.)

End of Sūkta 113 (Ṛks 1–20, printed pp. 2–97; Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 16). The page continues with the opening of Sūkta 114 (the one hundred-and-fourteenth, "imā rudrāya"), which is not part of this unit.

Sūkta 114 — imā rudrāya (printed pp. 97–?)

Printed p. 97, lower half (PDF 117) — introduction

श्रीः / सूक्तम् ११४ — Heading (Kannada): "nūrahadināl̤kaneya sūktavu" — "the hundred-and-fourteenth Sūkta."

Anukramaṇī (Sanskrit, as printed):

> इमा रुद्रायेत्येकादशर्चं नवमं सूक्तं कुत्सस्यार्षम् । दशम्येकादश्यौ त्रिष्टुभौ शिष्टा नव जगत्यः । रुद्रो देवता । तथा चानुक्रान्तम् । इमा एकादश रौद्रं द्विः त्रिष्टुबन्तमिति ॥

शूलगवादिषु रुद्रदेवत्येषु कर्मसु अनेन सूक्तेन दिगुपस्थेया । तथा च सूत्रितम् । कद्रुद्रायेमा रुद्रायो ते पितरिमा रुद्राय स्थिरधन्वने गिर इति सर्वरुद्रयज्ञेषु दिशामुपस्थानम् । आ. गृ. ४-८-३० । इति ॥

imā rudrāyetyekādaśarcaṃ navamaṃ sūktaṃ kutsasyārṣam | daśamyekādaśyau triṣṭubhau śiṣṭā nava jagatyaḥ | rudro devatā | tathā cānukrāntam | imā ekādaśa raudraṃ dviḥ triṣṭubantamiti ‖ śūlagavādiṣu rudradevatyeṣu karmasu anena sūktena digupastheyā | tathā ca sūtritam | kadrudrāyemā rudrāyo te pitarimā rudrāya sthiradhanvane gira iti sarvarudrayajñeṣu diśāmupasthānam | ā. gṛ. 4-8-30 | iti ‖

Sense: "'imā rudrāya' — the ninth sūkta (of this anuvāka), of eleven Ṛks, the ṛṣi's work being Kutsa's. The tenth and eleventh are Triṣṭubh, the remaining nine Jagatī. The deity is Rudra; so the Anukramaṇī says 'imā ekādaśa raudraṃ dviḥ triṣṭubantam'. In rites addressed to Rudra such as the śūlagava, the quarters are to be worshipped with this sūkta; and so the Sūtra says: 'kad rudrāya', 'imā rudrāya', 'yo te pitar' (?), 'imā rudrāya sthiradhanvane gira iti — in all Rudra sacrifices the worship of the quarters' (Āśv. Gṛ. 4-8-30 as printed [?])."

Anuvāda (Kannada): "This sūkta, imā rudrāya, is the ninth sūkta in the sixteenth anuvāka. It has eleven Ṛks. The ṛṣi is Kutsa, son of Aṅgiras; the deity is Rudra. The tenth and eleventh Ṛks are in Triṣṭubh metre; the others are Jagatī. In the Anukramaṇikā: 'imā ekādaśa raudraṃ dviḥ triṣṭubantam'. In the rites related to Rudra such as the śūlagava, the quarters are to be worshipped with this sūkta; it is explained by the Āśvalāyana Gṛhya-sūtra, 4-8-30 [as printed]."

Printed p. 98 (PDF 118; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …" and "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

सूक्त—११४ (Sūkta 114) ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—१६ ॥ सूक्त—११४ ॥ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय ८ ॥ वर्ग—५, ६ ॥ (small numerals; read as printed) Number of Ṛks: 11. Ṛṣi: Kutsa Āṅgirasa. Devatā: Rudra. Chandas: Ṛks 1–9 Jagatī; 10–11 Triṣṭubh.

Ṛk 1

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.1)

इमा रुद्राय तवसे कपर्दिने क्षयद्वीराय प्र भरामहे मतीः । यथा शमसद्द्विपदे चतुष्पदे विश्वं पुष्टं ग्रामे अस्मिन्ननातुरम् ॥ १ ॥

imā rudrāya tavase kapardine kṣayadvīrāya pra bharāmahe matīḥ | yathā śamasaddvipade catuṣpade viśvaṃ puṣṭaṃ grāme asminnanāturam ‖ 1 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.1)

इमाः । रुद्राय । तवसे । कपर्दिने । क्षयत्ऽवीराय । प्र । भरामहे । मतीः । यथा । शम् । असत् । द्विऽपदे । चतुःऽपदे । विश्वम् । पुष्टम् । ग्रामे । अस्मिन् । अनातुरम् ॥ १ ॥

imāḥ | rudrāya | tavase | kapardine | kṣayat 'vīrāya | pra | bharāmahe | matīḥ | yathā | śam | asat | dvi 'pade | catuḥ 'pade | viśvam | puṣṭam | grāme | asmin | anāturam ‖ 1 ‖

Printed p. 99 (PDF 119; header "Maṃ. …")

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.1)

रुद्राय । रोदयति सर्वमन्तकाल इति रुद्रः । यद्वा । रुशं संसाराख्यं दुःखं द्रावयति विनाशयतीति रुद्रः । यद्वा । रुतः शब्दरूपा उपनिषदः ताभिर्द्रूयते गम्यते प्रतिपाद्यत इति रुद्रः । यद्वा । रुत् शब्दात्मिका वाणी तत्प्रतिपाद्यापि विद्या वा तामुपासकेभ्यो राति ददातीति रुद्रः । यद्वा । रुणद्भ्याव्योतीति रुदेन्धकारादि [?] । तद्द्रावयति विदारयतीति रुद्रः । यद्वा । कदाचिद्देवासुरसंग्रामे ग्न्यात्मको रुद्रो देवैर्निक्षिप्तं धनमपहृत्य निरगात् । असुराञ्जित्वा देवा एनमन्विष्य दृष्ट्वा धनमपाहरन् । तदानीमरुदत् । तस्मादुद्र इत्याख्यायते । तथा च तैत्तिरीयकम् । सोऽरोदीद्यदरोदीत्तद्रुद्रस्य रुद्रत्वम् । तै. सं.१-५-१-१ । इति । तस्मै रुद्राय मतीर्मननीया इमा स्तुतीः प्र भरामहे । प्रकर्षेण निष्पादयामः । कीदृशाय । तवसे प्रवृद्धाय कपर्दिने जटिलाय क्षयद्वीराय क्षयन्तो विनश्यन्तो वीरा यस्मिन्नादृशाय । यद्वा । क्षयतिरैश्वर्यकर्मा । क्षयन्तः प्राप्तैश्वर्या वीरा मरुद्गणाः पुत्रा यस्य तस्मै । यथा येन प्रकारेण शं शमनीयानां रोगाणामुपशमनं द्विपदेऽस्मदीयाय मनुष्याय चतुष्पदे गवाश्वप्रभृतये चासत् भवेत् तेन प्रकारेण स्तुतीः कुर्म इत्यर्थः । अत्रोऽस्मिन्नस्मदीये ग्रामे वर्तमानं विश्वं सर्वं प्राणिजातमनातुरम् आतुरो रुग्णः । तद्रहितं सत् पुष्टं प्रवृद्धं भवतु ॥ [the grammatical tail follows in the print; the Sanskrit above is read letter by letter from small type; the words marked [?] are doubtful]

rudrāya | rodayati sarvamantakāla iti rudraḥ | yadvā | ruśaṃ saṃsārākhyaṃ duḥkhaṃ drāvayati vināśayatīti rudraḥ | yadvā | rutaḥ śabdarūpā upaniṣadaḥ tābhirdrūyate gamyate pratipādyata iti rudraḥ | yadvā | rut śabdātmikā vāṇī tatpratipādyāpi vidyā vā tāmupāsakebhyo rāti dadātīti rudraḥ | yadvā | ruṇadbhyāvyotīti rudendhakārādi [?] | taddrāvayati vidārayatīti rudraḥ | yadvā | kadāciddevāsurasaṃgrāme gnyātmako rudro devairnikṣiptaṃ dhanamapahṛtya niragāt | asurāñjitvā devā enamanviṣya dṛṣṭvā dhanamapāharan | tadānīmarudat | tasmādrudra ityākhyāyate | tathā ca taittirīyakam | so 'rodīdyadarodīttadrudrasya rudratvam | tai. saṃ. 1-5-1-1 | iti | tasmai rudrāya matīrmananīyā imā stutīḥ pra bharāmahe | prakarṣeṇa niṣpādayāmaḥ | kīdṛśāya | tavase pravṛddhāya kapardine jaṭilāya kṣayadvīrāya kṣayanto vinaśyanto vīrā yasminnādṛśāya | yadvā | kṣayatiraiśvaryakarmā | kṣayantaḥ prāptaiśvaryā vīrā marudgaṇāḥ putrā yasya tasmai | yathā yena prakāreṇa śaṃ śamanīyānāṃ rogāṇāmupaśamanaṃ dvipade 'smadīyāya manuṣyāya catuṣpade gavāśvaprabhṛtaye cāsat bhavet tena prakāreṇa stutīḥ kurma ityarthaḥ | atro 'sminnasmadīye grāme vartamānaṃ viśvaṃ sarvaṃ prāṇijātamanāturam āturo rugṇaḥ | tadrahitaṃ sat puṣṭaṃ pravṛddhaṃ bhavatu ॥ [the grammatical tail follows in the print; the Sanskrit above is read letter by letter from small type; the words marked [?] are doubtful]

Sense (mine): "Rudrāya — Rudra is he who makes all weep (rodayati) at the end of time; or he who drives away (drāvayati) the sorrow called saṃsāra; or he who is approached (drūyate) by the ruta — the Upaniṣads of the nature of sound; or he who gives (rāti) to his worshippers the rut, speech, or the knowledge taught by it; or he who rends the darkness [?]. Or: once, in a battle of gods and asuras, Rudra, of the nature of fire, took away the wealth the gods had deposited and went off; the gods, having conquered the asuras, sought him, found him, and took the wealth back; he then wept (arudat); hence he is called Rudra: so also the Taittirīya (Tai. Saṃ. 1-5-1-1 as printed [?]): 'He wept; that he wept is the Rudra-hood of Rudra'. To that Rudra we pra bharāmahe, we present, these matīḥ, thoughtful praises. To what sort of Rudra? Tavase — grown great; kapardine — with matted hair; kṣayadvīrāya — in whom heroes perish; or, kṣayati meaning lordship, he whose sons, the Marut hosts, are lords. So that (yathā) śam — cure of diseases — may be for our two-footed (men) and four-footed (cattle, horses…), in this way we make our praises. And may all the beings in this our village be anāturam, free from sickness, and puṣṭam, well nourished."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): tavase (tu "to grow", suffix asun by Uṇ., Uṇ. number as read "2-?? [?]"); kṣayadvīrāya (kṣi "to dwell, to rule"; śatṛ with the Vedic accent: a bahuvrīhi, first member keeps its accent); asat (as "to be", leṭ with the augment aṭ, the i elided); dvipade (dvau pādau yasya; pād → pad by saṃkhyāsupūrvasya [Pā. 5-4-140 as read, [?]]); catuṣpade (svarasya… bahuvrīhi first-member accent, sañjñā); ātura (tur "to hurry" with ā; the first-syllable accent).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (printed on pp. 99–100)

"tavase — (to) him who is of great strength; kapardine — (to) him who bears matted locks on his head; kṣayadvīrāya — (to) him who destroys enemy heroes in battle, or [him who] is lordly, and who has heroes (the Marut deities) as sons; rudrāya — (to) Rudra (who, at the time of dissolution, makes all weep; or who destroys the sorrow of saṃsāra; or who is conveyed in words — known by the upaniṣads; or who gives to his worshippers the desired objects; or who removes the darkness of ignorance; or [the story:] when in a battle of gods and asuras this Rudra took away the wealth deposited, the gods, after conquering the asuras, sought him and took back the wealth; then Rudra wept in sorrow — therefore he is called Rudra) —

Printed p. 100 (PDF 120; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

— imāḥ matīḥ — these stotras of ours, made with thought; pra bharāmahe — (with devotion) we offer; yathā — in what way (by thus offering the stotras); dvipade — for us men who have two feet; catuṣpade — for cattle, horses and other four-footed creatures; śam — happiness free from disease and other calamities; asat — shall come; asmin grāme — in this village (where we dwell); viśvam — all the creatures (humans and others); anāturam — free from disease; puṣṭam — and nourished: such a Rudra we offer these stotras to."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"To the deity called Rudra — of great strength, bearing matted hair on the head, destroyer of enemy heroes in battle, or [one] who has the lordly Marut deities as sons — we offer these stotras with devotion. By offering the stotras thus, may there be happiness, free from diseases and calamities, for men and for cattle and other beasts; and that all creatures, men and others, in this our village may be free from disease and be nourished, we offer these stotras with devotion to Rudra."

English Translation (as printed)

> We offer these praises to the mighty Rudra, with the braided hair, the destroyer of heroes, in order that health may be enjoyed by bipeds, and quadrupeds, and that all beings in this village may be (well) nourished and exempt from disease.

Printed p. 101 (PDF 121; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

रुद्राय — Rudrāya. "Sāyaṇa has explained the word rudra in six ways. The word rudra is formed from the root ruḍ in the causative (ṇic). Yāska says 'rudro rauty-ucyamāno ruroyamāṇo dravati vā rodayater vā' [as printed: rudro rauti śabdaṃ karoti…] — rudra is he who makes a sound (rauti, from ru, stan 'thunders'), i.e. one who thunders like a cloud; or who runs (dravati) making a sound, in the middle of the sky; or from rodayati, 'makes to weep': he who makes the enemies weep, i.e. makes them rule [?] by his works — so he explains. Further, following the history related in the Kauṣītaki [Brāhmaṇa — as read, 'kauṣohanisathi', doubtful [?]] — that Prajāpati, seeing his own daughter, was struck by arrows and made distressed — or following the intention of a branch of the Maitrāyaṇīya school, 'yad arodīt tad rudrasya rudratvam': because he wept he is Rudra (Ni. 10-? as read [?]) he has explained the sense of the word. Sāyaṇa's explanation of the word rudra is other than this: that at the time of dissolution he makes all weep; or destroys the sorrow of saṃsāra; or, because he is pratipādya (to be taught) by the Upaniṣads of the nature of sound; or because he teaches self-knowledge to seekers of self-knowledge; or because he destroys the ignorance that veils knowledge as a cloud veils light: thus having shown the different meanings of the word rudra arising from the meaning of the root ruta…"

"And in the opinion of the Itihāsa-writers, according to the history specified, he explains the sense of the word rudra, from the root rudir 'to shed tears' (aśruvimocane), by the śruti-statement 'so 'rodīd yad arodīt tad rudrasya rudratvam' (Tai. Saṃ. 1-5-1-1 as printed [?]). From this the greatness of Rudra and the cause of his hostility toward living beings become manifest."

मतीः — Matīḥ — "mananīyāḥ": worthy of thought. "Among the forty-four [as read] arcati-names 'arcati, gāyati' and so on, the word manyate is stated (Ni. 3-14 as read [?]); so the meaning is 'worthy of worship' or 'praise'."

तवसे — Tavase — "pravṛddhāya": "since the word tavas is read among the twenty-eight [as read] names of strength 'ojaḥ, pājaḥ' (Ni. 2-9 as read [?]), the meaning is 'strong'."

क्षयद्वीराय — Kṣayadvīrāya — "kṣayanto vinaśyanto vīrā yasmin tādṛśāya | yadvā …"

"… kṣayante prāptaiśvaryāḥ vīrāḥ marudgaṇāḥ yasya: Sāyaṇa explains this word as an epithet of Rudra, 'one who destroys heroes, or one who has as sons the Marut hosts, who possess lordship'. Skandasvāmin, explaining the word in the way Sāyaṇa did, says:

> क्षयद्वीरायेति — क्षि निवासगत्योः इत्यस्य क्षियतेर्वा गतिकर्मणो रूपं शुद्धोऽपि चात्र सामर्थ्यात् अभिपूर्वार्थे द्रष्टव्यम् । वीराणामपि शत्रूणामभिगन्ता क्षयद्वीरः । आत्मीयानां वीराणामभिप्रेतेषु निवासयिता क्षयद्वीरः ॥
>
> kṣayadvīrāyeti — kṣi nivāsagatyoḥ ityasya kṣiyatervā gatikarmaṇo rūpaṃ śuddho 'pi cātra sāmarthyāt abhipūrvārthe draṣṭavyam | vīrāṇāmapi śatrūṇāmabhigantā kṣayadvīraḥ | ātmīyānāṃ vīrāṇāmabhipreteṣu nivāsayitā kṣayadvīraḥ ‖

— the word kṣayat, contained in the word kṣayadvīra, has the sense of 'dwelling' and 'going' (from the root kṣi), and, though the prefix abhi is not there, conveys the meaning of the prefix abhi. He explains the meaning: 'kṣayadvīra — one who goes against heroic enemies and fights them; or one who causes his own heroes to dwell in the places they desire'."

शम् — Śam — "since the word śam is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of happiness 'śiṃbātā, śatarā' (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), the meaning is 'happiness'. Yāska, in explaining the word śaṃyoḥ (śaṃ ca yoś ca), says 'śaṃ śamanaṃ ca rogāṇām' — the cure of diseases and happiness; and he cites this Mantra to give the sense of happiness —

> अग्निदेवमुमते त्वं मन्यासै शं च नस्कृधि । क्रत्वे दक्षाय नो हि नु प्रण आयूंषि तारिषः ॥ [first words doubtful [?]] (वा. सं. ३८-५ [as read; Vājasaneyi-saṃhitā]) "
>
> agnidevamumate tvaṃ manyāsai śaṃ ca naskṛdhi | kratve dakṣāya no hi nu praṇa āyūṃṣi tāriṣaḥ ‖ [first words doubtful [?]] (vā. saṃ. 38-5 [as read; Vājasaneyi-saṃhitā]) "

द्विपदे — Dvipade — "dvau pādāv asya": one who has two feet.

यथा शम् असत् — Yathā śam asat — "the word asat is formed from the root as 'to be'. Sāyaṇa explains this as 'bhavet' (may be), and Skandasvāmin as 'bhavati' (is). The purport is: we praise Rudra so that he may favour us, that all who live in our dwelling — men with two feet, and beasts with four feet, with others besides — may live in comfort, free from disease."

Printed p. 103 (PDF 123; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 1; grammar page, noted briefly)

Grammar page on rudrāya (rudir "to shed tears"; the suffix rak by roder nir luk ca (Uṇ. 2-?? as read [?]); being kit, no guṇa of the penultimate; accent from the suffix; dative singular), tavase (tu "to grow", a root fixed by sūtra in the sense of growth; Uṇādi suffix asi/asun; the a accented by the suffix; dative), kṣayadvīrāya (kṣi "to dwell/to rule"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; guṇa and ayādeśa; chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], making the śatṛ ārdhadhātuka; the accent of the sārvadhātuka being unaccented because of adupadeśa, the udātta of the root remains; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam — first-member accent; dative), bharāmahe (bhṛñ "to bear", laṭ 1st plural; nighāta), yathā (nipātasya ca — lengthening in the Saṃhitā, Pā. 6-3-136 as read [?]), asat (as "to be", leṭ 3rd singular; the augment aṭ by leṭo 'ḍāṭau; elision of i by itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu; nighāta prevented by nipātair yad yadi… because yathā precedes, Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]), dvipade (dvau pādau asya — dvipāt; saṃkhyāsupūrvasya, Pā. 5-4-140 as read [?], the final elision of pāda; pād → pad by pāde pat, Pā. 6-4-130 as read [?]; the rule that the part-change does not apply separately (ekadeśavikṛtam ananyavat, Paribh. 33 [?]); dvitribhyāṃ pād-daN-mūrdhasu bahuvrīhau, Pā. 6-2-197 as read [?], the first syllable of the later member accented).

Printed p. 104 (PDF 124; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

Grammar page, concluded: catuṣpade (catvāraḥ pādā asya; as before; the first-member accent by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?]; since catur ends in r, the first syllable is accented by kṛṣṇasaṃkhyāyoḥ [as printed "phiṣ saṃkhyāyoḥ, Phi. 2-?"]); puṣṭam (puṣ "to nourish", niṣṭhā — kta; ṭatva of the t after ṣ; final accent from the suffix; accusative singular); anāturam (na vidyate āturaḥ yasya; nañsubhyām — Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], the later member's first-syllable accent); asmin (ūḍidaṃpadādi, Pā. 6-1-171 as read [?], the accent of the ending). ‖ 1 ‖

Ṛk 2

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.2)

मृळा नो रुद्रोत नो मयस्कृधि क्षयद्वीराय नमसा विधेम ते । यच्छं च योश्च मनुरायेजे पिता तदश्याम तव रुद्र प्रणीतिषु ॥ २ ॥

mṛḷā no rudrota no mayaskṛdhi kṣayadvīrāya namasā vidhema te | yacchaṃ ca yośca manurāyeje pitā tadaśyāma tava rudra praṇītiṣu ‖ 2 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.2)

मृळ । नः । रुद्र । उत । नः । मयः । कृधि । क्षयत्ऽवीराय । नमसा । विधेम । ते ॥ यत् । शम् । च । योः । च । मनुः । आऽयेजे । पिता । तत् । अश्याम । तव । रुद्र । प्रऽनीतिषु ॥ २ ॥

mṛḷa | naḥ | rudra | uta | naḥ | mayaḥ | kṛdhi | kṣayat 'vīrāya | namasā | vidhema | te ‖ yat | śam | ca | yoḥ | ca | manuḥ | ā 'yeje | pitā | tat | aśyāma | tava | rudra | pra 'nītiṣu ‖ 2 ‖

Printed p. 105 (PDF 125; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.2)

रुद्रदेवत्ये पशौ वपापुरोडाशयोर्मृळा नो रुद्रेत्यादिके द्वे अनुवाक्ये । तथा च सूत्रितम् । मृळा नो रुद्रोत नो मयस्कृधीति द्वे आ ते पितर्मरुतां सुम्नमेतु । आश्व. ३-८ [?] । इति ॥ हे रुद्र नोऽस्मभ्यमस्मदर्थं मृळ । शं सुखयिता भव । उताप्यपि च तदनन्तरं नोऽस्माकं मयः सुखं कृधि । कुरु । वयं च क्षयद्वीराय प्रसृतसर्ववीरं प्राप्तैश्वर्यैर्मरुद्भिर्युक्तं वा ते त्वां नमसा हविर्लक्षणेनान्नेन नमस्कारेण वा विधेम । परिचरेम । विधतिः परिचरणकर्मा । अपि च पिता उत्पादको मनुः स्वकीयेभ्यः प्रजाभ्यः शं रोगाणां शमनं योश्च भयानां यावनं च यदेतद्द्वयमायेजे देवेभ्यः सकाशात्प्राप्य दत्तवान् । हे रुद्र तव प्रणीतिषु प्रकृष्टनयनेषु सत्सु तद्द्वयमश्यामः । व्याप्नुयाम ॥

rudradevatye paśau vapāpuroḍāśayormṛḷā no rudretyādike dve anuvākye | tathā ca sūtritam | mṛḷā no rudrota no mayaskṛdhīti dve ā te pitarmarutāṃ sumnametu | āśva. 3-8 [?] | iti ‖ he rudra no 'smabhyamasmadarthaṃ mṛḷa | śaṃ sukhayitā bhava | utāpyapi ca tadanantaraṃ no 'smākaṃ mayaḥ sukhaṃ kṛdhi | kuru | vayaṃ ca kṣayadvīrāya prasṛtasarvavīraṃ prāptaiśvaryairmarudbhiryuktaṃ vā te tvāṃ namasā havirlakṣaṇenānnena namaskāreṇa vā vidhema | paricarema | vidhatiḥ paricaraṇakarmā | api ca pitā utpādako manuḥ svakīyebhyaḥ prajābhyaḥ śaṃ rogāṇāṃ śamanaṃ yośca bhayānāṃ yāvanaṃ ca yadetaddvayamāyeje devebhyaḥ sakāśātprāpya dattavān | he rudra tava praṇītiṣu prakṛṣṭanayaneṣu satsu taddvayamaśyāmaḥ | vyāpnuyāma ‖

Sense (mine): "For the animal sacrifice addressed to Rudra, 'mṛḷā no rudra' and 'uta no' are the two anuvākyā verses for the omentum and the cake; and the Sūtra says 'mṛḷā no rudra uta no mayas kṛdhi — these two; and ā te pitar marutāṃ sumnam etu' (Āśv. 3-8 as read [?]). O Rudra, be gracious to us — mṛḷa, be a giver of śam, comfort; and then also make mayas, happiness, for us. And we vidhema, serve (the root vidh means ‘to attend on’) thee, kṣayadvīrāya — who hast heroes spread out everywhere, or who art joined by the Maruts who have lordship — with namasā, food in the form of oblation, or salutation. And that pair, śam (cure of diseases) and yoḥ (driving off of fears), which our progenitor Manu obtained from the gods and gave (āyeje) to his own people — O Rudra, may we reach that pair, under thy praṇīti, thy excellent guidance.”

Grammatical tail: mṛḷa (mṛḍ “to be gracious”, tudādi; dyāv → lengthening in the Saṃhitā); kṛdhi (kṛ with hi → dhi, u elided by śruśṛṇupṛkṛvṛbhyaś chandasi hedhiḥ); mayaḥ (the visarga); kṣayadvīrāya (the verb-governing dative); vidhema (vidh “to arrange/serve”, tudādi); āyeje (yaj, liṭ, saṃprasāraṇa not applied before the e: vityabhyāsalopaḥ); aśyāma (aśū “to pervade”, the parasmaipada by vyatyaya; vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi). (Sūtra numbers small; not given.)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he rudra — O Rudra; naḥ — to us; mṛḷa — make comfort; uta — and; naḥ — to us; mayaḥ kṛdhi — make happiness (we also); kṣayadvīrāya — (to) him who has destroyed heroes; te — to you (or, to thy self); namasā — with oblation or salutations (praising and so on); vidhema — let us serve; he rudra — O Rudra; pitā — the progenitor; manuḥ — Manu (for his own descendants); śam — the cure of disease and so on; yoḥ — freedom from fear; yat — which (of the two); ā yeje — obtained from the gods and gave; tat — those; tava — thy; praṇītiṣu — under the leading of thy [kindly] look; aśyāma — may we obtain (from thee).”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Rudra, be gracious to us; make happiness for us; we also serve thee with oblations and salutations. May thou graciously favour us, who trust in thee alone, with the freedom from diseases and the freedom from fears which Manu, the primal ancestor of us all, obtained from the deities and gave to us.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Be gracious to us, Rudra ; grant us happiness, for we worship the destroyer of heroes with oblations ; and by your directions, Rudra, may we obtain that freedom from disease and exemption from dangers which our progenitor, Manu, bestowed upon us, (having obtained them from the gods.)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

“Of the Ṛks in the vapā and purodāśa offerings related to Rudra, the first two, ‘mṛḷā no rudra’, are to be used as puroanuvākyā mantras, says the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra, citing ‘mṛḷā no rudro ta no mayas kṛdhīti dve ā te pitar marutāṃ sumnam etu’ (Āś. 3-8 as read [?]).”

मयः — Mayaḥ — “sukham”: happiness. “The word mayas is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of happiness (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]).”

क्षयद्वीराय — Kṣayadvīrāya — "kṣapitasarvavīraṃ prāptaiśvaryair marudbhir yuktaṃ vā": "the meaning of this word has been explained in the previous Ṛk. The Nirukta-writer explains it as 'one who has the strength to destroy heroes' (vīrān kṣapayati), and cites —

> इमा रुद्राय स्थिरधन्वने गिरः क्षिप्रेषवे देवाय स्वधाव्ने । अषाळ्हाय सहमानाय वेधसे तिग्मायुधाय भरता शृणोतु नः ॥ (नि.१०-२ and ऋ.सं.२-३३-६ [as read])
>
> imā rudrāya sthiradhanvane giraḥ kṣipreṣave devāya svadhāvne | aṣāḷhāya sahamānāya vedhase tigmāyudhāya bharatā śṛṇotu naḥ ‖ (ni. 10-2 and ṛ. saṃ. 2-33-6 [as read])

as an example of this Ṛk" —

> दृढधन्वने — स्थिरधन्वने । क्षिप्रेषवे — शीघ्रं बाणान् मुञ्चते । देवाय — दानादिगुणयुक्ताय । स्वधाव्ने — अन्नवते । अषाळ्हाय —
>
> dṛḍhadhanvane — sthiradhanvane | kṣipreṣave — śīghraṃ bāṇān muñcate | devāya — dānādiguṇayuktāya | svadhāvne — annavate | aṣāḷhāya —

Printed p. 107 (PDF 127; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

> — इतरेण तिरस्कारं अप्राप्ताय । सहमानाय — शत्रूनभिभवित्रे । तिग्मायुधाय — तीक्ष्णायुधवते । रुद्राय — रुद्राय । इमा गिरः — इमाः स्तुतीः ।
>
> — itareṇa tiraskāraṃ aprāptāya | sahamānāya — śatrūnabhibhavitre | tigmāyudhāya — tīkṣṇāyudhavate | rudrāya — rudrāya | imā giraḥ — imāḥ stutīḥ |

"'sthiradhanvane' — to him of firm bow; 'kṣipreṣave' — who quickly looses arrows; 'devāya' — endowed with the qualities of giving and the like; 'svadhāvne' — who has food; 'aṣāḷhāya' — who has never been overcome (insulted) by another; 'sahamānāya' — who always overcomes enemies; 'tigmāyudhāya' — who has sharp weapons; 'rudrāya' — to Rudra; 'imā giraḥ' — these praises': he explains the meaning 'we speak these stotras'. On the matter that the Maruts are the sons of Rudra —

> प्र यो शुम्भन्ते जनयो न सप्तयो यामन्रुद्रस्य सूनवः सुदंससः । रोदसी हि मरुतश्चक्रिरे वृधे मदन्ति वीरा विदथेषु घृष्वयः ॥ (ऋ.सं.१-८५-१ [as read])
>
> pra yo śumbhante janayo na saptayo yāmanrudrasya sūnavaḥ sudaṃsasaḥ | rodasī hi marutaścakrire vṛdhe madanti vīrā vidatheṣu ghṛṣvayaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-85-1 [as read])

— as said in this Ṛk, the Maruts are the sons of Rudra, and their excellence also is described as exceeding."

मृळ — Mṛḷa — "tvaṃ sukhayitā bhava: 'do thou give happiness.' From the root mṛḍa 'to be gracious', in the sense 'make happy'; the address to Rudra by 'mṛḷa' and the request 'mayaskṛdhi' — 'give happiness' — is described here. From this the greatness of Rudra — that he subdues the wicked and protects those who take refuge in him — becomes plain."

मनुरा येजे पिता — Manur āyeje pitā — "pitā manuḥ — Manu, the father; śaṃ ca rogāṇāṃ śamanaṃ yoś ca bhayānāṃ yāvanaṃ ca: [the pair] the quieting of diseases, and the keeping-off of fears: Sāyaṇa explains that Manu worshipped thee, having obtained these from the deities, with sacrifices. Skandasvāmin, making the construction go in the same sense, explains that śam means the cessation of diseases come from the past, and that yoḥ means the keeping-off of those that may come later through distress (aniṣṭa); and that Manu worshipped Rudra with sacrifice and obtained both for his people."

मनुः — Manu:* "Though the name Manu is read in many places in the Ṛgveda, a fuller account is nowhere found. Manu may be understood as the primal ancestor of the Mānava line and the guide in the order of performing sacrifices. [Here follows a legend:] When he was giving his estate to his sons, the youngest, Nābhānediṣṭha, was studying in the gurukula as a brahmacārin; so no share had been left for him; having finished his studies he came and, to ask for his share, asked his father (Manu); [Manu told him]: 'Go to the place where the Aṅgirases are performing a sacrifice; if you teach them certain mantras they will give you as much wealth as you want' —" (continues on the next page)

"… [the Aṅgirases] would give him wealth': so [Manu] said." (The sentence is cut at the top of the page; the sense is as above.) "This story is told in the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa and in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā of the Yajurveda; since the sacrifice made by this Manu is famous, the matter of Manu's sacrifice is alluded to in various places in the Ṛgveda. The matter of this Manu is stated also outside the Ṛgveda: in the Atharvaveda; the Taittirīya Saṃhitā (references printed as a cluster of small numerals — 1-5-1-3 [?], 2-5-1-3 [?], 3-1-6-1 [?], 3-1-9-4 [?], 5-… [?] — I cannot read them reliably); the Kāṭhaka Saṃhitā; the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa; the Jaiminīya Upaniṣad-Brāhmaṇa (3-?-? [?]); and other places."

"Manu has many names: since he is the son of Vivasvān (Ṛ. Saṃ. 8-?-? as read [?]) — a deity, Vivasvat — he is Vaivasvata (Atharva 8-?-? [?]; Śatapatha Br. 13-4-3-3 as read [?]); since he belongs to the family of Savarṇā he is Sāvarṇi; since he belongs to the line of Saṃvaraṇa he is Sāṃvaraṇi (Ṛ. Saṃ. 9-?-? as read [?])."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 2; grammar page, noted briefly)

mṛḷa (mṛḍa "to be gracious", tudādi; loṭ 2nd singular, hi for sip; the śa class-sign; hi elided by ato heḥ, Pā. 6-4-105 as read [?]; since śa is ṅit-like there is no guṇa of the penultimate; the Saṃhitā lengthening dγaicotastijaḥ [as printed, [?]], since the root has two syllables [as printed]); kṛdhi (ḍukṛñ "to do", loṭ 2nd singular; hi; bahulaṃ chandasi — the vikaraṇa elided; the śruśṛṇupṛkṛvṛbhyaś chandasi, Pā. 6-4-102 as read [?], hi → dhi, no guṇa of i; nighāta since a tiṅ follows an accented word; in mayaḥ kṛdhi the s of mayas takes kṛ-kami … giving ṣatva by ataḥ kṛkamikaṃsa…, Pā. 8-3-46 as read [?]); kṣayadvīrāya (the explanation is in the previous Ṛk; the mention of "doing" in kriγāgrahaṇaṃ kartavγam, Pā. 1-4-32 as read [?], gives the dative sense sampradāna, so the fourth case); vidhema (vidh "to arrange", tudādi; liṅ 1st plural jhi/mas, with dus[?]; nitγaṃ ṅitaḥ, Pā. 3-4-99 as read [?], elision of the s; tudādibhγaḥ śaḥ; the γāsuṭ augment on the liṅ; ato γeγaḥ, Pā. 7-2-80 as read [?], iγ for γā; guṇa; elision of γ by lopo vγor vali; nighāta).

Grammar page, concluded: āyeje (yaj “to worship, to unite, to give”; liṭ 3rd singular, ta; the ta replaced by ire/e by liṭas tajhayor eśirec, Pā. 3-4-81 as read [?]; since the saṃjñāpūrvako vidhir anityaḥ the saṃprasāraṇa is not applied here; doubling; the elision of the reduplication’s a before the e by atekāhalmadhye ’bhyāsasya, Pā. 6-4-120 as read [?]; the root’s ḥ… ekāra; since cavāyogo prathamā (Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]) prevents nighāta, the suffix being cit, the end is accented; tiṅo ’ṅgitaḥ… the ā is unaccented); aśyāma (aśū “to pervade”; by vyatyayo bahulam parasmaipada; liṅ 1st plural; mas → mus; nityaṃ ṅitaḥ, elision of the s; yāsuṭ parasmaipadeṣūdātto ṅicca, Pā. 3-4-103 as read [?]; the vikaraṇa elided by bahulaṃ chandasi; nighāta); praṇītiṣu (ṇīñ “to carry”; ktin in the abstract sense by striyāṃ ktin, Pā. 3-3-94 as read [?]; locative plural; the first-member accent). ‖ 2 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 3

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.3)

अश्याम ते सुमतिं देवयज्यया क्षयद्वीरस्य तव रुद्र मीढ्वः । सुम्नायन्निद्विशो अस्माकमा चरारिष्टवीरा जुहवाम ते हविः ॥ ३ ॥

aśyāma te sumatiṃ devayajyayā kṣayadvīrasya tava rudra mīḍhvaḥ | sumnāyannidviśo asmākamā carāriṣṭavīrā juhavāma te haviḥ ‖ 3 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.3)

अश्याम । ते । सुऽमतिम् । देवऽयज्यया । क्षयत्ऽवीरस्य । तव । रुद्र । मीळ्हुः ॥ सुम्नऽयन् । इत् । विशः । अस्माकम् । आ । चर । अरिष्टऽवीराः । जुहवाम । ते । हविः ॥ ३ ॥

aśyāma | te | su ’matim | deva ’yajyayā | kṣayat ’vīrasya | tava | rudra | mīḷhuḥ ‖
sumna ’yan | it | viśaḥ | asmākam | ā | cara | ariṣṭa ’vīrāḥ | juhavāma | te | haviḥ ‖ 3 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.3)

हे मीळ्हः सेक्तः कामाभिवर्षक नित्यतरुणो वा रुद्र क्षयद्वीरस्य क्षपितप्रतिपक्षस्य मरुद्भिर्युक्तस्य वा तव सुमतिं शोभनां कल्याणीमनुग्रहात्मिकां बुद्धिं ते त्वत्सम्बन्धिनो वयं देवयज्यया देवयागेन त्वद्देवत्येन यज्ञेनाश्याम प्राप्नुयाम । त्वं चास्माकं विशः प्रजा अभिलक्ष्याचर । आगच्छ । किं कुर्वन् । सुम्नायन्नित् । सुम्नमिति सुखनाम । तासां प्रजानां सुखमिच्छन्नेव सुखप्रद एव भवेत्यर्थः । तथोऽरिष्टवीराः । वीर्यार्जायन्त इति वीराः प्रजाः । अरिष्टा अहिंसिता वीरा येषां तथाभूताः सन्तो वयं ते तुभ्यं हविःरूपपुरोडाशादिकं जुहवाम । चोदिते आधारे प्रक्षिपाम । सुमतिम् । मतिर्मननम् । शोभनं मननं यस्यां बुद्धौ सा सुमतिः । [grammatical tail follows in the print: mīḷhvaḥ — mih “to sprinkle”, kvasu by dāśvān sāhvān mīḍhvān, nominal, the vocative; sumnāyan — kyac in the sense of desiring; etc.]

he mīḷhaḥ sektaḥ kāmābhivarṣaka nityataruṇo vā rudra kṣayadvīrasya kṣapitapratipakṣasya marudbhiryuktasya vā tava sumatiṃ śobhanāṃ kalyāṇīmanugrahātmikāṃ buddhiṃ te tvatsambandhino vayaṃ devayajyayā devayāgena tvaddevatyena yajñenāśyāma prāpnuyāma | tvaṃ cāsmākaṃ viśaḥ prajā abhilakṣyācara | āgaccha | kiṃ kurvan | sumnāyannit | sumnamiti sukhanāma | tāsāṃ prajānāṃ sukhamicchanneva sukhaprada eva bhavetyarthaḥ | tatho 'riṣṭavīrāḥ | vīryārjāyanta iti vīrāḥ prajāḥ | ariṣṭā ahiṃsitā vīrā yeṣāṃ tathābhūtāḥ santo vayaṃ te tubhyaṃ haviḥrūpapuroḍāśādikaṃ juhavāma | codite ādhāre prakṣipāma | sumatim | matirmananam | śobhanaṃ mananaṃ yasyāṃ buddhau sā sumatiḥ | [grammatical tail follows in the print: mīḷhvaḥ — mih "to sprinkle", kvasu by dāśvān sāhvān mīḍhvān, nominal, the vocative; sumnāyan — kyac in the sense of desiring; etc.]

Sense (mine): "O mīḷhvaḥ — sprinkler, one who showers desires, or always-young Rudra — may we, belonging to thee, aśyāma, obtain by devayajyayā, by sacrifice to the gods, to thee as deity, the sumati, the excellent, auspicious, graciously-disposed mind (buddhi) of thee, kṣayadvīrasya, who hast destroyed adversaries or art joined with the Maruts. And do thou ā cara, come to our viśaḥ, subjects, descendants. Doing what? Sumnāyann it — sumna is a name for happiness; wishing happiness to those people, be only a giver of happiness. And we, ariṣṭavīrāḥ — having sons (heroes, vīrāḥ, offspring) unhurt — juhavāma te haviḥ, offer thee oblations such as cakes into the sacrificial fire. Sumatim — mati is thinking: sumati is that understanding in which there is good thinking."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (begun on p. 110, completed on p. 111)

"mīḍhvaḥ — O one who grants the desired objects, or who is ever young; rudra — O Rudra; kṣayadvīrasya — of thee, who destroyest opposing heroes or art joined with the Marut deities; tava — thy; sumatim — graciously-disposed (favouring) understanding; te — (we) who belong to thee; devayajyayā — by the sacrifices made for the gods; aśyāma — may we obtain; (tvaṃ ca — and thou); asmākam — our; viśaḥ — people (descendants)…

Printed p. 111 (PDF 131; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

… udveśi [as printed, [?]] (?); sumnāyan it — being a giver of happiness only; ā cara — come (afterwards, we); ariṣṭavīrāḥ — having children free from sorrow; te — to thee; haviḥ — caru, purodāśa and the like; juhavāma — we offer in the fire."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Rudra, who grantest what we desire, may thy favour be upon us the sacrificers; come, giving happiness to our children; we, endowed with sorrow-free children, offer thee caru and purodāśa and the rest."

English Translation (as printed)

> Rudra, showerer (of benefits), may we obtain, through our worship of the gods, the favour of you, the destroyer of heroes : come to our posterity, purposing to promote their happiness, while we, having our sons in safety, offer you oblations.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

मीळ्हः — Mīḷhaḥ — "kāmābhivarṣaka nityataruṇo vā": "Sāyaṇa says: one who fulfils the wishes of those who take refuge in him, or one who is always enjoying youthful vigour. Skandasvāmin says the word mīḍhva arises from the root mih with the sense 'to sprinkle' — [mīḍhvān = one who sprinkles] — one who sprinkles with the water that is called rain; or mīḍhvān is a Vedic form of mīḍhaṃ = wealth, [giving] 'wealth'. Mīḷhuṣ is read among the twenty-eight [as read] names of wealth (Ni. 2-10 as read [?]). Sāyaṇa explains that the word mīḍhvas, since it conveys 'wealth', with the matup suffix, means 'Rudra who has wealth'."

सुमतिम् — Sumatim — "matir mananam | śobhanaṃ mananaṃ yasyāṃ buddhau sā sumatiḥ | śobhanāṃ kalyāṇīm anugrahātmikāṃ buddhim": "manana means firm resolve: an understanding that is a steadfast resolve that there be welfare for us all. The prayer to Rudra is that he should accept our salutations and our oblations. The word sumati —

> वैश्वानरस्य सुमतौ स्याम राजा हि कं भुवनानामभिश्रीः । (ऋ. सं. १-९८-१ [as read])
>
> vaiśvānarasya sumatau syāma rājā hi kaṃ bhuvanānāmabhiśrīḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-98-1 [as read])

(Ṛ. 1-98-1 as just cited; Ni. 2-?? as read [?]): "... in this Ṛk and in other Ṛks the word [sumati] is used in the sense of 'kalyāṇī matiḥ', auspicious understanding —

> धाता ददातु दाशुषे प्राचीं जीवातुमक्षिताम् । वयं देवस्य सुमतिं सत्यधर्मणः ॥ (अथ. सं. ७-१२-३ [as read])
>
> dhātā dadātu dāśuṣe prācīṃ jīvātumakṣitām | vayaṃ devasya sumatiṃ satyadharmaṇaḥ ‖ (atha. saṃ. 7-12-3 [as read])
>
> अङ्गिरसो नः पितरो नवग्वा अथर्वाणो भृगवः सोम्यासः । तेषां वयं सुमतौ यज्ञियानामपि भद्रे सौमनसे स्याम ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-१४-६ [as read])"
>
> aṅgiraso naḥ pitaro navagvā atharvāṇo bhṛgavaḥ somyāsaḥ | teṣāṃ vayaṃ sumatau yajñiyānāmapi bhadre saumanase syāma ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-14-6 [as read])"

सुम्नायन् [sic as heading: sumnāyan; the print's heading is Sumnāyan] — "sumna is read among the twenty-eight [as read] names of happiness (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]); so it conveys the meaning 'happiness'. The sense is: Rudra, accepting the oblations we offer, will favour with happiness those who honour him with salutations, and their children."

अरिष्टवीराः — Ariṣṭavīrāḥ — "ariṣṭā ahiṃsitā vīrā yeṣāṃ tathābhūtāḥ | vīryārjāyanta iti vīrāḥ prajāḥ": "Though, following the grammatical derivation, the word vīra has various meanings, here the sense is 'offspring (sons), born of virility'. The Nirukta-writer interprets it likewise —

> शिक्षा स्तोतृभ्यो माति धग्भगो नो बृहद्वदेम विदथे सुवीराः । (ऋ. सं. २-११-२१ [as read])
>
> śikṣā stotṛbhyo māti dhagbhago no bṛhadvadema vidathe suvīrāḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-11-21 [as read])

— citing this Ṛk. Here Rudra is prayed to: may no harm come to our sons and the like. Skandasvāmin: 'ariṣṭavīrāḥ — ahiṃsitaputrapautrāḥ': 'we, with sons and grandsons unharmed, shall be so,' he says."

इत् / विशः — It / Viśaḥ — "prajāḥ": "Among the nipātas some convey a meaning; others are meaningless and exist for completing the sentence. Here the word it is for filling out the line. Sāyaṇa explains the word viśaḥ as 'descendants'; abhilakṣya ācara means 'look upon our children and favour them' — that is the prayer. Skandasvāmin says the same: 'viśaḥ — manuṣyān asmākaṃ sambandhinaḥ putrapautrādīn ṛtvijo vā prati ācara' — 'to our people, our related sons and grandsons, or to the priests [officiating], come' — that is, having looked at us men, our sons and grandsons, or the priests, may he favour them."

Printed p. 113 (PDF 133; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 3; grammar page, noted briefly)

aśyāma (as it stands at the beginning of the pāda there is no nighāta; the process was explained in the earlier Ṛk; the first syllable accented from the suffix), sumatim (man "to know", ktin in the abstract sense; "śobhanaṃ mananaṃ yasyāṃ buddhau sā sumatiḥ"; nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], the later member's first-syllable accent; accusative singular), devayajyayā (yaj; by chandasi niṣṭarkyadevahūya…, Pā. 3-1-123 as read [?], the yap suffix and the feminine are irregularly formed; gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, first-member accent; instrumental singular), mīḍhvaḥ (mih "to sprinkle"; kvasu by dāśvān sāhvān mīḍhvāṃś ca, Pā. 6-1-12 as read [?]; the vocative mīḍhvas; ru for s by matuvasoḥ ru sambuddhau chandasi, Pā. 8-3-1 as read [?]; the visarga by kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ; nighāta by āmantritasya ca), sumnāyan (sumna + kyac by supa ātmanaḥ kyac… in the Vedic sense, chandasi pareccāyāmapi, Pā. 3-1-?? as read [?]; the lengthening and ātva not applied by na chandasy aputrasya; the ātva option by devasumnayor yajuṣi kāṭhake, Pā. 7-4-38 as read [?]; the kyac ending is a root by sanādyantā dhātavaḥ; then śatṛ; accent from the suffix), cara (car "to move, to eat", loṭ 2nd singular; nighāta), ariṣṭavīrāḥ (ariṣṭā vīrā yeṣām te — bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, first-member accent), juhavāma (hu "to offer, to eat"; śluḥ by juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ; laṭ 1st plural; nighāta). ‖ 3 ‖

(Printer's ornament; footer signature mark "IX 8".)

Ṛk 4

Printed p. 114 (PDF 134; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.4)

त्वेषं वयं रुद्रं यज्ञसाधं वङ्कुं कविमवसे नि ह्वयामहे । आरे अस्मद्दैव्यं हेळो अस्यतु सुमतिमिद्वयमस्या वृणीमहे ॥ ४ ॥

tveṣaṃ vayaṃ rudraṃ yajñasādhaṃ vaṅkuṃ kavimavase ni hvayāmahe | āre asmaddaivyaṃ heḷo asyatu sumatimidvayamasyā vṛṇīmahe ‖ 4 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.4)

त्वेषम् । वयम् । रुद्रम् । यज्ञऽसाधम् । वङ्कुम् । कविम् । अवसे । नि । ह्वयामहे । आरे । अस्मत् । दैव्यम् । हेळः । अस्यतु । सुऽमतिम् । इत् । वयम् । अस्य । आ । वृणीमहे ॥ ४ ॥

tveṣam | vayam | rudram | yajña 'sādham | vaṅkum | kavim | avase | ni | hvayāmahe | āre | asmat | daivyam | heḷaḥ | asyatu | su 'matim | it | vayam | asya | ā | vṛṇīmahe ‖ 4 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.4)

अवसे रक्षणाय रुद्रं महादेवं नि ह्वयामहे । नितरामाह्वयामः । कीदृशं त्वेषं दीप्तं यज्ञसाधं यज्ञस्य साधयितारम् । एष हि यज्ञं स्विष्टं करोति । तथा च तैत्तिरीयके । देवा वै यज्ञाद्रुद्रमन्तरायन्सित्यपाक्रम्यात्मानं [?] स्विष्टं वै न इदं भविष्यति यदिमं राधयिष्यामः इति तत्स्विष्टकृतः स्विष्टकृत्त्वम् । तै. सं. ३-६-१-३ [as read] । इति । वङ्कुं कुटिलगन्तारं कविं क्रान्तदर्शिनम् । स च रुद्रो दैव्यं देवस्य द्योतमानस्य सम्बन्धि हेळः क्रोधमस्मदारेऽस्मत्तो दूरदेशेऽस्यतु प्रेरयतु । अस्य महादेवस्य सुमतिमित् शोभनामनुग्रहरूपां बुद्धिमेव वयमा वृणीमहे । अभिमुख्येन सम्भजामहे ॥ [the grammatical tail follows in small type: yajñasādham — yajñaṃ sādhayati iti yajñasāḥ, sidhu “to accomplish”, kvip; vaṅkum — vaki “crookedness”, the Uṇādi u; hvayāmahe — hve “to call”, laṭ 1st plural, saṃprasāraṇa, ṇiti…; daivyam — devād yañ [Pā. 4-1-85 as read [?]]; asyatu — asu “to throw”, divādi; vṛṇīmahe — vṛñ “to choose”, kryādi.]

avase rakṣaṇāya rudraṃ mahādevaṃ ni hvayāmahe | nitarāmāhvayāmaḥ | kīdṛśaṃ tveṣaṃ dīptaṃ yajñasādhaṃ yajñasya sādhayitāram | eṣa hi yajñaṃ sviṣṭaṃ karoti | tathā ca taittirīyake | devā vai yajñādrudramantarāyansityapākramyātmānaṃ [?] sviṣṭaṃ vai na idaṃ bhaviṣyati yadimaṃ rādhayiṣyāmaḥ iti tatsviṣṭakṛtaḥ sviṣṭakṛttvam | tai. saṃ. 3-6-1-3 [as read] | iti | vaṅkuṃ kuṭilagantāraṃ kaviṃ krāntadarśinam | sa ca rudro daivyaṃ devasya dyotamānasya sambandhi heḷaḥ krodhamasmadāre 'smatto dūradeśe 'syatu prerayatu | asya mahādevasya sumatimit śobhanāmanugraharūpāṃ buddhimeva vayamā vṛṇīmahe | abhimukhyena sambhajāmahe ‖ [the grammatical tail follows in small type: yajñasādham — yajñaṃ sādhayati iti yajñasāḥ, sidhu “to accomplish”, kvip; vaṅkum — vaki “crookedness”, the Uṇādi u; hvayāmahe — hve “to call”, laṭ 1st plural, saṃprasāraṇa, ṇiti…; daivyam — devād yañ [Pā. 4-1-85 as read [?]]; asyatu — asu “to throw”, divādi; vṛṇīmahe — vṛñ “to choose”, kryādi.]

Sense (mine): “For protection (avase) we invoke (ni hvayāmahe) Rudra, the great god, constantly. What is he like? Tveṣam — shining; yajñasādham — who accomplishes the sacrifice, for he makes the sacrifice well-offered (sviṣṭa): as the Taittirīya says: ‘The gods kept Rudra away from the sacrifice [?]; “this (sacrifice) of ours will not be well-offered if we do not satisfy him”: hence the sviṣṭakṛt-ness of the Sviṣṭakṛt’ (Tai. Saṃ. 3-6-1-3 as read [?]). Vaṅkum — the crooked-going; kavim — far-seeing. May that Rudra asyatu, cast āre, far from us, the haḍaḥ (anger) of the god, the shining one, belonging to the divine. And we ā vṛṇīmahe, choose, turn toward, the sumati, the good, favour-natured mind of this great god.”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“tveṣam — of shining form; yajñasādham — the accomplisher of sacrifice; vaṅkum — of crooked (curving) motion; kavim — who knows the past and the future (kavi); rudram — Rudra; avase — for (our) protection; ni hvayāmahe — we invoke (that Rudra); daivyam — that which belongs to the deities; helaḥ — anger; asmat — from us; āre — far away; asyatu — may (he) cast; asya — of this Rudra; sumatim it — the graciously-disposed intention; vayam — we; ā vṛṇīmahe — choose (we desire)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"We pray for protection to Rudra, who is of shining form, the accomplisher of sacrifices, of crooked going, and knower of past and future. Let Rudra cast far from us the anger of the deities. We choose only his favour."

English Translation (as printed)

> We invoke for our preservation the illustrious Rudra, the accomplisher of sacrifices, the tortuous, the wise : may he remove far from us his celestial wrath for we earnestly solicit his favour.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

यज्ञसाधम् — Yajñasādham — "yajñaṃ sādhayati iti yajñasāṭ": "(that is) he who removes the obstacles to the sacrifice, by subduing the thorns of the sacrifice (yajñakaṇṭaka), who brings the sacrifice to completion. Sāyaṇa explains that Rudra makes the sacrifice proceed excellently, eṣa hi yajñaṃ sviṣṭaṃ karoti — this Rudra makes the sacrifice go on in the right way. Stating in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā the speciality of Rudra, he says —

> देवा वै यज्ञाद्रुद्रमन्तरायन् [?] इत्याद्युपक्रम्य स्विष्टं वै न इदं भविष्यति यदिमं राधयिष्यामः इति तत्स्विष्टकृतः स्विष्टकृत्त्वम् ॥ (तै. सं. ३-६-१-३ [as read])
>
> devā vai yajñādrudramantarāyan [?] ityādyupakramya sviṣṭaṃ vai na idaṃ bhaviṣyati yadimaṃ rādhayiṣyāmaḥ iti tatsviṣṭakṛtaḥ sviṣṭakṛttvam ‖ (tai. saṃ. 3-6-1-3 [as read])

"… because we serve Rudra, our sacrifices become suhutas, well-offered — thus the Taittirīya text speaks."

वङ्कुम् — Vaṅkum — "kuṭilagantāram": "he who moves in a crooked path, in order to bewilder the asuras or to subdue [them] — this is the meaning. Skandasvāmin: 'vaṅkuśabdo 'tra vaki kauṭilye ity asya vakragāmī' — since the word vaṅku is derived from the root vaki 'to be crooked', it denotes one with a crooked course, he explains, and gives the example —

> यत्ते दिक्षु प्रराध्यं [?] वङ्कू वारस्य पर्णेन [?] (ऋ. सं. ८-१-११ [as read; the Ṛk is in small type and the quotation unclear [?]])"
>
> yatte dikṣu prarādhyaṃ [?] vaṅkū vārasya parṇena [?] (ṛ. saṃ. 8-1-11 [as read; the Ṛk is in small type and the quotation unclear [?]])"

कविम् — Kavim — "krāntadarśinam" (Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya): "one who shows the right way. Since the word kavi is stated among the twenty-four [as read] names of the wise (medhāvin) (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), Skandasvāmin explains it as 'the intelligent'."

हेळः — Heḷaḥ — "krodhaḥ": "anger. Because the word heḷa is stated among the twelve [as read] names of anger (krodha), beginning 'hṛṇi' (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]), Skandasvāmin explains the meaning krodha:

> दैव्यं हेळः क्रोधनामैतत् । देवानां स्वभूतं क्रोधमस्यतु क्षिपतु । यथास्मभ्यं देवाः न क्रुध्येयुः तथा करोतु हेळः ।
>
> daivyaṃ heḷaḥ krodhanāmaitat | devānāṃ svabhūtaṃ krodhamasyatu kṣipatu | yathāsmabhyaṃ devāḥ na krudhyeyuḥ tathā karotu heḷaḥ |

— the word heḷaḥ has the meaning 'anger'. [The meaning:] 'may Rudra so act that the deities may not be angry with us — that is, may he grant us favour.'"

सुमतिमित् — Sumatim it — "it is in the sense of eva" (indeed): "sumatim eva — śobhanām eva — the kindly-disposed mind, in the form of favour, of Rudra. He explains: 'we desire this of Rudra, that it may be in our regard'."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 4; grammar page, noted briefly)

tveṣam (tviṣī "to shine", in the pacādi group; ac; guṇa of the penultimate; the final accent from the suffix), yajñasādham (yajñaṃ sādhayati iti yajñasāṭ; ṣidhu "to accomplish", ṇic by hetumati ca; siddhyater apāralaukike, Pā. 6-4-?? as read [?], ṇic-… ātva; or rādh/sādh "to accomplish"; kvip;

Printed p. 117 (PDF 137; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

… after the ṇi-elision kvip; the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt; accusative singular); vaṅkum (vaki "to be crooked"; the Uṇādi suffix u; the num augment by idito num dhātoḥ; anusvāra → homorganic nasal; accent from the suffix); avase (av "to protect", the suffix asun applicable after any root; nit, hence the first-syllable accent; dative singular); ni hvayāmahe (hvāñ "to compete, to call", with ni — nisamupavibhyo hvaḥ, Pā. 1-3-30 as read [?], ātmanepada; laṭ 1st plural mahiṅ; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; śap; ay for e; nighāta); daivyam (devasya idam daivyam; devād yañ — yañ in the sense of "its", Pā. 4-1-85 as read [?]; elision of a by yasyeti ca; vṛddhi by taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ; jñityādir nityam, first-syllable accent); heḷaḥ (heḍṛ "to disregard", Uṇādi asun; nit, first-syllable accent; accusative singular); asyatu (asu "to throw", divādi; loṭ 3rd singular tip, with tu by eruḥ, Pā. 3-4-86 as read [?]; śyan by divādibhyaḥ śyan; nighāta); vṛṇīmahe (vṛñ "to choose", kryādi; loṭ/laṭ 1st plural mahiṅ; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; kryādibhyaḥ śnā; sārvadhātukam apit, ṅit; ī for ā by ī halyaghoḥ; ṇatva, since the n follows ṛ, with the vikaraṇa … no guṇa since ṅit; nighāta). ‖ 4 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 5

Printed p. 118 (PDF 138; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.5)

दिवो वराहमरुषं कपर्दिनं त्वेषं रूपं नमसा नि ह्वयामहे । हस्ते बिभ्रद्भेषजा वार्याणि शर्म वर्म छर्दिरस्मभ्यं यंसत् ॥ ५ ॥

divo varāhamaruṣaṃ kapardinaṃ tveṣaṃ rūpaṃ namasā ni hvayāmahe | haste bibhradbheṣajā vāryāṇi śarma varma chardirasmabhyaṃ yaṃsat ‖ 5 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.5)

दिवः । वराहम् । अरुषम् । कपर्दिनम् । त्वेषम् । रूपम् । नमसा । नि । ह्वयामहे । हस्ते । बिभ्रत् । भेषजा । वार्याणि । शर्म । वर्म । छर्दिः । अस्मभ्यम् । यंसत् ॥ ५ ॥

divaḥ | varāham | aruṣam | kapardinam | tveṣam | rūpam | namasā | ni | hvayāmahe | haste | bibhrat | bheṣajā | vāryāṇi | śarma | varma | chardiḥ | asmabhyam | yaṃsat ‖ 5 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.5)

वराहं वराहारमुत्कृष्टभोजनम् । यद्वा । वराहवद्दृढाङ्गम् । अरुषमारोचमानं कपर्दिनं जटाभिर्युक्तं त्वेषं तेजसा दीप्यमानं रूपं निरूपणीयं वेदान्तैरधिगम्यं एवंभूतं रुद्रं नमसा हविर्लक्षणेनान्नेन नमस्कारेण वा दिवो द्युलोकसकाशात् नि ह्वयामहे । नितरामाह्वयामः । स आहूतो रुद्रो हस्ते स्वकीये बाहौ वार्याणि सर्वैर्वरणीयानि भेषजा भैषज्यानि रोगशमनहेतुभूतानि बिभ्रत् धारयन् अस्मभ्यं स्तोतृभ्यः शर्म अरोग्यलक्षणं सुखं वर्म आयुधानां निवारकं कवचं छर्दिः गृहनामैतत् गृहं च यंसत् प्रयच्छतु ॥ [the grammatical tail follows: bibhrat — ḍubhṛñ “to bear, to nourish”, juhotyādi, śatṛ, doubling, abhyastānām…; bhaiṣajā — bhiṣaj “treating”, kaṇḍvādi…; vāryāṇi — vṛñ, ṇyat…; chardiḥ — ucchṛdir “to shine” or “to play” (dīptidevanayoḥ), the is suffix [Uṇ.]; yaṃsat — yamu “to stop”, leṭ with the augment aṭ; sip, bahulaṃ leṭi — sic…]

varāhaṃ varāhāramutkṛṣṭabhojanam | yadvā | varāhavaddṛḍhāṅgam | aruṣamārocamānaṃ kapardinaṃ jaṭābhiryuktaṃ tveṣaṃ tejasā dīpyamānaṃ rūpaṃ nirūpaṇīyaṃ vedāntairadhigamyaṃ evaṃbhūtaṃ rudraṃ namasā havirlakṣaṇenānnena namaskāreṇa vā divo dyulokasakāśāt ni hvayāmahe | nitarāmāhvayāmaḥ | sa āhūto rudro haste svakīye bāhau vāryāṇi sarvairvaraṇīyāni bheṣajā bhaiṣajyāni rogaśamanahetubhūtāni bibhrat dhārayan asmabhyaṃ stotṛbhyaḥ śarma arogyalakṣaṇaṃ sukhaṃ varma āyudhānāṃ nivārakaṃ kavacaṃ chardiḥ gṛhanāmaitat gṛhaṃ ca yaṃsat prayacchatu ‖ [the grammatical tail follows: bibhrat — ḍubhṛñ “to bear, to nourish”, juhotyādi, śatṛ, doubling, abhyastānām…; bhaiṣajā — bhiṣaj “treating”, kaṇḍvādi…; vāryāṇi — vṛñ, ṇyat…; chardiḥ — ucchṛdir “to shine” or “to play” (dīptidevanayoḥ), the is suffix [Uṇ.]; yaṃsat — yamu “to stop”, leṭ with the augment aṭ; sip, bahulaṃ leṭi — sic…]

Sense (mine): “Varāham — he whose food is excellent (vara-āhāra), or, whose limbs are firm like those of a boar. Aruṣam — shining; kapardinam — bearing matted hair; tveṣam — blazing in splendour; rūpam — to be considered (nirūpaṇīya), to be understood by the Vedānta texts: such a Rudra we call down (ni hvayāmahe) with namasā — with food in the form of oblation or with salutation — from the heavenly world. Invoked, may that Rudra, holding in his own hand desirable (vāryāṇi) medicines (bheṣajā) that are the cause of curing diseases, grant us, the praisers, śarma — happiness in the form of health; varma — armour that wards off weapons; chardiḥ — a name of a house — and a house.”

(Grammatical tail of the bhāṣya, concluded — characterized, not transcribed:) bheṣajā (bhiṣaj “to heal”, the neuter plural śi → ā, by śeś chandasi bahulam with elision); chardiḥ (ucchṛdir “to shine, to play”; the suffix is by Uṇādi; “chṛdyate dīpyate suvarṇādibhir gṛhaṃ prakāśate iti chardiḥ gṛham”); yaṃsat (yamu “to restrain”; leṭ, with the augment aṭ; sip → elision of the i by itaś ca lopaḥ; the elision of the s … in the leṭ).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“varāham — one who has excellent food, or one of firm body; aruṣam — of shining form; kapardinam — wearer of matted locks; tveṣam — of great splendour; rūpam — (Rudra), who is to be known by the Vedas and so on; namasā — by salutations, or by food in the form of oblations, in order to give; divaḥ — from the world of heaven; ni hvayāmahe — we call (invoke) down (that Rudra, being invoked); haste — in his hand; vāryāṇi — desired by all; bheṣajā — medicinal herbs; bibhrat — holding; asmabhyam — to us (the singers of praises); śarma — happiness in the form of health; varma — protective armour and so on; chardiḥ — a house for dwelling in; yaṃsat — may he grant.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“We invoke from the world of heaven with salutations Rudra, of firm body, of excellent food, of shining form, wearing matted locks, of great splendour, who is to be known by the Vedānta. May Rudra, thus invoked by us, holding medicinal herbs in his hand, grant us the armour and weapons that guard health, and dwelling-houses.”

English Translation (as printed)

> We invoke from heaven, with reverence, him who has excellent food who is radiant, and has braided hair, who is brilliant, and is to be ascertained (by sacred study), holding in his hands excellent medicaments : may he grant us health, defensive armour, and a (secure) dwelling.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

वराहम् — Varāham — “varāhāram utkṛṣṭabhojanam”: “Sāyaṇa explains: he who takes excellent food, or takes food to excess; or ‘varāhavad dṛḍhāṅgam’ — whose body is as firm as that of a varāha (wild boar). Skandasvāmin:

> वराहनामासुरः केतुसदृक्षः [?] वराहः इति मेघनाम । केतुसदृशम् एकदेशसादृश्येन वैष समस्तसादृश्यं च व्यपदेशः रुद्रस्य नीलत्वात् कण्ठो मेघसदृशः । मेघसदृशकण्ठमित्यर्थः ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]
>
> varāhanāmāsuraḥ ketusadṛkṣaḥ [?] varāhaḥ iti meghanāma | ketusadṛśam ekadeśasādṛśyena vaiṣa samastasādṛśyaṃ ca vyapadeśaḥ rudrasya nīlatvāt kaṇṭho meghasadṛśaḥ | meghasadṛśakaṇṭhamityarthaḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

— Rudra, whose strength is like that of the asura named Varāha [or: the one who has a boar's form]; or, since varāha is a name of the cloud, because of resemblance in one respect [ekadeśa] the whole resemblance is spoken of: because of Rudra's blueness (nīlatva) his throat is like a cloud; the meaning is 'whose throat is like a cloud'. The word varāha, being read among the thirty-one [as read] names of the cloud (Ni. 1-10 as read [?]), has the meaning 'cloud'. Since the likeness (upamā) is said to be stated completely in respect of one part, the throat of Rudra is compared with the cloud: Rudra has a throat that is like the cloud in being dark blue; therefore he is called by the word varāha. Or:

> वराहः सूकर उच्यते तदाकारं देवता हि तं तमाकारं महाभाग्ययोगात् भजते । अत उपपन्नो हि रुद्रस्य वराहाकारव्यपदेशः ।
>
> varāhaḥ sūkara ucyate tadākāraṃ devatā hi taṃ tamākāraṃ mahābhāgyayogāt bhajate | ata upapanno hi rudrasya varāhākāravyapadeśaḥ |

— varāha denotes the boar: 'the deities, by their great fortune, assume whatever form they like' — so Rudra's being described as having the form of a boar is proper. The deities take on the forms they desire by the power of their own energy and the success of their austerity: hence Rudra too has the form of a boar. Thus [Skandasvāmin] explains the meaning in three ways."

"The Nirukta-writer:

> वराहो मेघो भवति । वराहारः वरमाहारमाहार्षीदिति च ब्राह्मणम् ॥ (नि. ५-४ [as read])
>
> varāho megho bhavati | varāhāraḥ varamāhāramāhārṣīditi ca brāhmaṇam ‖ (ni. 5-4 [as read])

— for the word varāha he gives the meaning 'cloud'; and: varam āharati iti varāhaḥ — he who takes the excellent [food]; or mūlaṃ vahati iti varāhaḥ — he who lifts up the roots (the bulbs) that are in the earth, hence 'boar'; or from bringing water, thus explained in two ways —

> अस्येदु मातुः सवनेषु सद्यो महः पितुं पपिवाञ्चार्वन्ना । मुषायद्विष्णुः पचतं सहीयान्विध्यद्वराहं तिरो अद्रिमस्ता ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-६१-७ [as read])
>
> asyedu mātuḥ savaneṣu sadyo mahaḥ pituṃ papivāñcārvannā | muṣāyadviṣṇuḥ pacataṃ sahīyānvidhyadvarāhaṃ tiro adrimastā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-61-7 [as read])

In this Ṛk the word varāha is used in the sense of 'cloud'.

Printed p. 121 (PDF 141; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

> विश्वेत्ता विष्णुराभरदुरुक्रमस्त्वेषितः शतं महिषान्क्षीरपाकमोदनं वराहमिन्द्र एमुषम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-७७-१० [as read])
>
> viśvettā viṣṇurābharadurukramastveṣitaḥ śataṃ mahiṣānkṣīrapākamodanaṃ varāhamindra emuṣam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 8-77-10 [as read])
>
> अयमुपमीतरो वराहः एतस्मादेव बृहति मूलानि वरं वरं मूलं बृहतीति वा ॥ (नि. ५-४)
>
> ayamupamītaro varāhaḥ etasmādeva bṛhati mūlāni varaṃ varaṃ mūlaṃ bṛhatīti vā ‖ (ni. 5-4)

[Yāska] says that the explanation of the word varāha is still of another kind, and quotes this; the Nirukta-writer, explaining that the word varāha has also the meaning 'asura', cites the Brāhmaṇa sentence of the Maitrāyaṇīya school ‘varam āhāram āhārṣīt’ (‘he took the excellent food’). And again —

> आङ्गिरसोऽपि वराहा उच्यन्ते ।
>
> āṅgiraso ’pi varāhā ucyante |

— ‘the Aṅgirasa ṛṣis are also called varāha’: explaining the meaning of the word varāha [in this sense, he cites] —

> स ईं सत्येभिः सखिभिः शुचद्भिर्गोधायसं वि धनसैरदर्दः ।
> ब्रह्मणस्पतिर्वृषभिर्वराहैर्घर्मस्वेदेभिर्द्रविणं व्यानट् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-६७-७ [as read])
>
> sa īṃ satyebhiḥ sakhibhiḥ śucadbhirgodhāyasaṃ vi dhanasairadardaḥ |
> brahmaṇaspatirvṛṣabhirvarāhairgharmasvedebhirdraviṇaṃ vyānaṭ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-67-7 [as read])

In this Ṛk the Aṅgirases are denoted by the word varāha.

> वि त्वत्कृन्न योजनमचेति स्ससस्रह [?] यन्मरुतो गोतनो वः । पर्क [?]
> हिरण्यचक्रानयोदंष्ट्रान्विधावतो वराहून् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-८८-५ [as read]; the quotation is in small type and corrupt in the print [?])
>
> vi tvatkṛnna yojanamaceti ssasraha [?] yanmaruto gotano vaḥ | parka [?]
> hiraṇyacakrānayodaṃṣṭrānvidhāvato varāhūn ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-88-5 [as read]; the quotation is in small type and corrupt in the print [?])

“And these middle-region deity-groups are also called varāha: they are called varāhavaḥ (the deities of the middle region, i.e. of the atmosphere)” — thus he explains this Ṛk. “Following the view of the Nirukta-writer so stated, Skandasvāmin explains the word varāha in three ways and Sāyaṇa in two. But in this Ṛk the word varāha being stated, there is the plural in ‘mādhyamikāḥ devagaṇāḥ varāhavaḥ’ for which, as he explains, ‘te sapta sapta marutāṃ gaṇāḥ’ (‘those seven-seven groups of Maruts’), meaning the troops of Maruts. Just as in the case of the Maruts, who are the group of the [seven times] seven deities, the word varāhavaḥ is used of them, so the word varāha is applied to the deity of the middle region” — and, so explaining, he illustrates the very Ṛk ‘divo varāham’.”

Printed p. 122 (PDF 142; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

अरुषम् — Aruṣam — “ārocamānam”: “one who shines — so Sāyaṇa; Skandasvāmin: ‘aruṣatir gatikarmā’ — [the word aruṣa is derived from a root that means going]; because it means ‘going’, the word aruṣa is explained as ‘one who goes against enemies, or goes to the sacrifice’ (śatrūn yajñaṃ vā prati).”

रूपम् — Rūpam — “nirūpaṇīyaṃ vedāntair adhigamyam”: “Rudra’s own form is what is investigated by the Vedas and the Vedānta, and, being what is to be known by that very [study], the form of Rudra is that which is to be known by the Vedānta — thus Sāyaṇa. Skandasvāmin:

> अत्र नेरीते मत्वर्थो रूपशब्दो द्रष्टव्यः । महाभाग्ययोगादनेकप्रकारैः रूपैः रूपवन्तम् ॥

atra nerīte matvartho rūpaśabdo draṣṭavyaḥ | mahābhāgyayogādanekaprakāraiḥ rūpaiḥ rūpavantam ||

— here the word rūpa is to be understood in the sense of matup, 'having form'; thus he explains that Rudra shines with many kinds of forms by his unsurpassed austerity and merit."

नमसा — Namasā — "by salutations, or by offering food in the form of oblations: we invoke Rudra to come down here from heaven — as Sāyaṇa explains; and Skandasvāmin, explaining likewise, gives the special meaning 'praise' to the word namas."

वार्याणि भेषजा हस्ते बिभ्रत् — Vāryāṇi bheṣajā haste bibhrat — "Rudra holds in his hands always medicines that have the power to destroy diseases desired to be removed by all; so he brings happiness to all. Therefore the prayer is made that Rudra come to our sacrifice and give us happiness. That Rudra is the lord of medicines is said in —

सहस्रं ते स्वपिवात भेषजा मा नस्तोकेषु तनयेषु रीरिषः । ओषधीनां पतये नमः ॥ [as read; the reference is in small type] (ऋ. सं. २-३३-१३ [as read; [?]])

sahasraṃ te svapivāta bheṣajā mā nastokeṣu tanayeṣu rīriṣaḥ | oṣadhīnāṃ pataye namaḥ || [as read; the reference is in small type] (ṛ. saṃ. 2-33-13 [as read; [?]]) and other mantras."

वर्म — Varma — "varmātra kavacam ucyate": "armour — that is, armour able to ward off the injury done by enemies: āyudhānāṃ nivārakam — that which protects against the weapons hurled by foes, so that no danger may come: the prayer is that Rudra, being pleased, favour us with such armour."

Printed p. 123 (PDF 143; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

छर्दिः — Chardiḥ — "since the word is stated among the twenty-two [as read] names of house (gṛha), 'gayaḥ', 'kṣayaḥ' and so on (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), it means 'house'. The prayer to Rudra is that he grant us a house suitable for living in happily. By the epithets varāham, aruṣam, kapardinam, tveṣam, rūpam, Rudra, who is shown to be possessed of power, is invoked with salutations and the offering of oblations; and since a prayer is made in this Ṛk that he grant cure of disease, happiness, armour against all kinds of danger from enemies, and a dwelling, it is understood that Rudra grants these to those who take refuge in him."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 5; grammar page, noted briefly)

divaḥ (accent of the ending by ūḍidaṃpadādi…), kapardinam (kapardaḥ asya asti; the suffix ini by ata iniṭhanau, Pā. 5-2-115 as read [?]; accent on the i from the suffix), bibhrat (ḍubhṛñ "to bear, to nourish", juhotyādi; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; doubling by ślau; i in the reduplication by bhṛñām it, Pā. 7-4-76 as read [?]; sārvadhātukam apit makes the śatṛ ṅit, and since the jus-ādi (jhi) is not there, guṇa of the root's i is not applied; yaṇ; the num augment is prevented by nābhyastācchatuḥ, Pā. 7-1-78 as read [?]); bheṣajā (bhiṣaj "to heal", does not belong to the kaṇḍvādi group; yak by kaṇḍvādibhyo yak, Pā. 3-1-27 as read [?], in its own sense [svārthe]; or the ac suffix by pacādi, being an ākṛtigaṇa; elision of a by yasya iti ca; ato lopaḥ; and this is established by the statement sumaṅgalabheṣajāc ca, Pā. 4-1-30 as read [?]; śi → elision by śeś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-1-70 as read [?]); vāryāṇi (vṛñ "to choose"; ṇyat by ṛhaloṇyat; vṛddhi by aco ’ñṇiti; raparatva by uraṇ raparaḥ; tuk-augment is prevented in ṇyat…; the tit svarita is overruled by the iḍavaravṛdhi… [as printed] — the first syllable acute by Pā. 6-1-?? as read [?]).

Printed p. 124 (PDF 144; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

Grammar page, concluded: chardiḥ (ucchṛdir “to shine, to play”; “chṛdyate dīpyate suvarṇādibhir gṛhaṃ prakāśyate iti chardiḥ”, the house that is lit by objects such as gold; arci śucihu-sṛpi-chādi-chardibhyo ’ṇ-style Uṇādi isi, Uṇ. 2-?? as read [?]; guṇa of the penultimate; accent from the suffix), yaṃsat (yamu “to restrain”; leṭ 3rd singular tip; itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu, Pā. 3-4-97 as read [?]; the augment aṭ by leṭo ’ḍāṭau; sip bahulaṃ leṭi, Pā. 3-1-34 as read [?], sip as the vikaraṇa; anusvāra for m; nighāta since it follows an accented word). ‖ 5 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 6

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.6)

इदं पित्रे मरुतामुच्यते वचः स्वादोः स्वादीयो रुद्राय वर्धनम् । रास्वा च नो अमृत मर्तभोजनं त्मने तोकाय तनयाय मृळ ॥ ६ ॥

idaṃ pitre marutāmucyate vacaḥ svādoḥ svādīyo rudrāya vardhanam | rāsvā ca no amṛta martabhojanaṃ tmane tokāya tanayāya mṛḷa ‖ 6 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.6)

इदम् । पित्रे । मरुताम् । उच्यते । वचः । स्वादोः । स्वादीयः । रुद्राय । वर्धनम् । रास्व । च । नः । अमृत । मर्तऽभोजनम् । त्मने । तोकाय । तनयाय । मृळ ॥ ६ ॥

idam | pitre | marutām | ucyate | vacaḥ | svādoḥ | svādīyaḥ | rudrāya | vardhanam | rāsva | ca | naḥ | amṛta | marta ’bhojanam | tmane | tokāya | tanayāya | mṛḷa ‖ 6 ‖

Printed p. 125 (PDF 145; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.6)

इदं स्तुतिलक्षणं वचो मरुतामेकोनपञ्चाशत्संख्याकानां देवविशेषाणां पित्रे जनकाय रुद्रायेश्वरायोच्यते । उच्चार्यते । कीदृशं स्वादोः स्वादीयो रसवतो मधुफलादेरपि स्वादुतरम् । अतिशयेन हर्षजनकमित्यर्थः । वर्धनं स्तुत्यस्य प्रवर्धकम् । स्तोत्रेण हि देवता हृष्टा सती प्रवर्धते । रुद्रस्य च मरुतां पितृत्वमेवमाम्नायते । पुरा कदाचिदिन्द्रोऽसुराञ्जित्वा तदानीं दितिरसुरमातेन्द्रहननसमर्थं पुत्रं कामयमाना तपसा भर्तुः सकाशाद्गर्भं लेभे । इमं वृत्तान्तमवगच्छन्निन्द्रो वज्रहस्तः सन् सूक्ष्मरूपो भूत्वा तस्या उदरं प्रविश्य तं गर्भं सप्तधा बिभेद । पुनरप्येकैकं सप्तखण्डमकरोत् । ते सर्वे गर्भैकदेशा योनेर्निर्गत्यारुदन् । एतस्मिन्नवसरे लीलार्थं गच्छन्तौ पार्वतीपरमेश्वराविमान्ददृशतुः । महेशं प्रति पार्वत्यैवमुवाच । इमे मांसखण्डा यथा प्रत्येकं पुत्राः सम्पद्यन्तामेवं त्वया कार्यं मयि चेत्प्रीतिरस्तीति । स च महेश्वरस्तान्समानरूपान् समानवयसः समानालङ्कारान्स्रष्ट्वा गौर्यै प्रददौ केवमे पुत्राः सन्तिति । अतः सर्वेषु मारुतेषु सूक्तेषु मरुतो रुद्रपुत्रा इति स्तूयन्ते । रौद्रेषु च मरुतां पिता रुद्र इति । अपि च हे अमृत मरणरहित रुद्र मर्तभोजनं मर्तानां मनुष्याणां भोगपर्याप्तमन्नं नोऽस्मभ्यं रास्व । प्रयच्छ । तथा त्मने आत्मने द्वितीयार्थे चतुर्थी मां तोकाय तोकं पुत्रं तनयाय तनयं तत्पुत्रं च मृळ सुखय । पित्रे उदात्तेन विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वं रास्व रा दाने

व्यत्ययेनात्मनेपदम् । त्मने मन्त्रेष्वाङ्यादेरात्मन इत्यत्राऽऽऽदेः [?] छन्दसि दृश्यते । का. ६-४-१४१-१ इति वचनादात्मन आकारलोपः ॥ [read from the print; a few words in the Purāṇic story are in small type, partly doubtful [?]]

idaṃ stutilakṣaṇaṃ vaco marutāmekonapañcāśatsaṃkhyākānāṃ devaviśeṣāṇāṃ pitre janakāya rudrāyeśvarāyocyate | uccāryate | kīdṛśaṃ svādoḥ svādīyo rasavato madhuphalāderapi svādutaram | atiśayena harṣajanakamityarthaḥ | vardhanaṃ stutyasya pravardhakam | stotreṇa hi devatā hṛṣṭā satī pravardhate | rudrasya ca marutāṃ pitṛtvamevamāmnāyate | purā kadācidindro 'surāñjitvā tadānīṃ ditirasuramātendrahananasamarthaṃ putraṃ kāmayamānā tapasā bhartuḥ sakāśādgarbhaṃ lebhe | imaṃ vṛttāntamavagacchannindro vajrahastaḥ san sūkṣmarūpo bhūtvā tasyā udaraṃ praviśya taṃ garbhaṃ saptadhā bibheda | punarapyekaikaṃ saptakhaṇḍamakarot | te sarve garbhaikadeśā yonernirgatyārudan | etasminnavasare līlārthaṃ gacchantau pārvatīparameśvarāvimāndadṛśatuḥ | maheśaṃ prati pārvatyaivamuvāca | ime māṃsakhaṇḍā yathā pratyekaṃ putrāḥ sampadyantāmevaṃ tvayā kāryaṃ mayi cetprītirastīti | sa ca maheśvarastānsamānarūpān samānavayasaḥ samānālaṅkārānspraṣṭvā gauryai pradadau kevame putrāḥ santiti | ataḥ sarveṣu māruteṣu sūkteṣu maruto rudraputrā iti stūyante | raudreṣu ca marutāṃ pitā rudra iti | api ca he amṛta maraṇarahita rudra martabhojanaṃ martānāṃ manuṣyāṇāṃ bhogaparyāptamannaṃ no 'smabhyaṃ rāsva | prayaccha | tathā tmane ātmane dvitīyārthe caturthī māṃ tokāya tokaṃ putraṃ tanayāya tanayaṃ tatputraṃ ca mṛḷa sukhaya | pitre udāttena vibhakterudāttatvaṃ rāsva rā dāne vyatyayenātmanepadam | tmane mantreṣvāṅyāderātmana ityatrā' ' 'deḥ [?] chandasi dṛśyate | kā. 6-4-141-1 iti vacanādātmana ākāralopaḥ ‖ [read from the print; a few words in the Purāṇic story are in small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "This speech (vacaḥ) in the form of praise is uttered for the pitṛ, the father, the begetter, of the Maruts — a special group of gods numbering forty-nine — namely Rudra, the lord. How is it? Svādoḥ svādīyaḥ — sweeter than even sweet things like honey-fruit: exceedingly delight-giving. Vardhanam — increasing the one praised: for a deity, delighted by a stotra, grows. And that Rudra is the father of the Maruts is thus handed down: once, long ago, Indra having conquered the asuras, Diti, mother of the asuras, desiring a son able to slay Indra, obtained from her husband by austerity a embryo. Indra, learning this, vajra in hand, made himself subtle, entered her womb, and split that embryo into seven; then again he made each into seven pieces. All these parts of the embryo came out of the womb and wept. At that moment Pārvatī and Parameśvara, going for sport, saw them. Pārvatī said to Maheśa: 'Let these pieces of flesh become sons, each one, thus; do this for me, if you love me.' And Maheśvara, touching them — made of the same form, same age, same ornaments — gave them to Gaurī (saying), 'These are [your] sons.' Hence in all the Mārut-sūktas the Maruts are praised as Rudra's sons; and in the Raudra [hymns] Rudra is the father of the Maruts. Moreover, O deathless Rudra, martabhojanam — food sufficient for the enjoyment of mortal men, rāsva, give to us; and for tmane, myself (the dative in the sense of the accusative), me, tokāya, my son, and tanayāya, his son — mṛḷa, give happiness."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): pitre (the ending accented, udātta); rāsva (rā "to give", ātmanepada by vyatyaya); tmane (ātman, with the loss of the initial ā in the Vedic usage, as stated in Kā. 6-4-141-1 as printed).

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"svādoḥ — than sweet things such as honey, by having flavour; svādīyaḥ — more flavourful (pleasing, delight-giving); vardhanam — increasing; idam vacaḥ — this speech in the form of praise; marutām — to the Marut deities; pitre — the begetter; rudrāya — for Rudra; ucyate — is uttered; āmṛta — O deathless Rudra; martabhojanam — food that is to be enjoyed by men; naḥ — to us; rāsva — give; (tathā — and so); tmane — to me; tokāya — to (my) son; tanayāya — (to his) son (and to me); mṛḷa — be gracious."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"We offer to Rudra, the father of the Maruts, these stotra-sentences, which are more pleasing than honey and the like. O deathless Rudra, give us food fit for human enjoyment. (And likewise) make for me, my children and grandchildren happiness."

English Translation (as printed)

> This praise, the sweetest of the sweet, and cause of increase (to the reciter), is addressed to Rudra, the father of the Maruts : immortal Rudra grant us food sufficient for mortals, and bestow happiness on me, my son and my grandson.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

मरुतां पित्रे — Marutāṃ pitre — "There are forty-nine Marut deities; the meaning is: to Rudra, the begetter of the Marut deities. Indra, having conquered the asuras, [the story:] Diti, mother of the asuras, practised austerity in order to get a son who could overcome Indra, and by her husband's service became with child. Indra, learning this, under the pretext of serving the mother, entered the womb of Diti in a subtle form, with his thunderbolt, and cut that embryo first into seven parts, and then each of them into seven, thus forty-nine pieces. Pārvatī and Parameśvara, who move about the world for the good of men, saw these pieces that fell on the earth, having slipped out of the womb. Pārvatī, feeling pity for those lumps of flesh, begged her husband to give them life; at her request Parameśvara made those forty-nine lumps of flesh into sons of one form, ornament and age, and told Pārvatī 'These are your children.' From this tradition the Maruts are said in the Sūktas to be Rudra's sons, and Rudra is said to be the Maruts' father."

