

RGVEDA-SAMHITĀ · VOLUME 2 · ENGLISH
 TRANSLATION

॥ श्री महागणाधिपतये नमः ॥

Ṛgveda-saṃhitā

with the Bhāṣya of Sāyaṇācārya and the Kannada Commentary of H. P. Venkata Rao

VOLUME 2

Maṇḍala 1 · Sūktas 3–19 · First Adhyāya of the First Aṣṭaka

English Translation by Bhargavi Upadhyā

prepared with the assistance of Claude, an AI model by Anthropic

Based on the Kannada edition of Asthāna Mahāvidvān H. P. Venkata Rao, Editor

Śrī Jayacāmarājendra Vedaratna-mālā · Mysore, 1949

© 2026 Bhargavi Upadhya. The English translation, together with its notes, footnotes, collected notes and apparatus, is the copyright of Bhargavi Upadhya. All rights reserved.

This translation is based on the Kannada edition of the Ṛgveda-saṃhitā with the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, edited and translated by Asthāna Mahāvidvān H. P. Venkata Rao and printed at Śrī Śāradā Press, Mysore, 1949, published by the gracious permission of His Highness Śrī Jayacāmarājendra Wadiyar Bahadur, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., Maharaja of Mysore. The ornate cover reproduced on the first page is from that edition.

The English translation was prepared with the assistance of Claude, an artificial-intelligence model made by Anthropic, working from scanned pages of the original. Readings that remain uncertain are marked [?] in the text.

[Publisher, ISBN, edition and printing details — to be supplied. Permissions status of the 1949 original and of the portraits — to be confirmed before publication.]

PATRON OF THE FIRST EDITION

ಯಮನಂಶಪಯಃಪಾಶಾನ್ಮುಖಕರರೂ ಸತ್ಸಂಪ್ರದಾಯವೈದಿಕಸಿದ್ಧಾಂತವರ್ಧಕರೂ ಮೈಸೂರು ಮೇಲವನ್ನಾಳುವ ಧರ್ಮಪ್ರಭುಗಳೂ ಆದ ಶ್ರೀಮನ್ಮಹಾರಾಜ
ಶ್ರೀ ಜಯಚಾಮರಾಜೇಂದ್ರ ಒಡೆಯರ್ ಬಹದ್ದೂರ್, ಜಿ.ಸಿ.ಬಿ, ಜಿ.ಸಿ.ಎಸ್.ಐ. ರವರು,

His Highness Srī Jayacāmarājendra Wadiyar Bahadur, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., Maharaja of Mysore, by whose gracious permission the original edition was published.

GURU & PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF SCHOLARS

ಶ್ರೀ ಜಗದ್ಗುರು ನಾಗಲಿಂಗಪರಿವ್ರಾಜಕಾಚಾರ್ಯ ಪೀಠಾಧ್ಯಕ್ಷರವರು
ಶಿಲ್ಪಸಿದ್ಧಾಂತಿ ಶಿವಯೋಗಿ ಶ್ರೀ ಸಿದ್ಧಲಿಂಗಸ್ವಾಮಿಗಳವರು
ನೇರವಮರ್ಶನ ವಿದ್ವನ್ಮಂಡಲಿಯ ಅಧ್ಯಕ್ಷರು

Śrī Jagadguru Nāgaliṅga-parivrājākācārya-pīṭhādhyakṣa
Śilpasiddhānti Śivayogi Śrī Siddhaliṅga Svāmigaḷavaru,
President of the Veda-vimarśana Vidvan-maṇḍali

THE PRESENT DAY

Contents

Translator's Preface (ಪೀಠಿಕೆ)	X
Table of Contents (Vishayanukramanike) of the Original Edition	xiii
The Ṛgveda Saṃhitā — Maṇḍala 1, Sūktas 3–19.	1
Opening Invocation and Introduction to the Saṃhitā.....	2
Sūkta 3 · aśvinā yajñavīriṇaḥ.	5
Rik 1	13
Rik 2	23
Rik 3	29
Rik 4	36
Rik 5	58
Rik 6	67
Rik 7	76
Rik 8	92
Rik 9	100
Rik 10.....	111
Rik 11.....	142
Rik 12.....	147
Sūkta 4 · surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye	155
Rik 1	157
Rik 2	170
Rik 3	178
Rik 4	185
Rik 5	192
Rik 6	199
Rik 7	206
Rik 8	215
Rik 9	223
Rik 10.....	230
Sūkta 5 · ā tvetā ni śīdata	243
Rik 1	270
Rik 2	280
Rik 3	286
Rik 4	292
Rik 5	300
Rik 6	312
Rik 7	321
Rik 8	326
Rik 9	336
Rik 10.....	348
Sūkta 6 · yuñjanti bradhnam aruṣam.	355
Rik 1	355
Rik 2	380
Rik 3	386
Rik 4	394
Rik 5	404
Rik 6	409
Rik 7	417
Rik 8	426
Rik 9	430
Rik 10.....	441
Sūkta 7 · indram id gāthino bṛhat.	455
Rik 1	457
Rik 2	464
Rik 3	470
Rik 4	475
Rik 5	479
Rik 6	484
Rik 7	488
Rik 8	494
Rik 9	499
Rik 10.....	505

Sūkta 8 · ā indra sānasim rayim 511

Rik 1.....513	Rik 5.....526	Rik 9.....547
Rik 2.....516	Rik 6.....532	Rik 10.....551
Rik 3.....520	Rik 7.....536
Rik 4.....522	Rik 8.....540

Sūkta 9 · indrehi matsy andhasaḥ 555

Rik 1.....556	Rik 5.....576	Rik 9.....596
Rik 2.....561	Rik 6.....581	Rik 10.....602
Rik 3.....568	Rik 7.....586
Rik 4.....573	Rik 8.....591

Sūkta 10 · gāyanti tvā gāyatrīṇaḥ 609

Rik 1.....610	Rik 5.....638	Rik 9.....666
Rik 2.....620	Rik 6.....644	Rik 10.....672
Rik 3.....625	Rik 7.....649	Rik 11.....677
Rik 4.....630	Rik 8.....659	Rik 12.....684

Sūkta 11 · indraṃ viśvā avivṛdhan 691

Rik 1.....693	Rik 4.....707	Rik 7.....723
Rik 2.....698	Rik 5.....712	Rik 8.....730
Rik 3.....702	Rik 6.....718

Sūkta 12 · agniṃ dūtaṃ vṛṇīmahe 735

Rik 1.....737	Rik 5.....755	Rik 9.....773
Rik 2.....742	Rik 6.....759	Rik 10.....778
Rik 3.....746	Rik 7.....765	Rik 11.....782
Rik 4.....751	Rik 8.....770	Rik 12.....787

Sūkta 13 · suśamiddho na ā vaha 791

Rik 1.....793	Rik 5.....817	Rik 9.....842
Rik 2.....800	Rik 6.....825	Rik 10.....849
Rik 3.....806	Rik 7.....832	Rik 11.....855
Rik 4.....812	Rik 8.....837	Rik 12.....860

Sūkta 14 · aibhir agne duvo girāḥ 867

Rik 1.....868	Rik 5.....884	Rik 9.....898
Rik 2.....873	Rik 6.....887	Rik 10.....902
Rik 3.....876	Rik 7.....891	Rik 11.....905
Rik 4.....880	Rik 8.....895	Rik 12.....908

Sūkta 15 · indra somaṃ piba 913

Rik 1	914	Rik 5	929	Rik 9	951
Rik 2	918	Rik 6	935	Rik 10	955
Rik 3	922	Rik 7	939	Rik 11	958
Rik 4	927	Rik 8	948	Rik 12	963

Sūkta 16 · ā tvā vahantu harayaḥ 969

Rik 1	970	Rik 4	982	Rik 7	991
Rik 2	974	Rik 5	985	Rik 8	995
Rik 3	978	Rik 6	988	Rik 9	998

Sūkta 17 · indrāvaruṇayor aham. 1005

Rik 1	1006	Rik 4	1022	Rik 7	1036
Rik 2	1012	Rik 5	1028	Rik 8	1040
Rik 3	1017	Rik 6	1032	Rik 9	1044

Sūkta 18 · somānaṃ svaraṇaṃ kṛṇuhi 1049

Rik 1	1050	Rik 4	1066	Rik 7	1076
Rik 2	1057	Rik 5	1068	Rik 8	1079
Rik 3	1060	Rik 6	1071	Rik 9	1083

Sūkta 19 · prati tyam cārum adhvaram 1091

Rik 1	1092	Rik 4	1103	Rik 7	1114
Rik 2	1096	Rik 5	1107	Rik 8	1117
Rik 3	1099	Rik 6	1111	Rik 9	1120

Collected Notes 1127

Translator's Preface (ಪೀಠಿಕೆ)

It has been about two years since the first part of the Rigveda — with Sayana's commentary and the Kannada translation — was completed. The second part is now ready. Delays arose from insufficient printing facilities and other unavoidable circumstances. Through these two parts together, only one Adhyaya out of the [64] Adhyayas of the Rigveda Samhita has been completed. There is a wish to complete the remaining 63 Adhyayas as speedily as possible — with God's grace, perhaps within another 2–4 years. For readers' convenience, each future installment is planned to run to roughly 400 pages, which should both roughly halve the price of each part and let later installments reach readers more quickly.

As stated before, although the meaning-translation follows Sayana's commentary, we have also incorporated, where contextually appropriate, a critical examination of the views of other ancient commentators and of Western scholars.

No one, in any language, has previously attempted so extensive a critical meaning-translation of the Rigveda. It is regrettable that earlier attempts at careful translations in Hindi, Marathi, and other languages were begun but could not even complete a single Adhyaya before being abandoned. The encouragement and esteem shown by many scholars and well-wishers — some writing letters of congratulation urging that this undertaking be completed however difficult it proves — has been especially heartening.

A word on how this book's material is laid out: ordinary readers who do not know Sanskrit can grasp the main sense from the Bhavartha (overall sense) alone. Those with some Sanskrit can read the Pratipadartha (word-meaning) and the English translation. Those wishing to study the Veda critically can, by also reading the special topics and grammar sections, grasp everything relevant. Some feel the grammar portion is excessive — but only the grammar already present within Sayana's own commentary has been translated into Kannada. Since grammar matters greatly for Vedic interpretation, it has been treated somewhat fully at the start, though it will gradually diminish in later parts. Episodes, earlier histories, and matters needing clarification are explained with the help of the other Vedas and works such as the Puranas, as occasion requires.

Everyone agrees that critical examination of Vedic meaning is an extremely profound matter — which is precisely why even ordinary people, and even Sanskrit-knowing scholars, hesitate to engage with it. Yet this has not stopped renowned scholars, ancient and modern, from attempting it. The Vedas — the Rigveda Samhita especially — being extremely ancient, much of their vocabulary, style, and subject matter is no longer current today. Since Vedic words had already fallen out of common usage some 3,000 years ago, the sage Yaska composed, in that very era, the great treatise called the Nirukta to explain their meanings; every subsequent commentator has taken the Nirukta as his foundation. Since a great many Vedic words are not current in later Sanskrit, their forms must be derived through grammar and meanings fitted accordingly — but whether such grammatically-derived meanings truly match the intent of the ancient rishis remains genuinely open to doubt, and despite extensive debate, nothing has ever been definitively settled, nor is it likely to be. Still, just as the Rigveda is the foundation among the Vedas, there is no doubt that Yaska's Nirukta is the foundation of all Vedic commentary.

Publishing such an ancient, profound, vast Samhita — foundational to all branches of knowledge — in simple Kannada with critical commentary, is no easy task.

It is undertaken so that all people, learned and simple alike, might grow in knowledge and become worthy of divine grace. The generous patronage of His Highness Sri Jayachamarajendra Odeyar Bahadur, G.C.B., G.C.S.I. — ruler of the Karnataka throne, patron of Vedic learning, himself a scholar, beloved of his subjects, devoted to Shiva — in supporting this resource-intensive publication is the good fortune of the Karnataka people. The translator closes with a prayer for the Maharaja, his family (including the Princess named after the Gayatri mantra, foremost among Vedic mantras), and all his subjects, that the Lord of the Universe — himself the embodiment of the Veda — grant them worldly prosperity and, doubly, transcendent spiritual knowledge.

Mysore. [Virodhi-nama Samvatsara, Jyeshtha Bahula Saptami, Friday] 17 June 1949.

Translator: H. P. Venkata Rao, Asthana Mahavidwan.

Table of Contents (Vishayanukramanike) of the Original Edition

Sukta 3 — "Aśvinā yajña-vīriṇaḥ" (the Ashvins): Anuvaka-numbering in Mandala 1; the three ordering-schemes of Vedic arrangement (by rishi, by deity, by meter); Mandala divisions; the three Savanas explained; the sukta's application; rishi/deity/meter; a detailed introduction to the Ashvin twins (pp. 11–33); the etymology and meaning of "Indra" (p. 33); a detailed introduction to the Vishvedevas (p. 49); the legend of Agni hiding in the water, with the ancient narrative as found in the Rigveda and Yajurveda (p. 60); a detailed introduction to the goddess Sarasvati, including the etymology of her name (p. 68); and an explanation of the Apri-suktas (p. 73).

Sukta 4 — "su-rūpa-kṛtnum": application; rishi/deity/meter (p. 87); the story of Vritrasura (p. 123).

Sukta 5 — "ā tveṣṭhā niṣīdata": application; the seven types of Soma-yaga; the Abhiplava-shadaha and Prishtha-shadaha rites; the meanings of Krichha, Stoma, Vishnati, Paryaya; the nine kinds of Stoma (Trivrit, Panchadasha, Saptadasha, Ekavimsha, Trinava, Trayastrimsha, Chaturvimsha, Chatuhchatvarimsha, Ashtachatvarimsha — each explained individually, pp. 140–148); Stoma-vriddhi and Stomavapa; the Mahavrata; Prakriti and Vikriti yagas; the substances mixed into Soma-juice (p. 172); and the rhyme-scheme observed in certain rikṣ (p. 188).

Sukta 6 — "yuñjanti bradhnam": application; rishi/deity/meter (p. 203); a classification of mantra-types by sense — Daivata, Stuti, Ashirvada, Shapatha, Abhishapa, and several more categories (p. 205); a threefold classification of Daivata-mantras (Paroksha-krita, Pratyaksha-krita, Adhyatmika) (p. 205); Skandasvami's own commentary and translation of the rik "yuñjanti bradhnam" (p. 206); and the legend of the demon Pani (p. 228).

Sukta 7 — "indram id gāthino br̥hat": application; rishi/deity/meter (p. 258); word-meanings (p. 259); explanation of "Panchakshiti" and "Panchajana" (the five peoples) (p. 296).

Sukta 8 — "indre sānasim rayim": application; rishi/deity/meter (p. 303); word-meanings (p. 304).

Sukta 9 — "indreṇa mandhāmasaḥ" (?): application and rishi/deity/meter (p. 342); word-meanings (p. 343).

Sukta 10 (beginning) — "gāyanti tvā gāyatriṇaḥ": application, rishi/deity/meter, and word-meanings (p. 382).¹

Suktas 11–19

(completing the First Adhyaya), per the same table of contents:

- Sukta 11 — "indram viśvā avīvr̥dhan": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 448); the legend of the asura Vala (p. 465).
- Sukta 12 — "agniṃ dūtaṃ vṛṇīmahe": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 484).
- Sukta 13 — "su-samiddho na ā gahi" (an Apri-sukta): application (p. 525); rishi/deity/meter (p. 526); word-meanings (p. 527); explanation of "Naktoṣāsā" (p. 557), "Daivyā hotārā" (p. 561), "Tisro devīḥ" (p. 563); a detailed introduction to the deity Tr̥ṣṭā (p. 571); explanation of "svāhākṛti" (p. 580).

1. Page numbers above refer to this volume's own internal pagination, which restarts from page 1 independent of Volume 1.

- Sukta 14 — "babhrur agne": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 584).
- Sukta 15 — "indra soma piba": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 626); the subject of the deity Dravinodāḥ (p. 652).
- Sukta 16 — "ā tyā vahantu": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 672).
- Sukta 17 — "indrāvaruṇayor aham": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 708); the nature of Saṃskāra-vikalpa mantras (optional ritual variants), with examples (p. 710).
- Sukta 18 — "somānaṃ svarāṇam": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 746); a detailed introduction to Br̥haspati/Brahmaṇaspati (p. 749); the deity Dakṣiṇā and the derivation of her name (p. 768); the deity Sadasaspati (p. 771).
- Sukta 19 — "prati tyaṃ cārum adhvaram": application, rishi/deity/meter, word-meanings (p. 783).

This completes the Table of Contents for the entire First Adhyaya — confirming that Volume 2, despite its title page's modest framing ("Suktas 3–9"), in fact covers all of Suktas 3 through 19, the whole of the First Adhyaya of the First Ashtaka.

The Ṛgveda Saṃhitā —
Maṇḍala 1, Sūktas 3–19

Opening Invocation and Introduction to the Saṃhitā

original p. 1

॥ Śrī Mahāgaṇādhipataye Namaḥ ॥

वागीशाद्याः सुमनसः सर्वार्थानामुपक्रमे । यं नत्वा कृतकृत्याः स्युस्तं नमामि गजाननम् ॥ यस्य
निःश्वसितं वेदा यो वेदेभ्योऽखिलं जगत् । निर्ममे तमहं वन्दे विद्यातीर्थमहेश्वरम् ॥ वेदः शिवः
शिवो वेदो वेदाध्याया सदाशिवः । तस्मात्सर्वप्रयत्नेन वेदमेव सदा जपेत् ॥

(The same three invocatory verses that open Volume 1 — to Gaṇapati, Sarasvatī, and the Veda itself as the breath of the Supreme Lord.)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā Ṛgveda Saṃhitā — Bhāga 2 ॥

Having begun to set down the first of the four Vedas — the Rigveda, which takes the very form of the Supreme Lord's own breath — together with Sayana's commentary, Kannada translation and explanation, and much other useful material, we explained at length, in the first part, the Rigveda's Purva-pithika (preliminary introduction), Sayana's Bhashya-Bhumika, and, within the Samhita-portion's first Mandala, the meaning-translation of the first two suktas, "Agnim īḷe purohitam" and "Vāyav ā yāhi darśata." We now begin, in this second part, the meaning-translation of the third sukta, "Aśvinā yajña-vīriṇiṣaḥ."

The Rigveda Samhita contains 1,028 suktas in total, composed by many rishis who served as their seers.

This Saṃhita, comprising these 1,028 suktas, is divided into ten Mandalas; each Mandala is further divided into several Anuvakas; each Anuvaka...

॥ ಮೂರನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 3 — "aśvinā yajñavīriṇaḥ" ("The Third Sūkta")

original p. 2

...[Mandalas] are divided into suktas. The first Mandala has 191 suktas, divided into 24 Anuvakas. Their arrangement is given in the following table, listing each Anuvaka's sukta-range, sukta-count, and cumulative count of mantras: ¹

Anuvaka	Sukta range	Suktas in this Anuvaka	Cumulative mantras
1	1–9	9	70
2	10–19 (approx.)	...	...
(remaining 22 rows)
Total	1–191	191	(a four-digit total, approx. 2000+)

These suktas do not all treat of a single deity.

1. This table runs to 24 rows of small Kannada numerals at this scan's resolution; the first row is given with reasonable confidence, but the remaining rows are not transcribed individually here to avoid asserting precise figures that cannot be verified reliably at this resolution. The prose below confirms the totals that matter: 191 suktas across 24 Anuvakas in Mandala 1.

They contain hymns addressed to many deities — Agni, Indra, Vayu, and others. The rishis (the mantra-seers, those who "saw" or composed the mantras) are likewise numerous. Among them are Vishvamitra, Vasishtha, Vamadeva...

original p. 3

...Gotama, Bharadvaja and other members of the seven great rishi-lineages, their descendants, and the many further rishis belonging to their disciple-lines. The names of the R̥gveda's rishis, together with the suktas and mantra-counts each composed, have already been given in Volume 1 (pages 191–205). Among meters too, there are many varieties and sub-varieties — Gayatri, Trishtubh, Jagati, and others. The R̥gveda's 1,028 suktas, composed in all these varied meters, may be organized in three different ways:

1. R̥ṣi-krama (ordering by rishi) — grouping the suktas composed by a given principal rishi and his descendants into a single section or Mandala. Mandalas 2 through 7 of the R̥gveda (six Mandalas in total) are arranged this way.

2. Devatā-krama (ordering by deity) — grouping together the mantras or suktas that praise a given deity. That is: one group for Agni-related suktas, another for Indra-related suktas, and so on. This ordering is followed in the R̥gveda's ninth Mandala, where every single sukta shares the same deity — Soma — with no other deity appearing at all; only the rishis and meters differ from sukta to sukta.

3. Chandaḥ-krama (ordering by meter) — grouping together mantras (or suktas) that share a single meter: all Gayatri-meter mantras in one group, all Trishtubh-meter mantras in another, and so on for every meter. This third ordering is not found to be followed consistently anywhere, and so is not actually used in the R̥gveda.

Beyond these, since the suktas grouped under the first scheme (Rishi-krama) include many quite short ones, gathering all these together into a single Mandala forms yet another arrangement — found in Mandalas 1 and 10.

In Mandala 1, there is, broadly speaking, one rishi for roughly every hundred mantras (the exact count varies somewhat). For example: in the first Mandala, mantras 1 through 102 belong to Madhucchandas Vaishvamitra; mantras 101 [sic] through 140 to Medhatithi Kanva; and mantras 141 through 160 to Ajigarti Shunahshepa. This is likely why the rishis of this first Mandala are called "Śatarcinaḥ" ("those who composed a hundred riks each").

Mandala 10 does not follow this scheme either.

This Mandala contains many quite short suktas (kṣudra-suktas) composed both by members of the seven rishi-lineages and by rishis outside them...

original p. 4

...The "deities" here include not only principal ones like Agni and Indra, but also lesser deities, and even hymns of praise to inanimate things such as Night (Rātrī) and Faith (Śraddhā). Such a wide variety of suktas is found in the tenth Mandala.

A given sukta may contain anywhere from one mantra to any number. Generally, mantras addressed to a single deity are counted as one sukta. Before reciting any Vedic mantra, one must first state its rishi, deity, and meter — only then the mantra itself. A single mantra may have its own rishi, or many suktas may share one rishi. Apart from Mandalas 1, 9, and 10, each of the remaining Mandalas belongs to a single group of rishis.

A definite sequence governs how the suktas are arranged. Within a Mandala, among the suktas belonging to a given rishi, those connected with Agni come first. Among these, Gayatrimeter suktas come first, followed by Trishtubh, Jagati, and other meters. Within each such group, the shortest suktas (3, 4, 5, 6 mantras) come first, with progressively longer ones following. Once the Agni-deity suktas are exhausted, the Indra-deity suktas begin, arranged the same way; after these come suktas for other deities — the Vishvadevas, Ushas, and so on. Many suktas have multiple rishis, deities, or meters within themselves; such suktas occur here and there throughout. After all of a given rishi's suktas are exhausted, the suktas of the next rishi connected with that Mandala begin, following this same sequence. Only in the ninth Mandala — where every sukta shares the single deity Soma — is the meter-sequence (Gayatri first, etc.) governed instead by sukta-length.

Suktas generally address a single deity, but a sukta may sometimes have multiple deities: each mantra within it may have its own separate deity, or even a single mantra may have two deities together. For example: the second sukta of Mandala 1 has 9 mantras, with Vāyu, then Indra-Vāyu, then Mitrā-Varuṇā as deities in groups of three. In the same Mandala, the sixth sukta's ten mantras have Indra as deity for the first three; of the rest, the eighth and ninth have the Maruts, and the remaining mantras have, one each in sequence, Marut, Indra-Marut, Marut, and Indra-Marut as deities. The fourteenth sukta's twelve mantras (a special case — "this sukta is addressed to the Vishve...")

original p. 5

...["devaiḥ sahito agni-devatā"] — Agni accompanied by the Vishvadevas is the deity here.

In the ninth mantra of the thirteenth sukta, there are three deities together: Sarasvati, Ila, and Bharati. Many such examples exist, but generally a sukta has a single deity.

The deities appearing with special prominence in the Rigveda are Agni, Indra, the Maruts, the Vishvadevas, the Ashvins, and Pavamana-Soma. Among these, the greatest number of mantras concern Agni and Indra. Taken as a whole, roughly a quarter of the entire Rigveda concerns Indra; after Indra, the next-greatest share concerns Agni; then the other deities follow.

A further distinctive feature appears across the Mandalas: apart from the eighth and ninth, each of the remaining eight Mandalas opens its first sukta with Agni. The eighth Mandala instead opens with a mantra devoted to Indra. The ninth Mandala alone is devoted throughout to a single deity — Pavamana-Soma — and, unlike the other Mandalas, its rishis do not belong to one single group; rishis from other Mandalas appear here too. The tenth Mandala's rishis likewise belong to many different groups, and its deities are correspondingly numerous.

Turning to our present topic: since Suktas 1 and 2 of the first Anuvaka have already been explained in Volume 1, we now begin the third sukta, "Aśvinā yajña-vīriṣaḥ," which closes this Anuvaka.

Before the meaning-translation, we first state this sukta's application (viniyoga):

अश्विनेति द्वादशर्चं तृतीयं सूक्तम् । तत्राश्विनस्तिसृचं प्रातरनुवाकस्याश्विने कृतौ विनियुक्ताः । कथं च सूत्रितम् । अथाश्विना एषो उषाः प्रातरिति चतसृचाश्विनी यज्ञवीरिषः ॥ आ. ४-३-७ ॥
*aśvineti dvādaśarçaṃ tṛtīyaṃ sūktam | tatrāśvinas tisṛca
prātar-anuvākasyāśvine kṛtau viniyuktāḥ | katham ca
sūtritam | athāśvina eṣo uṣāḥ prātar iti catasṛc āśvinī yajña-vīriṣaḥ || Ā. 4.3.7 ||* "Aśvinā..." is the third sukta, comprising twelve [thirteen] riks. Of these, the three Ashvin-riks are applied in the Ashvin-portion of the Pratar-anuvaka. And thus it is stated in the Sūtra: 'athāśvinā eṣo uṣāḥ prātar' — these four rikṣ [together are] 'Āśvinī Yajña-vīriṣaḥ.'" (Āśvalāyana Sūtra 4.3.7)

This sukta has 13 mantras, grouped into 4 Ṛcas — a "Ṛca" here meaning a group of three mantras. The first Ṛca (mantras 1–3) has the Ashvin deities; the second Ṛca (mantras 4–6) has Indra; the third Ṛca (mantras 7–9) has the Vishvadevas; and the fourth Ṛca (mantras 10–12) has Sarasvati as deity.

We have already given, in Volume 1 (pages 667–669), a concise account of the Agnishtoma-yaga.

In the Agnishtoma, the day on which Soma-juice is pressed is called "Sutya-dina"; since suktas recited as Stotra and Shastra are also rehearsed at the time of pressing, this day is also called "Stutya-dina." On that day, in the early morning — that is...

original p. 6

...before sunrise, after the previous night's midnight has passed, and before the birds' morning calls begin, the Hotṛ must finish reciting the mantras called the Prātar-anuvāka.

This Prātar-anuvāka comprises three portions: the Āgneya-kratu (Rikṣ connected with Agni), the Auṣasya-kratu, and the Āśvina-kratu. Each portion must contain numerous mantras spanning the seven meters — Gāyatrī, Anuṣṭubh, Triṣṭubh, Bṛhatī, Uṣṇik, Jagatī, and Pañkti.

After the Prātar-anuvāka is recited, the rite called "Prātaḥ-savana" takes place.

"Savana" means crushing the Soma creeper with stones (grāvāṇa) and extracting its juice. This occurs at three times: morning extraction is "Prātaḥ-savana"; midday extraction, "Mādhyandina-savana"; evening extraction, "Tṛtīya-savana."

Across these three Savanas, twelve Stotras and twelve Shastra-mantras must be recited in total. "Stotra" means Riks fit for chanting (sāmagāna), sung by the Udgātṛ; as soon as he finishes each Stotra, the Hotṛ, in response, recites the corresponding Shastra-mantras (Rigveda Riks). "Shastra" means a Rigveda mantra recited melodiously but without being sung. These Shastra-mantras are recited by the Hotṛ and his assistant priests — the Maitrāvaruṇa, Brāhmaṇacchaṃsī, and Acchāvāka. The full arrangement of these mantras across the three Savanas in the Agnishtoma's Prātar-anuvāka is given below:

1. Prātaḥ-savana ²

Stotra-mantras	Shastra-mantras
1. Bahiṣpavamāna-stotra	1. Ājya-śastra
2. Ājya-stotras	2. Praūga-śastra
(these recited by the Hotṛ)
3. "	3. Ājya-śastras
4. "	4. "
5. "	5. "

original p. 7

2. Mādhyandina-savana ³

Stotra-mantras	Shastra-mantras
6. Mādhyandina-pavamāna-stotra	6. Marutvatīya-śastra
7. Pṛṣṭha-stotra	7. Niṣkevalya-śastra
(these two recited by the Hotṛ)
8. "	8. Niṣkevalya-śastra
9. "	9. "
10. "	10. "

2. The first two Stotras are sung by the Udgātṛ; the latter three Shastras are recited by the Hotṛ's assistant priests — Maitrāvaruṇa, Brāhmaṇacchaṃsī, and Acchāvāka.

3. The first five are sung by the Udgātṛ; the latter three are recited by the Hotṛ's assistants, Maitrāvaruṇa and others.

3. Tṛtīya-savana

Stotra-mantras	Shastra-mantras
11. Āgneya or Tṛtīya-savana	11. Vaiśvadeva-śastra
12. Agniṣṭoma-sāma (Yajñāyajñīya)	12. Agnimāruta-śastra
(these two sung by the Udgātṛ)	(these two recited by the Hotṛ)

The Bhashyakara's own glosses confirm this:

"Ājyaiḥ stuvate" — the Udgātṛ chants the Ajya-stotra mantras (in the morning pressing); "Prṣṭhaiḥ stuvate" — the Udgātṛ chants the Prishtha-stotra mantras (in the midday pressing); "pralugaṃ śaṃsati" — the Hotṛ recites the Pralugat-shastra mantras (in the morning pressing); "niškevalyaṃ śaṃsati" — the Hotṛ recites the Nishkevalya-shastra mantras (in the midday pressing). That is: as soon as the Udgātṛ finishes the Ajya-stotras in the morning pressing, the Hotṛ, in response, recites the Pralugat-shastra mantras; likewise for Prishtha-stotra and Nishkevalya-shastra in the midday pressing, and so on.

During the recitation of the Prātar-anuvāka, the sukta "Agnimīle" is recited — its application was already stated earlier (Volume 1), as was the application of the second sukta "Vāyav ā yāhi," a nine-mantra sukta. We now come to the third sukta, "Aśvinā yajña-vīriṣaḥ," a twelve-mantra sukta, which the Hotṛ must recite during the Pralugat-shastra portion. The sequence of the Pralugat-shastra mantras runs as follows: Vāyu, Indra-Vāyu, Mitrā-Varuṇā, Aśvin, Indra, Viśvedevāḥ, Sarasvatī — mantras praising these seven deities in turn, each deity addressed by three mantras (called a "Ṛca"). Within the sukta "Vāyav ā yāhi"...

original p. 8

...of the nine mantras [in "Vāyav ā yāhi"]: the first three concern Vāyu; four through six concern Indra-Vāyu; seven through nine concern Mitrā-Varuṇā. In the sukta "Aśvinā yajña-vīriṣaḥ" that follows: mantras one through three concern the Ashvins; four through six, Indra; seven through nine, the Vishvadevas; and nine through twelve, Sarasvatī. Together, these two suktas thus form seven groups of three mantras (21 mantras total), addressed to seven deities' Shastra-mantras. The Hotṛ must recite these during the second [sukta's] Pralugat-shastra recitation in the morning pressing, immediately after the Udgātṛ sings the Ajya-stotras. This is the application of both the second and third suktas.

This sequence is confirmed in the Aitareya Brahmana, in the section beginning "gr̥ho'laṃ" (Aitareya Brahmana 3.1), and by Ashvalayana in his own Shrouta-sutra, in the section "stotram agre śāstrāt" (Ashvalayana Sutra 5.10).

The Anukramanika states it thus:

वायो वायव्यमिन्द्रवायवमित्रावरुणाऋचा अश्विना द्वादशाश्वेन्द्रैश्वदेवसारस्वासृचा सप्तृचा
प्रलुगदेवता । (this compressed index-entry, confirming the seven-deity structure just described, remains a genuinely dense best-effort reading)

That is: in "Vāyav ā yāhi," each group of three mantras addresses one deity — Vāyu, Indra-Vāyu, Mitṛā-Varuṇā — three deities in all; and in "Aśvinā yajña-vīriṣaḥ," similarly, each group of three addresses Aśvinā, Indra, Viśvedevāḥ, Sarasvatī — four further deities. Together, these seven deities bear the name "Pralugat-devatāḥ."

This is this sukta's full application-sequence.

original p. 9

Sūkta 3, The First Mantra

॥ Om ॥

॥ Sūkta — 3 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 1 ॥ Sūkta — 3 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 5, 6 ॥

॥ Mantra-numbers contained in this sukta: 1–12 ⁴ ॥

Ṛṣi — Madhucchandā Vaiśvāmitraḥ ⁵ Devatā — Mantras 1–3: Aśvin; 4–6: Indraḥ; 7–9: Viśvedevāḥ; 10–12: Sarasvatī Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अश्विना यज्वरीरिषो द्रवत्पांणी शुभस्पती । पुरुभुजां चनस्यतम् ॥१॥

*aśvīnā yājvarīr iṣo dravātpāṇī śubhas patī | purubhujā
canasyatam || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अश्विना । यज्वरीः । इषः । द्रवत्पाणी इति द्रवत्पाणी । शुभः । पती इति । पुरुभुजा । चनस्यतम् ॥१॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अश्विना युवामिमे शनिर्लक्षणान्नानि चनस्यतम् । इच्छतम् । भुंजाथामित्यर्थः । यद्वापि
चनिशब्दोऽन्नवाचे तथापीषेत्यनेन सह नास्ति पुनरुक्तिदोषः । इच्छामुपलक्षयितुं प्रयुक्तत्वात्
। वक्तव्यमुच्यते । समूलकाशं कृषतीत्यादौ यथा पुनरुक्तभावस्तत् । कीदृशीरिषः । यज्वरीः
। यागनिष्पादिकाः । कीदृशावश्विना । द्रवत्पाणी । शीघ्रग्रहणाय प्रवद्भ्यां धावद्भ्यां
पाणिभ्यामुपेतौ । शुभस्पती । शोभनस्य कर्मणः पालकौ । पुरुभुजा । विस्तीर्णभुजौ बहुभोजौ
। *he aśvīnā yuvām ime śanir-lakṣaṇānnāni canasyatam |
icchatam | bhuñjāthām ity arthaḥ | yadvāpi cani-śabdo'nnāvāce tathāpīṣety anena saha nāsti punarukti-doṣaḥ | icchām upalakṣayitum prayuktatvāt | vaktavyam ucyate | samūla-
kāśaṃ kṛṣatīty ādau yathā punarukta-bhāvas tat | kīdrśīr iṣaḥ
| yajvarīḥ | yāga-niṣpādikāḥ | kīdrśāv aśvīnā | dravat-pāṇī |*

4. the source's own printed figure reads "1–13," but the deity-breakdown below accounts for only 12 mantras in four groups of three, matching the "twelve-mantra sukta" already confirmed by the Sutra citation on page 5 — the "13" is treated here as a likely scanning artifact for "12"

5. the same rishi who composed Suktas 1 and 2

*śīghra-grahaṇāya pravadbhyāṃ dhāvadbhyāṃ pāṇibhyāṃ upetau | śubhas patī | śobhanasya karmaṇaḥ pālakai |
purubhujā | vistīrṇa-bhujau bahu-bhojau |*

Translation: "O Ashvins! You two desire ('canasyatam') these foods marked by swiftness — the sense being, 'may you two partake.' Even though the word 'cani' itself means 'food,' joining it with 'iṣa' (also 'food') is not a fault of redundancy, since here it is used specifically to convey the sense of 'desiring'; this needs to be stated, [just as there is no redundancy] in expressions like 'samūla-kāśaṃ kṛṣati' [a comparable grammatical construction]. What kind of foods? 'Yajvariḥ' — those that bring the sacrifice to completion. What kind of pair are the Ashvins? 'Dravat-pāṇi' — possessing hands that move quick and swift, for grasping things rapidly. 'Śubhas-patī' — protectors of auspicious action. 'Purubhujā' — broad-armed, enjoying much..."⁶

original p. 10

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अश्विना ((he) aśvinā) — O Ashvin deities! (you two) | शुभस्पती (śubhaspatī) — protectors of good deeds (yajnas and similar rites) | पुरुभुजा (purubhujā) — your arms are long and expansive, or: you are great eaters | द्रवत्पाणी (dravatpāṇi) — those who come running, hands outstretched, to receive the oblation | (such as you, being) यज्वरी (yajvarī) — connected with the sacrifice | इषः (iṣaḥ) — the food that takes the form of the oblation | चनस्यतम् (canasyatam) — may you desire to eat.⁷

6. This page continues and closes the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya's grammatical derivation of "aśvinā," "āmantritasya," "yajvarī," "dravat-pāṇi," "śubhas-patī," and "purubhujā" in the established dense sutra-citation register — including specific accent-rules and a cross-reference to the word "khādāte" discussed elsewhere. Given the density, this portion is characterized rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice for this register throughout the project.

7. Bhaṭṭasi's gloss.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Ashvin deities! You are protectors who ensure that auspicious undertakings proceed without obstacle. Your arms reach to your knees, your shoulders are exceedingly broad — or, you are those who eat abundantly. Therefore, come now quickly, hands outstretched, to partake of the oblation we have prepared in this yajna, and eat this food.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Asvins, you are cherishers of good deeds, your arms are long (or you are great eaters). You desire the sacrificial food with outstretched hands.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The Ashvin deities are two in number. One is customarily called "Dasra" and the other "Nāsatya," though these words are often found used to address both together. Regarding their origin, the Puranas preserve a legend: Sañjñā-devī, wife of Sūrya the Sun, having grown dissatisfied with him for some reason, went into the forest and took the form of a mare to perform austerities there. When Sūrya learned of this, he too took the form of a horse and joined her there for a time; from this union, it is said, the Ashvin deities were born. The Rigveda contains many suktas concerning them, deeply dignified in tone and full of praise for their other qualities and heroic deeds. The Yajurveda states, "aśvinau vai devānāṃ bhiṣajau" — that these two are the physicians of the gods.

In connection with a rishi named Ṛjraśva: while grazing his father's goats in a forest, the Ashvin deities came to him in the form of wolves (vṛka), and he gave them a hundred goats as food. When his father learned of this, in great anger he put out his son's eyes and blinded him. Rjraśva then prayed to the Ashvins; pleased by his hymn, they restored his sight and blessed him — this is related in the 116th sukta of this Mandala. Many further legends and heroic deeds of these deities are recounted in Suktas 118–120 and elsewhere.

In the Rigveda, certain fixed words are consistently used when praising particular deities.

In praising Agni: words such as "kavi" (the wise one), "hotṛ" (priest), "gṛhapati" (householder), and others. Concerning Indra: "śatakratu" (of a hundred powers), "vṛtraghna" (slayer of Vritra), "puruḥūta" (much-invoked), "citrabhānu" (of brilliant radiance), and others. For the Ashvins...

original p. 12

...concerning these deities, words such as "Nāsatyā," "Śubhaspatī," "Narā," "Purubhujā," and "Rathe-vantau" are used. Since all the rishis use many such words in connection with these very deities, it is clear these words must carry some specific, fixed sense beyond what now merely occurs to us or has become conventional. It is genuinely difficult now to say precisely in what sense the rishis originally intended them. Even where we construct a plausible sense — through grammar or component-meaning analysis — whether that sense truly matches the ancient rishis' own intent remains open to doubt, since this textual tradition is so ancient that these words no longer carry their original meanings; their senses differ in modern Sanskrit, so our commentarial meanings cannot be asserted as certainly correct.

The word "Áśvinā" (or "Áśvinau") appears in the Rigveda in three distinct accentual forms — áśvinā, áśvinā, áśvinā́; áśvinau, áśvinau, áśvinaú — used in many different places. The first takes initial-udātta accent, the second is fully unaccented; both are customarily used when addressing the Ashvins directly (vocative). The third, with middle-syllable udātta, is used when expressing "of the Ashvins" or "the Ashvins" as object.

Since "Aśvinā" functions as a proper name — denoting specific, fixed individuals — constructing an etymological (component) meaning for it is not strictly correct. Still, the authors of the Vedārtha-yatna explain it as: "aśvaḥ asya āpta iti aśvī, tau aśvinā" — "those who possess a horse" or "those who ride a horse." But this sense finds no real support in the Rigveda — in many mantras the Ashvins are addressed as seated upon a chariot, never as riding horseback; their view therefore does not seem fitting. It seems more reasonable to suppose that the Ashvins came to be called "Aśvinā" because they were born from Sūrya and Sañjñā-devī while both were in horse-form — connecting the name directly to the origin-legend already given. Both "Aśvinā" and "Aśvinau" are dual forms, used in the nominative and accusative according to context.

"Yajvarī"

— this word occurs in only two mantras of the entire Rigveda Samhita. In this mantra too...

original p. 13

प्रातेयुर्जं नासत्याधि तिष्ठः प्रातर्यानाणं मधुवाहनं रथम् । विश्वे येन गच्छथो यज्वरीर्नरा कीरिश्चिद्भ्यश्च होत्रमन्तमश्विना ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-४०-३) (this citation confirms "yajvarī" occurring in its only other appearance in the Rigveda — the cited verse-number here is taken as given in the source)

This word is found in only this one other mantra. In both places it carries the same meaning — there is nothing further special to note.

"Iṣaḥ"

— the word "iṣa" means food, nourishment. This word's form occurs both as initial-udātta ("Iṣaḥ") and final-udātta ("iṣáḥ").

"Dravat-pāṇī"

— this word occurs only in this one mantra within the entire Rigveda Samhita. Its fourth-case plural form, "dravat-pāṇibhyaḥ," occurs only in:

हिरण्ययेन रथेन द्रवत्पाणिभिरश्विना । धीजवना नासत्या ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-५-८)

*hiraṇyayena rathena dravat-pāṇibhir aśvinā | dhījavanā
nāsatyā* | | (Rigveda Samhita 8.5.8)

— nowhere else does this word appear. Its meaning, per Sayana, is "those who have loosened or outstretched their hands." For this sense to fit both mantras consistently, in this second citation — where "dravat-pāṇibhiḥ" qualifies the chariot-horses — the word must instead be read as "with swiftly-moving feet/hooves," i.e., "by horse." The word "pāṇi" must therefore be understood as capable of indicating two senses here: hands, and feet (hooves).

"Śubhas-patī" — the Bhashya explains "śubhaḥ" and "patī" together as "those who bring about auspicious deeds." Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭanātha explain these words as "udakeśvarau" — "lords of water" — taking "śubha" to mean "waters" in their view. The Vedārtha-yatna authors render it "Lords of prosperity." Western scholars — Grassmann, Ludwig, Geldner, Monier Williams, Griffith — endorse "Lords of Splendour," following the root "śubh/śumbh" (to shine). This dual-form word occurs in the Rigveda at: 1.3.1; 1.34.4; 1.47.2; 1.120.6; 8.2.4; 8.7.2; 8.8.8; 10.40.7; 10.40.12; 10.40.13; 10.64.4; 10.110.4; 8.19.3; 8.34.3. In the last two of these it concerns Indra-Varuna; in every other instance it concerns the Ashvins. Similarly, words such as "Śavasas-patī" and "Danus-patī" are used of other deities, but never of the Ashvins. Sāyaṇācārya, on the word "Śubhaspatī"...

...glosses the word differently in different places — in one or two instances, "śubha" is glossed as "splendor, radiance" instead. The precise meaning of this word therefore remains genuinely unsettled.

Furthermore, in the Rigveda, the word "patī" serves as the latter member of several compounds:

- Sadas-patī (Rigveda Samhita 1.18.6)
- Go-patī (Rigveda Samhita 4.1.1)
- Dam-patī (Rigveda Samhita 4.3.2; 7.20.5; 10.40.5; 10.51.3; 10.71.1; 10.13.5)
- Nṛ-patī (Rigveda Samhita 6.67.1; 6.67.4)
- Mada-patī (Rigveda Samhita 4.79.2)
- Vana-patī (Rigveda Samhita 1.64.4)
- Śacī-patī (Rigveda Samhita 4.67.4)
- Sapta-patī (Rigveda Samhita 1.66.2; 1.10.4; 10.67.2)
- Sindhu-patī (Rigveda Samhita 4.67.2)
- Svaḥ-patī (Rigveda Samhita 4.1.1)

"Purubhujā" — a dual-ending word, occurring in ten mantras (Rigveda Samhita 1.3.1; 1.118.1; 1.118.13; 4.43.1; 4.51.1; 8.5.3; 8.10.8; 8.8.21; 8.86.1). In this mantra it takes initial-udātta accent; elsewhere it is fully unaccented — fitting, since fully-unaccented proper-name words generally indicate the vocative. Its meaning varies across occurrences:

अजोऽपीन्वासत्या करा वां महे यामन्पुरुभुजा पुरंधिः । ajo'pīnvāsatyā karā vāṃ mahe yāman purubhujā purandhiḥ | (Rigveda Samhita 8.8.12)

Here "purubhujā" means "protector of many" — one who protects many people.

उतो कविं पुरुभुजा युवं ह कृशमाणमकृणुतं विचक्षे । uto kavim purubhujā yuvaṃ ha kṛśamāṇam akṛṇutaṃ vicakṣe | (Rigveda Samhita 1.118.6)

Here "Purubhujā" means "great-armed," "possessing abundant arms/hands."

आ वां नरा पुरुभुजा ववृत्यां दिवे दिवे चिदश्विना सखीयन् । ā vāṃ narā purubhujā vavṛtyāṃ dive-dive cid aśvinā sakhīyan | (Rigveda Samhita 4.43.1)

Here "puru bhuñjātā" means "those who eat abundantly."

यद्वा पुरो पुरुभुजा यदन्तरिक्षे आ गतम् । yad vā puro purubhujā yad antarikṣe ā gatam | (Rigveda Samhita 8.5.1)

Here "bahuṣu yajñeṣu bhoktārau" means "those who partake in many sacrifices."

अधि श्रिये दुहिता सूर्यस्य रथं तस्थौ पुरुभुजा शतोतिम् । adhi śriye duhitā sūryasya ratham tasthau purubhujā śatotim | (Rigveda Samhita 1.116.17)

पुरु हि वां पुरुभुजा देवं भेषं न इषं पिप्रतमस्माकम् । puru hi vāṃ purubhujā devaṃ bheṣaṃ na iṣaṃ pipṛtam asmākam | (Rigveda Samhita 1.118.9)

Here too, glossed as "bahu-pālakau" — "protectors of many."

आ नो गतं रिशादसावस्मं स्वोमं पुरुभुजा । (ऋ. सं. ८-८-१८)

Here "bahulasya haviṣo bhoktārau" means "those who partake abundantly of the oblation."

यदन्तरिक्षे शतधः पुरुभुजा यद्यावा रोदसे अनु । (ऋ. सं. ८-१०-६)

Here glossed simply as "bahunām pālakau" — "protectors of many."

युवं हि ष्मा पुरुभुजेमवेधं विश्वाप्स्ये दधथुर्न इषे । (ऋ. सं. ८-१-१)

Glossed two ways here: "bahunām dhanādi-dānena bhojayitārau" (those who, by giving wealth and the like to many, enable them to feast) and "bahunām stotṛ-janaṃ pālayitārau" (those who protect the many who praise them).

"Canasyatam" — raises a genuine question: since this dual-verb itself means "partake of food," and it governs "iṣaḥ" (food, in the form of oblation), doesn't stating "food" twice create a redundancy fault? The commentator answers that such apparently-redundant pairings are a well-established convention occurring in many contexts, citing as an illustrative (non-Vedic) parallel the phrase "samūla-kāśaṃ kṛṣati." Such redundancy-adjacent word-pairs do occur here and there within the Veda itself; a few are given below as examples —

original p. 16

यो अश्वानां यो गवां गोपतिर्वृषा य आरितः कर्मणिकर्मणि स्थिरः । yo aśvānām yo gavām go-patir vṛṣā ya āritaḥ karmaṇi-karmaṇi sthiraḥ |
(Rigveda Samhita 1.101.5)

इहेन्द्राग्नी उप श्रयं तयोरित्था मुमुच्यासि । ता सोमं सोमपातमा ॥ ihendrāgnī upa śrayaṃ taylor itthā mumucyāsi | tā somaṃ somapātamā | |
(Rigveda Samhita 8.38.4)

द्विषणोदा द्विषणस्युरस्य द्विषणोदाः सनरस्य यंसत् । dviṣaṇodā dviṣaṇasyuras ya dviṣaṇodāḥ sanarasya yaṃsat | (Rigveda Samhita 1.36.1)

These mantras, with phrases like "gavām go-patiḥ" (the cow-protector of cows), "somaṃ soma-pātamā" (the soma-drinkers of soma), and "dviṣaṇodā dviṣaṇasya," confirm that this kind of apparent redundancy is a genuine, established feature of Vedic diction.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁸ ⁹ ¹⁰

original p. 17

original p. 18

Sūkta 3, The Second Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अश्विनां पुरुदंससा नरां शवीरया धिया । धिषण्या वनतं गिरः ॥२॥

aśvinā purudāṃsasā nārā śavīrayā dhiyā | dhiṣṇyā vanataṃ girāḥ || 2 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अश्विना । पुरुदंससा । नरा । शवीरया । धिया । धिषण्या । वनतम् । गिरः ॥२॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अश्विना हे अश्विनौ युवां गिरोऽस्मदीयाः स्तुतीर्यथार्थयुक्तया बुद्ध्या वनतम् । संभजतम् । स्वीकुरुतम् । कीदृशावश्विनौ । पुरुदंससा । बहुकर्माणौ । ... नरा । नेतारौ । धिषण्या । धार्ष्ट्ययुक्तौ बुद्धिमन्तौ वा । कीदृश्या धिया । शवीरया । गतियुक्तया । अप्रतिहतशक्त्या इत्यर्थः । aśvinā he aśvinau yuvāṃ giro'smadīyāḥ stutir yathārtha-yuktayā buddhyā vanatam | sambhajatam | svīkurutam | kīdrśāv aśvinau | purudāṃsasā | bahu-karmāṇau | ... narā | netārau | dhiṣṇyā | dhārṣṭrya-yuktau buddhimantau vā | kīdrśyā dhiyā | śavīrayā | gati-yuktayā | apratihata-śaktyā ity arthaḥ |

Translation: "O Ashvins! Accept and embrace our hymns of praise ('giraḥ'), with understanding fit to their true purpose. What kind of pair are the Ashvins? 'Purudāṃsasā' — doers of many deeds ¹¹. 'Narā' — leaders. 'Dhiṣṇyā' — bold, or wise. With what kind of understanding? 'Śavīrayā' — endowed with motion; the sense being, of unimpeded power." ^{12 13}

8. The grammatical derivation for this sukta's opening verse — covering "aśvinā" as a vocative-adjacent form (per Phit-sutra 1.1.28), "yajvarī" analyzed via the root meaning "to accomplish the sacrifice," "iṣaḥ" and its accent-variants, "dravat-pāṇi" as a compound of "dravat" (running/swift) and "pāṇi" (hand/foot), "śubhas-pati" with its accent-retention rule, and "canasyatam" as a denominative verb formed from "canas" — proceeds here in the same dense sutra-citation register used throughout this work. Given its density, it is characterized here rather than transcribed line by line, consistent with standing practice; none of it alters the senses already established above in the Bhāṣya, Pratipadārtha, and Viśeṣārtha sections for this verse.

original p. 19

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

पुरुदंससा (purudaṃsasā) — endowed with many deeds, that is, performers of many works | नरा (narā) — leaders of people, or guides | धिष्ण्या (dhiṣṇyā) — wise | अश्विना (aśvinā) — O Ashvin deities! (you two) | शवीरया (śavīrayā) — unimpeded, unobstructed | धिया (dhiyā) — with that understanding | गिरः (giraḥ) — the words of praise we offer | वनतम् (vanatam) — accept.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Ashvin deities! You are those who perform many deeds — heroic undertakings; you are guides for people, exceedingly wise, and full of courage. Being such, with your unimpeded understanding, graciously and attentively accept the hymns of praise we now offer in these words.

original p. 20

9. This entire page continues the Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.1 in the same dense register — working through "śubhaspatī" (accent-retention and compound-analysis), "aśvinā" (vocative/accusative accent variants), "purubhujā" (bahuvrīhi-compound derivation), and "canasyatam" (a denominative formation from "canas," with its affix and accent rules, including cross-reference to the Nirukta 5.16 gloss of "canaḥ" as "food"). Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice for this register; none of it changes the senses already established above.

10. This page opens with the closing lines of Rik 3.1's grammar discussion — covering the accent-behavior of "canasyatam" as a denominative verb, and the word "dhiṣṇyā" cross-referenced ahead — in the established dense register; not reproduced in detail.

11. the word "daṃsa" is listed among the Nighaṇṭu's words for "karma"

12. Note: the scan at this point is somewhat worn, and a few words in the Sanskrit above are reconstructed with reasonable but not full confidence from context.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Aswins, performers of mighty deeds, leaders of men, endowed with fortitude, accept our praises with unaverted (loving) mind.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The three mantras in this sukta expounding the Ashvin deities are all genuinely difficult. Many commentators, following grammatical derivation, have constructed component-based meanings for these words and presented them as though settled by ordinary reasoning. But for many Rigveda words, such component-based construction simply does not yield a fitting sense. There is good reason to think that the meanings now conventional for these words in present-day Sanskrit were not current in the Vedic period, and that these words once carried their own distinct senses. At that time, grammar itself had not yet been composed. There is no doubt that the great sage Pāṇini composed his grammar taking Vedic vocabulary itself as his foundational basis, nor that Pāṇini's grammar is authoritative for explaining the derivation of words now current in Sanskrit — but many Vedic words simply do not fall under these later grammatical rules. For example, a single word is sometimes expressed in different forms while keeping the same meaning. Language came first; grammar was composed afterward, by following the patterns already present in language — never the reverse. Therefore, even where we construct, through component-meaning analysis, some fitting sense for a Vedic word,

13. The bulk of this page continues the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya's grammatical analysis of "purudaṃsasā," "dhiṣṇyā," "vanatam," and "giraḥ" in the established dense register — covering compound-formation, accent-retention rules, and cross-references to related forms elsewhere in the Rigveda. Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice.

to claim that the ancient rishis actually used that word in precisely that derived sense would be a genuine act of overreach.

"Purudaṃsasā" — this word occurs in four mantras of the Rigveda. In this mantra it is initial-udātta; in Rigveda Samhita 8.5.10 and 8.22.3 it is fully unaccented (confirming, as already noted, that fully-unaccented nominative forms serve the vocative); in 8.26.1 it is middle-udātta. Further forms of this word — "purudaṃsam" and "purudaṃsā" — occur in Rigveda Samhita 1.3.2 and 7.67.1; nowhere else. The word comprises two separate elements, "puru" and "daṃsa." "Puru" means "much, abundant" — the same element already discussed in "purubhujā" above. "Daṃsa" is listed among the words meaning "karma" (action, deed); hence the compound means "deed" or "work." The Bhashyakara accordingly explains "purudaṃsā" as "bahu-karmāṇau" — "those possessing the capacity for many deeds."

original p. 21

Veṅkaṭamādhava glosses this as "āścarya-bhūta-vividha-karmāṇau" — those whose various deeds are a source of wonder. Wilson explains it as "performers of marvelous or heroic deeds"; Grassmann and Ludwig, following Veṅkaṭamādhava's own reading, state "those who perform wondrous deeds." Since Suktas 112, 114, 118, and 119 of this Mandala describe many heroic deeds of these deities, Veṅkaṭamādhava's view appears correct.

"Narā" — Sayana and Veṅkaṭamādhava explain this as "netārau" — leaders, guides; Skandasvāmī, as "those possessing human form." Wilson expresses Sayana's meaning by "guides." Whitney renders "narah" with "manly," and Stevenson with "who assumes the human form"; Geldner, in his Der Rigveda, gives several meanings of this word. Among these, Sayana's view seems most sound. Still, since "narā" is used specifically in contexts praising the Ashvin deities, it can confidently be said that the word carried some specific, fixed sense in its own time.

"Śavīrayā"

— this word occurs in the Rigveda only here and in:

अश्विनावश्वयाता यातं शवीरया । (ऋ. सं. १-४०-१?)

— nowhere else. The Bhashyakara derives it from the root "śū" (to go) with the affix "vīra," giving "endowed with motion," that is, "possessing unimpeded power." As a feminine noun in the fourth-case singular, it is treated as qualifying "dhiyā" (understanding). Veṅkaṭamādhava explains it differently: "śu" means "swift," "īra" means "to go," hence "śavīra" means "swift-moving." Alternatively, he connects it to "śava" (strength, listed among the Nighaṇṭu's strength-words), giving the sense "those who go swiftly to destroy the enemy's strength" or "those who hasten to the sacrificial altar to receive their share of the oblation" — on this reading, "śavīrayā" becomes instead a nominative dual form qualifying "Aśvinā" itself...

original p. 22

...as stated. The Vedārtha-yatna authors and Western scholars explain "śavīra" as "Strong, Mighty, Powerful."

"Dhiyā" — Sayana and Skandasvāmī explain this as "ādara-yuktayā buddhyā" — "with reverent understanding," reading it as an instrumental. Some Western scholars gloss "dhiyā" as "mind, thought, aim," connecting it to the verb "vanatam"; the Bhashyakara harmonizes it the same way. But Veṅkaṭamādhava treats "dhiyā" instead as a qualifier of "dhiṣṇyā." In many contexts "dhiyā" is used in the nominative, meaning "possessing intelligence."

"Dhiṣṇyā" — the Bhashyakara explains this as "dhārṣṭrya-yuktau" (possessing boldness) or "buddhimantau" (wise). Skandasvāmī derives it: "Dhiṣaṇā" means speech; her offspring, or the word "dhi" (insight) in its own feminine form, yields "dhiṣṇyā" — "those exceedingly wise, capable of grasping every matter." Sayana's gloss — "courageous, wise" — is endorsed by Wilson. Grassmann renders it "free giving, willingly giving, willingly helping"; Geldner, "wise"; Ludwig, "praiseworthy." By a different word-family connection (from the root "dhi," to think), other commentators explain "Dhiṣṇyā" as "those that kindle the thoughts" — those who inspire the mind or speech. This word is initial-udātta at Rigveda Samhita 1.3.3; 1.104.3; 3.47.1; and fully unaccented at 1.84.4; 1.102.1; 1.110.2; 4.13.5; 4.22.3; 4.34.1.

"Vanatam"

— initial-udātta at Rigveda Samhita 1.3.2; 4.4.3; fully unaccented at 1.8.3.

"Giraḥ"

— this word occurs in some 250 mantras of the Rigveda, meaning "words" or "hymns of praise." It appears in the nominative and accusative plural and the locative singular, always as an initial-udātta word. No further explanation of its meaning is needed.

original p. 23

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ^{14 15}

14. This page and those following work through the grammatical analysis of "aśvinā," "purudaṃsasā," "narā," and "dhiṣṇyā" together as a set of co-referential vocative/nominative forms, in the established dense sutra-citation register — covering accent-retention rules for words in grammatical apposition (sāmānādhikarṇya), and a careful technical argument about why "nāmantrite" (a word not in the vocative) can still take sarvānūdātta accent when standing in apposition with a genuine vocative. Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice for this register; the overall sense already established in the Bhāṣya and Pratipadārtha above is unaffected.

Sūkta 3, The Third Mantra

॥२॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

दस्त्रा युवाकवः सुता नासत्या वृक्तबर्हिषः । आ यातं रुद्रवर्तनी ॥३॥

*dasrā yuvākavaḥ sutā nāsatyā vṛktābarhiṣaḥ | ā yātaṃ
rudravartanī ||3||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥¹⁶

दस्त्रा । युवाकवः । सुताः । नासत्या । वृक्तऽबर्हिषः । आ । यातम् । रुद्रवर्तनी इति रुद्रऽवर्तनी
॥३॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अत्राश्विनेत्यस्यार्थे । हे अश्विनौ यातम् । अस्मिन्मर्याक्या गच्छतम् । किमर्थमिति चेदुच्यते ।
सुता युष्मदर्थं सोमा अभिपातुम् । तान् स्वीकर्तुमिति शेषः । कीदृशावश्विनौ । दस्त्रा
शत्रूणामुपक्षपयितारौ । यद्वा । देव-वैद्येन रोगाणामुपक्षपयितारौ । अश्विनौ वै देवानां भिषजौ
(ऐ. ब्रा. १-१८) इति श्रुतेः । नासत्या । असत्यमनृत-भाषणम् । कदर्थ । अत्र यास्कः —
सत्यस्यैव नासत्या आदित्यगायन (नि. ६-१३) इति । रुद्रवर्तनी । ... शूरभटूनां वर्तनि-मार्गो
धाटी-रूपो यय०स्ते । रुद्र-वर्तनी । यद्वा । "भरता" इत्यादिऋक्प्रतीतिजामुस वृक्तबर्हिष इति
। *atrāśvinety asyārthe | he aśvinau yātaṃ | asmin maryākyā gacchatam | kimartham iti ced ucyate | sutā yuṣmad-arthaṃ
somā abhipātum | tān svīkartum iti śeṣaḥ | kīdrśāv aśvinau |*

15. The opening lines close out Rik 3.2's grammar discussion, including a supporting citation from the Taittiriya Samhita — "ete te aśvinā nāmāni" — on the many names used for the Ashvins in praise, and detailed accent-derivations for "śavīrayā," "dhiyā," "vanatam," and "giraḥ," in the established dense register; not reproduced in full. This closes the apparatus for Rik 3.2.

16. Sayana's commentary, Pratipadartha, Bhavartha, and English translation for this third and closing Ashvin-verse follow on the next page.

*dasrā śatrūṇām upakṣapayitārau | yadvā | deva-vaidyena
rogāṇām upakṣapayitārau | aśvinau vai devānām bhiṣajau
(Aitareya Brahmana 1.18) iti śruteḥ | nāsatyā | asatyam
anṛta-bhāṣaṇam | kadarthā | atra yāskaḥ — satyasyaiva
nāsatyā ādityagāyana (Nirukta 6.13) iti | rudravartanī | ...
śūra-bhaṭūnām vartanī-mārgo dhātī-rūpo yayos te | rudra-vartanī | yadvā | "bharatā" ity ādi-ṛk-pratitijām usa vṛkta-
barhiṣa iti |*

Translation: "Here, continuing the sense of 'Aśvinā': O Ashvins, come — come to this gathering. For what purpose? In answer: Soma-juices have been pressed for your sake, to be drunk — the implied completion being 'in order to accept them.' What kind of pair are the Ashvins? 'Dasrā' — destroyers of enemies; or, as physicians of the gods, destroyers of disease, per the scriptural statement 'the Ashvins are indeed the physicians of the gods' (Aitareya Brahmana 1.18). 'Nāsatyā' — never given to false speech ('asatyā'); Yāska himself states in the Nirukta, 'nāsatyā, [those devoted] to truth alone' (Nirukta 6.13). 'Rudravartanī' — whose course resembles the swift charging-path of valiant warriors; or, per a Rigveda citation beginning 'bharatā,' connected with 'vṛkta-barhiṣaḥ' [below]."¹⁷

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

दस्रा (dasrā) — destroying enemies, or diseases | नासत्या (nāsatyā) — those free of false speech (true to their word) | रुद्रवर्तनी (rudravartanī) — those who follow the swift course of valiant warriors (O Ashvin deities!) | वृक्तबर्हिषः (vṛktabarhiṣaḥ) — upon the kuśa-grass (barhis), its root cut and laid out | युवाकवः (yuvākavaḥ) — mixed with admixtures, or: that which you desire | सुताः (sutāḥ) — the Soma, prepared by crushing the creeper, for you to accept | आ यातम् (ā yātam) — come here (that is, to the place where we perform this yajna).

17. The grammatical derivation of "dasrā," "yuvākavaḥ," and the accent-rules governing this verse's vocative forms continues in the established dense register; not reproduced in full, consistent with standing practice.

original p. 26

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Ashvin deities! You are destroyers of enemies, or, being physicians of the gods, destroyers of disease. You never speak falsely; you always follow the path of heroes. Being such, come to this, our sacrificial ground, to drink the Soma-juice we have prepared and placed upon the kuśa-grass, the grass fit for the yajna.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Aswins, destroyers of enemies (or of diseases) shorn of untruth, who wander on the path of heroes, come to the mixed libations of Soma juice pressed and placed on lopped Kusa-grass.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Dasrā" — one of the Ashvin deities is named "Dasra" and the other "Nāsatya"; yet since this word is dual-ending, it designates both together — here, since each name is stated separately, both are correspondingly indicated. If one holds that these two words function merely as proper names, no further meaning need be constructed for them. But if one instead regards them as qualifying epithets describing the Ashvins' own qualities, a component-based meaning must be constructed — and this is the course the Bhashyakara himself takes.

The Bhashyakara explains this word as "śatrūṇām upakṣapayitārau; yadvā deva-vaidyena rogāṇām upakṣapayitārau" — "destroyers of enemies; or, as physicians of the gods, destroyers of diseases." Skandasvāmī gives "destroyer of enemies" and also "of beautiful form to behold."

Veṅkaṭamādhava gives "of beautiful form." Uvvaṭa and Mahīdhara, the commentators on the Vājasaneyā Samhita (Shukla Yajurveda), both affirm this same sense for the corresponding word at Yajurveda 13.45. Grassmann renders it "Wonder-workers"; Ludwig, "Wonderful"; Monier Williams, "accomplishing wonderful deeds." All of these scholars, while agreeing broadly on the sense in this particular mantra, render the same word differently in its other occurrences. Ludwig, for this word in Rigveda Samhita 1.3.1; 1.118.1; 8.8.2, and similar mantras, gives "wonderful"...

original p. 27

...at Rigveda Samhita 1.40.12; 8.2.3; 8.3.35; 8.7.1; 8.26.15 and similar, "wonder-workers," those who perform wonderful deeds;

at 1.34.3; 1.44.1; 1.47.1; 1.117.15; 8.8.10; 8.8.9; 8.10.1; 8.10.3; 8.10.9 and similar, "beneficent," generous or helpful;

at 1.112.14; 1.118.30 and similar, "good-looking," beautiful to behold;

at 8.38.1; 8.75.5 and similar, "destroyers" of enemies or disease — various senses given by Ludwig himself across different mantras. Geldner similarly offers "master worker, able, dexterous, possessing supernatural strength"; Langlois and Griffith likewise construct differing senses. But many hold that, since "dasrā" derives from the root "dṛś" (to see), the sense "worth seeing" or "of beautiful form" is the most fitting one.

"Yuvākavaḥ" — Sayanacharya derives this from the root "yu" (to mix), glossing it "mixed." The "mixture-substances" referred to are cow's milk, curds, barley, and similar admixtures — a topic already treated at length in Volume 1 (pages 675–676).
Skandasvāmī gives: "yuvāṃ kāmāyante iti yuvākavaḥ" —

"those who desire to drink you" — meaning "dear to you." Veṅkaṭamādhava endorses this same sense; Uvvaṭa and Mahīdhara, commentators on the Vajasaneya Samhita, explain the corresponding word at Yajurveda 13.45 the same way. Western scholars broadly agree. Sayanacharya himself, in other mantras — 1.120.2; 1.120.4; 8.5.4; 8.10.3; 8.10.4; 8.10.6 — glosses this same word as "yuvām kāmaya māna," "that which you desire."

The word "yuvāka" is used in three places in the Rigveda, but "yuvākavaḥ" occurs only in this one mantra, nowhere else.

A few further examples where "yuvāka" combines with other words in the sense "your" are given below:

- yuvānīveśyai (Rigveda Samhita 8.26.3) — yuvādattasyai (Rigveda Samhita 8.26.3)
- yuvāyavaḥ (Rigveda Samhita 1.15.3) — yuvāyujaḥ (Rigveda Samhita 1.118.5)
- yuvāvate (Rigveda Samhita 8.19.3)

In the first two words of this list, the usage carries the same sense as "yuṣmān-ītaḥ"...

original p. 28

...at Rigveda Samhita 3.23.1; "yuṣmādattasyai" at 4.46.1; 8.42.6 — these related forms are also well established.

"Sutāḥ" — this word means "pressed out, extracted." When the Soma creeper is crushed with stones (grāvāṇa) and its juice extracted, the Rigveda customarily calls that extracted juice "suta." ¹⁸

"Nāsatyā" — a word naming the Ashvin deities; strictly it needs no component-meaning. Still, the Bhashyakara explains it: "asatyam anṛta-bhāṣaṇaṃ tad-rahitau" ("free of false speech"), citing two authoritative passages from Yāska: "satyasyaiva nāsatyā... satyasya pretārau... mitrāgāyaṇa" Though different scholars follow different derivational paths for this word, there is unanimity on its meaning.

"Vṛktabarhiṣaḥ" — this word is middle-udātta at Rigveda Samhita 1.3.3; 1.54.4 and similar places; fully unaccented at 1.20.1; 8.2.10; 8.2.13. Related forms — "vṛktabarhiṣa" at 1.50.2, and "vṛktabarhiṣe" at 1.101.1; 3.56.6; 10.64.15 — also occur. Sayana gives two readings: "vṛktāni mūlyārjitāni barhīmṣy āstaraṇa-rūpāni yeṣāṃ somānāṃ te vṛktabarhiṣaḥ" — "those Soma-portions whose kuśa-spreads have had their roots cut"; or, following a Rigveda citation beginning "bharatā," read as a nominative in place of an instrumental, meaning "the ritvij who approaches." That is: on one reading, the kuśa-grass with its root cut, spread out, with the Soma-vessel placed upon it; on the other, "Vṛktabarhiṣa" is one of the eight ritvij-names, and the phrase means "the Soma-juice pressed and prepared by the ritvij of that name." On the first reading, "Vṛktabarhiṣaḥ" qualifies "Sutāḥ" (the Soma); on the second, it qualifies the ritvij. Sayana further explains that this kuśa-spread serves to hold the Soma-juice; Skandasvāmī instead explains the kuśa-spread as being for the Ashvins to sit upon when they arrive. Since, in actual ritual practice, the spreading of barhis is stated in many places as being specifically for holding the oblation-materials or the Soma-juice, Sayana's view appears the better-supported one. Though this mantra admits of two readings, Sayana elsewhere consistently glosses this word as "vṛktabarhiṣa āstaraṇārthaṃ bhinna-darbhāḥ" — a single, consistent sense, which seems the fitting one. Among Western scholars: Wilson gives "placed on lopped grass"; Ludwig, "having the barhis cut"; Geldner, "having the Barhis placed around." In explaining this sense, the words...

18. In modern Sanskrit, "suta" instead means "son."

original p. 29

...vary somewhat in exact phrasing but little in overall sense. Grassmann: "of one who has spread the Sacrificial grass"; Monier Williams: "one who has gathered and spread the Sacrificial grass" — both take this as describing the ritvij who spreads the kusha-grass. Sayanacharya himself, in other mantras (8.2.1 and similar), confirms this same ritvij-sense for "vr̥ktabarhiṣaḥ."

"Rudravartanī"

— this word is fully unaccented at Rigveda Samhita 1.3.3; 8.22.1; 10.61.11, and middle-udātta at 8.22.1:

आयातं रुद्रवर्तनी । (ऋ. सं. १-३-३)

युवमश्विना सुपा रुद्रवर्तनी आ सूर्यायै तस्थतुः । (ऋ. सं. १-११८-१?)

युवमश्विना सुपा रुद्रवर्तनी पुरो रथं कृणुभः शत्वा सख । (ऋ. सं. १०-१९-११?)

तावित्था ता उषसि शुभस्पती ता यामनृद्रवर्तनी । (ऋ. सं. ८-२२-१४?)

This word occurs only in these four mantras and nowhere else, always as a qualifier of the Ashvins — never of any other deity.

Since it applies only to the Ashvins, whether the Bhashyakara's offered sense truly captures its original meaning remains genuinely uncertain — but since no better-supported alternative is available, his reading must be accepted.

The Bhashyakara, explaining the word "rudra" itself, gives this derivation: "so'drodīd ародит tad rudrasya rudratvam" (Taittiriya Samhita 1.8.1) — "he wept/roared, and hence came the name Rudra" — that is, warriors who make the enemy weep may themselves be called "Rudra." "Rudravartanī" thus means "those who walk the path of heroes" or "followers of the heroes' path." Grassmann, following the root "rud" (to shine), glosses "Rudra" as "Brilliant" — radiant; on this reading, "Rudravartanī" would mean "those who travel on a brilliant, that is, excellent, path." Alternatively, the Rigveda also knows Rudra as a specific, distinct deity, whose nature — wrathful, slaying and harming enemies — is described in many Rudra-suktas. This raises the natural question of whether "Rudravartanī" instead means "following the path of that deity Rudra," that is, "destroyers of enemies." It is therefore not possible to state with certainty which sense this word actually carried at the time.

original p. 30

Sūkta 3, The Fourth Mantra (Opening the Indra Group)

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁹

॥३॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रा याहि चित्रभानो सुता इमे त्वांयवः । अ॒ण्वी॒भिस्त॑नां पू॒तासः॑ ॥४॥

*indrā yāhi citrabhāno sutā imé tvāyavaḥ | aṇvībhis tānā
pūtāsaḥ ||4||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ^{20 21}

19. This section works through the grammatical derivation of "dasrā" as a vocative-adjacent form, "yuvāku" and "mitra-bhavati" relationships, "upasargāc chandasi" accent rules, and the derivation of "Rudra" itself from the root meaning "to roar/weep" (Taittiriya Samhita 1.8.1) versus alternate readings, in the established dense sutra-citation register. Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice. This closes the full apparatus for Rik 3.3, completing the three-verse Ashvin group that opens this sukta.

20. This opens the second group of three Riks within this sukta — mantras 4–6, addressed to Indra. Sayana's commentary and full apparatus follow on the next page.

21. Source note: in this scan the Sanskrit bhāṣya is printed in Kannada script. It is rendered below into Devanagari and IAST letter by letter from the page image. Where the print is blurred or looks irregular, the reading is bracketed with [?] rather than corrected from memory.

इन्द्र । आ । याहि । चित्रभानो इति चित्रभानो । सुताः । इमे । त्वायवः ॥ अण्वीभिः । तना । पूतासः ॥४॥

original p. 31

Sūkta 3, Fourth Mantra: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

चित्रभानो चित्रदीप्ते हे इन्द्र अस्मिन्कर्मण्या याहि । आगच्छ । सुता अभिषुता इमे
सोमास्त्वायवस्त्वां कामयमाना वर्तन्ते । अण्वीभिः । अग्रुव इत्यादिषु
द्वाविंशतिसंख्याकेष्वङ्गुलिनामसु अण्व्य इति पठितम् । ऋत्विजामङ्गुलिभिः सुता इत्यन्वयः । किंच । एते सोमास्तना नित्यं पूतासः पूता शुद्धा दशापवित्रेण बहुधा शोधितत्वात् । citrabhāno citradīpte he indra asmin karmany ā yāhi |
āgaccha | sutā abhiṣutā ime somās tvāyavas tvām
kāmayamānā vartante | aṇvībhiḥ | agruva ity ādiṣu dvāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣv aṅguli-nāmasu aṇvya iti paṭhitam |
rtvijām aṅgulibhiḥ sutā ity anvayaḥ | kiṃca | ete somās tanā nityam pūtāsaḥ pūtā śuddhā daśā-pavitreṇa bahudhā śodhitatvāt |

Translation: "'Citrabhāno' — O one of wondrous radiance, O Indra! Come ('yāhi' = 'āgaccha') to this rite. These Soma-juices that are 'sutāḥ' (pressed out) stand here 'tvāyavaḥ' — desiring you. 'Aṇvībhiḥ' — in the list of twenty-two finger-names beginning 'agruvaḥ' (the Nighaṇṭu list), 'aṇvyaḥ' is also read; the construction is 'pressed by the fingers of the priests.' Further, these Soma-juices are 'tanā' (continually) 'pūtāsaḥ' — purified, cleansed, since they have been filtered many times through the 'daśā-pavitra' (the woollen cloth with its fringe of threads)." ²²

The Nirukta's etymologies of "Indra." The Bhāṣya now cites Yāska (Nirukta 10.8): ²³

22. Note: the second "tanā" is taken by the Bhāṣya as "nityam," "constantly"; the sentence "tanā nityam pūtāsaḥ" is read in the print as shown.

इन्द्रशब्दं यास्को बहुधा निर्वक्ति । इन्द्र इरां दृणातीति वेरां ददातीति वेरां दधातीति वेरां
 दारयतीति वेरां धारयतीति वेन्दवे द्रवतीति वेन्दौ रमत इति वेन्द्रे भूतानीति वा तद्यदेनं प्राणैः
 समैन्धस्तदिन्द्रस्येन्द्रत्वमिति विज्ञायत इदंकरणादित्याग्रायण इदं दर्शनादित्यौपमन्यव इदन्तेर्वैश्वर्यकर्मण इभ्रात्रृणां [?] दारयिता वा द्रावयिता वादरयिता च यज्वनाम् । नि. १०-८ ।
indra-śabdaṃ yāsko bahudhā nirvakti | indra irāṃ dṛṇātīti verāṃ dadātīti verāṃ dadhātīti verāṃ dārayatīti verāṃ dhārayatīti vendave dravatīti vendrauramata iti vendhe bhūtānīti vā tad yad enaṃ prāṇaiḥ samaindhaṃs tad indrasyendratvam iti vijñāyata idaṃ-karaṇād ity āgrāyaṇa idaṃ darśanād ity aupamanyava idanter vaiśvarya-karmaṇa
 [?] i[n]draḥ śatrūṇāṃ [?] dārayitā vā drāvayitā vādarayitā ca yajvanām | ni. 10-8 |

Translation: "Yaska explains the word 'Indra' in many ways: 'Indra' — either because he tears open ('dṛṇāti') the 'irā' (food/nourishment); or because he gives ('dadāti') irā; or because he holds/supports ('dadhāti') irā; or because he splits ('dārayati') irā; or because he sustains ('dhārayati') irā; or because he runs ('dravati') to the 'indu' (Soma-drop); or because he delights ('ramate') in the Soma-drop; or because he kindles ('indhe') living beings. And it is known (from the Brāhmaṇa) that 'because they kindled him ('samaindhan') with the vital breaths, that is the Indra-hood of Indra.' Āgrāyaṇa says: 'from "idaṃ-karaṇa," making this (world).' Aupamanyava says: 'from "idaṃ-darśana," seeing this.' [The next clause, drawing on the root 'ind' in the sense of lordship, and the closing sense — Indra as the one who tears

23. Reading note: the print of the clause after "karmaṇa" is blurred, and the letters look like "ibhrātrrṇām." The Nirukta's own continuation is known to run "indraḥ śatrūṇāṃ dārayitā...", but that is a restoration from outside knowledge, not a clear reading, so it is flagged here. "idanter" is also printed thus, where a form of the root "ind/ind" might be expected. "vera/vendave" etc. are "vā + irām / vā + indave," in sandhi.

apart, drives off, and shatters (the foes) and protects the sacrificers — is partly blurred in the print and given here as a paraphrase, not a verified reading.] (Nirukta 10.8)"

इति । अस्यायमर्थः । दृ विदारण इति धातुः । इरामन्नमुद्दिश्य तन्निष्पादकजलसिद्धयर्थं
 दृणाति मेघं विदीर्णं करोतीतीन्द्रः । णुदाञ् दान इति धातुः । इरामन्नं वृष्टिनिष्पादनेन
 ददातीतीन्द्रः । धाञ् पोषणार्थः । इरामन्नं तृप्तिकारणं सस्यं दधाति जलप्रदानेन पुष्पातीतीन्द्रः
 । इरामुत्पादयितुं कर्षकमुखेन भूमिं विदारयतीतीन्द्रः । पूर्वोक्तपोषणमुखेनेरां धारयति
 विनाशराहित्येन स्थापयतीतीन्द्रः । इन्दुः सोमो वल्लीरसः । तदर्थं यागभूमौ द्रवति धावतीतीन्द्रः
 । इन्दौ यथोक्ते सोमे रमते क्रीडतीतीन्द्रः । जिहन्धी दीप्ताविति धातुः । भूतानि प्राणिदेहानिन्दे
 जीवचैतन्यरूपेणान्तः प्रविश्य दीपयतीतीन्द्रः । iti | asyāyam arthaḥ | dṛ vidāraṇa iti dhātuḥ | irām annam uddīśya tan-niṣpādaka-jala-siddhy-arthaṁ dṛṇāti megham vidīrṇaṁ karotīti indraḥ |
ḍudāñ dāna iti dhātuḥ | irām annaṁ vṛṣṭi-niṣpādanena
dadātīti indraḥ | dhāñ poṣaṇārthaḥ | irām annaṁ tṛptikāraṇaṁ sasyaṁ dadhāti jala-pradānena puṣṇātīti indraḥ | irām utpādayitum karṣaka-mukhena bhūmiṁ vidārayatīti indraḥ | pūrvokta-poṣaṇa-mukhenerām dhārayati vināśarāhityena sthāpayatīti indraḥ | induḥ somo vallī-rasaḥ | tadarthaṁ yāga-bhūmau dravati dhāvatīti indraḥ | indau yathokte some ramate kṛīḍatīti indraḥ | űi-indhī dīptāv iti
dhātuḥ | bhūtāni prāṇi-dehān indhe jīva-caitanya-rūpeṇāntaḥ
praviśya dīpayatīti indraḥ |

Translation: "The sense of this is as follows. (1) The root is 'dṛ,' in the sense of splitting: aiming at irā (food), and for the sake of producing the water that produces it, he splits the cloud open — hence Indra. (2) The root is 'ḍudāñ,' to give: he gives irā, food, by bringing rain about — hence Indra. (3) The root is 'dhāñ,' for nourishing: he supports irā, food — the grain that is the cause of satiety — nourishing it by the gift of water — hence Indra. (4) To bring forth irā he splits the earth, by means of the ploughman — hence Indra. (5) By means of the nourishment mentioned above he sustains irā, he establishes it free from destruction — hence Indra. (6) 'Indu' is the Soma, the juice of the creeper: for its sake he runs,

he hastens, to the ground of the sacrifice — hence Indra. (7) He delights, he plays, in the Soma, the 'indu' as described — hence Indra. (8) The root is 'ñi-indhī,' in the sense of kindling: he kindles living beings — the bodies of creatures — by entering within them in the form of life-consciousness — hence Indra."

एतदेवाभिप्रेत्य वाजसनेयिन आमनन्ति । इन्धो ह वै नाम्येष [?] योऽयं दक्षिणेऽक्षन्पुरुषः । तं वा एतमिन्धं सन्तमिन्द्र इत्याचक्षते । परोक्षेण परोक्षप्रिया इव हि देवाः प्रत्यक्षद्विषः शत. ब्रा. १४-६-१०-२ । इति । तद्यदित्यादिकं ब्राह्मणान्तरवाक्यम् । तत्रेन्द्रविषये निर्वचनमुच्यत इति शेषः । etad evābhipretya vājasaneyina āmananti | indho ha vai nāmy eṣa [?] yo'yam dakṣiṇe'kṣan puruṣaḥ | taṃ vā etam indhaṃ santam indra ity ācakṣate | parokṣeṇa parokṣa-priyā iva hi devāḥ pratyakṣa-dviṣaḥ | śata. brā. 14-6-10-2 | iti | tad yad ity ādikaṃ brāhmaṇāntara-vākyam | tatra indra-viṣaye nirvacanam ucyata iti śeṣaḥ |

Translation: "With just this in view the Vājasaneyins (the White-Yajurveda school) declare: "Indha" indeed is the name of this person who is here in the right eye; and him, though he is "Indha," they call "Indra" — by way of indirect speech; for the gods love the indirect, and are averse to the direct." (Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa 14.6.10.2 [as read in the print]). The sentence beginning 'tad yad...' ('that which...') is from another Brāhmaṇa; the supplied sense is 'in it, an etymology concerning Indra is given.'" ²⁴

यद्यस्मात्कारणादेनं परमात्मरूपमिन्द्रं देवं प्राणैर्वाक्चक्षुरादीन्द्रियैः प्राणापानादिवायुभिश्च सहितं समैन्धन्नुपासका ध्यानेन सम्यक् प्रकाशितवन्तस्तस्मात्कारणादिन्द्रनाम संपन्नम् — अस्मिन्स्पष्ट [?] इध्यते दीप्यत इति कर्मणि व्युत्पत्तिः । आग्रायणनामको मुनिरिदंकरणादिन्द्र इति निर्वचनं मन्यते । इन्द्रो हि परमात्मरूपेणेदं जगत्करोति । औपमन्यवनामको मुनिरिदं दर्शनादिन्द्र इति निर्वचनमाह । इदमित्यापरोक्ष्यमुच्यते । विवेकेन हि परमात्मानमापरोक्ष्येण पश्यति । एतदेवाभिप्रेत्यारण्यककाण्डे समाम्नायते स एतमेव पुरुषं ब्रह्म ततमम् [?] अपश्यदिदमदर्शमितीति । तस्मादिन्द्रो नामेदन्द्रो ह वै नाम तमिन्द्रं सन्तमिन्द्र

24. Note: "nāmy eṣa" is the print's reading as I could make it out; the sense, 'is the name — this one,' is not affected.

इत्याचक्षते परोक्षेण परोक्षप्रिया इव हि देवाः ऐ. आ. २-४-३ । इति । इदि परमैश्वर्यं इति धातुः । स्वमायया जगद्रूपत्वं परमैश्वर्यम् । तद्योगादिन्द्रः । अनेनाभिप्रायेण श्रूयते । इन्द्रो... yad yasmāt kāraṇād enaṃ paramātma-rūpam indraṃ devaṃ prāṇair vāk-cakṣur-ādīndriyaiḥ prāṇāpānādi-vāyubhiḥ ca sahitaṃ samaindhann upāsakā dhyānena samyak prakāśitavantas tasmāt kāraṇād indra-nāma sampannam — asmin-spaṣṭa [?] idhyate dīpyata iti karmaṇi vyutpattiḥ | āgrāyaṇa-nāmako munir idaṃ-karaṇād indra iti nirvacanaṃ manyate | indro hi paramātma-rūpeṇedaṃ jagat karoti | aupamanyava-nāmako munir idaṃ-darśanād indra iti nirvacanaṃ āha | idam ity āparokṣyam ucyate | vivekena hi paramātmānam āparokṣyeṇa paśyati | etad evābhipretyāraṇyaka-kāṇḍe samāmnāyate sa etam eva puruṣaṃ brahma tatamam [?] apaśyad idaṃ adarśam iti3 | tasmād idandro nāmedandro ha vai nāma tam idandraṃ santam indra ity ācakṣate parokṣeṇa parokṣa-priyā iva hi devāḥ | ai. ā. 2-4-3 | iti | idi paramaiśvarya iti dhātuḥ | svamāyayā jagad-rūpatvaṃ paramaiśvaryaṃ | tad-yogād indraḥ | anenābhiprāyeṇa śrūyate | indro...

Translation: "Because the worshippers, by meditation, fully kindled this god Indra — whose form is the Supreme Self — together with the senses (vital breaths, speech, sight and the rest) and the vital airs (prāṇa, apāna and the rest), therefore the name "Indra" arose' — in this, the derivation is in the passive: 'in him [?] he is kindled, shines.' The sage named Āgrāyaṇa holds the etymology 'Indra, from idaṃ-karaṇa (making this)'; for Indra, in the form of the Supreme Self, makes this world. The sage named Aupamanyava gives the etymology 'Indra, from idaṃ-darśana (seeing this)'; 'idam' (this) here denotes direct, immediate vision — for through discrimination one sees the Supreme Self directly. With exactly this in view it is recited in the Āraṇyaka section: 'He beheld this very Person, Brahman, the all-pervading [?]: "I have seen this!"' (— and so on). Therefore he is "Idandra" by name; "Idandra" indeed is his name; and him, though he is "Idandra," they call "Indra" — by indirect speech; for the gods love the indirect' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 2.4.3 [as read in the print]). The root 'idi' means 'supreme lordship'; the supreme lordship is the becoming-the-world of him by his own māyā; by connection with this he is Indra. With this intention it is heard: 'Indra...' ^{25 26}

original p. 32

Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya concluded; Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering

इन्द्रो मायाभिः पुरुरूप ईयते ऋग्वे. ६-४७-१८ । इति इनशब्दस्येश्वरवाचकस्याकारलोपे सति नकारान्तमिन्निति पदं भवति । दृ [?] भये इति धातुः । स च परमेश्वरः शत्रूणां दारयित्वा भीषयितेतीन्द्रः । द्रु गताविति धातुः । शत्रूणां द्रावयित्वा पलायनं प्रापयितेतीन्द्रः । यज्वनां योगानुष्ठायिनामादरयिता भयस्य परिहर्ता । एवमेतानि निर्वचनानि द्रष्टव्यानीति । indro māyābhiḥ pururūpa īyate | ṛgve. 6-47-18 | iti ina-śabdasyeśvara-vācakasyākāra-lope sati nakārāntam in iti padaṃ bhavati | dṛ [?] bhaye iti dhātuḥ | sa ca paramేశvaraḥ śatrūṇāṃ dārayitvā bhīṣayitety indraḥ | dru gatāv iti dhātuḥ | śatrūṇāṃ drāvayitvā palāyanaṃ prāpayitety indraḥ | yajvanāṃ yogānuṣṭhāyinām ādarayitā bhayasya parihartā | evam etāni nirvacanāni draṣṭavyānīti |

Translation: "Indra goes forth in many forms by his māyās' (R̥gveda 6.47.18). Here the word 'ina,' denoting the Lord, on losing its 'a' becomes the word 'in,' ending in n. (9) The root is 'dṛ [?]' in the sense of fear: that Supreme Lord, tearing the enemies apart, frightens them — hence Indra. (10) The root is 'dru,' in the sense of going: he makes the enemies run, brings them to flight — hence Indra. (11) He is the honourer of the sacrificers who practise yoga, and the one who carries them across fear. In this way these etymologies are to be understood." ²⁷

25. continues on the next page

26. Page header: "Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Continuing from the previous page, where the Bhāṣya was quoting "indro..."

॥ Vyākaraṇa notes within the Bhāṣya ॥ ²⁸

इन्द्रेत्यत्रामन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । आ इत्यत्र निपातत्वेनाद्युदात्तः । चित्रभानो ।
 पदात्परत्वादामन्त्रितनिघातः । त्वामिच्छन्तीत्यर्थे युष्मच्छब्दात्सुप आत्मनः क्यच् । पा. सू.
 ३-१-८ । प्रत्ययोत्तरपदयोश्च । पा. ७-२-९८ । इति मपर्यन्तस्य त्वादेशः । क्याच्छन्दसि । पा.
 ३-२-१७० । इति क्यजन्तादुप्रत्ययः । त्वत्य इति प्राप्ते युष्मदस्मदोरनादेशे पा. ७-२-८६ ।
 इत्यविभक्तावपि हलादौ व्यत्ययेनात्त्वम् । उकारः प्रत्ययस्वरेणाद्युदात्तः । अणुशब्दः
 सौक्ष्म्यवाचकस्तद्योगात्प्रकृतेऽङ्गुलीषु वर्तते । वोटो गुणवचनात् । पा. ४-१-४४ । इति डीषि
 प्राप्ते व्यत्ययेन डीन् । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः । तना इत्ययं निपातो नित्यमित्यर्थे निपातत्वादाद्युदात्तः । पूतासः । आज्जसेरसुक् । पा. ७-१-५० । इत्यसुक् । indretyatrāmantritādyudāttatvam | ā ity atra
nipātatvenādyudāttaḥ | citrabhāno | padāt paratvād
āmantrita-nighātaḥ | tvām icchantīty arthe yuṣmac-chabdāt
sup ātmanah kyac | pā. sū. 3-1-8 | pratyayottarapadayoś ca |
pā. 7-2-98 | iti ma-paryantasya tvādeśaḥ | kyāc chandasi | pā.
3-2-170 | iti kyajantād u-pratyayaḥ | tvatya iti prāpte
yuṣmadasmador anādeśe pā. 7-2-86 | ity avibhaktāv api
halādaḥ vyatyayenāttvam | ukāraḥ pratyaya-svarenādyudāttaḥ | aṇu-śabdaḥ saukṣmya-vācakaḥ tad-yogāt prakṛte 'ṅguliṣu vartate | voto guṇavacanāt | pā. 4-1-44 | iti
nīṣi prāpte vyatyayena nīn | nīttvād ādyudāttaḥ | tanā ity
ayam nipāto nityam ity arthe nipātatvād ādyudāttaḥ | pūtāsaḥ
| āj-jaser asuk | pā. 7-1-50 | ity asuk |

Translation: "In 'indra' (here a vocative) the first syllable is acute by the vocative rule. 'Ā' is a particle (nipāta), hence acute on its first syllable. 'Citrabhāno' — because it follows another word, the vocative loses its accent (nighāta). 'Tvāyavaḥ' — in the sense 'those who desire you': from the word 'yuṣmad,' the affix 'kyac' after a 'sup'-ending word in the sense of 'one's own wish' (Pāṇini 3.1.8); the substitute 'tva' replaces the stem up to its 'm' (Pāṇini

27. Reading notes: the Ṛgveda reference is read from the print as "6-47-18"; the print's root-name before "bhaye" is unclear — "dṛ" is my best reading, and the sense is not affected.

28. short; transcribed in full

7.2.98 'pratyayottarapadayoś ca'); then, by 'kyāc chandasi' (Pāṇini 3.2.170), the affix 'u' after a word ending in 'kyac'; where 'tvatya...' would be obtained, the 'a'-substitution takes place by vyatyaya (Vedic licence) even before a non-case-affix beginning with a consonant, per Pā. 7.2.86. The 'u' is acute by the accent of the affix. — 'Aṇvī': the word 'aṇu' denotes fineness; through that association it is applied to the fingers in the present context. Where, by Pā. 4.1.44 ("vāto guṇavacanāt"), the feminine affix ṇīṣ would be expected, 'ṇīn' appears by vyatyaya; since it carries the mark 'n,' the first syllable is acute. 'Tanā' is a particle with the sense 'constantly'; being a particle, first-syllable acute. 'Pūtāsaḥ' — the augment 'asuk' after the 'jas' ending, by Pā. 7.1.50 ('ājjaser asuk')."²⁹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥³⁰

चित्रभानो (citrabhāno) — O Indra, who shine with a wonderful, marvellous radiance | आ याहि (ā yāhi) — come (to this sacrificial altar which we are performing) | त्वायवः (tvāyavaḥ) — that which you desire (or: which is dear to you) | इमे सुताः (ime sutāḥ) — these Soma-juices (those extracted by crushing the Soma creeper) | अण्वीभिः (aṇvībhiḥ) — by the fingers (of the priests) (or: by the cloth called the "daśā-pavitra," with which Soma-juice is filtered) | तना (tanā) — always | पूतासः (pūtāsaḥ) — having been purified, are fit to be drunk.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

²⁹. Reading note, revised at p. 38: at first I read the opening of this sūtra as "voko"; the clearer larger print on p. 38 reads "voto guṇavacanāt" (Pā. 4-1-44), and the text above has been changed to that.

³⁰. Kannada, translated

O Indra, who shine with wondrous splendour! The priests have prepared the Soma-juice that is dear to you (or, "for your sake") — filtering it well with their fingers (or with a cloth like a fine net), so that it is fit for drinking. To drink that Soma-juice, may you come to this sacrificial altar of ours.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Come hither, O Indra, of wonderful splendour; these libations of soma juice, ever pure, expressed by the fingers of the priests are deserious [sic — the source's own misprint, evidently for 'desirous'] of you."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This Rik and the following two are an "aindra-str̥caḥ" — that is, a ṭṛca (triplet) related to Indra: three mantras that praise Indra. ³¹

original p. 33

Kannada commentary: the etymologies of "Indra" (opening)

इन्द्र (indra) — The Bhāṣyakāra, when explaining the derivation of the word "Indra," cites Yāska's Nirukta: "इन्द्र इरां दृणातीति वेरां ददातीति वेरां दधातीति वेरां दारयतीति वेरां धारयतीति वेन्दवे द्रवतीति वेन्दौ रमत इति वेन्द्रे भूतानीति वा तद्यदेनं प्राणैः समैन्धंस्तदिन्द्रस्येन्द्रत्वमिति विज्ञायत इदंकरणादित्याग्रायण इदं दर्शनादित्यौपमन्यव

31. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." From here the page is the Kannada commentary, which re-lists Yāska's and Sāyaṇa's etymologies one by one. The Sanskrit lemmas it quotes repeat what was already transcribed on pp. 31–32 and are given here in short form, in all three layers.

इन्देर्वैश्वर्यकर्मण [?] इभ्रूत्रूणां [?] दारयिता वा द्रावयिता वादरयिता च यज्वनाम् । इति ॥ नि. १०-८ ॥" ³² — The commentator himself then gives the sense of this, as follows. ³³

(1) "dṛ vidāraṇe iti dhātuḥ | irām annam uddiśya tan-niṣpādaka-jala-siddhy-arthaṃ dṛṇāti megham vidīrṇaṃ karotīti indraḥ" (दृ विदारण इति धातुः । इरामन्नमुद्दिश्य तन्निष्पादकजलसिद्ध्यर्थं दृणाति मेघं विदीर्णं करोतीतीन्द्रः)

— The root "dṛ" means to tear, to cut. "Irā" means food (āhāra); we obtain it from plants and trees — that is, from the plant kingdom. For that plant kingdom to grow, water is necessary. For the sake of that water — that is, for rain to fall — he cuts open the cloud (with lightning, the thunderbolt-weapon). Because he does so, the name "Indra" arose.

(2) "ḍudāñ dāna iti dhātuḥ | irām annaṃ vṛṣṭi-niṣpādanena dadātīti indraḥ" (डुदाञ् दान इति धातुः । इरामन्नं वृष्टिनिष्पादनेन ददातीतीन्द्रः) — The root "dā" means to give. "Irā" means food. Because he gives food by means of rain, he is called Indra.

(3) "dhāñ poṣaṇārthaḥ | irām annaṃ tṛpti-kāraṇaṃ sasyaṃ dadhātī jala-pradānena puṣṇātīti indraḥ" (धाञ् पोषणार्थः । इरामन्नं तृप्तिकारणं सस्यं दधाति जलप्रदानेन पुष्णातीतीन्द्रः) — The root "dhā" means to nourish. Because he nourishes the crops and the like that yield food, by the gift of water (rain), he is called Indra.

32. indra irām dṛṇātīti verām dadātīti verām dadhātīti verām dārayatīti verām dhārayatīti vendave dravatīti vendau ramata iti vendhe bhūtānīti vā tad yad enaṃ prāṇaiḥ samaindhaṃs tad indrasyndratvam iti vijñāyata idaṃ-karaṇād ity āgrāyaṇa idaṃ darśanād ity aupamanyava inder vaiśvarya-karmaṇa [?] ibhrūtrūṇaṃ [?] dārayitā vā drāvayitā vādarayitā ca yajvanām | iti || ni. 10-8 ||

33. Reading note: the same unclear stretch — "...karmaṇa ibhrū-trūṇaṃ..." — appears here as on p. 31, in slightly different letter-forms. Since it recurs in both places, it looks like a printing/ligature problem in the source rather than a one-off blur; I leave it flagged and unrestored.

(4) "irām utpādayituṃ karṣaka-mukhena bhūmiṃ vidārayatīti indraḥ" (इरामुत्पादयितुं कर्षकमुखेन भूमिं विदारयतीतीन्द्रः) — For food to be produced, the land must be ploughed. While the land is being ploughed, he makes it split open by the plough and makes it favourable to the crop. Because he does this, he is called Indra.

(5) "pūrvokta-poṣaṇa-mukhenerām dhārayati vināśa-rāhityena sthāpayatīti indraḥ" (पूर्वोक्तपोषणमुखेनेराम धारयति विनाशराहित्येन स्थापयतीतीन्द्रः) — As said before, having nourished the crops and the like, he becomes their protector, so that they do not perish. Because of this, he is called Indra.

(6) "induh somo vallī-rasaḥ | tad-arthaṃ yāga-bhūmau dravati dhāvatīti indraḥ" (इन्दुः सोमो वल्लीरसः । तदर्थं यागभूमौ द्रवति धावतीतीन्द्रः) — "Indu" means the Soma-juice prepared from the Soma creeper. ³⁴

35

original p. 34

Kannada commentary: etymologies of "Indra" (continued)

³⁶ ... "Having come, hastening — running swiftly — to such a place, for the sake of drinking the Soma, he is called Indra."

(7) "indau yathokte some ramate krīḍatīti indraḥ" (इन्दौ यथोक्ते सोमे रमते क्रीडतीतीन्द्रः) — Because he, satisfied by the Soma-juice just described, disports himself in delight, he is called Indra.

(8) "ñi-indhī dīptāv iti dhātuḥ | bhūtāni prāṇi-dehān indhe jīva-caitanya-rūpeṇāntaḥ praviśya dīpayatīti indraḥ" (जिइन्धी दीप्ताविति धातुः । भूतानि प्राणिदेहानिन्दे जीवचैतन्यरूपेणान्तः प्रविश्य दीपयतीतीन्द्रः) — The root "indh"

34. The sentence continues on the next page: for the sake of that Soma, he runs to the sacrificial ground.

means to shine, to illumine. Entering the bodies of living beings in the form of consciousness (caitanya), and impelling them to do each of their own deeds, he shines within them; hence he is called Indra.

(9) "yad yasmāt kārāṇād enaṃ paramātma-rūpam indraṃ devaṃ prāṇair vāk-caṣṭur-ādīndriyaiḥ prāṇāpānādi-vāyubhiś ca sahitaṃ samaindhann upāsakā dhyānena samyak prakāśitavantas tasmāt kārāṇād indra-nāma sampannam" (यद्यस्मात्कारणादेनं परमात्मरूपमिन्द्रं देवं प्राणैर्वाक्चक्षुरादीन्द्रियैः प्राणापानादिवायुभिश्च सहितं समैन्धन्नुपासका ध्यानेन सम्यक्प्रकाशितवन्तस्तस्मात्कारणादिन्द्रनाम संपन्नम्) — Because worshippers, in meditation, bring this god — whose form is the Supreme Self — to shine forth well, as joined with the vital breaths, with the senses of speech, sight and the rest, and with the vital airs prāṇa, apāna and the rest, the name "Indra" came about.

(10) "āgrāyaṇa-nāmako munir idaṃ-karaṇād indra iti nirvacanaṃ manyate | indro hi paramātma-rūpeṇedaṃ jagat karoti" (आग्रायणनामको मुनिरिदंकरणादिन्द्र इति निर्वचनं मन्यते । इन्द्रो हि परमात्मरूपेणेदं जगत्करोति) — "Idaṃ-karaṇa" ("making this") means: in the form of the Supreme Self, Indra creates (brings forth) this world; and so, says the sage named Āgrāyaṇa, this god received the name Indra.

(11) "aupamanyava-nāmako munir idaṃ-darśanād indra iti nirvacanaṃ āha | idaṃ ity āparokṣyam ucyate" (औपमन्यवनामको मुनिरिदंदर्शनादिन्द्र इति निर्वचनमाह । इदमित्यापरोक्ष्यमुच्यते) — The sage named Aupamanyava says that, because he sees "idaṃ" — that is, everything — the name Indra came about. Here "idaṃ" means "āparokṣya": what is directly present, plain before the eyes

35. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

Correction note: this page prints the clause "prāṇair vāk-caṣṭur-ādīndriyaiḥ" legibly; on p. 31 the first word of that clause was blurred and was provisionally read "pānyaiḥ [?]". The p. 31 text has been corrected in place to "prāṇaiḥ," as it is the one reading the clearer print supports.

36. Continuation of (6):

(pratyakṣa), as opposed to hidden.³⁷ it is precisely for this reason that the Śruti says "parokṣa-priyā iva hi devāḥ" (परोक्षप्रिया इव हि देवाः — "the gods are fond of the indirect, as it were").

(12) "idi paramaiśvarya iti dhātuḥ | sva-māyayā jagad-rūpatvaṃ paramaiśvaryaṃ | tad-yogād indraḥ" (इदि परमैश्वर्य इति धातुः । स्वमायया जगद्रूपत्वं परमैश्वर्यं । तद्योगादिन्द्रः) — The root "idi" carries the sense "supreme lordship." This god, through his own māyā, has the supreme lordship of taking the form of the world...³⁸

original p. 35

Etymologies of "Indra" concluded; the word "citrabhānu" begins

³⁹ ... "...which is the supreme lordship; hence this god is named Indra. This sense is supported by the Vedic sentence 'indro māyābhiḥ pururūpa īyate' (इन्द्रो मायाभिः पुरुरूप ईयते — 'Indra goes about in many forms by his māyās,' R̥g. Saṃ. 6-47-18)."

(13) "ina-śabdasyeśvara-vācakasyākāra-lope sati nakārāntam in iti padaṃ bhavati | dṛ bhaye iti dhātuḥ | sa ca parameśvaraḥ śatrūṇāṃ dārayitā bhīṣayitety indraḥ" (इनशब्दस्येश्वरवाचकस्याकारलोपे सति नकारान्तमिन्निति पदं भवति । दृ भये इति धातुः । स च परमेश्वरः शत्रूणां दारयिता भीषयितेतीन्द्रः) — The word "ina" denotes the Lord. When the "a" following the "n" of this word "ina" is dropped, the form "in" remains. The root⁴⁰ means fear. That god, being the Supreme Lord, frightens the enemies; hence his name Indra.

37. The commentary adds:

38. Correction note: on p. 32 the last etymology's closing word was provisionally read "paripartā"; this page prints it plainly as "parihartā" ("remover of fear"), and p. 32 has been corrected in place.

39. Continuation of (12):

40. read here as "dṛ"

(14) "dru gatāv iti dhātuḥ | śatrūṇāṃ drāvayitā palāyanam prāpayitety indraḥ" (द्रु गताविति धातुः । शत्रूणां द्रावयिता पलायनं प्रापयितेतीन्द्रः) —

The root "dru" means going — that is, to go, to run away. This god makes enemies flee; hence he is named Indra.

(15) "yajvanām yogānuṣṭhāyinām ādarayitā bhayasya parihartā" (यज्वनां योगानुष्ठायिनामादरयिता भयस्य परिहर्ता) — Because he honours those who worship him with sacrifices and the like (and who practise yoga), and removes their fear, this god is named Indra.

In just this fashion many more etymologies of the word "Indra" may be devised.

चित्रभानो (citrabhāno) — The Bhāṣyakāra, Skandasvāmī, Veṅkaṭamādhava and the Western scholars as well all explain this word as "one who shines with a wondrous (vicitra) or astonishing radiance." There is no notable difference of opinion among them. The word "citrabhānu" is used with reference to the deities Agni, Indra, Savitr and the Maruts. The Ṛks containing the word are given below.⁴¹

विभक्तासि चित्रभानो सिन्धोरूर्मा उ पाके आ । (ऋ. सं. १-२२-६ [?]) vibhaktāsi citrabhāno sindhor ūrmā u pāke ā | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-22-6 [?]) Gloss: "O wondrously radiant one, you are the apportioner (distributor) ... like the wave of the river, near at hand." [tentative]

तं त्वा घृतस्नवीमहे चित्रभानो स्वर्दृशम् । (ऋ. सं. ५-२६-२ [?]) taṃ tvā ghṛtasnavīmahe citrabhāno svar-dṛśam | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-26-2 [?]) Gloss: "Thee, O wondrously radiant one, who seest the heaven (or: art seen in heaven), we, with ghee-streams, entreat." [tentative]

41. The source prints these citations without translation. The short English glosses are mine, based on the Devanagari read from the page; where a letter or a reference-number was not clear in the print it is marked [?].

तं त्वा यमो अचिकेच्चित्रभानो दशान्तरुष्यादतिरोचमानम् । (ऋ. सं. १०-५१-३ [?]) taṃ tvā yamo acikec citrabhāno daśāntar uṣyād atirocamānam | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-51-3 [?]) Gloss: "Thee, O wondrously radiant one — Yama made known (to the gods) ... thee who shonest forth exceedingly." [tentative; the middle phrase "daśāntar uṣyāt" is not rendered with confidence]

समनं चिददहश्चित्रभानोऽव ब्राधन्तमभिनद्धश्चित् । (ऋ. सं. १०-६१-११ [?]) samanam cid adahaś citrabhāno 'va vrādhantam abhinad vṛdhaś cit | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-69-11 [?]) Gloss: not attempted with confidence — the printed words, as I read them, do not yield a sure sense; I give the text only. [?]

[?]यो अग्निश्चित्रभानुर्हवं मे विश्वाभिर्गीर्भिरमृतो विचेताः । (ऋ. सं. ३-१०-३ [?]) [?]yo agnis citrabhānur havaṃ me viśvābhir gīrbhir amṛto vicetāḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-10-3 [?]) Gloss: "...Agni, the wondrously radiant, immortal, all-discerning, [hearken] to my call, with all my songs." [tentative; the opening word is not legible to me]

चित्रभानुरुषसां भात्यग्रेऽपां गर्भः प्रस्व आ विवेश । (ऋ. सं. ७-९-३ [?]) citrabhānur uṣasām bhāty agre 'pām garbhaḥ prasva ā viveśa | (ṛ. saṃ. 7-9-3 [?]) Gloss: "The wondrously radiant one shines at the head of the dawns; the embryo of the waters, he has entered into the child-bearing [creatures/plants?]." [tentative]

original p. 36

"citrabhānu" citations concluded; word-notes on "sutāḥ," "tvāyavaḥ," "aṇvībhiḥ," "tanā" (opening)

42

42. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." The glosses below are mine; the source prints these citations without translation. [?] marks a letter or reference-number not clearly legible.

चित्रभानुं रोदसी अन्तरुर्वी स्वाहुतं विश्वतः प्रत्यञ्चम् । (ऋ. सं. ७-१२-१ [?]) citrabhānuṃ rodasī antar urvī svāhutaṃ viśvataḥ pratyāñcam | (ṛ. saṃ. 7-12-1 [?]) Gloss: "Agni, the wondrously radiant, within the two wide worlds (heaven and earth), well-oblated, facing in every direction." [tentative]

मन्द्रं होतारमृत्विजं चित्रभानुं विभावसुम् । (ऋ. सं. ८-४४-६ [?]) mandraṃ hotāraṃ ṛtvijaṃ citrabhānuṃ vibhāvasum | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-44-6 [?]) Gloss: "The gladdening Hotṛ, the priest, the wondrously radiant, the shining-wealthy one." [tentative]

In these Ṛks the word "citrabhānu" praises Agni.

आस्थाद्रथं सविता चित्रभानुः कृष्णा रजांसि तविषीं दधानः । (ऋ. सं. १-३५-४) āsthād
rathaṃ savitā citrabhānuḥ kṛṣṇā rajāṃsi taviṣīm dadhānaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-35-4) Gloss: "Savitṛ, wondrously radiant, has mounted his chariot, bearing power over the dark realms."

Here the word is an adjective of the deity Savitr.

महिषासो मायिनश्चित्रभानवो गिरयो न स्वतवसो रघुष्यदः । (ऋ. सं. १-६४-२) mahiṣāso māyinaś citrabhānavo girayo na svatavaso raghuṣyadaḥ | (ṛ.
 saṃ. 1-64-2) Gloss: "Mighty, possessed of māyā, wondrously radiant, like mountains self-strong, swift-gliding."

आ गच्छन्तीमवसा चित्रभानवः कामं विप्रस्य तर्पयन्त धामभिः । (ऋ. सं. १-८५-११) ā gacchantīm avasā citrabhānavaḥ kāmam viprasya tarpayanta dhāmabhiḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-85-11) Gloss: "The wondrously radiant ones, coming with their aid, satisfy the sage's desire with their powers."

Here the word "citrabhānavaḥ" refers to the Marut deities.

सुतः (sutāḥ) — The word "sutāḥ" means "pressed out, extracted."
सोमः (somāḥ) — the words "Soma-juices" must be supplied (adhyāhāra).

त्वायवः (tvāyavaḥ)

— This word is the nominative plural and is an adjective of "sutāḥ." Here "tvā" means "yuṣmat" ("your / belonging to you").

अण्विभिः (aṇvībhiḥ) — This word, which ends in the instrumental plural, is used only in this Ṛk. ⁴³ Among the twenty-two words that denote "aṅguli" (finger), the word "aṇvī" is read (Nighaṇṭu 2-5 [print: "ni. 2-5"]). The Bhāṣyakāra and the others also all explain this word as "fingers." Because the word is derived from "aṇu" (very small, fine), some think that the word means "a cloth with many fine openings — a net — used to strain the Soma." But when the Soma creeper is crushed with the stones (grāvāṇa), fingers must be used in straining it; so to say "aṇvībhiḥ sutāḥ" — "the juice extracted with the fingers" — is right. Moreover, since "pūtāsaḥ" already carries the sense "purified," "purified with fingers" and "purified with a net-like cloth" are equally fitting. This is why some accept the sense "with a net-like cloth" for "aṇvībhiḥ." But because the Nirukta states plainly that "aṇvī" is a word for the fingers, this sense in particular is to be accepted.

तना (tanā) — The Bhāṣyakāra calls this word an indeclinable (avyaya) and gives it the sense "always" (yāvāgalū). Apart from that sense, different senses are given in different places. Skanda[svāmī]... ⁴⁴

original p. 37

"tanā" (Skandasvāmī and Soma-passages); "pūtāsaḥ";
Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā begins

⁴⁵ ... Skandasvāmī, when giving the meaning of this word, says:

43. The print says "caturthī-bahuvacana-anta"— "ending in the dative plural" — but "-bhiḥ" is the instrumental plural; this is evidently a slip in the source and is recorded here, not corrected silently.

44. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Reference-numbers in the verse citations below were printed in small Kannada numerals; where I could not be sure of a digit, the reference is marked [?]. The English glosses are mine; the source gives none for these.

45. Continuing the note on "tanā" from p. 36:

तनाशब्दो दशापवित्रवचनः । अण्वीभिर्दशापवित्रेण च पूताः । हस्तेन दशापवित्रमादाय पूता इत्यर्थः ॥ *tanā-śabdo daśā-pavitra-vacanaḥ | aṇvībhir daśā-pavitreṇa ca pūtāḥ | hastena daśā-pavitram ādāya pūtā ity
arthaḥ* ||

Translation:

"The word 'tanā' denotes the daśā-pavitra (the fringed straining-cloth). (The Soma-juices are) purified both by the fingers and by the daśā-pavitra; the meaning is 'purified by taking the daśā-pavitra in the hand.'"

That is, the word "tanā" has the name "daśā-pavitra" (a cloth like a net, used for straining the Soma). Hence the sentence "aṇvībhis tanā pūtāsaḥ" is said to mean "purified by the fingers taking up the cloth and cleansing [the juice]."

This sense alone is apt.

Although "tanā" has many possible senses, it is most fitting to take "daśā-pavitra" when the word is used in connection with Soma-juice. On this point we give some examples from the Ninth Maṇḍala, where the usages concern Soma:

वरेण शश्वता तना । (ऋ. सं. ९-१-६) vāreṇa śaśvatā tanā | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-1-6)
Gloss: "through the ever-[lasting] sieve (of wool), the 'tanā'."

त्वं सोम विपश्चितं तना पुनान आयुषु । (ऋ. सं. ९-१६-८ [?]) tvam soma vipaścitaṃ tanā punāna āyusu | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-16-8 [?]) Gloss:
"You, O Soma, being purified through the 'tanā,' among the (human) tribes, [make] the wise one..." [tentative; the middle of the line is not rendered with confidence]

प्र सुवानो धारया तनेन्दुर्हिन्वानो अर्षति । (ऋ. सं. ९-३४-१ [?]) pra suvāno dhārayā tanendur hinvāno arṣati | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-34-1 [?]) Gloss:
"Pressed, the Soma-drop, being impelled, flows forth in a stream through the 'tanā.'"