स्वादोः स्वादीयः — Svādoḥ svādīyaḥ — "rasavato madhuphalāder api svādutaram | atiśayena harṣajanakam ity arthaḥ": the phrase stutilakṣaṇaṃ vacaḥ (speech of the nature of praise) is a qualifier of the sentence stuti-rūpa vākya. "People who eat, or those who use foods (bhakṣya-bhojya), take pleasure in sweet things such as ghee and honey, which are healthful and pleasing and give joy to the mind;

so a speech addressed to a deity, or a speech uttered with devotion to win the deity, gives the deity pleasure with regard to its devotee and increases the joy of the mind. For this reason the Ṛk says vardhanam (‘increasing’). This word, derived from the root vṛdhu vṛddhau, means that the speech of the form of praise increases the pleasure in the mind of the deity by making manifest the greatness of the deity or of the qualities of the object praised. From this the deity, hearing the stotra, becomes pleased with him who praises. ‘stotreṇa hi devatā hṛṣṭā satī pravardhate’ — Sāyaṇa explains the word vardhana thus; Skandasvāmin too says ‘stutir hi devānāṃ vṛddhikarī’ — praise increases the strength of the gods.”

मर्तभोजनम् — Martabhojanam — “Mortals (marta) are men, who are subject to death. The prayer to Rudra is to favour them so that objects for their enjoyment (food) be obtained. Skandasvāmin: because bhojana is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of wealth (Ni. 2-10 as read [?]), the phrase martabhojanam means ‘wealth that is the means of enjoyment for men’.”

त्मने — Tmane — “dvitīyārthe caturthī”: “Here the fourth case is used in the sense of the second case; the meaning is ‘me’. The word, meaning ātman (‘self’), is used in many other Ṛks:

> कतरा पूर्वा कतरापरायोः कथा जाते कवयः को वि वेद । विश्वं त्मना बिभृतो यद्ध नाम वि वर्तेते अहनी चक्रियेव ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१८५-१ [as read])
>
> katarā pūrvā katarāparāyoḥ kathā jāte kavayaḥ ko vi veda | viśvaṃ tmanā bibhṛto yaddha nāma vi vartete ahanī cakriyeva ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-185-1 [as read])

— here tmanā = ātmanā.

> तन्न स्तोरिसमद्भुतं पुरु वारं पुरु त्मना ॥ [as read; quotation partly doubtful [?]] (ऋ. सं. १-१४३-१० [as read])
>
> tanna storisamadbhutaṃ puru vāraṃ puru tmanā ‖ [as read; quotation partly doubtful [?]] (ṛ. saṃ. 1-143-10 [as read])

— in this Ṛk puru tmanā means ‘bahv ātmanā’.

> राकामहं सुहवां सुष्टुती हुवे शृणोतु नः सुभगा बोधतु त्मना । (ऋ. सं. २-३२-४ [as read])
>
> rākāmahaṃ suhavāṃ suṣṭutī huve śṛṇotu naḥ subhagā bodhatu tmanā | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-32-4 [as read])

— in this Ṛk too the word tmanā is explained in the Nirukta in the sense of ātmanā.”

तनयाय — Tanayāya — “tokāya [and] tanayāya: tokam = son, tanayam = his son; toka means a son, tanaya a grandson (son’s son). The words tuk, tokam, tanayam are stated among the fifteen [as read] names of offspring (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]); so the meaning is ‘son’. Thus:

> सहस्रं ते स्वपिवात भेषजा मा नस्तोकेषु तनयेषु रीरिषः । (ऋ. सं. २-३३-२ [as read])
>
> sahasraṃ te svapivāta bheṣajā mā nastokeṣu tanayeṣu rīriṣaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-33-2 [as read])
>
> येन तोकं च तनयं च धामहे । (ऋ. सं. १-९२-१३ [as read])

yena tokaṃ ca tanayaṃ ca dhāmahe | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-92-13 [as read])

— in these Ṛks the words toka and tanaya are explained as ‘sons and grandsons’. Skandasvāmin, following this, explains likewise, and says that the prayer stated is that ‘Rudra be gracious to all, to our sons and grandsons who serve Rudra’.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 6; grammar page, noted briefly)

pitre (the word pitṛ is irregularly given the tṛc suffix, with the Uṇādi ti-formation [as printed]; dative singular ṅe, followed by yaṇ; in the place of the udātta a yaṇ arises, and the following ending is accented by udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt, Pā. 6-1-174 as read [?]); ucyate (vac “to speak”, laṭ 3rd singular ta in the passive; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; sārvadhātuke yak, Pā. 3-1-67 as read [?]; vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti, Pā. 6-1-15 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; nighāta); vardhanam (vṛdhu “to grow”, lyuṭ; anādeśa for yu by yuvor anākau, Pā. 7-1-1 as read [?]; guṇa of the penultimate; liti, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?], the udātta on the syllable before the suffix); rāsva (rā “to give”, ātmanepada by vyatyayo bahulam, Pā. 3-1-85 as read [?]; loṭ 2nd singular; thāsaḥ se, Pā. 3-4-80 as read [?]; se → sva by savābhyāṃ vāmau, Pā. 3-4-91 as read [?]; ṣatva for s of the ā; no nighāta because it stands at the beginning of the pāda; the first syllable accented by vyatyaya).

Printed p. 129 (PDF 149; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”; footer signature mark “IX 9”)

Grammar page of Ṛk 6, concluded: amṛta (na vidyate mṛtaṃ maraṇaṃ yasya — amṛtaḥ; in the vocative the nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); martabhojanam (martānāṃ bhojanam; bhuj “to protect, to enjoy”, in the abstract lyuṭ; anādeśa by yuvor anākau; the accent before the suffix by liti; in the compound the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt); tmane (the word ātman; dative singular; mantreṣv āṅyāder ātmanaḥ, Pā. 6-4-141 as read [?], the elision of ā [stated as ājyo ’nyatrāpi chandasi dṛśyate, Kā. 6-4-141-1]); mṛḷa (mṛḍa “to be gracious”, loṭ 2nd singular; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 6 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 7

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.7)

मा नो महान्तमुत मा नो अर्भकं मा न उक्षन्तमुत मा न उक्षितम् । मा नो वधीः पितरं मोत मातरं मा नः प्रियास्तन्वो रुद्र रीरिषः ॥ ७ ॥

mā no mahāntamuta mā no arbhakaṃ mā na ukṣantamuta mā na ukṣitam | mā no vadhīḥ pitaraṃ mota mātaraṃ mā naḥ priyāstanvo rudra rīriṣaḥ ‖ 7 ‖

Printed p. 130 (PDF 150; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.7)

मा । नः । महान्तम् । उत । मा । नः । अर्भकम् । मा । नः । उक्षन्तम् । उत । मा । नः । उक्षितम् । मा । नः । वधीः । पितरम् । मा । उत । मातरम् । मा । नः । प्रियाः । तन्वः । रुद्र । रीरिषः ॥ ७ ॥

mā | naḥ | mahāntam | uta | mā | naḥ | arbhakam | mā | naḥ | ukṣantam | uta | mā | naḥ | ukṣitam | mā | naḥ | vadhīḥ | pitaram | mā | uta | mātaram | mā | naḥ | priyāḥ | tanvaḥ | rudra | rīriṣaḥ ‖ 7 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.7)

हे रुद्र नोऽस्माकं मध्ये महान्तं वृद्धं मा वधीः । मा हिंसीः । उतापि च नोऽस्माकमर्भकं बालं मा हिंसीः । तथा नोऽस्माकं मध्य उक्षन्तं सेक्तारं मध्यवयस्कं युवानं मा वधीः । उतापि च नोऽस्मदीयमुक्षितं गर्भरूपेण स्त्रीषु निषिक्तमपत्यं मा वधीः । तथा नोऽस्माकं पितरं जनकं मा वधीः । उतापि च मातरं जननीं मा वधीः । तथा नोऽस्माकं प्रियः स्नेहविषयास्तन्वः शरीराणि तनूषु भवा वा प्रजा वा हे रुद्र मा रिरिषः । मा हिंसीः ॥ [grammatical tail: vadhīḥ — han with vadha-substitution, luṅ 2nd singular, sic, iṭ, the elision by ato lopasya sthānivadbhāvāt…; ririṣaḥ — riṣ “to injure”, the ṇyanta luṅ, caṅ, doubling, ṇilopa, the reduplication shortening by bahulaṃ chandasi.]

he rudra no ’smākaṃ madhye mahāntaṃ vṛddhaṃ mā vadhīḥ | mā hiṃsīḥ | utāpi ca no ’smākamarbhakaṃ bālaṃ mā hiṃsīḥ | tathā no ’smākaṃ madhya ukṣantaṃ sektāraṃ madhyavayaskaṃ yuvānaṃ mā vadhīḥ | utāpi ca no ’smadīyamukṣitaṃ garbharūpeṇa strīṣu niṣiktamapatyaṃ mā vadhīḥ | tathā no ’smākaṃ pitaraṃ janakaṃ mā vadhīḥ | utāpi ca mātaraṃ jananīṃ mā vadhīḥ | tathā no ’smākaṃ priyaḥ snehaviṣayāstanvaḥ śarīrāṇi tanūṣu bhavā vā prajā vā he rudra mā ririṣaḥ | mā hiṃsīḥ ‖ [grammatical tail: vadhīḥ — han with vadha-substitution, luṅ 2nd singular, sic, iṭ, the elision by ato lopasya sthānivadbhāvāt…; ririṣaḥ — riṣ “to injure”, the ṇyanta luṅ, caṅ, doubling, ṇilopa, the reduplication shortening by bahulaṃ chandasi.]

Sense (mine): “O Rudra, among us do not slay (mā vadhīḥ) the mahāntam, the aged; nor our arbhakam, the child; nor among us the ukṣantam, the sprinkler, the youth in middle age; nor our ukṣitam, the offspring cast into women in the form of an embryo; nor our father, the begetter; nor our mother, the bearer; and our dear tanvaḥ, bodies — or tanūṣu bhavāḥ, progeny born in the bodies — O Rudra, do not hurt (mā ririṣaḥ).”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he rudra — O Rudra; naḥ — among us; mahāntam — the old (the elder); mā vadhīḥ — do not slay; uta — and; naḥ arbhakam — our child; mā (vadhīḥ) — do not slay; naḥ ukṣantam — our young men, the producers of children; mā (vadhīḥ); uta — and; naḥ — our; ukṣitam — the children in the womb; mā (vadhīḥ); naḥ pitaram — our father; mā (vadhīḥ); uta — and; mātaram mā (vadhīḥ) — do not slay our mother; naḥ priyāḥ — our dear; tanvaḥ — embodied progeny; mā ririṣaḥ — do not injure.”

Printed p. 131 (PDF 151; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Rudra, do not kill any one of us — the elders, the children, the youths who are begetters, the children in the womb, father, mother, and dear friends.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Injure not, Rudra, those amongst us who are old or young, who are capable of begetting, or who are begotten, nor a father, nor a mother, nor afflict our precious persons.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

तन्वः — Tanvaḥ — “śarīrāṇi tanūṣu bhavāḥ prajā vā”: “though tanūḥ (the body) is a word that is singular, here the plural tanvaḥ is used; ‘bodies, or progeny born from bodies’.”

अर्भकम् — Arbhakam — “bālam”: “since the word arbhaka is read among the twelve [as read] names of ‘small’ (hrasva) ‘kṣullaka’, ‘hrasva’ and so on (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), it means ‘small’. Small here means a child not yet of age.”

रुद्र — Rudra — “when explaining the meaning of this word they say ‘rodayatīti rudraḥ’ — Rudra is he who makes [the world] weep; and, following the quality of tamas mainly in all the world, [they say] Rudra is he who dissolves the world. Therefore in this Ṛk the prayer is made that Rudra may protect without harm us, who sacrifice to him and serve him with salutations; our children; our relatives who enjoy happiness in youth; the children in the womb in our lineage; our mothers and fathers; and our dear bodies.”

उक्षन्तम् उक्षितम् — Ukṣantam, ukṣitam — “these words are formed from the root ukṣa secane, ‘to sprinkle’. Ukṣantam: since it is in the present tense, ‘one who sprinkles the seed (retas)’, who is in youth (retasaḥ sektāram); and he explains that the word ukṣitam likewise has this meaning of derivation: ‘the child in the womb now, who has to be born later’.”

Printed p. 132 (PDF 152; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 7; grammar page, noted briefly)

ukṣantam (ukṣa “to sprinkle”; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; the śatṛ is unaccented by tāsyanudāttet…, the root accent remains; since it is ugit, num in the accusative); ukṣitam (niṣṭhā, kta in the passive; ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ, Pā. 7-2-35 as read [?], the augment iṭ; final accent from the suffix); vadhīḥ (han “to injure, to go”, luṅ 2nd singular sip; elision of i by itaś ca; luṅi ca, Pā. 2-4-43 as read [?], vadha for han, since it is adanta, cli → sic by cleḥ sic; ārdhadhātukasyeḍ…, iṭ; ato lopaḥ, Pā. 6-4-48 as read [?], the final a of vadha elided; sici vṛddhiḥ; īṭ by asti-sico ’pṛkte, Pā. 7-3-96 as read [?]; iṭa īṭi, Pā. 8-2-28 as read [?], the s of siC elided after iṭ; the s of the ending → ru → visarga; na māṅyoge, Pā. 6-4-74 as read [?], no augment aṭ; nighāta); tanvaḥ (in the place of the udātta a yaṇ, followed by the ending, thus udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svaritaḥ anudāttasya, Pā. 8-2-4 as read [?]: it takes the svarita accent); ririṣaḥ (riṣ “to injure”, ṇic, then luṅ; sip; itaś ca; ṇiśridruśrubhyaḥ kartari caṅ, Pā. 3-1-48 as read [?], caṅ for cli; caṅi, Pā. 6-1-11 as read [?], doubling; the guṇa of the penultimate because of the ṇic; ṇer aniṭi, Pā. 6-4-51 as read [?], the elision of ṇic; ṇau caṅy upadhāyā hrasvaḥ, Pā. 7-4-1 as read [?]; sanvallaghuni, Pā. 7-4-93 as read [?]; dīrgho laghoḥ, Pā. 7-4-94 as read [?], lengthening of the reduplication; in the Veda a shortening arises; na māṅyoge, no augment; nighāta). ‖ 7 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 8

Printed p. 133 (PDF 153; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.8)

मा नस्तोके तनये मा न आयौ मा नो गोषु मा नो अश्वेषु रीरिषः । वीरान्मा नो रुद्र भामितो वधीर्हविष्मन्तः सदमित्त्वा हवामहे ॥ ८ ॥

mā nastoke tanaye mā na āyau mā no goṣu mā no aśveṣu rīriṣaḥ | vīrānmā no rudra bhāmito vadhīrhaviṣmantaḥ sadamittvā havāmahe ‖ 8 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.8)

मा । नः । तोके । तनये । मा । नः । आयौ । मा । नः । गोषु । मा । नः । अश्वेषु । रीरिषः । वीरान् । मा । नः । रुद्र । भामितः । वधीः । हविष्मन्तः । सदम् । इत् । त्वा । हवामहे ॥ ८ ॥

mā | naḥ | toke | tanaye | mā | naḥ | āyau | mā | naḥ | goṣu | mā | naḥ | aśveṣu | rīriṣaḥ | vīrān | mā | naḥ | rudra | bhāmitaḥ | vadhīḥ | haviṣmantaḥ | sadam | it | tvā | havāmahe ‖ 8 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.8)

हे रुद्र नोऽस्माकं तोकादिविषये मा रिरिषः । मा हिंसीः । तोकशब्दः पुत्रवाची । तनयस्तत्पुत्रः । आयुरित्यन्तोदात्तो [?] मनुष्यनाम । पुत्रपौत्रव्यतिरिक्तो योऽस्मदीयो मनुष्यस्तस्मिन् गोषु पश्वादिषु च मा रिरिषः । हिंसां मा कृथाः । तथा हे रुद्र वीरान् विक्रान्तान् शौर्योपेतानस्मदीयान् भामितः क्रुद्धः सन् मा वधीः । मा हिंसीः । वयं च हविष्मन्तो हविर्भिर्युक्ताः सन्तः सदमित् सर्वदैव त्वां हवामहे । आह्वयामहे ॥ आयौ । इण् गतौ । छन्दसीणः इत्यन्यत्प्रत्ययः । भामितः । भामु क्रोधे क्रोधिकरणे चेति कर्तरि क्तः । हवामहे । ह्वेर्ऽलिटि बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणम् ॥

he rudra no 'smākaṃ tokādiviṣaye mā ririṣaḥ | mā hiṃsīḥ | tokaśabdaḥ putravācī | tanayastatputraḥ | āyurityantodāttro [?] manuṣyanāma | putrapautravyatirikto yo 'smadīyo manuṣyastasmin goṣu paśvādiṣu ca mā ririṣaḥ | hiṃsāṃ mā kṛthāḥ | tathā he rudra vīrān vikrāntān śauryopetānasmadīyān bhāmitaḥ kruddhaḥ san mā vadhīḥ | mā hiṃsīḥ | vayaṃ ca haviṣmanto havirbhiryuktāḥ santaḥ sadamit sarvadaiva tvāṃ havāmahe | āhvayāmahe ‖ āyau | iṇ gatau | chandasīṇaḥ ityanyatpratyayaḥ | bhāmitaḥ | bhāmu krodhe krodhikaraṇe ceti kartari ktaḥ | havāmahe | hveño 'liṭi bahulaṃ chandasīti saṃprasāraṇam ‖

Sense (mine): "O Rudra, in regard to our toka and the rest do not harm (mā ririṣaḥ). Toka denotes 'son'; tanaya, his son; āyu (accent on the last syllable) is a name of man: do not harm any men of ours other than sons and grandsons; nor goṣu, in cattle and other beasts. Likewise, O Rudra, do not kill, angered (bhāmitaḥ), our heroes, valiant men endowed with courage. And we, haviṣmantaḥ, equipped with oblations, ever (sadam it) call thee, havāmahe."

Grammatical tail: āyau (iṇ "to go", with the Vedic suffix by chandasīṇaḥ); bhāmitaḥ (bhāmu "to be angry, to put into anger", kta in the agent sense); havāmahe (hvā …, saṃprasāraṇa by bahulaṃ chandasi, not in the liṭ).

Printed p. 134 (PDF 154; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he rudra — O Rudra; naḥ toke — in the matter of our sons (offspring); mā ririṣaḥ — do not injure; tanaye mā — nor [injure] our grandsons; naḥ āyau mā — do not injure the people who are ours; naḥ goṣu — our cows; naḥ aśveṣu mā — nor our horses; naḥ vīrān — our heroes; bhāmitaḥ — angered; mā vadhīḥ — do not kill; (vayaṃ ca — we also); haviṣmantaḥ — possessing oblations and the like; sadam it — always; tvā — thee; havāmahe — we call (invoke) and worship.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Rudra, do not kill, in anger, our sons, grandsons, other people, cows, horses, or heroes. We always invoke and worship thee with oblations and the like.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Harm us not, Rudra, in our sons or grandsons, or other male descendants, nor in our cattle, nor in our horses ; inflamed with anger, kill not our valiant men, for we, presenting clarified butter, perpetually invoke you.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

आयौ — Āyau — “the word āyuḥ is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]); and āyus is also used in the sense of ‘span of life’. But Sāyaṇa: ‘āyur ity antodāttaḥ manuṣyanāma | putrapautravyatirikto yo ’smadīyaḥ manuṣyas tasmin’ — āyu, with the accent on the last syllable, is a name for man: ‘in a man of ours who is other than sons and grandsons’. Since the word āyu has the accent on the last syllable, here it conveys ‘man’, he explains: ‘our relative, a man other than sons and grandsons’. Skandasvāmin says that since the word āyuś is stated among the names of man (Ni. 2-3 as read [?]) as āyavaḥ, the word conveys the meaning ‘man’, explaining paricārakāḥ — ‘attendants, servants’. The word āyus is used in various contexts in different meanings —

Printed p. 135 (PDF 155; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

> मा नो मित्रो वरुणो अर्यमायुरिन्द्र ऋभुक्षा मरुतः परि ख्यन् । (ऋ. सं. १-१६२-१ [as read])
>
> mā no mitro varuṇo aryamāyurindra ṛbhukṣā marutaḥ pari khyan | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-162-1 [as read])

— in this Ṛk, āyuḥ = satatagantā vāyuḥ — the wind, whose nature is to be always moving, is the sense in which it is used —

> यमृत्विजो वृजने मानुषासः प्रयस्वन्त आयवो जीजनन्त । (ऋ. सं. १-६०-३ [as read])
>
> yamṛtvijo vṛjane mānuṣāsaḥ prayasvanta āyavo jījananta | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-60-3 [as read])
>
> एतानि वामश्विना वीर्याणि प्र पूर्व्याण्यायवोऽवोचन् । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-२३ [as read])
>
> etāni vāmaśvinā vīryāṇi pra pūrvyāṇyāyavo ’vocan | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-23 [as read])

— in these Ṛks the Bhāṣyakāra explains āyavaḥ as 'manuṣyāḥ' (men);

> नन्मा मायुः प्र सू तिर कृधी सहस्रसामृषिम् । [as read, [?]] (ऋ. सं. १-६०-११ [as read])
>
> nanmā māyuḥ pra sū tira kṛdhī sahasrasāmṛṣim | [as read, [?]] (ṛ. saṃ. 1-60-11 [as read])
>
> आहेळमानो वरुणेह बोध्युरुशंस मा न आयुः प्र मोषीः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-२४-११ [as read])
>
> āheḷamāno varuṇeha bodhyuruśaṃsa mā na āyuḥ pra moṣīḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-24-11 [as read])
>
> प्रायुस्तारिष्टं नी रपांसि मृक्षतं सेधतं द्वेषो भवतं सचाभुवा । (ऋ. सं. १-३४-११ [as read])
>
> prāyustāriṣṭaṃ nī rapāṃsi mṛkṣataṃ sedhataṃ dveṣo bhavataṃ sacābhuvā | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-34-11 [as read])

— in these Ṛks and others the word āyus is explained as jīvita, 'life'.

> ते नो मित्रो वरुणो अर्यमायुरिन्द्र ऋभुक्षा मरुतो जुषन्त । (ऋ. सं. ३-४६-३ [as read])
>
> te no mitro varuṇo aryamāyurindra ṛbhukṣā maruto juṣanta | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-46-3 [as read])

— in this Ṛk the word āyus conveys the meaning 'food'.

"In this Ṛk, too, as in the previous Ṛk, the prayer is addressed to Rudra. Sāyaṇa explains that, accepting the locative (viṣayasaptamī) for all the seventh-case words here, the prayer is taught in this mantra that Rudra should not harm in matters concerning those men. Skandasvāmin, since the seventh case has the meaning of the second case, explains 'tokaṃ tanayaṃ mā vadhīḥ' — 'do not kill sons, grandsons and the like'."

भामितः — Bhāmitaḥ — "kruddhaḥ": angry. "Since the word bhāmate is read (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]) among the ten [as read] verb-names of the nature of anger (krodha), beginning reḍate, heḍate, the form bhāmitaḥ is derived from the root bhāmu ('to be angry'). The prayer is made here that Rudra, being angry, should not harm us or the members of our household we have to support,

Printed p. 136 (PDF 156; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

सदमित् — Sadamit — "sadā: always (Sā. bhā.). Sadeśabdaḥ sadety asya paryāyaḥ. The word it has the meaning of eva ('indeed'); sadaiva, 'always'. The word sadamit is used in this meaning elsewhere too —

> देवा नो यथा सदमिद्वृधे असन्नप्रायुवो रक्षितारो दिवे दिवे । (ऋ. सं. १-८९-१ [as read])
>
> devā no yathā sadamidvṛdhe asannaprāyuvo rakṣitāro dive dive | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-89-1 [as read])

— cited as an example. Here the word sadamit conveys the meaning sadaiva."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 8; grammar page, noted briefly)

āyau (iṇ "to go"; chandasīṇaḥ, Uṇ. 1-2 as printed [?], the suffix uṇ; since it is ṇit the vṛddhi of the i by aco 'ñṇiti; āy substitution before an ac, giving āyu; accent on the last syllable from the suffix; locative singular); bhāmitaḥ (bhāma “to be angry”; krodhikaraṇe ca, Pā. 3-4-?? as read [?]; kta in the agent; ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ, the augment iṭ; final accent from the suffix); havāmahe (hveñ “to compete, to call”, laṭ 1st plural mahiṅ; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; bahulaṃ chandasi, saṃprasāraṇa of the root; pūrvarūpa by saṃprasāraṇāc ca; śap; guṇa of the root’s i; ay substitution; lengthening by ato dīrgho yañi, Pā. 7-3-101 as read [?], of the a-ending stem before a yañ-initial; nighāta). ‖ 8 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 9

Printed p. 137 (PDF 157; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.9)

उप ते स्तोमान्पशुपा इवाकरं रास्वा पितर्मरुतां सुम्नमस्मे । भद्रा हि ते सुमतिर्मृळयत्तमाथा वयमव इत्ते वृणीमहे ॥ ९ ॥

upa te stomānpaśupā ivākaraṃ rāsvā pitarmarutāṃ sumnamasme | bhadrā hi te sumatirmṛḷayattamāthā vayamava itte vṛṇīmahe ‖ 9 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.9)

उप । ते । स्तोमान् । पशुपाःऽइव । आ । अकरम् । रास्व । पितः । मरुताम् । सुम्नम् । अस्मे इति । भद्रा । हि । ते । सुऽमतिः । मृळयत्ऽतमा । अथ । वयम् । अवः । इत् । ते । वृणीमहे ॥ ९ ॥

upa | te | stomān | paśupāḥ ’iva | ā | akaram | rāsva | pitaḥ | marutām | sumnam | asme iti | bhadrā | hi | te | su ’matiḥ | mṛḷayat ’tamā | atha | vayam | avaḥ | it | te | vṛṇīmahe ‖ 9 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.9) (the print’s sub-heading here reads “Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ” — a printer’s slip; the text is the bhāṣya)

देवसुवां हविःषु रुद्रस्य पशुपतेर्योग उप ते स्तोमानित्यादिके याज्यानुवाक्ये । सूत्रितं च । उप ते स्तोमान् पशुपा इवाकरमिति द्वे । आ. ४-११ [?] । इति ॥ हे रुद्र स्तोमान् स्तुतिरूपान्मन्त्रान् ते तुभ्यमुपाकरम् । उपाकरोमि । समर्पयामि । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । पशुपा इव । यथा पशूनां पालयिता गोपः प्रातःकाले स्वस्मै समर्पितान्पशून् सायंकाले स्वामिभ्यः प्रत्यर्पयति एवं कृष्णकाशात्त्वत्तः [?] स्तुतिरूपान्मन्त्रान् स्तुतिसाधनतया तुभ्यं प्रत्यर्पयामीत्यर्थः । हे मरुतां पितर्मरुत्संज्ञानां देवानामुत्पादक रुद्र नोऽस्मभ्यं सुम्नं

devasuvāṃ haviḥṣu rudrasya paśupateryoga upa te stomānityādike yājyānuvākye | sūtritaṃ ca | upa te stomān paśupā ivākaramiti dve | ā. 4-11 [?] | iti ‖ he rudra stomān stutirūpānmantrān te tubhyamupākaram | upākaromi | samarpayāmi | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | paśupā iva | yathā paśūnāṃ pālayitā gopaḥ prātaḥkāle svasmai samarpitānpaśūn sāyaṃkāle svāmibhyaḥ pratyarpayati evaṃ kṛṣṇakāśāttvattaḥ [?] stutirūpānmantrān stutisādhanatayā tubhyaṃ pratyarpayāmītyarthaḥ | he marutāṃ pitarmarutsaṃjñānāṃ devānāmutpādaka rudra no ’smabhyaṃ sumnaṃ

सुखं रास्व । देहि । अपि च ते त्वदीया सुमतिः कल्याणे बुद्धिर्मृळयत्तमा मृडयितृतमा सुखयितृतमा । अत एव भद्रा भजनीया हि । यस्मादेवं तस्माद्वयं ते त्वदीयमवो रक्षणं वृणीमहे । सम्भजामहे ॥ [grammatical tail: akaram — kṛ in the luṅ, the Vedic luṅlaṅliṭ for the present, cli → aṅ by kṛmṛdṛruhibhyaś chandasi; guṇa; pitar — vocative, nighāta of pitar marutām; asme — supāṃ sulug, the śe substitution for the plural dative; mṛḷayattamā — mṛḍ “to be gracious”, śatṛ in the ṇic; tamap with the Vedic accent.]

sukhaṃ rāsva | dehi | api ca te tvadīyā sumatiḥ kalyāṇe buddhirmṛḷayattamā mṛḍayitṛtamā sukhayitṛtamā | ata eva bhadrā bhajanīyā hi | yasmādevaṃ tasmādvayaṃ te tvadīyamavo rakṣaṇaṃ vṛṇīmahe | sambhajāmahe ‖ [grammatical tail: akaram — kṛ in the luṅ, the Vedic luṅlaṅliṭ for the present, cli → aṅ by kṛmṛdṛruhibhyaś chandasi; guṇa; pitar — vocative, nighāta of pitar marutām; asme — supāṃ sulug, the śe substitution for the plural dative; mṛḷayattamā — mṛḍ “to be gracious”, śatṛ in the ṇic; tamap with the Vedic accent.]

Sense (mine): “For the devasuvāṃ haviḥṣu [offerings] in the Rudra-pasu rite, ‘upa te stomān’ is the yājyā and anuvākyā; and in the Sūtra: ‘upa te stomān paśupā ivākaram — two’ (Āś. 4-11 as read [?]). O Rudra, I bring stomān, mantras in the form of praise, to thee (upākaram): I offer them. An illustration: paśupā iva — as a herdsman who protects cattle, having taken in the morning the cattle entrusted to him, returns them in the evening to their owners, so I return to thee, as a means of praising thee, the mantras in the form of praise [which came] from thee. O pitar marutām, father of the gods named Maruts, Rudra, asme, to us, give sumnam, happiness. And thy sumati, thy favourable understanding, is mṛḷayattamā, the most gracious, the happiness-making; therefore it is bhadrā, to be honoured. Since that is so, we vṛṇīmahe, we choose, ava, thy protection.”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he rudra — O Rudra; stomān — the mantras in the form of praise; paśupā iva — like a herdsman (who has taken in the morning the cattle he has led off and brings them in the evening and gives them to the owner); te — to thee; upa ā akaram — I offer (those mantras obtained from thee); he marutāṃ pitaḥ — O father of the Maruts; asme — to us; sumnam — happiness; rāsva — give; te — thy; sumatiḥ — auspicious or favouring thought; mṛḷayattamā — extremely happiness-making; bhadrā hi — is worthy of being honoured; atha — therefore; vayam — we; te avaḥ — thy protection; vṛṇīmahe — pray for (seek).”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Rudra, as a cowherd brings back at evening to the owner the cattle taken off in the morning, I offer to thee the mantras in the form of praise obtained from thee. O father of the Maruts, make happiness for us. Because thy favour is most happiness-giving and auspicious, we pray for thy protection.”

English Translation (as printed)

I restore to you, the praises (derived from you), as a shepherd (returns his sheep to their owner) ; father of the Maruts, bestow happiness upon me ; your auspicious benignity is the cause of successive delight, therefore we especially solicit your protection.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

सुम्नम् — Sumnam — "sukham": "since the word sumna is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of happiness (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), the meaning is 'happiness'."

पशुपा इव उप आ अकरम् — Paśupā iva upa ā akaram — "I offer, give, mantras in the form of praise. One who protects cattle, taking them in the morning under his charge to protect them, goes to the forest, grazes them, and in the evening duly hands over to each person his cows, back into his control. In the same way the mantras in the form of praise of Rudra, and the mantras in the form of praise of other deities, shine by the favour of those deities and are used in the praise of those deities. And in the same way the mantras that have Rudra for deity, ending in the praise of Rudra, are to be accepted both by those who sacrifice and by those who perform worship and the like; therefore, by the favour of Rudra, we praise Rudra with the mantras that have come into our minds — this is the sense. From this Rudra is the place for offering the stotras [to him]. Skandasvāmin explains likewise —

> भवतस्सकाशाल्लब्धान् स्तोमान् भवत्सन्निधावेव सर्वानुच्चारयामीति [?] ।
>
> bhavatassakāśāllabdhān stomān bhavatsannidhāveva sarvānuccārayāmīti [?] |

— 'the praises obtained from thee, I utter all of them only in thy presence' — so he says."

मरुतां पितः — Marutāṃ pitaḥ — "the fatherhood of Rudra to the Maruts has been explained in the 6th Ṛk."

सुमतिः मृळयत्तमा — Sumatiḥ mṛḷayattamā — "atiśayena sukhayitṛtamā": "the favourable intention of Rudra, who grants auspiciousness to others, is pleasant to all and worthy of honour. The word mṛḷayat, derived from the root mṛḍa 'to be gracious', is a word meaning 'happy'. Saying that this word has also the meaning 'honour', the Nirukta-writer cites examples —

> क्षेत्रस्य पतिना वयं हितेनेव जयामसि । गामश्वं पोषयित्न्वा स नो मृळातीदृशे ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-५७-१ [as read])
>
> kṣetrasya patinā vayaṃ hiteneva jayāmasi | gāmaśvaṃ poṣayitnvā sa no mṛḷātīdṛśe ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 4-57-1 [as read])

— here: 'mṛḷātir dānakarmā vā pūjākarmā vā' (Ni. 10-?? as read [?]): the word mṛḷāti is used in the sense of giving or of honouring.

> क्षेत्रस्य पतिं मधुमन्तमूर्मिं धेनुरिव पयो अस्मासु धुक्ष्व । मधुश्चुतं घृतमिव सुपूतमृतस्य नः पतयो मृळयन्तु ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-५७-३ [as read])

kṣetrasya patiṃ madhumantamūrmiṃ dhenuriva payo asmāsu dhukṣva | madhuścutaṃ ghṛtamiva supūtamṛtasya naḥ patayo mṛḷayantu ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 4-57-3 [as read])

Printed p. 140 (PDF 160; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

मृळयतिर्दानकर्मा पूजाकर्मा वा । (नि.१०-१६ [as read])

mṛḷayatirdānakarmā pūjākarmā vā | (ni. 10-16 [as read]) — in the Nirukta the root mṛḍ is said to be of the sense of ‘happiness’ or of ‘honouring’. The main idea is that Rudra’s favourable intention may be gracious to us, and may come to be worthy of honour and productive of happiness.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 9; grammar page, noted briefly)

paśupā iva (paśūn pāti iti paśupāḥ; pā “to protect”; the viṭ suffix by ato maninkvanibvanipaś ca, Pā. 3-2-74 as read [?]; the first-member-accent by kṛduttarapadaprakṛtisvaratva); akaram (ḍukṛñ “to do”; chandasi luṅlaṅliṭaḥ, Pā. 3-4-6 as read [?], luṅ in the present sense; 1st singular mip; tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ, Pā. 3-4-101 as read [?], the am substitution; cli → aṅ by kṛmṛdṛruhibhyaś chandasi, Pā. 3-1-59 as read [?]; the aṅ ṅit-like — ṅidvad; aṅ-guṇa by yadi śloṣo guṇaḥ [as printed, [?]]; raparatva; the augment aṭ; nighāta); rāsva (rā “to give”, ātmanepada by vyatyaya; thāsaḥ se → sva by savābhyāṃ vāmau, ṣatva; no nighāta since it stands at the beginning of the pāda, the vikaraṇa-less … the root accent remains); pitaḥ marutām (by paramam api chandasi [as printed — the statement that the āmantrita pitaḥ with the following marutām is treated as a whole] — the nighāta (anudātta) applies to both words by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); asme (the stem asmad; the plural dative bhyas following; supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], the śe substitution; śeṣe lopaḥ, the elision of the part ending in m [mapar-yantasya]; sāvekācaḥ… the ending accented); bhadrā (bhadi “to be auspicious, happy”; the Uṇādi ra; ṭāp in the feminine); mṛḷayattamā (mṛḍa “to be gracious”; ṇic by hetumati ca; after the ṇyanta the śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap; guṇa of the ṇic; ay substitution; the chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], making the śatṛ ārdhadhātuka, …).

Printed p. 141 (PDF 161; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

Grammar page of Ṛk 9, concluded (noted briefly): mṛḷayattamā — the tāsyanudāttet… rule makes the sārvadhātuka unaccented, but because of the suffix accent the a is udātta; tamap in the superlative by atiśayane tamabiṣṭhanau, which being pit is unaccented; feminine ṭāp; atha (a nipāta; lengthening in the Saṃhitā by nipātasya ca); vṛṇīmahe (vṛñ “to choose”, kryādi laṭ 1st plural mahiṅ; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; śnā as vikaraṇa; ī for the ā of the vikaraṇa by ī halyaghoḥ, Pā. 6-4-113 as read [?]; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 9 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 10 (Triṣṭubh)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.10)

आरे ते गोघ्नमुत पूरुषघ्नं क्षयद्वीर सुम्नमस्मे ते अस्तु । मृळा च नो अधि च ब्रूहि देवाधा च नः शर्म यच्छ द्विबर्हाः ॥ १० ॥

āre te goghnamuta pūruṣaghnaṃ kṣayadvīra sumnamasme te astu | mṛḷā ca no adhi ca brūhi devādhā ca naḥ śarma yaccha dvibarhāḥ ‖ 10 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.10)

आरे । ते । गोऽघ्नम् । उत । पुरुषऽघ्नम् । क्षयत्ऽवीर । सुम्नम् । अस्मे इति । ते । अस्तु । मृळ । च । नः । अधि । च । ब्रूहि । देव । अध । च । नः । शर्म । यच्छ । द्विऽबर्हाः ॥ १० ॥

āre | te | go 'ghnam | uta | puruṣa 'ghnam | kṣayat 'vīra | sumnam | asme iti | te | astu | mṛḷa | ca | naḥ | adhi | ca | brūhi | deva | adha | ca | naḥ | śarma | yaccha | dvi 'barhāḥ ‖ 10 ‖

Printed p. 142 (PDF 162; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.10)

हे क्षयद्वीर क्षपितसर्वशत्रुजन रुद्र ते त्वदीयं गोघ्नं यद्गोहननं यद्वा गोहननसाधनमायुधम् । उताऽपि च पुरुषघ्नं पुरुषहननं तत्साधनमायुधं वा तदुभयमारे दूरेऽस्मत्तो विप्रकृष्टदेशे भवतु । अस्मे अस्मासु ते त्वदीयं सुम्नं सुखमस्तु । भवतु । अपि च नोऽस्माकं मृळ । सुखसिद्ध्यर्थं प्रसन्नो भव । हे देव द्योतमान रुद्र नोऽस्माकमधि ब्रूहि च । अधिवचनं पक्षपातेन वचनं ब्राह्मणायाधि ब्रूयात् । तै. सं. २-५-११-१ [as read] । इति यथा । अध अथ चानन्तरं च द्विबर्हा द्वयोः स्थानयोः पृथिव्यामन्तरिक्षे च परिवृद्धः । यद्वा । द्वयोर्दक्षिणोत्तरमार्गयोर्ज्ञानकर्मणोर्वा परिवृद्धः स्वामी । स त्वं नोऽस्मभ्यं शर्म सुखं यच्छ । देहि ॥ [grammatical tail: gośnam — han “to injure”, the ka suffix by the statement “ghañarthe kavidhānam” in the abstract or instrumental; dvibarhāḥ — bṛh/vṛh “to grow”, the asun suffix; first-member accent.]

he kṣayadvīra kṣapitasarvaśatrujana rudra te tvadīyaṃ goghnaṃ yadgohananaṃ yadvā gohananasādhanamāyudham | utā 'pi ca puruṣaghnaṃ puruṣahananaṃ tatsādhanamāyudhaṃ vā tadubhayamāre dūre 'smatto viprakṛṣṭadeśe bhavatu | asme asmāsu te tvadīyaṃ sumnaṃ sukhamastu | bhavatu | api ca no 'smākaṃ mṛḷa | sukhasiddhyarthaṃ prasanno bhava | he deva dyotamāna rudra no 'smākamadhi brūhi ca | adhivacanaṃ pakṣapātena vacanaṃ brāhmaṇāyādhi brūyāt | tai. saṃ. 2-5-11-1 [as read] | iti yathā | adha atha cānantaraṃ ca dvibarhā dvayoḥ sthānayoḥ pṛthivyāmantarikṣe ca parivṛddhaḥ | yadvā | dvayordakṣiṇottaramārgayorjñānakarmaṇorvā parivṛddhaḥ svāmī | sa tvaṃ no 'smabhyaṃ śarma sukhaṃ yaccha | dehi ‖ [grammatical tail: gośnam — han “to injure”, the ka suffix by the statement “ghañarthe kavidhānam” in the abstract or instrumental; dvibarhāḥ — bṛh/vṛh “to grow”, the asun suffix; first-member accent.]

Sense (mine): “O kṣayadvīra, Rudra, destroyer of all enemy folk: thy gonhnam — the killing of cows, or the weapon that is the means of killing cows; and puruṣaghnam — the killing of men, or the weapon that kills men: let both be āre, far from us. Asme — in us — may thy sumna, happiness, be. And mṛḷa, be gracious to us, for the accomplishment of happiness. O shining god Rudra, adhi brūhi, speak on our behalf — adhivacana is speech with partiality [for a party], as ‘let him speak on behalf of the Brāhmaṇa’ (Tai. Saṃ. 2-5-11-1 as read [?]). And then dvibarhāḥ — increased in two places, in earth and in the atmosphere; or, increased in the two paths, the southern and northern [the paths of knowledge and of ritual action], the lord. Such as thou art, śarma, happiness, give (yaccha) to us."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he kṣayadvīra — O Rudra, destroyer of enemies; te — thy; gonhnam — the weapon that is the means of killing cows; uta — and; puruṣaghnam — the weapon that kills men; āre — (from us) far away (be); asme — in us; te — thy; sumnam — happiness; astu — be (and); naḥ mṛḷa — be the cause of happiness to us; deva — O shining Rudra; naḥ adhi brūhi ca — speak on our side; atha ca — afterwards; dvibarhāḥ — thou who art lord of earth and atmosphere (or lord of the two paths of knowledge and of action); naḥ — to us; śarma — happiness; yaccha — give."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Rudra, destroyer of enemies, may thy weapons that kill cows and kill men be far from us. May we have happiness; make us happy; O shining one, speak on our side; thou who art lord of the earth and atmosphere, or of both the path of knowledge and the path of action, give us happiness."

English Translation (as printed)

> Destroyer of heroes, may your cow-killing or man-slaying (weapon) be far away, and let the felicity granted by you be ours ; favour us ; speak, > brilliant hero, in our behalf, and grant us, you who are mighty over the two (realms of heaven and earth), prosperity.

Printed p. 143 (PDF 163; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

क्षयद्वीर — Kṣayadvīra — "kṣapitasarvaśatrujana": "he who destroys all enemies: Rudra. The meaning of the word kṣayadvīra has been explained in the Ṛks 1-114-1 [and] 1-114-2 [as printed, "1-114-2-?" read as 2 and 3 [?]].

In this Ṛk, since weapons that kill cows and kill men are to be kept far away, the prayer is made that Rudra's graciousness may be in us, and that Rudra may grant happiness. And in accordance with the śruti-statement 'brāhmaṇāyādhi brūyāt' (Tai. Saṃ. 2-5-11-1 as read [?]) — 'one should speak, on behalf of, to the Brāhmaṇa, words full of trust' — the prayer is expressed that Rudra, too, show his trust in words in our regard."

द्विबर्हाः — Dvibarhāḥ — "pṛthivī and antarikṣa — one who is excellent in both these places. Or, Sāyaṇa explains: the lord who, protecting the paths — the path of knowledge and the path of action — known as the southern and northern paths, so that they are not obstructed by others, favours so that those entitled to them have entrance into the paths. Skandasvāmin:

> द्विबर्हाः — बृंहिवृद्ध्यर्थः यस्मात् स्तोतुः द्वयोर्वर्धयिता बृंह धातुवृद्धौ । [?]
>
> dvibarhāḥ — bṛṃhivṛddhyarthaḥ yasmāt stotuḥ dvayorvardhayitā bṛṃha dhātuvṛddhau | [?]

— the root bṛṃh conveys the meaning of increase. ‘Therefore Rudra makes increase for those who sacrifice and for those who praise.’ Or, ‘since Rudra, in sacrifice and in battle, the two in which [the one] stands in the middle and the one in the upper [madhyamottamayoḥ], by the form of heroism (vīryarūpeṇa) is middle-ranked in the atmosphere, as the Āditya he receives the juice of the world in the atmosphere by his energy’ [the Sanskrit of this passage is in small type and corrupt in the print [?]]. In sacrifice and in battle he favours those who rely on him by his own strength with increase: hence he is dvibarhāḥ. Since Rudra is a deity of the middle region (atmosphere), as the Āditya he collects the sap of the atmosphere by his surpassing power and has the capacity to grow in the atmosphere; therefore they explain dvibarhāḥ as ‘having increase in two ways’. ‘dvayoḥ sthānayor barhate pravardhate iti dvibarhāḥ’ — the account of the meaning of this word is given in different ways in the two bhāṣyas.”

Printed p. 144 (PDF 164; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

गोघ्नम् — Gonhnam — “the Bhāṣyakāra explains the meaning as ‘a weapon that is the means of killing cows’. Here the word go may be taken in the general sense of ‘cattle’. As in the śruti-statement ‘paśūnāṃ patayе’ — Rudra being lord of animals protects them — in the Ṛk 8 of this very sūkta, ‘mā no goṣu mā no aśveṣu ririṣaḥ’, the prayer is: do not harm our cows, our horses. Therefore the prayer is made here that [Rudra] protect, without loss to us, our cows and other animals.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 10; grammar page, noted briefly)

gonhnam (han “to injure, to go”; the ka suffix by the statement “ghañarthe kavidhānam” in the abstract or instrumental sense; being kit, gamahanajana…, Pā. 6-4-98 as read [?], elision of the penultimate; hoho ’nte, Pā. 7-3-54 as read [?], the h → gh (kutva) because n follows; accent from the suffix; as it is a compound whose later member ends in kṛt preceded by a kāraka, the first-member-accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?]; likewise puruṣaghnam); kṣayadvīra (kṣayantaḥ vīrāḥ yasmin saḥ; the vocative nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); astu (as “to be”, loṭ 3rd singular; nighāta); mṛḷa (mṛḍa “to be gracious”, loṭ 2nd singular; standing at the beginning of a pāda, no nighāta; the vikaraṇa accent remains; lengthening in the Saṃhitā by dyaicotastijaḥ, Pā. 6-3-?? as read [?]); brūhi (brūñ “to speak”, loṭ 2nd singular; nighāta); yaccha (dāṇ “to give”; loṭ 2nd singular sip → hi; pāghrādhmā…, Pā. 7-3-78 as read [?], yaccha for dā; ato heḥ, elision of hi; nighāta); dvibarhāḥ (bṛha/bṛhi “to grow”; dvayoḥ sthānayoḥ barhate pravardhate iti dvibarhāḥ; the asun suffix by sarvadhātubhya asun; pugantalaghūpadhasya ca…

Printed p. 145 (PDF 165; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”; footer signature mark “IX 10”)

Grammar page of Ṛk 10, concluded (noted briefly): dvibarhāḥ — guṇa of the penultimate by pugantalaghūpadhasya ca, Pā. 7-3-86 as read [?]; first-syllable accent by jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?]; in the compound the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?]; nominative singular. ‖ 10 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 11 (Triṣṭubh)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.11)

अवोचाम नमो अस्मा अवस्यवः शृणोतु नो हवं रुद्रो मरुत्वान् । तन्नो मित्रो वरुणो मामहन्तामदितिः सिन्धुः पृथिवी उत द्यौः ॥ ११ ॥

avocāma namo asmā avasyavaḥ śṛṇotu no havaṃ rudro marutvān | tanno mitro varuṇo māmahantāmaditiḥ sindhuḥ pṛthivī uta dyauḥ ‖ 11 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 114.11)

अवोचाम । नमः । अस्मै । अवस्यवः । शृणोतु । नः । हवम् । रुद्रः । मरुत्वान् । तत् । नः । मित्रः । वरुणः । ममहन्ताम् । अदितिः । सिन्धुः । पृथिवी । उत । द्यौः ॥ ११ ॥

avocāma | namaḥ | asmai | avasyavaḥ | śṛṇotu | naḥ | havam | rudraḥ | marutvān | tat | naḥ | mitraḥ | varuṇaḥ | mamahantām | aditiḥ | sindhuḥ | pṛthivī | uta | dyauḥ ‖ 11 ‖

Printed p. 146 (PDF 166; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 114.11)

अवस्यवो रक्षणमिच्छन्तो वयमवोचाम । एतत्सूक्तरूपं स्तोत्रमवादिष्म । अस्मै रुद्राय नमो नमस्कारोऽस्तु । मरुत्वान् मरुद्भिः स्वकीयैः पुत्रैर्युक्तो रुद्रश्च नोऽस्माकं हवमाह्वानं शृणोतु । स्वीकरोतु । यदस्माभिरुक्तं नोऽस्मदीयं तत्सर्वं मित्रादयः षड्देवता मामहन्ताम् । पूजयन्तु । उतत्तद्वोऽस्यार्थे ॥ [grammatical tail: avocāma — brūñ “to speak”, luṅ; vacir substitution; ceḥ sic… asyati-vakti-khyātibhyo ’ṅ, aṅ for cli; vaca um, augment; avasyavaḥ — ava “to protect”, bhāve asun, supa ātmanaḥ kyac, kyac chandasi, u by kyāc chandasi; havam — hveñ, saṃprasāraṇa, ap; marutvān — ṛkāya [as printed: ṛtvijaḥ], matup, tasau matvarthe, bha-designation.]

avasyavo rakṣaṇamicchanto vayamavocāma | etatsūktarūpaṃ stotramavādiṣma | asmai rudrāya namo namaskāro ’stu | marutvān marudbhiḥ svakīyaiḥ putrairyukto rudraśca no ’smākaṃ havamāhvānaṃ śṛṇotu | svīkarotu | yadasmābhiruktaṃ no ’smadīyaṃ tatsarvaṃ mitrādayaḥ ṣaḍdevatā māmahantām | pūjayantu | utattadvo ’syārthe ‖ [grammatical tail: avocāma — brūñ “to speak”, luṅ; vacir substitution; ceḥ sic… asyati-vakti-khyātibhyo ’ṅ, aṅ for cli; vaca um, augment; avasyavaḥ — ava “to protect”, bhāve asun, supa ātmanaḥ kyac, kyac chandasi, u by kyāc chandasi; havam — hveñ, saṃprasāraṇa, ap; marutvān — ṛkāya [as printed: ṛtvijaḥ], matup, tasau matvarthe, bha-designation.]

Sense (mine): “We, avasyavaḥ, desiring protection, have spoken (avocāma): we have uttered this stotra in the form of the sūkta. To this Rudra be namaḥ, salutation. Marutvān — Rudra, accompanied by the Maruts, his own sons — may he hear (śṛṇotu) our hava, invocation: accept it. What has been said by us, our [prayer], may the six deities Mitra and the rest mamahantām — honour (grant).”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“avasyavaḥ — we, desirous of protection; avocāma — have recited this sūkta; asmai — to this; rudrāya — Rudra; namaḥ — salutation (be); marutvān — he who is joined with the Maruts; rudraḥ — Rudra; naḥ havam — our invocation; śṛṇotu — may hear, accept; naḥ tat — this praise uttered by us; mitraḥ — Mitra; varuṇaḥ — Varuṇa; aditiḥ — Aditi, the mother of the gods; sindhuḥ — the deity of the ocean; pṛthivī — the deity of the earth; uta — and; dyauḥ — the deity of heaven and so on, together; mamahantām — may they protect.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“We who desire protection have praised in this manner. Salutation to Rudra. May Rudra, who is joined with the Maruts, accept this our prayer. And may Mitra, Varuṇa, Aditi, the deities of the ocean, the earth and heaven make this praise of ours worthy.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Desirous of protection, we have said, reverence be to him ; may Rudra, with the Maruts, hear our invocation ; and may Mitra, Varuna, Aditi-ocean, earth, and heaven be favourable to this our prayer.

Printed p. 147 (PDF 167; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अवस्यवः — Avasyavaḥ — “avaḥ — anna (food), rakṣaṇa (protection), from av ‘to protect’ (vā). Since the word avas is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]), avas means food —

> इवा त्वार्चन्नवसे वन्दमानः सोमस्येवांशुं प्रति जागराहम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-१४६-३ [as read])
>
> ivā tvārcannavase vandamānaḥ somasyevāṃśuṃ prati jāgarāham ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-146-3 [as read])

— the word avase, avanāya in this Ṛk is used in the sense of ‘for protection’. We have recited these stotras for the sake of food and for the sake of our protection. The prayer is expressed that Rudra, who is joined with his sons the Marut deities, may hear our stotras and protect us.”

मित्रो वरुणो ममहन्ताम् — Mitro varuṇo mamahantām — “may Varuṇa and Mitra and Aditi and Sindhu and Pṛthivī and the atmosphere — these six deities — hear our praise and make for us growth. Or, from the root mah with the pūjārtha sense ‘to honour’, the form mamahantām arises: the meaning is ‘may this stotra be honoured by the deities, bringing delight to their minds’.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 11; grammar page, noted briefly)

avocāma (brūñ “to speak”, luṅ 1st plural; brūvo vaciḥ, Pā. 2-4-53 as read [?], vaci for the root; cli as vikaraṇa; asyati-vakti-khyātibhyo ’ṅ, Pā. 3-1-52 as read [?], the aṅ for cli; vaca um, Pā. 7-4-20 as read [?], the augment um; ito ’tyāt kar [as printed, [?]]; guṇa; the augment aṭ; ato dīrgho yañi, Pā. 7-3-101 as read [?], lengthening before ma for the stem ending in a; at the beginning of a pāda there is no nighāta; as the augment is udātta the word has the first-syllable accent); avasyavaḥ (av “to protect”, in the abstract sense sarvadhātubhya asun, Pā. 3-4-?? as read [?]; avaḥ ātmana icchati iti avasyati, supa ātmanaḥ kyac, Pā. 3-1-8 as read [?]; sanādyantā dhātavaḥ; after the kyac-ending kyāc chandasi, Pā. 3-2-170 as read [?], the u suffix; ato lopaḥ, Pā. 6-4-48 as read [?], the elision of the a of kyac; the word becomes avasyu; the accent from the suffix on the last syllable; nominative plural jas with guṇa by jasi ca, Pā. 7-3-109 as read [?], and avādeśa); śṛṇotu (śru "to hear", loṭ 3rd singular; śṛ for śru by śruvaḥ śṛ ca, Pā. 3-1-74 as read [?], śnu as vikaraṇa; guṇa; ṇatva; no nighāta at the beginning of a pāda; the vikaraṇa accent remains); havam (hveñ "to compete, to call", the suffix ap in the abstract sense by bhāve 'nupasargasya, Pā. 3-3-?? as read [?]; saṃprasāraṇa of the root, pūrvarūpa; guṇa and av; ap is pit hence unaccented, by supiti [as printed] the root accent remains; accusative singular); marutvān (marutaḥ asya santi; matup by tad asyāsty asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?]; jhayaḥ, Pā. 8-2-10 as read [?], va for the m of matup; te mantrārthe, the bha-designation by svādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne, Pā. 1-4-?? as read [?], excepted by tasau matvarthe; since it is bha, jaśtva of the t does not arise by jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte; nominative singular su, num augment since it is ugit; the elision of the conjunct final t is regarded as not having happened, hence no n-elision). ‖ 11 ‖

Printed p. 148 (PDF 168; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 114")

(The grammar of Ṛk 11 concludes at the top of this page with the sentence on the non-elision of the final conjunct and the end-mark ‖ 11 ‖, as above.)

Colophon: nūrahadinālkane sūktavu samāptavu — "The hundred-and-fourteenth Sūkta is ended."

(Printer's ornament.)

End of Sūkta 114 (Ṛks 1–11; printed pp. 97–148).

Sūkta 115 — citraṃ devānām (printed pp. 149–?)

Printed p. 149 (PDF 169; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …" "Ṛgvedasaṃhitā")

Heading (Kannada): "nūrahadinaidaneya sūktavu" — "the hundred-and-fifteenth Sūkta."

Anukramaṇī and Sāyaṇa's introduction (Sanskrit, as printed):

> चित्रमिति षड्ऋचं दशमं सूक्तं कुत्सस्यार्षं त्रैष्टुभं सूर्यदेवताकम् । तथा चानुक्रान्तं । चित्रं षट् सौर्यमिति ॥ अश्विनशस्त्रे सूर्योदयादूर्ध्वं सौर्याणि सूक्तानि शंसनीयानि । तत्रेदं सूक्तं शंसनीयम् । सूत्रितं च । चित्रं देवानां नमो मित्रस्य । आ. ६-५ । इति ॥ अदितेस्त्रिस्र ऋचः सौर्यस्य पशोर्वपापुरोडाशहविषां क्रमेणानुवाक्याः । ततो द्वे वपापुरोडाशयोर्याज्ये । तथा च सूत्रितम् । चित्रं देवानामुदगादनीकमिति पञ्च शं नो भव चक्षसा शं नो अह्नेति [?] । आ. ३-८ । इति ॥ अतिमूर्तिनाम्न्येकाहे शुनासीर्ये पर्वणि च सूर्यस्य हविषश्चित्रं देवानामित्येषा याज्या । सूत्रितं च तरणिर्विश्वदर्शतश्चित्रं देवानामुदगादनीकमिति याज्यानुवाक्याः । आ. ८-८ [?] । इति ॥
>
> citramiti ṣaḍṛcaṃ daśamaṃ sūktaṃ kutsasyārṣaṃ traiṣṭubhaṃ sūryadevatākam | tathā cānukrāntaṃ | citraṃ ṣaṭ sauryamiti ‖ aśvinaśastre sūryodayādūrdhvaṃ sauryāṇi sūktāni śaṃsanīyāni | tatredaṃ sūktaṃ śaṃsanīyam | sūtritaṃ ca | citraṃ devānāṃ namo mitrasya | ā. 6-5 | iti ‖ aditestrisra ṛcaḥ sauryasya paśorvapāpuroḍāśahaviṣāṃ krameṇānuvākyāḥ | tato dve vapāpuroḍāśayoryājye |

tathā ca sūtritam | citraṃ devānāmudagādanīkamiti pañca śaṃ no bhava cakṣasā śaṃ no ahneti [?] | ā. 3-8 | iti ‖ atimūrtināmnyekāhe śunāsīrye parvaṇi ca sūryasya haviṣaścitraṃ devānāmityeṣā yājyā | sūtritaṃ ca taraṇirviśvadarśataścitraṃ devānāmudagādanīkamiti yājyānuvākyāḥ | ā. 8-8 [?] | iti ‖

Sense: "citram — the sixth-Ṛk, tenth sūkta (of this anuvāka), of Kutsa; Triṣṭubh; deity Sūrya; so the Anukramaṇī: 'citraṃ ṣaṭ sauryam'. In the Aśvina-śastra, after sunrise, the Solar hymns are to be recited; among them this sūkta is to be recited; and so the Sūtra: 'citraṃ devānāṃ namo mitrasya' (Āś. 6-5 as read [?]). The three Ṛks addressed to Aditi [as read: aditestisra ṛcaḥ, the print's wording is doubtful [?]] are the anuvākyās in turn for the omentum, the cake and the oblations of the Solar animal sacrifice; then two are the yājyās of the omentum and the cake; and so the Sūtra says 'citraṃ devānām udagād anīkam — five; śaṃ no bhava cakṣasā śaṃ no ahnā' (Āś. 3-8 as read [?]). In the one-day rite called Atimūrti, in the Śunāsīrya parvan, 'citraṃ devānām' is the yājyā for the oblation to Sūrya; and the Sūtra says 'taraṇir viśvadarśataḥ' and 'citraṃ devānām udagād anīkam' as yājyā and anuvākyā (Āś. 8-8 as read [?])."

Anuvāda (Kannada): "This sūkta citraṃ devānām is the tenth sūkta in the sixteenth anuvāka. It has six Ṛks. The ṛṣi of this sūkta is Kutsa; the deity is Sūrya; the metre is Triṣṭubh. In the Anukramaṇikā it is said 'citraṃ ṣaṭ sauryam'. In the recitation of the Aśvina-śastra mantras, when the sūktas related to Sūrya are recited after sunrise, this sūkta is applied, as explained by the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra sūtra 'citraṃ devānāṃ namo mitrasya' (Āś. 6-5 as read [?]). The first three Ṛks of this sūkta, in the offering of the omentum, the cake and the oblations in the animal sacrifice connected with Sūrya, are to be used as puroanuvākyā mantras, and the next two Ṛks as yājyā mantras, as stated in the sūtra 'citraṃ devānām udagād anīkam iti pañca śaṃ no bhava cakṣasā śaṃ no ahnā' (Āś. 3-8 as read [?]). And in the ekāhe called Atimūrti, when the śunāsīra [rite] is performed, one Ṛk 'citraṃ devānām' is to be used as a yājyā mantra for Sūrya; the sūtra 'taraṇir viśvadarśataś citraṃ devānām udagād anīkam iti yājyānuvākyāḥ' (Āś. 8-8 as read [?]) shows this."

Printed p. 150 (PDF 170; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115")

सूक्त—११५ (Sūkta 115) ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—१६ ॥ सूक्त—११५ ॥ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय ८ ॥ वर्ग—६ (small numeral; as printed) ॥ Number of Ṛks: 6. Ṛṣi: Kutsa Āṅgirasa. Devatā: Sūrya. Chandas: Triṣṭubh.

Ṛk 1

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.1)

चित्रं देवानामुदगादनीकं चक्षुर्मित्रस्य वरुणस्याग्नेः । आप्रा द्यावापृथिवी अन्तरिक्षं सूर्य आत्मा जगतस्तस्थुषश्च ॥ १ ॥

citraṃ devānāmudagādanīkaṃ cakṣurmitrasya varuṇasyāgneḥ | āprā dyāvāpṛthivī antarikṣaṃ sūrya ātmā jagatastasthuṣaśca ‖ 1 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.1)

चित्रम् । देवानाम् । उत् । अगात् । अनीकम् । चक्षुः । मित्रस्य । वरुणस्य । अग्नेः । आ । अप्राः । द्यावापृथिवी इति । अन्तरिक्षम् । सूर्यः । आत्मा । जगतः । तस्थुषः । च ॥ १ ॥

citram | devānām | ut | agāt | anīkam | cakṣuḥ | mitrasya | varuṇasya | agneḥ | ā | aprāḥ | dyāvāpṛthivī iti | antarikṣam | sūryaḥ | ātmā | jagataḥ | tasthuṣaḥ | ca ‖ 1 ‖

Printed p. 151 (PDF 171; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 115.1)

देवानां दीव्यन्तीति देवा रश्मयः । तेषां देवजनानामेव वानीकं तेजःसमूहरूपं चित्रमाश्चर्यकरं सूर्यस्य मण्डलमुदगात् । उदयाचलं प्राप्तमासीत् । कीदृशम् । मित्रस्य वरुणस्याग्नेश्च । उपलक्षणमेतत् । तदुपलक्षितानां जगतां चक्षुः प्रकाशकम् । चक्षुरिन्द्रियस्थानीयं वा । उदेयं प्राप्य च द्यावापृथिवी दिवं पृथिवीमन्तरिक्षं चाप्राः । स्वकीयेन तेजसा आ समन्तादपूरयत् । उद्गृहीतमण्डलान्तर्वर्ती सूर्योऽन्तर्यामितया सर्वस्य प्रेरकः परमात्मा जगतो जङ्गमस्य तस्थुषः स्थावरस्य चात्मा स्वरूपभूतः । स हि सर्वस्य स्थावरजङ्गमात्मकस्य कार्यवर्गस्य कारणं । कारणाच्च कार्यं नातिरिच्यते । तथा च पारमर्षं सूत्रं । तदनन्यत्वमारम्भणशब्दादिभ्यः । वेदां. २-१-१४ [as read] । इति ॥ यद्वा । स्थावरजङ्गमात्मकस्य सर्वस्य प्राणिजातस्य जीवात्मा । उदिते हि सूर्ये मृतप्रायं सर्वं जगत्प्रबुद्धं चेष्टायुक्तं सदुपलभ्यते । तथा च श्रूयते । योऽसौ तपन्नुदेति स सर्वेषां भूतानां प्राणानादायोदेतीति । तै. आ. १-१४-१ [as read] । इति ॥ [grammatical tail follows: aprāḥ — prā “to fill”, luṅ, cli…; jagataḥ — gam with kvip… tasthuṣaḥ — ṣṭhā with kvasu, saṃprasāraṇa…]

devānāṃ dīvyantīti devā raśmayaḥ | teṣāṃ devajanānāmeva vānīkaṃ tejaḥsamūharūpaṃ citramāścaryakaraṃ sūryasya maṇḍalamudagāt | udayācalaṃ prāptamāsīt | kīdṛśam | mitrasya varuṇasyāgneśca | upalakṣaṇametat | tadupalakṣitānāṃ jagatāṃ cakṣuḥ prakāśakam | cakṣurindriyasthānīyaṃ vā | udeyaṃ prāpya ca dyāvāpṛthivī divaṃ pṛthivīmantarikṣaṃ cāprāḥ | svakīyena tejasā ā samantādapūrayat | udgṛhītamaṇḍalāntarvartī sūryo ’ntaryāmitayā sarvasya prerakaḥ paramātmā jagato jaṅgamasya tasthuṣaḥ sthāvarasya cātmā svarūpabhūtaḥ | sa hi sarvasya sthāvarajaṅgamātmakasya kāryavargasya kāraṇaṃ | kāraṇācca kāryaṃ nātiricyate | tathā ca pāramarṣaṃ sūtraṃ | tadananyatvamārambhaṇaśabdādibhyaḥ | vedāṃ. 2-1-14 [as read] | iti ‖ yadvā | sthāvarajaṅgamātmakasya sarvasya prāṇijātasya jīvātmā | udite hi sūrye mṛtaprāyaṃ sarvaṃ jagatprabuddhaṃ ceṣṭāyuktaṃ sadupalabhyate | tathā ca śrūyate | yo ’sau tapannudeti sa sarveṣāṃ bhūtānāṃ prāṇānādāyodetīti | tai. ā. 1-14-1 [as read] | iti ‖ [grammatical tail follows: aprāḥ — prā “to fill”, luṅ, cli…; jagataḥ — gam with kvip… tasthuṣaḥ — ṣṭhā with kvasu, saṃprasāraṇa…]

Sense (mine): “Devānām — the devāḥ are the rays (‘those that shine, dīvyanti’); of those very bright beings, the anīka — a mass of splendour, a wonder-working orb of the Sun — udagāt, has risen, has reached the eastern mountain. How is it? It is the cakṣuḥ, eye, shower, of Mitra, Varuṇa and Agni — and this is an indication of the worlds characterised by them: or it stands in the place of the organ of sight. And having risen, it āprāḥ filled dyāvāpṛthivī, heaven, earth and the atmosphere, with its own splendour. The Sun, abiding within the risen orb, as inner controller, the impeller of all, the Supreme Self, is the ātmā, the very nature, of jagataḥ, the moving, and tasthuṣaḥ, the unmoving. For he is the cause of the whole class of effects, moving and unmoving; and the effect is not other than the cause; as the sūtra of Pārāśarya (Vyāsa) says, ‘tad ananyatvam ārambhaṇaśabdādibhyaḥ’ (Vedānta-sūtra 2-1-14 as read [?]). Or: he is the jīvātman of the entire class of beings, moving and unmoving; for when the Sun rises, the whole world, nearly dead, is found awake and active; as the śruti says: 'yo 'sau tapann udeti sa sarveṣāṃ bhūtānāṃ prāṇān ādāyodeti' (Tai. Ā. 1-14-1 as read [?])."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"devānām — of the shining rays; anīkam — the mass; citram — the wonder-causing; mitrasya varuṇasya agneḥ — of Mitra, Varuṇa, Agni (the universe together with these); cakṣuḥ — the eye-like (disc of the Sun); udagāt — having risen; dyāvāpṛthivī — heaven and earth; antarikṣaṃ ca — and the atmosphere; ā aprāḥ — has filled everywhere; sūryaḥ — the Sun abiding in the orb; jagataḥ — of the moving (and); tasthuṣaḥ ca — of the unmoving world; ātmā — the essential self (the impeller)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The orb of the Sun, which is a mass of shining rays, wonder-causing, the eye-like [shower] of the whole universe beginning with Mitra, Varuṇa and Agni, has risen and filled the heavens, the earth and the atmosphere. That Sun abiding in the orb is the essential self of this moving and unmoving world, as its inner controller and impeller."

Printed p. 152 (PDF 172; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115")

English Translation (as printed)

> The wonderful host of rays has risen ; the eye of Mitra, Varuna, and Agni ; the sun, the soul of all that moves or is immoveable, has filled (with his glory) the heaven, the earth and the firmament.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

देवानाम् — Devānām — "among the many meanings, taking the sense 'splendour' from the root div, 'those that shine, cause light (dīvyanti)' — here the word deva means rays. In accordance with the view that holds only the quality as the meaning (dharmamātra), when one considers 'ray' as having parts, those devas are, taking them as possessors of parts, the shining deities — this is conveyed."

अनीकम् — Anīkam — "samūhaḥ": "the word anīka has many meanings, as in the Ṛk

> माता देवानामदितेरनीकं यज्ञस्य केतुर्बृहती वि भाहि । (ऋ. सं. १-११३-१९ [as read])
>
> mātā devānāmaditeranīkaṃ yajñasya keturbṛhatī vi bhāhi | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-113-19 [as read])

where anīka means 'rival' [pratispardhi] and 'face' [mukha]. In this Ṛk, which follows the style of poetry and is a description of the Sun at the time of rising, instead of saying that the Sun's rays rise, the mass of rays shining exceedingly is said to rise; and this mass is described as inexpressible [anirvacanīya]. This is to be understood as the ornament rūpaka (metaphor), because the description of the Sun's rising and the Sun's form are, according to the meaning that the Sun is a mass of rays, a figure."

चित्रम् — Citram — "vicitram āścaryakaram": "Sāyaṇa so explains the word citra. By this, the description of the Sun's rising is also a statement of his nature, and since the Sun's form is a mass of rays, it is a rūpaka too."

चक्षुर्मित्रस्य वरुणस्याग्नेः — Cakṣur mitrasya varuṇasyāgneḥ — "the three names Mitra, Varuṇa and Agni are indicated; seeing the general meaning of these terms, it is said here by way of indication (upalakṣaṇa) that the organ of sight, which creates the knowledge that should be known, is the Sun. By this [it is said that] the Sun is the eye of the world together with Mitra, Varuṇa, Agni and the rest

Printed p. 153 (PDF 173; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

— the meaning being: the Sun appears as the eye of Mitra, Varuṇa and Agni, or of the world, by the sentence that is mentioned in the first words as 'a mass'."

आ अप्राः — Ā aprāḥ — "the form of the word aprāḥ, from the root prā 'to fill', takes the prefix ā and is used here. By this the deities and the virtuous and the mass of ascetics, for this world, for the eye, being the ātman of the world of moving and unmoving beings, the Sun fills with his splendour earth, atmosphere and heaven everywhere. That is, the Sun, having risen, illumines the whole world with his lustre."

सूर्य आत्मा जगतस्तस्थुषश्च — Sūrya ātmā jagatas tasthuṣaś ca — "though the Sun, who is a mass of lustre, abides in the middle of the orb, he, having pervaded all, is the inner controller (antaryāmin) of all and impels them to do their works in the proper time. Therefore he is the cause of the origin of the whole class of effects, moving (cara) and unmoving (sthira): the self-nature that is cause becomes the effect according to time and place. The sage Vyāsa, who composed the Vedānta-sūtras, expresses this idea in the sūtra 'tadananyatvam ārambhaṇaśabdādibhyaḥ': the meaning of the sūtra is that the cause is not different from the effect — the effect is non-different from the cause. Following this sūtra it is one meaning that the Sun is the Supreme Self. Or: as soon as the Sun has risen, the world, which is like dead, without the knowledge or power to do any work, is lit by the power of knowledge and, like life, shows its liveliness: the śruti 'yo 'sau tapann udeti sa sarveṣāṃ bhūtānāṃ prāṇān ādāyodeti' (Tai. Ā. 1-?-? as read [?]) explains this meaning clearly. The Sun, by making all beings conscious by his rising, is the ātman, the jīva: this shows the greatness of the Sun.

"Apart from this, according to the modern scientific view too, the Sun is the cause of all movements of all things in the world; from the Sun we obtain all kinds of power (energy). For the movements in the life of beings, the motion of the winds that move in the atmosphere, the formation of clouds, the fall of rain, the growth of plants that arise on the earth in all directions, the flow of rivers — for all such works the Sun, or the Sun's rays, are the cause. If there were no light of the Sun …" (continues on the next page)

Printed p. 154 (PDF 174; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115")

"… in this world, if the dense darkness covers it, not even a blade of grass would move. Therefore the sentence sūrya ātmā jagatas tasthuṣaś ca may fittingly be said to express the idea ‘The sun is the source of all energies so far as this world (earth) is concerned’” (this last clause is printed in English, as quoted).

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 1; grammar page, noted briefly)

devānām (div “to shine”, etc.; the suffix ac by nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ, Pā. 3-1-134 as read [?]; guṇa of the penultimate; final accent from the suffix; genitive plural nām); agāt (iṇ “to go”, luṅ 3rd singular tip; itaś ca lopaḥ; iṇo gā luṅi, Pā. 2-4-45 as read [?], gā; gātisthāghupābhūbhyaḥ sicaḥ parasmaipadeṣu, Pā. 2-4-77 as read [?], elision of sic; nighāta); āprāḥ (ā + prā “to fill”, luṅ 3rd singular, sip by vyatyaya; itaś ca lopaḥ; elision of śap/cli by adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; the augment aṭ; s → ru → visarga; nighāta); dyāvāpṛthivī (dyauś ca pṛthivī ca; divo dyāvā, Pā. 6-3-29 as read [?]; ubhe vanaspatyādiṣu yugapat, Pā. 6-2-140 as read [?], both members keep their accent; dual with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?]); sūryaḥ (saraty ākāśe iti sūryaḥ; sṛ “to go”; rājasūyasūrya…, Pā. 3-1-114 as read [?], formed irregularly with kyap); jagataḥ (gam “to go”, doubling; gameḥ dve ca, Pā. 3-2-?? as read [?], kvip, doubling of the root; gamaḥ kvau, Pā. 6-4-40 as read [?], elision of the nasal; kuhoś cuḥ; hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk, Pā. 6-1-71 as read [?], the augment tuk; the stem jagat; āmreḍitaṃ … ādyudātta by ṣaṣṭhyāṃ ca … [as printed: ādyudāttaś ca, Pā. 6-1-?? [?]]; genitive singular); tasthuṣaḥ (ṣṭhā “to cease from motion”; kvasu by kvasuś ca, Pā. 3-2-107 as read [?], in the liṭ sense; doubling; the tapūrvāḥ khayaḥ — the reduplication keeps only the t; shortening; the stem tasthivas; genitive singular with vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam, Pā. 6-4-131 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa of the va; pūrvarūpa; āto lopa iṭi ca, Pā. 6-4-64 as read [?], elision of the root’s ā; śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca, ṣatva of the s of vasu; the u accented from the suffix). ‖ 1 ‖

Printed p. 155 (PDF 175; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

(The grammar of Ṛk 1 concludes at the top of this page — tasthuṣaḥ* as above.)*

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 2

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.2)

सूर्यो देवीमुषसं रोचमानां मर्यो न योषामभ्येति पश्चात् । यत्रा नरो देवयन्तो युगानि वितन्वते प्रति भद्राय भद्रम् ॥ २ ॥

sūryo devīmuṣasaṃ rocamānāṃ maryo na yoṣāmabhyeti paścāt | yatrā naro devayanto yugāni vitanvate prati bhadrāya bhadram ‖ 2 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.2)

सूर्यः । देवीम् । उषसम् । रोचमानाम् । मर्यः । न । योषाम् । अभि । एति । पश्चात् । यत्र । नरः । देवऽयन्तः । युगानि । विऽतन्वते । प्रति । भद्राय । भद्रम् ॥ २ ॥

sūryaḥ | devīm | uṣasam | rocamānām | maryaḥ | na | yoṣām | abhi | eti | paścāt | yatra | naraḥ | deva ’yantaḥ | yugāni | vi ’tanvate | prati | bhadrāya | bhadram ‖ 2 ‖

Printed p. 156 (PDF 176; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 115.2)

सूर्यो देवीं दानादिगुणयुक्तां रोचमानां दीप्यमानामुषसमुषोऽभिमानिनीं देवतां पश्चादभ्येति । उषसः प्रादुर्भावानन्तरं तामभिलक्ष्य गच्छति । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । मर्यो न योषाम् । यथा कश्चिन्मनुष्यः शोभनमयवां [?] गच्छन्तीं युवतिं स्त्रियं सततमनुगच्छति तद्वत् । यत्र यस्यामुषसि जातायां देवयन्तो देवं द्योतमानं सूर्यं यष्टुमिच्छन्तो नरो यज्ञस्य नेतारो यजमाना युगानि । युगशब्दः कालवाची । तेन च तत्र कर्तव्यानि कर्माणि लक्ष्यन्ते । यथा दर्शपूर्णमासाविति । अग्निहोत्रादीनि कर्माणि वितन्वते । विस्तारयन्ति । यद्वा । देवयन्तो देवयोगार्थं धनमात्मन इच्छन्तो यजमानपुरुषा युगानि हलादिना [?] [? हलाद्यवयवभूतानि] कर्षणाय वितन्वते । प्रसारयन्ति । तामुषसमनुगच्छतीत्यर्थः । एवंविधं भद्रं कल्याणं सूर्यं प्रति भद्राय कल्याणरूपाय कर्मफलाय स्तुमः इति शेषः । यद्वा । देवयन्तो देवकामा यजमाना युगानि युग्मानि भूत्वा पत्नीभिः सहिताः सन्तो भद्रं कल्याणमग्निहोत्रादिकं कर्म भद्राय तत्फलार्थं प्रति प्रतीकं यस्यामुषसि प्रवृत्त्यायां वितन्वते । विस्तारयन्ति ॥ [the grammatical tail follows: maryaḥ — mṛñ “to die”, the suffix yat; niṣṭarkyadevahūya… as an irregular formation; yugāni; yuj; vitanvate — tanu “to extend”, laṭ.] [reading marked [?] where the small type was doubtful]

sūryo devīṃ dānādiguṇayuktāṃ rocamānāṃ dīpyamānāmuṣasamuṣo ’bhimāninīṃ devatāṃ paścādabhyeti | uṣasaḥ prādurbhāvānantaraṃ tāmabhilakṣya gacchati | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | maryo na yoṣām | yathā kaścinmanuṣyaḥ śobhanamayavāṃ [?] gacchantīṃ yuvatiṃ striyaṃ satatamanugacchati tadvat | yatra yasyāmuṣasi jātāyāṃ devayanto devaṃ dyotamānaṃ sūryaṃ yaṣṭumicchanto naro yajñasya netāro yajamānā yugāni | yugaśabdaḥ kālavācī | tena ca tatra kartavyāni karmāṇi lakṣyante | yathā darśapūrṇamāsāviti | agnihotrādīni karmāṇi vitanvate | vistārayanti | yadvā | devayanto devayogārthaṃ dhanamātmana icchanto yajamānapuruṣā yugāni halādinā [?] [? halādyavayavabhūtāni] karṣaṇāya vitanvate | prasārayanti | tāmuṣasamanugacchatītyarthaḥ | evaṃvidhaṃ bhadraṃ kalyāṇaṃ sūryaṃ prati bhadrāya kalyāṇarūpāya karmaphalāya stumaḥ iti śeṣaḥ | yadvā | devayanto devakāmā yajamānā yugāni yugmāni bhūtvā patnībhiḥ sahitāḥ santo bhadraṃ kalyāṇamagnihotrādikaṃ karma bhadrāya tatphalārthaṃ prati pratīkaṃ yasyāmuṣasi pravṛttyāyāṃ vitanvate | vistārayanti ‖ [the grammatical tail follows: maryaḥ — mṛñ “to die”, the suffix yat; niṣṭarkyadevahūya… as an irregular formation; yugāni; yuj; vitanvate — tanu “to extend”, laṭ.] [reading marked [?] where the small type was doubtful]

Sense (mine): “The Sun abhyeti, follows after, the goddess Uṣas, endowed with qualities such as generosity, shining (rocamānā), after her appearing. An illustration: maryo na yoṣām — as a man constantly follows a good-looking young woman who is going. When Uṣas has arisen, nāraḥ, men, leaders of the sacrifice, sacrificers, devayantaḥ — wishing to worship the shining Sun — yugāni vitanvate: yuga is a word for time, and by it the works to be done then are indicated, such as the Darśa and Pūrṇamāsa; they perform the Agnihotra and other works: they spread out. Or: devayantaḥ — wishing wealth for themselves for the sake of association with the gods, the sacrificer-men spread out the yokes — the parts of the plough — for ploughing (karṣaṇāya) (this alternative is in small type, partly doubtful [?]); they follow that Uṣas. Such an auspicious (bhadram) Sun we praise for the auspicious fruit of works in the form of welfare. Or: devayantaḥ — wishing for the gods, the sacrificers, being in pairs (yugāni, couples), together with their wives, perform bhadram, the auspicious work, Agnihotra and the like, for the sake of its fruit, in each [morning] when Uṣas has arisen.”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“yatra — when (Uṣas has risen); devayantaḥ — wishing to worship the Sun, or desiring wealth for sacrifices to the deities, or eager to worship the deities; naraḥ — sacrificers; yugāni — the Darśa-pūrṇamāsa and other sacrifices that must be done in due order of time; vitanvate — they spread forth at that Uṣas-time; maryaḥ — as a man (any man); yoṣām — a fair young woman; na — as (he follows) from behind; sūryaḥ — the Sun; rocamānām — the shining; uṣasam devīm — Uṣas the deity; paścāt abhyeti — follows (after Uṣas’s rising the Sun rises); bhadram prati — to such an auspicious one (the Sun); bhadrāya — for welfare (we pray).”

Printed p. 157 (PDF 177; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“At the rising of Uṣas, the performers of sacrifices, wishing to worship the Sun and others by sacrifices, perform the Darśa-pūrṇamāsa and other sacrifices that must be done in due order of time. As a man follows a beautiful woman, the Sun follows the shining Uṣas. We worship such an auspicious Sun for welfare.”

English Translation (as printed)

> The sun follows the divine and brilliant Ushas, as a man (follows a young and elegant) woman ; at which season, pious men perform (the ceremonies established for) ages, worshipping the auspicious (sun), for the sake of good (reward)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

मर्यो न योषाम् — Maryo na yoṣām — “since the word maryа is read among the twenty-five [as read] names of man (manuṣya), ‘naraḥ’ and so on (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]), the word maryа means man (Ni. 3-2 and Ni. 4-? as read [?]: ‘maryа iti manuṣyanāma’). As a man, seeing a beautiful woman, follows her, the Sun follows Uṣas. The manner of a man who is a lover is described here as the cause of the Sun’s rising, which comes after the rising of Uṣas. The qualifiers devīm rocamānām show the excellent natural qualities of Uṣas.”

देवयन्तः — Devayantaḥ — “the word deva here, according to the context, denotes the Sun: those who desire sacrifice to the Sun — this is the sense. Or the meaning may also be given: those who desire to worship other deities; or, the Bhāṣyakāra explains, those who desire wealth for the sake of worshipping the deities.”

नरः — Naraḥ — “yajñasya netāro yajamānāḥ”: the sacrificers who perform the sacrifice. “Since the word nara is stated among the twenty-five [as read] names of man (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]), the meaning is ‘men’.”

युगानि वितन्वते — Yugāni vitanvate — “the word yuga denotes time; from this [the sense is]: the sacrificers perform, in accordance with the times (kāla), the works to be done — Darśa-pūrṇamāsa and the like, and Agnihotra and so on. The word devayantaḥ has one explanation of this kind.”

“… for the sake of association with the gods, wishing for wealth for themselves — those who perform sacrifice, aiming at the deities, are sacrificers who desire wealth (dhanāpekṣiṇaḥ): this is the meaning; and for the word yugāni [he gives] ‘the parts that form the plough (halādyavayavabhūtāni), for karṣaṇāya, for tillage’: [the sense] ‘having prepared the implements useful for farming — the plough and the rest — at Uṣas-time, they do the Agnihotra and other works, and afterwards perform works that serve as the means of getting wealth necessary for worldly affairs’: this is another kind of meaning. For the word devayantaḥ the meaning: sacrificers who serve the deities and desire their favour (devakāmāḥ). These sacrificers —

> युगशब्दः कालविशेषे रथाद्युपकरणे च । (का. ६-१-१३० [as read; Kāśikā])
>
> yugaśabdaḥ kālaviśeṣe rathādyupakaraṇe ca | (kā. 6-1-130 [as read; Kāśikā])

— since the word yuga conveys a particular time and also the equipment of a chariot and the like, yugāni bhūtvā patnībhiḥ sahitāḥ santaḥ — ‘being in pairs, together with their wives, performing auspicious works such as Agnihotra, on the rising of Uṣas, in order to obtain the fruit of it’: he explains yet another meaning.”

भद्रं भद्राय वितन्वते — Bhadraṃ bhadrāya vitanvate — “both words bhadra have the meaning ‘auspicious’; one bhadra is the qualifier of the Sun. ‘Because they offer sacrifice to the Sun who produces auspiciousness, they praise [him] at Uṣas-time, in order to please the Sun and obtain auspicious fruit’ — is the sense.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 2; grammar page, noted briefly)

rocamānām (ruc “to shine”, śānac in the laṭ sense; śap; guṇa of the penultimate; āne muk, Pā. 7-2-82 as read [?], the augment muk; the root accent remains as the sārvadhātuka is unaccented); maryaḥ (mṛñ “to die”; yat is irregularly formed by chandasi niṣṭarkyadevahūya…, Pā. 3-1-123 as read [?]; first-syllable accent by yato ’nāvaḥ, Pā. 6-1-213 as read [?]); eti (iṇ “to go”, adādi laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta); paścāt (paścāt, by paścāt, Pā. 5-3-33 as read [?], the paś substitution for apara; astāti, the ati suffix is irregularly formed); yatra (nipātasya ca, Pā. 6-3-136 as read [?], lengthening in the Saṃhitā).

Grammar page of Ṛk 2, concluded (noted briefly): naraḥ (nī “to lead”; ap by ṛdor ap, Pā. 3-3-57 as read [?]; guṇa of the root; the root accent remains since ap is pit); devayantaḥ (devān ātmana icchati devayati; kyac by supa ātmanaḥ kyac, Pā. 3-1-8 as read [?]; na chandasy aputrasya, Pā. 7-4-35 as read [?], the lengthening of the a is prevented; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; the stem devayat; nominative plural); yugāni (yujir “to join”; the suffix ghañ in the passive; yugaśabdaḥ kālaviśeṣe rathādyupakaraṇe ca, as read in the Uṇādi list [Kā.], hence no guṇa of the penultimate because of the suffix; for that reason the final accent; cajoḥ kughiṇṇyatoḥ, Pā. 7-3-52 as read [?], the g for j); vitanvate (tanu “to extend”, laṭ 3rd plural; ātmanepadeṣv anataḥ, Pā. 7-1-5 as read [?], ā for jh; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; tanādikṛñbhya uḥ, Pā. 3-1-79 as read [?], u as the vikaraṇa; no guṇa as the suffix is ṅit-like by sārvadhātukam apit; yaṇ; since yatra precedes there is no nighāta by nipātair yad yadi…, Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]; the compound with the prefix vi, through saha supā, Pā. 2-1-4 as read [?], by splitting of rule, is a compound with the verb; and the end of the compound is accented by samāsasya, Pā. 6-1-223 as read [?]). ‖ 2 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 3

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.3)

भद्रा अश्वा हरितः सूर्यस्य चित्रा एतग्वा अनुमाद्यासः । नमस्यन्तो दिव आ पृष्ठमस्थुः परि द्यावापृथिवी यन्ति सद्यः ॥ ३ ॥

bhadrā aśvā haritaḥ sūryasya citrā etagvā anumādyāsaḥ | namasyanto diva ā pṛṣṭhamasthuḥ pari dyāvāpṛthivī yanti sadyaḥ ‖ 3 ‖

Printed p. 160 (PDF 180; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.3)

भद्राः । अश्वाः । हरितः । सूर्यस्य । चित्राः । एतग्वाः । अनुमाद्यासः । नमस्यन्तः । दिवः । आ । पृष्ठम् । अस्थुः । परि । द्यावापृथिवी इति । यन्ति । सद्यः ॥ ३ ॥

bhadrāḥ | aśvāḥ | haritaḥ | sūryasya | citrāḥ | etagvāḥ | anumādyāsaḥ | namasyantaḥ | divaḥ | ā | pṛṣṭham | asthuḥ | pari | dyāvāpṛthivī iti | yanti | sadyaḥ ‖ 3 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 115.3)

भद्राः कल्याणाः । अश्वा एतग्वा इत्येतदुभयमश्वनाम । तत्रैकं क्रियापरं योजनीयम् । अश्वाः सूर्यस्य रथं वहन्तो व्यापनशीला वा हरितः हर्तारश्मयस्तद्वन्तो वा चित्राः विचित्रावयवा अनुमाद्यासः अनुक्रमेण सर्वैः स्तुत्या माद्यनीयाः । एवम्भूताः सूर्यस्यैतग्वा अश्वाः । यद्वा । एतं गन्तव्यं मार्गं गन्तारोऽश्वाः । एतं शबलवर्णं वा प्राप्नुवन्तोऽश्वाः । नमस्यन्तोऽस्माभिर्नमस्यमानाः सन्तो दिवोऽन्तरिक्षस्य पृष्ठमुपरिप्रदेशं पूर्वभागलक्षणमास्थुः । अतिष्ठन्ति । प्राप्तवन्तः । यद्वा । हरितो रसहरणशीला रश्मयो भद्रादिलक्षणविशिष्टा दिवः पृष्ठं नभःस्थलमातिष्ठन्ति । अस्थाय च द्यावापृथिवी द्यावापृथिव्यौ सद्यस्तदानीमेवैकेनाह्ना परि यन्ति । परितो गच्छन्ति । व्याप्नुवन्तीत्यर्थः ॥ [grammatical tail: aśvāḥ — aśū "to pervade", with kvin, aśipruṣītyādinā; etagvāḥ — iṇ "to go", asi-hasi- …, the suffix tan, gamer ṇauḍādiko bhāve… ṭa [as printed]; bahuvrīhi with first-member accent; anumādyāsaḥ — madi "to praise", yat, yatonāva; namasyantaḥ — namovarivaś …, kyac in the sense of honour; asthuḥ — ṣṭhā, luṅ, gātisthā… elision of sic, jhi → jus.] [a few words doubtful in small type [?]]

bhadrāḥ kalyāṇāḥ | aśvā etagvā ityetadubhayamaśvanāma | tatraikaṃ kriyāparaṃ yojanīyam | aśvāḥ sūryasya rathaṃ vahanto vyāpanaśīlā vā haritaḥ hartāraśmayastadvanto vā citrāḥ vicitrāvayavā anumādyāsaḥ anukrameṇa sarvaiḥ stutyā mādyanīyāḥ | evambhūtāḥ sūryasyaitagvā aśvāḥ | yadvā | etaṃ gantavyaṃ mārgaṃ gantāro 'śvāḥ | etaṃ śabalavarṇaṃ vā prāpnuvanto 'śvāḥ | namasyanto 'smābhirnamasyamānāḥ santo divo 'ntarikṣasya pṛṣṭhamuparipradeśaṃ pūrvabhāgalakṣaṇamāsthuḥ | atiṣṭhanti | prāptavantaḥ | yadvā | harito rasaharaṇaśīlā raśmayo bhadrādilakṣaṇaviśiṣṭā divaḥ pṛṣṭhaṃ nabhaḥsthalamātiṣṭhanti | asthāya ca dyāvāpṛthivī dyāvāpṛthivyau

sadyastadānīmevaikenāhnā pari yanti | parito gacchanti | vyāpnuvantītyarthaḥ ‖ [grammatical tail: aśvāḥ — aśū "to pervade", with kvin, aśipruṣītyādinā; etagvāḥ — iṇ "to go", asi-hasi- …, the suffix tan, gamer ṇauḍādiko bhāve… ṭa [as printed]; bahuvrīhi with first-member accent; anumādyāsaḥ — madi "to praise", yat, yatonāva; namasyantaḥ — namovarivaś …, kyac in the sense of honour; asthuḥ — ṣṭhā, luṅ, gātisthā… elision of sic, jhi → jus.] [a few words doubtful in small type [?]]

Sense (mine): "Bhadrāḥ — auspicious. Aśvāḥ and etagvāḥ are both names for horses; of these one is to be taken as a verb-qualifier. The horses of the Sun carry his chariot, pervading, haritaḥ (green-tawny, or taking away [hartāraḥ] the rays or possessing them), citrāḥ — of varied limbs, anumādyāsaḥ — to be gladdened in due order by the praise of all. Such are the etagvā aśvāḥ of the Sun. Or: etagvāḥ — horses that go along the road to be travelled; or horses that attain the variegated colour. Namasyantaḥ — being saluted by us — they have mounted (āsthuḥ) the pṛṣṭha, the upper region, of divaḥ, of the atmosphere, namely the eastern part. Or: the rays that take away the sap, with the characters of auspiciousness and so on, mount the back of the sky (the region of space). And having mounted, they go round (pari yanti) dyāvāpṛthivī, heaven and earth, sadyaḥ — at that very time, in a single day."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"bhadrāḥ — auspicious; haritaḥ — of green-tawny colour; citrāḥ — having wonderful limbs; anumādyāsaḥ — praiseworthy in succession; aśvāḥ — the swift ones; sūryasya — of the Sun; etagvāḥ — the horses; namasyantaḥ — worshipped by us; divaḥ pṛṣṭham — the upper part of the atmosphere; ā asthuḥ — they move mounting up; dyāvāpṛthivī — earth and sky; sadyaḥ — in the same day; pari yanti — go round."

Printed p. 161 (PDF 181; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …"; footer signature mark "IX 11")

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The Sun's horses are auspicious; of wonderful limbs; they have the power of swift movement; they are praised by us. Such green-tawny horses of the Sun, worshipped by us, move mounting in the upper part of the sky. These horses go round earth and sky in a single day."

English Translation (as printed)

> The auspicious, swift horses of the sun, well-limbed, road-traversing, who merit to be pleased with praise, reverenced by us, have ascended to the summit of the sky, and quickly circumambulate earth and heaven.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अश्वाः — Aśvāḥ — "turagāḥ — from the root aśū 'to pervade' (vyāptau); or 'those whose nature is to pervade' — those who move swiftly, or whose nature is to pervade."

एतग्वाः — Etagvāḥ — "'etaṃ gantavyaṃ mārgaṃ gantāro 'śvāḥ | etāṃ śabalavarṇaṃ vā prāptavanto 'śvāḥ":"horses that go along the road they have to travel; hence 'horses', since they go along the road that lies ahead; or because the word eta* conveys various (śabala — mottled) colours (turmeric-yellow, red, white), 'horses endowed with many colours'. Skandasvāmin —

एतग्व इत्यश्वनामान्यत्रेह तु अश्वेन पौनरुक्त्यप्रसङ्गात् क्रियाशब्दः । अतीतेप्सहसः [?] मार्गस्य गन्तारः ॥

etagva ityaśvanāmānyatreha tu aśvena paunaruktyaprasaṅgāt kriyāśabdaḥ | atītepsahasaḥ [?] mārgasya gantāraḥ ||

— the word etagva elsewhere is a name of horse; but here, since it would be a repetition with aśva, it is a verb-word [i.e. an adjective of action]: 'those that go on the roads they travelled before' (the meaning given in the Kannada: 'those who move on the paths that were traversed on the days that have gone')."

अनुमाद्यासः — Anumādyāsaḥ — "madatir arcatikarmā anuṣṭutyāḥ": "the root mad is read among the forty-four [as read] words beginning arcati (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), 'worthy of praise'. (praises)"

दिवः पृष्ठम् आ अस्थुः — Divaḥ pṛṣṭham ā asthuḥ — "antarikṣasya pūrvabhāgalakṣaṇam upari pradeśaṃ prāptavantaḥ": "they reach the upper region of the atmosphere, namely the eastern part. Or: the rays that draw up the sap (rasaharaṇaśīlāḥ), distinguished by auspiciousness and the rest, mount the sky." "Namasyantaḥ — being worthy of salutation, pervasive, praiseworthy, of many colours, moving along the roads of going fixed for each — the horses of the Sun; or the Sun's rays, which draw water, the Sun's rays and horses spread in the upper part of the atmosphere over earth, atmosphere and everything at the very rising of the Sun. Since the epithets stated in this Ṛk apply equally to the Sun's rays and horses, the sense is that the Sun, in a chariot yoked with such horses, shines with his rays and moves, as the regulator of time."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 3; grammar page, noted briefly)

aśvāḥ (aśū "to pervade"; kvan by aśipruṣikṛṣy…, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?]; the first syllable accented by jñityādir nityam; nominative plural); etagvāḥ (iṇ "to go"; tan in the passive by asihasi…; guṇa of i; the form eta; gam "to go", with the ḍvanas Uṇādi suffix in the abstract; the elision of the root's ṭi by the capacity of ḍit; the form gva; etam etavyam prati gamanaṃ yeṣāṃ te etagvāḥ — a bahuvrīhi whose first member keeps its accent by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?]); anumādyāsaḥ (madi "to praise", causative ṇic by hetumati ca, Pā. 3-1-26 as read [?]; vṛddhi of the penultimate by ata upadhāyāḥ, Pā. 7-2-116 as read [?]; for the ac-ending māḍi, yat by aco yat, Pā. 3-1-97 as read [?]; the elision of ṇic by ner aniṭi, Pā. 6-4-51 as read [?]; first-syllable accent by yato 'nāvaḥ; in the compound with anu the first-member accent by kṛduttarapadaprakṛtisvaratva; āc ca … the augment asuk after jas by ājjaser asuk, Pā. 7-1-50 as read [?]); namasyantaḥ (pūjārthe, kyac by namovariva ścitraṅaḥ kyac, Pā. 3-1-19 as read [?]; vyatyayo bahulam, Pā. 3-1-85 as read [?], in the passive/active sense; for laṭ śatṛ;

… śap; ato guṇe, Pā. 6-1-97 as read [?], pararūpa; the nominative plural; since the sārvadhātuka is unaccented the kyac accent remains); divaḥ (accent of the ending by ūḍidaṃpadādi, Pā. 6-1-

171 as read [?]); asthuḥ (ṣṭhā “to cease from motion”, luṅ in the present sense by chandasi luṅlaṅliṭaḥ, Pā. 3-4-6 as read [?]; 3rd plural jhi → ant [jhi → jus] by āto jusaḥ, Pā. 3-4-110 as read [?]; gātisthāghupābhūbhyaḥ sicaḥ parasmaipadeṣu, Pā. 2-4-77 as read [?], elision of sic; usya padāntāt, Pā. 6-1-96 as read [?], pararūpa; the augment aṭ; asthuḥ; nighāta); yanti (iṇ “to go”, adādi; jhi → anti; iṇo yaṇ, Pā. 6-4-81 as read [?], yaṇ for i; nighāta). ‖ 3 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 4

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.4)

तत्सूर्यस्य देवत्वं तन्महित्वं मध्या कर्तोर्विततं सं जभार । यदेदयुक्त हरितः सधस्थादाद्रात्री वासस्तनुते सिमस्मै ॥ ४ ॥

tatsūryasya devatvaṃ tanmahitvaṃ madhyā kartorvitataṃ saṃ jabhāra | yadedayukta haritaḥ sadhasthādādrātrī vāsastanute simasmai ‖ 4 ‖

Printed p. 164 (PDF 184; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115”)

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.4)

तत् । सूर्यस्य । देवऽत्वम् । तत् । महिऽत्वम् । मध्या । कर्तोः । विऽततम् । सम् । जभार । यदा । इत् । अयुक्त । हरितः । सधऽस्थात् । आत् । रात्री । वासः । तनुते । सिमस्मै ॥ ४ ॥

tat | sūryasya | deva ’tvam | tat | mahi ’tvam | madhyā | kartoḥ | vi ’tatam | sam | jabhāra | yadā | it | ayukta | haritaḥ | sadha ’sthāt | āt | rātrī | vāsaḥ | tanute | simasmai ‖ 4 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 115.4)

सूर्यस्य सर्वप्रेरकस्यादित्यस्य तद्देवत्वमीश्वरत्वम् । स्वातन्त्र्यमिति यावत् । महित्वं महत्त्वं माहात्म्यं च तदेतत् । तच्छब्दश्रुतेर्यच्छब्दाध्याहारः । यत्कर्तोः कर्मणामेतत् । प्रारब्धपरिसमाप्तस्य कृष्यादिलक्षणस्य कर्मणो मध्या मध्येऽपरिसमाप्त एव तस्मिन्कर्मणि विततं विस्तीर्णं स्वकीयं रश्मिजालमस्तं गच्छन् सूर्यः सं जभार । अस्माल्लोकाच्छास्त्रात्मन्युपसंहरति । कर्मकराश्च प्रवृत्तमपरिसमाप्तमेव विसृज्यास्तमयं यन्तं सूर्यं दृष्ट्वा । ईदृशं स्वातन्त्र्यं महिमा च सूर्यव्यतिरिक्तस्य कस्यापि न सूर्य एवेदृशं स्वातन्त्र्यं महिमानं चावगाहते । अपि च । इदित्यवधारणे । यदेदयुक्तास्मिन्नेव काले हरितो रसहरणशीलान्स्वरश्मीन् हरिद्वर्णानश्वान्वा सधस्थात्सहस्थानादस्माल्लोकादादायायुक्त । अन्यत्र संयुक्तान्करोति । यद्वा । युजिः केवलोऽपि विपूर्वो द्रष्टव्यः । यद्वैवासौ स्वरश्मीन्विश्वान्सधस्थात् । सह तिष्ठन्त्यस्मिन्निति सधस्थो रथः । तस्मादयुक्त । अमुञ्चत् । आत् अनन्तरमेव रात्री निशा वास आच्छादयित्र तमः सिमस्मै । सिमशब्दः सर्वशब्दपर्यायः । सप्तम्यर्थे चतुर्थी । सर्वस्मिन् लोके तनुते । विस्तारयतीति । यद्वा । वासो वासरमहः । तत्सर्वस्मादस्माल्लोकादपनीय रात्री तमस्तनुते । अत्र निरुक्तम् । तत्सूर्यस्य देवत्वं तन्महित्वं मध्ये यत्कर्मणां क्रियमाणानां विततं[?] संह्रियते । यदा सायुक्त [?] हरणानादित्यश्मीन् हरितोऽश्वान्वा । अथ रात्री वासस्तनुते सिमस्मै वेसर महरवयुवती सर्वस्मात् ॥ नि. ४-११ [as read] । इति ॥ [the grammatical tail follows in the print: mahitvam — mah “to honour”, ini, tasya bhāvas tvatalau; madhyā — supāṃ sulug… ḍāc, kartoḥ — kṛ with tun, guṇa, jñityādi first-syllable accent; vitatam — tanu, niṣṭhā, udāttasya…; jabhāra

— bhṛ, liṭ, hṛgrahorbhaḥ — the bha for ha; ayukta — yuj, luṅ, jhalo jhali, sic elision; sadhasthāt — sadha with sthā, ka…; rātrī — rātreś cājasau, jas…] [read from the print; the Nirukta passage is in small type and partly doubtful [?]]

sūryasya sarvaprerakasyādityasya taddevatvamīśvaratvam | svātantryamiti yāvat | mahitvaṃ mahattvaṃ māhātmyaṃ ca tadetat | tacchabdaśruteryacchabdādhyāhāraḥ | yatkartoḥ karmaṇāmetat | prārabdhaparisamāptasya kṛṣyādilakṣaṇasya karmaṇo madhyā madhye 'parisamāpta eva tasminkarmaṇi vitataṃ vistīrṇaṃ svakīyaṃ raśmijālamastaṃ gacchan sūryaḥ saṃ jabhāra | asmāllokācchāstrātmanyupasaṃharati | karmakarāśca pravṛttamaparisamāptameva visṛjyāstamayaṃ yantaṃ sūryaṃ dṛṣṭvā | īdṛśaṃ svātantryaṃ mahimā ca sūryavyatiriktasya kasyāpi na sūrya evedṛśaṃ svātantryaṃ mahimānaṃ cāvagāhate | api ca | idityavadhāraṇe | yadedayuktāsminneva kāle harito rasaharaṇaśīlānsvaraśmīn haridvarṇānaśvānvā sadhasthātsahasthānādasmāllokādādāyāyukta | anyatra saṃyuktānkaroti | yadvā | yujiḥ kevalo 'pi vipūrvo draṣṭavyaḥ | yadvaivāsau svaraśmīnviśvānsadhasthāt | saha tiṣṭhantyasminniti sadhastho rathaḥ | tasmādayukta | amuñcat | āt anantarameva rātrī niśā vāsa ācchādayitra tamaḥ simasmai | simaśabdaḥ sarvaśabdaparyāyaḥ | saptamyarthe caturthī | sarvasmin loke tanute | vistārayatīti | yadvā | vāso vāsaramahaḥ | tatsarvasmādasmāllokādapanīya rātrī tamastanute | atra niruktam | tatsūryasya devatvaṃ tanmahitvaṃ madhye yatkarmaṇāṃ kriyamāṇānāṃ vitata[?] saṃhriyate | yadā sāyukta [?] haraṇānādityarśmīn harito 'śvānvā | atha rātrī vāsastanute simasmai vesara maharavayuvatī sarvasmāt ‖ ni. 4-11 [as read] | iti ‖
[the grammatical tail follows in the print: mahitvam — mah "to honour", ini, tasya bhāvas tvatalau; madhyā — supāṃ sulug… ḍāc, kartoḥ — kṛ with tun, guṇa, jñityādi first-syllable accent; vitatam — tanu, niṣṭhā, udāttasya…; jabhāra — bhṛ, liṭ, hṛgrahorbhaḥ — the bha for ha; ayukta — yuj, luṅ, jhalo jhali, sic elision; sadhasthāt — sadha with sthā, ka…; rātrī — rātreś cājasau, jas…] [read from the print; the Nirukta passage is in small type and partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Of the Sun — the Āditya who impels all — that devatva, lordship (that is, independence); and that mahitva, greatness, majesty — this is it [with yat supplied from the tat]: kartoḥ, of works — in the middle (madhyā) of work begun and not finished, such as ploughing, the Sun, going to his setting, saṃ jabhāra — draws together his extended net of rays, drawing it from this world into himself; and the workmen, seeing the Sun going to his setting, leave off the work begun, unfinished. Such independence and greatness belongs to no one but the Sun: the Sun alone attains such independence and majesty. Moreover, it is for emphasis: yad edayukta — at that very time, when he takes, from this world, from sadhasthāt, from the common place, his sap-drawing haritaḥ — rays, or green-tawny horses — and unyokes (ayukta) them: elsewhere he yokes them. Or the root yuj is to be understood with the prefix vi (as viyuj); or the sadhastha is the chariot ('in which they stand together'), from which he unyoked, released them. Āt, immediately after, rātrī, the night, vāsaḥ — a covering, darkness — tanute, spreads, simasmai — sima is a synonym of sarva, 'all'; the fourth case in the sense of the seventh: in the whole world. Or vāsaḥ = vāsaram, day; removing it from all this world, night spreads the darkness. The Nirukta here: [quotation of the Ṛk with explanation] (Ni. 4-11 as read [?])."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (printed on p. 165)

(Grammatical tail of the bhāṣya, concluded — characterized, not transcribed: jabhāra — hṛgrahor bhaḥ; ayukta — yuj with luṅ, jhalo jhali elision of sic; sadhasthāt — sadha + sthā with the suffix ka; the dhatva by sadha māda-sthayoś chandasi; rātrī — rātreś cājasau, jas → ī.)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“yat — (by) which; kartoḥ — works such as ploughing; madhyā — in the middle; vitatam — extended (his own rays); saṃ jabhāra — draws into himself; tat — that; sūryasya — of the Sun; devatvam — lordship (independence); tat — that; mahitvam — greatness; yadā — when; haritaḥ — green-tawny (his horses or rays); sadhasthāt — (from the common place of both) from this earth; ayukta — he yokes; āt it — immediately; rātrī — night; vāsaḥ — the covering darkness; simasmai — in all places; tanute — spreads.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“When the Sun draws his rays into himself — [that is,] the works such as ploughing, though not finished, remain [unfinished] — that is the Sun’s lordship and his greatness; and when he has drawn his rays from this earth, afterwards night spreads the darkness.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Such is the divinity, such is the majesty of the sun, that when he has set, he has withdrawn (into himself) the diffused (light which had been shed) upon the unfinished task ; when he has unyoked his coursers from his car, then night extends the veiling darkness over all.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

मध्या कर्तोः — Madhyā kartoḥ — “madhye aparisamāpta eva tasmin karmaṇi”: “in the middle of the work not yet finished. Kartoḥ — karmanāmaitat — this is a name of work: prārabdhaparisamāptasya kṛṣyādilakṣaṇasya karmaṇaḥ. The word kartoḥ is the word apnas; since apas is read among the fifteen [as read] names of work (Ni. 2-1 as read [?]), the meaning is ‘work’. When the Sun draws in his rays, the Sun, going to his setting, stops [people] in the very middle of the works they are doing — — without regard to whether they are complete or not. Following this, those who do agricultural work and others who perform works for livelihood stop their works in the middle, each his own. That at the Sun’s setting all stop their works is a custom of the world; this is described here in another way. From the time of the Sun’s rising, the Sun’s rays spread in all directions, filling earth and atmosphere, and are drawn back at the time of setting in a moment: it stops everything at the same time. [By this] his independence is shown as the greatness equal to that of the Lord who is all-independent and impels everything. In just that way, the Sun at his setting stops the men performing their works, each in his own work. The greatness of the Sun, ordering everything in sequence by his rising and setting alone, is exceedingly wonderful. Such greatness is not in any other deity. The sentence tat sūryasya devatvaṃ tan mahitvam makes this clear.”

हरितः सधस्थादयुक्त — Haritaḥ sadhasthād ayukta — "the Sun, withdrawing from this world his rays that draw up water, or the horses of his chariot, makes them spread elsewhere; because of that the Sun's chariot moves elsewhere. Then night draws away the black cloth that covers everything. This means that day, which makes light, runs away. Yāska:

> तत्सूर्यस्य देवत्वं तन्महित्वं मध्ये यत्कर्मणां क्रियमाणानां विततं संह्रियते । यदायुक्त हरणानादित्यश्र्मीन् हरितोऽश्वान्वा । अथ रात्री वासस्तनुते सिमस्मै वेसर महरवयुवती सर्वस्माद्वा रात्रीव वासस्तनुते इति ॥ (नि. ४-११ [as read])
>
> tatsūryasya devatvaṃ tanmahitvaṃ madhye yatkarmaṇāṃ kriyamāṇānāṃ vitataṃ saṃhriyate | yadāyukta haraṇānādityarśmīn harito 'śvānvā | atha rātrī vāsastanute simasmai vesara maharavayuvatī sarvasmādvā rātrīva vāsastanute iti ‖ (ni. 4-11 [as read])

— the Sun withdraws his rays that draw water, or his horses, before they spread across the earth; at that moment he stops, and, following this, people in the world stop their works in the middle and he sets: such is the Sun's independence and greatness, which exists in the Sun alone. It does not exist in any other deity. Night, spreading the darkness over all places, removes the daylight — thus they explain."

सधस्थात् — Sadhasthāt — "saha tiṣṭhanty asmin iti sadhasthaḥ ratha: [that in which they stand together, a chariot]. In connection with this the word sadhasthāt is explained as 'from the chariot in which the horses are'."

Printed p. 167 (PDF 187; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

सिमस्मै — Simasmai — "simaśabdaḥ sarvaparyāyaḥ saptamyarthe caturthī": "the word sima is a synonym of sarva. Because the fourth case is used in the sense of the seventh, the meaning is 'in all'."

वासः — Vāsaḥ — "ācchādayitṛtamaḥ | vāso vāsaram ahaḥ (Sā. bhā.)": "Sāyaṇa explains two meanings: the darkness that covers all, and day as a synonym of vāsara. Skandasvāmin:

> आत् तद्वैव च रात्री वासः वासश्चभ्रोत्रे क्रियाशब्दः । वस आच्छादन इत्यस्य । वस्त्र वचनो वा । सामर्थ्यात् कृष्णं वासः आह नान्यत् । तत्सारूप्यात् तमसि प्रयुज्यते । कृत्स्नस्य जगतः आच्छादयित्वात् कृष्णवासःस्वरूपं वा तमः ॥ [small type, doubtful [?]]
>
> āt tadvaiva ca rātrī vāsaḥ vāsaścabhrotre kriyāśabdaḥ | vasa ācchādana ityasya | vastra vacano vā | sāmarthyāt kṛṣṇaṃ vāsaḥ āha nānyat | tatsārūpyāt tamasi prayujyate | kṛtsnasya jagataḥ ācchādayitvāt kṛṣṇavāsaḥsvarūpaṃ vā tamaḥ ‖ [small type, doubtful [?]]

— āt (= immediately); the word vāsas is derived from the root vas 'to cover' (ācchādana), hence 'cloth'. Of all cloth, only black cloth is meant here; cloth of other colours does not cover like black cloth. By the act or quality of covering, tamas is called 'black garment' (kṛṣṇavāsaḥ), because [it makes] the whole world unseen: 'the darkness like a black cloth'."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 4; grammar page, noted briefly)

mahitvam (mah "to honour"; the Uṇādi suffix in (iṇ), giving mahi; tasya bhāvas tvatalau, Pā. 5-1-119 as read [?], tva in the abstract sense; likewise in devatvam; final accent from the suffix);

madhyā (madhya + the locative singular, with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ḍā substituted; being ḍit, the ṭi is elided: madhyā); kartoḥ (ḍukṛñ "to do"; Uṇādi tun; being ṅit-like, guṇa of the root by sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ; raparatva by uraṇ raparaḥ; jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent; genitive/ablative singular).

Printed p. 168 (PDF 188; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115")

Grammar page of Ṛk 4, concluded (noted briefly): vitatam (tanu "to extend", with vi; niṣṭhā, kta in the passive by niṣṭhā, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; since udito vā, Pā. 7-2-56 as read [?], gives an optional iṭ before ktvā, the iṭ augment here is prohibited by yasya vibhāṣā, Pā. 7-2-15 as read [?]; the final nasal of the root elided by anudāttopadeśavanatitanotyādīnām…, Pā. 6-4-37 as read [?]; the prefix keeps its accent by gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?]); jabhāra (hṛñ "to take", liṭ 3rd singular; ṇal for tip by parasmaipadānāṃ ṇalatusus…; doubling of the root; ur at, the reduplication's ṛ → a; halādiśeṣa; kuhoś cuḥ, Pā. 7-4-62 as read [?]; vṛddhi of the penultimate by ata upadhāyāḥ, Pā. 7-2-116 as read [?]; hṛgrahor bhaś chandasi, Pā. 8-2-32 as read [?], bha for the h; nighāta); ayukta (yujir "to join", luṅ 3rd singular ta; cleḥ sic, sic as the substitute; jhalo jhali, Pā. 8-2-26 as read [?], its elision; coḥ kuḥ, Pā. 8-2-30 as read [?], k for the j of the root; khari ca, Pā. 8-4-55 as read [?], ta [for da]; the augment aṭ; since yadā precedes, no nighāta by nipātair yad yadi…, Pā. 8-1-30 as read [?]; the augment being udātta the word has first-syllable accent); sadhasthāt (ṣṭhā "to cease from motion"; by the statement "ghañarthe kavidhānam" the suffix ka in the locative sense; ā to lopa iṭi ca [as printed], elision of the ā; sadha for saha by sadhamādasthayoś chandasi, Pā. 6-3-96 as read [?]; since it belongs to the dāsībhārādi group the kṛt-second-member accent is overruled and the first member keeps its accent); rātrī (rātreś cājasau, Pā. 4-1-31 as read [?], ṅīp in the Veda); tanute (tanu "to extend", laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta). ‖ 4 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 5

Printed p. 169 (PDF 189; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.5)

तन्मित्रस्य वरुणस्याभिचक्षे सूर्यो रूपं कृणुते द्योरुपस्थे । अनन्तमन्यद्रुशदस्य पाजः कृष्णमन्यद्धरितः सं भरन्ति ॥ ५ ॥

tanmitrasya varuṇasyābhicakṣe sūryo rūpaṃ kṛṇute dyorupasthe |
anantamanyadruśadasya pājaḥ kṛṣṇamanyaddharitaḥ saṃ bharanti ‖ 5 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.5)

तत् । मित्रस्य । वरुणस्य । अभिऽचक्षे । सूर्यः । रूपम् । कृणुते । द्योः । उपऽस्थे । अनन्तम् । अन्यत् । रुशत् । अस्य । पाजः । कृष्णम् । अन्यत् । हरितः । सम् । भरन्ति ॥ ५ ॥

tat | mitrasya | varuṇasya | abhi 'cakṣe | sūryaḥ | rūpam | kṛṇute | dyoḥ | upa 'sthe |
anantam | anyat | ruśat | asya | pājaḥ | kṛṣṇam | anyat | haritaḥ | sam | bharanti ‖ 5 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 115.5)

तत्तदानीमुदयसमये मित्रस्य वरुणस्यैतदुभयोपलक्षितस्य सर्वस्य जगतोऽभिचक्षे अभिमुख्येन प्रकाशनाय द्योर्नभस उपस्थ उपस्थाने मध्ये सूर्यः सर्वस्य प्रेरकः सविता रूपं सर्वस्य निरूपकं प्रकाशकं तेजः कृणुते । करोति । अपि चास्य सूर्यस्य हरितो रसहरणशीला रश्मयो हरिद्वर्णा अश्वा वान्यतमवसानरहितं कृत्स्नस्य जगतो व्यापकं रुशद्दीप्यमानं श्वेतवर्णं पाजः । बलनामैतत् । बलयुक्तमतिबलस्याभि नैशस्य [?] कमसो निवारणे समर्थमन्यत्तमसो विलक्षणं तेजः सं भरन्ति । अहनि स्वकीययोगमनेन निष्पादयन्ति । तथा कृष्णं कृष्णवर्णमन्यत्तमः स्वकीयोपगमनेन रात्रौ । अस्य रश्मयोऽस्यैवं कुर्वन्ति किमु वक्तव्यं तस्य माहात्म्यमिति सूर्यस्य स्तुतिः ॥ [grammatical tail: abhicakṣe — cakṣiṅ "to speak", kvip with sampadādi; kṛṇute — kṛvi, u; dyoḥ — div, dyubhyaḥ…; upasthe — sthā with ka by ghañarthe kavidhānam; pājaḥ — pā "to protect", asun with juṭ-augment, as in the Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?]), the jhuṭ augment of asun; anantam — nañ-compound, the accent of the later member's first syllable; haritaḥ — nominative plural, accent…] [partly in small type; marked [?] where doubtful]

tattadānīmudayasamaye mitrasya varuṇasyaitadubhayopalakṣitasya sarvasya jagato 'bhicakṣe abhimukhyena prakāśanāya dyornabhasa upastha upasthāne madhye sūryaḥ sarvasya prerakaḥ savitā rūpaṃ sarvasya nirūpakaṃ prakāśakaṃ tejaḥ kṛṇute | karoti | api cāsya sūryasya harito rasaharaṇaśīlā raśmayo haridvarṇā aśvā vānyatamavasānarahitaṃ kṛtsnasya jagato vyāpakaṃ ruśaddīpyamānaṃ śvetavarṇaṃ pājaḥ | balanāmaitat | balayuktamatibalasyābhi naiśasya [?] kamaso nivāraṇe samarthamanyattamaso vilakṣaṇaṃ tejaḥ saṃ bharanti | ahani svakīyayogamanena niṣpādayanti | tathā kṛṣṇaṃ kṛṣṇavarṇamanyattamaḥ svakīyopagamanena rātrau | asya raśmayo 'syaivaṃ kurvanti kimu vaktavyaṃ tasya māhātmyamiti sūryasya stutiḥ ‖ [grammatical tail: abhicakṣe — cakṣiṅ "to speak", kvip with sampadādi; kṛṇute — kṛvi, u; dyoḥ — div, dyubhyaḥ…; upasthe — sthā with ka by ghañarthe kavidhānam; pājaḥ — pā "to protect", asun with juṭ-augment, as in the Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?]), the jhuṭ augment of asun; anantam — nañ-compound, the accent of the later member 's first syllable; haritaḥ — nominative plural, accent…] [partly in small type; marked [?] where doubtful]

Sense (mine): "At that time, at the rising, for abhicakṣe, the manifest showing, of all the world (characterised by Mitra and Varuṇa), the Sun, the impeller of all, Savitṛ, rūpam kṛṇute, makes a form — a light that shows all — dyor upasthe, in the lap, the middle, of the sky. And this Sun's haritaḥ — sap-drawing rays or green-tawny horses — saṃ bharanti, bring about, in the daytime, by their own coming, one thing: anantam, endless, pervading the whole world, ruśat, shining white pājaḥ — strength (pāja is a name of strength): a mighty light, able to remove the darkness, different from darkness; and, in the night, by their going away, kṛṣṇam anyat, another thing, black: the darkness. If his rays do thus, what is to be said of his greatness? — this is the praise of the Sun."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (on p. 170)

Printed p. 170 (PDF 190; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115")

(Grammar tail of the bhāṣya concluded: pājaḥ — the asun with the augment juṭ, as the Uṇādi sūtra [Uṇ. 4-?? as read, [?]] says "pā rakṣaṇe… pājaso balam"; upasthe — ghañarthe kavidhānam, ka suffix; marud-vṛdhādi, first-member accent dyoḥ as jasi-saso… Pā. 6-1-110 [?], pūrvarūpa.)*

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"tat — then (at sunrise); mitrasya varuṇasya — Mitra and Varuṇa, [the universe] beginning with these; abhicakṣe — to make [it] shine; dyoḥ upasthe — in the middle of the sky; sūryaḥ — the Sun, the impeller of all; rūpam — the shining light; kṛṇute — makes (and also); asya — of this Sun's; haritaḥ — sap-drawing rays (or the Sun's horses); anantam — [this world] endless; ruśat — shining; pājaḥ — strong; anyat — the light different from darkness; saṃ bharanti — fill (by day); kṛṣṇam — black-coloured; anyat — darkness; saṃ bharanti — [they] make rays in the night when they go away."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"At the time of rising, the Sun makes in the middle of the sky a light that illumines this world together with Mitra and Varuṇa. His rays make by day the light able to drive away darkness, and by their going away make the darkness at night."

English Translation (as printed)

> The sun is the sight of Mitra and Varuna, displays his form (of brightness) in the middle of the heavens, and his rays extend, on one hand, his infinite and brilliant power, or, on the other (by their departure), bring on the blackness of night.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

सूर्यः — Sūryaḥ — "sarvasya prerakaḥ savitā": "by his rising he makes the whole world capable of knowledge and action and urges it to its works: he is the deity denoted by the word savitṛ. Or: sarati iti sūryaḥ — he who moves in the atmosphere, so he is called sūrya."

Printed p. 171 (PDF 191; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

रूपं कृणुते — Rūpaṃ kṛṇute — "sarvasya nirūpakaṃ prakāśakaṃ tejaḥ karoti": "at the very time of rising he displays his own light, which shows everything, accompanied by the deities Mitra and Varuṇa, in the middle of the atmosphere, for the sake of lighting the world."

मित्रः — Mitraḥ — "primīteḥ trāyate": "he who protects from death, or he who runs (dravati), 'who rushes to the water, pouring from the atmosphere, … (sammanvānaḥ)'; Yāska:

> मित्रः प्रमीतेस्त्रायते संमिन्वानो द्रवतीति वा । अमित्रः [?] मेदयतेर्वा स्निह्यतेर्वा । स्नेहयति सर्वं हि वृष्ट्यादिना ।
>
> mitraḥ pramītestrāyate saṃminvāno dravatīti vā | amitraḥ [?] medayatervā snihyatervā | snehayati sarvaṃ hi vṛṣṭyādinā |

— mitra from primīteḥ trāyate: 'who protects from death'; or from saṃmimāno dravati — mi 'to cast' [the water]; or from medayati or snihyati — he makes all moist with rain and so on. In this way the Nirukta-writer explains the derivation of the word mitra, citing

> मित्रो जनान्यातयति ब्रुवाणो मित्रो दाधार पृथिवीमुत द्याम् । मित्रः कृष्टीरनिमिषाभिचष्टे मित्राय हव्यं घृतवज्जुहोत ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-५९-१ [as read])

mitro janānyātayati bruvāṇo mitro dādhāra pṛthivīmuta dyām | mitraḥ kṛṣṭīranimiṣābhicaṣṭe mitrāya havyaṃ ghṛtavajjuhota ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 3-59-1 [as read])

— Mitra supports the whole universe; he makes men follow works such as ploughing; and he praises Mitra's greatness: he helps men by making rain and so on (Ni. 10-22 as read [?])."

वरुणः — Varuṇaḥ — "meghajālena vyāyeṣ vṛṇoti": "varuṇa is explained as 'one who covers the atmosphere with a mass of clouds'; citing

नीचीनबारं वरुणः कबन्धं प्र ससर्ज रोदसी अन्तरिक्षम् । तेन विश्वस्य भुवनस्य राजा यवं न वृष्टिर्व्युनत्ति भूमिम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ५-८५-३ [as read])

nīcīnabāraṃ varuṇaḥ kabandhaṃ pra sasarja rodasī antarikṣam | tena viśvasya bhuvanasya rājā yavaṃ na vṛṣṭirvyunatti bhūmim ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 5-85-3 [as read]) — 'having made the cloud with its mouth turned downward, Varuṇa moistens, by great rain, heaven, earth and atmosphere, as rain wets the earth like barley': thus he explains the greatness of Varuṇa, who causes rain for the greatness of the earth and atmosphere (Ni. 10-4 as read [?])."

पाजः — Pājaḥ — "balayuktam": "since the word pāja is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of strength, 'ojaḥ', 'śavaḥ' (Ni. 2-9 as read [?]), pājaḥ means 'strength'."

रुशत् — Ruśat — "ruśad iti varṇanāma | rocater jvalatikarmaṇaḥ": "the word ruśat, derived from the root ruc with the meaning 'lustre', means 'shining', or 'of white colour'."

हरितः — Haritaḥ — "the word harita is stated among the twenty-one [as read] names of rivers (nadīnāma) (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) and in the ādityaraśmi-names, 'harita ādityasya' (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]); Sāyaṇa explains this word as 'the sap-drawing rays, or the green-tawny horses' — the rays or the Sun's horses, whose nature is to dry up water."

अनन्तं पाजः सं भरन्ति — Anantaṃ pājaḥ saṃ bharanti — "since ruśat is an adjective of pājaḥ (the word meaning strength), the Sun's rays, spread over the whole world, produce by their auspicious lustre a most abundant light, and drive away the darkness of night and spread light everywhere."

कृष्णमन्यत् — Kṛṣṇam anyat — "kṛṣṇavarṇam anyat tamaḥ svakīyopagamanena rātrau": "in the daytime, the Sun's rays shine, giving their brightness so that the darkness of night is entirely destroyed. The Sun, shining by his rays in the daytime with a form of splendour, at the time of night, because he has set, withdraws his rays so that another form — black — different from the shining form of day, may come about. His rays are in this way the cause of the ordering of day and night; therefore the greatness of the Sun who has such rays is exceedingly wonderful. The Nirukta-writer, on the topic that the Sun's rays draw up the sap, cites —

कृष्णं नियानं हरयः सुपर्णा अपो वसाना दिवमुत्पतन्ति । (यजु. सं. [Vāj.?] ३-४१-४२ [?])

kṛṣṇaṃ niyānaṃ harayaḥ suparṇā apo vasānā divamutpatanti | (yaju. saṃ. [Vāj.?] 3-41-42 [?])

— ‘the green-tawny ones, the beautiful-winged, clothing themselves with the waters, fly up to heaven’ — explaining: this Lord the Āditya, when for the favour of the world he takes the water into himself, as an embryo, enters the northern course (uttarāyaṇa); then his rays, honoured, harayaḥ, sap-drawing ones, draw up the water (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]).”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 5; grammar page, noted briefly)

abhicakṣe (cakṣiṅ “to speak”, with abhi; kvip in the abstract sense by sampadādibhyaḥ kvip, Vārt. 3-3-108 as read [?], giving abhicakṣ; the compound with the prefix keeps the later member’s accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?]; dative singular);

Printed p. 173 (PDF 193; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

kṛṇute (kṛvi “to injure, to do”; idito num dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-58 as read [?], the num augment; dhinvikṛṇvor a ca, Pā. 3-1-80 as read [?], u as the vikaraṇa, with a substituted for the final; ato lopaḥ, Pā. 6-4-48 as read [?]; by sthānivadbhāva there is no guṇa of the penultimate; nighāta); upasthe (ṣṭhā “to cease from motion”; by ghañarthe kavidhānam the suffix ka in the locative sense; ā to lopa iṭi ca, Pā. 6-4-64 as read [?], the elision of ā; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix keeps its accent; since it belongs to the marudvṛdhādi group the first member takes the final accent); dyoḥ (the word dyo; genitive singular ṅas; jasi ca … pūrvarūpa, Pā. 6-1-110 as read [?]; s → ru → visarga); ruśat (ruśa “to shine”; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap by tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ, Pā. 3-1-77 as read [?], śa; as adupadeśa the sārvadhātuka is unaccented; the root accent remains); pājaḥ (pāti rakṣati iti pājaḥ = strength; pā “to protect”; asun by pāter bale juṭ ca, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?]; the augment juṭ; pājas; pājaḥ asyāsti, in the sense of the possessor, vin by asmāyāmedhā…, Pā. 5-2-121 as read [?], which in the Veda is elided; first-syllable accent by jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?]); bharanti (bhṛñ “to bear”, bhvādi laṭ 3rd plural; nighāta). ‖ 5 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 6

Printed p. 174 (PDF 194; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.6)

अद्या देवा उदिता सूर्यस्य निरंहसः पिपृता निरवद्यात् । तन्नो मित्रो वरुणो मामहन्तामदितिः सिन्धुः पृथिवी उत द्यौः ॥ ६ ॥

adyā devā uditā sūryasya niraṃhasaḥ pipṛtā niravadyāt | tanno mitro varuṇo māmahantāmaditiḥ sindhuḥ pṛthivī uta dyauḥ ‖ 6 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 115.6)

अद्य । देवाः । उत्ऽइता । सूर्यस्य । निः । अंहसः । पिपृत । निः । अवद्यात् । तत् । नः । मित्रः । वरुणः । ममहन्ताम् । अदितिः । सिन्धुः । पृथिवी । उत । द्यौः ॥ ६ ॥

adya | devāḥ | ut ’itā | sūryasya | niḥ | aṃhasaḥ | pipṛta | niḥ | avadyāt | tat | naḥ | mitraḥ | varuṇaḥ | mamahantām | aditiḥ | sindhuḥ | pṛthivī | uta | dyauḥ ‖ 6 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 115.6)

हे देवा द्योतमानाः सूर्यरश्मयः । अद्यास्मिन्काले सूर्यस्यादित्यस्योदिता उदयेन सत्येतत्स्तुतेः प्रसरन्तो यूयमस्मानंहसः पापान्निष्पिपृत । निष्पारयत । पालयतेत्यर्थः । यदिदमस्माभिरुक्तं नोऽस्मदीयं तन्मित्रादयः षड्देवता मामहन्ताम् । पूजयन्तु । अनुमन्यन्तां रक्षन्त्विति यावत् । मित्रः प्रमीतेस्त्रायकोऽहरभिमानी देवः । वरुणोऽनिष्टानां निवारयिता रात्र्यभिमानी । अदितिरखण्डनीयोदीना वा देवमाता । सिन्धुः स्यन्दनशीलोदकाभिमानिनी देवता । पृथिवी भूलोकस्याधिष्ठात्री । द्यौर्द्युलोकस्य । उतशब्दः समुच्चये ॥ [grammatical tail: adya — nipātasya ca, lengthening in the Saṃhitā; uditā — ut + iṇ, ktin in the abstract, supāṃ sulug, ḍādeśa, ṭi-elision; accent; pipṛta — pṝ "to protect, to fill", loṭ 2nd plural, juhotyādi, śluḥ, doubling, arti-pipartyoś ca, i for the reduplication; tabādeśa by taptanaptanathanāś ca; sārvadhātukam apit, ṅit, guṇa prevented…] [read from the print; small type, partly doubtful [?]]

he devā dyotamānāḥ sūryaraśmayaḥ | adyāsminkāle sūryasyādityasyoditā udayena satyetatstuteḥ prasaranto yūyamasmānaṃhasaḥ pāpānniṣpipṛta | niṣpārayata | pālayatetyarthaḥ | yadidamasmābhiruktaṃ no 'smadīyaṃ tanmitrādayaḥ ṣaḍdevatā māmahantām | pūjayantu | anumanyantāṃ rakṣantviti yāvat | mitraḥ pramītestrāyako 'harabhimānī devaḥ | varuṇo 'niṣṭānāṃ nivārayitā rātryabhimānī | aditirakhaṇḍanīyodīnā vā devamātā | sindhuḥ syandanaśīlodakābhimāninī devatā | pṛthivī bhūlokasyādhiṣṭhātrī | dyaurdyulokasya | utaśabdaḥ samuccaye ‖
[grammatical tail: adya — nipātasya ca, lengthening in the Saṃhitā; uditā — ut + iṇ, ktin in the abstract, supāṃ sulug, ḍādeśa, ṭi-elision; accent; pipṛta — pṝ "to protect, to fill", loṭ 2nd plural, juhotyādi, śluḥ, doubling, arti-pipartyoś ca, i for the reduplication; tabādeśa by taptanaptanathanāś ca; sārvadhātukam apit, ṅit, guṇa prevented…] [read from the print; small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O shining devāḥ, rays of Sūrya: to-day, at this time, with the Sun's uditā, rising, spreading forth by the praise made of this, deliver (niṣ pipṛta) us from aṃhas, sin; protect. What we have said, may the six deities, Mitra and the rest, mamahantām, honour: may they approve, protect. Mitra — the deity of the day who protects from death; Varuṇa — who wards off evils, the deity of night; Aditi — the indivisible (or undiminished) mother of the gods; Sindhu — the deity of the flowing waters; Pṛthivī — the presiding deity of the earth; Dyau — of heaven; uta in the sense of 'and'."

Printed p. 175 (PDF 195; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

(Grammatical tail, concluded: pipṛta — loṭ with loṭo laṅvat, ta → ta by tasthasthamipāṃ…; juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ; the doubling in śluḥ; ur at, halādiśeṣa; arti-pipartyoś ca; sārvadhātukam apit, the tabādeśa by taptanaptanathanāś ca; dīrghaḥ in the Saṃhitā by tuṣughṛtyādinā.)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he devāḥ — O shining rays; adya — now; sūryasya uditā — at the rising of the Sun; aṃhasaḥ — from sin; niḥ pipṛta — protect, separating; naḥ — our; tat — this stotra; mitraḥ — Mitra; varuṇaḥ — Varuṇa; aditiḥ — Aditi; sindhuḥ — the deity of the ocean; pṛthivī — the earth; uta — and; dyauḥ — the deity of heaven and the rest; mamahantām — honour and protect."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O shining rays of the Sun, as soon as the Sun has risen, protect us, delivering us from sins. May Mitra, Varuṇa, Aditi, Pṛthivī, Sindhu and the deities of the atmosphere make this praise of ours worthy.”

English Translation (as printed)

> This day, gods, with the rising of the sun, deliver us from heinous sins ; and may Mitra, Varuna, Aditi,—ocean, earth, and heaven, be favourable to this our prayer.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

देवाः — Devāḥ — “dyotamānāḥ sūryaraśmayaḥ”: “the word deva, derived from the root div, means ‘lustrous’, or ‘shining’. The rays of the Sun, shining, spread over everything exceedingly after the Sun’s rising. The hope is expressed here that the rays of the Sun, spreading their light in this way, may destroy all our sins — mitra — primīteḥ trāyaḥ: Mitra, the presiding deity of the day, who protects from death; Varuṇa, the presiding deity of the night, who wards off evils; Aditi, the mother of the gods; Sindhu, the presiding deity of the ocean; the earth, and the atmosphere too — praising the Sun in this way, may they protect us, destroying our sins: this wish is expressed here.”

Printed p. 176 (PDF 196; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 16 Sū. 115”)

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 6; grammar page, noted briefly)

adya (nipātasya ca, Pā. 6-3-136 as read [?], lengthening in the Saṃhitā); devāḥ (nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); uditā (ut + iṇ “to go”; striyāṃ ktin, Pā. 3-3-94 as read [?], ktin in the abstract; no guṇa since kit; the locative singular by supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ḍā; being ḍit the ṭi (the i) is elided; tādau ca niti kṛty atau [as printed; tāḍau ca…, Pā. 6-2-50 as read [?]] the first-member accent of the kṛt-final compound is overruled, and the prefix (ut) keeps its own accent); pipṛta (pṝ “to protect, to fill” — some read it with a short final; juhotyādi; loṭ 2nd plural, loṭo laṅvat, Pā. 3-4-85 as read [?], with laṅ-like treatment; tasthasthamipāṃ…, Pā. 3-4-101 as read [?], ta for tas… [as printed]; juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ, Pā. 2-4-75 as read [?]; ślau, Pā. 6-1-10 as read [?], doubling of the root; ur at, Pā. 7-4-66 as read [?], a for the reduplication’s ṛ; raparatva; halādiśeṣa; arti-pipartyoś ca, Pā. 7-4-77 as read [?], i for a; since the suffix is sārvadhātukam apit, ṅit, no guṇa of the root’s i; for the same reason [by ṅit] ṛta… tuṣughṛtyādinā, Pā. 6-3-135 as read [?], lengthening in the Saṃhitā; nighāta is prevented, so the accent comes from the suffix and the word is final-accented); avadyāt (vad “to speak”; avadyapaṇyavarṣyā garhyapaṇitavyānirodheṣu, Pā. 3-1-101 as read [?], yat formed irregularly in the sense of garhya, ‘blameworthy’; nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], the first-syllable accent of the later member…; ablative singular). ‖ 6 ‖

Colophon: nūrahadinaideneya sūkta samāptavu — “The hundred-and-fifteenth Sūkta is ended.”

(Printer’s ornament.)

End of Sūkta 115 (Ṛks 1–6; printed pp. 149–176).

Sūkta 116 — nāsatyābhyām (printed pp. 177–?)

Printed p. 177 (PDF 197; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”; footer signature mark “IX 12”)

Heading (Kannada): “nūrahadināraneya sūktavu” — “the hundred-and-sixteenth Sūkta.”

Anukramaṇī and Sāyaṇa’s introduction (Sanskrit, as printed):

> सप्तदशेऽनुवाके पञ्च सूक्तानि । तत्र नासत्याभ्यामिति पञ्चविंशत्यृचं प्रथमं सूक्तम् । उशिक्संज्ञायामङ्गिरजस्य महिष्या दास्यां दीर्घतमसोत्पादितः कक्षीवानस्य सूक्तस्य ऋषिः । त्रिष्टुप् छन्दः । अश्विनौ देवता । तथा चानुक्रान्तम् । नासत्याभ्यां पञ्चाधिका कक्षीवान्दैर्घतमस उशिक्सूत आश्विनं वा इति । तुह्यादिपरिभाषयेदमादीनि पञ्च सूक्तान्याश्विदेवत्यानि ॥ प्रातरेनुवाकस्याश्विने क्रतौ त्रैष्टुभे छन्दसीदमादीनि त्रीणि सूक्तानि । अथाश्विन इति खण्डे सूत्रितम् । ग्रावाणेव नासत्याभ्यामिति त्रीणि । आ. ४-१४ [?] । इति ॥ आश्विनशस्त्रे चैतानि शस्यानि प्रातरनुवाकन्यायेन । आ. ६-५ । इत्येतदिष्टत्वात् ॥
>
> saptadaśe ’nuvāke pañca sūktāni | tatra nāsatyābhyāmiti pañcaviṃśatyṛcaṃ prathamaṃ sūktam | uśiksaṃjñāyāmaṅgirajasya mahiṣyā dāsyāṃ dīrghatamasotpāditaḥ kakṣīvānasya sūktasya ṛṣiḥ | triṣṭup chandaḥ | aśvinau devatā | tathā cānukrāntam | nāsatyābhyāṃ pañcādhikā kakṣīvāndairghatamasa uśiksūta āśvinaṃ vā iti | tuhyādiparibhāṣayedamādīni pañca sūktānyāśvidevatyāni ‖ prātarenuvākasyāśvine kratau traiṣṭubhe chandasīdamādīni trīṇi sūktāni | athāśvina iti khaṇḍe sūtritam | grāvāṇeva nāsatyābhyāmiti trīṇi | ā. 4-14 [?] | iti ‖ āśvinaśastre caitāni śasyāni prātaranuvākanyāyena | ā. 6-5 | ityetadiṣṭatvāt ‖

Sense: “In the seventeenth anuvāka there are five sūktas. The first of these, nāsatyābhyām, has twenty-five Ṛks. The ṛṣi of this sūkta is Kakṣīvān, whom Dīrghatamas begot on Uśij, a maidservant of the queen of Aṅgiraja (the king of the Aṅgas) [as the Sanskrit reads: uśik-saṃjñāyām aṅgirajasya mahiṣyā dāsyāṃ dīrghatamasotpāditaḥ kakṣīvān]. The metre is Triṣṭubh; the deity the two Aśvins. So the Anukramaṇī says: ‘nāsatyābhyāṃ pañcādhikā kakṣīvān dairghatamasa uśiksūta āśvinaṃ vā’ (twenty-five Ṛks, by Kakṣīvān, son of Dīrghatamas and of Uśij; or addressed to the Aśvins). By the rule beginning ‘tuhyādi’ the five sūktas beginning with this are addressed to the Aśvins. In the Aśvina rite of the Prātaranuvāka, in the Triṣṭubh metre, the three sūktas beginning with idam: in the section ‘athāśvina’ the Sūtra says ‘grāveva nāsatyābhyām iti trīṇi’ (Āś. 4-14 as read [?]). And these are to be recited in the Aśvina-śastra, on the model of the Prātaranuvāka (Āś. 6-5 as read [?]), as it is prescribed.”

Anuvāda (Kannada): “With the sūkta nāsatyābhyām the seventeenth anuvāka begins. In this anuvāka (Sūktas 116–120) there are five sūktas. Of these the sūkta nāsatyābhyām is the first. It has twenty-five Ṛks. The ṛṣi of this sūkta is Kakṣīvān, born of Dīrghatamas on Uśij, the maidservant of the queen of King Aṅgiraja [as the Kannada reads]. The deities are the two Aśvins; the metre is Triṣṭubh. In the Anukramaṇikā, ‘nāsatyābhyāṃ pañcādhikā kakṣīvān dairghatamasa uśiksūta āśvinaṃ vā’. By the occurrence of the word tu hi etc. in the sūtra, the five sūktas hereafter are to be known as having the Aśvins as deity. At the time of reciting the Prātaranuvāka mantras, these three sūktas are applied for the Triṣṭubh mantras relating to the Aśvins, as the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra explains in the section ‘athāśvina’ by the sūtra ‘grāveva nāsatyābhyām iti trīṇi' (Āś. 4-?? as read [?]); and it is directed in the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra itself that, when reciting the Prātaranuvāka mantras for the Aśvina-śastra, these sūktas are to be recited (Āś. 6-5 as read [?]).”

Printed p. 178 (PDF 198; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

सूक्त—११६ (Sūkta 116) ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—१७ ॥ सूक्त—११६ ॥ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय ८ ॥ वर्ग—९,१०,११,१२ ॥ (small numerals as printed; read 9, 10, 11, 12 — [?]; the print appears to include a fifth numeral) Number of Ṛks: 25. Ṛṣi: Kakṣīvān Dairghatamasa Auśija. Devatā: the two Aśvins. Chandas: Triṣṭubh.

Ṛk 1

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.1)

नासत्याभ्यां बर्हिरिव प्र वृञ्जे स्तोमा इयर्म्यभ्रियेव वातः । यावर्भगाय विमदाय जायां सेनाजुवा न्यूहतू रथेन ॥ १ ॥

nāsatyābhyāṃ barhiriva pra vṛñje stomā iyarmyabhriyeva vātaḥ | yāvarbhagāya vimadāya jāyāṃ senājuvā nyūhatū rathena ‖ 1 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.1)

नासत्याभ्याम् । बर्हिःऽइव । प्र । वृञ्जे । स्तोमान् । इयर्मि । अभ्रियाऽइव । वातः । यौ । अर्भगाय । विऽमदाय । जायाम् । सेनाऽजुवा । निऽऊहतुः । रथेन ॥ १ ॥

nāsatyābhyām | barhiḥ 'iva | pra | vṛñje | stomān | iyarmi | abhriyā 'iva | vātaḥ | yau | arbhagāya | vi 'madāya | jāyām | senā 'juvā | ni 'ūhatuḥ | rathena ‖ 1 ‖

(Reading note after viewing the Pada: the Saṃhitā's yāvarbhagāya is the Pada's yau | arbhagāya*; the Saṃhitā's* nyūhatū is the Pada's ni-ūhatuḥ*; the Pada's* abhriyā-iva glosses the Saṃhitā's abhriyeva*.)*

Printed p. 179 (PDF 199; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.1)

बर्हिरिव यथा कश्चिद्यजमानो योगार्थं बर्हिः प्र वृञ्जे प्रकर्षेणा-न्यूनानतिरिक्तं योगाय पर्याप्तं दर्भं वृङ्क्ते छिनत्ति । संपादयेति यावत् । एवमहं नासत्याभ्यामश्विभ्यां स्तोमान् स्तुतीरीयर्मि । संपादयामि । एतदेव दिदीक्रियते । अभ्रियेव यथाभ्रियाण्यभ्रेषु मेघेष्ववस्थितानुदकानि वातो वायुर्वर्षणार्थं बहुशः प्रेरयति एवमहमश्विभ्यां स्तोत्रार्णीयर्मि । बहुशः प्रेरयामि । कीदृशावश्विनौ । अर्भगाय बालाय स्वयंवरलब्धभार्याय विमदायैतत्संज्ञाय राजर्षये मध्येमार्गं स्वयंवरार्थमागच्छन्तामलभ्मानन्यैर्नृपैः सह योद्धुमुद्यतकन्यानेवेऽपि तस्मै सेनाजुवा शत्रुसेनायाः प्रेरकेण शत्रुभिर्दुष्प्रधर्षेण रथेन यावश्विनौ जायां भार्यां पर्यनुक्रान्तां न्यूहतुः । शत्रून्निहत्य तदीयं गृहं प्रापयामासतुः । ताभ्यामित्यर्थः ॥ [grammatical tail follows in the print: nāsatyābhyām — sat “good”, satsu bhavau satyau, na satyau asatyau, na asatyau nāsatyau; nañ with the nañ … sat… avyaya pūrvapada prakṛtisvaratva; vṛñje — vṛji “to leave”, adādi, idit the num; iyarmi — ṛ “to go”, juhotyādi, śluḥ, doubling, arti-pipartyoś ca; abhriyā iva; arbhagāya — arbha + ga, arbhaka…; sainājuvā — ju

"to be quick", saunra root, kvip, dīrgha…; nyūhatuḥ — vah "to carry", liṭ, vacisvapi…, saṃprasāraṇa…] [this passage is in small type; read letter by letter; words marked [?] are doubtful]

barhiriva yathā kaścidyajamāno yogārthaṃ barhiḥ pra vṛñje prakarṣeṇā-nyūnānatiriktaṃ yogāya paryāptaṃ darbhaṃ vṛṅkte chinatti | saṃpādayeti yāvat | evamahaṃ nāsatyābhyāmaśvibhyāṃ stomān stutīrīyarmi | saṃpādayāmi | etadeva didīrkriyate | abhriyeva yathābhriyāṇyabhreṣu megheṣvavasthitānudakāni vāto vāyurvarṣaṇārthaṃ bahuśaḥ prerayati evamahamaśvibhyāṃ stotrārṇīyarmi | bahuśaḥ prerayāmi | kīdṛśāvaśvinau | arbhagāya bālāya svayaṃvaralabdhabhāryāya vimadāyaitatsaṃjñāya rājarṣaye madhyemārgaṃ svayaṃvarārthamāgacchantāmalabhmānanyairnṛpaiḥ saha yoddhumudyatakanyāneve 'pi tasmai senājuvā śatrusenāyāḥ prerakeṇa śatrubhirduṣpradharṣeṇa rathena yāvaśvinau jāyāṃ bhāryāṃ paryanukrāntāṃ nyūhatuḥ | śatrūnnihatya tadīyaṃ gṛhaṃ prāpayāmāsatuḥ | tābhyāmityarthaḥ ‖ [grammatical tail follows in the print: nāsatyābhyām — sat "good", satsu bhavau satyau, na satyau asatyau, na asatyau nāsatyau; nañ with the nañ … sat… avyaya pūrvapada prakṛtisvaratva; vṛñje — vṛji "to leave", adādi, idit the num; iyarmi — ṛ "to go", juhotyādi, śluḥ, doubling, arti-pipartyoś ca; abhriyā iva; arbhagāya — arbha + ga, arbhaka…; sainājuvā — ju "to be quick", saunra root, kvip, dīrgha…; nyūhatuḥ — vah "to carry", liṭ, vacisvapi…, saṃprasāraṇa…] [this passage is in small type; read letter by letter; words marked [?] are doubtful]

Sense (mine): "As a certain sacrificer pra vṛñje, cuts, barhiḥ, sacred grass, for the sacrifice — cuts just enough, neither less nor more — thus I, for the two Nāsatyas, the Aśvins, iyarmi, produce, stomān, praises. This is the very thing that is meant. Abhriyeva vātaḥ — as the wind drives many times, for rain, the waters that stand in the clouds, so I drive the stotras many times to the Aśvins. What are the Aśvins like? For arbhagāya, the young, vimadāya, the royal sage of that name, who, going to a svayaṃvara [self-choice], on the way, was ready to fight other kings, they nyūhatuḥ, carried off — with senājuvā, the chariot that drives against the hostile army, impossible to resist by enemies — his jāyām, bride, parya-anukrāntām, whom they had won; having slain the enemies, they brought her to his house: that is, 'for those two'."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (begun on p. 179, completed on p. 180)

"arbhagāya — to the youthful; vimadāya — to (the king) Vimada by name; senājuvā — which drives the enemy's army; rathena — by the chariot; yau — which Aśvin deities; jāyām — the wife; nyūhatuḥ — brought to his house, after killing (the enemies) — (such); nāsatyābhyām — to the Nāsatyas (the Aśvin deities); barhiḥ —

— (a sacrificer, for the sacrifice) the sacred grass, [cutting] — pra vṛñje iva — as one cuts and prepares (and); vātaḥ — the wind; abhriyā iva — as (it brings together) the waters in the clouds (to cause rain); stomān — these stotra-sentences; iyarmi — I compose."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“For the Nāsatyas — the Aśvin deities — who put the bride of the youthful Vimada in their chariot, having destroyed the enemies, and presented her [to him], I compose these stotra-sentences, as a sacrificer cuts and prepares the sacred grass for the sacrifice, and as the wind gathers the clouds together [for rain].”

English Translation (as printed)

> In like manner as a worshipper strews the sacred grass for the Nasatyas, so do I urge on their laudations, as the wind drives on the clouds : they, who gave a bride to the youthful Vimada, and bore her away in their car, outstripping the rival host.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

“Kakṣīvān, the ṛṣi of this sūkta, is the son born to the ṛṣi Dīrghatamas of Uśij. This woman Uśij, they say in the Purāṇas and elsewhere, was the maidservant of the queen of the king of Kaliṅga [as the Kannada reads]; the king of Kaliṅga, desiring sons, sent his wife to the ṛṣi Dīrghatamas for the sake of [begetting] a son; the queen, not wishing this, secretly sent in her own place her maidservant Uśij to the ṛṣi; and by the ṛṣi Dīrghatamas this son Kakṣīvān was born of her. The ṛṣi Kakṣīvān, though born of a Kṣatriya [sic: of a maidservant] woman, became famous as a Brāhmaṇa because of his connection with brāhmaṇas. This ṛṣi is greatly famed among those who perform sacrifices, as —

> एवं वै पर आटनारः कक्षीवाँ औशिजो वीतहव्यः श्रायसस्त्रसदस्युः पौरुकुत्सः । सजानामा [?] अतिष्ठत ॥ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]] (तै. सं. ५-६-५-३ [as read])
>
> evaṃ vai para āṭanāraḥ kakṣīvā~ auśijo vītahavyaḥ śrāyasastrasadasyuḥ paurukutsaḥ | sajānāmā [?] atiṣṭhata ‖ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]] (tai. saṃ. 5-6-5-3 [as read])

— is said in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā of the Yajurveda. Therefore this ṛṣi is very famous in the performance of sacrifices, in the composition of mantras. This ṛṣi is the ṛṣi of the Ṛgveda, Maṇḍala 1, Sūktas 116–126 [as read: “1-116-?” to “1-126-?”] (altogether 11 sūktas, … Ṛks) [the numerals in this passage are small and I cannot read them with confidence: the Kannada gives a count of Ṛks for each of: Maṇḍala 1, Sūktas 116–126 (a total printed as “1?? Ṛks”), Sūkta 10-?? (a few Ṛks) and Maṇḍala 9, Sūkta 74 (?, “9 Ṛks”), “altogether 1?? Ṛks” [?]]. The name of this ṛṣi is found in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 8-?-? ; 2-?-? ; 10-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 6-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 1-?-? and others (a cluster of reference numerals too small to read reliably; I give none) [?].”

Printed p. 181 (PDF 201; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

विमदाय — Vimadāya — “Vimada is a royal sage, who is the ṛṣi of altogether twenty-?? Ṛks in the 10th maṇḍala of the Ṛgveda, Sūktas 20–2? [as read: ”10-20-?” to ”10-2?-?”] [?]. In these sūktas, Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-20-10 [as read], 10-2?-? and so on, the ṛṣi Vimada and his lineage are mentioned. In the Atharvaveda 6-?-? and the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa 5-?-? too the name of the ṛṣi Vimada is stated: that the wife of this Vimada, who was carried off by hostile kings, was brought back to him by the Aśvin deities after they conquered the enemies in battle, is said there. In the Ṛgveda the name of this Vimada is found in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-?-? and others (numerals not legible) [?].”

नासत्याभ्याम् — Nāsatyābhyām — "Sāyaṇa explains: aśvibhyām, 'by the Aśvins', i.e. for the Aśvin deities.

> अश्विनोरेको नासत्यनामा दस्रनामा अपरः साहचर्यात्तयोरन्यकरनाम्नापि उभयोरभिधानम् । न वा असत्यौ सत्यावेव नासत्यौ नासत्ययोरर्थायेये ॥ [as read; small type [?]]
>
> aśvinoreko nāsatyanāmā dasranāmā aparaḥ sāhacaryāttayoranyakaranāmnāpi ubhayorabhidhānam | na vā asatyau satyāveva nāsatyau nāsatyayorarthāyeye ‖ [as read; small type [?]]

— of the two Aśvin deities, one has the name Nāsatya and the other Dasra. They always move about together, each beside the other, and dwell together. Therefore, as soon as the name of one is spoken, the number 'two', i.e. both Aśvin deities, becomes easily known. 'Asatya' means 'not true'; the nañ-negation in nāsatya signals the two negations — 'not untrue': i.e. 'true'. Skandasvāmin explains that praise is here directed for the sake of these Aśvin deities.

"In the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, 'satsu bhavau satyau | na satyau asatyau | na asatyau nāsatyau': they who are among the good (sat) are called satya; those other than these are asatya; those who are the opposite of these asatyas are nāsatya — so the meaning of the word nāsatya is explained. Yāska —

> सत्यावेव नासत्यावित्यौर्णवाभः सत्यस्य प्रणेतारावित्याग्रायणः नासिकाप्रभवणौ बभूवतुरिति वा ॥ (नि. ६-१३ [as read])
>
> satyāveva nāsatyāvityaurṇavābhaḥ satyasya praṇetārāvityāgrāyaṇaḥ nāsikāprabhavaṇau babhūvaturiti vā ‖ (ni. 6-13 [as read])

Printed p. 182 (PDF 202; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

— Aurṇavābha [says]: they are always the ones who speak truth, who are not untrue; the Aśvin deities are called nāsatya. Āgrāyaṇa says: because they make sacrifices go on and make water available, they have the fame of Nāsatya. Some others say that, when the Sun, in the form of a horse, was united with the deity Saṃjñā [ātmā], the two were born from her nostril (nāsikā), so they are Nāsatya."

बर्हिः इव प्र वृञ्जे — Barhiḥ iva pra vṛñje — "yogārthaṃ barhiḥ paryāptaṃ darbhaṃ vṛṅkte chinatti": "just as a sacrificer cuts, for the sake of the sacrifice, enough darbha grass — neither less nor more — so I, for the Aśvin deities, compose the praises. The word barhis is read among the sixteen names of the atmosphere (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]) and among the hundred-and-one [as read] names of water (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]). The meaning is: as one cuts the darbha so that it is enough for the sacrifice, I use my words for the praise of the Aśvin deities. Yāska —

> बर्हिः परिबर्हणात् परिच्छेदनात् ।
>
> barhiḥ paribarhaṇāt paricchedanāt |

— explains that the darbha is cut and used in the sacrifice, so that it is famed by the name barhis, and cites

> प्राचीनं बर्हिः प्रदिशा पृथिव्या वस्तोरस्या वृज्यते अग्रे अह्नाम् । व्यु प्रथते वितरं वरीयो देवेभ्यो अदितये स्योनम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-११०-४ [as read])

prācīnaṃ barhiḥ pradiśā pṛthivyā vastorasyā vṛjyate agre ahnām | vyu prathate vitaraṃ varīyo devebhyo aditaye syonam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-110-4 [as read])

प्राचीनं बर्हिः प्रदिशा पृथिव्या वसनायास्याः प्रवृज्यते अग्रे अह्नां बर्हिः पूर्वाह्णे तद्विप्रथते वितरं विकीर्णतरमिति वा विस्तीर्णतरमिति वा वरीयो वरतरमुरुतरं वा देवेभ्यः शादितये च स्योनम् । स्योनमिति सुखनाम स्यतेरवस्यन्तीत्येत् सेवितव्यं भवतीति वा ॥ (नि. ८-८ [as read])

prācīnaṃ barhiḥ pradiśā pṛthivyā vasanāyāsyāḥ pravṛjyate agre ahnāṃ barhiḥ pūrvāhṇe tadviprathate vitaraṃ vikīrṇataramiti vā vistīrṇataramiti vā varīyo varataramurutaraṃ vā devebhyaḥ śāditaye ca syonam | syonamiti sukhanāma syateravasyantītyet sevitavyaṃ bhavatīti vā ‖ (ni. 8-8 [as read])

— citing the Ṛk prācīnaṃ barhiḥ, he explains that at the time of the sacrifice the darbhas are cut, evenly, and spread in three layers [on the altar] near the sacrificial hall, to make a seat for the gods and for Aditi to sit upon. 'The four sides of the darbha spread in this way are famed as barhis,' he explains. 'Here, as the ṛṣi, the seer of the mantra, offers mantras (barhir iva pra vṛñje), the simile appears: as the sacrificer, for the sacrifice, cuts and uses darbhas, so that there is no deficiency or excess, so I say this stotra, which expresses the greatness of the Aśvin deities, exactly right — with no deficiency or excess.'"

Printed p. 183 (PDF 203; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …") [Special Topics of Ṛk 1, continued]

अभ्रियेव वातः — Abhriyeva vātaḥ — "meghe(ṣu) avasthitāni udakāni vāyur iva": "as the wind drives the waters that are in the clouds so that they rain, I shall say the stotras many times for the Aśvin deities and drive them, as the sacrificers recite them in the sacrifice."

अर्भगाय — Arbhagāya — "vimadāya bālāya svayaṃvaralabdhabhāryāya vimadasaṃjñāya rājarṣaye": "the royal sage named Vimada, going to a svayaṃvara, was chosen in the svayaṃvara by a princess. As he was bringing her home after marrying her, in the middle of the road other kings, because this princess had been won by this Vimada, rose against him to fight. Then Vimada praised the Aśvin deities by the mantras —

अग्निमीळे भुजां यविष्ठम् ॥ [as read; the first words of Ṛ. 10-20-1 as printed] (ऋ. सं. १०-२०-१ [as read])

agnimīḷe bhujāṃ yaviṣṭham ‖ [as read; the first words of Ṛ. 10-20-1 as printed] (ṛ. saṃ. 10-20-1 [as read])

— By this, the story is understood: the Aśvin deities, pleased, fought the enemies in battle for him, who was unable to conquer them, and brought him with his wife. This story is hinted at in the Ṛk

याभिः पत्नीर्विमदाय न्यूहथुरा घ वा याभिररुणीरशिक्षतम् । याभिः सुदास ऊहथुः सुदेव्यं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१९ [as read])"

yābhiḥ patnīrvimadāya nyūhathurā gha vā yābhiraruṇīraśikṣatam | yābhiḥ sudāsa ūhathuḥ sudevyaṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-19 [as read])"

अर्भगः — Arbhagaḥ — “arbham alpaṃ gāyati śabdayatīty arbhagaḥ”: “the word arbhaka is stated among the twelve [as read] names of ‘small’ (hrasva) (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), so it means ‘small’; he who sounds a little (the small child) is called arbhaga, the name of a child.”

सेनाजुवा — Senājuvā — “śatrusenāyāḥ prerakeṇa śatrubhir duṣprāseṇa”: “by the chariot that drives the enemy’s army, i.e. which is not to be approached by enemies — so Sāyaṇa; and Skandasvāmin: ‘senājuvā senayā saha gantrā svasenāparivṛtena’ — by the chariot which goes together with the army, i.e. which moves surrounded by their own army.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 1; grammar page, noted briefly)

nāsatyābhyām (satsu bhavau satyau — sat + yat; na satyau asatyau; na asatyau nāsatyau; nabhrāṇ napāt…, Pā. 6-3-75 as read [?], the naṅ keeps its natural form [prakṛtibhāva]; (the n of naṅ is not elided by nalopo naṅaḥ, Pā. 6-3-73 as read [?]); tatpuruṣe…

Printed p. 184 (PDF 204; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

… tatpuruṣe ’tulyārthatṛtīyā…, Pā. 6-2-2 as read [?], the first-member accent of the avyayapūrvapada compound); vṛñje (vṛjī “to leave”, adādi, idito num dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-58 as read [?], num augment; anusvāra → homorganic nasal; laṭ 3rd singular ta; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e; adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ, luk for śap; lopas ta ātmanepadeṣu, Pā. 7-1-41 as read [?], the t of the suffix is elided in the Veda; the form vṛñje; nighāta); iyarmi (ṛ “to go”, juhotyādi; laṭ 1st singular mip; śluḥ as vikaraṇa by juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ; doubling by ślau; arti-pipartyoś ca, Pā. 7-4-77 as read [?], i for the reduplication; raparatva, halādiśeṣa; guṇa of the root’s ṛ by sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ; abhyāsasyāsavarṇe, Pā. 6-4-78 as read [?], iy for the reduplication’s i; nighāta); abhriyā (abhrāt bhavāni abhriyāṇi; samudrābhrād ghaḥ, Pā. 4-4-118 as read [?], gha for ṭ, giving iya; in the neuter plural śi with śeś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-1-70 as read [?], elision of śi; the i accented from the suffix); arbhagāya (ṛ “to go”, the suffix bhan by arti-gṛbhyāṃ bhan, Uṇ. 3-?? as read [?]; guṇa; the form arbha; “arbha eva arbhakaḥ” — kan in the sense of a name by saṃjñāyāṃ kan, Pā. 5-3-87 as read [?]; the g for k in the Veda; first-syllable accent by jñityādir nityam; further, some explain the word differently: arbham alpaṃ gāyati śabdayati arbhagaḥ; gai “to sing”; gāpoṣṭak, Pā. 3-2-8 as read [?], ṭak; ā to lopa iṭi ca; this meaning is accepted by Śākalya); senājuvā (ju, a root of the saunra [sautra] group, used in the sense of going; since it is of prerana meaning it takes the sense of antarbhāvitaṇyartha; kvip vaci…, Pā. 3-2-76 as read [?], the suffix and the lengthening here; tenādīnām upasaṃkhyānam…

Printed p. 185 (PDF 205; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

… [Pā. 6-4-?? as read]; since it is read in the tanādi group [as printed], uvaṅ substitution; gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?], first-member accent); nyūhatuḥ (ni + vah “to carry”; liṭ 3rd dual; parasmaipadānāṃ ṇalatusus…, Pā. 3-4-82 as read [?], atus; asaṃyogāl liṭ kit, Pā. 1-2-5 as read [?], atus is kit, hence vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti, Pā. 6-1-15 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; doubling of the root; halādiśeṣa; lengthening [savarṇadīrgha]; since yau precedes, no nighāta by yadvṛttān nityam, Pā. 8-1-66 as read [?]; the a accented by the suffix accent). ‖ 1 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 2

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.2)

वीळुपत्मभिराशुहेमभिर्वा देवानां वा जूतिभिः शाशदाना । तद्रासभो नासत्या सहस्रमाजा यमस्य प्रधने जिगाय ॥ २ ॥

vīḷupatmabhirāśuhemabhirvā devānāṃ vā jūtibhiḥ śāśadānā | tadrāsabho nāsatyā sahasramājā yamasya pradhane jigāya ‖ 2 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.2)

वीळुपत्मऽभिः । आशुहेमऽभिः । वा । देवानाम् । वा । जूतिऽभिः । शाशदाना । तत् । रासभः । नासत्या । सहस्रम् । आजा । यमस्य । प्रऽधने । जिगाय ॥ २ ॥

vīḷupatma 'bhiḥ | āśuhema 'bhiḥ | vā | devānām | vā | jūti 'bhiḥ | śāśadānā | tat | rāsabhaḥ | nāsatyā | sahasram | ājā | yamasya | pra 'dhane | jigāya ‖ 2 ‖

Printed p. 186 (PDF 206; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.2)

वीळुपत्मभिः । वीळिति बलनाम । बलवदुत्पतनैः आशुहेमभिः शीघ्रगमनैः । वाकबः [?] समुच्चये । हे नासत्यावश्विनौ एवंभूतैरश्वैश्च देवानामिन्द्रादीनां जूतिभिः प्रेरणैश्च शाशदाना शाश्यमानयोरर्थाय प्रेर्यमाणयोर्युवयोर्वाहनभूतो यो रासभः प्रजापतिना दत्तः स यमस्य वैवस्वतस्य प्रीतिकरे प्रधने प्रकृष्टधनोपेते आजा आजौ सङ्ग्रामे तत्शत्रूणां सहस्रं जिगाय । जितवान् । वैवस्वतो हि बहूनां मरणहेतुना सङ्ग्रामेण तुष्टो भवति । यद्वा । जैतव्यत्वेन प्रजापतिना निहितमृक्षहस्रं शीघ्रगमनयुक्तो रासभो जिगाय । जयेनालभत । अन्येभ्यो देवेभ्यः पूर्वमेवाजिं प्राप्य युवानां जयं प्रापयामास । तथा चास्मिन्नर्थे प्रजापतिर्वै सोमाय राज्ञे दुहितरं प्रायच्छत् । ऐ. ब्रा. १-८ [as read] । इत्यादिकं ब्राह्मणमनुसन्धेयम् ॥ [grammatical tail: vīḷupatmabhiḥ — vīḷu strength, patman from pat, vīḷuvat patmān…; āśuhemabhiḥ — āśu + hi “to go”, hemanin…; jūtibhiḥ — jūti, ūtiyūtijūti… ktin, the udātta accent; śāśadānā — śasu “to command”, śāna with tācchīlya… ṣatva…; ājā — ājau, ḍādeśa by supāṃ sulug; jigāya — ji “to conquer”, liṭ, ṇal, sanliṭoḥ… kutva, gakāra.] [small type; partly doubtful [?]]]

vīḷupatmabhiḥ | vīḷiti balanāma | balavadutpatanaiḥ āśuhemabhiḥ śīghragamanaiḥ | vākabaḥ [?] samuccaye | he nāsatyāvaśvinau evaṃbhūtairaśvaiśca devānāmindrādīnāṃ jūtibhiḥ preraṇaiśca śāśadānā śāśyamānayorarthāya preryamāṇayoryuvayorvāhanabhūto yo rāsabhaḥ prajāpatinā dattaḥ sa yamasya vaivasvatasya prītikare pradhane prakṛṣṭadhanopete ājā ājau saṅgrāme tatśatrūṇāṃ sahasraṃ jigāya | jitavān | vaivasvato hi bahūnāṃ maraṇahetunā saṅgrāmeṇa tuṣṭo bhavati | yadvā | jaitavyatvena prajāpatinā nihitamṛkṣahasraṃ śīghragamanayukto rāsabho jigāya | jayenālabhata | anyebhyo devebhyaḥ pūrvamevājiṃ prāpya yuvānāṃ jayaṃ prāpayāmāsa | tathā cāsminnarthe prajāpatirvai somāya rājñe duhitaraṃ prāyacchat | ai. brā. 1-8 [as read] | ityādikaṃ brāhmaṇamanusandheyam ‖ [grammatical tail: vīḷupatmabhiḥ — vīḷu strength, patman from pat, vīḷuvat patmān…; āśuhemabhiḥ — āśu + hi “to go”, hemanin…; jūtibhiḥ — jūti, ūtiyūtijūti… ktin, the udātta accent; śāśadānā — śasu “to command”, śāna with tācchīlya… ṣatva…; ājā — ājau, ḍādeśa by supāṃ sulug; jigāya — ji "to conquer", liṭ, ṇal, sanliṭoḥ… kutva, gakāra.] [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Vīḷupatmabhiḥ — vīḷu is a name for strength: by strong leaps; āśuhemabhiḥ — by swift goings; vā — and (in the sense 'together'). O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, with such horses, and with devānām, the impulses of the gods Indra and the rest, śāśadānā — for you two who are impelled for the purpose of the command(s), that rāsabha (ass) who was given by Prajāpati, which is your vehicle, yamasya, of Yama Vaivasvata, in his delightful pradhane, rich-booty battle, ājā — in the war — conquered (jigāya) a thousand of the enemies. For Vaivasvata is pleased with a war that causes the death of many. Or: the ass, which is swift, won the thousand [thousand-cattle?] placed by Prajāpati as to be won; he obtained them by victory; having reached the contest before the other gods, he made the victory attained by you two — as in the Brāhmaṇa: 'prajāpatir vai somāya rājñe duhitaraṃ prāyacchat' (Ai. Br. 1-8 as read [?])."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"vīḷupatmabhiḥ — of the strongest (strong-flying); vā — and; āśuhemabhiḥ — swift-going (horses); nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; devānām — by the gods Indra and the rest; jūtibhiḥ — by encouragement; śāśadānā — greatly impelled; rāsabhaḥ — the ass (your vehicle); yamasya — of Yama (the pleasing); pradhane — specially wealthy; ājā — in the battle; tat — those (enemies); sahasram — a thousand; jigāya — conquered."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, joined with the strongest and swiftest horses, and impelled by the encouragement of the gods, thy ass (thy vehicle) conquered many thousand enemies in the pleasing battle of Yama."

Printed p. 187 (PDF 207; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, borne by strong and rapid (steeds) and (urged) by the encouragements of the gods, the ass of you, thus instigated, overcame a thousand (enemies) in conflict, in the war grateful to Yama.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

वीळुपत्मभिः — Vīḷupatmabhiḥ — "vīḷu balavat patantīti vīḷupatmānaḥ": "vīḷu is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of strength (Ni. 2-9 as read [?]), so it means strength: those who fly (patanti) with strength, i.e. 'those that leap'. Sāyaṇa explains: vīḷu means strength, 'vīḷv iti balanāma balavad utpatanaiḥ'."

आशुहेमभिः — Āśuhemabhiḥ — "āśu śīghraṃ hinvanti gacchantīti āśuhemānaḥ": "those who go with speed."

शाशदाना — Śāśadānā — "śāśyamānayor arthāyaṃ preryamāṇayor yuvayor vāhanabhūto": "'thy vehicle (the ass), who is urged exceedingly, O Aśvin deities'. Śāsana means 'commanding'. For the word śāśadāna, formed from the root śasu, which has the sense of 'to slay' (yajarthādi, taken in the sense hiṃsā or intensive [atiśaya]), Sāyaṇa gives the meaning in accordance with the maxim 'dhātūnām anekārthatvam' — roots have many meanings. In the Nirukta (Ni. 6-1? as read [?]) there is an explanation of the word śāśadānaḥ as śāśādyamānaḥ ['much commanded']; and

> अभि सिन्धो अजिगादस्य शत्रून् विशेन [?] वृषभेण पुरो भेत् । संवज्रेणासृजद्वृत्रमिन्द्रः प्र स्वां मतिमतिरच्छाशदानः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-५३-१० [as read; the first words printed doubtfully [?]])
>
> abhi sindho ajigādasya śatrūn viśena [?] vṛṣabheṇa puro bhet | saṃvajreṇāsṛjadvṛtramindraḥ pra svāṃ matimatiracchāśadānaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-53-10 [as read; the first words printed doubtfully [?]])

— this Ṛk is given as an example, and it is said that the word is used in the sense of 'cleaving' (bhedana)."