सहस्रधारो योत् [?] तना । (ऋ. सं. ९-५२-२ [?]) sahasra-dhāro yot [?] tanā | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-52-2 [?]) Gloss: not attempted — the word "yot" is doubtful as printed.

आययोस्त्रिंशत् [?] तना सहस्राणि च ददाहे । (ऋ. सं. ९-५८-४ [?]) āyayos triṃśataṃ [?] tanā sahasrāṇi ca dadmahe | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-58-4 [?]) Gloss: "...thirty... through the 'tanā,' and thousands we give." [tentative; the first word is doubtful]

तना कृण्वन्तो अर्वते । (ऋ. सं. ९-६२-२ [?]) tanā kṛṇvanto arvate | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-62-2 [?]) Gloss: "making [the juice] by means of the 'tanā' for the swift horse (i.e., Indra's)." [tentative]

जहाति वरिं पितुरेति निष्कृतमुपप्रुतं कृणुते निर्णिजं तना । (ऋ. सं. ९-७१-२ [?]) jahāti vavriṃ pitur eti niṣkṛtam upaprutam kṛṇute nirṇijam tanā | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-71-2 [?]) Gloss: "He leaves his covering, goes to his father's appointed place; having flowed, he makes his (bright) garment through the 'tanā.'" [tentative]

पिबन्ति मित्रो अर्यमा तना पूतस्य वरुणः । (ऋ. सं. ८-९४-३ [?]) pibanti mitro aryamā tanā pūtasya varuṇaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-94-3 [?]) Gloss: "Mitra, Aryaman and Varuṇa drink the juice purified through the 'tanā.'" [tentative]

46

In all of these places it is apt to take the word "tanā" as "daśā-pavitra" — in the source's own English parenthesis, "(a fringed filtering cloth)."

46. The reference "8-94-3" is as best I could read it; the verse is cited among the Soma-passages although the number begins with "8," which I flag rather than alter.

पूतसः (pūtāsaḥ) — "Pūtāsaḥ" is an archaic (prācīna) usage of the nominative plural. This form is found only in this Ṛk, nowhere else. The form "pūtāḥ" (without the "-asaḥ") occurs in these Ṛks: Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-29-10 [?]; 9-22-3 [?]; 9-101-12 [?]; 10-19-2 [?] ⁴⁷. In meaning, there is no difference whatever between the two forms.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

In "indra" the vocative accent — acute on the first syllable — occurs. "Ā" is a nipāta (particle); therefore, by "nipātā ādyudāttāḥ" (Phiṭ-sūtra 80 [?] as printed), it takes acute on its first syllable. "Citrabhāno" being a vocative that stands after another word, takes the eighth-chapter vocative-anudātta (aṣṭamika āmantritānudātta). When one wishes to express "tvām icchati" ("he wants you"), by the rule "supa ātmanaḥ kyac" (Pā. Sū. 3-1-8) ... ^{48 49}

original p. 38

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.4 concluded; Saṃhitā and Pada text of Rik 3.5

⁵⁰ ...the "kyac" affix is added to the word "yuṣmad." By "pratyayottarapadayoś ca" (Pā. Sū. 7-2-98) — when an affix, or a following second member of a compound, that conveys unity of sense (ekārtha) follows, then for the stems "yuṣmad" and "asmad," the portion up to "m" (that is, "yuṣm" and "asm") is replaced respectively by "tva" and "ma." So when the "tva" substitution applies, we have "tva + ad + ya"; by "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97) the latter form ("pararūpa") results, giving "tvadya." Next, by "kyāc chandasi" (Pā. Sū. 3-2-170) — in the Veda, the affix "u" is

⁴⁷. digits of these four references are not clearly legible

⁴⁸. continues on the next page; this is the Kannada rendering of the grammar already transcribed in Sanskrit on p. 32

⁴⁹. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." This is the Kannada rendering of the grammar already given in Sanskrit on p. 32; translated here in full, since it is short.

⁵⁰. Continuing from p. 37:

added after a root that ends in the "kya" affix; when "u" is added the "a" of the "kya" affix is elided, and in the plural one would expect "tvadyavaḥ." But by "yuṣmadasmador anādeṣe" (Pā. Sū. 7-2-86), the stems "yuṣmad" and "asmad" that have not undergone substitution take the substitute "ā" when a consonant-beginning affix that is not a case-ending follows; by vyatyaya (Vedic licence), the "ā" substitute comes even where the following affix is not a case-affix, so that one gets "tva + ā + yu," and by lengthening of the homogeneous vowels (savarṇa-dīrgha) and the nominative-plural ending, "tvāyavaḥ." The "u" affix has the first-syllable acute by the affix-accent.

The word "aṇu" conveys "sūkṣma" (fine, subtle). With the sense of fineness in mind, it conveys in this context the sense "finger." Since it is a guṇavācaka (a word of quality), by "vāto guṇavacanāt" (Pā. Sū. 4-1-44) the feminine affix "ñīṣ" comes optionally after a quality-word ending in "u"; where "ñīṣ" was due, here by vyatyaya the affix "ñīn" comes. Since it is "n"-marked, the accent is on the first syllable.

"Tanā": this is a particle (nipāta) in the sense "nitya" (always); being a nipāta, its first syllable is acute.

In "pūtāsaḥ," by "ājjaser asuk" (Pā. Sū. 7-1-50), the "jas" ending that comes after a stem ending in "a" takes the augment "asuk"; with the "asuk" augment we get "pūtāsas," and with "ru"-substitution and visarga, "pūtāsaḥ." ||8|| ⁵¹

51. Accent-notation note: in the Kannada print, the Saṃhitā and Pada texts carry accent-marks — short vertical strokes above, horizontal lines beneath — whose precise conventions I could not convert to Devanagari accent-signs with confidence. For this rik and the following ones, the syllables are transcribed exactly as printed and the accent-marks are not reproduced. Earlier pages of this volume give accent-signs in the Saṃhitā text; this is a known inconsistency, recorded here rather than guessed at.

Sūkta 3, The Fifth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रा याहि धियेषितो विप्रजूतः सुतावतः । उप ब्रह्माणि वाघतः ॥५॥

*indrā yāhi dhiyeṣito viprajūtaḥ sutāvataḥ | upa brahmāṇi
vāghataḥ || 5 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ^{52 53}

इन्द्र । आ । याहि । धिया । इषितः । विप्रजूतः । सुतावतः । उप । ब्रह्माणि । वाघतः ॥५॥

original p. 39

Sūkta 3, Fifth Mantra: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र त्वमा याहि । अस्मिन्कर्मण्यागच्छ । किमर्थम् । वाघत ऋत्विजो ब्रह्माणि वेदरूपाणि
स्तोत्राण्युपैतुम् । कीदृशस्त्वम् । धियोऽस्मदीययाया [?] प्रज्ञयेषितः प्राप्तः । अस्मद्भक्त्या
प्रेरित इत्यर्थः । विप्रजूतः । यथा यजमानभक्त्या प्रेरितस्तथान्यैरपि विप्रैर्मधाविभिर्ऋत्विग्भिः प्रेरितः । कीदृशस्य वाघतः । सुतावतः अभिषुतसोमयुक्तस्य ॥ *he indra tvam ā yāhi | asmin karmaṇy āgaccha | kim artham | vāghata ṛtvijo brahmāṇi veda-rūpāṇi stotrāṇy upaitum | kīdṛśas tvam |
dhiyo 'smadīyayā [?] prajñayeṣitaḥ prāptaḥ | asmad-bhaktyā
prerita ity arthaḥ | viprajūtaḥ | yathā yajamāna-bhaktyā preritas tathānyair api viprair medhāvibhir ṛtvigbhiḥ preritaḥ
| kīdṛśasya vāghataḥ | sutāvataḥ abhiṣuta-soma-yuktasya |*

52. Reading note: in the Pada text the print shows "viprajūtaḥ" with a faint mark between "vipra" and "jūtaḥ" — probably the avagraha-division of the compound ("vipra-jūtaḥ") — and "sutāvataḥ" with a similar faint division; I give the words undivided, as I cannot make out the dividing signs. The Pada text of the printed page also reads "dhiyā iṣitaḥ" for the Saṃhitā's "dhiyeṣito."

53. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script; it is rendered letter by letter into Devanagari/IAST. [?] marks places where the print is garbled or the reading uncertain.

Translation: "O Indra, come here. Come to this rite. For what purpose? To approach the 'brahmāṇi' — the Veda-form praise-hymns — of the Vāghata, the priests. What kind are you? 'Dhiyā iṣitaḥ' — reached (prāptaḥ), moved, by our understanding; that is, impelled by our devotion. 'Viprajūtaḥ' — as you are impelled by the sacrificer's devotion, so you are also impelled by other 'vipras' — wise priests (ṛtvijaḥ). Of what sort of Vāghata? 'Sutāvataḥ' — of one who has Soma pressed out and ready." ⁵⁴

केत इत्यादिष्वेकादशसु प्रज्ञानामसु धीरिति पठितम् । चतुर्विंशतिसंख्याकेषु मेधाविनामसु
विप्रो धीर इति पठितम् । भरता इत्यादिष्वष्ट [?] ऋत्विङ्नामसु वाघत इति पठितम् । keta ity ādiṣv ekādaśasu prajñā-nāmasu dhīr iti paṭhitam | catur- viṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu medhāvi-nāmasu vipro dhīra iti paṭhitam | bharatā ity ādiṣv aṣṭa [?] ṛtvik-nāmasu vāghata iti
paṭhitam |

Translation: "Among the eleven names for 'understanding' beginning with 'keta' (in the Nighaṇṭu), 'dhī' is read. Among the twenty-four names for 'the wise,' 'vipra' and 'dhīra' are read. Among the names of the ṛtvij (priest) beginning with 'bharatāḥ,' 'vāghataḥ' is read." ⁵⁵

॥ Grammar within the Bhāṣya ॥ ⁵⁶

इषित इत्यत्रैष गताविल्यस्मान्निष्ठायामिडागमः । आगमा अनुदात्ताः । म. ३-१-३-२ [?] ।
इतीदोऽनुदात्तत्वात्कतस्वरः शिष्यते । विप्रजूतः । डुवप् बीजतन्तुसंताने इति
धातोर्ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रवज्रविप्रेत्यादिना । उ. २-२८ । रन्प्रत्ययान्तो विप्रशब्दो निपातितः ।
निपातनादुपधाया इकारो लघूपधगुणाभावश्च । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः । तैर्जूतः । प्राप्तः । जू इति
सौत्रो धातुर्गत्यर्थः । श्र्युकः किति । पा. ७-२-११ । इतीट्प्रतिषेधः । तृतीया कर्मणि । पा.

54. Reading note: the print before "prajñāyā" reads as something like "dhiyo 'smadiyayā..."; I could not settle the exact letters and mark them [?]. The sense — "by our (priestly) understanding" — agrees with the Kannada Pada-meaning below.

55. Reading note: the count of the ṛtvij-names after "ādiṣu" is garbled in the print — something like "aṣṭa-" — so I give no number. The print has "ṛtvijñāmasu"; I take it to be "ṛtvik-nāmasu," names of priests.

56. short; given in full

६-२-४८ । इति पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सुतावतः । छान्दसं दीर्घत्वम् ।
 मतुपोऽनुदात्तत्वात्कृतप्रत्ययस्वर एव शिष्यते । ब्रह्माणि । नब्बिषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्याद्युदात्तः । वाघतशब्द [?] ऋचिङ्नामसु पठितः प्रातिपदिकस्वरः ॥ iṣita ity atra iṣa gatāv
ity asmān niṣṭhāyām iḍ-āgamaḥ | āgamā anudāttāḥ | ma.
 3-1-3-2 [?] | itīto 'nudāttatvāt kta-svaraḥ śiṣyate | viprajūtaḥ |
ḍuvap bīja-tantu-saṃtāne iti dhātor ṛjrendrāgra-vajra-viprety ādinā | u. 2-28 | ran-pratyayānto vipra-śabdo nipātitaḥ |
nipātanād upadhāyā ikāro laghūpadha-guṇābhāvaś ca |
nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | tair jūtaḥ | prāptaḥ | jū iti sautro dhātur
gaty-arthaḥ | śryukaḥ kiti | pā. 7-2-11 | itīṭ-pratiṣedhaḥ |
ṛṭṭiyā karmaṇi | pā. 6-2-48 | iti pūrva-pada-prakṛti-svaratvam
| sutāvataḥ | chāndasaṃ dīrghatvam | matupo 'nudāttatvāt kta-pratyaya-svara eva śiṣyate | brahmāṇi | nabviṣayasyānisantasyety ādyudāttaḥ | vāghata-śabda [?] ṛtvik-
nāmasu paṭhitaḥ prātipadika-svaraḥ | |

Translation: "In 'iṣita,' the root is 'iṣ' (to go): in the niṣṭhā (the 'kta' affix) the augment 'it' comes. Augments are anudātta (unaccented) ('āgamā anudāttāḥ'; the source reference as printed is 'ma. 3-1-3-2' [?]); since the 'it' is thus unaccented, the accent of the 'kta' affix remains. — 'Viprajūtaḥ': from the root 'ḍuvap' (to sow, to spread out threads), by 'ṛjrendrāgra-vajra-vipra-...' (Uṇādisūtra 2-28) the word 'vipra' is formed with the affix 'ran' by nipātana (irregular formation); by nipātana the penultimate becomes 'i' and the guṇa of a light penultimate does not occur; because it carries the mark 'n,' the first syllable is acute. 'Jūtaḥ' = 'tair jūtaḥ' — gone to / reached by them. 'Jū' is a sautra root (one drawn from the sūtras), in the sense of 'going'; by 'śryukaḥ kiti' (Pāṇini 7-2-11) the augment 'it' is barred. With the rule 'ṛṭṭiyā karmaṇi' (Pāṇini 6-2-48), the accent of the first member of the compound is retained. — 'Sutāvataḥ': the lengthening is Vedic (chāndasa). As the 'matup' affix is unaccented, only the accent of the 'kta' affix remains. — 'Brahmāṇi': by 'nab-viṣayasyānisantasya' (a Phiṭ-sūtra, the number of which is given on p. 42), acute on the first syllable. — 'Vāghata' is a word read among the priest-names; its accent is that of the bare stem (prātipadika-svara)." ⁵⁷

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र (he indra) — O Indra, (you) | धिया (dhiyā) — by our understanding (devotion) | इषितः (iṣitaḥ) — impelled, and | विप्रजूतः (viprajūtaḥ) — impelled also by the wise, intelligent priests | सुतावतः (sutāvataḥ) — of him who has made ready and set by the Soma-juice | वाघतः (vāghataḥ) — of the priest | ब्रह्मणि (brahmāṇi) — the praise-hymns that have the form of the Veda | उप (upa) — in order to approach | आ याहि (ā yāhi) — come (to this rite-of-sacrifice that we are performing).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! We, and the priests too, praise you with devotion. And the priest has prepared the Soma-juice. Impelled by our devotion, to drink it, and also to accept the Veda-form praise-hymns that we chant, may you come to this sacrificial rite that we are performing.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O Indra, you are moved by our devoted prayers and that of learned men. Come hither to receive our prayers and the soma juice pressed and prepared for your sake." ⁵⁸

original p. 40

57. Reading notes: (i) the print of the 'ṛjrendrāgra...' Uṇādi list is plain and read as given; (ii) the rule "nab-ṛṣayasyāṇisantasya" is hard to read here, but is printed plainly on p. 42, where it is attributed to the Phīṭ-sūtras, not to Pāṇini; I had first written "Pā. 6-1-223" from memory, and that attribution has been withdrawn above; (iii) "vāghata-śabda" is printed "vāghac-chabda"; I read the word as "vāghata."

58. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." The English glosses on the verses are mine; the source gives none. [?] marks an uncertain letter or number.

Special topics on Rik 3.5: "dhiyā," "iṣitaḥ," "viprajūtaḥ"

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

धिया (dhiyā)

— This is the instrumental singular of the word "dhī." The word is read among the eleven names that denote "prajñā" (understanding), beginning with "keta" (in the Nighaṇṭu). Its sense here is "by understanding, by discrimination, by a devotion that is attended by the mind (manaḥ-pūrvaka)." Scholars ancient and modern (Indian and Western) have given this word a variety of senses according to the context; those senses will be discussed in the respective places.

इषितः (iṣitaḥ)

— This word is derived from the root "iṣ" (to go). Its sense here is "called, impelled, entreated."

विप्रजूतः (viprajūtaḥ)

— A compound made of the two words "vipra" and "jūta." The word "vipra" is read among the twenty-four words that denote "the intelligent." Hence for this word the sense is "the wise, those possessed of understanding, those who have the power of discrimination." "Jūtaḥ" means "prāptaḥ, abhi-plutaḥ [?], preritaḥ" — that is, attained; praised; impelled. Although in later (modern) Sanskrit the sense "Brāhmaṇa" is established for "vipra," in Vedic literature — and in the Rigveda in particular — the word is not used in this sense. The word "vipra" is used in many Ṛks of the Rigveda, but "viprajūtaḥ" occurs in this Ṛk alone, nowhere else. For the word "jūtaḥ" the Bhāṣyakāra in many places gives the sense "prāpta" (attained) and "preraṇa" (impelling). For example:

शोचिष्केशं वृषणं यमिमा विशः प्रावन्तु जूतये विशः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१२७-२ [?])
śociṣkeśaṃ vṛṣaṇaṃ yam imā viśaḥ prāvantu jūtaye viśaḥ | |
 (r. saṃ. 1-127-2 [?]) Gloss: "The flame-haired bull, whom these clans, these clans, would favour for [his] speed/impulse."

In this Rk, "jūtaye" is also taken to mean "prāptaye" ("for the attaining").

वीळुपत्मभिराशुहेमभिर्वा देवानां वा [?] जूतिभिः शाशदानाः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११८-२) vīḷupatmabhir āśuhemabhir vā devānāṃ vā [?] jūtibhiḥ śāśadānāḥ | | (r. saṃ. 1-118-2) Gloss: "With (steeds) of firm wings, swift-impelling, or with the impulses of the gods, [you two] being foremost..." [tentative]

In this Rk, "jūtibhiḥ" is taken to mean also "preraṇaiḥ" ("by impellings"). Some examples that indicate this sense when "jūta" stands as the latter member of a compound are given below:

अद्रिजूतः — रथो ह वामृतेजा [print: "vāmṛtejā"] अद्रिजूतः परि द्यावापृथिवी याति सद्यः । (ऋ. सं. ३-५८-८) adrijūtaḥ — ratho ha vāmṛtejā [sic]
adrijūtaḥ pari dyāvāpṛthivī yāti sadyaḥ | (r. saṃ. 3-58-8)
 Gloss: "Your chariot, speeded by the (pressing-)stones [adri-jūtaḥ], circles heaven and earth at once."

आदित्यजूतः — दधानो गोमदश्ववत्सुवीर्यमादित्यजूत एधते । (ऋ. सं. ८-४६-५ [?]) ādityajūtaḥ — dadhāno gomad āśvavat suvīryam ādityajūta edhate | (r. saṃ. 8-46-5 [?]) Gloss: "Bearing wealth in cattle and horses and brave progeny, he who is impelled by the Ādityas prospers."

इन्द्रजूतः — यदङ्ग त्वा भरताः सन्तरेयुर्गव्यन् ग्राम इषित इन्द्रजूतः । (ऋ. सं. ३-३३-११) indrajūtaḥ — yad aṅga tvā bharatāḥ santareyur gavyan grāma iṣita indrajūtaḥ | (r. saṃ. 3-33-11) Gloss: "When, O (river), the Bharatas would cross you, seeking cattle, the host sent forth, impelled by Indra."

Special topics on Rik 3.5 (continued): further "-jūta" compounds; "vipra," "sutāvataḥ," "upa," "brahmāṇi," "vāghataḥ"

59

देवजूतः — महा ऋषिर्देवजा देवजूतोऽस्तभ्नात्सिन्धुमर्णवं नृचक्षाः । (ऋ. सं. ३-५३-९ तथा ४-११-४ [?]; ७-५४-३ [?]; ८-३१-३ [?]) devajūtaḥ — mahā ṛṣir devajā devajūto 'stabhnāt sindhum arṇavaṃ nṛcakṣāḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-53-9 and 4-11-4 [?]; 7-54-3 [?]; 8-31-3 [?]) Gloss: "The great seer, born of the gods, impelled by the gods, a watcher of men, held up the river, the flood."

बाहुजूतः — युष्मादेति मुष्टिहा बाहुजूतो युष्मत्सदश्चो मरुत सुवीरः । (ऋ. सं. ५-५८-४ [?]) bāhujūtaḥ — yuṣmād eti muṣṭihā bāhujūto yuṣmatsadaśvo maruta suvīraḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-58-4 [?]) Gloss: "From you, O Maruts, goes the fist-striker, impelled by his arm, the hero blessed with horses, rich in heroes through you."

वातजूतः — वि वातजूतो अतसेषु तिष्ठते वृथा जुहूभिः सृण्या तुविष्वणिः । (ऋ. सं. १-५८-४ तथा १-६८-४ [?]; १०-१२-१ [?]) vātajūtaḥ — vi vātajūto atasesu tiṣṭhate vṛthā juhūbhiḥ sṛṇyā tuviṣvaṇiḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-58-4 and 1-68-4 [?]; 10-12-1 [?]) Gloss: "Impelled by the wind, he stands out amid the brush, in vain with tongues, with his sickle-like (flame), loud-sounding."

श्येनजूतः — अप्सु द्रप्सो वावृधे श्येनजूतो दुह ई पिता दुह ई पितुर्जाम् । (ऋ. सं. ९-८९-२) śyenajūtaḥ — apsu drapso vāvṛdhe śyenajūto duha īm pitā duha īm pitur jāṃ | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-89-2) Gloss: "The drop has grown in the waters, impelled by the falcon; the father milks him, he milks the father's kinswoman." [tentative]

59. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." The R̥g-vedic reference-numbers are printed in small Kannada numerals and a number of them are hard to read; every reference I am not sure of is marked [?]. Glosses are mine; the source gives none. The page also contains a block of English printed in the source itself, reproduced as printed.

On "vipra" (Western renderings). Ludwig, Williams, Griffith and other Western scholars have given the word "vipra," in different Ṛks, such meanings as — ⁶⁰ — "Sage, wise, skilled in work or rite, skilled in speech, singer, Priest, Worshipper, Sacrificer [print: 'Sacrificier'], Fulfiller, Giver of delight, courageous, Sagacious, Pious, Brahmana," and the like; but they say that for this word in this Ṛk the sense "Prudent or intelligent" (that is, discerning, intelligent) fits.

सुतावतः (sutāvataḥ)

, or "sutavataḥ" — The word "suta" is a word formed from a root meaning "to press out (the juice)" ("su"). The derivation of "sutāvataḥ" is: "sutaḥ somaḥ asyāsti iti sutāvān, tasya sutāvataḥ" — "he who has the pressed Soma is 'sutāvān'; of him, 'sutāvataḥ'." This word is an adjective of the word "vāghataḥ." The word is commonly used in contexts where the Soma-juice is crushed and extracted.

उप (upa)

— near, close; or, going near; attaining proximity, and the like.

ब्रह्मणि (brahmāṇi) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains this word as "stotra" (a hymn of praise). Skandasvāmī — in accordance with the sūtra of the Nighaṇṭu (2-7 [?]) — gives for the word "brahma" two senses: "anna" (food) and "stotra." Western scholars — Ludwig, Williams, Griffith and others — give for the word, according to context, ⁶¹: "Sacred Word, Prayer [print: 'Preyer'], Stotra [print: 'Stotra'], Homage, honour, song, libation, oblation, Praise, adoration, Devotion, Offering, Sacred rite, Food." Although they use different words, there is no great difference from the senses used by Sāyaṇa and Skandasvāmī.

60. the source here prints the list in English

61. the source's English list

वाघतः (vāghataḥ) — Because the Nighaṇṭu itself plainly states that this word means "ṛtvik" (priest), the Bhāṣyakāra, Skandasvāmī and the others have approved this sense. The view of the Western scholars is not at odds with this sense either; only the words they use are different. This word is used in the Rigveda in only the following eleven Ṛks: 1-3-5; 1-58-7 [?]; 1-88-6 [?]; 1-110-4 [?]; 3-2-1 [?]; 3-17-2 [?]; 6-16-13 [?]; 7-32-1 [?]; 8-28-4 [?]; 10-62-7 [?]; 3-60-4 [?].^{62 63}

original p. 42

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.5 (Kannada); Saṃhitā and Pada text of Rik 3.6

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

After the root "iṣ gatau" (iṣa gatau), when the affix "kta" is added, by "ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ" (Pā. Sū. 7-2-35 [?]) — the augment "iṭ" comes to "ta" — and "iṣitaḥ" results. Here, by "āgamā anudāttāḥ" (Pā. Sū. 3-1-3, vārttika 7 [?]) — "augments are unaccented" — the "i" becomes unaccented; hence the accent of the "kta" affix remains.

The root "ḍu vap bīja-saṃtāne": by "ṛjrendrāgra-vajra-vipra-..." (Uṇ. Sū. printed here as "2-1[?]6"; on p. 39 I read it as "2-28" — the number should be checked), these nineteen words are formed with the affix "ran" by nipātana (irregular formation). The list as printed:

62. Only the first of these — 1-3-5, the present Ṛk — is certain; the digits of the other ten are as best I could read them, and the whole list should be re-checked against the page before being relied upon.

63. Page header: "Māṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." This is the Kannada rendering of the grammar already given in Sanskrit on p. 39, translated in full. Sūtra-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where I am not sure of a digit.

ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रवज्रविप्रकुब्रचुब्रक्षुरखुरभद्रोग्रभेरभेलशुक्रशक्लगौरवन्नेरमाला: [?]

*rjrendrāgra-vajra-vipra-kubra-cubra-kṣura-khura-bhadrogra-
bhera-bhela-śukra-śakla-gaurava-nvera-mālāḥ* [?]

⁶⁴ By the very nipātana, the "a" of the root "vap" becomes "i", and the guṇa of the light penultimate "i" does not occur. Since it is n-marked, the first syllable is acute: "viprajūtaḥ." "Jū" is a sautra root (one given in the sūtras), meaning "gati" (going). To the "kta" affix that follows the root "jū," "iṭ" would come by "ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ"; but by "śryukaḥ kiti" (Pā. Sū. 7-2-11) — the root "śri," and the one-syllable roots ending in the vowels "u," "ṛ," [and others (the print's list is unclear)] — no "iṭ" comes before affixes marked "g," "k" ("git," "kit"); so the "iṭ" is prohibited. Then, by "ṛṭyā karmaṇi" (Pā. Sū. 6-2-48) — when a word ending in the "kta" affix, with the sense of the object (karman), follows, a word in the instrumental case retains its natural accent (prakṛti-svara); hence the accent of the first member remains. From the root "su," adding "kta," one gets "suta." Adding "matup" to it gives "sutavataḥ." By Vedic usage, if the previous member is lengthened it becomes "sutāvataḥ." As "matup" is unaccented, the accent of the "kta" affix remains. "Brahmāṇi" — by "nab-viṣayasyānisantasya" (Phiṭ-sūtra [number illegible: "2?"]) it is acute on the first syllable. As for "vāghat" — since Yāska has read it among the "names of priests" (ṛtvij-nāmadheya) ⁶⁵, it is a bare stem (prātipadika); hence the prātipadika-accent results. ॥५॥ ⁶⁶

Sūkta 3, The Sixth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

64. The division of this list into words is my best reading; "kubra," "cubra," and the last few members are not certain to me.

65. in the Nighaṇṭu

66. Accent-marks in the Kannada print are not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

इन्द्रा याहि तूतुजान उप ब्रह्माणि हरिवः । सुते दधिष्व नश्चनः ॥६॥

indrā yāhi tūtujāna upa brahmāṇi harivaḥ | sute dadhiṣva naś
canaḥ || 6 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁶⁷

इन्द्र । आ । याहि । तूतुजानः । उप । ब्रह्माणि । हरिवः । सुते । दधिष्व । नः । चनः ॥६॥

original p. 43

Sūkta 3, Sixth Mantra: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हरिशब्द इन्द्रसंबन्धिनोरश्वयोर्नामधेयम् । हरी इन्द्रस्य रोहितोऽग्नेरिति तदीय [?] अश्वनामत्वेन पठितत्वात् । हे हरिवः अश्वयुक्तेन्द्र त्वं ब्रह्माण्युपैतुमा याहि । कीदृशस्त्वम् । तूतुजानः त्वरमाणः । आगत्य चास्मिन्सुते सोमाभिषवयुक्ते कर्मणि नोऽस्मदीयं चनोऽन्नं हविर्लक्षणं दधिष्व धारय । स्वीकुर्वित्यर्थः । hari-śabda indra-sambandhinor aśvayor nāmadheyam | harī indrasya rohito 'gner iti tadīya [?] aśva-nāmatvena paṭhitatvāt | he harivaḥ aśvayuktendra tvam brahmāṇy upaitum ā yāhi | kīdrśas tvam | tūtujānaḥ tvaramāṇaḥ | āgatya cāsmīn sute somābhiṣava-yukte karmaṇi no 'smadīyaṃ cano 'nnaṃ havir-lakṣaṇaṃ dadhiṣva dhāraya | svīkurv ity arthaḥ |

Translation: "The word 'hari' is the name of the two horses connected with Indra, since it is read as the name of his (Indra's) horses in 'harī indrasya, rohita agneḥ' ('the two Haris are Indra's, the Rohita is Agni's' — the Nighaṇṭu's list of horse-names). O 'harivaḥ' — O Indra, yoked with horses — come to approach our 'brahmāṇi.' What kind of one are you? 'Tūtujānaḥ' — hastening.

67. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script and rendered here into Devanagari/IAST.

And having come, in this 'sute' (this rite attended with the pressing of Soma), hold ('dadhiṣva') — that is, accept ('svīkuru') — our 'canaḥ,' our food, of the nature of the oblation." ⁶⁸

« Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā within the Bhāṣya » — characterized, not transcribed line-by-line, per the standing convention for dense grammatical derivations; the sūtras it cites are listed in full below.

The Bhāṣya's grammar on this page derives: (a) "tūtuajānaḥ" (root "tuj"), (b) "harivaḥ" (vocative of "hari-vat"), (c) "dadhiṣva" (root "dhā," imperative, middle), and (d) "canaḥ" (from "cāy"), and discusses the accent of "brahmāṇi" and its effect on the preceding "upa." One sentence in the middle of this block (the one beginning "brahmāṇīty asya harivaḥ..." and running through "... upety ekārasya sannataḥ") is too garbled in the print for me to give a reliable reading, so I do not transcribe or translate it; what is plain from it is that it is about why the vocative "harivaḥ" and the following word are accented as they are, and about the "sannataḥ" (lowered-pitch) accent on the syllable of "upa." The sūtras cited are as follows (numbers as printed; the Sanskrit lines are in the print's own wording): ⁶⁹

- "tuj-er liṭi liṭaḥ kānaḥ vā" — तुजेर्लिटि लिटः कानज्वा (पा. ३-२-१०६) — "the substitute 'kānac' for 'liṭ'" → "tūtuajānaḥ." ⁷⁰
- "tujādīnāṃ dīrgho 'bhyāsasya" — तुजादीनां दीर्घोऽभ्यासस्य (पा. ६-१-७) — the reduplicative syllable is lengthened.

68. Reading note: the first letter of "tadīya" is "ka/ta" in the print; "tadīya" — "belonging to him" — is what the sense requires, and I give it flagged.

69. A transliteration of each cited sūtra is: "tujer liṭi liṭaḥ kānaḥ vā" (pā. 3-2-106) | "tujādīnāṃ dīrgho 'bhyāsasya" (pā. 6-1-7) | "abhyastānām ādiḥ" (pā. 6-1-189) | "chandasiḥ" (pā. 8-2-15) | "sambuddhau vugid-acām" [?] (pā. 7-1-70) | "saṃyogānta-lope" (pā. 8-2-23) | "nakārasya matuvaso ruḥ sambuddhau chandasi" (pā. 8-3-1) | "thāsaḥ se" (pā. 3-4-80) | "savābhyāṃ vāmau" (pā. 3-4-91) | "chandasy ubhayathā" (pā. 3-4-117) | "śloś ca dvirbhāvaḥ" (pā. 6-1-10) | "āto lopa iṭi ca" (pā. 6-4-64).

70. The print has "pujer" for "tujer"; I read "tuj" as the root.

- "abhyastānām ādih" — अभ्यस्तानामादिः (पा. ६-१-१८९) — first syllable acute.
- "chandasīrah" — छन्दसीरः (पा. ८-२-१५) — "m" of "matup" becomes "v" after a stem ending in "i" ("hari-vat" for "hari-mat").
- "sambuddhau ... ugidacām" — संबुद्धौ ... उगिदचाम् (पा. ७-१-७०) — the augment "num" in the vocative; then संयोगान्तलोपे (पा. ८-२-२३) the loss of the final consonant of the cluster, and नकारस्य मतुवसो रुः संबुद्धौ छन्दसि (पा. ८-३-१) — "ru" for the "n" of "matup" in the vocative → "harivaḥ"; the vocative then takes the eighth-chapter "nighāta."
- "thāsaḥ se" — थासः से (पा. ३-४-८०) — "se" for "thās" in the imperative; सवाभ्यां वामौ (पा. ३-४-९१) — "va" for the "e" → "dadhiṣva"; छन्दस्युभयथा (पा. ३-४-११७) — in the Veda the ending counts both as "sārvadhātuka" and "ārdhadhātuka," so both "śap" (पा. ३-१-६८) with doubling (श्लौ च द्विर्भावः पा. ६-१-१०) and the "iṭ" augment (पा. ७-२-३५) arise; आतो लोप इटि च (पा. ६-४-६४) — the final "ā" of the root is elided.
- For "canah": "cāyater anne hrasvaś ca" (from "cāy," with shortening, in the sense "food") with an "asun" ending (Uṇādi 4-1[?]9, as printed), the "n" augment from the "ca," and the loss of "y."

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

हरिवः (harivaḥ) — O you who are accompanied by horses (who sit in a chariot yoked to horses) | इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra, (you) | तूतुजानः (tūtujānaḥ) — being swift, being vigilant | ब्रह्माणि (brahmāṇi) — (the) praise-hymns (that we make) | उप (upa) — in order to accept | आ याहि (ā yāhi) — be one who comes | (and having come) सुते (sute) — in this rite, accompanied by the pressing of the Soma — that is, in this Soma-sacrifice that we are performing | नः (naḥ) — our | चनः (canaḥ) — food of the kind that belongs to the oblation | दधिष्व (dadhiṣva) — "hold" — that is, accept.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Seated in the chariot to which the horses are yoked, come quickly and with vigilance, to accept the praise-hymns that we make, and the food that we offer in this sacrificial rite, in which we are now drawing out the Soma-juice for you. ⁷¹

original p. 44

English rendering of Rik 3.6; Special topics:

"tūtuajānaḥ," "brahmāṇi," "harivaḥ," "dadhiṣva";

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā begins

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O Indra, come hither quickly with the tawny horses to our prayers and accept our food in this libation."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

तूतुजानः (tūtuajānaḥ) — For this word the Bhāṣyakāra gives "tvaramāṇaḥ" ("hastening") and Skandasvāmī gives "kṣipram" ("quickly, swiftly"). Among Western scholars, in their treatment of the sense of this word in this Rk: Ludwig gives "hasty, speedy, exerting"; Williams, "fleet"; Benfey, "exerted"; Rosen, "hastened." Besides this, Ludwig, in the places where this word is used — the references printed are R. Saṃ. 6-29-5 [?]; 10-44-1 [?] — gives "exerting"; (at 7-44-5 [?]) "Urging"; (at 5-32-2

71. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

The English passages are printed in English in the source and are reproduced exactly as printed, including its misprints, marked [sic].

Reference-numbers printed in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where uncertain.

[?]) "Pushing"; (at 10-44-1 [?]; 1-129-1 [?]) "Prompt"; and (in the R̥ks 5-32-2 [?]; 1-61-12 [?]; 7-67-6 [?]; 7-44-5 [?]) "Active, strong," as meanings of this word.⁷²

ब्रह्मणि (brahmāṇi)

— The matter of this word was set out in the preceding R̥k.

हरिवः (harivaḥ) — For this the Bhāṣyakāra gives "harayo 'sya santi" ("harayo 'sya santīti"; हस्योऽस्य सन्तीति — "he who has Haris [horses]"), that is, "one possessed of horses." The sense given by the other commentators is the same. "One possessed of horses" means "one seated in a chariot to which horses are yoked." "Harī" means Indra's horses. This sense is supported by the mantra:

तिष्ठा हरी रथ आयुज्यमाना याहि वायुर्न नियुतो नो अच्छ । (ऋ. सं. ३-३५-१) tiṣṭhā harī ratha āyujyamānā yāhi vāyur na niyuto no accha | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-35-1) Gloss: "Mount, with the two bay horses being yoked to the chariot; come to us, like Vāyu with his team."

Among Western scholars: Griffith gives "Having a gold colour horse"; Williams, "provided with the horse named Hari"; Ludwig, Rosen, Benfey, "Possessed of bey [sic] or towny [sic] horses" — thus they have explained the meaning of this word.

दधिष्वा (dadhiṣva)

— This word is the "loṭ" (imperative) form of the root "dhā." Its sense here may be given as "accept."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

⁷² The reference-numbers in this list are hard to read in the print and the assignment of numbers to meanings may be off; the same number appears under more than one meaning as I have read it. Please re-check before relying on them.

"Tūtujānaḥ": when the affix "liṭ" is placed after the root "tuj," then by "liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya" (Pā. Sū. 6-1-8) — when "liṭ" follows, the first part of the root that is not already a reduplicative syllable and contains a single vowel is doubled. In the case where the root begins with a vowel (ajādi), the second ... ^{73 74}

original p. 45

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.6 (Kannada) — characterized

(1) "Tūtujānaḥ." ⁷⁵ In the case where the root begins with a vowel, the second one-vowel part is the one doubled. Here, after doubling "tuj" (giving "tuj-tuj + liṭ"), the rule हलादिः शेषः (halādiḥ śeṣaḥ, पा. ७-४-६०) leaves only the first consonant of the reduplicative syllable and drops its other consonants — so the first "tuj" is reduced to "tu." By लिटः कानज्वा (liṭaḥ kānaj vā, पा. ३-२-१०६) — in the Veda the substitute "kānac" for "liṭ" is optional, and it is chosen here; in "kānac" the letter "c" is a marker and "āna" remains: "tu-tuj + āna." Then तुजादीनां दीर्घोऽभ्यासस्य (tujādīnām dīrgho 'bhyāsasya, पा. ६-१-७) — the reduplicative syllable of the roots of the "tuj" group is lengthened — gives "tū-tujāna." Finally अभ्यस्तानामादिः (abhyastānām ādiḥ, पा. ६-१-१८९) — when a "lasārvadhātuka" affix beginning with the accented vowel

73. continues on the next page; this is the Kannada rendering of the grammar characterized on p. 43

74. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." This page is pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, setting out for "tūtujānaḥ," "harivaḥ," "brahmāṇi/upa" and "dadhiṣva" the same steps already given in Sanskrit on p. 43. Per the standing convention for dense Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā with no bearing on the sense already given, it is translated in compressed form rather than line by line; every sūtra the page cites is kept, in all three layers, so that nothing is silently dropped. Sūtra-numbers are as printed in Kannada numerals.

75. continuing from p. 44

(including the "iṭ"-position) follows, the first syllable of the reduplicated stem becomes acute; hence the first syllable of "tūtuajānaḥ" is acute.

(2) "Harivaḥ." "Harayo 'sya santi" ("he has horses") — the affix "matup" by तदस्यास्त्यस्मिन्निति मतुप् (tad asyāsty asminn iti matup, पा. ५-२-१४). By छन्दसीरः (chandasīraḥ, पा. ८-२-१५) the "m" of "matup," after a word ending in "i" or "r"-type letter, becomes "v" (so "hari-vat"). For the vocative singular ending, "matup" being "u"-marked (ugit), by उगिदचां सर्वनामस्थानेऽधातोः (ugid-acāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ, पा. ७-१-७०) the augment "num" comes (even to a non-root stem), giving "harivan-t + (su)"; then संयोगान्तस्य लोपः (saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ, पा. ८-२-२३) — loss of the final of a conjunct — and, by "hal-nyābbhyo..." (हल्ङ्याब्भ्यो दीर्घात्सुतिस्त्वृक्तं हल् — hal-nyābbhyo dīrghāt su-ti-sy-apṛktaṃ hal, पा. ६-१-६८ [number as read]) the loss of the ending, leave "harivan." Then मतुवसोरु संबुद्धौ छन्दसि (matuvasor ru sambuddhau chandasi, पा. ८-३-१) — in the Veda, in the vocative, "ru" replaces the last letter of "matup" and "vasu" stems — and, by the paribhāṣā अलोऽन्त्यस्य (alo 'ntyasya, पा. १-१-५२) the substitute goes to the final letter "n"; the "r" then becomes visarga: "harivaḥ." Here the vocative-accent of the eighth chapter (aṣṭamika anudātta) arises.

(3) "Brahmāṇi" and the "a" of "upa." By सुबामन्त्रिते पराङ्गवत्स्वरे (subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare, पा. २-१-२) a vocative is treated, for accent, as part of the following word. But this operates only where there is mutual connection of sense, by the governing paribhāṣā समर्थः पदविधिः (samarthaḥ pada-vidhiḥ, पा. २-१-१). Here "brahmāṇi" and "harivaḥ" have no mutual syntactic connection, hence no such connection of sense, and no "parāṅgavad-bhāva" arises. Consequently "brahmāṇi" does not receive the aṣṭamika vocative-anudātta; it stays acute on its first syllable. Then the unaccented "a" of the preceding "upa," standing before this acute syllable, becomes "sannatara" (lowered still further) by उदात्तस्वरितपरस्य सन्नतरः (udātta-svarita-parasya sannatarah, पा. १-२-४०).

(4) "Dadhiṣva." After the root "ḍudhāñ" (dhāraṇa-poṣaṇayoḥ — "to hold, to nourish"), in the "loṭ," ātmanepada, madhyama-puruṣa, ekavacana, the ending "thās" is taken; then थासः से (thāsaḥ se, पा. ३-४-८०), the "ṭ"-marker (ṭakāra-it)... ⁷⁶

original p. 46

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.6 concluded; end of the Fifth Varga; Saṃhitā and Pada text of Rik 3.7

(4) "Dadhiṣva" ⁷⁷ In place of the "la"-ending ("loṭ") the ending "thās" is replaced by "se" by थासः से (thāsaḥ se, पा. ३-४-८०). Then by सवाभ्यां वामौ (savābhyāṃ vāmau, पा. ३-४-९१) — the "e" of the loṭ-ending, after "s" and "v," is replaced respectively by "va" and "am" — the "e" becomes "va": "dhā + sva." By छन्दस्युभयथा (chandasy ubhayathā, पा. ३-४-११७) — the affixes prescribed in the root-section carry, in the Veda, both labels, "sārvadhātuka" and "ārdhadhātuka" — both labels apply; taking first the "sārvadhātuka" label, by कर्तरि शप् (kartari śap, पा. ३-१-६८) the "śap" comes when a "sārvadhātuka" affix with agent-sense follows. Then जुहोत्यादिभ्यः श्लुः (juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ, पा. २-४-७५) — after the roots of the "juhotyādi" group "śap" is elided (luk-like "ślu"). With "ślu," by श्लौ (ślau, पा. ६-१-१०) the root is doubled: "dhā-dhā + sva"; by ह्रस्वः (hrasvaḥ, पा. ७-४-५९) and अभ्यासे चर्च (abhyāse car ca, पा. ८-४-५४) the reduplicative syllable is shortened and its aspirate unaspirated ("da"): "da-dhā + sva." Now taking the "ārdhadhātuka" label, by आर्धधातुकस्येड्वलादेः (ārdhadhātukasyeḍvālaḍe

76. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

As on p. 45, the grammar is characterized (compressed translation, every cited sūtra kept in three layers).

77. continued from p. 45

valādeḥ, पा. ७-२-३५) the augment "iṭ" is given to "sva": "dadhā + iṣva"; by आतो लोप इटि च (āto lopa iṭi ca, पा. ६-४-६४) — the "ā" is elided before an "ajādi" ārdhadhātuka or before "iṭ" — the "ā" drops; and by आदेशप्रत्यययोः (ādeśa-pratyayayoḥ, पा. ८-३-५९) the "s" becomes "ṣ": "dadhiṣva."

(5) "Canah." "cāyater anne hrasvaś ca" — चायतेरन्ने ह्रस्वश्च (उ. सू. ४-६-३९ [as I read the print; see the note below]) — when the sense "anna" (food) is intended, the root "cāy" takes the affix "asun," the affix also takes the augment "nuṭ," and the "cā" is shortened. So with "asun," "nuṭ" and the shortening one gets "cay-an-"; and by लोपो व्योर्वलि (lopo vyor vali, पा. ६-१-६६) the "y" is elided, giving "canah." ||६||⁷⁸

इल्लिगे ऐदनेय वर्गवु मुगिदुदु — illige aidaneya varḡavu mugidudu — "Here the fifth varḡa is finished."

Sūkta 3, The Seventh Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ओमासश्चर्षणीधृतो विश्वे देवास आ गत । दाश्वांसो दाशुषः सुतम् ॥७॥

omāsaś carṣaṇīdhṛto viśve devāsa ā gata | dāśvāṃso dāśuṣaḥ
sutam ||7||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥^{79 80}

ओमासः । चर्षणीधृतः । विश्वे । देवासः । आ । गत । दाश्वांसः । दाशुषः । सुतम् ॥७॥

original p. 47

78. Reference note: the Uṇādi-sūtra number for "cāyater anne hrasvaś ca" is read here as "4-6-3?"; on p. 43 I gave it as "4-1[?]9." The two readings disagree, so the number should be re-checked on the page before use.

79. Reading note: in the Pada text, "carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ" is a compound; the print shows a small sign between "carṣaṇī" and "dhṛtaḥ" that I read as the avagraha-division, "carṣaṇī-dhṛtaḥ," but cannot make out with certainty, so I give the word undivided.

Sūkta 3, Seventh Mantra: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे विश्वे देवास एतन्नामका देवविशेषा दाशुषो हविर्दत्तवतो यजमानस्य सुतमभिषुतं सोमं प्रत्या
 गत । आगच्छत । ते च देवा ओमासो रक्षकाः चर्षणीधृतो मनुष्याणां धारका दाश्रांसः फलस्य
 दातारः । मनुष्या इत्यादिषु पञ्चविंशतिसंख्याकेषु मनुष्यनामसु चर्षणिशब्दः पठितः । अश्विनावित्यादिष्वेकत्रिंशत्संख्याकेषु देवविशेषनामसु विश्वे देवाः साध्या इति पठितम् । he viśve devāsa etan-nāmakā deva-viśeṣā dāśuṣo havir-dattavato yajamānasya sutam abhiṣutam somam pratyā gata |
āgacchata | te ca devā omāso rakṣakāḥ carṣaṇīdhṛto
manuṣyāṇām dhārakā dāśvāṃsaḥ phalasya dātāraḥ | manuṣyā ity ādiṣu pañcaviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu manuṣyanāmasu carṣaṇi-śabdaḥ paṭhitaḥ | aśvināv ity ādiṣv ekatriṃśat-saṃkhyākeṣu deva-viśeṣa-nāmasu viśve devāḥ
sādhyā iti paṭhitam |

Translation:

"O 'viśve devāsaḥ' — gods of this name, a special class of gods! Come ('pratyā gata' = 'āgacchata') to the Soma that has been pressed ('sutam' = 'abhiṣutam') of the sacrificer ('dāśuṣaḥ') who has given the oblation. And those gods are 'omāsaḥ' — protectors; 'carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ' — upholders of men; 'dāśvāṃsaḥ' — givers of the fruit. Among the twenty-five names of human beings beginning with 'manuṣyāḥ' (in the Nighaṇṭu), the word 'carṣaṇi' is read. Among the thirty-one names of particular classes of gods beginning with 'aśvinau,' 'viśve devāḥ' and 'sādhyāḥ' are read."

80. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā" — the sixth varga begins here, the previous page having closed the fifth. This is a very dense Bhāṣya page, read in enlarged slices. The sense-portion at the top is transcribed in full in three layers; the long technical accent-debate that follows is characterized, not transcribed line by line, per the standing convention for dense Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā, and I say so again at that point.

एतामृचं यास्क एवं व्याख्यातवान् । अवितारो वावनीया वा मनुष्यधृतः सर्वे च देवा इहागच्छत
 दत्तवन्तो दत्तवतः सुतमिति तदेतदेकमेव वैश्वदेवं गायत्रं तृचं दशतयीषु विद्यते यत्तु किञ्चिद्बहुदैवतं तद्वैश्वदेवानां स्थाने युज्यते यदेव विश्वलिङ्गमिति शाकपूणिः । नि. १२-४० ।
 इति । अत्र विश्वशब्दः सर्वशब्दपर्याय इति यास्कस्य मतम् । देवविशेषस्यैवासाधारणं
 लिङ्गमिति शाकपूणेर्मतम् । etām ṛcam yāska evaṃ vyākhyātavān | avitāro vāvanīyā vā manuṣyadhṛtaḥ sarve ca devā ihāgacchata dattavanto dattavataḥ sutam iti tad etad ekam eva vaiśvadevaṃ gāyatraṃ ṛcam daśatayīṣu vidyate yat tu kiñcid bahudaivataṃ tad vaiśvadevānām sthāne yujyate yad eva viśva-liṅgam iti śākapūṇiḥ | ni. 12-40 | iti | atra viśva-śabdaḥ sarva-śabda-paryāya iti yāskasya matam | devaviśeṣasyaivāsādhāraṇaṃ liṅgam iti śākapūṇer matam |

Translation: "Yāska has explained this R̥k thus: 'Protectors, or those to be desired, upholders of men; and all the gods, come here — having given, to the one who has given — the pressed (Soma). This is the one Vaiśvadeva Gāyatra ṛca found in the "daśatayī" (the ten-book arrangement of the Saṃhitā). Whatever hymn has many deities is fitted into the place of the Vaiśvadevas; indeed, "whatever bears the mark of viśva," says Śākapūṇi.' (Nirukta 12.40). Here, that the word 'viśva' is a synonym of 'sarva' (all) is Yāska's view; that it is the particular, uncommon mark of one class of gods is Śākapūṇi's view."

अवन्तीत्योमासो देवाः । मन्त्रित्यनुवृत्त्या अविसिविसिशुषिभ्यः [?] कित् । उ. १-१४३ [?] ।
 इति मन्त्रित्ययः । ज्वरत्वरस्रिव्यविमवामुपधायाश्च । पा. ६-४-२० । इत्यूट् । मनः कित्त्वेऽपि
 बाहुलकत्वाद्गुणः । आज्जसेरसुक् । पा. ७-१-५० । इति जसेरसुगागमः ।
 आमन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । चर्षणयो मनुष्याः । तान्सृष्टि [?] दानादिना धारयन्तीति चर्षणीधृतो
 देवाः । avanty ity omāso devāḥ | man ity anuvṛtīyā avi-sivi-si- śuṣibhyaḥ [?] kit | u. 1-143 [?] | iti man-pratyayaḥ | jvara-tvara-srivyavi-mavām upadhāyāś ca | pā. 6-4-20 | ity ūṭ |
manaḥ kittve 'pi bāhulakatvād guṇaḥ | āj-jaser asuk | pā.

7-1-50 | iti jaser asug-āgamaḥ | āmantritādyudāttatvam |
carṣaṇayo manuṣyāḥ | tān sṛṣṭi [?] dānādinā dhārayantīti
carṣaṇīdhṛto devāḥ |

Translation: "'Omāsaḥ' — the gods, because they 'protect' ('avanti'): by the continuing sense of 'man' (the Uṇādi-sūtra 'avi-sivi-si-śuṣibhyaḥ kit,' as read on p. 51; numbered in the print, Uṇ. 1-143 [?]) the affix 'man' is added; by 'jvara-tvara-srivi-avi-mavām upadhāyāś ca' (Pāṇini 6-4-20) the 'ūṭ' substitution comes; although 'man' is marked 'k' (which would normally bar guṇa), guṇa occurs, because of the Vedic variability ('bāhulaka'). By 'āj-jaser asuk' (Pāṇini 7-1-50) the augment 'asuk' comes to 'jas'; the first syllable is acute by the vocative rule. 'Carṣaṇayaḥ' means human beings; those (gods) who sustain them by creating [?], by giving and the like, are 'carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ.'" ⁸¹

|| The technical accent-debate (characterized, not transcribed) ||

The remainder of the page (about the last two-thirds) is a scholastic argument on the accent of the vocative words in this verse. I have read it through, but it is pure technical argument

81. Reading notes: (i) the Uṇādi-number "1-143" is read with low confidence; (ii) the word before "dānādinā" is printed something like "sṛṣṭi"; the sense "by creating, by giving, etc." fits, but I mark it [?]; (iii) the Uṇādi-sūtra's wording was first read here as "avi-si-vasi-śuṣibhyaḥ"; p. 51, which quotes it again, prints "avi sivi si śuṣibhyaḥ kit" and lists the roots as "av (rakṣaṇa), ..., ṣiñ (bandhane), śuṣ (śoṣaṇe)," so the reading here has been adjusted to that, still flagged [?].

whose result does not alter the sense already given above, so, per convention, I summarize it rather than transcribing it line by line. Its course, in outline: ⁸²

1. The rule and the objection. By the Pāṇinian rule "vibhāṣitaṃ viśeṣavacane bahuvacanam" (विभाषितं विशेषवचने बहुवचनम् — vibhāṣitaṃ viśeṣa-vacane bahuvacanam, पा. ८-१-७४): when an earlier vocative that is a general term is followed by a plural vocative that is a specific term, the earlier one is optionally not treated as "non-existent" (avidyamāna-vat), and so does not lose its accent — hence the preceding vocative here keeps its accent, as being "not a pāda-beginning" (apādādi) it would otherwise take nighāta. An objector asks how the nighāta can still occur (since the "subāmantrite parāṅgavat" rule would make the two words one unit, which would make the later word non-initial in the pāda); the answer given cites the Mahābhāṣya-line "vatkaraṇaṃ svāśrayam api yathā syāt" (वत्करणं स्वाश्रयमपि यथा स्यात् — vatkaraṇaṃ svāśrayam api yathā syāt, म. ८-१-७२ [as printed]), which lets nighāta apply even in a pada-division case, and the rule "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् — anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam) which ensures nighāta all the more.
2. A parallel case. A second objection, "dravatpāṇī śubhaspatī" (द्रवत्पाणी शुभस्पती — a Ṛgvedic phrase used as an example of an unaccented second word), is answered by saying that there the "parāṅgavad-bhāva" is blocked by the rule that says an earlier word, when a vocative follows, is treated as non-existent ("āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat"); here, by contrast, the rule 8-1-74 forbids treating the earlier vocative as non-existent, so the earlier vocative "has existence" and "parāṅgavattva" is accepted.

82. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

The grammar at the top is characterized, not transcribed line by line, per the standing convention for dense Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā; every sūtra cited is kept in all three layers. Numbers in small Kannada numerals are as I read them; [?] marks doubt.

3. "Viśve" and "devāsaḥ." "Viśve" has the first-syllable acute because it stands at the beginning of the pāda. Here "viśva" is the name of a gaṇa-devatā (a particular class of deities, the Viśvedevāḥ), not a synonym of "sarva"; being a qualifier that points to a specific noun (viśeṣya), it is a general term in the sense of the rule, and so it does not stand in apposition (sāmānādhikaraṇya) with "omāsaḥ." (If it did, then, the earlier pāda being treated as part of the following word, "mitrāvaruṇau ṛtāvṛdhau"-type examples show the vocative-acute would not occur.) "Devāsaḥ" is the word qualified by "viśve."

4. "Devāḥ" as a conventional vs. etymological word. "Devāḥ" means "those who shine" (from "div," to shine). An objector cites the Paribhāṣā "nanv avayava-prasiddheḥ samudāya-prasiddhir baliyasī" (नन्ववयवप्रसिद्धेः समुदायप्रसिद्धिर्बलीयसी — nanv avayava-prasiddheḥ samudāya-prasiddhir baliyasī, परि. १८): "the established whole-word sense is stronger than the sense of its parts," so that the conventional (rūḍha) sense of "deva," not the etymological (yauḡika) one, is to be taken; for if the etymological sense were taken, understanding would be delayed by the effort of tracing the parts. The reply begins "samudāya-prasiddhau tu na vikṣepa iti cet na — samudāya-..." ⁸³.

original p. 48

Rik 3.7: close of the Bhāṣya's accent-debate and grammar; Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topic

The accent-debate concluded ⁸⁴. The reply begins: "when the conventional whole-word sense is the established one, the word 'deva' is a general term and not a specific one, so the condition 'viśeṣa-vacane' is not met; and since the optional rule 'vibhāṣitaṃ viśeṣa-vacane bahuvacanam' (8-1-74) does not prohibit it, 'viśve' would be treated as non-existent (avidyamāna-vat), and, like the pair of words 'śubhaspatī,' 'devāsaḥ' would also have first-syllable acute. By the evidence of the accent, then, taking the etymological sense of 'deva,' even at the cost of dropping the conventional one, is perfectly proper." ⁸⁵

Remaining word-grammar of the Bhāṣya for Rik 3.7 ⁸⁶:

- "Ā gata" (= "āgacchata"): by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (बहुलं छन्दसि — bahulaṃ chandasi) the "śap" is elided (luk); and the "m" of the root "gam" is dropped under the rule that begins "anudāttopadeśa-..." (अनुदात्तोपदेश... — anudāttopadeśa-...); the word, standing after another word, takes nighāta (loss of accent) — the print here reads "ājaḥ padāt-paratvān nighātaḥ" [?], where the first word is not clear to me.
- "Dāśvāmsaḥ" (root "dās" to give): the participial affix "kvasu" is added; by दाश्वान् साह्वान् मीढ्वांश्च (dāśvān sāvān mīḍhvāṃś ca, पा. ६-१-१२) the form is a nipātana (irregular formation), so the "iṭ" augment and the doubling that the "kādi-niyama" rule (the rule that restricts "iṭ" to the roots

84. continuing from p. 47, where the objector argued that the conventional (rūḍha) sense of "deva" should be taken, not the etymological "shining one"

85. That is the end of the debate; the Bhāṣya's conclusion is that the etymological sense, "those who shine," is the one to be taken.

86. characterized

"kṛ, sṛ, bhr̥, vṛ, stu, dru, śru" — पा. ७-२-१३ [?]) would otherwise bring do not occur. By the affix-accent, "kvasu" is acute.

- "Dāśuṣaḥ": वसोः संप्रसारणम् (vasoḥ samprasāraṇam, पा. ६-४-१३१) — "samprasāraṇa" (the semivowel is replaced by its vowel) for "vasu"; then संप्रसारणाच्च (samprasāraṇāc ca, पा. ६-१-१०८) — the former form (pūrvarūpa) results; and आदेशप्रत्यययोः (ādeśa-pratyayayoḥ, पा. ८-३-५९) — "s" becomes "ṣ." ॥७॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

ओमासः (omāsaḥ) — protectors | चर्षणीधृतः (carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ) — those who bear (or nourish) human beings | दाश्वांसः (dāśvāṃsaḥ) — (O you) who give the fruit of the sacrifice | (हे) विश्वे देवासः (he viśve devāsaḥ) — O you who are called the Viśvedevas | दाशुषः (dāśuṣaḥ) — of the sacrificer who gives the oblation | सुतम् (sutam) — the Soma pressed out and made ready (in order to drink it) | आ गत (ā gata) — come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Viśvedevas! You are the protectors of men (or of those who are fit to perform sacrifice), and the givers of fruit to the sacrificial rites, the nourishers of men. Such as you are, come here, in order to drink the Soma-juice that the sacrificer has prepared for you.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O Viswe devas, protectors and supporters of men, bestowers of rewards come to (drink) the libation of Soma juice of the worshipper."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

From here on, the next three Ṛks are named the "Vaiśvadeva-tṛca" (the triplet addressed to the Viśvedevas). These Ṛks are recited in the Abhijit-savana. And in the sacrifice called Cāturmāsya, on the day on which the Soma-juice is drawn out, the Adhvaryu recites these mantras while he draws out the Soma, with a large wooden vessel called the droṇa-kalaśa.⁸⁷

original p. 49

Special topics on Rik 3.7: "omāsaḥ," "carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ," "viśve devāsaḥ" (opening)

ओमासः (omāsaḥ)

— Vocative plural. The word means "protectors, helpers." The word is not used anywhere else in the Ṛgveda.

चर्षणीधृतः (carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ)

— The word "carṣaṇī" is read among the twenty-five words that denote "human being" (Nighaṇṭu 2-3). Examples:

य एकश्चर्षणीनां वसूनामिरज्यसि । (ऋ. सं. १-७-९) ya ekaś carṣaṇīnām vasūnām irajyasi | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-7-9) Gloss: "Who alone, of the peoples, of the goods, rules." (The print has "irajyasi," as I read it.)

धर्तारो चर्षणीनाम् । (ऋ. सं. १-१७-३) dhartārā carṣaṇīnām | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-17-3) Gloss: "The two upholders of the peoples."

सेदु राजा क्षयति चर्षणीनामरान् नमिः परि ता बभूव ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-३२-१५) sedu rājā kṣayati carṣaṇīnām arān na nemiḥ pari tā babhūva || (ṛ. saṃ. 1-32-15) Gloss: "He alone rules as king over the peoples; as the felly encloses the spokes, he has encompassed them all."

In these Ṛks and others the Bhāṣyakāra and the other commentators have explained "carṣaṇīnām" as "men." Monier Williams holds that "carṣaṇī" derives from the root "krṣ" (to plough, to practise agriculture), so that "carṣaṇī" means "those who plough, people who practise agriculture"; this sense, too, seems well-formed. Other Western scholars, in rendering it, use the words "Man, people, race, stock, tribe." In contexts where the word is used as an adjective, they say it has the sense "hastening, brisk, active." Griffith says that since the word comes from the root "car" (to move about), the word "carṣaṇī" signifies "Living beings" (prāṇigaḷu). Many hold the view that, since the Āryas of the Ṛgvedic age were occupied in agriculture, the sense "Cultivating people" is the fitting one. Since the root "dhṛ" has the senses "to hold, to support, to nourish," there is no need for doubt in explaining "carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ" as "those worthy to nourish men, worthy to protect them."

87. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The English glosses on the verses are mine; the source gives none. Reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and read with [?] where uncertain.

विश्वे देवासः (viśve devāsaḥ) — Among the thirty-one names of the particular classes of deities, beginning with "aśvinau," the name of these deities is read. The Bhāṣyakāra says that they are a distinct, particular class of gods. Some say that they are all the gods. But that the sages worshipped distinct deities named "Viśvedevas" can be stated clearly from what is found in other sūktas. On this question Yāska has written an explanation of this Ṛk:

अवितारो वावनीया वा मनुष्यधृतः सर्वे देवा इहागच्छत दत्तवन्तो दत्तवतः सुतमिति, तदेतदेकमेव वैश्वदेवं गायत्रं तृचं दशतयीषु विद्यते यत्तु किञ्चिद्बहुदैवतं तद्वैश्वदेवानां स्थाने युज्यते यदेव विश्वलिङ्गमिति शाकपूणिः । (नि. १२-४०) avitāro vāvanīyā vā manuṣyadhṛtaḥ sarve devā ihāgacchata dattavanto dattavataḥ sutam iti, tad etad ekam eva vaiśvadevaṃ gāyatraṃ tṛcaṃ daśatayīṣu vidyate yat tu kiñcid bahudaivataṃ tad vaiśvadevānām sthāne yujyate yad eva viśva-liṅgam iti śākapūṇiḥ | (ni. 12-40) (Translated on p. 47 above: "Protectors or those to be desired, upholders of men; all the gods, come here ... this one Vaiśvadeva Gāyatra tṛca in the daśatayī; whatever many-deitied hymn is fitted into the Vaiśvadevas' place, whatever bears the mark of 'viśva' — so says Śākapūṇi.")

In the discussion of the sense of this Ṛk there is no difference between the sense we have given and Yāska's. But according to Yāska's view "viśve devāḥ" means "all the gods," and "Viśvedevas" — gods called by that name — is, he says, the view of Śākapūṇi...

88

original p. 50

Special topics on Rik 3.7 (continued): the Viśvedevas; "ā gata," "dāśvāṃsaḥ," "dāśuṣaḥ"

⁸⁹ ... "...the view of Śākapūṇi," Yāska himself says. Hence it can be said with confidence that, even in his own time, there was a difference of opinion on this question. Now, if it is said that the Viśvedevas are (as is established practice in the domestic and other rites) not part of the group of ordinary deities, and are a special group of thirteen persons of their own, that too can be understood. Be that as it may, it seems proper to say that the Viśvedevas who are described in the Ṛgveda belong to a group of distinct, particular deities.

आ गत (ā gata)

— Second person plural. In present-day Sanskrit this would be "āgacchata."

दाश्वासः (dāśvāṃsaḥ)

— This word, formed from the root "dāś" ("dāśṛ dāne," to give), means "those who give," that is, "those who give the fruit to the men who praise them." Western scholars explain the word with: "Donors, distributors, bestowers of riches," and the like.

88. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

This page of the Kannada commentary is full of counts and reference-numbers printed in small Kannada numerals. Many of them are hard to read; every number below is marked [?] and must be re-checked against the page before being relied on. The English phrases within the Kannada are printed in English in the source, and are reproduced as printed, with misprints marked [sic].

89. Continuing from p. 49:

दाशुषः (dāśuṣaḥ) — This word is genitive singular: "of one who gives (the oblation to the gods)," or "who is giving." It is formed like the word "dāśvāṃsaḥ." The sense given for it by Western scholars is: "Of the distributors (Ludwig, Benfey), of the worshipper (Rosen, Griffith, Williams), of the offerers" and the like ⁹⁰.

On the Viśvedevas. Here it is necessary to state a few main points about the Viśvedevas. ⁹¹

- In the Ṛgveda there are 63 [?] sūktas that praise the Viśvedevas alone.
- In addition, the first [numeral unclear — 11 or 41?] Ṛks of the sūkta Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-18[?] are devoted to the Viśvedevas.
- In all these — apart from the sūkta Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-1[?] — in all the other sūktas, many deities are praised; that is, just as in other sūktas, Agni, Indra and the others are praised, and further, trees, rivers, mountains, cows, horses and the like are also celebrated.
- Besides these, in sūktas devoted to other deities, there are altogether about 17 [?] Ṛks here and there that are devoted to the Viśvedevas. In all these places the Viśvedevas themselves are stated to be the deities of those Ṛks.
- And in Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-155[?]-1, the Vasus, Rudras and Ādityas are joined with the Viśvedevas.
- In Vājasaneyi-saṃhitā (Śukla Yajurveda) 7-22 [?], Indra is prayed to come together with the Ādityas, the Vasus, the Maruts and the Viśvedevas. In the same Saṃhitā, in the mantras 33-5[?] to 4[?], Indra, Vāyu and other gods are praised along with the Viśvedevas.

⁹⁰. the source's English: "of tne [sic] worshipper"

⁹¹. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." As on p. 50, the references and counts in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where I am not sure of a digit; they must be re-checked against the page before being relied on.

- In the Atharvaveda 20-62[?]-6 the Viśvedevas are referred to in the singular; and many sūktas devoted to the Viśvedevas are found in the Atharvaveda.
- In the Brāhmaṇas also the name of the Viśvedevas is mentioned in places. In the Kauṣītaki Brāhmaṇa (8-14 [?]) and in the mantras 1-20 [?] of the Gopatha Brāhmaṇa, all the deities are given the name "Viśvedevas"...

original p. 51

The Viśvedevas (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.7 begins

⁹² "...and from that very word they are addressed (in the vocative)." In the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa (a passage numbered 4-6-?-? [?]) the Viśvedevas are called the rays of the Sun; in the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa (14-?-?-?? [?]) they are called the vital airs and the like; in the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa (2-1-?-? [?]) they are called the sacrificial rites; in the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa (3-4-?-? [?]) they are called Indra and Agni. In the Taittirīya Āraṇyaka (Tai. Ā. 3-1-6 [?]), Indra and Agni are praised together with the Viśvedevas.

In some of the Purāṇas the Viśvedevas are said to be the presiding deities of the directions. In the Nirukta (Ni. 12-4[?]) "Viśvedevas" is said to mean all the gods. Durgācārya, the commentator of the Nirukta, explains "Viśvedevas" as the rays of the Sun. Besides stating his own view that "Viśvedevas" means all the deities, Yāska also reports the view of Śākapūṇi. Śaunaka, speaking of the Viśvedevas in his work Brhaddevatā (Br. De. 3-? [?]) and the verses from ... to ...[?]), says that Yāska and Śaṇḍilya hold that "Viśvedevāḥ" means all the deities; Śaunaka's own view is the same.

Sāyaṇācārya

, in explaining this Rk, has stated his own view that the Viśvedevas are the thirty-one groups of gods, beginning with the Aśvins, who, taken together, are called "Viśvedevas."

Among Western scholars, Langlois, Kaegi and Hopkins hold that "Viśvedevas" means all the deities; Wilson, Griffith and Macdonell accept both senses: "all the deities," and "a distinct group of deities named Viśvedevas."

The main conclusion.

In earlier times — that is, in very ancient times — the sense "all the deities" was the established sense of "Viśvedevas"; in the course of time it came into use to understand "Viśvedevas" as the name of a distinct group of deities. In many Brāhmaṇas and in the Purāṇas the Viśvedevas are indicated as one distinct group of deities. But from Yāska's own Nirukta it is evident that there was a difference of opinion on this matter even in Yāska's time.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

"Avanti iti omāsaḥ" — because they protect, the gods are called "omāsaḥ." By the Uṇādi-sūtra "अवि सिवि सि शुषिभ्यः कित्" (avi sivi si śuṣibhyaḥ kit, उ. सू. १-१४१ [?]), after the roots "av" (to protect, etc.), "sivu" [print: "pivu"] (to sew, to weave together), "ṣiñ" (to bind) and "śuṣ" (to dry up) — roots which the print lists as "pivu tantu saṃtāne," "ṣiñ bandhane," "śuṣa śoṣaṇe" — the affix "man" comes, and it is "k"-marked (kit); so after the root "av," the affix "man"...

93

original pp. 52–54

93. Source pages 52 (even: "Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3"), 53 (odd: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6") and 54 (even). These three pages are pure Pāṇinian grammar in Kannada prose: the Kannada rendering of the derivations and the accent-debate that Sāyaṇa gave in Sanskrit on pp. 47–48. Per the standing convention they are characterized in order rather than translated line by line; every sūtra cited is kept in three layers, with its number as printed (small Kannada numerals, read with care but not independently re-verified). Nothing in them alters the sense of the Rik given on p. 48.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.7 (Kannada), concluded; Saṃhitā and Pada text of Rik 3.8

p. 52 — "omāsaḥ," "carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ," and the first stage of the accent-debate. - "Omāsaḥ" (from "av," to protect): the affix "man" comes, and though "man" is "k"-marked (which would bar guṇa), guṇa and "ūṭ" apply — by ज्वरत्वरस्रिव्यविमवामुपधायाश्च (jvara-tvara-srivyavi-mavām upadhāyāś ca, पा. ६-४-२०) the penultimate of the roots "jvar," "tvar," "sriv," "av," "mav" is replaced by "ūṭ" (also "kvi," "jhal" affixes), and the guṇa follows by सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ, पा. ७-३-८४, as I read the number). Then आज्ञसेरसुक् (āj-jaser asuk, पा. ७-१-५०) gives "omāsas"; the vocative is acute on its first syllable; hence "omāsaḥ." - "Carṣaṇayaḥ" = human beings; the gods "support them (by giving rain and the like)," hence "carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ." - The accent-debate (Kannada rendering of Sanskrit pp. 47–48). "Omāsaḥ" is an earlier vocative, a general term; by विभाषितं विशेषवचने बहुवचनम् (vibhāṣitaṃ viśeṣa-vacane bahuvacanam, पा. ८-१-७४) it optionally escapes being treated as non-existent. If it is not treated as non-existent, "omāsaḥ" is not accented as a pāda-initial and takes the eighth-chapter vocative-grave (aṣṭamika anudātta); the discussion then compares सुबामन्त्रिते पराङ्गवत्स्वरे (subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare, पा. २-१-२), the Mahābhāṣya rule "vatkaraṇaṃ svāśrayam api yathā syāt" (वत्करणं स्वाश्रयमपि यथा स्यात् — पा. म. ८-१-७२ [as printed]), अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् (anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam, पा. ६-१-१५८) and the parallel example "dravatpāṇī śubhaspatī" (द्रवत्पाणी शुभस्पती), exactly as in the Sanskrit on p. 47. Each time the point is that "parāṅgavad-bhāva" (treating the earlier vocative as part of the following word) applies only where the two words are semantically connected (समर्थः पदविधिः, samarthaḥ pada-vidhiḥ, पा. २-१-१). - The page ends in the middle of the argument over "viśve"

and "devāsaḥ" ("...in the case of apposition, how would the second pāda-initial 'ṛtāvṛdhau' (in the "mitrāvaruṇau ṛtāvṛdhau" kind of example) get the acute...").

p. 53 — the argument concluded; "devāsaḥ," "ā gata," "dāśvāṃsaḥ." - If there is no apposition (sāmānādhikaraṇya), the prohibition in नामन्त्रिते समानाधिकरणे सामान्यवचनम् (nāmantrite samānādhikaraṇe sāmānya-vacanam, पा. ८-१-७३) does not apply, so by आमन्त्रितं पूर्वमविद्यमानवत् (āmantritam pūrvam avidyamānavat, पा. ८-१-७२) the earlier vocative is treated as non-existent, and "subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare" does not apply; hence "viśve" keeps its pāda-initial accent and is acute, with no aṣṭamika-anudātta. "Devāsaḥ" is the qualifier of "viśve," from "divyanti iti devāḥ" ("those who shine"). The earlier objection — that, by the Paribhāṣā "avayava-śakteḥ samudāya-śaktir baliyāsī" (परि. ९८), the conventional sense of "deva" should override the etymological one — is answered by saying that if the conventional sense were taken, "deva" would be a general term, and "viśve" could not be given its distinct-class sense; the paribhāṣā rests, the print says, on a maxim about the "delayed understanding" (viḷambita-dhī) that the etymological sense would cause [the maxim's wording is unclear in the print, so I do not quote it]. The conclusion stated: the etymological sense ("shining ones") is to be taken here. "Devāsaḥ" gets its "-asaḥ" by आज्जसेरसुक् (āj-jaser asuk, पा. ७-१-५०). - "Ā gata" (= "āgacchata"): from "ā" + "gam"; the imperative second-person-plural ending "tha" is replaced by "ta" by तस्थस्थमिपां तां तं तामः (tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ, पा. ३-४-१०१) — in the print's wording; "śap" by कर्तरि शप् (kartari śap, पा. ३-१-६८) is elided by बहुलं छन्दसि (bahulam chandasi, पा. २-४-७३); the "m" of "gam" is dropped by अनुदात्तोपदेशवनतितनोत्यादीनामनुनासिकलोपो झलि क्ङिति (anudāttopadeśa-vanati-tanotyādīnām anunāsika-lopo jhali kṇiti, पा. ६-४-३७) → "gata"; since "ā" is a particle placed before it, "gata" takes nighāta (loss of accent) as a word following another. - "Dāśvāṃsaḥ": root

"dās" (to give); the participle-affix "kvasu"; by आर्धधातुकस्येड्वल्लादेः (ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ, पा. ७-२-३५) the "iṭ" would come to the "vasu" (a "val"-initial affix), but the "kṛ-sṛ-bhṛ-vṛ-stu-dru-sru" group-rule कृसृभृस्तुदृश्रुवो लिटि (kṛ-sṛ-bhṛ-vṛ-stu-dru-sru-vo liṭi, पा. ७-२-१३) restricts "iṭ" in the "liṭ" to those roots, and "dās" is not among them... ⁹⁴

p. 54 — "dāśvāṃsaḥ" concluded; "dāśuṣe." ⁹⁵ ...so "iṭ" does not occur; but since Pāṇini's own दाश्वान्साह्वान्मीढ्वांश्च (dāśvān sāhvān mīḍhvāṃś ca, पा. ६-१-१२) states these forms irregularly (nipātana), "iṭ" does not arise; and from the same statement the doubling prescribed by लिटि धातोरनभ्यासस्य (liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya, पा. ६-१-८) is also not made (the sūtra is "irregular" with "dās" described as a root with two syllables...). By the affix-accent "kvasu" is acute. Then the form "dāśuṣe" is derived [the print continues with "dāśuṣe" here, as the dative of "dāśvas"; the Rik has "dāśuṣaḥ," but the derivation is the same]: after "kvasu," the dative singular affix "e" gives "dāśvas + e"; वसोः संप्रसारणम् (vasoḥ samprasāraṇam, पा. ६-४-१३१) — "samprasāraṇa" for "vasu," since it ends in "vas" and is in "bha" (the stem-class before affixes that begin with a vowel, by यचि भम् yaci bham, पा. १-४-१८): the vowels "i, u, ṛ, ḷ" replacing "y, v, ṛ, ḷ" are named "samprasāraṇa" (इग्यणः संप्रसारणम्, ig-yaṇaḥ samprasāraṇam, पा. १-१-४५); then संप्रसारणाच्च (samprasāraṇāc ca, पा. ६-१-१०८) gives the single former form ("pūrvarūpa"): "dās + us + e"; and आदेशप्रत्यययोः (ādeśa-pratyayayoḥ, पा. ८-३-५९) turns the "s" into "ṣ": "dāśuṣe." ॥७॥

Sūkta 3, The Eighth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

94. continues p. 54

95. continuing

विश्वे देवासो अप्तुरः सुतमा गन्त तूर्णयः । उस्त्रा इव स्वसराणि ॥८॥

*viśve devāso apturaḥ sutam ā ganta tūrṇayaḥ | usrā iva
svasarāṇi || 8 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁹⁶ ⁹⁷

विश्वे । देवासः । अप्तुरः । सुतम् । आ । गन्त । तूर्णयः । उस्त्रा इव । स्वसराणि ॥८॥

original p. 55

Sūkta 3, Eighth Mantra: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

विश्वे देवास एतन्नामकगणरूपा देवविशेषाः सुतं सोममा गन्त । आगच्छन्तु । कीदृशाः ।
अप्तुरः । तत्तत्काले वृष्टिप्रदा इत्यर्थः । तूर्णयः त्वरायुक्ताः । यजमानमनुग्रहीतुमालस्यरहिता
इत्यर्थः । विश्वेषां देवानां सोमं प्रत्यागमने उस्त्रा इत्यादि दृष्टान्तः । उस्त्राः सूर्यरश्मयः स्वसराण्यहानि प्रत्यालस्यरहिता यथा समागच्छन्ति तद्वत् । *viśve devāsa etan-nāmaka-gaṇa-rūpā deva-viśeṣāḥ sutam somam ā gantā |
āgacchantu | kīdrśāḥ | aptuaḥ [sic: apturaḥ] | tat-tat-kāle
vr̥ṣṭi-pradā ity arthaḥ | tūrṇayaḥ tvarā-yuktāḥ | yajamānam anugrahītum ālasya-rahitā ity arthaḥ | viśveṣāṃ devānām
somam pratyāgamane usrā ity ādi dṛṣṭāntaḥ | usrāḥ sūrya-raśmayāḥ svasarāṇy ahāni pratyālasya-rahitā yathā
samāgacchanti tad-vat |*

Translation: "'Viśve devāsaḥ' — the particular class of gods, in the form of a group of that name — come to the pressed Soma. Let them come ('āgacchantu'). What kind are they? 'Apturaḥ' —

96. Reading note: in the Pada text the print shows a small dividing sign inside "apturaḥ" (read as "ap-turaḥ") and between "usrā" and "iva"; I give the words undivided.

97. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered into Devanagari/IAST; [?] where the print is unclear. The sense-portion is given in all three layers; the grammatical derivations at the end are characterized, with their sūtras kept, per convention.

givers of rain at the proper times. 'Tūrṇayaḥ' — full of haste, that is, free from sloth in order to favour the sacrificer. The words beginning 'usrā iva' give an illustration for the coming of all the gods to the Soma: just as 'usrāḥ' — the rays of the Sun — come each day without sloth to 'svasarāṇi,' the days, so (the gods come)." ⁹⁸

खेदये [?] इत्यादिषु पञ्चदशसु रश्मिनामसु उस्त्रा वसव इति पठितम् । वस्तोरित्यादिषु
द्वादशसु अहर्नामसु स्वसराणि ग्रंसो घर्म इति पठितम् । तच्छब्दं पदं यास्केन व्याख्यातम् ।
स्वसराण्यहानि भवन्ति स्वयंसारीण्यपि वा स्वरादित्यो भवति स एतानि सारयति । उस्त्रा इव स्वसराणीत्यपि निगमो भवति । नि. ५-४ [?] । इति ॥ khedaye [?] ity ādiṣu
pañcadaśasu raśmi-nāmasu usrā vasava iti paṭhitam | vastor
ity ādiṣu dvādaśasu ahar-nāmasu svasarāṇi ghraṃso gharma iti paṭhitam | tac-chabdam padaṃ yāskena vyākhyātam | svasarāṇy ahāni bhavanti svayaṃ-sārīṇy api vā svar āditya bhavati sa etāni sārāyati | usrā iva svasarāṇīty api nigamo
bhavati | nī. 5-4 [?] | iti |

Translation: "Among the fifteen names for 'rays,' beginning with 'khedaye' [?], 'usrāḥ' and 'vasavaḥ' are read; among the twelve names for 'day,' beginning with 'vastoh,' 'svasarāṇi,' 'ghraṃsaḥ' and 'gharma' are read. Yāska has explained that word: 'Svasarāṇi are the days — or those that move of themselves; or the Sun is "svar," and he makes these go.' And 'usrā iva svasarāṇi' is also a Vedic quotation (Nirukta [numbers read 5-4 ?])."

॥ Grammar within the Bhāṣya ॥ "Devāsaḥ": formed with the "ac" affix of the "pacādi" class, which is "c"-marked, so the last syllable is acute (पचाद्यच्, pacādy ac; पा. ३-१-१३४). "Apturaḥ": from the root "tur" (to hasten) with the "śluu" (reduplicating) stem, with "kvip" in the sense "those who speed [the rain]," and the preceding word's own accent retained as it is a "gati/kāraka/

98. Correction to my own IAST above: the Rik's word is "apturaḥ" — the stray "aptuaḥ" in the line is a slip in my transliteration, not a variant reading.

upapada"-first compound. "Ā ganta": the second-person-plural form used for the third (by vyatyaya), "śap" elided by बहुलं छन्दसि (bahulaṃ chandasi), the ending replaced by "ta" by तस्य तप्तनप्तनथनाश्च (tasya tap-tanap-tanathanāś ca, पा. ७-१-४५), the "p"-marked "tap" being non-"ñit" so that the loss of the nasal does not occur, and nighāta by "tiṇ atīṇaḥ." "Tūrṇayaḥ": root "tvar" (to be agitated), Uṇādi affix "ni[t]" in the list "vahi-śri-śru-yu-dru-glāhā-tvaribhyo ni(t)" (उ. ४-५१ [?]); "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. "Usrā iva": with "iva" the case-ending is not dropped (the compound-rule with its vārttika, पा. २-१-४ [?]), the preceding word keeps its natural accent (पा. ६-२-१, "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam"). "Svasarāṇi": "saratīti saraḥ sūryaḥ" — "sara" is the Sun (root "sr," with "ac"); "svaḥ saro yeṣām tāni svasarāṇi ahāni" — the days of which the Sun is the mover — a bahuvrīhi, with the first member "svar" acute by "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (पा. ६-२-१).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अप्तुरः (apturah) — givers of rain (those who give rain) | (हे) विश्वे देवासः (he viśve devāsaḥ) — O Viśvedevas | उस्मा इव स्वसराणि (usrā iva svasarāṇi) — as the rays of the Sun reach (us) in the daytime | सुतम् (sutam) — the Soma-juice that has been prepared (for you to drink) | तूर्णयः (tūrṇayaḥ) — those who are speedy (swiftly, quickly) | आ गन्त (ā ganta) — come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Viśvedevas! You are the givers of rain — that is, you cause the rain to fall. The Soma-juice has been prepared for you. To drink it, come quickly, as the rays of the Sun, at daytime (as soon as the sun has risen), come and reach us. ⁹⁹

English rendering of Rik 3.8; Special topics: "apturaḥ," "sutam," "tūrṇayaḥ"

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"May Visvedevas, givers of rain, swift in action, come to the libation (of soma juice) as the (sun's) rays (come) to the days."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

अप्तुरः (apturaḥ) — The Bhāṣyakāra and Skandasvāmī both explain this as "vr̥ṣṭi-pradāḥ" — that is, "those who give rain." Among Western scholars, for this word: "Gloss" [as printed; I take it to be a scholar's name rendered thus] — "Stepping over an expanse of water, commanding over water, overcoming all difficulty"; Griffith — "active, pushing, hardworking"; Ludwig — "Securer of rains, Active, quick, swift"; Williams — "shedder of rains"; Rosen — "rich in rains"; Benfey — "worthy, active, diligent." This word "apturaḥ" is used not only of the Viśvedevas but also of other deities — the Aśvins, Indra, Agni, Pavamāna-Soma and others:

For the Aśvins: ये अप्तुरो दिव्यासो न गृध्रा अभि प्रयो नासत्या वहन्ति ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११८-४) ye apturo divyāso na gr̥dhṛā abhi prayo nāsatyā vahanti || (ṛ. saṃ. 1-118-4) Gloss: "Those (horses) that are rain-bringers, like heavenly vultures, carry the Nāsatyas to the offering."

For Indra: यज्ञेन गातुमप्तुरो विविद्विरे धियो हिन्वाना उशिजो मनीषिणः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-३१-५ तथा ३-५१-२ [?]) yajñena gātum apturo vividvire dhiyo hinvānā uśijo manīṣiṇaḥ || (ṛ. saṃ. 3-31-5 and 3-51-2 [?]) Gloss: "By sacrifice the active, wise, eager singers found the path, stirring their thoughts."

99. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." English passages are as printed in the source. Reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals; [?] where uncertain. Glosses on the verses are mine.

For Pavamāna-Soma: इन्द्रं वर्धन्तो अप्तुरः कृण्वन्तो विश्वमार्यम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-६३-५; ९-६१-१३ [?]; ९-६३-२१ [?]; ९-१०८-२ [?]) indram vardhanto apturāḥ kṛṇvanto viśvam āryam || (r. sam. 9-63-5; 9-61-13 [?]; 9-63-21 [?]; 9-108-2 [?]) Gloss: "Strengthening Indra, the swift ones, making the whole world noble (Āryan)."

For Agni: अग्निं यन्तुरमप्तुरमृतस्य योगे वनुषः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-२१-११ [?]) इत्यादि agnim yanturam apturam ṛtasya yoge vanuṣaḥ || (r. sam. 3-21-11 [?]) ity ādi Gloss: "Agni, the controller, the rain-giver, at the yoking of the Order, to the one who honours." [tentative]

सुतम् (sutam)

— "Pressed with stones, crushed, the juice squeezed out and filtered so as to be fit for drinking." Along with it the word "somam" sometimes occurs and sometimes does not; in both cases the sense is the Soma-juice.

तूर्यः (tūrṇayaḥ) — "Tvaramāṇāḥ" — hastening, vigilant, quick: the Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "those who come quickly, without sloth, to give the fruit of the sacrifice to the sacrificer." Western scholars too, in various words — "speedy, diligently, hastily, quickly, swift, quick in work" — accept the Bhāṣyakāra's sense.¹⁰⁰

original p. 57

Special topics: "usrā iva," "svasarāṇi"; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.8 begins

उस्मा इव (usrā iva) and स्वसराणि (svasarāṇi) — The word "usrā" is read among the fifteen words that denote rays (Nighaṇṭu [print: "2-15"?] [?]), and, in the sense "cows," among the nine words (Nighaṇṭu [print: "3-9"?] [?]); and the word "svasarāṇi" is read among the twelve words that denote "day," and also among the twenty-two names that denote "house." Hence, for the illustrative sentence "usrā iva svasarāṇi," besides the sense the Bhāṣyakāra gives, one may also render it "as cows go to their own homes." Both Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava give both kinds of meaning. Western scholars too explain "svasarāṇi" by "day, cowshed, stall, abode, grazing" and similar words ¹⁰¹. The word "svasarāṇi" is used in the Ṛks 1-34-8 [?]; 2-19-2 [?]; 2-34-5 [?]; 3-60-6 [?].

100. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁰² "Devāsaḥ": by नन्दिग्रहिपचादिभ्यो ल्युणिन्यचः (nandi-grahi-pacādibhyo lyu-ṇiny-acah, पा. ३-१-१३४) the affix "ac" comes after the "pacādi" root "div"; in the nominative plural "āj-jaser asuk" (पा. ७-१-५०) gives the augment "asuk"; the "ac" affix being "c"-marked, the last syllable is acute by चितः (citaḥ, पा. ६-१-१६३). "Apturaḥ": the root "tur" (to hasten) is in the "juhotyādi" group, taking "ślu"; "apaḥ tuturti" — "they make the waters hasten," i.e., cause rain at the proper times; with this intended sense, "kvip" is added after "tur" by क्विप् च (kvip ca, पा. ३-२-७६), all of whose letters are then elided; with "jas" the form "apturaḥ" results; the accent of the second member of the kṛt-compound is retained by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt, पा. ६-२-१३९). "Ā ganta" (= "āgacchantu"): the second-person-plural "tha" stands for the third (vyatyaya); "tha" becomes "ta" by तस्थस्थमिपां तान्तन्तामः (tasthasthamipāṃ tāntantāmaḥ, पा. ३-४-१०१); the "śap" is elided by बहुलं छन्दसि (bahulaṃ chandasi); "ta" becomes "tap" (तस्य तप्तनप्तनथनाश्च, tasya tap-tanap-tanathanās ca, पा. ७-१-४५); since "tap" is "p"-marked, the "sārvadhātuka" is not "ñit" (सार्वधातुकमपित्, sārvadhātukam apit, पा. १-२-४), so the nasal "m" of "gam" is not elided (अनुदात्तोपदेशवनतितनोत्यादीनामनुनासिकलोपो झलि क्ङिति, पा. ६-४-३७), and by नश्चापदान्तस्य झलि (naś cāpadāntasya jhali, पा. ८-३-२४) the "n/m"

101. English as printed in the source

102. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept not at the end of a word before a "jhal" becomes anusvāra, which by अनुस्वारस्य ययि परसवर्णः (anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ, पा. ८-४-५८) takes the nasal of the following consonant's class... ¹⁰³

original p. 58

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.8 concluded; Sūkta 3, Ninth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, and the opening of the Bhāṣya

The grammar of Rik 3.8 concluded ¹⁰⁴: "...by अनुस्वारस्य ययि परसवर्णः (anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ, पा. ८-४-५८) the anusvāra takes the nasal of the class of the following letter — 'n' — giving 'ā gan-ta'; here तिङ्ङितिङः (tiṅ atīṇaḥ, पा. ८-१-२८) gives the unaccented form." "Tūrṇayaḥ" (from "tvar"): by the Uṇādi-sūtra वहिश्चिश्चुयुद्गलाहात्वरिभ्यो णित् (vahi-śri-śru-yu-dru-glā-hā-tvaribhyo ṇit, उ. सू. ४-५१ [as printed, read with low confidence]) — roots "vah" (to carry), "śriṇ" (to serve), "śru" (to hear), "yu" (to mix), "dru" (to go), "glai" (to wither), "ohāk" (to go), "tvarā" (to be agitated) — the affix "ṇi" is added, and it is "nitya"; from "tvarā saṃbhrame" we get "tvar + ṇi"; by ज्वरत्वरसिव्यविमवामुपधायाश्च (jvara-tvara-srivyavi-mavām upadhāyāś ca, पा. ६-४-२०) "ūṭ" appears and the affix's "n" becomes "ṇ" by रषाभ्यां नो णः समानपदे (raṣābhyāṃ no ṇaḥ samāna-pade, पा. ८-४-१) → "tūrṇi"; being "ṇ"-marked the first syllable is acute; the nominative plural gives "tūrṇayaḥ." "Uśrā iva": by "ivena saha nitya-samāso vibhakty-alopaḥ pūrva-pada-prakṛti-svaratvaṃ ca" (इवेन सह नित्यसमासो विभक्त्यलोपः पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वं च — पा. २-१-४ वा. २ [as printed]) the compound is obligatory, the case-ending is not dropped, and the first member keeps its natural accent. "Svasarāṇi": "saratīti saraḥ sūryaḥ" — "sara" is the Sun ('sṛ,' to go, with "ac" of the pacādi class); "svaḥ saro yeṣāṃ tāni svasarāṇy

103. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

The grammar at the top is the Kannada rendering of what Sanskrit p. 55 already gave; characterized, sūtras kept.

104. continuing from p. 57

ahāni" — days of which the Sun is the mover; in this bahuvrīhi, by बहुव्रीही प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, पा. ६-२-१) the first member keeps its accent; hence "sva" is acute on its first syllable. ॥८॥

Sūkta 3, The Ninth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विश्वे देवासो असिध एहिमायासो अद्रुहः । मेधं जुषन्त वह्नयः ॥९॥

viśve devāso asridha ehimāyāso adruhaḥ | medhaṃ juṣanta vahnayaḥ || 9 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विश्वे । देवासः । असिधः । एहिमायासः । अद्रुहः । मेधम् । जुषन्त । वह्नयः ॥९॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ¹⁰⁵

विश्वेदेवास एतन्नामका देवविशेषा मेधं हविर्यज्ञसंबद्धं जुषन्ते । सेवन्ताम् । कीदृशाः । असिधः क्षयरहिताः शोषरहिता वा एहिमायासः सर्वतो व्याप्तप्रज्ञाः । यद्वा । सौचीकमग्निमप्सु प्रविष्टमेहि मा यासीरिति यदवोचन् तदनुकरणहेतुकोऽयं विश्वेषां देवानां व्यपदेश एहिमायास इति । अद्रोहः ... viśvedevāsa etan-nāmakā deva-viśeṣā medhaṃ havir-yajña-sambaddhaṃ juṣante | sevantām | kīdrśāḥ | asridhaḥ kṣaya-rahitāḥ śoṣa-rahitā vā ehimāyāsaḥ sarvato vyāpta-prajñāḥ | yad vā | saucikam agnim apsu praviṣṭam ehi mā yāsīr iti yad avocan tad-anukaraṇa-hetuko 'yaṃ viśveṣāṃ devānāṃ vyapadeśa ehimāyāsa iti | adroho ...

Translation: "The Viśvedevas — a particular class of gods of that name — let them enjoy ('juṣantām' = 'sevantām') the 'medha,' the oblation connected with the sacrifice. What kind are they? 'Asridhaḥ' — free from decay, or free from drying-up; 'ehimāyāsaḥ' — those whose wisdom (prajñā) pervades everywhere. Or else: because they said, to Agni the Saucika who had entered the waters, 'Come! do not go!' ("ehi mā yāsīḥ" — the print on this page shows the second word ambiguously, but the Bhāṣya's own next lines, and the Kannada commentary on p. 60, give "mā"), this designation 'ehimāyāsaḥ' for the Viśvedevas arose from that imitation (of their speech). 'Adrohaḥ' ..." ¹⁰⁶

original p. 59

Rik 3.9: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (concluded), grammar, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ¹⁰⁷

...द्रोहरहिताः । वह्नयो वोढारो धनानां प्रापयितारः ॥ ...droha-rahitāḥ | vahnayo voḍhāro dhanānām prāpayitāraḥ | |

Translation:

"Adruhaḥ" — free from malice (droha). 'Vahnayaḥ' — bearers; those who bring about the attaining of riches."

Grammar of Rik 3.9 (characterized): - "Asridhaḥ" — from "sridh," in the sense of decay (or of drying up), "kvip" in the abstract sense after the "sampadādi" class (पा. ३-३-१०८ with its vārttika [?]); a negative bahuvrīhi; setting aside the first-member's accent, नञ्सुभ्याम् (nañ-subhyām) gives acute on the last syllable of the second member. - "Ehimāyāsaḥ" — "īḥ" (to strive); "ā samantād īhate" — "he who strives on all sides" = "ehiḥ"; the affix "in" (३. ४-११२ [?]) comes to roots generally, and, being "n"-marked, the first syllable is acute; "ehir māyā prajñā yeṣām" — a bahuvrīhi in which the first member keeps its accent. Alternatively: the word "ehi" is the imperative second-person-singular after the "ā" accented (loṇ-madhyama-ekavacana) with

106. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where the print is unclear. The grammar is characterized, sūtras kept; the sense is transcribed in full.

107. continuing from p. 58, at "adrohaḥ"

the unaccented ending lost by "tiñ atīṇaḥ" nighāta, with the fusing vowel "e" acute — and then "ehi" + "mā" of "mā yāsīḥ": "those who have the two syllables 'māyā' in the phrase 'ehi mā yāsīḥ'" = "ehimāyāsaḥ"; the first member keeps its accent. - "Adruhaḥ" — "druh" (to wish to injure), "kvip" by "sampadādi" in the abstract; negative bahuvrīhi; last syllable of the second member acute by "nañ-subhyām." - "Medham" — "medhṛ" (to unite): "that which is united with, approached by the gods" = "medham," oblation; "ghañ" in the object-sense; "ñ"-marked, so first syllable acute. - "Juṣanta" — in the sense "sevantām" ("let them enjoy"), in the Veda the "luñ, lañ, liṭ" may stand for the imperative (छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिटः, chandasi luñ-lañ-liṭaḥ, पा. ३-४-६); since the sense is joined to the root meanings of "druh" etc., "lañ" is chosen; by बहुलं छन्दस्यमाङ्गयोगेऽपि (bahulaṃ chandasy amāñ-yoge 'pi, पा. ६-४-७५) the augment "aṭ" does not occur. - "Vahnayaḥ" — from "vah" with the Uṇādi "ṇi/ni" (वहिशी..., vahi-śri...); "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. ॥९॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

विश्वे देवासः (viśve devāsaḥ) — O Viśvedevas, (you) | अस्रिधः (asridhaḥ) — free from decay, free from destruction | एहिमायासः (ehimāyāsaḥ) — those who have wisdom (knowledge) in all directions and in all matters | अद्रुहः (adruhaḥ) — those who are free from malice (hostility) | वह्नयः (vahnayaḥ) — those who bring (to those who praise you, wealth and lordship), who carry | (such you) मेधम् (medham) — the oblation that belongs to the sacrifice | जुषन्त (juṣanta) — enjoy (eat).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Viśvedevas! You are free from destruction, complete in wisdom about all matters — that is, all-knowing. You are not those who harbour hostility to another. You are those who bring to the ones who praise you wealth and lordship. Such as you are, partake of the oblation connected with the sacrifice that we offer.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"May the Visve devas, who are immortal, Omniscient, devoid of malice and bearers (of riches), accept the Sacrificial food." ¹⁰⁸

original p. 60

Special topics on Rik 3.9: "asridhaḥ," "ehimāyāsaḥ," and the legend of Agni in the waters (opening)

असिधः (asridhaḥ)

— The Bhāṣyakāra explains this as "one free of decay, or free of drying-up" — in the source's own English, "not causing drought, or dryness." Western scholars have used the words (English as printed): "Unfailing, undecaying, undrying, undaunted, fearless, friendly, harmless," and the like.

एहिमायासः (ehimāyāsaḥ) — This word occurs in the Ṛgveda in this Rik alone, nowhere else. The Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "sarvato vyāpta-prajñāḥ" ("those whose understanding pervades everywhere"). Skandasvāmī gives "ahīna-māyāḥ, anyūna-prajñānāḥ" (अहीनमायाः अन्यूनप्रज्ञानाः — "those of undiminished wisdom, of unlesened understanding"). Both of them, and also Veṅkaṭamādhava, in considering the origin of this word, or how it came to be a fixed term, quote a sentence of the Kauṣītaki Brāhmaṇa:

108. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

सौचीकमग्निमप्सु प्रविष्टमेहि मा यासीरिति यदवोचन् तदनुकरणहेतुकोऽयं विश्वेषां देवानां
व्यपदेश एहिमायास इति । *saucīkam agnim apsu praviṣṭam ehi mā yāsīr iti yad avocan tad-anukaraṇa-hetuko 'yam viśveṣāṃ
devānāṃ vyapadeśa ehimāyāsa iti* |

Translation: "Because they said to Agni Saucīka, who had entered the waters, 'Come! do not go!' — this designation of the Viśvedevas, 'ehimāyāsaḥ,' arises from the imitation of that speech."

That is: seeing the Agni named Saucīka entering the waters, the gods said "ehi mā yāsīḥ" — "come, do not go" — and the word "ehimāyāsaḥ" is thought to have become the fixed word through imitation of those words. This matter is described in detail in the tenth Maṇḍala, sūkta 51

of the Ṛgveda (Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-51-6 [print]):

अग्नेः पूर्वे भ्रातरो अर्थमेतं रथीवाध्वानमन्वावरीवुः । तस्माद्भिया वरुण दूरमायं गौरो न
क्षेप्नोरविजे ज्यायाः ॥ कुर्मस्त आयुरजरं यदग्ने यथा युक्तो जातवेदो न रिष्याः । अथा बहासि
सुमनस्यमानो भागं देवेभ्यो हविषः सुजात ॥ प्रयाजान्मे अनुयाजांश्च केवलानूर्जस्वन्तं हविषो
दत्त भागम् । घृतं चापां पुरुषं चौषधीनामग्नेश्च दीर्घमायुरस्तु देवाः ॥ तव प्रयाजा अनुयाजाश्च
केवल ऊर्जस्वन्तो हविषः सन्तु भागाः । तवाग्ने यज्ञोऽयमस्तु सर्वस्तुभ्यं नमन्तां प्रदिशश्चतस्रः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-५१-६ से ९)

*agneḥ pūrve bhrātaro artham etaṃ rathīvādhvānam anvāvarīvuḥ | tasmād bhiyā varuṇa dūram āyaṃ gauro na
kṣepnor avije jyāyāḥ | | kurmas ta āyur ajaraṃ yad agne yathā yukto jātavedo na riṣyāḥ | athā vahāsi sumanasyamāno
bhāgaṃ devebhyo haviṣaḥ sujāta | | prayājān me anuyājāṃś
ca kevalān ūrjasvantaṃ haviṣo datta bhāgam | ghr̥taṃ cāpāṃ puruṣaṃ cauṣadhīnām agneś ca dīrgham āyur astu devāḥ | | tava prayājā anuyājāś ca kevala ūrjasvanto haviṣaḥ santu bhāgāḥ | tavāgne yajño 'yam astu sarvas tubhyaṃ namantāṃ
pradiśaś catasraḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-51-6 to 9)*

Gloss (mine; the source gives no translation of these four verses on this page): "(Agni:) 'Agni's elder brothers went this way, like a charioteer along his road; from fear of that, O Varuṇa, I have come far away, like a buffalo from the archer's shot.' (The gods:) 'We shall make your life unageing, O Agni, so that you, Jātavedas, bound to us, shall not come to harm; and then, well-disposed, you will carry the portion of the oblation to the gods, O well-born one.' (Agni:) 'Give me the fore-offerings and after-offerings, whole, and a strong portion of the oblation; and may ghee (the essence of the waters) and the "puruṣa" of the plants and Agni's long life be [mine], O gods.' (The gods:) 'Yours are the fore-offerings and after-offerings, whole; may the portions of the oblation be full of strength; yours, O Agni, be this whole sacrifice; may the four quarters bow to you.'" [tentative; for orientation only]

This sūkta is a conversation between the gods and Agni. The main point: Agni had three elder brothers, named Bhūpati, Bhuvanapati and Bhūtānāmpati, who, like Agni, used to carry the oblations to the gods in the sacrifice. When, in the sacrifice, the oblation was made with the thunderbolt-like cry "vaṣaṭ," these three brothers died. Seeing that, the youngest, Agni, frightened, went into the waters and hid. While the gods were searching for Agni, the fish in the water [told] the gods that Agni was in the water... ¹⁰⁹

original p. 61

The legend of Agni in the waters (concluded); the Taittirīya Saṃhitā version

¹¹⁰ Then the gods came and addressed Agni; that very conversation is what is described in this sūkta. The gods asked Agni to come up out of the water and, as before, to carry the oblations for them; but Agni, because his brothers had died, said that the same fate awaited him too, and that therefore he would not come. The gods said, "Do not fear death; we shall so arrange it that you do not have the fear of death." Agni then said: "Very well; but besides keeping the fear of death from me, in the sacrifices the prayāja, anuyāja, ūrjasvat, sviṣṭakṛt, ājyabhāga and other special oblations must be given to me." The gods agreed, gave him the portions of the oblation, and appointed him again as before to the work of oblation-bearing, so that he would carry the chief role in the sacrifice, be worshipped by all, and have long life. This is the main sense of this sūkta.

In the

Taittirīya Saṃhitā

of the Yajurveda the matter stands thus:

अग्नेस्त्रयो ज्यायाः सो भ्रातर आसन्ते देवेभ्यो हव्यं वहन्तः प्रामीयन्त सोऽग्निरबिभेदित्थं वाव
स्य आर्तिमार्ष्यतीति स निलायत सोऽपः प्राविशत्तं देवताः प्रैषमैच्छन्तं मत्स्यः
प्राब्रवीत्तमशपद्धियोधियो त्वा वध्यासुर्यो मा प्रावोचे इति तस्मान्मत्स्यं धियोधियो घ्नन्ति शप्तो
हि तमन्वविन्दन्तमब्रुवन्नुप न आ वर्तस्व हव्यं नो वहेति सोऽब्रवीद्वरं वृणै यदेव गृहीतस्याहुतस्य
बर्हिः परिधिस्क्रन्दात्तन्मे भ्रातृणां भागधेयमसदिति तस्माद्यद्गृहीतस्याहुतस्य बर्हिः परिधि स्कन्दति तेषां तद्भागधेयं तानेव तेन प्रीणाति परिधीन्परि दधाति रक्षसामपहत्यै ॥ (तै. सं.
२-६-६) agnes trayo jyāyāṃso bhrātara āsante devebhyo havyaṃ vahantaḥ prāmīyanta so 'gnir abibhed itthaṃ vāva sya ārtim ārṣyatīti sa nilāyata so 'paḥ prāviśat taṃ devatāḥ praiṣam aicchaṃs taṃ matsyaḥ prābravīt tam aśapad dhiyodhiyo tvā vadhyāsur yo mā prāvoce iti tasmān matsyaṃ dhiyodhiyo ghnanti śapto hi tam anvavindan tam abruvann upa na ā vartasva havyaṃ no vaheti so 'bravīd vamaṃ vṛṇai yad eva

110. Continuing from p. 60: "...the fish in the water told the gods that Agni was in the water."

109. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Taittirīya text below is transcribed from the Kannada print letter by letter; I have not corrected it from outside knowledge, and a few of its spellings look irregular, which I leave as printed.

*grhītasyāhutasya barhiḥ paridhiskandāt tan me bhrātrṇām bhāgadheyam asad iti tasmād yad grhītasyāhutasya barhiḥ paridhi skandati teṣām tad bhāgadheyam tām eva tena prīṇāti
paridhīn pari dadhāti rakṣasām apahatyai || (tai. saṃ. 2-6-6)*

Translation (mine, following the Kannada account below; where the Sanskrit is irregular I give the sense of the Kannada): "Agni had three elder brothers, who carried the oblation to the gods; they perished. Agni feared, 'this very distress will reach me,' and hid; he entered the waters. The gods sought him out; a fish told them, and he cursed it —
'may those who kill you (fish), kill you with cleverness (dhiyodhiyo)' — and therefore people kill fish by their wits, for it was cursed. The gods found him and said, 'Come back to us, carry the oblation for us.' He said, 'Let me choose a boon:
whatever of the offered oblation, of the barhis, falls (outside) beyond the fire-sticks (paridhi), let that be the share of my brothers.' Therefore whatever of the offered oblation falls beyond the paridhi is their share; with that he satisfies them; he lays the paridhis around, for the driving away of the rākṣasas." (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 2-6-6, as printed)

The Kannada account (translated): Formerly Agni had three elder brothers; they used to carry to the gods the oblations that the sacrificer gave in the sacrifices. When they died, Agni, fearing that the same fate might reach him too, ran off, entered the water and hid, seen by no one. While the gods were searching for where Agni had gone, a fish in the water told the gods that Agni was hiding in the water. Hearing this tale-bearing of the fish, Agni was angry and cursed it: "From now on, people shall catch the fish that are in the water, by nets and other means, and kill them." So even now people catch fish and eat them. Afterwards the gods said to Agni, "O Agni, come back and be diligent in the work of bearing the oblation for us." To this Agni said — (he asked that) the paridhis used in the sacrifice when oblations are made (special bundles of darbha-grass laid on the four sides around the fire, so that rākṣasas do not come and obstruct the sacrifice), that the share of the ājya and other oblations that falls outside (on the near side) be the oblation-share of his brothers; if this boon were granted, he would come out of the water and carry the oblation to the gods as before. The gods agreed and gave him that boon. Thus the story runs.¹¹¹

original p. 62

Special topics on Rik 3.9 (continued): "ehimāyāsaḥ" and "māyā"

Therefore, according to the opinion of some, the word "ehimāyāsaḥ" became a fixed word through imitation of the sentence "ehi mā yāsīḥ" ("Do not go — come!") which the gods addressed to Agni when he was entering the water.

Some hold that "ehimāyāsaḥ" is merely a variant form of the word "ahimāyāḥ." This word, in its different case-forms, ahimāyān (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-1[?]0-4 [?]), ahimāyāḥ (Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-3[?]-1[?]; 10-6[?]-4 [?]) and ahimāyasya (Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-20-2 [?]), is used only in the four Ṛks of which these are the references. For this word Western scholars give, (English as printed):

- Roth — "Of many shapes or agile like a serpent, tricky as a serpent."
- Williams — "Having unsurpassable wisdom."
- Griffith — "Having Superhuman Power."
- Ludwig — "Having the wiles of serpents [sic]."

111. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are read as best I can and all marked [?]; English in the source is reproduced as printed, misprints marked [sic].

— thus various senses are given. For the word "māyā" the following senses can be given in the Ṛgveda ¹¹²:

1. Creative power.
2. Miraculous power (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-160-3 [?]; 3-12-5 [?] &c.)
3. Power of assuming various shapes (Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-53-8 [?]; 5-62-6 [?]; 6-22-6 [?] &c.)
4. Wiles, tactics, tricks (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-80-2 [?]; 6-18-9 [?] &c.)
5. Sorcery, witchcraft, magic (Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-27-16 [?]; 8-22-15 [?]; 6-42-9 [?] &c.)
6. Illusion (Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-54-2 [?])

Formerly this word may have carried the senses "wisdom, intelligence (buddhi), skill (kuśālate)." In the course of time it appears that its use in other senses became established. In the Purāṇas and the Vedānta as well, senses such as "prakṛti, divine power, creative power, supernatural power" are the established ones for "māyā." In the Ṛgveda, forms of this word — māyā, māyayā, māyāḥ, māyābhiḥ, māyām, māyāvān, māyāvināḥ, māyāvinam, māyinaḥ, māyinam, māyinā, māyinām, māyā and others — are used in many Ṛks in different senses; their senses will be explained in the places concerned. ¹¹³

original p. 63

"adruhaḥ"; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.9 (Kannada) — characterized

अद्रुहः (adruhaḥ)

— This word is derived from the root "druh" ("druha jighāṃsāyām," to wish to injure). The sense of this word is "free from malice"; in the source's English: "not injuring, kindly

¹¹². English as printed

¹¹³. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The grammar is the Kannada rendering of Sanskrit p. 59, characterized in order, with the sūtras kept; I note where the numbers differ from the Sanskrit page.

disposed, without evil, without ill-will, without hostility, Guileless, not deceiving, devoid of malignity." Though different words are used to explain the sense, the chief intention is one.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ - "Asridhaḥ": the root "sridh" (denoting decay, or drying); by संपदादिभ्यः क्विप् (sampadādibhyaḥ kvip, पा. ३-३-१०८, वा. ९ [?]) "kvip" in the abstract sense; the negative "nañ" compounded with "sridh" as a bahuvrīhi ("na sridh yeṣām te"); setting aside the first-member accent of बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, पा. ६-२-१), by नञ्सुभ्याम् (nañ-subhyām, पा. ६-२-१७२) the last syllable of the second member is acute — "asridh" is end-acute. - "Ehimāyāsaḥ": "ā" + root "īh ceṣṭāyām" (to strive): "he who strives on all sides" = "ehi"; an Uṇādi affix "in" comes to roots generally (the sūtra-number as printed here — "2-1[?]" — differs from that on p. 59, which read "4-112"; unresolved), and, being "n"-marked, the first syllable is acute; "ehir māyā prajñā yeṣām te ehimāyāsaḥ" — a bahuvrīhi with first-member accent (पा. ६-२-१). Alternatively — as a particle-like first member it is first-syllable acute; behind it the root "iṇ gatau" in the imperative second-person-singular "ihi" (loṇ madhyama-ekavacana), which loses its accent by तिङ्ङितिङः (tiṇ atinaḥ, पा. ८-१-२८); with "ā" + "ihi," the guṇa-substitution gives a single "e," which, by एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (ekādeśa udāttēnodāttah, पा. ८-२-५), is acute. In that analysis the word is "ehi" together with the two syllables "māyā" of the phrase "ehi mā yāsīḥ": "those who have the two letters 'māyā' with the word 'ehi'" = "ehimāyāsaḥ," a bahuvrīhi keeping its first-member accent. - "Adruhaḥ": the root "druh jighāṃsāyām" is in the "sampadādi" group, so "kvip" comes; with "nañ" as a bahuvrīhi, by नञ्सुभ्याम् the second member is end-acute. - "Medham": from the root "medhṛ saṅgame" (to unite): "medhyate saṅgamyate devaiḥ iti medham" — the oblation, because it is united with the gods; the affix "ghañ" in the object-sense; "ñ"-marked, hence first-syllable acute. - "Juṣanta":

since the sense of the root is joined with those of "druh" and the like, छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिटः (chandasi luṅ-laṅ-liṭaḥ, पा. ३-४-६) gives "laṅ" in the sense "sevatām" ("let them enjoy"); and by बहुलं छन्दस्यमाङ्गयोगेऽपि (bahulaṃ chandasy amāṅ-yoge 'pi, पा. ६-४-७५ [as printed "...-4-75"]) — the augments "aṭ" and "āṭ" come variably, even when there is no "māṅ"; in some places, even where "māṅ" is present, they come; hence here no "āṭ" augment arises. ^{114 115}

original p. 64

Rik 3.9 grammar concluded; Sūkta 3, Tenth Mantra (the Sarasvatī ṛcra): Saṃhitā, Pada, and the opening of the Bhāṣya

¹¹⁶ ..."vahnayaḥ": here the affix "ni" comes by the Uṇādi-sūtra "vahi-śri-..." (as at p. 58); "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. ॥९॥

Sūkta 3, The Tenth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

पावका नः सरस्वती वाजेभिर्वाजिनीवती । यज्ञं वष्टु धियावसुः ॥१०॥

pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī vājebhir vājinīvatī | yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ || 10 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

पावका । नः । सरस्वती । वाजेभिः । वाजिनीवती । यज्ञम् । वष्टु । धियावसुः ॥१०॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

सारस्वते तृचे या प्रथमा सान्वारम्भणीयेष्ट्या सरस्वत्याः पुरोनुवाक्या । तथा दर्शपूर्णमासारप्स्यमान इत्यस्मिन्कण्डे पावका नः सरस्वती पावीरवी कन्या चित्रायुः । आ. २-८ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् ॥ sārasvate ṛce yā prathamā

sānvārambhaṇīyeṣṭyā sarasvatyāḥ puronuvākyā | tathā darśa-pūrṇamāsārapsyamāna ity asmin kaṇḍe pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī pāvīravī kanyā citrāyuh | ā. 2-8 [?] | iti sūtritām | |

Translation:

"In the Sārasvata ṛca (the triplet addressed to Sarasvatī), the first R̥k is the invitatory verse (puronuvākyā) of Sarasvatī in the "sānvārambhaṇīya" sacrificial offering; and likewise, in the section beginning "darśa-pūrṇamāsārapsyamāna" (one about to begin the new- and full-moon sacrifices), the R̥ks "pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī" and "pāvīravī kanyā citrāyuh" are laid down in the sūtra (the source reference as printed is "ā. 2-8" [?])."

सरस्वती देवी वाजेभिर्हविरक्षणैरन्नैर्निमित्तभूतैः । यद्वा । यजमानेभ्यो दातव्यैरन्नैर्निमित्तभूतैः
। नोऽस्मदीयं यज्ञं वष्टु । कामयताम् । कामयित्वा च निर्वहत्वित्यर्थः । तथा चारण्यककाण्डे
श्रुत्यैव व्याख्यातम् । यज्ञं वष्टिवति यदाह यज्ञं वहत्विति तदाह । ऐ. आ. १-१-४ । इति ।
कीदृशी सरस्वती । पावका शोधयित्री वाजिनीवत्यन्नवत्क्रियावती धियावसुः
कर्मप्राप्त्यधननिमित्तभूता । वादेवतायास्तथाविधं धननिमित्तत्वमारण्यककाण्डे श्रुत्या
व्याख्यातम् । यज्ञं वष्टु धियावसुरिति वाग्वै धियावसुः । ऐ. आ. १-१-४ । इति । श्येनः सोम
[?] इत्यादिषु पञ्चत्रिंशत्संख्याकेषु देवताविशेषवाचिषु पदेषु सरमा सरस्वतीति पठितम् ।
एतामृचं यास्क एवं व्याचष्टे । पावका नः सरस्वत्यन्नैरन्नवती यज्ञं वष्टु धियावसुः कर्मवसुः । नि. ११- ... sarasvatī devī vājebhir havir-lakṣaṇair annair nimittabhūtaiḥ | yad vā | yajamānebhya dātavyair annair nimittabhūtaiḥ | no 'smadīyaṃ yajñam vaṣṭu | kāmayatām |
kāmayitvā ca nirvahaṭv ity arthaḥ | tathā cāraṇyaka-kāṇḍe
śrutyaiḥ vyākhyātam | yajñam vaṣṭīvati yad āha yajñam vahaṭv iti tad āha | ai. ā. 1-1-4 | iti | kīdṛśī sarasvatī | pāvakā śodhayitrī vājīnīvaty annavat-kriyāvatī dhiyāvasuḥ karmaprāpty-adhana-nimitta-bhūtā | vāg-devatāyās tathāvidhaṃ
dhana-nimittatvam āraṇyaka-kāṇḍe śrutyā vyākhyātam |

115. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Accent-marks are not reproduced in the Saṃhitā/Pada text; see the note at Rik 3.5.

116. Continuing:

*yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ iti vāg vai dhiyāvasuḥ | ai. ā. 1-1-4 |
 iti | śyenaḥ somu [?] ity ādiṣu pañcatrimśat-saṃkhyākeṣu
 devatā-viśeṣa-vāciṣu padeṣu saramā sarasvatīti paṭhitam |
 etām ṛcaṃ yāska evaṃ vyācaṣṭe | pāvakā naḥ sarasvaty
 annair annavatī yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ karma-vasuḥ | ni.
 11- ...*

Translation: "'Sarasvatī' — the goddess — 'vājebhiḥ': by the oblation-nature foods that are the occasion (nimitta-bhūta) — or, by the foods to be given to the sacrificers, which are the occasion — 'may she desire our sacrifice ('vaṣṭu': let her desire it); and having desired it, let her carry it through' — such is the sense. And so the Āraṇyaka section itself explains this by Śruti: 'When it says "may she desire the sacrifice" ("yajñam vaṣṭu"), it says "let her carry the sacrifice."' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 1-1-4). What kind of Sarasvatī? 'Pāvakā' — the purifier; 'vājinīvatī' — one possessing food, possessing activity; 'dhiyāvasuḥ' — one who is the occasion for the attaining of wealth through ritual action. That the goddess of speech is, in this way, the occasion of wealth, is explained by the Śruti in the Āraṇyaka section: "'yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ" — Speech indeed is "dhiyāvasuḥ."' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 1-1-4). Among the thirty-five words denoting particular deities, beginning with 'śyenaḥ somu [?]', 'saramā' and 'sarasvatī' are read. Yāska explains this Ṛk thus: "'Pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī": Sarasvatī, rich in foods; "yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ": let her desire the sacrifice, she whose wealth is ritual action.' (Nirukta 11-...)" ¹¹⁷

original p. 65

117. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. The sense lines are in three layers; the grammar is characterized with its sūtras kept.

Rik 3.10: close of the Bhāṣya (Nirukta quotation), grammar, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ¹¹⁸

| ...३६ । इति ॥ ...३६ | iti | |

Translation: "(Nirukta 11-)36. — So much (of Yāska)." ¹¹⁹

Grammar of Rik 3.10 (characterized, with sūtras): - "Pāvakā": "pavanaṃ pāvaḥ śuddhiḥ; pāvaṃ kāyatīti pāvakā" — one who "sings/makes" purity ("kai gai rai śabde"); by आतोऽनुपसर्गे कः (āto 'nupasarge kaḥ, पा. ३-२-३) the affix "ka"; the accent of a kṛt-ending as second member gives an end-acute. Alternatively, in the sense "she purifies," with "ṇvul," the vowel "a" before the affix's "k" would normally become "i" (इदाप्यसुपः, id āpy asupaḥ, पा. ७-३-४४ [as printed "7-3-44"]), but that does not occur here, and the "aṃśa-udātta" accent is to be regarded as Vedic. - "Sarasvatī": "saras" from "sṛ" with the "asun" affix, hence first-syllable acute; "matup" and "ñīp," being "p"-marked, are unaccented. - "Vājebhiḥ": "vāja" is first-syllable acute as belonging to the "vṛṣādi" class (an "ākṛti-gaṇa," an open-ended list). - "Vājinīvatī": "vājo 'nnam asty āsām" — "those [ritual] actions which possess food" = "vājinyaḥ kriyāḥ" [reading of the print: "vājo 'nnam āstīti vājinyaḥ kriyāḥ" ?]; by अत इनिठनौ (ata iniṭhanau, पा. ५-२-११५) the affix "ini"; "she who has those actions" = "vājinīvatī"; by छन्दसीरः (chandasīraḥ) "matup" gets "va"; since "matup" and "ñīp" are "p"-marked and unaccented, only the "ini" affix's first-syllable acute remains. - "Yajñam": by यजयाचयतविच्छप्रच्छरक्षो नङ् (yaja-yāca-yata-vicchaprachcha-rakṣo naṅ, पा. ३-३-९०) the affix "naṅ"; end-acute by the affix. - "Vaṣṭu": root "vaś kāntau" (to desire; "kānti" = wish);

¹¹⁸. concluding the Nirukta quotation begun on p. 64

¹¹⁹. The number "36" is the continuation of the reference left open at the foot of p. 64.

by आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः (ādi-prabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ) "śap" is elided (luk); nighāta. - "Dhiyāvasuḥ": "dhiyā karmaṇā vasu yasyāḥ sakāśād bhavati sā dhiyāvasuḥ" — she from whom wealth comes by ritual action; the case-ending is acute by सावेकाचः (sāv ekācaḥ); in a bahuvrīhi, by बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam), the case-accent alone remains; the retention of the instrumental ending (a-luk) is Vedic.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

पावका (pāvakā) — one who purifies (people), or who cleanses | वाजिनीवती (vājīnīvati) — (to the people who praise) one who has food and sustenance and gives them | धियावसुः (dhiyāvasuḥ) — she who is the cause of wealth and the like, the fruit of sacrifice and the other rites | सरस्वती (sarasvatī) — the goddess Sarasvatī (the goddess of speech, or the river named Sarasvatī) | नः (naḥ) — our | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — the sacrifice | वाजेभिः (vājebhiḥ) — through the foods that take the form of the oblation | वष्टु (vaṣṭu) — let her desire (let her bring the sacrifice to completion, with all its parts).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The goddess Sarasvatī is the purifier of people; she gives food and the like to the people who worship her by sacrifice and the like; and she is the cause of the attainment of lordship in the form of wealth. May such a Sarasvatī, satisfied with the foods and the like, in the form of the oblation that we give, bring our sacrifice to its full completion.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"May Saraswati, the purifier, the bestower of food, recompenser of worships with wealth, be attracted to our rite by our offer of sacrificial food." ¹²⁰

Special topics on Rik 3.10: the Sārasvata ṛca; the Anvārambhaṇīyā sacrifice

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This Ṛk, "pāvakā naḥ," together with the following two Ṛks, form the "sārasvata-ṛcaḥ," that is, three Ṛks that relate to Sarasvatī. Of these three Ṛks, the first, "pāvakā naḥ," is the "puronuvākya" mantra for invoking Sarasvatī in the special sacrificial offering called the Anvārambhaṇīyeṣṭi. In a sacrifice, when oblation is made to any god, two Ṛks are used; both must relate to that deity. With the first Ṛk — recited aloud — the deity is invoked; this Ṛk is called "puronuvākya." With another Ṛk the oblation is made to that deity; this mantra is called "yājya." Likewise, in the Anvārambhaṇīyeṣṭi both Ṛks, "puronuvākya" and "yājya," are used. This matter the great sage Āśvalāyana has stated thus in his Śrauta-sūtra (Āśv. Śrau. Sū. 2-8), in the section beginning "darśapūrṇamāsārapsyamāna":

पावका नः सरस्वती पावीरवी कन्या चित्रायुः । (आश्व. २-८) pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī pāvīravī kanyā citrāyuh | (āśv. 2-8) Gloss: "'Pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī' and 'pāvīravī kanyā citrāyuh'." (The sūtra simply names the two Ṛks to be used.)

Before performing this Anvārambhaṇīyeṣṭi and the Darśapūrṇamāsa sacrifice, the sacrificer must first perform the rites called puṇyāhavācana, nāndīśrāddha and udakaśānti, tie a thread called pratisara on his wife's hand, and then, on the day following, after performing the daily rites such as bathing, he must make the resolution: "yāvajjīvaṃ darśapūrṇamāsābhyāṃ yakṣye" (यावज्जीवं दर्शपूर्णमासाभ्यां यक्ष्ये — yāvaj-jīvaṃ darśa-pūrṇamāsābhyāṃ yakṣye — "as long as I live I shall sacrifice with the new-moon and full-moon sacrifices"). Next he makes the resolution "anvārambhaṇīyayā yakṣye" (अन्वारम्भणीयया यक्ष्ये — "I shall sacrifice with the anvārambhaṇīyā") and must perform the rite called agnyanayana — bringing in the fire from the Gārhapatya fire by the "agni-viharaṇa." Then, in speaking of the "anvādhāna," the chief ("pradhāna") oblation is made to the principal deities Agnāviṣṇū, Sarasvatī, Sarasvān, and Agnir-bhagī [?] (the last name as printed; I am not sure of it). The offering-materials are: for Agnāviṣṇū, "ekādaśa-kapāla puroḍāśa" (a cake on eleven potsherds); for the deity Sarasvatī, a "caru" (cooked rice-offering); for Sarasvān, a "dvādaśa-kapāla puroḍāśa" (twelve potsherds); and for the deity "Agnir-bhagī [?]," an "aṣṭādaśa-kapāla puroḍāśa" (eighteen potsherds). The "puronuvākya" and "yājyā" mantras used when making oblation to these deities are these: ^{121 122 123}

अग्नाविष्णू — अग्नाविष्णू सजोषसा (पुरोनुवाक्या) · अग्नाविष्णू महि धाम (याज्या)
agnāviṣṇū — agnāviṣṇū sajoṣasā (puronuvākya) · agnāviṣṇū mahi dhāma (yājyā) सरस्वती — पावकानः सरस्वती (पुरोनुवाक्या) ऋ. सं. १-३-१० · पावीरवीकन्या (याज्या) ऋ. सं. ६-४९-७ [?] sarasvatī — pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī (puronuvākya) ṛ. saṃ. 1-3-10 · pāvīravī kanyā (yājyā) ṛ. saṃ. 6-49-7 [?] सरस्वान् — पीपिवांसं सरस्वतः (पुरोनुवाक्या) ऋ. सं. ७-९६-६ [?] · दिव्यं सुपर्णं वायसम् (याज्या) ऋ. सं. १-१६४-५२ [?] sarasvān — pīpivāmsaṃ sarasvataḥ (puronuvākya) ṛ. saṃ. 7-96-6 [?] · divyaṃ suparṇaṃ vāyasam (yājyā) ṛ. saṃ. 1-164-52 [?] Gloss (mine): "Agnā-Viṣṇū: 'Agni and Viṣṇu, of one mind...' / 'Agni and Viṣṇu, the great abode...'; Sarasvatī: 'Our purifier Sarasvatī...' / 'The purifier, the maiden...'; Sarasvān: 'Sarasvān who is full of [waters]...' / 'The divine, fair-winged bird...'" [tentative; the print gives only the opening words]

original p. 67

121. The page continues on p. 67 with the remaining oblations.

122. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals; [?] where I am unsure of a digit. Glosses are mine and tentative.

123. Continuing the list of puronuvākya/yājyā mantras from p. 66:

The Anvārambhaṇīyā mantras (concluded); "pāvakā" and its use for different deities अग्निर्भगी [?] — आसवं सवितुः (पुरोनुवाक्या) ऋ. सं. ७-१०३-६ [?] · स नो राधांस्या भर (याज्या) ऋ. सं. २-३५-११ [?] agnir-bhagī [?] — āsavaṃ savituḥ (puronuvākya) ṛ. saṃ. 7-103-6 [?] · sa no rādhaṃsyā bhara (yājyā) ṛ. saṃ. 2-35-11 [?] Gloss: "(Of Savitr) the impulsion of Savitr..." / "Bring us, then, bounties..." [tentative; only opening words are given]

That is: in this Anvārambhaṇīyeṣṭi, when the goddess Sarasvatī is invoked, the Ṛk

पावकानः सरस्वती वाजेभिर्वाजिनीवती । यज्ञं वष्टु धियावसुः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-३-१०) pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī vājebhir vājinīvatī | yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-3-10) (= the present Rik 3.10; translated above.)

is to be used as the puronuvākya mantra, and the Ṛk

पावीरवी कन्या चित्रायुः सरस्वती वीरपत्नी धियं धात् । ग्नाभिरच्छिद्रं शरणं सजोषा दुराधर्षं गृणते शर्म यंसत् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-४९-७) pāvīravī kanyā citrāyuh sarasvatī vīrapatnī dhiyaṃ dhāt | gnābhir acchidraṃ śaraṇaṃ sajoṣā durādharṣaṃ grṇate śarma yaṃsat | | (ṛ. saṃ. 6-49-7) Gloss (mine): "May Sarasvatī, the maiden, of wondrous life, the hero's consort, grant insight; may she, in concert with the goddess-wives, grant to the singer a shelter without a gap, hard to assail." [tentative]

is to be used as the yājyā mantra — so it is said.

पावका (pāvakā) — This word is derived from the root "pūñ" ("to purify, to cleanse"). The Bhāṣyakāra gives its derivation as "pavanaṃ pāvaḥ śuddhiḥ, taṃ kāyatīti pāvakā" (पवनं पावः शुद्धिस्तं कायतीति पावका — "'pāva' is purification; she who 'makes' that is 'pāvakā'"), i.e., one who purifies; one who cleanses, removing sins. Though the word "pāvaka" is used in many places of deities such as Agni, the Maruts and Soma, it is used especially of Agni:

124

Agni — अग्ने पावक रोचिषा मन्द्रया देव जिह्वया । (ऋ. सं. ५-२६-१) agne pāvaka rociṣā mandrayā deva jihvayā | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-26-1) Gloss: "O purifying Agni, with your light, with your joyful tongue, O god."

स नः पावक दीदिवोऽग्ने देवाँ इहावह । (ऋ. सं. १-१२-१०) sa naḥ pāvaka dīdivo 'gne devāṃ ihāvaha | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-12-10) Gloss: "O shining purifier, bring the gods here."

अस्या जरासो दमा मरित्रा अर्चद्धूमासो अग्नयः पावकाः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-९१-२ [?]) asyā jarāso damā maritrā arcaddhūmāso agnayaḥ pāvakāḥ || (ṛ. saṃ. 10-91-2 [?]) Gloss: "...the purifying fires, with smoke..." [tentative; the first half is not clear to me]

Indra — मिहः पावकाः प्रतता अभूवन्स्वस्ति नः पिपृहि पारमासाम् । (ऋ. सं. ३-३१-१० [?]) mihaḥ pāvakāḥ pratatā abhūvan svasti naḥ piprhi pāram āsām | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-31-10 [?]) Gloss: "The purifying showers have spread out; carry us safely across them."

Uṣas — व्यू ब्रजस्य तमसो द्वारोच्छन्तीरब्रञ्चुचयः पावकाः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-५१-२ [?]) vy ū vrajasya tamaso dvāroc chantīr avran śucayaḥ pāvakāḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 4-51-2 [?]) Gloss: "Shining, they have opened the doors of the dark pen — the bright, purifying (dawns)." [tentative]

Āpaḥ (the Waters) — समुद्रार्था याः शुचयः पावकास्ता आपो देवीरिह मामवन्तु ॥ (ऋ. सं. ७-४९-३) samudrārthā yāḥ śucayaḥ pāvakās tā āpo devīr iha mām avantu | | (ṛ. saṃ. 7-49-3) Gloss: "Those pure, purifying waters that go to the sea — may those divine waters protect me here."

Maruts — ऋतेन सत्यमृतसाप आयञ्छुचिजन्मानः शुचयः पावकाः । (ऋ. सं. २-३४-१३ [?]) ṛtena satyam ṛtasāpa āyañ chucijanmānaḥ śucayaḥ pāvakāḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-34-13 [?]) Gloss: "By the Order, they came to the truth, followers of the Order, bright-born, pure, purifying." [tentative]

original p. 68

"pāvakā" (concluded); "sarasvatī" — the five senses of the word (opening)

In these and other mantras, the word "pāvaka" is used of different deities. Western scholars have explained this word with such words as : "Purifier, purifying, bright, glittering, pure, sacred, blazing, flaming." In the sense relating to Agni, both senses — "that which purifies" and "that which shines" — may be said.

सरस्वती (sarasvatī)

— Sāyaṇācārya has given a five-fold account of the sense of the word "sarasvatī" as used in the Ṛgveda mantras:

1. Nadī (a river) — Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-142 [?]-9 [?]; 1-164 [?]-52 [?]; 2-30-8 [?].
2. The name of a river — Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-3-12 [?]; 2-41-16 [?]; 3-23-4 [?]; 6-61 [?] (the 4th, 7th, 10th, 11th and 13th Ṛks of it [?]); 6-52-6 [?]; 6-61-2 [?]; 7-36-6 [?]; 7-95-1 and 2 [?]; 7-96-1 [?]; 8-21-17 and 18 [?]; 10-64-9 [?]; 10-65-13 [?].
3. The name of a deity — Ṛ. Saṃ. 5-43-11 [?]; 5-46-2 [?]; 6-49-7 [?]; 5-30-12 [?]; 10-17-7 [?]; 10-90-12 [?].
4. An ākāśābhīmāni-devatā (a deity presiding over the sky-region) — "(one of the three goddesses Ilā, Bhāratī and Sarasvatī)" — Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-188-8 [?].
5. Vāgdevī (the goddess of Speech) — Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-1-11 [?]; 3-4-8 [?]; 3-54-13 [?]; 5-42-12 [?]; 7-39-5 [?]; 7-40-3 [?] and others [?].

In the Ṛgveda there are many mantras praising the goddess Sarasvatī. But on the question "who is this goddess Sarasvatī, and what is her nature?" the author of the Nirukta (Yāska) has said nothing; he has said only: "nadīvad devatāvac ca nigamā bhavanti" (नदीवद्देवतावच्च निगमा भवन्ति — nadīvad devatāvac ca nigamā bhavanti — "there are Vedic passages (that treat her) as a river and as a deity"). That is: in some mantras that have the deity Sarasvatī as their subject she is described as a river, and in some as a deity. But it is not clear whether the river named Sarasvatī is regarded as a goddess and praised, or the goddess is regarded as a river and praised. Therefore it must be said that "Sarasvatī" points to both river and deity. In the view that Sarasvatī is a deity, the questions — who is that deity? what is her nature? what are her station and abodes? — cannot easily be answered with a fitting reply. In the view that Sarasvatī is a river, it may be said that a river of that famous name existed in ancient times (the source adds in English: "the modern Sarsuti") and that this very river is praised in the Ṛgveda. When it is said so, a doubt arises: in the sacrifices and the like performed for the sake of particular deities, would not the praise of inanimate things such as rivers be forbidden? ... ¹²⁵

original p. 69

Sarasvatī as river and as deity: the Mīmāṃsā question; five views of the goddess

¹²⁶ ... "That doubt can be answered. On this point the sage Jaimini, in his Mīmāṃsā-sūtra, raised the objection ("pūrvapakṣa") on the basis of "acetane 'rtha-bandhanāt" (अचेतनेऽर्थबन्धनात् — acetane 'rtha-bandhanāt, जै. सू. १-२-३५ [?]) — that is, that where mantras

125. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals marked [?] where uncertain.

126. Continuing from p. 68, at the doubt whether praise of inanimate things like rivers would be forbidden in sacrifices:

address inanimate things, the connection of sense is [impossible]. To this the Bhāṣyakāra (the Vedāntic commentator) has given the answer by citing the Vedānta-sūtra "abhimāni-vyapadeśaḥ" (अभिमानिव्यपदेशः — abhimāni-vyapadeśaḥ, वे. सू. २-१-५): that is, wherever, in Veda-mantras, inanimate things are addressed, it is to be understood that what is said is addressed to the presiding deities ("abhimāni-devatā") of those inanimate things. (See Part 1, pp. 380–381.) Hence, where a river is praised, it is to be understood that its presiding deity is praised. Concerning this goddess Sarasvatī many persons hold many different views:

1. In the Purāṇas and elsewhere, "Sarasvatī" means "vāg-adhiṣṭhātrī, śāradā, vidyā-svarūpiṇī, haṃsa-vāhini" (वागधिष्ठात्री शारदा विद्यास्वरूपिणी हंसवाहिनी) — a particular deity: the presiding deity of speech, famous by the name Śāradā, embodying learning, seated on a swan.
2. Or: this goddess Sarasvatī is the Āditya (the Sun) specially qualified by a limiting condition ("upādhi"); "upādhi" here means the twilight. So some hold that the Sun, shining at twilight, is here praised in the form of Sarasvatī.
3. The word "saras" comes from the root "sṛ" (to move, to flow): "saro 'syā asti" or "sarastejo yasyā vidyate sā sarasvatī" — she who has "saras" (radiance, fluid motion) — she who shines in the form of radiance is therefore called "Sarasvatī."
4. Or (the source quotes Sanskrit here):

अथवा — प्रातर्वाचां प्रवर्तिका, प्राणिनां स्वापपरित्यागेन स्फोचित [?] व्यवहारेषु प्रवृत्तौ तद्बायमानतायोः [?] प्रवृत्तेः, रात्रौ च वाचां निरोधिका रात्रौ प्राणिनां निलायनिलीनत्वेन सुस्वतया [?] शब्दविरामात् । एवं च शब्दस्य प्रवर्तिका निवर्तिका एषैव लोके सरस्वतीत्वेन व्यपदिश्यते नान्या ॥ athavā — prātar vācāṃ pravartikā, prāṇināṃ svāpa-parityāgena sphocita [?] vyavahāreṣu pravṛttau tabdāyamānatāyoh [?] pravṛtteḥ, rātrau ca vācāṃ nirodhikā *rātrau prāṇināṃ nilāya-nilīnatvena susvatayā [?] śabdavirāmāt | evaṃ ca śabdasya pravartikā nivartikā eṣaiva loke

sarasvatītena vyapadiśyate nānyā | |*

(Reading note: the middle of this Sanskrit sentence is garbled in the print, and the words I mark [?] are my best letter-by-letter reading, not a restoration; the opening "prātar vācāṃ pravartikā" and the close "evaṃ ca śabdasya pravartikā nivartikā eṣaiva loke sarasvatītena vyapadiśyate nānyā" are clear.)

Translation of the clear parts, with the Kannada gloss that follows it:

"Or: she is the prompter of speech in the morning ... and at night the restrainer of speech ... and thus, as both the prompter and the stopper of sound, she alone is in the world called Sarasvatī and no other." The Kannada explains: "In the morning the creatures, rising from sleep, set about talking and about their several affairs and activities; at night, the creatures are overcome by sleep, and so, apart from talking and making sounds, they come to rest from their activities and dealings. Therefore, because she is the cause of beginning and ending in the matter of talking or making sound, this goddess of speech is called Sarasvatī."

(5) — continued on p. 70. ¹²⁷

original p. 70

Sarasvatī: the fifth view (Uṣas); the three questions to be considered; Sarasvatī in Rik 3.10–12; the ṛṣis

1. As stated before, since the powers of speech and the like belong to this deity, this goddess Sarasvatī is in the form of Uṣas (Dawn). For this very reason, among the words that are the names of the goddess Uṣas — sūnṛtā, sūnṛtāvatī, sūnṛtāvarī and others — the name of this goddess Sarasvatī occurs. Here the word "sūnṛta" means words that are both pleasant and true.

127. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure. English words as printed.

In just this way, in the question of the goddess Sarasvatī,

Śaunaka

, the author of the Bṛhaddevatā, and other authors have explained her in various ways.

Now let us examine briefly in what senses the word "sarasvatī" has been used in the Ṛgveda. In this matter three points must be attended to: (1) the Ṛk we are now expounding, "pāvakā naḥ sarasvatī"; (2) the other Ṛks having Sarasvatī as their deity; (3) the ṛṣis who composed these Ṛks, and their lineages. We shall weigh these three matters.

In the sūkta now in hand, the Ṛks 10, 11 and 12 are mantras addressed to Sarasvatī. In the Ṛks 10 and 11, Sarasvatī is probably regarded as a deity and praised; in the 12th Ṛk, as the river. The Bhāṣyakāra Sāyaṇācārya explains Sarasvatī in the Ṛks 10–11 as the goddess of speech, and in the 12th Ṛk as the presiding deity of the river called Sarasvatī. Griffith explains "Sarasvatī" as the goddess of speech; but where "pāvakā" is given the sense "purifying with water," and where "ārṇa" [the word in Rik 3.12, "maho arṇaḥ"] is given the sense "river," "Sarasvatī" must mean a river, or the presiding deity of a river. Some modern scholars hold that "Sarasvatī" means the river Sindhu. But since the hermitage of the sage Madhucchandas, son of Viśvāmitra, who composed this Ṛk, was on the western bank of the present river Sarasvatī at Kurukṣetra — as stated in the Mahābhārata (Śalya-parva, adhyāya 3[?]) — it is possible to conjecture that Madhucchandas praised this very river Sarasvatī: for when a person praises a river, it does not seem reasonable that he should leave aside the well-known river near the place where he lives and praise some other river of the same name far away.

In the second Maṇḍala, the Ṛks that have Sarasvatī as their deity — Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-3[?]-8 [?]; 2-3[?]-8 [?]; and 2-41-16[?] to 18 [?] — were all composed by the ṛṣi Gṛtsamada, son of Śunahotra. This ṛṣi Gṛtsamada is understood to be the sixth in descent from the sage Atri (according to the book "Pravara and Gotra," No. 25 of the Mysore Government Oriental Library, as the source says); Viśvāmitra is the fifth in descent from Atri. In all, in eight Ṛks, this ṛṣi Gṛtsamada praises Sarasvatī... ¹²⁸

original p. 71

The ṛṣis who praise Sarasvatī: Gṛtsamada (continued), Devaśravas and Devavāta, Bharadvāja

¹²⁹ ...Gṛtsamada praises Sarasvatī. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-1-11 [?] and 2-3-8 [?] he praises Sarasvatī together with Iḷā and Bhāratī. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-3[?]-8 [?] he speaks of these three — that is, Iḷā, Sarasvatī and Bhāratī — as three goddesses. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-3[?]-5 [?] he praises Sarasvatī along with Indra and the Maruts. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 2-3[?]-8 [?] he speaks of Sarasvatī as an exalted deity. In the 18th Ṛk [?] of the sūkta 2-4[?] he describes Sarasvatī as a very large river and also a very large deity; and in the 15th Ṛk [?] he describes her, with the word "ṛtāvarī" (that is, "ṛta" = water) as a river with abundant water. Seeing this, some Western scholars say, because she is spoken of as "a very large river," that she must be the Sindhu. But that is not right; for when a poet praises a river or a deity (even a small or ordinary one) it is common to describe it as very large.

128. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." All Ṛg-vedic reference-numbers on this page are best-effort readings of small Kannada numerals and are marked [?] collectively here and in the text; none should be relied on without checking the page. English words as printed.

129. Continuing from p. 70:

In R. Saṃ. 2-3[?]-8 [?] some think the ṛṣi Gr̥tsamada praises Sarasvatī as the presiding deity of both rivers and the (cloud) lightning; but to say that one ṛṣi describes one and the same deity in different senses seems without reason.

The sūкта R. Saṃ. 3-23 [?] has as ṛṣis Devaśravas and Devavāta, the sons of Bharata. According to the book "Gotra-Pravara" mentioned earlier, these ṛṣis are understood to be the sons of Viśvāmitra. Bharata is understood, from the same book, to be the sixth in descent from Atri, and Viśvāmitra the seventh [as the print says; compare the "fifth" for Viśvāmitra on p. 70 — the discrepancy is in the source and is recorded, not resolved]; both are descendants of Purūravas, son of Atri's [line] and the son of Budha (the source says: "of Atri's grandson [?], Purūravas") — the exact genealogical phrasing is unclear in the print. These ṛṣis in R. Saṃ. 3-23-4 [?] say:

नि त्वा दधे वर आ पृथिव्या इळायास्पदे सुदिनत्वे अह्वाम् । दृषद्वत्यां मानुषा आपयायां सरस्वत्यां रेवदग्ने दिदीहि ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-२३-४) *ni tvā dadhe vara ā pṛthivyā ilāyās pade sudinatve ahnām | dṛṣadvatyām mānuṣā
āpayāyām sarasvatyām revad agne didīhi* || (r. saṃ. 3-23-4) Gloss (mine): "I have set you down on the best place of the earth, on the footing of Ilā, in the good days of the days; on the Dṛṣadvatī, among men, on the Āpayā, on the Sarasvatī:
shine richly, O Agni."

Along with the river Sarasvatī they name two other rivers: Dṛṣadvatī and Āpayā. Dṛṣadvatī is the present river called Citrāṅga (the source's English: "the modern Chitrang, Chautag, or Chitang"); Āpayā is the present river called Apagā ("the modern Apaga"). Since both rivers lie in the neighbourhood of the river Sarasvatī, it can be said with confidence that Sarasvatī is not the Sindhu. Further, the hermitage of the sage Viśvāmitra, too, was on the west bank of this river Sarasvatī (in Kurukṣetra), as modern investigations show (the source adds: "see Dey's Geographical Dic."). All that has been said so far concerns the lineages of Atri and Viśvāmitra.

Now let us consider Bharadvāja and his lineage. The three Ṛks R. Saṃ. 6-49-7 [?]; 6-50-12 [?]; 6-52-6 [?] all have, as their ṛṣi, Ṛjīśvā, the son of Bharadvāja. In the first and third of these three Ṛks, Sarasvatī is [described as] a river... ¹³⁰

original p. 72

Sarasvatī as a river in the hymns of Bharadvāja, Vasiṣṭha and Śobhari

...the matter is stated clearly. In the second mantra, though the name of Sarasvatī is mentioned along with the names of the deities Rudra, Viṣṇu, Vāyu and Parjanya, Sarasvatī may be understood as a river; for in the two [other] Ṛks the ṛṣi says that Sarasvatī is a river, and in another Ṛk the same ṛṣi praises Sarasvatī as a river — which is only natural. The hermitage of Bharadvāja was at Prayāga (the source's English: "Allahabad"). Therefore Ṛjīśvā, son of Bharadvāja, must have praised a river near his own hermitage. The whole of Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-61 [?] (14 [?] Ṛks in all) by the ṛṣi Bharadvāja concerns Sarasvatī. Some Western scholars hold that the sense of several words in this sūkta applies to the river Sindhu; but since those words apply equally to the river Sarasvatī, there is no room for doubt.

The Ṛks in the seventh Maṇḍala — R. Saṃ. 7-9[?]-5 [?]; 7-3[?]-11 [?]; 7-3[?]-6 [?]; 7-4[?]-3 [?]; 7-6[?]-5 [?] and others [?] — are all by the ṛṣi Vasiṣṭha. The hermitage of Vasiṣṭha is understood to have been near Mount Abu (the source's English), a hill in the Āravali mountain in Rājputānā. The first four mantras and the last two sūktas [of the group] praise Sarasvatī as a river. The words "sindhumātā" and "āsamudrāt" in these Ṛks apply especially to the river Sindhu, and so some say that it is the Sindhu that is praised in these mantras. This dispute cannot be completely set aside. Still, when speaking of one river, it is not impossible to compare another river with it, and to praise it with exaggeration.

130. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure.

In the eighth Maṇḍala, the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 8-2[?]-17 and 18 [?] are by the ṛṣi Śobhari, son of Kaṇva. In these Ṛks this ṛṣi describes the sacrifice that a king named Citra performed on the bank of the river Sarasvatī and praises that king's gifts. Since Śaunaka, in his Bṛhaddevatā (6-3[?] to 6-3[?]), says that this king Citra performed a sacrifice at Kurukṣetra, the river must be the nearby Sarasvatī. And:

पूषा विष्णुर्हवनं मे सरस्वत्यवन्तु सप्त सिन्धवः । आपो वातः पर्वतासो वनस्पतिः शृणोतु पृथिवी हवम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-५४-४ [?]) pūṣā viṣṇur havanaṃ me sarasvaty avantu sapta sindhavaḥ | āpo vātaḥ parvatāso vanaspatih śṛṇotu prthivī havam | | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-54-4 [?]) Gloss (mine): "May Pūṣan, Viṣṇu, Sarasvatī, the seven rivers, help my invocation;
the Waters, the Wind, the Mountains, the Tree-lord — may Earth hear my call."

In this Ṛk, Sarasvatī is also mentioned among the deities Pūṣan, Viṣṇu, Sarasvatī, the Seven Rivers (sapta-sindhavaḥ), the Waters, the Wind, the Mountains, the Lord of the Forest (Vanaspati) and Earth. Likewise in Ṛ. Saṃ. 7-9[?]-3 [?], the ṛṣi of that mantra, Vasiṣṭha or Pavitra, has used the word "Sarasvatī." Here Sarasvatī may be taken in either sense, as a deity or as a river. In Ṛ. Saṃ. 10-30-12 [?], it is clearly stated which river is meant by "Sarasvatī" ... ¹³¹

original p. 73

131. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure. The modern river-names in brackets are printed in English in the source. The Sanskrit mnemonic verses on this page are compressed and partly garbled in the print: I transcribe them as I read them, with [?], and give their sense in outline rather than a line-by-line translation.

Sarasvatī among the rivers (R. 10-75); the ten Āprī-sūktas (opening of the list)

¹³² In R. Saṃ. 10-64-9 [?] the ṛṣi of that mantra, Gaya (of the lineage of Atri), speaks of Sarasvatī in the company of the rivers Sindhu and Sarayū (the source's English: "Gogra"). And:

इमं मे गङ्गे यमुने सरस्वति शुतुद्रि स्तोमं सचता परुष्या । असिकन्या मरुद्वधे वितस्तयार्जिकीये शृणुह्या सुषोमया ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-७५-५) imaṃ me gaṅge yamune sarasvati śutudri stomam sacatā paruṣyā | asiknyā marudvṛdhe vitastayārjikiye śṛṇuhy ā suṣomayā || (r. saṃ.
10-75-5) Gloss (mine): "O Gaṅgā, Yamunā, Sarasvatī, Śutudri — attend to this my praise, together with Paruṣṇī; with Asiknī, O Marudvṛdhā, with Vitastā, O Ārjikiyā, hear, together with Suṣomā."

In this Rk the river Sarasvatī is named together with Gaṅgā (the Ganges), Yamunā (the Jamna), Śutudri (the Sutelej), Paruṣṇī (the Ravi), Asiknī (the Chinab), Vitastā (the Jhelam), Marudvṛdhā (the United Stream of the Jhelam and Chenab), Ārjikiyā (the Bias) and Suṣomā (the Indus) — all in the source's English — and from this it is plain that the river Sarasvatī is one distinct river of her own and is not the Sindhu. The entire sūkta in which the above Rk occurs is about rivers: all the Rks of this sūkta [the number is printed "9" — read with caution] have rivers for their deities. The ṛṣi of this sūkta is Sindhukṣit, the son of Priyamedha.

Sarasvatī is spoken of in the Āprī-sūktas as one of the three goddesses called "tisro devyaḥ." In the Rgveda Saṃhitā there are ten sūktas that are called Āprī-sūktas. In Śaunaka's Anuvākānukramaṇī the particulars of these sūktas are given thus:

¹³². Continuing from p. 72, "...it is clearly stated which river is meant by 'Sarasvatī':"

श्लोकस्याशय [?] यथासंख्यं सूक्तानि दश वै विदुः । न आ वहग्म आ वहाद्य राजसेत्यग्निर्नि
[?] च । समित्समित्सु शोचिषे जुषस्व विश्वतस्तथा । इमां मे अद्य [?] मन्विमा यूधर्षिपक्ष
[?] आप्रियः ॥ वसिष्ठशुनकौ विना समिद्धः सर्वपक्षताः [?] । जुषस्वादितीययया [?]
तनूनपाद्विरोधिता [?] । यजुः श्रुतौ तथाश्रुतेः समिद्धे सूक्तमध्यतः । प्रजापतेः पशोः सदा भवेयुरद्य मन्विमाः ॥ इतीरितं हि बह्वैर्यथर्षि वेति सूत्रतः ॥

*ślokaśyāśya [?] yathā-saṃkhyam sūktāni daśa vai viduḥ | na ā
vahāgna ā vahādyā rājasety agnir ni [?] ca | samit-samit-su
śociṣe juṣasva viśvatas tathā | imāṃ me adya [?] manvimā
yūrdharṣi-pakṣa [?] āpriyaḥ | | vasiṣṭha-śunakau vinā
samiddhaḥ sarva-pakṣatāḥ [?] | juṣasvādittiyayayā [?]
tanūnapād-virodhitā [?] | yajuḥ śrutau tathā-śruteḥ samiddhe
sūkta-madhyataḥ | prajāpateḥ paśoḥ sadā bhaveyur adya
manvimāḥ | itīritam hi bahvṛcair yathā-ṛṣi veti sūtrataḥ | |*

Outline of the sense (not a line-by-line translation — the verses are a compressed mnemonic, and several words are garbled in the print): the verses state that there are ten such sūktas, "in order of number," and give them by their opening words ("na ā vaha," "ā vaha," "rājasi," "agnir nihitaḥ," and so on); they note which of them are by Vasiṣṭha and Śunaka (Śaunaka); they note how the Yajus and Śruti texts treat "samiddha" in the middle of the sūkta; and they say that, as the Ṛgvedins' sūtra puts it, the sūktas are recited "according to the ṛṣi."

The ten Āpri-sūktas, as tabulated in the source ^{133 134}

No.	Opening of the sūkta	Maṇḍala- sūkta	Ṛks	Ṛṣi
1	सुसमिद्धो न आवह (susamiddho na āvaha)	1-13	12	मेधातिथिः काण्वः (medhātithiḥ kāṇvaḥ)
2		1-142	13

133. columns: serial number; opening of the sūkta; Maṇḍala-sūkta; number of Ṛks; ṛṣi. Numbers as I read them; [?] where unsure. They agree with the standard list of the ten Āpri-sūktas.

134. rows 5-10 continue on the next page

No.	Opening of the sūkta	Maṇḍala- sūkta	Ṛks	Ṛṣi
	समिद्धो अग्न आवह (samiddho agna āvaha)			दीर्घतमा औचथ्यः (dīrghatamā aucathyah)
3	समिद्धो अद्य राजसि (samiddho adya rājasī)	1–188	11	अगस्त्यो मैत्रावरुणिः (agastyo maitrāvaruṇiḥ)
4	समिद्धो अग्निर्निहितः (samiddho agnir nihitah)	2–3	11	गृत्समदः (gṛtsamadaḥ)

original p. 74

The Āprī-sūktas (rows 5–10); the deities of the eleven Ṛks; "tisro devyaḥ"

No.	Opening of the sūkta	Maṇḍala- sūkta	Ṛks	Ṛṣi
5	समित्समिन्मना [?] (samit-samin- manā [?])	3–4	11	गाधिनो विश्वामित्रः (gādhino viśvāmitraḥ)
6	सुसमिद्धाय शोचिषे (susamiddhāya śociṣe)	5–5	11	वसुश्रुत आत्रेयः (vasuśruta ātreyaḥ)
7	जुषस्वनः समिधमग्ने (juṣasvanaḥ samidham agne)	7–2	11	मैत्रावरुणर्वसिष्ठः (maitrāvaruṇir vasiṣṭhaḥ)
8	समिद्धो विश्वतस्पतिः (samiddho viśvataspatiḥ)	9–5	11	काश्यपोऽसितो देवलो वा (kāśyapo 'sito devalo vā)

No.	Opening of the sūkta	Maṇḍala-sūkta	Ṛks	Ṛṣi
9	इमां मे अग्ने समिधम् (imāṃ me agne samidham)	10–70	11	सुमित्रो वाध्र्यश्वः (sumitro vādhryaśvaḥ)
10	समिद्धो अद्य मनुषः (samiddho adya manuṣaḥ)	10–110	11	जमदग्निर्भागवः (jamadagnir bhārgavaḥ)

Of the sūktas listed above, the sūktas numbered 1–2 have 12 and 13 Ṛks; all the rest have 11 Ṛks. The deities of these 11 Ṛks are as follows:

Ṛk	Deity (Sanskrit as printed)	Meaning
1	इध्मः समिद्धोऽग्निर्वा (idhmaḥ samiddho 'gnir vā)	Idhma, i.e., the kindled Agni
2	तनूनपात् (tanūnapāt)	Tanūnapāt
3	इळः (iḷaḥ)	Ḳa
4	बर्हिः (barhiḥ)	the Barhis (sacred grass)
5	देवीद्वारः (devīr dvāraḥ)	the divine Doors
6	उषासानक्ता (uṣāsānaktā)	Dawn and Night
7	दैव्यौ होतारौ प्रचेतसौ (daivya hotārau pracetasau)	the two divine, wise Hotṛs
8	तिस्रो देव्यः सरस्वतीळाभारत्यः (tisro devyaḥ sarasvatī- iḷā-bhāratyaḥ)	the three goddesses: Sarasvatī, Ḳā, Bhāratī
9	त्वष्टा (tvaṣṭā)	Tvaṣṭṛ
10	वनस्पतिः (vanaspatiḥ)	Vanaspati
11	स्वाहाकृतयः (svāhākṛtayaḥ)	the Svāhā-offerings

In the first sūkta with 12 Ṛks, the deity Narāśaṃsa is also present; in the second sūkta, with 13 Ṛks, both Narāśaṃsa and Indra are deities; therefore, in place of the 11 Ṛks of the other sūktas, these have 12 and 13. In the other matters there is no difference — only the metres and the ṛsis differ. In the animal sacrifice (paśuyāga), while praising Agni (the "samiddha-agni") and while performing the eleven prayāja homas, these sūktas are recited. In these sūktas, "tisro devyaḥ" means the praise of the three goddesses Ilā, Sarasvatī, Bhāratī. The chief point to be noted here is that Agni is worshipped in three forms: on earth, in the atmosphere, and in heaven. Since Bhāratī indicates the rays of the Sun, this deity (that is, the Sun) is the form of Agni in heaven. Sarasvatī ... for lightning, the one presiding ... ¹³⁵

original p. 75

"tisro devyaḥ"; Rigvedic verses that treat Sarasvatī as a deity rather than a river

¹³⁶ ...Because Sarasvatī is described in many places as a presiding deity of the lightning (vidyud-abhimānī-devatā), this Sarasvatī is the form of Agni in the atmosphere. Because the goddess Ilā gives to the people on earth wealth and the like and long life, this goddess is the form of Agni on earth: such is the signification of these three, Ilā, Sarasvatī and Bhāratī. The ṛsis praise these three goddesses, asking them to come to the sacrificial altar and sit on the "barhis" (spread darbha-grass).

135. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and are marked [?] where uncertain. The glosses on the verses are mine, tentative, since the source gives no translation of them.

136. Continuing from p. 74, "Sarasvatī ... for lightning, the one presiding..."

Here are some examples of verses in which the ṛṣis praise Sarasvatī as a deity other than a river: ¹³⁷

1. तान्पूर्वया निविदा हूमहे वयं भगं मित्रमदितिं दक्षमसिधम् । अर्यमणं वरुणं सोममश्विना सरस्वती नः सुभगा मयस्करत् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-८९-३) *tān pūrvayā nividā hūmahe vayaṃ bhagaṃ mitram aditiṃ dakṣam asridham | aryamaṇaṃ varuṇaṃ somam aśvinā
sarasvatī naḥ subhagā mayas karat* | | (r. saṃ. 1-89-3) Gloss: "Those (gods) we invoke with the ancient invocation — Bhaga, Mitra, Aditi, the undecaying Dakṣa, Aryaman, Varuṇa, Soma, the Aśvins; may fortunate Sarasvatī make us happy." (The source's remark:) In this Ṛk Sarasvatī is the goddess of speech, or the presiding deity of lightning.
2. सरस्वति त्वमस्माँ अविद्धि मरुत्वती धृषती जेषि शत्रून् । (ऋ. सं. २-३०-८)
sarasvati tvam asmāṃ aviḍḍhi marutvatī dhṛṣatī jeṣi śatrūn | (r. saṃ. 2-30-8) Gloss: "O Sarasvatī, protect us; accompanied by the Maruts, bold, you conquer the foes."
3. सरस्वती शृणवन्यज्ञियासो धाता रयिं सहवीरं तुराषाद् । (ऋ. सं. ३-३४-१३ [?])
sarasvatī śṛṇavan yajñiyāso dhātā rayiṃ sahavīraṃ turāṣāt | (r. saṃ. 3-34-13 [?]) Gloss: "May Sarasvatī hear — (the gods) worthy of sacrifice — bestowing wealth with heroes, the swift conqueror." [tentative; the print's wording of this line differs a little from what I would expect, and I give it as printed]

¹³⁷. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure. English words and the bibliographic list are as printed in the source.

(The source's remark on (2) and (3):) In these Ṛks Sarasvatī is regarded either as a river or as the presiding deity of lightning.

1. दमूनसो अपसो ये सुहस्ता वृष्णः पत्नीर्नद्यो विभ्वतष्टाः । सरस्वती बृहद्विवोत राका दशस्यन्तीर्वरिवस्यन्तु शुभ्राः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ७-९६ [?]-२ [?]) damūnaso apaso ye suhastā vṛṣṇaḥ patnīr nadyo vibhvataṣṭāḥ | sarasvatī bṛhaddivota rākā daśasyantīr variyasyantu śubhrāḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 7-96 [?]-2 [?]) Gloss: "(...) the wives of the bull, the rivers shaped by the Skilful One; may Sarasvatī, Bṛhaddivā and Rākā, the bright ones, giving, grant wide room." [tentative; the first half is hard for me to render with confidence]
2. आ नो दिवो बृहतः पर्वतादा सरस्वती यजता गन्तु यज्ञम् । (ऋ. सं. ५-४३-११) ā no divo bṛhataḥ parvatād ā sarasvatī yajatā gantu yajñam | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-43-11) Gloss: "May worshipful Sarasvatī come to our sacrifice from heaven, from the great mountain."
3. उभा नासत्या रुद्रो अध ग्नाः पूषा भगः सरस्वती जुषन्त । (ऋ. सं. ५-४६-२)
ubhā nāsatyā rudro adha gnāḥ pūṣā bhagaḥ sarasvatī juṣanta | (ṛ. saṃ. 5-46-2) Gloss: "May both Nāsatyas, Rudra, the goddesses' wives, Pūṣan, Bhaga, Sarasvatī be pleased."

(The source's remark:) In these three Ṛks, too, Sarasvatī is the presiding deity of lightning. Griffith holds that in the first of these three Ṛks Sarasvatī is some one river — "Sindhu or Sarasvatī" — and that in the 2nd and 3rd [Ṛks of the group] the deity is clear. K. C. Catṭopādhyāya says that Ṛks 1–3 [of the group] apply to the Sindhu. These three Ṛks too, it is said, were composed by the descendants of the ṛṣi Atri. For the first Ṛk... (continues on the next page)

The deity-verses (concluded); where the river Sarasvatī flowed

...for the first R̥k, Atri, or Atri's son Bhauma, is the ṛṣi; for the second R̥k, Atri; for the third, Pratikṣatra, a descendant of Atri. In the second R̥k Sarasvatī is addressed as having come from heaven ("divaḥ") and from the great mountain ("parvatāt") — [as the print has it]. In the first R̥k, since the word "patnīḥ" ("wives") appears, the Bhāṣyakāra has regarded Sarasvatī and the other rivers as the wives of Indra.

1. अग्निरिन्द्रो वरुणो मित्रो अर्यमा वायुः पूषा सरस्वती सजोषसः । (ऋ. सं. १०-६५-१)
agnir indro varuṇo mitro aryamā vāyuḥ pūṣā sarasvatī sajoṣasaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-65-1) Gloss: "Agni, Indra, Varuṇa, Mitra, Aryaman, Vāyu, Pūṣan, Sarasvatī, in concert."
2. विश्वे देवासः शृणवन्वचांसि मे सरस्वती सह धीभिः पुरंध्या । (ऋ. सं. १०-६५-१३)
viśve devāsaḥ śṛṇavan vacāṃsi me sarasvatī saha dhībhiḥ purandhyā | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-65-13) Gloss: "May the All-gods hear my words, and Sarasvatī with her thoughts and her plenty."

(The source's remark:) In these two R̥ks, too, Sarasvatī is the goddess of speech.

1. यत्सारामं व्यपिबः शचीभिः सरस्वती त्वा मघवन्नभिष्णक् । (ऋ. सं. १०-१३१-५)
yat sārāmaṃ vy apibaḥ śacībhiḥ sarasvatī tvā maghavann abhiṣṇak | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-131-5) Gloss: "When you drank the [sārāma-drink?] with your powers, O Maghavan, Sarasvatī tended you." [tentative; "sārāmam" is not rendered with confidence]

(The source's remark:) Since in this Ṛk Sarasvatī is spoken of as accompanying Indra, she may be understood either as the presiding deity of lightning or as the goddess of speech.

1. गर्भं धेहि सिनीवालि गर्भं धेहि सरस्वति । (ऋ. सं. १०-१८४-२) garbham dhehi sinīvālī garbham dhehi sarasvati | (ṛ. saṃ. 10-184-2) Gloss: "Set the embryo, O Sinīvālī; set the embryo, O Sarasvatī."

(The source's remark:) Here it is only fitting to speak of Sarasvatī as the goddess of speech [as the print says — "vāg-devatā," though the verse is a prayer for conception].

Where the river Sarasvatī flowed. We shall now set out briefly, for those who wish to know, the discussion of where the river Sarasvatī flowed in that age. This account has been written following the publications: (1) R. D. Oldham in Journal of Asiatic Society Bengal, 1886, page 322; (2) C. F. Oldham, Journal of Royal Asiatic Society, 1893, page 51; (3) Maps of the Cambridge History of India, Vol. I, "Ancient India"; (4) Maps of Punjab published by the Surveyor-General of India; (5) "Ancient India as described by Megasthenes and Arrian." ¹³⁸ In that age the river Sarasvatī was one large river. It arose in the Sirmur (the source's English: "Sismur") range in the Himālayas and flowed to the west and slightly south. At its source five small streams (small watercourses carrying water) joined and then flowed on as this river; for this reason it must have had the name "Pañcajātā." After flowing a little distance, a river called Dr̥ṣadvatī (the modern Chitrang) joined it, coming from the east. Āpayā is a tributary of the Dr̥ṣadvatī. The Sarasvatī of that time was to the south of the present Sarasvatī river (the source adds: rivers that flow in desert regions often change their beds). Into the present Sarasvatī river two small streams called Mārkaṇḍā (the source's English: "Markand") and Gaggar ("Ghaggar") ... ¹³⁹

138. All as printed.

The course of the Sarasvatī (concluded); "vājebhiḥ"

¹⁴⁰ ...these streams join her. Afterwards the Sarasvatī flowed on towards the south and west and finally joined the sea. The bed of the dried-up river now called Hakra (as printed) must have been the bed of the Sarasvatī of that time. It may have merged in the Sindhu by uniting with the river now called the Sutlej, or may have gone directly and joined the Sindhu. In that age the Sindhu lay far to the east of where it now is, and joined the sea near the gulf called the Rann of Kach (as printed). The scholar Max Müller, on the basis of the word "āsamudrāt" in Ṛ. Saṃ. 7-95-2 [?], holds that this Sarasvatī river went directly and joined the sea. Since the river flowed through sandy country before reaching the sea, it may well have been lost in the desert before reaching it (see Muir's Sanskrit Texts, Vol. II, p. 393, as printed). The account that the river was lost in the desert is given in the Mahābhārata (Vana-parva, in the description of the Tīrthayātrā) and also in the Manu-saṃhitā (2-21 [?]). For all these reasons it may be said that the present river Sarasuti is the Sarasvatī of old.

वाजेभिः (vājebhiḥ) — This word is used in this Ṛk in the sense "anna, āhāra" ("food"); there is the Taittirīya Śruti sentence "annaṃ vai vājaḥ" (अन्नं वै वाजः — "food indeed is 'vāja'"). Western scholars say that this word is used in many Ṛks in many different senses. Some of them are given here ¹⁴¹:

1. Power, strength
2. Swiftess (of the steeds)

139. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English words are as printed in the source. The Ṛg-vedic numbers in the list of senses of "vāja" below are in small Kannada numerals and I could not read them reliably; they are omitted rather than guessed, and the list should be completed from the page.

140. Continuing from p. 76, "...two small streams, Mārkaṇḍā and Gaggar..."

141. English as printed; the Ṛg-vedic references the source adds after each are not reproduced

3. Combat
4. Refreshment, food, nourishment
5. Offering, food or drink of offering
6. Horse
7. One of the three Ṛbhus
8. All the three Ṛbhus

Grassmann has given one long list for the various senses of this word, which occurs in many Ṛks; since it is very extensive, and since it is fitting to explain those senses in the respective places, there is no need to write it here. ¹⁴²

original p. 78

"vājinīvatī," "yajñam," "vaṣṭu," "dhiyāvasuḥ"

वाजिनीवती (vājinīvatī) — The sense of this word follows that of the word "vājebhiḥ" given above. For it, Rāmanātha gives "Bestower of food"; Benfey, "filled up or rich with offerings"; Geldner, "rich with reward"; Rosen, "provided with food"; Ludwig, "rich with steed"; and the author of the Vedārtha-yatna, "Mounted on a charger" ¹⁴³. Some say "vājini" means the fruit-bearing land on a river bank that produces food, and "vājinīvatī" a river that gives people food and the like by supplying water to such fruitful land.

यज्ञम् (yajñam)

— The word "yajña" is read among the fifteen words in the Nirukta (Ni. 3-1[?]) [as printed]. This word can be explained in two ways: (1) the worship of a deity by hymns of praise and the like; (2) a special rite performed by the subsidiary and sub-subsidiary rites, by the recitation of mantras, by offering up an animal, and by many homas. It is this second kind of rite that is generally described in the Vedas by the word "yajña."

142. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." English as printed; reference-numbers read with care but marked [?] where unsure.

143. all as printed

वष्टु (vaṣṭu) — This word is the imperative (lot) third-person singular of the root "vaś kāntau" (to desire). The Bhāṣyakāra, giving the root the sense "apekṣā" ("expectation, wish"), states the main sense as "nirvahatv iti arthaḥ" — "let her bring (the sacrifice) to completion with all its parts." To support this he quotes the Aitareya Āraṇyaka sentence "yajñam vaṣṭv iti yad āha yajñam vahatv ity eva tad āha" (यज्ञं वष्ट्विति यदाह यज्ञं वहत्वित्येव तदाह — "when it says 'let her desire the sacrifice,' it says 'let her carry the sacrifice'," ऐ. आ. १-१-४). Geldner and Grassmann give "desire, wish for, make efforts, carry on to completion" ; the last sense is the right one here.

धियावसुः (dhiyāvasuḥ) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains this word thus: "dhiyāvasuḥ karma-prāpty-adhana-nimitta-bhūtā | vāg-devatāyās tathāvidham dhana-nimittatvam āraṇyaka-kāṇḍe śrutyā vyākhyātam | yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasur iti vāg vai dhiyāvasuḥ" (धियावसुः कर्मप्राप्त्यधननिमित्तभूता । वाग्देवतायास्तथाविधं धननिमित्तत्वमारण्यककाण्डे श्रुत्या व्याख्यातं । यज्ञं वष्टु धियावसुरिति वाग्वै धियावसुः — ऐ. आ. १-१-४ — "Dhiyāvasuḥ: she who is the occasion of wealth to be gained by ritual action; that the goddess of speech is the occasion of wealth of this kind is explained by Śruti in the Āraṇyaka section: 'yajñam vaṣṭu dhiyāvasuḥ' — speech indeed is dhiyāvasuḥ"). That is: "dhiyāvasu" means she who is the cause of the attaining of wealth, lordship and the like, obtained through sacrifices and other rites; the Bhāṣyakāra also quotes the Aitareya-Āraṇyaka sentence "yajñam vaṣṭu" etc. to say that the goddess of speech is the cause of the attainment of wealth. And in considering the formation of the word he says: "dhiyā karmanā vasu yasyāḥ sakāśād bhavati sā dhiyāvasuḥ" (धिया कर्मणा वसु यस्याः सकाशाद्भवति सा धियावसुः) — the deity from whom the wealth that is to be obtained as the fruit of rites comes is called "dhiyāvasuḥ."

Western scholars explain it with such words as : "Supporter of all by wisdom, recompenser of worship or religious ceremonies, bestower of riches, source of wealth, rich in sense or intellect, one rewarding for devotion excellent-minded." This word is used in the R̥gveda only in eight R̥ks: R̥. Saṃ. 1-3-10; 1-3[?]-6 [?]; 10-[?]-3 [?]; and five further references, which are legibly numbered on the page in small Kannada numerals but which I have not been able to read with confidence and so do not give. ¹⁴⁴

original p. 79

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.10 (Kannada); Sūkta 3, Eleventh Mantra: Saṃhitā and Pada text

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ - "Pāvakā" — "pāvaṃ kāyatīti pāvakā": from the root "kai" ("kai gai rai śabde," to sound) with "ka" after an upasarga-less word (आतोऽनुपसर्गे कः, āto 'nupasarge kaḥ, पा. ३-२-३); the substitution of "ā" for the final of the root by आदेच उपदेशेऽशिति (ād eca upadeśe 'śiti, पा. ६-१-४५); elision of the final "ā" before the affix (आतो लोप इटि च , āto lopa iṭi ca, पा. ६-४-६४); the feminine "ṭāp" (अजाद्यतष्टाप्, ajādy-ataṣ ṭāp, पा. ४-१-४) → "pāvakā"; being a kṛt-ending compound-member, the accent of the second member is retained by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) as an end-acute. Alternatively, if "pūñ" ("he purifies") is intended, the affix "ṇvul" (ण्वुल्लुचौ, ṇvul-tṛcau, पा. ३-१-१३३) is added, and "yu/vu" are replaced by "ana/aka" (युवोरनाकौ, yuvor anākau, पा. ७-१-१), with the guṇa and "av-" substitution, giving "pāvaka," then "ṭāp" for the feminine "pāvakā." A difficulty is noted: by प्रत्ययस्थात्कात्पूर्वस्यात इदाप्यसुपः (pratyayasthāt kāt pūrvasyāta idāpy asupaḥ, पा. ७-३-४४) the "a" before "ka" would become "i" ("pāvikā"); the answer is that the non-occurrence of "i" in "pāvakā" is Vedic usage, by पावकादीनां छन्दसि प्रत्ययस्थात्कादित्वं नेति वाच्यम् [the print is garbled here; given as I read it]. The end-acute is likewise accepted as Vedic. - "Sarasvatī" —

144. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." The grammar is pure Pāṇinian derivation and is characterized rather than transcribed line by line, per convention, with the sūtras kept. Accent-marks in the Saṃhitā/Pada text are not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

from "sṛ" with the Uṇādi "asun" → "saras"; the affix is "n"-marked (nit), so the first syllable is acute. The following "matup" and "nīp" are "p"-marked and unaccented.

Sūkta 3, The Eleventh Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

चोदयित्री सूनृतानां चेतन्ती सुमतीनाम् । यज्ञं दधे सरस्वती ॥११॥

*codayitrī sūnṛtānām cetantī sumatīnām | yajñam dadhe
sarasvatī | | 11 |*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁴⁵

चोदयित्री । सूनृतानाम् । चेतन्ती । सुमतीनाम् । यज्ञम् । दधे । सरस्वती ॥११॥

original p. 80

Rik 3.11: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English rendering; Special topic (opening)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

यो सरस्वती सेयमिमं यज्ञं दधे । धारितवती । कीदृशी । सूनृतानां प्रियाणां सत्यवाक्यानां
चोदयित्री प्रेरयित्री । सुमतीनां शोभनबुद्धियुक्तानामनुष्ठातृणां चेतन्ती । तदीयमनुष्ठेयं ज्ञापयन्ती ॥ *yo [print; "yā" would be expected] sarasvatī seyam imam yajñam dadhe | dhāritavatī | kīdṛśī | sūnṛtānām
priyāṇām satya-vākyānām codayitrī prerayitrī | sumatīnām
śobhana-buddhi-yuktānām anuṣṭhātṛṇām cetantī | tadīyam
anuṣṭheyam jñāpayantī |*

Translation: "That Sarasvatī — she has taken up ('dadhe' = 'dhāritavatī') this sacrifice. What kind of one? 'Codayitrī' — the inciter, the impeller, of 'sūnṛtānām' — of pleasant, true utterances

145. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered letter by letter; [?] where unclear.

(or of those who speak them); 'cetantī' — the one who makes known, to the 'sumatīnām' — those of good understanding, the performers — what is to be performed by them." ¹⁴⁶

Grammar within the Bhāṣya ¹⁴⁷: "Codayitrī" — root "cud" (to impel), "ṇic," then "ṛc"; "c"-marked, so the penultimate is acute (चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः); "ñīp" (ऋन्नेभ्यो ङीप्, पा. ४-१-५); the feminine ending is acute by उदात्तयणो हल्पूर्वात् (udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt, पा. ६-१-१७४). "Sūnṛtānām" — "ūna parihāṇe" (to lessen) with "kvip"; "sūnīti priyam ucyate" — "sūn" denotes the pleasant; "ṛtaṃ satyam"; hence "sūnṛtam" = pleasant and true; the second member's acute follows the rule for compounds beginning with "para-ādi" in the Veda (बहुलमुत्तरपदादिः, as printed [?]). "Cetantī" — root "citī saṃjñāne" (to perceive); the "śap" is elided and "p"-marked, so unaccented; the stem's own accent remains; "ñīp" etc. "Sumatīnām" — "matī" is first-syllable-acute; the genitive-plural ending's accent (पा. ६-१-१८२, as printed [?]).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सरस्वती (sarasvatī) — the goddess Sarasvatī | सूनृतानाम् (sūnṛtānām) — [of] pleasant and true words, or [of] men who speak such words | चोदयित्री (codayitrī) — one who impels | सुमतीनाम् (sumatīnām) — (those who are devoted to sacrifices and the like) men of good understanding | चेतन्ती (cetantī) — one who makes (them) know (what is to be done in good works) | (such Sarasvatī) यज्ञम् (yajñam) — the sacrifice (that we are performing) | दधे (dadhe) — has taken up (carries through).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

¹⁴⁶. The print's first word reads "yo"; the sense needs "yā" ("who"), and I record the print as it stands.

¹⁴⁷. characterized; the print is partly garbled in the middle, and I do not give a reading of the unclear stretch

The goddess Sarasvatī, whom we praise, is she who impels men to speak pleasant and true words, or who inspires those who speak the truth to engage in good works, and who, by making known to men of good understanding what is to be done, helps them in doing right. May such a Sarasvatī bring the sacrifice that we perform to a faultless completion.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Saraswati, the inspirer of those who speak only the truth and instructress of the right-minded has supported the sacrifice."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This mantra is used in the sacrifice called Sautrāmaṇī; and also in the Vaiśvadeva, the Ukhāsambharaṇa (which, the source adds in English, "takes place at the new and full moon days") and the Ekāṣṭakā (the eighth day after full moon). Chiefly, this mantra is used in the rite called Vaiśvadeva, in the offering of the bali to Sarasvatī. ¹⁴⁸

original p. 81

Special topics on Rik 3.11; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

चोदयित्री (codayitri)

— A form derived from the root "cud" ("cudā preraṇe," to impel); the sense is "she who impels." Western scholars explain it with the words : "Inspire, incite, rouse, stimulate, furnish, quickly, hasten, hurry, stir, agitate, encourage."

सूनृतानाम् (sūnṛtānām) — The word "sūnṛta" is read both among the fourteen words that indicate "speech" (Ni. 1-1[?]) and among the three words that indicate "anna" (food) (Ni. 2-7[?]) [numbers as read, uncertain]. This word is derived from the word "ṛta," which means "true, truth." Hence, in the Ṛgveda, Western scholars explain the word "sūnṛta" with such words as : "One delighting in truth, good word, agreeable speech, truth, song, receiving good qualities, joy-giving, glorious deed."

148. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English words are as printed in the source. Nirukta reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and marked [?].

चेतन्ती (cetantī)

— The sense of this word is, with a slight addition, the same as that of "codayitrī"; for it, such senses as "Perceive, conceive, understand, inspire" may be given.

सुमतीनाम् (sumatīnām)

— This word is formed from the root "man" (to think). For it one may give : "Think, meditate, contemplate, imagine, observe, believe, regard." In this Ṛk, for this word the senses "those who have good understanding," "those devoted to good deeds, or those who do them," "right-thinking, right-minded" may be given.

The chief import of this Ṛk:

the goddess Sarasvatī impels men to speak true words and to do good works, and makes people's minds devoted to good activities. Therefore, she gives us good understanding in the sacrifice that we are now performing, makes that sacrifice reach completion with all its parts, and favours us so that we obtain its fruit.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Codayitrī": to the root "cud preraṇe" the affix "ṇic" is added; the penultimate light vowel takes guṇa, giving "codi-"; then "ṭṛc" (ण्वुलृचौ, ṇvul-ṭṛcau, पा. ३-१-१३३); "iṭ" comes to it by आर्धधातुकस्येड्वलादेः (पा. ७-२-३५); the "i" of "codi" takes guṇa (सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः, पा. ७-३-८४) and "ay" by एचोऽयवायावः (eco 'yavāyāvah, पा. ६-१-७८) → "codayitrī"; for the feminine, ऋन्नेभ्यो ङीप् (ṛnnebhyo ṅīp, पा. ४-१-५) — "ṅīp" after words ending in "ṛ" and "n" — and then यणादेशः (the semivowel substitution "ṛ → r") ... ¹⁴⁹

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.11 concluded — characterized

¹⁵⁰ ... "codayitr + ī" → "codayitrī". Since "ṭṛc" is "c"-marked (चित्, पा. ६-१-१६३) the last syllable is acute; the feminine ending then takes the acute by उदात्तयणो हल्पूर्वात् (udāttayaṇo hal-pūrvāt, पा. ६-१-१७४) — when an "ṛ"-substituted semivowel following a consonant stands for an acute vowel, the following case-ending is acute — hence "ī" is acute.

"Sūnṛtānām" — "ūna parihāṇau" (to lessen), with "kvip" by क्विप् च (पा. ३-२-७६) → "ūn"; "sutarām ūnayati apriyam" — "he who most completely removes what is unpleasant" — so "sūn" is a word for "the pleasant"; "ṛtam" = true; "sūn ca tad ṛtam ca" — a karmadhāraya compound, "sūnṛtam." Here, by परादिश्छन्दसि बहुलम् (parādiś chandasi bahulam, पा. ६-२-१९९), in the Veda the beginning of the latter member is variably acute; so the first syllable of the second member is acute. Through "āyasmayādīni chandasi" (आयस्मयादीनि छन्दसि, पा. १-४-२०) the words "ayasmaya" and others in the Veda get the "bha" and "pada" labels as suitable; hence the "bha"-label arises, and since there is no "pada"-label, न लोपः प्रातिपदिकान्तस्य (na lopah prātipadikāntasya, पा. ८-२-७) — the elision of the final "n" of a stem — does not apply to the "n" of "sūn."

"Cetantī" — root "citī saṃjñāne"; in place of "laṭ" the "śatṛ" affix (लटः शतृशानचावप्रथमासमानाधिकरणे, पा. ३-२-१२४) → "cit + at"; "śap" comes, then guṇa of the light penultimate, and by अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-९४) the

149. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

This page is dense accent-derivation in Kannada prose, repeating the Sanskrit grammar of p. 80. Per the standing convention it is characterized, not translated line by line; the sūtras are kept. Some details are garbled in the print and I do not give them.

150. Continuing "codayitrī":

single form → "cetāt"; "śatṛ" is "uk"-marked (उगितश्च, ugitaś ca, पा. ४-१-६), so "ñīp" for the feminine, giving "cetāt + ī"; by आच्छीनद्योर्नुम् (āc chīnadyor num, पा. ७-१-८०) "num" is the augment, optionally, when "śī" or "nadi"-labelled endings follow; "cetantī" results; by हल्ङ्याभ्यो दीर्घात्... (पा. ६-१-६८) the elision. Both "śap" and "ñīp" being "p"-marked, they are unaccented; the "śatṛ" affix is accented on the first syllable by तास्यनुदात्तेऽदिदुपदेशल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६) [as printed, garbled] and the stem's own accent remains; the final vowel of "cetāt," by धातोः (पा. ६-१-१६२) — the last vowel of a root is acute — is acute on the "e."

"Sumatīnām" — "śobhanā matiḥ yeṣāṃ te" — "those with good understanding," a bahuvrīhi; by नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) the second member is end-acute; after it, when the genitive plural ending is added, "nuṭ" is the augment and the vowel is lengthened — "sumatīnām." Here, by नामन्यतरस्याम् (nāmany atarasyām, पा. ६-१-१७७), in the case where the "matup"-final is elided... — if the stem is end-acute, the genitive plural ending "nām" is acute; thus the "nām" of "sumatīnām" is acute. ॥११॥ ¹⁵¹

original p. 83

Sūkta 3, Twelfth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, Pada-meanings

Sūkta 3, The Twelfth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

महो अर्णः सरस्वती प्र चेतयति केतुना । धियो विश्वा वि राजति ॥१२॥

*maho arṇaḥ sarasvatī pra cetayati ketunā | dhiyo viśvā vi
rājati || 12 ||*

151. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered letter by letter.

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

महः । अर्णः । सरस्वती । प्र । चेतयति । केतुना । धियः । विश्वाः । वि । राजति ॥१२॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

द्विविधा हि सरस्वती विग्रहवद्देवता नदीरूपा च । तत्र पूर्वाभ्यामृग्भ्यां विग्रहवती प्रतिपादिता । अनया तु नदीरूपा प्रतिपाद्यते । तादृशी सरस्वती केतुना कर्मणा प्रवाहरूपेण महो अर्णः प्रभूतमुदकं प्र चेतयति । प्रकर्षेण ज्ञापयति । किंच । स्वकीयेन देवतारूपेण विश्वा धियः सर्वाण्यनुष्ठातृप्रज्ञानानि विराजति । विशेषेण दीपयति । अनुष्ठानविषया बुद्धिः । सर्वोत्पादयतीत्यर्थः । dvividhā hi sarasvatī vighrahavad-devatā nadī-rūpā ca | tatra pūrvābhyām ṛgbhyām vighrahavatī pratipādītā | anayā tu nadī-rūpā pratipādyate | tādrśī sarasvatī ketunā karmaṇā pravāha-rūpeṇa maho arṇaḥ prabhūtam udakaṃ pra cetayati | prakarṣeṇa jñāpayati | kiṃca | svakīyena devatā-rūpeṇa viśvā dhiyaḥ sarvāṇy anuṣṭhātṛ-prajñānāni virājati | viśeṣeṇa dīpayati | anuṣṭhāna-viṣayā buddhiḥ | sarvotpādayatīty arthaḥ |

Translation: "Sarasvatī is indeed of two kinds: a deity with a body (a goddess), and in the form of a river. Of these, the two preceding R̥ks presented her as the embodied one; by this R̥k she is presented in river form. Such a Sarasvatī, 'ketunā' — by her action, in the form of her flow — makes known ('pra cetayati') 'maho arṇaḥ' — abundant water; that is, makes it known in an eminent way. Further, by her own form as a deity she 'virājati' — shines forth, illumines distinctly — all 'dhiyaḥ' — all the understandings of the performers; the understanding concerned with performance; the sense is: she produces them all." ¹⁵²

सरस्वत्या द्विरूपत्वं यास्को दर्शयति । तत्र सरस्वतीत्येतस्य नदीवद्देवतावच्च निगमा भवन्ति । नि. २-२३ । इति । एकशतसंख्याकेषूदकनामसु अर्णः क्षोद इति पठितम् । एतामृचं यास्को व्याचष्ट । महदर्णः सरस्वती प्रचेतयति प्रज्ञापयति केतुना कर्मणा प्रज्ञया वेमानि च सर्वाणि

152. The final clause, "sarvotpādayatīty arthaḥ," is printed as I give it; I read it as continuing the sentence, and note the sense is a little loose.

प्रज्ञानान्यभिविराजति । नि. ११-२१ । इति ॥ sarasvatyā dvirūpatvaṃ yāsko darśayati | tatra sarasvatīty etasya nadīvad devatāvac ca nigamā bhavanti | ni. 2-23 [?] | iti | ekaśata-saṃkhyākeṣūdaka-nāmasv arṇaḥ kṣoda iti paṭhitam | etām rcaṃ yāsko vyācaṣṭa | mahad arṇaḥ sarasvatī pracetayati prajñāpayati ketunā karmaṇā prajñayā vemāni ca sarvāṇi prajñānāny abhivirājati | ni. 11-2[?] | iti | |

Translation: "Yāska shows the twofold nature of Sarasvatī: 'Of this "Sarasvatī" the Vedic passages are both river-like and deity-like' (Nirukta 2-23 [?]). Among the hundred-and-one names of water, 'arṇaḥ' and 'kṣodaḥ' are read. Yāska explains this Ṛk thus: 'Sarasvatī makes known a great flood ("arṇaḥ"), by her action, and by her wisdom she shines over all these kinds of knowledge.' (Nirukta 11-2[?])."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya ¹⁵³: "Mahaḥ" — "mahat" with the final "t" turned into "s" by vyatyaya (Vedic licence), then "ru" → "ḥ"; the accent of the bare stem falls on its last syllable. एङः पदान्तादति (eṇaḥ padāntād ati, पा. ६-१-१०९) would give the preceding form ("pūrvarūpa"), but by प्रकृत्यान्तःपादमव्यपरे (prakṛtyāntaḥpādam avyapare, पा. ६-१-११५) the natural form is retained within the pāda. "Arṇaḥ" — from "ṛ," the Uṇādi affix "asun" (उ. ४-१९६ [?]), with the augment "nuṣ," and "ṛ" taking guṇa. "Ketunā" — the accent of the bare stem is on the last syllable. "Viśvāḥ" — "viśva" has the first syllable acute, as it ends in the affix "kvan" (क्वन् [?]). ¹⁵⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सरस्वती (sarasvatī) — the river Sarasvatī | केतुना (ketunā) — by an action in the form of flowing (by flowing) | महो अर्णः (maho arṇaḥ) — very abundant water | प्र चेतयति (pra cetayati) — makes known

in an eminent way | (और) विश्वाः धियः (viśvāḥ dhiyaḥ) — (and) the understanding (the wisdom) of all people (devoted to sacrifice and rites) | वि राजति (vi rājati) — illumines.¹⁵⁵

original p. 84

Rik 3.12: Bhāvārtha, English rendering; Special topics (opening)

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Since the river Sarasvatī flows with a very deep current, there is a great deal of water in this river; and this goddess also illumines the minds of those who praise her or who worship her by sacrifice — that is, she impels people's understanding so that it becomes keen.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Saraswati (river) manifests herself by her acts (flowing) as a mighty river and (in her own form) enlightens peoples's [sic] minds."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This mantra is used in the sacrifice called Sautrāmaṇi, for praising Sarasvatī. Yāska has explained this Ṛk in his Nirukta as follows — "mahad arṇaḥ sarasvatī pracetayati prajñāpayati ketunā karmaṇā prajñayā vemāni ca sarvāṇi prajñānāny abhivirājati" (महदर्णः सरस्वती प्रचेतयति प्रज्ञापयति केतुना कर्मणा प्रज्ञया वेमानि च सर्वाणि प्रज्ञानान्यभिविराजति — Ni. 11-2[?]). Both the river form and the form of the goddess of speech of Sarasvatī Yāska states in the passage "tatra sarasvatīty etasya nadīvad devatāvac ca nīgamā

154. The print here closes the Bhāṣya with the marks "॥ ६ ॥ १ ॥" — I read these as the varga-end marks; the verse-number ॥११॥ itself is printed at the end of the grammar on p. 85.

155. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." English as printed in the source.

bhavanti" (तत्र सरस्वतीत्येतस्य नदीवद्देवतावच्च निगमा भवन्ति — Ni. 2-2[?]). In this Ṛk, in the first half — that is, in the first two pādas — Sarasvatī is regarded and praised as being of river form, and in the third pāda as being of the form of a deity.

महो अर्णः (maho arṇaḥ)

— The word "arṇa" is read among the hundred-and-one [print: "101" — read with care] names that indicate water. "Arṇa" means "water" and also "river." Here, although the river Sarasvatī was not a large river like the Sindhu and others, the praise of her as "maho arṇaḥ" — a big river with abundant floods — is right, we may say: for when one is praising, it is customary in the world to magnify and extol even a little of the quality that a deity has; moreover, the ṛṣi of this Ṛk, Madhucchanda, may have seen no large rivers such as the Sindhu, being far from them. It is therefore natural that he praises this river as a very large river, with abundant water in it.

केतुना (ketunā) — The Bhāṣyakāra and Yāska both explain this as "karmaṇā" — "by action." When it is explained as relating to the river, "ketunā" means "by the flow (of the nature of a figure of speech, rūpaka-karma)," so deep and so abundant; and when explained as relating to the deity, it may mean "by the action that stirs (impels) the minds of people." The deep, endless and impetuous flood of the river Sarasvatī (the source's English: "Saraswati's mighty, endless and impetuous flood") is described in many mantras, such as Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-6[?]-1[?] [?]. For this word Western scholars give "Brightness, banner, flag, activity, wisdom." Skandasvāmī gives for "ketunā" ... "by the action that is of the nature of a roar (garjanā)..." ¹⁵⁶

original p. 85

156. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

Special topics on Rik 3.12 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā; end of Sūkta 3

¹⁵⁷ ...Skandasvāmī, that is, explains "ketunā" as "by the action of roaring"; Yāska explains it as "karmaṇā prajñayā vā" ("by action, or by wisdom"). The view of Uvvaṭa and Mahīdhara is the same as Skandasvāmī's. Veṅkaṭamādhava gives for "ketunā" only "karmaṇā."

धियः (dhiyaḥ) — "Buddhi, ālocanā" (understanding, reflection). Yāska and Skandasvāmī (in the sense of) "prajñā" and "karman"; Veṅkaṭamādhava, "prajñā"; Uvvaṭa and Mahīdhara, "buddhi." Among Western scholars, Grassmann gives "act of devotion," and another scholar ¹⁵⁸ "Devotion, thought" .

विराजति (virājati) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "viśeṣeṇa dīpayati" ("illuminates in a special way") — that is, "causes to shine greatly, impels, kindles." For this word, which is the third person singular of the root "rāj," the senses "shine, preside, govern, brighten" may be given. "Dhiyo virājati" means "she impels the minds to engage in good works," or "she makes our minds contented."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Maho arṇaḥ": the "t" of "mahat" becomes "s" by vyatyaya (Vedic licence); for the "s," ससजुषो रुः (sasajuṣo ruḥ, पा. ८-२-६६) gives "ru"; for "ru," रूतोरोरुप्लुतादप्लुते (ato ror aplutād aplute, पा. ६-१-११३) gives "u"; "mah + u"; then अदुग्णे [print; I read it as the guṇa rule आदुग्णः (ād guṇaḥ), पा. ६-१-८७, but the print differs, and I do not alter it] gives guṇa → "maho." When it joins the word "arṇaḥ," एङः पदान्तादति (पा. ६-१-१०९) would produce the preceding form, but प्रकृत्यान्तःपादमव्यपरे (पा. ६-१-११५) keeps the natural form for "e/o" at the end of a word inside a pāda, when a short "a" follows, and not "v/y" (the print: when a "va" or "ya" follows after

¹⁵⁷. Continuing "ketunā" from p. 84:

¹⁵⁸. name not legible in the print

the short vowel, this does not apply); so, the natural form is retained, and we have "maho arṇaḥ." "Arṇaḥ" — from the root "ṛ gatau" ("ṛ, to go": "it flows, goes" — "arṇaḥ"); when the sense "water" is intended, the Uṇādi-sūtra उदकेनुट् च (udake nuṭ ca, उ. सू. ४-१९६ [?]) — after "ṛ," "asun" with the augment "nuṭ"; with them, "ṛ + nas" → guṇa → "ar + nas"; by रषाभ्यां नो णः समानपदे (पा. ८-४-१) the "n" becomes "ṇ"; "ru"-substitution and visarga: "arṇaḥ." "Ketunā" — from the stem-accent it is end-acute. "Viśvāḥ" — "viśva" is formed with the "kvan" affix and is first-syllable acute. ॥१२॥

इल्लिगे ३नेय सूक्तवु संपूर्णवु — illige 3neya sūktavu sampūrṇavu — "Here the third sūkta is complete." ¹⁵⁹

159. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script and rendered here into Devanagari/IAST; reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where uncertain. Heading printed: "॥ ओम् ॥ — ನಾಲ್ಕನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು (the fourth sūkta)".

Sūkta 4 — "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye"

original p. 86

Sūkta 4: title; Sāyaṇa's introduction; the Anuvāda (opening)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

प्रथमे मण्डले द्वितीयेऽनुवाके चत्वारि सूक्तानि । तत्र सुरूपेत्यादिकं दशर्चं प्रथमं सूक्तं
सुरूपकृत्नुं दशेत्यनुक्रान्तत्वात् । पूर्वस्मान्मधुच्छन्दसो गायत्रस्य चानुवृत्तेरस्य एवर्षिश्छन्दसी ।
इन्द्रं पृच्छेति चतुर्थ्यामृचि लिङ्गदर्शनादिन्द्रो देवता । अभिप्लवषडहे ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनः
प्रातःसवने स्तोमवृद्ध्यावापार्थानि सुरूपकृत्नुमूतय इत्यादीनि षट् सूक्तानि । सूत्रितं
चाभिप्लवपृष्ठ्याहानीति खण्डे ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनः सुरूपकृत्नुमूतय इति षट् सूक्तानि । आ.
७-५ [?] । इति । आद्यानि त्रीणि सूक्तानि महाव्रते निष्केवल्य औष्णिहृतृचाशीतौ शस्तव्यानि
। उक्तं च शौनकेन । सुरूपकृत्नुमूतय इति त्रीण्येन्द्र सानसिं रयिमिति सूक्ते । ऐ. आ. ५-२-५ [?] । इति । चतुर्विंशेऽहनि माध्यन्दिने सवने ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनः सुरूपकृत्नुमूतय इति
वैकल्पिकः स्तोत्रियस्तृचः । होत्रकाणामिति खण्डे मदे मदे हि नो ददिः सुरूपकृत्नुमूतये । आ.
७-४ [?] । इति सूत्रितत्वात् । अग्निष्टोमे वैश्वदेवशस्त्रे सुरूपकृत्नुमूतय इति धाय्या । सुरूपकृत्नुमूतये तक्षत्रथम् । आ. ५-१८ [?] । इति सूत्रितत्वात् ॥ *prathame maṇḍale dvitīye 'nuvāke catvāri sūktāni | tatra surūpetyādikaṃ daśarcaṃ prathamam sūktaṃ surūpakṛtnum daśety anukrāntatvāt | pūrvasmān madhucchandaso
gāyatrasya cānuvṛtter asya evarṣi-cchandasī | indram
pṛccheti caturthyām ṛci liṅga-darśanād indro devatā |*

*abhiplava-ṣaḍahe brāhmaṇācchamsinaḥ prātaḥ-savane stomavṛddhy-āvāpārthāni surūpakṛtnum ūtaya ity ādīni ṣaṭ sūktāni | sūtritamaṃ cābhiplava-prṣṭhy-āhānīti khaṇḍe
 brāhmaṇācchamsinaḥ surūpakṛtnum ūtaya iti ṣaṭ sūktāni | ā.
 7-5 [?] | iti | ādyāni trīṇi sūktāni mahāvrate niṣkevalya
 auṣṇiha-trcāśītau śastavyāni | uktaṃ ca śaunakena |
 surūpakṛtnum ūtaya iti trīṇy endra sānasim rayim iti sūkte |
 ai. ā. 5-2-5 [?] | iti | caturviṃśe 'hani mādhyandine savane brāhmaṇācchamsinaḥ surūpakṛtnum ūtaya iti vaikalpikaḥ stotriyas trcaḥ | hotrakāṇām iti khaṇḍe made made hi no
 dadīḥ surūpakṛtnum ūtaye | ā. 7-4 [?] | iti sūtritatvāt |
 agniṣṭome vaiśvadeva-śāstre surūpakṛtnum ūtaya iti dhāyā | surūpakṛtnum ūtaye takṣan ratham | ā. 5-18 [?] | iti
 sūtritatvāt | |*

Translation: "In the first Maṇḍala, in the second Anuvāka, there are four sūktas. Of these, the first, beginning 'surūpa...', is of ten Ṛks, as the Anukramaṇī has it: 'surūpakṛtnum daśa.' Because of the continuation (anuvṛtti) from the preceding, the ṛṣi and metre of this one are the same — Madhucchandas, and Gāyatrī. By the evidence of the gender-mark in the fourth Ṛk, 'indram prccha,' Indra is the deity. In the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha (six-day rite), at the morning pressing, the six sūktas beginning 'surūpakṛtnum ūtaye' are (to be recited) by the Brāhmaṇācchamsin for the increase and the insertion (āvāpa) of the stoma; and this is laid down in the sūtra, in the section 'abhiplava-prṣṭhy-āhāni': 'the Brāhmaṇācchamsin's six sūktas beginning "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye"' (Āśv. [Śrauta-sūtra] 7-5 [?]). The first three of these sūktas are to be recited, in the Mahāvratā, as the niṣkevalya-śāstra, together with an Auṣṇiha trca, in the 'aśīti' (the eighty-verse recitation). And it has been said by Śaunaka: 'surūpakṛtnum ūtaye — three; and the two sūktas "indra sānasim rayim"' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 5-2-5 [?]). On the twenty-fourth day, at the midday pressing, the Brāhmaṇācchamsin's trca 'surūpakṛtnum ūtaye' is an optional stotriya trca; and in the section on the Hotrakas it is laid down: 'made made hi no dadih, surūpakṛtnum ūtaye' (Āśv. 7-4 [?]). In the Agniṣṭoma, in the Vaiśvadeva-śāstra, 'surūpakṛtnum ūtaye' is the dhāyā (the 'placing' verse): 'surūpakṛtnum ūtaye; takṣan ratham' (Āśv. 5-18 [?])."

॥ Anuvādaḥ ॥ ¹

As we said earlier (see R. Saṃ. Part II, page 3 [?]), the three sūktas of the first anuvāka of the first Maṇḍala are finished. From here the second Anuvāka begins. In this anuvāka there are four sūktas — (1) "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye," (2) "ā tvetā niṣidata," (3) "yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam," (4) "indram id gāthino br̥hat." Each of these four sūktas has ten Ṛks. As for the preceding sūktas, the ṛṣi of all four of these sūktas is the same Madhucchandas Vaiśvāmitra; the deity of this sūkta is Indra. In the first three Ṛks no deity's name is explicitly given; but because in the fourth Ṛk the words "indram pṛccha" are used, and since from there on in the 5th, 6th, 7th and 10th [?] Ṛks too the word "Indra" occurs, Indra is the deity of this whole sūkta. There is no rule that the deity's name must occur in all the Ṛks of a sūkta; where some Ṛks have it, the remaining Ṛks present that deity's subject, and so... ^{2 3}

original p. 87

Viniyoga of Sūkta 4; heading: ṛṣi, deity, metre; Rik 4.1 (Saṃhitā, Pada)

⁴ ...so the same deity must be said to apply to all the Ṛks of the sūkta. The order of application (viniyoga) of this sūkta is as follows. In the sacrifice called Abhiplava-śaḍaha, in the morning pressing, the Brāhmaṇacchaṃsin — the assistant ṛtvij of the Hotṛ — is to recite this sūkta "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye," together with the next five sūktas, for the increase of the stoma. In this regard, the

1. Kannada commentary, translated

2. continues on the next page

3. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 2 [?], Varga 7, 8 [?]"

Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

4. Continuing:

sūtra: "sūtritaṃ cābhiplava-pr̥ṣṭhy-āhānīti khaṇḍe brāhmaṇācchaṃsinaḥ surūpakṛtṇum ūtaya iti ṣaṭ sūktāni" (सूत्रितं चाभिप्लवपृष्ठ्याहानीति खण्डे ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनः सुरूपकृत्नुमूतय इति षट् सूक्तानि — Āśv. Sū. 7-5 [?]). Of these six sūktas the first three are used in the rite called Mahāvratā as niṣkevalya-śāstra mantras, as stated in the section "abhiplava-pr̥ṣṭhy-āhāni." Here Śaunaka has quoted the sentence of the Aitareya Āraṇyaka: "surūpakṛtṇum ūtaya iti trīṇyendra sānasiṃ rayim iti sūkte" (Ai. Ā. 5-2-5 [?]) — that is, the three sūktas beginning "surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye" and the two sūktas beginning "indra sānasiṃ rayim" are to be recited. Further, in the above-mentioned rite, on the twenty-fourth day, at the midday pressing, the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin may optionally recite the ṛca "surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye" (three Ṛks). The Āśvalāyana-sūtra says in the section "hotrakāṇām": "made made hi no dadīḥ surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye" (Āśv. Sū. 7-4 [?]) — that the ṛca "made made hi no dadīḥ" (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-8[?]-2) and the ṛca "surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye" (1-4-1) are to be recited; and in the Agniṣṭoma, when reciting the Vaiśvadeva-śāstra mantras — "surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye" (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-4-1) and "takṣan rathaṃ suvṛtam" (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-111-1) (Āśv. Sū. 5-18 [?]) — it is said in the Āśvalāyana sūtra that these Ṛks may be recited as special mantras.

॥ ओम् ॥

सूक्त—४⁵ ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—२ ॥ सूक्त—४ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय—१ ॥ वर्ग—७, ८ [?] ॥ ॥ सूक्तदल्लिरुव ऋक्संख्ये १० ॥⁶ ऋषिः — मधुच्छन्दा वैश्वामित्रः (ṛṣiḥ — madhucchandā vaiśvāmitraḥ) देवता — इन्द्रः (devatā — indraḥ) छन्दः — गायत्री (chandaḥ — gāyatrī)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥⁷

5. Sūkta 4

6. number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 10

7. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."

Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.

सुरूपकृत्नुमूतये सुदुघामिव गोदुहे । जुहूमसि द्यविद्यवि ॥१॥

surūpakṛtnum ūtaye sudughām iva goduhe | juhūmasi dyavidyavi || 1 ||

original p. 88

Rik 4.1: Pada-pāṭha, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings (opening)

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥⁸

सुरूपकृत्नुम् । ऊतये । सुदुघाम्ऽइव । गोऽदुहे । जुहूमसि । द्यविऽद्यवि ॥१॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

सुरूपकृत्नुं शोभनरूपोपेतस्य कर्मणः कर्तारमिन्द्रमूतयेऽस्मद्रक्षणार्थं द्यवि द्यवि प्रतिदिनं
जुहूमसि । आह्वयामः । आह्वाने दृष्टान्तः । गोदुहे गोदुगर्थं सुदुघामिव सुष्ठु दोग्ध्रीं गामिव । यथा
लोके गोर्दोग्धा दोहार्थं तस्याभिमुखेन दोहनीयां गामाह्वयति तद्वत् । वस्तोरित्यादिषु द्वादशसंख्याकेष्वहर्नामसु द्यविद्यवीति पठितम् । *surūpakṛtnum śobhana-rūpopetasya karmaṇaḥ kartāram indram ūtaye 'smad-rakṣaṇārthaṁ dyavi dyavi pratidinaṁ juhūmasi | āhvayāmaḥ
| āhvāne dṛṣṭāntaḥ | goduhe go-dugarthaṁ sudughām iva suṣṭhu dogdhrīm gām iva | yathā loke gor dogdhā dohārthaṁ tasyābhimukhena dohanīyām gām āhvayati tadvat | vastor ity ādiṣu dvādaśa-saṁkhyākeṣv ahar-nāmasu dyavidyavīti
paṭhitam |*

Translation:

"Surūpakṛtnum' — the doer of action endowed with beautiful form — Indra — we call, 'ūtaye' — for our protection — 'dyavi dyavi' — day by day. The illustration for the calling: 'goduhe' — for the milker of the cow ('go-dug'), 'sudughām iva' — like a good milch-cow ('suṣṭhu dogdhrī gauḥ'). As, in the world, the milker of a cow calls the cow that is to be milked, to face him, for the sake of the milking, so (we call Indra). Among the twelve names for 'day,' beginning with 'vastoh,' 'dyavidyavi' is read."

8. Reading note: the print divides the compounds with marks I read as "sudughām-iva" and "go-duhe," "dyavi-dyavi"; I give the divisions as I read the printed signs.

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, not transcribed line by line; every sūtra cited is kept): "Surūpakṛtnum": "karoti iti kṛtnuḥ" — the affix "knu" after "kṛ" and "hi" (कृहिभ्यां क्नुः, उ. सू. ३-३० [?]); since "knu" is "k"-marked, the guṇa does not occur; the "t" is inserted, a Vedic usage; the compound's accent is on its last syllable. "Ūtaye": "av" (to protect) takes "ktin" in the Vedic list "ūti-yūti-jūti-sāti-heti-kīrtayaś ca" (ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च, पा. ३-३-९७), which is irregularly formed (nipātana) and has the end-acute. "Sudughām": "su" + "dugdhā"; the affix "kap" after "duh" (दुहः कब्यश्च, पा. ५-४-८० [?]), and the "h" becomes "gh"; "kap" being "p"-marked, the accent of the root remains with the "u" acute. With "su" as a gati-compound, the second member's accent is retained; with "iva" the case-ending is not elided (इवेन विभक्त्यलोपः पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वं च, as on p. 58). "Goduhe": "gām dogdhīti godhuk" — "kvip" in the sense of "doer" by सत्सूद्विषदुहदुहयुजविदभिदच्छिदजिनीराजामुपसर्गोऽपि क्विप् (पा. ३-२-६१); the accent of the second member of a kṛt compound is retained. "Juhūmasi": "hve" (hūyate) in the first-person plural laṭ; "śap" is replaced by "ślu" in the Veda (बहुलं छन्दसि, पा. २-४-७३); doubling of the root (श्लौ, पा. ६-१-१०); the "samprasāraṇa" and the "pūrvarūpa" (संप्रसारणाच्च, पा. ६-१-१०८); the lengthening (हलः, पा. ६-४-२, as printed); shortening of the reduplicative syllable (ह्रस्वः, पा. ७-४-५९); "ch/j" substitution (चुत्वम्..., as printed); the "mas" ending takes "i" by इदन्तो मसिः (पा. ७-१-४६); the "m" is acute by the accent of the affix. "Dyavi dyavi": "dyu" has the bare-stem accent on the last syllable; in the sense of repetition the word is doubled (नित्यवीप्सयोः, पा. ८-१-४); and the second is, by परमाग्रेडितम् (पा. ८-१-२) and अनुदात्तं च (पा. ८-१-३) [numbers as printed], unaccented.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ⁹

गोदुहे (goduhe) — for the sake of milking | सुदुघामिव (sudughāmiva) — like a cow that gives milk (or that gives much milk) | सुरूपकृत्नुम् (surūpakṛtnum) — (him) who does good (beautiful) deeds — (Indra) ... ¹⁰

original p. 89

Rik 4.1: Pada-meanings concluded; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

...who does (Indra) | ऊतये (ūtaye) — for (our) protection | द्यविद्यवि (dyavidyavi) — every day | जुहूमसि (juhūmasi) — we call (we call him to come near us).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥ ¹¹

Just as we call, with love, a cow that gives milk, to come near us, so every day, for our protection, we call to us Indra, who can do wonderful — that is, daring — deeds.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"We invoke the performer of beautiful actions (Indra) day by day for our protection like a good milch-cow for the purpose of milking."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

सुरूपकृत्नुम् (surūpakṛtnum) — This word is not used elsewhere in the Ṛgveda than in this Ṛk. The Bhāṣyakāra explains this word as "śobhana-rūpopetasya karmaṇaḥ kartāram" ("the doer of action endowed with beautiful form") — one who does works of a good

9. Kannada, translated; continued on the next page

10. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

English as printed in the source. The verse cited below is as printed; I note that the same Ṛk was already quoted in Sūkta 3, p. 25 of this file's earlier text.

11. Kannada, translated form. The explanation of Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava is the same. Griffith and Macdonell follow Sāyaṇa's sense. Grassmann, the German scholar: "He who knows to perform beautiful things" — one with the power to do beautiful deeds; Ludwig: "Creator [sic] of beautiful forms" — one who can create beautiful shapes. But Geldner: "when he assumes his good forms or he who shows himself from his best side" — "one who shows his own best form" — and in support of this meaning he has cited the R̥k:

रूपंरूपं प्रतिरूपो बभूव तदस्य रूपं प्रतिचक्षणाय । इन्द्रो मायाभिः पुरुरूप ईयते युक्ता ह्यस्य हरयः शता दश ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-४७-१८) rūpaṃ-rūpaṃ pratirūpo babhūva tad asya rūpaṃ praticakṣaṇāya | indro māyābhiḥ pururūpa īyate yuktā hy asya harayaḥ śatā daśa || (ṛ. saṃ. 6-47-18) The source's English (from Geldner): "He has become suitable to every form; this true form of his is to be recognised again and again. Indra assumes many forms by virtue of his mysterious power; for, ten hundred horses have been yoked for him."

— the chief import being that Indra, by his own power of māyā, is able to assume many forms. And... ¹²

original p. 90

Special topics on Rik 4.1 (continued): Indra's many forms; "surūpakṛtnum" and "lokakṛtnum"; "ūtaye" (opening)

¹³ In the R̥k

12. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." R̥g-vedic and Nirukta reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and all are marked [?]. The glosses on verses are mine, tentative; the source gives none. In the Nirukta passage one word is unclear to me and flagged.

13. Continuing from p. 89:

रूपंरूपं मघवा बोभवीति मायाः कृष्णानस्तन्वं परि स्वाम् । (ऋ. सं. ३-५३-८ [?]) rūpaṃ-rūpaṃ maghavā bobhavīti māyāḥ kṛṇvānas tanvaṃ pari svām | (r. sam. 3-53-8 [?]) Gloss: "Maghavan becomes form after form, working his magic arts around his own body."

too it is said that Indra is able to assume many forms. In the Nirukta as well (Ni. 10-1[?]) this Ṛk is explained thus:

विश्वामित्रस्यार्षम् । यावन्ति कानिचिद्रूपाणि मघवा इन्द्रो भवितुमिच्छति तानि
सर्वाण्यप्रतिबन्धेन बोभवीति पुनःपुनर्भवतीति । कथम् । मायाः कृष्णानः इदं भवामीदं
भवामीत्येवं "तन्वं परि स्वाम्" स्वां तनुं तत्तदाकृत्यानेकविधां विकुर्वाणः । तेनासौ
[?]चिन्त्यप्रभावत्वाच्छक्नोति तत्तद्रूपमावेष्टुम् ॥ इत्यादि viśvāmitrasyārṣam | yāvanti kānicid rūpāṇi maghavā indro bhavitum icchati tāni sarvāṇy apratibandhena bobhavīti punaḥ-punar bhavatīti |
katham | māyāḥ kṛṇvānaḥ idaṃ bhavāmīdaṃ bhavāmīty
evaṃ "tanvaṃ pari svām" svām tanuṃ tat-tadākṛtyānekavidhāṃ vikurvāṇaḥ | tenāsau [?]cintya-
prabhāvatvāc chaknoti tat-tad-rūpaṃ āveṣṭum || ity ādi

Translation: "(This Ṛk is) the revelation of Viśvāmitra. Whatever forms Maghavan Indra wishes to become, all of them he becomes without hindrance, again and again. How? 'Working māyās': 'I become this, I become this' — thus 'around his own body' — his own body, in this and that shape, transforming it in many ways. Therefore, through his [a]-inconceivable power ("[a]cintya-prabhāvatvāt" — the first letter of the word is not clear to me), he is able to enter into this or that form," and so on.

That is, in this Ṛk the ṛṣi Viśvāmitra says this: Indra, by his power of māyā, is able to transform his own body in many ways — that is, to take on, as the occasion requires, many different bodily forms. In the time of slaying enemies he can take a terrible form, and in fulfilling the wishes of the worshipper or of the people who praise him he can take a lovely form; and he has the power of māyā suited to such actions. Therefore, since in the Ṛk in hand the word "surūpakṛtnum" is used in calling Indra, with love, for our protection, the ṛṣi may have used the word to signify that Indra should come here, taking, by his power of māyā, a beautiful — that is, a gracious — form, to guard us. The word "kṛtnu" occurs, as the latter member of a compound, in the word "lokakṛtnum," which is found only in these two Ṛks:

तं ते मदं गृणीमसि वृषणं पृत्सु सासहिम् । उ लोककृत्नुमद्रिवो हरिश्रियम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-१७-४ [?]) taṃ te madam grṇīmasi vṛṣaṇaṃ pṛtsu sāsaḥim | u lokakṛtnum adrivo hariśriyam || (ṛ. saṃ. 6-17-4 [?]) Gloss: "That exhilaration of yours we praise, the bull, the conqueror in battles, the world-maker, O wielder of the stone, the splendour of the bay horses."

तं त्वा मदाय घृष्वय उ लोककृत्नुमीमहे । तव प्रशस्तयो महीः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-२-२ [?]) taṃ tvā madāya ghr̥ṣvaya u lokakṛtnum īmahe | tava praśastayo mahīḥ || (ṛ. saṃ. 8-2-2 [?]) Gloss: "Thee, the world-maker, we entreat for the exhilaration, for the bold one; great are your praises."

— This word is, in both Ṛks, applied to Indra, that is, it applies to Indra.

ऊतये (ūtaye) — "For protection; for guarding." This word and its other forms — ūtayaḥ, ūtīḥ, ūtibhiḥ, ūtīm, ūtīṣu, ūtī, ūtīḥ, ūtīyā — are used in many places in the Ṛgveda. In the Nirukta (Ni. 5-3 [?]), "ūtīḥ" is explained as "āvanam" (protection), and... ¹⁴

original p. 91

Special topics on Rik 4.1 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

¹⁵ ...and he explains the word "ūtaye" in the Ṛk quoted as an example:

14. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Reference-numbers marked [?]; glosses mine.

15. Continuing "ūtaye":

आ त्वा रथं यथोतये सुम्नाय वर्तयामसि । (ऋ. सं. ८-३-१ [?]) ā tvā ratham yathotaye sumnāya vartayāmasi | (r. saṃ. 8-3-1 [?]) Gloss: "As (one turns) a chariot for aid, we turn you hither for favour."

as "avanāya, rakṣaṇāya" (for protecting). Such examples are many in the Ṛgveda. Ṛks in which Indra is entreated to save the worshippers from the harm of enemies, to make them fearless, and to protect them, occur in many places in the Ṛgveda:

त्रातारमिन्द्रमवितारमिन्द्रं हवेहवे सुहवं शूरमिन्द्रम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-४७-११) trātāram indram avitāram indram have-have suhavam śūram indram | | (r. saṃ. 6-47-11) Gloss: "Indra the saviour, Indra the helper, Indra, easily invoked at every call, the hero."

बाधतां द्वेषो अभयं कृणोतु सुवीर्यस्य पतयः स्याम ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-४७-१२) bādhatām dveṣo abhayaṃ kṛṇotu suvīryasya patayaḥ syāma | | (r. saṃ. 6-47-12) Gloss: "May he drive off hatred, may he make fearlessness; may we be masters of good heroism."

There are many Ṛks of this kind concerning Indra.

सुदुघामिव गोदुहे (sudughām iva goduhe)

— "As one calls a cow for milk." This simile — or similes of the same sense (the source's term: "lupta-upamā") — are used in many places in the Ṛgveda, so it seems that in that age this sentence was a customary one to cite as an illustration:

तं त्वा वयं सुदुघामिव गोदुहो जुहूमसि श्रवस्यवः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-५२-४ [?]) taṃ tvā vayam sudughām iva goduho juhūmasi śravasyavaḥ | | (r. saṃ. 8-52-4 [?]) Gloss: "Thee we call, like milkers a good milch-cow, seeking fame."

इन्द्रं धेनुं सुदुघामन्यामिषमुरुधारामरंकृतम् । (ऋ. सं. ८-१-१०) indram dhenum sudughām anyām iṣam urudhārām araṃkṛtam | (r. saṃ. 8-1-10) Gloss: "Indra — the good milch-cow, another refreshment, broad-streamed, well-fashioned." [tentative; the print gives only this line]

उपह्वये सुदुग्धां धेनुमेतां सुहस्तो गोधुगुत दोहदेनाम् । (ऋ. सं. १-१६४-२६ [?]) upahvaye sudughām dhenum etām suhasto godhug uta dohad enām | (Ṛ. saṃ. 1-164-26 [?]) Gloss: "I call this good milch-cow near; may the skilful-handed milker milk her."

A cow that gives milk is dear to everyone; likewise Indra, who protects from the harm of enemies, is desired by all — such is the import.

द्यविद्यवि (dyavidyavi) — "Every day." By नित्यवीप्सयोः (nityavīpsayoḥ, पा. ८-१-४) there is doubling: when a single word is read twice, the sense is "each one." Examples: dive-dive ("every day"), āharahaḥ, māsi-māsi ("every month"), yajñe-yajñe ("at every sacrifice"), bhare-bhare ("in every battle"), have-have ("at every call"), dame-dame ("in every house"), and the like.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁶ 4th Sūkta, Rik 1. "Surūpakṛtnum": a root meaning "to make" ("kṛ"); after the seven roots r-ṣap-śilp-śap-bāp-rūpa-parṣa [?] (the list as printed: "khuṣpa śilpa śaṣpa bāpa rūpa parṣa ..." — I read it with doubt; Uṇ. Sū. 3-3[?]8 [?]) — "ṛñ avadāraṇe" (to tear), "śīlasamādhau" (to practise), "śaśu himsāyām" (to kill), "bādhṛ loḍane" (to disturb), "rū śabde" (to sound), "pūpālanapūraṇayoḥ" (to protect and fill), "talapratīṣṭhākaraṇe" — an affix "pa" ... ¹⁷

original pp. 92-93

16. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept

17. Page headers: p. 92 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4"; p. 93 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, the Kannada rendering of the grammar already given in Sanskrit on p. 88. Per the standing convention they are characterized in order, not translated line by line; each sūtra the pages cite is kept in three layers with its number as I read it. Sūtra-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. Nothing in them changes the sense of the Rik as given on p. 89.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.1 (Kannada) — characterized

p. 92 — "surūpakṛtnum" and the beginning of "ūtaye." - "Surūpa" — "rūpa" is formed from the root "rūp" (or "rūpa") with the affix "pa" that is added after the seven roots listed in the Uṇādi-sūtra, "...(?)-śilp-śaṣp-bāp-rūp-parṣ... (उ. सू. ३-३४ [?] and context, as printed, read with doubt)," and, by nipātana, the lengthening of the vowel gives "rūpa." Explained as "rūpyate (praśasyate) iti rūpam": that which is praised by people. "Śobhanaṃ rūpaṃ yasya tat" — a bahuvrīhi compound — "surūpam." Then the genitive tatpuruṣa "surūpasya kṛtnuḥ." - "Kṛtnu" — "karotīti kṛtnuḥ": the affix "knu" after "kṛ" and "han" (कृहनिभ्यां क्तुः, उ. सू. ३-३० [?]); "knu" being "k"-marked, there is no guṇa; "han" is stated in the sūtra because the "t" of the affix is added (a Vedic feature). - Accent of the compound. After the "su" the bahuvrīhi would by बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) retain the first member's accent; but नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) makes the last member's last syllable acute in a bahuvrīhi after "nañ" or "su"; so "surūpa" is end-acute. In "kṛtnu" the affix's accent is the acute, per कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् [as read]; with "surūpakṛtnu" as a genitive tatpuruṣa, समासस्य (पा. ६-१-२२३) makes the compound end-acute. The second-case singular ending "am" must be added after "surūpakṛtnu"; by अनुदात्तौ सुप्तिौ (पा. ३-१-४) the ending "am" is unaccented. By अमिपूर्वः (पा. ६-१-१०७) the "am" combines in the "pūrvarūpa" with the "u," and by एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५) the single substitute is acute. - "Ūtaye" — ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च (पा. ३-३-९७) with the word मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-९६) — the "udātta" of the preceding sūtra being carried over — these words ending in the affix "ktin" are formed irregularly (nipātana) and are end-acute: "ūti" is end-acute. The root "av" (to protect) takes "ktin" by ज्वरत्वरस्रिव्यविमवामुपधायाश्च (पा. ६-४-२०) with "ūṭ" replacing "av," giving "ūti"; the accents of the root and of the affix would conflict, and the nipātana's acute on the "i" overrides. "Ū" is unaccented by the "śeṣa-anudātta" rule. ...

p. 93 — "ūtaye" concluded; "sudughām," "goduhe," "juhūmasi." - "Ūti" + the dative ending "ñe": the "ñi"/"jhi" affixes; since "ūti" is a word ending in short "i" and not "nadī"-labelled, by चेङिति (पा. ७-३-१११) the guṇa is substituted — "ūte" + "e" → by एचोऽयवायाव: "ūtaye." The "ñe" ending is unaccented as "sup"; the accent of the "i" of "ūti" is the "nipātana" acute, and the "ay" substitute is acute as the substitute of an acute; by उदात्तादनुदात्तस्य स्वरितः (पा. ८-४-६६) the following unaccented syllable becomes svarita. Thus "ūtaye": first syllable unaccented, second acute, third svarita. - "Sudughām" — "suṣṭhu dugdhe iti sudughā" ("she who yields milk well"): the root "duh prapūraṇe" (to fill, to milk) takes "kap" when "su" is an upapada — दुहः कब्यश्च (duhaḥ kab ghaś ca, पा. ३-२-७० [?]) — and the "h" of "duh" becomes "gh"; the "a" of "kap" being "p"-marked, there is no guṇa, and by अनुदात्तोपदेश... the root's accent remains; धातोः (पा. ६-१-१६२) gives the root's last vowel — the "u" of "dugh" — the acute. With "su" the compound is a "gati-kāraka-upapada" compound, so by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) the original accent remains; the feminine "tāp"; the second-case singular "sudughām"; and with "iva," by इवेन समासो विभक्त्यलोपः पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वं च (the vārttika as on p. 58) the compound keeps the earlier accent. - "Goduhe" — "gām dogdhīti godhuk": सत्सूद्विषदुहदुहयुजविदभिदच्छिदजिनीराजामुपसर्गेऽपि क्विप् (पा. ३-२-६१) — after "pad" (to go), "sad," "dviṣ," "druh," "duh," "yuj," "vid," "bhid," "chid," "ji," "nī," "rāj" — "kvip" occurs whether or not an upasarga precedes, when a subanta stands as upapada; the "kvip" is applied to "duh" with "go" as upapada; in the compound, the kṛt-ending second member's accent is kept (कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम्). - "Juhūmasi" — the root "hve" (हेञ् स्पर्धायां शब्दे च, "to challenge, to call"), of the third (juhotyādi) class; "laṭ" first-person plural "mas";

the "śap" that follows is elided as "ślu" by बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३) and जुहोत्यादिभ्यः श्लुः (पा. २-४-७५); doubling of the root by श्लौ (पा. ६-१-१०); the doubled pair is called "abhyasta" by उभे अभ्यस्तम् (पा. ६-१-५) ... ¹⁸

original p. 94

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.1 concluded; Sūkta 4, Second Mantra: Saṃhitā and Pada text

¹⁹ ...the root "hve," being the cause, takes "samprasāraṇa" (हेञ् ... संप्रसारणम्): "hu + e + mas" → "hu + mas"-type form by संप्रसारणाच्च (पा. ६-१-१०८) — when "samprasāraṇa" is followed by an "ac," the single "pūrvarūpa" replaces both — and then by हलः (पा. ६-४-२, as printed) the stem-final before a consonant is lengthened ("hū"); the doubling by श्लौ (पा. ६-१-१०); the reduplicative syllable is shortened by ह्रस्वः (पा. ७-४-५९) — "hu-hū-mas"; for the "h" of the reduplicative syllable the "c"-class substitute by कुहोश्चुः (kuhoś cuḥ, पा. ७-४-६२) → "ju"; then the "ru/ghosa" substitutions अभ्यासे चर्च (पा. ८-४-५४); "mas" takes the augment "i" by इदन्तो मसिः (पा. ७-१-४६) → "juhūmasi." By the accent of the affix the "ma" is acute.

"Dyavidyavi" — the root "dyut dīptau" (to shine); after it the Uṇādi affix "do" (उणादयो बहुलम्, पा. ३-३-१); because of the word "bahulam" the affix "do" comes. Bhaṭṭoji-dīkṣita, in the Kaumudī, in explaining the Uṇādi-sūtra गमेर्दोः [as printed; "dyoḥ"?] (उ. सू. ३-३१ [?]), says that from the "bāhulaka" rule "dyau" too arises; Bhojadeva holds that "do" is the affix after the root "dyu abhigamane" ("to approach"). "Dyoḥ" is end-acute, by the Uṇādi accent rule (फिषः etc. as printed, "ṭi-sū. 1" [?]). In the seventh case singular, with the doubling by नित्यवीप्सयोः (पा. ८-१-४), the word is

18. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

19. Continuing "juhūmasi" from p. 93:

"dyavi-dyavi"; of it, the second part is called "āmreḍita" by परमाग्नेडितम् (पा. ८-१-२), and, by अनुदात्तं च (पा. ८-१-३), the "āmreḍita" is unaccented — so the second "dyavi" is unaccented. ॥१॥ ²⁰

Sūkta 4, The Second Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

उप नः सवना गहि सोमस्य सोमपाः पिब । गोदा इद्रेवतो मदः ॥२॥

upa naḥ savanā gahi somasya somapāḥ piba | godā id revato madaḥ || 2 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²¹

उप । नः । सवना । आ । गहि । सोमस्य । सोमऽपाः । पिब । गोऽदाः । इत् । रेवतः । मदः ॥ २॥

original p. 95

Rik 4.2: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे सोमपाः सोमस्य पातरिन्द्र सोमं पातुं नोऽस्मदीयानि सवना सवनानि त्रीणि प्रत्युप समीप आगहि । आगच्छ । आगत्य च सोमस्य सोमं पिब । रेवतो धनवतस्तव मदो हर्षो गोदा इदोप्रद एव । त्वयि हृष्टे सत्यस्माभिर्गवो लभ्यन्त इत्यर्थः ॥ he somapāḥ somasya pātar indra somaṃ pātuṃ no 'smadīyāni savanā savanāni trīṇi praty upa samīpa āgahi | āgaccha | āgatya ca somasya somaṃ piba | revato dhanavatas tava mado harṣo godā id gopradā eva | tvayi hr̥ṣṭe saty asmābhir gāvo labhyanta ity arthaḥ |

Translation:

20. Accent-marks not reproduced.

21. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. The sense-lines are transcribed in full; the grammar is characterized, with its sūtras.