रासभः प्रधने आजौ तत् सहस्रं जिगाय — Rāsabhaḥ pradhane ājau tat sahasraṃ jigāya — "the ass, which Brahmā (Caturmukha) gave to the Aśvin deities as their vehicle, impelled by Indra and other deities and by swift-moving horses above, brings Yama pleasure by making abundant wealth available; in the battle, winning a thousand Ṛks bet by Brahmā (as a wager), he procured the victory for the Aśvin deities — thus Sāyaṇa explains the meaning. The word āji is stated among the twenty-four [as read] names of battle, 'pūrṇaḥ', 'vivāk' (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]); the explanation of the words āji and pradhana is in the Nirukta of Yāska (Ni. 7-?? as read [?]). Example:

Printed p. 188 (PDF 208; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

> न्यक्रन्दयन्नुपयन्त एनममेहयन् वृषभं मध्य आजेः । तेन सूभर्वं शतवत्सहस्रं गवां मुद्गलः प्रधने जिगाय ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-१०२-९ [as read])
>
> nyakrandayannupayanta enamamehayan vṛṣabhaṃ madhya ājeḥ | tena sūbharvaṃ śatavatsahasraṃ gavāṃ mudgalaḥ pradhane jigāya ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-102-9 [as read])
>
> न्यक्रन्दयन्नुपयन्त एनमित्याख्याते । अमेहयन् वृषभं मध्य आजेः राजयनस्याजवनस्येति वा तेन तं सुभर्वं राजानं भर्वति हिनस्ति कर्मणा । तद्वा सुभर्वं सहस्रं गवां मुद्गलः प्रधने जिगाय । प्रधन इति सङ्ग्रामनाम प्रकीर्णान्यस्मिन् धनानि भवन्ति ॥ (नि. ९-२४ [as read])
>
> nyakrandayannupayanta enamityākhyāte | amehayan vṛṣabhaṃ madhya ājeḥ rājayanasyājavanasyeti vā tena taṃ subharvaṃ rājānaṃ bharvati hinasti karmaṇā | tadvā subharvaṃ sahasraṃ gavāṃ mudgalaḥ pradhane jigāya | pradhana iti saṅgrāmanāma prakīrṇānyasmin dhanāni bhavanti ‖ (ni. 9-24 [as read])

— in this example, the words pradhana and āji are used in the sense of battle (saṅgrāma, yuddha).

> हरी इन्द्रस्य । रोहितौ अग्नेः । हरित आदित्यस्य । रासभावश्विनोः । अजा पूष्णः । पृषतो मरुताम् । अरुणो गाव उषसः । श्यावाः सवितुः । विश्वरूपा बृहस्पतेः । नियुतो वायोरिति दशादिष्टोपयोजनानि ॥ (नि. १-२५ [as read])
>
> harī indrasya | rohitau agneḥ | harita ādityasya | rāsabhāvaśvinoḥ | ajā pūṣṇaḥ | pṛṣato marutām | aruṇo gāva uṣasaḥ | śyāvāḥ savituḥ | viśvarūpā bṛhaspateḥ | niyuto vāyoriti daśādiṣṭopayojanāni ‖ (ni. 1-25 [as read])

— thus, in the sentence which gives the vehicles of those deities, it is said that the two asses are the vehicles of the Aśvin deities. Sāyaṇa, in explaining the meaning of sahasraṃ jigāya — 'he conquered a thousand' — cites the sentence prajāpatir vai somāya rājñe duhitaraṃ prāyacchat (Ai. Br. 4-?? as read [?]). Skandasvāmin here says 'prajāpatir vai somāya rājñe' (Ai. Br. 4-2-1 [as read; [?]]) and so on, explaining that the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa sentence that tells the story that Prajāpati gave his daughter to King Soma is to be cited here. And he cites all this as an example —

> प्रजापतिः सवितुः दुहितरं सूर्यां सोमाय राज्ञे प्रायच्छत् । येत्वन्ये देवाः कां वरयितुमागच्छन् । तेभ्यो विवाहादेनं केरमुक्षसहस्रमदात् ॥ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]]
>
> prajāpatiḥ savituḥ duhitaraṃ sūryāṃ somāya rājñe prāyacchat | yetvanye devāḥ kāṃ varayitumāgacchan | tebhyo vivāhādenaṃ keramukṣasahasramadāt ‖ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Printed p. 189 (PDF 209; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

> यदेतदाश्विनं नाम तस्मिन् देवा विवादमकुर्वन् । ममेदमस्तु ममेदमस्त्विति । तेब्रुवन् । अजिं धावाम । यो नो जेष्यति तस्येदं भविष्यतीति । तेग्नेर्गृहपतेरुपर्योदित्यं काष्टां कृत्वाभिधावन् । काष्ठा आजयन्ते उच्यते । अश्वतरीरथेनाग्निराजिमधावत् । गोभिर्रथेनोषाः । हरिभ्यामिन्द्रः । गर्दभरथेनाश्विनौ । तेश्चाश्विनावजयताम् । इति ॥ (ऐ. ब्रा. ४-२-४ [as read])
>
> yadetadāśvinaṃ nāma tasmin devā vivādamakurvan | mamedamastu mamedamastviti | tebruvan | ajiṃ dhāvāma | yo no jeṣyati tasyedaṃ bhaviṣyatīti | tegnergṛhapateruparyodityaṃ kāṣṭhāṃ kṛtvābhidhāvan | kāṣṭhā ājayante ucyate | aśvatarīrathenāgnirājimadhāvat | gobhirrathenoṣāḥ | haribhyāmindraḥ | gardabharathenāśvinau | teścāśvināvajayatām | iti ‖ (ai. brā. 4-2-4 [as read])

"Brahmā gave his daughter, named Sūryā, daughter of the deity Savitṛ, in marriage to King Soma. Then the other deities came to ask for her. He gave them, after the marriage, a thousand Ṛks. These Ṛks became known by the name 'Aśvin'. The deities who had come over those Ṛks quarrelled: 'I want it, I want it'. Afterwards they decided among themselves that whoever should win in the contest should get these Ṛks. Then, from Agni, the householder, upward to the Āditya [Sun] as the goal, they made a race and began to run. Then Agni came to the contest in a chariot yoked with mules [aśvatarī]; Uṣas came in a chariot yoked with red cows; Indra came with a chariot yoked with the two bay horses (hari); the Aśvin deities came in a chariot yoked with asses. In the race the Aśvin deities won; a thousand Ṛks fell to them. From this these Ṛks became known as 'Aśvina': thus the Itihāsa is explained." And, "for the word ājā the meaning of aśvādeḥ dhāvanabhūmi — the place where horses and others run — is called āji": explaining this, [he gives for] yamasya: 'the word yama [ṃasya?] is said of the Āditya, because he destroys the darkness of night; hence here the word yama must be taken to mean āditya':

> तस्य सम्बन्धिन्याः । इति पुनरादित्यस्याजिसम्बन्ध उच्यते । आदित्यस्तस्या अन्तेऽसीत् । तथाहि ब्राह्मणम् । तेऽग्नेर्गृहपतेरुपर्यादित्यं काष्ठामकुर्वत । (ऐ. ब्रा. ४-२-४)
>
> tasya sambandhinyāḥ | iti punarādityasyājisambandha ucyate | ādityastasyā ante 'sīt | tathāhi brāhmaṇam | te 'gnergṛhapateruparyādityaṃ kāṣṭhāmakurvata | (ai. brā. 4-2-4)

— the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa sentence is cited as an example to state the connection between the war (āji) and the Āditya (Sun). Pradhane — "the word explained as 'in battle, in the fight'; and agnyādibhiḥ saha saṃspardhāyām — in the battle where Agni and other deities contend with one another."

Printed p. 190 (PDF 210; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 2; grammar page, noted briefly)

vīḷupatmabhiḥ (vīḷu "strong"; patanti iti patmānaḥ; patḷ "to go", the suffix manin by anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante, Pā. 3-2-75 as read [?]; first-syllable accent by jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?]; the compound with the first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt; instrumental plural); āśuhemabhiḥ (āśu śīghraṃ hinvanti gacchanti iti āśuhemānaḥ; hi "to go, to grow"; as before manin, guṇa of i; as a compound, as before the later member's accent by kṛduttarapada…); jūtibhiḥ (ūtiyūtijūtisātihetikīrtayaś ca, Pā. 3-3-97 as read [?], the ktin's udātta accent by irregularity; ju is a root of the saunra group, as said earlier); śāśadānā (śasu "to command"; the dhātūnām anekārthatvam maxim, so it is used here in the sense of 'going'; in the intensive sense by* dhātor ekācaḥ halādeḥ kriyāsamabhihāre yaṅ*, Pā. 3-1-22 as read [?];* sanyaṅoḥ*, Pā. 6-1-9 as read [?], doubling of the root;* ādir halśeṣaḥ*;* dīrgho 'kitaḥ*, Pā. 7-4-83 as read [?], lengthening of the reduplication;* sanādyantā dhātavaḥ*, the* śāśadya* gets the status of a root; śānac in the laṭ sense; by chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], the śānac is ārdhadhātuka and so śap is not applied; yasya halaḥ, Pā. 6-4-49 as read [?], elision of the y of the yaṅ; ato lopaḥ, Pā. 6-4-48 as read [?], elision of the a; abhyastānām ādiḥ, Pā. 6-1-189 as read [?], first-syllable accent; the dual neuter/masculine ending au → with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], lengthening of the preceding vowel); nāsatyā (na asatyau, na satyau, formed by nabhrāṇ napāt… [as before]; the vocative dual with supāṃ sulug lengthening; nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); ājā (the word āji has the meaning of battle; the locative singular supāṃ sulug, ḍā; being ḍit, the ṭi is elided; the cessation of udātta… the ending too is accented).

Printed p. 191 (PDF 211; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

Grammar page of Ṛk 2, concluded (noted briefly): yamasya (yamu "to restrain"; yamayati iti yamaḥ; belonging to the pacādi group, the suffix ac; final accent from the suffix; genitive singular); jigāya (ji "to conquer"; liṭ 3rd singular tip; parasmaipadānāṃ ṇalatusus…, Pā. 3-4-82 as read [?], ṇal for tip; vṛddhi of the i by aco 'ñṇiti, Pā. 7-2-115 as read [?]; doubling of the root as it is liṭ; sanliṭor jeḥ, Pā. 7-3-57 as read [?], k for the j of the reduplication; āy substitution; nighāta). ‖ 2 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 3

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.3)

तुग्रो ह भुज्युमश्विनोदमेघे रयिं न कश्चिन्ममृवाँ अवाहाः । तमूहथुर्नौभिरात्मन्वतीभिरन्तरिक्षप्रुद्भिरपोदकाभिः ॥ ३ ॥

tugro ha bhujyumaśvinodameghe rayiṃ na kaścinmamṛvā~ avāhāḥ | tamūhathurnaubhirātmanvatībhirantarikṣaprudbhirapodakābhiḥ ‖ 3 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.3)

तुग्रः । ह । भुज्युम् । अश्विना । उदऽमेघे । रयिम् । न । कः । चित् । ममृऽवान् । अव । अहाः । तम् । ऊहथुः । नौभिः । आत्मन्ऽवतीभिः । अन्तरिक्षऽप्रुत्ऽभिः । अपऽउदकाभिः ॥ ३ ॥

tugraḥ | ha | bhujyum | aśvinā | uda 'meghe | rayim | na | kaḥ | cit | mamṛ 'vān | ava | ahāḥ | tam | ūhathuḥ | naubhiḥ | ātman 'vatībhiḥ | antarikṣa 'prut 'bhiḥ | apa 'udakābhiḥ ‖ 3 ‖

Printed p. 192 (PDF 212; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.3)

अत्रेयमाख्यायिका । तुग्रो नामाश्विनोः प्रियः कश्चिद्राजर्षिः । स द्वीपान्तरविर्भिः शत्रुभिरत्यन्तमुपद्रुतः सन् तेषां जयाय स्वपुत्रं भुज्युं सेनया सह नावा प्राहेषीत् । सा च सौर्मर्धये [?] समुद्रमतिदूरं गतानावयवशेन भिन्नासीत् । तदानीं स भुज्युः शीघ्रमश्विनौ तुष्टाव । तौ च स्तुतौ सेनया सहितं भुज्युं मद्भिरीयासु नौप्रारोह्य पितुस्तुग्रस्य समीपं त्रिभिरहोरात्रैः प्रापयामासतुरिति । अयमर्थ इदमादिकेन तृचेन प्रतिपाद्यते । हशब्दः प्रसिद्धौ । तुग्रः खलु पूर्वं शत्रुभिः पीडितः सन् तेजोजयार्थमुदमेघे । उदकैर्मिह्यते सिच्यते इत्युदकमेघः समुद्रः । तस्मिन् भुज्युमेतत्संज्ञं प्रियं पुत्रमवाहाः । नावा गन्तुं पर्यत्याक्षीत् । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । ममृवान् म्रियमाणः सन्ननलोभे कश्चिन्मनुष्यो रयिं न यथा धनं परित्यजति तद्वत् । हे अश्विनौ तं च भुज्युं मध्येसमुद्रं निमग्नं नौभिः पित्रसमीपमूहथुः । युवां प्रापितवन्तौ । कीदृशीभिः । आत्मन्वतीभिरात्मीयाभिः । युवयोः स्वभूताभिरित्यर्थः । यद्वा । धृतिरात्मा । धारणवतीभिरित्यर्थः । अन्तरिक्षप्रुद्भिरतिस्वच्छत्वादन्तरिक्षे जलस्योपरिष्टादेव गन्तृभिः । अपोदकाभिः सुश्लिष्टत्वादपगतोदकाभिः । अस्पृष्टोदकाभिरित्यर्थः ॥ [the grammatical tail follows in small type: udameghe — mih “to sprinkle”, ghañ, nyaṅkvādīnāṃ ca (Pā. 7-3-53) kutva; udakasya udaḥ saṃjñāyām (Pā. 6-3-57); mamṛvān — mṛṅ “to die”, kvasu; kradiniyamāt… vasvekājāḍḍhasām, niyamād abhāvaḥ — no iṭ; ahāḥ — ohāk “to leave”, luṅ, tip, cleḥ sic, āgamānuśāsanasyānityatvād aṭ na kriyate, bahulaṃ chandasi, iṭ not applied, halṅyābbhyaḥ — elision of tip, ru-visarga; or mantre ghasa… cleḥ luk; nāvā…; ātmanvatībhiḥ — ātmanaḥ matup, mādupadhāyāḥ — va; ano nuṭ, nuṭ augment; nalopaḥ; hrasvanuḍbhyāṃ matub…, matup accent udāttatva; antarikṣaprudbhiḥ — pru [as printed pruj] “to go”, kvip…] [small type; read with doubt — words marked [?]]

atreyamākhyāyikā | tugro nāmāśvinoḥ priyaḥ kaścidrājarṣiḥ | sa dvīpāntaravirbhiḥ śatrubhiratyantamupadrutaḥ san teṣāṃ jayāya svaputraṃ bhujyuṃ senayā saha nāvā prāheṣīt | sā ca saurmardhaye [?] samudramatidūraṃ gatānāvayavaśena bhinnāsīt | tadānīṃ sa bhujyuḥ śīghramaśvinau tuṣṭāva | tau ca stutau senayā sahitaṃ bhujyuṃ madbhirīyāsu nauprārohya pitustugrasya samīpaṃ tribhirahorātraiḥ prāpayāmāsaturiti | ayamartha idamādikena tṛcena pratipādyate | haśabdaḥ prasiddhau | tugraḥ khalu pūrvaṃ śatrubhiḥ pīḍitaḥ san tejojayārthamudameghe | udakairmihṛte sicyate ityudakameghaḥ samudraḥ | tasmin bhujyumetatsaṃjñaṃ priyaṃ putramavāhāḥ | nāvā gantuṃ paryatyākṣīt | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | mamṛvān mriyamāṇaḥ sannanalobhe kaścinmanuṣyo rayiṃ na yathā

dhanaṃ parityajati tadvat | he aśvinau taṃ ca bhujyuṃ madhyesamudraṃ nimagnaṃ naubhiḥ pitrasamīpamūhathuḥ | yuvāṃ prāpitavantau | kīdṛśībhiḥ | ātmanvatībhirātmīyābhiḥ | yuvayoḥ svabhūtābhirityarthaḥ | yadvā | dhṛtirātmā | dhāraṇavatībhirityarthaḥ | antarikṣaprudbhiratisvacchatvādantarikṣe jalasyoparisṭhādeva gantṛbhiḥ | apodakābhiḥ suśliṣṭatvādapagatodakābhiḥ | aspṛṣṭodakābhirityarthaḥ ‖ [the grammatical tail follows in small type: udameghe — mih "to sprinkle", ghañ, nyaṅkvādīnāṃ ca (Pā. 7-3-53) kutva; udakasya udaḥ saṃjñāyām (Pā. 6-3-57); mamṛvān — mṛṅ "to die", kvasu; kradiniyamāt… vasvekājāḍdhasām, niyamād abhāvaḥ — no iṭ; ahāḥ — ohāk "to leave", luṅ, tip, cleḥ sic, āgamānuśāsanasyānityatvād aṭ na kriyate, bahulaṃ chandasi, iṭ not applied, halṅyābbhyaḥ — elision of tip, ru-visarga; or mantre ghasa… cleḥ luk; nāvā…; ātmanvatībhiḥ — ātmanaḥ matup, mādupadhāyāḥ — va; ano nuṭ, nuṭ augment; nalopaḥ; hrasvanuḍbhyāṃ matub…, matup accent udāttatva; antarikṣaprudbhiḥ — pru [as printed pruj] "to go", kvip…] [small type; read with doubt — words marked [?]]

Sense (mine): "Here is the story. Tugra was a royal sage dear to the Aśvins. Being greatly harassed by enemies of the neighbouring islands, he sent his son Bhujyu, with an army, in a ship, to conquer them. And that ship, through damage of its parts [?], went far into the ocean and was broken. Then Bhujyu quickly praised the Aśvins. And they, praised, put Bhujyu with his army on ships of their own and brought him to his father Tugra in three days and nights. This sense is declared by the three Ṛks beginning with this one. Ha is a particle of 'well known'. Tugra, once harassed by enemies, for the sake of conquest, udameghe, in the udameghā — 'which is sprinkled by waters (udakair mihyate secyate)', the ocean — avāhāḥ — sent that Bhujyu, his dear son, going by ship; and then abandoned him — as an illustration: a man mamṛvān, dying, (not clinging out of greed?) leaves his wealth, so he left [him]. O Aśvins, you ūhathuḥ, carried that Bhujyu, sunk in the middle of the sea, to his father's neighbourhood, by nāubhiḥ, ships. What kind of ships? Ātmanvatībhiḥ — your own, belonging to you; or: ātman is firmness — those having firmness; antarikṣaprudbhiḥ — travelling over the water's surface as if in the atmosphere, because they are very clear; apodakābhiḥ — the water having been drawn off, because of close fitting — not touched by water."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"tugraḥ — Tugra (the royal sage, for the sake of conquest over enemies); udameghe — in the ocean; bhujyum — his son Bhujyu by name; mamṛvān — one who is dying; kaścit — (a man) greedy; rayim na — (as one abandons his wealth, in his extreme distress); avāhāḥ ha — sent away (to the sea)…

Printed p. 193 (PDF 213; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …"; footer signature mark "IX 13")

(Pratipadārtha of Ṛk 3, concluded:) "… naṣṭam [?] (lost, sent away to the sea); (aśvinau — O Aśvin deities); tam — that Bhujyu (sunk in the midst of the ocean); ātmanvatībhiḥ — your own; antarikṣaprudbhiḥ — moving in the atmosphere (that is, over the surface of the water); apodakābhiḥ — which, being tight, let no water enter; nāubhiḥ — by ships; ūhathuḥ — you carried him to his father's house."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“When Tugra sent his son Bhujyu to the sea (to conquer the enemies who were oppressing him), like a greedy man at the point of death who with great difficulty gives up his wealth [?], you carried him, who was sinking in mid-ocean, in your own ships — which always float and let no water enter — and set him down at his father’s house.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Tugra, verily, Aswins, sent (his son) Bhujyu to sea, as a dying man parts with his riches ; but you brought him back in vessels of your own, floating over the ocean, and keeping out the waters.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

“In this Ṛk is recounted the history: the royal sage who is famed by the name Tugra and is dear to the Aśvin deities, unable to bear the trouble the enemies in the other islands caused him, sent his son Bhujyu with an army to the other islands in order to subdue them; Bhujyu, travelling with the army on the sea in a ship (boat), found his ship broken in the middle. Then Bhujyu, son of Tugra, quickly praised the Aśvin deities. They, hearing his praise, were pleased, took Bhujyu with the army onto their ships and, travelling three days and nights without rest (continuously), brought him to the house of his father King Tugra.”

तुग्रः — Tugraḥ — “Tugra was a king. That he was the father of Bhujyu is stated in the Ṛgveda in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-116-3, 1-117-14, 6-62-6 [as read; [?]]; in the Ṛks in which Bhujyu is spoken of as the son of Tugra the name of Tugra occurs, and also, as Taugrya, in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-?-? ; 1-?-? [as read], 8-?-? [numerals partly illegible [?]].

Printed p. 194 (PDF 214; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

The name Tugra is also in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-116-? ; 1-117-? ; 1-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 6-?-? ; 10-?-? [numerals too small to read reliably [?]]. In the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-20-8 [as read], 6-?-? and 10-49-4 [as read] the Tugra spoken of must be a different person, since there he is said to be Indra’s enemy.”

भुज्युम् — Bhujyum — “that Bhujyu was a son of Tugra, and that the Aśvin deities protected him when he was sinking in the middle of the ocean (through destruction of his ship), is said in the Ṛgveda in many places —

> याभिरन्तकं जसमानमारे भुज्युं याभिरव्यथिभिर्जिजिन्वथुः । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-६ [as read])
>
> yābhirantakaṃ jasamānamāre bhujyuṃ yābhiravyathibhirjijinvathuḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-6 [as read])

— in this Ṛk the bhujyu [explained by the Bhāṣyakāra as] ‘sarvasya pālakam etatsaṃjñaṃ samudramadhye nimagnaṃ tugrasya putraṃ rājarṣim’: the royal sage Bhujyu, son of the king Tugra, who was sinking in the ocean, was protected by the Aśvin deities.

> याभिः शंतातौ भवथो ददाशुषे भुज्युं याभिरवथो याभिरधिगुम् । ओम्यावतीं सुभरामृतस्तुभं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-२० [as read])

yābhiḥ śaṃtātī bhavatho dadāśuṣe bhujyuṃ yābhiravatho yābhiradhigum | omyāvatīṃ subharāmṛtastubhaṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-20 [as read])

In this Ṛk too: 'you protected Bhujyu, the son of Tugra'.

युवं तुग्राय पूर्व्येभिरेवैः पुनर्मन्या अभवतं युवाना । युवं भुज्युमर्णसो निः समुद्राद्बिभिरूहथुरृज्रेभिरश्वैः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-४ [as read])

yuvaṃ tugrāya pūrvyebhirevaiḥ punarmanyā abhavataṃ yuvānā | yuvaṃ bhujyumarṇaso niḥ samudrādvibhirūhathurṛjrebhiraśvaiḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-4 [as read])

Here also: 'O Aśvins, you carried Bhujyu, son of Tugra, who was sunk in the middle of the sea — (the one who is sunk out of the water-mass, the ocean, [= arṇasaḥ]) — with swift horses [ṛjrebhir aśvaiḥ], having brought him out from the unfathomable ocean, as it were from drowning; you took him to his father's house." (the above is the Kannada exposition of the Ṛk; the sentence that follows in the print is its explanatory gloss.)

Printed p. 195 (PDF 215; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

युवं भुज्युं भुरमाणं विभिर्गतं स्वयुक्तिभिर्निवहन्ता पितृभ्य आ ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११७-१४ [as read])

yuvaṃ bhujyuṃ bhuramāṇaṃ vibhirgataṃ svayuktibhirnivahantā pitṛbhya ā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-117-14 [as read])

ता भुज्युं विभिरद्भ्यः समुद्रात्तुग्रस्य सूनुमूहथू रजोभिः । (ऋ. सं. ६-६२-६ [as read])

tā bhujyuṃ vibhiradbhyaḥ samudrāttugrasya sūnumūhathū rajobhiḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 6-62-6 [as read])

उ त्यं भुज्युमश्विना सखायो मध्ये जहुर्दुरेवासः समुद्रे । (ऋ. सं. १-१८२-५ [as read])

u tyaṃ bhujyumaśvinā sakhāyo madhye jahurdurevāsaḥ samudre | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-182-5 [as read])

युवं भुज्युमवविद्धं समुद्र उदूहथुरर्णसो असिधानैः । (ऋ. सं. १-१८२-६ [as read])

yuvaṃ bhujyumavaviddhaṃ samudra udūhathurarṇaso asridhānaiḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-182-6 [as read])

युवं ह भुज्युं युवमश्विना वशं युवं शिञ्जारमुशनामुपारथुः । (ऋ. सं. १०-४०-७ [as read])

yuvaṃ ha bhujyuṃ yuvamaśvinā vaśaṃ yuvaṃ śiñjāramuśanāmupārathuḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-40-7 [as read])

भुज्युमंहसः पिप्रथुर्निरश्विना श्यावं पुत्रं वध्रिमत्या अजिन्वतम् । (ऋ. सं. १०-६५-१२ [as read])

bhujyumaṃhasaḥ piprathurniraśvinā śyāvaṃ putraṃ vadhrimatyā ajinvatam | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-65-12 [as read])

युवं भुज्युं समुद्र आ रजसः पार ईङ्खितम् । (ऋ. सं. १०-१४३-५ [as read])

yuvaṃ bhujyuṃ samudra ā rajasaḥ pāra īṅkhitam | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-143-5 [as read])

— in these Ṛks too the meaning is described that the Aśvin deities saved Bhujyu, son of Tugra, so that he did not sink in the sea. Skandasvāmin explains that this story is here told, and in the Ṛk 'utaśyaṃ bhujyum aśvinā' (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-182-5 [as read]) and in the Ṛks

> याभिरन्तकं जसमानमारे भुज्युं याभिरव्यथिभिर्जिजिन्वथुः । याभिः कर्कन्धुं वय्यं च जिन्वथस्ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विनागतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-६ [as read])
>
> yābhirantakaṃ jasamānamāre bhujyuṃ yābhiravyathibhirjijinvathuḥ | yābhiḥ karkandhuṃ vayyaṃ ca jinvathastābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvināgatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-6 [as read])
>
> याभिः शंताती भवथो ददाशुषे भुज्युं याभिरवथो याभिरधिगुम् । ओम्यावतीं सुभरामृतस्तुभं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-२० [as read])
>
> yābhiḥ śaṃtātī bhavatho dadāśuṣe bhujyuṃ yābhiravatho yābhiradhigum | omyāvatīṃ subharāmṛtastubhaṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-20 [as read])

he cited these Ṛks as examples.

Printed p. 196 (PDF 216; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

तुग्रः — Tugraḥ — "tugra iti soyam ityabhisambandhāt pitṛkaḥ śabdeneda putrasyābhidhānam": "in this mantra the word tugra is used as a synonym of Bhujyu, son of Tugra. As in the usage 'soyam' [= this very one] in the pratyabhijñā (recognition), Skandasvāmin explains that by the word tugra, which denotes the father, the son Bhujyu is here referred to; the sense is 'the son of Tugra'. This is an adjective of the word Bhujyu, since Bhujyu is Tugra's son."

उदमेघे — Udameghe — "udakair mihyate secyate iti udamegha — samudraḥ": "the ocean, because it is sprinkled with water (rain)."

रयिं न — Rayiṃ na — "the word rayi is read among the hundred-and-one names of water (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) and among the twenty-eight [as read] names of wealth. And —

> नू च पुरा च सदनं रयीणां जातस्य च जायमानस्य च क्षाम् । सतश्च गोपां भवतश्च भूरेर्देवा अग्निं धारयन् द्रविणोदाम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-७३-२ [as read])
>
> nū ca purā ca sadanaṃ rayīṇāṃ jātasya ca jāyamānasya ca kṣām | sataśca gopāṃ bhavataśca bhūrerdevā agniṃ dhārayan draviṇodām ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-73-2 [as read])

— the Nirukta-writer cites this Ṛk as an example and explains, 'rayir iti dhananāma rāter dānakarmaṇaḥ' (Ni. 4-?? as read [?]): the word rayi means wealth, formed from the root rā 'to give'."

ममृवान् — Mamṛvān — "the meaning is: Tugra, like a man who, though he has the strongest attachment to wealth, abandons the wealth at the point of death when death approaches, sent his son Bhujyu with great distress on the sea voyage."

आत्मन्वतीभिः — Ātmanvatībhiḥ — "ātmīyābhiḥ: yadvā dhṛtirātmā dhāraṇāvatībhir ity arthaḥ": "the Aśvin deities protected Bhujyu from distress with ships which were their own; or, because the word ātman has the meaning dhṛti (firmness), or dhairya, they made him — Bhujyu, who was in distress — firm in mind, and protected him by seating him in the ships."

अन्तरिक्षप्रुद्भिः — Antarikṣaprudbhiḥ — "since the Aśvin deities' ships are very clear, and very swift, they used to move only on the upper side of the water."

Printed p. 197 (PDF 217; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …") [Special Topics of Ṛk 3, concluded]

अपोदकाभिः — Apodakābhiḥ — "suślīṣṭatvād apagatodakābhiḥ aspṛṣṭodakābhir ity arthaḥ": "because the ships are built with no crack or opening, so well made, water does not enter at all; this is the meaning. In these three qualifying words the nature of the Aśvins' ship [being what it is, uttamatva] is manifested [in contrast to other ships]. And the next Ṛk is also a description of the Aśvins' ships."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 3; grammar page, noted briefly)

udameghe (mih "to sprinkle"; ghañ in the passive; guṇa of the penultimate; nyaṅkvādīnāṃ ca, Pā. 7-3-53 as read [?], kutva (g for h); antaratamyāt, the h gets gh; udakasyodaḥ saṃjñāyām, Pā. 6-3-57 as read [?], uda for udaka; thāthaghañktājipabṛtām, Pā. 6-2-144 as read [?], the last syllable accented; locative singular); mamṛvān (mṛṅ "to die", liṭ with the option of kvasu by kvasuś ca, Pā. 3-2-107 as read [?]; kṛsṛbhṛvṛstudrusruśruvo liṭi, Pā. 7-2-13 as read [?], the restriction on iṭ; although iṭ would apply, it is again prohibited by vasvekājāḍ ghasām, Pā. 7-2-67 as read [?]; doubling of the root; ur at, Pā. 7-4-66 as read [?], a in the reduplication, halādiśeṣa; as the suffix is kit no guṇa of the root; accent of the suffix; the nominative singular su; ugitaś ca… num by ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-70 as read [?]; upadhādīrgha [sān…]; hal-ṅyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisyapṛktaṃ hal, Pā. 6-1-68 as read [?], elision of su; the elision of the conjunct-final t by saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ, Pā. 8-2-23 as read [?]; this being regarded as not having happened, the n-elision does not arise); ahāḥ (ohāk "to leave", luṅ 3rd singular tip; itaś ca lopaḥ; cleḥ sic; by the paribhāṣā "āgamānuśāsanam anityam", the augments ṛt and saK… are not applied; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 7-3-97 as read [?], no īṭ augment; hal-ṅyābbhyaḥ, elision of tip; the s of sic → ru → visarga; augment aṭ; the form ahāḥ. Or by mantre ghasahvara…, Pā. 2-4-80 as read [?], luk for cli; as it is luk, no augment; nighāta); ūhathuḥ (vah "to carry", liṭ 2nd dual, athus substituted; as asaṃyogāl liṭ kit makes it kit, vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti gives saṃprasāraṇa, Pā. 6-1-15 as read [?]; doubling of the root; nighāta).

Printed p. 198 (PDF 218; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

Grammar page, concluded: nāubhiḥ (the word nau; instrumental plural; as it is monosyllabic, sāvekācas tṛtīyādiḥ, Pā. 6-1-168 as read [?], the ending takes the udātta accent); ātmanvatībhiḥ (ātman + matup by tad asyāstya asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?]; mādupadhāyāś ca, Pā. 8-2-9 as read [?], va for the m of matup after the a-penultimate; nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya, Pā. 8-2-7 as read [?]; ano nuṭ, Pā. 6-3-?? as read [?], the nuṭ augment before matup; being ṭit, it becomes the first part; hrasvanuḍbhyāṃ matup, Pā. 6-1-176 as read [?], matup is accented udātta after the short or nuṭ; the feminine ṅīp by ugitaś ca; the instrumental plural); antarikṣaprudbhiḥ (pruj "to go", kvip by kvip ca, Pā. 3-2-76 as read [?]; the augment tuk for the short vowel by hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk, Pā. 6-1-71 as read [?]; first-member accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?]). ‖ 3 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 4

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.4)

तिस्रः क्षपस्त्रिरहातिव्रजद्भिर्नासत्या भुज्युमूहथुः पतंगैः । समुद्रस्य धन्वन्नार्द्रस्य पारे त्रिभी रथैः शतपद्भिः षळश्वैः ॥ ४ ॥

tisraḥ kṣapastrirahātivrajadbhirnāsatyā bhujyumūhathuḥ pataṃgaiḥ | samudrasya dhanvannārdrasya pāre tribhī rathaiḥ śatapadbhiḥ ṣaḷaśvaiḥ ‖ 4 ‖

Printed p. 199 (PDF 219; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.4)

तिस्रः । क्षपः । त्रिः । अहा । अतिव्रजत्ऽभिः । नासत्या । भुज्युम् । ऊहथुः । पतंगैः । समुद्रस्य । धन्वन् । आर्द्रस्य । पारे । त्रिऽभिः । रथैः । शतपत्ऽभिः । षट्ऽअश्वैः ॥ ४ ॥

tisraḥ | kṣapaḥ | triḥ | ahā | ativrajat 'bhiḥ | nāsatyā | bhujyum | ūhathuḥ | pataṃgaiḥ | samudrasya | dhanvan | ārdrasya | pāre | tri 'bhiḥ | rathaiḥ | śatapat 'bhiḥ | ṣaṭ 'aśvaiḥ ‖ 4 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.4)

हे नासत्या सेनया सहोदके निमग्नं भुज्युं तिस्रः क्षपस्त्रिसंख्याका रात्रीस्त्रिरहा त्रिनारमावृत्तान्यहानि चातिव्रजद्भिरतिक्रम्य गच्छद्भिरेतावन्तं कालमतिव्याप्य वर्तमानैः पतंगैः पतद्भिः सञ्चारिभिस्त्रिभिस्त्रिसंख्यैः रथैरारोहथुः [?] ऊहथुः । युवामूढवन्ताविति चेत् उच्यते । समुद्रस्याम्बुराशेर्मध्ये धन्वन् धन्वनि जलवर्जिते प्रदेशे । आर्द्रस्योदकेनार्द्रीभूतस्य समुद्रस्य पारे तीरदेशे च । कथंभूतैरथैः । शतपद्भिः शतसंख्यैश्चक्रलक्षणैः पादैरुपेतैः । षळश्वैः षड्भिरश्वैर्युक्तैः ॥ [grammatical tail follows: tisraḥ — tricaturoḥ striyāṃ tisṛcatasṛ, tisṛ substitution; kṣapaḥ; tiraḥ…; ahā — ahan, ṭi; patangaiḥ — paṭḷ "to go", paterangac, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?]; dhanvan — dhanvi "to go", with kanin [kaninyuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanidraviṇāt…]; supāṃ sulug, ṅi → luk; śatapadbhiḥ — śataṃ pādā yeṣām, saṃkhyāsupūrvasya, pād → pad; ṣaḍaśvaiḥ — ṣaṭ+ aśva, ayasmayādīni …] [read from the print; small type, partly doubtful [?]]

he nāsatyā senayā sahodake nimagnaṃ bhujyuṃ tisraḥ kṣapastrisaṃkhyākā rātrīstrirahā trināramāvṛttānyahāni cātivrajadbhiratikramya gacchadbhiretāvantaṃ kālamativyāpya vartamānaiḥ pataṃgaiḥ patadbhiḥ sañcāribhistribhistrisaṃkhyaiḥ rathairārohathuḥ [?] ūhathuḥ | yuvāmūḍhavantāviti cet ucyate | samudrasyāmburāśermadhye dhanvan dhanvani jalavarjite pradeśe | ārdrasyodakenārdrībhūtasya samudrasya pāre tīradeśe ca | kathaṃbhūtairathaiḥ | śatapadbhiḥ śatasaṃkhyaiścakralakṣaṇaiḥ pādairupetaiḥ | ṣaḷaśvaiḥ ṣaḍbhiraśvairyuktaiḥ ‖ [grammatical tail follows: tisraḥ — tricaturoḥ striyāṃ tisṛcatasṛ, tisṛ substitution; kṣapaḥ; tiraḥ…; ahā — ahan, ṭi; patangaiḥ — paṭḷ "to go", paterangac, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?]; dhanvan — dhanvi "to go", with kanin [kaninyuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanidraviṇāt…]; supāṃ sulug, ṅi → luk; śatapadbhiḥ — śataṃ > pādā yeṣām, saṃkhyāsupūrvasya, pād → pad; ṣaḍaśvaiḥ — ṣaṭ + aśva, ayasmayādīni …] [read from the print; small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O Nāsatyas, Bhujyu, sunk with his army in the water — for three kṣapaḥ (nights), trir ahā (three days — days recurring thrice) — you carried (ūhathuḥ) by three pataṅgaiḥ, 'flying', i.e. swift-moving, three in number, chariots, atiprajadbhiḥ — going far beyond, continuing over so much time. If it be asked 'where did you carry him?' it is said: samudrasya dhanvan — in the waterless region in the middle of the ocean — and ārdrasya pāre — on the shore of the ocean made wet by water. What chariots? Śatapadbhiḥ — having a hundred 'feet', i.e. hundred wheels; ṣaḍaśvaiḥ — drawn by six horses."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he nāsatyā — O Aśvin deities; bhujyum — Bhujyu (who was sunk in the sea with his army); tisraḥ kṣapaḥ — three nights (and); triraha — three days; ativrajadbhiḥ — passing over (going on beyond); pataṅgaiḥ — swift-moving; śatapadbhiḥ —

Printed p. 200 (PDF 220; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

— with a hundred wheels (feet); ṣaḷaśvaiḥ — six horses yoked; tribhiḥ rathaiḥ — by three chariots; samudrasya — of the ocean; dhanvan — in the waterless region; ārdrasya — of the wet; samudrasya — of the ocean; pāre — in the region of the shore; ūhathuḥ — you carried him away."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, three days and three nights, in a continuous swift course, in three chariots of a hundred wheels, with six horses yoked (to each), you carried Bhujyu (sunk with his army) both through waterless regions near the ocean and through the regions of the shore of the sea."

English Translation (as printed)

> Three nights and three days, Nasatyas, have you conveyed Bhujyu in three rapid, revolving cars, having a hundred wheels, and drawn by six horses, along the dry shore of the sea.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

तिस्रः क्षपः — Tisraḥ kṣapaḥ — "trisaṃkhyākā rātrīḥ": "since the word kṣapaḥ is stated among the twenty-two [as read] names of night (rātri) — śyāvī, śarvarī and so on (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) — kṣapaḥ means night."

पतङ्गैः — Pataṅgaiḥ — "patadbhiḥ": "since the word pataṅga is read among the sixteen names of horses, 'atya', 'haya' and so on (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]), though the word pataṅga denotes the meaning 'horse', Sāyaṇa explains it as patadbhiḥ — 'moving'."

धन्वन् — Dhanvan — "jalavarjite pradeśe": "in a region without water. Since the word dhanva is stated among the sixteen names of the atmosphere, 'ambara', 'viyat' and so on (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]), dhanvan means 'atmosphere'. In the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya and in Skandasvāmin's bhāṣya, it is explained as 'nirudakapradeśa' (a waterless region). Yāska:

धन्वान्तरिक्षं धन्वन्त्यस्मादापः ॥ [as read: dhanvāntarikṣaṃ dhanvanty asmād āpaḥ]

dhanvāntarikṣaṃ dhanvantyasmādāpaḥ ‖ [as read: dhanvāntarikṣaṃ dhanvanty asmād āpaḥ]

— 'the waters flow out from it; therefore the atmosphere is called by the name dhanva' — he explains the meaning, and cites

यः पर्स्याः पारावतस्तिरो धन्वातिरोचते । स नः पर्षदति द्विषः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-९३-?३ [as read; [?]])

yaḥ parsyāḥ pārāvatastiro dhanvātirocate | sa naḥ parṣadati dviṣaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-93-?3 [as read; [?]])

as an example."

समुद्रस्य — Samudrasya — "ambu-rāśeḥ": "the Nirukta-writer explains the word as 'a mass of waters' —

तत्र समुद्र इत्येतत्पार्थिवेन समुद्रेण सन्दिह्यते । समुद्रः कस्मात् समुदद्रवन्त्यस्मादापः समभिद्रवन्त्येनमापः संमोदन्तेऽस्मिन्भूतानि समुदको भवति समुनत्तीति वा ॥ (नि. २-१० [as read])

tatra samudra ityetatpārthivena samudreṇa sandihyate | samudraḥ kasmāt samuddravantyasmādāpaḥ samabhidravantyenamāpaḥ saṃmodante 'sminbhūtāni samudako bhavati samunattīti vā ‖ (ni. 2-10 [as read])

— thus he examines the meaning of the word samudra. Among the sixteen names of the atmosphere the word pṛthivī and the word samudra are stated. Of these, since the sense 'mass of water' is established for the word samudra, there arises a doubt whether samudra means the atmosphere, the earth, or the sea. By four derivations — 'waters flow out of it', 'waters flow into it', 'beings rejoice in it', 'full of water' [samudako bhavati] or 'it wets (samunatti)' — he settles the sense of the word samudra as a collection of water. The word samudra is also used in other places in the sense of 'cloud'.

अश्मन्वाधाराणि निमन्तरिक्षमतोर्णे बद्धं सविता समुद्रम् । (ऋ. सं. १०-१८५-१ [as read; the first words doubtful [?]])

aśmanvādhārāṇi nimantarikṣamatorṇe baddhaṃ savitā samudram | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-185-1 [as read; the first words doubtful [?]])

तस्याः समुद्रा अधि वि क्षरन्ति तेन जीवन्ति प्रदिशश्चतस्रः । (ऋ. सं. १-१६४-४२ [as read])

tasyāḥ samudrā adhi vi kṣaranti tena jīvanti pradiśaścatasraḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-164-42 [as read]) samuditā samudro meghaḥ samudrā adhi vikṣaranti varṣanti meghāḥ — the clouds rained: here the word samudra is used in the senses of atmosphere and cloud. Likewise —

महः समुद्रं वरुणस्तिरो दधे धीरा इच्छेकुर्धरुणेष्वारभम् । (ऋ. सं. ७-८७-६ [as read])

mahaḥ samudraṃ varuṇastiro dadhe dhīrā icchekurdharuṇeṣvārabham | (ṛ. saṃ. 7-87-6 [as read])

— in this the word samudra denotes the Āditya. For the word samudra the meanings Āditya, cloud, mass of water are acceptable both by convention and by derivation: in each place the meaning must be stated according to the context. Here, by the maxim yogād rūḍher balīyasī ('convention is stronger than derivation'), samudra means a mass of water."

"The Aśvin deities helped the royal prince Bhujyu — who, with his army, was sinking in the water in the middle of the ocean — to reach, for three days (completely) and nights as well, in ceaseless motion, in their swift ships which have no connection with water, the land of the dry waste that is samudra …

Printed p. 202 (PDF 222; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

… it is also said here that these [chariots] had many wheels and six horses yoked. As the Aśvin deities came with Bhujyu, it is described here that these three persons came safely to the shore in three chariots."

शतपद्भिः — Śatapadbhiḥ — "śatasaṃkhyākaiś cakralakṣaṇaiḥ pādair upetaiḥ": "(with a hundred 'feet', which are wheels) — Sāyaṇa explains that the Aśvin deities' chariots had hundreds of wheels. Śata here, by capacity, is used in the plural sense 'many' — śatāśrātra bahunāma sāmarthyāc chātra bahutve vartate; pāda is the wheel; pādaśabdo 'pi cakrapādavacanaḥ — tricakrapādair ity arthaḥ: the word śata here conveys by capacity the meaning 'many'; the word* pāda* is explained as 'wheel'. Therefore Skandasvāmin explains the word śatapadbhiḥ as 'having three wheels': the chariot has three wheels. He cites the Ṛk which makes this meaning clear —

क्व १ त्री चक्रा त्रिवृतो रथस्य क्व १ त्रयो वन्धुरो ये सनीळाः । कदा योगो वाजिनो रासभस्य येन यज्ञं नासत्योपयाथः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-३४-९ [as read])

kva 1 trī cakrā trivṛto rathasya kva 1 trayo vandhuro ye sanīḷāḥ | kadā yogo vājino rāsabhasya yena yajñaṃ nāsatyopayāthaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-34-9 [as read])

— here it is described that the Aśvin deities' chariot has three wheels."

भुज्युम् — Bhujyum — "the explanation of this word is in the special topics on the third Ṛk of this sūkta."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 4; grammar page, noted briefly)

tisraḥ (the word tri; in the feminine, with jas following, tricaturoḥ striyāṃ tisṛcatasṛ, Pā. 7-2-99 as read [?], tisṛ substitute; it comes with the final accent; by jasi ca, Pā. 7-3-109 as read [?], guṇa would arise, but as the exception ac ṛta uṃ, Pā. 7-2-100 as read [?], raphādeśa [ra] arises; by udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt, Pā. 6-1-174 as read [?], the following ending is accented udātta [in place of the udātta a yaṇ]); kṣapaḥ (kṣapā is a word meaning night, ending in ā, feminine; in the plural kṣapāḥ; the shortening in the Saṃhitā by the Vedic usage; or with śas following, by ato dhātoḥ, Pā. 6-4-140 as read [?], by splitting the rule with ataḥ, the ā is elided even though it is not a root-ending — the form is accomplished through the process itself); triḥ (trīn āvṛttāni, the sense of repetition, dvitricaturbhyaḥ suc, Pā. 5-4-18 as read [?], the suc suffix; the remaining s becomes ru and visarga); ahā (ahāni, so formed: śeś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-1-70 as read [?], elision of śi); ativrajadbhiḥ (ati-kramya vrajantaḥ; vraja "to go" with ati; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; as adupadeśa, the sārvadhātuka is unaccented and the root accent remains; in the compound, the later member's first-member accent by kṛduttarapadaprakṛtisvaratva; instrumental plural). ### Printed p. 203 (PDF 223; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

Grammar page of Ṛk 4, concluded (noted briefly): nāsatyā (the vocative dual; supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], lengthening of the preceding vowel; as it is at the beginning of a pāda, the aṣṭamika nighāta does not apply; the first syllable is accented by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 6-1-198 as read [?]); pataṅgaiḥ (paṭḷ "to go"; pater aṅgac, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?], the suffix aṅgac; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], the last syllable accented; instrumental plural); dhanvan (dhavi "to go"; idito num dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-58 as read [?], num; kaninyuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanidraviṇasarvarṣacitvaribhyaḥ [as printed kanin yuvṛṣi…], Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?], the suffix kanin; the form dhanvan; with the locative ending following, supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], luk); śatapadbhiḥ (śataṃ pādā yeṣām te śatapādaḥ — saṃkhyāsupūrvasya, Pā. 5-4-140 as read [?], the elision of the last part of pāda at the end of the compound; since bha-designation follows by ayasmayādīni chandasi, Pā. 1-4-20 as read [?], the pād → pad by pādaḥ pat, Pā. 6-4-130 as read [?]; or the meaning of pāda — it is to be understood that pad is another word, suited to give that meaning); ṣaḍaśvaiḥ (ṣaṭ aśvāḥ yeṣām te ṣaḍaśvāḥ, a bahuvrīhi; first-member accent by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?]). ‖ 4 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 5

Printed p. 204 (PDF 224; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.5)

अनारम्भणे तदवीरयेथामनास्थाने अग्रभणे समुद्रे । यदश्विना ऊहथुर्भुज्युमस्तं शतारित्रां नावमातस्थिवांसम् ॥ ५ ॥

anārambhaṇe tadavīrayethāmanāsthāne agrabhaṇe samudre | yadaśvinā ūhathurbhujyumastaṃ śatāritrāṃ nāvamātasthivāṃsam ‖ 5 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.5)

अनारम्भणे । तत् । अवीरयेथाम् । अनास्थाने । अग्रभणे । समुद्रे । यत् । अश्विनौ । ऊहथुः । भुज्युम् । अस्तम् । शतऽअरित्राम् । नावम् । आऽतस्थिवांसम् ॥ ५ ॥

anārambhaṇe | tat | avīrayethām | anāsthāne | agrabhaṇe | samudre | yat | aśvinau | ūhathuḥ | bhujyum | astam | śata 'aritrām | nāvam | ā 'tasthivāṃsam ‖ 5 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.5)

हे अश्विनौ अनारम्भण आलम्बनरहिते समुद्रे तत्कर्माऽवीरयेथाम् । विक्रान्तं कृतवन्तौ युवाम् । अनारम्भणस्येव स्पष्टीकरोति । अनास्थाने । आस्थीयतेऽस्मिन्नित्यास्थानो भूप्रदेशः ।

तद्रहिते स्थातुमशक्ये जल इत्यर्थः । अग्रभणे । ग्रहणे । हस्तेन ग्राह्यं शाखादिकमपि यत्र नास्ति तस्मिन्नित्यर्थः । किं पुनस्तत्कर्म । भुज्युं समुद्रे मग्नं शतारित्रां बहुरित्रां । यैः काष्ठैः पार्श्वतो बद्धैर्जलालोडने सति नौः शीघ्रं गच्छति तान्यरित्राणि । ईदृशीं नावमातस्थिवांसमास्थितवन्तमारूढवन्तं कृतास्तं गृहानयैतत् । पितुस्तुग्रस्य गृहं प्रति यदोहथुः । तत्प्रापणमन्यैर्दुःशकं युवां समुद्रमध्ये कृतवन्ताविस्यर्थः ॥ अनारम्भणे । आरभ्यते इत्यारम्भणम् । कृत्यल्युटो बहुलमिति कर्मणि ल्युट् । नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । अवीरयेथाम् । शूर वीर विक्रान्तौ चुरादिरात्मनेपदी । अनास्थानाग्रभणयोः पूर्ववल्लक्ष्यस्वरः । अयं तु विशेषः । ह्यग्रहोर्भ इति भत्वम् । अस्तम् । अस्यतेऽस्मिन् सर्वमित्यस्तं गृहम् । असिहसीत्यादिना तन्प्रत्ययः । शतारित्राम् । रु गतौ । अर्तिलूधूसू...। (पा. ३-२-१८४) इति करण इत्रप्रत्ययः । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥ [grammatical tail partly small type; doubtful words [?]]

he aśvinau anārambhaṇa ālambanarahite samudre tatkarmā 'vīrayethām | vikrāntaṃ kṛtavantau yuvām | anārambhaṇasyeva spaṣṭīkaroti | anāsthāne | āsthīyate 'sminnityāsthāno bhūpradeśaḥ | tadrahite sthātumaśakye jala ityarthaḥ | agrabhaṇe | grahaṇe | hastena grāhyaṃ śākhādikamapi yatra nāsti tasminnityarthaḥ | kiṃ punastatkarma | bhujyuṃ samudre magnaṃ śatāritrāṃ bahuritrāṃ | yaiḥ kāṣṭhaiḥ pārśvato baddhairjalāloḍane sati nauḥ śīghraṃ gacchati tānyaritrāṇi | īdṛśīṃ nāvamātasthivāṃsamāsthitavantamārūḍhavantaṃ kṛtāstaṃ gṛhānayaitat | pitustugrasya gṛhaṃ prati yadohathuḥ | tatprāpaṇamanyairduḥśakaṃ yuvāṃ samudramadhye kṛtavantāvisyarthaḥ ‖ anārambhaṇe | ārabhyate ityārambhaṇam | kṛtyalyuṭo bahulamiti karmaṇi lyuṭ | nañsubhyāmityuttarapadāntodāttatvam | avīrayethām | śūra vīra vikrāntau curādirātmanepadī | anāsthānāgrabhaṇayoḥ pūrvavallakṣyasvaraḥ | ayaṃ tu viśeṣaḥ | hṛgrahorbha iti bhatvam | astam | asyate 'smin sarvamityastaṃ gṛham | asihasītyādinā tanpratyayaḥ | śatāritrām | ru gatau | artilūdhūsū...| (pā. 3-2-184) iti karaṇa itrapratyayaḥ | bahuvrīhau pūrvapadaprakṛtisvaratvam ‖ [grammatical tail partly small type; doubtful words [?]]

Sense (mine): "O Aśvins, in the sea, anārambhaṇe, which has nothing to hold on to, you did that deed (avīrayethām): you did a valiant act. He makes the 'no-support' plain: anāsthāne — āsthāna is a place of the earth where one stands: where there is none, i.e. in water where one cannot stand. Agrabhaṇe — in a place where there is not even a branch or the like that may be grasped by the hand. And what is that deed? [That] you carried Bhujyu, sunk in the sea, śatāritrām — [in a ship] with many oars (aritra; the pieces of wood fixed at the sides by which, when they stir the water, the ship goes quickly are called aritras); such a ship, he having mounted it, asta, to the house — to the house of his father Tugra, you carried; this feat, difficult for others, you two did in the middle of the sea."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he aśvinau — O Aśvin deities; śatāritrām — furnished with a hundred oars; nāvam — in the ship; ātasthivāṃsam — seated; bhujyum — Bhujyu; astam — to (his father's) house; ūhathuḥ yat — that you carried; tat — that great feat; anārambhaṇe — [in a place] without support; anāsthāne — without a place to stand; agrabhaṇe — where there is nothing to grasp; samudre — in the ocean; avīrayethām — you accomplished."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“You accomplished the great feat of carrying Bhujyu in a ship with a hundred oars to his father’s house. You did this feat in the sea, where there is no support, no place to stand, no object to lay hold of.”

English Translation (as printed)

> This exploit you achieved, As’wins, in the ocean where there is nothing to give support, nothing to rest upon, nothing to cling to, that you brought Bhujyu, sailing in a hundred-oared ship, to his father’s house.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अनास्थाने — Anāsthāne — “āsthīyate ’smin ity āsthāno bhūpradeśaḥ | tadrahite sthātum aśakye jale”: “since the land is favourable to creatures for standing comfortably, it has the name āsthāna. The ocean, which is the opposite of it, is called anāsthāna. The idea is that one cannot stand on a ship [sic: in the water]. Likewise the ocean provides no support to those who come to it. In the sea, means of protection such as creepers (by which one may be saved from sinking) — that is, strong trees, ropes etc., fit to hold on to so as not to sink in the water — are not there to be held (grahaṇa) or to be seized; hence it is called agrahaṇa. So the act the Aśvin deities performed when protecting Bhujyu, who was sinking in the unsupported, ungraspable ocean, is a deed of extreme valour, which only very brave persons perform.”

शतारित्राम् — Śatāritrām — “bahvaritrām — [a ship] with many oars: the pieces of wood fixed to the sides of a ship by which it is made to move forward in the water are called aritra. They say it is ‘a paddle’ [huṭṭu]. The meaning is that the ship of the Aśvin deities, to go very swiftly in the water, had a hundred paddles — the instruments for rowing [it].”

अस्तम् — Astam — “gṛhanāmaitat | gayaḥ kṣayaḥ”: “since the word asta is read among the two [as read: iṣṭa… the ‘twenty-two’] names of house, ‘gaya’, ‘kṣaya’ and so on (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), asta means house. The Aśvin deities brought Bhujyu and set him down at the house of his father King Tugra: this is the meaning. The purport is that the act of rescuing a man sinking in mid-ocean, which no one else can perform, is praise-worthy, and the Aśvin deities performed it.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 5; grammar page, noted briefly)

anārambhaṇe (ārabhyate iti ārambhaṇam; rabha “to begin”, lyuṭ in the passive by kṛtyalyuṭo bahulam, Pā. 3-3-113 as read [?]; anādeśa for yu by yuvor anākau, Pā. 7-1-1 as read [?]; num by rabherśabdaliṭoḥ, Pā. 7-1-63 as read [?]; na vidyate ārambhaṇaṃ yasya — anārambhaṇa; the locative; nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], the accent on the last syllable of the later member); avīrayethām (śūra vīra vikrāntau, curādi, ātmanepada; satyāpāśa…, Pā. 3-1-25 as read [?], ṇic in the sense of the root itself; laṅ 2nd dual āthām; śap; ato yeyaḥ [āto ṅitaḥ, Pā. 7-2-81 as read [?]], iya for the ā; guṇa of the ṇic; ay; the augment aṭ; nighāta, since tiṅ after tat, Pā. 8-1-28 as read [?]); anāsthāne (ṣṭhā “to cease from motion”; lyuṭ in the passive as before; in the nañ-compound the later member's accent is final); agrabhaṇe (graha "to take", upādāne; the process and the accent as before; hṛgrahor bhaś chandasi, Pā. 8-2-32 as read [?], bha for the h of the root); astam (asyate 'smin sarvam iti astaṃ gṛham; tan by asihasi…, Uṇ. 3-?? as read [?]; as it is nit the first syllable accented by jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?]; accusative singular).

Printed p. 207 (PDF 227; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

Grammar page of Ṛk 5, concluded (noted briefly): śatāritrām (ṛ "to go"; artilūdhūsūkhanasahacarata itraḥ, Pā. 3-2-184 as read [?], the suffix itra in the instrumental sense; guṇa of the root's ṛ by sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ; śatāni aritrāṇi yasyāḥ sā śatāritrā, accusative śatāritrām; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?], first-member accent); ātasthivāṃsam (ṣṭhā "to cease from motion"; liṭ by liṭaḥ kvasu; kvasu by kvasuś ca, Pā. 3-2-107 as read [?]; ṭit … as the root is doubled, ṭa for the tha of the reduplication; kharpūrvāḥ khayaḥ, Pā. 7-4-61 as read [?]; the augment iṭ for vasu by vasvekājāḍ ghasām, Pā. 7-2-67 as read [?] [as printed "vasvekājāḍ…"]; āto lopa iṭi ca, Pā. 6-4-64 as read [?], elision of the root's ā; the form tasthivas; accusative singular, ā ṣaḍhasya… lengthening of the penultimate by upadhādīrgha, as read; num augment, as it is ugit; anusvāra; accent from the suffix). ‖ 5 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 6

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.6)

यमश्विना ददथुः श्वेतमश्वमघाश्वाय शश्वदित्स्वस्ति । तद्वां दात्रं महि कीर्तेन्यं भूत्पैद्वो वाजी सदमिद्धव्यो अर्यः ॥ ६ ॥

yamaśvinā dadathuḥ śvetamaśvamaghāśvāya śaśvaditsvasti | tadvāṃ dātraṃ mahi kīrtenyaṃ bhūtpaidvo vājī sadamiddhavyo aryaḥ ‖ 6 ‖

Printed p. 208 (PDF 228; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.6)

यम् । अश्विना । ददथुः । श्वेतम् । अश्वम् । अघाश्वाय । शश्वत् । इत् । स्वस्ति । तत् । वाम् । दात्रम् । महि । कीर्तेन्यम् । भूत् । पैद्वः । वाजी । सदम् । इत् । हव्यः । अर्यः ॥ ६ ॥

yam | aśvinā | dadathuḥ | śvetam | aśvam | aghāśvāya | śaśvat | it | svasti | tat | vām | dātram | mahi | kīrtenyam | bhūt | paidvaḥ | vājī | sadam | it | havyaḥ | aryaḥ ‖ 6 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.6)

अत्रेदमाख्यायते । पेदुर्नाम कश्चित्स चाश्विनौ तुष्टाव । तस्मै प्रीतौ कंचिच्छ्वेतवर्णमश्वं दत्तवन्तौ । स चाश्वस्तस्य पौत्रेऽद्य [?] जयं चकारेति । एतदत्र प्रतिपाद्यते । हे अश्विनौ युवामघाश्वायाहन्तव्याश्वाय पेदुनाम्ने राजर्षये यं श्वेतवर्णमश्वं ददथुः । दत्तवन्तौ । सोऽश्वस्तस्मै स्वस्ति जयलक्षणं मङ्गलं शश्वदित् नित्यमेव चकार । वां युवयोस्तद्दात्रं दानं महि महदतिगम्भीरम् । अत एव कीर्तेन्यं सर्वैः कीर्तनीयं प्रशस्यं भूत् । अभूत् । तस्मात्पैद्वः पेदोः सम्बन्धी पतनशीलः शीघ्रगामी वार्यः शत्रूणां प्रेरयिता युद्धेषु प्रेरयितव्यो वा वाजी

वेजनवानश्वः सदमित् सदैव हव्योऽस्माभिराह्वातव्यः ॥ [grammatical tail: dātram — dā "to give", dātrañ (tran), dāpā… Uṇ.? ; mahi — mah "to honour", in, sarvadhātubhya in, itīn; kīrtenyam — kīrt "to praise", tenyāyāḥ… kṛtyārthe tavaikenkenyatvanaḥ (Pā. 3-4-14 as read [?]) — kenyat; bhūt — bhū, luṅ, bahulaṃ chandasy amāṅyoge 'pi, no augment; paidvaḥ — pedoḥ sambandhī, tasyedam, añ, chandaso varṇalopaḥ; havyaḥ — hvayati, ceyo yadiha yat; saṃprasāraṇa; aryaḥ — ṛ "to go", āśūṃ yādayaś ca, Uṇ.; ṇyat…] [small type; read letter by letter; words marked [?] doubtful]

atredamākhyāyate | pedurnāma kaścitsa cāśvinau tuṣṭāva | tasmai prītau kaṃcicchvetavarṇamaśvaṃ dattavantau | sa cāśvastasya pautre 'dya [?] jayaṃ cakāreti | etadatra pratipādyate | he aśvinau yuvāmaghāśvāyāhantavyāśvāya pedunāmne rājarṣaye yaṃ śvetavarṇamaśvaṃ dadathuḥ | dattavantau | so 'śvastasmai svasti jayalakṣaṇaṃ maṅgalaṃ śaśvadit nityameva cakāra | vāṃ yuvayostaddātraṃ dānaṃ mahi mahadatigambhīram | ata eva kīrtenyaṃ sarvaiḥ kīrtanīyaṃ praśasyaṃ bhūt | abhūt | tasmātpaidvaḥ pedoḥ sambandhī patanaśīlaḥ śīghragāmī vāryaḥ śatrūṇāṃ prerayitā yuddheṣu prerayitavyo vā vājī vejanavānaśvaḥ sadamit sadaiva havyo 'smābhirāhvātavyaḥ ‖ [grammatical tail: dātram — dā "to give", dātrañ (tran), dāpā… Uṇ.? ; mahi — mah "to honour", in, sarvadhātubhya in, itīn; kīrtenyam — kīrt "to praise", tenyāyāḥ… kṛtyārthe tavaikenkenyatvanaḥ (Pā. 3-4-14 as read [?]) — kenyat; bhūt — bhū, luṅ, bahulaṃ chandasy amāṅyoge 'pi, no augment; paidvaḥ — pedoḥ sambandhī, tasyedam, añ, chandaso varṇalopaḥ; havyaḥ — hvayati, ceyo yadiha yat; saṃprasāraṇa; aryaḥ — ṛ "to go", āśūṃ yādayaś ca, Uṇ.; ṇyat…] [small type; read letter by letter; words marked [?] doubtful]

Sense (mine): "Here this is told. A certain man named Pedu praised the Aśvins; they, pleased, gave him a white horse. That horse made victory for his [son's/grandson's — doubtful [?]] … This is here set forth. O Aśvins, the white horse which you two gave to the royal sage named Pedu, aghāśvāya — 'whose horses are not to be killed' — that horse made for him, always (śaśvad it), svasti, welfare in the form of victory. That gift (dātram) of you two is mahi, great, very profound; therefore kīrtenyam, to be praised by all, it has become. Therefore, paidvaḥ — the horse of Pedu, falling [swooping], swift-going, aryaḥ — the impeller of enemies, or to be impelled in battles, vājī — the horse that has speed — is sadam it, always, havyaḥ, to be invoked by us."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (on p. 209)

Printed p. 209 (PDF 229; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …"; footer signature mark "IX 14")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he aśvinā — O Aśvin deities; aghāśvāya — to him whose horses are indestructible, to the royal sage named Pedu; yam — which; śvetam aśvam — white horse; dadathuḥ — you gave; saḥ aśvaḥ — that horse; svasti — good (in the form of victory); śaśvat it — always (made); vām — your; tat dātram — that gift; mahi — great (is, therefore); kīrtenyam — praised by all; bhūt — it has become; paidvaḥ — belonging to Pedu (named Pedu); āryaḥ — the destroyer of enemies; vājī — that horse; sadamit — always; havyaḥ — is to be invoked by us."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, the white horse that you gave to the king named Pedu, whose horses are indestructible, always made for him welfare. Your gift is great and worthy of being praised. That horse of Pedu is a destroyer of enemies. We should invoke it always."

English Translation (as printed)

> As'wins, the white horse you gave to Pedu, whose horses were indestructible, was ever to him success ; that, your precious gift, is always to be celebrated ; the horse of Pedu, the scatterer (of enemies) is always to be invoked.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अघाश्वाय — Aghāśvāya — "ahantavyāśvāya pedunāmne rājarṣaye": "taking it to mean 'to the royal sage named Pedu, whose horses cannot be struck down by anyone in battles', for the word paidvaḥ [Sāyaṇa] explains: 'pedoḥ sambandhī patanaśīlaḥ śīghragāmī vā' — 'belonging to Pedu, swift-moving by nature'. Skandasvāmin:

> अघाश्वो नाम राजा युयुत्सुरात्मनोऽश्वं अश्विनौ यदोचे सतेतं चाविनाशं । तस्मै अश्विनौ बलवन्तमात्यन्तवेगिनं जयकरं सर्वत्राप्रतिहतगमनमश्वं सतेतं चाविनाशं ददथुरिति । तदेतदिहोच्यते ॥ [small type, partly doubtful [?]]
>
> aghāśvo nāma rājā yuyutsurātmano 'śvaṃ aśvinau yadoce satetaṃ cāvināśaṃ | tasmai aśvinau balavantamātyantaveginaṃ jayakaraṃ sarvatrāpratihatagamanamaśvaṃ satetaṃ cāvināśaṃ dadathuriti | tadetadihocyate ॥ [small type, partly doubtful [?]]

— 'a king named Aghāśva, desiring to fight, asked the Aśvins for a horse for himself; to him the Aśvins gave a horse, strong, very swift, victory-giving, whose course was unobstructed everywhere, ever-lasting and imperishable' — this is what is said here. The king named Aghāśva, who wished to fight, being strong though … [the Kannada continues: 'conducting himself with speed, going everywhere without hindrance, procuring victory']

Printed p. 210 (PDF 230; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116") [Special Topics of Ṛk 6, continued]

"… [the king Aghāśva, being] always without suffering defeat, prayed to the Aśvin deities: 'give me a horse'. They, in accordance with his prayer, gave him a white horse of his liking. — thus the story is told. For the word aghāśva the name of the king, and for the word paidva — since it is read among the names of horse (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) — 'paidvaḥ aśvanāmaitat: paidvaḥ means the horse [Pedu's]' — so he explains it. Sāyaṇa: 'pedur nāma kaścit sa cāśvinau tuṣṭāva tasmai prītau kiñcit śvetavarṇam aśvaṃ dattavantau' — a man named Pedu praised the Aśvin deities; they, pleased with his praise, gave him a white horse: since the two [commentators] explain thus, there is a difference in the explanation of the words pedu and aghāśva."

आर्यः — Āryaḥ — "śatrūṇāṃ prerayitā yuddheṣu prerayitavyo vā": "he who urges enemies in wars, or who is to be urged on in battles: giving courage, i.e. producing enthusiasm for fighting — thus Sāyaṇa explains. Skandasvāmin, since the word ārya is stated among the names of īśvara (lord) (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]):

प्र केतुना बृहता यात्यग्निरा रोदसी वृषभो रोरवीति । दिवश्चिदन्ताँ उपमाँ उदानळपामुपस्थे महिषो ववर्ध ॥ [as read in the print? — the print here gives:] प्र कैत्वे अद्य शिशिविष्ट नामार्यः शंसामि वयुनानि विद्वान् । (ऋ. सं. २-१००-? [?])

pra ketunā bṛhatā yātyagnirā rodasī vṛṣabho roravīti | divaścidantā~ upamā~ udānaḷapāmupasthe mahiṣo vavardha ‖ [as read in the print? — the print here gives:] pra kaitve adya śiśiviṣṭa nāmāryaḥ śaṃsāmi vayunāni vidvān | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-100-? [?])

— the word āryaḥ is explained as īśvara, 'lord': he explains that, by reason of this horse's going being unobstructed everywhere, being the lord over horses that move without obstruction at speed."

सदमित् — Sadamit — "sadam + it, sadaiva: 'always'. The word sadam is an indeclinable (nipāta); it is also an indeclinable. Nipāta — a word which, although it has one form like an avyaya, is used in many meanings. The Nirukta-writer —

अथ ये प्रवृत्तेऽर्थे अमिताक्षरेषु ग्रन्थेषु वाक्यपूरणा आगच्छन्ति पदपूरणास्ते मिताक्षरेष्वनर्थकाः कमिमृदिति ॥ (नि. १-४ [as read])

atha ye pravṛtte 'rthe amitākṣareṣu grantheṣu vākyapūraṇā āgacchanti padapūraṇāste mitākṣareṣvanarthakāḥ kamimṛditi ‖ (ni. 1-4 [as read])

— the words kam, īm, it, u serve in large prose works for completing a sentence; in small verse works they are padding of the line. Though they are used for filling out a sentence or a line, they are 'meaningless' (anarthaka) since they do not convey the sense that is expressed in the work. For he says they have no definite sense. For an example of the particle kam

Printed p. 211 (PDF 231; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

मुञ्चामि त्वा हविषा जीवनाय कमज्ञातयक्ष्मादुत राजयक्ष्मात् । (ऋ. सं. १०-१६१-१ [as read])

muñcāmi tvā haviṣā jīvanāya kamajñātayakṣmāduta rājayakṣmāt | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-161-1 [as read])

and, for the particle īm, the Ṛk

विमेनं सृजता सुखे मन्दिमिन्द्राय मन्दिने । (ऋ. सं. १-८-? [as read; [?]])

vimenaṃ sṛjatā sukhe mandimindrāya mandine | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-8-? [as read; [?]]) and, for the particle it,

तमिद्वर्धन्तु नो गिरो वत्सं संशिश्वरीरिव । (ऋ. सं. ८-१०-१४ [as read; [?]]) tamidvardhantu no giro vatsaṃ saṃśiśvarīriva | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-10-14 [as read; [?]]) and, for the particle u,

अयमु ते समतसि कपोत इव गर्भधिम् । (ऋ. सं. १-३०-४ [as read])

ayamu te samatasi kapota iva garbhadhim | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-30-4 [as read])

he gives these Ṛks."

वाजी — Vājī — "vegavān": "since the word vāji is read among the twenty-six [as read] names for horse (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) the meaning is 'horse'; because it moves with speed it is famed as vājī. The Aśvin deities, to fulfil the wish of the king who did austerities or praised them, gave him a horse; the greatness and the praiseworthiness of this gift of a horse is expressed by the words dātraṃ mahi kīrtenyam."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 6; grammar page, noted briefly)

aśvinā (supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], lengthening of the preceding vowel on the ending); dadathuḥ (ḍudāñ "to give"; liṭ 2nd dual, athus; doubling of the root; since yat (yam) precedes, nighāta is prevented by yadvṛttān nityam, Pā. 8-1-66 as read [?], and the suffix accent remains on the first syllable); aśvam (aśū "to pervade"; kvan by aśipruṣikṛṣy…, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?]; being nit, first-syllable accent; accusative singular).

Printed p. 212 (PDF 232; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

Grammar page of Ṛk 6, continued: aghāśvāya (aghāḥ aśvā yasya saḥ aghāśvaḥ, a bahuvrīhi; first-member accent by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?]); dātram (ḍudāñ "to give"; the Uṇādi suffix tra); mahi (mah "to honour"; sarvadhātubhya in, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?], suffix in; jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent); kīrtenyam (kṛtī "to praise"; kṛtyārthe tavaikenkenyatvanaḥ, Pā. 3-4-14 as read [?], kenya suffix; ūṭ id dyādoḥ, Pā. 6-1-?? as read [?], i for the ṛ of the root; hali ca, Pā. 8-2-77 as read [?], lengthening of the penultimate r-ending; by the first-syllable accent of the suffix the e is udātta); bhūt (bhū "to be", luṅ 3rd singular tip; elision of i; gātisthāghupābhūbhyaḥ sicaḥ…, Pā. 2-4-77 as read [?], elision of sic; bahulaṃ chandasy amāṅyoge 'pi, Pā. 6-4-75 as read [?], the augment aṭ is not applied; nighāta); paidvaḥ (pedoḥ sambandhī paidvaḥ; tasyedam, Pā. 4-3-120 as read [?], añ; in the Veda varṇavyatyaya; final accent from the suffix); havyaḥ (hveñ "to compete, to call"; aco yat, Pā. 3-1-97 as read [?], yat; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 6-1-34 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa of the root; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; guṇa of u by sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ; oḥ, avādeśa by dhātos tannimittasyaiva, Pā. 6-1-80 as read [?]; yato 'nāvaḥ, Pā. 6-1-213 as read [?], first-syllable accent); aryaḥ (ṛ "to go"; āśūṃ yādayaś ca, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?], yat; guṇa of the ṛ with raparatva; vyatyayo bahulam, the last syllable accented). ‖ 6 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 7

Printed p. 213 (PDF 233; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.7)

युवं नरा स्तुवते पज्रियाय कक्षीवते अरदतं पुरंधिम् । कारोतराच्छफादश्वस्य वृष्णः शतं कुम्भाँ असिञ्चतं सुरायाः ॥ ७ ॥

yuvaṃ narā stuvate pajriyāya kakṣīvate aradataṃ puraṃdhim |
kārotarācchaphādaśvasya vṛṣṇaḥ śataṃ kumbhā~ asiñcataṃ surāyāḥ ‖ 7 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.7)

युवम् । नरा । स्तुवते । पज्रियाय । कक्षीवते । अरदतम् । पुरम्ऽधिम् । कारोतरात् । शफात् । अश्वस्य । वृष्णः । शतम् । कुम्भान् । असिञ्चतम् । सुरायाः ॥ ७ ॥

yuvam | narā | stuvate | pajriyāya | kakṣīvate | aradatam | puram 'dhim | kārotarāt | śaphāt | aśvasya | vṛṣṇaḥ | śatam | kumbhān | asiñcatam | surāyāḥ ‖ 7 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.7)

अत्रेयमाख्यायिका । कक्षीवानृषिः पुरा कंसाशिरोहितज्ञानः सन् ज्ञानार्थमश्विनौ तुष्टाव । तस्मा अश्विनौ प्रभूतां धियं बुद्धिं दत्तवन्तौ । इति तदाह । हे नरा नेतारावश्विना युवं युवां पज्रियाय । पज्रा इत्यङ्गिरसामाख्या । पज्रा वाङ्गिरस इत्यामनात् । तेषां कुले जाताय कक्षीवते । कक्ष्या रज्जू रश्मयस्तद्वते । तत्कक्षसंज्ञाय स्तुवते युवयोः स्तुतिं कुर्वते मह्यं पुरंधिं प्रभूतां धियं बुद्धिमरदतम् । व्यलिखितम् । यथा सर्वार्थगोचरा भवति तथा कृतवन्तावित्यर्थः । अपि च कारोतरात् । कारोतरो नाम वैदलक्षम् [?] वेंष्टितो भाजनविशेषो यस्मिन्सुरायाः स्रावणं क्रियते । लुप्तोपमम् । कारोतरादिव सुरायाः संपादिकास्तां स्रावयन्ति एवमेव युवां वृष्णः सेचनसमर्थस्य युष्मदीयस्याश्वस्य शफात् खुरात् सुरायाः शतं कुम्भानसंख्यातान्सुराघटानसिञ्चतम् । आपूरयतम् । यद्वा । सिञ्चतिः पूरणार्थः । कारोतरस्थानीयाद्युष्मदीयाश्वस्य खुराद्यो सुरा प्रवहति तयासंख्यातान् घटानसिञ्चतम् । आपूरयतम् । ये जनाः सौत्रामण्यादिकर्मणि युष्मद्गाग्यां [?] सुरां योचन्ते तेषामित्यर्थः ॥ [grammatical tail follows: stuvate — ṣṭuñ "to praise", śatṛ; adādi śap luk, śatur anumaḥ…; pajriyāya — pajra + chaikaḥ ghac [as printed]; kakṣīvate — asandīvad… matup, kṣīvat, nipātāt, kakṣyā saṃprasāraṇa, vatvam ca; aradatam — rad "to scratch" [vilekhane]; purandhim — purandhir bahudhīr iti yāskaḥ, Ni. 6-13 as read [?], pṛṣodarādi — purandhi formation; or puraṃ pūrayitavyaṃ sarvaviṣayajātam asyāṃ dhīyate; kārotarāt…; asiñcatam — ṣiciṅ "to sprinkle"…] [small type; marked [?] where doubtful]

atreyamākhyāyikā | kakṣīvānṛṣiḥ purā kaṃsāśirohitajñānaḥ san jñānārthamaśvinau tuṣṭāva | tasmā aśvinau prabhūtāṃ dhiyaṃ buddhiṃ dattavantau | iti tadāha | he narā netārāvaśvinā yuvaṃ yuvāṃ pajriyāya | pajrā ityaṅgirasāmākhyā | pajrā vāṅgirasa ityāmanāt | teṣāṃ kule jātāya kakṣīvate | kakṣyā rajjū raśmayastadvate | tatkakṣasaṃjñāya stuvate yuvayoḥ stutiṃ kurvate mahyaṃ puraṃdhiṃ prabhūtāṃ dhiyaṃ buddhimaradatam | vyalikhitam | yathā sarvārthagocarā bhavati tathā kṛtavantāvityarthaḥ | api ca kārotarāt | kārotaro nāma vaidalakṣam [?] rveṣṭito bhājanaviśeṣo yasminsurāyāḥ srāvaṇaṃ kriyate | luptopamam | kārotarādiva surāyāḥ saṃpādikāstāṃ srāvayanti evameva yuvāṃ vṛṣṇaḥ secanasamarthasya yuṣmadīyasyāśvasya śaphāt khurāt surāyāḥ śataṃ kumbhānasaṃkhyātānsurāghaṭānasiñcatam | āpūrayatam | yadvā | siñcatiḥ pūraṇārthaḥ | kārotarasthānīyādyuṣmadīyāśvasya khurādyo surā pravahati tayāsaṃkhyātān ghaṭānasiñcatam | āpūrayatam | ye janāḥ sautrāmaṇyādikarmaṇi yuṣmadgāgyāṃ [?] surāṃ yocante teṣāmityarthaḥ ‖ [grammatical tail follows: stuvate — ṣṭuñ "to praise", śatṛ; adādi śap luk, śatur anumaḥ…; pajriyāya — pajra + chaikaḥ ghac [as printed]; kakṣīvate — asandīvad… matup, kṣīvat, nipātāt, kakṣyā saṃprasāraṇa, vatvam ca; aradatam — rad "to scratch" [vilekhane]; purandhim — purandhir bahudhīr iti yāskaḥ, Ni. 6-13 as read [?], pṛṣodarādi — purandhi formation; or puraṃ pūrayitavyaṃ sarvaviṣayajātam asyāṃ dhīyate; kārotarāt…; asiñcatam — ṣiciṅ "to sprinkle"…] [small type; marked [?] where doubtful]

Sense (mine): “Here this story. The ṛṣi Kakṣīvān, long ago, … [the text is doubtful here: kaṃsāśirohitajñānaḥ [?]] praised the Aśvins for knowledge; to him the Aśvins gave abundant dhī, understanding. This is said. O leaders, Aśvins, you, to the praiser pajriyāya — pajrāḥ is a name for the Aṅgirases (‘pajrā vāṅgirasaḥ’) — born in their family, kakṣīvate, to Kakṣīvān (kakṣyā = rope, rays: he who has them: that is, his name), purandhim — abundant understanding, aradatam, you ‘scratched out’ [i.e. opened]: you so made [his understanding] that it is capable of grasping all objects. And further: kārotarāt — a kārotara is a particular vessel [covered with a strainer(?)] in which the filtering of spirit (surā) is done. As the makers of spirit let it flow down from the kārotara, thus you two asiñcatam, filled, a hundred kumbhān, jars, of surā, from the śapha, hoof, of your … vṛṣṇaḥ, vigorous, horse. Or: the root sic has the sense of ‘to fill’: with the surā that streams from the hoof of your horse, standing in the place of the kārotara, you filled uncounted jars, [for] the people who, in the Sautrāmaṇī and other rites, beg spirit of you.”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“narā — O leaders, Aśvin deities; yuvam — you two; pajriyāya — born in the family of the Aṅgirases; stuvate — to the one who praises you (who has hidden knowledge); kakṣīvate — to Kakṣīvān by name (to me); purandhim — abundant understanding; aradatam — you gave; kārotarāt — as spirit is made to flow in a vessel called kārotara; vṛṣṇaḥ — capable of sprinkling; aśvasya — of your horse; śaphāt — from the hoof; surāyāḥ — of spirit; śatam kumbhān — a hundred (many) jars (for those who offer the Sautrāmaṇī and the like); asiñcatam — you filled.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Aśvin deities, who lead men on the right path, to me, Kakṣīvān, born in the family of the Aṅgirases, who praise you (and whose knowledge was hidden), you gave the unfolding of understanding. From the hoof of your horse, which can sprinkle, as spirit is poured out in the vessel called kārotara, you filled a hundred jars with spirit (for those who offer the Sautrāmaṇī and the like).”

Printed p. 214 (PDF 234; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

English Translation (as printed)

> You gave leaders (of sacrifice), to Kakshivat, of the race of Pajra various knowledge ; you filled from the hoof of your vigorous steed, as if from a cask, a hundred jars of wine.

Printed p. 215 (PDF 235; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

नरा — Narā — “netārau aśvinau”: “the Aśvin deities who urge the understanding along the right path — so Sāyaṇa; Skandasvāmin explains narā as ‘manuṣyākārau manuṣyāṇām ākāra iva ākāro yayoḥ’ — those who have the form of men.”

पज्रियाय कक्षीवते — Pajriyāya kakṣīvate — "pajrā ity aṅgirasām ākhyā | pajrā vāṅgirasa ity āmnānāt | teṣāṃ kule jātāya": "pajrā is a name of the Aṅgirases, as the śruti says 'pajrā vā aṅgirasaḥ'; the one born in their family — so Sāyaṇa explains. Skandasvāmin: though pājaḥ is read among the names of strength in the Nirukta (Ni. 2-9 as read [?]), the word pājas here is a name of food; therefore pajra is 'he whose is [the food] in the form of the oblation (havis)': 'for stuvate, yajate: one who prepares food in the form of oblation to offer to the deities, and praises' — [so pajriya is] the one who praises or sacrifices'; he explains in one manner; and —

> अथवा प्रजा अङ्गिरस उच्यन्ते । तेषामपत्यभूतः पज्रियः । पौराणिका हि कक्षीवन्तमाङ्गिरसं स्मरन्ति । एवं ह्याहुः — उशिजो वृवदुक्थश्च ऋषिर्दीर्घतमास्तथा । कक्षीवाँस्त्र्यस्त्रिंशत्स्मृता ह्यङ्गिरसां वराः ॥ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]] इति । एवमाङ्गिरसां अपत्यं त्रयस्त्रिंशत्तमः कक्षीवान् । तस्मै कक्षीवते । मह्यमेवेत्यर्थः ॥
>
> athavā prajā aṅgirasa ucyante | teṣāmapatyabhūtaḥ pajriyaḥ | paurāṇikā hi kakṣīvantamāṅgirasaṃ smaranti | evaṃ hyāhuḥ — uśijo vṛvadukthaśca ṛṣirdīrghatamāstathā | kakṣīvā~stryastriṃśatsmṛtā hyaṅgirasāṃ varāḥ ‖ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]] iti | evamāṅgirasāṃ apatyaṃ trayastriṃśattamaḥ kakṣīvān | tasmai kakṣīvate | mahyamevetyarthaḥ ‖

— 'Or: the Aṅgirases are called prajāḥ; the one who is their offspring is pajriya. The Purāṇa-writers remember Kakṣīvān as an Aṅgirasa; thus they say: "Uśija, Vṛvadukthā [sic in the print: vṛvaduktha], the ṛṣi Dīrghatamas, and Kakṣīvān — these are remembered as the thirty-three chiefs of the Aṅgirases." So Kakṣīvān is the thirty-third in the line of the Aṅgirasa descendants. To that Kakṣīvān: that is, to me, is the meaning.' The Kannada: 'those born in the family of the Aṅgirasa ṛṣis are famed as pajrās. Those born in their family are called pajriyas. The Purāṇa-writers say that the ṛṣi Kakṣīvān, the seer of the mantras of this sūkta, was born in the line of these Aṅgirasa ṛṣis. Among those who are well-known in the Aṅgirasa line — Uśija, Vṛvaduktha, Dīrghatamas, Kakṣīvān, — thirty-three persons — this Kakṣīvān is the thirty-third. This Kakṣīvān had a great deal of ignorance. To be rid of his ignorance and to obtain the highest knowledge he praised the Aśvin deities. They, pleased with his praise, bestowed on him extraordinary knowledge: so the Itihāsa is explained. Sāyaṇa also tells this story."

कक्षीवते — Kakṣīvate — "kakṣyā nāma rajjū raśmiḥ | tadvate tatkakṣasaṃjñāya": "kakṣyā is the name of the rope that binds the horse; he who has it is kakṣīvān: the meaning of the word kakṣīvān.

Printed p. 216 (PDF 236; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

कारोतरात् शफात् वृष्णः — Kārotarāt śaphāt vṛṣṇaḥ — "kārotaro nāma vaidalacarmaveṣṭito bhājanaviśeṣaḥ yasmin surāyāḥ srāvaṇaṃ kriyate": "a vessel made of well-prepared leather is called a kārotara, because spirit is poured into it. By putting spirit into it it is [the mark] of being pleasing [?]. Taking the word vṛṣṇaḥ in the sense of 'sprinkling' and of 'filling', he explains the meaning: the Aśvin deities caused a hundred jars of spirit, uncounted, to enter, to be filled, merely by the hoof of their horse. Since there is great need of spirit in sacrifices such as the Sautrāmaṇī, the Aśvin deities made spirit easy to obtain for those [sacrificers] — this is his explanation."

"Skandasvāmin tells a story on this matter:

आश्विनौ इतिहासमाचक्षते । अश्विनौ यदृच्छया पर्येटन्तौ पिबन्नुक्रं बालसमूहं ददर्श । स तौ सुरां ययाचे । तस्मै अश्विनौ देवता महाभाग्यात् अश्वशफादुद्धृत्य घटशतं सुरायै ददतुरिति । तदिहोच्यते कारोतराच्चादित्यादिना । कारोतर इति कूपनाम । तस्मादृश्यान्त इह अश्वशफे प्रयुज्यते । अश्वस्य शफादुद्धृत्य मत्तबालकेभ्यः सुरायाः घटशतं दत्तवन्त इत्यर्थः ॥ [small type, partly doubtful [?]]

āśvinau itihāsamācakṣate | aśvinau yadṛcchayā paryeṭantau pibannukraṃ bālasamūhaṃ dadarśa | sa tau surāṃ yayāce | tasmai aśvinau devatā mahābhāgyāt aśvaśaphāduddhṛtya ghaṭaśataṃ surāyai dadaturiti | tadihocyate kārotarāccādityādinā | kārotara iti kūpanāma | tasmādṛśyānta iha aśvaśaphe prayujyate | aśvasya śaphāduddhṛtya mattabālakebhyaḥ surāyāḥ ghaṭaśataṃ dattavanta ityarthaḥ ‖ [small type, partly doubtful [?]]