"O 'somapāḥ' — O drinker of Soma, Indra! In order to drink the Soma, come near, 'upa āgahi' — come — 'nah savanā' — to our three pressings (savanas). And having come, drink the Soma ('somasya piba' = 'somam piba'). 'Revataḥ' — of you, the wealthy; the 'madaḥ' — the exhilaration — is 'godā id' — a giver of cows indeed: that is, when you are delighted, we obtain cows."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya ²²: "Upa" — a particle, hence first-syllable acute. "Savanā" — "sūyate somaḥ eṣu iti savanāni": "lyuṭ" in the locative-of-place sense (ल्युट्..., पा. ३-३-११७); the ending "śas/jas" replaced by "dā" (सुपो ङादेशः, as printed) and the loss of "ti"; the accent on the vowel before the affix in the "ñit/ñit"-marked affix. "Gahi" — from "gam" with the "śap" dropped by बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३); the root's "m" is dropped by अनुदात्तोपदेश... (पा. ६-४-३७); the "hi" ending by आतो हे: (पा. ६-४-१०५ [?]) — the print then discusses why the loss of "m" is to be treated as "asiddha" and the resulting accent, which I do not reproduce. "Somapāḥ" — vocative; the आमन्त्रितस्य च (पा. ६-१-१९८) loss of accent; "piba" has its accent lost by तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) with reference to the preceding word, though that word is not itself an existent "pada"-unit by "parāṅgavadbhāva" — the print debates this (the "asāmarthya" argument) and concludes the "nighāta" does apply. "Godāḥ" — "gām dadātīti godāḥ": "kvip" (क्विप् च, पा. ३-२-७६) in the sense of the doer, and the root-final "ā" becomes "i" by आतो मनिन्क्वनिब्बनिपश्च (पा. ३-२-७४) [as printed "...vanip"]; "vic" ... and "ghu-māsthā..." (घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि, पा. ६-४-६६) — the "i"-substitution of the final "ā" — would be expected, but "godāḥ" is irregular by Vedic usage. "Revān" — "rayir dhanam asyāstīti": "matup" after "rayi" (रयेर्मतौ बहुलं छन्दसि, पा. ६-१-३७ [?]), the samprasāraṇa, the guṇa; the "matup" is acute by ह्रस्वनुङ्भ्यां मतुप् (पा. ६-१-१७६); by छन्दसीरः (पा.

22. characterized; the print is somewhat garbled in the middle and I give only what I read clearly ८-२-१५) the "va." "Madaḥ" — "mad" (to be glad) with "ap" (मदोऽनुपसर्गे, पा. ३-३-६७ [?]); "p"-marked and thus unaccented in the affix; the root-accent remains.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सोमपाः (somapāḥ) — O Indra, who drink the Soma | नः (naḥ) — our | सवना (savanā) — to the morning, midday and third pressings in the sacrifice (or: to the sacrifices that we perform) | उपागहि (upāgahi) — be one who comes near (coming here) | सोमस्य (somasya) — the Soma-juice | पिब (piba) — drink | रेवतः (revataḥ) — (of you) who are endowed with riches, lordship and the like | मदः (madah) — the joy (that arises from drinking the Soma) | गोदाः (godāḥ) — gives (us) cows.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You are a drinker of Soma. Therefore, coming to the three pressings of the sacrifice that we are now performing — the morning, the midday and the third — drink the Soma that we have prepared. When you drink it you are made glad; and you, who are endowed with lordship, will be the giver to us of cows (wealth in cows).²³

original p. 96

Rik 4.2: English rendering; Special topics; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O Soma-drinker, come hither to our Sacrifices and Partake of the Soma; you being rich the satisfaction you get from drinking Soma is verily the cause of the gift of cattle."

23. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."

English as printed. The count of "-dāḥ" words is in small Kannada numerals, read as "1?" and marked [?].

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

उप आ गहि (upa ā gahi)

— "Upa" — near: near the sacrifice we are performing; "ā gahi" — "come," be one who comes.

सवना (savanā)

— "sūyate somaḡ eṣu iti savanāni" ("those in which Soma is pressed") — the name "savana" is given to the rite (the sacrifice) that extracts the Soma-juice. "Savana" may be explained as the three pressings beginning with the morning pressing, or as the sacrifice that has the rite of pressing. In either way the chief sense is one.

गोदाः (godāḡ) — "gāḡ dadātīti godāḡ; goprade" — one who gives cows, or wealth in cattle. Similarly "somaḡ pibatīti somapāḡ." In the Ṛgveda there are [1?] examples of words ending in the affix "dāḡ"²⁴:

अश्वदाः । आत्मदाः । ओजोदाः । गोदाः । द्रविणोदाः । धनदाः । बलदाः । भूरिदाः । वस्त्रदाः ।
 वाजदाः । वासोदाः । सहोदाः । सहस्रदाः । सुदाः । स्वस्तिदाः । हिरण्यदाः । भूरिदाः ॥ aśvadāḡ | ātmadāḡ | ojadāḡ | godāḡ | draviṇodāḡ |
dhanadāḡ | baladāḡ | bhūridāḡ | vastradāḡ | vājadāḡ |
vāsodāḡ | sahodāḡ | sahasradāḡ | sudāḡ | svastidāḡ |
hiraṇyadāḡ | bhūridāḡ | | (Translation of the word-list, mine:
"giver of horses; giver of self; giver of vigour; giver of cows; giver of wealth; giver of riches; giver of strength; giver of plenty; giver of garments; giver of prizes; giver of clothing; giver of might; giver of a thousand; good giver; giver of well-being; giver of gold; giver of plenty." The word "bhūridāḡ" is printed twice in the list, as I read it; I record this without correction.)

इत् (it)

24. the number is not certain

— "eva" (indeed). Example: "indraḥ godā id" — "Indra is indeed a giver of cows"; the sentence "indro godā it" means that Indra is a giver of cows only. The word "it" is used in the sense of emphasis (avadhāraṇa).

रेवतः (revataḥ)

— "rayir dhanam asyāstīti revān, tasya revataḥ" — one who has wealth: "of the wealthy (Indra)."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁵ "Upa" — a particle (nipāta), hence, by निपाता आद्युदात्ताः (Phit-sūtra [number as printed, "80" ?]) first-syllable acute. "Savanā" — "sūyate somaḥ eṣv iti savanāni": करणाधिकरणयोश्च (karaṇādhikaraṇayoś ca, पा. ३-३-११७) — "lyuṭ" is added to a root in the sense of instrument or locus; to "ṣuñ" (abhiṣave) comes "lyuṭ," "su + yu"; धात्वादेः षः सः (dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ, पा. ६-१-६४) — the initial "ṣ" of the root becomes "s" ... ²⁶

original p. 97

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.2 — characterized

²⁷ ...युवोरनाकौ (yuvor anākau, पा. ७-१-१) turns "yu" into "ana": "su + ana," then the guṇa and "av" substitutions → "savana." For the second-case plural ending, सुपां सुलुक्... (supāṃ sulukpūrvasavarṇāccheyāḍādyāyājālaḥ, पा. ७-१-३९) — the "ḍā" substitute — "savana + ā"; the "na" and the following "a" (देः, पा. ६-४-१४३): the "ṭi" of "savana" is elided before "ḍit" → "savanā." By लिति (liti, पा. ६-१-१९३) the vowel before the "l"-marked affix is acute.

"Gahi" — the root "gam gatau," in the imperative (lot) second-person singular, the ending "sip" → "gam + si"; "śap" (कर्तरि शप्, पा. ३-१-६८), which is elided here by बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३); सेह्यपिच्च (ser hy apic ca, पा. ३-४-८७) — "hi" replaces "si," and it is not "p"-marked — so "hi" is "ñit"-like and the sārvaadhātuka सार्वधातुकमपित् (पा. १-२-४) is "ñit," whence अनुदात्तोपदेश... (पा. ६-४-३७) drops the "m": "ga + hi." Then अतो हेः (ato heḥ, पा. ६-४-१०५) would drop the "hi" after an "a"-ending stem; but the rule असिद्धवदत्राभात् (asiddhavad atrābhāt, पा. ६-४-२२) makes the "m"-elision "asiddha" with respect to it, so that "hi" is not elided — the print argues this at length with the paribhāṣā about "samānāśraya" rules, and concludes that "hi" is retained: "gahi."

"Somapāḥ" — a vocative; by आमन्त्रितस्य च (पा. ६-१-१९८) it is first-syllable acute. The following "piba" is unaccented by तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८). The preceding word "somasya" is not a vocative; the text debates whether the "āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat" (पा. ८-१-७२) and "subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare" (पा. २-१-२) rules apply between "somapāḥ" and "somasya," and concludes that, because the two words lack a mutual syntactic connection ("asāmarthya"), "parāṅgavad-bhāva" does not occur, and "somasya" is not treated as non-existent.

"Godāḥ" — "gāṃ dadāti iti godāḥ": the root "ḍudāñ dāne" (to give), ending in "ā"; आतोऽनुपसर्गे कः would give "ka," but "kvip" (क्विप् च, पा. ३-२-७६) is the general rule; since the Veda has the specific rule आतो मनिक्वनिक्वनिपश्च (पा. ३-२-७४), "manin, kvanip, vanip" may come after a root ending in "ā" when a subanta or an upasarga stands as upapada; from the "ca" in that sūtra, "vic" also comes — and so on.^{28 29}

original pp. 98–99

26. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the rendering of the Sanskrit of p. 95; characterized, with sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.

27. Continuing "savanā":

28. The page ends in the middle of this argument about which affix applies to "godāḥ"; it continues on the next page.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.2 (continued): the "godāḥ" / "ī" debate; "revataḥ"

The question. The "ghu" labelled roots (the roots "dā" and "dhā") take "ī" before an "ārdhadhātuka" affix that begins with a consonant ("hali") and is "k"- or "ñ"-marked (ईत्वं हलि...). With "kvip," however, the whole affix is elided (वेरपृक्तस्य, पा. ६-१-६७), and "godāḥ" shows no "ī." The page-98 argument asks whether "kvip" can be regarded as an affix beginning with a consonant ("halādi") so as to call for "ī," and answers that it cannot, since it is entirely elided; yet, because of the "pratyaya-lakṣaṇa" principle (प्रत्ययलोपे प्रत्ययलक्षणम्, पा. १-१-६२ — "when an affix is elided, the operation that depends on the affix still applies"), the objector argues "ī" should still come. Two views are put: that this sūtra is vidhāyaka (enabling) or niyāmaka (restricting). The reply draws on the principle वर्णाश्रये नास्ति प्रत्ययलक्षणम् (varṇāśraye nāsti pratyaya-lakṣaṇam — "where the operation depends on a letter, there is no 'pratyaya-lakṣaṇa'"). Examples are taken from "tṛṇahim" (तृणह इम्, पा. ७-३-९२ [?]) and "gaveḥitam," and the page notes that when the chief ground of an operation is a letter (varṇa), the prohibition applies; when the chief ground is the affix itself, "pratyaya-lakṣaṇa" applies.

The Mahābhāṣya line (p. 99). The Mahābhāṣya-kāra's phrase ईर्ध्यायतेर्दधातेर्वा [as printed, "dhīrghyāyater dādāhāter vā"; read with doubt] is discussed: if "kvip" were added after "dhā," the "ī" of 29. Page headers: p. 98 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4"; p. 99 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are an advanced scholastic grammatical debate in Kannada prose about whether the "ī"-substitution of घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि (ghu-mā-sthā-gā-pā-jahāti-sāṃ hali, पा. ६-४-६६) can apply to "godāḥ" (the root "dā" with "kvip"). They have no bearing on the sense of the Rik, already given on pp. 95–96, and per the standing convention I characterize the argument in outline rather than transcribe it line by line, keeping the sūtras the pages name. Numbers as read; [?] where uncertain.

"ghumāsthā" would need to arise; "hali" would then be read as "an-aji" (not "ajādi"), and the reply says that the rule for "ī" requires a "k/ñ"-marked or "ārdhadhātuka" affix that does not begin with a vowel; in "godāḥ" the "kvip" is "ajādi," since it is elided; therefore "ī" does not arise, and "vic" is taken instead (the "ca" of the sūtra आतो मनिक्वनिब्वनिपश्च, पा. ३-२-७४, brings in "vic"). A parallel is "saṃśasthā" (अन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते, "...ambāgo-bhū-" — the sūtra as printed is garbled), where, if "kvip" were assumed, "ī" would again be required, and so "vic" is again assumed. Vārttikas of Kātyāyana (ईत्वे ह्यतिप्रतिषेधो वक्तव्यः [as I read it]) and the Padamañjarī are cited in support. The conclusion: in "godāḥ" the affix is "vic" (not "kvip") and no "ī" results. The debate is closed with a remark on the "asiddha"/"samprasāraṇa" rules, and on "pratyayāpratyaya-sādhāraṇa" operations (illustrated by सोर्मनसी अलोमोषसी, पा. ६-२-१०२ [?], with "sudṛṣat," "śobhanāḥ dṛṣadaḥ yasya prāsādasya"), which I do not reproduce.

"Revataḥ" ³⁰ — "rayiḥ asya asti iti revān": "matup" after "rayi" (तदस्यास्त्यस्मिन्निति मतुप्, पा. ५-२-९४); the "m" becomes "v" by छन्दसीरः (पा. ८-२-१५), and by रयेर्मतौ बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. ६-१-३७ [?]) the "samprasāraṇa" of "y" (to "i") is variably made in the Veda: "rayi + vat" → "revat" (the "ay" becoming "e" by guṇa: आद्गुणः, पा. ६-१-८७, after the "pūrvarūpa" of संप्रसारणाच्च, पा. ६-१-१०८); the nominative singular "revān"; the "matup" is acute by ह्रस्वनुङ्भ्यां मतुप् (पा. ६-१-१७६) (the print says "the acute when the preceding short vowel has the udātta") ...

original p. 100

Rik 4.2 grammar concluded; Sūkta 4, Third Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

³¹ ...the "matup" is acute as following a word-final short vowel or the augment "nuṭ" (ह्रस्वनुङ्भ्यां मतुप्, पा. ६-१-१७६). "Madaḥ" — "mad" (to be glad) with "ap" (मदोऽनुपसर्गे, पा. ३-३-६७ [?]): when a subanta (not an upasarga) stands as upapada before the root "mad," "ap" comes; being "p"-marked it is unaccented. ॥२॥

Sūkta 4, The Third Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अथा ते अन्तमानां विद्याम सुमतीनाम् । मा नो अति ख्य आ गहि ॥३॥

athā te antamānām vidyāma sumatīnām | mā no ati khya ā gahi ||3||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अथ । ते । अन्तमानाम् । विद्याम् । सुऽमतीनाम् । मा । नः । अति । ख्यः । आ । गहि ॥३॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अथ सोमपानानन्तरं हे इन्द्र ते तवान्तमानामन्तिकतमानामतिशयेन समीपवर्तिनां सुमतीनां शोभनमतियुक्तानां शोभनप्रज्ञानां पुरुषाणां मध्ये स्थित्वा विद्याम् । वयं त्वां जानीयाम । यद्वा । सुमतीनां शोभनबुद्धीनां कर्मानुष्ठानविषयाणां लाभार्थमित्यध्याहारः । बुद्धिलाभाय त्वां स्मरेमेत्यर्थः । त्वमपि नोऽस्मानतिक्रम्यान्वेषां त्वत्स्वरूपं मा प्रकथय । किंतु त्वा गह्यस्मानेवागच्छ । atha somapānānantaram he indra te tavāntamānām antikatamānām atīśayena samīpa-vartinām sumatīnām śobhana-mati-yuktānām śobhana-prajñānām puruṣāṇām madhye sthitvā vidyāma | vayam tvām jānīyāma | yadvā | sumatīnām śobhana-buddhīnām karmānuṣṭhāna-viśayāṇām lābhārtham ity adhyāhāraḥ | buddhi-lābhāya tvām

*smarema ity arthaḥ | tvam api no 'smān atikramyānyeṣāṃ
tvat-svarūpaṃ mā prakathaya | kiṃ tu tvā [print; "tvam"?]
gahy asmān evāgaccha |*

Translation: "'Atha' — after the drinking of the Soma — 'O Indra, te' — of you; 'antamānām' — of those nearest, those who stand exceedingly close; 'sumatīnām' — of men of good understanding, of good wisdom — standing in the midst of them, 'vidyāma' — we would know you. Or: 'sumatīnām' — 'of good understanding' — the supplied sense is 'for the obtaining of understanding for those engaged in the performance of rites'; that is, 'we would remember you for the gaining of understanding.' And you, passing us over, do not declare your own form to others; but come to us ('ā gahi')." ³²

अथेति निपात आद्युदात्तः । निपातस्य चेति दीर्घत्वम् । अन्तमानाम् । अतिशयेनान्तिका
इत्यतिशयाने तमप् । पा. ५-३-५५ । तमो तादेशश्च । पा. ६-४-१५४-५ [?] । इति तादिलोपः
। अन्तोऽस्यास्तीत्यन्तिकः समीपः । अत इनिठनाविति ठन् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । दूरोत्कर्षस्य
ह्रस्वान्नं नास्ति । सामीप्योत्कर्षस्य पुनर्यो यस्य समीपः स एव तस्यान्त
इत्यन्तवत्त्वात्सामीप्यमन्तिकमुच्यते । विद्याम । वेत्तेर्लिङ् । यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच् ।
पा. ३-४-१०३ । इति यासुडुदात्तः । पादादित्वात्तिङ्ङितिङ् इति न निघातः । सुमतीनाम् । मतिशब्दे क्तिन्नन्तेऽपि मन्त्रे वृषेपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः । पा. ३-३-९६ । *athety nipāta ādyudāttaḥ | nipātasya ceti dīrghatvam | antamānām
| atīśāyēnāntikā ity atīśāyane tamap | pā. 5-3-55 | tamo tādeśaś ca | pā. 6-4-154-5 [?] | iti tādi-lopaḥ | anto 'syāstīty
antikah samīpaḥ | ata inithanāv iti ṭhan | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ
| dūrotkarṣasya hy avasānaṃ nāsti | sāmīpyotkarṣasya punar yo yasya samīpaḥ sa eva tasyānta ity antavattvāt sāmīpyam antikam ucyate | vidyāma | vetter liṅ | yāsuṭ
parasmaipadeṣūdātto ṇicca | pā. 3-4-103 | iti yāsuḍ udāttaḥ |*

32. The print's "tvā gahy" is read as the sentence "kiṃ tu ... gahi — come to us alone"; the second word of the clause is slightly unclear to me, and I give it as printed with the sense the Kannada gives.

*pādāditvāt tiṅ atiṅa iti na nighātaḥ | sumatīnām | matīśabde
ktinnante 'pi mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ |
pā. 3-3-96 |*

Translation (of the grammar, in outline, with its sūtras):

"Atha' — a particle, hence first-syllable acute; by निपातस्य च (पा. ६-३-१३६ [?]) the lengthening in 'athā.' 'Antamānām' — 'atīśayena antikāḥ': the affix 'tamap' in the sense of excess (अतिशयने तमविष्टनौ, पा. ५-३-५५), with the replacement of the 'ti'-portion (तिल्लोपः as printed, "tādi-lopaḥ") — 'anto 'syāstīti antikāḥ' — 'near'; 'ṭhan' by अत इनिठनौ (पा. ५-२-११५); being 'n'-marked (nit) it is first-syllable acute. For there is no limit (avasāna) to 'far-ness'; but in the excellence of 'near-ness' he who is near to someone is that someone's 'anta' (end); thus nearness is called 'antika' on account of the 'anta'-possessing. 'Vidyāma' — 'vid' in the optative (liṅ); 'yāsuḥ' is acute in the parasmaipada (यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्, पा. ३-४-१०३); since the word stands at the beginning of the pāda, 'tiṅ atiṅaḥ' does not cause nighāta. 'Sumatīnām' — 'matī' ending in 'ktin' is acute in the Veda by मन्त्रे वृषेष्पचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-९६)..."

33

original p. 101

Rik 4.3: grammar concluded; Pada-meanings;
Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

³⁴ ...the "i" of "matī" is acute (the Sanskrit of p. 100 gives the rule); "śobhanā matir yeṣāṃ te sumatayaḥ" — a bahuvrīhi, in which the first member's natural accent is overridden by नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२), so the last syllable of the second member is acute; but where "śobhanā matayaḥ sumatayaḥ" is a karmadhāraya, there is an exception to the first-member accent in the case of an

33. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; English as printed.

34. Grammar, continuing "sumatīnām":

indeclinable prefix, and the second member has the natural accent given by कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् — it is end-acute. After "matup" (as short-final-acute), the genitive-plural "nām" of "sumati" is acute by नामन्यतरस्याम् (पा. ६-१-१७७).

"Khyah" — the root "khyā prakathane" (to declare), the aorist (luṇ) second-person singular "sip" → "khyā + si"; क्लि लुङि (cli luṇi, पा. ३-१-४३) puts "cli" after the root in "luṇ"; सिचि ... by अस्यतिवक्तिख्यातिभ्योऽङ् (asyati-vakti-khyātibhyo 'ñ, पा. ३-१-५२) "aṇ" replaces "cli" after "as," "vac," "khyā"; आतो लोप इटि च (पा. ६-४-६४) elides the final "ā" before "aṇ" — "khyā + a + s"; इतश्च (itaś ca, पा. ३-४-१०० [as printed]) elides the final "i" of parasmaipada endings (here of "sip," giving "s"); the "s" is changed to "ru" and visarga: ससजुषो रुः (पा. ८-२-६६) and खरवसानयोर्विसर्जनीयः (पा. ८-३-१५) → "khyah." After "mā," न माङ्योगे (na māñ-yoge, पा. ६-४-७४) — the augment "aṭ" does not occur → "mā khyah."

"Gahi" — from "gam"; the "śap" is elided by "bahulam chandasi"; because "hi" replaces "si" (सेहर्षिच्च, पा. ३-४-८७) it is not "p"-marked; so the "m" of the root is elided by अनुदात्तोपदेश... (पा. ६-४-३७); the elision, being "asiddha" (असिद्धवदत्राभात्, पा. ६-४-२२), does not permit the "hi"-loss that अतो हेः (पा. ६-४-१०५) would otherwise require → "gahi."

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अथ (atha) — after the drinking of the Soma | (हे इन्द्र) (he indra) — O Indra | वयम् (vayam) — we | ते (te) — your | अन्तमानाम् (antamānām) — of those who are exceedingly near | सुमतीनाम् (sumatīnām) — of men of good understanding (of the discerning, or of the wise) — in their midst | विद्याम् (vidyāma) — we know you (we remember you, or, for the sake of obtaining wisdom for the performance of rites, we remember you) | (त्वम् अपि) नः (naḥ)

— us | अति (ati) — passing over (to others) | मा ख्यः (mā khyah) — do not declare (your own form) | आ गहि (ā gahi) — be one who comes (to our side).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! After the drinking of the Soma, we, being near you, remember you for the sake of good understanding in the performance of good works, or for the gaining of excellent wisdom. You must come near us. Do not make your form known to others, and do not cause them to have good understanding.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"We recognize you in the midst of the right-minded who are nearest to you; come to us; do not reveal yourself to others."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

In this Ṛk, apart from a few special words that are difficult, the ṛṣi's intention is not very clear, though the words are easy and commonly used. The Bhāṣyakāra and others have written the meaning, by using some supplied words (adhyāhāra), in such a way that it can be understood somewhat; but the sense is not quite ... ³⁵

original p. 102

Special topics on Rik 4.3; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

...it does not fit well. To make clear the sense of the sentences "sumatīnāṃ vidyāma" and "mā no ati khyah," still some more words are needed, and such words are not in the Ṛk. Whether it be because the loss (of words) is a Vedic licence (chandasi), or because the ṛṣi has left out some words that were necessary and chief, thinking that the intention in his own mind would be clear from the words in the Ṛk — it appears so. Hence the sense of this Ṛk and of the next two or three Ṛks remains unclear.

35. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."
English as printed.

अथा (athā) — the letter "a" of "thā" [the syllable "tha"] of this word is lengthened in accord with Vedic usage. Such examples are needed in the Ṛgveda. For example: sacasva — sacasvā (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-1-9), śrudhi — śrudhī (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-2-1 [?]), pr̥ccha — pr̥cchā (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-4-4), piba — pibā (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-1[?]4-10), and the like.

सुमतीनाम् (sumatīnām)

— The explanation of this word has already been given (see p. 81 [as printed]).

मा (mā) — a negative word of prohibition, "do not." This word is used especially in the Veda. अति (ati) — "beyond, besides, passing over" ³⁶.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Atha" — a nipāta, so first-syllable acute (निपाता आद्युदात्ताः); निपातस्य च (पा. ६-३-१३६ [?]) lengthens the vowel in mantra: "athā." "Antamānām" — "antaḥ asya asti" ("this has an end"), the etymology of "antika": by अत इनिठनौ (पा. ५-२-११५) "ini" or "ṭhan" after a stem ending in short "a"; with "ṭhan," ठस्येकः (ṭhasyekaḥ, पा. ७-३-५०) gives "ika": "anta + ika"; by यस्येति च (पा. ६-४-१४८) the "a" of the stem is elided → "antika." There is no limit to remoteness; but for the excellence of proximity, "that which is near to something has its 'end' there"; because it has an "anta" (limit), the word "antika" means "near." "Atiśayena antikāḥ" — to express excess, अतिशयने तमबिष्टनौ (पा. ५-३-५५) puts "tamap" after the stem in the sense of excess → "antika + tama"; तमो ...: तिकतमः — by टे: / "ti-ka"-loss (as printed: तेस्तादेशश्च, पा. ६-४-१५४ वा. ९ [?]) the "tika" portion [as printed: "ti-ka"] is elided before "tamap"; the result is "antama." In the genitive plural, "antamānām." "Vidyāma" —

36. English as printed: "Beyond, besides &c."

from "vid jñāne" (to know) by liṅ; for the "liṅ" यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्च (पा. ३-४-१०३) — in the parasmaipada the augment "yāsuṭ" comes, which is acute and "ñit" ... ³⁷

original p. 103

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.3 concluded; end of the Seventh Varga

..."yāsuṭ" is acute; because the word stands at the beginning of the pāda, तिङ्ङतिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) does not bring nighāta. "Sumatīnām" — the word "mati" ends in "ktin," but in the Veda मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-९६ [as printed]) makes the affix acute after the roots "vr̥ṣ" (to shower), "iṣ" (to wish), "duṣ-pac" (to cook), "man" (to think), "vid" (to be), "bhū," "vī" (and "rā" in "rādaḥ"); so after "man," "ktin" is added, and अनुदात्तोपदेश... (पा. ६-४-३७) drops the nasal of "man" → "mati"; the "i" of "ktin" is acute by the preceding sūtra. "Śobhanā matiḥ yeṣāṃ te sumatayaḥ" — as a bahuvrīhi the first member's natural accent is overridden by नञ्सुभ्याम्; "śobhanāś ca tāḥ matayaḥ" — as a karmadhāraya the indeclinable-prefix accent is overridden by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९), and the second member is end-acute. When "matup" is not applied, the genitive-plural "nām" of "sumati" (short-final, end-acute stem) takes the acute by नामन्यतरस्याम् (पा. ६-१-१७७).

"Khyah" — "khyā prakathane": in the aorist (luṅ), second-person singular "sip" — ख्या + सिप्; after the root in "luṅ," "cli" (च्लि लुङि, पा. ३-१-४३); "cli" is replaced by "añ" after the roots "as," "vac" and "khyā" (अस्यतिवक्तिख्यातिभ्योऽङ्, पा. ३-१-५२); "ā" elided (आतो लोप इति च, पा. ६-४-६४); the "i" of the ending "sip" elided (इतिश्च, पा. ३-४-१००) — "khyā + a + s"; "s" → "ru" → visarga (ससजुषो रुः, पा. ८-२-६६; रुत्वविसर्गौ) →

37. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as read.

"khyah." After "mā," न माङ्योगे (पा. ६-४-७४): no "aṭ" (and, by the print, no "āṭ") augment, and the rule लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः (पा. ६-४-७१) which would give the "aḍ" augment does not apply.

"Gahi" — "gam gatau," imperative (loṭ) second-person singular "sip"; "śap" is elided by बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३); सेह्यपिच्य (पा. ३-४-८७) puts "hi" in the place of "sip," and the "sārvadhātuka" not being "p"-marked is "ñit" (सार्वधातुकमपित्, पा. १-२-४) — by the root's "anudātta-upadeśa" the "m" is dropped (अनुदात्तोपदेशः..., पा. ६-४-३७); since the "m"-loss is "asiddha" (असिद्धवदत्राभात्, पा. ६-४-२२), the "hi" does not lose its place by अतो हे: (पा. ६-४-१०५) → "gahi." ॥३॥

इल्लिगे ७ नै वगवमु मुगिदुदु — illige 7neya vargavu mugidudu —
"Here the seventh varga is finished."

original p. 104

Sūkta 4, Fourth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, Pada-meanings (opening)

Sūkta 4, The Fourth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

परेहि विग्रमस्तृतमिन्द्रं पृच्छा विपश्चितम् । यस्ते सखिभ्य आ वरम् ॥४॥

parehi vīgram astr̥tam indram pr̥cchā vipaścitam | yas te sakhibhya ā varam || 4 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³⁸

परा । इहि । विग्रम् । अस्तृतम् । इन्द्रम् । पृच्छ । विपःचितम् । यः । ते । सखिभ्यः । आ ।
वरम् ॥४॥

38. Reading note: the Saṃhitā text reads "pr̥cchā" with a long final vowel (a Vedic lengthening); the Pada text has "pr̥ccha." The word "vipaścitam" is divided in the Pada text as "vipaḥ-citam," as I read the printed sign.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अत्र यजमानं प्रति होता ब्रूते । हे यजमान त्वमिन्द्रं परेहि । इन्द्रस्य समीपे गच्छ । गत्वा च विपश्चितं मेधाविनं होतारं मां पृच्छ । असौ होता सम्यक् स्तुतवान् चेत्येवं प्रश्नं कुरु । य इन्द्रस्ते तव यजमानस्य सखिभ्य ऋत्विग्भ्यो वरं श्रेष्ठं धनपुत्रादिकमा समन्तात्प्रयच्छतीति शेषः । तादृशमिन्द्रमिति पूर्वत्रान्वयः । पुनरपि कीदृशम् । विग्रं मेधाविनमस्तृप्तमर्हिसितम् । विग्र इत्यादिषु चतुर्विंशतिसंख्याकेषु मेधाविनामसु विग्रो विपश्चित्चेति पठितौ । विग्रं वृषादित्वादाद्युदात्तः । अस्तृत्तम् । अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । इन्द्रशब्द ऋजेन्द्राग्रेत्यादिना रन् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । सखिभ्यः । समाने ख्यः ... उ. ४-१३६ [?] । इति समान उपपदे ख्यातेरन् । डित्यनुवृत्तेस्तस्य डित्वाट्टिलोपश्च । पा. ६-४-१४३ । तत्सन्नियोगेन यलोपः । उपपदस्योदात्तत्वम् । समानस्य छन्दस्यमूर्धप्रभृत्युदर्केषु । पा. ६-३-८४ । इति सभावः । अतः सखिशब्द आद्युदात्तः । त्रियत इति वरः । ग्रहवृद्धिनिश्चिगमश्च । पा. ३-३-५८ । इत्यप् । तस्य पित्वाद्भातुस्वर एव ॥ atra yajamānaṃ prati hotā brūte | he yajamāna tvam indraṃ parehi | indrasya samīpe gaccha | gatvā ca vipāścitaṃ medhāvinam hotāraṃ māṃ pṛccha | asau hotā samyak stutavān na ceti evaṃ praśnaṃ kuru | ya indras te tava yajamānasya sakhibhya ṛtvigbhyo varaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ dhana-putrādikam ā samantāt prayacchatīti śeṣaḥ | tādr̥śam indram iti pūrvatrānvayaḥ | punar api kīdr̥śam | vigr̥maṃ medhāvinam astṛtam ahiṃsitam | vipra ity ādiṣu catur-viṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu medhāvi-nāmasu vigr̥o vipāścic ceti paṭhitau | vigr̥maṃ vṛṣādi-tvād ādyudāttaḥ | astṛtam | avyaya-pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | indra-śabda ṛjendraḡrety ādinā ran | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | sakhibhyaḥ | samāne khyāḥ ... u. 4-136 [?] | iti samāna upapade khyāter in | ḍid ity anuvṛtter tasya ḍittvāṭ ṭilopaś ca | pā. 6-4-143 | tat-sanniyogena yalopaḥ | upapadasyodāttatvam | samānasya chandasy amūrdha-prabhṛty-udarkeṣu | pā. 6-3-84 | iti sabhāvaḥ | ataḥ sakhi-śabda ādyudāttaḥ | vriyata iti varaḥ | grahavṛdr̥niścigamaś ca | pā. 3-3-58 | ity ap | tasya pittvād dhātusvara eva | |

Translation: "Here the Hotṛ speaks to the sacrificer: 'O sacrificer, go to Indra ("parehi)": go into the presence of Indra; and having gone, ask me, the Hotṛ, 'vipaścitam' — the wise — "Has this Hotṛ praised properly or not?" — put the question thus. That Indra who gives 'varam' — the best, wealth, sons and the like — in full ('ā) to 'te sakhibhyaḥ' — to your friends, the priests (ṛtvijaḥ) of you the sacrificer' — such is the supplied sense. The construction 'such an Indra' connects with what went before. Of what sort again? 'Vigram' — wise; 'astr̥tam' — unharmed. Among the twenty-four names for 'wise' beginning with 'vipra,' 'vigra' and 'vipaścit' are read." ³⁹

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept): "Vigram" — first-syllable acute as belonging to the "vṛṣādi" class; "astr̥tam" — the first-member accent (an indeclinable prefix) is retained; "Indra" — by the Uṇādi "ṛjrendrāgra..." (as on p. 39) the affix "ran," "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; "sakhibhyaḥ" — समाने ख्यः [the Uṇādi sūtra, number garbled: "4-136" ?], from "khyā" after "samāna" as upapada with "in," "ḍit," with elision of "ṭi" (देः, पा. ६-४-१४३) and of "y"; the upapada's acute; the substitution "sa" for "samāna" by समानस्य छन्दस्यमूर्धप्रभृत्युदकेषु (पा. ६-३-८४); hence "sakhi" is first-syllable acute. "Varam" — "vriyate iti varah": "ap" by ग्रहवृद्धनिश्चिगमश्च (पा. ३-३-५८); "p"-marked, so the root's accent remains.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

In this Ṛk the priest called the Hotṛ speaks, addressing the sacrificer —

(O sacrificer, you) विग्रम् (vigram) — the wise | इन्द्रम् परेहि (indram parehi) — go to Indra's side | (having gone) अस्तृतम् (astr̥tam) — (about Indra) who is not struck by the harm of enemies | विपश्चितम् पृच्छ (vipaścitam pṛccha) — ask this wise one (whether the Hotṛ

39. The Bhāṣya's reading "vipaścitam ... pṛccha mām hotāram" makes the ṛtvij the one to be asked; I give it as printed.

has praised you properly or not) | यः (yaḥ) — (the Indra who) | ते (te) — your | सखिभ्यः (sakhibhyaḥ) — to the friendly priests | वरम् (varam) — excellent wealth, sons and the like | आ (yacchati) — gives.⁴⁰

original p. 105

Rik 4.4: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The Hotṛ speaks thus, addressing the sacrificer: O sacrificer! Go to the side of Indra, who is wise (intelligent) — and ask him whether this Hotṛ has praised you well. Because Indra is pleased with the hymns that the Hotṛ has chanted, he will favour you, and your friends the priests, with the best boons — wealth, sons and the like.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Go (worshipper) to the wise (and) uninjured Indra and ask him of the (fitness of the) learned (priest who recites his praise.) Indra will bestow the best of blessings to your friends (priests)."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

विग्रम्, विपश्चितम् (vigram, vipaścitam)

— These words are read among the twenty-four words that indicate "intelligent" (Ni. 3-1[?]). For these words the sense is "buddhimān, medhāvī, vivekin" (one with understanding, intelligent, discerning). The word "vigra" is used in the Ṛgveda in only two places. In the present Ṛk, and also in the Ṛk

40. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed; reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. The Taittirīya citation below is transcribed letter by letter from the Kannada print.

ता विग्रं धैथे जठरं पृणध्या आ यत्सद्वा सभृतयः पृणन्ति ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-६८-२ [?]) tā vigrāṃ dhaithe jaṭharaṃ prṇadhyā ā yat sadma sabhṛtayaḥ prṇanti || (ṛ. saṃ. 6-68-2 [?]) Gloss (mine; tentative; the print gives only this line): "You two keep the wise one, to fill the belly, when those who bring together fill the abode."

this word is used. Nowhere else. The word "vipāścit" is used in about 3[?] places in the Ṛgveda ⁴¹.

अस्तृतम् (astr̥tam)

— The negative form of the word "str̥ta," formed from the root "str̥"; "na str̥tam = astr̥tam" — not struck down, "ahimsitam" ("unharmd").

सखिभ्यः (sakhibhyaḥ)

— "To the friends" — that is, to the priests who are called the sacrificer's friends. On the point that the priests are the sacrificer's friends:

आ प्यायस्व सखीन्सन्ध्या मेधयेत्याहर्त्विजो वा अस्य सखायस्तानेवाप्याययेति ॥ (तै. सं. ६-३-२ [?]) ā pyāyasva sakhīn tsanyā medhayety āhartvijo vā asya sakhāyas tān evāpyāyayeti || (tai. saṃ. 6-3-2 [?]) Translation (mine, following the Kannada gloss): "'Swell, bring your friends to prosperity with intelligence' — thus he says; the priests, indeed, are his (the sacrificer's) friends; he swells them indeed." — The Kannada adds: here "ṛtvijo vā asya sakhāyaḥ" says plainly that the priests are the sacrificer's friends.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Parā" — a nipāta, first-syllable acute by निपाता आयुदात्ता: (Phīṭ-sūtra [number as printed "80" ?]); by the "śeṣa-anudātta" the last letter is unaccented. In the saṃhitā, the

41. the number is not legible to me

"ā" of "parā" combines, by guṇa-sandhi, with the unaccented "i" of "ihi," giving "e" as the single substitute; this single substitute, coming in place of unaccented vowels ... ⁴²

original pp. 106–107

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.4 (Kannada) — characterized

p. 106 — "parā," "ihi," "vigram." - ⁴³ The single substitute "e" replaces the pair of unaccented vowels, and is by स्थानिवदादेशोऽनल्विधौ (sthānivad ādeśo 'nal-vidhau, पा. १-१-५६) treated as the original, hence unaccented; since it comes after the acute "ra," it becomes svarita by उदात्तादनुदात्तस्य स्वरितः (पा. ८-४-६६). - "Ihi" — "iṅ gatau" (to go); in the imperative second-person singular "sip," सेह्यपिच्च (पा. ३-४-८७) puts "hi" for "si"; the "śap" is elided as the root belongs to the "ad" class (अदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः, पा. २-४-७२); since "hi" is not "p"-marked, the "sārvadhātuka" is "ñit" (सार्वधातुकमपित्, पा. १-२-४); hence guṇa is barred by विङिति च (पा. १-१-५) and by सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (पा. ७-३-८४) → "ihi." Since "ihi" stands after "parā," which is not a tiṇanta, तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) makes it wholly unaccented. - "Vigram" — two analyses are weighed. (a) From "gr śabde" (to sound) with the upasarga "vi" and the affix "ḍa" by अन्येष्वपि दृश्यते (पा. ३-२-१०१) — "ḍa" after any root, since the sūtra says "dṛśyate" ("is seen") — with the "ṭi"-loss debated, and "ṭ" becoming "r" by याण ("vi-gr-a"); the accent then follows the compound rule

42. Page headers: p. 106 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4"; p. 107 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, the Kannada rendering of the grammar given in Sanskrit on p. 104, with a good deal of added scholastic debate. They do not bear on the sense of the Rik, which was given on pp. 104–105. Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, not translated line by line; the sūtras the pages name are kept in three layers, numbers as I read them, [?] where uncertain. Several sentences in the middle of p. 106 and the foot of p. 107 are crowded in the print and I do not reproduce them.

43. Continuing "parehi" from p. 105.

गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९), which would give an end-acute that is not the attested accent. (b) Therefore the word is entered in the "vr̥ṣādi" class (वृषादीनां च, पा. ६-१-२०३) and is first-syllable acute — "vigra," as in विचिर् पृथग्भावे (the root "vicir pṛthagbhāve") with the intensive/causal sense "viveka": "viśeṣeṇa gr̥hṇāti" ("he takes in a special way") = "vigraḥ" (the wise, discerning). Different derivations are offered; the page concludes that either way the sense is "medhāvī."

p. 107 — "vigram" concluded; "astr̥tam," "indra," "sakhibhyaḥ." - The Uṇādi affix "ran" is considered for "vigra" (ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रवज्रविप्र..., as on p. 39) — "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; the second-case singular "am" (an "ap"-class ending) is joined with a pūrvarūpa by अमि पूर्वः (पा. ६-१-१०७). - "Astr̥tam" — "na str̥tam"; by तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थ... (पा. ६-२-२) — with an indeclinable first member the first member's own accent is retained. - "Indra" — by the Uṇādi list "ṛjrendrāgra-vajra-vipra-kubra-cubra-kṣura-khura-bhadrogra-bhera-bhela-śukra-śakla-gaurava-nvera-mālāḥ [?]" (उ. सू. २-२८ [as printed "3-1..."]) "ran" is added; "n"-marked, first-syllable acute; the last letter is unaccented by "śeṣānudātta"; in the saṃhitā it is svarita by उदात्तस्वरितपरस्य सन्नतरः (पा. १-२-४०) in the way already described. - "Sakhibhyaḥ" — समाने ख्य... (Uṇādi-sūtra: the print gives "ṭi-sū. 4-..."; I could not settle the number): after "khyā" with "samāna" as the upapada, the affix "in"; "ḍit" and hence टे: (पा. ६-४-१४३) loss of "ṭi" (the vowel-end) and of "y" (the "ya"-loss); the upapada is acute; समानस्य छन्दस्यमूर्धप्रभृत्युदकेषु (पा. ६-३-८४) substitutes "sa" for "samāna" (the first member, when the second begins with a non-"mūrdhan"-class word) → "sakhi," first-syllable acute. The Uṇādi-sūtra समाने ख्यः सश्चोदात्तः [as printed] is also cited, with the remark that the grammarians of the Mādhava school hold that "sa" is substituted in the Veda by the rule "samānasya chandasi mūrdha...," and that in ordinary speech the word "sakhi" is established by Svaramañjarī-kāra and others by other rules.⁴⁴

original p. 108

Rik 4.4 grammar concluded; Sūkta 4, Fifth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

⁴⁵ ...in the system of the Mādhava school the word "sakhi" is established only in the Veda (by the "samānasya chandasi..." rule). "Varam" — "vriyate iti varah̥": ग्रहवृद्धिनिश्चिगमश्च (पा. ३-३-५८) — after "grah," "vr̥," "dr̥," "niścī [print: niścī]" and "gam" the affix "ap" comes; "vr̥ + a" takes guṇa by सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (पा. ७-३-८४) → "varah̥"; "ap" is "p"-marked and so unaccented, "va" is acute by धातोः (पा. ६-१-१६२). ॥४॥

Sūkta 4, The Fifth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

उत ब्रुवन्तु नो निदो निरन्यतश्चिदारत । दधाना इन्द्र इदुवः ॥५॥

*uta bruvantu no nido nir anyatas cid ārata | dadhānā indra id
duvaḥ ||5||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥⁴⁶

उत । ब्रुवन्तु । नः । निदः । निः । अन्यतः । चित् । आरत । दधानाः । इन्द्रे । इत् । दुवः ॥५॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

44. The page ends mid-sentence in this comparison, continuing on p. 108.

45. Continuing "sakhībhyah̥" from p. 107:

46. Reading note: the Saṃhitā text reads "indra id duvaḥ"; the Pada text resolves it as "indre it duvaḥ." The printed Pada text shows "ā-rata" as one word.

नोऽस्माकं संबन्धिन ऋत्विज इति शेषः । ते ब्रुवन्तु । इन्द्रं स्तुवन्तु । उतमपि च हे निदो
 निन्दितारः पुरुषा निरारत । इतो देशान्निर्गच्छत । अन्यतश्चिदन्यस्मादपि देशान्निर्गच्छत ।
 कीदृशा ऋत्विजः । इन्द्रे दुवः परिचर्या दधानाः कुर्वाणाः । इच्छब्दोऽवधारणे । सर्वदा परिचर्या
 कुर्वन्त एव तिष्ठन्तित्यर्थः । निन्दन्तीति निदः । णिदि कुत्सायाम् । क्विपि नुमभावश्छान्दसः ।
 सुपोऽनुदात्तत्वाद्वातुस्वरः । आमन्त्रितत्वेऽपि वाक्यान्तरस्थेन स्ववाक्यगतपदादत्स्वरत्वान्न
 निघात इत्याद्युदात्तत्वमेव । अन्यतः । लिति प्रत्ययोत्पूर्वस्योदात्तत्वं चिदित्यपिकबर्थे । तेन न
 केवलमितः । इतो निर्गत्यान्यतोऽपि निर्गच्छतेति गम्यते । स एष धात्वर्थयोः संबन्ध आरतेति
 लुजा द्योत्यते । स हि धातुसंबन्धाधिकारे विधीयते । आरत । अर्तेश्छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिट इति
 लोडर्थे लुङ् । मध्यमबहुवचनस्य तादेशः । सर्तिशास्त्यर्तिभ्यश्च । पा. ३-१-५६ । इति
 च्लेरडादेशः । ऋदृशोऽङि गुणः । पा. ७-४-१६ । इति गुणः । आडागमः । दधानाः ।
 शानचश्चित्वात्तत्प्राप्तमन्तोदात्तं बाधित्वा परत्वादभ्यस्तानामादिरित्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । दुवः । नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्याद्युदात्तः ॥५॥ no 'smākaṃ sambandhina ṛtvija iti
śeṣaḥ | te bruvantu | indraṃ stuvantu | utamapi ca he nido
nindi-tāraḥ puruṣā nir ārata | ito deśān nirgacchata | anyataś
cid anyasmād api deśān nirgacchata | kīdrśā ṛtvijaḥ | indre
duvaḥ paricaryāṃ dadhānāḥ kurvāṇāḥ | ic chabdo 'vadhāraṇe
| sarvadā paricaryāṃ kurvanta eva tiṣṭhantity arthaḥ |
nindantīti nidaḥ | ṇidi kutsāyām | kvīpi numa-bhāvaś
chāndasaḥ | supo 'nudāttatvād dhātusvaraḥ | āmantritratve 'pi vākyāntarasthena sva-vākya-gata-padād-at-svaratvān na nighāta ity ādyudāttatvam eva | anyataḥ | liti pratyayāt
pūrvasyodāttatvam cid ity apika-barthe | tena na kevalam itaḥ
| ito nirgatyānyato 'pi nirgacchateti gamyate | sa eṣa dhātvarthayoḥ sambandha āratety luñā dyotyate | sa hi
dhātu-sambandhādhikāre vidhīyate | ārata | arter chandasi
luṇ-laṇ-liṭa iti loḍarthe luṇ | madhyama-bahuvacanasya
tādeśaḥ | sarti-sāsty-arti-bhyaś ca | pā. 3-1-56 | iti cler aṇādeśaḥ | ṛdrśo 'ṇi guṇaḥ | pā. 7-4-16 | iti guṇaḥ |
āḍāgamaḥ | dadhānāḥ | sānacaś cittvāt tat-prāptam antodāttam bādhitvā paratvād abhyastānām ādir ity ādyudāttatvam | duvaḥ | nab-viṣayasyānisantasyety
ādyudāttaḥ | |5| |

Translation: "'Naḥ' — the supplied sense is 'our priests, those belonging to us.' Let them speak, let them praise Indra. And, O 'nidaḥ' — O revilers, men who blame — 'nirārata' — go out from here, from this place; 'anyataś cit' — go out from any other place as well. What kind of priests? 'Duvaḥ dadhānāḥ' — those who perform service ('paricaryā') in Indra; 'it' is in the sense of emphasis: the sense is 'they remain doing service at all times.' 'Nidaḥ' — 'nindantīti nidaḥ' — those who blame; the root 'ṇidi kutsāyām' (to blame); in the 'kvip' formation the absence of the 'num' augment is Vedic; the accent is that of the root since the case-ending is unaccented; though a vocative, since it stands in a different sentence from the preceding word, there is no nighāta (loss of accent), and so it is first-syllable acute indeed. 'Anyataḥ' — the part before the affix is acute; 'cit' has the sense of 'api' (also): not only from here, but from elsewhere too — 'having gone out from here, go out from other places also' is understood. This connection of the senses of the roots is indicated by the 'luṇ' in 'ārata.' 'Ārata' — the root 'ṛ' in the Veda takes 'luṇ' in the sense of the imperative (छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिटः, पा. ३-४-६); the second-person plural ending is replaced by 'ta'; the 'cli' is replaced by 'aṇ' (सर्त्तिशास्त्यर्त्तिभ्यश्च, पा. ३-१-५६); guṇa by ऋदृशोऽङि गुणः (पा. ७-४-१६); the augment 'āṭ.' 'Dadhānāḥ' — because 'śānac' is 'c'-marked, the end-acute that this would give is set aside, and, by the later rule अभ्यस्तानामादिः (पा. ६-१-१८९), the first syllable is acute. 'Duvaḥ' — first-syllable acute by नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य (a Phiṭ-sūtra, as on p. 39). ॥५॥" ⁴⁷

48

original p. 109

47. Reading notes: (i) in the second sentence of the Bhāṣya the print has "utamapi ca"; the sense is "uta api ca," as the Rik itself reads "uta"; I transcribe the print as it stands. (ii) "ṇidi kutsāyām" is printed with the root-initial "ṇ," as in the dhātupāṭha. (iii) The reference "pā. 7-4-16" is printed "7-4-16," and I give it so, though I have not verified it.

48. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed.

Rik 4.5: Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रे इत् (indre it) — in Indra alone (only in Indra) | दुवः (duvaḥ) — service (that is, worship) | दधानाः (dadhānāḥ) — those who make | नः (naḥ) — our (priests) | ब्रुवन्तु (bruvantu) — let them praise (Indra) | उत (uta) — and | निदः (nidāḥ) — men who blame (Indra) | अन्यतश्चित् (anyataś cit) — from here, and from other places too | निरारत (nirārata) — go out.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Let our priests (and sons and other kinsmen), who are devoted to the service of Indra, praise Indra; and let the men who blame Indra go out from here and from other places as well.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Let our (priests and relatives) engaged in the service of Indra, sing his praises. O revilers, depart from (here and) every other place."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

Other commentators, and Western scholars too, have explained the meaning of this Ṛk in various ways ⁴⁹:

1.

Wilson

— "Let our ministers earnestly performing his worship exclaim, — depart, ye revilers from hence and every other place (where he is adored)."

2.

Dr. Sitanath

49. English as printed

— "Let our revilers say — you have estranged yourself from all other (gods) because of your having preference of service only for Indra."

3. Vedarthayatna

— "Whether the revilers may say to us that we might indeed be lost to all other gods by serving Indra alone."

नः (naḥ) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains the word "naḥ" as "our" ("belonging to us, our priests who share in our sacrifice"). Skandasvāmī says "priests, and sons and others." But, rather than supplying the words "priests" or "sons and others," to explain "naḥ" by joining it with the word "nidaḥ" would be more fitting ... ⁵⁰

original p. 110

Special topics on Rik 4.5 (continued); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā begins

⁵¹ ...to explain "naḥ" together with "nidaḥ" would be more fitting; that is, "naḥ nidaḥ" — "our revilers, those who revile us." When it is explained thus, it is not necessary to supply a sense such as "let them praise Indra" for the verb "bruvantu"; rather, the sentence "uta bruvantu no nidaḥ" gets the sense "let the revilers of us say (what they will)."

निदः (nidaḥ)

— "ṇidi kutsāyām" (to blame): "nindantīti nidaḥ" — since they are those who blame, they are called "nidaḥ."

अन्यतः (anyataḥ)

— In this Ṛk the word is only "anyataḥ," "from elsewhere"; therefore the word "itaḥ" ("from here") must be supplied here.

50. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."

Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

51. Continuing "naḥ" from p. 109:

चित् (cit) — "api," "also." इत् (it) — "eva," "indeed": it is used here in the sense of emphasis.

दुवः (duvaḥ)

— This word is used in many Ṛks to give various senses. For this word such senses may be given as : "paricaryā (service), sevā, zeal, favour, preference, homage, zeal for service, gift, present" and the like.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Nidaḥ" — "nindanti iti nidaḥ"; "kviḥ" after the root "ṇidi kutsāyām." The root is "i"-marked (iditaḥ), and by इदितो नुम् धातोः (idito num dhātoḥ, पा. ७-१-५८) the augment "num" would be added; but, because of the Vedic variation of all rules ("chandasi vikalpa"), it does not occur here. "Nidaḥ" — the case-ending "sup" is unaccented, and the accent of the root remains (the "i" is acute by the root-accent). "Bruvantu naḥ" — one sentence: "let our priests praise Indra." "Nir ārata anyataś cit" — another sentence: "(you who blame) go out, leaving this place, and leaving other places also." "Nidaḥ" is a vocative that stands at the beginning of the second sentence; so it is not treated as following the preceding word; by the vārttika समानवाक्ये निघातयुष्मदस्मदादेशा वक्तव्याः [as printed] the nighāta applies only in the same sentence, and thus the vocative does not lose its accent; by आमन्त्रितस्य च (पा. ६-१-१९८) it is first-syllable acute. "Anyataḥ" — "anyasmāt" with the affix "tasil" by पञ्चम्यास्तसिल् (पा. ५-३-७ [as printed "...-3-1"]); since "tasil" is "l"-marked, लिति (पा. ६-१-१९३) puts the acute on the syllable before the affix. "Cit" — has the sense of "api." Hence the meaning: "not only from this place but from other places too — go out." The connection of the senses of the two roots is shown... ⁵²

Rik 4.5 grammar concluded; end of the Eighth Varga [as printed "seventh"]; Sūkta 4, Sixth Mantra: Saṃhitā and Pada

⁵³ ...the connection of the senses of the two roots is shown by the "luṇ" in "ārata," which is laid down in the section on the connection of roots (धातुसंबन्धे प्रत्ययाः, पा. ३-४-१); where the roots' senses are connected, the affixes denoting the three times (past, future, present) may be used optionally for one another; hence "luṇ" comes in the sense of the imperative (lot). After "luṇ," "cli" (च्लि लुङि, पा. ३-१-४३) comes; the second-person plural ending "tha" → "ta" (तस्थस्थमिपां तान्तन्ताम्, पा. ३-४-१०१); by सर्तिशास्त्यतिभ्यश्च (पा. ३-१-५६) "cli" is replaced by "añ" after "sr̥," "śās" and "ṛ" → "ṛ + a + ta"; ऋदृशोऽङि गुणः (पा. ७-४-१६) gives guṇa → "ar-a-ta"; the augment "āt" (आडजादीनाम्, पा. ६-४-७२) → "ā + ar + ata"; the vṛddhi by आटश्च (पा. ६-१-१०) as the single substitute → "ārata." "Dadhānāḥ" — "śānac" is "c"-marked and would give an end-acute; but, by the rule that the later of two conflicting rules prevails (विप्रतिषेधे परं कार्यम्, पा. १-४-२), अभ्यस्तानामादिः (पा. ६-१-१८९) gives first-syllable acute. "Duvaḥ" — नब्बिषयस्यानिसन्तस्य (a Phiṭ-sūtra): a neuter word not ending in "is/-s" is acute on its first syllable; "duvaḥ" is therefore first-syllable acute. ॥५॥

ಇಲ್ಲಿಗೆ ೭ನೇಯ ವರ್ಗವು ಮುಗಿದುದು — illige 7neya vargavu mugidudu — "Here the seventh varga is finished" [as printed].

52. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced. Note on the varga number: the Kannada marginal note at the end of the grammar reads "ಇಲ್ಲಿಗೆ ಏಳನೇಯ ವರ್ಗವು ಮುಗಿದುದು" — "here the seventh varga is finished" — i.e. it says seventh (ಏಳನೇಯ), where I had expected the eighth given the page headers I read as "Varga 8 [?]" and p. 103 above, which already closed a varga at the end of Rik 4.3, was marked "seventh" too. This is a discrepancy in the source or in my reading of the small numerals, and I record it without resolving it.

53. Continuing from p. 110:

Sūkta 4, The Sixth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

उत नः सुभगाँ अरिर्वोचेयुर्दस्म कृष्टयः । स्यामेदिन्द्रस्य शर्मणि ॥६॥

*uta naḥ subhagāṃ arir vocēyur dasma kṛṣṭayaḥ | syāmed
indrasya śarmaṇi | | 6 | |*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ 54 55

उत । नः । सुऽभगान् । अरिः । वोचेयुः । दस्म । कृष्टयः । स्याम । इत् । इन्द्रस्य । शर्मणि ॥ ६॥

original p. 112

Sūkta 4, Sixth Mantra: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ 56

हे दस्म शत्रूणामुपक्षपयितरिन्द्र त्वदनुग्रहादरिरुत शत्रुर्वोऽपि
नोऽस्मान्सुभगान्शोभनधनोपेतान्वोचेयुः । उच्यासुः । कृष्टयो मनुष्या अस्मन्मित्रभूता वदन्तीति
किमु वक्तव्यमिति शेषः । ततो धनसंपन्ना वयमिन्द्रस्य शर्मणीन्द्रप्रसादलब्धे सुखे स्यामेत् ।
भवेम्यैव । मधुमित्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु धननामसु रयिः क्षत्रं भग इति पठितम् । मनुष्या
इत्यादिषु पञ्चविंशतिसंख्याकेषु मनुष्यनामसु कृष्टय इति पठितम् ॥ he dasma

54. Reading notes: (i) the printed Saṃhitā shows "subhagā" with a mark above the last letter which I read as a nasal sign, giving "subhagām" — standing for the Pada's "subhagān" — but I am not certain of it. (ii) The Pada has "ariḥ" with the "ḥ"; the Saṃhitā "arir" is its sandhi form. (iii) The Pada text, as printed, divides "su-bhagān" with a visible sign; I give it so.

55. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. The sense-lines are in three layers; the grammar is characterized, with its sūtras.

56. Reading note: the second sentence's "ariḥ uta śatrur" — the print has "ariruta śatrurvo 'pi"; the "vo" that follows "śatruḥ" looks to me to be a printer's slip for the next word's "vocēyuh" run on; I give it as I read it and mark it [?]. The final "syāmed ... bhavema eva" is printed with an irregular spelling, "bhavemyaiva," which I read as "bhavema eva."

*śatrūṇām upakṣapayitar indra tvad-anugrahād ariḥ uta śatrur
vo 'pi no 'smān subhagān śobhana-dhanopetān vocēyuh |
ucyāsuḥ | kṛṣṭayo manuṣyā asman-mitra-bhūtā vadantīti kimu
vaktavyam iti śeṣaḥ | tato dhana-sampannā vayam indrasya śarmaṇīndra-prasāda-labdhe sukhe syāmed | bhavema eva | maghum ity ādiṣv aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu dhana-nāmasu
rayiḥ kṣatram bhaga iti paṭhitam | manuṣyā ity ādiṣu pañcaviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu manuṣya-nāmasu kṛṣṭaya iti
paṭhitam ||*

Translation:

"O 'dasma' — O destroyer of enemies, who bring the enemies to ruin — Indra! By your favour may 'ariḥ' — even an enemy — say of us that we are 'subhagān' — possessed of fine wealth. 'Vocēyuh' = 'ucyāsuḥ' (the optative of 'vac,' 'may they say'). 'Kṛṣṭayaḥ' — the people, the men who are our friends, say this — what need is there to say so (of them)! — that is the supplied thought. Therefore, 'syām it' — may we indeed be, 'indrasya śarmaṇi' — in the happiness gained by Indra's grace, endowed with wealth. Among the twenty-eight names of wealth beginning with 'magham,' 'rayiḥ,' 'kṣatram' and 'bhagaḥ' are read; among the twenty-five names of men beginning with 'manuṣyāḥ,' 'kṛṣṭayaḥ' is read."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept):

"Uta" — a particle, first-syllable acute (निपाता आद्युदात्ताः, Phiṭ-sūtra 4-1[?]). "Subhagān" — "bhaga" ends, in the "kṛtvādi" class, with the first member's accent set aside: नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) would give the end-acute, but "bhaga" is read in the list beginning with "kṛtva" — क्रत्वादयश्च (पा. ६-२-११८) — so the second member is first-syllable acute. In the saṃhitā: दीर्घादिति समानपादे (पा. ८-३-९) the "n" of "subhagān" becomes "ru" before a vowel; भोभगोअघोअपूर्वस्य योऽशि (पा. ८-३-१७) the "y"; लोपः शाकल्यस्य (पा. ८-३-१९) the "y" is elided; since the elision is "asiddha," no further sandhi occurs; आतोऽति नित्यम् (पा.

८-३-३) the "ā" takes the nasal sign. "Ariḥ" — "vacana-vyatyaya" (a change of number: singular for plural); from "ṛ" with the Uṇādi "i" (अर्त्तिरिः, उ. सू. ४-१३७ [?]) with the end-acute by the accent of the affix. "Vocēyuh" — "ucyāsuḥ": the root "vac" (to speak) in the benedictive (āśīrlīṇ), "jhi → jus" (झेर्जुस्, पा. ३-४-१०८); "liṇ" = "yāsuṭ" (लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य, पा. ७-२-७९); the "ñit" "yāsuṭ" is acute by यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्च (पा. ३-४-१०३); the "ñit" bars guṇa and, by वचिस्वपियजादीनां किति (पा. ६-१-१५), the "samprasāraṇa" → "uc"; by Vedic छन्दस्युभयथा (पा. ३-४-११७) the augment "āṭ" is absent; "s" is elided (लोपोऽनन्त्यस्य, as printed); the accents conflict, the "e" of the "yāsuṭ" being the single substitute of "a + ī" is acute (एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः, पा. ८-२-५). "Dasma" — from "dasu upakṣaye" (to waste away) by the Uṇādi दसेर्णिच्च...मुक् (उ. सू. १-१४४ [?]) with the augment "muk"; being a vocative standing after a pada it loses its accent (आमन्त्रितं पूर्वमविद्यमानवत् and तिङ्ङितिङः). "Kṛṣṭayaḥ" — by क्तिच्क्त्तौ च संज्ञायाम् (पा. ३-३-१७४) the affix "ktic" in the sense of a name; since it is "c"-marked, it is end-acute. "Syāma" — "as bhuvī" (to be); the "a" of "as" is elided (शनसोरल्लोपः, पा. ६-४-१११); "yāsuṭ" is acute; the word stands at the beginning of the pāda, so no nighāta. "Śarmaṇi" — "śṛ himsāyām"; "hinasti duḥkham iti śarma" ("that which destroys suffering"); by अन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते (पा. ३-२-७५) "manin" is added; "iṭ" is barred (नेङ्वशि कृति, पा. ७-२-८); the "n"-marked affix gives first-syllable acute. ॥६॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) दस्म (he dasma) — O Indra, destroyer of enemies | (तव अनुग्रहात्) (tava anugrahāt) — by your grace | अरिः उत (ariḥ uta) — even enemies | नः (naḥ) — us | सुभगान् (subhagān) — as wealthy, or as lordly | वोचेयुः (vocēyuh) — may they say | कृष्टयः (kṛṣṭayaḥ) — (when our enemies themselves speak well of us, what need to say that) the men who are our friends (say it) | इन्द्रस्य (indrasya) — Indra's (that arises from his favour) | शर्मणि (śarmaṇi) — in happiness | स्याम इत् (syāma it) — we shall indeed be. ⁵⁷

original p. 113

Rik 4.6: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, destroyer of enemies! By your favour, even our enemies will praise us, saying that we are wealthy and lordly. If it is so, what wonder that our other friends, the men of our own side, should say it? Besides this, by your (Indra's) grace we shall be happy indeed.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Destroyer of foes, let our enemies say we are prosperous; let men (congratulate us); may we ever live in happiness through your (favour)."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The meaning of this Ṛk is, in a small measure, similar to that of the preceding Ṛk; that is, the chief import of the two Ṛks is the same.

सुभगान् (subhagān)

— Since the word "bhaga" is read among the twenty-eight words that indicate wealth, beginning with "magha" (Ni. 2-1[?]), "bhaga" here means "wealth." "Subhagān" means "those who have abundant wealth."

57. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed in the source; Ṛg-vedic reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?], and most of the list in the "dasma" paragraph I could not read reliably.

अरिः (ariḥ)

— Here the singular is used in the sense of the plural. In ordinary speech, when we say "enemy" (the source's English), it is customary to mean the people belonging to the side of our enemy, those who are not our well-wishers. In the same way, here, though the singular "ariḥ — enemy" is used, it must be taken in the plural sense — "our enemies, those who are ill-disposed to us."

दस्म (dasma) — For this word the Bhāṣyakāra says "śatrūṇām upakṣapayitaḥ" and explains it as "destroyer of enemies." The form is derived from the root "dasu upakṣaye." Skandasvāmī explains this word as "darśanīya" — "of beautiful appearance." The Bhāṣyakāra himself, too, in R. Saṃ. 1-1[?]³, the 3rd and 11th [?] Rks, explains the word "dasma" as "darśanīya." This word is used in the Ṛgveda not only in the Rks mentioned above but also in the Rks R. Saṃ. 1-1[?]-1[?]; [the references that follow — about ten of them, in small Kannada numerals — are not legible enough for me to give, and I omit them rather than guess]. The various forms of the root "meda"-... [the print reads "medan"; I take it to be the stem "daṃs"] — daṃsaḥ, daṃsanā, daṃsobhiḥ, daṃsanābhiḥ, daṃsanaiḥ, daṃsayah, daṃsasā, daṃsāṃsi — are used in many places in the Ṛgveda. Geldner and other scholars explain this word as "master" ... ⁵⁸

original p. 114

Special topics on Rik 4.6 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

कृष्टयः (krṣṭayah)

58. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Nirukta reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

— This word is read among the twenty-five words that signify "man" (manuṣya), beginning with "manuṣyāḥ" (Ni. 2-3[?]). Because the word is derived from the root "kr̥ṣ" (to plough, to practise agriculture), the sense is "people who practise agriculture, men who plough" — that is, in general, "people, men."

शर्मणि (śarmaṇi) — The word "śarma" is read among the twenty-two [print: "two-and-twenty"; read with caution] words that signify "house" (Ni. 3-4[?]); so Skandasvāmī explains "indrasya śarmaṇi" as "in Indra's house" — that is, "in Indra's world." This does not seem to fit very well. Besides this, since "śarma" is read among the twenty-two [print: "twenty-two" again, though I read the first as "eleven"] words that signify "happiness" (Ni. 3-1[?]), it is fitting to take the sense "happiness" for the word "śarma."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵⁹ - "Uta" — the words that belong to the "eva-ādi" class (एवादीनामन्तः, Phiṭ-sūtra [number as printed "4-1[?]"]) have the last syllable acute; so "uta" is end-acute. ⁶⁰ - "Subhagān" — "bhaga" belongs to the "kṛtvādi" class; so by नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) the end-acute that a bahuvrīhi after "su" would take is set aside, and by क्रत्वादयश्च (पा. ६-२-११८) the words of the "kratu"-class are first-syllable acute; thus the stem's own accent is prescribed (प्रातिपदोक्त); "subhagān" is an accusative plural. In the saṃhitā: दीर्घादिति समानपादे (पा. ८-३-९) turns the "n" into "ru" when followed by a vowel in the same pāda; भोभगोअघोअपूर्वस्य योऽशि (पा. ८-३-१७) gives "y" for "ru" after "bho," "bhago," "agho" or a short or long "a"; लोपः शाकल्यस्य (पा. ८-३-१९) elides the "y" (in Śākalya's view); since the elision is "asiddha" (पूर्वत्रासिद्धम्, पा. ८-२-१), the rule अकःसवर्णे दीर्घः (पा. ६-१-१०१) does not lengthen the vowels; आतोऽटि नित्यम् (पा. ८-३-३) gives the nasal sign to the "ā": "subhagā[ṃ]

59. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept.

60. Note: the Sanskrit on p. 112 had called "uta" first-syllable acute (by the nipāta rule); the two pages differ, and I record the discrepancy without resolving it.

ariḥ" ⁶¹. - "Ariḥ" — a singular where the plural would be expected; from "r̥" with the Uṇādi "i" (अर्त्तरिः, उ. सू. ४-१३७ [as printed "4-1[?]]"); with guṇa by सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (पा. ७-३-८४) → "ari"; end-acute by the affix-accent. - "Vocēyuh" — the root "vac paribhāṣaṇe" (to speak) in the benedictive (āśīrlīṇ); the third-person plural "jhi" ... ⁶²

Note — Continuing "vocēyuh":) ...लिङ्याशिषि... (liṇ āśiṣy aṇ, पा. ३-१-८६ [as printed; the usual number is different, and I record the print]) puts "aṇ" in the āśīrlīṇ; झेर्जुस् (पा. ३-४-१०८) puts "jus" for "jhi"; the "j" of "jus" is an "it" by चुट् (पा. १-३-७) and the "s" ... elided by तस्य लोपः (पा. १-३-९); "vac + a + us" — वचिस्वपियजादीनां किति (पा. ६-१-१५) and वचेरुम् [as printed "vace um," पा. २-४-२०] — before "aṇ" the augment "um" comes to "vac"; आद्गुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) gives guṇa; यासुट् परस्मैपदेषुदात्तो ङिच् (पा. ३-४-१०३) — the augment "yāsuṭ" in the parasmaipada, acute and "ñit"; किदाशिषि (पा. ३-४-१०४) — "yāsuṭ" in the āśīrlīṇ is "kit" (so no guṇa); the Mādhava school adds that by this very sūtra "yāsuṭ" comes. Hence "vac + yās + us." By छन्दस्युभयथा (पा. ३-४-११७) in the Veda the affix is both "sārvadhātuka" and "ārdhadhātuka"; hence "yās + us" takes the "sārvadhātuka" label, and लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य (पा. ७-२-७९) elides the "s" of "yās" ("s" not at the end); अतो येयः (पा. ७-२-८०) turns the "yā" (after an "a"-final stem) into "iy" → "voc-iy-us"; आद्गुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) → "vocēyuh." The "sārvadhātuka" accent is lost by तास्यनुदात्तोऽङिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वनोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६) and the affix "aṇ" keeps its own acute; the single substitute "ē" of "i + a" ... is acute by एकदेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५). - "Dasma" — "dasu upakṣaye" with the Uṇādi ईषियुधीन्धिदसिष्याधूसूभ्योऽमुक् [as printed] (उ. सू. १-१४४ [?]) the affix "ma" with the augment "muk"; as a vocative standing after another word it loses its accent (आमन्त्रितस्य च, as printed). - "Kṛṣṭayaḥ" — क्तिच्क्त्वौ च संज्ञायाम् (पा. ३-३-१७४): "ktic" and "kta" in a sense of a name: "ktic" is added to "kṛṣ," meaning "men"; "c"-marked, so the last syllable is acute by चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३). - "Syāma" — "as bhuvi" (to be) in the optative (vidhi-liṇ), first-person plural; "yāsuṭ"; by लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य (पा. ७-२-७९) the "s" is elided; the affix "mas" loses its final "s" (नित्यं ङितः, पा. ३-४-९९); शनसोरल्लोपः (पा. ६-४-१११) the "a" of "as" is elided before an affix that is "k" or "ñ"-marked; hence "s-yā-ma" → "syāma." (The page ends mid-derivation of "syāma"; it continues on p. 116.

61. this is the form whose nasal sign I flagged at p. 111

62. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the rendering of the Sanskrit of p. 112, characterized in order; sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain. The sense of the Rik is already given on pp. 112–113.

original p. 115

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.6 — characterized

original p. 116

Rik 4.6 grammar concluded; Sūkta 4, Seventh Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

⁶³ ..."yāsuṭ" is acute; since "syāma" stands at the beginning of the pāda, तिङ्ङितिङ् (पा. ८-१-२८) does not cause the nighāta. "Śarmaṇi" — "śṛ himṣāyām" (to injure): "hinasti duḥkham iti śarma" ("that which destroys sorrow"); अन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते (पा. ३-२-७५ [as printed "3-2-7?"]) the affix "manin"; n-ending "śṛ" takes guṇa → "śarman"; "iṭ" does not come to a "kṛt" ending in a "val" affix by नेङ्वशि कृति (पा. ७-२-८), though आर्धधातुकस्येड्वलादेः (पा. ७-२-३५) would require it; since "manin" is "n"-marked, जित्यादिर्नित्यम् (पा. ६-१-१९७) gives the first-syllable acute. ॥६॥

Sūkta 4, The Seventh Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ ईमाशुमाशवे भर यज्ञश्रियं नृमादनम् । पतयन्मन्दयत्सखम् ॥७॥

*ā īm āsum āśave bhara yajña-śriyaṃ nṛmādanam | patayan
mandayat-sakham || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁶⁴

आ । ईम् । आशुम् । आशवे । भर । यज्ञऽश्रियम् । नृऽमादनम् । पतयत् । मन्दयत्ऽसखम् ॥ ७॥

63. Continuing "syāma" from p. 115:

64. Reading notes: (i) the print of the first line in the Saṃhitā runs the words together as "ā īm āsum āśave ..."; in the Saṃhitā "ā īm" shows a svarita-type mark that I do not reproduce. (ii) The Saṃhitā has "patayan mandayat-sakham" with the final "n" before "m"; the Pada has "patayat | mandayat-sakham." The reading "patayat" in the Pada text is the one the Bhāṣya below also gives.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ईमिति निपात इदंशब्दार्थे वर्तते । हे यजमानाशवे कृत्स्नसोमयोगव्याप्तायेन्द्रायेमा भर । इमं सोममाहर । कीदृशं सोमम् । आशुं सवनत्रयव्याप्तं यज्ञश्रियं यज्ञस्य संपद्रूपं नृमादनं नृणामृत्विग्यजमानानां हर्षहेतुं पतयत्यतनयुक्तं कर्मणि प्राप्नुवन्तं मन्दयत्सखं । य इन्द्रो मन्दयति यजमानान् हर्षयति तस्मिन्निन्द्रे सखिभूतोऽयं सोमः । तत्प्रीतिहेतुत्वात्तृप्तिहेतुत्वाद्वा ॥ īm iti nipāta idam-śabdārthe vartate | he yajamānāśave kṛtsna-soma-yoga-vyāptāyendrāyemā bhara | imam somam āhara | kīdṛśam somam | āśum savana-traya-vyāptam yajña-śriyam yajñasya sampad-rūpaṃ nṛmādanam nṛṇām ṛtvig-yajamānānām harṣa-hetum patayat-patana-yuktaṃ karmaṇi prāpnuvantam mandayat-sakham | ya indro mandayati yajamānān harṣayati tasmin indre sakhibhūto 'yam somah | tat-prīti-hetutvāt trpti-hetutvād vā ||

Translation: "'Īm' — a particle, used in the sense of the word 'idam' ('this'). O sacrificer! 'Āśave' — to Indra, who pervades the whole union with Soma (the whole Soma sacrifice) — 'ā bhara' — bring this Soma; carry it. What kind of Soma? 'Āśum' — pervading the three pressings; 'yajñaśriyam' — the 'wealth' (sampad) of the sacrifice; 'nṛmādanam' — the cause of joy to men, the priests and the sacrificer; 'patayat' — endowed with 'fall' (that is, 'moving, going forward in the rite'); 'mandayatsakham' — a friend of the one who gladdens: the Indra who gladdens ('mandayati') the sacrificers, who makes them glad — to that Indra this Soma is a friend, since it is the cause of his pleasure or of his satisfaction." ⁶⁵

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept): "Āśum" — the Uṇādi क्वापाजिमिस्वदिसाध्यशूभ्य उण् (उ. सू. १-१ [as printed]) — the affix "uṇ" after "kṛ," "vā," "pā," "ji," "mi," "svad," "sādh,"

65. Reading notes: the phrase "patayat-patana-yuktaṃ karmaṇi prāpnuvantam" is printed with some run-together letters; I read it as given and note that the Bhāṣya's gloss of "patayat" is somewhat loose; the Kannada Pada-meaning, on p. 117, renders it "the one with the power to bring about the actions that fall away / are lost," which shows the same uncertainty.

"aś[ū]" — "n"-marked, with the accent of the affix. "Āśave" — as before. "Yajñaśriyam" — as a compound its end is acute (समासस्य, पा. ६-१-२२३). "Nṛmādanam" — "mādyanty anena iti mādanah": "lyuṭ" in the sense of instrument or place (करणाधिकरणयोश्च, पा. ३-३-११७); "lit" accent before the affix, but by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) the first-member accent remains. "Patayat" — "pat" (to fall) in the causal (चुरादिणिच्, पा. ३-१-२५), with आतो लोपः (पा. ६-४-६४) ...⁶⁶

original p. 117

Rik 4.7: grammar concluded; Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering

⁶⁷ ... "pat" in the causal with "ṇic" (सत्यापपाश..., as printed: the "cur-ādi" "ṇic," पा. ३-१-२५); the final "a" of the stem is elided (आतो लोपः; read here as अतो लोपः, पा. ६-४-४८, as printed "6-4-48"); the elided "a" is treated as if present (स्थानिवत्) so the "upadhā" vṛddhi (अत उपधायाः, पा. ७-२-११६) does not occur (१-१-५८), and in the "laṭ" the "śatr" replaces (लटः शतृशानचौ, पा. ३-२-१२४); because the Veda has छन्दस्युभयथा (पा. ३-४-११७) the affix is taken as "ārdhadhātuka" and so (the print argues) the "śap" is not applied (शबभावादुपदेशात्) and "nighāta" is absent (पा. ६-१-१८६); the affix's acute alone remains. Even where the "ārdhadhātuka" character is taken, all rules are optional in the Veda (विभाषा छन्दसि, as printed: "pari. 93" [?]); so "ṇi"-elision (णेरिति, पा. ६-४-५१) does not occur (णिलोपाभावः); and by सुपां सुलुगित्यनोलुक् [as printed], the "luk" for "sup" is considered, and by न लुमताङ्गस्य (पा. १-१-६३) — "an operation that depends on an affix that has been elided by 'lu' does not apply" — the "ugit" rule (उगिदचां सर्वनामस्थानेऽधातोः, पा. ७-१-७०) does not bring "num." Thus "patayat" is end-acute. "Mandayatsakham" — "mandayati iti

66. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Grammar characterized, sūtras kept. English as printed.

67. Continuing "patayat" from p. 116:

mandayat" (the same stem in "śatr̥"; end-acute); "mandayatīndre sakhā" — a compound of the type "śastra-mimāti" (the print: सप्तमी..., "yogavibhāgāt samāsaḥ"), with the first-member accent retained by तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थ... (पा. ६-२-२). ॥७॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(O sacrificer) यज्ञश्रियम् (yajñasriyam) — which is of the form of the wealth of the sacrifice | नृमादनम् (nṛmādanam) — which causes joy to men — the priests, the sacrificer and the others | पतयत् (patayat) — with the power to bring about the actions that are failing (that are going astray) | मन्दयत्सखम् (mandayatsakham) — friendly to Indra, who gladdens the sacrificer and the others | ईम् आशुम् (īm āśum) — this Soma-juice which pervades all three pressings — that is, which is made ready in all of them | आशवे (āśave) — to Indra, who pervades the sacrifice — that is, who bears the chief share in the sacrifice (the chief god) | आ भर (ā bhara) — bring.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

This is a sentence addressed by the Hotṛ to the sacrificer or to the Adhvaryu: O sacrificer (or Adhvaryu)! The Soma-juice that is now being prepared in this sacrifice is chiefly the wealth of the sacrifice; that is, by it the sacrifice is adorned. Such Soma-juice causes joy to all people — the priests, the sacrificer and so on; it has the power to bring about the (repair of) actions that have fallen into fault. Moreover, this Soma-juice is dear, like a friend, to Indra, who gladdens the sacrificer. Quickly bring such a Soma-juice for Indra.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Offer to Indra, pervader (of the whole Soma Sacrifice) the Soma juice that is present (at the three Savana ceremonies) the wealth of the Sacrifice, the Source of joy to men (including priests and worshipper), the favourite of Indra who gives happiness to the worshippers." ⁶⁸

original p. 118

Special topics on Rik 4.7; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This Ṛk is spoken addressing the sacrificer or the Adhvaryu.

ईम् (īm) — Skandasvāmī explains "īm" as "enam," that is, "this Soma," "the Soma-juice."

आशुम् (āśum) — For this word the general sense is "quickly; vigilantly." Though it is a qualifying word, it is used here as the thing qualified (viśeṣya). Geldner thinks that in this Ṛk the word is used as an adverb (kriyā-viśeṣaṇa). In the Ṛgveda this word "āśu" is used as an adjective, in the sense "going fast," of horses, in many places. In the same sense it is also used as an adjective of the words "chariot," "wheel," "bird," "messenger," "Vāyu," "Indra" and "Soma," in many places.

नृमादनम् (nṛmādanam)

— Since men are gladdened by drinking the Soma-juice that produces intoxication, it is natural. Therefore it is said in many places that the drinking of Soma gives delight to men. The use of this word:

68. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."
English as printed; Ṛg-vedic references in small Kannada numerals marked [?]; glosses mine and tentative.

त्वं सोम नृमादनः पवस्व चर्षणीसहे । (ऋ. सं. ९-३४-४ [?]) tvaṃ soma nṛmādanaḥ pavaśva carṣaṇīsahe | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-34-4 [?]) Gloss: "You, O Soma, the gladdener of men, flow clear for the conqueror of the peoples."

त्वं सुतो नृमादनो दधन्वान्मत्सरिन्तमः । (ऋ. सं. ९-६२-३ [?]) tvaṃ suto nṛmādano dadhanvān matsarintamaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 9-62-3 [?]) Gloss: "You, pressed, the gladdener of men, the bearer, most exhilarating."

— occurs only in these Ṛks, nowhere else. The word "mādana" derives from the root "mad" ("to be glad; to rejoice, exhilarate").

पतयत् (patayat) — Many scholars have discussed the sense of this word at length. Skandasvāmī's view is "gamayantam" — "causing to go." Veṅkaṭamādhava explains the word "patayat" in "manuṣyān pātayeti hi somaḥ" — "Soma makes men fall": the sense being "the Soma that protects men" [as the Kannada reads it; I note that the quotation as printed is hard to interpret, and I give the Kannada's sense only]. Western scholars explain this word as "accelerating, quickening, inspiring to friends."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁶⁹ "Āśum" — कृवापाजिमिस्वदिसाध्यशूभ्य उण् (उ. सू. १-१ [as printed]) — after the roots "ḍukṛñ karaṇe" (to do), "vā gati-gandhanayoḥ" (to go, to give), "pā pāne" (to drink), "ji abhibhave" (to conquer), "ḍu miñ prakṣepaṇe" (to throw), "svad āsvādane" (to taste), "sādh saṃsiddhau" (to accomplish), "āśū vyāptau" (to pervade) the affix "uṇ" comes; from "āśū" + "uṇ," by अत उपधायाः (पा. ७-२-११६) vṛddhi of the penultimate before an "ñit" or "ñit" affix → "āśu"; the first syllable is acute by the affix-accent. "Āśave" is to be understood like this. "Bhara" — "hṛñ haraṇe" (to carry) in the imperative (lot) ... ⁷⁰

original pp. 119–120

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.7 (Kannada), continued — characterized

p. 119. - "Bhara" ⁷¹ — "hṛñ haraṇe," in the imperative second-person singular "sip" → "hṛ + si"; सेह्वपिच्च (पा. ३-४-८७) puts "hi" for "si" and it is non-"p"-marked; "śap" (कर्तरि शप्, पा. ३-१-६८) comes after the root; सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (पा. ७-३-८४) gives guṇa → "har-a-hi"; the guṇa of "ṛ" is "ar," and by उरण् रपरः (ur aṇ raparah, पा. १-१-५१) the substitute of "ṛ" is followed by "r"; by अतो हेः (पा. ६-४-१०५) the "hi" is elided after a short "a"; ह्रग्रहोर्भश्छन्दसि (hṛgrahor bhaś chandasi, पा. ८-२-३२ [?]) substitutes "bh" for the "h" of "hṛ" and "grah" in the Veda → "bhara." Since it stands after "ā" (not a tiṇanta) and not at the pāda's beginning, तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) makes it wholly unaccented; in the saṃhitā it is preceded by the svarita of "ve" and becomes "anudāttas" by स्वरितात्संहितायामनुदात्तानाम् (पा. १-२-३९) — it is pracaya (level). - "Yajñasriyam" — "yaj" + "nañ" (यजयाचयतविच्छप्रच्छरक्षो नङ्, पा. ३-३-९०) → "yajña"; by स्तोः श्रुना श्रुः (पा. ८-४-४०) the "s/t"-class letters become "ś/c"-class in contact with "ś/c"-class, so the "n" of "nañ" takes the "c"-class nasal "ñ"; यजस्य... with ञ (the conjunct "j + ñ") → "yajña." "Śrī" — from "śrīñ sevāyām" (to serve) by the vārttika क्विब्वचिप्रच्छायतस्तुकटप्रजुश्रीणां दीर्घोऽसंप्रसारणं च (the vārttika as printed, read with doubt): "kvip" with lengthening → "śrī." "Yajñasya śrīḥ" — a genitive tatpuruṣa; then the second-case singular "am" → "yajñasrī + am"; भ्रूवां ियोरियडुवडौ [as printed: अचि श्नुधातुभ्रूवां य्वोरियडुवडौ, 70. Page headers: p. 119 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā"; p. 120 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "bhara," "yajñasriyam," "nṛmādanam" and "patayat," with extended scholastic argument about "patayat"; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik, given on pp. 116–118. Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, not translated line by line; every sūtra the pages name is kept in three layers, numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain. A good part of p. 120 is crowded with technical objections and replies that I do not reproduce.

71. continuing from p. 118

पा. ६-४-७७] — "iyaṅ/uvaṅ" for "ī/ū" of a root-final, of a "śnu"-stem, and of "bhrū," before an "ac"-initial affix — gives "iy" for "ī" → "yajñaśriyam." The compound is end-acute by समासस्य (पा. ६-१-२२३). - "Nṛmādanam" — "mādyante anena" ("they delight by this") → "mādanah"; "lyuṭ" in the sense of instrument by करणाधिकरणयोश्च (पा. ३-३-११७); "lyuṭ" is "l"-marked, so लिति (पा. ६-१-१९३) puts the acute on the syllable before the affix, namely "ā"; in the compound "nṛmādana," गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) retains the kṛt-final member's accent; the "ā" is acute. - "Patayat" — the root "pat" "gatau" is in the "cur-ādi" class (the tenth) read with short "a" at the end (as "pata" — the "gaṇa" list, by the verse: "satyāpa, pāśa, rūpa, vīṇā, tula, śloka, senā, loma, tvaca, varma, varṇa, cūrṇa" ["satyāpapāśārūpavīṇātulaślokaśenāloamatvacavarmavarṇacūrṇa-"]); चुरादिभ्यो णिच् (पा. ३-१-२५) puts "ṇic" after these ... (continues on p. 120).

p. 120. ⁷² ... "ṇic" comes; the final "a" of "pata" is elided before an "ārdhadhātuka" (अतो लोपः, पा. ६-४-४८); the "ṇ" and "c" of "ṇic" are "it"-letters (चुट्, पा. १-३-७; तस्य लोपः, पा. १-३-९); "upadhā" is the vowel before the last letter (अलोऽन्त्यात्पूर्व उपधा, पा. १-१-६५); by अत उपधायाः (पा. ७-२-११६) vṛddhi of the penultimate short "a" before an "ñit/ṇit" affix would be expected; but स्थानिवदादेशोऽनल्विधौ (पा. १-१-५६) makes the substitute (the elision of "a" before "ṇic") act as the original, so the "a" is regarded as still present and so is not "upadhā" — the print argues the point at length — and no vṛddhi arises. Then the "laṭ" → "śaṭṛ" (लटः शतृशानचावप्रथमासमानाधिकरणे, पा. ३-२-१२४); the "śaṭṛ" is "ārdhadhātuka" and "sārvadhātuka" alike by छन्दस्युभयथा (पा. ३-४-११७); कर्तरि शप् (पा. ३-१-६८) would give "śap"; the debate asks whether "śap" is absent when "śaṭṛ" is taken as "ārdhadhātuka"; णेरनिटि (पा. ६-४-५१) — "ṇi" is elided before an "ārdhadhātuka" without "it" — would then also apply, but since all rules are

72. Continuing "patayat":

optional in the Veda (सर्वे विधयश्छन्दसि विकल्प्यन्ते, paribhāṣā [number as printed "93"]), the "ṇi" is kept: "pat + i + at" → guṇa and "ay" → "patayat." The "am" case-ending after it (सुपां सुलुक्, पा. ७-१-३९) is elided by "luk" (सुडनपुंसकस्य, पा. १-१-४३) as a name for the non-neuter "su/au/jas/am/auṭ" being "sarvanāmasthāna"; प्रत्ययलोपे प्रत्ययलक्षणम् (पा. १-१-६२) and उगिदचां सर्वनामस्थानेऽधातोः (पा. ७-१-७०) would bring "num," but न लुमताङ्गस्य (पा. १-१-६३) bars it — the print enumerates the words "luk," "ślu," "lup" and the rest.⁷³

original p. 121

Rik 4.7 grammar concluded; Sūkta 4, Eighth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

⁷⁴ ...where the affix has been elided by "lu"-type elision, no operation depending on the elided affix takes place on the stem — the "pratyaya-lakṣaṇa" is thus prohibited — and so, because the "sarvanāmasthāna" affix is not following, the "num" augment of उगिदचाम् is not added. In the same way "mandayat" is end-acute; "mandayati sakhā" — "(one who is) a friend in the Indra who gladdens" — is a compound formed by the "saptamī" (locative-compound) rule, सप्तमी शौण्डैः (पा. २-१-४० [as printed "2-1-4?"]), which the print divides by the word "saptamī," for the locative word compounds with a competent locative word; by तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थतृतीयासप्तम्युपमानाव्ययद्वितीयाकृत्याः (पा. ६-२-२ [as printed "6-2-2"; the sūtra reads 'tṛtīyā-saptamī'...]) the first member (a locative) retains its natural accent; and राजाहस्सखिभ्यष्टच् (पा. ५-४-९१) the affix "ṭac" comes after "sakhi." ॥७॥

73. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.

74. Concluding the grammar of "patayat" from p. 120:

Sūkta 4, The Eighth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अस्य पीत्वा शतक्रतो घनो वृत्राणामभवः । प्रावो वाजेषु वाजिनम् ॥८॥

asya pītvā śatakrato ghano vṛtrāṇām abhavaḥ | prāvo vājeṣu vājinam || 8 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अस्य । पीत्वा । शतक्रतो इति शतऽक्रतो । घनः । वृत्राणाम् । अभवः । प्र । आवः । वाजेषु । वाजिनम् ॥८॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शतक्रतो बहुकर्मयुक्तेन्द्र त्वमस्य सोमस्य संबन्धिनमंशं पीत्वा वृत्राणां
वृत्रनामकासुरप्रमुखाणां शत्रूणां घनोऽभवः । हन्ताभूः । ततो वाजेषु संग्रामेषु वाजिनं
संग्रामवन्तं स्वभक्तं प्रावः । प्रकर्षेण रक्षितवानसि । अस्येतीदंशब्देन प्रयोगसमये पुरोदेशस्थः
सोमो निर्दिश्यते न तु पूर्वप्रकृतः सोमः परामृश्यते ।
अतोऽनन्वादेशत्वान्नात्रेदमोऽन्वादेशेऽशनुदात्त इत्येतदोदात्त— [print: "...श्चितीयादौ"] । पा. २-४-३२ । इत्यंशादेशः । अतो न सर्वानुदात्तत्वं किंतु तृदा-... he śatakrato bahu- karma-yuktendra tvam asya somasya sambandhinam aṃśam pītvā vṛtrāṇām vṛtra-nāmakāśura-pramukhāṇām śatrūṇām
ghano 'bhavaḥ | hantābhūḥ | tato vājeṣu saṃgrāmeṣu
vājinam saṃgrāma-vantaṃ sva-bhaktaṃ prāvaḥ | prakarṣeṇa rakṣitavān asi | asyetīdaṃ-śabdena prayoga-samaye puro-deśasthaḥ somo nirdiśyate na tu pūrva-prakṛtaḥ somaḥ parāmṛśyate | ato 'nanvādeśatvān nātre damo 'nvādeśe
'śanudātta ... [the print runs on: "...traitīyādaḥ | pā. 2-4-32 |
ity aśādeśaḥ | ato na sarvānudāttatvaṃ kiṃtu tṛdā-...] | |

Translation: "O 'śatakrato' — O Indra, endowed with many deeds — having drunk 'the portion belonging to this Soma,' you have become 'ghanah' — the slayer ('hantā') — 'vṛtrāṇām' — of the enemies headed by the demon named Vṛtra. Then, 'vājeṣu' — in the battles — 'vājinam' — the one who has a battle (the one who fights), your own devotee — 'prāvaḥ' — you have protected in an eminent way. By the word 'idam' in 'asya,' the Soma standing in front at the time of use is pointed out — not the Soma mentioned earlier; hence, since this is not an 'anvādeśa' (a back-reference), the substitution of 'a' for 'idam' (before the third case-ending, etc.) does not apply here, ... and the whole word is therefore not unaccented, but ..." 75 76

original p. 122

Rik 4.8: grammar concluded (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvērtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

Grammar within the Bhāṣya, concluded 77: "Asya" — since "idam" is not here used in 'anvādeśa' (back-reference), the substitute "a" (इदमो मः etc.) with the unaccented 'a' does not take the sense of anvādeśa, and the accented form results: the accent of "asya" is thus the first-syllable acute. The statement on the case-ending is "vibhaktir udāttā" — हलि लोपः (पा. ७-२-१०६) — the "id" of "idam" is elided before a consonant-beginning ending; the "a" substitutes; अकारः प्रातिपदिकस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः; "asya" is accented by the case-ending, as in अनुदात्तादिः etc. (पा. ६-१-१६१, "...vibhaktirudāttā"). "Pitvā" — "pā pāne" with "ktvā" (पिबतेः क्त्वा); घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि (पा. ६-४-६६) gives "ī"; end-acute by the affix's accent. "Ghanaḥ" — मूर्तो घनः (पा. ३-३-७७ [as printed "3-3-77"]) — "ghan" is formed from "han" (to strike) with हन्तेघदिशः "ghana" in the sense of 'a solid mass'; the "kārinī" (the doer-sense) with "ac," as in "tadasyāstīti" (the possessive "ac" after "ghana" as "arśa-ādi");

75. The print of the last lines — the grammar of "asya" — is partly garbled, and it continues on the next page; I give the sense and not a reading of the garbled stretch.

76. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; English as printed.

77. the Sanskrit; given in outline

"citvāt" — end-acute. "Vājeṣu" — "vāja" is first-syllable acute as belonging to the "vṛṣādi" class. "Vājinam" — the accent of the affix "ini." ॥८॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

1. शतक्रतो (śatakrato) — O Indra, who do many deeds of daring | (you) अस्य (asya) — a small portion of this Soma-juice | पीत्वा (pītvā) — having drunk | वृत्राणाम् (vṛtrāṇām) — of the (enemies) called Vṛtras | घनः (ghanah) — the destroyer | अभवः (abhavaḥ) — become | (और) वाजेषु (vājeṣu) — in the many battles (that we fight with our enemies) | वाजिनम् (vājinam) — the one who fights (our hero, your devotee) | प्रावः (prāvaḥ) — protect in a special way.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, who do many daring deeds! Drink this Soma-juice that we have prepared and set here for you, and destroy our enemies called Vṛtras; and in the battles that we fight with our enemies, protect our warrior from the harm of enemies.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O (Indra) performer of many deeds, having drunk of this (Soma), you have become destroyer of our enemies headed by Vritra and protected our warrior in battles."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

अस्य (asya) — The Soma-juice that you have set here for you; the Bhāṣyakāra has supplied the word "aṁśam" and explained it as "a share of this Soma-juice." Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava hold that the word "asya," which is in the genitive case, is used in the sense of the second case (accusative), by the rule "u-sa-yo-gi..."

Special topics on Rik 4.8 (continued): "asya," "śatakrato," "vrtrāṇām" (opening)

⁸⁰ ...in the sense of the "u-sa-yo-gi..." rule, and have explained it with the words "āmum somam" — "this Soma-juice." In the Ṛgveda, in the context of giving the sense of one case-ending, the use of another case-ending is found especially often.

शतक्रतो (śatakrato) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains this word as "bahukarmayukta" — one who does many daring deeds. Veṅkaṭamādhava has explained the word "kratu" as "prajñā" (wisdom). Skandasvāmī has given both of these senses. Here the word "śata" is used in the sense "many." In English also it is the custom to use the words "hundred" and "thousand" in the sense of "many." In the Purāṇas and other works the word "śatakratu" has the sense "one who has performed a hundred Aśvamedha sacrifices"; and, since it is well known that Indra, before obtaining the rank of Indra, performed a hundred Aśvamedha sacrifices and attained that rank, and that those who perform a hundred sacrifices obtain the rank of Indra, it is said in the Purāṇas and elsewhere that in many contexts Indra causes many obstacles, so that others may not perform a hundred sacrifices. But Indra's place in the Vedas is different, and his place as stated in the Purāṇas and later works is different. That is: in the Vedas Indra is praised as the foremost and most excellent among the gods, and there are many sūktas that praise his daring deeds. Why so? In the Ṛgveda the praises of Indra are as many as those of any other deity; in the Purāṇas and later works, the place of Indra is described as a lower place, subject to Brahmā, Viṣṇu,

78. the print is cut off at this point, and continues on the next page

79. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Nirukta reference-number in small Kannada numerals marked [?]. English words as printed.

80. Continuing "asya" from p. 122:

Śiva and the other deities. In the Ṛgveda and in the other Vedas the word "śatakratu," when used of Indra, is found especially often.

वृत्राणाम् (vṛtrāṇām) — "Vṛtra" is a well-known demon; Indra destroyed him. This matter is described at length in the Ṛgveda and in the other Vedas too. It is said that this Vṛtra-asura used to hold back the rain, so that it would not fall, and that Indra therefore killed him and caused the rain to come. Yāska (the author of the Nirukta) and others hold that the word "vṛtra" is used for the cloud, in the sense of a figure (upamārtha). In the Nirukta it stands thus:

कोऽर्को [?] वृत्रः । मेघ इति नैरुक्ताः । त्वाष्ट्रोऽसुर इत्यैतिहासिकाः । आपां च ज्योतिषश्च मिश्रभावकर्मणो वर्षकर्म जायते । तत्रोपमार्थेन युद्धवर्णा भवन्ति ॥ (नि. २-१८ [?]) ko
'rko [?] vṛtraḥ | megha iti nairuktāḥ | tvāṣṭro 'sura ity aitihāsikāḥ | āpāṃ ca jyotiṣaś ca miśrabhāva-karmaṇo varṣa-
karma jāyate | tatropamārthena yuddha-varṇā bhavanti | | (ni. 2-18 [?]) (Reading note: the first words are printed as "ko'rko vṛtraḥ"; what I expect from the Nirukta is "ko vṛtraḥ," and the "rko" may be a printing slip or a ligature I cannot read.
I give it as printed with [?].)

Translation:

"'Who is Vṛtra?' — 'The cloud,' say the etymologists (nairuktāḥ); 'the Asura, son of Tvaṣṭṛ,' say the historians (aitihāsikāḥ). From the action of the mixing of the waters and of the light (lightning) comes the action of rain. There, by way of simile, the descriptions are of battle." (Nirukta 2-18 [?])

The sense of this: who is Vṛtra? For the word "vṛtra," the author of the Nirukta says "the cloud," and the Itihāsa writers say "an Asura, the son of Tvaṣṭṛ." Rain arises from the union of the waters and the lightning (water and ... ⁸¹

81. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."
Reference-number marked [?].

Special topics on Rik 4.8: the Vṛtra myth; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

...(water and lightning) — rain comes from their conjunction. Therefore the rain that falls with thunder and lightning, described figuratively as a battle between Indra and the demon Vṛtra, is a matter of common usage.

Because the rain that comes with the thunder, the lightning and the rolling of the clouds, with the blowing of the wind, and with the streams of water pouring in torrents, looks like a battle, it appears to have become the custom to describe this rain as a battle. The cloud that is imagined in the battle thus described is Vṛtra. The lightning that now and then flashes in the midst of the cloud is Indra's thunderbolt. The terrible roar of the thunder is the roar of the warriors in the battle. Since this roar of thunder and lightning comes both before the rain and at the beginning of the rain, and then, after a short while, the roar lessens and the rain pours the more, the description in terms of battle was applied — that Indra, using his thunderbolt on the Vṛtra-asura, imagined as the cloud, killed him, and that the rain which had been held back by him then poured out as it pleased. Because the word "vṛtra" is read among the thirty words that signify the cloud (Ni. 1-1[?]), it is possible to support this sense.

In the Bhāgavata and other Purāṇas there is an extended description that Vṛtra was the son of Tvaṣṭṛ, the Prajāpati, and that Indra killed him. In the Taittirīya Saṃhitā of the Yajurveda and in the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa such descriptions are found in many places. More detail on this matter will be given later.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Asya" — the word "idam" (from "idi paramaiśvare," the root "to rule") — the "i" of the root carries the "it"-label (इदितो नुम् धातोः, पा. ७-१-५८), so the augment "num" is added, giving "ind"; by the Uṇādi (इन्देः कमिन्लोपश्च, उ. सू. ४-१४७ [as printed "4-1[?]") the affix "kamin" after "ind," with the elision of the "n" of the root; both "k" and "i" being "it"-letters, "am" remains: "id + am" = "idam." The "Daśapādī" author takes the sūtra इणोदमुक् [as printed] — the affix "damuk" after "iṇ gatau," giving "idam." From the word "idam," what appears directly in front at the time of use — the Soma-juice — is pointed to; the Soma that has been mentioned in the preceding mantras is not referred to here. Therefore this is not an "anvādeśa." "Anvādeśa" means referring again, for the sake of telling another operation, to what was mentioned earlier with the purpose of telling some operation ... ⁸²

original p. 125

Rik 4.8 grammar (continued) — characterized

⁸³ ... "anvādeśa" is "re-taking, for the purpose of telling another action, what has been mentioned earlier." Here the Soma that is directly visible is pointed to by "asya"; so this is not an anvādeśa. Hence, by इदमो ऽन्वादेशेऽशनुदात्त ऋतृतीयादौ [the rule as printed; the standard form is इदमो ऽन्वादेशेऽशनुदात्त ऋतृतीयाद्यौ, पा. २-४-३२] — "when a third-case or later ending follows, and the word 'idam' is used in anvādeśa, 'aś' is substituted, unaccented" — the substitution of "aś" does not take place; therefore "asya" is not wholly unaccented. By त्यदादीनामः (पा. ७-२-१०२) "a" replaces the final of the "tyad"-class words when a case-ending follows; applied to "idam," when the sixth-case singular "ñas" follows, अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-९४) gives the "pararūpa"; by इदमो मः ... "id + sya"; हलि लोपः (पा. ७-२-११३) — the "id" of "idam" is elided before a consonant-initial third-or-later case-ending — "id" loses its "d"-final; leaving "a" and "sya": "asya."

82. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the rendering of the Sanskrit on p. 121; characterized in order, sūtras kept; numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain. The sense of the Rik is already given on p. 122.

83. Continuing "asya" from p. 124:

The "a" is acute by the bare-stem accent; ऊडिदम्पदाद्यप्पुग्नैद्युभ्यः (पा. ६-१-१७१) — the case-endings are acute after "ūṭh," "idam," the pada-words beginning with "pad," "ap," "pum," "rai," "dyu" etc., when they are not "sarvanāmasthāna" — the case-ending "sya" is acute; then by अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् (पा. ६-१-१५८) the others are unaccented, so the "a" of "asya" is unaccented.

"Pitvā" — "pā pāne" (to drink) with "ktvā"; by घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि (पा. ६-४-६६) the "ā" of "pā" becomes "ī" → "pītvā"; end-acute by the affix's accent. The words "pītvā" and "śatakrato" have no mutual syntactic connection ("sāmarthya"), so "parāṅgavad-bhāva" does not apply to "pītvā."

"Śatakrato" — "pañcaviṃśati-triṃśac-catvāriṃśat-pañcāsat-ṣaṣṭi-saptati-aśīti-navati śatam" (पञ्चविंशतिर्...शतं, the list with "śata" among the "nipātanās"); "daśadaśataḥ parimāṇasya" ("of a measure of ten tens") the "ta" affix and the substitution "śa" give "śata" — end-acute by the affix, in the view that the Uṇādi words are not "vyutpanna" (derived); in the other view (that they are not derived), end-acute by the bare-stem accent. "Kratu" — from "ḍukṛñ karaṇe" the Uṇādi कृञः कतुः (उ. सू. १-७२ [as printed "1-7?"]) the affix "katu" → "kratu" — end-acute by the affix-accent. The two words in a bahuvrīhi compound: "śatakratu," vocative "śatakrato"; being a vocative standing after another word it is unaccented by आमन्त्रितस्य च (पा. ६-१-१९८, as printed). "Ghanaḥ" — मूर्तो घनः (पा. ३-३-७७) in the sense of solid; or "ghana" from "han" with "ap" in the sense of "hantā"; "han" is replaced by "ghana" (हनो घः?); "ghano 'sya asti" — अर्श आदिभ्योऽच् (पा. ५-२-१२७) "ac" is added in the possessive; "ac" is "c"-marked and so end-acute by चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३); and from "ghanaḥ asya asti" the derivation proceeds ...

Rik 4.8 grammar concluded; Sūkta 4, Ninth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

⁸⁴ ... "ghanah" is end-acute by चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३). "Vājeṣu" — वृषादीनां च (पा. ६-१-२०३) — the first syllable of words in the "vṛṣādi" class is acute; "vāja" is among them, so first-syllable acute. "Vājinam" — "vājo 'syāsti" ("who has 'vāja"): अत इनिठनौ (पा. ५-२-११५) the affix "ini"; the accent of the affix. ॥८॥

Sūkta 4, The Ninth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तं त्वा वाजेषु वाजिनं वाजयामः शतक्रतो । धनानामिन्द्र सातये ॥९॥

*taṃ tvā vājeṣu vājinam vājayāmaḥ śatakrato | dhanānām
indra sātaye || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तम् । त्वा । वाजेषु । वाजिनम् । वाजयामः । शतक्रतो इति शतऽक्रतो । धनानाम् । इन्द्र । सातये ॥९॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शतक्रतो बहुकर्मयुक्त यद्वा बहुप्रज्ञानयुक्तेन्द्र धनानां सातये संभजनार्थं वाजेषु युद्धेषु वाजिनं बलवन्तं त्वा पूर्वमन्त्रोक्तगुणयुक्तं त्वां वाजयामः । अन्नवन्तं कुर्मः । रण इत्यादिषु षट्चत्वारिंशत्सु संग्रामनामसु पौंस्ये महाधने वाजेष्वग्मन्निति पठितम् । अष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेष्वन्ननामसु बन्धो वाजः पाज इति पठितम् । उरु तुवीत्यादिषु द्वादशसु बहुनामसु शतं सहस्रमिति पठितम् । अपोऽप्स इत्यादिषु षड्विंशतिसंख्याकेषु कर्मनामसु शक्म क्रतुरिति पठितम् । केतः केतुरित्यादिष्वेकादशसु प्रज्ञानामसु क्रतुरसुरिति पठितम् ॥ त्वा । अनुदात्तं सर्वमित्यनुवृत्तौ त्वामौ द्वितीयायाः इति त्वादेशः । वाजेषु । वज ब्रज गतौ । वाजयति गमयति शरीरनिर्वाहमनेनेति वाजो बलमन्नं वा । ण्यन्तात्करणे घञ् । तत्र जित्स्वरस्यापवादे कर्षात्वतः । पा. ६-१-१५९ । इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वे प्राप्ते तस्याप्यपवादत्वेन

वृषादीनां च । पा. ६-१-२०३ । इत्यादि [read: आद्युदात्तत्वम्] । वाजयामः । वाजोऽस्यास्तीति वाजवान् । तं करोति इत्यर्थे तत्करोति तदाचष्टे । पा. ३-१-२६, ... he śatakrato bahu-karma-yukta yadvā bahu-prajñāna-yuktendra dhanānām sātaye sambhajanārthaṃ vājeṣu yuddheṣu vājinam balavantam tvā pūrva-mantroktaguṇa-yuktaṃ tvām vājayāmaḥ | annavantam kurmaḥ | raṇa ity ādiṣu ṣaṭcatvāriṃśatsu saṃgrāma-nāmasu paumṣye mahādhane vājeṣv agmann iti paṭhitam | aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣv anna-nāmasu bandho vājah pāja iti paṭhitam | uru tuvīty ādiṣu
dvādaśasu bahu-nāmasu śataṃ sahasram iti paṭhitam | apo
'psa ity ādiṣu ṣaḍviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu karma-nāmasu śakma kratur iti paṭhitam | ketaḥ ketur ity ādiṣv ekādaśasu prajñānāmasu kratur asur iti paṭhitam | | tvā | anudāttaṃ sarvam
ity anuvṛttau tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ iti tvādeśaḥ | vājeṣu | vāja
vraja gatau | vājayati gamayati śārīra-nirvāham anena iti vājo balam annam vā | ṇyantāt karaṇe ghañ | tatra ñit-svarasyāpavāde karṣātvataḥ | pā. 6-1-159 | ity antodāttatve prāpte tasyāpy apavādatvena vṛṣādīnām ca | pā. 6-1-203 | ity
ādi [read: ādyudāttatvam] | vājayāmaḥ | vājo 'syāstīti vājavān
| tam karoti ity arthe tat karoti tad ācaṣṭe | pā. 3-1-26, ...

Translation: "O 'śatakrato' — O Indra, endowed with many deeds, or: endowed with much wisdom — 'dhanānām sātaye' — for the sharing, the enjoyment, of riches — 'tvā' — you, 'vājeṣu' — in battles, 'vājinam' — the strong; you, who are endowed with the qualities stated in the previous mantra — 'vājayāmaḥ' — 'we make you possessed of food' (we cause you to have 'anna'). Among the forty-six names of battle beginning with 'raṇa,' 'paum̐sya,' 'mahādhana' and 'vājeṣu' are read ('agmann' is read there); among the twenty-eight names of food, 'bandhaḥ,' 'vājaḥ,' 'pājaḥ' are read; among the twelve names of 'many,' beginning with 'uru, tuvi,' 'śatam' and 'sahasram' are read; among the twenty-six names of action beginning with 'apaḥ, apsaḥ,' 'śakma' and 'kratuḥ' are read; among the eleven names of wisdom beginning with 'ketaḥ, ketuḥ,' 'kratuḥ' and 'asuḥ' are read."⁸⁵

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized): "Tvā" — unaccented ("anudāttaṃ sarvaṃ" by continuation), by त्वामौ द्वितीयाया: (पा. ८-१-२३) "tvā" replaces "tvām." "Vājeṣu" — root "vaja/vraja gatau" (to go); "vājayati" — "he makes go"; "vāja" is strength or food, by which the support of the body is accomplished; "ghaṇ" after the causal root in the sense of instrument; the "ñit"-accent (end-acute by the "ñit" rule, जित्यादिर्नित्यम्, पा. ६-१-१९७, with the exception कर्षत्वतो घञोऽन्त उदात्तः, पा. ६-१-१५९) would give an end-acute, but the more special वृषादीनां च (पा. ६-१-२०३) makes it first-syllable acute. "Vājayāmaḥ" — "vājo 'syāstīti vājavān"; "taṃ karoti" ("he makes him that"); "tat karoti tad ācaṣṭe" (तत्करोति तदाचष्टे, पा. ३-१-२६) — the causal "ṇic" ...⁸⁶

original p. 127

85. The print here has the counts as I give them; the Nighaṇṭu quotation 'vājeṣv agmann' is printed as I give it and I flag it as hard to read.

86. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sūtra-numbers in small Kannada numerals; [?] where uncertain. English as printed.

Rik 4.9: grammar concluded; Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

Grammar within the Bhāṣya, concluded ⁸⁷: ⁸⁸

...ṇic | iṣṭhavaṇau prātipadikasya | pā. 6-4-155 [?] | iti
tasmin svare iṣṭhavad-bhāvād vinmator luk | pā. 5-3-65 [?] |
iti matupo luk | ṭeḥ | pā. 6-4-143 | ity akāra-lopaḥ | ṇic-cittvād antodāttatvaṃ śapaḥ pittvenānudāttatvaṃ lasārvadhātuka-svareṇākhyātasyāpy anudāttatvaṃ |
pādādītvāt tiṅ atīṇa iti na nighātaḥ | śatakrato |
āmantritanighātaḥ | dhanānām | nab-viśayasyānisantasyety
ādyudāttaḥ | sātaye | udāta ity anuvṛtṭyā ūtiyūti-jūti-sāti-heti-kīrtayaś ceti ktin-nudāttaḥ | | (Devanagari: ...णिच् । इष्टेवणौ
प्रातिपदिकस्य । पा. ६-४-१५५ [?] । इति तस्मिन्स्वरे इष्टवद्भावाद्भिन्मतोर्लुक् । पा. ५-३-६५
[?] । इति मतुपो लुक् । टेः । पा. ६-४-१४३ । इत्यकारलोपः । णिचित्त्वादन्तोदात्तत्वं शपः
पित्त्वेनानुदात्तत्वं लसार्वधातुकस्वरेणाख्यातस्याप्यनुदात्तत्वं । पादादित्वात्तिङ्ङितिङ् इति न
निघातः । शतक्रतो । आमन्त्रितनिघातः । धनानाम् । नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्याद्युदात्तः ।
सातये । उदात्त इत्यनुवृत्त्यादिः ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्चेति क्तिन्नुदात्तः ॥)

Translation, in outline: "'Ṇic' ... after the 'iṣṭha' and 'vat' affixes (इष्टेमेयस्सु टेः, पा. ६-४-१५५ etc.) the 'iṣṭhavad-bhāva' treats the stem as if before an 'iṣṭha'-affix, whence the elision of the
'vin'/'matup' (विन्मतोर्लुक्, पा. ५-३-६५ [?]); टेः (पा. ६-४-१४३): the final 'a' of the stem is elided; by the 'c'-mark of 'ṇic' the end-acute; the
'śap' being 'p'-marked is unaccented; by the sārvaadhātuka-accent rule the verb is unaccented too; since the word stands at the beginning of the pāda, the 'tiṅ atīṇaḥ' nighāta does not apply. 'Śatakrato' — the vocative's nighāta. 'Dhanānām' —

87. the Sanskrit on the top of this page, transcribed as I read it, with its sūtras; given in outline since it is pure derivation

88. Reading notes: the sūtra-numbers in this paragraph are read from small numerals and are low-confidence; the sūtra wording "iṣṭhavaṇau prātipadikasya" is hard to read in the print and I transcribe it as I make it out.

first-syllable acute (नब्बिषयस्यानिसन्तस्य). 'Sātaye' — by the continuation of 'udātta' from ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च (पा. ३-३-९७), the 'ktin' is acute." ॥९॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

1. शतक्रतो (śatakrato) — one who performs many daring deeds, or who is endowed with much wisdom | इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | धनानाम् (dhanānām) — of wealth and other possessions | सातये (sātaye) — for the attainment | वाजेषु (vājeṣu) — in battles | वाजिनम् (vājinam) — who are strong | तम् (tam) — who are endowed with the qualities stated in the earlier mantra | त्वा (tvā) — you | वाजयामः (vājayāmaḥ) — we make endowed with food (we offer to you food in the form of the oblation).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, endowed with wisdom! In order to obtain wealth, cattle, sons and the like, we offer the oblation — that is, food — to you, who are strong — mighty — in battles.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O Indra performer of many sacrifices (or one endowed with great wisdom), we offer sacrificial food to you who are powerful in battles, for the acquisition of riches."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The sense of the word "vāja" has been explained earlier. वाजयामः (vājayāmaḥ) — For this verb the Bhāṣyakāra gives "annavantaṁ kurmaḥ" — "we make endowed with food"; Skandasvāmī gives "vājayati-r arcayati-karmā, stumaḥ" — "the root 'vājay' has the sense of 'worship'; we praise"; and Veṅkaṭamādhava gives "stutibhir balinaṁ kurmaḥ" — "we make you strong by praises, by hymns of praise."

In explaining the senses of the words "vāja," "śata" and "kratu" in this Ṛk, the Bhāṣyakāra has cited sentences from the Nirukta:

वाजे (vāje) — Among the forty-six words that signify battle, beginning with "raṇa," the word "vāje" is read (Ni. 2-1[?]-1[?])⁸⁹.

original p. 128

Special topics on Rik 4.9 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

वाजः (vājaḥ)

— Among the twenty-eight words that signify food, beginning with "andha," the word "vājaḥ" is read (Ni. 2-7[?]-4 [?]).

शत (śata)

— Among the twelve words that signify "many," beginning with "uru," the word "śatam" is read (Ni. 3-1[?]-1 [?]).

ऋतुः (kratuḥ)

— Among the twenty-six words that signify action, beginning with "apaḥ," the word "kratuḥ" is read (Ni. 2-1 [?]); and —

केतः

— among the eleven words that signify wisdom, beginning with "ketaḥ," the word "kratuḥ" is read (Ni. 3-1[?]-1[?]).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ - "Tvā" — त्वामौ द्वितीयायाः (tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ, पा. ८-१-२३), with "anudāttam sarvam apādādaḥ" (अनुदात्तं सर्वमपादादौ, पा. ८-१-१८) continued — "tvā" and "mā" are substituted, in order, for the second-case singular forms "tvām" and "mām" of "yuṣmad" and "asmad," when the words are unaccented, not at the beginning of a pāda, and stand after another word; so here "tvām" becomes "tvā" and is unaccented. - "Vājeṣu" — "vaja/vraja gatau" (to go), with "ṇic" in the causal sense: "vājayati —

⁸⁹. number illegible to me

gamayati": "that by which the support of the body is accomplished"; i.e. "vāja" is strength, or food; "ghañ" after the root in the sense of instrument (करणे); अत उपधायाः (पा. ७-२-११६) gives vṛddhi of the penultimate; णेरनिटि (पा. ६-४-५१) elides the "ṇi" → "vāja." The "ñit"-accent (ञित्यादिर्नित्यम्, पा. ६-१-१९७) is set aside by the exception कर्षत्वतो घञोऽन्त उदात्तः (पा. ६-१-१५९) — when the "ghañ" ends a word after "kṛṣ" or a root with "ā," the word is end-acute — and this in turn is set aside by वृषादीनां च (पा. ६-१-२०३), so the word is first-syllable acute. - "Vājayāmaḥ" — "vājo 'syāsti iti vājavān" — "tadasyāstyasminniti matup" (पा. ५-२-९४) and by मादुपधायाश्च मतोर्वोऽयवादिभ्यः (पा. ८-२-९) the "m" of "matup" becomes "v" after a stem whose penultimate is "m" or "a/ā" (not in the "yava"-class); so "vājavat"; adding "su," अत्वसन्तस्य चाधातोः (पा. ६-४-१४) lengthens the penultimate before the "sarvanāmasthāna" of "atvasanta" stems, and उगिदचां सर्वनामस्थानेऽधातोः (पा. ७-१-७०) brings "num" → "vājavān-t-s"; हल्ङ्याब्भ्यो दीर्घात्सुतिस्यपृक्तं हल् (पा. ६-१-६८) elides "su"; संयोगान्तस्य लोपः (पा. ८-२-२३) elides the "t" ... ⁹⁰

original p. 129

Rik 4.9 grammar concluded; Sūkta 4, Tenth Mantra: Saṃhitā

⁹¹ ...by संयोगान्तस्य लोपः (पा. ८-२-२३) the "t" of the conjunct is elided; पूर्वत्रासिद्धम् (पा. ८-२-१) makes the elision "asiddha" with respect to the following rules; so न लोपः प्रातिपदिकान्तस्य (पा. ८-२-७) — the elision of the "n" at the end of a stem — does not apply, and one gets "vājavān," the stem "vājavat." "We make him vājavat" — "vājavantaṃ kurmaḥ" ("we make him possessed of food, or of strength") — is intended: "tat karoti tad ācaṣṭe" (तत्करोति तदाचष्टे, पा.

90. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Grammar characterized, sūtras kept. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

91. Continuing "vājayāmaḥ" from p. 128:

३-१-२६): in the sense "he does that" — and "he declares it" — "ṇic" is added after a second-case word; "vājavat + am + ṇic"; सनाद्यन्ता धातवः (पा. ३-१-३२) — words ending in "sanādi" affixes are called roots; सुपो धातुप्रातिपदिकयोः (पा. २-४-७१) — the case-ending "am" is elided. तावुपमेयः — by प्रातिपदिकस्य (print: ज्ञाविष्टवत्प्रातिपदिकस्य, पा. ६-४-१५५-वा. १ [?]) — "iṣṭhavat" treatment: whatever operations the "iṣṭhan" affix would bring, these also occur when "ṇic" follows; with "iṣṭhan" following, विन्मतोर्लुक् (पा. ५-३-६५ [?]) elides "vin" and "matup" — so by "iṣṭhavat" the "matup" is elided before "ṇic," and टे: (पा. ६-४-१५५) the "a" before the "ṇic" is elided: "vāja + i," then the root "vāji" with "laṭ," first-person plural "mas," कर्तरि शप् (पा. ३-१-६८) "śap" with guṇa and "ay" → "vājay + mas"; अतो दीर्घो यञि (पा. ७-३-१०१) lengthens the "a" before a "yañ"-initial sārvaadhātuka → "vājayāmas" → "vājayāmaḥ" (with "ru" and visarga). The "śap" is unaccented by being "p"-marked (अनुदात्तो सुप्पितौ, पा. ३-१-४); "mas" is unaccented by तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६) and by अनुदात्तं सर्वमपादादौ (पा. ८-१-१८): the unaccented rule in general does not apply to a word that stands at the beginning of a pāda, by the prohibition, so, since "vājayāmaḥ" is the first word of the second pāda, तिङ्ङित्तिङ् (पा. ८-१-२८) does not make it unaccented. "Śatakrato" — a vocative, unaccented by आमन्त्रितस्य च (पा. ८-१-१९); "dhanānām" — first-syllable acute by the Phiṭ-sūtra नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य; "sātaye" — "udātta" being continued, by ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च (पा. ३-३-९७) the "ktin" affix is acute. ॥९॥

Sūkta 4, The Tenth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁹² 93

92. Reading note: the Saṃhitā text is printed with the avagraha-sign in "rāyo 'vanir," and "mahān" followed by a "t"-like mark and "supāraḥ" as "mahāntsupāraḥ" — the sandhi of "mahān + su..." — as I read it. The end of the page carries the Kannada page-footnote numeral "17" (a signature-mark).

यो रायोऽवनिर्महान्सुपारः सुन्वतः सखा । तस्मा इन्द्राय गायत ॥१०॥ *yo rāyo 'vanir mahān supāraḥ sunvataḥ sakhā | tasmā

indrāya gāyata || 10 ||*

original p. 130

Rik 4.10: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings (opening)

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यः । रायः । अवनिः । महान् । सुऽपारः । सुन्वतः । सखा । तस्मै । इन्द्राय । गायत ॥१०॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

य इन्द्रो रायो धनस्यावनी रक्षकः स्वामिना वा तस्मा इन्द्राय गायत । हे ऋत्विजस्तृप्त्यर्थं
स्तुतिं कुरुत । कीदृश इन्द्रः । महान्गुणैरधिकः सुपारः सुष्ठु कर्मणः पूरयिता सुन्वतो यजमानस्य सखा सखिवत्प्रियः ॥ *ya indro rāyo dhanasyāvanī rakṣakaḥ svāminā vā tasmā indrāya gāyata | he ṛtvijas trṛtyartham
stutiṃ kurutā | kīdṛśa indraḥ | mahān guṇair adhikaḥ supāraḥ suṣṭhu karmaṇaḥ pūrayitā sunvato yajamānasya
sakhā sakhivat priyaḥ ||* (The print has "kurutā" for "kuruta";
I give it as printed, noting that the sense — "make" — is not affected.)

Translation:

"That Indra who is 'rāyaḥ avaniḥ' — the protector of wealth, or its master — to that Indra sing ('gāyata'). O priests, make praise for his satisfaction. What kind of Indra? 'Mahān' — greater by virtues; 'supāraḥ' — he who fulfils the rite well, the completer of the action; 'sunvataḥ sakhā' — the friend of the sacrificer who presses the Soma: dear as a friend."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept):

"Rāyaḥ" — the case-ending is acute after "ūṭh," "idam," "pad" and the like (ऊडिदम्पदाद्यप्पुम्रैद्युभ्यः, पा. ६-१-१७१); thus the genitive "ḥ" of "rai" ("rāyaḥ") is acute. "Avaniḥ" — "av" (to protect) in the long list of senses beginning "rakṣaṇa-gati-prīti-trpti..." (as in the dhātupāṭha: "to protect, to go, to please, to satisfy, to enter, to hear, to command, to request, to make, to desire, to shine, to obtain, to embrace, to injure, to burn, to grow ..."), with the Uṇādi अवितृस्तृतन्त्रिभ्य ईः? [print: अवेरनिः (उ. सू. २-१-०४ [as printed "2-1[?]4"])] the affix "ani"; the affix gives the accent. "Supāraḥ" — "pṛ pālana-pūraṇayoh" (to protect, to fill): the root with "ṇic"-ending, taken from the "kartari" ... "ac" (पचाद्यच्, पा. ३-१-१३४), "c"-marked, so end-acute (चितः, पा. ६-१-१६३). "Suvataḥ" — शतुरनुमो नद्यजादी (पा. ६-१-१७३) — the case-ending after "śatṛ" without "num" is acute when a "nadī" or "ajādi" ending follows. "Sakhā" — समाने ख्यः (as at p. 107) with "iṇ"; the "y" is elided; "sa" is acute. "Tasmai" — अदिरित्यनुवृच्या तृजितनियजिभ्यो ङित् (उ. सू. १-१४०) the Uṇādi affix "ḍit" after "tan"; "ṭi"-elision (टे:); the affix accent. "Indrāya" — "indra" by "ran" (as before) is first-syllable acute; "karmaṇā yam abhipraiti sa sampradānam" (कर्मणा यमभिप्रैति स सम्प्रदानम्, पा. १-४-३२) — the fourth case, since by the statement क्रियाग्रहणं कर्तव्यम् (वा. पा. १-४-३२) the "kriyā" must be understood — "gāna-kriyā" (the act of singing) is the means by which it is reached, so Indra is the recipient (sampradāna) and gets the dative. ॥१०॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(O priests!) यः (yaḥ) — which Indra | रायः (rāyaḥ) — of the giver of riches | अग्निः (avaniḥ) — the protector, or the master | महान् (mahān) — one who is called "great" on account of the superabundance of qualities | सुपारः (supāraḥ) — one who brings the sacrificial and other rites to completion without hindrance | सुन्वतः (suvataḥ) — (to the sacrificer) who has prepared the

Soma-juice for (Indra) | सखा (sakhā) — one who is dear as a friend | तस्मै (tasmai) — such | इन्द्राय (indrāya) — for Indra (addressing Indra) | गायत (gāyata) — sing, with hymns of praise.

94

original p. 131

Rik 4.10: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening) — the parallel Ṛk 8.33.13 and the sense of "avaniḥ"

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra is the protector or the master of riches, lordship and the like; he is endowed with great qualities; he fills up and makes complete — as if what is lacking or defective — the sacrificial and other rites; and he is exceedingly dear, like a friend, to the sacrificer who has prepared the Soma-juice, drawn out for Indra's pleasure, so that it is fit for drinking. O priests! Sing to such an Indra, with hymns of praise and with sāmans.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Sing (to) that Indra who is protector (or lord) of wealth, who is great (with many virtues) the perfecter of good deeds, the friend of the worshipper."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

There is another Ṛk, in the thirteenth Ṛk of the thirty-third [?] sūkta of the eighth Maṇḍala, which uses the same words and says the same thing:

94. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. The gloss on the parallel verse is mine, tentative.

यो रायोऽवनिर्महान्सुपारः सुन्वतः सखा । तमिन्द्रमभि गायत ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-३३-१३ [?]) yo rāyo 'vanir mahān supāraḥ sunvataḥ sakhā | tam indram abhi gāyata || (Ṛ. saṃ. 8-33-13 [?]) Gloss (mine): "Who is the protector of wealth, great, the good ferrier-across, the friend of the presser of Soma — to that Indra sing."

The ṛṣi of this Ṛk is Medhātithi Kāṇva. Between the Ṛk now in hand and this one there is no difference in the first and second pādas; only in the third, in place of the words "tasmā indrāya," this has "tam indram abhi"; and in meaning there is no difference. It is hard to say which of these two Ṛks is the older.

रायः (rāyaḥ) — "of wealth." अवनिः (avaniḥ) — The Bhāṣyakāra and Veṅkaṭamādhava explain this word as "rakṣakaḥ" — "protector," or "svāmī" — "master." Skandasvāmī gives, alongside this, another sense: "avaniḥ pṛthivīnāmaitat | āśrayatvasāmānyāt tv indre prayujyate | yathā pṛthivī sarvārthānām āśrayas tadvad āśraya ity arthaḥ" (अवनिः पृथिवीनामैतत् । आश्रयत्वसामान्यात्त्विन्द्रे प्रयुज्यते । यथा पृथिवी सर्वार्थानामाश्रयस्तद्वदाश्रय इत्यर्थः — "'Avaniḥ' is a name of the earth; it is applied to Indra on account of the common feature of being a support; the sense is that, as the earth is the support of all things, so he is the support"). That is, "avani" in the sense of "earth"; the word is used with reference to Indra; as the earth is the support of all wealth and other things, so too Indra is the support of wealth; that is, Indra is the giver of wealth and the rest. To explain it thus is, however, less fitting than Sāyaṇācārya's sense.

रायः and अवनिः together. — When the words "rāyaḥ" and "avaniḥ" are joined, it is the custom in the Ṛgveda Saṃhitā to write in the middle the figure "3" (which marks the duration of a "kampa" — a trembling of the voice) together with the svarita and anudātta marks. In the other Vedas no such pronunciation occurs. On this point ... ⁹⁵

Special topics on Rik 4.10 (continued): the "kampa" accent-mark; "mahān supāraḥ"; "supāraḥ"; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

...the evidence stands thus:

ऋग्वेदे जात्यस्वरितात्परस्योदात्ते वा स्वरिते वा परे तस्य स्वरितस्योदात्तत्वानुदात्तत्वे स्पष्टमुच्चारणीये इति बोधयितुं तादृक्स्थले तत्स्वरस्यावृत्त्यादिबोधनायाङ्कान्लिख्यन्ते स च कंप इति व्यवह्रियते तत्र तत्र उच्चारणविशेषो वैदिकैः ॥ तस्यास्य कंपस्य अभिप्रायविशेषोऽत्र आनन्दीतीर्थाचार्यैः श्लोकेन संगृह्यते । स इत्थं — कंपोऽशेषग्रहे क्वापि लज्जायां वा पुरातने । पृथक्त्वे धृष्यतायां वा हरिणाकर्षं हितोवितः [?] इति ॥ rgvede jātya-svaritāt parasyodātte vā svarite vā pare tasya svaritasyodāttatvānudāttatve spaṣṭam uccāraṇīye iti bodhayitum tādrk-sthale tat-svarasyāvṛtṭyādi-bodhanāyāñkān likhyante sa ca kampa iti vyavahriyate tatra tatra uccāraṇa-viśeṣo vaidikaih | | tasyāsya kampasya abhiprāya-viśeṣo 'tra ānandatīrthācāryaiḥ ślokena saṁgrhyate | sa ittham — kampo 'śeṣa-grahe kvāpi lajjāyām vā purātane | pṛthaktve dhr̥ṣyatāyām vā hariṇākaraṣaṁ hito vitaḥ [?] iti | | (Reading note: the two final words of the verse, "hito vitaḥ" or "hitovitaḥ," are as I read the small print; the verse is a quoted mnemonic and the end of it is not clear to me, so I give no translation of its last pāda.)

Translation: "In the R̥gveda, when, after a 'jātya' svarita, an acute or a svarita follows, it is to be clearly pronounced that that svarita is both acute and unaccented; to indicate this, in such places numerals are written to indicate the repetition of that accent, and so on; and this is called 'kampa' ('trembling'); by the Vaidikas there is a special pronunciation here and there. The particular meaning of this 'kampa' is summed up in a verse by Ānandatīrtha-ācārya, thus: 'kampa ...' (the verse: 'the "kampa" is used in the case of ... everything in general (aśeṣa-graha?), in some place, in shame, in the ancient, in distinctness, in boldness ...')." ⁹⁶

95. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; the Sanskrit sentences here are technical and some letters are hard to read; [?] marks my uncertainty. English as printed.

The English quotation from Macdonell printed in the source explains this: "Rayah 3 Avanih: a peculiar way of marking the accent; the rule is that when an independent Svarita immediately precedes an Udatta it is accompanied by the sign of the numeral 3 if its vowel is long (and by 1 if it is short e.g. Apsv 1 Antah:) the figure being marked with both the Svarita and the Anudatta."

महान् + सुपारः = महान्सुपारः (mahān + supāraḥ = mahāntsupāraḥ) —
In joining the words "mahān" and "supāraḥ" in the saṃhitā text, it is the custom to insert a "t" after the "n" and to pronounce the following "s": that is, "n + su = n + t + su = ntsu." The Śaunakas, in their Ṛgveda-prātiśākhya (Ṛ. Prā. 4-[?]), say this kind of pronunciation was intended to distinguish the sense (abhiprāya-bheda?) [as the print says]; it is used so that the letters may be pronounced clearly, without difficulty.

सुपारः (supāraḥ)

— "One who reaches the bank; who reaches the end; who brings to a successful end." The Bhāṣyakāra has supplied the word "karmaṇaḥ" ("of the rite") and thus explained it. Western scholars explain this word as "carrying well across (to the other bank)," "leading to Success".

तस्मा इन्द्राय गायत (tasmā indrāya gāyata)

— This third pāda occurs also as the third pāda of the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-5-4 [print "1-?-4"] and Atharvaveda 20-6[?]-2 [?].

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Yaḥ" — तृजितनियजिभ्यो ङित् (उ. सू. १-१३१ [as printed "1-1?1"]) — the affix "ṅit" after the three roots "tyaj hānau" (to abandon), "tan vistāre" (to stretch) and "yaj

⁹⁶. I give the sense of the verse only in outline, because its last words are not clear to me.

devapūjādaṁ" (to worship): the "ādi"-affix is "ḍit," so the "ṭi" of the root is elided and "yad" results: "ya(j) + ad" → "yad"; the word is first-syllable acute by the affix accent; in the view that the Uṇādi words are derived, the stem is end-acute. After it, the first-case singular "su," and by त्यदादीनामः (पा. ७-२-१०२) "a" replaces the final "d": "ya + a + su," and अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-१४) combines the two "a"s, with "ru" for the "s" and visarga ("yaḥ") ... ⁹⁷

original pp. 133–134

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 4.10 (Kannada) — characterized

p. 133. - "Yaḥ" ⁹⁸ — "ya + a + su" → one "a" by अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-१४); ससजुषो रुः (पा. ८-२-६६) substitutes "ru" for "s"; खरवसानयोर्विसर्जनीयः (पा. ८-३-१५) gives the visarga → "yaḥ." The "ya" is acute (the vowel of the affix "ḍit" being acute, and the "d" it replaced was unaccented, the "a" that comes in its place by "pararūpa" is unaccented, so by स्थानिवद्भाव the result should be a svarita; but the special rule एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५) prescribes that a single substitute of an acute and an unaccented is acute) — so "yaḥ" is acute. - "Yo rāyaḥ" — if "yaḥ" is joined with "rāyaḥ" in the saṁhitā, the rule पूर्वत्रासिद्धम् (पा. ८-२-१) makes the "tripāḍi" operation (the visarga, from the third quarter of the eighth chapter) "asiddha" with respect to the earlier "sapādasaptādhyāyī" operations: "ru" is not seen as having become "u"; hence the visarga-substitution is treated as not yet having taken place and the form is as if "yar + rāyaḥ." Even though "ru" is in the third quarter, the print argues that it is not "asiddha" in the rule that makes "ru" into "u" (रोरुत्व — the "u"-substitute is prescribed on the ground of the very "ru"); so हशि च (पा. ६-१-११४) turns "ru" into "u" before a "haś" letter → "ya + u + rāyaḥ"; आद्गुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) → "yo." The "u" that comes in the place of the consonant is unaccented; by guṇa, the resulting "o" in the place of the acute and the unaccented is acute by the same एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः; thus "yo" is acute. - "Rāyaḥ" — रातेर्देः (उ. सू. २-१०३ [as printed "2-1?3"]): after "rā dāne" (to give) the affix "dai"; "ḍ" is an "it" (चुट्, पा. १-३-७), and its elision leaves "ai"; "ṭi"-elision of the root's "ā" (टेः) → "r + ai" = "rai"; the stem is end-acute by the affix's accent. The sixth-case singular "jas/ñas" → "rai + as"; एचोऽयवायावः (पा. ६-१-७८) gives "ay" for "ai" → "rāy-as," then "ru" and visarga → "rāyaḥ." The case-ending is unaccented by अनुदात्तौ सुप्पितौ (पा. ३-१-४), so the "ā" of "rā," being acute by the affix's accent, would stand; but ऊडिदम्पदाद्यप्पुमैद्युभ्यः (पा. ६-१-१७१) makes the case-ending (non-sarvanāmasthāna) acute after "rai," so the sixth-case ending of "rāyaḥ" is acute; hence "rāyaḥ" is end-acute. When "rāyaḥ" is joined with "avaniḥ" in the saṃhitā, the "tripādī" visarga is "asiddha," and "rāyas + avaniḥ": ससजुषो रुः (पा. ८-२-६६) gives "ru," and then अतो रोरप्लुतादप्लुते (पा. ६-१-११३) turns the "ru" after a short "a" into "u" before a short "a" → "rāya + u + avaniḥ" ...

97. Page headers: p. 133 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṁhitā"; p. 134 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, rendering the grammar of the Sanskrit on p. 130 and adding a long argument about the sandhi and accent of "yo rāyo 'vaniḥ." They do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 130–131). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, not translated line by line; every sūtra named is kept in three layers, with numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.

98. concluding from p. 132

p. 134. ...the "u" has taken the place of a consonant, and by स्थानिवद्भाव is unaccented ("vyañjanam anudāttam" — the rule that consonants are unaccented, which must not be forgotten). Then "rāya + u" — two "a/u" vowels — takes guṇa and becomes "o": this "o" is in the place of the acute "a" of "rāya" and the unaccented "u," and so by स्थानिवद्भाव should be svarita; but the special rule एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः makes it acute. For "rāyo 'vaniḥ" एङः पदान्तादति (पा. ६-१-१०९) — after a pada-final "e/o" a following short "a" is absorbed, the earlier form remaining — gives "o" with the "a" of "avaniḥ" absorbed (ओ + अ → औऽ), the avagraha sign. This "o" arises in the place of the acute and the unaccented; hence a svarita would arise by sthānivadbhāva; but by the special rule an acute is prescribed. Then comes the key point of the page: स्वरितो वानुदात्ते पदादौ (पा. ८-२-६) — when an unaccented vowel at the beginning of a pada follows an acute, the single substitute of the acute and unaccented may optionally be a svarita — so a svarita arises. This svarita is of the "jātya" kind ... (the "kampa" argument): when an acute or unaccented vowel follows a svarita of this type, the hearing of the acute and unaccented parts is not clear unless the one letter is repeated; so, to show the acute with one letter and the unaccented with the repeated one, the Vaidikas write the numeral "3" after the syllable — which they call "kampa" (cf. p. 132). Hence the figure "3" is written after the "o" of "rāyo 'vaniḥ"; "3" signifies the svarita as explained. - "Avaniḥ" — "av" (to protect), whose senses the dhātupāṭha lists at length ("rakṣaṇa, gati, prīti, trpti, avagama, praveśa, śravaṇa, svāmy-artha, yācana, kriyecchā-dīpti, vāpty-āliṅgana-hiṃsādāna-bhāva-vṛddhi" — as printed: अव रक्षणगतिप्रीतितृप्त्यवगमप्रवेशश्रवणस्वाम्यर्थयाचनक्रियेच्छादीप्त्यवाप्त्यालिङ्गनहिंसादानभाववृद्धिषु);

after it the affix "ani" — the Uṇādi ऋषिशिल्पि(?)... [as printed: अशूष्मिलटिकणिखटिविशिभ्यः क्वनिप्? — the print differs, and I record that I could not read this sūtra, giving instead the Uṇādi number it names, "उ. सू. २-१००"] — "av" takes "ani," with the affix's own acute on the first syllable. - "Supāraḥ" — "pṛ pālana-pūraṇayoḥ" (to protect, to fill); after it "ṇic" by चुरादिभ्यो णिच् ... then the "ac" of the "nandi-grahi-pacādi" class (नन्दिग्रहिपचादिभ्यो ल्युणिन्यचः, पा. ३-१-१३४); णेरनिटि (पा. ६-४-५१) the "ṇi" is elided; चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३) end-acute. - "Sunvataḥ" — शतुरनुमो नद्यजादी (पा. ६-१-१७३) — the "num" augment ...

Rik 4.10 grammar concluded; end of Sūkta 4

"Sunvataḥ" ¹⁰⁰ — if the "śatr̥" affix, with its "num" augment, comes at the end and is end-acute, the case-ending "ñīp"-type and the "ajādi" "śas"-class endings after it are acute (शतुस्नुमो नद्यजादी, पा. ६-१-१७३), so the sixth-case singular ending after "sunvat" is acute.

"Sakhā" — समाने ख्यः (उ. सू. ४-१३६ [as printed "4-1[?]6"]) with "in̐" after "khyā" with "samāna" as the upapada — the affix is "ḍit̐," so "ṭi" is elided and by that connection "y" is elided; "samāna" gets "sa" and the accent (see Rik 3.4's discussion on p. 107). "Tasmai" — तृजितनियजिभ्यो डित् (उ. सू. १-१३१) the affix "ad" after "tyaj," "tan," "yaj": from "tan vistāre" "tan + ad," "ḍit̐," "ṭi"-elision: "t + ad" = "tad," which by the affix is first-syllable acute; then the fourth-case singular "ñe," with त्यदादीनामः (पा. ७-२-१०२) "a" for the final; अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-९४) the parārūpa: "ta + a"; the "ā" resulting is acute by एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५); then सर्वनाम्नः स्मै (पा. ७-१-१४) puts "smai" for "ñe" after a pronoun ending in short "a" → "tasmai"; the case-ending "smai" is acute by सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः (पा. ६-१-१६८) when a one-vowel stem is followed by "su"....; but because "tad" in the first-case singular and with the affix "su" following ends in "a," न गोश्चन्साववर्णराडङ्कुङ्कृद्भ्यः (पा. ६-१-१८२) — the endings after "go," "śvan," "sau," words ending in "a/ā," "rāṭ̐," "aṅ̐," "kruñ̐" and "kṛt̐"-stems are not acute — blocks the acute accent of the ending. "Indrāya" — "indra" is formed with the affix "ran" by the Uṇādi ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रवज्रविप्र... (उ. सू. २-२८ [as printed]); "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; कर्मणा यमभिप्रैति स सम्प्रदानम् (पा. १-४-३२) — "he whom the agent intends by the action is the sampradāna" — and the Mahābhāṣya's statement on that sūtra, क्रियाग्रहणं कर्तव्यम् (पा. म. १-४-३२) — the word "kriyā" must be added: the word that tells the thing aimed at by the action takes the name "sampradāna" — so Indra, who denotes the object aimed at by the act of singing, is the sampradāna; चतुर्थी सम्प्रदाने (पा. २-३-१३) — the fourth case after a stem having the sense of an unexpressed sampradāna — gives "indrāya." ||१०||

ಈ ೪ನೇ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ಸಮಾಪ್ತವು — ī 4ne sūktavu samāptavu — "This fourth sūkta is complete."

ಇಲ್ಲಿಗೆ ಪ್ರಥಮ ಮಂಡಲದಲ್ಲಿ ೪ನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವೂ ಪ್ರಥಮಾಷ್ಟಕ ಪ್ರಥಮಾಧ್ಯಾಯದಲ್ಲಿ ೮ನೆಯ ವರ್ಗವೂ ಮುಗಿದುದು — illige prathama maṇḍaladalli 4neya sūktavū prathamāṣṭaka prathamādhyaṇyadalli 8neya varḡavū mugidudu — "Here the fourth sūkta in the first Maṇḍala, and the eighth varḡa in the first Adhyāya of the first Aṣṭaka, are finished."

101 102

101. The numerals in this closing note are printed in small Kannada digits; I read them as "4" and "8," and as the next page begins "the fifth sūkta," the "4" is secure. The "8" for the varḡa is less so, and it sits oddly with the "seventh varḡa" notes I recorded at pp. 103 and 111 — both are best-effort readings and should be re-checked on the page.

102. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered letter by letter into Devanagari/IAST; [?] where unclear. Heading printed: "॥ ओम् ॥ — ಐದನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು (the fifth sūkta)".

Sūkta 5 — "ā tvetā ni ṣīdata"

original p. 136

Sūkta 5: title; Sāyaṇa's introduction; the Anuvāda

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

आ त्वेति द्वितीयं सूक्तं दशर्चम् । सुरूपकृत्नुं दशेत्यनुवृत्त्या वा तु युञ्जन्तीत्येवमनुक्रान्तत्वात् । ऋषिच्छन्दोदेवताविनियोगाः पूर्ववत् । विशेषविनियोगस्तु । अतिरात्रे तृतीयपर्याये मैत्रावरुणशस्त्रे स्तोत्रियोऽयं तृचः । अतिरात्रे पर्यायानामिति खण्डे आ त्वेता नि षीदत । आ. ६-४ [?] । इत्युक्तत्वात् ॥ ā tveti dvitīyaṃ sūktaṃ daśarcam | surūpakṛtnuṃ daśety anuvṛtṭyā vā tu yuñjantīty evam anukrāntatvāt | ṛṣi-cchando-devatā-viniyogāḥ pūrvavat | viśeṣa-viniyogas tu | atirātre tṛtīya-paryāye maitrāvaruṇa-śastre stotriyo 'yaṃ tṛcaḥ | atirātre paryāyāṇām iti khaṇḍe ā tvetā ni ṣīdata | ā. 6-4 [?] | ity uktatvāt |

Translation: "Ā tvā..." — this second sūkta (of the anuvāka) is of ten Ṛks, because it is so listed by the Anukramaṇī: 'surūpakṛtnum daśa,' by continuation (of the formula), and then 'yuñjanti...' (for the next one). The ṛṣi, metre, deity and the general application are as before. The special application is: in the Atirātra, in the third round (paryāya), this tṛca (the first three Ṛks) is the stotriya of the Maitrāvaruṇa-śāstra; this is stated in the Sūtra (Āśvalāyana, Śrauta-sūtra [6-4 ?]), in the section 'atirātre paryāyāṇām': 'ā tvetā ni ṣīdata.'" ¹

॥ Anuvādaḥ ॥ ²

The sūkta "ā tvetā niṣīdata" is the second sūkta of the second Anuvāka of the first Maṇḍala. Counted from the beginning of the Maṇḍala, it is the fifth. In this sūkta there are ten Ṛks. As said before, in this second Anuvāka there are four sūktas, each of ten Ṛks. The ṛṣi, deity and metre are the same as in the preceding sūkta. The special application of this sūkta: in the sacrifice called Atirātra, in the third paryāya, when the Hotṛ named Maitrāvaruṇa recites the śāstra-mantras, the three Ṛks beginning "ā tvetā niṣīdata" are to be recited.

In the Anuvāda of the preceding sūkta "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye," it was necessary to give an explanation of the special sacrifices — Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, Prṣṭhya-ṣaḍaha, Mahāvṛata, Atirātra — and of the special terms that must be explained in connection with the application of this sūkta — stoma, viṣṭuti, paryāya and others; without them the meaning of the application would not be clear. Though these particulars about sacrifice belong chiefly to the Yajurveda, they have to be explained here briefly, as the context requires. The nature of each sacrifice and the order of performing it we shall describe at length in the introduction

1. Reading notes: (i) the print's first word reads "ā tveti" — the quotation of the opening words "ā tvetā"; (ii) the Sūtra reference "6-4" is read from small Kannada numerals and marked [?].

2. Kannada commentary, translated

(pūrva-pīṭhikā) to the Yajurveda Saṃhitā, which will be printed in due course. Only what concerns the present subject is given here, very briefly (in the form of a summary) —

Among the Soma-sacrifices, there are seven chief varieties: Agniṣṭoma, Atyagniṣṭoma, Ukthya, Śoḍaśī, Atirātra, Aptoryāma and Vājapeya, as was said earlier (Part 1, p. 667). Of these seven Soma-sacrifices the Agniṣṭoma is the "prakṛti" — the original model. The other six are like the Agniṣṭoma, but include some differences.³

original p. 137

The Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha and Prṣṭhya-ṣaḍaha; the Stoma (opening)

अभिप्लवषडह (abhiplava-ṣaḍaha), पृच्छषडह (prṣṭhya-ṣaḍaha) — These sacrifices are performed over six days, and so are indicated by the word "ṣaḍaha" (six-day). Hence "ṣaḍaha-yāga" means a particular Soma-sacrifice that is to be performed on six days. The six-day Soma-sacrifice is of two kinds, Abhiplava and Prṣṭhya. Āśvalāyana states their characteristics: "ubhayato jyotiḥ ṣaḍahaḥ, antarato jyotiḥ ṣaḍahaḥ" (उभयतो ज्योतिः षडहः, अन्तरतो ज्योतिः षडहः — "a ṣaḍaha with the 'light' at both ends; a ṣaḍaha with the 'light' within"). That is: in the six-day sacrifice, the rites of the first and last days are done like the Agniṣṭoma; and the rites of the remaining days — the third, fourth, fifth and sixth [as printed; I read "third ... sixth," though a six-day rite has its middle days second to fifth — the print should be re-checked] — are done like the Ukthya; this Soma-sacrifice is called Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha. Since the Agniṣṭoma-light (jyotis) is at the beginning and at the end of this sacrifice, it is called "ubhayato-jyotiḥ." In the same way, in a six-day Soma-sacrifice in which the rites of the first and fourth days are like the Agniṣṭoma, and those of the second, third, fifth and sixth days are like the Ukthya, the special Soma-sacrifice is called Prṣṭhya-ṣaḍaha. The middle day of this sacrifice — that is, the fourth day — being like the Agniṣṭoma, it is also called "antarato-jyotiḥ."

3. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Kannada numerals in the permutation list at the foot of the page are printed in Kannada digits and are given here in Arabic as I read them.

In the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha the odd days — the first, third and fifth — in the midday pressings (at the time when the Soma-juice is drawn out in the midday), the priests such as the Udgāṭr praise (the deities) with the sāman-chants called Rathantara, and so these days are called Rathantara-prṣṭha. Likewise the even days — the second, fourth and sixth — are called Bṛhat-prṣṭha, because the sāman called Bṛhat is used. From the third day onwards, wherever the Prṣṭhya-stotras are recited every day, special sāman-mantras called Vairūpa, Vairāja, Śākvara and Raivata are sung in their place [as printed: "pratikriyā (substitute)"]. At that time the priests of the Hotṛ's group recite, in accordance with the sāman-chant, certain Ṛks called stoma. The description of the stoma is as follows:

एकं साम तृचे क्रियते । तस्य च तृचस्य आवृत्त्या ऋचां संख्या वर्धनीया भवति यो
स्तोमशब्देनोच्यत इति ॥ ekam sāma tṛce kriyate | tasya ca tṛcasya āvṛtīyā ṛcām saṃkhyā vārdhanīyā bhavati yo stomaśabdenocyata iti | |

Translation: "One sāman is made (sung) on a tṛca; and by repeating that tṛca the number of Ṛks is to be increased: this (increased number) is what is called by the word "stoma.""⁴

"Tṛca" means three Ṛks. These three Ṛks must set forth one and the same deity. Such Ṛks may be increased into many Ṛks, in various ways, by differences of arrangement (sthāna-bheda) and by reciting each Ṛk more than once. For example: a tṛca has Ṛks 1, 2, 3. These, by arrangements of order —⁵

4. Reading note: the second line's "yo" for the neuter-agreeing "yat" is as printed, and I give it so; the source of the verse is not named on the page.

1, 2, 3; 3, 2, 1; 1, 3, 2; 2, 1, 3; 2, 3, 1; 3, 1, 2 — and so on, by differences of order, and also ... (continues on the next page)

original p. 138

The Stoma: paryāya, viṣṭuti; the nine stomas and their Ṛk-counts

6 ...

1, 1, 1, 2, 3; 1, 2, 2, 2, 3; 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 — and so on, by repetitions of the Ṛks beyond (a single) recitation,

when the three Ṛks are recited, they become many Ṛks. In this way, to recite the three Ṛks of a ṛca in some one order — that is, as 1, 2, 3, or as 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 and so on — is called a paryāya (a "round"). When there are three such rounds, they form one viṣṭuti ("division"). Each stoma has viṣṭutis of this kind, with different names. Therefore the recitation of the ṛca of three Ṛks, in various orders in three paryāyas, is what is called a stoma. Among the stomas there are nine kinds: trivṛt, pañcadaśa, saptadaśa, ekaviṃśa, triṇava, trayastrimśa, catuṣṭvīṃśa, aṣṭācatvāriṃśa (त्रिवृत्, पञ्चदशः, सप्तदशः, एकविंशः, त्रिणवः, त्रयस्त्रिंशः, चतुर्विंशः, चतुश्चत्वारिंशः, अष्टाचत्वारिंशः — trivṛt, pañcadaśaḥ, saptadaśaḥ, ekaviṃśaḥ, triṇavaḥ, trayastrimśaḥ, catuṣṭvīṃśaḥ, aṣṭācatvāriṃśaḥ; "threefold, fifteenfold, seventeenfold, twenty-one-fold, 'thrice-nine,' thirty-three-fold, twenty-four-fold, forty-four-fold, forty-eight-fold").

In the trivṛt stoma the ṛca is recited three times in different orders; hence this stoma is called "trivṛt," and the number of Ṛks of the trivṛt stoma, over three paryāyas, is 9. In the pañcadaśa

5. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

The numerals are printed in Kannada digits; they are given here in Arabic as read, and each Ṛk-count agrees with the stoma's name (e.g. pañcadaśa = 15), which confirms the reading. The stoma and viṣṭuti terms are Sanskrit, given in three layers where they stand as citations.

6. Continuing the permutations from p. 137:

and the other stomas, fifteen or more Ṛks are recited over three paryāyas, according to each stoma's name: in the pañcadaśa stoma there are 15 Ṛks over three paryāyas; in the saptadaśa stoma 17; and so on. The stomas are thus named after their number of Ṛks. In each paryāya there is no rule that the number of Ṛks must be the same; only over the three paryāyas must the stated number of Ṛks be found in the viṣṭutis of each stoma. The details are as follows:

No.	Stoma	Ṛks over three paryāyas
(1)	trivṛt-stoma (त्रिवृत्स्तोम, trivṛt-stoma)	9
(2)	pañcadaśa-stoma (पञ्चदशस्तोम, pañcadaśa-stoma)	15
(3)	saptadaśa-stoma (सप्तदशस्तोम, saptadaśa-stoma)	17
(4)	ekaviṃśa-stoma (एकविंशस्तोम, ekaviṃśa-stoma)	21
(5)	triṇava-stoma (त्रिणवस्तोम, triṇava-stoma)	27
(6)	trayastrīṃśa-stoma (त्रयस्त्रिंशस्तोम, trayastrīṃśa-stoma)	33
(7)	caturviṃśa-stoma (चतुर्विंशस्तोम, caturviṃśa-stoma)	24
(8)	catuṣcatvāriṃśa-stoma (चतुश्चत्वारिंशस्तोम, catuṣcatvāriṃśa-stoma)	44
(9)		48

No.	Stoma	Ṛks over three paryāyas
	aṣṭācatvāriṃśa-stoma (अष्टाचत्वारिंशस्तोम, aṣṭācatvāriṃśa-stoma)

In this way the number of Ṛks of the nine stomas corresponds to each stoma's name. This number is to be applied to each viṣṭuti within the stoma. That is, the trivṛt stoma ... ^{7 8 9 10}

original p. 139

The viṣṭutis of each stoma (the list of thirty)

It was said earlier that each stoma has many viṣṭutis. Their list is given below.

I. For the trivṛt stoma — three viṣṭutis: (1) उद्यती (udyatī), (2) परिवर्तिनी (parivartinī), (3) कुलायिनी (kulāyini).

II. For the pañcadaśa stoma — three viṣṭutis: (1) पञ्चपञ्चिनी (pañcapañcinī), (2) उद्यती प्रथमा (udyatī prathamā), (3) उद्यती द्वितीया (udyatī dvitīyā).

7. continues on the next page

8. Correction note: on pp. 136–139 I first wrote this technical term as "vispṛti" / "vipṛti [?]; the Kannada print on pp. 138–140 reads ವಿಷ್ಠುತಿ, i.e. viṣṭuti, and the text of those pages has been corrected in place to that spelling.

9. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The viṣṭuti names are Sanskrit, printed in Kannada script, and are rendered in all three layers (Devanagari, IAST, with the Kannada's own gloss where it gives one). Where a name is uncertain in the print I mark it [?]; I translate no name that the source does not itself explain.

10. Continuing:) ...the trivṛt stoma has three viṣṭutis, and so it is to be understood that each viṣṭuti has 9 Ṛks over its three paryāyas; the three viṣṭutis together make not 9 but 27 [?] Ṛks, and so on.

(The Ṛk-figure "27" is the product the sentence implies, 3 × 9; the print's numeral is small and I give it with [?].

III. For the sapṭadaśa stoma — seven viṣṭutis: (1) दशसप्ता प्रथमा (daśasaptā prathamā), (2) दशसप्ता द्वितीया (daśasaptā dvitīyā), (3) सप्तस्थिता प्रथमा (saptasthitā prathamā), (4) सप्तस्थिता द्वितीया (saptasthitā dvitīyā), (5) अनामिका (anāmikā), (6) उद्यती (udyatī), (7) भस्त्रा (bhastrā).

IV. For the ekaviṃśa stoma — four viṣṭutis: (1) सप्तसप्तिनी (saptasaptinī), (2) उद्यती (udyatī), (3) प्रतिष्ठति: (pratiṣṭutiḥ [?]), (4) सूर्मि (sūrmī [?]).

V. For the triṇava stoma — two viṣṭutis: (1) प्रतिष्ठिता (pratiṣṭhitā), (2) उद्यती (udyatī).

VI. For the trayastrīṃśa stoma — five viṣṭutis: (1) समत्र्यंशा (samatryaṃśā), (2) नेदीयस्संक्रमा (nedīyassaṃkramā), (3) उद्यती (udyatī), (4) प्रत्यवरोहिणी (pratyavarohiṇī), (5) अन्तिमा (antimā).

VII. For the caturviṃśa stoma

— it has one viṣṭuti only.

VIII. For the catuṣcatvāriṃśa stoma — three viṣṭutis: (1) प्रथमा (prathamā), (2) निर्मध्या (nirmadhyā), (3) तृतीया (tr̥tīyā).

IX. For the aṣṭācatvāriṃśa stoma — two viṣṭutis: (1) प्रथमा (prathamā), (2) नेदीयस्संक्रमा (nedīyassaṃkramā).

In all, the nine stomas have thirty viṣṭutis (3 + 3 + 7 + 4 + 2 + 5 + 1 + 3 + 2 = 30, which agrees with the source's own total).^{11 12}

original p. 140

11. Note: the print's spellings of the viṣṭuti names — e.g.

"samatryaṃśā," "pratyavarohiṇī," "nedīyassaṃkramā" — are given as I read them; they are technical names whose meaning the source does not explain on this page, and I give no translation of them.

12. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

Heading printed: "ತ್ರಿವೃತ್ತೀಮದ ವಿವರಣೆಯು" — "Explanation of the trivṛt stoma." The Sanskrit quotation is printed in Kannada script; rendered in three layers.

The trivṛt stoma: the viṣṭuti "udyatī"

त्रिवृत्स्तोमस्य विवरणम् (trivṛt-stomasya vivaraṇam) — Now, taking as examples the order of the three viṣṭutis of the trivṛt stoma — udyatī, parivartini, kulāyini — and the order of the viṣṭuti called udyatī of the pañcadaśa stoma, the orders of the viṣṭutis of the nine stomas, trivṛt and the rest, will be explained, giving (only) the numbers of the Ṛks of the ṛca in the three paryāyas. The order of reciting the viṣṭuti udyatī of the trivṛt stoma is thus stated in the Tāṇḍya-brāhmaṇa of the Sāmaveda:

तिसृभ्यो हिं करोति स पराचीभिः । तिसृभ्यो हिं करोति स पराचीभिः । तिसृभ्यो हिं करोति स पराचीभिरुद्यती त्रिवृतो विष्टुतिरिति । tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti sa parācībhiḥ | tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti sa parācībhiḥ | tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti sa parācībhir udyatī trivṛto viṣṭutir iti |

Translation:¹³ "'He makes the hiṃkāra on the three (Ṛks)': thus 'with the parācī (ones)'; (said) three times; 'the udyatī is the viṣṭuti of the trivṛt.'" ¹⁴

The sense: "tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti" means "the Udgātṛ chants the three Ṛks of the ṛca." "Parācībhiḥ" means "in the order that is in the Veda." Since "tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti parācībhiḥ" is said three times, the meaning is that the three Ṛks are to be recited in the three paryāyas in the order that is in the Veda —

Paryāya	Ṛks
first paryāya	1, 2, 3
second paryāya	1, 2, 3
third paryāya	1, 2, 3

If the three Ṛks are recited thus in all three paryāyas, this is the order of the viṣṭuti called

13. Mine, following the Kannada gloss that comes next.

14. The source does not name the book's section and I do not add one. The word "parācībhiḥ" is explained by the Kannada as "in the order that is in the Veda."

udyatī

of the trivṛt stoma.

In the present sūkta "ā tvetā niṣīdata," the first three Ṛks form one ṛca. If it is recited in the order of the udyatī viṣṭuti of the trivṛt stoma, it is as follows:

1. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ॥१॥ (ā tvetā ni ṣīdata)
2. पुरुतमं पुरुणाम् ॥२॥ (purūtamaṃ puruṇām)
3. स घा नो योग आभुवत् ॥३॥ (sa ghā no yoga ābhuvat)

(Translation of the three opening phrases, mine and tentative — the source does not translate them on this page: "Come, sit down" / "the most (powerful) of the many" / "may he, indeed, be ours in union.")

This is the first paryāya; the second and third paryāyas are in the same way. If the ṛca is recited in this manner in all three paryāyas, it is the viṣṭuti called udyatī of the trivṛt stoma.¹⁵

original p. 141

The trivṛt stoma: the viṣṭutis "parivartinī" and "kulāyinī" (opening)

The order of the viṣṭuti "parivartinī" of the same stoma:

द्वितीया परिवर्तिनी विष्टुतिः । आवर्तनीयेतृचस्यानावृत्तरूपेण सकृत्प्राप्ते प्रथमः पर्यायः ॥ तथैव पुनः प्राप्ते द्वितीयः ॥ तथैव पुनः प्राप्ते तृतीयः पर्यायः ॥ इति ॥ dvitīyā parivartinī viṣṭutiḥ | āvartanīyetṛcasyānāvṛtta-rūpeṇa sakṛt-prāpte prathamah paryāyah | | tathaiva punaḥ prāpte dvitīyah | | tathaiva punaḥ prāpte tṛtīyah paryāyah | | iti | | (Reading note: "āvartanīyetṛcasya" is printed as one run-on word; the sense — "of the ṛca that is to be repeated" — is clear; and I do not split it further.)

15. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Sanskrit quotations are printed in Kannada script; rendered in three layers. A few spellings in the print look irregular and are marked.

Translation:¹⁶ "The second viṣṭuti is the 'parivartinī.' When the ṛca that is to be recited is obtained once in its not-repeated form, that is the first paryāya; when it is obtained again in the same way, the second; when again in the same way, the third paryāya."

That is: in these two parivartinī viṣṭutis, the Ṛks of the ṛca are to be recited in the reverse order, from the last to the first — in the order 3, 2, 1:

Paryāya	Ṛks
first paryāya	3, 2, 1
second paryāya	3, 2, 1
third paryāya	3, 2, 1

Example —

1. स घा नो योग आभुवत् ...॥३॥ (sa ghā no yoga ābhuvat — the 3rd Ṛk)
2. पुरुतमं पुरुणाम् ...॥२॥ (purūtamaṃ puruṇām — the 2nd Ṛk)
3. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ...॥१॥ (ā tvetā ni ṣīdata — the 1st Ṛk)

In this parivartinī viṣṭuti, too, the three paryāyas are of one and the same kind.

Now we shall state the order of the third viṣṭuti of the same trivṛt stoma, the kulāyini

:

तिसृभ्यो हिं करोति स पराचीभिः ॥ तिसृभ्यो हिं करोति यो मध्यमा सा प्रथमा, योत्तमा सा मध्यमा ॥ तिसृभ्यो हिं करोति योत्तमा सा प्रथमा, यो प्रथमा सा मध्यमा, यो मध्यमा सोत्तमा ॥ इति ॥ tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti sa parācībhiḥ | | tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti yo madhyamā sā prathamā, yottamā sā madhyamā | | tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti yottamā sā prathamā, yo prathamā sā madhyamā, yo madhyamā sottamā | | iti | | (Reading note: the print has "yo" where I would expect the feminine "yā" before "madhyamā," "uttamā" and "prathamā"; I transcribe it as printed and do not correct it.)

16. Mine, following the Kannada gloss.

Translation:

"'He makes the hiṃkāra on the three — in the parācī (order).' 'He makes the hiṃkāra on the three: the middle one becomes the first, the last becomes the middle.' 'He makes the hiṃkāra on the three: the last becomes the first, the first becomes the middle, the middle becomes the last.'"

The sense:

In the first paryāya

— "tiṣṛbhyo hiṃkaroti sa parācībhiḥ": that is, the Ṛks of the ṛca are recited in the order of the Veda, i.e. as 1, 2, 3. For example —

1. आत्वेता नि षीदत ...॥१॥ नेयु ऋक्कु॥ (ā tvetā ni ṣīdata — Ṛk 1)
2. पुरूतमं पुरुणाम्...॥२॥ (purūtamaṃ puruṇām — Ṛk 2)
3. स घा नो योग आभुवत्...॥३॥ (sa ghā no yoga ābhuvat — Ṛk 3)

In the second paryāya — "tiṣṛbhyo hiṃkaroti yo madhyamā sā prathamā, yottamā sā madhyamā": in the second paryāya the middle (2nd) Ṛk of the ṛca is recited first, and the last (3rd) Ṛk ...

17

original p. 142

17. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
Heading printed: "ಪಂಚದಶಸ್ತೋಮದ ವಿವರಣೆಯು" — "Explanation of the pañcadaśa stoma." The Ṛk-numbers in the lists are printed in Kannada digits and are given as 1, 2, 3.

The viṣṭuti "kulāyini" concluded; the pañcadaśa stoma: the viṣṭuti "udyatī" (opening)

¹⁸ ...and the last (3rd) Ṛk must be recited at the middle, and the first (1st) Ṛk at the end — so that the order is 2, 3, 1. For example — ¹⁹

1. पुरुतमं पुरुणाम्... ॥२॥ (purūtamaṃ puruṇām — Ṛk 2)
2. स घा नो योग आभुवत्... ॥३॥ (sa ghā no yoga ābhuvat — Ṛk 3)
3. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ... ॥१॥ (ā tvetā ni śīdata — Ṛk 1)

In the third paryāya

— "tisṛbhyo hiṃkaroti yottamā sā prathamā, yo prathamā sā madhyamā, yo madhyamā sottomā": in the third paryāya the last (3rd) Ṛk is recited first, the first (1st) Ṛk in the middle, and the middle (2nd) Ṛk at the end; the order is 3, 1, 2. For example —

1. स घा नो योग आभुवत्... ॥३॥ (Ṛk 3)
2. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ... ॥१॥ (Ṛk 1)
3. पुरुतमं पुरुणाम्... ॥२॥ (Ṛk 2)

This is the third paryāya. These three paryāyas together form the viṣṭuti called

kulāyini

of the trivṛt stoma.

पञ्चदशस्तोमस्य विवरणम् (pañcadaśa-stomasya vivaraṇam) — This stoma has three viṣṭutis. Of them, we shall explain the first, the viṣṭuti called udyatī, by way of example. Whichever viṣṭuti of this stoma is taken, the three paryāyas together make 15 Ṛks, and so this stoma is called "pañcadaśa-stoma." Its order is —

¹⁸. Continuing the second paryāya of the kulāyini, from p. 141:

¹⁹. The source's summary of the second paryāya here is slightly compressed — "the middle ... first; the last ... middle," following the Brāhmaṇa's words — and I give the order its example list shows: 2, 3, 1.

In the first paryāya — "pañcabhyo hiṃkaroti sa tisṛbhiḥ sa ekayā [print: ekayo] sa ekayā [print: ekayo]":

पञ्चभ्यो हिंकरोति स तिसृभिः स एकया स एकया ॥ pañcabhyo hiṃkaroti sa tisṛbhiḥ sa ekayā sa ekayā | | (Reading note: the final letters of "ekayā" are printed with a vowel sign that I read as "o"; the sense — "with one (Ṛk)" — is clear and I give the form with "ā," flagging the print.) Translation (mine, following the Kannada gloss): "He makes the hiṃkāra on five: with three (repetitions), with one, with one" — that is, in the first paryāya the first Ṛk of the tṛca is to be recited three times, and the second and third Ṛks once each. The order is 1, 1, 1, 2, 3. For example —

1. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ॥१॥ — Ṛk 1
2. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ॥१॥ — Ṛk 1
3. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ॥१॥ — Ṛk 1
4. पुरूतमं पुरुणाम् ॥२॥ — Ṛk 2
5. सघा नो योग आभुवत् ॥३॥ — Ṛk 3 (IAST: ā tvetā ni ṣīdata ×3; purūtamaṃ puruṇām; sa ghā no yoga ābhuvat.)

original p. 143

The pañcadaśa "udyatī" concluded; the viṣṭutis of the nine stomas (opening of the full list)

20

In the second paryāya:

पञ्चभ्यो हिंकरोति स एकया स तिसृभिः स एकया ॥ pañcabhyo hiṃkaroti sa ekayā sa tisṛbhiḥ sa ekayā | | (Translation, mine: "He makes the hiṃkāra on five: with one, with three, with one.")

20. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script. The sequences of Ṛk-numbers are as printed in Kannada digits.

In the second paryāya the first Ṛk is to be recited once, the second Ṛk three times, and the third Ṛk once. The order is

1, 2, 2, 2, 3

. For example —

1. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ॥१॥ — Ṛk 1
2. पुरूतमं पुरुणाम् ॥२॥ — Ṛk 2
3. पुरूतमं पुरुणाम् ॥२॥ — Ṛk 2
4. पुरूतमं पुरुणाम् ॥२॥ — Ṛk 2
5. स घा नो योग आभुवत् ॥३॥ — Ṛk 3

In the third paryāya:

पञ्चभ्यो हिं करोति स एकया स एकया स तिसृभिः ॥ pañcabhyo hiṃkaroti sa ekayā sa ekayā sa tisṛbhiḥ | | (Translation, mine: "He makes the hiṃkāra on five: with one, with one, with three.")

In the third paryāya the first Ṛk is to be recited once, the second once, and the third three times. The order is

1, 2, 3, 3, 3

. For example —

1. आ त्वेता नि षीदत ॥१॥ — Ṛk 1
2. पुरूतमं पुरुणाम् ॥२॥ — Ṛk 2
3. स घा नो योग आभुवत् ॥३॥ — Ṛk 3
4. स घा नो योग आभुवत् ॥३॥ — Ṛk 3
5. स घा नो योग आभुवत् ॥३॥ — Ṛk 3

(The three paryāyas together make 5 + 5 + 5 =

15

Ṛks, which gives the stoma its name.)

These three paryāyas together form the order of the viṣṭuti called

udyatī

of the pañcadaśa stoma. The orders of the viṣṭutis of the other stomas are to be understood in the same way. Now we shall state the names of the viṣṭutis of all nine stomas, trivṛt to aṣṭācatvāriṃśa, and the order, in their paryāyas, of the number of Ṛks to be recited. Their order is thus:

I. For the trivṛt stoma

— three viṣṭutis: (1) udyatī, (2) parivartinī, (3) kulāyinī.

(1) In the viṣṭuti called "udyatī":

Paryāya	Ṛks
first paryāya	1, 2, 3
second paryāya	1, 2, 3
third paryāya	1, 2, 3

(2) In the viṣṭuti called "parivartinī": ^{21 22}

original p. 144

The viṣṭutis of the nine stomas: trivṛt (concluded), pañcadaśa, saptadaśa (opening)

I. Trivṛt stoma ²³(2) viṣṭuti "parivartinī":

Paryāya	Ṛks recited
first	3, 2, 1
second	3, 2, 1

21. the table continues on the next page

22. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

The tables below give the Ṛk-numbers (1, 2, 3) of the ṛca recited in each paryāya, as printed in Kannada digits. Check performed: for every viṣṭuti I added up the three paryāyas, and each total equals the stoma's Ṛk-count (9, 15, 17, ...), which confirms the reading of the digit strings.

23. continued from p. 143

Paryāya	Ṛks recited
third	3, 2, 1

In these two viṣṭutis (udyatī and parivartinī) the three paryāyas are one and the same; there is no difference.

(3) viṣṭuti "kulāyini":

Paryāya	Ṛks recited
first	1, 2, 3
second	2, 3, 1
third	3, 1, 2

II. Pañcadaśa stoma (15 Ṛks) — three viṣṭutis: (1) पञ्चपञ्चिनी (pañcapañcinī), (2) उद्यती प्रथमा (udyatī prathamā), (3) उद्यती द्वितीया (udyatī dvitīyā).

(1) The first, "pañcapañcinī":

Paryāya	Ṛks recited	Count
first	1, 1, 1, 2, 3	5
second	1, 2, 2, 2, 3	5
third	1, 2, 3, 3, 3	5

This is the order of recitation of the viṣṭuti "pañcapañcinī."

(2) The second, "udyatī prathamā":

Paryāya	Ṛks recited	Count
first	1, 1, 1, 2, 3	5
second	1, 2, 3	3
third	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3	7

(3) The third, "udyatī dvitīyā":

Paryāya	Ṛks recited	Count
first	1, 2, 3	3
second	1, 2, 2, 2, 3	5

Paryāya	Ṛks recited	Count
third	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3	7

These are the orders of the three viṣṭutis of the pañcadaśa stoma.
24

III. Saptadaśa stoma (17 Ṛks) — seven viṣṭutis: (1) दशसप्तानामिका प्रथमा (daśasaptānāmikā prathamā), (2) दशसप्तानामिका द्वितीया (daśasaptānāmikā dvitīyā), (3) सप्तस्थिता प्रथमा (saptasthitā prathamā), (4) सप्तस्थिता द्वितीया (saptasthitā dvitīyā), (5) अनामिका (anāmikā), (6) उद्यती (udyatī), (7) भस्त्रा (bhastrā).²⁵ Their order follows on the next page.^{26 27}

original p. 145

The seven viṣṭutis of the saptadaśa stoma

No.	Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya
(1)	daśasaptānāmikā prathamā	1, 1, 1, 2, 3 (5)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (5)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)
(2)	daśasaptānāmikā dvitīyā	1, 1, 1, 2, 3 (5)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (5)	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)
(3)	saptasthitā prathamā	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (7)	1, 2, 3 (3)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)

24. Each totals 15. Source discrepancy, recorded not resolved: on p. 142 the viṣṭuti taken as the worked example — the one with 1,1,1,2,3 / 1,2,2,2,3 / 1,2,3,3,3 — is called "udyatī"; here that same pattern is the first, "pañcapañcinī," and the "udyatī prathamā" has a different pattern. One of the two pages' names for it is a slip, in the source or in my reading of a small numeral.

25. Note: this page spells the first two names "daśasaptānāmikā," whereas p. 139 gave them "daśasaptā"; I record both spellings as printed.

26. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Each row's three counts sum to 17.

27. Reading note: the fourth row's third paryāya and the fifth row's second paryāya are printed with small variations of spacing in the source; I give the sequences whose sums are 17 and which agree with the digit strings I could read.

No.	Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya
(4)	saptasthitā dvitīyā	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)	1, 2, 3 (3)	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)
(5)	anāmikā	1, 1, 1, 2, 3 (5)	1, 2, 3 (3)	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)
(6)	udyatī	1, 2, 3 (3)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (5)	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)
(7)	bhastrā	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (7)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (5)	1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (5)

original p. 146

The viṣṭutis of the ekaviṃśa (21) and triṇava (27) stomas

28

IV. Ekaviṃśa stoma (21 Ṛks) — four viṣṭutis: (1) सप्तसप्तिनी (saptasaptinī), (2) उद्यती (udyatī), (3) प्रतिष्ठुतिः / परिष्ठुति (pratiṣṭutiḥ / pariṣṭuti [?]), (4) सूर्मि (sūrmī [?]).

Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
(1) saptasaptinī	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (7)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)	21 ✓
(2) udyatī	1, 1, 1, 2, 3 (5)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)	21 ✓
	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (5)	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)	21 ✓

28. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

These long digit strings were read from enlarged slices of the page, and each paryāya-set was added up as a check; where a set adds to the stoma's number, that is noted. Note on spelling: the list of names at the head of the ekaviṃśa section prints the third as "प्रतिष्ठुतिः"

(pratiṣṭutiḥ [?]) while the heading over its table prints a form I read as "परिष्ठुति" (pariṣṭuti [?]); I record both as printed and do not choose.

Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
(3) pratiṣṭuti / pariṣṭuti [?]
(4) sūrmī [?]	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)	1, 2, 3 (3)	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)	21 ✓

V. Triṇava stoma (27 Ṛks) — two viṣṭutis: (1) प्रतिष्ठिता (pratiṣṭhitā), (2) उद्यती (udyatī).²⁹

Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
(1) pratiṣṭhitā	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3 (9)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 (9)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)	27 ✓
(2) udyatī	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3 (7)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 (9)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (11)	27 ✓

original p. 147

The viṣṭutis of the trayastrimśa (33) and caturviṃśa (24) stomas

VI. Trayastrimśa stoma (33 Ṛks) — five viṣṭutis: (1) समत्र्यंशा (samatryaṃśā), (2) नेदीयस्संक्रमा (nedīyassamkramā), (3) उद्यती (udyatī), (4) प्रत्यवरोहिणी (pratyavarohiṇī), (5) अन्तिमा (antimā).³⁰

²⁹. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Read from enlarged slices, with totals checked as above. One viṣṭuti does not add up and is flagged.

³⁰. Note on (4): as I read the print, the three paryāyas of "pratyavarohiṇī" add to 32, not 33. One digit in one of the strings is probably misread (the first paryāya's run of 3's or the second paryāya's run of 1's are the likeliest places), or the source has a misprint. I give the strings exactly as read and do not adjust them. The strings for (3) and (5) wrap onto a second line in the print; I have joined them.

Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
(1) samatryaṃśā	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3 (11)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 (11)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (11)	33 ✓
(2) nedīyassamkramā	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (11)	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 (11)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (11)	33 ✓
(3) udyatī	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3 (9)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 (11)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (13)	33 ✓
(4) pratyavarohiṇī	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3 (12)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (11)	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (9)	32 — does not add up; see note
(5) antimā	1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 (15)	1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 (11)	1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (7)	33 ✓

VII. Caturviṃśa stoma (24 Ṛks) — this stoma has one viṣṭuti only: ³¹

First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 2, 3 (8)	1, 2, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3, 3 (8)	1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 3, 3, 3 (8)	24 ✓

original p. 148

31. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." These long digit strings wrap over two lines in the print and were read from enlarged slices. To keep them legible I give each paryāya as runs ("1×3" = the digit 1 three times), with the count; the counts are my own tallies of the printed digits, and each viṣṭuti's total is checked against the stoma's number. A run of repeated 3's or 2's is the likeliest place for a one-digit miscount; none of the totals below fails, but the individual runs should be re-checked against the page if they are to be relied on.

The viṣṭuti of the catuṣcatvāriṃśa (44) and aṣṭācatvāriṃśa (48) stomas

VIII. Catuṣcatvāriṃśa stoma (44 Ṛks) — three viṣṭuti: (1) प्रथमा (prathamā), (2) निर्मध्या (nirmadhyā), (3) तृतीया (tr̥tīyā).

Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
(1) prathamā	1×3, 2×11, 3×1 (15)	1×1, 2×3, 3×10 (14)	1×11, 2×1, 3×3 (15)	44 ✓
(2) nirmadhyā	1×3, 2×10, 3×1 (14)	1×1, 2×3, 3×11 (15)	1×11, 2×1, 3×3 (15)	44 ✓
(3) tr̥tīyā	1×3, 2×11, 3×1 (15)	1×1, 2×3, 3×11 (15)	1×10, 2×1, 3×3 (14)	44 ✓

IX. Aṣṭācatvāriṃśa stoma (48 Ṛks) — two viṣṭuti: (1) प्रथमा (prathamā), (2) नेदीयस्संक्रमा (nedīyassaṃkramā).^{32 33}

Viṣṭuti	First paryāya	Second paryāya	Third paryāya	Total
(1) prathamā	1×3, 3×3, 2×10 (16) (order as printed)	1×3, 2×3, 3×10 (16)	1×10, 2×3, 3×3 (16)	48 ✓
(2) nedīyassaṃkramā	1×3, 2×7, 3×1 on line 1–2: 1×3, 2×12, 3×1 (16)	1×1, 2×3, 3×12 (16)	1×12, 2×1, 3×3 (16)	48 ✓

original p. 149

32. Note: in the first paryāya of "prathamā" the print has the digits in the order 1, 1, 1, 3, 3, 3, then ten 2's — i.e. the 3's come before the 2's, which is out of the pattern of every other row. It may be a printer's transposition; I record it as printed. For the second viṣṭuti, whose table begins at the top of p. 149, I give the runs as tallied from that page.

33. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Āśvalāyana sūtra is printed in Kannada script; transcribed letter by letter, with one doubtful word marked.

End of the viṣṭuti tables; the stoma in the three pressings; stoma-vṛddhi and āvāpa

(2) viṣṭuti "nediyassaṃkramā" ³⁴. The stomas, their viṣṭutis, and the order of reciting the numbers of Ṛks in them, and the like, are described at length in the Tāṇḍya-brāhmaṇa of the Sāmaveda.

Of these stomas, the trivṛt stoma is recited at the time of the morning pressing, the pañcadaśa stoma at the midday pressing, and the saptadaśa stoma at the third pressing. In sacrifices such as the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, after the trivṛt and other stomas that are to be sung at the morning pressing and other rites, it is the custom in certain contexts to sing some further stomas, called "uttara-stomas," together with them. This singing of extra stomas is called stoma-vṛddhi ("increase of the stoma"). After the Udgāṭṛ and the other singers have performed their songs, the priests of the Hotṛ group — Maitrāvaruṇa, Brāhmaṇacchaṃsin and Acchāvāka — must recite, according to this and so as to equal the stoma-increase, a certain number of additional Ṛks. That is: after the Udgāṭṛ and the other Sāma-singers have sung the mantras of the fixed number required for the trivṛt and other stomas, and sing some further mantras, the Maitrāvaruṇa and the others of the Hotṛ group must recite an equal number of Ṛks to correspond. Thus the sāman-mantras that are sung in a number greater than the fixed number, or the stomas — "stoma-vṛddhi" — and, correspondingly, the Ṛks that are recited in a number greater than the fixed number, are called āvāpa. In the present context, for the recitation of these āvāpa-Ṛks they recite the six sūktas beginning with "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye" (the sūktas from Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-4 to 1-9 [as printed]). That is: it is not that the six sūktas must be recited in full for the āvāpa; the number of Ṛks that the Udgāṭṛ and others sing is the number of Ṛks (taken from the sūktas "surūpakṛtnum" and the rest) that are to be recited. Even in this āvāpa order there is a rule for reciting the additional Ṛks. Āśvalāyana states it in his Śrauta-sūtra:

34. continuing from p. 148: first paryāya 1, 1, 1, 2×12, 3; second 1, 2, 2, 2, 3×12; third 1×12, 2, 3, 3, 3 — each 16

नित्याधिकं स्तोमकरणात्पञ्च सप्तदशे नवैकविंशे द्वादशे चतुर्विंशे पञ्चदशे त्रिणवे एकविंशतिं त्रयस्त्रिंशे द्वात्रिंशतं चतुश्चत्वारिंशे षट्त्रिंशतमष्टचत्वारिंशे ॥ इति ॥ nityādhikam stoma-karaṇāt pañca saptadaśe navaikaviṃśe dvādaśa caturviṃśe pañcadaśa triṇava ekaviṃśatiṃ trayastriṃśe dvātriṃśatam catuścatvāriṃśe ṣaṭtriṃśatam aṣṭācatvāriṃśe || iti || (Correction, made at p. 150: I first read the third and fourth words as "pañce" and "nanvaikaviṃśe." Page 150, which restates the same numbers in Kannada prose — "for the saptadaśa stoma, five Ṛks; for the ekaviṃśa, nine; for the caturviṃśa, twelve; for the triṇava, fifteen; for the trayastriṃśa, twenty-one; for the catuścatvāriṃśa, thirty-two; for the aṣṭācatvāriṃśa, thirty-six" — shows that the words are
"pañca" (five) and "nava + ekaviṃśe" (nine at the ekaviṃśa);
the text above has been changed to that. The sūtra's word
"triṇava" is printed in the nominative form though the sense is "at the triṇava.")

Translation:³⁵ "(The Hotṛ-group priests are to recite) additional Ṛks, constantly, over and above the making of the stoma: five at the saptadaśa; nine at the ekaviṃśa; twelve at the caturviṃśa; fifteen at the triṇava; twenty-one at the trayastriṃśa; thirty-two at the catuścatvāriṃśa; thirty-six at the aṣṭācatvāriṃśa."

That is: in reciting the saptadaśa stoma, "āvāpa" — the recitation of the additional Ṛks — is five ... ³⁶

original p. 150

35. Mine; see the correction note above.

36. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

The Sanskrit sūtra is printed in Kannada script; I transcribe it letter by letter and mark doubtful words. I translate only what the source's own explanation supports.

The āvāpa-numbers; the Mahāvrata; the Āśvalāyana sūtra on the Ekāha, Ahīna and Sattra rites ³⁷ five Ṛks. For the ekaviṃśa stoma the āvāpa is nine Ṛks; for the caturviṃśa stoma twelve Ṛks; for the triṇava stoma fifteen Ṛks; for the trayastriṃśa stoma twenty-one Ṛks; for the catuṣcatvāriṃśa stoma thirty-two Ṛks; for the aṣṭācatvāriṃśa stoma thirty-six Ṛks. In just this order the Bhāṣyakāra, stating the application of the sūkta "surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye," wrote: "abhiplava-ṣaḍahe brāhmaṇācchamsinaḥ prātaḥ-savane stoma-vṛddhy-āvāpārthāni surūpakṛtṇum ūtaya ity ādīni ṣaṭ sūktāni" (अभिप्लवषडहे ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनः प्रातःसवने स्तोमवृद्ध्यावापार्थानि सुरुपकृत्नुमूतय इत्यादीनि षट् सूक्तानि — "in the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, the six sūktas beginning 'surūpakṛtṇum ūtaye' are for the Brāhmaṇācchamsin at the morning pressing, for the increase of the stoma and for the āvāpa"; see p. 86–87 above).

The three sūktas "surūpakṛtṇum," "ā tvetā" and "yuñjanti bradhnām" are applied in the Mahāvrata. On this matter Āśvalāyana has said:

एकाहोऽतिरात्र आदौ प्रायणीय एषोऽन्त्य उदयनीयो व्यक्तो मध्येऽहीनेषु वैश्वानर एष एव तावदन्तरेण व्यूढो दशरात्र एषा प्रकृतिः सत्राणां तत्रावापस्थानमूर्ध्वं दशरात्रादेकाहार्थं महाव्रतं प्रागु[?]शरात्रादितरेषामह्नां द्व्यहार्थं गोआयुषी त्र्यहार्थं त्रिकद्रुका अभिप्लवत्र्यहं पूर्वं त्रिकद्रुका इत्याचक्षते । चतुरहार्थं त्रिकद्रुका महाव्रतं च पञ्चाहार्थंऽभिप्लवपञ्चाह उत्तमस्य तु षष्ठात्तृतीयं सवनं षळहार्थंऽभिप्लवः षळह एवंन्याया आवापाः षळहान्ताः पुनः पुनः पूर्णः पूर्णश्च षळहस्तन्त्रतामेव गच्छतीति ॥ ekāho 'tirātra ādau prāyaṇīya eṣo 'ntya udayanīyo vyakto madhye 'hīneṣu vaiśvānara eṣa eva tāvad antareṇa vyūḍho daśarātra eṣā prakṛtiḥ satrāṇāṃ tatrāvāpa-sthānam ūrdhvaṃ daśarātrād ekāhārthe mahāvrataṃ prāg[?]-śarātrād itareṣām ahnām dvyaḥārthe go-āyusi tryahārthe trikadrukā abhiplava-tryahaṃ pūrvaṃ trikadrukā ity ācakṣate | caturahārthe trikadrukā mahāvrataṃ ca pañcāhārthe

37. Continuing from p. 149, "...in the saptadaśa stoma the āvāpa is five" Ṛks:

'bhiplava-pañcāha uttamasya tu śaṣṭhāt tṛtīyaṃ savanaṃ ṣaḥāhārthe 'bhiplavaḥ ṣaḥāha evaṃ-nyāyā āvāpāḥ ṣaḥāhāntāḥ punaḥ punaḥ pūrṇaḥ pūrṇaś ca ṣaḥāhas tantratām eva gacchatīti || (Reading notes: (i) this is a very compressed Śrauta-sūtra, and several of its words are crowded in the print
 — "prāg-...-śarātrād" in particular is unclear to me, and I mark it [?]; (ii) the spellings "trikadrukā" and "go-āyusi" are as printed; (iii) the verse-numbering of the sūtra is not given on the page.) Translation, in outline only (the source does not translate the sūtra word by word; it explains it in the Kannada that follows, which I give next): the sūtra lays out the Ekāha, Ahīna and Sattrā rites — the one-day, the several-day and the long sacrificial sessions — and states that, for each extension of the ten-night base-rite (daśarātra), a Mahāvratā, a "Go-āyusi," a "Trikadruka" or the six-day Abhiplava is added in place of so many days, so that the āvāpas (insertions) proceed up to the ṣaḥāha (six-day) rite, again and again, and the full ṣaḥāha becomes
 "tantra" (common to all).

The Kannada explanation (translated): The Mahāvratā is this:
 in a Soma-sacrifice that is to be done over twelve days, one day of the sacrifice called Mahāvratā is added so that the sacrifice runs for thirteen days; for this the Mahāvratā is performed in the middle of the twelve days — that is, one day from the tenth to the twelfth day. In the "prakṛti" form — the original model — the Soma-sacrifice runs for twelve days only; if the Mahāvratā is performed in the middle, that sacrifice becomes a sacrifice of thirteen days. The sacrifices that have to be done over twelve days, like the Atirātra, are done at the beginning and at the end.
 The Atirātra is one of the seven Soma-sacrifices; the ten days in the middle are called "vyūḥa." If the twelve-day sacrifice is to be run to fourteen days, a two-day sacrifice called Go-āyusi is added, making fourteen from the tenth day; and so for fifteen days (to the twelve) the three-day sacrifice Trikadruka is added.

"Trikadruka" means the first three days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha described before. For a sacrifice of sixteen days, Trikadruka and Mahāvrata are added; for seventeen, the first five days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha; for eighteen, the six days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha. The same must be reckoned further on. The following table makes this clear.^{38 39}

original p. 151

The table of altered sacrifices; end of the introduction to Sūkta 5

Original sacrifice (as printed: "Original Sacrifice") and the part added	Altered sacrifice (as printed: "Altered Sacrifice") and number of days
Soma-sacrifice (soma-yāga)	dvādaśāha (द्वादशाह, dvādaśāha) — twelve-day Soma-sacrifice (12 days)
Soma-sacrifice + Mahāvrata	trayodaśāha (त्रयोदशाह, trayodaśāha) (13 days)
Soma-sacrifice + Go-āyusī	caturdaśāha (चतुर्दशाह, caturdaśāha) (14 days)
Soma-sacrifice + Trikadruka (the first three days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha)	pañcadaśāha (पञ्चदशाह, pañcadaśāha) (15 days)
Soma-sacrifice + Trikadruka + Mahāvrata	ṣoḍaśāha , or ṣoḍaśī (षोडशाह, ṣoḍaśāha ; षोडशी, ṣoḍaśī) (16 days)
Soma-sacrifice + the first five days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha	saptadaśāha (सप्तदशाह, saptadaśāha) (17 days)

38. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The table is printed with Kannada words and English column heads (the source's own, with its misprint "Sacrifice"); the day-numbers are printed in Kannada digits and are given here in Arabic; each agrees with the name of the rite (dvādaśāha = 12, and so on).

39. Continuing: "Trikadruka" means the first three days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha mentioned earlier. For a sacrifice of sixteen days the Trikadruka and the Mahāvrata are added; for seventeen, the first five days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha; for eighteen, all six. The same applies further on.

Original sacrifice (as printed: "Original Sacrifice") and the part added

Soma-sacrifice + the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha complete, that is, six days

Altered sacrifice (as printed: "Altered Sacrifice") and number of days

aṣṭādaśāha (अष्टादशाह, aṣṭādaśāha)
(18 days)

And so on. Here, in place of "dvādaśāha," "trayodaśāha" and the like, it is the custom to say "dvādaśarātri," "trayodaśarātri." In stating the application of a sūkta or mantra, the Bhāṣyakāra names the special sacrifices such as the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, Prṣṭhya-ṣaḍaha, Atirātra and Mahāvrata, and uses technical terms such as stoma, viṣṭuti and paryāya; for the reader's orientation these have been explained, up to here, briefly. Because of the fear of too great length it is not possible to explain them at greater length here. All the matters concerned with sacrifices and the like will be described at length in the Yajurveda-anuvāda, where they can be looked up. Now we begin the word-by-word Anuvāda of the fifth sūkta. ⁴⁰

original p. 152

Sūkta 5: heading; Rik 5.1: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa- bhāṣya (opening)

॥ ओम् ॥

सूक्त—५ ⁴¹ ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—२ ॥ सूक्त—५ ॥ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय—१ ॥ वर्ग
—९, १० ॥ ॥ सूक्तदल्लिरुव ऋक्संख्ये १० ॥ ⁴² ऋषिः — मधुच्छन्दा वैश्वामित्रः (rṣiḥ — madhucchandā vaiśvāmitraḥ) देवता — इन्द्रः (devatā — indraḥ) छन्दः — गायत्री (chandaḥ — gāyatrī)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

40. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.

41. Sūkta 5

42. number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 10

आ त्वेता नि षीदतेन्द्रमभि प्र गायत । सखायः स्तोमवाहसः ॥१॥

*ā tvetā ni ṣīdatendram abhi pra gāyata | sakhāyaḥ
stomavāhasaḥ || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । तु । आ । इत । नि । सीदत । इन्द्रम् । अभि । प्र । गायत । सखायः । स्तोमऽवाहसः ॥ १॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

तुशब्दः क्षिप्रार्थो निपातः । द्वाभ्यामाङ्भ्यामन्वेतुमितशब्दोऽभ्यसनीयः । हे सखायः ऋत्विजः
क्षिप्रमस्मिन्कर्मण्यागच्छतागच्छत । आदरार्थोऽभ्यासः । आगत्य च निषीदत । उपविशत ।
उपविश्य चेन्द्रमभि प्र गायत । सर्वतः प्रकर्षेण स्तुत । कीदृशाः सखायः । स्तोमवाहसः । त्रिवृत्पञ्चदशादिस्तोमानस्मिन्कर्मणि वहन्ति प्रापयन्तीति । *tu-śabdaḥ kṣiprārtho nipātaḥ | dvābhyām āñbhyām anv etum itaśabdo 'bhyasanīyaḥ
| he sakhāyaḥ ṛtvijaḥ kṣipram asmin karmaṇy āgacchatāgacchata | ādarārtho 'bhyāsaḥ | āgatya ca niṣīdata
| upaviśata | upaviśya cendram abhi pra gāyata | sarvataḥ prakarṣeṇa stuta | kīdṛśāḥ sakhāyaḥ | stomavāhasaḥ | trivṛt-
pañcadaśādi-stomān asmin karmaṇi vahanti prāpayantīti |*

Translation:

"The word 'tu' is a particle in the sense of 'quickly.' The word 'ita' is to be doubled so as to be construed with the two 'ā's. O friends, O priests! Come quickly to this rite — 'āgacchatāgacchata': the doubling is for respect. And having come, sit down ('niṣīdata' = 'upaviśata'); and having sat, 'abhi pra gāyata' — sing the praises of Indra, on every side, in an eminent manner. What kind of friends? 'Stomavāhasaḥ' — those who carry, who bring about, in this rite the stomas — the trivṛt, the pañcadaśa and the rest."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept): "Ā," "tu," "ā" are particles (nipāta), so first-syllable acute; "ita" — from "iṇ gatau" (to go): the imperative second-person plural "ta" with the "tas/thas/..." substitution; द्यचोऽतस्तिङः (dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ, पा.

६-३-१३५) lengthens the vowel in the saṃhitā ("itā"). "Ni" — a particle, first-syllable acute. "Sīdata" — पाघ्राध्मास्थाम्नादाण्डृश्यतिर्तिशदसदां पिबजिघ्रधमतिष्ठमनयच्छपश्यच्छधौशीयसीदाः (pā-ghrā-dhmā-sthā-mnā-dāṇ-dr̥śy-arti-sarti-śada-sadāṃ piba-jighra-dhama-tiṣṭha-mana-yaccha-paśyarccha-dhauśīya-sīdāḥ, पा. ७-३-७८ — as I read the print, which gives the sūtra in an abbreviated form) — "sīda" is substituted for "sad"; सदेरप्रते: (पा. ८-३-६६) — "ṣ" in the saṃhitā, except after "prati" ("ni ṣīdata"). "Abhi" — उपसर्गाश्चाभिर्वर्जम् [as a statement: "the prefixes are acute on the first syllable, except 'abhi'"], so "abhi" has the bare-stem accent. "Stomavāhasaḥ" — "stu" (to praise) with the Uṇādi affix "man" (आर्तिस्तुसुहुसृक्षिक्षुभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन्, उ. सू. १-१३९ [as printed "1-1?9"]) gives "stoma," "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; "stomaṃ vahantīti stomavāhasaḥ": from "vah" the affix "asun" in the Veda (वहिहाधाङ्भ्यश्छन्दसि, उ. सू. ४-२१० [?]), the penultimate "a" takes vṛddhi by अत उपधाया: (पा. ७-२-११६); the compound, in which the kṛt-final member's accent would be retained, is by an Uṇādi-rule (उ. सू. ४-२१६ [?]) first-syllable acute. ⁴³

original p. 153

Rik 5.1: Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ⁴⁴

स्तोमवाहसः (stomavāhasaḥ) — those who carry the stotras — that is, who praise with stotras | (हे) सखायः (sakhāyaḥ) — O friends (priests) | तु (tu) — quickly (vigilantly) | आ आ इत (ā ā ita) — come, come | नि सीदत (ni sīdata) — sit down | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | अभि प्र गायत (abhi pra gāyata) — sing well with stotras.

43. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā."

English as printed in the source; the R̥g-vedic references in small Kannada numerals are marked [?].

44. Kannada, translated

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O priests, who are friends! Since you are those who please Indra with stotras and the like, come quickly to this place where the sacrifice is performed. Having come, sit down in the place appointed for you, and sing, beautifully, with the stotras such as the trivṛt-stoma, in the form of a song, a praise of Indra.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O friends, (priests), come hither quickly offering praises; sit down and sing repeatedly the praises of Indra."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

आ-आ (ā-ā)

— The Bhāṣyakāra says that the word "ā" is repeated twice for the sake of respect, that is, for inviting. Such uses are many in the Ṛgveda. For example (both given in the print in Pada form, word by word):

आहानि । गृध्राः । परि । आ । वः । आ । अगुः । इमां । धियं । वार्कार्या । च । देवीम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-८७-४ [?]) āhāni | gr̥dhrāḥ | pari | ā | vaḥ | ā | aguḥ | imāṃ | dhiyaṃ | vārkāryāṃ | ca | devīm | | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-87-4 [?]) (Reading note: the print divides the Ṛk word by word in Pada style, and the first words, "āhāni gr̥dhrāḥ," are unclear to me; I give them as printed and mark the reference [?]. I give no translation, since the source gives none and the reading is not secure.)

वायो इति । आ । चन्द्रेण । राधसा । आ । गतम् । इन्द्रः । च । राधसा । आ । गतम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१३५-४ [?]) vāyo iti | ā | candreṇa | rādhasā | ā | gatam | indraḥ | ca | rādhasā | ā | gatam | | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-135-4 [?]) Gloss (mine, tentative): "O Vāyu — come with bright wealth; come, O Indra, with wealth." (The print again gives it in Pada style; I give it as printed.)

In both of these the word "ā" is used twice, for respect. ^{45 46 47}

original p. 154

Special topics on Rik 5.1 (continued): "ā-ā," "tu," "sakhāyaḥ," "stomavāhasaḥ"; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

ऋतवानः । प्रतिऽचक्ष्य । अनृता । पुनः । आ । अतः । आ । तस्थुः । कवयः । महः । पथः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-२४-७ [?]) ṛtavānaḥ | praticakṣya | anṛtā | punaḥ | ā | ataḥ | ā | tasthuḥ | kavayaḥ | mahaḥ | pathaḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-24-7 [?]) Gloss: "The truthful, having looked upon the untruths, ... the seers have come back again to (their) great paths." [tentative; the reference and the opening words are not secure]

आ । याहि । पूर्वीः । अति । चर्षणीः । आ । अर्यः । आशिषः । उप । नः । हरिभ्याम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-४३-२ [?]) ā | yāhi | pūrvīḥ | ati | carṣaṇīḥ | ā | ariyaḥ | āśiṣaḥ | upa | naḥ | haribhyām | | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-43-2 [?]) Gloss: "Come, passing over the many peoples; come, O lord, to our blessings, with your two bay horses."

आ । तु । नः । इन्द्र । वृत्रहन् । अस्माकम् । अर्धम् । आ । गहि ॥ (ऋ. सं. ४-३२-१ [?]) ā | tu | naḥ | indra | vṛtra-han | asmākam | ardham | ā | gahi | | (ṛ. saṃ. 4-32-1 [?]) Gloss: "Come now to us, O Indra, slayer of Vṛtra; come to our share." [tentative]

आ । ग्रावभिः । अहन्यैभिः । अक्षभिः । वरिष्ठम् । वज्रम् । आ । जिघर्ति । मायिनि ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-४८-३ [?]) ā | grāva-bhiḥ | ahanyaibhiḥ | akṣa-bhiḥ | variṣṭham | vajram | ā | jigharti | māyini | | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-48-3

45. The page ends in the middle of this list of examples; the discussion continues on the next page.

46. Page header: "Sāyana-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." The Ṛg-vedic references are small Kannada numerals and all are marked [?]. The verses are printed in Pada style, word by word; given in three layers, with glosses of my own, tentative, where I can give them.

47. Continuing the list of examples of the doubled "ā" from p. 153:

[?]) (Reading note: the second and third words are as printed; I give no translation, since the reading of "ahanyaibhiḥ" is not secure to me.)

and so on.

Skandasvāmī

, in discussing this, says (in the printed Sanskrit, which I give in three layers):

आ आ इत्युपसर्गाभ्यासात्तत्संबन्धिनेतेत्येतस्याख्यातस्याभ्यासः । आख्याताभ्यासे च लोके
गम्यतां गम्यतामित्यादौ अवश्यकर्तव्यता प्रतीयते । एवमत्रापि क्षिप्रमेत । क्षिप्रमवश्यमागच्छतेत्यर्थः ॥ ā ā ity upasargābhyāsāt tatsambandhinetety etasyākhyātasyābhyāsaḥ | ākhyātābhyāse ca loke gamyatām gamyatām ity ādau avaśya-kartavyatā pratīyate | evam atrāpi kṣipram eta | kṣipram avaśyam āgacchatety arthaḥ || (Reading note: the first word of the second clause is printed "tatsambandhine"; I read it as "tat-sambandhinā" and give the sentence as I make it out.)

Translation (mine, following the Kannada): "'Ā ā': by the doubling of the prefix, the doubling of the verb 'ita' connected with it is understood. In ordinary speech, when a verb is doubled — 'let it be gone, let it be gone' ('gamyatām gamyatām') and the like — the sense of 'it must certainly be done' is understood. So here too: 'come quickly' — the meaning is 'come quickly, without fail.'"

That is: since the prefix "ā" is spoken twice, it is as if the verb "ita" connected with it were spoken twice. When a verb is spoken twice — that is, when one says "gamyatām gamyatām" twice — the sense "come quickly, without fail" becomes clear, say the commentators. It is the custom in ordinary speech to say a word twice when its sense has to be insisted on. Here too it is to be understood as being for respect.

तु (tu)

— To this word, here, in the sense of "decisively, necessarily, quickly" a meaning may be given.

इन्द्रमभि प्र गायत (indram abhi pra gāyata)

— This pāda occurs again in many R̥ks:

पान्तमा वो अन्धस इन्द्रमभि प्र गायत । (ऋ. सं. ८-९३-१ [?]) pāntam ā vo andhasa indram abhi pra gāyata | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-93-1 [?]) Gloss: "To the (Soma-)protector — to him who has your food — to Indra, sing."

and the like.

सखायः (sakhāyaḥ)

— That is: the priests, such as the Udgāṭṛ and the others. The explanation of this word we gave earlier.

स्तोमवाहसः (stomavāhasaḥ)

— "Stoma" does not mean the stotra alone; its detailed explanation we gave in the introduction to this sūkta. "Those who bring stomas — stotras — to Indra" means those who sing his qualities so that Indra will know them.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴⁸ "Ā — tu — ā" — these three are particles; since particles are first-syllable acute (निपाता आद्युदात्ताः, Phiṭ-sūtra [number as printed "80"]) they are acute on the first syllable. "Ita" — the root "iṇ gatau," in the imperative (loṭ) second-person plural "tha"; by लोटो लङ्वत् (पा. ३-४-८५) "loṭ" is treated like "laṇ"; by तस्थस्थमिपां तान्तन्तामः (पा. ३-४-१०१) "tha" becomes "ta"; with "śap" ... ⁴⁹

original p. 155

"ita" and the doubling of "ā": a long grammatical argument (characterized)

The derivation of "ita" (continuing from p. 154). "ṭa" is replaced by "ta" (तस्यस्थमिपां...); the "śap" in the middle is elided by "luk" after the root (an "ad"-class root, अदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः, पा. २-४-७२); since "ta" is "p"-marked (अपित्), the sārvaadhātuka ending is "ñit" (सार्वधातुकमपित्, पा. १-२-४), so guṇa is barred (व्ङिति च, पा. १-१-५) and "ita" results. Here the root's final "i" is acute by the rule that the last vowel of a root is acute (धातोः, पा. ६-१-१६२), while the "ta" affix would also be acute by अनुदात्तौ सुप्पितौ's opposite — आद्युदात्तश्च (पा. ३-१-३): the sārvaadhātuka "ta" being "p"-marked is unaccented — so the two rules compete, and, as the "ita" must be treated as a word that, being a tiñanta placed after the particle "ā" and not at the beginning of a pāda, is wholly unaccented, the अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् (पा. ६-१-१५८) leaves all but one syllable unaccented.

The argument about the two "ā"s. The print then asks how the single verb "ita" can be construed with two prefixes "ā ... ā." The two prefixes, it says, are meant to be understood as one doubled prefix (आदरार्थोऽभ्यासः, "the doubling is for respect"). The text argues: if the two "ā"s were joined with one "ita" at the same time, the sense would be of two separate prefixing operations on one verb, which is not possible, because a single verb-action cannot be joined at once with two identical prefixes; so one "ā" joins "ita," and the other "ā" needs its own verb. Rather than supply another verb (which would be a "gaurava," a clumsiness of explanation), it is more economical to repeat "ita" — that is, to take the verb as

49. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

This page is a scholastic argument in Kannada prose about how the doubled "ā" is to be construed with the verb "ita" and about the accent of "ita"; it does not affect the sense of the Rik given on pp. 152–153. Per the standing convention it is characterized in outline, with the sūtras it names kept in three layers; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.

repeated ("āvṛtti"), so that the two "ā"s each join an "ita." As support the page cites a passage from the Mīmāṃsā-śāstra, on the sūtra beginning "samprajñātām ..." [the print: "संप्रेतेनाग-चैतां-समङ्गानियजत्रैः-संयज्ञ(?)" — garbled, and I do not reproduce it] — the third sentence of that passage has a prefix "sam" which requires a verb to be supplied; the Pūrvapakṣa says a verb must be supplied, but the Siddhānta decides that the verb "gacchatām" of the first sentence is to be repeated and joined with it. The same result follows here: "ita" is repeated and joined with the two "ā"s. "Ni" is a particle, so it is first-syllable acute. ⁵⁰ ⁵¹

original pp. 156–157

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.1 concluded (characterized); Sūkta 5, Second Mantra: Saṃhitā

p. 156. - "Sīdata" — "ṣadḷ viśaraṇa-gaty-avasādaneṣu" (to sink, to go, to sit): the initial "ṣ" of the root becomes "s" by धात्वादेः षः सः (dhātv-ādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ, पा. ६-१-६४) → "sad"; the imperative second-person plural "tha" → "ta"; "śap" in the middle; पाघ्राध्मास्थान्नादाण्डृश्यर्तिसर्तिशदसदां पिबजिघ्रधमतिष्ठमनयच्छपश्यर्च्छौशीयसीदाः (पा. ७-३-७८, as I read the printed abbreviation) gives "sīda" for "sad" before a sārvaadhātuka beginning with a consonant; सदेरप्रतेः (पा. ८-३-६६) puts "ṣ" after a prefix — "ni ṣīdata." The accent: the root's "ī" would get the acute (धातोः, पा. ६-१-१६२); but the sārvaadhātuka "ta"

50. Reading note: the details of the Mīmāṃsā citation on this page are in crowded type and some of its words are garbled; I record only its drift.

A fuller reading would have to be done against the page image.

51. Page headers: p. 156 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 157 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "sīdata," "indram," "abhi," "pra," "gāyata" and "stomavāhasaḥ," in part restating the Sanskrit of p. 152; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 152–153). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline; the sūtras they name are kept in three layers, numbers as I read them. The accent-sign discussions that fill much of p. 156 are crowded and I do not reproduce them.

— and "śap," which is "p"-marked and unaccented (अनुदात्तौ सुप्तिः, पा. ३-१-४) — and तास्यनुदात्तेऽदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वर्नोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६) leave "sīdata" without its own acute; and since it is a tiñanta word following "ni," it is wholly unaccented by तिङ्ङित्तिङ् (पा. ८-१-२८). In the saṃhitā "ni" is acute, and the "ī" after it becomes svarita by उदात्तादनुदात्तस्य स्वरितः (पा. ८-४-६६); the following unaccented syllables take the level pitch ("pracaya") by स्वरितात्संहितायामनुदात्तानाम् (पा. १-२-३९). - "Indram" — from "idi paramaiśvarye" (to rule) by the Uṇādi "ran" (ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रवज्र...) as before; the augment "num" for an "it"-marked root (इदितो नुम् धातोः, पा. ७-१-५८); "n"-marked, first-syllable acute; the second-case singular "am" is unaccented, and अमि पूर्वः (पा. ६-१-१०७) combines the two "a"s into one, which by स्थानिवद्भावेन unaccented, and which, standing after an acute, becomes svarita.

p. 157. - "Abhi" — उपसर्गाश्चाभिवर्जम् (a Phit-sūtra on prefixes: "all prefixes are first-syllable acute, except 'abhi'" — so "abhi" does not take the first-syllable acute; by अन्तोदात्तस्त्वभिः [as printed; the sense is "'abhi' is end-acute"] it is end-acute. "Pra" — a particle, first-syllable acute (निपाता आद्युदात्ताः) — or, as a prefix, acute by the prefix rule. - "Gāyata" — the root "gai śabde" (to sound, to sing), imperative second-person plural "tha" → "ta"; "śap"; एचोऽयवायावः (पा. ६-१-७८) gives "āy" for "ai" → "gāyata." By the root-accent the last vowel of the root would be acute and the affix "ta" is "p"-marked; the accents conflict as before; the word is wholly unaccented as a tiñanta (तिङ्ङित्तिङ्, पा. ८-१-२८); in the saṃhitā "gā" is svarita after the acute of "pra," and the following syllables are level (स्वरितात्संहितायामनुदात्तानाम्, पा. १-२-३९). - "Stomavāhasaḥ" — "stu" with the Uṇādi affix "man" (आर्तिस्तुसुहुसृष्टृक्षिभूभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन्, उ. सू. १-१४२ [as printed "1-1?2"]) → "stoma" ("n"-marked, so first-syllable acute); "stomaṃ vahantīti stomavāhasaḥ" ("those who bring stomas — the trivṛt and the rest — to this rite"); वहिहाधाङ्भ्यश्छन्दसि (उ. सू. ४-२१० [?]) the affix "asun," "ṇit" by the following sūtra, giving

अत उपधायाः (पा. ७-२-११६) vṛddhi → "vāhas"; though the accent of the kṛt-final member of the compound would be expected (गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत्, पा. ६-२-१३९), the Uṇādi rule (उ. सू. ४-२१६ [?]) gives the first member's accent; thus the compound is first-syllable acute. ॥ १॥ ⁵²

Sūkta 5, The Second Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁵³

पुरुतमं पुरुणामीशानं वार्याणाम् । इन्द्रं सोमे सचा सुते ॥२॥

*purūtamaṃ purūṇām īśānaṃ vāryāṇām | indraṃ some sacā
sute || 2 ||*

original p. 158

Rik 5.2: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings (opening)

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁵⁴

पुरुतमम् । पुरुणाम् । ईशानम् । वार्याणाम् । इन्द्रम् । सोमे । सचा । सुते ॥२॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

सखायोऽभिप्रगायतेति पदद्वयमत्रानुवर्तते । हे सखायः ऋत्विजः सचा सर्वैः सह । यद्वा । सचा परस्परं समवायेन सुते अभिषुते सोमे प्रवृत्ते सति इन्द्रमभिप्रगायत । कीदृशमिन्द्रम् । पुरुतमम् । पुरुन् [?] शत्रून् ग्लापयतीति पुरुतमः । पुरुणां बहूनां वार्याणां वरणीयानां धनानामीशानं स्वामिनम् ॥ sakhāyo 'bhipragāyateti pada-dvayam atrānuvartate
| he sakhāyaḥ ṛtvijaḥ sacā sarvaiḥ saha | yadvā | sacā parasparaṃ samavāyena sute abhiṣute some pravṛtte sati
indram abhipragāyata | kīdṛśam indram | purūtamaṃ |

52. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

53. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.

54. Reading note: in the Pada text the print shows "puru-tamam," divided; I give it so.

*purūn [?] śātrūn glāpayatīti purūtamaḥ | purūṇām bahūnām
vāryāṇām varaṇīyānām dhanānām īśānam svāminam | |* (Reading note: the clause explaining "purūtamaḥ" is partly garbled in the print — "purūn pūl[?]..." — and I give it in the form that its sense (as in the Kannada, p. 159: "destroyer of enemies") supports, flagged [?].)

Translation:

"The two words 'sakhāyaḥ' and 'abhi pra gāyata' continue (from the preceding Ṛk). O friends, O priests! 'Sacā' — all together; or: 'sacā' — in mutual union — 'sute' — when the Soma has been pressed and is going on — sing to Indra. What kind of Indra? 'Purūtamaḥ' — he who wearies out (destroys) many ('purūn') enemies; he is 'purūtama.' 'Īśānam' — the lord, the master — 'purūṇām' — of many, 'vāryāṇām' — of desirable (choice) riches."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept):

"Purūtamaḥ" — "tamu glānau" (to be wearied): the root with the "ṇic" sense included, then नन्दिग्रहिपचादिभ्यो ल्युणिन्यचः (पा. ३-१-१३४) the affix "ac" in the pacādi class, "c"-marked, so end-acute by चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३); the first member "puru" has the accent of the compound by the Uṇādi-rule कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम्, "bāhulaka" (the free variation of the Veda) — with the "kṛt"-final member's accent; "puru" with the Uṇādi प्रा... कुः (उ. सू. १-३१ [?]) the affix "ku," "kit," so no guṇa. "Īśānam" — "īśa aiśvārye" (to rule) with "śānac" (लटः शतृशानचौ, पा. ३-२-१२४), the accent of the "sārvadhātuka" unaccented, so the stem's final is acute (लसार्वधातुकानुदात्तत्वम्). "Vāryāṇām" — "vṛñ sambhaktau" (to choose): the affix "ṇyat" (ऋहलोर्ण्यत्, पा. ३-१-१२४) — "vṛ + ṇyat," vṛddhi, and the "y" doubling by "ṇyat" (कृवृजृषिद्रिदन्तेभ्यः..., as printed, garbled) — with the accent यतोऽनावः (पा. ६-१-२१३) and ण्यदन्तस्याद्युदात्तत्वम् (a rule: words ending in "ṇyat" are first-syllable acute); "sacā" — "saca samavāye" (to unite): धात्वादेः षः सः (पा. ६-१-६४) → "sac"; "kvip" (क्विप् च, पा. ३-२-७६) in the sense of agent, with the third-case singular ending; the ending is a single-syllable "ā," and as the paribhāṣā "all rules are optional in the Veda" (सर्वे विधयश्छन्दसि विकल्प्यन्ते) applies, the rule सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः (पा. ६-१-१६८) does not apply; if "sacā" is a particle (nipāta) it is plainly first-syllable acute. ॥२॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ⁵⁵

सचा (sacā) — (all of you — priests, the sacrificer and all, together) united, or mutually joined | सोमे (some) — the Soma-juice | सुते (sute) — in order that it be prepared (having been prepared) | ⁵⁶
... ^{57 58}

original p. 159

Rik 5.2: Pada-meanings concluded; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O priests and sacrificers, who are friends! All of you together, after the Soma-juice has been prepared in this sacrifice, praise with stotras Indra, who is the destroyer of enemies and the master of boundless lordship.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O friends (priests), when soma is pressed sing along with others (or in a body) Indra, the subduer of many foes and the lord of many riches."

55. Kannada, translated; continued on the next page

56. he sakhāyaḥ — O friends, or priests;

57. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā."
English as printed.

58. Continuing the Pada-meanings:) पुरुतमम्(purūtamam) — destroyer of enemies | पुरुणाम्(purūṇām) — of many | वार्याणाम्(vāryāṇām) — of wealth, lordship and the like | ईशानम्(īśānam) — the master | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | (abhi pra gāyata — sing well with stotras.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

In this Ṛk there is neither an agent (karṭṛ) nor a verb; hence the Bhāṣyakāra says that the agent-word "sakhāyaḡ," given in the preceding Ṛk, and the verb "abhi pra gāyata" must be supplied (adhyāhāra). Therefore it is to be understood that the sense of the preceding Ṛk is carried on in this Ṛk.

पुरुतमम् (purūtamam) — For this word the Bhāṣyakāra says "he who destroys enemies" (śatrūn damayati). Skandasvāmī says: "purūtamam | puruṣabdo bahunāma | tamu abhikāṅkṣāyām | bahubhir yo 'bhikāṅkṣyate prārthyate yācyate sa purutamas" (पुरुतमम् । पुरुशब्दो बहुनाम । तमु अभिकाङ्क्षायाम् । बहुभिर्योऽभिकाङ्क्ष्यते प्रार्थ्यते याच्यते स पुरुतमः — "'Purūtamam': the word 'puru' is a name for 'many'; 'tamu' is in the sense of 'wishing for'; he who is wished for, prayed to, begged of by many is 'purutama'"). That is: the word "puru" means "many"; the root "tamu" means "to long for, to ask, to pray"; hence "purutama" means one to whom many pray, one desired by many. Veṅkaṭamādhava has accepted Sāyaṇa's meaning.

सचा (sacā) — "together, united, jointly, called." This word is used in the Ṛgveda in the Ṛks Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-5-3 [?]; 1-2-3 [?]; 1-6-5 [?]; 1-10-4 [?]; 1-20-1 [?]; 1-30-11 [?] and other Ṛks ⁵⁹.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Purūtamam" — the root "tamu glānau" (to be fatigued), with the "ṇic" sense included, then नन्दिग्रहिपचादिभ्यो ल्युगिन्यचः (पा. ३-१-१३४) "ac," as it belongs to the "pacādi"; "ac" is "c"-marked, so by चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३) the end vowel is acute; गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) retains the accent of the second member of a compound ending in a kṛt ... ⁶⁰

original pp. 160–161

59. the numbers of these references are small Kannada numerals, read with doubt

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.2 (characterized); Sūkta 5, Third Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

- "Purūtāmam" ⁶¹ — with "ac" in the pacādi class: नन्दिग्रहिपचादिभ्यो ल्युगिन्यचः (पा. ३-१-१३४), "c"-marked so end-acute (चितः, पा. ६-१-१६३); the second member's accent is kept (गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत्, पा. ६-२-१३९) but the Veda's परादिश्छन्दसि बहुलम् (पा. ६-२-१९९) — in the Veda the first syllable of the second member may be acute — sets that aside.
- "Purūṇām" — "puru" is formed by the Uṇādi प्रा...-कुः (उ. सू. १-३३ [?]), the affix "ku," read as पृ पालनपूरणयोः, भिदिर् विदारणे, व्यथ ताडने, गृध अभिकाङ्क्षायाम्, इण् धृषाप्रागल्भ्ये [as printed; the roots listed: "pṛ to protect and fill, bhidir to split, vyath to strike, grdh to desire, iṇ ..., dhṛṣ to be bold"] — after these roots the affix "ku"; "ku" is "k"-marked (अशक्..., पा. १-१-५ in the print: the "k"-mark blocks guṇa); its "k" and "u" are "it"-letters; the "ṛ" of the root is replaced by "ur" (उरण् रपरः, पा. १-१-५१) and the "ṛ/ū" before a labial: उदोष्छपूर्वस्य (पा. ७-१-१०२) — a final "ṛ" preceded by a labial letter becomes "ur" → "puru." It is end-acute by the affix's accent; then, with "matup" or the genitive plural "nām," नामन्यतरस्याम् (पा. ६-१-१७७) makes "nām" acute after a short-vowel stem that is end-acute; hence the accent of "purūṇām."

60. Page headers: p. 160 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 161 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pages 159 (end)–161 (top) are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "purūtāmam," "purūṇām," "īśānam," "vāryāṇām" and "sacā," a restatement and expansion of the Sanskrit of p. 158; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 158–159). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers; numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals. The page is crowded and I do not reproduce its more technical sub-arguments.

61. from p. 159

- "Īśānam" — "īśa aiśvarye" (to rule), "laṭ" and its substitute "śānac" (लटः शतृशानचौ, पा. ३-२-१२४); the root is unaccented in its upadeśa ("anudātteṭ"), so the "sārvadhātuka" "śānac" is unaccented (तास्यनुदात्तेऽदिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वनोर्दित्, पा. ६-१-१८६) → "īśānam."
- "Vāryāṇām" — "vṛñ sambhaktau" (to choose, to love): the affix "ṇyat" (ऋहलोर्ण्यत्, पा. ३-१-१२४) after a root ending in "ṛ" or a consonant. The print then compares the alternative "kyap" (ईश्वर..., पा. ३-१-१०९, "ṛdupadhāt kyap") and argues, on the strength of a Mahābhāṣya passage (पा. म. ३-१-१०९), that "vṛj varjane" (to avoid) rather than "vṛñ" is intended; since "vṛj sambhaktau" is not the root, "kyap" does not apply. The "ṇyat" is first-syllable acute, by तित्स्वरितम् (पा. ६-१-१८५) — a "t"-marked affix gives a svarita — set aside by ईडवन्दवृशंसदुहां ण्यतः (पा. ६-१-२१४) (the "ṇyat"-ending forms of "īḍ, vand, vṛ, śams, duh" are first-syllable acute), so "vārya" is first-syllable acute; यतोऽनावः (पा. ६-१-२१३) is mentioned and set aside as not applicable here, for it concerns "yat" in a stem with two vowels, "nau"-less.
- "Sacā" — "saca samavāye" (to unite): धात्वादेः षः सः (पा. ६-१-६४) — the root's initial "ṣ" becomes "s" — "sac"; सम्पदादिभ्यः क्विप् (पा. ३-३-१०८, as printed "3-3-1?8") "kvip"; the third-case singular, "sacā"; since all rules are optional in the Veda (सर्वे विधयश्छन्दसि विकल्प्यन्ते, परिभाषा [number as printed "93"]), सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः (पा. ६-१-१६८) does not apply and the ending is not acute; by the root-accent "sacā" is first-syllable acute; if "sacā" is regarded as a particle (nipāta), then निपाता आद्युदात्ताः (Phit-sūtra [number as printed "80"]) makes it first-syllable acute, which is plain. ॥२॥

Sūkta 5, The Third Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स घा नो योग आ भुवत्स राये स पुरंध्याम् । गमद्वाजेभिरा स नः ॥३॥

*sa ghā no yoga ā bhuvat sa rāye sa puraṃdhyām | gamad
vājebhir ā sa naḥ || 3 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁶²

सः । घ । नः । योगे । आ । भुवत् । सः । राये । सः । पुरम्ध्याम् । गमत् । वाजेभिः । आ । सः । नः ॥३॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

घशब्दोऽवधारणार्थो निपातः सर्वैस्तच्छब्दैः संबध्यते । स घ स एवेन्द्रः पूर्वमन्त्रोक्तगुणविशिष्टो
नोऽस्माकं योगे पूर्वमप्राप्तस्य पुरुषार्थस्य संबन्ध आ भुवत् । आभवत् । पुरुषार्थ
साधयित्वित्यर्थः । स एव राये धनार्थमाभवत् । आभवत् । स एव पुरंध्यां योषित्या [?] भुवत्
। यद्वा बहुविधायां बुद्धौ [?] भुवत् । पुरंधिर्बहुधीः । नि. ६-१३ [?] । इति यास्कः । स एव वाजेभिर्देयैरन्नैः ... *gha-sabdo 'vadhāraṇārtho nipātaḥ sarvais tacchadbaiḥ sambadhyate | sa gha sa evendraḥ pūrvamantroktagaṇa-viśiṣṭo no 'smākaṃ yoge pūrvam aprāptasya puruṣārthasya sambandha ā bhuvat | ābhavatu |
puruṣārtham sādhayitvity arthaḥ | sa eva rāye dhanārtham
ābhuvat | ābhavatu | sa eva puraṃdhyām yoṣityā [?] bhuvat |
yadvā bahu-vidhāyām buddhau [?] bhuvat | puraṃdhir
bahudhīḥ | ni. 6-13 [?] | iti yāskaḥ | sa eva vājebhir deyaṛ annaiḥ ... (Reading notes: "yoṣityā" is as printed, and I am not certain of it; the second explanation, "bahuvidhāyām buddhau vā," is printed "buddhā-vā" with a hyphen at the line-break, and*

62. Reading note: the print's Pada text for "yoga" in the Saṃhitā is "yoge" (locative); the Saṃhitā "yoga ā" is its sandhi; and "puraṃdhyām" is divided as "puraṃ-dhyām." In the Saṃhitā the print runs "bhuvat sa" together as "bhuvatsa."

I read it as "buddhau vā" — flagged [?]. The Nirukta reference is read "6-13" from small Kannada numerals and is marked [?].)

Translation (of the part on this page): "The word 'gha' is a particle in the sense of emphasis, and is connected with all the 'sa' (he) words. 'Sa gha' — he, that very Indra, endowed with the qualities stated in the preceding mantra, 'no yoge ā bhuvat' — 'let him come to be' in our 'yoga' — that is, in the acquisition (sambandha) of the human aim not yet attained — that is, 'having accomplished the human aim' (puruṣārtha). He himself — 'rāye' — let him come to be for the sake of wealth. He himself, 'puraṁdhyām' — (let him come to be) in the (matter of the) woman (?) [?]; or: in a manifold understanding [?]. 'Puraṁdhi' means 'one of much understanding' — so Yāska (Nirukta [6-13 ?]). He himself, with 'vājebhiḥ' — with the foods that are to be given ..."^{63, 64}

original p. 162

Rik 5.3: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya concluded; grammar (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥⁶⁵

...वाजेभिर्देयैरन्नैः सह नोऽस्मानागमत् । आगच्छतु ॥ ...vājebhir deyair annaiḥ
saha no 'smān āgamat | āgacchatu ||

Translation:

"...(that very Indra) with the foods that are to be given — together with them, may he come to us, 'āgamat' — let him come."

63. the sentence continues on the next page

64. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. English as printed.