— 'The Aśvins, wandering at will, saw a group of children drinking spirit. They asked the Aśvins for spirit. The deities Aśvins, by their great power, drew from a horse's hoof a hundred jars of spirit and gave them: this is what is said here: kārotarāt — kārotara is a name of a well; so, in the sense of an example, it is used here for the horse's hoof': they drew from the horse's hoof and gave a hundred jars of spirit to the intoxicated children.' The Kannada: the Aśvin deities, wandering at their own will, saw a group of boys who had been drinking intoxicating drink. The boys asked them 'give us drink'. Then the Aśvin deities, in accordance with the power belonging to their divinity, by their horse's hoof, caused many jars of spirit to be filled — as if by the form of … [reading doubtful [?]] — and gave the drink to those children: thus the Itihāsa is told. And this very matter —

तद्वां नरा शंस्यं पज्रियेण कक्षीवता नासत्या परिज्मन् । शफादश्वस्य वाजिनो जनाय शतं कुम्भाँ असिञ्चतं मधूनाम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-७ [as read])

tadvāṃ narā śaṃsyaṃ pajriyeṇa kakṣīvatā nāsatyā parijman | śaphādaśvasya vājino janāya śataṃ kumbhā~ asiñcataṃ madhūnām ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-7 [as read])

— he cites the Ṛk, saying that this is also stated in the Ṛk." (Note: the print here gives a verse of the same shape as the Ṛk under comment; the reading of its first two pādas — 'tad vāṃ narā śaṃsyaṃ pajriyeṇa kakṣīvatā nāsatyā parijman' — is as printed but is not the standard text of this very Ṛk [Ṛ. 1-116-7]; I give the print and do not correct it from memory.)

पुरंधिम् — Purandhim — "prabhūtāṃ dhiyam: abundant understanding; 'excess of understanding' means to know all subjects well. In this matter Skandasvāmin, under the phrase aradatam purandhim [says] —

Printed p. 217 (PDF 237; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

पुरंधिं बह्वर्थविषयां प्रज्ञाम् । अथवा रदतिः विलेखनार्थ इव । कक्षीवतो बह्वर्थविषयां प्रज्ञां विलिखितवन्तौ जडां सतीं तीक्ष्णीकृतवन्तौ । अतीतानागतवर्तमानसमर्थां सर्वार्थग्रहणसमर्थां च कक्षीवतः प्रज्ञां कृतवन्तौ स्थ इत्यर्थः । तदेतत्क्लेशानुयुक्तम् — याभिः परिज्मा तनयस्य मज्मना द्विमाता तूर्षु तरणिर्विभूषति । याभिस्त्रिमन्तुरभवद्विचक्षणस्ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-४ [as read])

puraṃdhiṃ bahvarthaviṣayāṃ prajñām | athavā radatiḥ vilekhanārtha iva | kakṣīvato bahvarthaviṣayāṃ prajñāṃ vilikhitavantau jaḍāṃ satīṃ tīkṣṇīkṛtavantau | atītānāgatavartamānasamarthāṃ sarvārthagrahaṇasamarthāṃ

ca kakṣīvataḥ prajñāṃ kṛtavantau stha ityarthaḥ | tadetatkleśānuyuktam — yābhiḥ parijmā tanayasya majmanā dvimātā tūrṣu taraṇirvibhūṣati | yābhistrimanturabhavadvicakṣaṇastābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-4 [as read])

— 'the root rad has the meaning of "to scratch" elsewhere, but here, because it is used in the sense of "to give", they gave the understanding that moves in many subjects; or, since the meaning of "scratching" is the same for the root rad, the Aśvin deities "scratched" (cleared away) Kakṣīvān's dull intellect, which has many objects, and thereby sharpened it — and he explains the sense: they made the intelligence quick in all the three times, past, present and future'; he cites the Ṛk 1-112-4 [as read] as quoted. In this matter Yāska says 'purandhir bahudhīḥ' (Ni. 6-13 [as read]) — purandhi is 'one who has many understandings'. Or: puraṃ pūrayitavyaṃ sarvaviṣayajātam asyāṃ dhīyate avasthāpyate iti purandhir buddhiḥ — 'what is to be filled up, the whole range of objects, is placed (dhīyate) in it: hence purandhi, understanding'. Yāska, explaining that the word purandhi conveys 'one who has much understanding', cites

अध्वर उक्थे यज्ञे श्रुष्टीभगं नासत्या पुरंधिम् । [as read; doubtful [?]] (ऋ. सं. २-४३-४? [as read])

adhvara ukthe yajñe śruṣṭībhagaṃ nāsatyā puraṃdhim | [as read; doubtful [?]] (ṛ. saṃ. 2-43-4? [as read]) and says (Ni. 6-13) 'purandhiḥ bahudhīḥ'. From this Sāyaṇa explains: understanding that stands firm in all kinds of subjects; or, that which comprises all subjects. Besides this, Yāska has explained the word purandhi in another place —

पुरन्धिर्बहुधीस्तत्कः । पुरन्धिर्भगः पुरस्तात्तस्यान्नादेश इत्येकम् । इन्द्र इत्यपरं स बहुकर्मतमः पुरां च दारयितृतमः । वरुण इत्यपरं तं प्रज्ञया स्तौति ॥ (नि. ६-१३ [as read])

purandhirbahudhīstatkaḥ | purandhirbhagaḥ purastāttasyānnādeśa ityekam | indra ityaparaṃ sa bahukarmatamaḥ purāṃ ca dārayitṛtamaḥ | varuṇa ityaparaṃ taṃ prajñayā stauti ‖ (ni. 6-13 [as read])

— so he explains the word purandhi. "Here purandhi means 'one who has great understanding'. Since all deities have much understanding, who is the deity denoted by the word purandhi? Some say purandhi is Bhaga. Why? In the Ṛk

ता अध्वर उशतो यक्ष्यग्ने श्रुष्टीभगं नासत्या पुरंधिम् । (ऋ. सं. २-४३-४ [as read; [?]])

tā adhvara uśato yakṣyagne śruṣṭībhagaṃ nāsatyā puraṃdhim | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-43-4 [as read; [?]])

— the purandhi standing in that place is an adjective of Bhaga, so some say that purandhi denotes the deity Bhaga. Some say the word purandhi denotes Indra: since dhīḥ is read among the names of karman (Ni. 2-1 as read [?]), purandhi means 'one who does many deeds' — more than other deities, he (Indra) is bahukarmatamaḥ; one who does such brave deeds, [so] the word purandhi denotes Indra. Or 'purāṃ ca dārayitṛtamaḥ' — since Indra destroyed the cities of asuras such as Śambara, some argue that purandhi is Indra. And some say purandhi is Varuṇa; for the word dhī signifies prajñā (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]); because men praise Varuṇa with their intellect (prajñayā) or his intellect pervades, therefore purandhi is Varuṇa — and to establish this matter, they cite

> इमामू षु असुरस्य श्रुतस्य महीं मायां वरुणस्य प्र वोचम् । मानेनेव तस्थिवाँ अन्तरिक्षे वि यो ममे पृथिवीं सूर्येण ॥ (ऋ. सं. ५-८५-५ [as read])
>
> imāmū ṣu asurasya śrutasya mahīṃ māyāṃ varuṇasya pra vocam | māneneva tasthivā~ antarikṣe vi yo mame pṛthivīṃ sūryeṇa ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 5-85-5 [as read])
>
> इमामू नु कवितमस्य मायां महीं देवस्य नकिरा दधर्ष । एकं यदुद्ना न पृणन्त्येनीरासिञ्चन्तीरवनयः समुद्रम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ५-८५-६ [as read])
>
> imāmū nu kavitamasya māyāṃ mahīṃ devasya nakirā dadharṣa | ekaṃ yadudnā na pṛṇantyenīrāsiñcantīravanayaḥ samudram ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 5-85-6 [as read])

— these Ṛks."

Printed p. 219 (PDF 239; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 7; grammar page, noted briefly)

yuvam (the stem yuṣmad; yuvādeśa for the mad part before the dual ending; am for the ending; since bhāṣāyām [= 'in common speech'] aśvādyādeśa is given only for language, the atva does not arise in the Veda; śeṣe lopaḥ, Pā. 7-2-90 as read [?], elision of the d); narā (nī "to lead"; ṛduror ap, Pā. 3-3-57 as read [?], the suffix ap; guṇa of the root; raparatva; in the vocative nighāta by āmantritasya ca; supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], the preceding vowel lengthened, as ekādeśa); stuvate (ṣṭuñ "to praise", adādi; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ, Pā. 2-4-72 as read [?], luk for śap; sārvadhātukam apit, Pā. 1-2-4 as read [?], the ṅit status of the suffix so no guṇa of the root's i [u]; aci śnudhātubhruvāṃ yvoriyaṅuvaṅau, Pā. 6-4-77 as read [?], uvaṅ; dative singular; since there is no num, with a vowel-initial ending following by śatur anumo nadyajādī, Pā. 6-1-173 as read [?], the ending is accented udātta); pajriyāya (in the sense 'born among the pajras', tatra jātaḥ, Pā. 4-3-25 as read [?], the ghac suffix [chaikaḥ]; āyaneyīnīyiyaḥ phaḍhakhachaghāṃ pratyayādīnām, Pā. 7-1-2 as read [?], īya; yasyeti ca, Pā. 6-4-148 as read [?], elision of the a; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent; dative singular); kakṣīvate (asandīvad aṣṭhīvat kakṣīvat kṛṣīvat…, Pā. 8-2-12 as read [?], kakṣīvat is made irregular as a nipāta, hence the word kakṣyā gets saṃprasāraṇa and vatva); aradetam [as printed; = aradatam] (rada "to scratch"; laṅ 2nd dual; tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ, Pā. 3-4-101 as read [?], tam; śap; the augment aṭ; nighāta, since tiṅ follows the accented word); purandhim (purandhir bahudhīḥ — as Yāska says; being in the pṛṣodarādi class the formation of purandhi arises; or puraṃ pūrayitavyaṃ sarvaviṣayajātam asyāṃ dhīyate avasthāpyate iti purandhir buddhiḥ; ḍudhāñ "to hold, to nourish"; karmaṇy adhikaraṇe ca, Pā. 3-3-93 as read [?], ki in the locative sense; ā to lopa iṭi ca, Pā. 6-4-64 as read [?], elision of the root's ā; tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam…

Printed p. 220 (PDF 240; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

… kṛti bahulam, Pā. 6-3-14 as read [?], by the word bahulam here too the aluk; the kṛdutta-final accent; this is only an indication of derivation; it is logical that it belongs to the pṛṣodarādi class); vṛṣṇaḥ (vṛṣu “to sprinkle”; kanin yuvṛṣi…, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?], the suffix kanin; with the genitive singular ending following, ālloponaḥ, Pā. 6-4-134 as read [?], elision of the a of the stem in an; the first-syllable accent); asiñcatam (ṣicir “to flow”, tudādi; laṅ 2nd dual; tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ → tam; tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ, Pā. 3-1-77 as read [?], śa; śemuchādīnām, Pā. 7-1-59 as read [?], num augment; the augment aṭ; nighāta). ‖ 7 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 8

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.8)

हिमेनाग्निं घ्रंसमवारयेथां पितुमतीमूर्जमस्मा अधत्तम् । ऋबीसे अत्रिमश्विनावनीतमुन्निन्यथुः सर्वगणं स्वस्ति ॥ ८ ॥

himenāgniṃ ghraṃsamavārayethāṃ pitumatīmūrjamasmā adhattam | ṛbīse atrimaśvināvanītamunninyathuḥ sarvagaṇaṃ svasti ‖ 8 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.8)

हिमेन । अग्निम् । घ्रंसम् । अवारयेथाम् । पितुऽमतीम् । ऊर्जम् । अस्मै । अधत्तम् । ऋबीसे । अत्रिम् । अश्विना । अवऽनीतम् । उत् । निन्यथुः । सर्वऽगणम् । स्वस्ति ॥ ८ ॥

himena | agnim | ghraṃsam | avārayethām | pitu ’matīm | ūrjam | asmai | adhattam | ṛbīse | atrim | aśvinā | ava ’nītam | ut | ninyathuḥ | sarva ’gaṇam | svasti ‖ 8 ‖

Printed p. 221 (PDF 241; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.8)

अत्रेदमाख्यानम् । अत्रिमृषिमसुराः शतद्वारे पीडायन्त्रगृहे प्रवेश्य तुषाग्निनाबाधिषत । तदानीं तेन ऋषिना स्तुतावश्विनावग्निमुदकेनोपशमय्य तस्मात्पीडागृहादविकलेन्द्रियवर्गं सन्तं निरगमयतामिति । तदेतत्रेत्यादिना प्रतिपाद्यते । हे अश्विना युवां हिमेन हिमवच्छीतेनोदकेन घ्रंसं दीप्यमानमत्रेर्बाधनार्थमसुरैः प्रक्षिप्तं तुषाग्निमवारयेथाम् । युवां निवारितवन्तौ । शीतीकृतवन्तावित्यर्थः । अपि चास्मा असुरपीडया काश्यं प्राप्तायात्रये पितुमतीं । पितुरित्यन्ननाम । अन्नयुक्तामूर्जं बलप्रदं रसात्मकं क्षीरादिकमधत्तम् । पुष्ट्यर्थं प्रायच्छतम् । ऋबीसेऽपगतप्रकाशे पीडायन्त्रगृहेऽवनीतमवाङ्मुखतयासुरैः प्रापितमत्रिं सर्वगणम् । गणः समूहः । सर्वेषामिन्द्रियाणां पुत्रादीनां वा गणेनोपेतं स्वस्ति अविनाशो यथा भवति तथोन्निन्यथुः । तस्मादगृहादुद्गमय्य युवां स्वगृहं प्रापितवन्तौ । यद्वा । हिमेन शीतेन वृष्टयुदकेनाग्निवत्तीक्ष्णं घ्रंसं अहर्नामैतत् । सामर्थ्यात्रिदाघकालीनमहरवारयेथाम् । तस्माद्घर्मात्तीक्ष्णं निवारितवन्तौ । अपि चास्मा अग्नये पितुमतीं चरुपुरोडाशादिलक्षणान्नोपेतामूर्जं बलकरं रसात्मकमुपस्तरणाभिघारात्मकं घृतमधत्तम् । वृष्टयुत्पादनेनाग्नेर्योगार्थं हवींषि निष्पादितवन्तावित्यर्थः । ऋबीसेऽपगततेजस्के पृथिवीद्रव्येऽवनीतोषधीनामुत्पादनायावस्थानीतम् । पार्थिवाग्निना परिपक्वा उदकेन क्लिन्ना ह्योषधिवनस्पतयो विरोहन्ति । अत्रिं हविषामत्तारमोषधिवनस्पत्यादीनां वा एवंविधमग्निं सर्वगणं व्रीहियवाद्योषधिगणोपेतं हे अश्विनौ युवां स्वस्ति अविनाशो यथा भवति तथोन्निन्यथुः । व्रीह्याद्योषधिवनस्पतिरूपेण भूमेरुपरिप्रापितवन्तौ । कारणात्मना पार्थिवाग्नौ वर्तमानं सर्वमोषधिवनस्पत्यादिकमश्विनौ प्रवर्षणेन व्यक्तीकृतवन्तावित्यर्थः । अयं पक्षो यास्केन हिमेनोदकेनेत्यादिनोक्तः । नि. ६-३६ ॥ [grammatical tail: pitumatīm — pitu

"food", matup with the udātta; ṛbīse — ṛbīsam apagatabhāsam … apacitabhāsam apahṛtabhāsam (Ni. 6-?? as read [?]); pṛṣodarādi; atrim — ad "to eat", adeḥ striṇ ca… tri; avanītam — gatir anantaraḥ, the prefix accent; svasti — as "to be", bhāve ktin, chandasy ubhayathā, sārvadhātukatvād asaḥ… bhūbhāvābhāvaḥ]

atredamākhyānam | atrimṛṣimasurāḥ śatadvāre pīḍāyantragṛhe praveśya tuṣāgninābādhiṣata | tadānīṃ tena ṛṣinā stutāvaśvināvagnimudakenopaśamayya tasmātpīḍāgṛhādavikalendriyavargaṃ santaṃ niragamayatāmiti | tadetatretyādinā pratipādyate | he aśvinā yuvāṃ himena himavacchītenodakena ghraṃsaṃ dīpyamānamatrerbādhanārthamasuraiḥ prakṣiptaṃ tuṣāgnimavārayethām | yuvāṃ nivāritavantau | śītīkṛtavantāvityarthaḥ | api cāsmā asurapīḍayā kārśyaṃ prāptāyātraye pitumatīṃ | pituritynannanāma | annayuktāmūrjaṃ balapradaṃ rasātmakaṃ kṣīrādikamadhattam | puṣṭyarthaṃ prāyacchatam | ṛbīse 'pagataprakāśe pīḍāyantragṛhe 'vanītamavāṅmukhatayāsuraiḥ prāpitamatriṃ sarvagaṇam | gaṇaḥ samūhaḥ | sarveṣāmindriyāṇāṃ putrādīnāṃ vā gaṇenopetaṃ svasti avināśo yathā bhavati tathonninyathuḥ | tasmādgṛhādudgamayya yuvāṃ svagṛhaṃ prāpitavantau | yadvā | himena śītena vṛṣṭyudakenāgnivattīkṣṇaṃ ghraṃsaṃ aharnāmaitat | sāmarthyātridāghakālīnamaharavārayethām | tasmāddharmāttīkṣṇaṃ nivāritavantau | api cāsmā agnaye pitumatīṃ carupuroḍāśādilakṣaṇānnopetāmūrjaṃ balakaraṃ rasātmakamupastaraṇābhighārātmakaṃ ghṛtamadhattam | vṛṣṭyutpādanenāgneryogārthaṃ havīṃṣi niṣpāditavantāvityarthaḥ | ṛbīse 'pagatatejaske pṛthivīdravye 'vanītoṣadhīnāmutpādanāyāvasthānītam | pārthivāgninā paripakvā udakena klinnā hyoṣadhivanaspatayo virohanti | atriṃ haviṣāmattāramoṣadhivanaspatyādīnāṃ vā evaṃvidhamagniṃ sarvagaṇaṃ vrīhiyavādyoṣadhigaṇopetaṃ he aśvinau yuvāṃ svasti avināśo yathā bhavati tathonninyathuḥ | vrīhyādyoṣadhivanaspatirūpeṇa bhūmeruparipārāpitavantau | kāraṇātmanā pārthivāgnau vartamānaṃ sarvamoṣadhivanaspatyādikamaśvinau pravarṣaṇena vyaktīkṛtavantāvisyarthaḥ | ayaṃ pakṣo yāskena himenodakenetyādinoktaḥ | ni. 6-36 ‖ [grammatical tail: pitumatīm — pitu "food", matup with the udātta; ṛbīse — ṛbīsam apagatabhāsam … apacitabhāsam apahṛtabhāsam (Ni. 6-?? as read [?]); pṛṣodarādi; atrim — ad "to eat", adeḥ striṇ ca… tri; avanītam — gatir anantaraḥ, the prefix accent; svasti — as "to be", bhāve ktin, chandasy ubhayathā, sārvadhātukatvād asaḥ… bhūbhāvābhāvaḥ]

Sense (mine): "Here this story. The Asuras, having put the ṛṣi Atri into a hundred-doored torture-chamber, hurt him with a fire of husks. Then, Atri having praised the Aśvins, they put out the fire with water and brought him out of that torture-house with all his sense-organs intact: this is what is set forth beginning hima. O Aśvins, with himena, with water cold like snow, you stopped the ghraṃsa, the blazing husk-fire thrown by the Asuras to torment Atri. You stopped it: cooled it. And for this man, emaciated by the Asuras' torment, for Atri, you adhattam, gave, pitumatīm — pitu is a name for food: [an ūrj, strength-giving, sap-natured substance, such as] milk, provided with food — to nourish him. Ṛbīse — in the lightless torture-chamber; avanītam — put in it by the Asuras head downward; Atri sarvagaṇam — gaṇa is a collection; endowed with the whole group of all his organs, or of his sons and so on — you unninyathuḥ, drew out, so that there would be welfare, imperishableness. Having taken him out of that house you brought him to his own house. Or: himena — with the water of rain, cold; ghraṃsa is a name for ‘day’: you kept off the day, sharp as fire, of the hot season — you stopped it, a sharp thing from the heat. And for this Agni (fire), you gave pitumatīm — [the ghee] with food, provided with oblations such as caru and purodāśa; ūrjam — strength-making, sap-natured ghee, in the form of the upastaraṇa and abhighāraṇa [layers of ghee in the sacrifice]; by causing rain you produced oblations for the union with Agni. In the ṛbīsa — the earth-substance from which the splendour is gone — you avanītam, placed, to produce herbs. Herbs and trees, ripened by the earthly fire and moistened by water, grow. O Aśvins, such an Agni — the eater (atri) of oblations, or of herbs, trees and the rest — sarvagaṇam, together with the whole group of herbs such as rice and barley, you brought up, so that there might be imperishableness; as rice and the other herbs and trees, you brought them to the surface of the earth: that is, all that was present in the earthly fire in the form of cause — herbs, trees and the rest — you made manifest by the downpour. This view is stated by Yāska in ‘himenodakena’ (Ni. 6-36 as read [?]).”

Printed p. 222 (PDF 242; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he aśvinā — O Aśvin deities; ghraṃsam — blazing; agnim — fire (sent by the Asuras to harm Atri); himena — with cold water like snow; avārayethām — you put out (and also); asmai — to this (Atri, emaciated by the Asuras’ torment); pitumatīm — endowed with food; ūrjam — strength-giving (milk and the like); adhattam — you gave (for nourishment); ṛbīse — in the torture-pit which was covered with darkness (by the Asuras); avanītam — thrown head down; atrim — Atri; sarvagaṇam — with all his senses [intact]; svasti — without any harm; unninyathuḥ — you raised up (and brought home).”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“You put out with water cold as snow the blazing fire (sent by the Asuras to harm Atri), and gave to Atri, emaciated by the Asuras’ torment, strength-giving milk and the like for nourishment; and you raised up the Atri who had been thrown head downward into the torture-pit of darkness, with all his limbs intact, and brought him home.”

English Translation (as printed)

> You quenched with cold (water) the blazing flames (that encompassed Atri) and supplied him with food-supported strength ; you extricated him, As’wins, from the dark (cavern) into which he had been thrown headlong, and restored him to every kind of welfare.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

हिमेन — Himena — “himavat śītena udakena”: “with water that is cold like snow. Himena vṛṣṭyudakena: with rain-water. Ghraṃsam — dīpyamānam agnim: the burning fire, [which was] sharp and fierce; the word ghraṃsa is stated among the twelve names of day (ahar) (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]), and since the word is also read in the names of ‘day’, Sāyaṇa explains here that the meaning is ‘day in the hot season’. The Asuras seized the ṛṣi named Atri and, to torment him, shut him in a house with many doors, a machine of torture, head downward, and cast him into a fire of husks (the fire of a kiln). By this the ṛṣi Atri, unable to bear the heat of the fire

(his body burning), praised the Aśvin deities; they brought cold water like snow and saved the ṛṣi Atri: the Itihāsa is stated in this Ṛk by these words.

Printed p. 223 (PDF 243; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

And in general: in the hot season, from the heat of the Sun, the days are made to burn with heat, [and when] the rain falls on the world these Aśvin deities make all comfortable — two kinds of meaning appear here. In Sāyaṇa's exposition both kinds of meaning, the ṛṣi Atri and Agni the fire, are explained."

हिमेन — Himena — "himaṃ punar hanter vā hinoter vā": "the word hima is derived from the root han, 'to kill', or from hinoti, 'to increase':

> हिमं पुनर्हन्तेर्वा हिनोतेर्वा । अजरमजरणधर्माणमनर्ममप्रतृतमन्यस्मिन् यत्रेमानि सर्वाणि भूतान्यभिसंतिष्ठन्ते ॥ (नि. ४-१२ [as read; [?]])
>
> himaṃ punarhantervā hinotervā | ajaramajaraṇadharmāṇamanarmamapratṛtamanyasmin yatremāni sarvāṇi bhūtānyabhisaṃtiṣṭhante ‖ (ni. 4-12 [as read; [?]])

— the word hima, from the root han 'to kill'; because in the cold season the herbs and trees are destroyed, so that in that season the leaves of the trees fall off and they become nearly dead, the word hima signifies 'killing', 'destroying'. And the other derivation, 'from hinoti', from the root hi 'to increase', Yāska's explanation says: in this cold season barley and other grains sprout and grow, so for the word hima the meaning 'satisfaction' may be given. Here the sense 'cold water' is to be taken. In the same way the word ghraṃsa too is read among the names of day (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]).

> यो अस्मै घ्रंस उत वा य ऊधनि सोमं सुनोति भवति द्युमाँ अहः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ५-३४-५ [as read; [?]])
>
> yo asmai ghraṃsa uta vā ya ūdhani somaṃ sunoti bhavati dyumā~ ahaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 5-34-5 [as read; [?]])

— in this Ṛk, the Nirukta-writer, as an example, says (Ni. 6-?? as read [?]) 'ghraṃsa ity ahar nāma | grasyate 'smin rasaḥ': the word ghraṃsa is a name of ahar, the day; since the waters (juices) are sucked up by it [in this season], the day gets the name ghraṃsa: the meaning is explained; and

> यद्देवयन्तमवथः शचीभिः परि घ्रंसमोमना वां वयो गात् ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-३९-४? [as read; [?]])
>
> yaddevayantamavathaḥ śacībhiḥ pari ghraṃsamomanā vāṃ vayo gāt ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 2-39-4? [as read; [?]])

— in this Ṛk too (Ni. 6-?? as read [?]) the word ghraṃsa is used as denoting day. And the Nirukta-writer, in explaining the meaning of the word ṛbīsa, cites this very Ṛk (Ni. 6-36 as read [?]): 'himenodakena grīṣmāṃśe agniṃ ghraṃsam ahar avārayethām' [= "in the hot season you checked the fire, the day, with water"]; bīsa [the explanation] — at the end of the hot season, you saved [us] from the difficulty of the day which, causing heat, draws out the water [— so he explains]."

Skandasvāmin —

> हिममित्युदकनाम । वृष्टिलक्षणेनोदकेन । यत्रासुरैः प्रक्षिप्तं तमुग्निं घ्रंसं । घृ क्षरणदीप्त्योरित्यस्यायं क्रियाशब्दो न त्वहर्नाम ॥
>
> himamityudakanāma | vṛṣṭilakṣaṇenodakena | yatrāsuraiḥ prakṣiptaṃ tamugniṃ ghraṃsaṃ | ghṛ kṣaraṇadīptyorityasyāyaṃ kriyāśabdo na tvaharnāma ‖

— “Hima is a word for water: with water in the form of rain. The fire, ghraṃsa, cast by the Asuras in that place: the word ghraṃsa is a verb-word [i.e. derived from the root ghṛ, which means ‘to flow’ and ‘to shine’] and is not a name of ‘day’.” For the word hima he gives the meaning ‘water’ — that is, rain-water. “The ṛṣi Atri, thrown by the Asuras into the fire, was made to suffer by the fire; the word ghraṃsa, derived from the root ghṛ with the senses of ‘dripping’ (kṣaraṇa) and ‘shining’ (dīpti, brilliance), is a word expressing an action; it is not the name of day: this is the meaning.”

“The word pitu is stated among the names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]). ‘pituḥ — annanāma’; ‘pāteḥ vā pibater vā pyāyater vā’ (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]): the word pitu denotes food. Since Yāska explains that this word is derived either from the root pā ‘to protect’, or from the root pā with the sense ‘to drink’, or from the root pyāyī ‘to increase’, ‘to grow’ — it is explained that, by [the sentence] ‘the Aśvins gave to Atri, afflicted by the fire, food and strength-giving milk etc. that make for growth’, they gave food in the form of caru and purodāśa for Agni and ghee and milk, liquid and oily substances, for the sacrifice to Agni, so that [it] may increase, by causing rain — thus pitumatīm ūrjam asmā adhattam is explained.”

ऋबीसे — Ṛbīse — “apagatatejaske apagataprakāśe pīḍāyantragṛhe”: “in the house of torture-machines, ‘in the dark, without light, which has no connection with brilliance’ — so Sāyaṇa. The Nirukta-writer: ‘ṛbīsam bīsam ṛbīsam apagatabhāsam apahṛtabhāsam apahitabhāsam gatabhāsam vā’ (Ni. 6-36 as read [?]) — the word ṛbīsa is used in the sense of ‘devoid of lustre (black), or full of darkness’. It denotes the earth, he says. Citing this very Ṛk, ‘himenāgnim’:

> हिमेनोदकेन ग्रीष्मान्ते अग्निं घ्रंसमहरवारयेथामन्वतीं चास्मा ऊर्जमधत्तमग्नये योऽयमृबीसे पृथिव्यामग्निरंतरौषधिवनस्पतिषु । तमुन्निन्यथुः सर्वगणं सर्वनामानं गणो गणाद्गुणश्च । यद्वृप्ताः ओषधय उद्यन्ति प्राणिनश्च पृथिव्यां तदश्विनो रूपं तेनैशा स्तौति ॥ (नि. ६-३६ [as read; the Sanskrit is small type, partly doubtful [?]])
>
> himenodakena grīṣmānte agniṃ ghraṃsamaharavārayethāmanvatīṃ cāsmā ūrjamadhattamagnaye yo ’yamṛbīse pṛthivyāmagniraṃtarauṣadhivanaspatiṣu | tamunninyathuḥ sarvagaṇaṃ sarvanāmānaṃ gaṇo gaṇādguṇaśca | yadvṛptāḥ oṣadhaya udyanti prāṇinaśca pṛthivyāṃ tadaśvino rūpaṃ tenaiśā stauti ‖ (ni. 6-36 [as read; the Sanskrit is small type, partly doubtful [?]])

— the Aśvin deities, at the end of the summer season, created rain so that the heat from fire should not be a hindrance to the days, and thereby made conditions favourable for the sacrifices in which oblations pleasing to Agni may be got. Plants and trees, which ripen [by fire] from the branch, and which are in the inner part of the earth, in these, as well as in water, they make the fire (denoted by all words) manifest;

[and] because they brought up the seeds in the earth, they made the herbs and creatures to be produced. ‘The Aśvin deities, who have such greatness, are praised here as being in the forms that bring such effects’ — thus the explanation of the sense.”

सर्वगणम् — Sarvagaṇam — “in the sense of Atri the word sarvagaṇa means one furnished with all organs and with sons and grandsons. In the sense of Agni: the fire, ripening, through the earthly fire, the seeds sown in the earth, makes the herbs and trees grow; as Agni devours them in the form of oblations, it is joined with the group of herbs such as rice.”

स्वस्ति — Svasti — “avināśo yathā bhavati tathā”: “Sāyaṇa explains it as an adverbial qualifier of the action: ‘so that there is no destruction — so that in an excellent way, equal, without any calamity’. The word svasti is said (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]) ‘svastīty avināśināma asti rabhisūjyate su asti’; ‘the meaning is “not liable to destruction”. In this word the two words su + asti are combined, and asti is in the sense of “worship”’ — so the Nirukta-writer explains. This word is used in this same meaning in many places —

> स नः पितेव सूनवेऽग्ने सूपायनो भव । सचस्वा नः स्वस्तये ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१-९ [as read])
>
> sa naḥ piteva sūnave ’gne sūpāyano bhava | sacasvā naḥ svastaye ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-1-9 [as read])

— here svastaye means ‘for our welfare’. And pathyā svastiḥ panthā āntarikṣaṃ tannivāsāt (Ni. 11-?? as read [?]), stating the word svasti —

> स्वस्तिरिद्धि प्रपथे श्रेष्ठा रेक्णस्वत्यभि या वाममेति । सा नो अमा सो अरणे नि पातु स्वावेशा भवतु देवगोपा ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-६३-१६ [as read])
>
> svastiriddhi prapathe śreṣṭhā rekṇasvatyabhi yā vāmameti | sā no amā so araṇe ni pātu svāveśā bhavatu devagopā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-63-16 [as read])

he cites this Ṛk, and > स्वस्तिरेव हि प्रपथे श्रेष्ठा रेक्णस्वती … धनवत्यभ्येति यो वसूनि वनवीयानि सा … देवीगोप्री देवान् गोपायिष्यति देवा एनां गोपायन्तीति वा ॥ (नि. ११-४१ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]])

>
> svastireva hi prapathe śreṣṭhā rekṇasvatī … dhanavatyabhyeti yo vasūni vanavīyāni sā … devīgoprī devān gopāyiṣyati devā enāṃ gopāyantīti vā ‖ (ni. 11-41 [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]])

— explaining the greatness of svasti: ‘svasti is that which is in the atmosphere; more praiseworthy than all deities; possessing wealth; bestowing water. May she give protection to those who dwell in the forest and in the house, both outside and inside the house; may this shining goddess protect the deities, and the deities protect her; or may she protect us who offer oblations; or may the rays in the heavenly region protect her’ — so he explains.

“Skandasvāmin —

स्वस्ति अन्तर्णीतमत्वर्थोऽत्र स्वस्तिशब्दः । स्वस्तिमतं अविनष्टं जीवन्तमित्यर्थः ॥

svasti antarṇītamatvartho 'tra svastiśabdaḥ | svastimataṃ avinaṣṭaṃ jīvantamityarthaḥ ‖

— since the word svasti is used here in the sense of 'impelling' (preraṇa), the sense is that, as though [he were] a living thing, the Aśvin deities protected the ṛṣi Atri; thus Kutsa too speaks:

याभिः कुत्सं श्रुतर्यं नर्यमावतं [?] … [as printed:] याभिः शुचन्तिं धनसां सुषंसदं तप्तं घर्ममोम्यावन्तमत्रये । याभिः पृश्निगुं पुरुकुत्समावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१६ [as read])

yābhiḥ kutsaṃ śrutaryaṃ naryamāvataṃ [?] … [as printed:] yābhiḥ śucantiṃ dhanasāṃ suṣaṃsadaṃ taptaṃ gharmamomyāvantamatraye | yābhiḥ pṛśniguṃ purukutsamāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-16 [as read])

— he cites this Ṛk."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 8; grammar page, noted briefly)

agnim (agi "to go"; aṅgeḥ nalopaś ca, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?], the suffix ni; since it is it, the num augment, then its elision; the accent from the suffix on the last syllable); avārayethām (vṛñ "to cover, to ward off"; prayojakavyāpāre — hetumati ca, Pā. 3-1-26 as read [?], ṇic; aco ñṇiti, Pā. 7-2-115 as read [?], vṛddhi of the root's ṛ because of the ṇic; after the ṇyanta, laṅ 2nd dual āthām; śap; guṇa of the ṇic; ay; āto ṅitaḥ, Pā. 7-2-81 as read [?], iya for the ā of āthām; the augment aṭ; nighāta); pitumatīm (pituḥ asyāsti iti pitumatī — pitu means food; tad asyāsty asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?], matup; in the feminine ugitaś ca, Pā. 4-1-6 as read [?], ṅīp; hrasvanuḍbhyāṃ matup, Pā. 6-1-176 as read [?], matup takes udātta).

Grammar page of Ṛk 8, concluded (noted briefly): adhattam (ḍudhāñ "to hold, to nourish"; laṅ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word); ṛbīse (Yāska explains this word: 'ṛbīsam abīsam apagatabhāsam apacitabhāsam apahṛtabhāsam gatabhāsaṃ vā' (Ni. 6-36 as read [?]) — the sense being "without brilliance"; the desired form and accent are accomplished by pṛṣodarādīni yathopadiṣṭam, Pā. 6-3-109 as read [?]); atrim (ad "to eat"; the suffix tri by the Uṇādi sūtra ader ṇic ca… [as printed: ādeśrinicaḥ, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?]] with the word ca); avanītam (ṇīñ "to carry"; kta by niṣṭhā, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix ava keeps its accent); unninyathuḥ (ṇīñ "to carry", liṭ 2nd dual; nighāta); sarvagaṇam (sarve gaṇā yasya saḥ; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?]; the first member keeps its accent); svasti (as "to be", adādi; striyāṃ ktin, Pā. 3-3-94 as read [?], ktin in the abstract sense; chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], so it is sārvadhātuka, hence bhū substitution does not arise by aster bhūḥ, Pā. 2-4-52 as read [?]; nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], final accent). ‖ 8 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 9

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.9)

परावतं नासत्यानुदेथामुच्चाबुध्नं चक्रथुर्जिह्मबारम् । क्षरन्नापो न पायनाय राये सहस्राय तृष्यते गोतमस्य ॥ ९ ॥

parāvataṃ nāsatyānudethāmuccābudhnaṃ cakrathurjihmabāram | kṣarannāpo na pāyanāya rāye sahasrāya tṛṣyate gotamasya ‖ 9 ‖

Printed p. 228 (PDF 248; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.9)

परा । अवतम् । नासत्या । अनुदेथाम् । उच्चाऽबुध्नम् । चक्रथुः । जिह्मऽबारम् । क्षरन् । आपः । न । पायनाय । राये । सहस्राय । तृष्यते । गोतमस्य ॥ ९ ॥

parā | avatam | nāsatyā | anudethām | uccā ’budhnam | cakrathuḥ | jihma ’bāram | kṣaran | āpaḥ | na | pāyanāya | rāye | sahasrāya | tṛṣyate | gotamasya ‖ 9 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.9)

अत्रेदमाख्यानम् । कदाचिन्मरुभूमौ वर्तमानस्य स्तोतुर्गोतमस्य ऋषेः समीपं देशान्तरे वर्तमानं कूपमुत्थाप्याश्विनौ प्रापयेताम् । प्रापय्य च तं कूपं स्नानपानादिसौकर्ययोपरिमूलमधोबिलमवास्थापयेतामिति । तदेतदाह । हे नासत्या सत्यस्वभावौ सत्यस्य नेतारौ नासिकाप्रभवौ वाश्विनौ युवामवतं कूपं नामैतत् । अनस्त्रातं कूपं परानुदेथाम् । गोतमस्य ऋषेः समीपे प्रेरितवन्तौ । तदनन्तरं तं कूपमुच्चाबुध्नम् । उच्चैरुपरिष्टाद्बुध्नो मूलं यस्य स तथोक्तः । जिह्मबारम् । जिह्ममधस्ताद्वर्तमानतया वक्रं बारं द्वारं यस्य स तथोक्तः । एवंगुणविशिष्टं चक्रथुः । युवामकृषाथाम् । तस्मात्तृप्यते पिपासतो गोतमस्य पायनाय पानार्थमापो न आपस्त्व [?] । अयं नकारश्चार्थे । क्षरन् । प्रवाहरूपेण निरगमन् । कीदृशस्य । रायै । हविंषि दत्तवतः । सहस्राय सहनशीलाय । यद्वा । सहस्रसंख्याकाय । रायै धनाय । एतत्सङ्ख्यधनलाभार्थं चाक्षरन् ॥ अनुदेथाम् । णुद प्रेरणे । तौदादिकः । जिह्मबारम् । द्वारशब्दस्य पृषोदरादित्वाद्वारादेशः । क्षरन् । क्षर सञ्चलने । बहुलं छन्दस्यमाङ्योगेऽपीत्यडभावः । शपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । तिङो लसार्वधातुकस्वरेण धातुस्वरः । पायनाय । हेतुमति णिच् । शाच्छासाह्वेति युक् । भावे ल्युट् । राये । रा दाने । राति ददातीति रैः । रातेर्दैः । उ. २-६६ । ऊडिदमिति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । तृष्यते । जिवृषा पिपासायाम् । क्यन् । लटः शतृ । कृषो नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । षष्ठ्यर्थे चतुर्थी वक्तव्या । पा. २-३-६२-१ । इति चतुर्थी ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

atredamākhyānam | kadācinmarubhūmau vartamānasya stoturgotamasya ṛṣeḥ samīpaṃ deśāntare vartamānaṃ kūpamutthāpyāśvinau prāpayetām | prāpayya ca taṃ kūpaṃ snānapānādisaukaryayoparimūlamadhobilamavāsthāpayetāmiti | tadetadāha | he nāsatyā satyasvabhāvau satyasya netārau nāsikāprabhavau vāśvinau yuvāmavataṃ kūpaṃ nāmaitat | anastrātaṃ kūpaṃ parānudethām | gotamasya ṛṣeḥ samīpe preritavantau | tadanantaraṃ taṃ kūpamuccābudhnam | uccairupariṣṭādbudhno mūlaṃ yasya sa tathoktaḥ | jihmabāram | jihmamadhastādvartamānatayā vakraṃ bāraṃ dvāraṃ yasya sa tathoktaḥ | evaṃguṇaviśiṣṭaṃ cakrathuḥ | yuvāmakṛṣāthām | tasmāttṛpyate pipāsato gotamasya pāyanāya pānārthamāpo na āpastva [?] | ayaṃ nakāraścārthe | kṣaran | pravāharūpeṇa niragaman | kīdṛśasya | rāyai | haviṃṣi dattavataḥ | sahasrāya

sahanaśīlāya | yadvā | sahasrasaṃkhyākāya | rāyai dhanāya | etatsaṅkhyadhanalābhārthaṃ cākṣaran ‖ anudethām | ṇuda preraṇe | taudādikaḥ | jihmabāram | dvāraśabdasya pṛṣodarāditvādvārādeśaḥ | kṣaran | kṣara sañcalane | bahulaṃ chandasyamāṅyoge 'pītyaḍabhāvaḥ | śapaḥ pittvādanudāttatvam | tiṅo lasārvadhātukasvareṇa dhātusvaraḥ | pāyanāya | hetumati ṇic | śācchāsāhveti yuk | bhāve lyuṭ | rāye | rā dāne | rāti dadātīti raiḥ | rāterdaiḥ | u. 2-66 | ūḍidamiti vibhakterudāttatvam | tṛṣyate | ñitṛṛṣā pipāsāyām | kyan | laṭaḥ śatṛ | kṛṣo nittvādādyudāttatvam | ṣaṣṭhyarthe caturthī vaktavyā | pā. 2-3-62-1 | iti caturthī ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Here this story. Once, the praising ṛṣi Gotama was in a desert; the Aśvins, having lifted up a well that was in another country, brought it near him; and having brought it, they set it with its root above and its opening (bila) below, for ease of bathing, drinking and so on. This is said: O Nāsatyas — of true nature, leaders of the truth, or born from the nose — you avatam, the well (avata is a word for 'well'), [that was] unbathed (unused), parā anudethām — you drove (it) near the ṛṣi Gotama. After that you made the well uccābudhnam — its budhna, root (bottom), standing upward high; jihmabāram — whose bāra (door), because it lies below, is crooked (jihma): endowed with such qualities you made it. Therefore the waters (āpaḥ), for the pāyanāya, drinking, of the thirsty (tṛṣyate) Gotama, kṣaran, streamed out in the form of a flow. [For] what sort of man? Rāye — who has given oblations; sahasrāya — patient; or: [the man] for [receiving] a thousand [in number]; rāye — wealth: and they flowed for the obtaining of wealth of such number."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he nāsatyā — O Aśvin deities, of true nature (born from the nose); avatam — the well (that was to come); parā — [you drove it] to the neighbourhood (of Gotama); anudethām — you impelled (that well, after the father [?]); uccābudhnam — with the root (bottom) turned upward; jihmabāram — with the mouth turned downward [= curved]; cakrathuḥ — you made; rāye — to one who gave oblations; sahasrāya — patient; tṛṣyate — thirsty; gotamasya — for Gotama; pāyanāya — for drinking; āpaḥ na — water also; kṣaran — you made to flow."

Printed p. 229 (PDF 249; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Nāsatyas, you brought the well near Gotama, you made its bottom upward and its mouth downward, and you made the water flow so that Gotama, who offers oblations, who is patient, who is thirsty, could drink."

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, you raised up the well, and made the base, which had been turned upwards, the curved mouth so that the water issued for the beverage of the thirsty Gotama, the offerer.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

नासत्या — Nāsatyā — "satyasvabhāvau": "those who always speak the truth, and lead along the true path, or the Aśvin deities who were born from the nostril when the Āditya was in the form of a horse — thus the sense. The Nirukta-writer: 'satyāv eva nāsatyāv ity aurṇavābhaḥ | satyasya praṇetārāv ity āgrāyaṇaḥ | nāsikāprabhavau babhūvatur iti vā' (Ni. 6-13 as read [?]) — Sāyaṇa explains the word nāsatya in the very manner that [the Nirukta] states."

अवतम् — Avatam — "since the word avata is stated among the fourteen [as read] names of well (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), it means well."

उच्चाबुध्नम् — Uccābudhnam — "uccair upariṣṭād budhno mūlaṃ yasya saḥ: one whose root (bottom) is above, high — 'whose base part is on the upper side' (that is, as if turned head downward, the bottom of the well is turned upward)."

जिह्मबारम् — Jihmabāram — "jihmam adhastād vartamānatayā vakraṃ bāraṃ dvāraṃ yasya saḥ": "the word jihma is not used here in the sense 'crooked' or 'bent'; the meaning is 'with the mouth turned downward' (i.e. 'the mouth of the well lies beneath'). A ṛṣi named Gautama (sic; = Gotama), greatly afflicted by thirst, searched for water to drink in a desert, and, not finding it, prayed to the Aśvin deities for water. They brought him a well filled with water and made the bottom of the well [be] upward, and the upper part of the well, where the water is, downward, so that the ṛṣi could drink the water with a vessel: thus the Itihāsa tells that his thirst was removed. This is here set out. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-?-? [numerals partly illegible [?]] it is said that the Marut deities brought the well to Gautama's neighbourhood and quenched his thirst."

आपो न — Āpo na — "āpaś ca — the na here is in the sense of 'and' (ca), the ca being in the sense of 'together'. Sāyaṇa explains that the Aśvin deities made the water easy to come by for Gotama to drink and for him to get a thousand (in number) of wealth for the performance of sacrifices and so on. Skandasvāmin: in the expression na rāye sahasrāya [sic] … the word na is in the sense of simile (upamārthīya): 'as though a thousand (in number) of wealth', the word na denotes a figurative sense (upacāra) here, but according to the force of words it is used here only in the sense of comparison: 'as if with a thousand pieces of wealth, as the Aśvins favoured him to perform sacrifices, so, to remove his thirst, they brought a well (made it with the bottom upward) and made water for him to drink by a vessel from the well'."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 9; grammar page, noted briefly)

nāsatyā (a word formed by the nabhrāṇ napāt…, Pā. 6-3-75 as read [?], as a nipāta; in the vocative dual, the preceding vowel lengthened by supāṃ sulug; nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); anudethām (ṇud "to push"; noḥ, Pā. 6-1-65 as read [?], n for the initial ṇ; laṅ 2nd dual āthām; tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ, Pā. 3-1-77 as read [?], śa as vikaraṇa; āto ṅitaḥ, Pā. 7-2-81 as read [?], iya for the ā of the suffix; elision of y by lopo vyor vali, so the augment aṭ; nighāta); cakrathuḥ (ḍukṛñ "to do", liṭ 2nd dual; nighāta).

Grammar page of Ṛk 9, concluded (noted briefly): jihmabāram (the word dvāra belongs to the pṛṣodarādi group, so bāra is substituted for it; jihmaṃ bāraṃ yasya saḥ jihmabāraḥ, taṃ; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, first-member accent); kṣaran (kṣara "to move"; laṅ 3rd plural; jhi → ant by jher jhoḥ… antādeśa; itaś ca lopaḥ, elision of i; śap as vikaraṇa; bahulaṃ chandasy amāṅyoge 'pi, Pā. 6-4-75 as read [?], no augment aṭ; the elision of the t by saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ; śap being pit, it is unaccented; at the beginning of a pāda the sārvadhātuka… unaccented by tāsyanudāttet…, so the root accent remains); pāyanāya (pā "to drink" [pānārthe]; since the causal vyāpāra is meant, hetumati ca, Pā. 3-1-26 as read [?], ṇic; śācchāsāhvāvyāvepāṃ yuk, Pā. 7-3-37 as read [?], the yuk augment; after the ṇyanta lyuṭ in the abstract sense; anādeśa for yu by yuvor anākau; elision of ṇic by ner aniṭi, Pā. 6-4-51 as read [?]; the āya accent from the udātta … ; dative singular); rāye (rā "to give"; rāti dadāti iti raiḥ; rāter dyaiḥ, Uṇ. 2-?? as read [?], the suffix dai; the elision of the ṭi by the capacity of ḍit; the word rai; dative singular; eco 'yavāyāvaḥ, Pā. 6-1-78 as read [?], āy; ūḍidaṃpadādi, Pā. 6-1-171 as read [?], the accent of the ending); tṛṣyate (ñitṛṣā "to be thirsty"; divādi; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; divādibhyaḥ śyan, Pā. 3-1-69 as read [?], śyan as vikaraṇa; the form tṛṣyat; dative singular; as adupadeśa the sārvadhātuka is unaccented; śyan is śit… jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent; ṣaṣṭhyarthe caturthī vaktavyā, Vārt. 2-3-62-1 as read [?], the fourth case in place of the sixth). ‖ 9 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 10

Printed p. 232 (PDF 252; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.10)

जुजुरुषो नासत्योत वव्रिं प्रामुञ्चतं द्रापिमिव च्यवानात् । प्रातिरतं जहितस्यायुर्दस्रादित्पतिमकृणुतं कनीनाम् ॥ १० ॥

jujuruṣo nāsatyota vavriṃ prāmuñcataṃ drāpimiva cyavānāt | prātirataṃ jahitasyāyurdasrāditpatimakṛṇutaṃ kanīnām ‖ 10 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.10)

जुजुरुषः । नासत्या । उत । वव्रिम् । प्र । अमुञ्चतम् । द्रापिम्ऽइव । च्यवानात् । प्र । अतिरतम् । जहितस्य । आयुः । दस्रा । आत् । इत् । पतिम् । अकृणुतम् । कनीनाम् ॥ १० ॥

*jujuruṣaḥ | nāsatyā | uta | vavrim | pra | amuñcatam | drāpim 'iva | cyavānāt | pra |
atiratam | jahitasya | āyuḥ | dasrā | āt | it | patim | akṛṇutam | kanīnām ‖ 10 ‖*

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.10)

अत्रेदमाख्यानम् । वलीपलितादिभिरुपेतो जीर्णाङ्गः पुत्रादिभिः परित्यक्तश्च्यवनाख्य
ऋषिरश्विनौ तुष्टाव । स्तुतावश्विनौ तस्मै ऋषये जरामपगमय्य पुनर्यौवनमकुरुतामिति ।
तदेतदाह । हे नासत्यावश्विनौ जुजुरुषो जीर्णात् च्यवानात् च्यवनाख्यादृषेः सकाशाद्वव्रिं कृष्णं
शरीरमाव्यभ्यस्थितां जरां प्रामुञ्चतम् । प्रकर्षेणामोचयतम् । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । द्रापिमिव ।
द्रापिरिति कवचस्याख्या । यथा कश्चित्कवचं कृष्णशरीरव्यापकं धृत्वा
पश्चात्तद्विचारात्प्रथक्करोति तद्वत् । उतापि च हे दस्रा एतत्संज्ञौ दर्शनीयौ वाश्विनौ
जहितस्य पुत्रादिभिः परित्यक्तस्य ऋषेरायुर्जीवनं प्रातिरतं । प्रावर्धयतम् ।
प्रपूर्वस्तिरतिर्वर्धनार्थः । आदित् अनन्तरमेव युवानं [?]

*atredamākhyānam | valīpalitādibhirupeto jīrṇāṅgaḥ putrādibhiḥ
parityaktaścyavanākhya ṛṣiraśvinau tuṣṭāva | stutāvaśvinau tasmai ṛṣaye jarāmapagamayya punaryauvanamakurutāmiti | tadetadāha | he nāsatyāvaśvinau*

jujuruṣo jīrṇāt cyavānāt cyavanākhyādṛṣeḥ sakāśādvavriṃ kṛṣṇaṃ śarīramāvyabhyasthitāṃ jarāṃ prāmuñcatam | prakarṣeṇāmocayatam | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | drāpimiva | drāpiriti kavacasyākhyā | yathā kaścitkavacaṃ kṛṣṇaśarīravyāpakaṃ dhṛtvā paścāttadvicārātprathakkaroti tadvat | utāpi ca he dasrā etatsaṃjñau darśanīyau vāśvinau jahitasya putrādibhiḥ parityaktasya ṛṣerāyurjīvanaṃ prātirataṃ | prāvardhayatam | prapūrvastiratirvardhanārthaḥ | ādit anantarameva yuvānaṃ [?]

Printed p. 233 (PDF 253; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

(Bhāṣya of Ṛk 10, concluded from p. 232:)

… युवानं सन्तं कनीनां कन्यानां पतिं भर्तारमकृणुतम् । अकुरुतम् ॥ [grammatical tail follows: jujuruṣaḥ — jṛṣ "to grow old", liṭ, kvasu; bahulaṃ chandasīty utvam; doubling; pañcamyā ekavacane; vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam; śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca, ṣatva; vavrim — vṛñ "to cover", ādgamahana… kvip… ki suffix; jahitasya — ohāk "to leave", niṣṭhā, kta; chandasy ubhayathā, sārvadhātukatvāt… śluḥ; bahulam chandasīti; jahāteś ca, Pā. 6-4-116 as read [?], ittvam; kanīnām — rayer mṛtā bahulam, bahulavacanāt…, saṃprasāraṇa …] [small type; read letter by letter, doubtful [?] where marked]

… yuvānaṃ santaṃ kanīnāṃ kanyānāṃ patiṃ bhartāramakṛṇutam | akurutam ‖ [grammatical tail follows: jujuruṣaḥ — jṛṣ "to grow old", liṭ, kvasu; bahulaṃ chandasīty utvam; doubling; pañcamyā ekavacane; vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam; śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca, ṣatva; vavrim — vṛñ "to cover", ādgamahana… kvip… ki suffix; jahitasya — ohāk "to leave", niṣṭhā, kta; chandasy ubhayathā, sārvadhātukatvāt… śluḥ; bahulam chandasīti; jahāteś ca, Pā. 6-4-116 as read [?], ittvam; kanīnām — rayer mṛtā bahulam, bahulavacanāt…, saṃprasāraṇa …] [small type; read letter by letter, doubtful [?] where marked]

Sense (mine): "… yuvānam santam kanīnām, [who was] made a young man, you made pati, husband (supporter), of the kanīnām, maidens. [As to the kaṇīnām explanation, the Sanskrit tail is compressed.]" (The first sentence of this bhāṣya, begun on p. 232, was: "Here this story. The ṛṣi named Cyavana, whose limbs were aged, full of wrinkles and grey hair, deserted by his sons and others, praised the Aśvins; being praised, they removed the old age of that ṛṣi and made him young again. This is what is said: O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, from the aged Cyavana — the ṛṣi called Cyavana — the vavri, the dark covering of the body, [that is] the old age, you pra amuñcatam, released completely. An illustration: as one wearing a mail-coat covering the whole body, then discards it; and O Dasras — the two beautiful ones named Dasra — you prātiratam, increased, the āyuḥ, life, of the ṛṣi deserted by sons and others; and immediately you made him, now young, … husband of maidens.")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; jujuruṣaḥ — of the aged; cyavānāt — from the ṛṣi named Cyavana; vavrim — the old age that covers the whole body — [the thing that was] a black covering; drāpim iva — as a coat of mail is taken off; pra amuñcatam — you released; uta — and; he dasrā — O Dasras (of beautiful form); jahitasya — [of the ṛṣi] deserted by sons and others;

āyuḥ — life; prātiratam — you increased; āt it — immediately (after the attainment of youth); kanīnām — of young girls; patim — as husband; akṛṇutam — you made."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Nāsatyas, Dasras, you took off the old age that covered the body of the aged ṛṣi Cyavana, as one removes a coat of mail; you increased the life of him deserted by sons and others, and after he had regained youth you made him a husband of young girls."

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, you stripped off from the aged Chyavana his entire skin, as if it had been a coat of mail ; you reversed, Dasras, life of the sage who was without kindred, and constituted him the husband of many maidens.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

द्रापिमिव वव्रिं प्रामुञ्चतम् — Drāpim iva vavriṃ prāmuñcatam — "drāpir iti kavacasyākhyā | yathā kaścit kavacaṃ kṛtsna-śarīra-vyāpakaṃ dhṛtvā paścāt śarīrāt pṛthak karoti tadvat": "drāpi is the name of a coat of mail. Like one who, wearing a coat of mail that covers the whole body, afterwards removes it from the body, the ṛṣi Cyavana took off old age from his body. The ṛṣi named Cyavana was an old man

Printed p. 234 (PDF 254; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

— his body was full of white hair and wrinkles and the like; so his sons and others abandoned him. Then the ṛṣi Cyavana praised the Aśvin deities with stotras, pleased them, and, having got rid of old age through them, attained youth: this is the Itihāsa told in this Ṛk. Skandasvāmin has told this Itihāsa differently. This story is found in the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa.

> अत्र शतपथे (श. ब्रा. ४-१-५) अधीतमितिहासमाचक्षते । शर्यातो नाम राजा सङ्क्रीडद्भिः कृतापराधाय कुपिताय जीर्णाय च्यवनाय प्रत्याप्त्यर्थं सुकन्यां नाम कन्यां दुहितरं ददौ । तां तत्रासीनां दृष्ट्वाऽश्विनौ पुनः पुनरूचतुः । किं किं जीर्णेनाकृतरूपं कामयसे । आवाम् सम्भजेति । सा तौ प्रत्युवाच । यस्मै मां पिता आदात्, नाहं तं जीवन्तं हास्यामीति । तद्वैज्जर्णित्वा सुकन्यामुवाच । यदि त्वामेतौ पुनरेवं ब्रूयातां तयोस्त्वमेनं प्रतिब्रूयाः । असर्वा वसुसम्पद्धा सन्तौ पतिं मे निन्दथ इति । तौ यदि त्वां प्रति ब्रूयातां केनासर्वौ वसुसमृद्धौ चेति तत एनौ प्रतिब्रूयाः । पतिं मे पुनर्युवानं कुरुतं । अथ वां वक्ष्यामीति । सा तथोक्ता चैतामश्विनौ प्रत्यूचतुः । एतं ह्रदमवतरतु । अशो यत् कामयते तेन वयसा युक्त उत्तरिष्यतीति । स ऋषिस्तं ह्रदमवतीर्योत्तत्तारेति ... तदेतदितिहासेनोच्यते जुजुरुषो नासत्येत्यादिना । (श. ब्रा. ४-१-५ [as read; the first words and the numerals are in small type, partly doubtful [?]])
>
> atra śatapathe (śa. brā. 4-1-5) adhītamitihāsamācakṣate | śaryāto nāma rājā saṅkrīḍadbhiḥ kṛtāparādhāya kupitāya jīrṇāya cyavanāya pratyāptyarthaṃ sukanyāṃ nāma kanyāṃ duhitaraṃ dadau | tāṃ tatrāsīnāṃ dṛṣṭvā 'śvinau punaḥ punarūcatuḥ | kiṃ kiṃ jīrṇenākṛtarūpaṃ kāmayase | āvām sambhajeti | sā tau pratyuvāca | yasmai māṃ pitā ādāt, nāhaṃ taṃ jīvantaṃ hāsyāmīti | tadvaijjarṇitvā sukanyāmuvāca | yadi tvāmetau punarevaṃ brūyātāṃ tayostvamenaṃ pratibrūyāḥ | asarvā vasusampaddhā santau patiṃ me nindatha iti | tau yadi tvāṃ prati brūyātāṃ kenāsarvau vasusamṛddhau ceti tata enau

pratibrūyāḥ | patiṃ me punaryuvānaṃ kurutaṃ | atha vāṃ vakṣyāmīti | sā tathoktā caitāmaśvinau pratyūcatuḥ | etaṃ hradamavataratu | aśo yat kāmayate tena vayasā yukta uttariṣyatīti | sa ṛṣistaṃ hradamavatīryottattāreti ... tadetaditihāsenocyate jujuruṣo nāsatyetyādinā | (śa. brā. 4-1-5 [as read; the first words and the numerals are in small type, partly doubtful [?]])

— "a king named Śaryāti, because the sons [of his] when playing had committed an offence against the angry, aged Cyavana, to propitiate Cyavana gave him his own daughter, a maiden named Sukanyā. The Aśvin deities, seeing her seated there, asked her again and again: 'What do you want of this old man, who is [past] all form? Take us [as husbands].' She answered: 'To whom my father gave me, I shall not abandon him while he lives.' Cyavana heard it, and told Sukanyā: 'If these two say that to you again, answer them: "You, being without wealth [and] not whole, find fault with my husband."' [And] if they ask you 'how are we not whole, and how wealth-complete?', then answer them: 'Make my husband young again; then I shall tell you.' As she was thus told, she told the Aśvins so. They said: 'Let him enter this pool; he will come out with the age he desires.' The ṛṣi entered the pool and came out [young]. This is stated in the Itihāsa by 'jujuruṣo nāsatyā' and so on.

"The king named Śaryāti, because his sons were wandering about, [taking them to have given offence], gave his daughter Sukanyā to the old ṛṣi Cyavana, angered, in marriage. While that Sukanyā was in the hermitage of the ṛṣi Cyavana, the Aśvin deities came there and, saying 'Abandon this old husband and marry us', spoke to her many times; she replied: 'My father gave me to this ṛṣi. I shall not abandon him as long as he lives.' The ṛṣi Cyavana heard it and, when they asked her again, instructed her: 'When you are asked in this manner, what is the reason you reproach my husband, when you are rich in wealth? — ask them in return how they are. Then they will answer you how they are rich in wealth. Then say: "Give my husband youth; afterwards I shall answer you."' Sukanyā spoke with the Aśvin deities as the ṛṣi Cyavana had taught. They told her: 'If your husband bathes in this pool, your wish will be fulfilled. Your husband will become youthful.' Hearing what the Aśvin deities said, he bathed in that pool and came up a youth."

Printed p. 235 (PDF 255; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga ...")

"This Itihāsa is stated in the Ṛk jujuruṣo nāsatyā and so on. How the Aśvin deities made the old ṛṣi Cyavana youthful is also narrated in many places in the Ṛgveda —

युवं च्यवानं जरसोऽमुमुक्तं नि पेदव ऊहथुराशुमश्वम् । (ऋ. सं. १-११६-१० [as read; the numerals ambiguous [?]]) [as printed:] युवं च्यवानं जरसो ऽमुमुक्तं नि पेदव ऊहथुराशुमश्वम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-१३-? [?])

yuvaṃ cyavānaṃ jaraso 'mumuktaṃ ni pedava ūhathurāśumaśvam | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-10 [as read; the numerals ambiguous [?]]) [as printed:] yuvaṃ cyavānaṃ jaraso 'mumuktaṃ ni pedava ūhathurāśumaśvam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 2-13-? [?])

प्र च्यवानाज्जुरतो वव्रिमत्कं न मुञ्चथः । (ऋ. सं. ५-७४-५ [as read; [?]])

pra cyavānājjurato vavrimatkaṃ na muñcathaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-74-5 [as read; [?]])

निष्टौग्र्यं पारयथः समुद्रात्पुनश्च्यवानं चक्रथुर्युवानम् । (ऋ. सं. १-११८-६ [as read])

niṣṭaugryaṃ pārayathaḥ samudrātpunaścyavānaṃ cakrathuryuvānam | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-118-6 [as read])

युवं च्यवानं सनयं यथा रथं पुनर्युवानं चरथाय तक्षथुः । (ऋ. सं. १०-३९-४ [as read])

yuvaṃ cyavānaṃ sanayaṃ yathā rathaṃ punaryuvānaṃ carathāya takṣathuḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-39-4 [as read])

— in these Ṛks and in Ṛ. Saṃ. 5-?-? [?] and 7-?-? [?] and many other Ṛks this matter has been introduced."

वव्रिम् — Vavrim — "the word vavri is stated among the sixteen names of form (rūpa), 'nirṇik', 'varṇa' and so on (Ni. 3-13 as read [?]). Vavriḥ rūpanāma (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]): vṛṇoti iti sa saṃ — it covers its own form: that is the sense (of 'something that conceals')."

दस्रा — Dasrā — "etatsaṃjñau darśanīyau vāśvinau": "the persons famed by the name dasra — the Aśvin deities, whose form is beautiful —

युवं वृकेणाश्विना वपन्तेषं दुहन्ता मनुषाय दस्रा । अभि दस्युं बकुरेणा धमन्तोरु ज्योतिश्चक्रथुरार्याय ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११७-२१ [as read])

yuvaṃ vṛkeṇāśvinā vapanteṣaṃ duhantā manuṣāya dasrā | abhi dasyuṃ bakureṇā dhamantoru jyotiścakrathurāryāya ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-117-21 [as read]) in this Ṛk the word dasrā is used in the sense of the Aśvin deities. Dasrā = 'śatrūṇāṃ dāsayitārau daṃsayitārau vā karmāṇāṃ kṛṣyādīnāṃ kārayitārau vā varṣādyanugraheṇa — the destroyers of enemies, the doers of work, … [the Sanskrit here is small type, partly doubtful [?]]'."

"… destroyers of enemies, or those who cause them to be destroyed, or those who perform works such as agriculture, favouring them with rain: so the meaning."

आयुः — Āyuḥ — "jīvanam": "the Aśvin deities favoured the ṛṣi Cyavana with the state of living in health (together with breath). Since the word āyus is stated among the twenty-eight [as read] names of food (Ni. 2-7 as read [?]), the meaning may also be 'food'."

आत् + इत् — Āt + it — "anantaram eva": "the particles āt and it are used here in the sense of 'immediately afterwards'.

यदेदयुक्त हरितः सधस्थादादात्री वासस्तनुते सिमस्मै ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११५-४) yadedayukta haritaḥ sadhasthādādrātrī vāsastanute simasmai ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-115-4)

— in this Ṛk (1-115-4) āt is used in the sense of atha ('then'). The ṛṣi Cyavana, when he entered the pool, [as an old man] arose from it afterwards a youth: this is the meaning."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 10; grammar page, noted briefly)

jujuruṣaḥ (jṝṣ "to grow old"; liṭ, then kvasu by kvasuś ca, Pā. 3-2-107 as read [?]; ṛ → u by bahulaṃ chandasi; raparatva; the doubling of the root; the reduplication's ādir halśeṣaḥ; the form jujurvas; the ablative singular — since it is bha-designated by the ekavacana ending, vasoḥ saṃprasāraṇam, Pā. 6-4-131 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; śāsivasighasīnāṃ ca, Pā. 8-3-60 as read [?], ṣatva of the s of vasu; udātta of the u by the suffix accent); nāsatyā (supāṃ sulug, lengthening; nighāta by āmantritasya ca); vavrim (vṛñ "to cover"; ādgamahanajanaḥ..., Pā. 3-2-171 as read [?], ki suffix; as it is ki, doubling of the root; ur at, Pā. 7-4-66 as read [?], a for the reduplication's ṛ, with raparatva, halādiśeṣa; yaṇ for the root's ṛ; the final accent from the suffix); amuñcatam (muc "to release", laṅ 2nd dual — since it contains the causal sense inside it, tam for thās by tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ, Pā. 3-4-101 as read [?]; tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ, Pā. 3-1-77 as read [?]; śemuchādīnām, Pā. 7-1-59 as read [?], num augment; the augment aṭ; nighāta).

Printed p. 237 (PDF 257; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga ...")

Grammar page of Ṛk 10, concluded (noted briefly): cyavānāt (the word cyavana, ablative; the lengthening is Vedic); atiratam (tir "to go" — a root of the saunra group used in the sense of going; laṅ 2nd dual; nighāta); jahitasya (ohāk "to leave", kta by niṣṭhā, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; by chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], it has sārvadhātuka status, hence yak by sārvadhātuke yak, Pā. 3-1-67 as read [?]; since that is the vikaraṇa, śluḥ in its place by bahulaṃ chandasi; ślau, Pā. 6-1-10 as read [?], doubling; kuhoś cuḥ, Pā. 7-4-62 as read [?], c for the reduplication; hrasvaḥ, shortening; jahāteś ca, Pā. 6-4-116 as read [?], i for the root's ā; final accent from the suffix; genitive singular); dasrā (vocative dual; supāṃ sulug, lengthening of the preceding vowel); akṛṇutam (kṛvi "to injure, to do"; idito num dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-58 as read [?], num; dhinvikṛṇvor a ca, Pā. 3-1-80 as read [?], the u suffix, and with a at the end; tam for the 2nd dual; ṇatva since the n follows ṛ; nighāta); kanīnām (the word kanyā; rayer mṛtā bahulam, [by the word bahulam in this] the word kanyā also takes saṃprasāraṇa; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; genitive plural). ‖ 10 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 11

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.11)

तद्वां नरा शंस्यं राध्यं चाभिष्टिमन्नासत्या वरूथम् । यद्विद्वांसा निधिमिवापगूळ्हमुद्दर्शतादूपथुर्वन्दनाय ॥ ११ ॥

tadvāṃ narā śaṃsyaṃ rādhyaṃ cābhiṣṭimannāsatyā varūtham | yadvidvāṃsā nidhimivāpagūḷhamuddarśatādūpathurvandanāya ‖ 11 ‖

Printed p. 238 (PDF 258; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.11)

तत् । वाम् । नरा । शंस्यम् । राध्यम् । च । अभिष्टिऽमत् । नासत्या । वरूथम् । यत् ।
विद्वांसा । निधिम्ऽइव । अपऽगूळ्हम् । उत् । दर्शतात् । ऊपथुः । वन्दनाय ॥ ११ ॥

tat | vām | narā | śaṃsyam | rādhyam | ca | abhiṣṭi 'mat | nāsatyā | varūtham | yat | vidvāṃsā | nidhim 'iva | apa 'gūḷham | ut | darśatāt | ūpathuḥ | vandanāya ‖ 11 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.11)

अत्रेदमाख्यानम् । वन्दनो नाम कश्चिदृषिः । स चासुरैः कूपे निखाते उत्तरीतुमशक्नुवन्नश्विनावस्तौत् । तमश्विनौ कूपादुन्निन्यतुरिति । तदाह । नरारोगृस्य [?] नेतारौ हे नासत्यावश्विनौ वां युवयोः सम्बन्धि अभिष्टिमदभ्येषणयुक्तमभिमुख्येन प्राप्तव्यं तथा वरूथं वरणीयं कामयितव्यं तत्कर्म शंस्यम् । अस्माभिः प्रशंसनीयं । राध्यम् । आराधनीयं च । किं पुनस्तत्कर्म । विद्वांसा जानन्तौ युवां निधिमिव निक्षिप्तं धनमिवापगूळ्हम् अरण्ये निर्जने देशे कूपमध्येऽसुरैर्निगूढं वन्दनाय वन्दनमृषिं दर्शतात् । दर्शनीयाद्दृश्यात् [?] पिपासुभिर्दृप्स्वात्मकूपादुदूपथुः । उदहार्ष्टम् । एवं यदेतत्कर्मकूपाद्धरणं तदित्यर्थः ॥ शंस्यम् । शन्सु स्तुतौ । अस्माण्यन्तादचोयदिति यत् । यकोनावितयादिउदात्तत्वम् । अभिष्टिमत् । अभिपूर्वादिषगतावित्यस्माद्भावे क्तिन् । मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः इत्यादिना क्तिन उदात्तत्वम् ।... कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरेणैव स एव शिष्यते । शकन्ध्वादित्वात्पररूपत्वम् । तादौ चेति तु गतिस्वरस्य सर्वविधीनां छन्दसि विकल्पितत्वादप्रवृत्तिः । ततो मतुप् । अन्तोदात्तादुत्तरस्य तस्य ह्रस्वनुड्भ्यामित्यादात्तत्वम् । वरूथम् । वृञ्ज्याभ्यामूथन् । उ. २-६ । विद्वांसा । सुपां सुलुगिति विभक्तेराकारः । अपगूळ्हम् । गुहू संवरणे । कर्मणि निष्ठा । यस्य विभाषेतीट्प्रतिषेधः । ढत्वधत्वष्टुत्वढलोपदीर्घाः । गतिरनन्तर इति गतेः प्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । दर्शतात् । भृमृदृशीत्यादिनातच् । ऊपथुः । डुवप् बीजसन्तानेसन्ताने । लिटथुसि यजादित्वात्सम्प्रसारणम् । द्विर्वचनादि । वन्दनाय । क्रियाग्रहणं कर्तव्यमिति कर्मणः सम्प्रदानत्वाच्चतुर्थी ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

atredamākhyānam | vandano nāma kaścidṛṣiḥ | sa cāsuraiḥ kūpe nikhāte uttarītumaśaknuvannaśvināvastaut | tamaśvinau kūpādunninyaturiti | tadāha | narārogṛsya [?] netārau he nāsatyāvaśvinau vāṃ yuvayoḥ sambandhi abhiṣṭimadabhyeṣaṇayuktamabhimukhyena prāptavyaṃ tathā varūthaṃ varaṇīyaṃ kāmayitavyaṃ tatkarma śaṃsyam | asmābhiḥ praśaṃsanīyaṃ | rādhyam | ārādhanīyaṃ ca | kiṃ punastatkarma | vidvāṃsā jānantau yuvāṃ nidhimiva nikṣiptaṃ dhanamivāpagūḷham araṇye nirjane deśe kūpamadhye 'surairnigūḍhaṃ vandanāya vandanamṛṣiṃ darśatāt | darśanīyāddarśyāt [?] pipāsubhirdṛpsvātmakūpādudūpathuḥ | udahārṣṭam | evaṃ yadetatkarmakūpāddharaṇaṃ tadityarthaḥ ‖ śaṃsyam | śansu stutau | asmāṇyantādacoyaditi yat | yakonāvitayādiudāttatvam | abhiṣṭimat | abhipūrvādiṣagatāvityasmādbhāve ktin | mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ ityādinā ktina udāttatvam |... kṛduttarapadaprakṛtisvareṇaiva sa eva śiṣyate | śakandhvāditvātpararūpatvam | tādau ceti tu gatisvarasya sarvavidhīnāṃ chandasi vikalpitatvādapravṛttiḥ | tato matup | antodāttāduttarasya tasya hrasvanuḍbhyāmityādāttatvam | varūtham | vṛñjyābhyāmūthan | u. 2-6 | vidvāṃsā | supāṃ sulugiti vibhakterākāraḥ | apagūḷham | guhū saṃvaraṇe | karmaṇi niṣṭhā | yasya vibhāṣetīṭpratiṣedhaḥ | ḍhatvadhatvaṣṭutvaḍhalopadīrghāḥ | gatiranantara iti gateḥ prakṛtisvaratvam | darśatāt | bhṛmṛdṛśītyādinātac | ūpathuḥ | ḍuvap bījasantānesantāne | liṭyathusi yajāditvātsamprasāraṇam | dvirvacanādi | vandanāya | kriyāgrahaṇaṃ kartavyamiti karmaṇaḥ sampradānatvāccaturthī ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Here this story. A certain ṛṣi named Vandana, when the Asuras had dug a well [and put him in it] and he could not get out, praised the Aśvins; the Aśvins drew him up out of the well. This is said: O leaders (narā), Nāsatyas, Aśvins, that deed of yours — abhiṣṭimat (accompanied by help), to be attained by effort, and varūtham, to be chosen, desirable — is śaṃsyam, praiseworthy by us, and rādhyam, to be propitiated. What was that deed? Knowing, vidvāṃsā, you ūpathuḥ — drew up — nidhim iva apagūḍham, like a treasure hidden, [the ṛṣi] hidden by the Asuras in a lonely place in the forest, in the middle of a well, vandanāya — Vandana the ṛṣi — darśatāt — from the visible, from the self-made well by the thirsty, [from] the well: that is, the very act of raising him from the well. …”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (on p. 239)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“narā — O leader Aśvin deities; vidvāṃsā — knowing (the circumstance); nidhim iva — like treasure (hidden); apagūḷham — (hidden in the well); vandanāya — the ṛṣi named Vandana; darśatāt — from the well which was visible (to travellers); ut ūpathuḥ — you raised up (and); yat — which exploit; tat vām — that of yours; abhiṣṭimat — to be attained by us; varūtham — worth desiring; śaṃsyam — worthy of praise; rādhyam ca — and to be adored.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O leader Aśvin deities, you, knowing, drew up and saved Vandana, hidden like a treasure in a well in the lonely place the Asuras chose, from the well visible to all; we have learned it. As this matter gives us joy, we praise it with respect.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, leaders, glorious was that exploit of yours, one to be celebrated, to be adored, to be desired by us, when, becoming aware (of the circumstance), you extricated Vandana, (hidden), like a concealed treasure, from the (well) that was visible (to travellers)

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

निधिमिवापगूळ्हम् — Nidhim ivāpagūḷham — “nidhim iva nikṣiptaṃ dhanam iva araṇye nirjane deśe kūpamadhye ’suraiḥ nigūḍham”: “the Asuras threw a ṛṣi named Vandana into a well in a lonely place in the middle of a forest. From there he praised the Aśvin deities. They, who protect those who praise them, knowing the ṛṣi’s condition, drew him out of the well and protected him, as one joyfully takes out hidden wealth: this Itihāsa is told here. The protection of the ṛṣi that the Aśvin deities performed is accompanied by abhiṣṭi (help), and is fit to be seen by all who look; fit to be praised by all and fit to be worshipped by all: all this is shown by the words tat karma, abhiṣṭimat, varūtham, śaṃsyam, rādhyam.

> याभी रेभं निवृतं सितमद्भ्य उद्वन्दनमैरयतं स्वर्दृशे । याभिः कण्वं प्रसिषासन्तमावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-५ [as read])
>
> yābhī rebhaṃ nivṛtaṃ sitamadbhya udvandanamairayataṃ svardṛśe | yābhiḥ kaṇvaṃ prasiṣāsantamāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-5 [as read])

In this Ṛk it is said that the Aśvin deities protected Rebha, who had fallen in a well, together with Vandana and Kaṇva. Skandasvāmin cites this Ṛk —

> रेभमृषिं सन्ध्याकाले स्नात्वा ह्रदादुत्तीर्णं अग्निहोत्रं होतुं स्वाश्रममागच्छन्तं असुरा ददृशुः । ते देवानामयं यष्टा स्तोता चेति ज्ञात्वा सङ्क्रुद्धाः तं ताडयित्वा बद्ध्वा च कस्मिंश्चिद्ध्रदे प्रक्षिप्य दशरात्रं धारयाञ्चक्रुः ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]
>
> rebhamṛṣiṃ sandhyākāle snātvā hradāduttīrṇaṃ agnihotraṃ hotuṃ svāśramamāgacchantaṃ asurā dadṛśuḥ | te devānāmayaṃ yaṣṭā stotā ceti jñātvā saṅkruddhāḥ taṃ tāḍayitvā baddhvā ca kasmiṃściddhrade prakṣipya daśarātraṃ dhārayāñcakruḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

— 'the Asuras saw the ṛṣi Rebha, who at twilight, having bathed, came up from a pool and was going to his hermitage to make the Agnihotra offering. Knowing that he was a sacrificer and praiser of the gods, they, enraged, beat him, bound him, and, throwing him into a pool, kept him there ten nights.' In Kannada: the ṛṣi named Rebha, at twilight, having bathed, coming out of the river, was going to his hermitage to perform Agnihotra; the Asuras saw him, and, knowing that he worships and praises the gods, in anger they attacked him, tied him with rope and threw him into that river, [and] kept him bound for ten nights. Afterwards the Aśvin deities, pleased with his praise, protected that ṛṣi: so it is described. In some Ṛks it is described that the Asuras pushed Rebha and Vandana into the well, and that they came to be protected by the Aśvin deities when they praised them. In some places the matter of Vandana alone is stated:

> शुभे रुक्मं न दर्शतं निखातमुदूपथुरश्विना वन्दनाय । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-५ [as read; the number is that printed here after the Ṛk, though the same number is printed for the previous Ṛk — as printed [?]])
>
> śubhe rukmaṃ na darśataṃ nikhātamudūpathuraśvinā vandanāya | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-5 [as read; the number is that printed here after the Ṛk, though the same number is printed for the previous Ṛk — as printed [?]])
>
> युवं वन्दनमृश्यादुदूपथुर्युवं सद्यो विश्पलामेतवे कृथः । (ऋ. सं. १०-३९-८ [as read])
>
> yuvaṃ vandanamṛśyādudūpathuryuvaṃ sadyo viśpalāmetave kṛthaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-39-8 [as read])
>
> युवं ह रेभं वृषणा गुहा हितमुदैरयतं ममृवांसमश्विना । (ऋ. सं. १०-३९-९ [as read])
>
> yuvaṃ ha rebhaṃ vṛṣaṇā guhā hitamudairayataṃ mamṛvāṃsamaśvinā | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-39-9 [as read])

and in a few other Ṛks —

> युवं शयोरवसं पिप्यथुर्गविः प्र दीर्घेण वन्दनस्तार्यायुषा । (ऋ. सं. १-११६-? [as read])
>
> yuvaṃ śayoravasaṃ pipyathurgaviḥ pra dīrgheṇa vandanastāryāyuṣā | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-? [as read])
>
> उद्वन्दनमैरयतं स्वर्दृशे …
>
> udvandanamairayataṃ svardṛśe …

Printed p. 241 (PDF 261; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”; footer signature mark “IX 16”)

युवं वन्दनं निरृतं जरण्ययारथं न दस्रा करणा समिन्वथः । (ऋ. सं. १-११७-५ [as read])

yuvaṃ vandanaṃ nirṛtaṃ jaraṇyayārathaṃ na dasrā karaṇā saminvathaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-117-5 [as read])

— ‘the praise is that you made the aged body of Vandana like the body of a youth, so that he might live for long’.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 11; grammar page, noted briefly)

śaṃsyam (śaṃsu “to praise”; hetumati ca, Pā. 3-1-26 as read [?], ṇic in the causal sense; after the ṇyanta, aco yat, Pā. 3-1-97 as read [?], the yat suffix; ner aniṭi, Pā. 6-4-51 as read [?], elision of ṇic; yato ’nāvaḥ, Pā. 6-1-213 as read [?], first-syllable accent; in the same way for rādhyam, the same operations); abhiṣṭimat (iṣu “to go”, with the prefix abhi; striyāṃ ktin, Pā. 3-3-94 as read [?], ktin in the abstract sense; ṣṭuc… ṭatva of the t of the suffix after ṣ; mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ, Pā. 3-3-96 as read [?], the accent of ktin is udātta; in the compound the later member’s accent by gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?]; since it is in the śakandhvādi group, pararūpa is optional by śakandhv-ādiṣu pararūpaṃ vācyam; since sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante, tādau ca niti kṛty atau, Pā. 6-2-50 as read [?], the accent of the prefix does not arise here; abhiṣṭir asya asti, matup by tad asyāsty asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?]; to this matup standing after a word with final udātta, hrasvanuḍbhyāṃ matup, Pā. 6-1-176 as read [?], udātta); varūtham (vṛñ “to choose”; jyāvṛñbhyām ūthan, Uṇ. 2-?? as read [?], the suffix ūthan; guṇa of the root’s ṛ with raparatva; as the suffix is nit, jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent); vidvāṃsā (vid “to know”; śatṛ in the laṭ-sense, vido laṭo vā, Pā. 3-4-83 as read [?], the ṇal… vide śatur vasuḥ, Pā. 7-1-36 as read [?], vasu substituted; the stem vidvas; in the dual, with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; ākārasya…, the lengthening of the penultimate by upadhādīrgha; num since ugit; the accent from the suffix); apagūḷham (guhū “to cover”; niṣṭhā, kta, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; since it is ūdit, optional iṭ, hence by yasya vibhāṣā, Pā. 7-2-15 as read [?] iṭ does not arise; hoḍhaḥ, Pā. 8-2-31 as read [?], gh for the h; ṣhaḥ ḍhaḥ…, ṭhatva…

Printed p. 242 (PDF 262; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

… dhatva [dh for t of the suffix]; ḍhodhe lopaḥ, Pā. 8-3-13 as read [?], elision of the preceding dh; ḍhralope pūrvasya dīrgho ’ṇaḥ, Pā. 6-3-111 as read [?], lengthening of the preceding u; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix (apa) keeps its accent); darśatāt (dṛśir “to see”; bhṛmṛdṛśi…, Uṇ. 3-?? as read [?], the suffix atac; pugantalaghūpadhasya ca, Pā. 7-3-86 as read [?], guṇa of the penultimate; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent; ablative singular); ūpathuḥ (ḍuvap “to sow”; liṭ 2nd dual, athus; asaṃyogāl liṭ kit, Pā. 1-2-5 as read [?], gives kit status to the suffix, and as the root belongs to the yajādi group, vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti, Pā. 6-1-15 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa; since liṭ, doubling of the root; halādiśeṣa for the reduplication; savarṇadīrgha; since yat precedes, no nighāta; from the first-syllable udātta of the suffix [sic] the u is accented); vandanāya (vadi “to salute, to praise”; lyuṭ in the abstract sense; idito num dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-58 as read [?], num for the root; anādeśa for yu by yuvor anākau, Pā. 7-1-1 as read [?]; liti, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?], the udātta on the syllable preceding the suffix; kriyāgrahaṇaṃ kartavyam, since karman has sampradāna status, the fourth case arises). ‖ 11 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 12

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.12)

तद्वां नरा सनये दंस उग्रमाविष्कृणोमि तन्यतुर्न वृष्टिम् । दध्यङ्ह यन्मध्वाथर्वणो वामश्वस्य शीर्ष्णा प्र यदीमुवाच ॥ १२ ॥

tadvāṃ narā sanaye daṃsa ugramāviṣkṛṇomi tanyaturna vṛṣṭim | dadhyaṅha yanmadhvātharvaṇo vāmaśvasya śīrṣṇā pra yadīmuvāca ‖ 12 ‖

Printed p. 243 (PDF 263; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.12)

तत् । वाम् । नरा । सनये । दंसः । उग्रम् । आविः । कृणोमि । तन्यतुः । न । वृष्टिम् । दध्यङ् । ह । यत् । मधु । आथर्वणः । वाम् । अश्वस्य । शीर्ष्णा । प्र । यत् । ईम् । उवाच ॥ १२ ॥

tat | vām | narā | sanaye | daṃsaḥ | ugram | āviḥ | kṛṇomi | tanyatuḥ | na | vṛṣṭim | dadhyaṅ | ha | yat | madhu | ātharvaṇaḥ | vām | aśvasya | śīrṣṇā | pra | yat | īm | uvāca ‖ 12 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.12)

अत्रेयमाख्यायिका । इन्द्रो दध्यीचे प्रवर्ग्यविद्यां मधुविद्यां चोपदिश्य यदीमामन्यस्मै वक्ष्यसि शिरस्ते छेत्स्यामीत्युवाच । तदोरश्विनावश्वस्य शिरश्छित्त्वा दध्यीचः शिरः प्रच्छिद्यान्यत्र निधाय तत्राश्वशिरः प्रत्यधत्ताम् । केन च दध्यङ् ऋचः सामानि यजूंषि च प्रवर्ग्यविषयाणि मधुविद्याप्रतिपादकं ब्राह्मणं चाश्विनावध्यापयामास । तदिन्द्रो ज्ञात्वा वज्रेण तच्छिरोऽच्छिनत् । अथाश्विनौ तस्य स्वकीयं मानुषं शिरः प्रत्यधत्ताम् । इति शाट्यायनवाजसनेययोः प्रपञ्चेनोक्तम् । तदेतत्प्रतिपाद्यते । हे नरा नेतारावश्विनौ वां युवयोः सम्बन्ध्युग्रमुद्गूर्णमन्यैर्दुष्करं दंसः कर्मनामैतत् । युवाभ्यां पुरा कृतं तत्कर्म सनये धनलाभार्थमाविष्कृणोमि । प्रकटीकरोमि । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । तन्यतुर्न । यथा मेघस्थः शब्दो वृष्टिं मेघान्निर्वर्तमानमुदकं प्रवर्षणेन सर्वत्र प्रकटयति तद्वत् । किं तत्कर्म । आथर्वणः अथर्वणः पुत्रो दध्यङ् ऋषिरश्वस्य शीर्ष्णा युष्मास्मार्थेन प्रतिहितेन शिरसा वां युवाभ्यामिमां मधुविद्यां यद्यदा खलु प्रोवाच प्रोक्तवान् । तदानीमश्वस्य शिरः सन्धानलक्षणं पुनर्मानुषस्य शिरः प्रतिसन्धानलक्षणं च यद्वदवदीयं कर्म तदाविष्कृणोमीत्यर्थः ॥ सनये । षणु दाने । खनिकषिकष्यञ्जिशिवसिद्धिनिस्तनिवनिसनिग्रन्थिभ्यश्चेतीप्रत्ययः । तन्यतुः । तनु विस्तारे । युतन्यञ्जेत्यादिना यतुच् । यद्वा । स्तन शब्दे । बाहुलकाद्यतुच् । छान्दसः सलोपः । वृष्टिम् । वृष्यते सिच्यतेऽनेनेति वृष्टिः । मन्त्रे … [the print continues on p. 244; this part in small type, partly doubtful [?]]

atreyamākhyāyikā | indro dadhyīce pravargyavidyāṃ madhuvidyāṃ copadiśya yadīmāmanyasmai vakṣyasi śiraste chetsyāmītyuvāca | tadoraśvināvaśvasya śiraśchittvā dadhyīcaḥ śiraḥ pracchidyānyatra nidhāya tatrāśvaśiraḥ pratyadhattām | kena ca dadhyaṅ ṛcaḥ sāmāni yajūṃṣi ca pravargyaviṣayāṇi madhuvidyāpratipādakaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ cāśvināvadhyāpayāmāsa | tadindro jñātvā vajreṇa tacchiro 'cchinat | athāśvinau tasya svakīyaṃ mānuṣaṃ śiraḥ pratyadhattām | iti śāṭyāyanavājasaneyayoḥ prapañcenoktam | tadetatpratipādyate | he narā netārāvaśvinau vāṃ yuvayoḥ sambandhyugramudgūrṇamanyairduṣkaraṃ

daṃsaḥ karmanāmaitat | yuvābhyāṃ purā kṛtaṃ tatkarma sanaye dhanalābhārthamāviṣkṛṇomi | prakaṭīkaromi | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | tanyaturna | yathā meghasthaḥ śabdo vṛṣṭiṃ meghānnirvartamānamudakaṃ pravarṣaṇena sarvatra prakaṭayati tadvat | kiṃ tatkarma | ātharvaṇaḥ atharvaṇaḥ putro dadhyaṅ ṛṣiraśvasya śīrṣṇā yuṣmāsmārthena pratihitena śirasā vāṃ yuvābhyāmimāṃ madhuvidyāṃ yadyadā khalu provāca proktavān | tadānīmaśvasya śiraḥ sandhānalakṣaṇaṃ punarmānuṣasya śiraḥ pratisandhānalakṣaṇaṃ ca yadvadavadīyaṃ karma tadāviṣkṛṇomītyarthaḥ ‖ sanaye | ṣaṇu dāne | khanikaṣikaṣyañjiśivasiddhinistanivanisanigranthibhyaścetīpratyayaḥ | tanyatuḥ | tanu vistāre | yutanyañjetyādinā yatuc | yadvā | stana śabde | bāhulakādyatuc | chāndasaḥ salopaḥ | vṛṣṭim | vṛṣyate sicyate 'neneti vṛṣṭiḥ | mantre … [the print continues on p. 244; this part in small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Here this story. Indra, having taught Dadhyañc the Pravargya-vidyā and the Madhu-vidyā, said: 'If you speak this to another, I shall cut off your head.' Then the Aśvins cut off the head of a horse and, having cut off Dadhyañc's head and placed it elsewhere, set the horse's head on him. And with that Dadhyañc taught the Aśvins the Ṛks, Sāmans and Yajus relating to the Pravargya, and the Brāhmaṇa that expounds the Madhu-vidyā. Indra, learning of it, cut off that head with his thunderbolt. Then the Aśvins set on him his own human head again: thus it is told at length in the Śāṭyāyana and Vājasaneya [texts]. This is set forth: O leaders, Aśvins, I make manifest aviḥ kṛṇomi, for the gaining of wealth, that fierce (ugram) act of yours, hard for others to do — daṃsaḥ is a name for 'work' — formerly done by you, as thunder (tanyatuḥ) in the cloud makes rain (the water that streams from the clouds) manifest everywhere by its downpour. What was that act? When the son of Atharvan, the ṛṣi Dadhyañc, aśvasya śīrṣṇā — with the horse's head placed by you on him — told you this Madhu-vidyā: then the act of setting on the horse's head and again setting the man's head — such an act of yours I make manifest."