65. concluding the sentence begun on p. 161:

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept):

"Gha" — a particle of the "cādi" class, hence unaccented (चादयोऽनुदात्ताः, Phit-sūtra [number as printed "4?"]); in the saṃhitā the vowel is lengthened by ऋचि तुनुघमक्षुतङ्कुत्रोरुष्याणाम् (पा. ६-३-१३३, as printed) — "tu, nu, gha, maksu, tan, ku, tra, uruṣya" lengthen their vowel in the R̥gveda — "ghā." "Yoge" — "yuj" with "ghañ" (भावे...), "ñit," so first-syllable acute. "Bhuvat" — "bhū" in the benedictive (āśīrlīṅ) in the sense of "bhūyāt," "lañ/luñ"-type Vedic form: आशिषि लिङ्लोटौ (पा. ३-३-१७३) and by लिङ्याशिषि अङ् — in the print: the "liṅ" is replaced by "ap" and "ñit," so no guṇa; the substitute "uv" for "ū" (भूसुवोस्तिङि, पा. ७-३-८८ / अचि श्नुधातुभ्रुवां य्वोरियडुवडौ, पा. ६-४-७७) — "bhuvat." "Rāye" — the case-ending is acute after "rai" (ऊडिदम्पदाद्यणुवैद्युभ्यः, पा. ६-१-१७१). "Puraṃdhyām" — "puraṃdhi" (a woman, or the quality "much understanding") — "puru" + "dhī"; "puraṃ śarīraṃ dhīyate 'syām" — "that in which the body is held" — कर्मण्यधिकरणे च (पा. ३-३-९३), the affix "ki"; "alug" (the non-elision of the "am"-ending) is Vedic (अलुक् छान्दसः); नब्बिषयस्यानिसन्तस्य — "pura" is first-syllable acute, but as a "dāsīgrāmādi" word (दासीभाराद्यित्वात्, पा. ६-२-४२) the first-member's accent is kept. "Gamat" — "gam" in "leṭ" (गमेलेंटि सिप्...): "sip," elision of the "i" of the ending (इतश्च लोपः परस्मैपदेषु, पा. ३-४-९७), बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३) elides "śap," the "aṭ" augment (लेटोऽडाटौ, पा. ३-४-९४) — "agamaḥ"? The print here reads "ñit"... and since "āgama" are unaccented (आगमा अनुदात्ताः) the root-accent alone remains. "Vājebhiḥ" — "vāja" is first-syllable acute as a "vṛṣādi" word. ॥३॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सः घ (sa gha) — that Indra (indeed) | नः (naḥ) — to us | योगे (yoge) — in the matter of obtaining the human aim (puruṣārtha) that we desire, which gives the connection (with it) | आ भुवत् (ā bhuvat) — let him be favourable | सः (saḥ) — that Indra | राये (rāye) — in the matter of giving wealth, too | ⁶⁶ | सः (saḥ) — that Indra | पुरंध्याम् (puraṇdhyām) — in the matter of giving us young women, or in the matter of producing in us right understanding, too | | सः (saḥ) — that Indra | वाजेभिः (vājebhiḥ) — with foods and the like | नः (naḥ) — to our sacrifice | आ गमत् (ā gamat) — let him come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The attainment of the objects we desire, wealth (and lordship), young women (that is, wives, favourable to us), or a timely understanding and knowledge — in order that we may have these things and be happy, that Indra must be favourable to us; that is, it is only by Indra's grace that such desired objects can be obtained. Besides this, may that Indra come to our sacrifice and be the giver of the food (the nourishment) we need.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"May he be to us for the attainment of our objects; may he be to us for the acquirement of riches; may he be to us for the acquisition of young women or manifold knowledge; may he come to us with food." ⁶⁷

original p. 163

Special topics on Rik 5.3: "gha," "yoge," "puraṇdhyām"; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

घ (gha)

66. ā bhuvat — let him be favourable

67. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The long list of Ṛg-vedic references given by the source for Hillebrandt's "puraṇdhi" is in small Kannada numerals and I give it only in the form I could read, marked [?].

— "eva" ("indeed") — used in the sense of emphasis (avadhāraṇa). This word, in many places, is used in the saṃhitā-text with a lengthened final vowel to suit the metre, but in the pada-text it has the short vowel.

योगे (yoge) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "attaining the desired object." Skandasvāmī: "yogaḥ udyogaḥ, utsāhaḥ, alabdha-lābho vā" (योगः उद्योगः, उत्साहः, अलब्धलाभो वा — "'yoga' is effort, enterprise; or the obtaining of what has not been obtained"). He explains it as effort, enterprise, or the attainment of a desired thing not yet obtained.

पुं॒ध्याम् (puraṇdhyām) — The Bhāṣyakāra gives two senses: "young women" (yoṣit) and "understanding" (prajñā). There is a Śruti sentence, "puraṇdhir yoṣety āha" (पुं॒धिर्योषेत्याह — "'puraṇdhi' means 'a woman,' it says," Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa [as printed "tai. brā."]). Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava have explained it as "buddhi, knowledge, prajñā." Hillebrandt has given this word many senses, among them ⁶⁸ "Active, Zealous, fertile, munificent, generous"; and in the R̥ks R. Saṃ. 3-4[?]-5 [?]; 6-4[?]-14 [?]; 6-3[?]-9 [?]; 2-3[?]-6 [?]; 2-4[?]-8 [?]; 10-1[?]-6 [?] [as read; all uncertain] this word is used, he says, in the sense of "Personified as a goddess of abundance and liberality." Western scholars have variously explained this word, according to the context, in the many R̥ks where it occurs; and the Bhāṣyakāra also gives different senses in different places. In their respective contexts these senses will be explained fully.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Gha" — as it belongs to the "cādi" class, चादयोऽनुदात्ताः (Phiṭ-sūtra) makes it unaccented. In the saṃhitā, ऋचि तुनुघमक्षुतङ्कुत्रोरुष्याणाम् (पा. ६-३-१३३) lengthens the vowel — for "tu, nu, gha, maksu, tha [?], ku, tra, uruṣya" the "t" that arises as a Vedic substitute is lengthened — as the print states it. "Yoge" — the word ending in the affix "ghañ" is first-syllable acute because the affix is "ñit" (ज्नित्यादिर्नित्यम्, पा. ६-१-१९७). "Bhuvat" — its sense is "bhūyāt" ("may he be"); the root "bhū sattāyām," with the "āsīrlīṇ" in the Veda replaced by the "liṇ" in the place of "luṇ" — by लिङ्याशिषि... — the affix "ap" is added by the sūtra लिङ्याशिषि [as printed, ङ्गशिष्यञ्: "ñit"] — because the affix is "ñit" it does not take guṇa (क्ङिति च, पा. १-१-५); अचि श्नुधातुभ्रुवां य्वोरियङुवडौ (पा. ६-४-७७) gives "uv" for "ū." ⁶⁹ ⁷⁰

68. English as printed

original p. 164

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.3 concluded (characterized); end of Rik 5.3

⁷¹ ...the augment "yāsuṭ" does not arise in "bhuvat" (the verb is of the "ap"-type, लिङ्याशिषि, as above), and "bhuvat" is unaccented by तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८). "Rāye" — the case-ending is acute because it follows "rai," which stands after ... (ऊडिदम्पदाद्यप्पुम्रैद्युभ्यः, पा. ६-१-१७१).

"Puraṃdhyām" — "puru" = "many-kinded," "dhī" = "understanding"; from the words "puru" and "dhī," by the rule पृषोदरादीनि यथोपदिष्टम् (पा. ६-३-१०९) — "pṛṣodara" and the like, formed as taught, (according to the usage of the learned) — the word "puraṃdhi" is obtained; "ādi" here means "variety." The print notes that, though "puru + dhī" would give "puru + dhī" with the "am" augment and the "ī" shortened by grammar, learned usage has "puraṃdhi," so the word is "established by the rule 'pṛṣodarādīni'." By आद्युदात्तप्रकरणे दिवोदासादीनां छन्दस्युपसंख्यानम् (वा. पा. ६-१-१८९ [?]) — in the Veda, words of the "divodāsa"-class are added to the section of first-syllable-acute words — the accent is first-syllable acute. Alternatively, "puraṃ śārīraṃ dhīyate 'syām" — "that in which the body is placed" — कर्मण्यधिकरणे च (पा. ३-३-९३) — the affix "ki" after a root of the "ghu" class ("dā/dhā") when a word in the objective case is the upapada and the sense is locative: "puraṃ + dhā + ki" = "puraṃdhi"; the "ā" of the root is elided by आतो लोप इटि च (पा. ६-४-६४); the "am" of the case-ending is not elided, by "aluk," which is Vedic (सुपो धातुप्रातिपदिकयोः, पा. २-४-७१, set aside). The word "pura" has first-syllable acute by नञ्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य (Phit-sūtra); but as "puraṃdhi" belongs to the "dāsibhārādi" class, its first member keeps its natural accent: कुरुगार्हपतरिक्तगुर्वसूतजरत्यश्लीलदृढरूपापारेवडवातैतिलकद्रुः पण्यकम्बलो दासीभाराणां च (पा. ६-२-४२) — "these seven compounds, and compounds beginning with 'dāsī-bhāra,' keep the first member's own accent" — so, as a member of the "dāsibhārādi" class, "puraṃdhi" keeps its first member's accent; it is first-syllable acute.

69. The page ends in the middle of the discussion of "yāsuṭ" with this verb: "...by the doctrine of Mādhava's school, किदाशिषि (पा. ३-४-१०४), and by the Vaiyākaraṇa view, यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्च (पा. ३-४-१०३)..." — continued on the next page.

70. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read. It restates the Sanskrit of pp. 161–162 and does not affect the sense.

71. Continuing "bhuvat" from p. 163:

"Gamat" — the root "gam gatau," the "leṭ" (a Vedic mood) with the third-person singular "tip"; बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३) makes "śap" optional ("luk"); इतश्च लोपः परस्मैपदेषु (पा. ३-४-९७) elides the "i" of "tip"; लेटोऽडाटौ (पा. ३-४-९४) gives the augment "aṭ" or "āṭ" to "leṭ," and since they are "p"-marked [the print says "pit"], the augment "aṭ" is added to "gam": "gam + a + t." आगमा अनुदात्ताः (पा. म. ३-१-३-२ [as printed]) — "augments are unaccented" — so the "a" of "aṭ" is unaccented; the accent of the root alone remains. "Vājebhiḥ" — a "vṛṣādi" word, so first-syllable acute (वृषादीनां च, पा. ६-१-२०३). ॥३॥ ⁷²

Sūkta 5, The Fourth Mantra

original p. 165

72. Page header of the next page: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

Rik 5.4: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यस्य संस्थे न वृण्वते हरी समत्सु शत्रवः । तस्मा इन्द्राय गायत ॥४॥

*yasya saṃsthe na vṛṇvate harī samatsu śatravaḥ | tasmā
indrāya gāyata || 4 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁷³

यस्य । सम्स्थे । न । वृण्वते । हरी इति । समत्सु । शत्रवः । तस्मै । इन्द्राय । गायत ॥ ४॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

समत्सु युद्धेषु यस्येन्द्रस्य संस्थे रथे युक्तौ हरी द्वावश्चौ शत्रवो न वृण्वते न संभजन्ते । रथमश्चौ
च दृष्ट्वा पलायन्त इत्यर्थः । तस्मा इन्द्राय तत्संतोषार्थं हे ऋत्विजो गायत स्तुतिं कुरुत । रण इत्यादिषु षट्चत्वारिंशत्सु संग्रामनामसु समत्सु समरण इति पठितम् ॥ *samatsu yuddheṣu yasyendrasya saṃsthe rathe yuktau harī dvāv aśvau śatravo na vṛṇvate na sambhajante | ratham aśvau ca dr̥ṣṭvā palāyanta ity arthaḥ | tasmā indrāya tat-santoṣārthaṃ he rtvijo gāyata stutiṃ kuruta | raṇa ity ādiṣu ṣaṭcatvāriṃśatsu
saṃgrāma-nāmasu samatsu samaraṇa iti paṭhitam ||*

Translation:

"In 'samatsu' — in battles — of that Indra in whose 'saṃsthe' — chariot — the yoked 'harī' — the two horses — the enemies 'na vṛṇvate' — do not 'sambhajante' (do not face, do not withstand); that is, seeing the chariot and the two horses, they flee. To that Indra, for his satisfaction, O priests, 'gāyata' — make praise. Among the forty-six names of battle beginning with 'raṇa,' 'samatsu' and 'samaraṇa' are read."

73. Reading note: the print divides "saṃ-sthe" and "sama-tsu" as shown; the Pada text has "harī iti."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept):

"Saṃsthe" — "sammuk tiṣṭhatīti saṃstho rathaḥ" ("that which stands facing — the chariot"): by आतश्चोपसर्गे (पा. ३-१-१३६) the affix "ka"; the accent of the kṛt-final member is kept (कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम्). "Vṛṇvate" — the "a" of the "u"-affix of the "svādi" class is acute by the affix-accent; सति शिष्टस्वरबलीयस्त्वमन्यत्र विकरणेभ्यः (पा. ६-१-१५८-९ [as printed]) — "when two accents are possible, the remaining (śiṣṭa) accent prevails, except in the case of the vikaraṇa" — the nighāta of तिङ्ङितिङ्ङः does not apply, because of the prohibition of nighāta for a verb in a relative ("yad") clause (यद्वृत्तान्तिव्यम्, पा. ८-१-६६); and, even with the ablative indication, an operation is permitted here with an intervening word (पञ्चमीनिर्देशेऽपि, पा. १-१-६६). "Harī" — "harato 'ratham" ("they carry the chariot") — the two horses; the Uṇādi affix "in" (the print: ...इतीन् प्रत्ययः, उ. सू. ४-१३९ [?], the sūtra text garbled) with "n"-mark, hence first-syllable acute. "Samatsu" — "sam" + "ad" (to eat) with "kvip." "Śatravaḥ" — "śat" is a root taken from the sūtras in the sense of injuring; the Uṇādi "kru" (रुशतिभ्यां कृन्, उ. सू. ४-१०६ [?]), "n"-marked so first-syllable acute. "Tasmai" — the case-ending "smai" is not acute (सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः is barred by न गोश्चन्साववर्णराडङ्कुङ्कृद्भ्यः, पा. ६-१-१८२), so the stem's own accent alone remains.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

समत्सु (samatsu) — in battles | शत्रवः (śatravaḥ) — enemies | यस्य (yasya) — of that (Indra) | संस्थे (saṃsthe) — in the chariot (yoked) | हरी (harī) — the two horses | न वृण्वते (na vṛṇvate) — do not withstand | तस्मै (tasmai) — to such | इन्द्राय (indrāya) — for Indra | गायत (gāyata) — sing with stotras.⁷⁴

Rik 5.4: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

In the battles, the enemies, who do not have the strength to approach the pair of horses yoked to the chariot of that Indra, who has such power — sing, with stotras and the like, to that Indra.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Sing in honour of that Indra whose pair of towny [sic] horses the enemies do not approach in battles."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

In this Ṛk, Indra's power is described indirectly (apratyakṣa). When battle is going on between Indra and his enemies, if those enemies have not the strength even to come near the pair of horses yoked to Indra's chariot, how could they fight with Indra himself? Hence the sense: the enemies flee in terror as soon as they see Indra's chariot.

संस्थे (saṁsthe) — "sammyak tiṣṭhatīti saṁstho rathaḥ" — since the chariot stands firm (and well) in battle and the like, it is called "saṁstha," that is, "chariot." Skandasvāmī has explained "saṁsthe" as "in battle" ("saṅgrāme"). But since in this Ṛk the word "samatsu," which indicates battle, is already a separate word, there is no need to bring in a second sense "battle" for "saṁsthe"; so the sense given by the Bhāṣyakāra — "chariot" — is the one to be accepted.

74. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." English as printed. The list of Ṛg-vedic references after "samatsu" is in small Kannada numerals and I could not read it reliably, so I omit its numbers rather than guess; the printed count is "about eighteen [?] Ṛks."

हरी (harī) — "harato ratham" ("they carry the chariot") — hence "harī" are the horses; the word "hari" is commonly used in the sense of "horse," though for this word the sense "tawny or bay horse" ⁷⁵ — horses of a fawn-yellow colour — should be said. This word is used even in present-day Sanskrit.

समत्सु (samatsu) — The word "samatsu" is read among the forty-six words that signify battle, beginning with "raṇa" (Ni. 2-1[?] — the small digits are unclear). This word is always used in the plural (locative) only, and is found in the Ṛks 1-[?]; ... and so on in eighteen [?] Ṛks ⁷⁶. Skandasvāmī explains this word as follows: "ade bhakṣaṇe | sambhakṣayatsu parasparam yodheṣu mahati yuddhe pravṛtte ity arthaḥ" (अदे भक्षणे । संभक्षयत्सु परस्परं योधेषु महति युद्धे प्रवृत्ते इत्यर्थः — "'ad' is in the sense of eating; the meaning is 'when, in a great battle that has begun, the warriors devour one another'"). That is, since the root "ad" means "to eat," and in a battle warriors fiercely attack and "devour" one another, "samatsu" is explained as "in battles." Western scholars explain this word with "fight, battle, contest, especially battle where confused voices of men, and din of weapons are heard." ⁷⁷

original p. 167

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.4 (characterized)

"Samsthe" — "sammyak tiṣṭhatīti samsthaḥ" — the root "sthā gati-nivṛttau" (to stand) after the prefix "sam"; आतश्चोपसर्गे (पा. ३-१-१३६) — after a root ending in "ā," when a prefix stands as

75. English as printed: "tawny or bay horse"

76. references omitted: unreadable

77. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the Kannada rendering of the Sanskrit of p. 165, with extended argument on the accent of "vṛṇvate." Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.

upapada, the affix "ka" — and आतो लोप इटि च (पा. ६-४-६४) elides the "ā" → "saṁstha"; the accent of the kṛt-final member is kept (कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम्). The locative singular "ñi" → "e": "saṁsthe."

"Vṛṇvate" — "vṛṇ varāṇe" (to choose), "laṭ," ātmanepada, third-person plural "jha" → "ant"; स्वादिभ्यः श्नुः (पा. ३-१-७३) — "śnu" after the roots of the "su"-class (svādi); "vṛ + nu + ante"; आत्मनेपदेष्वनतः (पा. ७-१-५) — "ant" becomes "at" after a non-"a" stem in the ātmanepada → "vṛ + nu + ate"; हुश्नुवोः सार्वधातुके (पा. ६-४-८७) — "y" before a vowel-initial sārvaadhātuka for the "u" of the "hu" class and of "śnu," when a conjunct does not precede the "u" — would apply, but here the stem is a "śnu" stem that follows a conjunct-consonant... the print says that since the "u" comes after the conjunct "rn," यणादेश (the semivowel substitute) takes place only where there is no conjunct before: here there is a "ṛ + n" cluster, so (असंयोगपूर्वस्य) "uv" does not appear; दित आत्मनेपदानां टेरे (पा. ३-४-७९) — the "ṭi" part of an ātmanepada ending of a "ṭit" ("laṭ") becomes "e"; वुग्न— (the print abbreviates a rule: "after a vowel-ending stem, the 'n' of 'ṇ' is ...") → the "n" of "nu" becomes "ṇ" after "ṛ" (रषाभ्यां नो णः समानपदे, पा. ८-४-१) → "vṛṇvate."

The accent of "vṛṇvate." In "vṛṇvate" three accent-sources compete: the root's, the affix "śnu"'s (a "ś"-marked vikaraṇa), and the personal ending's. Following सति शिष्टस्वरबलीयस्त्वमन्यत्र विकरणेभ्यः (पा. ६-१-१५८-९ [as printed "6-1-158-9"]) — "when a remaining accent is available, it prevails, except over the vikaraṇas" — the print explains at length why the "śnu" vikaraṇa's own accent (given by आद्युदात्तश्च, पा. ३-१-३) does not apply as one might expect, and why, by अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् (पा. ६-१-१५८), only the one syllable "ṇ-" (the affix's "a" accent) is acute while the rest of the word is unaccented; the print concludes (against an objector, who cites "aupasargatvam" and the "upasarga + aṇ" example) that the accent of the affix ("ate") is the one that remains, so "vṛṇvate" has its acute on "va." The argument is a long scholastic one, and I give only its conclusion: "vr̥ṇvate" is acute on the affix's "a" (the syllable "va" of "vate"), and the tiṅanta nighāta of तिङ्ङतिङ् does not occur because the verb stands in a relative ("yasya ... ") clause (यद्गुत्तान्तिव्यम्, पा. ८-१-६६).^{78 79}

original pp. 168–169

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.4 concluded (characterized); end of Rik 5.4

p. 168 — the accent of "vr̥ṇvate" (concluded). The page continues the argument of p. 167. The rule आद्युदात्तश्च (पा. ३-१-३) would give the "śnu" vikaraṇa an acute; but अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् (पा. ६-१-१५८) — made to cohere with it by a "vākyaikatā" (single-sentence) reading — leaves only one syllable accented; the maxim सति शिष्टस्वरबलीयस्त्वमन्यत्र विकरणेभ्यः ("in the presence of a remaining accent, that accent prevails, except for the vikaraṇas") is, the print says, a jñāpaka (an indirect proof) from the rule तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६), which makes the sārvaadhātuka affix after "tās" unaccented; and the print adds that this jñāpaka works only if the maxim has the "vācanika" (explicit) force with the words "anyatra vikaraṇebhyaḥ." The consequence is that in "vr̥ṇvate" the vikaraṇa's accent does not displace the affix's. As to the nighāta of तिङ्ङतिङ् (पा. ८-१-२८): in a clause with "yad" (which) the verb is not made unaccented (यद्गुत्तान्तिव्यम्, पा. ८-१-६६); here "vr̥ṇvate" is not immediately after "yasya" (the relative word "yat" is not directly

78. The print's treatment of this accent runs onto the next page.

79. Page headers: p. 168 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 169 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā."

These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, a very technical scholastic argument on the accent of "vr̥ṇvate" followed by the derivation of "harī," "samatsu," "śatravaḥ" and "tasmai." They do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 165–166). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers and the numbers as I read them; the argument on p. 168 is crowded and I give only its drift.

before it); the print explains that the rule of non-adjacency is set aside by पूजनात्पूजितमनुदात्तं (पा. ८-१-६७ [as printed "8-1-6?"]) and by the paribhāṣā पञ्चमीनिर्देशेऽपि नानन्तर्यमिष्यते ("even with an ablative indication, immediate contiguity is not required"), so that यद्वृत्तान्नित्यम् applies even with an intervening word; hence the verb is not unaccented by "tiñ atīnaḥ," and "vṛṇvate" keeps its acute. "Harī" — "harato ratham" ("they carry the chariot") — the two horses: the Uṇādi हृषिसृहिमृहिवृदिवीतिकीर्तिभ्यश्च [as printed, garbled] (उ. सू. ४-१३५ [?]), the affix "in" after "hṛñ haraṇe" (to carry) ...
(continues on p. 169).

p. 169. The roots listed in that Uṇādi-sūtra are "hṛñ," "piṣ," "ṣṇuc" and the rest, and "in" is added; "hṛ + in," then guṇa → "hari"; the dual "au" → "ī" in the Veda; "harī" — end-acute by the affix's accent, "n"-marked so first-syllable acute by the Uṇādi rule (जित्यादिर्नित्यम्). "Samatsu" — after the prefix "sam," the root "ad" (to eat) takes "kvip"; "sam + ad + kvip + su." "Śatravaḥ" — the root "śat" ("śati hiṃsāyām") is a "sautra" root (taken from the sūtras, not read in the dhātupāṭha); the print says that, since the grammarians treat it as established in the sūtras, it must be accepted as authoritative; with the sense "to injure" the affix "kru" (रुशतिभ्यां कृन्, उ. सू. ४-१०१ [as printed "4-1?1"]) → "śatru"; the nominative plural "jas"; the "j" and "s" are "it"-letters; शत्रुः... the "u" takes guṇa before "jas" (जसि च, पा. ७-३-१०९ — "guṇa for a final 'i/ u/ṛ/ḷ' before 'jas'") → "śatro + as" → "śatrav + as" (एचोऽयवायावः) → "śatravaḥ." The root's accent is overridden by the affix's (the affix "kru" is "n"-marked, जित्यादिर्नित्यम्), so the first syllable "śa" is acute and the other syllables unaccented. "Tasmai" — "tan vistāre" (to stretch): the Uṇādi तृजितनियजिभ्यो डित् (उ. सू. १-१३१) gives the affix "ad," "ḍit" — "tan + ad" → elision of the "ṭi" → "tad"; the fourth-case singular "ñe"; त्यदादीनामः (पा. ७-२-१०२) turns the "d" into "a" → "ta + a + e"; अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-९४) → "ta + e" → सर्वनाम्नः स्मै (पा. ७-१-१४) → "tasmai."

80 ||४|| 81

Sūkta 5, The Fifth Mantra

original p. 170

80. The page ends mid-sentence in this derivation, which is continued on the next page.

81. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

Placement note: the heading "Sūkta 5, The Fifth Mantra" above was written before I had read to the foot of p. 169's grammar; the first paragraph below is therefore the last lines of Rik 5.4's grammar, which the print carries onto p. 170, and the Saṃhitā text of Rik 5.5 follows it. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

Rik 5.4 grammar concluded ("tasmai," "indrāya"); Saṃhitā and Pada text of Rik 5.5

Rik 5.4, grammar concluded ("tasmai," "indrāya"). ⁸² "...the 'smai' ending, which replaces 'ne,' is unaccented (अनुदात्तौ सुप्पितौ, पा. ३-१-४), since it stands in the place of an unaccented ending. Although by सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः (पा. ६-१-१६८) the ending after a one-vowel stem would be acute when 'su'-type endings of the seven cases follow — here the stem 'ta' is one-syllabled and the seventh-case plural 'su' is a 'sārvanāmasthāna'-type ending — the sūtra न गोश्चन्साववर्णराडङ्कुङ्कृद्भ्यः (पा. ६-१-१८२) forbids that acute for words ending in 'a,' and so 'smai' is unaccented. The 'a' that arises in place of the consonant 'd' is itself unaccented (a consonant's substitute); the parārūpa 'a' that results is acute, as it takes the place of an acute and an unaccented; so in 'tasmai' the 'ta' is acute and 'smai' unaccented; on separating the words, 'smai' being unaccented after an acute is svarita. In the saṃhitā, before 'indrāya' the 'ai' of 'smai' becomes 'āy' (एचोऽयवायावः), and 'tasmāy' + 'indrāya' by लोपः शाकल्यस्य (पा. ८-३-१९), the 'y' after 'ā' is elided before a vowel; since this elision is 'asiddha' (पूर्वत्रासिद्धम्, पा. ८-२-१), no guṇa-sandhi arises; the 'ā' that arises in place of 'ai' is unaccented by sthānivadbhāva; and, since an acute follows, it is lowered (sannatara)." ॥४॥

Sūkta 5, The Fifth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सुतपाव्ने सुता इमे शुचयो यन्ति वीतये । सोमासो दध्याशिरः ॥५॥

sutapāvne sutā ime śucayo yanti vītaye | somāso dadhyāśiraḥ

||5||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁸³

सुतऽपाव्ने । सुताः । इमे । शुचयः । यन्ति । वीतये । सोमासः । दधिऽआशिरः ॥५॥

original p. 171

Rik 5.5: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इमे सोमासोऽस्मिन्कर्मणि संपादिताः सोमाः सुतपाव्नेऽभिषुतस्य सोमस्य पानकर्त्रे । षष्ठ्यर्थे चतुर्थी । तस्य पातुर्वीतये भक्षणार्थं यन्ति तमेव प्राप्नुवन्ति । कीदृशाः सोमाः । सुता अभिषुताः शुचयो दशापवित्रेण शोधितत्वाच्छुद्धा दध्याशिरः । अवनीयमानं दध्याशीर्दोषघातकं येषां सोमानां ते दध्याशिरः ॥ सुतपाव्ने । सुतं पिबतीति सुतपावा । वनिपः पित्त्वाद्वातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । समासे द्वितीयापूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरं बाधित्वा कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । शुचयः । शुच दीप्तौ । इन्नित्यनुवृत्त्वादिगुपधात्किम् । उ. ४-११९ । इतीन् । कित्त्वान्नल्लघूपधगुणाभावः । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । वीतये । वी गतिप्रजनकान्त्यशनखादनेषु ... मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः । पा. ३-३-९६ । इति क्तिन्नुदात्तः । सोमासः । षुज् अभिषवे । अर्तिस्तुसुहुसृष्टृक्षिक्षुभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन् । उ. १-१३९ । मन् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । आज्जसेरसुक् । पा. ७-१-५० । इत्यसुगागमः । दध्याशिरः । दधाति पुष्पातीति दधि । दुधाज् धारणपोषणयोः । आदृगमहनजनः किकिनौ लिट् च । पा. ३-२-१७९ । इति किन् । लिङ्वद्वावाद्भिर्भावः । कित्त्वादाकारलोपः । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । श्रा पाके... शृ हिंसायाम् । शृणाति हिनस्ति सोमेऽवनीयमानं सत्सोमस्य स्वाभाविकं रसमृजीषत्वप्रयुक्तं नीरसं दोषं वेत्याशीः । क्विप्वा इद्वातोः । पा. ३-२-१७० [?] । इतीत्वं रपरत्वं च । दध्ना शीर्यन्त इति वा । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥ ime somāso 'smin karmaṇi sampāditaḥ somāḥ sutapāvne 'bhiṣutasya somasya pānakartre | ṣaṣṭhy-arthe caturthī | tasya pātur vītaye bhakṣaṇārthaṃ yanti tam eva prāpnuvanti | kīdṛśāḥ somāḥ | sutā abhiṣutāḥ śucayo daśā-pavitreṇa śodhitatvāc chuddhā dadhyāśiraḥ | avanīyamānaṃ dadhyāśīr doṣa-ghātaḥ

yeṣāṃ somānāṃ te dadhyāśiraḥ | | sutapāvne | sutam pibatīti
sutapāvā | vanipah pittvād dhātusvara eva śiṣyate | samāse dvitīyā-pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaram bādhitvā kṛd-uttarapada-*prakṛti-svaratvam | śucayaḥ | śuca dīptau | in nity

 anuvṛttvādi-gupadhāt kit | u. 4-119 | itīn | kittvāl
 laghūpadha-guṇābhāvaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttatvam | vītaye | vī gati-prajana-kānty-aśana-khādaneṣu ... mantrē
 vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ | pā. 3-3-96 | iti ktin
 nudāttaḥ | somāsaḥ | ṣuñ abhiṣave |
 artistusuhusṛdhṛkṣikṣubhāyāvāpadiyakṣinībhyo man | u.
 1-139 | man | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | āj-jaser asuk | pā. 7-1-50 |
 ity asug-āgamaḥ | dadhyāśiraḥ | dadhāti puṣṇātīti dadhi |
 ḍudhāñ dhāraṇa-poṣaṇayoḥ | ādrgamahana-janaḥ kikināu liṭ
 ca | pā. 3-2-171 | iti kin | liḍvad-bhāvād dvirbhāvaḥ | kittvād
 ākāra-lopaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttatvam | śrā pāke ... śṛ
 himṣāyām | śṛṇāti hinasti some 'vanīyamānaṃ sat somasya svābhāvikam rasam rjīṣatva-prayuktaṃ nīrasam doṣam vety āśīḥ | kvip-cvā iddhātoḥ | pā. 3-2-170 [?] | itītvam raparatvam
 ca | dadhnā śīryanta iti vā | bahuvrīthau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | | (Reading notes: the print of the last part — the analysis of "āśīḥ" — is crowded and partly garbled; I give it as I read it, and I mark the sūtra-numbers [?]. Where the print has "kvip-cvā" I read "kvip" followed by a word I cannot make out.)*

Translation (of the sense-part, in full; the grammar in outline):

"'Ime somāsaḥ' — these Soma-juices that have been prepared in this rite — 'sutapāvne' — for the one who drinks the pressed Soma, the drinker of the pressed Soma. (The fourth case is here in the sense of the sixth.) 'Tasya pātur vītaye' — for the eating (consuming) of that drinker — they go, they reach just him. What kind of Soma-juices? 'Sutāḥ' — pressed; 'śucayaḥ' — pure, since they have been purified by the daśā-pavitra; 'dadhyāśiraḥ' — mixed with curds: those Soma-juices whose 'āśīḥ' (admixture), being brought (poured) in, destroys the defects, are
 'dadhyāśiraḥ.'"'

Grammar (characterized, sūtras kept): "Sutapāvne" — "sutaṃ pibatīti sutapāvā": "vanip," "p"-marked (वनिप्), so the root-accent alone remains; in the compound, the accent of the first member (a second-case word) is set aside and the accent of the kṛt-final member is retained. "Śucayaḥ" — "śuca dīptau" (to shine): the Uṇādi affix "in" (उ. सू. ४-११९ [as printed "4-1?9"]), "kit," so no guṇa for the light penultimate; "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. "Vītaye" — "vi" (to go, to bear, to desire, to eat) with "ktin," acute by मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-९६). "Somāsaḥ" — "ṣuñ abhiṣave" with the Uṇādi "man" (आर्तिस्तुसुहुसृक्षुभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन्, उ. सू. १-१३९ [?]), "n"-marked, first-syllable acute; the "asuk" augment in the nominative plural (आज्जसेरसुक्, पा. ७-१-५०). "Dadhyāśiraḥ" — "dadhāti puṣṇātīti dadhi": from "ḍudhāñ dhāraṇapoṣaṇayoḥ" (to hold, to nourish) the affix "kin" (आदृगमहनजनः किकिनौ लिट् च, पा. ३-२-१७१), with the "liṭ"-like doubling; because it is "kit," the root's "ā" is elided; "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; "āśiḥ" — from "śṛ hiṃsāyām" (to injure), "that which destroys the natural defect of the Soma" ...; "bahuvrīhi," so the first member's accent.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सुतः (sutāḥ) — pressed out with stones, the juice drawn out | शुचयः (śucayaḥ) — cleansed with the daśā-pavitra and made pure | दध्याशिरः (dadhyāśiraḥ) — mixed with curds ("dadhi") | इमे सोमासः (ime somāsaḥ) — these Soma-juices | सुतपाव्ने (sutapāvne) — to Indra, who drinks the Soma | वीतये (vītaye) — for the sake of eating, or for drinking | यन्ति (yanti) — go (reach).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

In this sacrifice, these Soma-juices, crushed with stones and filtered through the daśā-pavitra so that they are pure, have been mixed with curds and made ready, fit for drinking. Such Soma-juices go to Indra alone — that is, they are prepared for Indra. May Indra come and drink them.⁸⁴

original p. 172

Rik 5.5: English rendering; Special topics: "dadhyāśiraḥ" and the verses that use it

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"These extracted pure Soma-juices, mixed with (or made harmless by) curds go to Soma drinker (Indra) for his drink."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

Here it is said that the Soma-juices go to Indra and join him; since they are prepared for Indra himself, the sense is that Indra will certainly drink this Soma. Since this Soma-juice is prepared for the pleasure of Indra, it joins Indra and gives him satisfaction.

वीतये (vītaye) — Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava explain this word as "for drinking." Sāyaṇa, in this Rk, as "for eating" (bhakṣaṇārtha); in R. Saṃ. 3-[?] as "for pleasure" (prītyārtha); in R. Saṃ. 6-[?] and in the Vājasaneyasaṃhitā (the Śukla Yajurveda) 1-[?] and 33-[?], as "for satisfaction" (tarpaṇārtha).

सोमासः (somāsaḥ)

— "Somāḥ" is the form in ordinary use; "somāsaḥ" is an archaic usage. Both kinds of plural forms are used in the Ṛgveda.

84. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." English as printed. The verses are in Kannada script and the references in small Kannada numerals; every reference is marked [?]. Glosses are mine, tentative; the source gives none.

दध्याशिरः (dadhyāśiraḥ) — For this word the Bhāṣyakāra says: "avanīyamānaṃ dadhyāśīr doṣa-ghātakam yeṣāṃ somānāṃ te dadhyāśiraḥ" (अवनीयमानं दध्याशीर्दोषघातकं येषां सोमानां ते दध्याशिरः — "those Soma-juices whose 'āśīḥ', the curds poured in, destroys the defects"). That is: since curds are mixed with the Soma-juice in order to remove the defect in the Soma-juice, it is called "dadhyāśiraḥ." It was the custom to mix with the Soma-juice not only curds but also other substances such as milk and barley-meal (the source says "hiṭṭu," meal) and to use them. We have written of this at length in Part 1 of this Ṛgveda Saṃhitā, at p. 676. The word "dadhyāśiraḥ" occurs not only in this Ṛk but in the following other Ṛks — ⁸⁵ ⁸⁶

(१) इमं आयोतमिन्दवः सोमासो दध्याशिरः सुतासो दध्याशिरः । (ऋ. सं. १-१३७-२ [?]) imam āyotam indavaḥ somāso dadhyāśiraḥ sutāso dadhyāśiraḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 1-137-2 [?]) Gloss: "To this (Soma-)drinker come the drops, the Soma-juices mixed with curds, the pressed ones mixed with curds."

(२) सुता इन्द्राय वायवे सोमासो दध्याशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-५१-२ [?]) sutā indrāya vāyave somāso dadhyāśiraḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-51-2 [?]) Gloss: "Pressed for Indra and for Vāyu are the Soma-juices mixed with curds."

(३) इमा इन्द्राय सुन्विरे सोमासो दध्याशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-३५-४ [?]) imā indrāya sunvire somāso dadhyāśiraḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 2-35-4 [?]) (Reading note: the print shows "imu" for the first word; the sense and the verse-form require "imā"/"ime," and I give "imā" with this note rather than silently correct.) Gloss: "These have been pressed for Indra, the Soma-juices mixed with curds."

85. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." References are in small Kannada numerals and all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative.

86. Continuing the list of verses with "dadhyāśiraḥ":

(४) एते पूता विपश्चितः सोमासो दध्याशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-२२-३ [?]) ete pūtā vipāścitaḥ somāso dadhyāśiraḥ || (r. saṃ. 9-22-3 [?]) Gloss:
"These are the purified, the wise Soma-juices mixed with curds."

original p. 173

The "āśir" (admixture) words: gavāśir, yavāśir, sanāśir and others

(५) सुता इन्द्राय वज्रिणे सोमासो दध्याशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-६३-१४ [?]) sutā indrāya vajriṇe somāso dadhyāśiraḥ || (r. saṃ. 9-63-14 [?]) Gloss:
"Pressed for Indra, the wielder of the thunderbolt, are the Soma-juices mixed with curds."

(६) एते पूता विपश्चितः सोमासो दध्याशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-१०७-१७ [?]) ete pūtā vipāścitaḥ somāso dadhyāśiraḥ || (r. saṃ. 9-107-17 [?]) (This line is the same as (4); the print gives it twice with different references, and I record both.)

Apart from the word "dadhyāśiraḥ," Soma-juices mixed with other substances — "gavāśir," "yavāśir" and the like — are named in these Ṛks: ⁸⁷

(१) तीव्राः सोमास आ गह्याशीर्वन्तः सुता इमे ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-२३-१ [?]) tīvrāḥ somāsa ā gahy āśīrvantaḥ sutā ime || (r. saṃ. 1-23-1 [?]) Gloss:
"Come: these pressed Soma-juices are sharp, mixed with their admixtures."

(Note by the source:) Since in this Ṛk the words "āśīrvantaḥ somāsaḥ" are used, it is said, in general, that the Soma-juice has been mixed with some sort of "āśir"-substances — milk, curds and the like.

87. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

References are small Kannada numerals, all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative. The verses were read from an enlarged slice.

(२) शतं वा यः शुचीनां सहस्रं वा समाशिराम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-३०-२ [?]) śataṃ vā yaḥ śucīnāṃ sahasraṃ vā samāśīrām || (r. saṃ. 1-30-2 [?]) Gloss: "Or a hundred of the pure ones, or a thousand of the well-mixed."

(Note:) Here "samāśīrām" says generally that the Soma-juice has been well mixed with "āśīr" substances; no particular substance is named.

(३) सुषुमा यातमद्रिभिर्गोश्रीता मत्सरा इमे सोमासो मत्सरा इमे । आ राजाना दिविस्पृशास्मत्रा गन्तमुप नः । इमे वा मित्रावरुणा गवाशिरः सोमाः शुक्रा गवाशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१३७-१ [?]) suṣumā yātam adribhir gośrītā matsarā ime somāso matsarā ime | ā rājānā diviṣpṛśāsmatrā gantam upa naḥ | ime vām mitrāvaruṇā gavāśīraḥ somāḥ śukrā gavāśīraḥ || (r. saṃ. 1-137-1 [?]) Gloss: "Come to the well-pressed (Soma), pressed with stones, mixed with milk — these gladdening (juices); come to us, O kings, touching the sky; these Soma-juices are for you, Mitra and Varuṇa, mixed with milk, bright, mixed with milk."

(Note:) Here "gośrītāḥ" means "mixed with cows' milk." The word "gavāśīraḥ," at the end of the R̥k, likewise means "Soma mixed with cows' milk."

(४) शुचिरसि पुरुनिष्ठाः क्षीरैर्मध्यत आशीर्तः । दध्ना मन्दिष्ठः शूरस्य ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-२-९ [?]) śucir asi puruniṣṭhāḥ kṣīrair madhyata āśīrtaḥ | dadhnā mandīṣṭhaḥ śūrasya || (r. saṃ. 9-2-9 [?]) (Reading note: the print shows "āśīrtaḥ" and "madhyata"; the second of these I cannot identify with certainty, and I give both as printed.) Gloss: "You are pure, many-formed ... mixed with milk ... most gladdening with curds, of the hero." [tentative; the middle of the verse is not secure]

(Note:) Here it is said that there are two separate substances — milk and curds — mixed (with the Soma): that is, one must understand that there are two kinds of Soma-juice, the one mixed with milk and the one mixed with curds.

(५) सं शुक्रासः शुचयः सं गवाशिरः सोमा इन्द्रममन्दिषुः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-३२-१० [?]) saṃ śukrāsaḥ śucayaḥ saṃ gavāśiraḥ somā indram amandiṣuḥ || (ṛ. saṃ. 9-32-10 [?]) Gloss: "The bright, the pure, the milk-mixed Soma-juices have gladdened Indra."

original p. 174

The "āśir" words (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.5 (opening)

⁸⁸ Here "gavāśir" says plainly that the Soma is mixed with milk.

(६) अथा नियुत्वे उभयस्य नः पिब शुचिं सोमं गवाशिरम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-१०१-१० [?]) athā niyutve ubhayasya naḥ piba śuciṃ somaṃ gavāśiram || (ṛ. saṃ. 8-101-10 [?]) Gloss: "Then, O lord of the team, drink of ours — of both — the pure Soma mixed with milk."

(Note:) Here too "gavāśir" speaks of Soma mixed with milk.

(७) यत्ते सोम गवाशिरो यवाशिरो भजामहे ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१८७-९ [?]) yat te soma gavāśiro yavāśiro bhajāmahe || (ṛ. saṃ. 1-187-9 [?]) Gloss: "What of yours, O Soma, mixed with milk, mixed with barley, we share."

(८) इमामिन्द्र गवाशिरं यवाशिरं च नः पिब । (ऋ. सं. ३-४२-२ [?]) imām indra gavāśiraṃ yavāśiraṃ ca naḥ piba | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-42-2 [?])

(Reading note: the print has "imam indra"; I read it as "imam indra" — "this one, O Indra" — and the sense is not affected.)

Gloss: "This (Soma), O Indra, mixed with milk and mixed with barley, drink of ours."

(Note:) Here both kinds of Soma-juice, "gavāśir" and "yavāśir," are named.

(९) इन्द्रोऽरिन्द्रो यवाशिरः । (ऋ. सं. ८-९२-४ [?]) indor indro yavāśiraḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-92-4 [?]) Gloss: "Indra (drinks) of the barley-mixed Soma-drop." [tentative]

(१०) त्रिकद्रुकेषु महिषो यवाशिरं तुविशुष्मस्तृप्तसोममपिबद्विष्णुना सुतं यथावशत् ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-२२-१ [?]) trikadrūkeṣu mahiṣo yavāśiraṃ tuviśuṣmas tṛpat somam apibad viṣṇunā sutam yathāvaśat || (ṛ. saṃ. 2-22-1 [?]) Gloss: "In the Trikadrukas the mighty one, the very strong, drank with satisfaction the barley-mixed Soma pressed with Viṣṇu, as he wished."

(Note:) Here "yavāśir" is said to be Soma mixed with barley-meal.

(११) अश्वमेधस्य दानाः सोमा इव त्र्याशिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-६८-३ [?]) aśvamedhasya dānāḥ somā iva tryāśiraḥ || (ṛ. saṃ. 8-68-3 [?]) Gloss: "The gifts of Aśvamedha are like Soma-juices, three-fold mixed." [tentative]

(Note:) Here it is said that three kinds of substance — milk, curds and barley — are mixed with the Soma-juice.

(१२) साधोः पिब प्रतिकामं यथा ते रसाशिरः प्रथमं सोमस्य । (ऋ. सं. ३-४८-१ [?]) sādhoḥ piba pratikāmaṃ yathā te rasāśiraḥ prathamam somasya | (ṛ. saṃ. 3-48-1 [?]) Gloss: "Drink the good (Soma) to your liking, as your first (portion) of the Soma that is mixed with its juices." [tentative]

(Note:) Since "rasāśir" is said here, the sense is Soma mixed with either milk or curds.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Sutapāvne" — "sutam pibatīti sutapāvā" ("he who drinks the pressed Soma"): आतो मनिन्क्वनिब्बनिपश्च (पा. ३-२-७४) — after a root ending in "ā" (here "pā"), with a subanta upapada, the affix "vanip," which, being "p"-marked, is unaccented, so the root's accent alone remains on "pā"; in the compound, "sutam" (a second-case word) would keep its natural accent by तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थ... (पा. ६-२-२, as printed "6-2-2"), but this is set aside by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) so that the kṛt-final member's accent is kept. "Śucayah" — "śuca dīptau" (to shine); इगुपधात्कित् (उ.

सू. ४-११९ [as printed "4-1?9"]; the affix "in" continues by anuvṛtti) — the affix "in" after a root with an "ik"-vowel penultimate; "kit," so no guṇa ... ⁸⁹

original p. 175

Rik 5.5 grammar concluded (characterized); Sūkta 5, Sixth Mantra: Saṃhitā and Pada

⁹⁰ "...the lighter penultimate takes no guṇa, because of the "k" mark of the affix; being "n"-marked, the affix gives the first syllable an acute. "Vītaye" — "vī gati-vyāpti-prajana-kānty-asana-khādaneṣu" (to go, to pervade, to produce, to desire, to throw, to eat); मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-९६) gives "ktin" as the affix, acute. "Somāsah" — "ṣuñ abhiṣave"; आर्तिस्तुसुहुसृक्षुभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन् (उ. सू. १-१३९ [?]) "man"; "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; आज्ञसेरसुक् (पा. ७-१-५०) the augment "asuk." "Dadhyāśirah" — "dadhāti puṣṇātīti dadhi" (that which nourishes is curds); आदृगमहनजनः किकिनौ लिट् च (पा. ३-२-१७१) in the Veda the affixes "ki" and "kin" are added, in the manner of "liṭ," to roots ending in "ā," in "r," and to "gam, han, jan" and the like; "kin" is added to "dhā," and as "liṭ" it brings the doubling (लिटि धातोर्नभ्यासस्य, पा. ६-१-८); the reduplicative syllable shortens and "dh" becomes "d"; the final "ā" is elided (आतो लोप इति च, पा. ६-४-६४); "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. "Āśīḥ" — "śṛ himsāyām" (to injure) — "śṛṇāti hinasti": from "śṛ," "that which destroys the Soma's natural, lessened-flavour defect — or the rasa-less defect that arises in the Soma when it is kept ..." — the affix "kvip" (क्विप् ...) and ऋत इद्धातोः (पा. ७-१-१००) gives "ir" for the "ṛ" of a root; उरण् रपरः (पा. १-१-५१) puts "r" after it, so "āśīḥ" (with the prefix "ā") results.

89. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." The varga number on this page is printed as "१०" ("10") — so the tenth varga begins on p. 175 or earlier. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.

90. Concluding the grammar from p. 174:

"Dadhnā" ... "dadhy-eva āśīḥ yeṣām somānām te dadhyāśīraḥ" — in the bahuvrīhi, बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) the first member keeps its natural accent. ॥५॥

Sūkta 5, The Sixth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वं सुतस्य पीतये सद्यो वृद्धो अजायथाः । इन्द्र ज्यैष्ठ्याय सुक्रतो ॥६॥

*tvaṃ sutasya pītaye sadyo vṛddho ajāyathāḥ | indra
jyaiṣṭhyāya sukrato || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁹¹

त्वम् । सुतस्य । पीतये । सद्यः । वृद्धः । अजायथाः । इन्द्र । ज्यैष्ठ्याय । सुक्रतो इति सुऽक्रतो ॥६॥

original p. 176

Rik 5.6: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

सुक्रतो शोभनकर्मन् शोभनप्रज्ञ वा हे इन्द्र त्वं सुतस्याभिषुतस्य सोमस्य पीतये पानार्थं
ज्यैष्ठ्याय देवेषु ज्येष्ठत्वार्थं च सद्यस्तस्मिन्नेव क्षणे वृद्धोऽजायथाः । अभिवृद्धो व्युत्साहेन
युक्तोऽभूः ॥ *sukrato śobhana-karman śobhana-prajña vā he indra tvaṃ sutasyābhiṣutasya somasya pītaye pānārthaṃ jyaiṣṭhyāya deveṣu jyeṣṭhatvārthaṃ ca sadyas tasminn eva kṣaṇe vṛddho 'jāyathāḥ | abhivṛddho vyutsāhena yukto 'bhūḥ
|| (Reading note: the last word of the Bhāṣya is printed "vyutsāhena" in this reading — "with zeal / great effort" — and*

91. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from an enlarged slice; [?] where unclear. English as printed.

I give it as printed; the Kannada gloss and p. 177 read "utsāha" — "enthusiasm" — and the sense, "united with vigour," is the same.)

Translation:

"Sukrato' — O doer of fair deeds, or O one of fair wisdom — O Indra! You, for the drinking ('pītaye') of the pressed Soma, and for 'jyaiṣṭhyāya' — for the sake of seniority among the gods — 'sadyaḥ' — at that very moment — 'vṛddhaḥ ajāyathāḥ' — became grown: you became greatly increased, endowed with vigour."

Grammar (characterized, sūtras kept): "Pītaye" — "pā pāne" (to drink) with "ktin": स्त्रियां क्तिन् (पा. ३-३-९४) — the affix "ktin" in the feminine in the sense of action (the print's "ktin": पा. ३-३-९४, written "3-3-94"); घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि (पा. ६-४-६६) "I"; though the affix is "n"-marked, by Vedic variation the affix's accent is acute — the print attaches to this the remark that the "udātta" of the following sūtra is to be connected here as well. "Sadyaḥ" — सद्यःपरुत्परायैषमः परेद्यव्यद्य... (पा. ५-३-२२) — the form "sadyas" is made by nipātana in the sense "on the same day," with "sa" for "samāna" and the affix "dyas"; accent by the affix: end-acute. "Vṛddhaḥ" — "vṛdhu vṛddhau" (to grow): उदितो वा (पा. ७-२-५६) — after the "ktvā"-affix a root with the "u" marker may or may not take "iṭ" — and निष्ठायां सेटि... the print adds, from पा. ७-२-१५, that "iṭ" is barred in the niṣṭhā after "śvi" and the like; the affix accent is the acute. "Jyaiṣṭhyāya" — "jyeṣṭhasya bhāvo jyaiṣṭhyam": गुणवचनब्राह्मणादिभ्यः कर्मणि च (पा. ५-१-१२४) — the affix "ṣyañ" after words of quality and after "brāhmaṇa" and the like in the sense of state or action; "ñit," so first-syllable acute. ॥६॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) सुक्रतो (he sukrato) — O Indra, who are endowed with excellent — or daring — deeds; or, who have excellent knowledge | इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | त्वम् (tvam) — you | सुतस्य (sutasya) — the

Soma-juice prepared | पीतये (pītaye) — for the sake of drinking | ज्यैष्ठ्याय (jyaiṣṭhyāya) — for the sake of attaining superiority among the gods | सद्यः (sadyaḥ) — at this very moment | वृद्धः (vṛddhaḥ) — one of enthusiastic increase | अजायथाः (ajāyathāḥ) — became.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, who do daring deeds, or are possessed of much knowledge! Not only because you are endowed with exceeding energy, for the sake of drinking this Soma-juice that we have prepared and set out here — but also by drinking this Soma you become greater than all the gods.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"(1) Indra, performer of good deeds or possessor of fine intellect you have grown courageous for the sake of drinking the extracted Soma Juice and (attaining) seniority (among the gods)." ⁹²

original p. 177

Special topics on Rik 5.6: "vṛddhaḥ," "jyaiṣṭhyāya"

वृद्धः (vṛddhaḥ) — For this word the Bhāṣyakāra says "abhivṛddhaḥ utsāhena yuktaḥ" — "greatly increased, endowed with zeal." Skandasvāmī: "parivṛddhaḥ pratibandha-kāpanayana-samarthaḥ, śarīreṇa ca vīryeṇa ca parivṛddhaḥ" (परिवृद्धः प्रतिबन्धकापनयनसमर्थः, शरीरेण च वीर्येण च परिवृद्धः — "increased all round, able to remove obstacles; increased both in body and in strength"); that is, grown large in body and in vigour, from the zeal to remove the obstacles. Veṅkaṭamādhava: "pravṛddha-śarīraḥ" — "one of great body." On this matter these Ṛks may be given as examples:

⁹². Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

References are small Kannada numerals and all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative. The Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa passage is printed in Kannada script and given in three layers.

- (१) अषाळ्हेन शवसा शूशुवांसं सद्यश्चिद्यो वावृधे असामि । (ऋ. सं. ६-१८-२ [?])
aṣāl'hena śavasā śūśuvāṃsaṃ sadyaś cid yo vāvṛdhe asāmi | (ṛ. saṃ. 6-18-2 [?]) Gloss: "(Him) who swelled with unconquered strength, who grew immeasurably at once." [tentative]
- (२) एवा जज्ञानं सहसे असामि वावृधानं राधसे च श्रुताय ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-२८-३ [?]) evā jajñānaṃ saḥase asāmi vāvṛdhānaṃ rādhase ca śrutāya || (ṛ.
 saṃ. 6-28-3 [?]) Gloss: "Thus (they hymn) him who was born for victory, immeasurable, growing for bounty and for fame." [tentative]

In both of these Ṛks it is said that Indra grew up large of form. And as we have explained earlier, in the Ṛk Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-3-1[?], Indra, by the power of his māyā, is able to take on many kinds of forms and shapes, as occasion requires (Ṛ. Saṃ. Part 2, pp. 89–90 [as printed]); here also the same may be understood.

ज्यैष्ठ्याय (jyaiṣṭhyāya) — "Superiority, increase, higher position." That is: in order to attain such a higher position among men and among the gods. But what superiority comes to Indra from drinking Soma? If it is asked whether Indra had no superiority before the drinking of the Soma — Indra had superiority among the gods from the first; by drinking Soma it became more extensive. In that age the drinking of Soma was a matter of increasing superiority. Even now, when we bless a newly married couple, it is customary, in speaking of the groom, to say: "bhartā te somapā nityaṃ bhaved dharma-parāyaṇaḥ" (भर्ता ते सोमपा नित्यं भवेद्धर्मपरायणः — bhartā te somapā nityaṃ bhaved dharma-parāyaṇaḥ — "may your husband always be a Soma-drinker, devoted to dharma").⁹³ In the Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa of the Kṛṣṇa Yajurveda the superiority of Indra is spoken of in another way, as follows:

93. The source gives this blessing in Kannada script without a citation, and I do not add one.

इन्द्रो वा अकामयत । ज्यैष्ठ्यं देवानामभिजयेयमिति । स एतमिन्द्राय ज्यैष्ठ्यै पुरोडाशमेकादशकपालं निरवपन्महव्रीहीणाम् । ततो वै स ज्यैष्ठ्यं देवानामभ्यजयत् । (तै.
 ब्रा. २-१-३ [?]) *indro vā akāmayata | jyaiṣṭhyam devānām abhijayeyam iti | sa etam indrāya jyaiṣṭhyai puroḍāśam ekādaśakapālaṃ niravapan mahāvrihīṇām | tato vai sa
 jyaiṣṭhyam devānām abhyajayat | (tai. brā. 2-1-3 [?])* (Reading note: "indrāya jyaiṣṭhyai" is as printed; the second word is a feminine dative that I give as read, though it looks irregular.) Translation (mine, following the Kannada): "Indra desired:
 'May I win seniority among the gods.' He offered this cake on eleven potsherds, of the large rice (mahāvrihi), to Indra of seniority; thereupon he won seniority among the gods."

That is: Indra, in order to obtain superiority among the gods, offered, with the nakṣatra Jyeṣṭhā in view, a cake on eleven potsherds prepared from rice, and by that obtained superiority over the gods.⁹⁴

original pp. 178–179

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.6 (Kannada) — characterized

"Tvam" — "yuṣmad" — the root "yuṣ" is a "sautra" root (known from usage in the sūtras, not read in the dhātupāṭha); युष्मदस्मिभ्यां मदिक् — as printed "युष्मदस्मिभ्यां मदिक्" (उ. सू. १-१५६ [?]) — the affix
 "madik" comes after "yuṣ" and "as"; in it, "i" and "k" are "it"-letters and "mad" remains: "yuṣ + mad" = "yuṣmad." The first-case

94. Page headers: p. 178 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 179 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "tvam" (the pronoun "yuṣmad") and "sutasya," with long scholastic argument about which case-ending a rule refers to; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 176–177). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers; numbers as I read them from small Kannada numerals, and the long objections and replies are not reproduced.

singular "su" is added; "u" is elided and "s" remains: "yuṣmad + s." The case-endings are then explained: जसः..., प्रथमायोद्धितीययोश्च — as printed, प्रथमायाः द्वितीययोः... (पा. ७-२-८७, "yuṣmad-asmador anādeśe") and the paribhāṣā on the endings "prathamā" and "dviṭiā": a dispute is recorded over whether, in the rule that gives "am" in place of the first-case and second-case endings, the word "prathamā" is to be taken as the first case only or also the second; the answer is that by the rule युष्मदस्मद्भ्यां ङसोऽश् (पा. ७-१-२७) and the ones around it the substitute "am" ... for "jas" and "ñas," the elision of the sixth-case ending "ñas" ... (the print's chain of reasoning is long; I give only the result): the substitute "tva" replaces "yuṣm" and "ma" replaces "asm" before a case-ending, by त्वाहौ सौ (पा. ७-२-९४), and the "su" of the first case singular is replaced so that "tva + ahaṃ" obtains for "tvam"; त्वमावेकवचने (पा. ७-२-९७) gives "tva" and "ma" in the singular; प्रथमायाश्च द्विवचने भाषायाम् (पा. ७-२-८८) and योऽचि (पा. ७-२-८९) are mentioned for the dual/plural; शेषे लोपः (पा. ७-२-९०) — "in the remaining (cases) the final of 'yuṣmad/asmad' is elided" — and अनुदात्तस्य च यत्रोदात्तलोपः (पा. ६-१-१५८ with 6-1-160, as printed) govern the accent: "tvam" results, the accent being that of the stem. The print then compares two views of the sūtra शेषे लोपः: that "śeṣa" means the cases other than those already listed (the first-case "su"-type ending being included or excluded), and records that the Mahābhāṣya treats "śeṣe" as the locative of "śeṣa" ("the remainder") in the sense of a "vibhakti" that is not the cause of the "tva/ma" substitutions; and concludes that in "tvam" the "d" of "tvad" is elided and "am" results: "tva + am" → by अग्नि पूर्वः (पा. ६-१-१०७) "tvam" (with the "a" absorbed). By either view, "tvam" is the form. The accent: the first-syllable "yu" of "yuṣmad" would be acute by the affix "madik"; the substitute "tva" is an unaccented substitute; and by एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः the single substitute is acute, so "tvam" is acute on its first syllable.

"Sutasya" — "ṣuñ abhiṣave" (to press out); निष्ठा (पा. ३-२-१०२) the affix "kta" after a root in the past sense; "k" is an "it"; धात्वादेः षः सः (पा. ६-१-६४) → "suta"; the sixth-case singular "ñas," with टाडसिडसामिनात्स्याः (पा. ७-१-१२) — "ṭā, ñasi, ñas" are replaced by "ina, āt, sya" after a stem ending in "a" — "ñas" → "sya": "sutasya"; "suta" is end-acute by the "kta"-affix's accent; the ending "sya," being unaccented (अनुदात्तौ सुप्तिौ, पा. ३-१-४), ... ⁹⁵. ⁹⁶

original pp. 180–181

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.6 (continued) — characterized

p. 180. - "Sutasya" ⁹⁷ — the substitute "sya" for "ñas" is unaccented by sthānivadbhāva; the unaccented "sya," standing after the acute "ta," becomes svarita by उदात्तादनुदात्तस्य स्वरितः (पा. ८-४-६६). - "Pīṭaye" — "pā pāne" (to drink); स्थागापापचो भावे (पा. ३-३-९५) — after "sthā," "gā," "pā" and "pac" the affix "ktin" in the sense of state (action); घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि (पा. ६-४-६६) substitutes "ī" for the "ā" of the roots that take the "ghu" label (the roots "dā" and "dhā") and "mā, sthā, gā, pā, jahāti, sā," when a consonant-initial "kit/ñit" or ārdhadhātuka affix with "ya"-affix follows — here "ktin" → "pīti." The affix, though "n"-marked, is acute by the Vedic variation; by आद्युदात्तश्च (पा. ३-१-३) the affix is first-syllable acute, or, by the later part of the next sūtra, मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-९६), the word "udāttaḥ" carried over to this sūtra's context — "the affix is acute." The dative singular "ñe" is added; "pīti + ñe" →

95. the page ends here; continued on the next page

96. Page headers: p. 180 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 181 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose for "sutasya" (end), "pīṭaye," "sadyaḥ," "vṛddhaḥ," "ajāyathāḥ," restating the Sanskrit of p. 176; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik. Characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers; numbers as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.

97. end

"pīti + e"; शेषो ध्यसखि (पा. १-४-७) — a word ending in short "i" or "u," not "sakhi," has the label "ghi"; "pīti" has the label "ghi" (since it is not "sakhi"); डेर्यः (पा. ७-३-१११) — for "ñe," after a "ghi"-labelled stem the substitute "y"? — as the print states it: "the guṇa arises for a 'ghi'-labelled stem before a 'ñit' ending"; the "i" of "pīti" takes guṇa → "pīte + e"; एचोऽयवायावः (पा. ६-१-७८) → "pītay + e" → "pītaye." In "pītaye," the ending "e" is unaccented as a "sup," the "ti" is acute (as stated); the "e" that arises in place of "i" is, by sthānivadbhāva, acute; the "ay" substituted for it is also acute; the following unaccented ending "e" becomes svarita; the "ī" of "pī" is unaccented by the "remaining syllables unaccented" rule. So in "pītaye" the first syllable is unaccented, the second acute, the third svarita. - "Sadyaḥ" — "sadyaḥ parut parāry aiṣamaḥ paredyavy adya pūrvedyur anyedyur anyatarādyur itarādyur aparedyur adharedyur ubhayeddyur uttaredyuh" (सद्यः परुत्परायैषमः परेद्यव्यद्य पूर्वद्युरन्येतरेद्युरितरेद्युरपरेद्युरधरेद्युरुभयेद्युरुत्तरेद्युः — पा. ५-३-२२, as I read the string, which the print gives in full) — these words are formed by nipātana in the sense of the days they name; समानस्य सभावो द्यश्चाहनि (as printed, पा. ५-३-२२ वा.) — "sa" for "samāna" and the affix "dyas" when the sense is "day" — "sadyaḥ" (on the same day); end-acute by the affix. - "Vṛddhaḥ" — "vṛdhu vṛddhau" (to grow); "kta" after the root; आर्धधातुकस्येड्वलादेः (पा. ७-२-३५) would give "iṭ" to a consonant-initial ārdhadhātuka ...

p. 181. ...but यस्य विभाषा (पा. ७-२-१५) — "iṭ is not added to the 'kta/ktvā' affix after a root whose own 'iṭ' is optional" — and उदितो वा (पा. ७-२-५६) — after a root with the "u" marker the affix "ktvā" optionally takes "iṭ" — apply; the print explains (at length) that "vṛdhu" is "udit," and that निष्ठा शीङ्स्विदिमिदिक्ष्विदिधृषः (पा. ७-२-१५ and following) bars "iṭ" in the niṣṭhā after certain roots; the result is "vṛdh + ta." Then झषस्तथोर्धोऽधः (पा. ८-२-४०) — after a "jhaṣ" letter, a "t" or "th" of an affix becomes "dh" — gives "vṛdh + dha"; झलां जश् झशि (पा. ८-४-५२) the "dh" of the root becomes "d" → "vṛd-dha" =

"vṛddha"; end-acute by the affix's accent (निष्ठा...). In the saṃhitā, the nominative "su" and "ajāyathāḥ": ससजुषो रुः (पा. ८-२-६६) puts "ru" for the "s," अतो रोरप्लुतादप्लुते (पा. ६-१-११३) turns "ru" into "u" after a short "a" before a short "a," and आद्रुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) yields "o"; एङः पदान्तादति (पा. ६-१-१०९) would absorb the following "a," but प्रकृत्यान्तःपादमव्यपरे (पा. ६-१-११५) keeps the natural form inside the pāda when a short vowel not followed by "y/v" follows; here "ajāyathāḥ" begins with a short "a" not preceded by "y/v," so "o" is retained — "vṛddho ajāyathāḥ" — with no further sandhi. - "Ajāyathāḥ" — "janī prādurbhāve" (to be born); "lañ," ātmanepada, second-person singular "thās"; दिवादिभ्यः श्यन् (पा. ३-१-६९) — "śyan" after a root of the "div"-class; "jan + ya + thās"; ज्ञाजनोर्जा (पा. ७-३-७९) — "jā" for "jñā" and "jan" before an affix beginning with a "ś"-marked ...; लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः (पा. ६-४-७९) the augment "aṭ" (acute) before "lañ"; ससजुषो रुः and visarga: "ajāyathāḥ." The accent of the word: the "aṭ" augment's acute, and the rest unaccented; in the saṃhitā the "o" of the preceding "vṛddho" and the "a" of "ajāyathāḥ" ... ⁹⁸

original p. 182

Rik 5.6 grammar concluded; Sūkta 5, Seventh Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

⁹⁹ "... 'thās' → 'thās' with the 'ru' and visarga of the 's' gives 'ajāyathāḥ.' By तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) the word is made unaccented only when a preceding word that is not a tiñanta stands before it; here, with 'aṭ' acute, the first syllable is acute; in the saṃhitā, since the acute of 'o' stands before it, the 'a' of the 'aṭ' (the first

⁹⁸. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from enlarged slices.

Accent-marks are printed in the text on this page; they are not reproduced here, per the standing convention.

⁹⁹. Concluding "ajāyathāḥ":

syllable of 'ajāyathāḥ') becomes svarita, and the remaining two syllables 'āyathāḥ,' following a svarita, are level (स्वरितात्संहितायामनुदात्तानाम्, पा. १-२-३९).

"Jyaiṣṭhyāya" — "jyeṣṭhasya bhāvaḥ jyaiṣṭhyam": गुणवचनब्राह्मणादिभ्यः कर्मणि च (पा. ५-१-१२४) — the affix "ṣyañ" in the sense of state or action after words of quality and after the "brāhmaṇa"-class words; "ñ"-marked, so first-syllable acute. ॥६॥

Sūkta 5, The Seventh Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ त्वा विशन्त्वाशवः सोमास इन्द्र गिर्वणः । शं ते सन्तु प्रचेतसे ॥७॥

ā tvā viśantv āśavaḥ somāsa indra girvaṇaḥ | śaṃ te santu pracetase || 7 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । त्वा । विशन्तु । आशवः । सोमासः । इन्द्र । गिर्वणः । शम् । ते । सन्तु । प्रचेतसे ॥ ७॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र त्वां सोमासः सोमा आ विशन्तु । आभिमुख्येन प्रविशन्तु । कीदृशाः सोमाः । आशवः सवनत्रयं प्रकृतिविकृत्योर्वा व्याप्तिमन्तः । कीदृश इन्द्र । गिर्वणो गीर्भिः स्तुतिभिः संभजनीयो देवविशेषः । गिर्वणा देवो भवति गीर्भिरेन वनयन्ति । नि. ६-१४ [?] । इति यास्कः । तथाविध हे इन्द्र ते तव प्रचेतसे प्रकृष्टज्ञानाय शं सुखरूपाः सोमाः सन्तु ॥ गिर्वणः । गृणन्तीति गिरः स्तुतयः । ग्रा शब्दे । क्विप्च्वात इद्धातोः । पा. ७-१-१०० । इतीत्वं रपरत्वं च । गीर्भिर्वन्यते सेव्यत इति गिर्वणाः । वन षण संभक्तौ । संभक्तिः सेवा । सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन् । उ. ४-१८८ [?] । इत्यसुन्प्रत्ययः । प्रचेतसे । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥ he indra tvām somāsaḥ somā ā viśantu | ābhimukhyena praviśantu | kīdṛśāḥ somāḥ | āśavaḥ savana-trayaṃ prakṛti-vikṛtyor vā vyāptimantaḥ | kīdṛśa indra | girvaṇo gīrbhiḥ stutibhiḥ sambhajanīyo deva-viśeṣaḥ | girvaṇā devo bhavati gīrbhir enaṃ vanayanti | ni. 6-14 [?] | iti yāskaḥ | tathā-vidha he

*indra te tava pracetase prakṛṣṭa-jñānāya śaṃ sukha-rūpāḥ somāḥ santu || girvaṇaḥ | gr̥ṇantīti giraḥ stutayaḥ | grā
śabde | kvip-cvāta iddhātoḥ | pā. 7-1-100 | itītvaṃ
raparatvaṃ ca | gīrbhir vanyate sevyata iti girvaṇāḥ | vana
ṣaṇa sambhaktau | sambhaktiḥ sevā | sarva-dhātubhyo 'sun |
u. 4-188 [?] | ity asun-pratyayaḥ | pracetase | bahuvrīhau
pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam || (Reading note: the words
"kvip-cvāta iddhātoḥ" are printed as I give them; the sūtra it points to is "ṛta id dhātoḥ" (पा. ७-१-१००), as on p. 175, and I take the printed word as a run-together form of it, flagged. The Nirukta reference is read "6-14" from small Kannada numerals and marked [?].)*

Translation (sense in full; grammar in outline): "O Indra! Let the Soma-juices 'ā viśantu' — enter you, facing you, entering toward you. What kind of Soma-juices? 'Āśavaḥ' — pervading the three pressings, or the archetypal and modified rites. What kind of Indra? 'Girvaṇaḥ' — a particular god to be shared in — served — by 'gīrbhiḥ,' by hymns of praise. [Yāska:] 'A god is "girvaṇas" — they serve him with songs' (Nirukta [6-14 ?]). To such an Indra, 'te' — for you, 'pracetase' — for your eminent understanding — may the Soma-juices be 'śam' — of the form of happiness." ¹⁰⁰ "Girvaṇaḥ" — "gr̥ṇantīti giraḥ" — hymns of praise, from "grā" / "gṛ" (to sound); the "ṛ" of the root becomes "ir" (ऋत इद्वातोः, पा. ७-१-१००) and "r" follows; "gīrbhir vanyate sevyate iti girvaṇāḥ" — "he who is served by songs"; from "vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau" (to share, to serve) the affix "asun" after any root (सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन्, उ. सू. ४-१८८ [?]). "Pracetase" — a bahuvrīhi, which retains the first member's accent. ¹⁰¹

original p. 183

100. Grammar:

101. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

English as printed.

Rik 5.7: Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topic; grammar (opening)

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

गिर्वणः (girvaṇaḥ) — (O Indra) who are praised with words | इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | आशवः (āśavaḥ) — (that pervade — are used also at the three pressings of the sacrifices of the archetype and the modified forms) | सोमासः (somāsaḥ) — Soma-juices | त्वा (tvā) — you | आ विशन्तु (ā viśantu) — let them enter (let them join you) | ¹⁰² ते (te) — to you | प्रचेतसे (pracetase) — in order to give you excellent knowledge | शम् (śam) — as happiness | सन्तु (santu) — be.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, who are praised always with words — hymns! Let the Soma-juices prepared in the sacrifices we perform enter you, and, since you are satisfied by them, may those Soma-juices give you happiness.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O Indra, you are the object of our praises; may these pervading soma juices enter you (thereby) making you happy; may the soma juices help you to attain superior intelligence."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Let the Soma-juices enter you" means: you drink the Soma-juice; therefore the sense is that the Soma-juice entered your stomach.

आशवः (āśavaḥ)

— pervading; specially employed — that is, the Soma-juice-pressing is the chief part of the three pressings of the sacrifice. Since you are made happy in mind by drinking this Soma-juice, the sense is that it increases the intellect and strength of Indra who drinks the Soma.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Ā" — a particle, so first-syllable acute (निपाता आद्युदात्ताः). "Tvā" — from "yuṣ" with युष्मेसिभ्यां मदिक् (as on p. 178) → "yuṣmad"; the second-case singular "am"; जसः... and त्वामौ द्वितीयायाः (पा. ८-१-२३) — "tvā" and "mā" for "tvām" and "mām" ... ¹⁰³

104

original pp. 184–185

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.7 (characterized)

"Tvā" ¹⁰⁵ — the dative-accusative substitutions: for "yuṣmad" and "asmad" followed by the second-case singular "am," the portion up to "m" (the "yuṣm/asm") is replaced by "tva/ma" (त्वमावेकवचने, पा. ७-२-१७); the "d" is replaced by "a" (त्यदादीनामः, पा. ७-२-१०२) → "tva + a + am"; अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-१४) pararūpa → "tvaam"; अकः सवर्णे दीर्घः (पा. ६-१-१०१) → "tvām." The substitute "tvā" for "tvām" — by अनुदात्तं सर्वमपादादौ (पा. ८-१-१८) and त्वामौ द्वितीयायाः (पा. ८-१-२३) — occurs when the word is unaccented and not at the beginning of a pāda; "tvā" is unaccented; in the saṃhitā, after the acute of "ā," it is svarita.

"Viśantu" — "viśa praveśane" (to enter), imperative third-person plural "jhi" → "ant," झोऽन्तः (पा. ७-१-३) "ant" for "jh"; लोटो लङ्वत् (पा. ३-४-८५); the "śa" of the tudādi class (तुदादिभ्यः शः, पा. ३-१-७७) as the

103. continues on p. 184

104. Page headers: p. 184 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 185 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose for "tvā," "viśantu," "āśavaḥ," "girvaṇaḥ," "pracetase." They do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 182–183). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.

105. from p. 183

vikaraṇa → "viś + a + antu"; आमः ... एरुः (पा. ३-४-८६) "u" for the "i" of the imperative ending; the "a" before "ant" is elided → "viśantu"; the "ś"-vikaraṇa being "śit," the sārvaadhātuka is not "p"-marked (सार्वधातुकमपित्, पा. १-२-४), so guṇa is barred (क्विति च, पा. १-१-५); the vikaraṇa "śa" is "ś"-marked, so the accent of the vowel before it is acute — "viśa" has the first syllable acute? — no: the print concludes that by तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८), since "viśantu" follows "tvā," it is wholly unaccented.

"Āśavaḥ" — "aśū vyāptau" (to pervade) with the Uṇādi कृवापाजिमिस्वदिसाध्यशूभ्य उण् (उ. सू. १-१ [as on p. 117]) "uṇ"; "ṇit," so अत उपधायाः (पा. ७-२-११६) gives vṛddhi → "āśu"; "jas": "āśu + as" → एचोऽयवायावः after guṇa (जसि च, पा. ७-३-१०९) → "āśav + as" → "āśavaḥ." The print adds the maxim सति शिष्टस्वरबलीयस्त्वमन्यत्र विकरणेभ्यः to explain why the affix "uṇ" decides the accent: the root's accent and the affix's both apply, and the affix's prevails, so the first syllable "ā" is acute (the root's "a" is unaccented as the substitute of "śū"), and the following syllables, standing after the acute, are unaccented; the "o" arising from guṇa takes the "ā"'s place by sthānivadbhāva and is acute; the case-ending "as" is unaccented; and in the Pada text the final "a" of "āśavaḥ" is svarita after the acute (उदात्तादनुदात्तस्य स्वरितः, पा. ८-४-६६).

"Girvaṇaḥ" — "gr̥ṇantīti giraḥ" ("they sing — hence 'giraḥ,' praises"): "gr̥ śabde," क्विप् → "gir" (ऋत इद्धातोः, पा. ७-१-१००, the "ṛ" becomes "ir"; उरण् रपरः, पा. १-१-५१); "girbhir vanyate sevyate iti girvaṇāḥ" — "that which is served by praises"; "vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau"; सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन् (उ. सू. ४-१८८ [?]) the affix "asun"; the print then argues the "ṇ": by पूर्वपदात्संज्ञायामगः (पा. ८-४-३) — "n" becomes "ṇ" after an earlier word in a name when the first member contains "r, ṣ" (even if separated by 'aṭ/kavarga/pavarga' letters), unless "ga" intervenes — so "girvanas" → "girvaṇas." The print adds that Devarāja-yajvan and others have derived the word differently (from "gir + van," "van" a root in the "ghaṭādi" list meaning "to ask," with the causative "ṇic" and "asun"); and that Yāska gives the etymology "gīrvaṇā devo gīrbhir enaṃ vanayanti" (Nirukta 6-14 [?]), which also agrees with a derivation from the "ṇic"-ending "van"; Skandasvāmī says the same; and Śrīnivāsa says that "ṇic" comes in the sense of the root itself. The accent: the Uṇādi "asun" is "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute; it is the word "gīrvaṇas" with the ṇ of "-vaṇ-" light, and लघावन्ते द्वयोश्च बहुषोगुरुः (a Phiṭ-sūtra, as printed "फि. सू. २-३") would make the heavy syllable acute; since "gīr-" is already heavy, the acute falls on "gīr": first-syllable acute. Since in the Pada the word is a vocative standing after "indra," it loses its accent by आमन्त्रितस्य च (पा. ८-१-१९); and in the saṃhitā the "ā" of "somāsa" is svarita, and the following syllables, all unaccented, become level (स्वरितात्संहितायामनुदात्तानाम्, पा. १-२-३९).

"Pracetase" — a bahuvrīhi, in which, by बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१), the first member keeps its accent. ॥७॥

Sūkta 5, The Eighth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वां स्तोमा अवीवृधन्त्वामुक्था शतक्रतो । त्वां वर्धन्तु नो गिरः ॥८॥

tvāṃ stomā avīvṛdhan tvām ukthā śatakrato | tvāṃ vardhantu no giraḥ || 8 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁰⁶

त्वाम् । स्तोमाः । अवीवृधन् । त्वाम् । उक्था । शतक्रतो इति शतऽक्रतो । त्वाम् । वर्धन्तु । नः । गिरः ॥८॥

original p. 186

106. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.

Rik 5.8: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings (opening)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शतक्रतो बहुकर्मन्बहुप्रज्ञ वेन्द्र त्वां स्तोमाः सामगानां स्तोत्राण्यवीवृधन् । वर्धितवन्ति । तथा
बह्वचानामुक्था शस्त्राणि त्वामवीवृधन् । यस्मात्पूर्वमेवमवासीत्स्मादिदानीमपि नोऽस्माकं गिरः
स्तुतयस्त्वां वर्धन्तु । वर्धयन्तु । अतिवृद्धं कुर्वन्तु ॥ स्तोमाः । मनो नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । अवीवृधन्
। वृधु वृद्धौ । ण्यन्तात् । पा. ३-१-२६ । लुङि चङि । पा. ३-१-४८ । उर्ऋत् । पा. ७-४-७ ।
इति वृधेरुपधाया ऋकारस्य ऋकारविधानानन्तरंगोऽपि गुणो बाध्यते । द्विर्भाव । पा. ६-१-११ । हलादिशेष । पा. ७-४-६० । सन्वद्भाव । पा. ७-४-९३ । इत्वे । पा. ७-४-७९ । दीर्घश्च । पा.
७-४-९४ । अडागमः । पा. ६-४-७१ । उक्था । उक्थानि । पात्रातृदिववचिरिचिसिचिभ्यस्थक्
। उ. २-१२ [?] । इति वचेः स्थक्प्रत्ययः । तस्य कित्वात्संप्रसारणम् । शेषछन्दसि बहुलम् ।
पा. ६-१-७० । इति शिलोपः । नलोपश्च । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः ।

असामर्थ्यादामन्त्रितपरस्यापि न पराङ्गवद्भाव इति नानुदात्तत्वम् । वर्धन्तु ।

अन्तर्भावितण्यर्थाद्व्यभेदवर्त्यर्थेन परस्मैपदम् ॥ *he śatakrato bahukarman bahuprajña vendra tvām stomāḥ sāmāgānām stotrāṇy avīvr̥dhan | vardhitavanti | tathā bahvr̥cānām ukthā śastrāṇi
tvām avīvr̥dhan | yasmāt pūrvam evam avāsīt tasmād idānīm
api no 'smākaṁ girah stutayas tvām vardhantu | vardhayantu
| ativr̥ddham kurvantu || stomāḥ | mano nittvād ādyudāttah
| avīvr̥dhan | vr̥dhu vr̥ddhau | ṇyantāt | pā. 3-1-26 | luṅi caṇi
| pā. 3-1-48 | ur̥ṛt | pā. 7-4-7 | iti vr̥dher upadhāyā ṛkārasya ṛkāra-vidhānānantaram-go 'pi guṇo bādhyate | dvirbhāva |
pā. 6-1-11 | halādi-śeṣa | pā. 7-4-60 | sanvad-bhāva | pā.
7-4-93 | ittve | pā. 7-4-79 | dīrghas ca | pā. 7-4-94 | aḍāgamaḥ
| pā. 6-4-71 | ukthā | ukthāni | pātrā-tr̥diva-vaci-rici-sicibhyas thak | u. 2-12 [?] | iti vaceḥ sthak-pratyayaḥ | tasya kittvāt samprasāraṇam | śeś chandasi bahulam | pā. 6-1-70 |
iti śilopaḥ | nalopas ca | pratyaya-svareṇāntodāttah | asāmarthyād āmantrita-parasyāpi na parāṅgavad-bhāva iti nānudāttatvam | vardhantu | antarbhāvita-ṇyarthād dvyabhed-ṛttyarthena parasmaipadam | | (Reading notes: (i)
"vendra" is the print's run-together "vā indra"; (ii) the clause*

"pā. 3-1-26 ... 7-4-94" is a string of sūtra-numbers as I read them from small Kannada numerals, and the accompanying names are given as printed — some of the labels (e.g., "sanvad-bhāva" for पा. ७-४-९३) are the print's own abbreviations; (iii) the last clause, on "parasmaipada," is partly garbled, and I give it as I read it and mark it for checking.)

Translation (sense in full; grammar in outline): "O 'śatakrato' — O doer of many deeds, O one of much wisdom — O Indra! 'Tvām stomāḥ avīṛdhan' — the stomas, the stotras of the Sāma-singers, made you grow, increased you. And likewise the 'ukthā' — the śāstras, of the Ṛg-chanters (bahvṛca) — made you grow. Because they did so before, therefore now also 'giraḥ' — our hymns of praise — 'tvām vardhantu' — may they make you grow; may they make you exceedingly great." "Stomāḥ" — "stu" with "man," "n"-marked, first-syllable acute. "Avīṛdhan" — "vṛdhu vṛddhau" (to grow) with the causal "ṇic" (पा. ३-१-२६), in the "luṇ" with "caṇ" (पा. ३-१-४८); उर्द्धत् (पा. ७-४-७) — "ṛ" for the penultimate "ṛ" of "vṛdh" in the "caṇ"; the doubling (पा. ६-१-११); the reduplicative syllable's reduction; the "sanvat" treatment (पा. ७-४-९३); "ī" and its lengthening (पा. ७-४-७९, ७-४-९४); the augment "aṭ" (पा. ६-४-७१). "Ukthā" — "ukthāni" — from "vac" with the Uṇādi affix "thak," "kit," so samprasāraṇa → "uktha"; the nominative plural ending "śi" is elided by शेषछन्दसि बहुलम् (पा. ६-१-७०) and the "n" augment is lost → "ukthā"; end-acute by the affix. "Vardhantu" — the verb "vṛdh" with the sense of the causal included, so "parasmaipada."

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ¹⁰⁷

(हे) शतक्रतो (he śatakrato) — O Indra, who do many daring deeds, or who have much wisdom | स्तोमाः (stomāḥ) — (the trivṛt and other) stomas sung by the Udgāṭṛ and other priests, that is, the stotras ... ¹⁰⁸

Rik 5.8: Pada-meanings concluded; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening)

¹⁰⁹ ...that is, the stotras | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | अवीवृधन् (avivṛdhan) — have increased, that is, have praised you by singing your qualities | ¹¹⁰ उक्था (ukthā) — the śastra-mantras recited by the priests of the Hotṛ group | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | ¹¹¹ | (अब) नः (naḥ) — our, that is, those that we are reciting | गिरः (giraḥ) — words in the form of stotras | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | वर्धन्तु (vardhantu) — let them increase (let them praise).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, who do many daring deeds, or are full of much wisdom! The priests such as the Udgātṛ, who sing the Sāman, praise you by singing your qualities with the trivṛt and other stomas; the priests of the Hotṛ group likewise praise you by reciting śastra-mantras. By this your qualities are widely known. Now may the words in the form of stotras that we are reciting increase your praise even more.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"(O Indra) performer of many deeds or one endowed with great wisdom, the chants of stomas have magnified you; (so also) the hymns of sastras have magnified you; (similarly) may our praises magnify you."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

108. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Rgveda-saṃhitā."

English as printed. The Rg-vedic references in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative.

109. Continuing:

110. and

111. have praised

त्वां वर्धन्तु नो गिरः (tvāṃ vardhantu no girah) — Our words in the form of stotras and the like increase your qualities, that is, they are praised. The sense is that we praise you greatly. Such uses of this sentence occur in the R̥gveda in relation to Indra, and also in relation to Agni and other deities, in many places. We give some examples — ^{112 113}

(१) अग्निं वर्धन्तु नो गिरो यतो जायेत उक्थ्यः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ३-१०-६ [?]) agnim vardhantu no giro yato jāyeta ukthyaḥ || (r. saṃ. 3-10-6 [?])

Gloss: "May our songs increase Agni, from whom the praiseworthy one is born." [tentative]

(२) इमा उत्वा पुरुवसो गिरो वर्धन्तु या मम ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-३-४ [?]) imā utvā puruvaso giro vardhantu yā mama || (r. saṃ. 8-3-4 [?])

(Reading note: the print has "utvā" run together; it is "u tvā" ("and you").) Gloss: "May these songs of mine increase you, O lord of much wealth."

(३) प्र वां स्तोमाः सुवृक्तयो गिरो वर्धन्त्वश्विना ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-८-११ [?]) pra vāṃ stomāḥ suvr̥ktayo giro vardhantv aśvinā || (r. saṃ. 8-8-11 [?])

Gloss: "May the well-wrought hymns, the songs, forth increase you two, O Áśvins."

(४) इन्द्रं वर्धन्तु नो गिर इन्द्रं सुतास इन्द्रवः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-१३-१६ [?]) indram vardhantu no gira indram sutāsa indavaḥ || (r. saṃ. 8-13-16 [?]) Gloss: "May our songs increase Indra; Indra (increase) the pressed Soma-drops."

(५) त्रिकद्रुकेषु चेतनं देवासो यज्ञमत्नत । तमिद्वर्धन्तु नो गिरः सदावृधम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-१३-१८ [?]) trikadrūkeṣu cetanaṃ devāso yajñam atnata | tam id vardhantu no girah sadāvṛdham || (r. saṃ. 8-13-18 [?]) Gloss: "In the Trikadrukās the gods stretched out the sacrifice, the thinking one; him may our songs increase, ever-growing."

112. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."

References are small Kannada numerals, all marked [?]; the verses were read from enlarged slices; glosses mine, tentative.

113. Continuing the list of verses with "vardhantu no girah" from p.

187:

(६) त्वामग्ने मनीषिणस्त्वां हिन्वन्ति चित्तिभिः । त्वां वर्धन्तु नो गिरः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-४०-१९ [?]) tvām agne manīṣiṇas tvām hinvanti cittibhiḥ | tvām vardhantu no girah | | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-40-19 [?]) Gloss: "You, O Agni, the wise (increase); you they impel with their thoughts; may our songs increase you."

original p. 188

Special topics on Rik 5.8: the repetition-style ("prāśa") of the Ṛgveda

(७) उत त्वा धीतयो मम गिरो वर्धन्तु विश्वहा ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-६१-११ [?]) uta tvā dhītayo mama giro vardhantu viśvahā | | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-61-11 [?])
Gloss: "And may my thoughts, my songs, increase you every day."
(८) तमिद्वर्धन्तु नो गिरो वत्सं संशश्चतीरिव । य इन्द्रस्य हृदंसनिः ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-६०-१४ [?])
tam id vardhantu no giro vatsaṃ saṃ śasvatīr iva | ya indrasya hṛdaṃsaniḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. 8-60-14 [?]) Gloss: "Him may our songs increase, as constant (cows) a calf — who is the winner of Indra's heart." [tentative] and many other examples may be given.

Every pāda of this Ṛk begins with the word "tvām." Ṛks of this kind — with a stylistic "prāśa" (repetition, alliteration) and "prauḍhārtha" (a pointed, striking meaning) — are found in the Ṛgveda in good number. In the first pāda the sentence is complete with its agent and verb; from there on, in the following sentences, only the principal words, such as "tvām," are repeated; the agent and verb need not be supplied. That a sentence-style of this sort is common in the "prauḍha" (mature) style is not in doubt; such a style gives a certain charm to the sense of the sentence. We give one or two such sentences here as examples: ^{114 115}

प्रातरग्निं प्रातरिन्द्रं हवामहे प्रातर्मित्रावरुणा प्रातरश्विना । प्रातर्भगं पूषणं ब्रह्मणस्पतिं प्रातः सोममुत रुद्रं हुवेमः ॥ (ऋ. सं. २-४१-१ [?]) prātar agniṃ prātar indraṃ havāmahe prātar mitrāvaruṇā prātar aśvinā | prātar bhagaṃ pūṣaṇaṃ brahmaṇaspatiṃ prātaḥ somam uta rudraṃ huvemaḥ || (r. saṃ. 2-41-1 [?]) (Reading note: the print has "prātar" before each name, and I give the verse as I read it; the last word is printed "huvemaḥ" with a "u" form I give as read, and the printed reference "2-41-1" is a doubtful reading of the small numerals.) Gloss: "At dawn we call Agni, at dawn Indra, at dawn Mitra and Varuṇa, at dawn the Aśvins; at dawn Bhaga, Pūṣan, Brahmanaspati; at dawn Soma and Rudra we call."

(The source's note:) Here the word "prātaḥ" is repeated many times.

अहं दां गृणते पूर्वं वस्वहं ब्रह्म कृणवं मह्यं वर्धनम् । अहं भुवं यजमानस्य चोदिताऽयज्वनः
 साक्षि विश्वस्मिन्भरे ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-४९-१ [?]) ahaṃ dāṃ grṇate pūrvyaṃ vasv ahaṃ brahma kṛṇavaṃ mahyaṃ vardhanam | ahaṃ bhuvaṃ yajamānasya coditāyajvanaḥ sākṣi viśvasmin bhare || (r. saṃ. 10-49-1 [?]) (Reading note: I give the verse as printed — "dāṃ" and "vasv" and "bhuvaṃ" are the printed forms; I flag the whole citation, since the first line is crowded in the print.) Gloss (mine; tentative): "I gave to the singer the first wealth; I made the prayer for my own increase; I became the instigator of the sacrificer, and, in every battle, the conqueror of the one who does not sacrifice."

114. Correction note on the reference to the last verse: my first reading of the printed number as "2-3?-1" was a misread of small numerals; the verse is the well-known opening of a "śaṃ no" hymn, and I have given
 "6-73-1" with a [?], because I could not read the printed digits and I am relying on the wording. I record this rather than present the number as read.

115. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose for "stomāḥ," "avīṇḍhan" and its reduplication, restating the Sanskrit of p. 186; it does not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 186–187). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.

(The source's note:) Here the word "ahaṃ" is repeated again and again. Not only this Ṛk but, in this sūkta and in many other sūktas, all the Ṛks are like this.

अग्निः सप्तं वाजम्भरं ददात्यग्निर्वीरं श्रुत्यं कर्मनिष्ठाम् । अग्नी रोदसी वि चरत्समञ्जन्नग्निर्नी वीरकुक्षिं पुरंधिम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. १०-८०-१ [?]) agnihḥ sapṭiṃ vājambharaṃ dadāty agnir vīraṃ śrutyam karmaniṣṭhām | agnī rodasī vi carat samañjann agnir nārīṃ vīrakuṣiṃ puraṃdhim || (r. saṃ. 10-80-1 [?]) (Reading note: the first line is as printed; the printed word "agnī" in line 2 is a dual of "agni," and I give it as read.) Gloss (mine; tentative): "Agni gives the horse that brings the prize; Agni the hero, renowned, steadfast in action; Agni, going through heaven and earth, anointing both; Agni, the woman, hero-wombed, the (goddess) Puraṃdhi."

(The source's note:) In this Ṛk, and in all the other Ṛks of this sūkta, the word "agnihḥ" is repeated at the beginning of every pāda.

शं न इन्द्राग्नी भवतामवोभिः शं न इन्द्रावरुणा रतहव्या । शमिन्द्रासोमा सुविताय शं योः शं न
इन्द्रापूषणा वाजसातौ ॥ (ऋ. सं. ६-७३-१ [?]) *śaṃ na indrāgnī bhavatām avobhiḥ śaṃ na indrāvaruṇā rātahavyā | śaṃ indrāsomā
suvitāya śaṃ yoḥ śaṃ na indrāpūṣaṇā vājasātau* || (r. saṃ.
6-73-1 [?]) Gloss: "May Indra and Agni be a blessing to us with their help; a blessing, Indra and Varuṇa, those who accept the oblation; a blessing, Indra and Soma, for good fortune, healing and wellbeing; a blessing to us, Indra and Pūṣan, in the winning of the prize." (The reference as printed reads
"2-3?-1"; I give "6-73-1" from the verse's wording and mark it
[?].)

(The source's note:) In this Ṛk, and in the other Ṛks of this sūkta, the words "śam" and "śam naḥ" are repeated at the beginning of every pāda. Ṛks of this kind, of the "prāsabaddha" and "prauḍhārtha" style, are numerous in the Ṛgveda.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.8 (characterized)

"Stomāḥ" — after the root "ṣtuñ stutau" (to praise), the Uṇādi आर्तिस्तुसुहुसृक्षिक्षुभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन् (उ. सू. १-१४२ [?]) gives "man"; being "n"-marked, the word is first-syllable acute (जित्यादिर्नित्यम्).

"Avivṛdhan" — "vṛdhu vṛddhau" (to grow), with the causal "ṇic" (हेतुमति च, पा. ३-१-२६); णिश्चिदुसुभ्यः कर्तरि चङ् (पा. ३-१-४८) — "caṇ" for "cli" in the "luṇ," after the roots "śri, dru, sru" and after a "ṇic"-ended root, when the agent is intended: "vṛdh + i + caṇ + jhi"; उर्द्धत् (पा. ७-४-७) — the "ṛ" of the penultimate of the root "vṛdh," before the "caṇ" that follows "ṇi," is replaced by "ṛ" optionally — the print explains that since this sūtra prescribes "ṛ" for a penultimate "ṛ," it is intended to bar the guṇa that पुगन्तलघूपथस्य च (पा. ७-३-८६) would otherwise give to the light penultimate "ṛ" (though that guṇa is "antaraṅga" in relation to the prescribed "ṛ"); so there is no guṇa. Then चङि (पा. ६-१-११) — when "caṇ" follows, the first one-vowel part of the (non-reduplicated) root is doubled; the root being a non-vowel-initial one, the first part with one vowel is doubled: "vṛdh-vṛdh + i"; उरत् (पा. ७-४-६६) — a short "a" substitutes for the "ṛ" of the reduplicative syllable; with उरण् रपरः (पा. १-१-५१) the "ar" results: "var-vṛdh-i + a + jhi"; हलादिः शेषः (पा. ७-४-६०) leaves only the first consonant of the reduplicative syllable: "va-vṛdh-i + a + jhi"; सन्वल्लघुनि चङ्परेऽनगलोपे (पा. ७-४-९३) — when "caṇ" follows a "ṇi" and the stem has a light syllable in the reduplicative part, the reduplicative syllable is treated as if before "san" — "sanvat" — except where the elision of an "aṅga" vowel has taken place; this gives the "i" in the reduplicative syllable: सन्यतः (पा. ७-४-७९) — "a" becomes "i" before "san" → "vi-vṛdh-i"; दीर्घो लघोः (पा. ७-४-९४) lengthens the light reduplicative syllable → "vī-vṛdh-i + a + jhi"; लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः (पा. ६-४-७१) puts the augment "aṭ" before "luṇ" → "a-vīvṛdhi + a + jhi"; झोऽन्तः (पा. ७-१-३) puts "ant"; णेरनिति ... the "ṇi" is elided before "a" → "avīvṛdh + an + t"; the final "t" of "an(t)" is elided (संयोगान्तस्य लोपः, पा. ८-२-२३, and लङः शाकटायनस्यैव...); "avīvṛdhan."^{116 117}

original p. 190

Rik 5.8 grammar concluded (characterized):

"avīvṛdhan," "ukthā," "vardhantu"

¹¹⁸ ...the augment "aṭ" (लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदान्तः, पा. ६-४-७१) is added to these forms. In "avīvṛdh + i + a + jhi" the "ṇic" is elided by णेरनिति (पा. ६-४-५१) because an ārdhadhātuka without "iṭ" follows; the "ṛ" ... by ऋदृशोऽङि गुणः is not applicable here; the "jh" becomes "ant" (झोऽन्तः, पा. ७-१-३), and the "ṛ" (of "jhi"'s "i," the print says) — by इतश्च (पा. ३-४-१००) the final "i" of the ending is elided; by संयोगान्तस्य लोपः (पा. ८-२-२३) the final "t" of the conjunct is elided — and since that elision is "asiddha" (पूर्वत्रासिद्धम्, पा. ८-२-१) with respect to नलोपः प्रातिपदिकान्तस्य (पा. ८-२-७), the "n" is not elided; the result is "avīvṛdhan."

"Ukthā" — "ukthāni," the word meaning "śāstras" — from "vac paribhāṣaṇe" (to speak), the Uṇādi पात्रातृदिववचिरिचिसिचिभ्यस्थक् (उ. सू. २-१२ [as printed "2-1?"]); the print's list is crowded) — the affix "thak" after "vac"; since it is "k"-marked, the root undergoes samprasāraṇa (वचिस्वपियजादीनां किति, पा. ६-१-१५) → "uc + tha" and संप्रसारणाच्च (पा. ६-१-१०८) the pūrvarūpa; चोः कुः (पा. ८-२-३०) turns "c" into "k" → "ukthaa" ... "uktha." As a neuter word, the plural "jas/śas" is replaced by "śi" (जश्शसोः शिः, पा. ७-१-२०) — "śi" is a

¹¹⁶. The page ends mid-sentence in the discussion of the accent, which continues on the next page.

¹¹⁷. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.

¹¹⁸. Continuing "avīvṛdhan" from p. 189:

"sarvanāmasthāna" (शि सर्वनामस्थानम्, पा. १-१-४२), and for a neuter stem नपुंसकस्य झलचः (पा. ७-१-७२) the "num" augment is added to a neuter stem ending in a "jhal" or a vowel — "ukthan-i" — with सर्वनामस्थाने चासंबुद्धौ (पा. ६-४-८) the lengthening, "ukthān-i"; शेषछन्दसि बहुलम् (पा. ६-१-७०) — in the Veda "śi" is variably elided — the "i" goes, and by नलोपः प्रातिपदिकान्तस्य the final "n" is elided too → "ukthā." End-acute by the affix's accent. Though "śatakrato," a vocative, follows "ukthā," the word "ukthā" is connected in sense with "avīrvrdhan," not with "śatakrato," so there is no mutual syntactic connection (asāmarthya); the rule सुबामन्त्रिते पराङ्गवत्स्वरे (पा. २-१-२) does not apply, and so the vocative's grave accent (आमन्त्रितस्य च, पा. ८-१-१९) is not caused. The same reasoning applies to "śatakrato."

"Vardhantu" — "vṛdhu vardhane" (to grow, to increase) is an ātmanepada root; but, with the causal sense ("ṇic") included, the parasmaipada ending is used, by the rule that a root with "ṇic" included in its sense takes the parasmaipada (णिचश्च, पा. १-३-७४ — the print states it as the general principle of "antarbhāvita-ṇyārtha"), so the third-person plural imperative: "vardhantu." ॥८॥

119

original p. 191

Sūkta 5, Ninth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

Sūkta 5, The Ninth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अक्षितोतिः सनेदिमं वाजमिन्द्रः सहस्रिणम् । यस्मिन्विश्वानि पौंस्या ॥९॥

119. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced here, per the standing convention. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.

*akṣitotiḥ sanedimaṃ vājam indraḥ sahasriṇam | yasmin
viśvāni paumṣyā || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹²⁰

अक्षितऽऊतिः । सनेत् । इमम् । वाजम् । इन्द्रः । सहस्रिणम् । यस्मिन् । विश्वानि । पौंस्या ॥ ९॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ¹²¹

इन्द्र इमं वाजं सोमरूपमन्नं सनेत् । संभजेत् । कीदृश इन्द्रः । अक्षितोतिः अहिंसितरक्षणः ।
कदाचिदपि रक्षां न विमुञ्चतीत्यर्थः । कीदृशं वाजम् । सहस्रिणं प्रकृतौ विकृतिषु च
प्रवर्तमानत्वेन सहस्रसंख्यायुक्तम् । यस्मिन्वाजे विश्वानि सर्वाणि पौंस्या पुंस्त्वानि बलानि
वर्तन्ते तादृशं वाजमिति पूर्वत्रान्वयः ॥ *indra imaṃ vājam soma-rūpam annaṃ sanet | sambhajet | kīdṛśa indraḥ | akṣitotiḥ ahiṃsita-rakṣaṇaḥ | kadācid api rakṣāṃ na vimuñcatīty arthaḥ |
kīdṛśaṃ vājam | sahasriṇaṃ prakṛtau vikṛtiṣu ca
pravartamānatvena sahasra-saṃkhyā-yuktam | yasmin vāje viśvāni sarvāni paumṣyā puṃstvāni balāni vartante tādṛśaṃ vājam iti pūrvatrānvayaḥ ||* (Reading note: the first words of this passage were legible; the second half — from "sahasriṇam" on — is read with less certainty because the line is cut at the edge of the slice, and I mark the whole sentence as a careful but not fully verified reading.)

Translation:

"Indraḥ imaṃ vājam sanet" — let Indra share in this 'vāja' — this food in the form of Soma — let him partake of it. What kind of Indra? 'Akṣitotiḥ' — he whose protection is unharmed (unfailing); that is, he never abandons his protection. What kind of 'vāja'? 'Sahasriṇam' — endowed with the number 'thousand,' because it

120. Reading note: the Pada text prints "akṣita-ūtiḥ" as two parts; the Saṃhitā form is the sandhi "akṣitotiḥ." In the Saṃhitā the print runs "sanedimaṃ" (for "sanet imaṃ") together, as I give it.

121. sense-portion at the top; read from the enlarged slice is used both in the archetype and in the modified rites; 'yasmin viśvāni paum̐syā' — in which vāja all manly powers (strengths) abide — such a 'vāja' (is to be construed with what precedes)."

The grammatical discussion of "akṣitotiḥ" (characterized):

The remaining lines of this page are a long scholastic argument on the compound "akṣita-ūti": whether "kṣita" (from "kṣi kṣaye," to decay) with the negative prefix "a-" yields "akṣita" as a bahuvrīhi or a nañ-tatpuruṣa. The argument weighs: निष्ठायां सेटि (पा. ६-४-५२, the "ṇi"-elision); क्षियो दीर्घात् (पा. ८-२-४६), which would lengthen the "i" of "kṣi" before the niṣṭhā "kta" in the sense of the verb's own action (hence "kṣīta"), against नत्वे क्षेण (as printed) — by which, in the "na"-substitution the form "kṣita" does not take the "na" (क्षियः क्षेणः and नञ्सुभ्याम्, पा. ६-२-१७२) — whether the "kta" there is bhāve (in the sense of state) or kartari; क्षयो निवासे [as printed] and the nighaṇṭu-style gloss; and concludes that "akṣita" in this compound is accented by नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) as a bahuvrīhi — a word with an end-acute — "akṣita-ūti" — and the accent of the whole compound is therefore the one the Pada-text shows. The page ends mid-sentence in this argument; it continues on the next page. ^{122 123}

original p. 192

122. I do not transcribe the argument line by line: it is pure accent-theory and does not bear on the sense of the Rik given above.

123. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; the grammar at the top is a continuation of the argument of p. 191 and the Sanskrit of the Bhāṣya on "akṣitotiḥ," "sanet," "vājam," "indrah," "sahasriṇam," "viśvāni," "paum̐syā." It is characterized in outline, with sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.

Rik 5.9: grammar concluded (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha (opening)

¹²⁴ ...the print concludes that in the compound there is no fault — the accent of the nañ-compound's first member being retained by the rule for a bahuvrīhi after "nañ" (नञ्सुभ्याम्, पा. ६-२-१७२), and the "ūti" with its own acute; and in the Uṇādi sense: "kṣi" — क्षि क्षये with "kta" in the sense of "hiṃsā" (क्षिणोतेर्हिंसार्थस्य वा कर्मणि निष्ठा, as printed) — the "kta" is taken in the sense of the object (karman); thus "akṣitā ūtir yasya saḥ" is a bahuvrīhi, and the word is accented as the Pada-text shows, with no fault, as the print says: "na doṣaḥ."

"Sanet" — "vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau" (to share, to serve), of the first (bhvādi) class; the optative or "leṭ" in the Veda — the third-person singular: "sanet." "Vājam" — a "vṛṣādi" word, first-syllable acute (वृषादीनां च, पा. ६-१-२०३). "Indraḥ" — by the Uṇādi "ran" (ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रवज्र...), "n"-marked, first-syllable acute. "Sahasriṇam" — "sahasram asyāsti" ("that which has a thousand"): अत इनिठनौ (पा. ५-२-११५) the affix "ini"; the accent of the affix. "Viśvāni" — "viśva" from "viś" with the Uṇādi क्वन् ... (उ. सू. १-१५० [?]) — "n"-marked, first-syllable acute; the neuter plural "śi." "Paum̐syā" — "puṃsaḥ karmāṇi paum̐syāni" ("a man's deeds are 'paum̐syā')": ब्राह्मणादिभ्यो... — the affix "ṣyañ" after "puṃs" गुणवचनब्राह्मणादिभ्यः कर्मणि च (पा. ५-१-१२४) — "ñ"-marked, so first-syllable acute; the nominative plural neuter "jas/śas" → "śi," and by शेषछन्दसि बहुलम् (पा. ६-१-७०) the "śi" is elided, so "paum̐syā." The print argues at length that "paum̐syā" is formed from "puṃs" in the "karman" sense, and that, though "puṃsaḥ bhāvaḥ" (state) would give "paum̐stva," the Veda has "paum̐syā," as a variation. ॥९॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

124. Concluding the argument on "akṣitotiḥ" from p. 191:

अक्षितोतिः (akṣitotiḥ) — he who always gives protection that does not fail, or he who is the protector of those who do not injure (others) | इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | यस्मिन् (yasmin) — in which (the food in the form of oblation, or in the form of Soma) | विश्वानि (viśvāni) — all | पौंस्या (paum̐syā) — the strengths — manliness | सहस्रिणम् (sahasriṇam) — used in thousands of archetypal and modified sacrifices | इमं वाजम् (imaṃ vājam) — this food (in the form of Soma, or in the form of the oblation) | सनेत् (sanet) — let him accept.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra, whose protection never fails — that is, who always protects those who praise him: there is nothing to doubt in this. Let Indra, then, accept the food, in the forms of Soma, oblation and the like, which we use in sacrifices — offering strength and power — that is, let Indra accept the food that we offer in sacrifices and the like

... ¹²⁵

original p. 193

Rik 5.9: English rendering; Special topics (Skandasvāmī's different reading)

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"May Indra who grants unperishable aid accept this food (in the form of soma) in which exist all manly strength and which we offer in thousands of sacrifices."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

125. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The Sanskrit of Skandasvāmī's commentary is printed in Kannada script and read from an enlarged slice; I give it in three layers.

The intention of this Rk is not plain. The Bhāṣyakāra has taken pains to give a sense that is clear; but Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava have explained this Rk in another way. We give their commentary and the Anuvāda here.

Skandasvāmī's commentary:

अक्षिता अन्येनाहिंसिता अक्षीणा वा ऊतिः पालनं यस्य सोऽक्षितोतिः । सनेत् संभजतु । इमं वाजं संग्रामं इन्द्रः सहस्रिणं योद्धृसहस्रयुक्तम् । अस्मिन् संग्रामेऽस्मद्वृक्षणाय सन्निहितो भवित्वित्यर्थः । यस्मिन् संग्रामे किमुच्यते । (यस्मिन्) विश्वानि सर्वाणि । पौस्या । बलानामैतत् । हस्त्यश्वरथपदात्यलक्षणानि बलानि । अथवा वाज इत्यन्ननाम । इदमस्मदीयं सोमलक्षणमन्नं संभजेत् पिबेत् इन्द्रः स्तुतिसहस्रयुक्तं यस्मिन् बलानि सर्वाणि सामर्थ्यलक्षणानि । वाजः पीतः सर्वसामर्थ्यानि जनयतीत्यर्थः । अथवा यस्मिन् विश्वानि पौस्येति इन्द्रविशेषणम् । यस्मिन्निन्द्रे सर्वाणि बलानि यः सर्वैर्बलैर्बलवान् यो महाबल इत्यर्थः

॥ akṣitā anyenāhiṃsitā akṣīṇā vā ūtiḥ pālanam yasya so 'kṣitotiḥ | sanet sambhajatu | imaṃ vājaṃ saṃgrāmam indraḥ sahasriṇaṃ yoddhṛ-sahasra-yuktam | asmin saṃgrāme 'smad-rakṣaṇāya sannihito bhavitv ity arthaḥ | yasmin saṃgrāme kim ucyate | (yasmin) viśvāni sarvāṇi | pauṃsyā | balānām aitat | hasty-aśva-ratha-padāti-lakṣaṇāni balāni | athavā vāja ity anna-nāma | idam asmadīyaṃ soma-lakṣaṇam annaṃ sambhajet pibet indraḥ stuti-sahasra-yuktaṃ yasmin balāni sarvāṇi sāmārthya-lakṣaṇāni | vājaḥ pītaḥ sarva-sāmārthyāni janayatīty arthaḥ | athavā yasmin viśvāni pauṃsyeti indra-viśeṣaṇam | yasminn indre sarvāṇi balāni yaḥ sarvair balair balavān yo mahābala ity arthaḥ || (Reading notes: "sambhajatu" for "sambhajet" at the start of the second clause, and the abbreviated "pauṃsyā ... aitat" are as printed; I give the passage as read, and the occasional unusual form is the print's.)

Translation:

"Akṣitotiḥ" — he whose 'ūti' (protection, guarding) is 'akṣitā' — unharmed by any other, or not diminished — 'akṣitotiḥ.' 'Sanet' — let him share (partake). 'Imaṃ vājam' — this 'vāja,' this battle; 'Indra, sahasraṇam' — endowed with a thousand warriors; the sense is 'may he be present at this battle for our protection.' In which battle? What is said (of it)? 'Viśvāni' — all; 'pauṃsyā' — this is a name for strengths: the strengths in the form of elephants, horses, chariots and foot-soldiers. Or else 'vāja' is a name for food: 'let Indra partake of — drink — this our food, in the form of Soma, endowed with a thousand praises, in which all strengths in the form of capacity are found; "vāja," when drunk, produces all capacities' — such is the sense. Or else 'yasmin viśvāni pauṃsyā' is a qualifier of Indra: 'in which Indra all strengths abide; who is powerful with all strengths; who is of great strength' — such is the sense."

Anuvāda (Kannada, translated):

The protection that Indra gives is not destroyed after a certain time; it is always there. May such an Indra, who gives protection, come, for our protection, to this battlefield, which is full of thousands of warriors. In this battlefield there is the fourfold army of elephants, horses, chariots and foot-soldiers. Let him come to such a battlefield and help us; or, let that Indra — that is, the one of all-pervading strength, the very strong one — accept this food in the form of Soma that is endowed with thousands of praises and that gives capacity to those who drink it, and may he always protect us without fail.

अक्षितोतिः (akṣitotiḥ) — "ahiṃsita-rakṣaṇaḥ, kadācid api rakṣāṃ na vimuñcatīty arthaḥ" (अहिंसितरक्षणः कदाचिदपि रक्षां न विमुञ्चतीत्यर्थः — "he whose protection is unharmed; the sense is that he never gives up protecting"): one who never leaves off the protection of those who praise him. The protection he gives is not diminished — such is the sense. ^{126 127}

Special topics on Rik 5.9: "akṣitotiḥ," "vājam," "sahasriṇam," "paum̐syā"; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā
(opening)

अक्षितोतिः (akṣitotiḥ)

— This word occurs in the Ṛgveda, besides in this Ṛk, only in the following Ṛks; it is not used in other mantras —

आर्चत्रयो मघवा नृभ्य उक्थैर्यक्षो राजा गिरामक्षितोतिः । ārcatrayo maghavā nṛbhya ukthair dyakṣo rājā girām akṣitotiḥ | (Reading note: the print's first word reads "ārcatro" or "ārcatrayo," a form I cannot make out with certainty; I give "ārcatrayo" and flag the whole line [?], and give no gloss.) (ऋ. सं. ६-२६-१ [?])

जनीयन्तो जनिदामक्षितोति मा चाव्ययोमोऽवते न कोशम् । janīyanto janidām akṣitotim ā cāvyaḥ mo 'vate na kośam | (Reading note: the print is "janīyanto janidām akṣitotimā cāvyaḥmo 'vate na kośam"; I give it as read, flagged [?], no gloss.) (ऋ. सं. ९-१०२-८ [?])

सत्राजितो धनसा अक्षितोतयो वाजयन्तो रथा इव ॥ satrājito dhanasā akṣitotayo vājayanto rathā iva || Gloss: "The ever-victorious, winners of wealth, of unfailing aid, speeding like chariots." [tentative] (ऋ. सं. ९-१०-? [?])

वाजम् (vājam)

— food; or battle (war).

सहस्रिणम् (sahasriṇam)

126. The page continues with the next word on p. 194.

127. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." The verses were read from an enlarged slice; the references are small Kannada numerals and all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative.

— This word is a qualifier of "vāja." When "vāja" is taken in the sense of food, "sahasraṇam" means "that which is offered in thousands of sacrifices, or which is praised with thousands of stotras." When "vāja" is taken in the sense of war, "sahasraṇam" must be said to mean "a war with thousands of warriors."

यस्मिन् विश्वानि पौस्या (yasmin viśvāni paṁsyā)

— "(that) in which there is all strength and capacity." If "vāja" is taken in the sense of food, the word "paṁsyā" can be given such senses as strength, capacity, power, nourishment, enthusiasm; when "vāja" is taken as "war," senses such as the strength of elephants, horses and the like, or "manliness" (pauruṣeya), valour, fortitude. As Skandasvāmī says, the word "paṁsyā" may be taken as a qualifier of Indra — "the one who is endowed with all power, the very strong one."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Akṣitotiḥ" — "kṣi kṣaye" (to decay) is an intransitive root; therefore the affix "kta" is not added in the sense of the object (karman); it must be added in the sense of the agent or the locus, or in the sense of the state (bhāva). If one says that "kta" is added in the sense of the agent or the locus: in "kṣi + ta" the niṣṭhā rule निष्ठायामण्यदर्थे (पा. ६-४-६०) [as printed "...अण्यदर्थे"] — the "kta" and "ktavatu" affixes, when they are not in the sense of "ṇyat"-type, bring the lengthening of "kṣi"; so "kṣī"; and क्षियो दीर्घात् (पा. ८-२-४६) — after the lengthened root "kṣi" the "t" of "kta/ktavatu" becomes "n" — gives "kṣī + na"; दम्प्राजनुम्व्यनायेऽपि [as printed: "...ण्वेः"] (पा. ८-४-२), the "n" becomes "ṇ" → "kṣīṇa." In a compound with "nañ," "akṣīṇa" would result, and "akṣitam" would not be obtained. ^{128 129}

original p. 195

128. The page runs on into p. 195.

129. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, characterized in outline, sūtras kept; numbers as read.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.9 (characterized): "akṣitotiḥ" and "sanet"

¹³⁰ ... "akṣīṇa" would be obtained, and not "akṣita." Then, नपुंसकेभावे क्तः (पा. ३-३-११४) — in the neuter, the affix "kta" in the sense of state (bhāva) is added after a root denoting "kāla-sāmānya" (the general sense of time); in this view the sense of the affix is state, and with अण्यदर्थे (पा. ६-४-६०) there is a prohibition on the lengthening, so the "ī" lengthening of क्षियो दीर्घात् (पा. ८-२-४६) does not arise and the "t" does not become "n"; the form is "kṣita." Yet, since "kṣita" has no connection in sense with "ūti" as a word in a "nañ"-tatpuruṣa, it is not possible to make a tatpuruṣa; one makes a bahuvrīhi — "na kṣitā ūtiḥ yasya saḥ." In a bahuvrīhi with "nañ," by नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) the second member is end-acute. Then, joining "akṣita" with "ūti" as a bahuvrīhi, बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) — the first member's own accent — would apply and stop it; so that, instead of the wished-for first-syllable acute, the print says, the accent does not come out; and in this view "akṣita" is not formed in the sense of the agent or locus, while in the sense of the state the accent is first-syllable acute but only if the "vivakṣā" (intention) is of that sort. In the sense "karman," the root being intransitive, the affix "kta" cannot be added; so for this reason the root "kṣi" is taken with the "ṇic" sense included — "antarbhāvita-ṇyārtha" — "kṣayati": "kṣāyayati" ("he causes to decay"); this is transitive, so "kta" in the "karman" sense is added; and अण्यदर्थे blocks the lengthening and so "nattva"; "na kṣitā — akṣitā" — "akṣayitā" (that which does not decay); by तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थ... (पा. ६-२-२) the accent of the first member of an "avyaya"-prefixed compound is retained, so "nañ" is acute; when "ūti" is joined, बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) stops there; so the form is accomplished and the intended accent obtained, and there is no fault. Or: from "kṣi" as "ṣṇiñ" "ṣvādi" root (रक्षि चिरि जिरि दाश दृ जघांसायाम्, as printed, from the dhātupāṭha's "himsā" list), "kta" in the sense of the object: "he whose protection (ūti) is unharmed." In this view no lengthening comes. The accent of the whole is thus first-syllable acute, as "nañ" obtains by अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम्; and the forms and accents are accomplished.

"Sanet" — "vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau": धात्वादेः षः सः (पा. ६-१-६४) — the initial "ṣ" of "ṣaṇa" becomes "s"; निमित्तापाये नैमित्तिकस्याप्यपायः — when the cause is removed the dependent operation ceases, so the "ṇa" substitution of the root (the "ṇ" came from the initial "ṣ") is reversed: "sana." The root "sana" is read in the "bhvādi" class. After it the "vidhi-liṇ" (optative): विधिनिमन्त्रणामन्त्रणाधीष्टसंप्रश्नप्रार्थनेषु लिङ् (पा. ३-३-१६१) — "liṇ" in prescription; the third-person singular "tip"; यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्च (पा. ३-४-१०३) — the augment "yāsuṭ"; सुट् तिथोः (पा. ३-४-१०७) — "suṭ" is the augment of "ti/thas" in "liṇ" ... ¹³¹

original pp. 196–197

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.9 concluded (characterized); Sūkta 5, Tenth Mantra: Saṃhitā

p. 196. - "Sanet" ¹³² — after "yāsuṭ" and "suṭ," "śap" (कर्तरि शप्, पा. ३-१-६८) comes after the root; लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य (पा. ७-२-७९) elides both "s"-letters; आतो ङितः / आतो येयः (पा. ७-२-८०) puts "iy" for "yā"; आद्गुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) gives guṇa; लोपो व्योर्वलि (पा. ६-१-६६) elides the "y"; इतश्च (पा. ३-४-१००) the "i" of "tip" is elided → "sanet." Since this is in the "vr̥ṣādi" list, वृषादीनां च (पा. ६-१-२०३) gives first-syllable acute. - "Indrah" — "idi paramaiśvare" (to rule): इदितो नुम् धातोः (पा. ७-१-५८)

131. Page headers: p. 196 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 197 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose. They do not bear on the sense of Rik 5.9 (pp. 191–193). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain. Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā text are not reproduced.

132. concluded

the "num" augment; the Uṇādi ऋज्रेन्द्राग्र... (उ. सू. २-२८) the affix "ran"; "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. - "Sahasriṇam" — "sahasram asyāsti"; अत इनिठनौ (पा. ५-२-११५) "ini"; the second-case singular "am"; अट्कुप्वाङ्नुम्वयायेऽपि (पा. ८-४-२) turns the "n" into "ṇ"; the accent is the affix's. - "Viśvāni" — "viś" with the Uṇādi अशुप्रुषिलटिकणिखटिविशिभ्यः क्वन् (उ. सू. १-१५१ [?]) the affix "kvan"; "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. - "Paum̐syā" — "pum̐si karmāṇi" (a man's deeds), by गुणवचनब्राह्मणादिभ्यः कर्मणि च (पा. ५-१-१२४) "ṣyañ" is added after words of quality and "brāhmaṇa"-class words, whether in the sense of state or of action; since the "brāhmaṇādi" list is an open-ended group ("ākṛtigaṇa"), the affix is added after "pum̐s" too; "ñ"-marked, so the affix gives first-syllable acute; with "pum̐s + ya," तद्धितेऽप्यचामादेः (पा. ७-२-११७) the vṛddhi of the first vowel before a "ñit/ṇit" taddhita → "pum̐s + ya"; in the neuter plural सुपां सुलुक्... the "ḍā" substitute → "paum̐syā." The print then raises the objection that स्त्रीपुंसाभ्यां नञ्सनजौ भवनात् (पा. ४-१-८७, as printed "4-1-8?") would prescribe "snañ" after "strī" and "pum̐s" in the sense of "bhavana" (the place where something grows); the print notes the sūtra is "bhavanād" (up to the word "bhavana" in the sūtra धान्यानां भवने क्षेत्रे खञ्, पा. ५-२-१) and so applies only to the senses between the sūtras; a related objection concerning तस्यापत्यम् (पा. ४-१-९२) and तत आगतः (पा. ४-३-७४) is set aside.

p. 197. The page continues the argument: whether "snañ" (स्त्रीपुंसाभ्यां नञ्सनजौ भवनात्) would apply to "pum̐s" in the sense of "action of a man" (पुंसः कर्म), which would give "paum̐sna" (a form the print writes as "paum̐snāni"); the answer is the sūtra आ च त्वात् (पा. ५-१-११९) — "as far as 'tva' (the affix 'tva/tal') — and its continuation तस्य भावस्त्वतलौ (पा. ५-१-११९), with the paribhāṣā that the general sūtra ब्राह्मणादिभ्यः... bars the "snañ"; the print concludes that the "ṣyañ" affix, laid down by गुणवचनब्राह्मणादिभ्यः कर्मणि च, is applied after "pum̐s" and prevents "snañ," so the form is

"paum̐sya" and the plural "paum̐syāni"; and for the plural "śi" substitute, the Veda's variable elision gives "paum̐syā": the form is correct. ॥९॥

Sūkta 5, The Tenth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹³³ ¹³⁴

मा नो मर्ता अभि द्रुहन्तनूनामिन्द्र गिर्वणः । ईशानो यवया वधम् ॥१०॥

*mā no martā abhi druhan tanūnām indra girvaṇaḥ | īśāno
yavayā vadham | | 10 | |*

original p. 198

Rik 5.10: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings (opening)

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मा । नः । मर्ताः । अभि । द्रुहन् । तनूनाम् । इन्द्र । गिर्वणः । ईशानः । यवय । वधम् ॥१०॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे गिर्वण इन्द्र मर्ता विरोधिना मनुष्या नोऽस्मदीयानां तनूनां शरीराणां माभि द्रुहन् । अभितो
द्रोहं मा कुर्युः । ईशानः समर्थस्त्वं वधं वैरिभिः संपाद्यमानं यवय । अस्मत्तः पृथक्कुरु । मनुष्या इत्यादिषु पञ्चविंशतिसंख्याकेषु मनुष्यनामसु मर्ता व्रातेति पठितम् ॥ *he girvaṇa indra martā virodhino manuṣyā no 'smadīyānām tanūnām śarīrāṇām mābhi druhan | abhito droham mā kuryuḥ | īśānaḥ samarthas tvaṃ vadhaṃ vairibhiḥ sampādyamānaṃ yavaya |
asmattaḥ prthak kuru | manuṣyā ity ādiṣu pañcaviṃśatisaṃkhyākeṣu manuṣya-nāmasu martā vrātetī paṭhitam | |*
(Reading note: the print has "martā" both for the plural

133. Reading note: the Saṃhitā is printed "druhantanūnām" as one run (for "druhan tanūnām"); I give it with the word-break, since the Pada text below shows "druhan | tanūnām."

134. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.

"martāḥ" in the Rik and in the list of men's names; I give it as printed. The Pada text above has "martāḥ," and the Bhāṣya's "martā" is the printed sandhi-free form — I note the difference without altering it.)

Translation:

"O 'girvaṇaḥ' Indra! Let not 'martāḥ' — hostile men — 'abhi druhan' — do harm ('droha') on every side to 'naḥ tanūnām' — to our bodies. 'Īśānaḥ' — you, who are able — 'vadham' — the slaughter that is being worked by enemies — 'yavaya' — keep away; separate (it) from us. Among the twenty-five names of men beginning with 'manuṣyāḥ,' 'martāḥ' and 'vrātāḥ' are read."

Grammar (characterized, sūtras kept): "Martāḥ" — "mṛ prāṇatyāge" (to die): the Uṇādi आसिहसिमृग्रामिदमिलूपूधूर्विभ्यस्तन् (उ. सू. ३-८८ [?]) the affix "tan"; "n"-marked, first-syllable acute. "Abhi" — a prefix, with the rule that the "eva"-class (एवादीनामन्तः, Phiṭ-sūtra [number as printed "४-१४"]) are end-acute. "Druhan" — "druha jighāṃsāyām" (to wish to injure): the "leṭ" in the sense of the "liṇ" (लिङर्थे लेट्, पा. ३-४-७) and, in the sense of prayer (प्रार्थनायाम्, पा. ३-३-१६१); the third-person plural "jhi" → "ant" (झोऽन्तः, पा. ७-१-३); इतश्च लोपः परस्मैपदेषु (पा. ३-४-१७) the "i" of the ending elided; the "śap" is elided by "luk" (बहुलं छन्दसि); the sārvaadhātuka is "ñit" (सार्वधातुकमपित्, पा. १-२-४), so there is no guṇa for the light penultimate (क्ङिति च, पा. १-१-५); डित्यादिप्र.... "Tanūnām" — as it has no mutual connection, "parāṅgavadbhāva" does not occur. "Indra girvaṇaḥ" — (vocatives) "gataṃ" (the accent has gone, i.e., they are unaccented). "Īśānaḥ" — धातोरनुदात्तेत्वात् — with the root "īśa" unaccented in its upadeśa, "śānac" brings no accent of its own; the "lasārvaadhātuka" being unaccented, the root-accent remains. "Yavaya" — "yu" (to mix, to separate) in the causal: यौतेर्णिचि संज्ञापूर्वको विधिरनित्य इति वृद्धिर्न क्रियते — in "ṇic" after "yu," since an operation laid down in a "saṃjñā"-context is not constant, vṛddhi is not done; or: "yavam karotīti yavayati" (he makes barley) — पचायच् (पा. ३-१-१३४) ...; "tat karoti" (तत्करोति तदाचष्टे, पा. ३-१-२६, ३-१-२६ वा. ६) the affix "ṇic"; इष्टवद्भावाट्टिलोपः (पा. ६-४-१५५ वा. १) the "ṭi" part elided by "iṣṭhavat"; "sthānivadbhāva" prevents the doubling. "Vadham" — "hanaś ca vadhaḥ" (हनश्च वधः, पा. ३-३-७६) "vadha" is the substitute for "han" with "ap" in the sense of state; "ap" being "p"-marked, the root-accent remains; "tat-sanniyoga," by sthānivadbhāva, the substitute "vadha" is end-acute, and since the "ap" affix's acute drops out, the end acute is retained. ॥१०॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

गिर्वणः (girvaṇaḥ) — O one who is praised by words | (हे) इन्द्र (he indra) — O Indra | मर्तः (martāḥ) — (our enemies) men | नः (naḥ) — our | तनूनाम् (tanūnām) — to bodies | मा अभि द्रुहन् (mā abhi druhan) — may they not do harm | ईशानः (īśānaḥ) — you, who are all-powerful (or, master) | वधम् (vadham) — (the harm that may come to us from enemies) hindrance | यवय (yavaya) — ward off. ¹³⁵

original p. 199

Rik 5.10: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, who are praised by us in words! Let not the men who are hostile to us do harm to our bodies, that is, let them not injure us. Since you, being our master, are all-powerful, ward off from our bodies the harm that may come from enemies.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

¹³⁵. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The reference for the verse below is in small Kannada numerals and marked [?]; the verse was read from an enlarged slice; the gloss is mine, tentative.

"O Indra, adorable by praises, let not mortals do injury to our persons; you are powerful, keep away our destruction (by enemies)."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

मर्तः (martāḥ)

— Among the twenty-five words that signify human beings, beginning with "manuṣyāḥ," the word "martāḥ" is read (Ni. 2-[?]-[?]). Here, since it is desired that men who might do harm to our bodies not do so, "martāḥ" is to be understood as "men who are hostile to us." Although no word indicating "hostile" is found in the Ṛk in hand, because the word "druhan" ("may they injure") is used, it is fitting that the Bhāṣyakāra explained "martāḥ" as "hostile men."

यवय (yavaya)

— in the saṃhitā-text it is "yavayā," with the final syllable lengthened to suit the metre.

वधम् (vadham)

— death, destruction, harm. The commentators on the meaning of the Veda explain "vadha" as Indra's "vajra" (thunderbolt-weapon); the Bhāṣyakāra also does so, in the Ṛk —

आर्चन्नत्र मरुतः सस्मिन्नाजौ विश्वे देवासो अमदन्ननु त्वा । वृत्रस्य यद्गृष्टिमता वधेन नि
त्वमिन्द्र प्रत्यानं जघन्थ ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-५१-? [?]) ārcann atra marutaḥ
sasminn ājau viśve devāso amadann anu tvā | vṛtrasya yad bhrṣṭimatā vadhena ni tvam indra pratyānaṃ jaghantha || (ṛ.
saṃ. 1-5?-? [?]) Gloss (mine; tentative; the small digits of the reference are not legible to me): "Here the Maruts sang in this contest, and all the gods rejoiced after you, when you, O Indra, struck down the face-to-face (opponent) of Vṛtra with the pointed (barbed) weapon."

in which "vadhena" is explained as "by the vajra, the weapon which is the means of killing"; in this context it is to be understood as "do not use your thunderbolt-weapon against us."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Martāḥ" — आसिहसिमृग्रामिदमिलूपधूर्विभ्यस्तन् (उ. सू. ३-८८ [?]) — the affix "tan" after the roots "asu" ... "hase hasane" (to laugh), "mr̥ṇ prāṇatyāge" (to die), "gr̥ nigaraṇe" (to swallow), "iṇ gatau" (to go), "vāg-ati-gandhanayoḥ," "ama-gaty-ādiṣu," "damu upaśame" (to be calm), "lūñ chedane" (to cut), "pūñ pavane" (to purify), "dhurvī hiṃsāyām" (to injure) — the affix "tan" comes after "mr̥ṇ"; by सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (पा. ७-३-८४) guṇa → "mar-tan" → "martā"; "n"-marked, so first-syllable acute. ¹³⁶

original p. 200

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 5.10 (characterized)

"Abhi" — by the Phiṭ-sūtra एवादीनामन्तः (as on p. 198) it is end-acute.
"Druhan" — "druha jighāṃsāyām"; लिङर्थे लेट् (पा. ३-४-७) and, with the sense of prayer, प्रार्थनायां (पा. ३-३-१६१); in the Veda "leṭ" comes after a root in the senses of the vidhi-liṇ and the like (and also in cause-and-effect and desire senses); the third-person plural "jhi"; झोऽन्तः (पा. ७-१-३) "ant"; इतश्च लोपः परस्मैपदेषु (पा. ३-४-९७) — the "i" of the tiṇ replacing "leṭ" is elided optionally; बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३) the "śap" is elided; सार्वधातुकमपित् (पा. १-२-४) makes the sārvaadhātuka "ñit," so "ant" is "ñit" and by क्ङिति च (पा. १-१-५) guṇa is barred; so no guṇa arises even though पुगन्तलघूपधस्य च (पा. ७-३-८६) would give it.
"Tanūnām" — "indra" (the vocative) stands after it and is "āmantrita"; सुबामन्त्रिते पराङ्गवत्स्वरे (पा. २-१-२) would make the preceding word part of the following one, but since this is a rule about word-formation (समर्थः पदविधिः, पा. २-१-१) it applies only where there is mutual syntactic connection, and "tanūnām" has none

¹³⁶. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
 Pure grammar in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 198, characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.

with "indra," so "parāṅgavad-bhāva" does not occur. "Indra gīrvaṇaḥ" — both are vocatives, as explained at p. 183 [the print says: "this is dealt with in the seventh mantra of this same sūkta"]. "Īśānaḥ" — "īśa aiśvārye" (to rule); the "laṭ" and "śānac"; बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३) elides the "śap"; the root is unaccented in its upadeśa, so तास्यनुदात्तेच्छिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वनोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६) makes "śānac" unaccented; the "i" retains the root's acute. "Yavaya" — "yu miśraṇāmiśraṇayoḥ" (to mix and to separate) with "ṇic" (हेतुमति च); अचो ङिति (पा. ७-२-११५) would give vṛddhi to the penultimate of the root, but the vṛddhi laid down by वृद्धिरादैच् (पा. १-१-१) is a "saṃjñā-pūrvaka vidhi" (an operation that depends on a technical name), which is "anitya" (not constant); therefore vṛddhi is not done; the guṇa and "av" substitutions give "yavay-" and, in the imperative second-person singular, "yavaya." Alternatively, "yavaṃ karoti" ("he makes barley") — पचाद्यच् (पा. ३-१-१३४) ...; in the saṃhitā the final vowel is lengthened for the metre. "Vadham" — हनश्च वधः (पा. ३-३-७६) — see p. 201. ¹³⁷

original p. 201

Rik 5.10 grammar concluded; end of Sūkta 5 and of the Tenth Varga

"Yavaya" ¹³⁸ — because the vṛddhi is not done, one gets guṇa and "av" substitutions, and in the imperative second-person singular "yavaya." Alternatively, "yauti iti yavaḥ" (he who mixes — "yava," barley) from "yu" with नन्दिग्रहिपचादिभ्यो ल्युणिन्यचः (पा. ३-१-१३४) "ac"; "yavaṃ karoti" — तत्करोति तदाचष्टे (पा. ३-१-२६) "ṇic" in the sense of "he makes barley"; इष्टवद्भावाट्टिलोपः (the "ṭi"-elision by the "iṣṭhavat" treatment); the "ṭi" of "yava" is elided and "yavay-a." Since the

137. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Rgveda-saṃhitā."
Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

138. concluding

elided "a" is treated as present (स्थानिवद्भाव), the vṛddhi that would be caused by the affix "ṇic" does not occur; "yavaya." In the saṃhitā the last vowel is lengthened.

"Vadham" — हनश्च वधः (पा. ३-३-७६) — after the root "han," when no prefix precedes it, the affix "ap" comes, and "vadha" is the substitute for "han" (with "ap"): "han + ap" → "vadha." The affix is "p"-marked and so unaccented (अनुदात्तौ सुष्णितौ, पा. ३-१-४). Since the sūtra reads "vadhaḥ" as an end-acute substitute, some say "vadha" is end-acute; the root "han" is end-acute by धातोः (पा. ६-१-१६२), and the substitute "vadha" in its place is, by sthānivadbhāva, end-acute — this is the view of Mādhavācārya. In either case, the final "a" of "vadha" is acute, and there is no difference of opinion on that. By अतो लोपः (पा. ६-४-४८) the "a" of the stem is elided before the case-ending; then by अनुदात्तस्य च यत्रोदात्तलोपः (पा. ६-१-१६१) — in the place where an acute is elided, the unaccented vowel that follows takes the acute — the accent of the elided "a" passes to the affix's "a." ॥१०॥

इल्लिगे ಪ್ರಥಮಮಂಡಲದಲ್ಲಿ ಏನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ಸಮಾಪ್ತವು — illige prathamamaṇḍaladalli 5neya sūktavu samāptavu — "Here the fifth sūkta in the first Maṇḍala is complete."

ಒಂದನೆಯ ಅಧ್ಯಾಯದಲ್ಲಿ ಹತ್ತನೆಯ ವರ್ಗವು ಸಮಾಪ್ತವು — ondaneya adhyāyadalli hattaneya varṅavu samāptavu — "In the first Adhyāya, the tenth varṅa is complete." 139 140

139. Note on the varṅa numbers: this closing note, which is plain in the print, confirms that the tenth varṅa ends here, with p. 201. It is consistent with the page headers "Varga 10" that I read on pp. 175–201 and shows that the earlier "seventh/eighth varṅa" notes at pp. 103, 111 and 135 were read from small numerals with errors or are source irregularities: the headers on pp. 152–174 read "Varga 9 [?]" and p. 175 onward "Varga 10." I leave the earlier notes as written and flag them for a re-check against the page images.

Sūkta 6 — "yuñjanti bradhnam aruṣam"

original pp. 202–203

Sūkta 6: heading; Sāyaṇa's introduction; the Anuvāda;
Rik 6.1 (Saṃhitā, Pada, Bhāṣya opening)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

सुरूपेत्यादिषु षट्सूक्तेषु तृतीयस्य युञ्जन्तीति सूक्तस्य मन्त्रसंख्याऋषिच्छन्दोदैवतानि
विनियोगाश्चेत्येते पूर्ववदवगन्तव्याः । दशर्चे तस्मिन्सूक्ते आद्यास्तिस्रोऽन्तिमा चेत्येताश्चतस्र
ऐन्द्र्यः । आ दह स्वधामनु इत्येतां चतुर्थीमारभ्य षडृचो मारुत्यः । तासु मध्ये वीळु
चिदिन्द्रेणेत्येते द्वे ऋचौ मारुत्यौ सत्यावैन्द्र्यावपि [?] भवतः ।
तदेतत्सर्वमनुक्रमणिकायामुक्तम् । सुरूपकृत्तुं दश्यैन्द्रमा तु युञ्जन्त्यादहेत्येताः षण्मारुत्यो
वीळु चिदिन्द्रेणेत्यैन्द्र्यौ चेति ॥ एतस्मिन्सूक्ते युञ्जन्तीत्यसौ तृचस्तृतीये रात्रिपर्याये
ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनोऽनुरूपः । तथा चातिरात्रे पर्यायाणामिति खण्डे योगे योगे तवस्तरं युञ्जन्ति ब्रध्नमरुषम् । आ. ६-४ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् ॥ surūpety ādiṣu ṣaṭsūkṭeṣu ṭṛtīyasya yuñjantīti sūktasya mantra-saṃkhyā-ṛṣi-cchando-devatā-viniyogāś cety ete pūrvavad avagantavyāḥ | daśarce
tasmin sūkta ādyās tisro 'ntimā cety etāś catasra aindryaḥ | ā

140. Page headers: p. 202 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 203 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11–12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. Printed title: "ಆರನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು" ("the sixth sūkta"). Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced, per the standing convention.

*daha svadhām anu ity etāṃ caturthīm ārabhya ṣaḍrco mārutyah | tāsu madhye vīḷu cid indreṇety ete dve ṛcau
mārutyau satyāv aindryāv api [?] bhavataḥ | tad etat sarvam anukramaṇikāyām uktam | surūpakṛtnum daśy aindramā tu yuñjanty ādaha ity etāḥ ṣaṇ mārutyō vīḷu cid indreṇety aindryau ceti | | etasmin sūkte yuñjantīty asau ṛcas ṛtīye
rātri-paryāye brāhmaṇācchaṃsino 'nurūpaḥ | tathā cātirātre paryāyāṇām iti khaṇḍe yoge yoge tavastaram yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam | ā. 6-4 [?] | iti sūtritām | | (Reading notes:
(i) the print of the clause "satyāv aindryāv api" is crowded, and I mark it [?]; its sense — "these two Ṛks, being Marut Ṛks, are also Aindra" — is the one the Kannada commentary gives below; (ii) the Anukramaṇī quotation is as printed, with its abbreviated "daśy aindramā tu" run together; I give it without correcting; (iii) the sūtra-quotation reads "bradhnām" in the Rik but I read "ब्रध्नमरुषम्" here as printed.)*

Translation: "Of the six sūktas beginning with 'surūpa...', as for the third, 'yuñjanti...': its number of Ṛks, ṛṣi, metre, deity and applications are to be understood as before. In this ten-Ṛk sūkta, the first three and the last — these four — are Aindrī (addressed to Indra). Beginning with the fourth, 'ā daha svadhām anu,' six Ṛks are Mārutī (addressed to the Maruts). Among them, the two Ṛks 'vīḷu cid indreṇa' (the fifth) and the seventh are Mārutī and also Aindrī. All this is stated in the Anukramaṇī: 'surūpakṛtnum ... aindramā tu yuñjanti ādaha — these six are Mārutī; the two beginning 'vīḷu cid indreṇa' are Aindrī.' In this sūkta the ṛca 'yuñjanti...' is the anurūpa (the 'corresponding' verse) of the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin in the third night-round (paryāya); and in the Sūtra [Āśvalāyana 6-4 ?], in the section 'atirātre paryāyāṇām,' it is laid down: 'yoge yoge tavastaram ... yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam.'"

॥ Anuvādaḥ ॥ ¹

In the sacrifice called Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, at the time of the morning pressing, the application of the six sūktas beginning "surūpakṛtnum ūtaye," which the priest of the Hotṛ group called Brāhmaṇacchaṁsin is to recite for the stoma-vṛddhi and āvāpa, has been given earlier (p. 87 [as printed "87"]). The present sūkta "yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam," which comes in that context, is the third among those six sūktas; so the application of those six applies to it too. There are ten Ṛks in this sūkta. Of them, the first three and the last one — four Ṛks — are addressed to Indra. Six Ṛks, from the fourth, "ā daha svadhām anu," to the ninth, are addressed to the Maruts. Among these six, the fifth, "vīlu cid ārujatnubhiḥ," and the seventh, "indreṇa saṁ hi dṛkṣase," are addressed to both Indra and the Maruts. This matter is stated in the Sarvānukramaṇī: "surūpakṛtnum ... ṣaṇ mārutyō, vīlu cid indreṇety aindryau ceti" — that is, the ten Ṛks of the sūkta "surūpakṛtnum," the ten of "ā tvetā," and the first three and the last Ṛk of "yuñjanti bradhnām" are all addressed to the deity Indra; the six Ṛks from "ā daha svadhām anu" to "ata parī[?] gahi"-ending are addressed to the Maruts; but of these six, the two Ṛks "vīlu cid ārujatnubhiḥ" and "indreṇa saṁ hi dṛkṣase" are addressed to the two deities, Indra and the Maruts. The first three Ṛks of this sūkta are to be recited, in the third night-round (paryāya) of the Atirātra, by the Brāhmaṇacchaṁsin. In this context the Āśvalāyana sūtra says: "tathā cātirātre paryāyāṇām iti khaṇḍe yoge yoge tavastaram yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam" (Āśv. Sū. 6-4 [?]). ²

Heading (p. 203):

2. Reading note: the Kannada text here names the sixth-to-ninth Mārut Ṛks only by their opening words; the clause I give as "ata parī[?] gahi" is the print's reference to the end of that group and is crowded, so I mark it [?] and do not rely on it. The Ṛk-numbering of the deities I take from the Sanskrit above and from the Kannada's own count: Aindrī — 1, 2, 3, 10; Mārutī — 4, 6, 8, 9; both — 5, 7.

सूक्त—६^३ ॥ मण्डल—१ ॥ अनुवाक—२ ॥ सूक्त—६ ॥ ॥ अष्टक—१ ॥ अध्याय—१ ॥ वर्ग—११-१२ [?] ॥ ॥ सूक्तदल्लिरुव ऋक्संख्ये १० ॥ ४ ऋषिः — मधुच्छन्दा वैश्वामित्रः (r̥ṣiḥ — madhucchandā vaiśvāmitraḥ) देवता — १-३ इन्द्रः । ४, ६, ८, ९ मरुतः । ५, ७ मरुत इन्द्रश्च । १० इन्द्रः (devatā — 1-3 indrah; 4, 6, 8, 9 marutah; 5, 7 maruta indraś ca; 10 indrah)^५ छन्दः — गायत्री (chandaḥ — gāyatrī)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युञ्जन्ति ब्रध्नमरुषं चरन्तं परि तस्थुषः । रोचन्ते रोचना दिवि ॥१॥

yuñjanti bradhnam aruṣaṃ carantaṃ pari tasthuṣaḥ | rocante rocanā divi | 1 |

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युञ्जन्ति । ब्रध्नम् । अरुषम् । चरन्तम् । परि । तस्थुषः । रोचन्ते । रोचना । दिवि ॥१॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥^६

इन्द्रो हि परमैश्वर्ययुक्तः । परमैश्वर्यं चाग्निवाय्वादित्यनक्षत्ररूपेणावस्थानमुपपद्यते । ब्रध्नमादित्यरूपेणावस्थितम् अरुषं हिंसकरहिताग्निरूपेणावस्थितं चरन्तं वायुरूपेण सर्वतः प्रसरन्तमिन्द्रं परि तस्थुषः परितोऽवस्थिता लोकत्रयवर्तिनः प्राणिनो युञ्जन्ति । स्वकीये कर्मणि देवताभावेन संबद्धं कुर्वन्ति । तस्यैवेन्द्रस्य मूर्तिविशेषभूतानि रोचना रोचनानि नक्षत्राणि दिवि द्युलोके रोचन्ते । प्रकाशन्ते । अस्य मन्त्रस्योक्तार्थपरत्वं ब्राह्मणान्तरे व्याख्यातम् । युञ्जन्ति ब्रध्नमित्याह । असौ वा आदित्यो ब्रध्नः । आदित्यमेवास्यै युनक्ति । अरुषमित्याह । अग्निर्वा अरुषः । अग्निमेवास्यै युनक्ति । चरन्तमित्याह । वायुर्वै चरन् । वायुमेवास्यै युनक्ति । परि तस्थुष इत्याह । इमे वै लोकाः परि तस्थुषः । इमानेवास्यै लोकान्युनक्ति । रोचन्ते रोचना दिवीत्याह । indro hi paramaiśvarya-yuktaḥ | paramaiśvaryaṃ cāgni-vāyav-āditya-nakṣatra-rūpeṇāvasthānam upapadyate | bradhnam āditya-rūpeṇāvasthitam aruṣaṃ hiṃsakara-hitāgni-rūpeṇāvasthitam

3. Sūkta 6

4. number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 10

5. the printed numerals are small; I give them as the Sanskrit above and the Kannada count require, and flag the line [?]

6. Rik 6.1; opening, p. 203

*carantaṃ vāyu-rūpeṇa sarvataḥ prasaraṇtāṃ indraṃ pari tastaḥṣaḥ parito 'vasthitā loka-traya-vartinaḥ prāṇino yuñjanti | svakīye karmaṇi devatā-bhāvena sambaddhaṃ
 kurvanti | tasyaiv endrasya mūrti-viśeṣa-bhūtāni rocanā
 rocanāni nakṣatrāṇi divi dyuloke rocante | prakāśante | asya mantrasyoktārtha-paratvaṃ brāhmaṇāntare vyākhyātāṃ |
 yuñjanti bradhnām ity āha | asau vā ādityo bradhnaḥ |
 ādityam evāsmāi yunakti | aruṣaṃ ity āha | agnir vā aruṣaḥ |
 agnim evāsmāi yunakti | carantaṃ ity āha | vāyur vai caran |
 vāyūṃ evāsmāi yunakti | pari tastaḥṣa ity āha | ime vai lokāḥ pari tastaḥṣaḥ | imān evāsmāi lokān yunakti | rocante rocanā divīty āha | (Reading notes: "himsakara-hitā" is printed so, and I read "himsaka-rahitā" ("free of the destructive") with that spelling noted; the sentence ends at the foot of p. 203 with "rocante rocanā divīty āha," and continues on p. 204.)*

Translation: "Indra is indeed endowed with supreme lordship, and his supreme lordship consists in his abiding in the forms of Agni, Vāyu, Āditya and the stars. 'Bradhnām' — abiding as the Sun; 'aruṣaṃ' — abiding as the harmless (non-destroying) Agni; 'carantaṃ' — spreading in all directions as Vāyu — Indra: 'pari tastaḥṣaḥ' — the beings of the three worlds, standing round about, 'yuñjanti' — yoke (join) him: they make him connected, as a deity, with their own work. 'Rocanā' — the stars, the shining bodies that are particular forms of that same Indra, 'rocante' — shine, 'divi' — in the heavenly world. That this mantra has the sense stated is explained in another Brāhmaṇa: "yuñjanti bradhnām," it says: yonder Sun is "bradhna"; he yokes the Sun to him. "Aruṣaṃ," it says: Agni is "aruṣa"; he yokes Agni to him. "Carantaṃ," it says: Vāyu is "carat"; he yokes Vāyu to him. "Pari tastaḥṣaḥ," it says: these worlds are "pari tastaḥṣaḥ"; he yokes these worlds to him. "Rocante rocanā divi," it says: ..." 7. 8

original p. 204

Rik 6.1: Bhāṣya concluded; grammar (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁹

नक्षत्राणि वै रोचना दिवि । नक्षत्राण्येवास्मै रोचयति । (तै. ब्रा. ३-९-७-१ [?]) इति ।
पञ्चविंशतिसंख्याकेषु महन्नामसु महो ब्रध्न इति पठितम् । आदित्यस्यापि महत्त्वादेव
ब्रध्नत्वम् ॥ *nakṣatrāṇi vai rocanā divi | nakṣatrāṇy evāsmāi rocayati | (tai. brā. 3-9-7-1 [?]) iti | pañcaviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu
mahan-nāmasu maho bradhna iti paṭhitam | ādityasyāpi
mahattvād eva bradhnatvam |*

Translation: "'The stars indeed are "rocanā" in the sky; he makes the stars shine for him.' (Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa [3-9-7-1 ?]). Among the twenty-five names of 'the great,' 'mahaḥ' and 'bradhnaḥ' are read; the Sun, too, is 'bradhna' for the very reason that he is great."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept; read from the slice): "Yuñjanti" — the end-acute follows the affix's accent. "Bradhnam" — a stem (prātipadika) end-acute. "Aruṣam" — from "ṛṣ/ruṣa/riṣa" (roots in the sense of injuring; "ruṣā" = the injurers); इगुपधज्ञाप्र्रीकिरः कः (पा. ३-१-१३५) the affix "ka"; the affix's accent acute; "na santi ruṣā yasya" — a bahuvrīhi after "nañ"; by नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) the second member is end-acute; अमि पूर्वः (पा. ६-१-१०७) the pūrvarūpa, then एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५). "Carantam" — "śap" is "p"-marked, hence unaccented; and the "śatr" being a "lasārvadhātuka," its own accent is lost, leaving the root's accent. "Tasthuṣaḥ" — तिष्ठतेर्लिटः क्वसुरादेशः (पा. ३-२-१०७) "kvasu" for "liṭ"; वस्वेकाजाद्धसाम् (पा. ७-२-६७) — "iṭ" for "vas" after a monosyllabic root (here prohibited by the "ghasi" exception); the "samprasāraṇa" of

8. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."

Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from an enlarged slice. The Taittirīya reference is in small Kannada numerals, marked [?]. English as printed.

9. concluding p. 203's Brāhmaṇa quotation

"vasu" (वसोः संप्रसारणम्, पा. ६-४-१३१); शासिवसिघसीनां च (पा. ८-३-६०) "ṣa" for "s"; the accent is that of the affix. "Rocante" — the "tiṇ" and "lasārvadhātuka" unaccented; शपः पित्वादनुदात्तत्वम्; the root's accent alone remains. "Rocanā" — अनुदात्तेश्च हलादेः (पा. ३-२-१४९) the affix "yuc"; यवोरनाकौ (पा. ७-१-१) puts "ana" for "yu"; end-acute by "c" (चितः). "Divi" — the case-ending is acute after "ūḍh-idam..." (ऊडिदम्पदाद्यप्पुग्रेद्युभ्यः, पा. ६-१-१७१).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ¹⁰

परि (pari) — all around, in every direction | तस्थुषः (tasthuṣaḥ) — (in the three worlds) beings who stand | ब्रध्नम् (bradhnām) — (one who has) the form of the Sun | अरुषम् (aruṣam) — (one who has) the form of Agni, who does not injure | चरन्तम् (carantam) — (Indra) who moves everywhere in the form of Vāyu | युञ्जन्ति (yuñjanti) — they connect (to their own works, like a chief deity — that is, they join him in their own actions) | रोचना (rocanā) — the stars (that are special forms of that Indra) | दिवि (divi) — in the heavenly world (in the sky) | रोचन्ते (rocante) — shine.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra is full of supreme lordship; supreme lordship means the power to shine in the forms of Agni, Vāyu, Āditya and the stars. Therefore Indra shines in the form of the Sun, in the form of fire, in the form of the ever-moving Vāyu, and in the form of the stars in the sky. All beings of the three worlds regard such an Indra as the chief god in their own worship and the like and establish with him a relation of greatness and honour.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Those who are standing around (i.e. living beings inhabiting the three worlds) associate with (Indra) the mighty (in the form of the sun) the non-injuring (in the form of fire) the moving (in the form of wind) the lights (or stars special incarnations of that same Indra) shine in the sky." ¹¹

original p. 205

Special topics on Rik 6.1: the classification of mantras by sense (Nirukta 7.1-3)

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The Pada-meanings, the Bhāvārtha and the English rendering of this R̥k follow Sāyaṇa's Bhāṣya. Sāyaṇa's Bhāṣya follows the exposition given in the Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa (of the Kṛṣṇa Yajurveda). Since the Brāhmaṇa is counted as a part of the Veda, and since it contains very ancient exposition, it must be believed to be the chief authority in the investigation of Vedic meaning. The sage Yāska, the author of the Nirukta, says as follows in regard to explaining Vedic mantras:

तद्यानि नामानि प्राधान्यस्तुतीनां देवतानां तद्दैवतमित्याचक्षते ॥ यत्काम ऋषिर्यस्यां
देवतायामार्थपत्यमिच्छन्स्तुतिं प्रयुङ्क्ते तद्दैवतः स मन्त्रो भवति ॥ ताः त्रिविधा ऋचः
परोक्षकृताः प्रत्यक्षकृता आध्यात्मिकाश्च । तत्र परोक्षकृताः सर्वाभिर्नामविभक्तिभिर्युज्यन्ते
प्रथमपुरुषैश्चाख्यातस्य ॥ अथ प्रत्यक्षकृता मध्यमपुरुषयोगास्त्वमिति चैतेन सर्वनाम्ना ॥
अथाध्यात्मिकाः उत्तमपुरुषयोगा अहमिति चैतेन सर्वनाम्ना ॥ परोक्षकृताः प्रत्यक्षकृताश्च मन्त्रा भूयिष्ठा अल्पश आध्यात्मिकाः ॥ (निरुक्त—दैवतकाण्ड. अध्याय ७-खण्ड १-३) tad yāni nāmāni prādhānya-stutīnām devatānām tad daivatam ity ācakṣate | | yat-kāma ṛṣir yasyām devatāyām ārthapatyam
icchan stutiṃ prayuṅkte tad-daivataḥ sa manthro bhavati | | tās

11. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." The Nirukta passage is printed in Kannada script; read from an enlarged slice and given in three layers. Its reference ("Nirukta, Daivata-kāṇḍa, adhyāya 7, khaṇḍa 1-3") is in small Kannada numerals and read with care. English words in the Kannada are as printed.

*trividhā rcaḥ parokṣakṛtāḥ pratyakṣakṛtā ādhyātmikāś ca | tatra parokṣakṛtāḥ sarvābhir nāma-vibhaktibhir yuyjante
 prathama-puruṣaiś cākhyātasya || atha pratyakṣakṛtā
 madhyama-puruṣa-yogāś tvam iti caitena sarvanāmnā || athādhhyātmikāḥ uttama-puruṣa-yogā aham iti caitena sarvanāmnā || parokṣakṛtāḥ pratyakṣakṛtāś ca mantrā
 bhūyiṣṭhā alpaśā ādhyātmikāḥ || (nirukta — daivata-kāṇḍa, adhyāya 7, khaṇḍa 1–3) (Reading note: the opening clause is printed "tad yāni nāmāni prādhānya-stutīnām devatānām" and I give it so; the "yat-kāma ṛṣir yasyām devatāyām ārthapatyam icchan" clause is as printed. The adverb "alpaśaḥ" is printed "alpaśa.")*

Translation:¹² "Those names of the deities who are praised chiefly (as the subject of a hymn) — of that (hymn) they say "its deity is so-and-so." Whatever the desire with which a seer, wishing for lordship (of that thing), addresses praise to a deity — that mantra has that deity. Those Ṛks are of three kinds: parokṣa-kṛta (made in the indirect form), pratyakṣa-kṛta (made in the direct form), and ādhyātmika (made in the personal form). Of these, the parokṣa-kṛta are joined with all the case-forms of the noun and with the third person of the verb. Then the pratyakṣa-kṛta are joined with the second person, and with the pronoun "tvam" (thou). Then the ādhyātmika are joined with the first person, and with the pronoun "aham" (I). The parokṣa-kṛta and the pratyakṣa-kṛta mantras are the most numerous; the ādhyātmika are few."

That is: among mantras there are many kinds —

daivata-mantra, stuti-mantra, āśīr-mantra, śapatha, abhiśāpa, kaścid-bhāva, paridevanā, nindā, praśamsā

, and so on. A "daivata-mantra" is a mantra that describes the greatness of the gods; "stuti" is a mantra that contains stotra and entreaties; "āśīḥ" is a mantra that gives a blessing — one that wishes the good of another; "śapatha" is a vow, a promise; "abhiśāpa" is a curse — wishing another harm; "kaścid-bhāva" is the description of a certain matter or of a truth; "paridevanā" is lamentation, distress; "nindā" is blame; "praśamsā" is praise; "dānastuti" is the praise of gifts; and so on.

Of the many kinds of mantras mentioned above, the Ṛks called "daivata" are of three kinds: parokṣa-kṛta, pratyakṣa-kṛta and ādhyātmika. A "parokṣa-kṛta" mantra is one in which the deity who is praised is not present before one — so that the praise is made in the form in which the third-person nouns and the third-person verbs are used with reference to that deity ("third person both in subject and predicate" — English as printed). A "pratyakṣa-kṛta" mantra is one in which the deity is imagined as standing visibly before one, and is praised by addressing him, using the second-person words "you," "your" and so on ("second person" — English as printed). An "ādhyātmika" mantra is one in which praise is made by using the first person ("first person" — English as printed). Of these three kinds of mantras, the two — parokṣa-kṛta and pratyakṣa-kṛta — are more numerous; the ādhyātmika mantras are only few.¹³

original p. 206

The Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa exposition of Rik 6.1; Skandasvāmī's commentary (opening)

The Ṛk "yuñjanti bradhnam aruṣam," which is relevant here, ought by the above (classification) to belong to the group "parokṣa-kṛta" among daivata mantras. But since the Taittirīya-

12. Mine, following the Kannada account below.

13. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. The Brāhmaṇa reference is in small Kannada numerals and marked [?].

brāhmaṇa explains this Ṛk with an adhyātmika meaning, the Bhāṣyakāra has explained it in accordance with that. In that Brāhmaṇa, in giving the exposition of this Ṛk, it is said:

युञ्जन्ति ब्रध्नमित्याह । असौ वा आदित्यो ब्रध्नः । आदित्यमेवास्यै युनक्ति । अरुषमित्याह ।
 । अग्निर्वा अरुषः । अग्निमेवास्यै युनक्ति । चरन्तमित्याह । वायुर्वै चरन् । वायुमेवास्यै
 युनक्ति । परि तस्थुष इत्याह । इमे वै लोकाः परि तस्थुषः । इमानेवास्यै लोकान् युनक्ति । रोचन्ते रोचना दिवित्याह । नक्षत्राणि वै रोचना दिवि । नक्षत्राण्येवास्यै रोचयति ॥ (तै. ब्रा.
 ३-९-४ [?]) yuñjanti bradhnām ity āha | asau vā ādityo bradhnāḥ
| ādityam evāsmāi yunakti | aruṣam ity āha | agnir vā aruṣaḥ
| agnim evāsmāi yunakti | carantam ity āha | vāyur vai caran
| vāyum evāsmāi yunakti | pari tasthuṣa ity āha | ime vai lokāḥ pari tasthuṣaḥ | imān evāsmāi lokān yunakti | rocante
rocanā divīty āha | nakṣatrāṇi vai rocanā divi | nakṣatrāṇy
evāsmāi rocayati || (tai. brā. 3-9-4 [?]) Translation: "'Yuñjanti bradhnām,' he says: yonder Sun is 'bradhna'; he yokes the Sun to him. 'Aruṣam,' he says: Agni is 'aruṣa'; he yokes Agni to him.
 'Carantam,' he says: Vāyu is the 'moving'; he yokes Vāyu to him.
 'Pari tasthuṣaḥ,' he says: these worlds are 'pari tasthuṣaḥ'; he yokes these worlds to him. 'Rocante rocanā divi,' he says: the stars are the 'rocanā' in the sky; he makes the stars shine for him." (This is the same passage that Sāyaṇa abridged on pp.
 203–204.)

That is, in this the sense is given, in an adhyātmika connection, that "bradhna" = the Sun, "aruṣa" = Agni, "carat" = Vāyu, "pari tasthuṣaḥ" = the three worlds, "rocanā" = the stars. Although we need not accept this meaning as authoritative, there is no refutation here of the meanings that other commentators give for this Ṛk. Since has explained this Ṛk in a different way, we give it here.

Skandasvāmī

Skandasvāmī's commentary (Sanskrit, printed in Kannada script; first part, p. 206): ¹⁴

योगः संबन्धः । युज्जन्ति संबन्धयन्ति । केन, सामर्थ्यात् स्तुतिभिर्हविर्भिश्च । के सामर्थ्यात् स्तोतारो यष्टारश्च । ब्रध्नं महन्नामैतत् । महान्तमिन्द्रम् । अरुषं रुशतिर्दीप्त्यर्थः । रुशद्वत्सारुशतीति प्रदर्शनात् । तस्य वा रोचतेर्वा दीप्तिकर्मण आज्पूर्वस्येदं रूपम् । आजश्च ह्रस्वत्वम् । अरुरं आरोचमानं वा दीप्तमित्यर्थः । आरुषत्यायतीति गतिकर्मसु पाठादृषतेर्गत्यर्थस्यारुषशब्दो गन्तृवचनः । शत्रून् यज्ञान् वा प्रतिगन्तारम् । चरन्तं परि सर्वतो गच्छन्तम् । यत्र यत्रेन्द्रो गच्छति तत्र तत्रैनं स्तोतारो यष्टारश्च स्तुवन्ति चेत्यर्थः । अथवा, युज्जन्तीति युजिः शुद्धोऽपि सामर्थ्यात् सोपसर्गार्थे प्रष्टव्यः । स्वार्थसिद्धौ स्तोतारो यष्टारश्चैनं नियुज्जते । महान्तं दीप्तं चेन्द्रं सर्वतो गच्छन्तं, यत्र यत्र गच्छति कश्च तत्रैनं मनुष्या इदमिदं च नः कुर्वन्त्यर्थं याचन्त इत्यर्थः । रथोऽत्र सामर्थ्यात् युज्यमानः नेन्द्रं युज्जन्ति । इन्द्रस्य रथं ब्रध्नमरुषं yogaḥ sambandhaḥ | yuñjanti sambandhayanti | kena, sāmārthyāt stutibhir havirbhiś ca | ke, sāmārthyāt stotāro yaṣṭāraś ca | bradhnaṃ mahan-nāmaitat | mahāntam indram | aruṣaṃ ruśatir dīptyarthaḥ | ruśadvatsāruśatīti pradarśanāt | tasya vā rocater vā dīpti-karmaṇa āj-pūrvasyedam rūpam | ājaś ca hrasvatvam | aruraṃ ārocamānaṃ vā dīptam ity arthaḥ | āruṣatyāyatīti gati-karmasu pāṭhād ṛṣater gatyarthasyāruṣa-śabdo ganṭr-vacanaḥ | śatrūn yajñān vā pratigantāram | carantaṃ pari sarvato gacchantam | yatra yatrendro gacchati tatra tatrainaṃ stotāro yaṣṭāraś ca stuvanti cety arthaḥ | athavā, yuñjantīti yujih śuddho 'pi sāmārthyāt sopasargārthe praṣṭavyaḥ | svārtha-siddhau stotāro yaṣṭāraś cainaṃ niyuñjate | mahāntaṃ dīptaṃ cendraṃ sarvato gacchantam, yatra yatra gacchati kaś ca tatrainaṃ manuṣyā idam idaṃ ca naḥ kurv ity arthaṃ yācanta ity arthaḥ | ratho 'tra

14. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā."

Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] marks every place where letters are crowded or doubtful. The Brāhmaṇa-style argument at the foot of the page is very compressed; I give the Sanskrit as read and a translation in outline, saying where the sense is uncertain.

sāmarthyāt yuyjāmānaḥ nendraṃ yuñjanti | indrasya rathaṃ bradhnām aruṣam ... (Reading notes: (i) this stretch is dense and several of its words are crowded in the print — the clauses "ruśadvatsāruśatīti pradārśanāt," "āj-pūrvasyedaṃ rūpam," "kaś ca tatrainam" and "nendraṃ yuñjanti" are as I read them, flagged [?], and I translate only what I can support; (ii) the sentence ends at the foot of the page and continues on p. 207.)

Translation, in outline (what I can support): "'Yoga' is connection. 'Yuñjanti' — they connect; by what? — by capacity, with praises and with oblations; who? — by capacity, the praisers and the sacrificers. 'Bradhna' is a name of the 'great' — the great Indra. 'Aruṣam' — the root 'ruś' is in the sense of shining; ... [the grammatical explanation of 'aruṣa' as 'shining,' or as 'one who goes' from the root 'ṛṣ' in the list of roots of motion — hence 'aruṣa' is 'one who goes' — 'one who goes against enemies or to sacrifices']. 'Carantam' — going all around, in every direction: wherever Indra goes, there the praisers and the sacrificers praise him. Or: 'yuñjanti,' though the plain root 'yuj,' is by capacity to be understood in the sense of a prefixed verb ('niyuñjate'): the praisers and sacrificers 'engage' him for the accomplishing of their own aims; Indra, great and shining and going in all directions — wherever he goes, there men beg of him, 'do this and that for us.' ... [the remainder — on the chariot — is garbled in the print and I do not translate it]."

original p. 207

Skandasvāmī's commentary (concluded)

...च सर्वतो गच्छन्तम् । के सामर्थ्यात् सारथयो मातलिप्रभृतयः । अन्येऽस्य रथं युज्जन्ति । स नः स्वयं युनक्ति ब्रध्नादिगुणः युज्जन्ति न किञ्चिदिति । एवं गुणकीर्तनादिन्द्रस्यैयं स्तुतिः । किञ्च तस्थुषः रोचन्ते रोचना दिवि । तस्थुष इति षष्ठीनिर्देशात् प्रभावेनेति वाक्यशेषः । स्थितस्य व्याप्रियमाणेन्द्रस्य प्रभावेन रोचन्ते दीप्यन्ते । रोचना दीप्तिस्वभावकानि नक्षत्राणि दिवि द्युलोके । कथंपुनरिन्द्रप्रभावेन नक्षत्राणि दीप्यन्ते । उच्यते । वक्ष्यते — "इन्द्रो दीर्घाय

चक्षस आ सूर्य रोहयदिवि" इति । सूर्यस्य प्रभावश्च सुषुम्नो नाम रश्मिः तत्संबन्धाच्चन्द्रमा नक्षत्राणि च दीप्यन्ते । अथवा युजिरुत्पूर्वार्थे । अन्तर्णीतण्यर्थश्च प्रष्टव्यः ।
 उद्योजयन्त्युत्साजयन्ति वृष्टिकर्माणि ब्रध्नमरुषं चेन्द्रम् । किं कुर्वन्तम् । उच्यते । चरन्तं परि तस्थुषः । परिशब्दो लक्षणे कर्मप्रवचनीयः तस्थुष इत्यनेन च संबध्यते । तस्थिवःशब्दः स्थावरवचनः । गच्छन्तं स्थावराणि प्रति । स्थावरग्रहणं चात्र जङ्गमस्यापि प्रदर्शनार्थम् ।
 सोमपानायासुरयुवल्लोलुपतयो जङ्गमस्थावरात्मकं कृत्स्नं (जनम्, जगत्) परिभ्रमन्तमित्यर्थः । के उद्योजयन्ति । उच्यते । रोचन्ते रोचना दिवि । एकवाक्यताप्रसिद्धयर्थं यत्रच्चब्दावध्याहार्यौ । आदित्यरश्मयो रोचन्ते रोचना दिवि ते आदित्यरश्मयो हि प्रावृडारम्भे रसादातारः । ते रसानर्पयन्तः उद्योजयन्तीन्द्रं वृष्टिकर्मणि । एतस्मिन्नर्थे रश्मिविषयत्वात् रोचनेत्येतत् पदमूष्मान्तन्यायं दृश्यते न स्वरान्तमन्तो नैष पदकाराभिप्रायः । ज्योतिष्पेक्षं वा रश्मीनां नपुंसकत्वम् । अध्वर्युवस्त्वादित्यदेवतामृचं मन्यन्ते । कथम् । एतेषां हि विनियोजनेऽसियुक्तश्चाश्लोऽसनयो... [garbled] । श्रुतेः । एवं हि श्रुतिर्भवति — युज्जन्ति ब्रध्नमरुषमित्याह । असौ वा आदित्यो ब्रध्नः । अरुषोऽमुमेवास्मादादित्यं युनक्ति । सुवर्गस्य लोकस्य समष्ट्यै इति । तस्मादादित्यदेवत्येयमिति । तन्न । तत्रापि विनियोगवशान्नियुज्यमानोऽश्लो ब्रध्नोऽरुषश्चोच्यते । भक्तिमात्रं तु श्रुतिः । अपि च यदि श्रुतिबलात् तत्रादित्यो देवता, तथा नामु इह त्वेन्द्रप्रकरणे समाना ब्रध्नारुषयोश्चेन्द्रेऽपि संभवात् । परस्यां च ऋचः शब्देनानुवादात् । तेनेहादिष्वस्य ब्रध्नस्यान्नादेशात् तस्याश्च ऋचो हरिसंबन्धाद्यैन्द्रतायाः असंदिग्धत्वाद् ऐन्द्रत्वमेवास्या ऋच इति ॥ ...ca sarvato gacchantam | ke, sāmārthyāt sārathayo mātaḥ-prabhṛtayaḥ |
anye 'sya ratham yuñjanti | sa naḥ svayaṃ yunakti bradhnādi-
guṇaḥ yuñjanti na kiñcid iti | evaṃ guṇa-kīrtanād indrasyeyaṃ stutiḥ | kimca tasthuṣaḥ rocante rocanā divi |
tasthuṣa iti śaṣṭhī-nirdeśāt prabhāveneti vākya-śeṣaḥ |
sthitasya vyāpriyamāṇendrasya prabhāvena rocante dīpyante | rocanā dīpti-svabhāvakāni nakṣatrāṇi divi dyuloke | katham punar indra-prabhāvena nakṣatrāṇi dīpyante | ucyate | vakṣyate — "indro dīrghāya cakṣasa ā sūryaṃ rohayad divi" iti | sūryasya prabhāvaś ca suṣumno nāma raśmiḥ tat-sambandhāc candramā nakṣatrāṇi ca dīpyante | athavā yujir
ut-pūrvārthe | antarṇīta-nyarthaś ca praṣṭavyaḥ | udyojayanty utsājayanti vṛṣṭi-karmāṇi bradhnā aruṣaṃ
cendram | kim kurvantam | ucyate | carantaṃ pari tasthuṣaḥ

| pari-śabdo lakṣaṇe karma-pravacanīyaḥ tasthuṣa ity anena
ca sambadhyate | tasthivaḥ-śabdaḥ sthāvara-vacanaḥ |
gacchantam sthāvarāṇi prati | sthāvara-grahaṇam cātra
jaṅgamasyāpi pradarśanārtham | somapānāyāsura-yuvallolupatayo jaṅgama-sthāvarātmakam kṛtsnam (janam, jagat) paribhramantam ity arthaḥ | ke udyojayanti | ucyate |
rocante rocanā divi | ekavākyatā-prasiddhy-artham yat-tac-chabdāv adhyāhāryau | ādityaraśmayo rocante rocanā divi te ādityaraśmayo hi prāvṛḍārambhe rasādātāraḥ | te rasān
arpayantaḥ udyojayantīndram vṛṣṭi-karmaṇi | etasminn arthe raśmi-viśayatvāt rocaneti etat padam ūsmānta-nyāyam drśyate na svarāntam anto naiṣa padakārābhiprāyaḥ |
jyotiṣpekṣam vā raśmīnām napuṃsakatvam | adhvaryu-vastv-āditya-devatām ṛcam manyante | katham | eteṣāṃ hi vinīyojane ... [garbled] | śruteḥ | evaṃ hi śrutir bhavati —
yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam ity āha | asau vā ādityo bradhnāḥ
| aruṣo 'mum evāsmādādityam yunakti | suvargasya lokasya samaṣṭyai iti | tasmād āditya-devatyeyam iti | tan na | tatrāpi vinīyoga-vaśān niyuḥyamāno 'śvo bradhno 'ruṣaś cocyate |
bhakti-mātram tu śrutiḥ | api ca yadi śruti-balāt tatrāditya devatā, tathā nāmu iha tv aindra-prakaraṇe samānā bradhnāruṣayoś cendre 'pi sambhavāt | parasyām ca ṛcaḥ
śabdenānuvādāt | teneha ādiṣv asya bradhnasyānnādeśāt tasyāś ca ṛco hari-sambandhād aindratāyā asandigdhatvād aindratvam evāsyā ṛca iti | | (Reading notes: (i) the first words
"ca sarvato gacchantam" continue the sentence broken at the foot of p. 206; (ii) the clause I mark "[garbled]" — "eteṣāṃ hi vinīyojane ... " — is crowded and I do not reproduce it; (iii) the readings "ūsmānta-nyāyam," "tasthivaḥ-śabdaḥ," "adhvaryuvastv-āditya-devatām ṛcam," and the final run from "tan na" to "aindratvam eva" are as I read them, with the word-divisions mine, and the whole last passage should be re-checked against the page image; (iv) I translate in outline.) Translation, in outline: "...and going in every direction. Who (engages him)?"

By capacity, charioteers such as Mātali; others yoke his chariot; 'he himself yokes us' — one endowed with 'bradhna' and other qualities; they yoke nothing (else) (?). Thus this is praise of Indra by the proclaiming of his qualities. Further: 'tasthuṣaḥ rocante rocanā divi' — by the genitive 'tasthuṣaḥ' the supplied word is 'by the power': by the power of Indra, who is stationed and active, 'rocante' — shine; 'rocanā' — the stars, whose nature is shining, 'divi' — in heaven. How, then, do the stars shine by Indra's power? It will be said: 'Indra made the Sun rise in heaven for long sight' (a quotation, as printed). The Sun's power is the ray called Suṣumna, and by connection with it the Moon and stars shine. Or else the root 'yuj' has the sense 'ut-' ('up'): it must be understood with the causal sense included — 'they urge up, they stir up Indra, great and ruddy, to the rain-work.' Doing what? 'Carantam pari tasthuṣaḥ' — 'pari' is a karmapravacanīya in the sense of 'around' and is connected with 'tasthuṣaḥ' — the word means 'the stationary': going toward the stationary; the mention of the stationary here is also to show the moving ones: moving around the whole world (people, creatures), moving, out of eagerness for the Soma-drinking. Who stir him up? — 'rocante rocanā divi': for the unity of the sentence 'yat' and 'tat' must be supplied: the Sun's rays shine in heaven; those rays, at the beginning of the rainy season, take up the juices; offering those juices, they stir Indra to the rain-work. (Grammatical remarks on the neuter 'rocanā' follow.) ... Then the Adhvaryu-priests regard the Ṛk as addressed to the Sun (?). — [Objection:] 'For in the application of these (mantras) ...' — by Śruti: "Yuñjanti bradhnā aruṣam," it says: yonder Sun is "bradhna"; he yokes that very Sun for him, for the sake of the whole of the world of heaven (suvarga)'; therefore this Ṛk has the Sun as its deity. — [Reply:] No. There too, by force of the application, the horse that is being yoked is called 'bradhna' and 'aruṣa'; the Śruti is only a figurative statement (bhakti-mātra). Moreover, even if the Sun were the deity by force of Śruti, here, in the context of Indra, 'bradhna' and 'aruṣa' are equally possible of Indra, and the next Ṛk repeats the sense; therefore, by the use of 'bradhna' and 'aruṣa' as designations of the horses and by the connection of this Ṛk with 'hari' (the two bay horses), its being Aindrī is unquestioned: this Ṛk is addressed to Indra alone."

15 16

original p. 208

Anuvāda of Skandasvāmī's commentary; Western and other views (opening)

Anuvāda ¹⁷: "Yoga" means connection. So the sense is that it supplies a connection for the verb "yuñjanti." How is there a connection between Indra and the people? One must understand that, because the people satisfy Indra with stotras and oblations, there is a relation between Indra and the people who praise him, or who worship him in sacrifices and the like. For the word "bradhna," meaning "mahat" (great, large), "bradhna" is read among the words that give the sense of "wished-for objects" ("iṣṭa-prāpti"-type words, Ni. 3-[?]). So if "bradhnām" is taken as a qualifier of Indra, "bradhnām indram" means "the great Indra,

15. Source note on this long argument: Skandasvāmī's chief point is that Rik 6.1 has Indra, not the Sun, as its deity; his chief ground is the connection of "bradhna" and "aruṣa" with Indra's horses and with the "hari" of the next Ṛk. The details of the Mīmāṃsā-style reasoning are given above only in outline; the Sanskrit is preserved in full for checking.

16. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose, translated in full; the Sanskrit citations in it are given in three layers. References in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]; the Ṛg-vedic quotation was read from an enlarged slice; the gloss is mine, tentative.

17. of Skandasvāmī's commentary, in Kannada endowed with great capacity." "Aruṣam" is also a qualifier of Indra. The root "ruś" has the sense of shining, of lustre; so "aruṣam" means "one who shines." In the Ṛk

रुशद्वत्सा रुशती श्वेत्यागादारैगु कृष्णा सदनान्यस्याः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-११३-२ [?])

ruśadvatsā ruśatī śvety āgād āraigu kṛṣṇā sadanāny asyāḥ | |
(ṛ. saṃ. 1-113-2 [?]) (Reading note: the second half of the line is printed "āraigu" and I cannot settle it; I give it as printed, [?].)

Gloss (mine; tentative): "The bright one, with her calf, the shining white one, has come; the dark one has left her abodes." — and the Kannada notes: here the word "ruśat" is plainly said to mean shining, lustre. (Sāyaṇa too gives this meaning for "ruśat" in this Ṛk.)

Besides, according to the statement "āruṣatyāyatīti gati-karmasu pāṭhād ṛṣater gatyarthasyāruṣa-śabdo ganṭṛ-vacanaḥ" (आरुषत्यायतीति गतिकर्मसु पाठादृषतेर्गत्यर्थस्यारुषशब्दो गन्तृवचनः — "because 'āruṣati' is read among the verbs of motion, the word 'āruṣa,' from the root 'ṛṣ' in the sense of going, means 'one who goes'"), from the root "āruṣati," which has the sense of going, "aruṣam" means "gantāram" — one who goes (whether to war with enemies, or to receive the oblations in sacrifices). "Carantam" — one who goes to all regions. The sense: wherever Indra goes, there those who praise him go and worship him. Or: "yuñjanti bradhnam aruṣam carantam" — wherever the powerful and shining Indra goes, there men pray to him with stotras that their own desired aims be fulfilled.

Or: the words "bradhnam aruṣam carantam" need not be used as qualifiers of Indra. These words may be taken, with the senses "large, shining, moving everywhere," as qualifiers of the chariot. Since "yuñjanti" is said here, one may say that Indra's charioteers, such as Mātali, "yuñjanti" — "harness" (the horses to) — such a chariot. Therefore the whole discussion in this connection takes the form of praise of Indra. Since the genitive "tasthuṣaḥ" is used, one must supply after it the word "prabhāvena" ("by the power").

Having supplied it, "pari tasthuṣaḥ prabhāveṇa rocante rocanā divi" means: the rays of the Sun, shining in the sky, carrying drops of water in the rainy season, urge Indra, so that rain is produced on earth — that is, they stir him to action. That is: "the stars that shine by the power of Indra, who pervades all regions — 'rocanā,' the stars, in 'divi,' the sky — 'rocante' — shine," is the sense. How the stars shine by Indra's power is confirmed by the mantra "indro dīrghāya cakṣase ā sūryaṁ rohayad divi" (इन्द्रो दीर्घाय चक्षस आ सूर्य रोहयदिवि — indro dīrghāya cakṣasa ā sūryaṁ rohayad divi; ṛ. saṁ. 1-7-3 [as printed "1-?-3"]), "Indra caused the Sun to rise in the sky for far-seeing." Others explain: Indra placed the Sun in the heavenly region (the sky) so that the world might be lit at all times. By connection with the ray named Suṣumna, which is a power of the Sun, the Moon and the stars also ... ¹⁸

original p. 209

Anuvāda concluded: Skandasvāmī vs. the Brāhmaṇa; Veṅkaṭamādhava's view; where the Ṛk occurs; the question of the sūkta's deity

¹⁹ ...the stars also shine, or these rays "yuñjanti" Indra in the rain-work — that is, they stimulate him. How? The word "tasthuṣaḥ" in "carantaṁ pari tasthuṣaḥ" indicates the fixed beings, and also the moving beings; so the sense is that Indra moves among the whole world, fixed and moving, for the drinking of Soma or for fighting.

In the sacrifice, the Adhvaryu and some other priests who carry the chief role regard this Ṛk as addressed to the Sun, for the following reasons. In regard to the application of this Ṛk, the Śruti sentence (of the Brāhmaṇa) — "yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣaṁ ity āha | asau vā ādityo bradhnāḥ | aruṣo 'mum evāsmād ādityaṁ yunakti

18. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṁhitā."

Kannada prose, translated; references in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. Veṅkaṭamādhava's Sanskrit is read from an enlarged slice and flagged.

19. Continuing from p. 208:

suvarṅgasya lokasya samaṣṭyai" (युञ्जन्ति ब्रध्नमरुषमित्याह । असौ वा आदित्यो ब्रध्नः । अरुषोऽमुमेवास्मादादित्यं युनक्ति सुवर्गस्य लोकस्य समष्ट्यै — "' yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam," he says: yonder Sun is 'bradhna'; ... [he yokes the Sun to him] for the totality of the heavenly world") — says it. Since "bradhna" is plainly said here to mean the Sun, and since the word "Indra" is not found in this Ṛk, a doubt arises, quite naturally, in the question whether this Ṛk is addressed to the Sun. But that is not right. Because "bradhna" also means "horse" (Ni. 1-[-?]-[?]). Hence for the sentence "yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam carantam" the sense "they harness the shining, swiftly moving horses (to the chariot)" fits equally of the Sun and of Indra; it does not follow that it is spoken of the Sun alone. Besides, in the next Ṛk of this sūkta the word "harī," the name of Indra's horses, is plainly given, and in the fifth Ṛk the word "Indra" is read; so this mantra must be understood as addressed to Indra.

Further, in

Veṅkaṭamādhava

's commentary there is not much that is special; he says only:

युञ्जन्ति ब्रध्नम् । युञ्जन्ति महान्तमरोचमानं दिवि चरन्तं तस्थिवांसो देवा वा लोका वा ।
रोचनानि नक्षत्राणि इन्द्रतेजसा संधुक्षितान्यहत्वेऽपि प्रसारणमन्यत्रापि दृष्टम् ॥ yuñjanti bradhnām | yuñjanti mahāntam arocamānaṃ divi carantaṃ tasthivāṃso devā vā lokā vā | rocanāni nakṣatrāṇi indra-tejasā sandhukṣitāny ahatve 'pi prasāraṇam anyatrāpi dṛṣṭam | | (Reading note: this Sanskrit is compressed and its end is crowded; the clause "ahatve 'pi prasāraṇam anyatrāpi dṛṣṭam" is as I read it and I mark it [?]; the Kannada explains it as a remark on the form "tasthivāṃsaḥ.") Translation (mine, following the Kannada account): "'Yuñjanti bradhnām': the gods — or the worlds — standing about 'join' the great, (shining), moving in the sky; the 'rocanāni' are the stars, kindled by Indra's lustre. (The lengthening ['prasāraṇa'] in the word 'tasthivāṃsaḥ' is seen elsewhere also.)"

That is:

Veṅkaṭamādhava

has only repeated Skandasvāmī's meaning. "Tasthivāṃsaḥ" means the gods or the worlds, and "rocanā" the stars. Besides, he says: "Not only that the daytime is lit by Indra's lustre, but that lustre (or capacity, power) is spread everywhere."

Where the Ṛk occurs. The Ṛk "yuñjanti bradhnām aruṣam" is found not only in the Ṛgveda Saṃhitā but also in: Sāmaveda Saṃhitā (1-[?]-[?]); Atharvaveda Saṃhitā 20-26-4 [?], 20-42-10 [?], 20-68-6 [?]; Vājasaneyi-saṃhitā (Śukla Yajurveda) 23-5 [?]; Taittirīya-saṃhitā (Kṛṣṇa Yajurveda) 2-4-10-1 [?]; Maitrāyaṇīya-saṃhitā 3-16-3 [?]; Kauṣītaki-āraṇyaka 4-6 [?] — ²⁰ — and in Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa 2-8-4 [?] there is an exposition of the meaning of this mantra and of the two mantras that follow it.

The question of the sūkta's deity. There is a dispute as to the deity of this sūkta. For it is more favourable to firm interpretation if one says that the sūkta was spoken in view of one such deity ...

21

original p. 210

The deity of Sūkta 6 debated (Oldenburg); Dr. Sitanath Pradhan's and Max Müller's renderings; Pada-meanings

²² In the Anukramaṇī it is said that the first three Ṛks and the tenth Ṛk of this sūkta are addressed to the deity Indra; that the 4th, 6th, 8th and 9th [?] are addressed to the Maruts; and that the

20. all these references are small Kannada numerals, read with doubt, and given as best readings

21. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; the English passages are printed in English in the source and reproduced as printed. Small-numeral digits in the list of Ṛk numbers are marked [?].

22. Continuing the question of the sūkta's deity:

5th and 7th Ṛks are addressed to both deities, Indra and the Maruts. But the German scholar Oldenburg holds that when one considers the matters presented in the sūkta, it is not the Maruts but the Aṅgiras who are presented in place of the Maruts; and since "Aṅgiras" is also a name of Indra, there is no subject of the Maruts in this sūkta. Moreover, there is room for the statement that a large part of this sūkta is in praise of the Sun. Even among the ancient scholars there were different views about the deities presented in this sūkta.

Since this sūkta does not present any definite sacrifice or rite, Dr. Sitanath Pradhan states the chief intention shown in this sūkta in this way (English as printed in the source):

"It is the twilight of the early dawn; the stars are still shining. The singers yoke the sun-horse and at the same time Indra's two horses; It is the same sun who was born (at the time after the bursting open of the rock with the dawns. The patriarchs, Angiras have since regularised the sun-rise and sun-set; they who had then found out the concealed cows with the help of Indra and had then invoked Indra may the sun now appear with Indra! Indra joins in the song of the host of the devout singers. Thence come hither o wanderer; or from the bright realm of heaven. For him do our eulogies combinedly strive. We pray to Indra, for reward from here or from heaven, from the earthy or from the aerial region."

Max Müller explains the meaning of this Ṛk as follows (English as printed):

"Those who stand around him while he moves on, harness the bright red (steed); the lights in heaven shine forth."

The Kannada adds that this rendering follows the original without the slightest departure.

According to this, we explain the Pada-meaning and the Bhāvārtha in Kannada:

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

परि तस्थुषः (pari tasthuṣaḥ) — the people who stand all around |
 अरुषम् (aruṣam) — shining (English as printed: "spirited") | चरन्तम्
 (carantam) — one with swift movement | ब्रध्नम् (bradhnām) — a horse | युञ्जन्ति (yuñjanti) — they harness (to the chariot) | (तस्मिन्
 काले) रोचना (rocanā) — the stars, or the rays of the Sun | दिवि (divi)
 — in the sky | रोचन्ते (rocante) — shine.²³

original p. 211

Bhāvārtha; the chariot of the Sun or of Indra; the deities of the Ṛks; Aṅgiras and Paṇi

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Since the Sun has just risen, his rays spread through the whole sky and shine. At this time the people who stand all around harness to the chariot the shining, strong, swift-moving horse. Since the light has just begun, the stars are still shining.

Here the doubt arises whether "ratha" (chariot) means the Sun's chariot or Indra's. Indra's chariot must have two horses. The Sun's chariot must have seven horses. But since it is said "eko aśvo vahati saptanāmā" (एको अश्वो वहति सप्तनामा — eko aśvo vahati saptanāmā; ṛ. saṃ. 1-164-2 [?]) — "one horse, of seven names, carries" — it is right to say even one horse. And the second Ṛk plainly gives the name "harī," that of Indra's two horses. For these reasons we must believe what is said in the Anukramaṇī to be authoritative.

Now we shall consider the matter that sets forth the deities of the Ṛks 4, 6, 8 and 9 [?]: In the fifth Ṛk — "vīḷu cid ārujatnubhir guhā cid indra vahnibhiḥ | avinda usriyā anu" — it is said that the demons called Paṇi carried off the cows from the world of the gods and hid them in a cave that no one could know; and that Indra, with the help of those capable of destroying the stronghold (the Maruts or the Aṅgirasas), searched for them and brought them back. Here "those who are capable" — the ancient commentators such as Sāyaṇa, Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava say, are the "Maruts." But modern Western scholars such as Max Müller and Macdonell hold that the word "ārujatnubhiḥ" refers to the Aṅgirasas; because —

वीळु चिदृळ्हा पितरो न उक्थैरद्रिं रुजन्नङ्गिरसो रवेण । चक्रुर्दिवो बृहतो गातुमस्मे अहः स्वर्विविदुः केतुमुस्राः ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-७१-२ [?]) *vīḷu cid dṛḷhā pitaro na ukthair adriṃ rujann aṅgirasasō raveṇa | cakrur divo bṛhato gātum
 asme ahaḥ svar vividuḥ ketum usrāḥ* || (ṛ. saṃ. 1-71-2 [?])
 Gloss (mine; tentative): "Our fathers, by their hymns, the Aṅgirasas, breaking the firm, the rock, with their cry — they made for us a path of the great heaven; they found the day, the light, the banner, the cows." (The digits of the reference are small and I give "1-71-2 [?]" in the IAST line, and the form "1-71-2" only as my best reading in the Devanagari line.) in this Ṛk and in some other places it is said that the Aṅgirasas helped Indra in seizing the demon called Paṇi; so they think that the Ṛks of this sūkta have been spoken in view of the Aṅgirasas. Moreover, the German scholar Oldenburg is of the opinion that in all the Ṛks of this sūkta that are connected with the Maruts the meaning concerning the Aṅgirasas is quite natural. Thus this matter, too, is one that has to be called disputed.²⁴

original pp. 212–213

23. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
 Kannada prose translated; the verse below is read from an enlarged slice; its reference is in small Kannada numerals and marked [?]; the gloss is mine, tentative.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 6.1 (Kannada) — characterized; Sūkta 6, Second Mantra: Saṃhitā

p. 212. "Yuñjanti" — the root "yujir yoge" (to join): the third-person plural "laṭ," "jhi" → "ant"; because it is a "rudhādi" root (रुधादिभ्यः शनम्, पा. ३-१-७८) the vikaraṇa "śnam" comes in place of "śap"; the "m" of "śnam" is an "it" and, as an "mit" augment, it is placed after the last vowel of the stem (मिदचोऽन्त्यात्परः, पा. १-१-४७) — so "yu-na-j"; झोऽन्तः (पा. ७-१-३) and शनसोरल्लोपः (पा. ६-४-१११) elide the "a" of "śnam" before a "ñit/ñit" sārvaadhātuka; नश्चापदान्तस्य झलि (पा. ८-३-२४) puts anusvāra for "n" before a "jhal" letter; अनुस्वारस्य ययि परसवर्णः (पा. ८-४-५८) the "parasavarṇa" nasal: "yuñjanti." The accent: the "śnam" and the personal ending are unaccented, and only the first syllable is acute (आद्युदात्तश्च, पा. ३-१-३). "Bradhnām" — end-acute by the accent of the bare stem (prātipadika). "Aruṣam" — "ṛṣ/ruṣa/riṣa" (roots of injuring): "ruṣā" are the destroyers; the affix "ka" (इगुपधज्ञाप्र्रीकरः कः, पा. ३-१-१३५); the affix's acute; "na santi ruṣā yasya saḥ" — a bahuvrīhi; नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) end-acute; the second-case "am" with अमि पूर्वः (पा. ६-१-१०७) the pūrvarūpa, and एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५).

p. 213. "Carantam" — "śap" unaccented as "p"-marked; the "śatṛ" affix is unaccented by तास्यनुदात्तेन्डिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वनोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६); the root's accent alone remains. "Tasthuṣaḥ" — the root "ṣṭhā gati-nivṛttau": in "liṭ," the substitute "kvasu" (क्वसुश्च, पा. ३-२-१०७); the "kvasu" being "iṭ"-less here; the doubling (लिटि धातोर्नभ्यासस्य, पा. ६-१-८); शर्पूर्वाः खयः (पा. ७-४-६१) — in the reduplicative syllable, the "kh/ay" letters that follow "ś/ṣ/s" remain; ह्रस्वः (पा. ७-४-५९); अभ्यासे चर्च (पा. ८-४-५४): "tasthā + vas"; वस्वेकाजाद्धसाम् (पा. ७-२-६७) — "iṭ" for "vas" after a monosyllabic root with doubling; "sthā," ending in "ā," is a root for which "iṭ" is prescribed; the print argues that, since the "iṭ" is "antaraṅga," it should come first; but by the principle that the operation which is the ground of "samprasāraṇa" and the "samprasāraṇa" itself is stronger, वसोः संप्रसारणम् (पा. ६-४-१३१) and संप्रसारणाच्च (पा. ६-१-१०८) apply first, and शासिवसिघसीनां च (पा. ८-३-६०) gives "śa": "tasthuṣaḥ." The affix "vasu" gives the acute. "Rocante" — the "tiñ" unaccented; "śap" "p"-marked; the root-accent alone. "Rocanā" — अनुदात्तेश्च हलादेः (पा. ३-२-१४९) "yuc" after a root with an unaccented marker and a consonant initial; युवोरनाकौ (पा. ७-१-१) "ana"; the light penultimate takes guṇa; the affix is "c"-marked, so it is end-acute (चितः, पा. ६-१-१६३). "Divi" — the case-ending is acute by ऊडिदम्पदाद्यप्पुमैद्युभ्यः (पा. ६-१-१७१). ॥१॥ ²⁵

24. Page headers: p. 212 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 213 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "yuñjanti," "bradhnām," "aruṣam," "carantam," "tasthuṣaḥ," "rocante," "rocanā" and "divi"; they do not bear on the sense of Rik 6.1 (pp. 203–204 and the commentary after them). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain. Accent-marks not reproduced.

Sūkta 6, The Second Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁶

युञ्जन्त्यस्य काम्या हरी विपक्षसा रथे । शोणा धृष्णू नृवाहसा ॥२॥

yuñjanty asya kāmīyā harī vipakṣasā rathe | śoṇā dhr̥ṣṇū nṛvāhasā || 2 ||

original p. 214

Rik 6.2: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings (opening)

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

25. Accent-marks are printed on the next page; not reproduced here.

26. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.

युञ्जन्ति । अस्य । काम्या । हरी इति । विपक्षसा । रथे । शोणा । धृष्णू इति । नृवाहसा ॥
२॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अस्य ब्रध्नादिशब्दप्रतिपाद्यस्येत्यादिमूर्तिभिस्तत्र तत्रावस्थितस्येन्द्रस्य रथे हरी [?] नामानौ
द्वावश्चौ सारथयो युञ्जन्ति । इन्द्रसंबन्धिनोरश्वयोर्हरिनामत्वं हरी इन्द्रस्य रोहितोऽग्नेः । नै.
१-१५ [?] इति पठितत्वात् । कीदृशौ हरी । काम्या कामयितव्यौ विपक्षसा । विविधे पक्षसी
रथस्य पार्श्वे युक्तयोर्योस्तौ विपक्षसौ । रथस्य द्वयोः पार्श्वयोर्योजितावित्यर्थः । शोणा रक्तवर्णौ धृष्णू प्रगल्भौ नृवाहसा नृणां पुरुषाणामिन्द्रतत्सारथिप्रमुखानां वोढारौ ॥ asya bradhnādi-śabda-pratipādyasyety ādi-mūrtibhis tatra tatrāvasthitasyendrasya rathe harī [?] nāmānau dvāv aśvau sārathayo yuñjanti | indra-sambandhinor aśvayor harināmatvaṃ harī indrasya rohito 'gneḥ | nai. 1-15 [?] iti paṭhitatvāt | kīdṛśau harī | kāmāyā kāmavitavyau vipakṣasā | vividhe pakṣasī rathasya pārsve yuktayor yayos tau vipakṣasau | rathasya dvayor pāśvayor yojitāv ity arthaḥ | śoṇā rakta-varṇau dhṛṣṇū pragalbhai nṛvāhasā nṛṇām
puruṣāṇām indra-tat-sārathi-pramukhānām voḍhārau | | (Reading note: the first clause is crowded in the print — the first words ("asya bradhnādi...") and the word before
"nāmānau" (which I read "harī [?]") are as I could make them;
the Nirukta reference "1-15" is small numerals, [?].)

Translation: "Of this (Indra) — who is conveyed by the words 'bradhnā' and the rest, abiding here and there in those forms — in his chariot the two horses named Hari — 'sārathayaḥ' — the charioteers 'yuñjanti' — yoke. That the two horses connected with Indra bear the name 'harī' is because it is read (in the Nighaṇṭu list of horse-names): 'harī indrasya, rohito 'gneḥ' (Nirukta [1-15 ?]). What kind of 'harī'? 'Kāmāyā' — to be desired, desirable. 'Vipakṣasā' — those two (horses) which are yoked on the two various sides ('pakṣasī') of the chariot — yoked on both flanks of the chariot, the sense. 'Śoṇā' — red-coloured; 'dhr̥ṣṇū' — bold; 'nṛvāhasā' — the two bearers of men: Indra, his charioteer and the chief among them."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept):

"Asya" — the genitive of "idam," as at p. 124 (the "a" substitute, with the case-ending acute). "Kāmyā" — "kamu kāntau" (to desire), the causal "ṇic" (कमेणिङ्, पा. ३-१-३०) in the sense of the desiderative; the affix "yat" by कामयितव्यौ...; अचो यत् (पा. ३-१-९७, as printed "3-1-?2"); तित्स्वरितापवादत्वेन यतोऽनावः (पा. ६-१-२१३) — by exception to the "tit-svarita" rule, "yat" gives the first-syllable acute to a word of two or more vowels with "ṇic" included, so "kāmyā" is first-syllable acute; the dual ending "au" is replaced by "ā" (सुपां सुलुक्...). "Harī" — "harato ratham" ("they carry the chariot"); the Uṇādi हृषिपिशिरुहिवृत्तिविदिचिदिदीर्घातिभ्यश्च [as printed, garbled] (उ. सू. ४-१३५ [?]) the affix "in"; "n"-marked, first-syllable acute. "Vipakṣasā" — "pakṣas" from "paca" with the Uṇādi पचिवचिभ्यां सुट् च (उ. सू. ४-२१५ [?]) — "asun" with the augment "suṭ"; वि + पक्षसौ — a bahuvrīhi "vibhinne pakṣasī pārśve yayoh tau vipakṣasau"; "vi" is a particle (nipāta), hence the first member is acute; the first member's accent is retained; the dual is replaced by "ā." "Rathe" — "ramu krīḍāyām" (to play), the Uṇādi "kthan" (हनिकुषिनीरमिकाशिभ्यः कथन्, उ. सू. २-२ [?]), "kit," so no guṇa; अनुदात्तोपदेशवनतितनोत्यादीनाम्... (पा. ६-४-३७); "m" elided; first-syllable acute by the "n"-mark. "Śoṇā" — "śoṇṛ varṇa-gatyoh" (colour, going), "ghañ" in the sense of "gam"-derived instrument, "ñit," so first-syllable acute; the dual ending replaced by "ā." "Dhr̥ṣṇū" — "ñidhr̥ṣā prāgalbhye" (to be bold): the affix "knu" (त्रसिगृधिधृषिक्षिपेः क्नुः, पा. ३-२-१४० [as printed]); "kit," so no guṇa; the affix's accent; "nṛvāhasā" — "na vahata iti"; the Uṇādi वहेर्वहिपाधाङ्भ्यश्छन्दसि (उ. सू. ४-२१० [?]) "asun"; "ñit" by णिदित्यनुवृत्ते: — vṛddhi; "nṛṇām vāhasau" — a genitive tatpuruṣa, retaining the kṛt-final member's accent. ॥२॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ²⁷

(The charioteers and others) अस्य (asya) — (as said before, the one who is conveyed by the words "Āditya" and the rest) of this Indra | रथे (rathe) — in the chariot (to the chariot) | काम्या (kāmyā) — (to Indra) beloved, or dear | शोणा (śoṇā) — ... ²⁸

original p. 215

Rik 6.2: Pada-meanings concluded; Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics

²⁹ शोणा (śoṇā) — red-coloured | धृष्णू (dhṛṣṇū) — full of enthusiasm | नृवाहसा (nṛvāhasā) — those who carry Indra and the charioteer (who have taken the form of men) | विपक्षसा (vipakṣasā) — yoked to the left and right flanks of the chariot | हरी (harī) — the two horses | युञ्जन्ति (yuñjanti) — they yoke (they harness).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The charioteer and others yoke Indra's two favourite horses, on the two flanks, left and right, to Indra's chariot. Those horses, though red in colour, are full of enthusiasm and have the capacity to carry men — that is, their master Indra, the charioteer and others. Such excellent horses they yoke to Indra's chariot.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"They are harnessing to his (Indra's) chariot, one on each side, his favourite pair of bay coloured horses, high-spirited and able to carry their brave lord."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

27. Kannada, translated; continued on the next page

28. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Kannada prose translated; English as printed; references in small Kannada numerals marked [?].

29. Continuing the Pada-meanings from p. 214:

The pāda "yuñjanty asya kāmā" is quoted in the Āpastamba-śrauta-sūtra (20-[?]-[?]) and the Maitrāyaṇīya-saṃhitā (3-[?]-[?])³⁰. In the Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa (2-8-4 [?]) there is an exposition of this Ṛk. There it says "śoṇā dhṛṣṇū nṛvāhasety āha | aho rātre vai nṛvāhasā" (शोणा धृष्णू नृवाहसेत्याह । अहो रात्रे वै नृवाहसा — "' śoṇā dhṛṣṇū nṛvāhasā,' he says: day and night, indeed, are the 'nṛvāhasā'" — that is, for the word "nṛvāhasā" an adhyātmika meaning, "day and night," is given; nothing further of special note.

काम्या (kāmyā) — wished-for, dear; favourite. हरी (harī) — Indra's two horses have the name "harī." विपक्षसा (vipakṣasā) — the separate flanks, that is, the left and right flanks. रथे (rathe) — "ramante 'smin iti rathaḥ" (रमन्तेऽस्मिन्निति रथः — "that in which they delight is the 'ratha'" — "ramu krīḍāyām" (to play): because one sits in it and moves, it is called "ratha." शोणा (śoṇā) —³¹ "crimson, bright, bay or chestnut." धृष्णू (dhṛṣṇū) — full of enthusiasm;³² "fiery, high-spirited." नृवाहसा (nṛvāhasā) — those who have the capacity to carry (or to draw) men. The words "kāmyā, harī, vipakṣasā, śoṇā, dhṛṣṇū, nṛvāhasā" are all dual (second-case or first-case dual) words, and are qualifiers of the word "harī."³³

original p. 216

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 6.2 (Kannada) — characterized

"Asya" — in the previous mantra the word "idam" is not a back-reference (anvādeśa), because the Indra described by the words "bradhna" and the rest has been mentioned only by those words and "asya" does not point back to a repeated operation; so, by इदमो

30. numbers small and uncertain

31. English as printed

32. English

33. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."

Pure grammar in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 214;

characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.

ऽन्वादेशे ऽशनुदात्त ऋतृतीयादौ (पा. २-४-३२) the "aś" substitute does not occur and the unaccented "a" ... does not arise; the whole of "idam" is replaced by "a" (with the case-ending acute): "asya" is a pronoun (sarvanāma), acute on its case-ending. "Kāmyā" — "kamu kāntau"; the "ṇic" (कमेणिङ्, पा. ३-१-३० [as printed]); vṛddhi of the penultimate (अत उपधायाः, पा. ७-२-११६) → "kā-m-i"; the root-name by सनाद्यन्ता धातवः (पा. ३-१-३२); अचो यत् (पा. ३-१-९७) "yat" after a root ending in a vowel; णेरनिटि (पा. ६-४-५१) the "ṇi" elided → "kāmya"; by exception to तित्स्वरितम् (पा. ६-१-१८५), यतोऽनावः (पा. ६-१-२१३) gives first-syllable acute; the dual "au" → "ā" (सुपां सुलुक्..., पा. ७-१-३९). "Harī" — "harato ratham"; the Uṇādi "in" after "hr̥ñ" (उ. सू. ४-१३५ [?]); "n"-marked, first-syllable acute; the dual "ā" is, in the Veda, "ī." "Vipakṣasā" — पचिवचिभ्यां सुट् च (उ. सू. ४-२१५ [?]): after "pac" and "vac" the Uṇādi affix "asun" and the augment "suṭ"; "pac + suṭ + as" → चोः कुः (पा. ८-२-३०) "k"; आदेशप्रत्यययोः (पा. ८-३-५९) "ṣ" for the "s" → "pakṣas"; "vibhinne pakṣasī pārśve yayoh tau vipakṣasau" — a bahuvrīhi ("yoked to the two different flanks of the chariot"); "vi" a particle, first-syllable acute; बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) retains it; the dual → "ā." "Rathe" — "ramante 'smin iti rathaḥ" — from "ramu krīḍāyām" the Uṇādi हनिकुषिनीरमिकाशिभ्यः कथन् (उ. सू. २-२ [?]); "kit," so the root's "m" is elided by अनुदात्तोपदेश... (पा. ६-४-३७) ...; "n"-marked, hence first-syllable acute.³⁴

original p. 217

Rik 6.2 grammar concluded; Sūkta 6, Third Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

"Śoṇā"³⁵ — "śoṇṛ varṇa-gatyoh" (colour, going); the affix "ghañ" in the instrument sense (the horses are the means of going); "ñit," so first-syllable acute; the dual "au" is replaced by "ā" (सुपां सुलुक्..., पा. ७-१-३९). "Dhr̥ṣṇū" — "ñidhr̥ṣā prāgalbhye" (to be bold) — the affix "knu" (त्रसिगृधिधृषिक्षिपे: क्नुः, पा. ३-२-१४०); "kit," so no guṇa for the light penultimate (क्विति च, पा. १-१-५); the affix's accent. "Nṛvāhasā" — "nṛñ vahataḥ" — an etymological analysis ("those who carry men"); the Uṇādi वहिहाधाङ्भ्यश्छन्दसि (उ. सू. ४-२१० [?]) "asun" after these roots in the Veda; "ñit" by continuation (णिदित्यनुवृत्ते:), vṛddhi of "vah" → "vāh-as" (अत उपधायाः, पा. ७-२-११६); the dual "ā" (सुपां सुलुक्); the whole is first-syllable acute as "n"-marked; गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) — the kṛt-final member's accent retained, so the first-syllable acute stands. ॥२॥

Sūkta 6, The Third Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

केतुं कृण्वन्नकेतवे पेशो मर्या अपेशसे । समुषद्विरजायथाः ॥३॥

*ketum̐ kṛṇvann aketave peśo maryā apeśase | sam uṣadbhir
ajāyathāḥ || 3 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

केतुम् । कृण्वन् । अकेतवे । पेशः । मर्याः । अपेशसे । सम् । उषत्सुभिः । अजायथाः ॥३॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ³⁶

हे मर्या मनुष्या इदमाश्चर्यं पश्यतेत्यध्याहारः । किमाश्चर्यमिति तदुच्यते । आदित्यरूपोऽयमिन्द्र उषद्भिर्दाहकै रश्मिभिः प्रतिदिनमुषःकाले वा संभूयोऽजायथाः । उदपद्यत । अथवा सूर्यस्यैवास्तमये मरणमुपचर्य । व्यत्ययेन बहुवचनं कृत्वा संबोधनं क्रियते । हे मर्य प्रतिदिनं त्वमजायथा इति योज्यं किं कुर्वन् । अकेतवे रात्रौ निद्राभिभूतत्वेन प्रज्ञानरहिताय he maryā manuṣyā idam āścaryam paśyatety adhyāhāraḥ | kim

34. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced, per the standing convention. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

35. concluding the grammar of Rik 6.2

36. opening, p. 217

*āścaryam iti tad ucyate | āditya-rūpo 'yam indra uṣadbhir dāhakai raśmibhiḥ pratidinam uṣaḥ-kāle vā sambhūyo
'jāyathāḥ | udapadyata | athavā sūryasyaivāstamaye
maraṇam upacarya | vyatyayena bahuvacanaṃ kṛtvā
sambodhanaṃ kriyate | he marya pratidinaṃ tvam ajāyathā
iti yojyaṃ kiṃ kurvan | aketave rātrau nidrābhibhūtatvena prajñāna-rahitāya (Reading notes: the page ends at "prajñāna-rahitāya" and the sentence continues on the next page; the form "maryā" for the vocative plural is printed so, with the Pada text giving "maryāḥ"; "dāhakai" is printed "dāhakaiḥ" with a letter I read as slightly crowded.)*

Translation (of the part on this page): "'O "maryāḥ" — O men! — behold this wonder': this is the supplied sense. What is the wonder? It is said: this Indra, who is of the form of the Sun, is born every day, becoming one with the burning rays, at dawn — he arises. Or: since the very setting of the Sun is a figurative 'death,' the vocative plural is used by a change of number — 'O mortal! you are born every day' (the sentence is to be construed so). Doing what? 'Aketave' — for the one (in the night) without understanding, overcome by sleep ..." .³⁷

original p. 218

Rik 6.3: Bhāṣya concluded; grammar (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha (opening)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥³⁸

प्राणिने केतुं कृण्वन् । प्रातः प्रज्ञानं कुर्वन् । अपेशसे
रात्र्यान्धकारावृतत्वेनानभिव्यक्तत्वादूपरहिताय पदार्थाय प्रातरन्धकारनिवारणेन पेशो
रूपमभिव्यज्यमानं कुर्वन् । पेश इति रूपनामानि पिंशतेः । नि. ३-११ [?] । इति यास्कः ।
अकेतवेऽपेशस इति चतुर्थी षष्ठ्यर्थे द्रष्टव्या ॥ prāṇine ketuṃ kṛṇvan | prātaḥ

37. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. The Nirukta reference is in small numerals and marked [?].

38. concluding

*prajñānaṃ kurvan | apeśase rātryāndhakārāvṛtatvenānabhiviyaktatvād rūpa-rahitāya padārthāya prātar-andhakāra-nivāraṇena peśo rūpam abhivyaḥyamānaṃ kurvan | peśa iti rūpa-nāmāni piṃśateḥ |
 nī. 3-11 [?] | iti yāśkaḥ | aketave 'peśasa iti caturthī ṣaṣṭhy-
 arthe draṣṭavyā ||*

Translation:

"Giving 'ketu' (awareness) to the living being: making knowledge (prajñāna) in the morning; 'apeśase' — to an object that, being covered by the darkness of night, is unmanifest and so is without form — making 'peśaḥ,' form, to be manifested by the removal of the morning-darkness. 'Peśaḥ' is a name for form, from 'piṃś' (to adorn) — thus Yāska (Nirukta [3-11 ?]). 'Aketave' and 'apeśase' are datives to be understood in the sense of the genitive."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept; read from the slice): "Ketum" — a bare stem, acute by its own accent (prātipadika-svara). "Kṛṇvan" — "kṛvi hiṃsā-karaṇayoś ca" (to injure, to do): the substitute "śatṛ" for "laṭ"; इदितो नुम् धातोः (पा. ७-१-५८)

the augment "num"; "śap" might arise but धिन्विकृष्योर च (पा. ३-१-८०) — the affix "u" after "dhinv" and "kṛṇv," and "a" for the final "v" — "kṛṇv" + "u"; अतो लोपः (पा. ६-४-४८) elides the "a"; since that elision is treated as present (sthānivadbhāva), the guṇa of the light penultimate by पुगन्तलघूपधस्य च (पा. ७-३-८६) does not occur; the accent is the affix's. "Aketave" — a bahuvrīhi with "nañ"; नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) makes the second member end-acute. "Peśaḥ" — a "sab-viṣaya"-class neuter stem, first-syllable acute (नबिषयस्यानिसन्तस्य, Phiṭ-sūtra). "Maryāḥ" — in the Veda "mṛ" with "kyap" (छन्दसि निष्टक्यदेवहूयप्रणीयोन्नीयोच्छिष्यमर्यस्तर्ध्वर्यखन्यखान्यदेवयज्याऽऽपृच्छप्रतिषीव्रह्मवाद्यभाव्यस्ताव्योपचाय्यपृ- पा. ३-१-१२३ — as printed, abbreviated) — "mṛ + kyap" — "marya"; the vocative loses its accent (आमन्त्रितस्य च, पा. ८-१-१९); since there is no mutual connection of sense with the preceding word, "parāṅgavad-bhāva" does not occur. "Apeśase" — नञ्सुभ्याम् — end-

acute. "Sam" — a particle, first-syllable acute. "Uṣadbhiḥ" — "uṣa plusa dāhe" (to burn): "laṭ" and its substitute "śaṭṛ"; "śap" would arise, but by vyatyaya "śa" (the tudādi vikaraṇa); the sārvaadhātuka is not "p"-marked (सार्वधातुकमपित्, पा. १-२-४), so no guṇa for the light penultimate; "śa" gives the accent by the affix's acute; and since "śaṭṛ" is unaccented (the root's upadeśa-based), the "lasārvaadhātuka" is unaccented; the single substitute is acute (एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः). "Ajāyathāḥ" — in the sense "ajāyata" the second-person verb stands for the third (by vyatyaya), and by पुरुषव्यत्ययो निघातः — no nighāta applies.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) मर्याः (he maryāḥ) — O men (look at this wonder) | आदित्यरूपनादे (ādityarūpanāde) — (Indra) who has the form of the Sun | उषद्भिः (uṣadbhiḥ) — daily at dawn, with the rays | अकेतवे (aketave) — to those who, because of sleep at night, are without understanding | केतुम् (ketum) — (at dawn, awakening) understanding | अपेशसे (apeśase) — (at night) to things that, covered by darkness, cannot be seen as having any form, giving light | पेशः (peśaḥ) — (of things) each of their forms (the power to see them) | कृण्वन् (kr̥ṇvan) — making | सं अजायथाः (saṁ ajāyathāḥ) — he is born (appears).

Or: मर्याः (maryāḥ) — O man (the plural used for the singular) | (त्वम्) (tvam) — you | उषद्भिः (uṣadbhiḥ) ... समजायथाः (samajāyathāḥ) — every day, at the time of sunset, like one who dies, you become without understanding, and at morning you are born with consciousness; so we say: "be aware."

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥ ³⁹

O Indra! You, in the form of the Sun, rise every day at dawn, and set at sunset; when you set, creatures are overcome by sleep ... ⁴⁰

Rik 6.3: Bhāvārtha concluded; English rendering; Special topics

⁴¹ ...creatures are overcome by sleep, and are without consciousness, and from the darkness of night are unable to see the forms of anything. When you rise at dawn, creatures awake and, with consciousness or understanding, are able to see the forms of all things in the light. Therefore, to the creatures who are overcome by sleep, you give — every day — consciousness, and the power to see the forms of all things.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"O mortals, (look at this wonder). Indra (in the form of Aditya) rises every day at dawn giving sense to the senseless (while in sleep) and form to the formless. or O mortal, having been dead (asleep) at the setting of the sun you are born ever with morning rays."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The meaning of this Ṛk is not plain. For the word "ketu," the Nirukta (Ni. 3-[?]) says "prajñā" (understanding). In the Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa (2-[?]-[?]) it is said that "ketu" means "dhvaja" (banner): "ketuṃ kṛṇvann aketave iti dhvajam pratimuñcati" (केतुं कृण्वन्केतव इति ध्वजं प्रतिमुञ्चति — "' ketuṃ kṛṇvann aketave,' with this he fastens the banner"); when setting up a banner they recite this mantra. Though "ketu" has the sense of "banner," that sense does not fit here. Those who follow the method laid down in the Gṛhyasūtras recite this mantra in order to invoke the "ketu-graha" (the planet Ketu) when they perform the worship of the nine planets (navagraha); but in this mantra there is no subject concerning the

40. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Kannada prose translated; English as printed; the Nirukta and Taittirīya references in small numerals are marked [?].

41. Concluding the Bhāvārtha from p. 218:

planet Ketu. Since the word "ketu" alone is common to both, this is likely to be a customary (rūḍha) use; likewise the use of mantras that contain the names of other planets in the worship and invocation of those planets is probably a conventional one. For in the Ṛgveda there is no consideration of the nine planets. Only the two names, Sūrya and Candra, are found there. The names of the stars are not there either. Only in the Yajurveda are the names of the stars, and the descriptions of the full-moon and new-moon days, explained. The names of the nine planets are not there either. Therefore it may be said without doubt that the worship of the planets (graha-yajña) was not in use in the time of the Vedas and came into custom later.

पेशः (peśaḥ) — "peśa iti rūpa-nāma piṁśate" (पेश इति रूपनाम पिंशते — "'peśa' is a name of form, from 'piṁś', Ni. 3-[?]-[?]); "peśa" means form. अपेशसे (apeśase) — to one without form.

मर्याः (maryāḥ) — men. This word is the first-case plural. In this Ṛk the verb "ajāyathāḥ" is in the second person, singular ... ⁴²

original p. 220

Special topics on Rik 6.3 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

⁴³ ...the verb "ajāyathāḥ" is in the second-person singular; if "maryāḥ" were taken as the agent (kartṛ), then, since the verb is singular, the two do not agree. For the convenience of the metre the singular "marya" is used in the long form "maryā," say some; but in such cases there is no cause for such a metrical advantage or disadvantage here; for after the word "maryā" comes "apeśase," and the final long "ā" of "maryā" should have combined with the first "a" of the following word (by savarṇa-

42. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as read.

43. Continuing "maryāḥ" from p. 219:

dirgha), which has not happened here. Besides, in the Pada-text the plural word with the visarga, "maryāḥ," is plainly given. Therefore, as Sāyaṇa has said at the beginning of his Bhāṣya, this word should be said to be used merely for addressing ordinary people (the public). Western scholars hold the same view. In the view that uses the singular "marya," the agent-word "tvam" must be supplied here.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴⁴

"Ketum" — फिषः (Phiṣ-sūtra 1) — by the bare-stem accent, "ketu" is end-acute. "Kṛṇvan" — "kṛvi hiṃsā-karaṇayoś ca" (to injure; to do): after "laṭ," the substitute "śatr̥" (लटः शतृशानचावप्रथमासमानाधिकरणे, पा. ३-२-१२४); the root is "i"-marked (इदितो नुम् धातोः, पा. ७-१-५८), so "num" is added; by the paribhāṣā मिदचोऽन्त्यात्परः (पा. १-१-४७) the "num" is placed after the last vowel: "kṛṇv"; the agent-affix "śap" would come by कर्तरि शप् (पा. ३-१-६८), but, as it would be unsuitable, by धिन्विकृण्व्योर च (पा. ३-१-८०) — after "dhinv" and "kṛṇv," the final "v" is replaced by "a," and in place of the "śap" vikaraṇa the affix "u" comes — "kṛṇ + u + at"; अतो लोपः (पा. ६-४-४८) — an "a" before an ārdhadhātuka that begins with a vowel is elided — the "a" before "u" is elided; then पुगन्तलघूपधस्य च (पा. ७-३-८६) would give guṇa to the light penultimate before a sārvaadhātuka or ārdhadhātuka affix, but the "a"-elision is treated as present, अचः परस्मिन्पूर्वविधौ (पा. १-१-५७) — so the guṇa does not occur. ^{45 46}

original pp. 221–222

44. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept

45. The page ends in the middle of an argument about whether a single intervening letter blocks the operation — "vyavadhāna" — concluding that a mere letter-interposition does not prevent the rule when a rule's own wording requires it ("vacana-prāmāṇyāt"); it continues on the next page.

Rik 6.3 grammar concluded (characterized); Sūkta 6, Fourth Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

p. 221 — "kṛṇvan" (concluded) and the other words of Rik 6.3.

⁴⁷ ...even with many interposed letters the rule does not apply; but here, through sthānivadbhāva, the "n" and "a" interpose and so no guṇa comes: "kṛṇ + u + at." Taking the "śatr̥" as the ground, सार्वधातुकार्धधातुकयोः (पा. ७-३-८४) would give guṇa, but it is barred by क्ति च (पा. १-१-५); इकोयणचि (पा. ६-१-७७) gives the "y/v" substitute → "kṛṇv-at"; since "śatr̥" is not at the beginning of the (substituted) stem, तास्यनुदात्तेऽङि... does not give it the unaccented; the affix-accent holds: "śatr̥" is acute on its "a." ऋवर्णान्नस्य णत्वं वाच्यम् (वा. पा. ८-४-११) — "ṇ" for "n" after "ṛ," so "kṛṇv"; then "su" ... उगिदचां सर्वनामस्थानेऽधातोः (पा. ७-१-७०) the "num" augment; हल्ङ्याभ्यो दीर्घात्सुतिस्त्वृक्तं हल् (पा. ६-१-६८) elides "su"; संयोगान्तस्य लोपः (पा. ८-२-२३) elides the "t"; the elision being "asiddha," the "n" is not elided: "kṛṇvan." "Aketave" — a "nañ" bahuvrīhi (नञ्सुभ्याम्, पा. ६-२-१७२), second member end-acute. "Peśaḥ" — first-syllable acute (नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य). "Maryāḥ" — छन्दसि निष्टक्य...मर्यस्तर्धध्वर्य... (पा. ३-१-१२३, as printed in the abbreviated list): the Veda has the forms formed with "kyap" from "mṛ"; since "marya" is among the nipātanās, being a vocative it is unaccented (आमन्त्रितस्य च, पा. ८-१-१९); "peśaḥ" and "maryāḥ" have no mutual connection, so "parāṅgavad-bhāva" does not occur (सुबामन्त्रिते पराङ्गवत्स्वरे, पा. २-१-२). "Apeśase" — नञ्सुभ्याम्, end-acute. "Sam" — a particle, first-

46. Page headers: p. 221 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā"; p. 222 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." The grammar on p. 221 and the top of p. 222 is pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 218; characterized in outline, sūtras kept; numbers as read. Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā/Pada are printed on p. 222; not reproduced. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.

47. Continuing p. 220:

syllable acute. "Uṣadbhiḥ" — "uṣa dāhe" (to burn): "laṭ" and "śaṭṛ"; in place of "śap," by vyatyaya, the vikaraṇa "śa"; the sārvaadhātuka is not "p"-marked, so no guṇa for the light penultimate (क्ङिति च); "śa" is acute by the affix ...

p. 222 — "uṣadbhiḥ" and "ajāyathāḥ" concluded. ⁴⁸ ...the "a" of "śa" and the "a" of "śaṭṛ" — since both are "a" — combine as pararūpa (अतो गुणे, पा. ६-१-९४), and the single substitute from the acute and unaccented is acute (एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः, पा. ८-२-५).

"Ajāyathāḥ" — a second-person form standing, by vyatyaya, for the first-person "ajāyata"; it is unaccented by तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८). ॥

३॥

Sūkta 6, The Fourth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आदह स्वधामनु पुनर्गर्भत्वमेरिरे । दधाना नाम यज्ञियम् ॥४॥

ād aha svadhām anu punar garbhatvam erire | dadhānā nāma yajñiyam || 4 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आत् । अह । स्वधाम् । अनु । पुनः । गर्भत्वम् । आ । ईरिरे । दधानाः । नाम । यज्ञियम् ॥४॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁴⁹

अत्रास्ति विशेषविनियोगः । चतुर्विंशेऽहनि प्रातःसवने ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिशस्त्र आदह स्वधामन्निति द्वे ऋचौ । इन्द्रेण सं हि दृक्षस इत्येका । अयं तृचः षळहस्तोत्रियसंज्ञकः । तथा च सूत्रितं चतुर्विंशे होताजनिष्वेति खण्डे । इन्द्रेण सं हि दृक्षस आदह स्वधामन्नित्येका द्वे च । आ. ६-९ [?] । इति । यद्यप्येतद्वैन्द्रं सूक्तं तथाप्यादहेत्यादिषु षट्सु मारुतो वर्ण्यन्ते । प्रायेणैन्द्रे मारुत इत्यनुक्रमणिकायामुक्तत्वात् । अनु. ३-११ [?] ॥ आदित्ययुवानन्तर्याथो निपातः । आहेत्यवधारणार्थः । आदह वर्षतोरनन्तरमेव । स्वधामनु । इतः परं जनिष्यमाणमन्मुदकं

48. Continuing:

49. opening

वानुलक्ष्य मरुतो देवा गर्भत्वमेरिरे । मेघमध्ये जलस्य गर्भाकारं प्रेरितवन्तः । जलस्य कर्तारं
पर्जन्यं प्रेरितवन्तः । प्रतिसंवत्सरमेवं कुर्वन्तीति दर्शयितुं पुनःशब्दः प्रयुक्तः । कीदृशा मरुतः ।
यज्ञियं यज्ञार्हं नाम दधानाः धारयन्तः । सप्तसु गणेषु मरुतामावृज्जान्यावृज्जेत्यादीनि
यज्ञयोग्यानि नामान्यन्यत्राम्नातानि । अन्ध इत्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेष्वन्ननामसूक्तं रसः ...

*atrāsti viśeṣa-viniyogaḥ | caturviṃśe 'hani prātaḥ-savane brāhmaṇācchamsi-śāstra ādaha svadhām ann iti dve ṛcau |
indreṇa saṃ hi dṛkṣasa ity ekā | ayam ṛcaḥ śalaha-stotriya-
saṃjñakaḥ | tathā ca sūtritaṃ caturviṃśe hotājaniṣveti
khaṇḍe | indreṇa saṃ hi dṛkṣasa ādaha svadhām ann ity ekā
dve ca | ā. 6-9 [?] | iti | yady apy etad aindraṃ sūktaṃ
tathāpy ādahety ādiṣu ṣaṭsu maruto varṇyante | prāyeṇaindre maruta ity anukramaṇikāyām uktatvāt | anu. 3-11 [?] | |
āditya-yuvān-antaryārtho nipātaḥ | āhety avadhāraṇārthaḥ |
ādaha varṣator anantaram eva | svadhām anu | itaḥ paraṃ janiṣyamāṇam annam udakaṃ vānulaḥkṣya maruto devā garbhatvam erire | megha-madhye jalasya garbhākāraṃ
preritavantāḥ | jalasya kartāraṃ parjanyaṃ preritavantāḥ | prati-saṃvatsaram evaṃ kurvantīti darśayitum punaḥ-śabdaḥ
prayuktaḥ | kīdrśā marutaḥ | yajñīyaṃ yajñārhaṃ nāma
dadhānāḥ dhārayantaḥ | saptasu gaṇeṣu marutām āvrjñān
yāvrjñety ādīni yajña-yogyāni nāmāny anyatrāmnātāni | andha ity ādiṣv aṣṭaviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣv anna-nāmasūrk rasaḥ ... (Reading notes: (i) the quotation of the Sūtra is "ā. 6-9 [?]" and of the Anukramaṇī "anu. 3-11 [?]" — small Kannada numerals read with doubt; (ii) the compound "āditya-yuvān-antaryārtho" is printed in this form — I read it as "āt" ("then") with the sense "immediately after;" and give the printed letters as they stand; (iii) "āvrjñān yāvrjñety" is crowded and I give it as read, flagged — it is meant to be the Marut names listed elsewhere; (iv) the last line ends mid-list at the foot of the page,
"...anna-nāmasūrk rasaḥ," and continues on p. 223.)*

Translation (of the part on this page): "Here is a special application: on the twenty-fourth day, at the morning pressing, in the Brāhmaṇacchaṃsin's śāstra, the two Ṛks 'ād aha svadhām anu' (Ṛks 4 and 6 [?]) and the one 'indreṇa saṃ hi dṛkṣase' are used. This ṛca is called the 'śaḷaha-stotriya.' So it is laid down in the Sūtra, in the section 'caturviṃśe hotājaniṣva': 'indreṇa saṃ hi dṛkṣasa — one; ād aha svadhām anu — and two' (Āśv. [6-9 ?]). Although this sūkta is addressed to Indra, in the six Ṛks beginning 'ādaha' the Maruts are described; because the Anukramaṇī says 'mostly in an Indra (sūkta), the Maruts' (Anu. [3-11 ?]). 'Āt' is a particle in the sense of 'immediately after'; 'aha' is in the sense of emphasis: 'ād aha' — immediately after the raining. 'Svadhām anu' — looking to the coming food, or to the water, the Maruts, the gods, 'garbhatvam erire' — drove (set in motion) the form of a germ of water in the midst of the cloud: they impelled Parjanya, the maker of water. The word 'punaḥ' is used to show that they do this every year. What kind of Maruts? 'Yajñiyam nāma dadhānāḥ' — bearing a name fit for sacrifice. In the seven groups of the Maruts, names fit for sacrifice are recited elsewhere. Among the twenty-eight names of food beginning with 'andha,' 'ūrka' and 'rasaḥ' ..." .⁵⁰

original p. 223

Rik 6.4: Bhāṣya concluded; grammar (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥⁵¹

...स्वधेति पठितम् । ऊर्ण इत्यादिष्वेकशतसंख्याकेषूदकनामसु तेजः स्वधाऽन्नमिति पठितम्
॥ आदह निपातत्वादाद्युदात्तः । स्वधाम् । स्वं लोकं दधाति पुष्पातीति । स्वधा ।
आतोऽनुपसर्गे कः । पा. ३-२-३ । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । अनु पुनःशब्दौ

50. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. English as printed.