Printed p. 244 (PDF 264; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

(Grammatical tail of the bhāṣya on Ṛk 12, concluded — characterized, not transcribed: vṛṣṭim (mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ, ktin with udātta); ātharvaṇaḥ (atharvan + aṇ, tasyāpatyam; the ṭi elision by Pā. 6-4-?? as read [?]); śīrṣṇā (śīrṣan in the Veda, śīrṣan chandasi, Pā. 6-1-60 as read [?], the śiras → śīrṣan; the ṣ …; the instrumental ending accented by the anta-udātta of the stem.)*

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"narā — O Aśvin deities; ātharvaṇaḥ — the son of Atharvan; dadhyaṅ — the ṛṣi named Dadhyañc; aśvasya — of the horse; śīrṣṇā — with the head (obtained by your power); vām — to you two; īm — the Madhu-vidyā; yat ha — when; uvāca — taught; yat — which; vām — of you; tat — that; ugram — (to others) unachievable; daṃsaḥ — daring deed; tanyatuḥ — thunder; vṛṣṭiṃ na — as (it makes) rain (manifest); sanaye — for the sake of obtaining wealth; āviḥ kṛṇomi — I make manifest."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Aśvin deities, the ṛṣi Dadhyañc, the son of Atharvan, [having] a horse’s head (obtained by your power), taught you the Madhu-vidyā. I make manifest that deed of yours, impossible for others, as thunder makes rain manifest, for the sake of obtaining wealth.”

English Translation (as printed)

> I proclaim, leaders (of sacrifice), for the sake of acquiring wealth, that inimitable deed which you performed, as the thunder (announces) rain, when, provided by you with the head of a horse, Dadhyanch, the son of Atharvan, taught you the mystic science.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

दंसः — Daṃsaḥ — “since the word daṃsaḥ is stated among the twenty-six [as read] names of work (karman) ‘apaḥ’, ‘apnaḥ’ (Ni. 2-1 as read [?]), daṃsaḥ denotes work. The seer of the mantra — [the ṛṣi] declares with this mantra that the Aśvin deities perform a work that is difficult for others [to do]. The sound produced by the cloud makes manifest the rain, the water of the cloud, as it falls: so this stotra makes manifest the power of the Aśvin deities; and by the recital and study of it wealth is obtained according to one’s wish: it is described so. By this the unique power of the Aśvin deities is described in the first half of this mantra.”

Printed p. 245 (PDF 265; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

दध्यङ् ह यन्मध्वाथर्वणः — Dadhyaṅ ha yan madhv ātharvaṇaḥ — “atharvaṇaḥ putraḥ | vitataṃ nāmaṃ ṛṣiḥ” [as printed, the Sanskrit is small type: ‘ātharvaṇaḥ — atharvaṇa is the name of a ṛṣi, [the Kannada:] the ṛṣi named Ātharvaṇa [= Dadhyañc], son of the ṛṣi named Atharvan’. The Nirukta-writer: ‘dadhyaṅ pratyaktho dhyānam iti vā pratyaktam asmin dhyānam iti vā’ (Ni. 12-?? as read [?]): dadhyañc, atharvā, manuḥ — these three words, though not synonyms, since they convey another meaning (‘being connected with the qualities of the Āditya’), denote three persons who are ṛṣis who move together with the Āditya, living in the atmosphere (dyusthāna). When it is said that they are not other than the Āditya, two kinds of explanation are given: that they are inhabitants of the atmosphere and that they are connected with the qualities of the Āditya. For this reason he explains in two ways: ‘dhyānam asmin pratyaktam, pratyakto dhyānam’ — ‘in him meditation is directly seen’, or ‘one directly seen in meditation’.

“Skandasvāmin and Sāyaṇa both tell a story here. This Itihāsa is well known in the Vājasaneya Brāhmaṇa.

> आथर्वणाय — दधीचे मध्वाख्यं परं ब्रह्म इन्द्र उवाच । प्रोच्यं च यदि वक्ष्यसि शिरस्ते पतिष्यतीति । तमश्विनौ मध्वर्थिनावागत्य ऊचतुः । प्रब्रूहि नौ परं ब्रह्मेति । स तौ प्रत्युवाच । शिरःपातभयान्न ब्रवीमीति । तौ तं प्रत्यूचतुः । अन्यत्ते आवां शिर आदधाहे । तेन प्रब्रूहि । स तथेति प्रपेदे । तस्याश्विनौ शिरश्छित्त्वाश्वशिर आदधाते । तेनासौ तानध्यापयांचकारेति । तदेतदिहोच्यते दध्यङ् ह यदित्यादिना ॥
>
> ātharvaṇāya — dadhīce madhvākhyaṃ paraṃ brahma indra uvāca | procyaṃ ca yadi vakṣyasi śiraste patiṣyatīti | tamaśvinau madhvarthināvāgatya ūcatuḥ | prabrūhi nau paraṃ brahmeti | sa tau pratyuvāca | śiraḥpātabhayānna bravīmīti | tau taṃ pratyūcatuḥ | anyatte āvāṃ śira ādadhāhe | tena prabrūhi | sa tatheti prapede | tasyāśvinau śiraśchittvāśvaśira ādadhāte | tenāsau

tānadhyāpayāṃcakāreti | tadetadihocyate dadhyaṅ ha yadityādinā ‖
[Skandasvāmin; small type; partly doubtful [?]]

— ‘To Dadhyañc, son of Atharvan, Indra taught the supreme Brahman named Madhu, saying “If you tell it to another, your head will fall”. The Aśvins, desiring the honey-knowledge, came and said: “Teach us the supreme Brahman.” He answered: “I do not teach it from fear of my head falling.” They said: “We shall set another head on you; teach with that.” He agreed. The Aśvins cut off his head and put on a horse’s head; with that he taught them. This is what is said here by dadhyaṅ ha yat and so on.’ In Kannada: Indra taught the ṛṣi Dadhyañc, the son of Atharvan, the teaching of the Supreme Brahman, which is known by the name Madhu (Madhu-vidyā), saying ‘if you teach this to anyone else, your head will fall’. The Aśvin deities, eager to obtain the Madhu-vidyā, came to the ṛṣi Dadhyañc and asked him ‘teach us the Supreme Brahman taught in the Madhu-vidyā’. He told them that he would not teach for fear that his head would fall. Then the Aśvin deities said: ‘we shall set another head on you; teach [us]’: hearing it, he agreed. Then the Aśvin deities cut off his head and set on a horse’s head. He taught them the Madhu-vidyā: this is the Itihāsa told in Skandasvāmin’s bhāṣya.”

तदिन्द्रो ज्ञात्वा वज्रेण तच्छिरोऽच्छिनत् । अथाश्विनौ तस्य स्वकीयं मानुषं शिरः प्रत्यधत्ताम् ॥

tadindro jñātvā vajreṇa tacchiro ’cchinat | athāśvinau tasya svakīyaṃ mānuṣaṃ śiraḥ pratyadhattām ‖

“Indra, learning of it, cut off [the horse’s] head with his thunderbolt. Afterwards the Aśvin deities set on him again his own human head.”

Printed p. 246 (PDF 266; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

“Indra, learning of this, cut off the head of the ṛṣi Dadhyañc with his thunderbolt. Afterwards the Aśvin deities set Dadhyañc’s own earlier human head on his body and protected him: this part of the Itihāsa is stated in the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya.”

अश्वस्य शीर्ष्णा वां ईं यदुवाच — Aśvasya śīrṣṇā vāṃ īṃ yad uvāca — “yuṣmat-sāmarthyena pratihitena śirasā yuvābhyām imām madhuvidyāṃ yadā ca uktavān: the power of yours that brought and placed the horse’s head, the fact that the ṛṣi Dadhyañc taught the Madhu-vidyā, and that you, receiving the teaching, protected him by the exchange of heads: this is described in this Ṛk, ‘I make it manifest’.

“The ṛṣi named Dadhyañc or Dadhīca is famous in the Purāṇas and elsewhere. The Bhāṣyakāra tells here a legend: when the ṛṣi Dadhyañc, son of Atharvan, was living, the Asuras, by the sight of him, fled in fear. After he died and went to heaven, the Asuras spread fearlessly over the whole earth. Then Indra sought that ṛṣi for the purpose of fighting these Asuras. [He was told] ‘the ṛṣi has gone to heaven’. Then Indra asked those near him whether any part of the ṛṣi’s limbs remained; they said: ‘Once the ṛṣi Dadhīca taught the Madhu-vidyā to the Aśvin deities; only the head of the horse which was [then] set on him remains; where it is, we do not know.’ Then, when Indra said ‘find it’, they searched and brought it: it had fallen in a lake called Śaryaṇāvat near Kurukṣetra. Indra, with the marrow of the bones of that head, conquered the Asuras: that is, he made futile the nine-hundred-and-ninety [as read — ombhattu sala tombhattu, ‘nine times ninety’]… eight hundred and ten [?] māyā-snares of the Asuras. In explaining this number the Bhāṣyakāra says: for conquering the deities of the three worlds the Asuras first had three kinds of māyā: each of them being threefold as present, past, future, [so] altogether nine kinds. And those nine *māyā*s, joined with the three powers beginning with enthusiasm (utsāha), are 9 × 3 = 27. These, joined with the three *guṇa*s beginning with sattva, are 27 × 3 = 81. These eighty-one *māyā*s, being used in the ten quarters, are altogether 81 × 10 = 810; or nine times ninety, 9 × 90 = 810. Thus Indra rendered fruitless the net of māyā of such [number] of the Asura named Vṛtra (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-84-13 as read [?]) — so he explains.

"Skandasvāmin tells another Itihāsa: in the past there were Asuras named Kālakañja. They became powerful and killed the deities, giving them great trouble. Then the deities [went to Brahmā …]" (continues on p. 247)

Printed p. 247 (PDF 267; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

"… [Skandasvāmin's other Itihāsa, continued:] [the deities], to destroy these Asuras, begged Brahmā to tell them a means: 'O deities, there is a ṛṣi named Dadhyañc; go to him; he will know the proper means for the destruction of the Asuras.' As Brahmā had said, the deities went to the ṛṣi Dadhīca and gave him the message that Brahmā had sent them. That ṛṣi, by yoga-vision, understood the matter for which they had come, and, in the yoga-samādhi, gave up his own life-breaths. Then Indra, with the marrow of that ṛṣi's bones, destroyed the Asuras. This very matter is described in this Ṛk, Skandasvāmin says (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-84-13 [as read; [?]])."

"There is a tradition that the head of Dadhīca was the horse's head, and that it was given to him by the Aśvin deities. After the death of the ṛṣi Dadhīca, Indra sought the head, which had remained as a horse's head. It is described in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-84-13 that it was found fallen in a lake called Śaryaṇāvat, at the foot of a mountain."

"As to how the horse's head came to Dadhīca, Skandasvāmin tells an earlier Itihāsa: Indra taught Dadhīca, the son of Atharvan, the form of the Supreme Brahman known as Madhu, and said 'you must not tell this to anyone; if you tell, your head will fall'. After some time the Aśvin deities came to the ṛṣi Dadhīca; and when they begged him to tell the form of Brahman that Indra had taught, Dadhīca said: 'Indra will say my head will fall; I shall not teach it for fear of that.' The Aśvins then said: 'do not worry about that; we shall give you another head if your head falls.' Dadhīca agreed. Hence, when Dadhīca's head fell, the Aśvin deities cut off a horse's head, brought it and joined it to Dadhīca's body. Hence it is said that Dadhīca's head was like a horse's head: this matter the ṛṣi Kakṣīvān has described in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-116-12 [as read] and 1-117-22 [as read] [the numerals are small [?]].

"The name of this ṛṣi is found in the Ṛgveda Saṃhitā in the Ṛks 1-84-13 ; 1-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 1-117-22 ; 1-119-9 [as read, partly illegible [?]] and others; and in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā 3-?-?-? ; 5-?-?-? [?]; Kāṭhaka Saṃhitā 1?-?; Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa 14-1-1-? ; 14-?-?-? [?], 4-?-?-? ; Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad 2-5-? ; 4-?-? [as read] and other places. (This cluster of reference numerals is too small and blurred to read with confidence; I give them only as these partial readings.)"

The Western scholar Welson [sic — printed in English “Welson”; elsewhere “Wilson”] writes on this matter thus (English, as printed):

> We have here rather obscure allusions to a legend which was probably afterwards modified by the Purana’s in which the name also occurs as Dadhicha. In the Mahabharata, Vana Parva, Vol. I. it is merely related, that the gods, being oppressed by the kalakeya Asuras, solicited from the sage Dadhicha his bones, which he gave them, and from which Twashtri fabricated the thunderbolt with which Indra slew Vritra and routed the Asuras. The legend of the text differs from this ; Indra—having taught the sciences called Pravargya vidya and Madhu-vidya to Dadhyanch, threatened that he would cut off his head if ever he taught them to any one else ; the Aswins prevailed upon him, nevertheless, to teach them the prohibited knowledge, and, to evade Indra’s threat, took off the head of the sage, replacing it by that of a horse ; Indra, apprized of Dadhyanch’s breach of faith, struck off his equine head with the thunderbolt ; on which the Aswins restored to him his own. The Pravargya vidya is said to imply certain verses of the Rik, Yajur, and Sama Vedas, and the Madhu-vidya the Brahmana.

आथर्वणः — Ātharvaṇaḥ — “that the ṛṣi named Atharvan is the father of the ṛṣi Dadhīca is stated in this Ṛk. Mantras that contain many secret and māyā-knowledges are in the Atharvaveda, and it is well known that this Veda has acquired this name because this ṛṣi Atharvan was skilled in these sciences, and was the seer of many sūktas of that Veda.

“The ṛṣi named Atharvan is the original ancestor of a famous group of twenty-one [as read] ṛṣis. In the places where the plural of this word is used, it means the ṛṣi’s descendants. In some places, for example —

> दश रथान्प्रष्टिमतः शतं गा अथर्वभ्यः । अश्वथः पायवे ददात् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-४७-२४ [as read])
>
> daśa rathānpraṣṭimataḥ śataṃ gā atharvabhyaḥ | aśvathaḥ pāyave dadāt ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 6-47-24 [as read])

and other Ṛks, there is praise of the gift: a king named Aśvatha gave to the Atharvan family chariots, cows, and so on.

> अभि ते मधुना पयोऽथर्वाणो अशिश्रयुः । देवं देवाय देवयु ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-११-२ [as read])
>
> abhi te madhunā payo ’tharvāṇo aśiśrayuḥ | devaṃ devāya devayu ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 9-11-2 [as read])

— in this Ṛk the offering, by the Atharvan family, of the Soma juice mixed with milk, to Soma, is described. The name of this ṛṣi is found in the Ṛks

> यज्ञैरथर्वा प्रथमः पथस्तते ततः सूर्यो व्रतपा वेन आजनि । (ऋ. सं. १-८३-५ [as read])
>
> yajñairatharvā prathamaḥ pathastate tataḥ sūryo vratapā vena ājani | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-83-5 [as read])

त्वामग्ने पुष्करादध्यथर्वा निरमन्थत । (ऋ. सं. ६-१६-१३ [as read])

tvāmagne puṣkarādadhyatharvā niramanthata | (ṛ. saṃ. 6-16-13 [as read])

एवा महानृ बृहद्दिवो अथर्वावोचत्स्वां तन्वमिन्द्रमेव । (ऋ. सं. १०-१२०-९ [as read])

evā mahānṛ bṛhaddivo atharvāvocatsvāṃ tanvamindrameva | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-120-9 [as read]) and others. There is a sūkta in the tenth maṇḍala of the Ṛgveda (Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-120 [as read]), addressed to Indra as deity, of which the seer is the ṛṣi named Bṛhaddiva, a descendant of this Atharvan ṛṣi."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 12; grammar page, noted briefly)

sanaye (ṣaṇu "to give"; khanikaṣikaṣyañjiśivasiddhi-nistani-vani-sani-granthibhyaś ceti, Uṇ. 4-?? as read [?], the suffix i; the accent from the suffix on the last syllable; dative singular); kṛṇomi (kṛvi "to injure, to do"; laṭ 1st singular mip; the suffix following, dhinvikṛṇvor a ca, Pā. 3-1-80 as read [?], a is the final substitution, u as vikaraṇa; as it is idit, num augment for the root; the sthānivadbhāva of the a-elision prevents guṇa of the penultimate; nighāta); tanyatuḥ (tanu "to extend"; yutanyañji…, Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?], the suffix yatuc; or stana "to sound"; uṇādayo bahulam, the suffix yatuc; then by Vedic usage elision of the s; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], since the suffix is cit the accent is on the last syllable); vṛṣṭim (vṛṣu "to sprinkle"; vṛṣyate siñcyate anena iti vṛṣṭiḥ, ktin in the instrumental sense; mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā…, Pā. 3-3-96 as read [?], udātta of ktin; the t becomes ṭ, since…

Grammar page of Ṛk 12, concluded (noted briefly): ātharvaṇaḥ (atharvaṇaḥ apatyaṃ pumān — atharvan + aṇ by tasyāpatyam, Pā. 4-1-92 as read [?]; taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ, Pā. 7-2-117 as read [?], vṛddhi of the initial vowel; though ṭi-elision is obtained by the ṭer lopaḥ of the Uṇādi-sūtra [nas taddhite, Pā. 6-4-144 as read [?]], an retains its natural form by an, Pā. 6-4-167 as read [?] (prakṛtibhāva); final accent from the suffix); śīrṣṇā (śīrṣaṃś chandasi, Pā. 6-1-60 as read [?], śīrṣan as a synonym of śiras, an irregular word with final udātta; since the instrumental singular follows, it has bha-designation; ālloponaḥ, Pā. 6-4-134 as read [?], elision of the a of an; since the udātta a … is elided, by anudāttasya ca yatrodāttalopaḥ, Pā. 6-1-?? as read [?], the ending takes udātta); uvāca (brūñ "to speak", vāci "to speak"; in the liṭ, brūvo vaciḥ, Pā. 2-4-53 as read [?]; vaci substituted; doubling by liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya, Pā. 6-1-8 as read [?]; liṭyabhyāsasyobhayeṣām, Pā. 6-1-17 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa of the reduplication; ata upadhāyāḥ, Pā. 7-2-116 as read [?], vṛddhi of the penultimate; since yat precedes no nighāta; as the suffix is ṇit, liti, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?], the accent falls on the syllable before the suffix). ‖ 12 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 13

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.13)

आजोहवीन्नासत्या करा वां महे यामन्पुरुभुजा पुरंधिः । श्रुतं तच्छासुरिव वध्रिमत्या हिरण्यहस्तमश्विनावदत्तम् ॥ १३ ॥

ājohavīnnāsatyā karā vāṃ mahe yāmanpurubhujā puraṃdhiḥ | śrutaṃ tacchāsuriva vadhrimatyā hiraṇyahastamaśvināvadattam ‖ 13 ‖

Printed p. 251 (PDF 271; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.13)

आजोहवीत् । नासत्या । करा । वाम् । महे । यामन् । पुरुऽभुजा । पुरंऽधिः । श्रुतम् । तत् । शासुःऽइव । वध्रिऽमत्याः । हिरण्यऽहस्तम् । अश्विनौ । अदत्तम् ॥ १३ ॥

ājohavīt | nāsatyā | karā | vām | mahe | yāman | puru ’bhujā | puraṃ ’dhiḥ | śrutam | tat | śāsuḥ ’iva | vadhri ’matyāḥ | hiraṇya ’hastam | aśvinau | adattam ‖ 13 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.13)

वध्रिमती नाम कस्यचिद्राजर्षेः पुत्री नपुंसकभर्तृका । सा पुत्रलाभार्थमश्विनावाजुहाव । तदाह्वानं श्रुत्वाश्विनावागत्य तस्यै हिरण्यहस्ताख्यं पुत्रं ददतुः । तदेतदाह । पुरुभुजा बहूनां पालकौ प्रभूतहस्तौ वा हे नासत्यावश्विनौ महे महनीये पूजनीये यामन् यामनि याति गच्छतीति यामः स्तोत्रम् । तस्मिन्नति कराभिमतफलस्य कर्तारौ वां युवां पुरंधिर्बहुधीर्वध्रिमती । वध्रिः पुत्रोत्पादनासक्तः षण्डकः । तद्वती एतत्संज्ञा राजपुत्र्याजोहवीत् । पुनः पुनः स्तुत्या पुत्रलाभार्थमाहूतवती । युवां च वध्रिमत्या आह्वानं श्रुतं । अशृणुतम् । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । शासुरिव । यथा शासुराचार्यस्य वचनं शिष्योऽवहितः सन् शृणोति तद्वत् । श्रुत्वा च हे अश्विनौ तस्यै हिरण्यहस्तं सुवर्णमयोपाणिं हितरमणीयपाणिं वा । एतत्संज्ञं पुत्रमदत्तं । प्रायच्छतम् ॥ आजोहवीत् । ह्वयतेर्यङ्लुगन्ताल्लङ् । यजो वा इति तिप ईडागमः । करा । करोतेः पचाद्यच् । सुपां सुलुगिति विभक्तेराकारः । यामन् । आतो मनिन्क्वनिब्वनिपश्चेति मनिन् । सुपां सुलुगिति सप्तम्या लुक् । श्रुतम् । लङि बहुलं छन्दसीति विकरणस्य लुक् । बहुलं छन्दस्यमाङ्योगेऽपीत्यडभावः । शासुः । शासुः शासु अनुशिष्टौ । शंसिशसिशासीत्यादिना उ. ३-४४ । संज्ञायां त्रन् । इडभावः । छान्दसस्तलोपः ॥ [small type; read letter by letter]

vadhrimatī nāma kasyacidrājarṣeḥ putrī napuṃsakabhartṛkā | sā putralābhārthamaśvināvājuhāva | tadāhvānaṃ śrutvāśvināvāgatya tasyai hiraṇyahastākhyaṃ putraṃ dadatuḥ | tadetadāha | purubhujā bahūnāṃ pālakau prabhūtahastau vā he nāsatyāvaśvinau mahe mahanīye pūjanīye yāman yāmani yāti gacchatīti yāmaḥ stotram | tasminnati karābhimataphalasya kartārau vāṃ yuvāṃ puraṃdhirbahudhīrvadhrimatī | vadhriḥ putrotpādanāsaktaḥ ṣaṇḍakaḥ | tadvatī etatsaṃjñā rājaputryājohavīt | punaḥ punaḥ stutyā putralābhārthamāhūtavatī | yuvāṃ ca vadhrimatyā āhvānaṃ śrutaṃ | aśṛṇutam | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | śāsuriva | yathā śāsurācāryasya vacanaṃ śiṣyo ’vahitaḥ san śṛṇoti tadvat | śrutvā ca he aśvinau tasyai hiraṇyahastaṃ suvarṇamayopāṇiṃ hitaramaṇīyapāṇiṃ vā | etatsaṃjñaṃ putramadattaṃ | prāyacchatam ‖ ājohavīt | hūyateryaṅlugantāllaṅ | yajo vā iti tipa īḍāgamaḥ | karā | karoteḥ pacādyac | supāṃ sulugiti vibhakterākāraḥ | yāman | āto maninkvanibvanipaśceti manin | supāṃ sulugiti saptamyā luk | śrutam | laṅi bahulaṃ chandasīti vikaraṇasya luk | bahulaṃ chandasyamāṅyoge ’pītyaḍabhāvaḥ | śāsuḥ | śāsuḥ śāsu anuśiṣṭau | śaṃsiśasiśāsītyādinā u. 3-44 | saṃjñāyāṃ tran | iḍabhāvaḥ | chāndasastalopaḥ ‖ [small type; read letter by letter]

Sense (mine): "Vadhrimatī was the daughter of a certain royal sage, whose husband was impotent. She called on the Aśvins for the sake of obtaining a son. Hearing her call, the Aśvins came and gave her a son called Hiraṇyahasta. This is what is said: O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, purubhujā, protectors of many, or having abundant hands, in mahe yāman, the great, worshipful yāman — yāma is a hymn ('that which goes') — in that [hymn], who grant the desired fruit: purandhiḥ — the much-minded, vadhrimatī — vadhri is an eunuch incapable of begetting a son; the king's daughter of that name who has such [a husband] — ājohavīt, called, again and again with praise, for obtaining a son. And you heard the call of Vadhrimatī. Illustration: śāsur iva — as a pupil listens attentively to the words of his teacher, so you. And having heard, O Aśvins, you gave her a son named Hiraṇyahasta, 'golden-handed', or having a beautiful hand."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"purubhujā — protectors of many people, or those of great hands; nāsatyā — O Aśvin deities; mahe — worshipful; yāman — hymns (made [by one]); karā — who grant the desired fruit; vām — you two; purandhiḥ — the wise (the princess named Vadhrimatī); ājohavīt —

Printed p. 252 (PDF 272; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

— called again and again (in praise); vadhrimatyāḥ — of Vadhrimatī, who had an impotent man as husband; āhvānam — the call; śāsuḥ iva — like a pupil who listens attentively to the words of his teacher; śrutam — you heard; anantaram — afterwards; aśvinau — O Aśvin deities; hiraṇyahastam — a son named Hiraṇyahasta; adattam — you gave."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, protectors of many people, to Vadhrimatī, a wise woman, who had an impotent husband and who again and again called on you, eager to please you with praise in the proper manner, you listened as a pupil listens attentively to his teacher's words, and gave (favoured her with) a son named Hiraṇyahasta."

English Translation (as printed)

> The intelligent (Vadhrimati) idvoked [sic] you NASATYAS, who are the accomplishers (of desires) and the protectors of many, with a sacred hymn ; herr [sic] prayer was heard, like (the instruction of) a teacher, and you, Aswins, gave to the wife of an impotent husband, Hiranyahasta, her son,

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

पुरुभुजा — Purubhujā — "bahūnāṃ pālakau prabhūtahastau vā": "protectors of many people; or, doing extraordinary giving, having broad hands (ati-dānaśīlau hastau) — so Sāyaṇa says. 'Receivers of many oblations (bahūnāṃ haviṣām abhyavahartārau) or protectors of those who are distressed (ārtānāṃ pālayitārau)', explains Skandasvāmin: Aśvins who accept many oblations or protect the afflicted."

यामन् — Yāman — "yāmani yāti gacchatīti yāmaḥ stotram": "the hymn recited by those who praise. Because the stotṛ and the deity are connected by knowledge, this stuti has the name yāma. Skandasvāmin: 'yāmann iti yoddhāro yasmin sa yāmaḥ saṅgrāmaḥ ihābhipretaḥ' — 'in which warriors go: yāma means battle; here this is meant'; the arena where heroes who fight are gathered for a fight is called a saṅgrāma — so he explains."

वध्रिमती — Vadhrimatī — "vadhriḥ putrotpādanāsaktaḥ ṣaṇḍakaḥ | tadvatī rājaputrī": "vadhri is an impotent man, incapable of producing a son; the princess who has such a husband is vadhrimatī" — Sāyaṇa so explains the name of one whose husband is such an impotent man.

Printed p. 253 (PDF 273; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …") [Special Topics of Ṛk 13, continued]

"… vadhrimatī — 'she who has an impotent man as husband': so Sāyaṇa explains. Skandasvāmin —

> वध्रिमती नाम योधी शत्रुभिः सङ्ग्रामे छिन्नहस्ता । अश्विनौ तुष्टाव । तस्याः अश्विनौ हिरण्यहस्तं ददतुः इति ॥
>
> vadhrimatī nāma yodhī śatrubhiḥ saṅgrāme chinnahastā | aśvinau tuṣṭāva | tasyāḥ aśvinau hiraṇyahastaṃ dadatuḥ iti ‖

— vadhrimatī is the name of a woman warrior (yodhī) in battle, whose hand was cut off by enemies; she praised the Aśvins; to her the Aśvins gave a golden hand [hiraṇyahastam]." "Skandasvāmin explains the meaning of the word vadhrimatī as 'the woman who fights (the princess named Vadhrimatī) in a battle, who has lost a hand [cut off] in the war with the enemies'. Though Skandasvāmin and Sāyaṇa, in giving the meaning of this Ṛk, have different intentions in different places, in the matter that they favoured her with a son named Hiraṇyahasta the intention of both is of one kind. Sāyaṇa, explaining that since the word vadhri means 'impotent', she who has him as husband is vadhrimatī, relates the Itihāsa that a princess who had an impotent husband praised the Aśvin deities greatly and pleased them; they, pleased with her praise, appeared to her in person and gave her the boon that a son named Hiraṇyahasta should be born as she wished. Skandasvāmin, however, says that the woman warrior named Vadhrimatī, her hand cut off by enemies in battle, praised the Aśvin deities; they made her hand as it was before, according to her wish; and, saying that the hand too was golden:

हिरण्यहस्तः — Hiraṇyahastaḥ — "hiraṇmayau hastau yasmin sa hiraṇyahastaḥ | bāhuḥ": "the word hiraṇya means 'gold'. Hence he explains that he is 'one who has golden arms'. Sāyaṇa explains the word hiraṇyahasta as 'one with beautiful (hitaramaṇīya, pleasant) hands, [giving] comfort', or as 'one who has the name Hiraṇyahasta', as a qualifier of the son."

शासुरिव — Śāsur iva — "the Aśvin deities, hearing the praises of those who praise them, as a pupil listens attentively to the teacher's teaching, fulfil their wishes: this is the meaning of the word śāsur iva."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 13; grammar page, noted briefly)

ājohavīt (hveñ "to compete, to call"; to express intensity, dhātor ekācaḥ halādeḥ kriyāsamabhihāre yaṅ, Pā. 3-1-22 as read [?]; to it yaṅo vā, Pā. 2-4-74 as read [?], elision of the yaṅ; the doubling by sanyaṅoḥ, Pā. 6-1-9 as read [?]; yajo vā… the laṅ 3rd singular tip, and for that īṭ augment; guṇo yaṅluk…, kuhoś cuḥ [c for the reduplication's h]; guṇa; ūḍ…; aṭ; the word begins with a pāda, no nighāta; the augment being udātta, the word takes first-syllable accent).

Printed p. 254 (PDF 274; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

Grammar page, continued: ājohavīt (… the augment īṭ by yaṅo vā [sic as printed] …); karā (ḍukṛñ "to do"; since it belongs to the pacādi group, nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ, Pā. 3-1-134 as read [?], ac; as ac is the suffix, guṇa of the root's ṛ; raparatva; as the dual ending follows, supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent); mahe (mah "to honour"; as before ac; locative singular); yāman (yā "to go"; āto manin kvanib vanipaś ca, Pā. 3-2-74 as read [?], the suffix manin; the word yāman; with the locative singular following, supāṃ sulug, elision); purubhujā (bhuj "to protect, to enjoy"; kvip ca, Pā. 3-2-76 as read [?], kvip; puru bhujau yayoḥ purubhujau; with the dual, supāṃ sulug, ā; āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?], nighāta); purandhiḥ (for bahudhīḥ, by pṛṣodarādīni yathopadiṣṭam, Pā. 6-3-109 as read [?], the formation purandhi; karmaṇy adhikaraṇe ca, Pā. 3-3-93 as read [?], ki for the root dhā); śrutam (śru "to hear"; laṅ 2nd dual; tasthasthamipāṃ…, tam; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 2-4-73 as read [?], elision of the vikaraṇa; since sārvadhātukam apit makes it ṅit, no guṇa of the root; bahulaṃ chandasy amāṅyoge 'pi, Pā. 6-4-75 as read [?], no augment aṭ; since the word begins a pāda no nighāta; the accent of the suffix on the last syllable); śāsuḥ (this is the form for śāstuḥ; śāsu "to instruct"; śaṃsiśasiśāsi…, Uṇ. 3-?? as read [?], the tṛn suffix, as the suffix has śāsu as the saṃjñā, aniṭ, no iṭ; in the Veda elision of the t); adattam (ḍudāñ "to give", laṅ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 13 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 14

Printed p. 255 (PDF 275; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.14)

आस्नो वृकस्य वर्तिकामभीके युवं नरा नासत्यामुमुक्तम् । उतो कविं पुरुभुजा युवं ह कृपमाणमकृणुतं विचक्षे ॥ १४ ॥

āsno vṛkasya vartikāmabhīke yuvaṃ narā nāsatyāmumuktam | uto kaviṃ purubhujā yuvaṃ ha kṛpamāṇamakṛṇutaṃ vicakṣe ‖ 14 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.14)

आस्नः । वृकस्य । वर्तिकाम् । अभीके । युवम् । नरा । नासत्या । अमुमुक्तम् । उतो इति । कविम् । पुरुऽभुजा । युवम् । ह । कृपमाणम् । अकृणुतम् । विऽचक्षे ॥ १४ ॥

āsnaḥ | vṛkasya | vartikām | abhīke | yuvam | narā | nāsatyā | amumuktam | uto iti | kavim | puru 'bhujā | yuvam | ha | kṛpamāṇam | akṛṇutam | vi 'cakṣe ‖ 14 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.14)

वर्तिका चटकसदृशस्य पक्षिणः स्त्री । तामरण्ये वर्तमानेन शुना ग्रस्तां पुरा किलाश्विनावमोचयताम् । तदेतदाह । हे नरा नेतारौ नासत्यावश्विनौ युवं युवामभीके भीगते [?] वृकवर्तिकयोः सङ्ग्रामे वृकस्य विकर्तकस्य शुन आस्नः आस्यादत्तिकां

चटकसदृशीमुमुक्तम् । अमोचयतम् । यास्कस्त्वाह । पुनः पुनर्वर्तते प्रतिदिवसमावर्तत इति वर्तिकोषाः । तां वृकेणावरकेण सर्वजगत्प्रकाशनाच्छादयित्रा सूर्येण ग्रस्तां तदीयमुखादश्विनावमुञ्चतामिति । उतोऽपि च पुरुभुजा महाबाहू प्रभूतहस्तौ वा युवं ह युवां खलु कृपमाणं स्तुवन्तं कविं विक्रान्तं मन्त्रवृषिं विचक्षे विशेषेण द्रष्टुं [समर्थमकृणुतं ।] आकुरुतम् ॥ आस्नः । पद्दन्नित्यादिनास्यशब्दस्यासन्नादेशः । आल्लोपोनः । इत्यकारलोपः । उदात्तनिवृत्तिस्वरेणोदिति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । अमुमुक्तम् । मुचेर्लङ्तर्थे लिङ्बहुलं छन्दसीति विकरणस्य श्लुः । कृपः स्तुतिरिति … ताः तुदादिषु द्रष्टव्यः । विचक्षे । तुमर्थे सेसेनसेति सेप्रत्ययः । स्कोः संयोगाद्योरिति सलोपः ॥ [small type; read letter by letter; doubtful words [?]]

vartikā caṭakasadṛśasya pakṣiṇaḥ strī | tāmaraṇye vartamānena śunā grastāṃ purā kilāśvināvamocayatām | tadetadāha | he narā netārau nāsatyāvaśvinau yuvaṃ yuvāmabhīke bhīgate [?] vṛkavartikayoḥ saṅgrāme vṛkasya vikartakasya śuna āsnaḥ āsyādattikāṃ caṭakasadṛśīmumuktam | amocayatam | yāskastvāha | punaḥ punarvartate pratidivasamāvartata iti vartikoṣāḥ | tāṃ vṛkeṇāvarakeṇa sarvajagatprakāśanācchādayitrā sūryeṇa grastāṃ tadīyamukhādaśvināvamuñcatāmiti | uto 'pi ca purubhujā mahābāhū prabhūtahastau vā yuvaṃ ha yuvāṃ khalu kṛpamāṇaṃ stuvantaṃ kaviṃ vikrāntaṃ mantravṛṣiṃ vicakṣe viśeṣeṇa draṣṭuṃ [samarthamakṛṇutaṃ |] ākurutam ‖ āsnaḥ | paddannityādināsyaśabdasyāsannādeśaḥ | ālloponaḥ | ityakāralopaḥ | udāttanivṛttisvareṇoditi vibhakterudāttatvam | amumuktam | mucerlaṅtarthe liṅbahulaṃ chandasīti vikaraṇasya śluḥ | kṛpaḥ stutiriti … tāḥ tudādiṣu draṣṭavyaḥ | vicakṣe | tumarthe sesenaseti sepratyayaḥ | skoḥ saṃyogādyoriti salopaḥ ‖ [small type; read letter by letter; doubtful words [?]]

Sense (mine): "Vartikā is the female of a bird like the sparrow (caṭaka). Once, it is said, the Aśvins released her when she was seized by a dog [wolf] that was in the forest. This is what is said: O leaders, Nāsatyas, Aśvins, abhīke — in the battle between the vṛka (wolf) and the vartikā — you released the quail-like vartikā from the mouth (āsnaḥ) of the vṛka, the tearer, the dog. [Yāska says: vartikā 'she who returns again and again', that is, Uṣas; the vṛka, the coverer — the Sun, who covers by illuminating the whole world — had seized her; the Aśvins released her from his mouth.] And further, O purubhujā (great-armed, or having many hands), yuvaṃ ha, you indeed made kavim, the courageous ṛṣi, who was kṛpamāṇam, praising, vicakṣe, able to see well."

Printed p. 256 (PDF 276; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"narā — leaders; he nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; yuvam — you two; abhīke — in battle; vṛkasya — of the dog (wolf); āsnaḥ — from the mouth; vartikām — the bird called vartikā (the quail); amumuktam — you released; uto — and; purubhujā — O mighty-armed; yuvam ha — you; kṛpamāṇam — one who praises; kavim — the (blind) ṛṣi named Kavi; vicakṣe — to see well; akṛṇutam — you made (capable)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O leader Nāsatyas, you two released the bird called vartikā from the mouth of the wolf, in the battle between the wolf and the vartikā. And you, of mighty arms, favoured the (blind) ṛṣi named Kavi, who praises [you], with the power to see well.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, leaders, you liberated the quail from the mouth of the dog that had seized her, and you, who are benefactors of many, have granted to the sage who praises you, to behold (true wisdom).

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अभीके — Abhīke — “vṛkavartikayoḥ saṅgrāme ābhigate”: “the word abhīka is stated among the twenty-four [as read] names of saṅgrāma (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]) and among the sixteen [as read] names of words denoting the quarters (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]). Here saṅgrāma means ‘battle’: in a forest, a dog (wolf) and a quail; when the dog caught the quail, the Aśvin deities saved the quail that was caught in the dog’s mouth: this Itihāsa is conveyed by the words. Another meaning is also manifest here: that Uṣas was released from the Sun. In this meaning Yāska explains the word vartikā as ‘Uṣas’, since she comes every day and repeats again and again; the Sun, who illumines the whole world with his own light and releases it, is the one to be denoted by the word vṛka because he covers this Uṣas also (the one who lets go): Uṣas is seized by the vṛka with this light. Therefore, to convey the meaning — ‘the Aśvin deities released Uṣas, who was seized by the Sun’ — he says the sentence ‘punaḥ punar vartate pratidivasam āvartate iti vartikā uṣāḥ’ (Ni. 5-?? as read [?]).

Printed p. 257 (PDF 277; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”; footer signature mark “IX 17”)

वृकस्य — Vṛkasya — “vikartakasya: atiśayena hiṃsāṃ karoti iti”: “the word vṛka is stated among the eighteen [as read] names of vajra (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]) and among the fourteen [as read] names of thieves (stena) (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]). And —

> वृकः वृक्षश्चन्द्रमा भवति विवृतज्योतिष्को वा विकृतज्योतिष्को वा विक्रान्तज्योतिष्को वा ॥ (नि. ५-२० [as read])
>
> vṛkaḥ vṛkṣaścandramā bhavati vivṛtajyotiṣko vā vikṛtajyotiṣko vā vikrāntajyotiṣko vā ‖ (ni. 5-20 [as read])

— because it is of shining light, or because by its excess of cool (śītakara) light it disfigures the others, or because it has more light than the planets, stars and the like, the moon is denoted by the word vṛka: thus Yāska explains the meaning of the word vṛka —

> अरुणो मा सकृद्वृकः पथा यन्तं ददर्श हि । उज्जिहीते निचाय्या तष्टेव पृष्ट्यामयी वित्तं मे अस्य रोदसी ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१०५-१८ [as read])
>
> aruṇo mā sakṛdvṛkaḥ pathā yantaṃ dadarśa hi | ujjihīte nicāyyā taṣṭeva pṛṣṭyāmayī vittaṃ me asya rodasī ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-105-18 [as read])

as an example, and —

अरुण आरोचनो मासकृन्मासानां चार्धमासानां च कर्ता भवति चन्द्रमा वृकः पथा यन्तं ददर्श नक्षत्रगणमभिजिहीते निचाय्य येन येन योक्ष्यमाणो भवति चन्द्रमास्तष्टेव पृष्ट्यामयी जानीतं मे वाक्यस्य द्यावापृथिव्याविति ॥ (नि. ५-२१ [as read])

aruṇa ārocano māsakṛnmāsānāṃ cārdhamāsānāṃ ca kartā bhavati candramā vṛkaḥ pathā yantaṃ dadarśa nakṣatragaṇamabhijihīte nicāyya yena yena yokṣyamāṇo bhavati candramāstaṣṭeva pṛṣṭyāmayī jānītaṃ me vākyasya dyāvāpṛthivyāviti ‖ (ni. 5-21 [as read]) — in this Ṛk the word vṛka is explained as meaning the moon.

आदित्योऽपि वृक उच्यते । यदावृङ्क्ते [?] (नि. ५-२१)

ādityo 'pi vṛka ucyate | yadāvṛṅkte [?] (ni. 5-21)

— the sun too is called vṛka, because he covers (releases) darkness with his own light or with his rays; and saying this, he cites

आजोहवीदश्विना वर्तिका वामास्नो यत्सीमुमुञ्चतं वृकस्य । वि जयुषा ययथुः साद्वदे जातं विष्वाचो अहतं विषेण ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-८ [as read])

ājohavīdaśvinā vartikā vāmāsno yatsīmumuñcataṃ vṛkasya | vi jayuṣā yayathuḥ sādvade jātaṃ viṣvāco ahataṃ viṣeṇa ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-8 [as read]) as an example, and āhuḥ — 'the Aśvin deities released Uṣas, seized by the Sun' — so he explains, saying that vṛka is the Āditya.

Printed p. 258 (PDF 278; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

श्वापि वृक उच्यते विकर्तनात् ॥ (नि. ५-२१ [as read]) śvāpi vṛka ucyate vikartanāt ‖ (ni. 5-21 [as read])

— vṛka means 'dog'. As an example —

वृकश्चिदस्य वारण उरामथिरा वयुनेषु भूषति । सेमं नः स्तोमं जुजुषाण आ गहीन्द्र प्र चित्रया धिया ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-६६-८ [as read])

vṛkaścidasya vāraṇa urāmathirā vayuneṣu bhūṣati | semaṃ naḥ stomaṃ jujuṣāṇa ā gahīndra pra citrayā dhiyā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 8-66-8 [as read])

[he gives this Ṛk and says] 'he cuts (vikṛntati) variously; since while eating it cuts the food into bits and eats, the dog is called vṛka. In this Ṛk the word vṛka is explained as meaning 'the dog of the deities, Saramā''."

वृद्धा वाशिन्यपि वृकी उच्यते । (नि. ५-२१)

vṛddhā vāśinyapi vṛkī ucyate | (ni. 5-21)

— "whether an old woman or a she-wolf, vṛkī is the name: so he says; to support this meaning —

शतं मेषान्वृक्ये चक्षदानमृज्राश्वं तं पिताऽन्धं चकार । तस्मा अक्षी नासत्या विचक्ष आधत्तं दस्रा भिषजावनर्वन् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-१६ [as read])

śataṃ meṣānvṛkye cakṣadānamṛjrāśvaṃ taṃ pitā 'ndhaṃ cakāra | tasmā akṣī nāsatyā vicakṣa ādhattaṃ dasrā bhiṣajāvanarvan ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-16 [as read])

he cites this Ṛk and explains that the word vṛkyai here means 'for a woman' or 'for a she-wolf'. Thus, showing that the word vṛka has many meanings, he cites various examples.

"Skandasvāmin says: 'the Aśvins, seeing the vartikā (quail) being swallowed by the vṛka, released her from its mouth, as Sāyaṇa too explains: the Aśvin deities released and saved the quail from the dog's mouth' — and he cites

याभिर्वर्तिकां ग्रसितामुमुक्तं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विनागतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-८ [as read]) yābhirvartikāṃ grasitāmumuktaṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvināgatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-8 [as read])

as an example."

कृपमाणम् — Kṛpamāṇam — "stuvantam": "the meaning is 'one who is praising'. Skandasvāmin: 'kṛpaṇyati', since the word kṛpaṇyati is stated among the forty-four [as read] words of the arcati-group of actions (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), and since kṛpā is read among the thirteen [as read] names of praise (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), the word kṛpā conveys the meaning 'praise'; explaining thus, [he cites] kṛpākṛpaṇyatītyarcati karmasu …" (the sentence is cut at the foot of the page and continues on p. 259).

Printed p. 259 (PDF 279; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

(Special Topics of Ṛk 14, concluded:) "… pāt kṛpaṇyatīti stotranāmasu ca pāt kṛpiḥ stutyarthaḥ iti gamyate [as read; the Sanskrit is in small type, partly doubtful [?]] — explaining thus, [Skandasvāmin] explains that the Aśvin deities favoured the ṛṣi named Kavi, who was blind and who praised them, and who wanted eyesight, and made him able to see all things; and to support this meaning

युवं कण्वायापिरिप्ताय चक्षुः प्रत्यधत्तं सुष्टुतिं जुजुषाणा ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११७-८ [as read])

yuvaṃ kaṇvāyāpiriptāya cakṣuḥ pratyadhattaṃ suṣṭutiṃ jujuṣāṇā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-117-8 [as read])

याभिः कण्वं प्रसिषासन्तमावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विनागतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-५ [as read; the same number as printed earlier for another Ṛk]) yābhiḥ kaṇvaṃ prasiṣāsantamāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvināgatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-5 [as read; the same number as printed earlier for another Ṛk])

these Ṛks are cited."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 14; grammar page, noted briefly)

āsnaḥ (the word āsya; when the ablative singular follows, pad-dan-no-más-hṛn-niś-yūṣan-doṣan-yakañ-chakann-udan-āsañ-chasprabhṛtiṣu, Pā. 6-1-63 as read [?], āsan is substituted; since it is bha-designated, ālloponaḥ, Pā. 6-4-134 as read [?], elision of the a of an; since the udātta a is elided, ūḍidaṃpadādi, Pā. 6-1-171 as read [?], the ending takes udātta); yuvam

(prathamāyāś ca dvivacane bhāṣāyām, Pā. 7-2-88 as read [?], āttva arises only in the language, not in the Veda); amumuktam (muc “to release”; since the causal sense is meant, the root has the meaning of an implicit ṇic; laṅ 2nd dual tam; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 2-4-73 as read [?], śluḥ for the vikaraṇa; ślau, Pā. 6-1-10 as read [?], doubling of the root; halādiśeṣa; coḥ kuḥ, Pā. 7-3-52 as read [?], k for c; the augment aṭ; nighāta); kṛpamāṇam (the root kṛp is read in the sense of praise; tudādi; śānac in the laṭ sense; tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ, Pā. 3-1-77 as read [?], śa as vikaraṇa; since sārvadhātukam apit makes it ṅit, no guṇa; āne muk, Pā. 7-2-82 as read [?], the muk augment; as adupadeśa the sārvadhātuka is unaccented, hence tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], it is unaccented; the vikaraṇa accent being later, vṛṣādīnāṃ ca, Pā. 6-1-203 as read [?], first-syllable accent).

Printed p. 260 (PDF 280; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

Grammar page, concluded: akṛṇutam (kṛvi “to injure, to do”; laṅ 2nd dual tam; dhinvikṛṇvor a ca, Pā. 3-1-80 as read [?], u with the final a, so uvikaraṇa is not [the other kind]; as it is idit, num for the root; nighāta); vicakṣe (cakṣiṅ “to speak clearly”, adādi; tumartha se-sen-ase…, Pā. 3-4-9 as read [?], the suffix se; skoḥ saṃyogādyor ante ca, Pā. 8-2-29 as read [?], elision of the k of the root; the p → kṣ …; ṣatva of the s; as the suffix is nit, jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent; kṛn mejantaḥ, Pā. 1-1-39 as read [?], since it ends in e it is an avyaya). ‖ 14 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 15

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.15)

चरित्रं हि वेरिवाच्छेदि पर्णमाजा खेलस्य परितक्म्यायाम् । सद्यो जङ्घामायसीं विश्पलायै धने हिते सर्तवे प्रत्यधत्तम् ॥ १५ ॥

caritraṃ hi verivācchedi parṇamājā khelasya paritakmyāyām | sadyo jaṅghāmāyasīṃ viśpalāyai dhane hite sartave pratyadhattam ‖ 15 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.15)

चरित्रम् । हि । वेःऽइव । अच्छेदि । पर्णम् । आजा । खेलस्य । परिऽतक्म्यायाम् । सद्यः । जङ्घाम् । आयसीम् । विश्पलायै । धने । हिते । सर्तवे । प्रति । अधत्तम् ॥ १५ ॥

caritram | hi | veḥ ’iva | acchedi | parṇam | ājā | khelasya | pari ’takmyāyām | sadyaḥ | jaṅghām | āyasīm | viśpalāyai | dhane | hite | sartave | prati | adhattam ‖ 15 ‖

Printed p. 261 (PDF 281; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.15)

अगस्त्यपुरोहितः खेलो नाम राजा । तस्य सम्बन्धिनी विश्पला नाम स्त्री सङ्ग्रामे शत्रुभिश्छिन्नपादासीत् । पुरोहितेनागस्त्येन स्तुतावश्विनौ रात्रावागत्याद्योमयं पादं समधत्तां । तदेतदाह । आजा आजौ सङ्ग्रामे ऽगस्त्यपुरोहितस्य खेलस्य सम्बन्ध्याः विश्पलाख्यायाश्चरित्रं चरणं वेरिव वेः पक्षिणः पर्णं पतत्रमिवाच्छेदि हि । पुरा भिन्नमभूत्खलु । हे अश्विनौ युवामगस्त्येन स्तुतौ सन्तौ परितक्म्यायां रात्रौ । परितक्म्यां रात्रिः परित एनां तकेतीति यास्कः । नि.११-२१ । एनामुभयतः सूर्यो गच्छतीति तस्यार्थः । रात्रावागत्य

सद्यस्तदानीमेव हिते शत्रुषु निहिते धने जेतव्ये विषयभूते सति सर्तवे सर्तुं गन्तुं विश्पलाया आयसीमयोमयीं जङ्घां जङ्घोपलक्षितं पादं प्रत्यधत्तं । सन्धानमेकीकरणं कृतवन्ताविस्यर्थः ॥ चरित्रम् । अर्तिलूधूसूखनसहचर इत्रः इति करणे इत्रः । आजा । सुपां सुलुगिति विभक्तेर्डादेशः । आयसीम् । अयोऽशब्दाद्विकारार्थे प्राणिरजतादिभ्योऽञ् । पा. ४-३-१५४ । टिड्ढाणञित्यादिना ङीप् ॥

agastyapurohitaḥ khelo nāma rājā | tasya sambandhinī viśpalā nāma strī saṅgrāme śatrubhiśchinnapādāsīt | purohitenāgastyena stutāvaśvinau rātrāvāgatyādyomayaṃ pādaṃ samadhattāṃ | tadetadāha | ājā ājau saṅgrāme 'gastyapurohitasya khelasya sambandhyāḥ viśpalākhyāyāścaritraṃ caraṇaṃ veriva veḥ pakṣiṇaḥ parṇaṃ patatramivācchedi hi | purā bhinnamabhūtkhalu | he aśvinau yuvāmagastyena stutau santau paritakmyāyāṃ rātrau | paritakmyāṃ rātriḥ parita enāṃ taketīti yāskaḥ | ni. 11-21 | enāmubhayataḥ sūryo gacchatīti tasyārthaḥ | rātrāvāgatya sadyastadānīmeva hite śatruṣu nihite dhane jetavye viṣayabhūte sati sartave sartuṃ gantuṃ viśpalāyā āyasīmayomayīṃ jaṅghāṃ jaṅghopalakṣitaṃ pādaṃ pratyadhattaṃ | sandhānamekīkaraṇaṃ kṛtavantāvisyarthaḥ ‖ caritram | artilūdhūsūkhanasahacara itraḥ iti karaṇe itraḥ | ājā | supāṃ sulugiti vibhakterḍādeśaḥ | āyasīm | ayo 'śabdādvikārārthe prāṇirajatādibhyo 'ñ | pā. 4-3-154 | ṭiḍḍhāṇañityādinā ṅīp ‖

Sense (mine): "Khela was a king whose priest was Agastya. His [relation] Viśpalā, a woman, had had her foot cut off by enemies in battle. Agastya, the priest, praised the Aśvins, who came at night and fitted an iron foot. This is what is said: ājā — in the battle, [in] the battle of Khela whose priest was Agastya, the caritra, the foot, of Viśpalā was cut off like a bird's wing (vaḥ iva parṇam), the patatra; formerly it had been broken. O Aśvins, you, praised by Agastya, in paritakmyāyām, in the night (paritakmyā = 'night': Yāska: 'it goes around this'; Ni. 11-?? as read [?]; the sense: 'the Sun goes on both sides of it'), came, and at once, when wealth was placed [in the enemies], at the time of the contest, for going — for sartave — you fitted to Viśpalā an āyasī, iron, jaṅghā (that is, a foot indicated by the shank): you united it, made it one."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"(he aśvinau — O Aśvin deities); ājā — in battle; khelasya — of the king named Khela (belonging to him); viśpalāyāḥ [as printed viśpalā, the woman]; caritram — the foot; veḥ — of a bird; parṇam iva — like a wing; acchedi hi — was cut; paritakmyāyām — at night (you two, when praised by Agastya, the priest of Khela, came); sadyaḥ — at once; hite — placed [by the enemies]; dhane — for the sake of wealth; sartave — to go (to run for the purpose); viśpalāyai — for Viśpalā; āyasīm — made of iron; jaṅghām — foot; pratyadhattam — you joined (gave)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, in battle, to Viśpalā, [the wife] of Khela, whose foot was cut off like a bird's wing — you two, praised by his priest, the sage Agastya, came at night and, so that she might run to win the wealth placed by the enemies, joined an iron foot."

English Translation (as printed)

The foot of (Vispala, the wife of) Khela, was cut off, like the wing of a bird, in an engagement by night ; immediately you gave her an iron leg, that she might walk, the hidden treasure (of the enemy being the object of the conflict).

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

परितक्म्यायाम् — Paritakmyāyām — "paritakmyā rātriḥ": "'night'. Yāska: 'parita enāṃ takti' (Ni. 11-?? as read [?]), 'enāṃ sūryo ubhayataḥ gacchatīti tasyārthaḥ': 'the Sun goes to both sides of her'. The word paritakmyā is [used] for night, because the Sun, being [in the position] at both the beginning of the night and at its end, [goes about it]. Skandasvāmin explains paritakmyāyām as 'senāyāṃ vartamānāyām': 'when there was an army'. King Khela had made the ṛṣi Agastya his house-priest. He had a wife named Viśpalā. While the battle was being fought against the enemies, the woman Viśpalā's foot was cut off and lost. Then, to get a foot for Viśpalā, the ṛṣi Agastya praised the Aśvin deities; and the Aśvin deities came at night and, in place of the cut-off feet [sic: foot], joined iron feet so that she could walk with her feet [again]: this Itihāsa is told here. This matter is described in the Ṛks —

> याभिर्विश्पलां धनसामथर्व्यं सहस्रमीळ्ह आजावजिन्वतम् । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१० [as read])
>
> yābhirviśpalāṃ dhanasāmatharvyaṃ sahasramīḷha ājāvajinvatam | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-10 [as read])
>
> अगस्त्यो ब्रह्मणा वावृधानः सं विश्पलां नासत्या परिणीतम् [?] । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-११ [as read])
>
> agastyo brahmaṇā vāvṛdhānaḥ saṃ viśpalāṃ nāsatyā pariṇītam [?] | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-11 [as read])
>
> अमुञ्चतं वर्तिकामंहसो निः प्रति जङ्घां विश्पलाया अधत्तम् । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-८ [as read])
>
> amuñcataṃ vartikāmaṃhaso niḥ prati jaṅghāṃ viśpalāyā adhattam | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-8 [as read])
>
> युवं वन्दनमृश्यादुदूपथुर्युवं सद्यो विश्पलामेतवे कृथः । (ऋ. सं. १०-३९-८ [as read])"
>
> yuvaṃ vandanamṛśyādudūpathuryuvaṃ sadyo viśpalāmetave kṛthaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-39-8 [as read])"

चरित्रम् — Caritram — "caraṇam: Sāyaṇa explains caritra as 'foot' (pāda), 'that by which one goes'; the foot is the instrument for going; Skandasvāmin explains that jaṅghā — the shank — is here intended: it is the means of motion, the means of walking."

Printed p. 263 (PDF 283; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

धने हिते — Dhane hite — "in the expression dhane hite the locative is a locative of cause (nimitta saptamī): the word nimitta is used for the purpose (prayojana). In this meaning it is accepted as being the cause; therefore hitam dhanam prāptum yaḥ anīkaḥ prakrāntaḥ saṅgrāmaḥ tasya gamanasya vyāghātārtham: 'for wealth that was favourable, the war that was begun — in order to avoid the obstruction to the going' — it is explained that the iron foot was joined so that she might go without hindrance in the war undertaken for gaining the wealth. Sāyaṇa explains: 'śatruṣu nihite dhane jetavye viṣayabhūte sati' — in the war made in order to conquer and make one's own the wealth that is in the enemies' possession."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 15; grammar page, noted briefly)

caritram (cara “to move, to eat”; artilūdhūsūkhanasahacara itraḥ, Pā. 3-2-184 as read [?], the suffix itra, used here in the instrumental sense; from the suffix the middle syllable is accented); acchedi (chidir “to cut”; luṅ 3rd singular ta in the passive; ciṇ bhāvakarmaṇoḥ, Pā. 3-1-66 as read [?], ciṇ for cli; guṇa of the penultimate because of that; ciṇo luk, Pā. 6-4-104 as read [?], the elision of the following ta; augment aṭ; because hi is joined, no nighāta; hiche [as printed], the prohibition by Pā. 8-1-34 as read [?]; the augment being udātta, the word has first-syllable accent); ājā (aj + ji, the root aj [with āji]; the locative singular with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ḍā; since it is ḍit the ṭi is elided; by the cessation of udātta, the ending is accented udātta); āyasīm (ayasaḥ vikāraḥ — in the sense of ‘a product of it’, prāṇirajatādibhyo ’ñ, Pā. 4-3-154 as read [?], the suffix añ; taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ, Pā. 7-2-117 as read [?], vṛddhi; the feminine by ṭiḍḍhāṇañ…, Pā. 4-1-15 as read [?], ṅīp; yasyeti ca, Pā. 6-4-148 as read [?], elision of the a; jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent); hite (ḍudhāñ “to hold, to nourish”; niṣṭhā, kta; dadhāter hiḥ, Pā. 7-4-42 as read [?], hi for the root; final accent from the suffix; locative singular).

Printed p. 264 (PDF 284; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

Grammar page, concluded: sartave (sṛ “to go”; tumartha se-sen-ase-asen-…, Pā. 3-4-9 as read [?], the suffix tavenṛ [taven]; guṇa of the root’s ṛ with raparatva; since kṛn mejantaḥ, Pā. 1-1-39 as read [?], it has avyaya status); adhattam (ḍudhāñ “to hold, to nourish”; laṅ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 15 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 16

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.16)

शतं मेषान्वृक्ये चक्षदानमृज्राश्वं तं पिताऽन्धं चकार । तस्मा अक्षी नासत्या विचक्ष आधत्तं दस्रा भिषजावनर्वन् ॥ १६ ॥

śataṃ meṣānvṛkye cakṣadānamṛjrāśvaṃ taṃ pitā ’ndhaṃ cakāra | tasmā akṣī nāsatyā vicakṣa ādhattaṃ dasrā bhiṣajāvanarvan ‖ 16 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.16)

शतम् । मेषान् । वृक्ये । चक्षदानम् । ऋज्रऽअश्वम् । तम् । पिता । अन्धम् । चकार । तस्मै । अक्षी इति । नासत्या । विऽचक्षे । आ । अधत्तम् । दस्रा । भिषजौ । अनर्वन् ॥ १६ ॥

śatam | meṣān | vṛkye | cakṣadānam | ṛjra ’aśvam | tam | pitā | andham | cakāra | tasmai | akṣī iti | nāsatyā | vi ’cakṣe | ā | adhattam | dasrā | bhiṣajau | anarvan ‖ 16 ‖

Printed p. 265 (PDF 285; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.16)

वृषागिरः पुत्र ऋज्राश्वो नाम राजर्षिः । तस्य समीपे ऽश्विनोर्वाहनभूतो रासभो वृकी भूत्वावतस्थे । स च तस्या आहारार्थमेकोत्तरशतसंख्याकान्मेषान् [?] स्वभूतानेषां शकलीकृत्य प्रददौ । ऋज्राश्वः शतमेकं च मेषानिति मन्त्रान्तरे दर्शनात् । एवं पौरामाहिते प्रवृत्तं पिता शापेन नेत्रहीनमकरोत् । तेन स्तूयमानावश्विनावस्मद्वाहननिमित्तमस्यान्धं जातमिति जानन्तौ

तस्मा अक्षिणी प्रायच्छतामिति । तदेतदाह । अत्र तच्छब्दश्रुतेर्यच्छब्दाध्याहारः । यं ऋज्राश्वः शतं शतसंख्याकान्मेषान्वृक्यै आत्मना पोषितायै वृकस्त्रियै शकलीकृत्य प्रादात् । तं चक्षदानं क्षदतेरत्तिकर्मणः शकलीकरणार्थं शकलीकृत्य दत्तवन्तमृज्राश्वं पिता शापेनान्धं दृष्टिहीनं चकार । कृतवान् । हे नासत्या सत्यस्वभावौ सत्यस्य नेतारौ वा भिषजौ देवानां वैद्यभूतौ । अश्विनौ वै देवानां भिषजौ । ऐ. ब्रा. १-१८ । इति श्रुतेः । दस्रा दर्शनीयौ वेतत्संज्ञौ वा हे अश्विनावनर्वन्ननर्वणे दृष्टव्यं प्रति पित्रृशापाद्गमनरहिते अक्षी चक्षुषी विचक्षे विविधं द्रष्टुं समर्थे तस्मै ऋज्राश्वायाधत्तं । व्यधत्तम् । अकुरुतम् । वृक्यै । वृकोरण्यश्वा । तस्य स्त्री वृकी । जातेरस्त्रीविषयाद् । पा. ४-१-६३ । इति ङीष् । जसादिषु छन्दसि वावचनमिति चतुर्ध्येकवचनस्याडभावे यञादेश उदात्तस्वरितेरोर्यणो इति परस्यानुदात्तस्य स्वरितत्वम् । चक्षदानम् । क्षदेर्लिटः कानच् । चित्स्वरः । अक्षी । ई चिद्विवचने । पा. ६-१-२२ । इति परत्वाद्दक्षशब्दस्यैकारान्तादेशः । स चोदात्तः । तस्मिन् कृते सकृद्गतौ विप्रतिषेधे । परि. ४० । इति परिभाषया पुनर्नुम्न भवति । विचक्षे । चक्षेः संपदादिलक्षणो भावे क्विप् । अनर्वन् । ऋ गतौ । अस्मादन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते इति दृशिग्रहणस्य विध्यङ्करोपसंग्रहार्थत्वाद्वनेवनिप् । अर्व गमनं विषयं प्रत्येनयोर्नास्तीति बहुव्रीहौ नञ्स्वभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । सुपां सुलुगिति द्विवचनस्य लुक् । छान्दसो नलोपाभावः ॥ [small type; read letter by letter; marked [?] where doubtful]

vṛṣāgiraḥ putra ṛjrāśvo nāma rājarṣiḥ | tasya samīpe 'śvinorvāhanabhūto rāsabho vṛkī bhūtvāvatasthe | sa ca tasyā āhārārthamekottaraśatasaṃkhyākānmeṣān [?] svabhūtāneṣāṃ śakalīkṛtya pradadau | ṛjrāśvaḥ śatamekaṃ ca meṣāniti mantrāntare darśanāt | evaṃ paurāmāhite pravṛttaṃ pitā śāpena netrahīnamakarot | tena stūyamānāvaśvināvasmadvāhananimittamasyāndhaṃ jātamiti jānantau tasmā akṣiṇī prāyacchatāmiti | tadetadāha | atra tacchabdaśruteryacchabdādhyāhāraḥ | yaṃ ṛjrāśvaḥ śataṃ śatasaṃkhyākānmeṣānvṛkyai ātmanā poṣitāyai vṛkastriyai śakalīkṛtya prādāt | taṃ cakṣadānaṃ kṣadaterattikarmaṇaḥ śakalīkaraṇārthaṃ śakalīkṛtya dattavantamṛjrāśvaṃ pitā śāpenāndhaṃ dṛṣṭihīnaṃ cakāra | kṛtavān | he nāsatyā satyasvabhāvau satyasya netārau vā bhiṣajau devānāṃ vaidyabhūtau | aśvinau vai devānāṃ bhiṣajau | ai. brā. 1-18 | iti śruteḥ | dasrā darśanīyau vetatsaṃjñau vā he aśvināvanarvannanarvaṇe dṛṣṭavyaṃ prati pitṛśāpādgamanarahite akṣī cakṣuṣī vicakṣe vividhaṃ draṣṭuṃ samarthe tasmai ṛjrāśvāyādhattaṃ | vyadhattam | akurutam | vṛkyai | vṛkoraṇyaśvā | tasya strī vṛkī | jāterastrīviṣayād | pā. 4-1-63 | iti ṅīṣ | jasādiṣu chandasi vāvacanamiti caturdhyekavacanasyāḍabhāve yañādeśa udāttasvariteroryaṇo iti parasyānudāttasya svaritatvam | cakṣadānam | kṣaderliṭaḥ kānac | citsvaraḥ | akṣī | ī cidvivacane | pā. 6-1-22 | iti paratvāddakṣaśabdasyaikārāntādeśaḥ | sa codāttaḥ | tasmin kṛte sakṛdgatau vipratiṣedhe | pari. 40 | iti paribhāṣayā punarnumna bhavati | vicakṣe | cakṣeḥ saṃpadādilakṣaṇo bhāve kvip | anarvan | ṛ gatau | asmādanyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante iti dṛśigrahaṇasya vidhyaṅkaropasaṃgrahārthatvādvanevanip | arva gamanaṃ viṣayaṃ pratyenayornāstīti bahuvrīhau nañsvabhyāmityuttarapadāntodāttatvam | supāṃ sulugiti dvivacanasya luk | chāndaso nalopābhāvaḥ ‖ [small type; read letter by letter; marked [?] where doubtful]

Sense (mine): "Ṛjrāśva was a royal sage, son of Vṛṣāgiri. Near him the Aśvins' vehicle, the ass, stood in the form of a she-wolf. And he, for her food, cut up and gave 101 of his own sheep — as another mantra shows: 'ṛjrāśvaḥ śatam ekaṃ ca meṣān'. His father, [displeased by this deed], made him blind by a curse. The Aśvins, being praised by him, knowing that 'he became blind because of our vehicle', gave him eyes. This is what is said. Here, because the word tat is heard, a yat is to be supplied: that Ṛjrāśva who gave a hundred sheep, cut up in pieces, to the she-wolf vṛkyai that he had himself fed — him, cakṣadānam — kṣad is a verb of eating — who, to cut them up, cut into pieces and gave: his father by a curse made blind, devoid of sight. O Nāsatyas, of true nature, leaders of truth, physicians, healers of the gods — 'the Aśvins are indeed physicians of the gods' (Ai. Br. 1-18 as read [?]) — O Dasras, beautiful ones (or so named), anarvan — for the sake of him who could not move for seeing, because of the father's curse — akṣī, the two eyes, vicakṣe, able to see in various ways, ā adhattam, you placed for that Ṛjrāśva."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"(yaḥ — which Ṛjrāśva); śatam — a hundred; meṣān — sheep; vṛkyai — to the she-wolf (he gave); tam — that; cakṣadānam — one who cut and gave; ṛjrāśvam — Ṛjrāśva; pitā — his father; andham — blind (by curse, deprived of sight); cakāra — made; nāsatyā — of true nature; bhiṣajau — physicians (of the gods); dasrā — O beautiful Aśvin deities (you two) — for Ṛjrāśva; anarvan — (because of blindness) devoid of power to move toward objects (that had to be seen)

Printed p. 266 (PDF 286; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

— (who had been); akṣī — both eyes; tasmai — to that Ṛjrāśva; vicakṣe — (so as to be) seeing; ādhattam — you made."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"The ass, the vehicle of the Aśvin deities, was near Ṛjrāśva in the form of a she-wolf. For her food, that Ṛjrāśva cut up a hundred sheep and gave them to that she-wolf. His father, angered by this, cursed Ṛjrāśva and made him blind. You, of true nature, physicians of the deities, beautiful ones, made the eyes of Ṛjrāśva — who, being blind, was unable to go towards things — capable of sight."

English Translation (as printed)

> When his father caused Rijrashwa, as he was giving to a she-wolf a hundred sheep cut up in pieces, to become blind, you, Dasras, physicians (of the gods), gave him eyes (that had been) unable to find their way, with which he might see.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

शतं मेषान् वृक्ये — Śataṃ meṣān vṛkye — "ātmanā poṣitāyai vṛkastriyai śakalīkṛtya prādāt": "a royal sage named Ṛjrāśva, son of the king named Vṛṣāgiri; the vehicle of the Aśvin deities, an ass, was near him in the form of a she-wolf. To feed it, Ṛjrāśva cut up a hundred sheep and used them. These sheep belonged to the subjects; but as the prince did this without their consent, since it was unfavourable to the people, the father of Ṛjrāśva, in his displeasure, cursed him, to become blind. By the father's curse Ṛjrāśva's eyes went. Then he praised the Aśvin deities. They, knowing that he had become blind because of their vehicle, made his eyes come as before and gave him the power of sight: such is the Itihāsa told in this Ṛk. The same Itihāsa [is told] in —

शतं मेषान्वृक्ये मामहानं तमः प्रणीतमृषिणा पित्रा । अक्षी ऋज्राश्वे अश्विनावधत्तं ज्योतिरन्धाय चक्रथुर्विचक्षे ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१६ [as read; the words and the number as printed here, with its first pāda reading mamahānam... [?]])

śataṃ meṣānvṛkye māmahānaṃ tamaḥ praṇītamṛṣiṇā pitrā | akṣī ṛjrāśve aśvināvadhattaṃ jyotirandhāya cakrathurvicakṣe ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-16 [as read; the words and the number as printed here, with its first pāda reading mamahānam... [?]])

Printed p. 267 (PDF 287; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga ...")

शुनमन्धाय भरमह्वयत्सा वृकीरश्विना वृषणा नरेति । जारः कनीन इव चक्षदान ऋज्राश्वः शतमेकं च मेषान् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-१८ [as read])

śunamandhāya bharamahvayatsā vṛkīraśvinā vṛṣaṇā nareti | jāraḥ kanīna iva cakṣadāna ṛjrāśvaḥ śatamekaṃ ca meṣān ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-18 [as read])

— it is related in these Ṛks. Here the "śataṃ meṣān" — a hundred sheep — is stated; and in the mantra beginning śunam andhāya it is stated 'śatam ekaṃ ca meṣān' [a hundred and one sheep]. Skandasvāmin too tells this Itihāsa in his bhāṣya in the same way. The name of this Ṛjrāśva is found in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-100-17 [as read], where Indra is said to have favoured him; and in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-100-16 [as read] this Ṛjrāśva is said to be one of those who are Ambarīṣa, Sahadeva, Bhayamāna, Surādhas and Ṛjrāśva, sons of the king named Vṛṣāgir. His name is not mentioned again in the Ṛgveda."

चक्षदानम् — Cakṣadānam — "kṣadatir attikarmā": "kṣad is a verb of eating; here, in the sense of cutting into pieces (śakalīkaraṇa): 'having cut into pieces and given'. The root kṣad has the meaning bhakṣaṇa 'eating'; here it is used in the sense 'make into small pieces'; the meaning is 'cutting into little pieces or bits and giving'."

नासत्या — Nāsatyā — "of true nature, or leaders of truth, or those who take [a man] along the true path: the meaning of this word has been explained in the first Ṛk of this very sūkta."

भिषजा — Bhiṣajā — "devānāṃ vaidyau": "aśvinau vai devānāṃ bhiṣajau (Ai. Br. 1-18 as read [?]; Tai. Saṃ. 2-?-?-? [?]) — thus the śruti: the physicians of the gods are the Aśvin deities, as stated in the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa and in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā."

दस्रा — Dasrā — "darśanīyau vaitatsaṃjñau vā": "the name dasra is well known for the Aśvin deities; or the meaning 'having a beautiful form' may also be given for dasra."

अनर्वन् — Anarvan — "anarvaṇe draṣṭavyaṃ prati pitṛśāpād gamanarahite": "in respect of what should be seen, because of the father's curse, there is no movement of sight. Skandasvāmin for this word —

अर्तेर्गत्यर्थस्येदं रूपम् । अर्वन्तं प्रत्याश्रितता या न गतः सोऽनर्वा । अनर्वणि अनन्याश्रिते स्वायत्ते । पित्रा शापेनासेतुमन्धकम् इत्यर्थः ॥

artergatyarthasyedaṃ rūpam | arvantaṃ pratyāśritatā yā na gataḥ so 'narvā | anarvaṇi ananyāśrite svāyatte | pitrā śāpenāsetumandhakam ityarthaḥ ‖

“… formed from the root ṛ (ṛ gatau, of the sense ‘to go’), the word arvan conveys the meaning ‘one who has movement/independence (svatantra)’. The one who has no independence, other than that of others, is anarvan. ‘One who is without any other support and who is not under his own control is also called by the word anarvan.’ He explains that the Aśvin deities, when Ṛjrāśva, in such a state, was unable to escape the curse of his father, gave him [new] eyes and protected him. Citing the Ṛk

> याभिः शचीभिर्वृषणा परावृजं प्रान्धं श्रोणं चक्षस एतवे कृथः । याभिर्वर्तिकां ग्रसितामुमुक्षतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-८ [as read])
>
> yābhiḥ śacībhirvṛṣaṇā parāvṛjaṃ prāndhaṃ śroṇaṃ cakṣasa etave kṛthaḥ | yābhirvartikāṃ grasitāmumukṣataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-8 [as read])

— he explains that this meaning is stated here. Yāska:

> अनर्वा प्रत्यृतोऽन्यस्मिन् । अनर्वमप्रत्यृतमन्यस्मिन् ॥ (नि. ६-३३ [as read])
>
> anarvā pratyṛto ’nyasmin | anarvamapratyṛtamanyasmin ‖ (ni. 6-33 [as read])

— ‘anarvā: one who is dependent on no other’ — explaining the meaning as one who is in his own independence, resting on another, he cites

> अनर्वाणं वृषभं मन्द्रजिह्वं बृहस्पतिं वर्धया नव्यमर्कैः । गाथान्यः सुरुचो यस्य देवा आशृण्वन्ति नवमानस्य मर्ताः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१९०-१ [as read])
>
> anarvāṇaṃ vṛṣabhaṃ mandrajihvaṃ bṛhaspatiṃ vardhayā navyamarkaiḥ | gāthānyaḥ suruco yasya devā āśṛṇvanti navamānasya martāḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-190-1 [as read])

In this Ṛk the word anarvan is used in the sense of ‘one who is not under another’s control’. Sāyaṇa: ‘arva gamanaṃ viṣayaṃ prati enayor nāsti iti bahuvrīhau anarvaṇī’ — arva means ‘going’; since the eyes have not the power of looking — which is going [towards the object] — they are anarvaṇī: ‘the two that have no power of seeing, or have no sight, or are blind eyes’.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 16; grammar page, noted briefly)

vṛkye (vṛka is a dog of the forest; its feminine is vṛkī; since it denotes a class (jāti), in the feminine jāter astrīviṣayād ayopadhāt, Pā. 4-1-63 as read [?], ṅīṣ; yasyeti ca, Pā. 6-4-148 as read [?], elision of the a; the dative singular following, by jasādiṣu chandasi vāvacanam, a statement, āṇ nadyāḥ, Pā. 7-3-112 as read [?], the āṭ augment does not arise, so yaṇ substitution by the rule; in the place of the udātta a yaṇ; its following [syllable] being anudātta, by udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svaritaḥ anudāttasya, Pā. 8-2-4 as read [?], it takes svarita).

Grammar page, continued: cakṣadānam (kṣad “to eat”, but here used in the sense of making into pieces; the liṭ, then kānac by liṭaḥ kānajvā, Pā. 3-2-106 as read [?]; the doubling of the root; kuhoś cuḥ, c for the reduplication; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent); cakāra (ḍukṛñ “to do”; liṭ 3rd singular; nighāta); akṣī (ī ca dvivacane, Pā. 7-1-77 as read [?], the stem akṣi…

ekārānta as a substitute, because of the later-rule position; it becomes udātta; after the ī substitution, sakṛdgatau vipratiṣedhe yad bādhitaṃ tad bādhitam eva, Paribhāṣā 40 as read [?], hence num does not come again — once set aside, the general rule does not operate again); vicakṣe (cakṣiṅ "to speak clearly", vāci; sampadādibhyaḥ kvip, Vārt. as read [?], kvip in the abstract sense; dative singular; gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?], first-member accent); dasrā (supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending); anarvan (ṛ "to go"; anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante, Pā. 3-2-75 as read [?] — here the mention of dṛśi is for the inclusion of other operations, so vanip in the abstract sense; guṇa of the root with raparatva; arvan is the word; arva gamanaṃ viṣayaṃ prati enayor nāsti iti anarvan; a bahuvrīhi; nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], the later member's final accent; the dual with supāṃ sulug, luk for it; though at the end of a word, by Vedic usage the n is not dropped). ‖ 16 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 17

Printed p. 270 (PDF 290; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.17)

आ वां रथं दुहिता सूर्यस्य कार्ष्मेवातिष्ठदर्वता जयन्ती । विश्वे देवा अन्वमन्यन्त हृद्भिः समु श्रिया नासत्या सचेथे ॥ १७ ॥

ā vāṃ rathaṃ duhitā sūryasya kārṣmevātiṣṭhadarvatā jayantī | viśve devā anvamanyanta hṛdbhiḥ samu śriyā nāsatyā sacethe ‖ 17 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.17)

आ । वाम् । रथम् । दुहिता । सूर्यस्य । काष्म्याऽइव । अतिष्ठत् । अर्वता । जयन्ती । विश्वे । देवाः । अनु । अमन्यन्त । हृत्ऽभिः । सम् । ऊं इति । श्रिया । नासत्या । सचेथे इति ॥ १७ ॥

ā | vām | ratham | duhitā | sūryasya | kāṣrmā 'iva | atiṣṭhat | arvatā | jayantī | viśve | devāḥ | anu | amanyanta | hṛt 'bhiḥ | sam | ūṃ iti | śriyā | nāsatyā | sacethe iti ‖ 17 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.17)

सविता स्वदुहितरं सूर्याभ्यां सोमाय राज्ञे प्रदातुमैच्छत् । तां सूर्यां सर्वे देवा वरयामासुः । तेऽन्योन्यमूचुः । आदित्यमवधिं कृत्वाजिं धावाम । योऽस्माकं मध्य उज्जेष्यति तस्येयं भविष्यतीति । तत्राश्विनावुदजयताम् । सा च सूर्या जितवतोस्तयो रथमारुरोह । अत्र प्रजापतिर्वै सोमाय राज्ञे दुहितरं प्रायच्छत् । ऐ. ब्रा. ४-२ । इत्यादिकं ब्राह्मणमनुसन्धेयम् । इदं चाख्यानं सूर्याविवाहस्य स्तावकेन सत्येनोत्तभिता भूमिरिति सूक्तेन विस्पष्टमुपलभ्यते । हे अश्विना वां युवयोऽरथं कार्ष्मेव । कार्ष्मशब्दः काष्ठवाचि । यथा काष्ठमाजिधावनस्यावधितया निर्दिष्टं लक्ष्यमाशुगामिनी कश्चित्सर्वेभ्यः [?]

savitā svaduhitaraṃ sūryābhyāṃ somāya rājñe pradātumaicchat | tāṃ sūryāṃ sarve devā varayāmāsuḥ | te 'nyonyamūcuḥ | ādityamavadhiṃ kṛtvājiṃ dhāvāma | yo 'smākaṃ madhya ujjeṣyati tasyeyaṃ bhaviṣyatīti | tatrāśvināvudajayatām | sā ca sūryā jitavatostayo rathamāruroha | atra prajāpatirvai somāya rājñe duhitaraṃ prāyacchat | ai. brā. 4-2 | ityādikaṃ brāhmaṇamanusandheyam | idaṃ cākhyānaṃ sūryāvivāhasya stāvakena satyenottabhitā bhūmiriti sūktena vispaṣṭamupalabhyate |

he aśvinā vāṃ yuvayorrathaṃ kārṣmeva | kārṣmaśabdaḥ kāṣṭhavāci | yathā kāṣṭhamājidhāvanasyāvadhitayā nirdiṣṭaṃ lakṣyamāśugāminī kaścitsarvebhyaḥ [?]

(Bhāṣya of Ṛk 17, continued from p. 270:)

… धावद्भ्यः पूर्वं प्राप्नोति । एवमेव सर्वेभ्यो देवेभ्यः पूर्वमर्वता शीघ्रगामिनाश्वेन करणभूतेन युवाभ्यां जयन्ती जेयमानाशी सूर्यस्य सवितुर्दुहिता सूर्यारुढवती । विश्वे सर्व इतरे देवा एतदारोहणस्थानं हृदिभर्हृदयैरन्वमन्यन्त । अन्वजानन् । तदानीं हे नासत्यावश्विनौ श्रिया ऋक्सहस्रलाभरूपया सम्पदा कान्त्या वा युवां सं सचेथे । सङ्गच्छेथे ॥ जयन्ती । जि जये धातुः । वृत्त्यर्थे । पदन्नित्यादिना हृदयशब्दस्य हृद्भावः । सचेथे । षच समवाये । सश्चतेः । स्वरितेत्त्वादात्मनेपदम् ॥ [grammar tail in small type, partly doubtful [?]]

… dhāvadbhyaḥ pūrvaṃ prāpnoti | evameva sarvebhyo devebhyaḥ pūrvamarvatā śīghragāmināśvena karaṇabhūtena yuvābhyāṃ jayantī jeyamānāśī sūryasya saviturduhitā sūryāruḍhavatī | viśve sarva itare devā etadārohaṇasthānaṃ hṛdbhirhṛdayairanvamanyanta | anvajānan | tadānīṃ he nāsatyāvaśvinau śriyā ṛksahasralābharūpayā sampadā kāntyā vā yuvāṃ saṃ sacethe | saṅgacchethe ‖ jayantī | ji jaye dhātuḥ | vṛttyarthe | padannityādinā hṛdayaśabdasya hṛdbhāvaḥ | sacethe | ṣaca samavāye | saścateḥ | svaritettvādātmanepadam ‖ [grammar tail in small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "… [as a runner] reaches [the goal] before all the runners, so, before all the gods, with the swift-going horse as the instrument, jayantī, winning by you two, the daughter of the Sun, of Savitṛ, ātiṣṭhat, mounted the chariot. Viśve — all the other gods anvamanyanta hṛdbhiḥ, assented with their hearts, to this mounting. Then, O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, śriyā — by splendour, in the form of obtaining a thousand Ṛks, or by beauty — you saṃ sacethe, were united."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"(he aśvinau — O Aśvin deities); kāṣṭheva — as (one reaches) a place fixed as the limit; arvatā — by your swift-going horse; jayantī — the one who was won; sūryasya — of the Sun; duhitā — daughter; vām — your; ratham — chariot; ā atiṣṭhat — mounted; viśve — all the others; devāḥ — gods; hṛdbhiḥ — with the heart; anvamanyanta — approved; (tadānīm — then); śriyā — with splendour (with beauty, with fame); sam sacethe u — you two were united."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Nāsatyas, the daughter of the Sun, won by your swift horse, as one wins by reaching the place fixed as the goal in a race, mounted your chariot. The other gods too, all of them, approved. (Therefore) you became possessed of fame."

English Translation (as printed)

> The daughter of the sun ascended your car, (like a runner) to a goal : when you won (the race) with your swift horse, all the gods looked on with (anxious heart), and you, Nasatyas, were associated with glory.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

काष्मेव — Kārṣmeva — "kārṣmaśabdaḥ kāṣṭhavācī": "as one who runs reaches, before all the other runners, a goal fixed as the end-point of the race, a limit; so before all the gods [the Aśvins]. The word kārṣma means 'a post (kaṭṭige)'. When there is a contest, in order to know who is superior and who is inferior among those taking part, or who is more excellent, a particular tree standing on a fixed spot is chosen. Those who run quickly and touch (reach) that tree are considered to have won. Such a fixed place is here called by the word kārṣma. This is current in games. In English they say (Goal), the place fixed for conveying victory or defeat. To know the one who excels among the competitors, with many persons present a single goal is fixed; and the one who reaches that first is held to be the best of all. In this way, to know who is the best among themselves, the deities appointed Sūryā as the goal; the Aśvin deities won it; from this it was decided that their excellence — or superiority — over the other deities is established: this is described here. Savitṛ, wishing to give his daughter named Sūryā in marriage to King Soma, when this was settled the deities came to choose her. Then they all assembled and agreed among themselves: 'We shall fight [run]; the Sūryā-devī will be the prize of the winner in the contest'. In the contest that then took place among the other deities and the Aśvin deities, the Aśvins prevailed. The goddess Sūryā mounted the chariot of the Aśvin deities, declared the best of all the other deities. This Itihāsa is told in the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa as 'prajāpatir vai somāya rājñe duhitaraṃ prāyacchat' (Ai. Br. 4-2 as read [?]) and is narrated here. Moreover this upākhyāna is told in detail in the 'Satyenottabhitā bhūmiḥ' sūkta, the 85th sūkta of the tenth maṇḍala. Besides this, Skandasvāmin [explains]: 'kriyate teditī kārṣmaṃ śubhāśubhalakṣaṇaṃ karma tadyathā karṣāmā…' [reading doubtful [?]] — 'the action that is done, of the nature of good or bad, [the sense is:] Sūryā, in the manner that a farmer comes and sows, herself came and mounted the chariot of the Aśvin deities' — and he explains kārṣma as 'that which is made'."

Printed p. 272 (PDF 292; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

(The page begins with the end of the special topic: the first lines — "… [the word] kārṣma is in that sense of 'a post'" — and carries on as above.)

अर्वता — Arvatā — "śīghram avadhiṃ prāpnuvatā yuṣmadīyena aśvena karaṇabhūtena": "your horse which is the means for reaching, very swiftly, everything that is to be reached. The word arvan is stated among the twenty-six [as read] words for horse (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]); hence 'horse'. In the Nirukta 'arvā — gamanaśīlatvād' ['ṛṇotyarvā'?] is explained as 'one who has the nature of going' (Ni. 2-?? as read [?])."

श्रिया — Śriyā — "ṛksahasralābharūpayā sampadā kāntyā vā": "in the Sūryā-vivāha (Sūryā's marriage) they gave a thousand Ṛks as a fitting gift; therefore [śriyā means] endowed with the wealth in the form of obtaining a thousand mantras; or, because of the marriage of Sūryā, the maiden, the Aśvin deities are possessed of beauty — thus the meaning."

Printed p. 273 (PDF 293; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …"; footer signature mark "IX 18")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 17; grammar page, noted briefly)

vām (yuṣmad and asmad in the genitive, ṣaṣṭhīcaturthīdvitīyāsthayor vāṃnāvau, Pā. 8-1-20 as read [?]; the vām substitute, the unaccented one, in the special case); sūryasya (suvati karmaṇi lokaṃ preyati iti sūryaḥ; sū “to impel”; rājasūyasūryamṛṣodyarucyakupyakṛṣṭapacyāvyathyāḥ, Pā. 3-1-114 as read [?], kyap is irregularly formed with the elision; ruṭ … nipātita; since the suffix is pit, the root accent remains); atiṣṭhat (ṣṭhā “to cease from motion”; laṅ 3rd singular; pāghrādhmā…, Pā. 7-3-78 as read [?], tiṣṭha substituted; the augment aṭ; nighāta after an accented word); arvatā (ṛ “to go”; anyebhyo ’pi dṛśyante, Pā. 3-2-75 as read [?], vanip; arvaṇas tṛṇasāvanañaḥ [arvaṇas tasāv anañaḥ], Pā. 6-4-127 as read [?], tṛ is a final substitute; the instrumental singular); jayantī (ji “to conquer”; anudāttet… vṛttyayo bahulam, Pā. 3-1-?? as read [?], śatṛ in the laṭ sense; in the feminine, ugitaś ca, Pā. 4-1-6 as read [?], ṅīp; ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne ’dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-70 as read [?], num; since adupadeśa, the sārvadhātuka is unaccented, hence tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], the root accent remains); amanyanta (manu “to know”, divādi; laṅ 3rd plural; nighāta); hṛdbhiḥ (the word hṛdaya; when the instrumental plural follows, padannomāsa…, Pā. 6-1-63 as read [?], hṛd substitute; ūḍidaṃpadādi…, Pā. 6-1-171 as read [?], the ending’s accent); śriyā (when the instrumental singular follows, aci śnudhātubhruvāṃ yvoriyaṅuvaṅau, Pā. 6-4-77 as read [?], iy; sāvekācas tṛtīyādiḥ, Pā. 6-1-168 as read [?], the ending’s accent).

Grammar page of Ṛk 17, concluded (noted briefly): nāsatyā (supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the vocative dual ending; nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); sacethe (ṣaca “to be connected”; it is svaritet, hence by svaritañitaḥ kartrabhiprāye kriyāphale, Pā. 1-3-72 as read [?], ātmanepada when the fruit goes to the agent; laṭ 3rd dual āthām; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e, Pā. 3-4-79 as read [?], e for the ṭi; śap as vikaraṇa; āto ṅitaḥ, Pā. 7-2-81 as read [?], iya for the ā; lopo vyor vali, Pā. 6-1-66 as read [?], elision of the y; guṇa; the form sacethe; nighāta since a tiṅ follows an accented word). ‖ 17 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 18

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.18)

यदयातं दिवोदासाय वर्तिर्भरद्वाजायाश्विना हयन्ता । रेवदुवाह सचनो रथो वां वृषभश्च शिंशुमारश्च युक्ता ॥ १८ ॥

yadayātaṃ divodāsāya vartirbharadvājāyāśvinā hayantā | revaduvāha sacano ratho vāṃ vṛṣabhaśca śiṃśumāraśca yuktā ‖ 18 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.18)

यत् । अयातम् । दिवःऽदासाय । वर्तिः । भरत्ऽवाजाय । अश्विना । हयन्ता । रेवत् । उवाह । सचनः । रथः । वाम् । वृषभः । च । शिंशुमारः । च । युक्ता ॥ १८ ॥

yat | ayātam | divaḥ ’dāsāya | vartiḥ | bharat ’vājāya | aśvinā | hayantā | revat | uvāha | sacanaḥ | rathaḥ | vām | vṛṣabhaḥ | ca | śiṃśumāraḥ | ca | yuktā ‖ 18 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.18)

हे अश्विनौ हयन्ता स्तुतिभिराहूयमानौ युवां भरद्वाजाय सम्भ्रियमाणहविर्लक्षणान्नाय यजमानाय दिवोदासायैतत्संज्ञाय राजर्षयेऽभीष्टं फलं दातुं वर्तिस्तदीयं गृहं यद्यदायातं । आगच्छतं तदानीं रेवद्धनयुक्तमन्नं वां युवयोः सचनः सेवनो रथ उवाह । तस्मै दिवोदासाय प्रापयामास । अपि च तस्मिन्रथे वृषभो ऽनड्वान् शिंशुमारो ग्राहश्च परस्परविरुद्धावपि स्वसामर्थ्यप्रकटनाय युक्तौ वाहनतया संयुक्तावास्ताम् ॥ दिवोदासाय । दिवश्च दासे षष्ठ्या आलुग्वक्तव्यः । का. ६-३-२१-२ । इत्यलुक् । दिवोदासादीनां छन्दस्यपसंख्यानमिति पूर्वपदाद्युदात्तत्वम् । भरद्वाजाय । भृञ् भरणे । अस्माद्यत्यनिशत्र [?] प्रत्ययः कर्मणि । शतुश्छन्दस्युभयथेत्यर्धधातुकत्वेन लसार्वधातुकानुदात्तत्वाभावात्प्रत्ययाद्युदात्तत्वं । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । हयन्ता । हय गतौ । कर्मणि लटो व्यत्ययेन शपि । बहुलं छन्दसीति सम्प्रसारणं । शपि गुणे छान्दसो ऽयादेशः । रेवत् । रयिशब्दान्मतुप् । रयेर्मतौ बहुलमिति सम्प्रसारणं । छन्दसीरः इति मतुपो वत्वम् । रयिशब्दाच्च । का. ६-१-१२३-१ । इति मतुप उदात्तत्वम् । सचनः । षच सेवने । अनुदात्तेत्त्वाच्च हलादेरिति युच् । युक्ता । सुपां सुलुगिति विभक्तेराकारः ॥

he aśvinau hayantā stutibhirāhūyamānau yuvāṃ bharadvājāya sambhriyamāṇahavirlakṣaṇānnāya yajamānāya divodāsāyaitatsaṃjñāya rājarṣaye 'bhīṣṭaṃ phalaṃ dātuṃ vartistadīyaṃ gṛhaṃ yadyadāyātaṃ | āgacchataṃ tadānīṃ revaddhanayuktamannaṃ vāṃ yuvayoḥ sacanaḥ sevano ratha uvāha | tasmai divodāsāya prāpayāmāsa | api ca tasminrathe vṛṣabho 'naḍvān śiṃśumāro grāhaśca parasparaviruddhāvapi svasāmarthyaprakaṭanāya yuktau vāhanatayā saṃyuktāvāstām ‖ divodāsāya | divaśca dāse ṣaṣṭhyā ālugvaktavyaḥ | kā. 6-3-21-2 | ityaluk | divodāsādīnāṃ chandasyapasaṃkhyānamiti pūrvapadādyudāttatvam | bharadvājāya | bhṛñ bharaṇe | asmādyatyaniśatra [?] pratyayaḥ karmaṇi | śatuśchandasyubhayathetyardhadhātukatvena lasārvadhātukānudāttatvābhāvātpratyayādyudāttatvaṃ | bahuvrīhau pūrvapadaprakṛtisvaratvam | hayantā | haya gatau | karmaṇi laṭo vyatyayena śapi | bahulaṃ chandasīti samprasāraṇaṃ | śapi guṇe chāndaso 'yādeśaḥ | revat | rayiśabdānmatup | rayermatau bahulamiti samprasāraṇaṃ | chandasīraḥ iti matupo vatvam | rayiśabdācca | kā. 6-1-123-1 | iti matupa udāttatvam | sacanaḥ | ṣaca sevane | anudāttettvācca halāderiti yuc | yuktā | supāṃ sulugiti vibhakterākāraḥ ‖

Sense (mine): “O Aśvins, hayantā — being invited with praise — you, to bharadvāja, ‘the one who maintains food (vāja)’ — the sacrificer who prepares oblations in the form of food, Divodāsa, the royal sage of this name — when you went to the vartiḥ, the house, to give the desired fruit, then your sacanaḥ (serviceable) chariot uvāha — carried (and brought to that Divodāsa) revat, wealth-possessing food. Further, in that chariot a vṛṣabha (bull) and a śiṃśumāra (porpoise [or crocodile/grāha]), though mutually opposed, were yoked, to make manifest their own power, as vehicles.”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he aśvinā — O Aśvin deities; hayantā — you two who were called with praise; bharadvājāya — [to him] who gave oblations; divodāsāya — to the royal sage named Divodāsa (to give him the desired fruit); vartiḥ — [his] house; yat — when; āyātam — you went; revat — wealth-possessing (food); vām — of you; sacanaḥ — helpful; rathaḥ — chariot; uvāha — carried;

vṛṣabhaḥ ca — the bull; śiṃśumāraḥ ca — and the porpoise; yuktā — were yoked together (by your power).”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Aśvin deities, you, who were called with praise, when you went to the house of the royal sage named Divodāsa, who had prepared oblations, to give the desired fruit, carried wealth-possessing food in your helpful chariot. (Then) a bull and a porpoise were yoked together to your chariot by your power.”

Printed p. 276 (PDF 296; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

English Translation (as printed)

> When, Ashwins, being invited, you went to his dwelling, (to give due rewards) to Divodasa, offering oblations, then, your helping chariot conveyed (food and) treasure, and the bull and the porpoise were yoked together.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

भरद्वाजाय दिवोदासाय — Bharadvājāya divodāsāya — “sambhriyamāṇahavirlakṣaṇānnāya yajamānāya etatsaṃjñāya rājarṣaye”: “the royal sage named Divodāsa, to perform a sacrifice, collected the substances suitable for the sacrifice so that they might be useful in the rites, and invited the Aśvin deities. The Aśvin deities came to this king’s house to fulfil his wish. When they came with their chariot yoked to a bull and a porpoise — an aquatic creature — these two creatures, naturally opposed to one another, worked with a single intention without quarrelling. Sāyaṇa explains that by this the greatness of the Aśvin deities is made manifest.”

वर्तिः — Vartiḥ — “Sāyaṇa explains the word vartis as ‘house’; Skandasvāmin as ‘vartanyā mārgeṇa’, ‘by the road’. And accordingly —

> दिवोदासाय इति पदस्य दिवोदासार्थं शम्बरवधे दिवोदासस्य साहाय्यं कर्तुं शम्बर इत्यसुरं निग्रहे [?] । तदेतत्कुत्सेनाप्युक्तम् —
>
> divodāsāya iti padasya divodāsārthaṃ śambaravadhe divodāsasya sāhāyyaṃ kartuṃ śambara ityasuraṃ nigrahe [?] | tadetatkutsenāpyuktam —

— for the word divodāsāya, for the sake of Divodāsa, in the killing of Śambara, to help Divodāsa, by subduing the Asura named Śambara: so he explains the meaning; and this is also said by Kutsa — saying that the ṛṣi Kutsa too tells this matter, he cites

> याभिर्नुमामितिथिग्वं केशोजुवं दिवोदासं शम्बरहत्य आवतम् । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१४ [as read; the first words printed doubtfully [?]])
>
> yābhirnumāmitithigvaṃ keśojuvaṃ divodāsaṃ śambarahatya āvatam | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-14 [as read; the first words printed doubtfully [?]])

— this Ṛk. Likewise for bharadvājāya — to a man who praises [you] desiring wealth, the Aśvins having taken wealth, substance, for the sake of giving wealth to the king who prays to them — thus he explains.”

दिवोदासाय — Divodāsāya — "Divodāsa or Divodāsa Atithigva was a king, famed in the times of the Vedas, who was a very well-known king. He was the son of Vadhryaśva [as read], and again [the father of] Sudāsa …" (continues on p. 277)

Printed p. 277 (PDF 297; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …") [Special Topics of Ṛk 18, concluded]

"… son of Vadhryaśva [as read]. This Sudāsa was a famous royal sage of the Tṛtsu line in the Bharata clan. Therefore, with Divodāsa, 'Sudāsa [who is called] the Bharata' (Ṛ. Saṃ. numerals not readable [?]) is said, in several Ṛks such as these, to have been opposed to the enemy kings, together with Turvaśa and the Yadus. His chief enemy was the Asura Śambara, or Dāsa: this Śambara is said to be the chief of the people living in the hills (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-?-? ; 2-?-? ; 4-?-? ; 6-?-? [numerals not readable [?]]). That Divodāsa overcame him many times is described in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-112-14 [as read], 1-116-18, 1-130-?, 2-19-6 [as read], 4-26-3 [as read] and others, up to about ten [as the print counts] (a run of small reference numerals, not read reliably [?]). Because he specially worshipped Agni, the name of Agni is derived from his name in the Ṛks 6-?-? [?] and others. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-?-? ; 1-?-? ; 6-?-? [?] and other places this name is found in the genealogy of the ṛṣi Bharadvāja, or of that ṛṣi's descendants. In the Ṛk 6-47-22 [as read] and in some Ṛks after it, there is a description of this Divodāsa's fighting with Paṇis, Pārāvatas and Bṛsaya on the bank of the Sarasvatī. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-130-10 [as read] the plural word divodāsebhiḥ is used, which indicates Divodāsa's descendants or his subjects. The name of Divodāsa is not found in the third, fifth, ninth and tenth maṇḍalas."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 18; grammar page, noted briefly)

āyātam (yā "to go", laṅ 2nd dual; no nighāta because yat precedes, yadvṛttān nityam, Pā. 8-1-66 as read [?]; the augment aṭ being udātta, the word has first-syllable accent); divodāsāya (divaś ca dāse ṣaṣṭhyā alug vaktavyaḥ, Kā. 6-3-21-2 as read [?]; hence the first member has udātta on the first syllable by divodāsādīnāṃ chandasy upasaṃkhyānam; dative singular); bharadvājāya (bhṛñ "to bear"; vyatyayo bahulam, Pā. 3-1-85 as read [?], śap in the passive; since the root is ṅit-like, guṇa of the ṛ; raparatva; as chandasy ubhayathā, Pā. 3-4-117 as read [?], the suffix has ārdhadhātuka status, the tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], unaccentedness of the sārvadhātuka does not arise; the first-syllable accent of the suffix; the a of vāja taking udātta; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?], first-member accent).

Printed p. 278 (PDF 298; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

Grammar page, continued: hayantā (hveñ "to compete, to call", in the passive; vyatyayo bahulam gives śap and śatṛ for laṭ; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 2-4-73 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa of the root; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; śap as vikaraṇa; sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ, Pā. 7-3-84 as read [?], guṇa of the u; by Vedic usage ayādeśa [ay for the e]; as anudāttet, tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], the sārvadhātuka becomes unaccented, so the root accent remains; with the dual ending following, supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ, Pā. 7-1-70 as read [?], num); revat (rayiḥ asya asti iti revat; tad asyāsty asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?], matup; by rayer mato bahulam, saṃprasāraṇa of rayi; na saṃprasāraṇe saṃprasāraṇam, Pā. 6-1-37 as read [?], here no further saṃprasāraṇa of the y; guṇa; chandasīraḥ, Pā. 8-2-15 as read [?], va for the m of matup;

by rayiśabdāc ca (Kā. 6-1-223-1 as read [?]) the matup takes udātta); uvāha (vah “to carry”; liṭ 3rd singular ṇal; since the suffix is kit-like by liṭy abhyāsasyobhayeṣām, Pā. 6-1-17 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa; ata upadhāyāḥ, Pā. 7-2-116 as read [?], vṛddhi of the root’s penultimate; nighāta); sacanaḥ (ṣaca “to serve”; since it is anudāttet, anudāttetaś ca halādeḥ, Pā. 3-2-149 as read [?], the suffix yuc; yuvor anākau, Pā. 7-1-1 as read [?], ana; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent); yuktā (yujir “to join”; niṣṭhā, kta, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; since kit, no guṇa of the penultimate; the dual with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā). ‖ 18 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 19

Printed p. 279 (PDF 299; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.19)

रयिं सुक्षत्रं स्वपत्यमायुः सुवीर्यं नासत्या वहन्ता । आ जह्नावीं समनसोप वाजैस्त्रिरह्नो भागं दधतीमयातम् ॥ १९ ॥

rayiṃ sukṣatraṃ svapatyamāyuḥ suvīryaṃ nāsatyā vahantā | ā jahnāvīṃ samanasopa vājaistrirahno bhāgaṃ dadhatīmayātam ‖ 19 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.19)

रयिम् । सुऽक्षत्रम् । सुऽअपत्यम् । आयुः । सुऽवीर्यम् । नासत्या । वहन्ता । आ । जह्नावीम् । सऽमनसा । उप । वाजैः । त्रिः । अह्नः । भागम् । दधतीम् । अयातम् ॥ १९ ॥

rayim | su ’kṣatram | su ’apatyam | āyuḥ | su ’vīryam | nāsatyā | vahantā | ā | jahnāvīm | sa ’manasā | upa | vājaiḥ | triḥ | ahnaḥ | bhāgam | dadhatīm | ayātam ‖ 19 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.19)

हे नासत्यावश्विनौ सुक्षत्रं शोभनबलं रयिं धनं स्वपत्यं शोभनैः पुत्रादिभिरुपेतं सुवीर्यं शोभनवीर्योपेतमायुः । अन्ननामैतत् । एवंगुणविशिष्टमन्नं च वहन्ता धारयन्तौ युवां समनसा समानमनस्कौ सन्तौ जह्नावीं जह्नोर्महर्षेः सम्बन्धिनीं प्रजामायातं । अभिमुख्येनागच्छतं । कीदृशीं । वाजैर्बलैरन्नैर्वोपेतां । अह्नः । अत्राहःशब्देन तत्काले सवनं लक्ष्यते । तस्य प्रातःसवनादिरूपेण त्रिधा विभक्तं भागमंशं दधतीं बिभ्रतीम् । अनुसवनं हविर्भिर्यजमानामित्यर्थः ॥ सुक्षत्रं । बहुव्रीहौ नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । सुवीर्यं । वीरवीर्यौ चेति बहुव्रीहावुत्तरपदाद्युदात्तत्वं । जह्नावीम् । जह्नुशब्दात्तस्येदमित्यर्थे ऽण् । टिड्ढाणञ्सिति ङीप् । जाह्नवीशब्दस्य दीर्घयोर्विनिमयः । पृषोदरादित्वात् । उक्तं च । वर्णागमो वर्णविपर्ययश्च । का. ६-३-१०९ । इति अत एव मध्योदात्तत्वम् ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

he nāsatyāvaśvinau sukṣatraṃ śobhanabalaṃ rayiṃ dhanaṃ svapatyaṃ śobhanaiḥ putrādibhirupetaṃ suvīryaṃ śobhanavīryopetamāyuḥ | annanāmaitat | evaṃguṇaviśiṣṭamannaṃ ca vahantā dhārayantau yuvāṃ samanasā samānamanaskau santau jahnāvīṃ jahnormaharṣeḥ sambandhinīṃ prajāmāyātaṃ | abhimukhyenāgacchataṃ | kīdṛśīṃ | vājairbalairannairvopetāṃ | ahnaḥ | atrāhaḥśabdena tatkāle savanaṃ lakṣyate | tasya prātaḥsavanādirūpeṇa tridhā vibhaktaṃ bhāgamaṃśaṃ dadhatīṃ bibhratīm | anusavanaṃ

havirbhiryajamānāmityarthaḥ ‖ sukṣatraṃ | bahuvrīhau nañsubhyāmityuttarapadāntodāttatvam | suvīryaṃ | vīravīryau ceti bahuvrīhāvuttarapadādyudāttatvaṃ | jahnāvīm | jahnuśabdāttasyedamityarthe 'ṇ | ṭiḍḍhāṇañiti ṅīp | jāhnavīśabdasya dīrghayorvinimayaḥ | pṛṣodarāditvāt | uktaṃ ca | varṇāgamo varṇaviparyayaśca | kā. 6-3-109 | iti ata eva madhyodāttatvam ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, sukṣatram — having good strength — rayim, wealth, svapatyam — endowed with good sons and the rest — suvīryam — endowed with good vigour — āyuḥ (a name of food): carrying (vahantā) food endowed with such qualities, you two, samanasā — of one mind — jahnāvīm, [the subjects] belonging to the great ṛṣi Jahnu — ā yātam, come to the front. What are they like? Vājaiḥ — endowed with strengths or foods. Ahnaḥ — here the word ahar indicates, by implication, the savana (soma-pressing) of that time; the portion divided threefold as the morning savana and so on; dadhatīm, bearing: [the sacrificers] who with oblations at each savana."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; sukṣatram — endowed with good strength; svapatyam — having good sons; suvīryam — endowed with good vigour; āyuḥ — food; rayim — wealth; vahantā — bringing; samanasā — of one mind; vājaiḥ — with food; ahnaḥ — in the day; tri bhāgam — in the three parts (of the savanas — morning, midday and evening); dadhatīm — bearing; jahnāvīm — the family of the ṛṣi Jahnu (the sacrificers); upa āyātam — come to."

(Pratipadārtha of Ṛk 19, concluded:) "… tri bhāgam — the three kinds of sacrificial acts called the morning-savana, midday-savana and third savana; dadhatīm — which bear (perform); jahnāvīm — turning toward Jahnu the great ṛṣi's progeny; ā yātam — come."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, you both, of one mind, bringing strength, wealth, good offspring and food that gives vigour — you came to the descendants of the great ṛṣi Jahnu, who were performing three sacrificial acts, the Soma-sacrifice [with the three savanas, the morning savana etc.], provided with oblations and the like."

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, bearing strength and wealth with posterity and vigour-sustaining food, you came, with one intention, to the family of Jahnu, (provided) with (sacrificial) viands, and possessing a third portion of the daily offerings).

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

जाह्नवीम् — Jāhnavīm — "jahnoḥ maharṣeḥ sambandhinīṃ prajām": "looking at the progeny (prajā) of the great ṛṣi Jahnu, and having compassion on them, the Aśvin deities with goodwill toward them accept the portions of the oblation that they offer separately at the three savanas — morning, midday and evening — and favour them with long life, strength, health, wealth and excellent progeny: so Sāyaṇa explains. This word jāhnavī is found in the Ṛgveda in this Ṛk too —

> पुराणमोकः सख्यं शिवं वां युवोर्नरा द्रविणं जह्नाव्याम् । (ऋ. सं. ३-५८-६ [as read])
>
> purāṇamokaḥ sakhyaṃ śivaṃ vāṃ yuvornarā draviṇaṃ jahnāvyām | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-58-6 [as read])

— and in this Ṛk the word is used so as to suggest also the meaning 'the wife of the great ṛṣi Jahnu'. Though in the Vedas Jahnu is spoken of as a single ṛṣi, in the Purāṇas, beginning with the Viṣṇu [Purāṇa], he is said to be a king in the lunar dynasty.

Printed p. 281 (PDF 301; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

"Skandasvāmin —

> जह्नोर्भार्या धनादिकामा सोमेनायजत् । तस्यै अश्विनावागत्य धनादीन् ददतुः । तदेतदिहोच्यते रयिमित्यादिना । जह्नुऋषेः पत्नी धनादीन् इच्छन्ती सोमयागं कृतवती । तदा अश्विनौ तस्मिन् यज्ञे आगत्य भागं स्वीकृत्य तां धनादिभिः सम्पादितवन्तौ [?]
>
> jahnorbhāryā dhanādikāmā somenāyajat | tasyai aśvināvāgatya dhanādīn dadatuḥ | tadetadihocyate rayimityādinā | jahnuṛṣeḥ patnī dhanādīn icchantī somayāgaṃ kṛtavatī | tadā aśvinau tasmin yajñe āgatya bhāgaṃ svīkṛtya tāṃ dhanādibhiḥ sampāditavantau [?]

— the wife of Jahnu, desiring wealth and the like, performed a Soma-sacrifice; the Aśvins came and gave her wealth and the like: this is told here by rayim and so on. The wife of the ṛṣi Jahnu, wishing for wealth and so on, performed a Soma-sacrifice. Then the Aśvin deities came to that sacrifice, accepted the portions of the oblation, and, as she wished, favoured her with everything: [so] explaining it in one way, Skandasvāmin explains the word jāhnavī as 'the wife of Jahnu' and tells it; and again, 'jahnor apatyaṃ jāhnavī tasya prajā tāṃ balākāśva-kuśika-gādhi-viśvāmitra-prabhṛtikām' — 'the progeny of Jahnu is jāhnavī, [meaning] those beginning with Balākāśva, Kuśika, Gādhi, Viśvāmitra': he explains in another way that in the explanation 'Jahnu's offspring are jāhnavī', the Aśvin deities favoured the sons of Jahnu — Balākāśva, Kuśika, Gādhi and Viśvāmitra — thus giving another account of the meaning.

सुक्षत्रम् — Sukṣatram — "the word kṣatra is stated among the hundred-and-one [as read] names of water (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]). But Skandasvāmin explains 'kṣatram iti balanāma' — the word sukṣatra means 'having good strength' — 'together with the strength that is able to destroy bad demons such as Rākṣasas, which the Asuras and others drive off with their strength'."

रयिम् — Rayim — "dhanam: the word rayi is stated among the hundred-and-one names of water (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) and also among the twenty-eight [as read] names of wealth (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]). And the Nirukta-writer explains: 'rayir iti dhananāma rāter dānakarmaṇaḥ' (Ni. 4-?? as read [?]): the word rayi, formed from the root rā 'to give', means wealth."

अह्नः त्रिः भागम् — Ahnaḥ triḥ bhāgam — "atra ahaḥśabdena tatkālānuṣṭheyaḥ somayāgo lakṣyate | tasya prātaḥsavanādirūpeṇa tridhā vibhaktaṃ bhāgam anusavanaṃ havirbhir yajamānām": "the word ahar here indicates the Soma sacrifice to be done at that time; the three-fold divided portion [the offering of oblations by the sacrificers at each savana] in the form of the morning savana and the rest. In the Nirukta 'ahaḥ kasmāt | adaḥ sa[?]…' [the Sanskrit is in small type]: because the work done at the time when the Sun shines is done in the day, the word ahar is explained; here the word ahar means the Soma sacrifice done in the day. In this Soma sacrifice, homa and other rites related to sacrifice, such as the extraction of soma-juice, are performed at the three times — morning savana, midday savana and third savana — and the main idea is that the Aśvin deities came to the sacrifices performed by the descendants of Jahnu and accepted the oblation-portions."

Printed p. 282 (PDF 302; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 19; grammar page, noted briefly)

sukṣatram (śobhanaṃ kṣatraṃ balaṃ yasya tat; in a bahuvrīhi, by nañsubhyām, Pā. 6-2-172 as read [?], the later member's final accent; similarly in svapatyam); suvīryam (śobhanaṃ vīryaṃ yasya tat; by vīravīryau ca, Pā. 6-2-120 as read [?], since the bahuvrīhi accent of the first member is set aside, the later member's first syllable accented); vahantā (vaha "to carry"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap as vikaraṇa; as the sārvadhātuka is unaccented by tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], the root accent remains; with the dual ending following, supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; ugidacām, Pā. 7-1-70 as read [?], num); jāhnavīm (jahnor apatyaṃ strī jāhnavī, tasyedam, Pā. 4-3-120 as read [?], aṇ; in the feminine ṭiḍḍhāṇañ…, Pā. 4-1-15 as read [?], ṅīp; as it has bha-designation, oś ca guṇaḥ, Pā. 6-4-146 as read [?], guṇa of the u, and av; since the word belongs to the pṛṣodarādi group, the exchange of short and long vowels arises: pṛṣodarādīni yathopadiṣṭam, Pā. 6-3-109 as read [?] — 'varṇāgamo varṇaviparyayaś ca' (a statement) — so this is consistent; therefore the middle udātta too is established); samanasā (samānaṃ manaḥ yayoḥ tau samanasau; supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, Pā. 6-2-1 as read [?], first-member accent); dadhatīm (ḍudhāñ "to hold, to nourish"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śluḥ as vikaraṇa; doubling of the root; since the suffix is jhi-like [jitva], ato lopa iṭi ca, Pā. 6-4-64 as read [?], elision of the ā; in the feminine ugitaś ca, Pā. 4-1-6 as read [?], ṅīp; nābhyastācchatuḥ, Pā. 7-1-78 as read [?], no num; abhyastānām ādiḥ, Pā. 6-1-189 as read [?], first-syllable accent; accusative singular); āyātam (yā "to go"; laṅ 2nd dual; nighāta). ‖ 19 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 20

Printed p. 283 (PDF 303; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.20)

परिविष्टं जाहुषं विश्वतः सीं सुगेभिर्नक्तमूहथू रजोभिः । विभिन्दुना नासत्या रथेन वि पर्वताँ अजरयू अयातम् ॥ २० ॥

pariviṣṭaṃ jāhuṣaṃ viśvataḥ sīṃ sugebhirnaktamūhathū rajobhiḥ | vibhindunā nāsatyā rathena vi parvatā~ ajarayū ayātam ‖ 20 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.20)

परिऽविष्टम् । जाहुषम् । विश्वतः । सीम् । सुऽगेभिः । नक्तम् । ऊहथुः । रजःऽभिः । विऽभिन्दुना । नासत्या । रथेन । वि । पर्वतान् । अजरयू इति । अयातम् ॥ २० ॥

pari 'viṣṭam | jāhuṣam | viśvataḥ | sīm | su 'gebhiḥ | naktam | ūhathuḥ | rajaḥ 'bhiḥ | vi 'bhindunā | nāsatyā | rathena | vi | parvatān | ajarayū iti | ayātam ‖ 20 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.20)

जाहुषो नाम कश्चिद्राजा । विश्वतः सर्वतः परिविष्टं शत्रुभिः परिवृतं तं राजानं हे नासत्यावश्विनावजरयू जराऽरहितौ नित्यतरुणौ युवां विभिन्दुना विशेषेण सर्वस्य भेदकेनाश्वीयेन रथेन नक्तं रात्रौ सुगेभिः सुष्ठु गन्तुं शक्यै रजोभी रञ्जकैर्मार्गैरूहथुः । तस्माच्छत्रुसमूहान्निरगमयतम् । सीमिति पूरणार्थः । निर्गतेन तेन सह पर्वतान् शत्रुभिरारोढुमशक्यान् शिलोच्चयान् वियातं । विशेषेणागच्छतं । परिविष्टम् । विश प्रवेशने । कर्मणि निष्ठा । गतिरनन्तर इति गतेः प्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सुगेभिः । सुदुरोरधिकरण इति गमेर्डः । विभिन्दुना । भिदिर् विदारणे । औणादिक उप्रत्ययो नुमागमश्च । अजरयू । न जरा अजरा । तामात्मन इच्छतः क्यच् । न छन्दस्यपुत्रस्येति दीर्घस्योर्निषेधः । क्याच्छन्दसीत्युप्रत्ययः ॥

jāhuṣo nāma kaścidrājā | viśvataḥ sarvataḥ pariviṣṭaṃ śatrubhiḥ parivṛtaṃ taṃ rājānaṃ he nāsatyāvaśvināvajarayū jarā 'rahitau nityataruṇau yuvāṃ vibhindunā viśeṣeṇa sarvasya bhedakenāśvīyena rathena naktaṃ rātrau sugebhiḥ suṣṭhu gantuṃ śakyai rajobhī rañjakairmārgairūhathuḥ | tasmācchatrusamūhānniragamayatam | sīmiti pūraṇārthaḥ | nirgatena tena saha parvatān śatrubhirāroḍhumaśakyān śiloccayān viyātaṃ | viśeṣeṇāgacchataṃ | pariviṣṭam | viśa praveśane | karmaṇi niṣṭhā | gatiranantara iti gateḥ prakṛtisvaratvam | sugebhiḥ | suduroradhikaraṇa iti gamerḍaḥ | vibhindunā | bhidir vidāraṇe | auṇādika upratyayo numāgamaśca | ajarayū | na jarā ajarā | tāmātmana icchataḥ kyac | na chandasyaputrasyeti dīrghasyorniṣedhaḥ | kyācchandasītyupratyayaḥ ‖

Sense (mine): "Jāhuṣa was a certain king. Him, viśvataḥ — on all sides — pariviṣṭam, surrounded by enemies, O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, ajarayū, free from old age, ever-young — you, with vibhindunā, the splitter of all, the horse-drawn chariot, naktam, by night, by sugebhiḥ, easily traversable, rajobhiḥ, pleasing, roads, carried away (ūhathuḥ). So you brought him out from that mass of enemies. Sīm is a filler. With him thus brought out, you went [over] parvatān, the rocky heights that enemies cannot climb, you went widely."

Grammatical tail (characterized, not transcribed): pariviṣṭam (viś "to enter", kta in the passive; the prefix keeps its accent by gatir anantaraḥ); sugebhiḥ (su-du-ro-'dhikaraṇe: the ḍa suffix after gam); vibhindunā (bhidir "to split", the Uṇādi suffix u and the augment num); ajarayū (na jarā ajarā; tām ātmana icchataḥ — kyac; na chandasy aputrasya, no lengthening; kyāc chandasi, the suffix u).

Printed p. 284 (PDF 304; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"ajarayū — free from old age, ever-young; he nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; viśvataḥ — on all sides; pariviṣṭam — surrounded by enemies; jāhuṣam — the king named Jāhuṣa; vibhindunā — that breaks everything; rathena — by (your) chariot; naktam — at night; sugebhiḥ — easily traversable; rajobhiḥ — by routes; ūhathuḥ — you took him, freeing him from the enemies; parvatān — to mountains (inaccessible to the enemies); vi āyātam — you brought him."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O ever-young Aśvin deities, the king named Jāhuṣa, surrounded by enemies on all sides, you carried by night, in your chariot that breaks all [obstacles], by (your power) easily passable routes, and went with him to the mountains (inaccessible to the enemies)."

English Translation (as printed)

> Undecaying Nasatyas, you bore away by night, in your foe-overwhelming car, Jahusha, surrounded on every side by (enemies), through practicable roads, and went to (inaccessible) mountains.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

जाहुषम् — Jāhuṣam — "jāhuṣo nāma kaścid rājā": "Sāyaṇa explains that Jāhuṣa is a king named Jāhuṣa. Skandasvāmin —

> जाहुषो नाम ऋषिः वृद्धः वृद्धया भार्ययो वृद्धैश्च पुत्रपौत्रादिभिः परिवृतो देवानीजे । तं दृष्ट्वासुराः तुङ्गैः पर्वतैः परिक्षिप्ते मरुदेशे प्राक्षिपन् । स तेको प्रवृद्धत्वात् स्वयं निर्गन्तुमशक्नुवन्महाकारुणिकावश्विनौ तुष्टाव । तमश्विनावागत्य निशैवैव रात्र्यामश्वीयेन रथेन तान् पर्वतानतिक्रामयां चक्रतुः इति ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]
>
> jāhuṣo nāma ṛṣiḥ vṛddhaḥ vṛddhayā bhāryayo vṛddhaiśca putrapautrādibhiḥ parivṛto devānīje | taṃ dṛṣṭvāsurāḥ tuṅgaiḥ parvataiḥ parikṣipte marudeśe prākṣipan | sa teko pravṛddhatvāt svayaṃ nirgantumaśaknuvanmahākāruṇikāvaśvinau tuṣṭāva | tamaśvināvāgatya niśaivaiva rātryāmaśvīyena rathena tān parvatānatikrāmayāṃ cakratuḥ iti ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

— 'Jāhuṣa, a ṛṣi, old, surrounded by his old wife and by old sons, grandsons and others, sacrificed to the gods. Seeing him, the Asuras threw him into a desert region surrounded by high mountains. He, being old, unable to come out by himself, praised the Aśvins, the greatly compassionate. The Aśvins came and, by night, in a chariot drawn by horses, carried him over those mountains.' In Kannada: a ṛṣi named Jāhuṣa, an old man, performed a sacrifice to the gods together with his old wife and with sons and grandsons, each of whom was old. The Rākṣasas, seeing this, took the ṛṣi to a desert surrounded by high mountains and placed him there. He, being very old, unable to leave that place, praised the Aśvin deities, supremely compassionate — (with a hymn). Hearing his praise, the Aśvin deities came in a single night in their chariot and took Jāhuṣa across those mountains and saved him: thus the Itihāsa is told."

Printed p. 285 (PDF 305; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

अजरयू — Ajarayū — "jararahitau nityataruṇau": "'na jarā ajarā tām ātmana icchataḥ': jarā is old age; they who have none — the Aśvin deities — are always young, endowed with youth: this is the meaning. In the word jarayū there is the suffix yu; it has come in the sense of matup [possession].

Yāska:

> इदंयुरिदं कामयमानो ऽथापि तदद्वयर्थे भाष्यते वसुंयुरिन्द्रो वसुमानित्यर्थः । अश्वयुर्गव्यू रथयुर्वसूयुरित्यपि निगमो भवति ॥ (नि. ६-३१ [as read])
>
> idaṃyuridaṃ kāmayamāno 'thāpi taddvayarthe bhāṣyate vasuṃyurindro vasumānityarthaḥ | aśvayurgavyū rathayurvasūyurityapi nigamo bhavati ‖ (ni. 6-31 [as read])

— Skandasvāmin, explaining Yāska's explanation, says that the word ajarayū has the sense of matup like the words idaṃyu, aśvayu, gavyu, rathayu [in 'possessing this', 'possessing horses', and so on]; and he cites the Ṛk —

> इन्द्रो अश्रायि सुध्यो निरेके पज्रेषु स्तोमो दुर्यो न यूपः । अश्वयुर्गव्यू रथयुर्वसूयुरिन्द्र इद्रायः क्षयति प्रयन्ता ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-५३-१४ [as read])
>
> indro aśrāyi sudhyo nireke pajreṣu stomo duryo na yūpaḥ | aśvayurgavyū rathayurvasūyurindra idrāyaḥ kṣayati prayantā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-53-14 [as read])

and explains the word pariviṣṭam: by 'surrounded on all sides' (viśvataḥ), since pari only conveys the meaning of the root, and since [taking pari as with the sense of surrounding] the word viśvataḥ too would be repetition, he says that the meaning 'pervaded by old age' should be taken (vyāpta-jarayā), combining the prefix with the root's meaning: so 'by old age pervaded'."

रजोभिः — Rajobhiḥ — "rajaśabdo 'tra tejovacanaḥ tejasvibhiḥ śīghragāmibhir ity arthaḥ": "the word rajas here denotes lustre: [the meaning] by those that are brilliant and go swiftly. Since it is an adjective of sugebhiḥ, the word suga here is used for horse: therefore it is described that the Aśvin deities saved Jāhuṣa with a chariot to which swift, lustrous, strong horses were yoked."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 20; grammar page, noted briefly)

pariviṣṭam (viś "to enter"; kta in the passive by niṣṭhā, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; vraścabhrasjasṛjamṛjayajarājabhrājacchaśām, Pā. 8-2-36 as read [?], ṣa for the ś of the root; as a consequence …

Grammar page of Ṛk 20, concluded (noted briefly): pariviṣṭam (… ṣṭutva; as the root is in the ṣa-form; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix pari keeps its accent; accusative singular); jāhuṣam (phiṣo 'nta udāttaḥ, Phiṭ-sūtra 1 as read [?], the final accent); viśvataḥ (pañcamyās tasil, Pā. 5-3-7 as read [?], the suffix tasil in the ablative sense; liti, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?], udātta on the syllable before the suffix); sugebhiḥ (gam "to go"; sudurorādhikaraṇe, Pā. 3-2-48 as read [?], the suffix ḍa in the locative sense; since it is ḍit the ṭi (am) is elided; in the form suga, when bhis follows, by bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 7-1-10 as read [?], ais does not arise; bahuvacane jhalyet, Pā. 7-3-103 as read [?], e is substituted); ūhathuḥ (vah "to carry"; liṭ 2nd dual, athus; vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti, Pā. 6-1-15 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa; doubling; nighāta after an accented word); vibhindunā (bhidir "to split"; Uṇādi suffix u; num by the connection; the final accent from the suffix; in the compound gatikārakopapadāt kṛt, Pā. 6-2-139 as read [?], the later member's accent; instrumental singular); ajarayū (na jarā ajarā; ajarām ātmana icchataḥ, when this meaning is intended, supa ātmanaḥ kyac, Pā. 3-1-8 as read [?], kyac in the sense of wish; na chandasy aputrasya, Pā. 7-4-35 as read [?], the ī etc. do not arise because of the kyac; by sanādyantā dhātavaḥ it gets the name of a root, ajaraya; kyāc chandasi, Pā. 3-2-170 as read [?], the u suffix after it; ato lopaḥ, Pā. 6-4-48 as read [?], elision of the a of kyac; final accent from the suffix; nominative dual). ‖ 20 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 21

Printed p. 287 (PDF 307; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.21)

एकस्या वस्तोरावतं रणाय वशमश्विना सनये सहस्रा । निरहतं दुच्छुना इन्द्रवन्ता पृथुश्रवसो वृषणावराती ॥ २१ ॥

ekasyā vastorāvataṃ raṇāya vaśamaśvinā sanaye sahasrā | nirahataṃ ducchunā indravantā pṛthuśravaso vṛṣaṇāvarātī ‖ 21 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.21)

एकस्याः । वस्तोः । आवतम् । रणाय । वशम् । अश्विना । सनये । सहस्रा । निः । अहतम् । दुच्छुनाः । इन्द्रवन्ता । पृथुश्रवसः । वृषणौ । अरातीः ॥ २१ ॥

ekasyāḥ | vastoḥ | āvatam | raṇāya | vaśam | aśvinā | sanaye | sahasrā | niḥ | ahatam | ducchunāḥ | indravantā | pṛthuśravasaḥ | vṛṣaṇau | arātīḥ ‖ 21 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.21)

हे अश्विना वशमेतत्संज्ञमृषिमेकस्या वस्तोरेकस्मिन्नहनि रणाय रमणीयाय सहस्रा सहस्रसंख्याकाय सनये धनलाभायावतम् । अरक्षतम् । स ऋषिः प्रकृष्टं यथा सहस्रसंख्यं धनमभते तथा रक्षितवन्तावित्यर्थः । अपि च हे वृषणा कामानां वर्षितारावश्विनौ इन्द्रवन्ता इन्द्रेण संयुक्तौ युवां दुच्छुना दुःखस्य कर्तॄन् पृथुश्रवसो विस्तीर्णयशसोऽरातीः शत्रूनिरहतम् । निःशेषेणावधिष्टम् । यद्वा । कानीनस्य पृथुश्रवःसंज्ञस्य राज्ञः शत्रूनिति योज्यम् । सहस्रा । सुपां सुलुगिति चतुर्थ्या डादेशः । अहतम् । लङि थस्तम् । अनुदात्तो … [continued on p. 288; the grammar tail reads paṭ(e)śyādīnāṃ…, duścunāḥ — śunam iti sukhanāma, duṣṭaṃ śunaṃ yāsāṃ tāḥ duśśunāḥ, parādiś chandasi bahulam, utkaratarapadādyudāttatvam (the first-syllable accent of the later member)] [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

he aśvinā vaśametatsaṃjñamṛṣimekasyā vastorekasminnahani raṇāya ramaṇīyāya sahasrā sahasrasaṃkhyākāya sanaye dhanalābhāyāvatam | arakṣatam | sa ṛṣiḥ prakṛṣṭaṃ yathā sahasrasaṃkhyaṃ dhanamabhate tathā rakṣitavantāvisyarthaḥ | api ca he vṛṣaṇā kāmānāṃ varṣitārāvaśvinau indravantā indreṇa saṃyuktau yuvāṃ ducchunā duḥkhasya kartṝn pṛthuśravaso vistīrṇayaśaso 'rātīḥ śatrūnirahatam | niḥśeṣeṇāvadhiṣṭam | yadvā | kānīnasya pṛthuśravaḥsaṃjñasya rājñaḥ śatrūniti yojyam | sahasrā | supāṃ sulugiti caturthyā ḍādeśaḥ | ahatam | laṅi thastam | anudātto … [continued on p. 288; the grammar tail reads paṭ(e)śyādīnāṃ…, duścunāḥ

> — śunam iti sukhanāma, duṣṭaṃ śunaṃ yāsāṃ tāḥ duśśunāḥ, parādiś chandasi bahulam, utkaratarapadādyudāttatvam (the first-syllable accent of the later member)] [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O Aśvins, vaśam — the ṛṣi named Vaśa — you protected on a single day (ekasyā vastoḥ), for raṇāya — delightful — a sahasrā, thousand-numbered, sanaye, gain of wealth: you protected him so that the ṛṣi might obtain, in an excellent manner, a thousand pieces of wealth. Moreover, O vṛṣaṇā, showerers of desires, indravantā, joined with Indra, you slew duśśunāḥ — doers of ill — the enemies of pṛthuśravas, of wide fame, utterly. Or, the 'enemies of the king named Pṛthuśravas, son of Kanīna' is how it should be joined."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he aśvinau — O Aśvin deities; vaśam — the ṛṣi named Vaśa; ekasyāḥ vastoḥ — in a single day; raṇasya — [for the sake of] the delightful; sahasrā — thousand-numbered; sanaye — for gain of wealth; āvatam — you protected; api ca — and further; vṛṣaṇau — O you who give desired objects (Aśvin deities); indravantā — joined with Indra; duśśunāḥ — doers of ill; pṛthuśravasaḥ — [the enemies] of Pṛthuśravas; arātīḥ — enemies; niḥ ahatam — you wholly slew."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Aśvin deities, you protected the ṛṣi named Vaśa so that thousand-fold wealth might be obtained each day. And, O givers of desired objects, joined with Indra, you wholly destroyed the evil-doing enemies of Pṛthuśravas."

English Translation (as printed)

> You preserved Vasha, Ashwins, (that he might obtain) in a single day a thousand acceptable gifts ; showerers (of benefits), associated with Indra, you destroyed the malignant enemies of Prithushravas

Printed p. 288 (PDF 308; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

रणाय — Raṇāya — "since the word raṇa is stated among the twenty-four [as read] names of battle, 'raṇaḥ', 'vivāk' (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]), it means battle: 'for the sake of battle', says Skandasvāmin. Sāyaṇa explains raṇāya as 'ramaṇīyāya', 'delightful', 'beneficial to the mind'. Sāyaṇa has explained the sense of this Ṛk in one way, and Skandasvāmin in another. Yet the intention that 'the Aśvin deities favour' is the same; in both explanations the greatness of the power of the Aśvin deities is described."

दुच्छुनाः — Duśśunāḥ — "duḥkhasya kartṝn: since the word śuna is stated among the thirty [as read] names of happiness (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), it conveys the meaning of happiness. Sāyaṇa: 'duṣṭaṃ śunaṃ yāsāṃ tāḥ duśśunāḥ': 'those for whom happiness is spoiled': hence duśśunāḥ … by parādiś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-2-199 as read [?], the first-syllable accent of the later member."

“… [Sāyaṇa explains duśśunāḥ as] ‘those who cause happiness to be spoiled’, or ‘those who cause obstruction in respect of happiness’: this is the meaning; and in the first half of this Ṛk he describes the greatness of the Aśvin deities who favoured and protected the ṛṣi named Vaśa so that wealth of a thousand might be got every day. In the second half: ‘pṛthuśravasaḥ arātīḥ niraḥatam’ — ‘kānīnasya pṛthuśravaḥsaṃjñasya rājñaḥ śatrūn niḥśeṣeṇāvadhiṣṭam’: ‘you wholly slew the enemies of the king named Pṛthuśravas, son of Kanyā [Kānīna]’: to the king named Pṛthuśravas, the son of a maiden, who was giving a gift, while he was subduing his enemies, the Aśvin deities, joined with Indra, came and protected the king: thus he explains the connection of the greatness of the Aśvin deities in two separate sentences. Skandasvāmin: ‘āvatam’ — avatir gatyarthaḥ gatavantau (the root av conveys the sense of going; ‘you went’); ‘ekasyā vastoḥ sahasrā sanaye raṇāya āvatam’: ‘ekasmin ahni sahasrasaṃkhyākānāṃ dhanānāṃ lābhāya saṅgrāmārthaṃ gatavantau’: ‘for the gaining of a thousand pieces of wealth in one day you went for battle’. [The meaning:] ‘to the king named Vaśa, to fight with enemies who destroyed one thousand [pieces] of wealth every day, the Aśvin deities went to battle, subdued the enemies of that king, and protected the king’ — thus he explains. Saying ‘this was told by Kutsa too’, he cites

> याभिर्विश्पलां धनसामथर्व्यं सहस्रमीळ्ह आजावजिन्वतम् । याभिर्वशमश्व्यं प्रेणिमावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१० [as read])
>
> yābhirviśpalāṃ dhanasāmatharvyaṃ sahasramīḷha ājāvajinvatam | yābhirvaśamaśvyaṃ preṇimāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-10 [as read])

this Ṛk, and

> पृथुश्रवो नाम राजा सन्तैर्बहुभिर्दुर्भिक्षैः पीडयमानो ऽश्विनावियोज [?] तुष्टाव च । तस्याश्विनौ तु महत्या वृष्ट्या तान्यपनिनतुरिति तदेतदिहोच्यते निरहतमित्यादि । दुच्छुना दुर्भिक्षा उच्यन्ते ॥
>
> pṛthuśravo nāma rājā santairbahubhirdurbhikṣaiḥ pīḍyamāno ’śvināviyoja [?] tuṣṭāva ca | tasyāśvinau tu mahatyā vṛṣṭyā tānyapaninaturiti tadetadihocyate nirahatamityādi | ducchunā durbhikṣā ucyante ‖ [Skandasvāmin; small type; partly doubtful [?]]

— ‘a king named Pṛthuśravas, tormented by many famines occurring uninterruptedly, pleased the Aśvin deities with oblations and praised them. They, by a great rain, removed these [famines]: this is what is said here by nirahatam and so on; duśśunāḥ means famines.’ In Kannada: a king named Pṛthuśravas, pressed down by the ever-continuing and extreme famines, satisfied the Aśvin deities with oblations and praised them. They, satisfied, joined Indra, and by sending abundant rain destroyed that famine: this matter is made manifest here by the word nirahatam; explaining thus, for the word duśśunā he gives the meaning ‘bad food (famine)’, and for the word arāti he explains ‘those who do not give’: the word arāti — whoever it be, [one who] is unable to give anything, gives hindrance — thus conveying the meaning, he sets out in detail the power of famine, and makes it an adjective of duśśunā.”

वशम् — Vaśam — “the Bhāṣyakāra explains this word as the ṛṣi named Vaśa. That the Aśvin deities protected him is mentioned in the Ṛgveda in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-112-10 ; 1-116-21 ; 8-?-? ; 8-?-? ; 8-?-? ; 8-?-? ; 8-?-? ; 10-40-? [as read; numerals partly illegible [?]]. In some Ṛks his name is given as vaśa or vaśa aśvya. A sūkta whose seer is this ṛṣi (vaśo ’śvyaḥ) is in the eighth maṇḍala; in this sūkta (Ṛ. Saṃ. 8-46 [as read]) there are three Ṛks.”

पृथुश्रवसः — Pṛthuśravasaḥ — “Pṛthuśravas or Pṛthuśravas Kānīta was a king. The praise of the gift [made by him] to the ṛṣi named Vaśa (spoken of above) is in the three Ṛks 8-46-21 to 8-46-23 [as read]. There the ṛṣi Vaśa says that this Kānīta Pṛthuśravas gave him sixty thousand horses, a hundred camels (? the word as printed), a hundred thousand [as read: ‘one lakh’] cattle including a red [or tawny] cow, and so describes him as exceedingly prosperous, righteous, famous and a generous giver.”

सनये — Sanaye — “the word sani is used here in the sense of lābhāya — ‘for gain’ (Ni. 4-?? as read [?]):

> अभ्रातेव पुंस एति प्रतीची गर्तारुगिव सनये धनानाम् । जायेव पत्य उशती सुवासा उषा हस्रेव नि रिणीते अप्सः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१२४-७ [as read])
>
> abhrāteva puṃsa eti pratīcī gartārugiva sanaye dhanānām | jāyeva patya uśatī suvāsā uṣā hasreva ni riṇīte apsaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-124-7 [as read])
>
> हिनोता नो अध्वरं देवयज्या हिनोत ब्रह्म सनये धनानाम् । ऋतस्य योगे वि ष्यध्वमूधः श्रुष्टीवरीर्भूतनास्मभ्यमापः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-३०-११ [as read])
>
> hinotā no adhvaraṃ devayajyā hinota brahma sanaye dhanānām | ṛtasya yoge vi ṣyadhvamūdhaḥ śruṣṭīvarīrbhūtanāsmabhyamāpaḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-30-11 [as read])

— in these Ṛks the word sanaye is used in the sense of lābhāya (‘for gain’).”

वस्तोः — Vastoḥ — “the word vastoḥ is stated among the twelve names of ahar (day) (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]).

> कुह स्विद्दोषा कुह वस्तोरश्विना कुहाभिपित्वं करतः कुहोषतुः । को वां शयुत्रा विधवेव देवरं मर्यं न योषा कृणुते सधस्थ आ ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-४०-२ [as read])
>
> kuha sviddoṣā kuha vastoraśvinā kuhābhipitvaṃ karataḥ kuhoṣatuḥ | ko vāṃ śayutrā vidhaveva devaraṃ maryaṃ na yoṣā kṛṇute sadhastha ā ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-40-2 [as read])
>
> प्राचीनं बर्हिः प्रदिशा पृथिव्या वस्तोरस्या वृज्यते अग्रे अह्नाम् । व्यु प्रथते वितरं वरीयो देवेभ्यो अदितये स्योनम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-११०-४ [as read])
>
> prācīnaṃ barhiḥ pradiśā pṛthivyā vastorasyā vṛjyate agre ahnām | vyu prathate vitaraṃ varīyo devebhyo aditaye syonam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-110-4 [as read])

In the second example this word vastoḥ is used in the sense of ‘covering’. From this it should be understood that the word vastoḥ has many meanings.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 21; grammar page, noted briefly) āvatam (ava “to protect”; laṅ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word); aśvinā (supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the dual ending); sahasrā (the dative; supāṃ sulug, ḍā); ahatam (han “to injure, to go”; laṅ 2nd dual; tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ, Pā. 3-4-101 as read [?], tam; adiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ, Pā. 2-4-72 as read [?], luk for śap; since sārvadhātukam apit makes the suffix ṅit, anudāttopadeśavanatitanotyādīnām anunāsikalopo jhali kṅiti, Pā. 6-4-37 as read [?], elision of the n of the root; the augment aṭ; nighāta); duśśunāḥ (śunam means ‘happiness’; duṣṭaṃ śunaṃ sukhaṃ yāsāṃ tāḥ duśśunāḥ; parādiś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-2-199 as read [?], the first-syllable accent of the later member); indravantā (indraḥ anayor asti iti indravantau; tad asyāsty asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?], matup; in the dual, supāṃ sulug, ā; as the matup is pit, unaccented); vṛṣaṇā (vṛṣu “to sprinkle”; kanin yuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanidraviṇasarvarṣacitvaribhyaḥ [as printed kanin yuvṛṣi…], Uṇ. 1-?? as read [?], the suffix kanin; in the vocative dual; āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?], nighāta). ‖ 21 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 22

Printed p. 292 (PDF 312; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.22)

शरस्य चिदार्चत्कस्यावतादा नीचादुच्चा चक्रथुः पातवे वाः । शयवे चिन्नासत्या शचीभिर्जसुरये स्तर्यं पिप्यथुर्गाम् ॥ २२ ॥

śarasya cidārcatkasyāvatādā nīcāduccā cakrathuḥ pātave vāḥ | śayave cinnāsatyā śacībhirjasuraye staryaṃ pipyathurgām ‖ 22 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.22)

शरस्य । चित् । आर्चत्कस्य । अवतात् । आ । नीचात् । उच्चा । चक्रथुः । पातवे । वारिति वाः । शयवे । चित् । नासत्या । शचीभिः । जसुरये । स्तर्यम् । पिप्यथुः । गाम् ॥ २२ ॥

śarasya | cit | ārcatkasya | avatāt | ā | nīcāt | uccā | cakrathuḥ | pātave | vāriti vāḥ | śayave | cit | nāsatyā | śacībhiḥ | jasuraye | staryam | pipyathuḥ | gām ‖ 22 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.22)

आर्चत्कस्य ऋचत्कपुत्रस्य शरस्येतत्संज्ञस्य स्तोतुः पिपासितस्य पातवे पानार्थं नीचान्नीचादवतात्कूपादुच्चा उच्चैरुपरिष्टाद्वारुदकं हे अश्विनौ युवामा चक्रथुः । अभिमुख्येन कृतवन्तौ । तथा हे नासत्यावश्विनौ शचीभिर्युष्मदीयैः कर्मभिः परिचरणैर्जसुरये श्रान्ताय शयवे चित् शयुनाम्न ऋषये स्तर्यं निवृत्तप्रसवां गामग्निहोत्रार्थस्य पयसो दोग्ध्रीं पिप्यथुः । पयसा युवामापूरितवन्तौ ॥ पातवे । पा पाने । तुमर्थे सेसेनिति तवेन्प्रत्ययः । जसुरये । जसु हिंसायां । जसिसहोरुरिन् । उ. २-५३ । स्तर्यं । स्तृणीयत आच्छाद्यते प्रसवसामर्थ्याभावेनेति स्तरीः । अवित्स्वतन्त्रिभ्य ईः । उ. ३-१५२ [?] । इतीकारप्रत्ययः । वा छन्दसीत्यमि पूर्वस्य विकल्पितत्वादभावे यणादेशः । उदात्तस्वरितयोर्यणः इति परस्यानुदात्तस्य स्वरितत्वम् । पिप्यथुः । प्यायी वृद्धौ । लिटि व्यत्ययेन परस्मैपदम् । लिङ्चजोश्च । पा. ६-१-२१ । इति पीभावः ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

ārcatkasya ṛcatkaputrasya śarasyetatsaṃjñasya stotuḥ pipāsitasya pātave pānārthaṃ nīcānnīcādavatātkūpāduccā uccairupariṣṭādvārudakaṃ he aśvinau yuvāmā cakrathuḥ | abhimukhyena kṛtavantau | tathā he nāsatyāvaśvinau śacībhiryuṣmadīyaiḥ karmabhiḥ paricaraṇairjasuraye śrāntāya śayave cit śayunāmna ṛṣaye staryaṃ nivṛttaprasavāṃ gāmagnihotrārthasya payaso dogdhrīṃ pipyathuḥ | payasā yuvāmāpūritavantau ‖ pātave | pā pāne | tumarthe seseniti tavenpratyayaḥ | jasuraye | jasu hiṃsāyāṃ | jasisahorurin | u. 2-53 | staryaṃ | stṛṇīyata ācchādyate prasavasāmarthyābhāveneti starīḥ | avitsvatantribhya īḥ | u. 3-152 [?] | itīkārapratyayaḥ | vā chandasītyami pūrvasya vikalpitatvādabhāve yaṇādeśaḥ | udāttasvaritayoryaṇaḥ iti parasyānudāttasya svaritatvam | pipyathuḥ | pyāyī vṛddhau | liṭi vyatyayena parasmaipadam | liṅyajośca | pā. 6-1-29 | iti pībhāvaḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): “For the thirsty praiser named Śara, son of Ṛcatka, [the ārcatka], for his pātave, drinking, from the lower well (avatāt), O Aśvins, you made vāḥ, water, [rise] above, upward: you made it come to the fore. Likewise, O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, by your śacībhiḥ — your works, your services — for jasurāye, the wearied śayave cit, the ṛṣi named Śayu, you filled with milk the staryа [stari — barren] cow that had ceased to bear, [the cow that gives milk for the Agnihotra].”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada) (on p. 293)

Printed p. 293 (PDF 313; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“ārcatkasya — of the son of Ṛcatka; śarasya cit — of Śara by name; pātave — for drinking; nīcāt — from the deep; avatāt — from the well; vāḥ — the water; uccā — upward; ā cakrathuḥ — you made (to come); (tathā — likewise); nāsatyā — O Aśvin deities; śacībhiḥ — [by your] works; jasuraye — [for] the wearied; śayave cit — Śayu, the ṛṣi; staryam — the barren; gām — the cow; pipyathuḥ — you filled [with milk].”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“For the sake of drinking for Śara, the son of Ṛcatka (who was thirsty), you made the water from the deep well rise up. And, O Nāsatyas, you made the barren cow of Śayu, the weary ṛṣi (for the sake of his sacrificial rites), yield milk by your works. (You made it give milk.)”

English Translation (as printed)

> You raised the water from the bottom to the top of the well, for the drinking of Shara, the son of Richatka, and by your powers, Nasatyas, you filled, for the sake of the weary Shayu, the barren cow (with milk).

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

“In this Ṛk it is said that the Aśvin deities helped the ṛṣi named Śara, the son of the ṛṣi named Ṛcatka, who was thirsty, and Śayu, the ṛṣi who was weary from his toil in performing the sacrifices. Skandasvāmin has told this matter in his bhāṣya —

शरो नाम ऋषिः स मरुदेशे गच्छन् पिपासितस्तं सुदूरकोऽयं कूपं ददर्श स तं ततः पातुमक्षन्नर्व अश्विनौ तुष्टाव । तस्मात्तेषां सुलभ्यं चक्रतुरिति । तदेतदिहोच्यते शरस्य चिदित्यादिना ॥

śaro nāma ṛṣiḥ sa marudeśe gacchan pipāsitastaṃ sudūrako 'yaṃ kūpaṃ dadarśa sa taṃ tataḥ pātumakṣannarva aśvinau tuṣṭāva | tasmātteṣāṃ sulabhyaṃ cakraturiti | tadetadihocyate śarasya cidityādinā ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

— 'a ṛṣi named Śara, going in a desert, thirsty, saw a well at a great distance; unable to drink from it [for its depth?], he praised the Aśvins; they made the water easy to get for him: this is what is said here: śarasya cit and so on.' In Kannada: the ṛṣi named Śara, while going in the desert, searching for water because of thirst, saw water in a deep well, and because it was difficult to reach it, he praised the Aśvin deities in order that the water might be easily obtained. They, pleased with his praise, caused the water of that well to rise up for him, and the opening of the well to be level, and so protected the ṛṣi: this Itihāsa is told in the Ṛk śarasya cit."

Printed p. 294 (PDF 314; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

अवतात् — Avatāt — "since the word avata is stated among the fourteen [as read] names of well, kūpa, kātaḥ ... (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), it means well."

वाः — Vāḥ — "udakam: since the word vār is stated among the hundred-and-one [as read] names of water (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]), it means water. The word vāḥ

कदा वसो स्तोत्रं हर्यत आव श्मशा रुधद्वाः । दीर्घं सुतं वाताप्याय ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-१४४-१ [as read])

kadā vaso stotraṃ haryata āva śmaśā rudhadvāḥ | dīrghaṃ sutaṃ vātāpyāya ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-144-1 [as read])

is used in this Ṛk in the sense of water."

जसुरये — Jasuraye — "śrāntāya: when explaining the meaning of the word jasuri (Ni. 4-?? as read [?]) the Nirukta-writer cites

उत स्मैनं वस्त्रमथिं न तायुमनु क्रोशन्ति क्षितयो भरेषु । नीचायमानं जसुरिं न श्येनं श्रवश्चाच्छा पशुमच्च यूथम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-३८-५ [as read])

uta smainaṃ vastramathiṃ na tāyumanu krośanti kṣitayo bhareṣu | nīcāyamānaṃ jasuriṃ na śyenaṃ śravaścācchā paśumacca yūtham ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 4-38-5 [as read]) and explains jasuriṃ as 'jastaṃ baddhaṃ kaṭṭalpaṭṭa' [= bound, held fast], 'one who is wearied'."

स्तर्यम् — Staryam — "nivṛttaprasavāṃ | strīyate ācchādyate prasavasāmarthyābhāvena iti starīḥ": "a cow that, because of lack of capacity to bear young, is covered over: starī is the name of a cow with no power to conceive and bring forth (to give birth)."

गाम् पिप्यथुः — Gām pipyathuḥ — "payaso dogdhrīm payasā āpūritavantau": "you made the cow yield milk. The meaning is that they made her a milch cow."

शचीभिः जसुरये शयवे — Śacībhiḥ jasuraye śayave — "Sāyaṇa explains that Śayu, the ṛṣi, being wearied by serving the Aśvin deities. Skandasvāmin says 'śayave cit rājñe' [= 'to Śayu, a king'], 'śacībhiḥ svābhiḥ atiśayavatībhiḥ prajñābhir karmabhir vā jasuraye śatrūṇāṃ tāḍayitre tāḍitāya vā': 'by your own excellent intelligences or by works, [for him who] smites the enemies or is smitten by enemies': he explains that Śayu was a king, with an excellent or superior mind [buddhi], devoted to work, destroying enemies or being harassed by enemies. [The sentence is cut at the foot of the page:] Śayu was a king who had no capacity to rear a cow that gives birth, [that is,] to a barren cow …" (continues on p. 295)

Printed p. 295 (PDF 315; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …") [Special Topics of Ṛk 22, concluded]

"… [Śayu had a barren cow]; the greatness of the Aśvin deities, who made it a milch cow, is described in both bhāṣyas. Skandasvāmin, saying 'the ṛṣi Kutsa too has said this matter', cites —

> अथेनुं दस्रा स्तर्यं विषक्तामपिन्वतं शयवे अश्विना गाम् । (ऋ. सं. १-११२-३० [as read])
>
> athenuṃ dasrā staryaṃ viṣaktāmapinvataṃ śayave aśvinā gām | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-30 [as read])
>
> याभिर्धेनुमस्वं पिन्वथो नरा ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विनागतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-३ [as read])
>
> yābhirdhenumasvaṃ pinvatho narā tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvināgatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-3 [as read])

— these Ṛks. In these Ṛks it is described that the Aśvin deities, pleased with the stotra of men who praise them, do the same favour to all."

शयवे — Śayave — "that the Aśvin deities protected this one is described in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-112-?; 1-116-? ; 1-117-?; 1-118-? ; 1-?-? ; 6-?-? ; 10-?-? ; 10-40-? [as read; the numerals are small, partly illegible [?]]."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 22; grammar page, noted briefly)

ārcatkasya (ārcatkasya apatyam ārcatkaḥ; tasyāpatyam, Pā. 4-1-92 as read [?], the suffix aṇ; taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ, Pā. 7-2-117 as read [?], vṛddhi of the first vowel; the final accent from the suffix; genitive singular); cakrathuḥ (ḍukṛñ "to do"; liṭ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word); pātave (pā "to drink"; tumarthe se-sen-ase-asen-kase-kasen-adhyai-adhyain-kadhyai-kadhyain-śadhyai-śadhyain-tavai-tavenkenaḥ, Pā. 3-4-9 as read [?], the suffix taven; jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent; kṛn mejantaḥ, Pā. 1-1-39 as read [?], since it ends in e it is an avyaya); jasuraye (jasu "to injure"; jasisahor urin, Uṇ. 2-?? as read [?], the suffix urin; the word jasuri; as it is nit, first-syllable accent as before; dative singular).

Printed p. 296 (PDF 316; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

Grammar page of Ṛk 22, concluded: staryam (stṝ "to cover"; strīyate ācchādyate prasavasāmarthyābhāvena iti starīḥ; avitrasvatantribhya īḥ, Uṇ. 3-?? as read [?], this suffix; guṇa of the ṛ of the root, with raparatva; am follows; by vā chandasi the lengthening of the preceding vowel is optional, so yaṇ is substituted [yaṇādeśa]; udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svaritaḥ anudāttasya, Pā. 8-2-4 as read [?], the following anudātta takes the svarita); pipyathuḥ (pyāyī "to grow"; although ātmanepada, in the liṭ vyatyayo bahulam, Pā. 3-1-85 as read [?], parasmaipada; 2nd dual athus; liṭyajoś ca, Pā. 6-1-29 as read [?], pī for the root; dvirvacana because of liṭ; asaṃyogāl liṭ kit, Pā. 1-2-5 as read [?], kit-hood of the suffix, so no guṇa; iyaṅādeśa being obtained, aci śnudhātubhruvāṃ..., but by eranekāco 'saṃyogapūrvasya, Pā. 6-4-82 as read [?], yaṇ; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 22 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 23

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.23)

अवस्यते स्तुवते कृष्णियाय ऋजूयते नासत्या शचीभिः । पशुं न नष्टमिव दर्शनाय विष्णाप्वं ददथुर्विश्वकाय ॥ २३ ॥

avasyate stuvate kṛṣṇiyāya ṛjūyate nāsatyā śacībhiḥ | paśuṃ na naṣṭamiva darśanāya viṣṇāpvaṃ dadathurviśvakāya ‖ 23 ‖

Printed p. 297 (PDF 317; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga ...")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.23)

अवस्यते । स्तुवते । कृष्णियाय । ऋजुऽयते । नासत्या । शचीभिः । पशुम् । न । नष्टम्ऽइव । दर्शनाय । विष्णाप्वम् । ददथुः । विश्वकाय ॥ २३ ॥

avasyate | stuvate | kṛṣṇiyāya | ṛju 'yate | nāsatyā | śacībhiḥ | paśum | na | naṣṭam 'iva | darśanāya | viṣṇāpvam | dadathuḥ | viśvakāya ‖ 23 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.23)

अवस्यते अवनं रक्षणमात्मन इच्छते स्तुवते स्तुतिं कुर्वते कृष्णियाय । कृष्णो नाम कश्चित्तस्य पुत्राय ऋजूयते आर्जवमिच्छते विश्वकायेत्येतत्संज्ञाय ऋषये हे नासत्या युवां शचीभिरात्मीयैः कर्मभिर्विष्णाप्वं नाम विनष्टं पुत्रं दर्शनाय दर्शनार्थं ददथुः । दत्तवन्तौ । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । पशुं न नष्टमिव । इव उपमार्थीयः पूरकः । यथा कश्चिन्नष्टं पशुं स्वामिनो दृष्टिपथं प्रापयति तद्वत् ॥ अवस्यते । अवस्शब्दात्सुप आत्मनः क्यच् । कृष्णियाय । कृष्णशब्दादपत्यार्थे छान्दसो घः ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

avasyate avanaṃ rakṣaṇamātmana icchate stuvate stutiṃ kurvate kṛṣṇiyāya | kṛṣṇo nāma kaścittasya putrāya ṛjūyate ārjavamicchate viśvakāyetyetatsaṃjñāya ṛṣaye he nāsatyā yuvāṃ śacībhirātmīyaiḥ karmabhirviṣṇāpvaṃ nāma vinaṣṭaṃ putraṃ darśanāya darśanārthaṃ dadathuḥ | dattavantau | tatra dṛṣṭāntaḥ | paśuṃ na naṣṭamiva | iva upamārthīyaḥ pūrakaḥ | yathā kaścinnaṣṭaṃ paśuṃ svāmino dṛṣṭipathaṃ prāpayati tadvat ‖ avasyate | avasśabdātsupa ātmanaḥ kyac | kṛṣṇiyāya | kṛṣṇaśabdādapatyārthe chāndaso ghaḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "To Viśvaka, son of Kṛṣṇa — who avasyate (desires protection for himself), stuvate (praises), ṛjūyate (is wishing rectitude) — O Nāsatyas, you, by your own works, gave Viṣṇāpva, the lost son, for sight, darśanāya, for him to see; as one who brings a lost animal into the sight of its owner."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; avasyate — desiring protection; stuvate — one who praises (you); kṛṣṇiyāya — the son of Kṛṣṇa; ṛjūyate — wishing for the straight path; viśvakāya — to Viśvaka; viṣṇāpvam — Viṣṇāpva by name (the lost son); naṣṭam iva — lost, as if he had gone astray; paśum na — as one brings back a lost animal; darśanāya — for sight; śacībhiḥ — by [your] works; dadathuḥ — you gave."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O Nāsatyas, to Viśvaka, the son of Kṛṣṇa, who praised you, desiring your protection and the straight path, you, by your works, made visible again his lost son Viṣṇāpva, as one makes a lost animal visible [to its owner]."

English Translation (as printed)

> Nasatyas, by your acts you restored to Vishwaka, the son of Krishna, soliciting your protection, adoring you, and a lover of rectitude, his son Vishnapu, (welcome) to his sight as an animal that had been lost.

Printed p. 298 (PDF 318; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

पशुं न नष्टमिव — Paśuṃ na naṣṭam iva — "iva upamārthīyaḥ pūrakaḥ": "Sāyaṇa says that, since the words na and iva are in the sense of comparison, here the word iva is a padapūraka (filler). Skandasvāmin: 'paunaruktyāt astyupamārthasya samprati kārthaṃ prayogaḥ' (Ni. 1-?? as read [?]) — in the sense of 'yathā paśuṃ naṣṭaṃ kaścid idānīm asmai didṛkṣave dadyāt evam': 'as someone would now give a lost animal to him who wishes to see it, so [you gave]'. Here, since two words of comparison — na and iva — are present, there would be repetition; so for the word na the meaning of upamā is [said to be] samprati ('now'), and here, he explains, na is a padapūraka.

Viśvako nāma rājarṣeḥ putraḥ pramādād upananaṣṭe snehād vipatty-āśaṅkayā kasya pālanaṃ punar naṣṭaṃ darśanam icchan aśvinau tuṣṭāva … [the Sanskrit is in small type; read letter by letter and doubtful [?]]: 'Viśvaka, the son of a royal sage, when his own son was lost, through carelessness [?], afraid of calamity because of affection, praised the Aśvins, wishing to see again the lost [son]: to him the lovely Aśvins gave [back] the son: this is what is said here: avasyave and so on.' In Kannada: Viśvaka, the son of a royal sage, his son having gone out of his father's sight through carelessness, [Viśvaka] anxious through love, suspecting danger — wishing to see his son, praised the Aśvin deities; the Aśvin deities called that son and showed him to Viśvaka. Just as another person searches for an animal that had been lost, and calling it, shows it, so the Aśvin deities called the son of Viśvaka and brought and showed him: this is described here."

कृष्णियाय — Kṛṣṇiyāya — "kṛṣṇo nāma kaścit | tasya putraḥ kṛṣṇiyaḥ": "Kṛṣṇa is the name of a person; his son is kṛṣṇiya: the suffix comes in the sense of 'offspring' and gives the form kṛṣṇiya."

विश्वकाय — Viśvakāya — "etatsaṃjñāya — to the one named Viśvaka."

ऋजूयते — Ṛjūyate — "ṛjum ātmana icchate: for the sake of one who desires the straight (honest) conduct of a good man, without deceit and without crookedness; for the man who desires the practice of upright conduct — this is the meaning."

विष्णाप्वम् — Viṣṇāpvam — "Viṣṇāpva is the son of Viśvaka. This matter is told in this sūkta and in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-117-7 [as read]; 8-?-?; 10-65-12 [as read]."

Printed p. 299 (PDF 319; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 23; grammar page, noted briefly)

avasyate (avaḥ rakṣaṇam ātmana icchati avasyati; supa ātmanaḥ kyac, Pā. 3-1-8 as read [?], kyac in the sense of wish; sanādyantā dhātavaḥ, Pā. 3-1-32 as read [?], avasya gets the name of a root; laṭ, then śatṛ; śap as vikaraṇa; ato guṇe, Pā. 6-1-97 as read [?], pararūpa; the form avasyat; dative singular; since śatṛ is without num, the ending is accented udātta by śatur anumo nadyajādī, Pā. 6-1-173 as read [?]); stuvate (ṣṭuñ "to praise"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; as it is jit… aci śnudhātubhruvāṃ yvor iyaṅuvaṅau, Pā. 6-4-77 as read [?], uvaṅ; as before the ending accented udātta); kṛṣṇiyāya (kṛṣṇasya apatyaṃ pumān kṛṣṇiyaḥ; the suffix ghaṇ in the sense of 'offspring' in the Veda; āyaneyīnīyiyaḥ phaḍhakhachaghāṃ pratyayādīnām, Pā. 7-1-2 as read [?], iya; yasyeti ca, Pā. 6-4-148 as read [?], elision of the a; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent); ṛjūyate (ṛjum ātmana icchati ṛjūyati; supa ātmanaḥ kyac; as before śatṛ; accent of the ending); naṣṭam (naśa "to disappear"; niṣṭhā, kta, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; noṇaḥ… ṇatva of n in the initial position by no naḥ, Pā. 6-1-65 as read [?]; vraścabhrasjasṛjamṛjayajarājabhrājacchaśām, Pā. 8-2-36 as read [?], ṣa for the root's ś; as a result ṣṭutva of the suffix; final accent from the suffix; accusative singular); darśanāya (dṛśir "to see"; lyuṭ in the abstract sense; yuvor anākau, Pā. 7-1-1 as read [?], ana; guṇa of the root; liti, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?], udātta on the syllable before the suffix); dadathuḥ (ḍudāñ "to give"; liṭ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 23 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 24

Printed p. 300 (PDF 320; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.24)

दश रात्रीरशिवेना नव द्यूनवनद्धं श्नथितमप्स्वन्तः । विप्रुतं रेभमुदनि प्रवृक्तमुन्निन्यथुः सोममिव स्रुवेण ॥ २४ ॥

daśa rātrīraśivenā nava dyūnavanaddhaṃ śnathitamapsvantaḥ | viprutaṃ rebhamudani pravṛktamunninyathuḥ somamiva sruveṇa ‖ 24 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.24)

दश । रात्रीः । अशिवेन । नव । द्यून् । अवऽनद्धम् । श्नथितम् । अप्ऽसु । अन्तरिति । विऽप्रुतम् । रेभम् । उदनि । प्रऽवृक्तम् । उत् । निन्यथुः । सोमम्ऽइव । स्रुवेण ॥ २४ ॥

daśa | rātrīḥ | aśivena | nava | dyūn | ava 'naddham | śnathitam | ap 'su | antariti | vi 'prutam | rebham | udani | pra 'vṛktam | ut | ninyathuḥ | somam 'iva | sruveṇa ‖ 24 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.24)

> पुरा खलु रेभमृषिं पाश्वैर्बद्ध्वासुराः कूपे कस्यचिद्दिवसस्य सायंकाले प्राक्षिपुः । स चाश्विनौ स्तुवन् दश रात्रीर्नवाहानि च कूपमध्ये तथैवावस्थितो ऽभूत् । दशमेऽहनि प्रातरश्विनौ तं कूपादुदतारयतामिति । तदाह । अप्सु कूपान्तर्वर्तिनीष्वप्स्वन्तर्मध्ये असुरैः पाशैर्दुःखहेतुना वाग्भिर्बद्धं श्नथितं शत्रुभिर्हिंसितं दश रात्रीर्दशसंख्याका निशा नव द्यून् नवसंख्याकान्यहानि च अशिवेन अकल्याणेन [?] ...
>
> purā khalu rebhamṛṣiṃ pārśvairbaddhvāsurāḥ kūpe kasyaciddivasasya sāyaṃkāle prākṣipuḥ | sa cāśvinau stuvan daśa rātrīrnavāhāni ca kūpamadhye tathaivāvasthito 'bhūt | daśame 'hani prātaraśvinau taṃ kūpādudatārayatāmiti | tadāha | apsu kūpāntarvartinīṣvapsvantarmadhye asuraiḥ pāśairduḥkhahetunā vāgbhirbaddhaṃ śnathitaṃ śatrubhirhiṃsitaṃ daśa rātrīrdaśasaṃkhyākā niśā nava dyūn navasaṃkhyākānyahāni ca aśivena akalyāṇena [?] ...

Sense (mine): "Once, the Asuras, having bound the ṛṣi Rebha with ropes at the sides, threw him into a well at the evening of some day. And he, praising the Aśvins, remained so ten nights and nine days in the well. On the tenth day, in the morning, the Aśvins lifted him out of the well. This is said: in the waters (apsu) within the well, bound with ropes by the Asuras, a cause of pain, śnathitam — injured by enemies — for daśa rātrīḥ, ten nights, nava dyūn, nine days, aśivena, with misery ..." (the bhāṣya continues on p. 301)

(Bhāṣya of Ṛk 24, concluded from p. 300:) "... aśivena — by misery; anavaddham — bound; [Rebha, who was bound in the well by the Asuras]. Having thus been bound in the waters inside the well, prvṛktam — scorched, viprutam — immersed (pluta) — Rebham, the ṛṣi named Rebha, udani, in the water, unninyathuḥ — you raised up sromam iva sruveṇa: as the Adhvaryu, at the time of Agnihotra, with a ladle (sruva), draws up from a vessel the soma-juice [to offer into the fire] ..." [the Sanskrit of the following portion: yathāgnihotrahomārthamabhiṣutaṃ somarasaṃ kūpasadṛśe 'gnihotrasthālīmadhye vartamānaṃ sruveṇādhvaryur unnayati ūrdhvaṃ nayati tadvat]; and then the grammar tail, in small type: anavaddham — ṇah "to bind", niṣṭhā, kta; ṇaho dhaḥ; jhaṣas tathor dho 'dhaḥ; śnathitam — śnatha hiṃsārthaḥ, niṣṭhā; vipṛtam — pruj... gatau; anavaddham [again]; udani — padannomāsa... [the substitute udan for udaka].

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"apsu antaḥ — inside the water (that was in the well); aśivena — by pain-causing (rope thrown by the Asuras); anavaddham — bound; śnathitam — injured; daśa rātrīḥ — ten nights; nava dyūn — nine days; udani — in the water; viprutam — immersed; pravṛktam — scorched; rebham — Rebha by name; sruveṇa — with a ladle (the Adhvaryu); somam iva — as soma-juice (when performing the Agnihotra, from the vessel [is drawn] upward); unninyathuḥ — you raised him up."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“You raised up from the well, as the Adhvaryu raises with a ladle the soma-juice out of a vessel at the time of Agnihotra, Rebha — who, thrown by the Asuras into the water in the well, bound with a pain-causing rope, injured, immersed for ten nights and nine days in the water, was scorched [with distress].”

English Translation (as printed)

> Ashwins, you raised up, like Soma in a ladle, Rebha, who for ten nights and nine days had lain (in a well), bound with tight bonds, wounded, immersed, and suffering distress from the water.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अशिवेन — Aśivena — “duḥkhahetunā dāmnā”: “‘bound by a rope that is the cause of causing suffering’: this is how Sāyaṇa explains the meaning of this Ṛk. The meaning stated in Skandasvāmin’s bhāṣya is different, yet the general sense is the same. But Sāyaṇa tells this Itihāsa in full here. The meaning that Skandasvāmin’s bhāṣya gives of this Itihāsa is understood from the explanations of the words of āyuḥ.

Printed p. 302 (PDF 322; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116”)

> पुरा खलु रेभमृषिं पार्श्वैर्बद्ध्वासुराः कूपे कस्यचिद्दिवसस्य सायंकाले प्राक्षिपुः । स चाश्विनौ स्तुवन् दशरात्रीर्नवाहानि च कूपमध्ये क्लेशेनावतस्थे । दशमेऽहनि प्रातरश्विनौ तं कूपात् उदतारयतामिति । तदाह ॥
>
> purā khalu rebhamṛṣiṃ pārśvairbaddhvāsurāḥ kūpe kasyaciddivasasya sāyaṃkāle prākṣipuḥ | sa cāśvinau stuvan daśarātrīrnavāhāni ca kūpamadhye kleśenāvatasthe | daśame ’hani prātaraśvinau taṃ kūpāt udatārayatāmiti | tadāha ‖

— ‘The Asuras, having bound the ṛṣi named Rebha at the sides, threw him into a well at evening of a certain day. He remained in the middle of the well in distress for ten nights and nine days, praising the Aśvins. On the tenth day in the morning the Aśvins brought him out of the well. This is said.’ In Kannada: a ṛṣi named Rebha was bound by the Asuras with ropes and thrown into a well at evening of a day. He lay in the water inside the well with his hands and feet bound for nine days, or ten nights, praising the Aśvin deities. Then on the tenth day, in the morning, the Aśvin deities came, lifted him out of the well and protected him. This Itihāsa is told here.

“Skandasvāmin:

> अशिवेन । शिवं सुखम् । केशो ऽन्यादृशिवं दुःखं । तत्र ये रक्षः अशिवा उच्यन्ते । समूहाभिप्रायं च एकवचनं दुःखकरेण असुरसमूहेन ॥
>
> aśivena | śivaṃ sukham | keśo ’nyādṛśivaṃ duḥkhaṃ | tatra ye rakṣaḥ aśivā ucyante | samūhābhiprāyaṃ ca ekavacanaṃ duḥkhakareṇa asurasamūhena ‖

— ‘śiva is happiness; the opposite of it is aśiva, pain. Those who cause it, the Rākṣasas, are called aśivāḥ. The singular is used with the idea of a group: duḥkhakareṇa asurasamūhena, by a company of Asuras who cause pain.’ Śiva means ‘happiness’; what is distinct from happiness, the opposite of happiness, is pain. The Asuras, the cause of pain, are denoted by the word aśiva.

The singular is used here with the meaning of a collection: the sense is 'by many Asuras, a group of causers of pain'."

श्नथितम् — Śnathitam — "śatrubhir hiṃsitam": "hurt by enemies — so Sāyaṇa; Skandasvāmin explains: 'struck' (tāḍitam), 'beaten' (kuḍiyalpaṭṭavan)."

प्रवृक्तम् — Pravṛktam — "prayajanena santaptaṃ ghṛmam iva vyathayā saṃtapyamānam" [as read; small type]: "scorched, like a hot vessel (gharma) by distress. Because he had been immersed in the water for ten nights, he was in distress like a person scorched by the heat of fire: so Sāyaṇa explains — [the root] vṛjī vārjane; Skandasvāmin explains it as nimagnam (immersed), since the root vṛj conveys the sense of 'to submerge' (majjana); the one who is immersed."

विप्रुतम् — Viprutam — "vyākṣiptasarvāṅgam: whose limbs are all scattered about (as the limbs were not able to be used properly, because of being tightly bound). Skandasvāmin: 'āpāṃ madhye karmabhiḥ vigataṃ rahitaṃ niṣkleśyam': 'in the middle of the waters one deprived of the power to do work, who is lying helpless': he explains that the Aśvin deities lifted Rebha, in this state, out of the well."

सोममिव स्रुवेण — Somam iva sruveṇa — "yathā kaścit sruveṇa somam unnayati tadvat: as one draws up soma with a ladle; by the word sruva — because of the similarity of the camasa and other soma-vessels — [the sense is:] as the soma-juice is raised up. Or the Kātyāyana-ites [?], those who study the Yajurveda — kaṭhaśākhins — desiring brahmavarcasa, do homa of the soma-juice into the Agnihotra fire. The simile [is explained]: 'as soma-juice is raised up with the ladle' — here the comparison is stated, with the intention that they offer the soma-juice. By this simile the camasa and other vessels are indicated. When performing this homa, the camasa, sruva, iḍā and other sacrificial vessels are necessary; therefore, as the soma-juice in the camasa vessel is raised with the ladle for the time of homa, so Rebha was lifted from the well: this example is shown.

Printed p. 303 (PDF 323; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

> अश्वं न गूळ्हमश्विना दुरेवैर्ऋषिं नरा वृषणा रेभमप्सु । सं तं रिणीथो विप्रुतं दंसोभिर्न वां जूर्यन्ति पूर्व्या कृतानि ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-५ [as read; as printed here; the first pāda reads aśvaṃ na gūḷham aśvinā durevaiḥ… [?]])
>
> aśvaṃ na gūḷhamaśvinā durevairṛṣiṃ narā vṛṣaṇā rebhamapsu | saṃ taṃ riṇītho viprutaṃ daṃsobhirna vāṃ jūryanti pūrvyā kṛtāni ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-5 [as read; as printed here; the first pāda reads aśvaṃ na gūḷham aśvinā durevaiḥ… [?]])
>
> याभी रेभं निवृतं सितमद्भ्य उद्वन्दनमैरयतं स्वर्दृशे । याभिः कण्वं प्र सिषासन्तमावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-५ [as read; the number printed as 1-112-5 also above [?]])
>
> yābhī rebhaṃ nivṛtaṃ sitamadbhya udvandanamairayataṃ svardṛśe | yābhiḥ kaṇvaṃ pra siṣāsantamāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-5 [as read; the number printed as 1-112-5 also above [?]])

— in these Ṛks too the protection of the ṛṣi Rebha by the Aśvin deities is described."

रेभम् — Rebham — "that the Aśvin deities protected Rebha is stated in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-112-5 ; 1-116-24 ; 1-117-4 ; 1-117-5 ; 1-118-6 ; 10-39-9 [as read; the numerals partly legible [?]]."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 24; grammar page, noted briefly)

aśivena (na śivam aśivam; tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtīyā…, Pā. 6-2-2 as read [?], the first member, an avyaya, keeps its accent); daśa, nava (these end in n and denote numbers; nr-saṃkhyāyoḥ [triṃśat…] Phiṭ-sūtra as read [?], first-syllable accent); anavaddham (ṇah "to bind"; niṣṭhā, kta, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; no ṇaḥ, Pā. 6-1-65 as read [?], ṇatva…; naho dhaḥ, Pā. 8-2-34 as read [?], dh for the root's h; with a jhaṣ after, t arises; jhaṣas tathor dho 'dhaḥ, Pā. 8-2-40 as read [?], dh for the t of the suffix; jhalāṃ jaś jhaśi, Pā. 8-4-53 as read [?] …

Printed p. 304 (PDF 324; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116")

Grammar page of Ṛk 24, concluded (noted briefly): anavaddham (… jhalāṃ jaś jhaśi gives d; ḍhatva…; ṣṭutva…; the elision of the preceding ḍh and the lengthening, as above; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix ava keeps its accent; accusative singular); śnathitam (śnatha "to injure"; kta in the passive; ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ, Pā. 7-2-35 as read [?], the augment iṭ; final accent from the suffix); apsu (ūḍidaṃpadādi…, Pā. 6-1-171 as read [?], the ending takes udātta; locative plural); viprutam (pruj "to go"; kta as before; gatir anantaraḥ, the prefix vi keeps its accent; since it belongs to the kapilakādi group, l-form [pluta] arises optionally); udani (when the locative singular follows the word udaka, pad-dan-no-mās…, Pā. 6-1-63 as read [?], udan is substituted; vibhāṣā ṅiśyoḥ, Pā. 6-4-136 as read [?], the elision of the a of an is optional, so it does not arise here); ninyathuḥ (ṇīñ "to carry"; liṭ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 24 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 25 (the last Ṛk of Sūkta 116)

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.25)

प्र वां दंसांस्यश्विनाववोचमस्य पतिः स्यां सुगवः सुवीरः । उत पश्यन्नश्नुवन्दीर्घमायुरस्तमिवेज्जरिमाणं जगम्याम् ॥ २५ ॥

pra vāṃ daṃsāṃsyaśvināvavocamasya patiḥ syāṃ sugavaḥ suvīraḥ | uta paśyannaśnuvandīrghamāyurastamiveḭjjarimāṇaṃ jagamyām ‖ 25 ‖

Printed p. 305 (PDF 325; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …"; footer signature mark "IX 20")

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 116.25)

प्र । वाम् । दंसांसि । अश्विनौ । अवोचम् । अस्य । पतिः । स्याम् । सुऽगवः । सुऽवीरः ।
उत । पश्यन् । अश्नुवन् । दीर्घम् । आयुः । अस्तम्ऽइव । इत् । जरिमाणम् । जगम्याम् ॥ २५ ॥

pra | vām | daṃsāṃsi | aśvinau | avocam | asya | patiḥ | syām | su 'gavaḥ | su 'vīraḥ | uta | paśyan | aśnuvan | dīrgham | āyuḥ | astam 'iva | it | jarimāṇam | jagamyām ‖ 25 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 116.25)

एवमनेन सूक्तेनाश्विनोर्महिमानं प्रशस्याधुना मन्त्रद्रष्टा स्वाभीष्टं प्रार्थयते । हे अश्विनौ वां युवयोर्दंसांसि पुरा कृतानि कर्माणि प्रावोचम् । इत्थं मुक्तवानस्मि । सोऽहं सुगवः शोभनगोयुक्तः सुवीरः शोभनवीरैः पुत्रैर्युक्तश्चास्य राष्ट्रस्य परिधिपतिः स्याम् । भवेयम् । उताऽपि च पश्यन्सर्वैरिन्द्रियैः स्वस्वविषयसमर्थैर्दीर्घं वर्षशतरूपेणायुष्टमायुर्जीवितं चाश्नुवन्प्राप्नुवन्नहमस्तमिव यथा गृहं स्वामी निष्कण्टकं प्रविशति एवं जरिमाणं जरां कण्टकरहितेन प्राप्नुयाम् । वृद्धः सन्किरकालं निवसेयमित्यर्थः ॥ स्याम् । अस्तेः प्रार्थनायां लिङ् । यासुट् । क्सोरल्लोप इत्यकारलोपः । अश्नुवन् । अशू व्याप्तौ । व्यत्ययेन शपि । जरिमाणम् । जॄष् वयोहानौ । अस्माद्यौणादिक इमनिच् । जगम्याम् । गमेः प्रार्थनायां लिङ् । बहुलं छन्दसीति विकरणस्य श्लुः ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

evamanena sūktenāśvinormahimānaṃ praśasyādhunā mantradraṣṭā svābhīṣṭaṃ prārthayate | he aśvinau vāṃ yuvayordaṃsāṃsi purā kṛtāni karmāṇi prāvocam | itthaṃ muktavānasmi | so 'haṃ sugavaḥ śobhanagoyuktaḥ suvīraḥ śobhanavīraiḥ putrairyuktaścāsya rāṣṭrasya paridhipatiḥ syām | bhaveyam | utā 'pi ca paśyansarvairindriyaiḥ svasvaviṣayasamarthairdīrghaṃ varṣaśatarūpeṇāyuṣṭamāyurjīvitaṃ cāśnuvanprāpnuvannahamastamiva yathā gṛhaṃ svāmī niṣkaṇṭakaṃ praviśati evaṃ jarimāṇaṃ jarāṃ kaṇṭakarahitena prāpnuyām | vṛddhaḥ sankirakālaṃ nivaseyamityarthaḥ ‖ syām | asteḥ prārthanāyāṃ liṅ | yāsuṭ | ksorallopa ityakāralopaḥ | aśnuvan | aśū vyāptau | vyatyayena śapi | jarimāṇam | jṛṣ vayohānau | asmādvauṇādika imanic | jagamyām | gameḥ prārthanāyāṃ liṅ | bahulaṃ chandasīti vikaraṇasya śluḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Having thus, by this sūkta, praised the greatness of the Aśvins, the seer of the mantras now prays for his own desire. O Aśvins, vām, your daṃsāṃsi, works done in former times, pra avocam, I have declared. May I, sugavaḥ, endowed with good cattle, suvīraḥ, endowed with good sons, be the pati, lord, of the boundary [paridhi] of this realm. And paśyan — seeing with all the senses, each capable in its own object — aśnuvan, obtaining dīrgham āyuḥ, a long life of a hundred years: may I jagamyām, attain jarimāṇam, old age, astam iva, as a master [enters his house] into a house without thorns, freed from troubles; that is, 'may I live for a long time, when old'."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he aśvinau — O Aśvin deities; vām — your; daṃsāṃsi — [mighty] acts; pra avocam — I have declared (such as I am); sugavaḥ — having good cattle; suvīraḥ — having valiant sons; asya — of this realm; patiḥ syām — may I be lord; uta — and; paśyan — seeing (with eyes, having keenness of the senses); dīrgham āyuḥ — a long life; aśnuvan — obtaining (living for a long time); astam iva — as (the master of a house) enters his house; jarimāṇam — old age; jagamyām — may I enter."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Aśvin deities, I have described your great deeds. Grant that I, having valour and good cattle, may be the lord of this realm, and that, keen of senses, living long, I may afterwards (as a householder enters his house) enter old age.”

English Translation (as printed)

> Thus, Ashwins, have I declared your exploits ; may I become the master (of this place), having abundant cattle and a numerous progeny, and retaining my sight, and enjoying a long life : may I enter into old age, as (a master enters) his house.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

दंसांसि — Daṃsāṃsi — “purā kṛtāni karmāṇi: since the word daṃsaḥ is stated among the twenty-six [as read] names of work, ‘apaḥ’, ‘apnaḥ’ (Ni. 2-1 as read [?]), the word daṃsa means work. In this Ṛk, the number of acts is described in which the ṛṣi Kakṣīvān, who saw this sūkta and performed the pācana etc., having prayed to the Aśvin deities, who are the subject of this sūkta, [has asked for] what he must obtain; many works of the Aśvin deities that were done as favours to those who were in difficulties have been narrated. By this, the greatness of these deities being made clear, the ṛṣi Kakṣīvān prayed to the Aśvin deities that he might be lord of this realm with excellent cattle, sons and so on; that he might have a sharp sense-organs [indriyapāṭava] suitable for long life; that he might live long, free from disease, in a healthy body, and afterwards attain old age.”

अस्तमिव — Astam iva — “yathā gṛhaṃ svāmī niṣkaṇṭakaṃ praviśati evaṃ jarāṃ kaṇṭakarahitena prāpnuyām vṛddhaḥ san ciraṃ kālaṃ niveseyam ity arthaḥ”: “as the master of a house enters his house without any thorn (obstacle), so may I enter old age without obstacle, and, being old, long dwell [in life]: this is the meaning. The word asta is stated among the twenty-two [as read] names of house, ‘gayaḥ’, ‘kṣayaḥ’ and so on (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), so asta means house. As the master of a house enters his house without any fear or any trouble, so [the wish is expressed here] that, by the grace of the Aśvin deities, I may live long without any danger from disease etc., and afterwards pass in comfort the old age that remains.”

सुगवः सुवीरः — Sugavaḥ suvīraḥ — “śobhanavīraiḥ putraiḥ pautrair upetaḥ”: “‘possessed of fine [valiant] sons, grandsons and so on’: thus Sāyaṇa explains: suvīra = ‘brave’. Skandasvāmin explains it as ‘one with valiant sons and grandsons’, or ‘one with sons and grandsons engaged in good works’.”

पश्यन् — Paśyan — “akṣibhyāṃ paśyan svasvaviṣayadarśanasamarthaiḥ sarvair indriyaiḥ”: “although it is said only that he is ‘seeing with the eyes’, by the mode of upalakṣaṇa it is said that, so that the eye-organ may be sound for seeing with the eyes, all the other organs too, in their own functions, should be favoured so that health may be one and the same [in all]: this is the meaning."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 25; grammar page, noted briefly)

avocam (brūñ "to speak", vāci; luṅ 1st singular mip; tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ, Pā. 3-4-101 as read [?], am substituted; brūvo vaciḥ, Pā. 2-4-53 as read [?], vaci for the root; asyativakti-khyātibhyo 'ṅ, Pā. 3-1-52 as read [?], aṅ for cli; vaca um, Pā. 7-4-20 as read [?], the augment um; guṇa; the augment aṭ; nighāta); syām (as "to be"; vidhiniminantraṇāmantraṇādhīṣṭasampraśnaprārthaneṣu liṅ, Pā. 3-3-161 as read [?], liṅ in the sense of prayer; in the 1st singular, mip → am by liṅaḥ…; yāsuṭ parasmaipadeṣūdātto ṅicca, Pā. 3-4-103 as read [?], yāsuṭ; being ṅit-like, śnasor allopaḥ, Pā. 6-4-111 as read [?], elision of the a of the root; nighāta); suvīraḥ (vīravīryau ca, Pā. 6-2-120 as read [?], the later member's first-syllable accent); paśyan (dṛśir "to see"; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap; pāghrādhmā…, Pā. 7-3-78 as read [?], paśya substituted; adupadeśa so the sārvadhātuka is unaccented, hence tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], the root accent remains); aśnuvan (aśū "to pervade"; though ātmanepada, vyatyayo bahulam, Pā. 3-1-85 as read [?], parasmaipada; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ, Pā. 3-1-73 as read [?], śnu as vikaraṇa; aci śnudhātubhruvāṃ…, Pā. 6-4-77 as read [?], uvaṅ; from the suffix accent the u before n takes udātta); jarimāṇam (jṝṣ "to grow old"; the Uṇādi suffix imanic; guṇa of the ṛ with raparatva; the word jariman; jñitisūtra citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent; accusative singular, sarvanāmasthāne cāsaṃbuddhau, Pā. 6-4-8 as read [?], lengthening of the penultimate); jagamyām (gam "to go"; liṅ in the sense of prayer; 1st singular am substituted; yāsuṭ parasmaipadeṣūdātto ṅicca, yāsuṭ; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 2-4-73 as read [?], śluḥ for the vikaraṇa; ślau, Pā. 6-1-10 as read [?], doubling; kuhoś cuḥ, Pā. 7-4-62 as read [?], j for the reduplication's g by palatalization; nighāta). ‖ 25 ‖

Printed p. 308 (PDF 328; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 116 …")

(The grammar of Ṛk 25 concludes at the top of this page with the accent of aśnuvan* — śnu as vikaraṇa; uvaṅ for the u; the udātta on the u — and jarimāṇam, jagamyām as above.)*

Colophon: nūrahadināreṇe sūktavu samāptavu — "The hundred-and-sixteenth Sūkta is ended."

(Printer's ornament.)

End of Sūkta 116 (Ṛks 1–25; printed pp. 177–308; Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 17).

Sūkta 117 — madhvaḥ somasya (printed pp. 308–?)

Printed p. 308 lower half (PDF 328) — heading and introduction

Heading (Kannada): "nūrahadinēḷaneya sūktavu" — "the hundred-and-seventeenth Sūkta."

Anukramaṇī (Sanskrit, as printed):

मध्वः इति पञ्चविंशत्यृचं द्वितीयं सूक्तम् । औशिजस्य कक्षीवत आर्षं त्रैष्टुभमाश्विनं । मध्वः इत्यनुक्रान्तम् । प्रातरनुवाकाश्विनशस्त्रयोः पूर्वसूक्तेन सहोक्तो विनियोगः ॥

madhvaḥ iti pañcaviṃśatyṛcaṃ dvitīyaṃ sūktam | auśijasya kakṣīvata ārṣaṃ traiṣṭubhamāśvinaṃ | madhvaḥ ityanukrāntam | prātaranuvākāśvinaśastrayoḥ pūrvasūktena sahokto viniyogaḥ ||

Sense: "madhvaḥ — the second sūkta (of this anuvāka), of twenty-five Ṛks; the ṛṣi's work being of Kakṣīvān, son of Uśij; Triṣṭubh; addressed to the Aśvins. The Anukramaṇī says 'madhvaḥ'. Its application in the Prātaranuvāka and in the Aśvina-śastra has been stated together with the preceding sūkta."

Anuvāda (Kannada): "This sūkta, madhvaḥ somasya, is the second sūkta in the seventeenth anuvāka. It has twenty-five Ṛks. The ṛṣi of this sūkta is Kakṣīvān, son of Uśij. The deities are the Aśvin deities. The metre is Triṣṭubh. In the Anukramaṇikā it is said beginning with 'madhvaḥ'. In the recitation of the Prātaranuvāka mantras, this sūkta, together with the preceding sūkta, is applied for the mantras related to the Aśvina-śastra."

Printed p. 309 (PDF 329; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

सूक्त—११७ (Sūkta 117) ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—१७ ॥ सूक्त—११७ ॥ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय ८ ॥ वर्ग—(small numerals; read "13, 14, 15, 16, 17" — as printed [?]) ॥ Number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 25. Ṛṣi: Kakṣīvān Dairghatamasa Auśija. Devatā: the Aśvins. Chandas: Triṣṭubh.

Ṛk 1

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.1)

मध्वः सोमस्याश्विना मदाय प्रत्नो होता विवासते वाम् । बर्हिष्मती रातिर्विश्रिता गीरिषा यातं नासत्योप वाजैः ॥ १ ॥

madhvaḥ somasyāśvinā madāya pratno hotā vivāsate vām | barhiṣmatī rātirviśritā gīriṣā yātaṃ nāsatyopa vājaiḥ ‖ 1 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.1)

मध्वः । सोमस्य । अश्विना । मदाय । प्रत्नः । होता । आ । विवासते । वाम् । बर्हिष्मती । रातिः । विऽश्रिता । गीः । इषा । यातम् । नासत्या । उप । वाजैः ॥ १ ॥

madhvaḥ | somasya | aśvinā | madāya | pratnaḥ | hotā | ā | vivāsate | vām | barhiṣmatī | rātiḥ | vi 'śritā | gīḥ | iṣā | yātam | nāsatyā | upa | vājaiḥ ‖ 1 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 117.1) (begun at the foot of p. 309; continues on p. 310)

हे अश्विना मध्वो मधुना माधुर्योपेतेन सोमस्य सोमेन मदाय युवयोर्मदार्थं प्रत्नः प्रशस्यो होता होमनिष्पादको यजमानो वां

he aśvinā madhvo madhunā mādhuryopetena somasya somena madāya yuvayormadārthaṃ pratnaḥ praśasyo hotā homaniṣpādako yajamāno vāṃ

(Bhāṣya of Ṛk 1, continued from p. 309:)

युवामा विवासते । विवासतिः परिचरणकर्मा । आज् मर्यो दायां [?] । यथाशास्त्रं परिचरति । अपि च रातिर्दात्व्यं हविर्बर्हिष्मती । अस्मिन्नेन बर्हिषा युक्तं । युष्मदर्थं बर्हिष्मदादिकमित्यर्थः । तथा गीः स्तुतिलक्षणावाक् च विश्रिता । ऋत्विग्भिः समवेता । तैः स्तुतिरपि क्रियते इत्यर्थः । अतो हे नासत्यावश्विनौ इषास्मभ्यं दातव्येनान्नेन वाजैर्बलैश्च सह युवामुप यातं । अस्मत्समीपमा प्राप्नुतम् ॥ मध्वः । सुपां सुलुगिति सुशो भवन्तीति तृतीयार्थे षष्ठी । जसादिषु छन्दसि वावचनमिति घेर्ङिति गुणाभावे यणादेशः । मदाय । मदी हर्षे । मदोनुपसर्गे इत्यप् । रातिः । रा दाने । कर्मणि क्तिन् । मन्त्रे वृषेषेत्यादिना तस्योदात्तत्वम् । विश्रिता । श्रिञ् सेवायाम् । कर्मणि निष्ठा । गतिरनन्तर इति गतेः प्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥ [small type, partly doubtful [?]]

yuvāmā vivāsate | vivāsatiḥ paricaraṇakarmā | āj maryo dāyāṃ [?] | yathāśāstraṃ paricarati | api ca rātirdātvyaṃ havirbarhiṣmatī | asminnena barhiṣā yuktaṃ | yuṣmadarthaṃ barhiṣmadādikamityarthaḥ | tathā gīḥ stutilakṣaṇāvāk ca viśritā | ṛtvigbhiḥ samavetā | taiḥ stutirapi kriyate ityarthaḥ | ato he nāsatyāvaśvinau iṣāsmabhyaṃ dātavyenānnena vājairbalaiśca saha yuvāmupa yātaṃ | asmatsamīpamā prāpnutam ‖ madhvaḥ | supāṃ sulugiti suśo bhavantīti tṛtīyārthe ṣaṣṭhī | jasādiṣu chandasi vāvacanamiti gherṅiti guṇābhāve yaṇādeśaḥ | madāya | madī harṣe | madonupasarge ityap | rātiḥ | rā dāne | karmaṇi ktin | mantre vṛṣeṣetyādinā tasyodāttatvam | viśritā | śriñ sevāyām | karmaṇi niṣṭhā | gatiranantara iti gateḥ prakṛtisvaratvam ‖ [small type, partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): “The hotṛ serves you two (vivāsate; vivāsati = a verb of serving) as laid down in the śāstra. And the rāti, the oblation to be given, is barhiṣmatī, provided with the sacred grass: furnished with barhis for you; likewise the gīḥ, the speech in the form of praise, is viśritā, assembled with the priests: they too perform the praise. Therefore, O Nāsatyas, Aśvins, come, with iṣā, the food to be given to us, and vājaiḥ, with strengths, to us; reach our neighbourhood.”

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“he aśvinā — O Aśvin deities; madhvaḥ — sweet; somasya — with soma-juice; madāya — to please you; pratnaḥ — the ancient; hotā — the sacrificer who offers the oblations; vām — you two; ā vivāsate — serves (as laid down in the śāstra); rātiḥ — the oblation to be given to you; barhiṣmatī — provided with darbha (placed on the darbha); gīḥ — praising speech; viśritā — is ready among the priests; (ataḥ — therefore); he nāsatyā — O Nāsatyas; iṣā — with food to be given to us; vājaiḥ — with strength; upa yātam — come (to us, both of you).”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O Aśvin deities, for your gratification, the ancient sacrificer, the doer of the homa, serves you with sweet soma-juice; the oblation to be given to you is ready on the darbha; the priests too are ready to praise; therefore, O Nāsatyas, (to us) come with strength and with oblations.”

English Translation (as printed)

Ashwins, for your gratification by the pleasant Soma juice, your ancient worshipper adores you : the offering is placed upon the sacred grass, the hymn is ready (for repetition); come, Nasatyas, with food and with vigour.

Printed p. 311 (PDF 331; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

प्रत्नः होता — Pratnaḥ hotā — "ciraṃtanaḥ yajamānaḥ homaniṣpādakaḥ": "since the word pratna is stated among the six names of 'ancient' (purāṇa), 'pratnaḥ', 'pravayāḥ' and so on (Ni. 3-?? as read [?]), and —

सवित्रवन्तः परि वाचमासते पितैषां प्रत्नो अभि रक्षति व्रतम् । महः समुद्रं वरुणस्तिरो दधे धीरा इच्छेकुर्धरुणेष्वारभम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ७-८७-६ [as read])

savitravantaḥ pari vācamāsate pitaiṣāṃ pratno abhi rakṣati vratam | mahaḥ samudraṃ varuṇastiro dadhe dhīrā icchekurdharuṇeṣvārabham ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 7-87-6 [as read]) in this Ṛk Yāska explains pratna as 'ancient', so Sāyaṇa explains it as ciraṃtana — 'one who has come down from time long past', the sacrificer who offers oblations to the deities. In this Ṛk the sacrificer, as the hotṛ, serves the Aśvin deities with oblations mixed with sweet soma-juice. Because 'hotṛtva' is said here generally, the meaning is that the ṛṣi Kakṣīvān, the seer of the mantra, also, performing the sacrifice or praising, gives them delight."

बर्हिष्मती — Barhiṣmatī — "aśvinārthena barhiṣā yuktaṃ yuṣmadarthaṃ barhiṣy āsāditam": "on the sacrificial altar the darbhas called barhis are spread, and the oblation consecrated with mantras is prepared for the Aśvin deities."

गीः — Gīḥ — "stutilakṣaṇā vāk ca": "the speech in the form of praise: since [it] is spoken in the sacrifice for the Aśvin deities, hearing the praises of the sacrificers who perform sacrifice, addressed to the deities denoted by the word nāsatya, and the oblations they offer, the Aśvins are prayed in this Ṛk to come to our sacrifice in order to give us strength and food."

वाजैः — Vājaiḥ — "balaiś ca — annaṃ, payaḥ among the twenty-eight [as read] names of food (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]) are stated; so the word vāja means food. Sāyaṇa here explains the meaning as strength:

हिरण्यस्तूपः सवितर्यथा त्वाङ्गिरसो जुह्वे वाजे अस्मिन् । एवा त्वार्चन्नवसे वन्दमानः सोमस्येवांशुं प्रति जागराहम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-१४९-५ [as read])

hiraṇyastūpaḥ savitaryathā tvāṅgiraso juhve vāje asmin | evā tvārcannavase vandamānaḥ somasyevāṃśuṃ prati jāgarāham ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-149-5 [as read])

Printed p. 312 (PDF 332; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117")

पावका नः सरस्वती वाजेभिर्वाजिनीवती । यज्ञं वष्टु धियावसुः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-३-१० [as read])

pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī vājebhirvājinīvatī | yajñaṃ vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-3-10 [as read])

— in these Ṛks Yāska explains vāje as anne; so the word vāja has many meanings. And in 'ṛbhur vibhvā vāja iti sudhanvana āṅgirasasya trayaḥ putrā babhūvuḥ' (Ni. 11-?? as read [?]) according to Yāska's explanation, the three sons of the Aṅgirasa Sudhanvan were named Ṛbhu, Vibhvan and Vāja: so the word vāja is also the name of a person. Therefore the word vāja has many meanings."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 1; grammar page, noted briefly)

madhvaḥ (the word madhu; the sixth case is used in the sense of the third, by the statement supāṃ suluk…; jasādiṣu chandasi vāvacanam, Pā. 7-3-109 as read [?], as the ghi-guṇa does not arise, yaṇ); aśvinā (in the vocative dual, supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?], nighāta); madāya (madī "to rejoice"; mado 'nupasarge, Pā. 3-3-67 as read [?], the suffix ap; being pit, it is unaccented, so the root accent remains; dative singular); pratnāya… [pratne: pratnapūrvaviśveṣvimātāl, Pā. 5-4-?? as read [?]; the suffix tna in the sense of 'ancient', prāk; accent on the last syllable from the suffix]; hotā (hu "to offer, to eat"; tṛn in the agent sense; guṇa of the root; niṣṭhā… [nit] the first-syllable accent); vivāsate (vāsa "to serve"; laṭ 3rd singular; nighāta); rātiḥ (rā "to give"; striyāṃ ktin, Pā. 3-3-94 as read [?], ktin in the passive; mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ, Pā. 3-3-96 as read [?], udātta).

Printed p. 313 (PDF 333; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

Grammar page of Ṛk 1, concluded: viśritā (śriñ "to serve"; kta in the passive by niṣṭhā, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix vi keeps its accent); yātam (yā "to go"; loṭ 2nd dual; nighāta). ‖ 1 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 2

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.2)

यो वामश्विना मनसो जवीयान्रथः स्वश्वो विश आजिगाति । येन गच्छथः सुकृतो दुरोणं तेन नरा वर्तिरस्मभ्यं यातम् ॥ २ ॥

yo vāmaśvinā manaso javīyānrathaḥ svaśvo viśa ājigāti | yena gacchathaḥ sukṛto duroṇaṃ tena narā vartirasmabhyaṃ yātam ‖ 2 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.2)

यः । वाम् । अश्विना । मनसः । जवीयान् । रथः । सुऽअश्वः । विशः । आऽजिगाति । येन । गच्छथः । सुऽकृतः । दुरोणम् । तेन । नरा । वर्तिः । अस्मभ्यम् । यातम् ॥ २ ॥

yaḥ | vām | aśvinā | manasaḥ | javīyān | rathaḥ | su 'aśvaḥ | viśaḥ | ā 'jigāti | yena | gacchathaḥ | su 'kṛtaḥ | duroṇam | tena | narā | vartiḥ | asmabhyam | yātam ‖ 2 ‖

Printed p. 314 (PDF 334; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117")

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 117.2)

हे अश्विना वां युवयोः स्वभूतो मनसो जवीयान्मनसोऽप्यतिशयेन वेगवान् स्वश्वः शोभनाश्वैर्युक्तो य रथो विशः प्रजा आजिगाति । अभिमुख्येन गच्छति । येन रथेन सुकृतः

शोभनं यागं कुर्वतो यजमानस्य दुरोणं देवयजनलक्षणं गृहं गच्छथः । हे नरा नेतारावश्विनौ तेन रथेनास्मभ्यमस्माकं वर्तिर्वर्तनाधिकरणं गृहं यातम् । आगच्छतम् ॥ जवीयान् । जवोऽस्यास्तीति जववान् तदस्यास्तीति मतुप् । तत आतिशायनिक ईयसुन् । विन्मतोर्लुक् । टेरिति टिलोपः । जिगाति । गा स्तुतौ । जौहोत्यादिकः । गतिकर्मसु पाठादत्र गत्यर्थः । बहुलं छन्दसीत्यभ्यासस्येत्त्वम् ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

he aśvinā vāṃ yuvayoḥ svabhūto manaso javīyānmanaso 'pyatiśayena vegavān svaśvaḥ śobhanāśvairyukto ya ratho viśaḥ prajā ājigāti | abhimukhyena gacchati | yena rathena sukṛtaḥ śobhanaṃ yāgaṃ kurvato yajamānasya duroṇaṃ devayajanalakṣaṇaṃ gṛhaṃ gacchathaḥ | he narā netārāvaśvinau tena rathenāsmabhyamasmākaṃ vartirvartanādhikaraṇaṃ gṛhaṃ yātam | āgacchatam ‖ javīyān | javo 'syāstīti javavān tadasyāstīti matup | tata ātiśāyanika īyasun | vinmatorluk | ṭeriti ṭilopaḥ | jigāti | gā stutau | jauhotyādikaḥ | gatikarmasu pāṭhādatra gatyarthaḥ | bahulaṃ chandasītyabhyāsasyettvam ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O Aśvins, that chariot of yours, which is manasaḥ javīyān, swifter than the mind, svaśvaḥ, drawn by good horses, viśaḥ ājigāti — goes in the front to the people. By which chariot you go to the duroṇam, the house, in the form of the place of sacrifice, of the sacrificer who performs a good sacrifice: O leaders, Aśvins, by that chariot come to our vartiḥ, our house — the place of dwelling."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he aśvinau — O Aśvin deities; vām — your (belonging to you); manasaḥ — than the mind; javīyān — extremely swift; svaśvaḥ — with good horses; yaḥ rathaḥ — which chariot; viśaḥ — to the people; ājigāti — goes toward; yena — by which chariot; sukṛtaḥ — [of him] who does auspicious sacrifices (the sacrificer); duroṇam — to the house of worship; gacchathaḥ — you go; tena — by that (chariot); he narā — O leader Aśvin deities; asmabhyam — to our; vartiḥ — house (dwelling-place); yātam — come."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O leader Aśvin deities, in the chariot, swifter than thought, yoked with good horses, in which you go toward the people, and in which you go to the house of worship of those who perform auspicious sacrifices — come, both of you, in that same chariot to our dwelling-place."

English Translation (as printed)

> With that car, Ashwins, which, rapid as thought, drawn by good horses, appears before men, and with which you repair to the dwelling of the virtuous, come, leaders of (sacrifices), to our abode.

Printed p. 315 (PDF 335; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अश्विना — Aśvinā — "Yāska considers who the Aśvin deities are. The sequence stated in the Nirukta on this matter runs thus —

अथातो द्युस्थाना देवताः । तासामश्विनौ प्रथमागामिनौ भवतः । अश्विनौ यद्व्यश्नुवाते सर्वं रसेनान्यो ज्योतिषान्यः । अश्वैरश्विनावित्यौर्णवाभः । तत्कावश्विनौ द्यावापृथिव्यावित्येके । अहोरात्रावित्येके । सूर्याचन्द्रमसावित्येके । राजानौ पुण्यकृतावित्यैतिहासिकाः ॥ (नि.१२-१ [as read])

athāto dyusthānā devatāḥ | tāsāmaśvinau prathamāgāminau bhavataḥ | aśvinau yadvyaśnuvāte sarvaṃ rasenānyo jyotiṣānyaḥ | aśvairaśvināvityaurṇavābhaḥ | tatkāvaśvinau dyāvāpṛthivyāvityeke | ahorātrāvityeke | sūryācandramasāvityeke | rājānau puṇyakṛtāvityaitihāsikāḥ ‖ (ni. 12-1 [as read])

"From here onward the deities of the atmosphere-region (dyusthāna) are described; and, as the first of them, the question 'who are the Aśvins' is the first matter, and he begins the discussion: one who pervades everything with water (rasa), and one who pervades everything with light: two such exist, says one view; the teacher named Aurṇavābha says that the two Aśvin deities are two, [conveyed] by 'horses' (aśva). Others, in the inquiry 'who are the Aśvins', say that the two are those who pervade the earth with food and the atmosphere with light, [that is] heaven and earth, known as such to all [bhūyaṃ tarikṣa — as printed, doubtful [?]]. Others say that instead of saying that they are two who pervade the day with light and the night with dew, the Aśvins are time itself, in the form of day and night, which is the support of that pervasion. Still others — that they are the Sun and the Moon, since the Sun pervades with radiance and the Moon with water; being [those who] regulate time. The Itihāsa-writers (aitihāsikāḥ) — that is, those who know the course of events in former times, or who know what happened — say that the two Aśvin deities are two kings who had amassed merit. This view agrees with the view accepted by the teacher named Aurṇavābha.

तयोः कालः ऊर्ध्वमर्धरात्रात्प्रकाशीभावस्यानुविष्टम्भम् । अनुक्तनो भागो हि मध्यमः ज्योतिर्भाग आदित्यः ॥ (नि.१२-१ [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]])

tayoḥ kālaḥ ūrdhvamardharātrātprakāśībhāvasyānuviṣṭambham | anuktano bhāgo hi madhyamaḥ jyotirbhāga ādityaḥ ‖ (ni. 12-1 [as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]])

"Their time [of appearance] is before sunrise: the Aśvin deities' praises come before sunrise, and the Sun's praises follow after sunrise; the part of light that is a little less than the Sun's, [with a little] darkness, is before the Sun's rising and is called madhyama, 'the middle'. The portion of light that is entirely free of darkness and has luminosity is called āditya: so, as the middle portion, and as the highest, the time that exists in the intermediate and highest state is held to be the Aśvin deities: this is the view of the Nirukta-writer.

Printed p. 316 (PDF 336; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117")

वसातिषु स्म चरथो सिता पेत्वाविव । कदेदमश्विना युवमभि देवाँ आगच्छतम् ॥ (नि.१२-१ [as read; the quotation is a Ṛk-pāda of doubtful reading in the print [?]])

vasātiṣu sma caratho sitā petvāviva | kadedamaśvinā yuvamabhi devā~ āgacchatam ‖ (ni. 12-1 [as read; the quotation is a Ṛk-pāda of doubtful reading in the print [?]])

इति सा निगदव्याख्याता । वसातिषु स्म चरथो वसातयो रातयो वसन्ते स्याः इतरेतरा तयोः वक्त्रीर्वा वहश्रीर्वा सिता पेत्वाविव । आसेत्वा वृत्रहणं सुरातयोः ॥ (नि.१२-१ [as read; small type, doubtful [?]])

iti sā nigadavyākhyātā | vasātiṣu sma caratho vasātayo rātayo vasante syāḥ itaretarā tayoḥ vaktrīrvā vahaśrīrvā sitā petvāviva | āsetvā vṛtrahaṇaṃ surātayoḥ ‖ (ni. 12-1 [as read; small type, doubtful [?]])

"'At the time when the light of the eye, which performs the function of seeing by the power of the deities, is little [as at night, and at the junctures of day and night] — like clouds that move about — I have recognized you with great effort at dawn.' Since it is said in this mantra 'you two come at the time when the other deities come for the sacrifice', for both of them the time of the sacrifice comes after midnight has passed. For the two, in two vessels (two potsherds, kapāla) the oblations are prepared. Both are of one intention and accomplish the work. From the mantra that is the basis of what Aurṇavābha says and what the Nirukta-writer says, both have constructed different meanings.

"In this mantra the word vasātiṣu — vasāti — is a name of a country. The two (princes) who were kings of it were called Vāsātya. They had many horses; therefore, 'those who possess horses', the name aśvin arose for them. They earned much merit and became helpers of the deities in sacrifices. These two, with the same form, appearance, and practice, wandering, joined the company of the deities: thus the teacher Aurṇavābha explains the meaning. Refuting this view, the Nirukta-writer —

तयोः समानकालयोः समानकर्मणोः संस्तुत्प्रत्ययोः असंस्तवे नैपोर्धर्त्रोर्भवति । वासात्म्यो ऽन्य उच्यते उषः पुत्रस्त्वान्य इति ॥ (नि.१२-१ [as read; small type, doubtful [?]])

tayoḥ samānakālayoḥ samānakarmaṇoḥ saṃstutpratyayoḥ asaṃstave naipordhartrorbhavati | vāsātmyo 'nya ucyate uṣaḥ putrastvānya iti ‖ (ni. 12-1 [as read; small type, doubtful [?]])

"For these two, the time is one, the work is of one kind, and the praise is eminently [equal], so the first half of the Ṛk vasātiṣu [as read] is able to describe the form and works of these two. From this: vāsātmya ('belonging to the vāsa-lineage'), one of the two, is said to be the son of the night, which is the middle [state]; and the other is the upaḥ-son, the son of Uṣas — thus he explains.

Printed p. 317 (PDF 337; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

"By the meaning of the Ṛk that conveys praise, [showing] that the two are different, [the Nirukta] describes the one, the son of Night, who is vāsātmya, of the middle position, and the other as the son of Uṣas. The middle and highest rank of these Aśvin deities is also made clear in —

इहेह जाता समवावशीतामरेपसा तन्वा३ नामभिः स्वैः । जिष्णुर्वामन्यः सुमखस्य सूरिर्दिवो अन्यः सुभगः पुत्र ऊहे ॥ (ऋ. सं.१-१८१-४ [as read])

iheha jātā samavāvaśītāmarepasā tanvā3 nāmabhiḥ svaiḥ | jiṣṇurvāmanyaḥ sumakhasya sūrirdivo anyaḥ subhagaḥ putra ūhe ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-181-4 [as read])

"In this Ṛk, with the explanation 'here and here' — in the dyusthāna and the madhyasthāna — [it is said] 'the one, jiṣṇuḥ, of the Sun? [as printed: 'Divaḥ anyaḥ, subhagaḥ putraḥ ūhe'] and 'the other conquering, jiṣṇur vām anyaḥ', one is carried by the wind as a son of the atmosphere

(dyusthāna); and the other is the Āditya, victorious by nature: this shows their superior and middle states.

> प्रातर्यावाणा वि बोधयन्तावश्विनावेह गच्छताम् । अस्य सोमस्य पीतये ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-२२-१ [as read])
>
> prātaryāvāṇā vi bodhayantāvaśvināveha gacchatām | asya somasya pītaye ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-22-1 [as read])

"By this Ṛk it is explained that they are fond of praise [and that] both, working with a single intention, are companions.

> प्रातर्यजध्वमश्विना हिनोत न सायमस्ति देवया अजुष्टम् । उतान्यो अस्मद्यजते वि चावः पूर्वःपूर्वो यजमानो वनीयान् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-५२-५ [as read; the number printed "३-२२-३" is doubtful [?]])
>
> prātaryajadhvamaśvinā hinota na sāyamasti devayā ajuṣṭam | utānyo asmadyajate vi cāvaḥ pūrvaḥpūrvo yajamāno vanīyān ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 3-52-5 [as read; the number printed "3-22-3" is doubtful [?]])

"In this Ṛk it is stated that praise should be made to the Aśvin deities in the morning itself and oblations should be offered; and it is explained that the homa should not be performed for them in the evening. In the Taittirīya Āraṇyaka too — vāsātyau kṛṣṇau jagato nidhānau dyāvābhūmī cirathas saṃsakhāyau [as read; doubtful [?]] — beginning thus, the description of their form and colour [begins].

"The chariot of the Aśvin deities is to be understood as yoked with excellent horses, and as capable of going with exceeding speed, quicker than the speed of thought. The prayer is expressed in this Ṛk that the Aśvins, in such a chariot, come to the houses of us who are sacrificers and subjects."

वर्तिः — Vartiḥ — "vartanādhikaraṇaṃ gṛham: 'the house, a place of dwelling': so Sāyaṇa explains the word vartis."

(Yāska's examples for vartiḥ*, Ni. 6-30 as read [?]:)*

> तिरश्चिद्र्यो अर्यो परि वर्तिर्यातमदाभ्या माध्वी ममु श्रुतं हवम् । (ऋ. सं. ५-७५-? [as read; small type, doubtful [?]])
>
> tiraścidryo aryo pari vartiryātamadābhyā mādhvī mamu śrutaṃ havam | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-75-? [as read; small type, doubtful [?]])
>
> अभीदु शक्रः परशुर्यथा वनं पात्रेव भिन्दन्त्सत एति रक्षसः । (ऋ. सं. ६-१०१-?? [as read; doubtful [?]])
>
> abhīdu śakraḥ paraśuryathā vanaṃ pātreva bhindantsata eti rakṣasaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 6-101-?? [as read; doubtful [?]])

"…so Yāska gives these as examples (Ni. 6-30 as read [?]). The word vartiḥ, combined with the prefix, he explains in the commentary: 'turning back, having made a turning-round, come with your chariot'; here vartiḥ is used as an adverbial qualifier of the action. Skandasvāmin explains vartiḥ as 'vartanyā mārgeṇa', 'by the road, by the path'."

दुरोणम् — Duroṇam — "devayajanalakṣaṇaṃ gṛham": "the house in the form of a sacrificial place for the gods, the house in which sacrifice is performed for the deities: the sacrificial hall. The word duroṇa is stated among the twenty-two [as read] names of house (Ni. 3-?? as read [?])."

विशः — Viśaḥ — "prajāḥ: 'subjects'. The word is stated among the names of man (Ni. 2-?? as read [?])."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 2; grammar page, noted briefly)

aśvinā (supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the vocative dual ending; nighāta by āmantritasya ca); javīyān (javaḥ asyāsti iti javān; tad asyāsty asmin, Pā. 5-2-94 as read [?], matup; to it, in the comparative sense, dvivacanavibhajyopapade tarabīyasunau, Pā. 5-3-57 as read [?], īyasun; since this is later, vinmator luk, Pā. 5-3-65 as read [?], luk for matup; ṭer, Pā. 6-4-155 as read [?], elision of the ṭi [a]; jñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent; in the nominative with su following, ataḥ… upadhādīrgha; num, as ugit); jigāti (gā "to praise", juhotyādi — read in the group of verbs of going, so here used in the sense of going; laṭ 3rd singular tip; śluḥ as vikaraṇa; ślau, Pā. 6-1-10 as read [?], doubling; kuhoś cuḥ, Pā. 7-4-62 as read [?], j for the reduplication; bahulaṃ chandasi, Pā. 7-4-78 as read [?], i for the reduplication; because yaḥ is connected, no nighāta since yadvṛttān nityam, Pā. 8-1-66 as read [?]; abhyastānām ādiḥ, Pā. 6-1-189 as read [?], first-syllable accent).

Printed p. 319 (PDF 339; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

Grammar page of Ṛk 2, concluded: gacchathaḥ (gam "to go"; laṭ 2nd dual thas; iṣugamiyamāṃ chaḥ, Pā. 7-3-77 as read [?], ccha for the root; since yat-connection, no nighāta; tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], the sārvadhātuka is unaccented, so the root accent remains); yātam (yā "to go"; loṭ 2nd dual; nighāta after an accented word). ‖ 2 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 3

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.3)

ऋषिं नरावंहसः पाञ्चजन्यमृबीसादत्रिं मुञ्चथो गणेन । मिनन्ता दस्योरशिवस्य माया अनुपूर्वं वृषणा चोदयन्ता ॥ ३ ॥

ṛṣiṃ narāvaṃhasaḥ pāñcajanyamṛbīsādatriṃ muñcatho gaṇena | minantā dasyoraśivasya māyā anupūrvaṃ vṛṣaṇā codayantā ‖ 3 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.3)

ऋषिम् । नरौ । अंहसः । पाञ्चऽजन्यम् । ऋबीसात् । अत्रिम् । मुञ्चथः । गणेन । मिनन्ता । दस्योः । अशिवस्य । मायाः । अनुऽपूर्वम् । वृषणा । चोदयन्ता ॥ ३ ॥

ṛṣim | narau | aṃhasaḥ | pāñca 'janyam | ṛbīsāt | atrim | muñcathaḥ | gaṇena | minantā | dasyoḥ | aśivasya | māyāḥ | anu 'pūrvam | vṛṣaṇā | codayantā ‖ 3 ‖

Printed p. 320 (PDF 340; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117")

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 117.3)

हिमेनाग्निम् । ऋ. सं. १-११६-८ । इत्यनयोक्तो विवार्थः पुनः प्रकारान्तरेणानया प्रतिपाद्यते । अतस्तत्रोक्तं सर्वमत्रापि द्रष्टव्यम् । अक्षरार्थस्तु । हे नरौ नेतारौ वृषणौ कामानां वर्षितारावश्विनौ पाञ्चजन्यम् । निषादपञ्चमाश्चत्वारो वर्णाः पञ्च जनाः । तेषु भवं स्वभार्यानुना गृहीतमेतमृषिमत्रिं सूर्यं मोचयेत्यन्त्रि [?] सर्वेषां हिताचरणात्रात्र भव इत्युच्यते । तादृशमृषिमंहसः पापरूपाद्ऋबीसाच्छ्तद्वारे यन्त्रगृहे [?] त्रेः पीडार्थमसुरैः प्रक्षिप्तात्तुषाग्नेः सकाशाद्गणेनेन्द्रियवर्गेण पुत्रपौत्रादिगणेन वा सह मुञ्चथः । अमोचयतम् । किं कुर्वन्तौ । मिनन्ता शत्रून्हिंसन्तौ दस्योरुपक्षपयितुरशिवस्य दुःखकारिणोऽसुरस्य सम्बन्धिनीस्तस्मिन्नेत्रे प्रयुक्ता मायाश्चानुपूर्वमानुपूर्व्येण चोदयन्तौ प्रेरयन्तौ निवारयन्तौ ॥ पाञ्चजन्यम् । बहिर्देवपञ्चजनेभ्यश्चेति वक्तव्यम् । का. ४-३-६४-१ । इति भवार्थे ञ्यः । मिनन्ता । मीञ् हिंसायाम् । क्र्यादिकः । लटः शतृ । मीनातेर्निगम इति ह्रस्वत्वम् ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

himenāgnim | ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-8 | ityanayokto vivārthaḥ punaḥ prakārāntareṇānayā pratipādyate | atastatroktaṃ sarvamatrāpi draṣṭavyam | akṣarārthastu | he narau netārau vṛṣaṇau kāmānāṃ varṣitārāvaśvinau pāñcajanyam | niṣādapañcamāścatvāro varṇāḥ pañca janāḥ | teṣu bhavaṃ svabhāryānunā gṛhītametamṛṣimatriṃ sūryaṃ mocayetyantri [?] sarveṣāṃ hitācaraṇātrātra bhava ityucyate | tādṛśamṛṣimaṃhasaḥ pāparūpādṛbīsācchatadvāre yantragṛhe [?] treḥ pīḍārthamasuraiḥ prakṣiptāttuṣāgneḥ sakāśādgaṇenendriyavargeṇa putrapautrādigaṇena vā saha muñcathaḥ | amocayatam | kiṃ kurvantau | minantā śatrūnhiṃsantau dasyorupakṣapayituraśivasya duḥkhakāriṇo 'surasya sambandhinīstasminnnetre prayuktā māyāścānupūrvamānupūrvyeṇa codayantau prerayantau nivārayantau ‖ pāñcajanyam | bahirdevapañcajanebhyaśceti vaktavyam | kā. 4-3-64-1 | iti bhavārthe ñyaḥ | minantā | mīñ hiṃsāyām | kryādikaḥ | laṭaḥ śatṛ | mīnāternigama iti hrasvatvam ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "The matter stated by himenāgnim (Ṛ. 1-116-8) is here set forth in another way; therefore whatever was said there is to be understood here too. The literal sense: O leaders, O vṛṣaṇā, showerers of desires, Aśvins — pāñcajanyam: the four castes with the Niṣādas as the fifth are the pañca janāḥ; he who is among them [Atri], seized by his own [fire] — the ṛṣi Atri, who works the good of all, is therefore said to be 'born among them [all]' — such a ṛṣi you released from aṃhasaḥ, from the sin-like ṛbīsa [the dark pit], from the fire of husks thrown by the Asuras to torment Atri, in the hundred-doored torture-house, gaṇena — together with the group of his senses, or with the group of sons and grandsons. Doing what? Minantā — destroying enemies; dasyoḥ aśivasya māyāḥ — the devices applied to him by the Asura, the harmful one, the pain-giver; anupūrvam — in due order, driving off, [you] restraining them."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"he narau — O leader Aśvin deities; vṛṣaṇā — [you] who grant desired objects; pāñcajanyam — one connected with the five classes of men; atrim ṛṣim — the ṛṣi Atri; aṃhasaḥ — from the sin-like; ṛbīsāt — from the machine-house (from the fire thrown into the machine-house); gaṇena — together with his group of senses (sons and grandsons); minantā — destroying enemies; dasyoḥ — of the destroyer; aśivasya — of the pain-causing [Asura]; māyāḥ — the devices (employed against Atri); anupūrvam — completely; codayantā — [you] restraining; muñcathaḥ — you released."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O leader Aśvin deities, granters of desires: you released the ṛṣi Atri, connected with the five classes of men, from the sinful machine-house (from the fire thrown by the Asuras), with his senses unimpaired (together with his sons and grandsons); and you wholly destroyed the devices of those Asuras, who are destroyers and causers of pain."

English Translation (as printed)

3. You liberated, leaders (of rites), the sage Atri, who was venerated by the five classes of men, from the wicked prison, together with his troop (of children), destroying his enemies and baffling, showerers (of benefits), the devices of the malignant Dasyus.

Printed p. 321 (PDF 341; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …"; footer signature mark "IX 21")

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

"In explaining the meaning of this Ṛk, Sāyaṇa says that the idea expressed in this Ṛk is described in the mantra

> हिमेनाग्निं घ्रंसमवारयेथां पितुमतीमूर्जमस्मा अधत्तम् । ऋबीसे अत्रिमश्विनावनीतमुन्निन्यथुः सर्वगणं स्वस्ति ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-८ [as read])
>
> himenāgniṃ ghraṃsamavārayethāṃ pitumatīmūrjamasmā adhattam | ṛbīse atrimaśvināvanītamunninyathuḥ sarvagaṇaṃ svasti ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-8 [as read])

and that the same meaning is here stated again in another way."

पाञ्चजन्यम् — Pāñcajanyam — "niṣādapañcamāś catvāro varṇāḥ pañca janāḥ teṣu bhavam": "the four castes (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra), with the Niṣāda (hunter) as the fifth, are denoted by the word pañcajana. Sāyaṇa explains the meaning as 'beneficial to them'. Skandasvāmin —

> पाञ्चजन्यम् — पाञ्चजन्यः । पञ्चभ्यो जनेभ्यः गन्धर्वा पितरो देवाः असुरा रक्षांसीत्येतेभ्यो निषादपञ्चमेभ्यो वा चतुर्भ्यो वर्णेभ्यः हितं । पञ्चानां हि जनानां स्थितिकरी वृष्टिः । तस्या हेतुभूतो यज्ञः । तस्य कर्ता अत्रिः इत्येवमस्य हितत्वम् ॥
>
> pāñcajanyam — pāñcajanyaḥ | pañcabhyo janebhyaḥ gandharvā pitaro devāḥ asurā rakṣāṃsītyetebhyo niṣādapañcamebhyo vā caturbhyo varṇebhyaḥ hitaṃ | pañcānāṃ hi janānāṃ sthitikarī vṛṣṭiḥ | tasyā hetubhūto yajñaḥ | tasya kartā atriḥ ityevamasya hitatvam ‖ [first words 'bāhyo daivyaḥ pāñcajanyaḥ (Vā. 4-3-?? [?])' as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]] — ‘beneficial to the five janas — Gandharvas, Pitṛs, Devas, Asuras, Rākṣasas; or to the four castes with the Niṣāda as fifth; for rain sustains the five peoples; its cause is sacrifice; Atri is its doer: so he is beneficial.’ In Kannada: the suffix ṭya comes in the sense of ‘beneficial to’ after the word pañcajana, giving pāñcajanya; the pañcajanas — Gandharvas, Pitṛs, Devas, Asuras, Rākṣasas — [or Sāyaṇa’s explanation]: both making the five-fold sense plain, he explains the word pāñcajanya specially for Atri as ‘one who produces rain, beneficial to all’. Though Sāyaṇa too explains the adjective, he explains teṣu bhavam as in another way: ‘svarbhānunā gṛhītam amuṃ sūryaṃ moco yo ’triḥ pañcajanebhya utpannaḥ — Atri, who released that Sun seized by Svarbhānu [Rāhu], born among the five peoples’ — the ṛṣi Atri, who released the Sun when Rāhu had seized him. Skandasvāmin’s explanation, that [by tya] ‘beneficial’ is meant because Atri is beneficial to all as the producer of rain, is well suited.

“The Nirukta-writer, since the word pañcajana is listed among the names of man, gives the derivation of pañcajana —

Printed p. 322 (PDF 342; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117”)

> पञ्च जना इत्येतस्य निगमा भवन्ति ॥ (नि. ३-८ [as read])
>
> pañca janā ityetasya nigamā bhavanti ‖ (ni. 3-8 [as read])

“[and] the Vedic sentence that explains the meaning of the word pañcajana among the words for man is thus —

> कदद्य वाचः प्रथमं मसीय येनासुराँ अभि देवा असाम । ऊर्जादा उत यज्ञियासः पञ्च जना मम होत्रं जुषध्वम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-५३-४ [as read])
>
> kadadya vācaḥ prathamaṃ masīya yenāsurā~ abhi devā asāma | ūrjādā uta yajñiyāsaḥ pañca janā mama hotraṃ juṣadhvam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 10-53-4 [as read])

he cites this Ṛk, and > पञ्च जनाः गन्धर्वाः पितरो देवा असुरा रक्षांसीत्येके । चत्वारो वर्णा निषादः पञ्चम इत्यौपमन्यवः ॥ (नि. ३-८ [as read])

>
> pañca janāḥ gandharvāḥ pitaro devā asurā rakṣāṃsītyeke | catvāro varṇā niṣādaḥ pañcama ityaupamanyavaḥ ‖ (ni. 3-8 [as read])

— explaining the view that the ‘five’ are Gandharvas, Pitṛs, Devas, Asuras, Rākṣasas, and the view of Aupamanyava that the four castes together with the Niṣāda are the five peoples. Again —

> निषादः कस्मान्निषदनो भवति निषण्णमस्मिन् पापकमिति नैरुक्ताः । यत्पाञ्चजन्यया विशा पञ्चजनीनया विशा पञ्चैवेक्ता संख्या स्त्रीनपुंसकेष्वविशिष्टा ॥
>
> niṣādaḥ kasmānniṣadano bhavati niṣaṇṇamasmin pāpakamiti nairuktāḥ | yatpāñcajanyayā viśā pañcajanīnayā viśā pañcaivektā saṃkhyā strīnapuṃsakeṣvaviśiṣṭā ‖ [Nirukta-passage as read; small type, partly doubtful [?]]

— he explains the meaning of the word niṣāda: since sin is found in them in excess, he is called niṣāda; and from the number five contained in the word pāñcajanya in another Ṛk, ‘yat pāñcajanyayā viśā’, he explains that the distinctions of feminine, masculine and neuter do not occur in the people denoted by viś.

“Skandasvāmin, explaining the word dasyoḥ —

> वि जानीह्यार्यान्ये च दस्यवो बर्हिष्मते रन्धया शासदव्रतान् । शाकी भव यजमानस्य चोदिता विश्वेत्ता ते सधमादेषु चाकन ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-५१-८ [as read])
>
> vi jānīhyāryānye ca dasyavo barhiṣmate randhayā śāsadavratān | śākī bhava yajamānasya coditā viśvettā te sadhamādeṣu cākana ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-51-8 [as read])

cites this Ṛk. In it he gives the meaning: those who perform sacrifices or observe vows are the ārya; those other than them are dasyus, enemies of the deities and not given to sacrifice. Sāyaṇa explains dasyu as ‘upakṣapayituḥ aśivasya duḥkhakāriṇo ’surasya’ — a harmful one who causes pain, increases suffering, takes life.”

Printed p. 323 (PDF 343; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

अनुपूर्वं चोदयन्ता — Anupūrvaṃ codayantā — “ānupūrvyeṇa preraya nto nivārayantau”: “in the matter of the ṛṣi Atri, he explains two meanings: [they, the Aśvin deities,] averted the harmful deceits practised by the Asuras. Skandasvāmin: ‘he vṛṣaṇā varṣitārau tāsu tāsv abhipretaphalāsu atriṃ codayantā upadeśādinā preraya ntau’: ‘O showerers, urging Atri to those desired fruits by instruction and so on’ — the Aśvin deities, fulfilling the wishes of sacrificers, instructed the ṛṣi Atri so that he might obtain the desired fruits, and fulfilled his wishes: thus he explains the sense. That the Aśvin deities protected the ṛṣi Atri is described also by the ṛṣi Kutsa —

> याभिः शुचन्तिं धनसां सुषंसदं तप्तं घर्ममोम्यावन्तमत्रये । याभिः पृश्निगुं पुरुकुत्समावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-१६ [as read])
>
> yābhiḥ śucantiṃ dhanasāṃ suṣaṃsadaṃ taptaṃ gharmamomyāvantamatraye | yābhiḥ pṛśniguṃ purukutsamāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-16 [as read])

— this Ṛk is cited.”

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 3; grammar page, noted briefly)

narau (nī “to lead”; ṛdor ap, Pā. 3-3-57 as read [?], the suffix ap; guṇa of the root; raparatva; in the vocative dual, nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); pāñcajanyam (pañcajaneṣu bhavaḥ pāñcajanyaḥ; bahirdevapañcajanebhyaś ceti vaktavyam, Kā. 4-3-64-1 as read [?], the suffix ñya in the sense of ‘born/being in’; being ñit, taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ, Pā. 7-2-117 as read [?], vṛddhi of the first vowel; bha-designation gives yasyeti ca, Pā. 6-4-148 as read [?], elision of the a; the suffix being ñit, ñityādir nityam, Pā. 6-1-197 as read [?], first-syllable accent); muñcathaḥ (mucḷ “to release”, tudādi; laṭ 2nd dual thas; śa as vikaraṇa; śemuchādīnām, Pā. 7-1-59 as read [?], num; midaco’ntyāt paraḥ, Pā. 1-1-47 as read [?], num placed after the last vowel; nighāta after an accented word); minantā (mīñ “to injure”, kryādi; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; kryādibhyaḥ śnā, Pā. 3-1-81 as read [?], śnā as vikaraṇa; sārvadhātukam apit, Pā. 1-2-4 as read [?], the suffix is ṅit; śnābhyastayor ātaḥ, Pā. 6-4-112 as read [?], elision of the ā; mīnāter nigame, Pā. 7-3-81 as read [?], shortening of the root; the first syllable of the suffix accented;

Grammar page of Ṛk 3, concluded: … in the dual, supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the ending; ugidacām, num; the anusvāra is parasavarṇa); codayantā (cuda “to impel”, curādi; satyāpāśa…, Pā. 3-1-25 as read [?], ṇic in the root’s own sense; after the ṇyanta śatṛ in the laṭ sense; śap as vikaraṇa; guṇa and ayādeśa of the ṇic; as before the ending’s ā; as adupadeśa, the sārvadhātuka is unaccented, so by tāsyanudāttet…, Pā. 6-1-186 as read [?], the ṇic accent remains). ‖ 3 ‖

(Printer’s ornament.)

Ṛk 4

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.4)

अश्वं न गूळ्हमश्विना दुरेवैर्ऋषिं नरा वृषणा रेभमप्सु । सं तं रिणीथो विप्रुतं दंसोभिर्न वां जूर्यन्ति पूर्व्या कृतानि ॥ ४ ॥

aśvaṃ na gūḷhamaśvinā durevairṛṣiṃ narā vṛṣaṇā rebhamapsu | saṃ taṃ riṇītho viprutaṃ daṃsobhirna vāṃ jūryanti pūrvyā kṛtāni ‖ 4 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.4)

अश्वम् । न । गूळ्हम् । अश्विना । दुःऽएवैः । ऋषिम् । नरा । वृषणा । रेभम् । अप्ऽसु । सम् । तम् । रिणीथः । विऽप्रुतम् । दंसःऽभिः । न । वाम् । जूर्यन्ति । पूर्व्या । कृतानि ॥ ४ ॥

aśvam | na | gūḷham | aśvinā | duḥ ’evaiḥ | ṛṣim | narā | vṛṣaṇā | rebham | ap ’su | sam | tam | riṇīthaḥ | vi ’prutam | daṃsaḥ ’bhiḥ | na | vām | jūryanti | pūrvyā | kṛtāni ‖ 4 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 117.4)

नरा नेतारौ वृषणा कामानां वर्षकौ हे अश्विनौ दुरेवैर्दुष्प्रैः पररेः [?] कूपस्थेषूदकेषु गूळ्हं निगूढं निखातं रेभमृषिं कूपादुन्नीय विप्रुतं विश्लिष्टावयवं तमृषिं न व्याधितमश्वमिव दंसोभिरात्मीयैर्भैषज्यरूपैः कर्मभिः सं रिणीथः । संगमयथः । सर्वैरवयवैरुपेतमकुरुतमित्यर्थः । वां युवयोः सम्बन्धिनि पूर्व्या चिरन्तनानि कृतानि कर्माणि न जूर्यन्ति । न हि जीर्णानि भवन्ति ॥ दुरेवैः । दुरेपुस्प्यादेरेतेरेषद्दुः सुषुतिः खल् । रिणीथः । री गतिरेषणयोः । क्र्यादिकः । प्वादीनां ह्रस्वः । जूर्यन्ति । जॄष् वयोहानौ । दैवादिकत्वात्श्यन् । बहुलं छन्दसीत्युत्वम् । हलि चेति दीर्घः ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

narā netārau vṛṣaṇā kāmānāṃ varṣakau he aśvinau durevairduṣpraiḥ pararеḥ [?] kūpastheṣūdakeṣu gūḷhaṃ nigūḍhaṃ nikhātaṃ rebhamṛṣiṃ kūpādunnīya viprutaṃ viśliṣṭāvayavaṃ tamṛṣiṃ na vyādhitamaśvamiva daṃsobhirātmīyairbhaiṣajyarūpaiḥ karmabhiḥ saṃ riṇīthaḥ | saṃgamayathaḥ | sarvairavayavairupetamakurutamityarthaḥ | vāṃ yuvayoḥ sambandhini pūrvyā cirantanāni kṛtāni karmāṇi na jūryanti | na hi jīrṇāni bhavanti ‖ durevaiḥ | durepusppādereterеṣadduḥ suṣutiḥ khal | riṇīthaḥ | rī gatireṣaṇayoḥ | kryādikaḥ | pvādīnāṃ hrasvaḥ | jūryanti | jṝṣ vayohānau | daivādikatvātśyan | bahulaṃ chandasītyutvam | hali ceti dīrghaḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "O leaders, vṛṣaṇā, showerers of desires, Aśvins: you, having drawn up from the well the ṛṣi Rebha — hidden in the waters in a well, buried, by wicked [enemies] — viprutam, whose limbs were scattered, saṃ riṇīthaḥ, you restored, united, by your healing deeds, like a sick horse: you made him complete with all limbs. Your ancient deeds do not grow old; for they do not become aged."

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

"narā — leaders; vṛṣaṇā — givers of desired objects; aśvinā — O Aśvin deities; durevaiḥ — by wicked [Asuras]; apsu — in the water of the well; gūḷham — hidden; rebham ṛṣim — the ṛṣi Rebha (drawn up from the well); viprutam — whose limbs were scattered; tam — him; aśvam na — as one cures a sick horse; daṃsobhiḥ — by your healing actions; saṃ riṇīthaḥ — you made whole (made [him] complete with all limbs); vām — your; pūrvyā — ancient; kṛtāni — deeds; na jūryanti — do not grow old (are not forgotten)."

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

"O leaders, granters of desired objects, Aśvin deities, you drew up the ṛṣi Rebha hidden by wicked Asuras in the water of the well, and healed his scattered limbs, as one heals a sick horse. Your ancient (courageous) deeds do not grow old; they are not forgotten."

English Translation (as printed)

> Leaders (of sacrifice), showerers (of benefits), you restored Rebha cast by unassailable (enemies) into the water, and wounded, like a (sick) horse, by your (healing) skill: your ancient exploits do not fade (from recollection).

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

अश्वं न दंसोभिः सं रिणीथः — Aśvaṃ na daṃsobhiḥ saṃ riṇīthaḥ — "vyādhitam aśvam iva aśvinyair bhaiṣajyarūpaiḥ karmabhiḥ samadhattaṃ sarvair avayavair upetam akurutam ity arthaḥ": "as one makes a sick horse sound — healing, by acts in the form of medicine, with all its limbs complete — [you did so to Rebha]. The word daṃsa is stated among the twenty-six [as read] names of work (Ni. 2-?? as read [?]). The Asuras bound the ṛṣi named Rebha with ropes and threw him into a well; seeing that his limbs were in danger of destruction [apāya], the Aśvin deities raised him from the well, and, as one raises up a horse that has fallen into [a pit] and treats it with herbs and the like, they made medicine for the ṛṣi Rebha, treated him, and protected him so that he was in health: thus it is described."

वां पूर्व्या कृतानि न जूर्यन्ति — Vāṃ pūrvyā kṛtāni na jūryanti — "yuvayoḥ sambandhīni cirantanāni karmāṇi na jīrṇāni bhavanti": "the earlier acts of kindness done by the Aśvin deities in former times are never forgotten; the power of the Aśvin deities, and their nature of protecting with compassion those who are in difficulty, are described here. Skandasvāmin: 'na vāṃ yuvayoḥ jūryanti jīryante vinaśyantīty arthaḥ pūrvyā pūrvam iti purāṇanāma' — the word pūrva is a name for 'ancient'. Explaining the meaning as Sāyaṇa does, 'kṛtāni karmāṇi', he says that the acts done by the Aśvins in protecting those who were in distress are never destroyed but remain as examples; and the Itihāsa of Rebha, told in this Ṛk, is also told in > दश रात्रीरशिवेना नव द्यूनवनद्धं श्नथितमप्स्वन्तः । विप्रुतं रेभमुदनि प्रवृक्तमुन्निन्यथुः सोममिव स्रुवेण ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-२४ [as read])

>
> daśa rātrīraśivenā nava dyūnavanaddhaṃ śnathitamapsvantaḥ | viprutaṃ rebhamudani pravṛktamunninyathuḥ somamiva sruveṇa ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-24 [as read])

— this Ṛk is cited."

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 4; grammar page, noted briefly)

gūḷham (guhū "to cover", niṣṭhā, kta, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; yasya vibhāṣā, Pā. 7-2-15 as read [?], the iṭ does not arise; hoḍhaḥ, Pā. 8-2-31 as read [?], gh for the root's h; jhaṣas tathor dho 'dhaḥ, Pā. 8-2-40 as read [?], dh for the t; ṣṭutva… ḍhatva; ḍho ḍhe lopaḥ, Pā. 8-3-13 as read [?], elision of the former ḍh; ḍhralope pūrvasya dīrgho 'ṇaḥ, Pā. 6-3-111 as read [?], lengthening of the preceding u; final accent from the suffix); durevaiḥ (the prefix dur; with the word dur as upapada, iṇ "to go", the root takes īṣaddussuṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal, Pā. 3-3-126 as read [?], the suffix khal; guṇa of the root; liti, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?], udātta on the syllable before the suffix; instrumental plural).

Printed p. 327 (PDF 347; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

(…the accent being on the syllable before the suffix, by liti*, Pā. 6-1-193 as read [?].) Grammar page of Ṛk 4, continued: narā* (nī "to lead"; ṛdor ap, Pā. 3-3-57 as read [?], ap; guṇa of the root; dual with supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā; nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); apsu (ūḍidaṃpadādi…, Pā. 6-1-171 as read [?], the locative plural ending takes udātta); riṇīthaḥ (rī "to go, to injure", kryādi; laṭ 2nd dual thas; kryādibhyaḥ śnā, Pā. 3-1-81 as read [?], śnā; prādīnāṃ hrasvaḥ, Pā. 7-3-80 as read [?], shortening of the root's vowel; sārvadhātukam apit makes the śnā ṅit-like; ī halyaghoḥ, Pā. 6-4-113 as read [?], ī for the ā of śnā before a consonant-initial suffix; aṭkupvāṅnumvyavāye 'pi, Pā. 8-4-2 as read [?], ṇatva; nighāta after an accented word); viprutam (pruj "to go"; niṣṭhā, kta; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix vi keeps its accent); jūryanti (jṝṣ "to grow old", divādi; laṭ 3rd plural jhi; jho 'ntaḥ, Pā. 7-1-3 as read [?], ant for jh; divādibhyaḥ śyan, Pā. 3-1-69 as read [?], śyan as vikaraṇa; bahulaṃ chandasi, ut for the root's ṛ; uraṇ raparaḥ, with raparatva; hali ca, Pā. 8-2-77 as read [?], lengthening of the penultimate vowel before a consonant, after the r-ending; nighāta since a tiṅ follows an accented word); pūrvyā (in the neuter plural, with śi substituted and thus in a plain form, śeś chandasi bahulam, Pā. 6-1-70 as read [?], the elision of śi). ‖ 4 ‖

(Printer's ornament.)

Ṛk 5

Printed p. 328 (PDF 348; header "Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117")

॥ संहितापाठः ॥ — Saṃhitā-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.5)

सुषुप्वांसं न निरृतेरुपस्थे सूर्यं न दस्रा तमसि क्षियन्तम् । शुभे रुक्मं न दर्शतं निखातमुदूपथुरश्विना वन्दनाय ॥ ५ ॥

suṣupvāṃsaṃ na nirṛterupasthe sūryaṃ na dasrā tamasi kṣiyantam | śubhe rukmaṃ na darśataṃ nikhātamudūpathuraśvinā vandanāya ‖ 5 ‖

॥ पदपाठः ॥ — Pada-pāṭha (Ṛk 117.5)

सुसुप्वांसम् । न । निःऽऋतेः । उपऽस्थे । सूर्यम् । न । दस्रा । तमसि । क्षियन्तम् । शुभे । रुक्मम् । न । दर्शतम् । निऽखातम् । उत् । ऊपथुः । अश्विना । वन्दनाय ॥ ५ ॥

susupvāṃsam | na | niḥ 'ṛteḥ | upa 'sthe | sūryam | na | dasrā | tamasi | kṣiyantam | śubhe | rukmam | na | darśatam | ni 'khātam | ut | ūpathuḥ | aśvinā | vandanāya ‖ 5 ‖

॥ सायणभाष्यम् ॥ — Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (Ṛk 117.5)

निरृतिरिति भूनाम । निरृतेः पृथिव्या उपस्थ उत्सङ्गे सुषुप्वांसं सुप्तवन्तं पुरुषमिव कूपमध्ये शयानं सूर्यं न सूर्यमिव । तमसि कूपान्तर्गतान्धकारे क्षियन्तं निवसन्तं सूर्यमिव तेजस्विनमित्यर्थः । शुभे शोभार्थं निर्मितं रुक्मं न रोचमानं सुवर्णमयाभरणमिव दर्शतं दर्शनीयं एवंगुणविशिष्टं कूपे ऽसुरैर्निखातं वन्दनाय वन्दनमृषिं हे दस्रा दर्शनीयावश्विना युवामुदूपथुः । उद्धृतवन्तौ ॥ सुषुप्वांसम् । ञिष्वप शये । लिटः क्वसुः । वचिस्वपीत्यादिना सम्प्रसारणं द्विर्वचनादि । उपस्थे । उपपूर्वात्तिष्ठतेः र्थे [?] कविधानमित्यधिकरणे कप्रत्ययः । मरुद्बृधादित्वात्पूर्वपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । वन्दनाय । क्रियाग्रहणं कर्तव्यमिति कर्मणः सम्प्रदानत्वाच्चतुर्थी ॥ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

nirṛtiriti bhūnāma | nirṛteḥ pṛthivyā upastha utsaṅge suṣupvāṃsaṃ suptavantaṃ puruṣamiva kūpamadhye śayānaṃ sūryaṃ na sūryamiva | tamasi kūpāntargatāndhakāre kṣiyantaṃ nivasantaṃ sūryamiva tejasvinamityarthaḥ | śubhe śobhārthaṃ nirmitaṃ rukmaṃ na rocamānaṃ suvarṇamayābharaṇamiva darśataṃ darśanīyaṃ evaṃguṇaviśiṣṭaṃ kūpe 'surairnikhātaṃ vandanāya vandanamṛṣiṃ he dasrā darśanīyāvaśvinā yuvāmudūpathuḥ | uddhṛtavantau ‖ suṣupvāṃsam | ñiṣvapa śaye | liṭaḥ kvasuḥ | vacisvapītyādinā samprasāraṇaṃ dvirvacanādi | upasthe | upapūrvāttiṣṭhateḥ rthe [?] kavidhānamityadhikaraṇe kapratyayaḥ | marudvṛdhāditvātpūrvapadāntodāttatvam | vandanāya | kriyāgrahaṇaṃ kartavyamiti karmaṇaḥ sampradānatvāccaturthī ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

Sense (mine): "Nirṛti is a name for the earth. In the lap (upastha) of Nirṛti, the earth, suṣupvāṃsam, like a sleeping man, lying in the middle of a well — sūryaṃ na — like the Sun; tamasi — in the darkness within the well, kṣiyantam, dwelling: [shining] like the Sun, that is, brilliant. Śubhe — for beauty — rukmaṃ na, like a shining golden ornament, darśatam, beautiful to see — [such a one], nikhātam, buried in the well by the Asuras, vandanāya, Vandana the ṛṣi: O dasrā, beautiful Aśvins, you udūpathuḥ, drew up."

Printed p. 329 (PDF 349; header "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …")

॥ प्रतिपदार्थः ॥ — Pratipadārtha (Kannada)

“nirṛteḥ — of the earth; upasthe — on the lap; suṣupvāṃsam na — like one who lies asleep; tamasi — in darkness; kṣiyantam — remaining; sūryaṃ na — like the Sun, brilliant; śubhe — for adornment (that is made); rukmaṃ na — like a shining golden ornament; darśatam — beautiful; nikhātam — buried (by the Asuras in a well); vandanāya — Vandana the ṛṣi; he dasrā aśvinā — O beautiful Aśvin deities; udūpathuḥ — you drew up.”

॥ भावार्थः ॥ — Bhāvārtha (Kannada)

“O beautiful Aśvin deities, you lifted up the ṛṣi Vandana — who was thrown by the Asuras into the well, like a man asleep in the lap of the goddess Earth, like the Sun covered in darkness (his brilliance hidden), like a golden ornament made for adornment and beautiful to behold.”

English Translation (as printed)

> You extricated, Dasras, the sage Vandana, cast into a well, like a handsome and splendid ornament designed for embellishment, and (lying), Ashwins, like one sleeping on the lap of the earth, or like the sun disappearing in darkness.

॥ विशेषविषयाः ॥ — Special Topics (Viśeṣaviṣayagaḷu)

“In this Ṛk the greatness of the Aśvin deities is described: they drew up out of the well the ṛṣi Vandana, who had been thrown by the Asuras into the water of the well, and saved him. Three similes are given concerning the ṛṣi Vandana, who, lying in the water of the well, was without strength and without lustre. Nirṛteḥ upasthe suṣupvāṃsaṃ na — like a man lying weak on the earth; tamasi kṣiyantaṃ sūryaṃ na — like the Sun, without lustre in darkness; śubhe rukmaṃ na — as a gold ornament made with great lustre appears beautiful: [such was] the ṛṣi Vandana. This is how Sāyaṇa describes the condition of the ṛṣi. Skandasvāmin gives more explanation on this matter.

Printed p. 330 (PDF 350; header “Maṃ. 1 A. 17 Sū. 117”)

> सूर्यं न । सूर्यमिव कदा पुनः तमसि न्युषितैर्वा सूर्यः येनैवमुच्यते सूर्यमिव तमसि क्षियन्तमिति । उच्यते । यदा वृत्रो महत्तमस्तत्र तान तं च हत्वेन्द्रः सूर्यं दिव्यारोहयांचकारेति ॥
>
> sūryaṃ na | sūryamiva kadā punaḥ tamasi nyuṣitairvā sūryaḥ yenaivamucyate sūryamiva tamasi kṣiyantamiti | ucyate | yadā vṛtro mahattamastatra tāna taṃ ca hatvendraḥ sūryaṃ divyārohayāṃcakāreti ‖ [Skandasvāmin; small type; partly doubtful [?]]

“— asking when the Sun is in the darkness [as printed: tamasi nyuṣitair vā sūryaḥ]: the comparison ‘like the Sun’ is made here; and, considering at what time the Sun is covered by darkness, [the answer is]: ‘when Vṛtra the Asura covered the Sun with clouds and made a great darkness, the Sun became lustreless; and when Indra subdued that Vṛtra, he made the Sun as he was before (that is, clearly visible to all)’: he explains. And in addition, ‘tad etat satyenoktam’ — this matter is stated by the ṛṣi Satya too [as printed satyena ṛṣiṇā], who says —

> त्वमपामपिधानावृणोरपाधारयः पर्वते दानुमद्वसु । वृत्रं यदिन्द्र शवसावधीरहिमादित्सूर्यं दिव्यारोहयो दृशे ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-५२-८ [as read])

tvamapāmapidhānāvṛṇorapādhārayaḥ parvate dānumadvasu | vṛtraṃ yadindra śavasāvadhīrahimāditsūryaṃ divyārohayo dṛśe ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-52-8 [as read])

“In this Ṛk it is described that Indra, having subdued Vṛtra, made the Sun as before. And [Skandasvāmin goes on]:

वन्दनमृषिं यथा भूमौ सुप्तं कञ्चित्कश्चिद्धस्तेन गृहीत्वोत्थापयेत् यथा च वृत्रकृतेन तमसावस्तब्धं सूर्यं दिव्यारोहणार्थमिन्द्र उद्धृतवान् यथा चात्मनः शोभनार्थं रुक्मं निखातं सन्तं कश्चिदुद्धरेदेवं युवां वन्दनं कूपे निपतितं तत उद्धृतवन्तौ इति समासार्थः ॥

vandanamṛṣiṃ yathā bhūmau suptaṃ kañcitkaściddhastena gṛhītvotthāpayet yathā ca vṛtrakṛtena tamasāvastabdhaṃ sūryaṃ divyārohaṇārthamindra uddhṛtavān yathā cātmanaḥ śobhanārthaṃ rukmaṃ nikhātaṃ santaṃ kaściduddharedevaṃ yuvāṃ vandanaṃ kūpe nipatitaṃ tata uddhṛtavantau iti samāsārthaḥ ‖ [small type; partly doubtful [?]]

“— just as someone takes by the hand and raises one sleeping on the ground; just as Indra lifted the Sun, obstructed by the darkness created by Vṛtra, to heaven; and as someone digs up a gold ornament buried for his own adornment — so you raised Vandana, who had fallen into the well, out of it: this is the whole sense. [In Kannada:] like raising one lying asleep on the earth by taking his hand; like Indra, who made the Sun, covered by the darkness made by Vṛtra, again lustrous and sent him up to the sky; like lifting from the ground an ornament made for his own adornment, which had fallen into the ground — so the Aśvin deities lifted the ṛṣi Vandana from the well and protected him. And [on that] this matter —

तद्वां नरा शंस्यं राध्यं चाभिष्टिमन्नासत्या वरूथम् । यद्विद्वांसा निधिमिवापगूळ्हमुद्दर्शतादूपथुर्वन्दनाय ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११६-११ [as read])

tadvāṃ narā śaṃsyaṃ rādhyaṃ cābhiṣṭimannāsatyā varūtham | yadvidvāṃsā nidhimivāpagūḷhamuddarśatādūpathurvandanāya ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-116-11 [as read])

Printed p. 331 (PDF 351; header “Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 8, Varga …”)

याभी रेभं निवृतं सितमद्भ्य उद्वन्दनमैरयतं स्वर्दृशे । याभिः कण्वं प्र सिषासन्तमावतं ताभिरू षु ऊतिभिरश्विना गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११२-५ [as read])

yābhī rebhaṃ nivṛtaṃ sitamadbhya udvandanamairayataṃ svardṛśe | yābhiḥ kaṇvaṃ pra siṣāsantamāvataṃ tābhirū ṣu ūtibhiraśvinā gatam ‖ (ṛ. saṃ. 1-112-5 [as read])

— is also explained in these Ṛks”: he cites these Ṛks.

॥ व्याकरणप्रक्रिया ॥ — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (Ṛk 5; grammar page, noted briefly)

suṣupvāṃsam (ñiṣvap “to sleep”; liṭ then kvasu by kvasuś ca, Pā. 3-2-107 as read [?]; vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti, Pā. 6-1-15 as read [?], saṃprasāraṇa of the root; saṃprasāraṇāc ca, pūrvarūpa; doubling of the root, supsupvas; ādir halśeṣaḥ; ṣatva of the root’s s; the word suṣupvas; the final accent from the suffix; accusative singular am; ugit, so num; anusvāra; parasavarṇa); upasthe (upa the prefix; ṣṭhā “to cease from motion”, with upa as upapada, ghañarthe kavidhānam gives ka in the locative sense; ā to lopa iṭi ca, Pā. 6-4-64 as read [?], elision of the root’s ā; since it belongs to the marudvṛdhādi group [marudvṛdhādīnāṃ chandasy upasaṃkhyānam, Vārt. as read [?]] the first member’s final udātta; locative singular); dasrā (supāṃ sulug, Pā. 7-1-39 as read [?], ā for the dual ending; nighāta by āmantritasya ca, Pā. 8-1-19 as read [?]); kṣiyantam (kṣi “to dwell, to go”, divādi; śatṛ in the laṭ sense; divādibhyaḥ śyan, Pā. 3-1-69 as read [?], śyan; ato guṇe, Pā. 6-1-97 as read [?], pararūpa; as adupadeśa, the sārvadhātuka is unaccented, so the vikaraṇa accent remains; accusative singular am; ugit, num; anusvāra, parasavarṇa); darśatam (dṛśir “to see”; the Uṇādi suffix atac; guṇa of the penultimate; citaḥ, Pā. 6-1-163 as read [?], final accent); nikhātam (khanu “to dig”; kta in the passive, Pā. 3-2-102 as read [?]; yasya vibhāṣā, Pā. 7-2-15 as read [?], no iṭ; jana-sana-khanāṃ sañjhaloḥ, Pā. 6-4-42 as read [?], ā for the root; gatir anantaraḥ, Pā. 6-2-49 as read [?], the prefix keeps its accent).

Progress note: Sūkta 117: Ṛks 1–4 complete; Ṛk 5 through printed p. 331 (PDF 351): pratipadārtha, bhāvārtha, English, Special Topics, grammar begun (continues p. 332). Next: printed p. 332 (PDF 352). Open: numerals as read [?]; Skandasvāmin quotations small type [?].