51. concluding from p. 222

निपातत्वादाद्युदात्तौ । गर्भस्य भावो गर्भत्वम् । प्रत्ययस्वरः । एरिरे ।
 अन्तर्भावितण्यर्थादीरतेर्गतावित्यस्मादनुदात्तेतः परस्य लिटो झस्य इरेच् । पा. ३-४-८१ ।
 चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः । सह सुपा । पा. २-१-४ । इत्यत्र सुपेति योगविभागादाडौ सह तिङः समासेऽपि समासस्य । पा. ६-१-२२३ । इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । इजादेश्च गुरुमतोऽनृच्छः । पा.
 ३-१-३६ । इत्याम् न भवति मन्त्रत्वात् । अहशब्दयोगान्निधाताभावः । तुपश्यपश्यताहै
 पूजायाम् । पा. ८-१-४२ । इति निषेधात् । दधानाः । शानचश्चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तत्वे
 प्राप्तेऽभ्यस्तानामादिः । पा. ६-१-१८९ । इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । यज्ञमर्हतीति यज्ञियम् ।
 यज्ञत्विग्भ्यां घखजौ । पा. ५-१-७१ । इति घप्रत्ययः । आयनेयीनीयियः फढखछघां प्रत्ययादीनाम् । पा. ७-१-२ । इतीयादेशः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणेकार उदात्तः ॥ ...svadheti
 paṭhitam | ūrṇa ity ādiṣv ekaśata-saṃkhyākeṣūdaka-nāmasu
 tejaḥ svadhā 'nnam iti paṭhitam || ādaha nīpātātīvād ādyudāttau | svadhām | svaṃ lokaṃ dadhāti puṣṇātīti |
 svadhā | ā-to 'nupasarge kaḥ | pā. 3-2-3 | kṛd-uttara-pada-
 prakṛti-svaratvam | anu punaḥ-śabdau nīpātātīvād ādyudāttau
 | garbhasya bhāvo garbhatvam | pratyaya-svaraḥ | erire | antarbhāvita-nyarthād īrater gatāv ity asmād anudātteta ḥ parasya liṭo jhasya irec | pā. 3-4-81 | cittvād antodāttaḥ |
 saha supā | pā. 2-1-4 | ity atra supeti yoga-vibhāgād āṇau
 saha tiṇaḥ samāse 'pi samāsasya | pā. 6-1-223 | ity antodāttatvam | ijādeś ca gurumato 'nṛcchaḥ | pā. 3-1-36 | ity
 ām na bhavati mantratvāt | aha-śabda-yogān nighātābhāvaḥ
 | tupaśyapaśyatāhai pūjāyām | pā. 8-1-42 | iti niṣedhāt | dadhānāḥ | śānacāś cittvād antodāttatve prāpte 'bhyastānām
 ādiḥ | pā. 6-1-189 | ity ādyudāttatvam | yajñam arhatīti yajñīyam | yajñartvigbhyām ghakhañau | pā. 5-1-71 | iti gha-
 pratyayaḥ | āyaneyīnīyiaḥ phaḍhakhachaghām
 pratyayādīnām | pā. 7-1-2 | itīyādeśaḥ | pratyaya-svareṇekāra udāttaḥ || (Reading notes: (i) the first line carries on the Nighaṇṭu sentence from p. 222 ("...rasaḥ svadheti paṭhitam"); I give it as read; (ii) "svadheti paṭhitam" — "svadhā is read" among the food-names; and among the hundred-and-one names of water; "svadhā" is read as "tejaḥ ... annam"; (iii) several sūtra-numbers in the grammar are small numerals and the sūtra-names are as printed, flagged for checking.)

Translation (sense in full; grammar in outline): "...svadhā' is read (among the food-names); among the hundred-and-one names of water beginning with 'ūrṇa,' 'tejaḥ' and 'svadhā' (also 'annam') are read. 'Ād aha' — a particle, first-syllable acute. 'Svadhām' — 'svaṃ lokaṃ dadhāti puṣṇātīti' — 'it supports, nourishes its own world': 'svadhā'; (affix) 'ka' (Pāṇini 3-2-3) after a root ending in ā when no prefix; the kṛt-final member's accent is retained. 'Anu' and 'punaḥ' are both particles, first-syllable acute. 'Garbhatvam' — 'garbhasya bhāvo garbhatvam' — the state of a germ; accent of the affix. 'Erire' — from 'īr gatau' (to go, to move), with the causal sense included; the substitute 'irec' for 'jha' of the 'liṭ' after a root with an unaccented marker (Pāṇini 3-4-81); end-acute by the 'c'-mark. 'Saha supā' (Pāṇini 2-1-4) — here, by dividing the sūtra at 'supā,' the compound of 'ā' (prefix) with the verb takes (in a compound) the accent of the whole compound, end-acute (Pāṇini 6-1-223); 'ām' does not come, since this is a mantra. By connection with the word 'aha' there is no nighāta (Pāṇini 8-1-42, 'tupaśyapaśyatāhai pūjāyām' — the prohibition). 'Dadhānāḥ' — where 'śānac' being 'c'-marked would be end-acute, अभ्यस्तानामादि: (पा. ६-१-१८९) gives first-syllable acute. 'Yajñiyam' — 'yajñam arhatīti yajñiyam': by 'yajña-ṛtvigbhyāṃ ghakhañau' (Pāṇini 5-1-71) the affix 'gha,' replaced by 'iya' (Pāṇini 7-1-2); the 'i' is acute by the affix's accent."

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

आत् अह (āt aha) — immediately after (the end of the rainy season) | यज्ञियम् (yajñiyam) — worthy of sacrifice | नाम (nāma) — name | दधाना: (dadhānāḥ) — bearing (the Maruts, that is, the Marut-deities) | स्वधाम् अनु (svadhām anu) — (to produce) food in the form of grain (that must grow later) and water | पुनः (punaḥ) —

again (now too, as in the previous rainy season) | गर्भत्वम् (garbhatvam) — (the water that gathers together in the cloud, as a germ) the water gathering in the cloud | एरिरे (erire) — impelled (that is, impelled Parjanya, who produces the rain).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

After the rainy season has passed, the Marut-deities, who are famous by names honoured in sacrifices and the like, in order to give people grain in the form of food and water, again, as before, now also, as a part of the work of rain, impelled Parjanya, so that, like a germ, the water gathers together in the midst of the clouds.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Thereafter (the Maruts) who bear the names invoked in sacrificial rites, having seen the rain about to be engendered instigated him to resume his embryo condition (in the clouds)." ⁵²

original p. 224

Special topics on Rik 6.4: the application; the Maruts and the rains; "svadhā" and "anu"

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The Bhāṣyakāra has said that there is a special application for this Ṛk. On the twenty-fourth day, at the morning pressing, the priest Brāhmaṇācchaṁsin is to recite, as the śāstra-mantra, the two Ṛks beginning "ād aha svadhām anu" (that is, the 4th and 6th Ṛks of this sūkta) and the one Ṛk "indreṇa saṁ hi dṛkṣase" (the 7th of this sūkta) — a ṛca of these three Ṛks together; that ṛca bears the name "ṣaḷaha-stotriya." On this matter Āśvalāyana says in his Śrauta-sūtra, in the section "hotājaniṣva": "indreṇa saṁ hi dṛkṣase ādaha svadhām anv ity ekā dve ca" (Āśv. Sū. 6-9 [?]). Though this sūkta has Indra as its deity, the Maruts are described in the six Ṛks of this sūkta beginning with "ādaha." For this very reason, the Anukramaṇī says "aindre maruta" (Anu. 3-11 [?]) — that in this Indra-sūkta there is a Marut-subject.

52. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; English as printed; Nirukta numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?].

The meaning of this Ṛk is not plain either. The names of the Maruts are not in these Ṛks; but the Bhāṣyakāra, following the Anukramaṇī, interprets it as concerning the Maruts. In the rainy season the large, huge clouds that gather together are here described as the "garbha" (germ) in which water gathers; and since, from such a cloud-germ, rain-water and food in the form of grain are obtained by men, the sense is that the Marut-deities impel it.

आत् (āt) — "anantara," that is, after the rainy season has passed.
अह (aha) — "eva," emphasis; or it may be thought of as a word that gives the sense of "wonder."

स्वधाम् (svadhām) — Among the twenty-eight words that signify food, beginning with "andha," the words "ūrka," "rasaḥ" and "svadhā" are read (Ni. 2-[?]), and among the 101 words that signify water beginning with "ūrṇa" the word "svadhā" is also read (Ni. 1-[?]). On the question of the meaning of the word "svadhā," there is much speculation among the learned. "Svaṃ lokam dadhāti puṣṇātīti svadhā" — "svadhā" because it supports and nourishes its own world — (the food): thus the Bhāṣyakāra has explained the sense of the parts of this word. Western scholars say that this word has various senses : "sva + dhā = svadhā: one's own place; svadhā: to offer the oblation to the Pitṛs (fathers) in the fire; self position; self power; inherent power; accustomed place; comfort; joy," etc. In this question of the meaning of the word, Skandasvāmī and Veṅkaṭamādhava have the same view as Sāyaṇa.

अनु (anu) — "paścāt," afterwards, after the rainy season has ended. Skandasvāmī explains it as: after the rainy season (the four months) has ended, and before the rainy season begins again, the eight months that are between ... ⁵³

original p. 225

Special topics on Rik 6.4 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (characterized)

⁵⁴ ...that between the end of one rainy season and the beginning of the next lie the eight months — so Skandasvāmī says. In support of this he has quoted, as authority, the sentence:

वार्षिकांश्चतुरो मासान् वर्षित्वा तदनन्तरमष्टौ मासांस्तदुदकं रश्मिभिः प्रत्याहृत्याहृत्य तदागामिसंवत्सरे वर्षितुं पुनर्गर्भमापादयन्ति मरुतः vārṣikāṃś caturo māsān varṣitvā tad-anantaram aṣṭau māsāṃś tad udakam raśmibhiḥ pratyāhṛtyāhṛtya tad-āgāmi-saṃvatsare varṣituṃ punar garbham āpādayanti marutaḥ (Reading note: the opening word "vārṣikāṃś" and the later "pratyāhṛtyāhṛtya" are as printed; the form "āpādayanti" is read with the final "ti"; I give the sentence as read and mark it for checking.) Translation:
"Having rained the four months of the rains, then for eight months the Maruts, drawing back that water, again and again, with the rays (of the Sun), bring about a germ (garbha) again, so as to rain in the coming year."

पुनः (punah) — This word indicates that, as in the rainy season that has gone by, so there will come another rainy season in the future. गर्भत्वम् (garbhatvam) — here "garbha" must be understood as the mass of water that has gathered in a heap in the cloud-circle (of the cloud). दधानाः (dadhānāḥ) — Sāyaṇa explains this

53. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose translated; the Sanskrit quotation was read from an enlarged slice and is given in three layers, flagged where unclear. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

54. Continuing "anu" from p. 224:

word, joined with "yajñīyaṃ nāma" — "bearing a name worthy of sacrifice" — as "bearing." Skandasvāmī explains "nāma" as water, "dadhānā" as "bearing"; and, joined with "svadhām" (food in the form of grain), "dadhānāḥ" as "giving" (the root "dadhāti" in the sense of giving). नाम (nāma) — name. Skandasvāmī says that "nāma" here also has the sense of water; among the 101 names of water beginning with "ūrṇa," the word "nāma" is read (Ni. 1-[?]); besides this, he says the word "nāma" is a word that gives the sense of "saṃjñā" (name). यज्ञियम् (yajñīyam) — connected with sacrifice; that is, fit to be worshipped in a sacrifice by invocation and the like.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵⁵ "Āt," "aha" — particles, first-syllable acute. "Svadhām" — "svaṃ lokam dadhāti puṣṇātīti" (that which nourishes its own world). "Svadhā" — आतोऽनुपसर्गे कः (पा. ३-२-३) — when a subanta that is not a prefix is the upapada, "ka" comes after a root ending in "ā"; आतो लोप इटि च (पा. ६-४-६४) elides the "ā"; अजाद्यतष्टाप् (पा. ४-१-४) the feminine "ṭāp"; "ṭāp" is unaccented; "ka" gives the affix-accent; गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९) retains the kṛt-final member's accent; then the "ā" of the "ṭāp" merges in the savarṇa-dīrgha; the single substitute is acute (एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः, पा. ८-२-५); so "svadhā" is end-acute. "Anu," "punaḥ" — particles, first-syllable acute. "Garbhatvam" — "tasya bhāvas tvatalau" (तस्य भावस्त्वतलौ, पा. ५-१-११९): after a sixth-case-ending word, in the sense of state, the affixes "tva" and "tal"; "tal" gives the feminine; "garbhasya bhāvaḥ" with "tva" gives "garbhatva"; the affix's accent: end-acute (चितः, as the print says "tva" is acute by its accent). ⁵⁶

original p. 226

55. Kannada; characterized

56. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."

Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as read. Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā text are printed; not reproduced.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 6.4 concluded; Sūkta 6, Fifth Mantra: Saṃhitā

"Erire" — the root "īr gatau" (to go), with the causal sense included, and it is "anudātteṭ" (unaccented in its upadeśa); liṭ is added (परोक्षे लिट्, पा. ३-२-११५) and in the third-person plural the "jha" is replaced by इरेच् — लिटस्तझयोरेशिरेच् (पा. ३-४-८१) — "e" for "ta" and "irec" for "jha" in the "liṭ" — "īr + irec"; because of the "c"-mark it is end-acute (चित्, पा. ६-१-१६३). "Saha supā" — सह सुपा (पा. २-१-४), which the print takes as two sūtras ("saha" and "supā," divided by the "yoga-vibhāga" principle): "saha" (a compound of a subanta with a tiñanta in the "supā" sense); here "ā" (a prefix in the sense of a particle) combines with "erire" by that part of the sūtra, and the compound takes the accent of the whole compound, the end-acute (समासस्य, पा. ६-१-२२३). "Ām" — for a verb in "liṭ" with a heavy first syllable beginning with a vowel, इजादेश्च गुरुमतोऽनृच्छः (पा. ३-१-३६) would bring the augment "ām" (affix "ām") — the print says: but, as this is a mantra, by the rule कास्प्रत्ययादाममन्त्रे लिटि (पा. ३-१-३५) "ām" is added in "liṭ" only outside mantras, so "ām" does not come here. "Aha" and nighāta — by तुपश्यपश्यताहैः पूजायाम् (पा. ८-१-४२) there is a prohibition of nighāta on a verb joined with "tupaśya," "paśya," "tā" and "ahai" in the sense of praise; because of the word "aha" the verb "erire" is not made unaccented. "Dadhānāḥ" — "śānac" after "dhā"; "śānac" being "c"-marked would be end-acute (चित्), but अभ्यस्तानामादिः (पा. ६-१-१८९) gives it first-syllable acute; "dhā" is a "juhotyādi" root, so "śap" is replaced by "ślu" (जुहोत्यादिभ्यः श्लुः, पा. २-४-७५), and the doubling (श्लौ, पा. ६-१-१०): "dadhā" — it is called "abhyasta" (उभे अभ्यस्तम्, पा. ६-१-५). "Yajñiyam" — यज्ञिर्त्विग्भ्यां घञञौ (पा. ५-१-७१): after "yajña" and "ṛtvij," in the sense "he deserves," the affixes "gha" and "khañ" (here "gha"); आयनेयीनीयियः फढखछयां प्रत्ययादीनाम् (पा. ७-१-२): the initial "ph, ḍh, kh, chh, gh" of an affix are replaced by "āyan, eya, īn, īy, iy" in order; "gh" → "iy" → "yajña + iya" → "yajñiya." The "i" is acute by the affix's accent. ॥४॥

Sūkta 6, The Fifth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁵⁷

वीळु चिदारुजत्नुभिर्गुहा चिदिन्द्र वह्निभिः । अविन्द उस्रिया अनु ॥५॥

*vīḷu cid ārujatnubhir guhā cid indra vahnibhiḥ | avinda usriyā
anu ||5||*

original p. 227

Rik 6.5: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (the Paṇi legend), grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वीळु । चित् । आरुजत्नुऽभिः । गुहा । चित् । इन्द्र । वह्निऽभिः । अविन्दः । उस्रियाः । अनु ॥ ५॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अस्ति किंचिदुपाख्यानम् । पणिभिर्देवलोकाद्गवोऽपहृता अन्धकारे प्रक्षिप्ताः [...] इन्द्रो
मरुद्भिः सहाजयदिति । एतच्चानुक्रमणिकायां सूचितम् । पणिभिरसुर्यैर्गूळहा गा अन्वेष्टुं सरमां
देवशुनीमिन्द्रेण प्रहितामयुग्भिः पणयो मित्रीयन्तः प्रोचुः । अनु. ऋग्वे. १०-१०८ [?] । इति ।
मन्त्रान्तरे च दृष्टान्ततया सूचितम् । [...] आपः पणिनेव गावः । ऋग्वे. १-३२-११ [?] । इति ।
तदेतदुपाख्यानमभिप्रेत्योच्यते ॥ हे इन्द्र वीळु चिद्वृढमपि
दुर्गमस्थानमारुजत्नुभिर्भज्जद्विर्वह्निभिर्वोदृभिः अन्यत्र नेतुं समर्थैर्मरुद्भिः सहितस्त्वं गुहा चित्

57. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] marks letters I could not read with confidence — in particular the left-hand edge of the first lines of the Bhāṣya is cut off in my enlargement, so the beginnings of several lines (marked [...]) are completed only where the sense and the quotation that follows make the word certain, and are otherwise left open. Accent-marks not reproduced.

गुहायामपि स्थापिता उस्त्रिया गा अन्विन्दः । अन्वविन्दः लब्धवानसि । ओजः पाज
 इत्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु बलनामसु वक्षो वीळु ज्यैत्रमिति पठितम् । नवसंख्याकेषु
 गोनामसु स्वघ्न्या उस्त्रोस्त्रियेति पठितम् ॥ asti kiṃcid upākhyānam | paṇibhir deva-lokād gāvo 'pahṛtā andhakāre prakṣiptāḥ [...]
indro marudbhiḥ sahājayad iti | etac cānukramaṇikāyāṃ
sūcitam | paṇibhir asuryair gūlḥā gā anveṣṭuṃ saramāṃ deva-śunīm indreṇa prahitām ayugbhiḥ paṇayo mitrīyantaḥ procuḥ | anu. ṛgve. 10-108 [?] | iti | mantrāntare ca
dr̥ṣṭāntatayā sūcitam | [...] āpaḥ paṇineva gāvaḥ | ṛgve.
1-32-11 [?] | iti | tad etad upākhyānam abhipretyocyate | | he indra vīlu cid dṛḍham api durgama-sthānam ārujatnubhir bhañjadbhir vahnibhir voḍhr̥bhiḥ anyatra netuṃ samarthair marudbhiḥ sahitas tvaṃ guhā cit guhāyām api sthāpitā usriyā gā anvindaḥ | anvavindaḥ labdhavān asi | ojaḥ pāja ity ādiṣv aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu bala-nāmasu vakṣo vīlu jyaitram iti paṭhitam | nava-saṃkhyākeṣu go-nāmasu svagḥnyā usrosriyeti paṭhitam | | (Reading notes: (i) the "[...]" at the end of the first sentence hides one or two words ("tāḥ ... indro") of the clipped line start — the sense is "those (cows) Indra won with the Maruts"; (ii) the second "[...]" hides the first word of the quoted Ṛk-line (the quotation, as I know it from the other pāda, reads "...āpaḥ paṇineva gāvaḥ"), and I give no more than the printed words; (iii) the references "10-108" and "1-32-11" are small Kannada numerals read with doubt.)

Translation: "There is a certain legend. The Paṇis stole cows from the world of the gods and hurled them into darkness; (those) Indra, with the Maruts, won (back). This is indicated in the Anukramaṇī: 'The Paṇis, the Asuras, hid the cows; Indra sent the divine bitch Saramā to find them; the Paṇis, wishing for friendship, spoke to her without reproach' (Anukramaṇī of Ṛg. 10-108 [?]). And it is indicated in another mantra as an illustration: 'the waters, like cows (held) by a Paṇi' (Ṛg. [1-32-11 ?]). With that legend in view it is said: O Indra! 'Vīlu cit' — even what is firm, a place hard to reach — 'ārujatnubhiḥ' — by the breakers,

'vahnibhiḥ' — the bearers, the Maruts, who are able to carry (it) elsewhere — accompanied by them, you 'guhā cit' — even in the cave where they had been placed — 'usriyā gāḥ' — the cows — 'anvindaḥ' — you found. Among the twenty-eight names of strength beginning with 'ojaḥ, pājaḥ,' 'vakṣaḥ,' 'vīlu' and 'jyaitram' are read; among the nine names of cow, 'svaghnyā,' 'usrā' and 'usriyā' are read."

Grammar within the Bhāṣya (characterized, sūtras kept): "Vīlu" — a stem acute on its own accent (prātipadika). "Cit" — a "cādi" particle, unaccented. "Ārujatnubhiḥ" — "rujo bhaṅge" (to break): the Uṇādi "tnuc" (उ. सू. ३-[?]); "kit," so no guṇa; "c"-marked, so the affix is end-acute (चितः); सह सुपा-type compound, the kṛt-final member's accent retained. "Guhā" — the seventh-case singular "ni" is replaced by "dā" (सुपां सुलुक्..., पा. ७-१-३९); ग्राम...-class (ग्रामादीनां च, Phiṭ-sūtra 2-[?]), first-syllable acute. "Vahnibhiḥ" — वहिश्चिद्युदुगलाहात्वरिभ्यो निः... the print: वहिस्तुदुगलाहा... (उ. सू. ४-५१ [?]) the affix "ni"; "n"-marked so first-syllable acute. "Avindaḥ" — शे मुचादीनाम् (पा. ७-१-५९) the "num" augment after the "muc"-class roots in "śa"-vikaraṇa: "vid" (to find), "laṇ," second-person singular; the augment "aṭ" acute (लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः, पा. ६-४-७९); "vasant" ... वसन्तीति the print adds a note on the "śa" and "vasu" ... ; the root's accent is dropped; उस्त्रिया — "vasate" — the Uṇādi "ṛtvik"? The print's treatment of "usriyā" ("vaser kartari riyak-pratyayaḥ," with the "sa" retained by "bāhulaka") is crowded and I do not reproduce it beyond noting that it derives "usriyā" from "vas" with an affix "riyak," the "ikāra" acute by the affix's accent. ॥५॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र (he indra) — O Indra | (त्वम्) (tvam) — you | वीळु चित् (vīlu cit) — even a strong, or very firm, difficult-of-approach place, together | आरुजन्तुभिः (ārujatnubhiḥ) — those with the capacity to break | वहिभिः (vahnibhiḥ) — the Maruts, who have the capacity to carry (carry off) (with the help of the Marut-deities) | गुहा चित् (guhā cit) — (stolen by a Paṇi, and) hidden in a cave | उस्रियाः (usriyāḥ) — cows | अनु अविन्दः (anu avindah) — you have found, you have brought back.⁵⁸

original p. 228

Rik 6.5: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening) — the legend of Saramā and the Paṇis

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The Marut-deities are of very great capacity. They are able to break and destroy places of difficult approach — mountains and the like, however strong; and they have the capacity to carry everything. O Indra! With the help of such Marut-deities you found and brought back the cows that were hidden in a cave (after being carried off by demons called Paṇi).

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"Associated with the conveying Maruts, the traversers of places difficult of access, O Indra, you have found out the cows hidden in the cave."

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The Bhāṣyakāra cites here a legend (upākhyāna). The demons called Paṇi carried off cows that were in the world of the gods, and hid them in the cave of a mountain. To find them, Indra sent a divine bitch ("deva-śunī") called Saramā. That bitch went to the Paṇis and, by good words and by friendship, helped to bring back the cows. With the help of the Maruts Indra, destroying the cave, brought back the cows that were there — so it is said in the legend. In the 108th [?] sūkta of the tenth Maṇḍala of the Ṛgveda

58. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; English as printed; the reference numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?].

Saṃhitā there is a long conversation between the divine bitch Saramā and the demons called Paṇi. We shall describe this matter at length, further on, when we explain the subject of "paṇineva gāvah" in the Ṛk R. Saṃ. 1-32-11 [?].

वीलु (vīlu)

— Among the twenty-eight words that are signs of strength, beginning with "ojaḥ," the words "dakṣaḥ," "vīlu" and "jyaitram" are read (Ni. 2-[?]). The senses of this word: strong, firm, solid, fearless.

चित् (cit) — "eva" (emphasis). आरुजत्नुभिः (ārujatnubhiḥ) — "bhañjadbhiḥ" — "those who have the capacity to break, to destroy." वह्निभिः (vahnibhiḥ) — "voḍhr̥bhiḥ" — those who carry, those who bear. गुहा (guhā) — in a cave, in a place that no one knows, in a solitary place, in a hidden spot; this word is generally used in the seventh case in the sense of "in a cave": "guhā hitaṃ guhyaṃ gūlham" (गुहा हितं गुह्यं गूळहं — "placed in a cave, secret, hidden," ṛ. saṃ. 3-[?]-[?] [?]) and so on. उस्रियाः (usriyāḥ) — among the nine words that signify cows beginning with "aghnyā," the word "usriyāḥ" is read (Ni. 2-[?]). ⁵⁹

original p. 229

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 6.5 (Kannada) — characterized

"Vīlu" — by the bare-stem accent, end-acute. "Cit" — as it belongs to the "cādi" group, चादयोऽनुदात्ताः (Phit-sūtra [number as printed "४४"?]) it is unaccented. "Ārujatnubhiḥ" — "ā" is a prefix; after the root "ruja bhañge" (to break) the Uṇādi affix "tnuc" (ऋजेरादिकः क्तुच्, उ. सू. [as printed]); "kit," so no guṇa for the light penultimate; "c"-marked, so end-acute; the compound with

59. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 227; characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.

"ā" takes the kṛt-final member's accent by गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत् (पा. ६-२-१३९). "Guhā" — for the seventh-case singular the substitute "dā" (सुपां सुलुक्..., पा. ७-१-३९); ग्रामादीनां च (Phiṭ-sūtra 2-[?]) — the "grāma"-class words are first-syllable acute, so "guhā" is first-syllable acute. "Vahnibhiḥ" — वहिभिश्चयुद्गलाहात्वरिभ्यो निः (उ. सू. ४-५१ [?]) after these roots the affix "ni," which is "nit" ("n"-marked), so from "vah" "vahni" is first-syllable acute (जित्यादिर्नित्यम्). "Avindaḥ" — "vidḥ lābhe" (to obtain), a tudādi root; the second-person singular "sip" in "lañ"; तुदादिभ्यः शः (पा. ३-१-७७) the vikaraṇa "śa"; शे मुचादीनाम् (पा. ७-१-५९) — the "num" augment comes to the "muc"-class roots when "śa" follows: "vind + a + s"; लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः (पा. ६-४-७१) the augment "aṭ"; ससजुषो रुः and visarga → "avindaḥ." "Usriyāḥ" — "vasanti iti usriyāḥ": after the root "vas" the affix "riyak" in the sense of the agent, and the substitution of "s" for "ṣ"? — the print says: शासिवसिघसीनां च (पा. ८-३-६०) gives "ṣ" for the "s" of these roots after "i/ku"; but that is not seen here, and so "bahulaṃ" in उणादयो बहुलम् (पा. ३-३-१) must be supplied; the print adds the Nirukta's view that a "nāma" (noun) is derived from a verbal root ("nāmāni ca dhātujānīti śākaṭāyano" — Ni. 1-12), and the discussion that, when the stem is well-known, an affix that agrees with it is to be inferred ("prakṛti-prasiddhau anugūṇaṃ pratyayam ūhet") — and the print concludes that "riyak" is the inferred affix; since it is "k"-marked, the "samprasāraṇa" of "vas" (वचिस्वपियजादीनां किति, पा. ६-१-१५) gives "us" (the "va" → "u"), and संप्रसारणाच्च (पा. ६-१-१०८) the pūrvarūpa; "usriya"; the first-case plural → "usriyāḥ"; the "i" is acute by the affix's accent. ॥५॥⁶⁰

Sūkta 6, The Sixth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

60. Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced.

देवयन्तो यथा मतिमच्छा विदद्वसुं गिरः । महामनूषत श्रुतम् ॥६॥

*devayanto yathā matim acchā vidadvasuṃ giraḥ | mahām
anūṣata śrutam || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁶¹

देवऽयन्तः । यथा । मतिम् । अच्छ । विदत्स्वसुम् । गिरः । महाम् । अनूषत । श्रुतम् ॥६॥

original p. 230

Rik 6.6: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

देवयन्तो मरुतस्तज्जातानीच्छन्तो गिरः स्तोतार ऋत्विजो महान्प्रथं मरुद्गणमच्छ प्राप्तुमनूषत ।
स्तुतवन्तः । कीदृशं मरुद्गणम् । विदद्वसुम् । वेदयद्भिः स्वमहिमप्रख्यापकैर्वसुभिर्धनैर्युक्तं श्रुतं
विख्यातं । मरुद्गणस्य ... यथा मतिम् । मन्त्रान्तरेषु इन्द्रं यथा स्तुवन्ति तथैवेत्यर्थः ॥ देवयन्तः
। देवानात्मन इच्छन्तः । सुप आत्मनः क्यच् । पा. ३-१-८ ॥ क्यचि च । पा. ७-४-३३ । इति ईत्वम् । अशनायुदन्यधनायाः ... [crowded] । अतो लोपः ... *devayanto marutas taj-jñātānīcchanto giraḥ stotāra ṛtvijo mahān
pratham marud-gaṇam accha prāptum anūṣata | stutavantah
| kīdṛśam marud-gaṇam | vidad-vasum | vedayadbhiḥ svamahima-prakhyāpakair vasubhir dhanair yuktam śrutam vikhyātam | marud-gaṇasya ... yathā matim | mantrāntareṣu
indram yathā stuvanti tathāivety arthaḥ || devayantaḥ |
devān ātmana icchantah | supa ātmanah kyac | pā. 3-1-8 ||
kyaci ca | pā. 7-4-33 | iti itvam | aśanāyudanyadhanāyāḥ ...
[crowded] | ato lopah ... (Reading notes: (i) the Bhāṣya on this page is crowded and partly cut at the edge of my enlargement
— the words "marud-gaṇasya ..." and the "[crowded]" stretch are not reproduced; (ii) I read the opening as "devayanto marutas ..." because the Kannada Pada-meaning on p. 231*

61. Reading note: the printed Saṃhitā "acchā" in the first pāda is the sandhi-lengthened form of the Pada's "accha"; the Pada text divides "vidat-vasum" as a compound.

explains the same words; (iii) the word "mahān ... pratham" is read "mahāntam pratham" in the Kannada, i.e. "the great, the broad," and I give the printed letters as read, with this note.)

Translation (of what I can read): "'Devayantaḥ' — the priests who are the singers, desiring (the) Maruts, who wish for the 'gods' (?), 'mahām ... marudgaṇam' — 'accha' — to reach the great Marut-host, 'anūṣata' — have praised. What kind of Marut-host? 'Vidadvasum' — endowed with riches that make their greatness known, famous (heard-of): 'śrutam' — widely renowned. 'Yathā matim' — as in other mantras they praise Indra, so (they praise the Marut-host) — such is the sense. 'Devayantaḥ' — 'devān ātmana icchantāḥ' — wishing the gods for themselves; the affix 'kyac' after a subanta in the sense of one's own wish (Pāṇini 3-1-8); the lengthening 'ī' by 'kyaci ca' (Pāṇini 7-4-33) ..." *(the grammar continues on the next page).*⁶²

original p. 231

Rik 6.6: grammar of the Bhāṣya (characterized); Pada-meanings; Bhāvārtha; English rendering Grammar (characterized): The word "mati" is explained as a word for "knowledge" and, in its secondary use, as a name of Indra (the discussion of "matih" continues the point made on p. 232). "Accha" — "ṛccha gatau" in the sense of "going," treated as an upasarga-like "gati," also a particle; it is, by गतिश्च / निपाता आयुदात्ताः, first-syllable acute (Phiṭ-sūtra 4-[?]). "Vidadvasum" — "vid jñāne" (to know) with the "śatṛ" affix, in the causal sense "those who make known their greatness, the riches" — "vidanti vasūni" — an accusative compound, accent by the "kṛt-

62. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

The top of the page is the end of the Sanskrit grammar of the Bhāṣya, which I read at ordinary enlargement only; it is characterized, not transcribed, because it is dense accent-derivation that does not bear on the sense; the sūtras whose numbers are legible are kept. English as printed.

uttarapada" rule; अनूषत — "ṇu stutau" (to praise) in the aorist with the "luṇ" and the Vedic variation "r̥ṣi" → "ṣ" (लुङि ऋषिः), the augment "aṭ" and the "ī" → "ū"-lengthening (the print says "ukāradīrghatva," a Vedic variation); श्रुतम् — end-acute by the affix.⁶³

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

देवयन्तः (devayantaḥ) — those who wish to praise the deities called Maruts | गिरः (giraḥ) — the priests who sing stotras | मतिम् (matim) — (as they praise Indra) who gives understanding | यथा (yathā) — in whatever manner (they praise) | विदद्वसुम् (vidadvasum) — (the Marut-host) able to bestow wealth and lordship by their greatness | श्रुतम् (śrutam) — famous | महाम् (mahām) — great (the great host of Maruts) | अच्छ (accha) — in order to reach | अनूषत (anūṣata) — they praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The priests and other people who wish to praise the Marut-deities praise the Marut-deities in the same way as they praise Indra, who gives understanding or who is wise. These Marut-deities are able to give wealth and lordship by their greatness; they are great and famous. They praise such Marut-deities with love.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"The reciters of praises praise the mighty (troop of Maruts) who are celebrated and conscious of the power of bestowing wealth, just as they praise the counsellor (Indra)." ⁶⁴

original p. 232

63. The numbers of the sūtras in this paragraph are small and I do not give them.

64. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; the Sanskrit of Skandasvāmī's gloss is given in three layers, read at ordinary enlargement and flagged where unclear.

Special topics on Rik 6.6

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

Because the meaning of this Rik is not plain, many words must be supplied in order to obtain a proper sense; and besides, the senses of some words have to be changed slightly.

देवयन्तः (devayantaḥ) — "devān marutaḥ icchantaḥ devayantaḥ" — "those who wish for the gods, the Maruts"; that is, those who wish to praise the Marut-deities. Skandasvāmī has explained it likewise.

मतिम् (matim) — "mantāram indram yathā stuvanti tathety arthaḥ | matīśabdo jñāna-paro 'py upacārāj jñātari indre vartate" (मन्तारमिन्द्रं यथा स्तुवन्ति तथेत्यर्थः । मतिशब्दो ज्ञानपरोऽप्युपचाराज्ज्ञातरीन्द्रे वर्तते — "the sense is 'as they praise Indra, the thinker' — the word 'mati,' though it has the sense of knowledge, is by figurative use applied to Indra, the knower"). Or, by the application of a qualifier to another word, "this is a name for Indra," Sāyaṇa says: the word "mati" stands for the sense of knowledge; hence here it is used in the sense of "one who has knowledge, who has understanding," in reference to Indra. Or, in another word it can be understood as a qualifier. In such a context this word refers to Indra himself. Skandasvāmī says: "manyate stūyate 'sāv iti matir indrah | jñātā vā matir jñānāt brāhmaṇaḥ | yathā sarvastutyam indram vidvāṃsaṃ vā brāhmaṇaṃ tadvat" (मन्यते स्तूयतेऽसाविति मतिरिन्द्रः । ज्ञाता वा मतिर्ज्ञानात् ब्राह्मणः । यथा सर्वस्तुत्यमिन्द्रं विद्वांसं वा ब्राह्मणं तद्वत् — "'mati' is Indra, since he is thought of, praised; or 'mati' is a knower, by knowledge, a Brāhmaṇa; as one (praises) Indra, praiseworthy by all, or a learned Brāhmaṇa, so (the Maruts)"). That is, since he is "thought of — praised," "mati" is the name of Indra; or one who has knowledge, a wise man, a Brāhmaṇa — this too is the sense of this word; so Skandasvāmī says that "matim" may be explained as Indra, who is like a Brāhmaṇa full of knowledge, praised by all.

अच्छ (accha) — The Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "prāptum" (to reach). On this matter he cites the Pāṇinian rule अध्यायप्रत्ययोगे — the print gives it as "अध्याहृतगच्छन्त्यर्थयोगाद्वेच्छ गत्यर्थवदेषु" (पा. १-४-६९) — [the rule as printed is crowded; I give it in the form that the Kannada's sense — "'accha' behaves like a word that has the sense of 'going'" — supports, flagged [?]]. This word is always used with a lengthened final vowel in the saṃhitā-text when it occurs in the middle of a Ṛk.

विदद्वसुम् (vidadvasum) — "vida jñāna ity asmāḍ vidantyādāyātīśayavattayā jñāpayanti vasūni dhanāni yam sa vidadvasuḥ" (विद ज्ञान इत्यस्मात् विदन्त्यादायातिशयवत्तया ज्ञापयन्ति वसूनि धनानि यं स विदद्वसुः — "from the root 'vid jñāne': he by whom riches are made known, by excellence, is 'vidadvasu'") — the root "vid" in the sense of "knowing"; one who knows with excess in the matter of giving wealth and the like. Skandasvāmī explains "vid" as "to obtain": "vindater lābhārthasya videc chabdaḥ lab dhana mity arthaḥ" [as read; the print's last words are crowded] — "those who have obtained wealth."

गिरः (giraḥ) — "gr̥ṇanti stuvantīti giraḥ" — those who praise. महाम् (mahām) — "mahāntam" (the great); here, for the convenience of the metre, the "n" and "t" are dropped.⁶⁵

original pp. 233–235

65. Page headers: p. 233 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?]" · R̥gveda-saṃhitā"; p. 234 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 235 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?]." These three pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "devayantaḥ," "yathā," "matim," "accha," "vidadvasum," "giraḥ," "mahām," "anūṣata" and "śrutam"; they do not bear on the sense of Rik 6.6 (pp. 230–232). They were read at ordinary enlargement and are characterized in outline; every sūtra I could read with confidence is kept, and numbers are as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 6.6 (Kannada) — characterized

p. 233 — "devayantaḥ." "Devān ātmana icchantāḥ" ("wishing the gods for themselves"): सुप आत्मनः क्यच् (पा. ३-१-८) — the affix "kyac" after a subanta in the sense of one's own wish (the word "supaḥ" being taken as a technical designation of a case-ending word, by the paribhāṣā that an affix's mention carries its own stem); the following sūtras काम्यच्च (पा. ३-१-९), उपमानादाचारे (पा. ३-१-१०) and the "kyac" in the sense of "conduct" are mentioned in the discussion that follows; the Mīmāṃsā-style argument states that the word "ātmanaḥ" in the sūtra is a "svārtha" (in-its-own-sense) word meaning "oneself"; the "ṛtvij" (priest) who wishes for gods for his own purposes is the "devayanta." Then: सनाद्यन्ता धातवः (पा. ३-१-३२) names the "kyac"-ended stem a root; सुपो धातुप्रातिपदिकयोः (पा. २-४-७१) elides the case-ending; क्यचि च (पा. ७-४-३३) gives "ī" for the "a" of "deva" before "kyac"; अकृत्सार्वधातुकयोर्दीर्घः (पा. ७-४-२५) would lengthen the final vowel; न छन्दस्यपुत्रस्य (पा. ७-४-३५) — in the Veda the lengthening before "kyac" does not occur except for the word "putra" — and the print then argues at length (with the maxim "prasajya-pratiṣedha" and the reading of the particle "na") that the prohibition forbids the "ī" lengthening only in the "ī" case, not generally; and, with the explanatory sūtra अश्वाघस्यात् (पा. ७-४-३७) used as a "jñāpaka," concludes that in "devayantaḥ" the "ī" and the long vowel do not both arise, so that "deva + ya + at" gives "devayantaḥ."

p. 234 — "devayantaḥ" (concluded); "yathā," "matim," "accha." The "laṭ" and "śaṭr" and "śap" follow; "kyac" is "c"-marked, so end-acute (चितः, पा. ६-१-१६३); "śap" being "p"-marked is unaccented; the "śaṭr" is a "lasārvadhātuka," unaccented (तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदः, पा. ६-१-१८६); the single substitute from अतो गुणे is acute (एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः, पा. ८-२-५). "Yathā" — प्रकारवचने थाल् (पा. ५-३-२३) — the affix "thāl" in the sense of manner; "l"-marked, so लिति (पा.

६-१-१९३) puts the acute on the vowel before the affix. "Matim" — मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः (पा. ३-३-१६) — "ktin" is acute after "man"; the print notes that the root "man" (to think) has an unaccented marker, so by अनुदात्तोपदेश... the "n" is elided; "mati" is a stem that generally means "knowledge," but by figurative use (upacāra) it refers to Indra, who is the abode of knowledge; or, as another view, it is a name given by the Brāhmaṇa-class "saṃjñā" use (क्तिच्यत्तौ च संज्ञायाम्, पा. ३-३-१७४): "ktic" after "mana jñāne." "Accha" — ṛccha gatau" in the sense of motion, treated as a "gati" (गतिश्च, as printed: अच्छगत्यर्थवदेषु, पा. १-४-६९), and as a particle (प्राग्रीश्वरान्निपाताः, पा. १-४-५६ — "up to 'īśvara' [the particles]"); the two designations "gati" and "nipāta" do not exclude each other, both being applicable together; so by निपाता आद्युदात्ताः (Phiṭ-sūtra 80) it is first-syllable acute.

p. 235 — "vidadvasum," "giraḥ," "mahām," "anūṣata." "Vidadvasum" — "vid jñāne" with the causal "ṇic" included, "laṭ," and the substitute "śaṭṛ" (लटः शतृशानचौ, पा. ३-२-१२४); in the neuter nominative-plural form "vidat-vidatī-vidanti"; the "śap" is elided by आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः (पा. २-४-७२) — "luk" — after which "śaṭṛ" is not "śap"-preceded and so is accented as the affix; the accent is not made grave by तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिद...; the compound — a bahuvrīhi — keeps its first member's accent (बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम्, पा. ६-२-१). "Giraḥ" — "grṇanti stuvantīti giraḥ" — "gṛ śabde" with "kvip"; ऋत इङ्गातोः (पा. ७-१-१००) "ir," and उरण् रपरः (पा. १-१-५१) "r" after it; "gir" (the end of the root-accent), end-acute; the first-case plural gives "giraḥ." "Mahām" — "mahāntam," with the Vedic loss of "n" and "t"; end-acute by the stem. "Anūṣata" — "ṇu stutau" is a parasmaipada root, but by vyatyaya takes the ātmanepada; "luṇ," third-person plural "jha" → "ata" (झोऽन्तः / आत्मनेपदेष्वनतः, पा. ७-१-५); च्लि लुङि (पा. ३-१-४३), च्लेः सिच् (पा. ३-१-४४) "sic"; the print notes that गाङ्कुटादिभ्योऽङ्गिण्डित् (पा. १-२-१) — after "gāñ" and the "kuṭādi"-class roots, the non-"ñit/ṇit" affixes act as "ñit" — makes "sic" "ñit," so no guṇa (विङिति च, पा. १-१-५); ज्ञानुः ... the print continues about the augment "aṭ" ... (the grammar of "anūṣata" continues on p. 236).⁶⁶

original p. 236

Rik 6.6 grammar concluded; Sūkta 6, Seventh Mantra: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya (opening)

⁶⁷ णोनः (पा. ६-१-६५) — "n" for the initial "ṇ" of a root — makes "ṇu" → "nu"; लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः (पा. ६-४-७१) the augment "aṭ"; the augment "iṭ" that would be prescribed by आर्धधातुकस्येड्वलादेः (पा. ७-२-३५) does not come to "sic"; the lengthening of the "u" of "nu" is Vedic (so "nū"); तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) makes the verb unaccented after "mahām." "Śrutam" — ends in the affix "kta"; the accent is that of the affix. ॥६॥

Sūkta 6, The Seventh Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रेण सं हि दृक्षसे संजग्मानो अबिभ्युषा । मन्दू समानवर्चसा ॥७॥

indreṇa saṃ hi dṛkṣase saṃjagmāno abibhyuṣā | mandū
samānavarcasā || 7 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रेण । सम् । हि । दृक्षसे । सम्ऽजग्मानः । अबिभ्युषा । मन्दू इति । समानऽवर्चसा ॥७॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

66. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."

Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā/Pada are printed here; not reproduced.

Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. Grammar characterized.

67. Concluding "anūṣata":

हे मरुद्गण त्वमिन्द्रेण संजग्मानः संगच्छमानः सं दृक्षसे हि । सम्यग्दृश्येथाः खलु ।
 अवश्यमस्माभिर्दृश्यस्व इत्यर्थः । कीदृशेनेन्द्रेण । अबिभ्युषा भीतिरहितेन । कीदृशौ
 चेन्द्रमरुद्गणौ । मन्दू नित्यप्रमुदितौ समानवर्चसा तुल्यदीप्ती । पुरा
 कदाचिद्वृत्रवधदशायामिन्द्रस्य सखायः सर्वे देवा वृत्रश्वासेनापसारिताः । तदानीमिन्द्रस्य
 वृत्रसंबन्धिसकलसेनाजयार्थं मरुद्भिः संगमनोऽभूत् । सोऽयम् । ... मों वृत्रस्य त्वा श्वसथात् ।
 ऋग्वे. ८-९६-२ [?] । इति मन्त्रे संगृहीत इन्द्रो वै वृत्रं हनिष्यन् । ऐ. ब्रा. ३-२० [?] । इति
 ब्राह्मणे प्रपंचितश्च । इन्द्रशब्दः परमैश्वर्यवन्तं मरुद्गणं वाभिधत्ते । तदानीमिन्द्रस्य संबोधनं
 बहिरेवाध्याहर्तव्यम् । तथा चयमृगास्केन व्याख्याता । इन्द्रेण हि सं दृश्यसे
 संगच्छमानोऽबिभ्युषा गणेन मन्दू मदिष्णू युवां स्तोतोऽपि वा मन्दुना तेनेति
 स्यात्समानवर्चसेत्येतेन वाख्यातं । नि. ४-१० [?] । इति ॥ सं दृक्षसे । संपश्येथाः । दृशेश्चेति वक्तव्यम् । १-३-२९-३ [?] इत्यात्मनेपदं । दृशेर्लिङ्गर्थे लेट् । पा. ३-४-७ । इति प्रार्थनायां ...
he marud-gaṇa tvam indreṇa saṃjagmāṇaḥ saṃgacchamāṇaḥ
saṃ dṛkṣase hi | samyag dṛśyethāḥ khalu | avaśyam
asmābhir dṛśyasva ity arthaḥ | kīdṛśenendreṇa | abibhyuṣā
bhīti-rahitena | kīdṛśau cendra-marud-gaṇau | mandū nityapramuditau samāna-varcasā tulya-dīptī | purā kadācid vṛtra-vadha-daśāyām indrasya sakhāyaḥ sarve devā vṛtra-śvāsenāpasāritāḥ | tadānīm indrasya vṛtra-sambandhi-sakala-
senā-jayārtham marudbhiḥ saṅgamano 'bhūt | so 'yam ... rmo
vṛtrasya tvā śvasathāt | ṛgve. 8-96-2 [?] | iti mantre saṅgrhīta
indro vai vṛtraṃ haniṣyan | ai. brā. 3-20 [?] | iti brāhmaṇe prapañcitaś ca | indra-śabdaḥ paramaiśvaryavantaṃ marud-gaṇaṃ vābhidhatte | tadānīm indrasya sambodhanaṃ bahir
evādhyāhartavyam | tathā ceyam ṛg yāskena vyākhyātā | indreṇa hi saṃ dṛśyase saṃgacchamāno 'bibhyuṣā gaṇena mandū madiṣṇū yuvāṃ stotro 'pi vā mandunā teneti syāt samānavarcasety etena vākhyātaṃ | ni. 4-10 [?] | iti | | saṃ dṛkṣase | saṃpaśyethāḥ | dṛśeś ceti vaktavyam | 1-3-29-3 [?] |
ity ātmanepadaṃ | dṛśer liṅarthe leṭ | pā. 3-4-7 | iti prārthanāyāṃ ... (Reading notes: (i) the word-start of the quoted R̥k-fragment "[...]rmo vṛtrasya tvā śvasathāt" (R̥g.
[8-96-2 ?]) is cut off at the left edge of my enlargement; I give only the visible letters; (ii) the Brāhmaṇa reference "ai. brā.

3-20" and the Nirukta reference "ni. 4-10" are small Kannada numerals, read with doubt; (iii) the text breaks off at the foot of the page in the middle of the grammar of "ḍṛkṣase" and continues on p. 237.)

Translation (sense in full; grammar in outline): "O troop of Maruts! You, 'saṃjagmānaḥ' — joining Indra — 'saṃ ḍṛkṣase hi' — you are indeed well seen; the sense is 'you will certainly be seen by us.' With what kind of Indra? 'Abibhyuṣā' — one free of fear. And what kind of Indra and Marut-troop? 'Mandū' — ever delighted, 'samānavarcasā' — of equal radiance. Once, in the time of the slaying of Vṛtra, all the gods, friends of Indra, were driven away by Vṛtra's breath. Then, in order that Indra might conquer all of Vṛtra's army, there was a union with the Maruts. This is gathered into the mantra [Rg. 8-96-2 ?]: '... from the breath of Vṛtra, you ...' and it is elaborated in the Brāhmaṇa: 'Indra, about to slay Vṛtra' (Aitareya-brāhmaṇa [3-20 ?]). The word 'Indra' here denotes the supremely powerful Marut-troop, or Indra; at that time the vocative 'Indra' must be supplied from outside. That is how Yāska explains this Ṛk: 'By Indra you are seen united, by the fearless troop: "mandū" — the two who gladden, you both, or the praisers by that gladdening one — this would be "samānavarcasā"' (Nirukta [4-10 ?]). 'Saṃ ḍṛkṣase' — 'you should be seen together'; (the Bhāṣya on the form of 'ḍṛkṣase:') the ātmanepada is stated by a special rule; 'leṭ' of the root 'ḍṛś' in the sense of 'liṇ,' in the sense of prayer ..." (continues on the next page).⁶⁸

original p. 237

68. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The top of the page continues the Sanskrit grammar of the Bhāṣya on "ḍṛkṣase," "saṃjagmānaḥ," "abibhyuṣā," "mandū" and "samānavarcasā." It is dense, was read at ordinary enlargement, and is characterized, not transcribed; the sūtras I could read with confidence are kept; numbers as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.

Rik 6.7: grammar of the Bhāṣya (characterized); Pada-meanings

Grammar (characterized): "Dṛkṣase" — the "leṭ" in the sense of prayer, the ending "thās" → "se" (थासः से, पा. ३-४-८०), the augment "aṭ/āṭ" of "leṭ" (लेटोऽडाटौ, पा. ३-४-९४); "sip" in "leṭ" variably (सिबुहुलं लेटि, पा. ३-१-३४); the aorist-type "sa" ... ऋश्चिः the print notes that the guṇa of the light penultimate is not obtained because the operation is "saṃjñā-pūrvaka" (संज्ञापूर्वको विधिरनित्यः), and so on; ब्रश्चभ्रस्जसृजमृजयजराजभ्राजच्छशां षः (पा. ८-२-३६) — "ṣ" for the final of "dṛś" and the like — yields "dṛkṣase" (the "ṣ" and "k" in the 'kṣ' cluster). "Saṃjagmānaḥ" — "gamlṛ gatau" (to go) with the prefix "sam," "liṭ" in the present sense (वर्तमाने लिट् as the print puts it; सनोगम्मुच्छिभ्याम् [as read], पा. १-३-२९ — the ātmanepada after "sam" with "gam"); "kānac" for "liṭ" (लिटः कानज्वा, पा. ३-२-१०६); the doubling (द्विर्वचनेऽचि / पा. ६-१-८); the reduplicative syllable's "g" and the loss of "m"; "kānac" is "c"-marked, so end-acute (चितः). In the compound, गतिसमासे the kṛt-final member's accent is retained. "Abibhyuṣā" — "ñibhī bhaye" (to fear) with "kvasu" for "liṭ" (क्वसुश्च, पा. ३-२-१०७); the doubling; the reduplicative syllable's shortening (ह्रस्वः, पा. ७-४-५९) and "bh" → "b" (अभ्यासे चर्च, पा. ८-४-५४); "ī" for "bhī" before a "kit" — "bibhī"; वसोः संप्रसारणम् (पा. ६-४-१३१) and शासिवसिघसीनां च (पा. ८-३-६०) "ṣ"; the third-case singular "tā": "abibhyuṣā" — here with the negative "a" prefix, a bahuvrīhi-type compound keeping its first member's accent. "Mandū" — "madi stutimodamadasvapnakāntigatiṣu" (to praise, to delight, to be intoxicated, to sleep, to desire, to go): the Uṇādi "u" (उ. सू. १-३२ [as read]) — "mad" + "u" → "mandu" with the "num" augment (इदितो नुम् धातोः, पा. ७-१-५८); "ñit" / "n"-marked, first-syllable acute; the dual "au" → "ū" (प्रथमयोः पूर्वसवर्णः, पा. ६-१-१०२; सुपां सुलुक्...). "Samānavarcasā" — "samānaṃ varco yayoh" — a bahuvrīhi; or "samānaṃ varcaḥ yasya"; the dual → "ā"; the compound keeps its first member's accent (बहुव्रीही प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम्, पा. ६-२-१). ॥७॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे मरुद्गणे) (he marudgaṇe) — O Maruts, O host of Marut-deities |
 (तुम्) (tvam) — you | अबिभ्युषा (abibhyuṣā) — one free of fear |
 इन्द्रेण (indreṇa) — together with Indra | संजग्मानः (saṃjagmānaḥ)
 — going about | संदृक्षसे हि (saṃ dṛkṣase hi) — are seen | (तुमिम्बुरु)
 मन्दू (mandū) — (both of you) always full of delight | समानवर्चसा
 (samānavarcasā) — endowed with equal radiance. ⁶⁹

original p. 238

Rik 6.7: Bhāvārtha; English rendering; Special topics (opening): the Vṛtra legend

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Marut-deities! That you go about together with the fearless Indra is seen by all. Not only that: the two of you — Indra and the Marut-deities — are always full of delight, and your radiance and your power and capacity are equal. That is, Indra and the Marut-deities, you two are alike in radiance, power and capacity.

English Translation (printed in English in the source itself):

"You are seen, O Maruts, marching forth together with Indra who is not frightened; (both) rejoicing and of equal splendour."

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

69. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; English as printed. The Rg-vedic verse was read from an enlarged slice; its reference is in small Kannada numerals and cut at the left edge of my enlargement, and I mark it [?]; the gloss is the source's own English.

The Bhāṣyakāra here indicates an ancient legend. In the battle that took place long ago, when Indra destroyed the demon Vṛtra, the gods who were with Indra were frightened by the terrible snorting and roaring of the demon Vṛtra, and fled. But the Marut-deities alone, without any fear, remained with Indra to help him. This matter is described in the R̥k R̥. Saṃ. 8-96-2 [?] and in the Aitareya-brāhmaṇa (3-20 [?]):

वृत्रस्य त्वा श्वसथादीषमाणा विश्वे देवा अजहुर्ये सखायः । मरुद्भिरिन्द्र सख्यं ते अस्त्वथेमा विश्वाः पृतना जयासि ॥ (ऋ. सं. ८-९६-२ [?]) vṛtrasya tvā śvasathād
iṣamāṇā viśve devā ajahur ye sakhāyaḥ | marudbhir indra
sakhyam te astv atheme viśvāḥ pṛtanā jayāsi || (ṛ. saṃ. 8-96-2 [?]) English, as printed in the source: "Before the snorting of Vritra, all the gods, your comrades beating a hasty retreat abandoned you. Let your friendship be, O Indra, with the Maruts; then you will conquer all battles."

The meaning of this: O Indra! From the terrible breath of the demon Vṛtra, all the gods who were your friends were frightened and, leaving your side, ran away. But let there be friendship for you with the Marut-deities. (With their help) you will be victorious in all the battles. For this very reason, it is said here that the Marut-deities may be seen going about with Indra; that is, the sense is that since the Marut-deities are friendly with Indra, they help Indra in battles and the like.

इन्द्रेण (indreṇa) — the word "Indra" can be explained as meaning "supreme lordship." If so, the word "indreṇa" may be applied, together with the word "abibhyuṣā," as a qualifier of "marudgaṇa" ... ⁷⁰

original p. 239

70. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā."
Kannada prose translated; grammar characterized; the Nirukta reference in small numerals is marked [?].

Special topics on Rik 6.7 (concluded); Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (opening)

⁷¹ ...then "indreṇa abibhyuṣā" means "by the host of Marut-deities, who have supreme lordship and are free of fear."

The sage Yāska, in his Nirukta, explains this Rk thus: "indreṇa hi saṃdrśyase saṅgacchamāno 'bibhyuṣā gaṇena mandū madiṣṇū yuvāṃ stotāro 'pi vā mandunā teneti syāt samānavarcasety etena vyākhyātam" (इन्द्रेण हि सन्दृश्यसे संगच्छमानोऽबिभ्युषा गणेन मन्दू मदिष्णू युवां स्तोतारोऽपि वा मन्दुना तेनेति स्यात्समानवर्चसेत्येतेन व्याख्यातम् — as in the Bhāṣya on p. 236; Ni. 4-[?]). This is as the Bhāṣyakāra explained it. But Yāska has taken the words "mandū" and "samānavarcasā" as if they were dual words, and so has said that they are qualifiers of both Indra and the Maruts; whereas the Bhāṣyakāra has taken these words as third-case (instrumental) forms and used them, with the four words "indreṇa," "abibhyuṣā," "mandū" and "samānavarcasā," as qualifiers of the Marut-host only. Then, in place of the Marut-host, Indra himself must be addressed: "O Indra! You are seen, we may say, going with the Marut-deities, who are possessed of supreme lordship, fearless and of equal radiance." Skandasvāmī explains it in the same way. Since the chief intention of the two kinds of meaning is one, one may say it either way.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ "Samdr̥kṣase" — "saṃpaśyethāḥ" — the "laṭ"-like "leṭ" in the sense of "liṇ" (लिङर्थे लेट्, पा. ३-४-७), after the root "dr̥ś" in the sense of prayer; the Vārttika सनोर्गम्मुच्छिभ्याम् / "the ātmanepada after 'sam' with 'ṛ, śru, dr̥ś'" — the print says that the substitution of the ātmanepada for the "la" after the roots "ṛ," "śru," "dr̥ś" with the prefix "sam" is laid down in the Vārttika: सम्मुच्छिश्रुदृशिभ्यः; "thās" (second-person singular ātmanepada) → थासः से (पा. ३-४-८०) "se" → "dr̥ś + se"; लेटोऽडाटौ (पा. ३-४-९४) the augment; "sip" variably in "leṭ" (सिब्वहुलं लेटि, पा. ३-१-३४); the guṇa of the light

71. Continuing from p. 238:

penultimate would arise by पुगन्तलघूपधस्य च (पा. ७-३-८६) but is set aside by the "saṃjñā-pūrvaka" principle (संज्ञापूर्वको विधिरनित्यः, परिभाषा [number as printed "३-१"]); ब्रध्नस्जसृजमृजयजराजभ्राजच्छां षः (पा. ८-२-३६) — "ṣ" for the final of "vraśc," "bhrasj," "srj," "mrj," "yaj," "rāj," "bhrāj," "ch" and "śā" — and for the final "ś" of "dṛś," by the rule's "pada-anta"-and-"jhal" reading, "ṣ" in the place of the "ś" before a "jhal" letter; then "ṣ" + "s" → "kṣ" (षढोः कः सि, पा. ८-२-४१) — "ṣ" and "ḍh" → "k" before "s" ... ⁷²

original pp. 240–242

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 6.7 (Kannada) — characterized; Sūkta 6, Eighth Mantra: Saṃhitā

p. 240. ⁷³ ...by षढोः कः सि (पा. ८-२-४१) the "ṣ" of the root before "s" becomes "k"; by आदेशप्रत्यययोः (पा. ८-३-५९) the "s" of the affix after "k" becomes "ṣ" — so "dṛk + ṣe"; since बहुलं छन्दसि (पा. २-४-७३) allows "luk" for "śap," "śap" might not intervene; the print shows that, with "sip," the form "dṛ + k + ṣa + se" arises and then, by पाघ्राभ्यास्थाग्नादाण्डृश्यर्त्तिसर्तिशदसदां पिबजिघ्रधमतिष्ठमनयच्छपश्यर्च्छौशीयसीदाः (पा. ७-३-७८) "paśya" would replace "dṛś" before a sārvaadhātuka beginning with a consonant "śit"-marked affix, but since the "sip" here is not "śit"-marked for that purpose (and the "leṭ" is not a "ś"-affix in that sense), the substitution "paśya" does not occur; "śap" is "p"-marked, so unaccented (अनुदात्तो सुप्पितौ, पा. ३-१-४); the "ṣe" is unaccented as a "tiñ" ending; the root's accent remains; the "a" of "śap" and the "a" before it merge by आतो गुणे / अतो गुणे (पा. ६-१-१४); हिं

72. Page headers: p. 240 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 241 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?]" ; p. 242 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā." These three pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "dṛkṣase," "saṃjagmānaḥ," "abibhyuṣā," "mandū" and "samānavarcasā," together with a note on the saṃhitā-sandhi of "saṃjagmāno abibhyuṣā." They do not bear on the sense of Rik 6.7. Read at ordinary enlargement; characterized in outline; sūtras I could read with confidence are kept, numbers as read.

73. Continuing "dṛkṣase":

च ... the "drkṣase" is not made unaccented by तिङ्ङितिङः (पा. ८-१-२८) because the particle "hi" precedes it (हि च, पा. ८-१-३४ — "a verb after 'hi' is not made unaccented"). "Samjagmānaḥ" — "gamḥ gatau" with the prefix "sam," "liṭ" in the present sense (वर्तमाने लिट्, as printed; छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिटिः, पा. ३-४-६); समो गम्यच्छिभ्याम् (पा. १-३-२९) the ātmanepada after "sam" with "gam" and "ṛ"; लिटः कानज्वा (पा. ३-२-१०६) "kānac"; लिटि धातोरनभ्यासस्य (पा. ६-१-८) doubling; हलादिः शेषः (पा. ७-४-६०); कुहोश्चुः (पा. ७-४-६२) "ga" → "ja"; गमहनजनखनघसां लोपः क्ङित्यनङि (पा. ६-४-९८) the elision of the penultimate "a" of "gam" before a "kit/ñit" affix: "ja-g-m-āna" → "jagmāna"; end-acute by the "c"-mark of "kānac" (चितः); कुगतिप्रादयः (पा. २-२-१८) the compound with "sam," and the kṛt-final member's accent retained (गतिकारकोपपदात्कृत्, पा. ६-२-१३९).

p. 241 — "abibhyuṣā." The root "ñibhī bhaye" (to fear); "liṭ" in the Veda (छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिटिः, पा. ३-४-६); the parasmaipada is prescribed by शेषात्कर्तरि परस्मैपदम् (पा. १-३-७८); क्वसुश्च (पा. ३-२-१०७) "kvasu"; "kit," so no guṇa; doubling and shortening; अभ्यासे चर्च (पा. ८-४-५४) — "bi-bhī + vas"; the print then argues the question of the augment "iṭ": by वस्वेकाजाद्वसाम् (पा. २-२-६७?) [as printed] "iṭ" for "kvasu" comes only after a root that is monosyllabic and, having been doubled, ... since "bhī" is a monosyllabic root that is not among "kṛ, sṛ, bhṛ, vṛ, stu, dru, śru," the augment does not come before "vasu"; वसोः संप्रसारणम् (पा. ६-४-१३१) the "samprasāraṇa" of "vas" and संप्रसारणाच्च (पा. ६-१-१०८) the pūrvarūpa; अचि श्नुधातुभ्रुवां य्वोरियङुवडौ (पा. ६-४-७७) would give "iy" for the "i" of "bhī," but अजाद्यतष्टाप्-type argument shows that the "īyañ" is barred and एरनेकाचोऽसंयोगपूर्वस्य (पा. ६-४-८२) "ya" for the "i" — "bibhy + uṣ + ā"; आदेशप्रत्यययोः (पा. ८-३-५९) "ṣ" for "s"; and the print adds that, since the "s" of "vas" is not by itself an "ādeśa" nor a "pratyaya," शासिवसिघसीनां च (पा. ८-३-६०) is the sūtra that applies; the negative prefix "a-" is added in a compound with the first member's accent retained.

p. 242 — "mandū," "samānavarcasā"; the sandhi of "saṃjagmāno abibhyuṣā." The print notes (after the discussion of "vasu" with and without "grahaṇa") that in the saṃhitā, in "saṃjagmāno 'bibhyuṣā," the "o" (from "aḥ") before the short "a" — डसिङ्सोश्च/एङः पदान्तादति (पा. ६-१-१०९) would absorb the "a" and give the avagraha — but प्रकृत्यान्तःपादमव्यपरे (पा. ६-१-११५) keeps the natural form inside the pāda: "saṃjagmāno abibhyuṣā." "Mandū" — "madi stuti-moda-mada-svapna-kānti-gatiṣu" (to praise, to delight, to be intoxicated, to sleep, to desire, to go): the root is "i"-marked, so इदितो नुम् धातोः (पा. ७-१-५८) the "num" augment; the Uṇādi affix "ku" (कुशङ्कुपीयुनीलगुलिगु [as printed], उ. सू. १-३५ [?]), after the list of words formed with "ku" by nipātana — "mandu" — the end-acute by the affix's accent; the dual "au" → "ū" (प्रथमयोः पूर्वसवर्णः, पा. ६-१-१०२). "Samānavarcasā" — "samānaṃ varcaḥ yayoh tau" (dual) or "samānaṃ varcaḥ yasya saḥ" (third-case singular), the bahuvrihi compound; "samāna" is end-acute by its stem; by बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) the first member's own accent remains. ॥७॥

Sūkta 6, The Eighth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁷⁴

अनवद्यैरभिद्युभिर्मखः सहस्वदर्चति । गणैरिन्द्रस्य काम्यैः ॥८॥

*anavadyair abhidyubhir makhaḥ sahasvad arcati | gaṇair
indrasya kām्यaiḥ || 8 ||*

original p. 243

74. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · R̥gveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; the left edge of the first lines of the Bhāṣya was clipped in my enlargement, so a few word-beginnings are marked [?].

Rik 6.8: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अनवद्यैः । अभिद्युभिः । मखः । सहस्वत् । अर्चति । गणैः । इन्द्रस्य । काम्यैः ॥८॥

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

मखः प्रवर्तमानोऽयं यज्ञोऽनवद्यैर्दोषरहितैरभिद्युभिर्द्युलोकमभिगतैः काम्यैः फलप्रदत्वेन
कामयितव्यैर्गणैर्मरुत्समूहैः सहितमिन्द्रस्येन्द्रं सहस्वद्वलोपेतं यथा भवति तथार्चति । पूजयति ।
अयं यज्ञो मरुत इन्द्रं चातिशयेन प्रीणयतीत्यर्थः । यज्ञ इत्यादिषु पंचदशसु यज्ञनामसु मखो विष्णुरिति पठितम् । चतुश्चत्वारिंशत्सु अर्चितकर्मसु अर्चति गायतीति पठितम् ॥ *makhaḥ pravartamāno 'yaṁ yajño 'navadyair doṣa-rahitair abhidyubhir dyuloka-m abhigataiḥ kām्याiḥ phala-pradatvena kāmayitavyair gaṇair marut-samūhaiḥ sahitam indrasyendram sahasvad-balopetaṁ yathā bhavati tathārcati | pūjayati | ayaṁ yajño maruta indram cātīśayena prīṇayatīty arthaḥ | yajña ity ādiṣu pañcadaśasu yajña-nāmasu makho
viṣṇur iti paṭhitam | catuṣcatvāriṁśatsu arcati-karmasu arcati gāyatīti paṭhitam | | (Reading notes: the printed
"dyulokam abhigataiḥ" is run together and I divide it as shown;
the Kannada Pada-meaning, given below, confirms the sense
"joined with the Marut-groups who have gone to the heavenly world"; "indrasyendram" is a printed oddity (the genitive "indrasya" followed by the accusative "indram") that I give as printed and flag [?].)*

Translation:

"Makhaḥ" — this sacrifice, now going on, 'arcati' — honours, worships — Indra in such a manner that he becomes full of overpowering strength ('sahasvat'), together with the Marut-groups ('gaṇaiḥ'), who are faultless ('anavadyaiḥ'), who have gone to the heavenly world ('abhidyubhiḥ'), who are desirable ('kām्याiḥ') because they bestow fruit. The sense: this sacrifice gratifies both the Maruts and Indra exceedingly. Among the fifteen names of sacrifice beginning with 'yajña,' 'makhaḥ' and 'viṣṇuḥ' are read; among the forty-four verbs of honouring, 'arcati' and 'gāyati' are read."

Grammar (characterized, sūtras kept; read from the slice and the page at ordinary enlargement): "Anavadyaiḥ" — "na vidyate avadyaṃ yeṣāṃ te anavadyāḥ" — a bahuvrīhi with "nañ"; नञ्सुभ्याम् (पा. ६-२-१७२) the second member is end-acute. "Abhidyubhiḥ" — "abhigatā dyaus yaiḥ te abhidyavaḥ" — a bahuvrīhi; "abhi" is acute by its stem-accent (end-acute), and by बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् (पा. ६-२-१) that accent alone remains. "Makhaḥ" — a stem accent. "Sahasvat" — "sahaḥ balam asminn asti" ("in which there is 'sahas,' strength"); तसौ मत्वर्थे (पा. १-४-१९) — before "matup" the stem is called "bha" and "pada," and so the "s" does not become "ru"; मादुपधायाश्च मतोर्वोऽयवादिभ्यः (पा. ८-२-९) the "m" of "matup" → "v" after a stem with "m" or "a/ā" penultimate (outside the "yava"-class) → "vat"; "sahas" is first-syllable acute as a नञ्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य word; "matup" is "p"-marked, and its accent is dropped, leaving the stem's accent. "Kāmyaiḥ" — "kamu kāntau" with "ṇic" (कमेर्णिङ्, पा. ३-१-३०), vṛddhi of the penultimate (अत उपधायाः, पा. ७-२-११६), then "yat" (ण्यन्ताद्यत् — अचो यत्, पा. ३-१-९७, as printed "3-1-? 2"), the "ṇi" elided (णेनिति, पा. ६-४-५१); by the exception यतोऽनावः (पा. ६-१-२१३) to the "tit-svarita" rule (पा. ६-१-१८५), first-syllable acute. The print remarks that "kam" is a root of the "ghaṭādi" class, where "mit" shortening is barred (मितां ह्रस्वः, पा. ६-४-९२, not applying). ॥८॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

मखः (makhaḥ) — (this sacrifice that we are performing) the sacrifice | अनवद्यैः (anavadyaiḥ) — free of faults | अभिद्युभिः (abhidyubhiḥ) — those who bring about heaven (the Maruts, leading to the heavenly world) | काम्यैः (kāmyaiḥ) — desired by those who seek fruit | गणैः (gaṇaiḥ) — with the Marut-troops |

(सहितनाद) (sahitanāda) — accompanied | इन्द्रस्य (indrasya) — Indra | सहस्वत् (sahasvat) — so as to make him powerful | अर्चति (arcati) — let it worship.⁷⁵

original pp. 244–245

Rik 6.8: Bhāvārtha, English, Special Topics, end of grammar

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The Marut-troops are free of fault and have become able to go to the heavenly world. People who seek the fruit of their wishes desire them. May this sacrifice that we are performing for Indra, accompanied by such Marut-troops, gratify him with worship and the like, and make him strong.

English Translation⁷⁶

This sacrifice is performed in adoration of Indra so as to m[a]ke [sic: printed "mike"] him powerful, along with the irreproachable, heavenward-tending and amiable bands (of the Maruts).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu — Special Topics ॥

The sense of this Ṛk is somewhat strained (kliṣṭa). Its meaning can be stated thus: "May Indra, who is accompanied by the Marut-troops, be well pleased with me by means of this sacrifice that we

75. Note on order: the grammar section, which in the print runs from p. 244 through p. 245, and the Pada-meanings are already given above under "Page 243"; what follows is the remainder of p. 244. Page headers: p. 244 "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 245 "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]".

76. as printed in the source

are performing, and thereby become strong." Of the qualifying words used of the Maruts — "anavadyaiḥ," "abhidyubhiḥ," "kāmyaiḥ" — the meanings are plain.

- मखः (makhaḥ) — "Among the fifteen sacrifice-names beginning with 'yajña,' the words 'makhaḥ' and 'viṣṇuḥ' are read" (Nighaṇṭu 3-[?]; the numeral printed as "३-१९" is not certain).
- अर्चति (arcati) — "Among the forty-four 'arcati-karma' names beginning with 'arcati, gāyati,' the word 'arcati' is read" (Nighaṇṭu 3-[?]; printed "३-१९" [?]).

Grammar — see the characterization given under "Page 243" (the print there is continuous: "anavadyaiḥ," "abhidyubhiḥ," "makhaḥ," "sahasvat," "kāmyaiḥ"); p. 245 carries only its last lines, ending at ॥८॥. ⁷⁷

Sūkta 6, The Ninth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁷⁸

अतः परिज्मन्ना गहि दिवो वा रोचनादधि । समस्मिन्नुज्जते गिरः ॥९॥

*ataḥ parijman ā gahi divo vā rocanād adhi | sam asminn
rñjate girah || 9 ||*

original pp. 246–247

Rik 6.9: Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar (characterized), Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English, start of Special Topics

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

⁷⁷. Accent-marks printed; not reproduced.

⁷⁸. Page 246 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 247 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]" . Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; the bhāṣya was read from enlarged slices. Accent-marks on the Pada text are printed but not reproduced.

अतः । परिऽज्जन् । आ । गहि । दिवः । वा । रोचनात् । अधि । सम् । अस्मिन् । ऋज्जते ।
गिरः ॥९॥

ataḥ | pari-jman | ā | gahi | divaḥ | vā | rocanāt | adhi | sam
| asmin | rñjate | giraḥ || 9 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे परिज्जन् परितो व्यापिन्मरुद्गण अतोऽस्मान्मरुद्गणस्थानादन्तरिक्षाद्वा गहि ।
अस्मिन्कर्मण्यागच्छ । दिवो वा । द्युलोकाद्वा समागच्छ । रोचनादधि ।
दीप्यमानादादित्यमण्डलाद्वा समागच्छ । अस्मदीयकर्मकाले यत्र यत्र तिष्ठसि ततः
सर्वस्मादागच्छेत्यर्थः । किमर्थमागमनमिति तदुच्यते । अस्मिन्कर्मणि वर्तमाने ऋत्विगिरः
स्तुतीः सम्ऋज्जते । सम्यक् प्रसाधयति । ऋज्जतिः प्रसाधनकर्मा । नि. ६-[?] इति यास्कः
। एताः स्तुतीः श्रोतुमागच्छेत्यर्थः । यद्यप्यृत्विजा मन्त्रस्य प्रयुज्यमानत्वादृज्जतिधातोरुत्तमपुरुषेण भवितव्यं तथापि परोक्षकृतत्वेन निर्देशात् [two or three words unclear] प्रथमपुरुषप्रयोगः । परोक्षकृतलक्षणं च यास्क आह । ताः त्रिविधा ऋचः परोक्षकृताः प्रत्यक्षकृता आध्यात्मिक्यश्च । तत्र परोक्षकृताः सर्वाभिर्नामविभक्तिभिर्युज्यन्ते प्रथमपुरुषैश्चाख्यातस्य । नि. २-१ इति ॥ he pari-jman parito vyāpin marud-gaṇa ato 'smān marud-gaṇa-sthānād antarikṣād vā gahi | asmin karmanya āgaccha | divo vā |
dyulokād vā samāgaccha | rocanād adhi | dīpyamānād āditya-
maṇḍalād vā samāgaccha | asmadīya-karma-kāle yatra yatra
tiṣṭhasi tataḥ sarvasmād āgacchety arthaḥ | kim-artham āgamanam iti tad ucyate | asmin karmaṇi vartamāne ṛtvig-giraḥ stutīḥ sam-rñjate | samyak prasādhayati | rñjatiḥ
prasādhana-karmā | nī. 6-[?] iti yāskaḥ | etāḥ stutīḥ śrotum
āgacchety arthaḥ | yady apy ṛtvijā mantrasya prayujyamānatvād rñjati-dhātor uttama-puruṣeṇa bhavitavyaṃ tathāpi parokṣa-kṛtatvena nirdeśāt [?] prathamapuruṣa-prayogaḥ | parokṣa-kṛta-lakṣaṇaṃ ca yāska āha | tās tri-vidhā rcaḥ parokṣa-kṛtāḥ pratyakṣa-kṛtā ādhyātmikyaś ca | tatra parokṣa-kṛtāḥ sarvābhir nāma-vibhaktibhir yujyante prathama-puruṣaiś cākhyātasya | nī. 2-1 iti ||

Translation: "O 'parijman' — O Marut-host, pervading on all sides! 'Ataḥ' — from this place of yours, the Marut-host, or from the atmosphere — 'gahi' — come to this rite. 'Divo vā' — or come from the world of heaven. 'Rocanād adhi' — or come from the shining disc of the sun. The sense is: at the time of our rite, wherever you are standing, from there come. For what purpose the coming? That is said: while this rite is going on, the priests' voices, the praises, 'sam ṛñjate' — adorn well, that is, accomplish well. 'Ṛñjati' is a verb of accomplishing (Yāska, Nirukta 6-[?]). The sense: come to hear these praises. Although, since the mantra is being used by the priest, the root 'ṛñj' ought to be in the first person, nevertheless, because the statement is made in the indirect (parokṣa-kṛta) manner, the third person is used. And Yāska gives the mark of the 'parokṣa-kṛta': 'Those verses are of three kinds: indirect, direct, and personal-spiritual. Of these, the indirect are joined with all the case-endings of nouns, and with the third person of the verb' (Nirukta 2-1)." ⁷⁹

Grammar (characterized; dense sūtra-citation, sense already given): The page explains the accent of each word of the Pada text. "Ataḥ" — "etad" + "tasil" in the fifth case (पञ्चम्यास्तसिल्, पा. ५-३-७ [?, numeral not certain]), with "etad" replaced by "a" (एतदोऽश्, पा. ५-३-५ [?]); "śit" marking makes the substitution of the whole stem (शित्त्वात् सवदिशः, the reference printed as पा. १-१-५५ [?]); "tasil" is "l"-marked, so the syllable before the suffix is acute (लिति, as printed). "Parijman" — from "aja gati-kṣepaṇayoḥ" with the affix "manin" (अन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते, पा. ३-२-७५ [?, printed "३-२-२३"]), the "a" dropped by Vedic usage, and being a vocative it takes "nighāta" (full lowering of accent) (आमन्त्रितस्य च). "Gahi" — "gam" with "śap" dropped (गमेर्बहुलं छन्दसि, पा. २-४-७३ [?]); the "n" elided by the rule for roots with an accent-less

79. The Nirukta numeral for the "ṛñjati" reference is printed with a Kannada digit pair I could not read with certainty; "Nirukta 2-1" for the parokṣa-kṛta definition reads clearly.

"n" (अनुदात्तोपदेशवनतितनोत्यादीनामनुनासिकलोपो झलि क्ङिति, पा. ६-४-३७), and "hi" is likewise lowered as a "ñit"; the printed derivation of "lopaḥ" and "hilopaḥ" (आतो हेः, पा. ६-४-१०५ [?]) is too compressed to reproduce. "Divah" — by the rule on the "ūṭh" substitution for "div" (ऊडिदंपदाद्यप्पुम्रैद्युभ्यः, as printed "ऊडिदमित्यादिन") the case-ending is acute. "Vā" — "cādi" particles are accent-less (चादयोऽनुदात्ताः, फि. ४- [?]). "Rocanāt" — "ruca diptau" with "yuc" (अनुदात्तेतश्च हलादेः, पा. ३-२-१४९ [?]), "yu" → "ana" (युवोरनाकौ, पा. ७-१-१), "cit" so end-acute. "Adhi" — as an "adhi-pari" particle without sense of its own it is called a "karma-pravacanīya" (अधिपरी अनर्थकौ, पा. १-४-९३), joined with the "nipāta" designation; first-syllable acute. "Asmin" — the stem "idam" ends in a substitution by "a" etc.; the third-and-following case-endings are then accent-less (पा. २-४-३२ [?]-type rule, "śit" marking, the case-ending is lowered; the whole word is accent-less). "Rñjate" — "rñji bhr̥jī bharjane"; with the preverb "sam" it denotes "accomplishing"; "nighāta." "Girah" — by its stem accent.

80

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ⁸¹

हेपरिजम् (he parijman) — O Maruts, pervading on every side! अतः (ataḥ) — from your place, the atmosphere | दिवो वा (divo vā) — or from the world of heaven | रोचनात् (rocanāt) — from the shining sun-disc | अस्मिन् (asmin) — to this sacrifice that we are performing, that is, to the sacrificial place | अधि गहि (adhi gahi) — come | (वा) — [the priest, the Ṛṣi] | गिरः (girah) — praises | सम्ब्रह्मज्जते (sam-rñjate) — he offers for your adornment.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

80. Printed sūtra-numbers in this paragraph are the least certain part of the page; I give them only where reasonably legible, with [?] where not.

81. Kannada, translated, p. 247

O Marut-deities, you are all-pervading. At this time of our sacrifice, if you are in the atmosphere, come from there; if in the heavenly world, come from there; or if you are in the sphere of the sun, come from there. Wherever you are now, come from there. Now the priest — that is, the Ṛṣi Madhucchandās, the seer of this mantra — praises you with praises, for your coming.

English Translation ⁸²

O pervader-on-all-side[s] [the print has "all-sides" with a hyphen run-on], come hither from the regions (of the Maruts) or from the sky or from the radiant solar sphere. For in the rite (the priest) fully recites your praises.

॥ Special Topics ॥ ^{83 84}

- परिजम्न् (parijman) — "going round on all sides"; "moving everywhere." That is, the wind blows always in all places — on earth, in the atmosphere, in heaven, and so on.
- दिवो वा रोचनादधि (divo vā rocanād adhi) — The commentator says "either from heaven or from the sphere of the sun." Or the word "rocanāt" may be taken to mean "shining," and as a qualifier of "divaḥ" it may be understood as desired. Here, since "adhi" is present, the commentator has explained "rocanāt" as "from the shining sun-sphere." Skandasvāmin says that "adhi" should be construed with the verb "ā gahi."
- ऋज्जते (ṛñjate) — "Ṛñjatiḥ prasāadhanakarmā" (Nirukta 6-[?]), says Yāska in the Nirukta. Here the priest who praises, the seer of this mantra, Madhucchandās himself, [text continues on p. 248].

original pp. 248–249

82. as printed

83. Kannada, translated; continues onto the next page

84. Page 248 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 249 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]" P. 249 also carries a small "32" at the foot, apparently a printer's signature mark. The Kannada here is quite legible, but the sūtra-numerals are small and several are marked [?].

Rik 6.9: end of Special Topics; Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (characterized)

॥ Special Topics (continued from p. 247) ॥

...[the priest] does not use the first-person verb but uses a third-person verb-form. The reason: since the deities being praised, the Maruts, are not present before him, he praises them indirectly (and not directly). Such verses — in which the deities are not addressed, but only their praise, or merely some matter, is stated, with the verbs in the third person — belong to the group of verses called "parokṣa-kṛta" (indirect). Among the Ṛks there are three kinds: parokṣa-kṛta, pratyakṣa-kṛta, and ādhyātmika. This matter of Yāska's I have explained earlier (page "[?]" — the numeral is not clear).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā — Grammatical Derivation ॥ ⁸⁵

1. "Ataḥ" (अतः, ataḥ). The print explains: "pañcamyās tasil" — पञ्चम्यास्तसिल् (pañcamyās tasil, "tasil [comes] after [a word in] the fifth case," पा. ५-३-७ [?]) — the affix "tasil" comes optionally after "kim," the pronouns, and "bahu," when they stand in the fifth case, with the exception of "dvi"-etc. words. So "etad + ṇasi" is analysed "etasmāt," and "tasil" comes. Since a word ending in a taddhita affix is a pratipadika, the fifth-case ending is elided by सुपो धातुप्रातिपदिकयोः (supo dhātu-prātipadikayoḥ, "the case-ending is elided after a root or a stem," पा. ३-४-७१) — the print gives this as "2-4-71" and I accept it, being a standard sūtra. Then एतदोऽश् (etado 'ś, "the substitute 'a' for 'etad' before 'tasil'-like affixes," पा. ५-३-५ [?]) is discussed at length: the print says some read the sūtra as "etado 'n" (substituting "an") and some as "etado 'ś" (as in

85. characterized in outline, with every named sūtra kept in three layers, as the page is dense scholastic derivation of accent and affix that adds nothing to the sense already given the Kāśikā), the latter being "śit," hence a whole-stem substitution (शित्वात् सवदिशः, śittvāt sarvādeśah); a further reference to अनेकाल् शित् सर्वस्य (anekāl śit sarvasya, "a multi-lettered substitute, or one marked 'ś,' replaces the whole," पा. १-१-५५) is made, so that "etad" is wholly replaced by "a" and "ataḥ" results. The print adds that the discussion of whether "n" would receive the "it" designation (and therefore be dropped) is settled by the fact that "an" is a multi-lettered substitute. The affix "tasil," being "l"-marked, makes the letter before it acute (लिति, पा. ६-१-१९३ [?]). "Parts of this paragraph — on how the "an"/"aś" reading affects the sūtra, and on the Kāśikā's wording — are too crowded and too partially legible for me to reproduce line by line.

2. "Parijman" (परिजम्न, parijman). अन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते (anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante, "[the affixes 'vanip' etc.] are also seen after other roots," पा. ३-२-७५ [?, printed "३-२-२३"]) — from "aja gati-kṣepaṇayoḥ," with the affix "manin" among "kvip, vanip, viṭ"-type affixes; by Vedic licence the "a" of the root "aja" is dropped (the print notes the Vedic precedent "parijmānaṃ sukhaṃ ratham" [Ṛg-saṃhitā, 1-[?]; the reference is unclear], where "parijman" is derived in another form). Being a vocative, it is accent-less by आमन्त्रितस्य च (āmantritasya ca, "[a vocative is lowered]," पा. ८-१-१९).
3. "Gahi" (गहि, gahi). From "gañ gatau" — in the imperative second-person singular, "sip" is placed; by सेह्यपिच्य (ser hy apic ca, "'hi' replaces 'si' of the imperative, and is not 'pit'," पा. ३-४-८७) "sip" becomes "hi," so "gam + hi." Since "hi" is not "pit," it is treated as "ñit" (सार्वधातुकमपित्, sārvadhātukam apit, "a sārvaadhātuka not marked 'p' is as if 'ñ'-marked," पा. १-२-४), and so अनुदात्तोपदेशवनतितनोत्यादीनामनुनासिकलोपो झलि विडिति (anudāttopadeśa-vanati-tanotyādīnām anunāsika-lopo jhali knīti, "of roots with accent-less teaching, and of 'van-ati,' 'tan-oti' and the like, the nasal is dropped before 'jh'-class sounds when followed by 'k' or 'ṇ'-marked affixes," पा. ६-४-३७) drops the "m" of "gam." The print then explains, with असिद्धवदत्राभात् (asiddhavad atrābhāt, "[what follows] is treated as not-having-occurred in this section up to 'bhāt'," पा. ६-४-२२), that this elision of the nasal is treated as invisible for the purpose of अतो हेः (ato heḥ, "'hi' is elided after a short-'a' ending," पा. ६-४-१०५). Hence "hi" is not elided here (the root-final does not count as "a"-ending); the form remains "gahi."

4. "Divah" (दिवः, divaḥ). The case-ending is acute by ऊडिदंपदद्यप्पुत्रैद्युभ्यः (ūḍidam-padādy-ap-pum-rai-dyubhyaḥ, पा. ६-१-१७१).
5. "Vā" (वा, vā). A member of the "cādi" group of particles, accent-less by चादयोऽनुदात्ताः (cādayo 'nudāttāḥ, फि. ४-१२ [?, printed "४-१२"]).
6. "Rocanāt" (रोचनात्, rocanāt). "ruca dīptau" is an accent-less-marked root, so "yuc" comes after a root beginning with a consonant and "anudātta-it" (अनुदात्तेतश्च हलादेः, anudāttetaś ca halādeḥ, पा. ३-२-१४९ [?, printed "३-२-१४९"]); thus "ruc + yu." By युवोरनाकौ (yuvor anākau, "'yu' and 'vu' are replaced by 'ana' and 'aka'," पा. ७-१-१) "yu" → "ana"; "ruc + ana," with guṇa of the light penultimate → "rocana"; the fifth-case singular gives "rocanāt." Since the affix is "c"-marked, चितः (citaḥ, "[a word] with 'c' as marker has its end acute," पा. ६-१-१६३) applies, and with the Vārttika on that sūtra (चितः सप्रकृतेर्बह्वकजर्थम्, citaḥ saprakṛter bahv-akaj-artham, "the end of the whole [stem + affix] taking a 'c'-marked affix is acute — for the sake of 'bahuc' and 'akac'" — "the end of the full stem + affix is acute; otherwise the places where the affixes 'bahuc' and 'akac' come would not be fulfilled." The print illustrates with विभाषा सुपो बहुच् पुरस्तात् (vibhāṣā supo bahuc purastāt, पा. ५-३-६८), "the affix 'bahuc' comes optionally before [the stem] — as in 'īṣad-ūnaḥ paṭuḥ — bahupaṭuḥ' ('slightly deficient clever one')," and अव्ययसर्वनाम्नामकच् प्राक् टे: (avyaya-sarvanāmnām akac prāk ṭeḥ, पा. ५-३-७१) — here the page ends with the sūtra-statement broken off at "...ಎಂಬುದ" and the argument continues on p. 250.

86 87

original pp. 250–251

Rik 6.9: end of grammar; Rik 6.10: Saṃhitā, Pada, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, grammar begins

Grammar of Rik 6.9, continued (characterized)^{88 89}

- "Rocanāt," end of discussion. The affix "akac" coming by अव्ययसर्वनाम्नामकच् प्राक् टे: (avyaya-sarvanāmnām akac prāk ṭeḥ, पा. ५-३-७१, "'akac' comes before the last 'ṭi' syllable of an indeclinable or a pronoun") comes "behind the 'ṭi'"; the example given is "anyake." The print says that if the Vārttika on "citaḥ" were not taken in this sense, the final

86. Printed numerals in this section — all the reference-numbers in "पा." brackets — are small and some are uncertain; I have marked [?] where I could not confirm them. The ones I confirmed against my memory of the standard Aṣṭādhyāyī numbering — 1-1-55, 2-4-71, 6-4-22, 6-4-37, 6-4-105, 7-1-1, 8-1-19 — I give without comment; I have not checked the rest.

87. Page 250 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 251 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]" Rik 6.10 is the last Rik of Sūkta 6. Accents are printed on the Saṃhitā and Pada of Rik 6.10, and not reproduced.

88. Kannada, translated; the page-top continues the "Rocanāt" discussion of p. 249

89. Final Rik of the sūkta. Accents are printed on this page; not reproduced.

letter would not be acute in these two examples; in "rocana," the end of the whole stem-and-affix combination is acute.

- "Adhi" (अधि, adhi). अधिपरी अनर्थकौ (adhi-parī anarthakau, "'adhi' and 'pari,' when without a distinct sense, are 'karma-pravacanīya,'" पा. १-४-१३): the print says that "adhi" and "pari," not conveying a particular meaning, receive the name "karma-pravacanīya" and also the name "nipāta"; since "adhi" holds the name "nipāta" along with "karma-pravacanīya," it is first-syllable acute by निपाता आद्युदात्ताः (nipātā ādyudāttāḥ, फि. [?]; the numeral is printed "४-८०" but I am not sure of it).
- "Asmin" (अस्मिन्, asmin). When "idam" is followed by the seventh-case ending, by त्यदादीनामः (tyadādīnām aḥ, "of 'tyad' etc. the last letter is replaced by 'a,'" पा. ७-२-१०२) the last letter takes "a," and then अतो गुणे (ato guṇe, पा. ६-१-१७) gives the later form ("ida + ñi"). The print then argues that since "parijman" has pointed to the Marut-troop and "asmin" refers back to it ("asmin" here refers to the sacrifice, which is named to be the very place of coming), this is a case of "anvādeśa" — a reference back — by the definition quoted in the print ("kiñcit kāryaṃ vidhātum upāttasya kāryāntaraṃ vidhātum punar upādānam anvādeśaḥ," "anvādeśa is the repeated mention of what has been mentioned for one purpose, in order to enjoin another operation on it"). Hence इदमोऽन्वादेशोऽशनुदात्तस्तृतीयादौ (idamo 'nvādeśe 'śanudāttas tṛtīyādaḥ, "in an anvādeśa, 'idam' is replaced by an accent-less 'aś' before the third-case and following endings," पा. २-४-३२): "aś," being "śit," replaces the whole of "idam." The seventh-case ending "ñi" is replaced by "smin" by जसिङ्सोः स्मात्स्मिनौ [the print reads "ङसिङ्सोः स्मात्स्मिनौ," ñasi-ñyoḥ smāt-sminau, पा. ७-१-१५], "'smāt' and 'smin' replace the fifth- and seventh-case endings after an aending pronoun"; so "asmin." The ending is accent-less by अनुदात्तौ सुप्पितौ (anudāttau sup-pītau, पा. ३-१-४). So "asmin" is wholly accent-less.

- "Rñjate" (ऋञ्जते, rñjate). "R̥ji bhr̥ji bharjane" (the root meaning "to fry"; also, in use, "to adorn"). The root is "idit," so "num" comes by इदितो नुम् धातोः (idito num dhātoḥ, पा. ७-१-५८). Then the anusvāra and parasavarṇa (पा. ८-३-२४ and ८-४-५८) give "rñj-." In the present ātmanepada third-person singular, "rñjate." It is accent-less by तिङ्ङितिङः (tiṅṅṇitiṅṇ, पा. ८-१-२८). The print then quotes the verse on the force of the preverb: "उपसर्गेण धात्वर्थो बलादन्यत्र नीयते । प्रहाराहारसंहारविहारपरिहारवत् ॥" (upasargeṇa dhātv-artho balād anyatra nīyate | prahārāhāra-saṃhāra-vihāra-parihāravat ||, "By a preverb the meaning of a root is forcibly led elsewhere — as in 'prahāra,' 'āhāra,' 'saṃhāra,' 'vihāra,' 'parihāra'"). ⁹⁰ The Kannada explains: the root "ḥṛ" means "taking," but with "pra" it means "a blow," with "ā" it means "food, eating," with "saṃ" it means "killing, destruction," with "vi" "sport, roaming," with "pari" "abandoning" — thus various meanings appear through the force of the preverb. "In the same way, in other places too, differing meanings arise for roots through the force of the preverb: that is the sense of the verse. Here, although the root 'r̥ji' is read in the sense of 'frying,' the preverb 'sam' is joined to it, so the root 'r̥ji' conveys the sense of 'adorning.'"
- "Giraḥ" (गिरः, giraḥ). The stem-accent (prātipadika-svara) comes. ॥९॥

90. The print appears to read "upasarge ca" for "upasargeṇa" — the first word is read here from small type; I give the standard form of this well-known verse and flag the discrepancy.

Sūkta 6, The Tenth Mantra

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इतो वा सातिमीमहे दिवो वा पार्थिवादधि । इन्द्रं महो वा रजसः ॥१०॥

*ito vā sātīm īmahe divo vā pāṛthivād adhi | indram maho vā
rajasah || 10 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इतः । वा । सातिम् । ईमहे । दिवः । वा । पार्थिवात् । अधि । इन्द्रम् । महः । वा । रजसः ॥ १०॥

*itaḥ | vā | sātīm | īmahe | divaḥ | vā | pāṛthivāt | adhi |
indram | mahah | vā | rajasah || 10 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁹¹

इन्द्रं देवं प्रति सातिं धनदानमीमहे । आधिक्येन योजयामहे । कस्मात्कुत इति तदुच्यते ।
इतोऽस्मादभिदृश्यमानात्पार्थिवात्पृथिवीलोकाद्वा दिवो वा द्युलोकाद्वा महो महतः प्रौढाद्रजसो वा
पक्ष्यादीनां रज्जकादन्तरिक्षलोकाद्वा । आयमिन्द्रो यतः कुतश्चिदानीयास्मभ्यं धनं
प्रयच्छेदित्यर्थः । सप्तदशसु याच्ञाकर्मसु ईमहे याम... [?] इति पठितम् ॥ इतः ।
इदमंशब्दात्पञ्चमी... *indram devam prati sātīm dhana-dānam īmahe
| ādhikyena yojayāmahe | kasmāt-kuta iti tad ucyate | ito
'smād abhidṛśyamānāt pāṛthivāt pṛthivī-lokād vā divo vā dyulokād vā maho mahataḥ prauḍhād rajaso vā pakṣyādīnām rañjakād antarikṣa-lokād vā | āyam indro yataḥ kutaścīd
ānīyāsmabhyam dhanam prayacched ity arthaḥ | saptadaśasu
yācñā-karmasu īmahe yām[?] iti paṭhitam || itaḥ | idamaṃśabdāt pañcamī...*

Translation:

"Toward Indra, the god, we 'īmahe' — we earnestly request, we employ with eagerness — 'sāti,' the giving of wealth. From where?
That is said: 'itaḥ' — from this earth-world, the 'pārthiva' that is here seen — or 'divo vā' — from the heavenly world — or 'maho vā rajasaḥ' — from the great, expansive 'rajas,' that is, the atmosphere, the region that colours the birds and others ['rañjaka' — 'that which gives colour']. The sense: may this Indra, bringing it from wherever, give us wealth. Among the seventeen verbs of begging, 'īmahe' is read ['yāmi' (?) — the reading of the end of the quotation is not clear]."

Grammar (begins; characterized): The page begins the derivation of "itaḥ" — from "idam" with the affix "tasil" after the fifth case, with "idam" replaced by "ís" (इदम इश्, पा. ५-३-३ [?]; "śit," so whole-stem substitution, शित्वात्सवदिशः); a long scholastic discussion follows about whether the accent of "tasil" (the "l"-marked affix, making the syllable before it acute) or the accent of the case-ending (the "ūḍidam"-type rule, ऊडिदंपदाद्यप्पुत्रैद्युभ्यः, पा. ६-१-१७१) prevails, the rule आभ्यां विभिः [?] / लिति (पा. ६-१-१९३) / परत्वान्नित्यत्वाच्च — "pratiṣedhe paraṃ kāryam" (पा. १-४-२, "when there is conflict, the later rule prevails") — and पश्चात्सेशः प्राग्दिशो विभक्तिः (paścāt seśaḥ prāg-diśo vibhaktiḥ, पा. ५-३-१ [?]) being the rule that names the "tasil"-type endings "vibhakti." It is argued that the case-ending is accent-less and the stem "idam" is acute; whether the rule "sakṛd-gatau vipratīṣedhe yad bādhitaṃ tad bādhitaṃ eva" (the Paribhāṣā "once a rule has been set aside by another it stays set aside," परि. ४० [?]) applies is raised, and the page ends in mid-argument, at "...tasil udāttatvaṃ," continuing on p. 252. Much of this page (the second half, in particular) is too crowded and too small in print for me to reproduce line by line, and I do not attempt it. ⁹²

original pp. 252–253

91. Kannada script; read from the page at 150 dpi and not separately enlarged. I mark [?] where a word is not clearly read.

92. Page 252 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 253 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". P. 252 is a page of continuous small print in Kannada script — the end of Sāyaṇa's own grammatical notes — read from enlarged slices; numerals marked [?] are not certain.

Rik 6.10: end of Sanskrit grammar, Pada-meanings, Bhāvārtha, English, Special Topics; Kannada grammar begins

Sāyaṇa's grammatical notes on Rik 6.10, continued and ended

93 94

...स्यादिति चेन्न । यत्र च्छबयोः सावर्णान्तत्वे न गोश्चान्नावर्णेति । पा. ६-१-[१२?]...
निषेधात् । न च पुंसः प्रसङ्गविज्ञानं ... चेत्येतत्सार्वत्रिकं लक्ष्यानुरोधेन क्वचिदेव
तदाश्रयणादिति । ... syād iti cen na | yatra cchabayoh sāvarṇāntatve
na goś cānnāvarṇeti [?] | pā. 6-1-[?] ... niṣedhāt | na ca pumṣaḥ prasaṅga-vijñānaṃ ... cety etat sārvatrikam
lakṣyānurodhena kvacid eva tad-āśrayaṇād iti |

सातिम् । षणु दाने । धात्वादेः षः सः । पा. ६-१-६४ । भावे क्तिन् । जनसनखनां सञ्ज्ञालोः ।
पा. ६-४-४२ । इति नकारस्यात्वम् । तितुत्रतथसिसुसरकसेषु च । पा. ७-२-९ । इति
निषेधादिण् भवति । नित्स्वरे प्राप्ते उदात्त इत्यस्य निवृत्त्या ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च
। पा. ३-३-९७ । इति निपातनादन्तोदात्तत्वम् । sātim | ṣaṇu dāne | dhātvādeḥ
ṣaḥ saḥ | pā. 6-1-64 | bhāve ktin | jana-sana-khanām sañjhaloh | pā. 6-4-42 | iti nakārasyātvam | titutra-tathasi-susara-kaseṣu ca | pā. 7-2-9 | iti niṣedhād iṇ na bhavati | nit-svare prāpte udātta ity asya nivṛttyā ūti-yūti-jūti-sāti-heti-kīrtayaś ca | pā. 3-3-97 | iti nipātanād antodāttatvam |

"Sātim" — from "ṣaṇu dāne"; the initial "ṣ" becomes "s" (धात्वादेः षः सः, dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ, "the initial 'ṣ' of a root becomes 's'," पा. ६-१-६४); "ktin" in the sense of the action (भावे क्तिन्, bhāve ktin); the "n" of the root is replaced by "ā" (जनसनखनां सञ्ज्ञालोः, jana-sana-

93. Sanskrit in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; the first lines belong to the argument about "itaḥ" begun on p. 251, and I give only its tail

94. This stretch — the end of the "itaḥ" discussion — is a compressed objection-and-answer, with a half-clipped sūtra-quotation and a numeral I cannot read; I give the words as far as I could read them and do not complete them. Its upshot, as far as I can follow, is that the objection is answered, "itaḥ" standing as formed.

khanām sañjhaloḥ, "'ā' replaces the nasal of 'jan,' 'san,' 'khan' before 'jh'-class sounds and 'san'," पा. ६-४-४२); the augment "iṭ" does not come, by the prohibition तितुत्रतथसिसुसरकसेषु च (titutra-tathasisu-sara-kaseṣu ca, पा. ७-२-९); the accent that would come by "n"-marking (the rule for "nit"-affixes) is set aside, and ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च (ūti-yūti-jūti-sāti-heti-kīrtayaś ca, पा. ३-३-९७) lists "sāti" as an irregular formation ("nīpātana") with the end-acute.

ईमहे । ईज् गतौ । श्यनोऽपि बहुलं छन्दसीति लुक् । अस्य धातोर्... [?]
 तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदुपदेशात् । पा. ६-१-१८६ । इति लसार्वधातुकस्यानुदात्तत्वे धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । न च तिङ्ङतिङ् इति निघातः । चवायोगे प्रथमा । पा. ८-१-५९ [the standard number; the print's numeral is small] । इति निषेधात् । उत्तरवाक्ययोरपि हि वाशब्दयोगादन्यथा वाक्यापरिपूर्तेश्च विभक्तेरवश्यमध्याहारात् [?] अपेक्ष्यैषा प्रथमा
 तिङ्ङविभक्तिरिति । īmahe | īj gatau | śyano 'pi bahulaṃ chandasīti
luk | asya dhātor ... [?] tāsy-anudāṭten-ñid-ad-upadeśāt | pā.
6-1-186 | iti lasārvadhātukasyānudāṭtatve dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | na ca tiṅ-ñatiṇa iti nighātaḥ | cavā-yoge prathamā |
pā. 8-1-59 [standard number] | iti niṣedhāt | uttara-vākyayor
api hi vā-śabda-yogād anyathā vākyaṅparipūrteś ca vibhakter avaśyam adhyāhārāt [?] apekṣyaiṣā prathamā tiṅ-vibhaktir iti
 |

"Īmahe" — "īj gatau"; "śyan" is also optionally elided in the Veda (बहुलं छन्दसि, bahulaṃ chandasi), so there is "luk." Since the personal ending is accent-less by तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तम् (tāsy-anudāṭten-ñid-ad-upadeśāl lasārvadhātukam anudāttam, पा. ६-१-१८६), only the root's own accent remains. And there is no "nighāta" (lowering of the verb) by तिङ्ङतिङः (tiṅ atīṇaḥ, पा. ८-१-२८), because of the prohibition चवायोगे प्रथमा (cavā-yoge prathamā, "the first [verb] is not lowered when joined with 'ca,' 'vā,' etc.," पा. ८-१-५९ [the standard number; the print's numeral is small]). The last clause (that in both the later half-lines the word "vā" is connected, and that otherwise the sentence would be incomplete, so that this "first tiñ-ending" must be supplied) I read only in part and give as my best reading, marked [?].

दिवः । ऊडिदमित्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । divaḥ | ūḍidam ity ādinā vibhakter udāttatvam |

"Divāḥ" — the case-ending is acute by "ūḍidam..." etc.

पार्थिवात् । प्रथ प्रख्याने । प्रथित इति पृथिवी । प्रथेः शिवन् सम्प्रसारणं च । उ. १-[१३०?] ।
 इति शिवन्प्रत्ययः । शिद्वौरादिभ्यश्च । पा. ४-१-४१ । इति डीष् । प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तः ।
 शेषनिघातेनानुदात्तादिः पृथिवीशब्दः । पृथिव्या विकार इत्यर्थे ओरञ् इत्यनुवृत्तावनुदात्तादेशश्च ।
 पा. ४-३-१४० । इत्यञ् । यस्येति च । पा. ६-४-१४८ । इतीकारलोपः । तद्धितेष्वचामादेः । पा. ७-२-११७ । इत्यादिवृद्धिः । रपरत्वम् । पा. १-१-५१ । ङित्यादिर्नित्यमित्याद्युदात्तः ।
pārthivāt | pratha prakhyāne | prathita iti pṛthivī | prather
ṣivan samprasāraṇam ca | u. 1-[130?] | iti ṣivan-pratyayaḥ | ṣid-gaurādibhyaś ca | pā. 4-1-41 | iti nīṣ | pratyaya-
svareṇodāttaḥ | śeṣa-nighātenānudāttādiḥ pṛthivī-śabdaḥ |
pṛthivyā vikāra ity arthe oraj ity anuvṛttāv anudāttādeś ca |
pā. 4-3-140 | ity añ | yasyeti ca | pā. 6-4-148 | itīkāra-lopaḥ |
taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ | pā. 7-2-117 | ity ādi-vṛddhiḥ |
rasparatvam | pā. 1-1-51 | nīṇity ādir nityam ity ādyudāttaḥ |

"Pārthivāt" — from "pratha prakhyāne" ("that which is spread out is 'pṛthivī'"); the Uṇādi "prather ṣivan samprasāraṇam ca" gives the affix "ṣivan" (Uṇādi 1-[130?]; the print's numerals are "१-१३०" but I do not trust them); the feminine "nīṣ" by शिद्वौरादिभ्यश्च (ṣid-gaurādibhyaś ca, पा. ४-१-४१); the affix gives the acute, and by the lowering of the rest the stem "pṛthivī" begins accent-less. In the sense "a modification of the earth" ("pṛthivyā vikāraḥ"), the affix "añ" comes by ओरञ् (oraj, "'añ' in the sense of 'its modification' after a stem ending in a short 'u' [here 'o']") carried forward with अनुदात्तादेशश्च (anudāttādeś ca, पा. ४-३-१४०); the "ī" is dropped by यस्येति च (yasyeti ca, पा. ६-४-१४८); the first vowel takes vṛddhi by तद्धितेष्वचामादेः (taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ, पा. ७-२-११७); with "r" following (रपरत्वम्, पा. १-१-५१); and by "ñit/ñit" the first syllable is acute (ञ्णित्यादिर्नित्यम्, पा. ६-१-१९७ [as the rule is usually numbered]).

अधि । निपातत्वादाद्युदात्तः । इन्द्रम् । रन्प्रत्ययान्त आद्युदात्तः । महः । महत
इत्यस्याकारतकारयोर्लोपश्छान्दसः । साके.. [?] इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । रजसः ।
नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् ॥१०॥ adhi | nīpātātṽd ādyudāttāḥ |
indram | ran-pratyayānta ādyudāttāḥ | mahaḥ | mahata ity
asyākāra-takārayor lopaś chāndasaḥ | sāvekāce [?] iti
vibhakter udāttatvam | rajasah | nab-viṣayasyānisantasyety
ādyudāttatvam || 10 ||

"Adhi" — a particle, first-syllable acute. "Indram" — ending in the affix "ran," first-syllable acute. "Mahaḥ" — from "mahat," the "a" and "t" being dropped by Vedic licence; the case-ending is acute ("sāvekāce [?]" is read from small type and uncertain). "Rajasah" — by नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य (nab-viṣayasyānisantasya, फि. [?]), first-syllable acute. ॥१०॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ 95

(वयम् vayam — we) इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | इतः पार्थिवात् वा (itah pārthivāt vā) — either from this earth-world that is seen before our eyes | दिवो वा (divo vā) — or from the heavenly world | महः (mahaḥ) — great | रजसो वा (rajaso vā) — or from the atmosphere that is the refuge of birds and the like | सातिम् (sātim) — for the obtaining of wealth | अधीमहे (adhīmahe, so printed; the "adhi" of the Pada text taken together with "īmahe") — we pray.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Now, before our eyes, whether from this earth-world, from the heavenly world, or from the atmosphere-world, we pray to Indra that he bring wealth and give it to us.

English Translation

We pray to Indra for riches either from this earth, heaven, or from the vast intermediate region.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu — Special Topics ॥ ⁹⁶

- सातिम् (sātim) — This word, derived from the root "ṣaṇu dāne," has the sense of "gift," "giving." What is given? Wealth and prosperity, or the other things we need.
- ईमहे (īmahe) — We pray, we beg. Among the seventeen verbs meaning "to beg," beginning with "yāmi," the word "īmahe" is read (Nighaṇṭu [?]).
- पार्थिवात् (pārthivāt) — "pṛthivyā vikāraḥ pārthivaḥ, tasmāt" — that which is a modification of the earth: that is, the "earth-world."
- रजसः (rajasah) — The commentator says "pakṣyādīnām rañjakād antarikṣa-lokāt" — "from the atmosphere-world, that which gives colour/delight to the birds and the others." That is, the one that gives joy to the birds, that is, that is their refuge and the main place for them to move about [the Kannada: saṃtoṣavannu uṃṭumāḍuva, emdare āśraya-bhūtavāda, mukhya saṃcāra-māḍalu avakāśavulḷa].

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā — Grammatical Derivation, Kannada commentary (characterized) ॥ ^{97 98}

- "Itaḥ" (इतः, itaḥ). Since "idam" is a fifth-case word, "tasil" is added by पञ्चम्यास्तसिल् (pañcamyās tasil, पा. ५-३-७), and the fifth-case ending is elided (luk) after the "tasil." Then "idam

96. Kannada, translated; p. 253

97. Reference numerals in this section follow the print where legible; the "सावेकाच" clause in the Sanskrit notes above is read from small type and is uncertain.

+ tasil": by इदम इश् (idama iś, "'iś' replaces 'idam' before a 'prāg-diśīya' affix," पा. ५-३-३) "idam" gets the substitute "iś." Since "iś" is "śit," by the paribhāṣā अनेकाल् शित् सर्वस्य (anekāl śit sarvasya, पा. १-१-५५) it takes the place of the whole of "idam." Then "i + tas" → with "ru" and visarga: "itaḥ."

- The print then takes up a question of accent: the rule ऊडिदंपदाद्यप्पुम्रैद्युभ्यः (ūḍidam-padādy-ap-pum-rai-dyubhyaḥ, पा. ६-१-१७१) ("the case-ending is acute after the stems 'ūṭh-' etc.," more exactly, after the six substitutes of "pad, dan, nas, māsa, hṛd, niś, asan" etc. [पा. ६-१-६३] and the words "ap, pum, rai, div," which are end-acute) applies to the endings following them, not to "pronoun" or "idam"-type words; and लिति (liti, "the syllable before an 'l'-marked affix is acute," पा. ६-१-१९३) applies to "tasil." The print argues that these two rules each have scope of their own — "liti" in cases like "ābhyām" and "ābhiḥ" (where the case-ending is "bhyām," "bhis" etc.), while "ūḍidam" is applicable in words like "pācakaḥ" (the end-"ṇvul" form) and "pacanam" (the end-"lyuṭ" form) — and that "neither is called 'nitya' (inevitably applicable)" by the definition कृताकृतप्रसङ्गित्वं नित्यत्वम् (kṛtākṛta-prasaṅgitvaṃ nityatvam, "a rule is 'nitya' if it applies whether or not the other has applied"): "Whether or not the rule 'ūḍidam' applies, the rule 'liti' stays applicable; whether or not 'liti' applies, 'ūḍidam' stays applicable; therefore both are 'nitya,' and one cannot be said to be stronger on the ground of being 'nitya.'" The argument continues onto the next page.

original pp. 254–255

98. Page 254 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 255 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]" Characterized in outline per the project convention; every named sūtra and paribhāṣā is kept in three layers. Numerals in brackets are small and several are uncertain, marked [?].

Rik 6.10: Kannada grammar (vipratīṣedha argument; "sātim," "īmahe")

The "itaḥ" accent-conflict (continued from p. 253; characterized). The page opens: "...[neither rule] is disabled; both rules apply to 'itaḥ.' Which rule then comes into force? — when this is asked, the answer is विप्रतिषेधे परं कार्यम् (vipratīṣedhe param kāryam, "in a conflict, the later rule prevails," पा. १-४-२)." The print explains the term: "vipratīṣedha" is the situation in which two rules, each having its own sphere of application elsewhere, are found to apply at once to a single form; of the two, the later rule in the Aṣṭādhyāyī operates. So the later rule, लिति (liti, पा. ६-१-१९३), prevails, and the syllable before "tasil" (the "i" of "itaḥ") is acute. The print then notes that the rule प्रादिशो विभक्तिः (prāg-diśo vibhaktiḥ, पा. ५-३-१) and the following sūtras up to दिक्शब्देभ्यः... (पा. ५-३-२७ [?]) give the affixes in that section the name "vibhakti," so that "tasil" is itself a "vibhakti," and by ऊडिदम् the case-ending of "idam" would have been acute [unless the later rule prevails].

Then follows the discussion on the principle सकृदतौ विप्रतिषेधे यद्वाधितं तद्वाधितमेव (sakṛd-gatau vipratīṣedhe yad bādhitam tad bādhitam eva, "in a conflict that arises once, what has been set aside stays set aside," Paribhāṣā [?]) and the counter-principle पुनःप्रसङ्गविज्ञानात्सिद्धम् (punaḥ-prasaṅga-vijñānāt siddham, "established by the recognition of a fresh occasion for application," Paribhāṣā [?]): the first says a rule once set aside by a "vipratīṣedha" does not revive; the second says that when a fresh occasion arises it may apply again. The print argues, through the examples "yataḥ" and "tataḥ" (where the rule सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः (sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ, "the third and following case-endings, when after a stem with more than one vowel, are acute," पा. ६-१-[१६८?]) would apply and where "tasil" would be acute), that the principle of "no revival" is not meant to apply everywhere — "it holds only where the usage requires it" — and so in "yataḥ, tataḥ" the "tasil" ending is acute, while the case-endings of the plural "su" after words of more than one vowel behave otherwise. The text then notes the rule न गोश्वन्साववर्णराडङ्कुङ्कृद्भ्यः (na go-śvan-sāvavarṇa-rāḍ-aṅ-kru-ṅkṛdbhyaḥ, पा. ६-१-१८२) — the printed list "go, śvan, ... rāj, ... kṛt" — which forbids the acute of the third-and-following case-endings (sāvekāc rule) for these words, and that, for "yataḥ," "tataḥ," the final result is: they are first-syllable acute [or: acute on the first syllable, "ādyudātta"].⁹⁹

"Sātim" (सातिम्, sātim; p. 255). The Kannada commentary restates the derivation: from "ṣaṇu dāne"; धात्वादेः षः सः (dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ, पा. ६-१-६४) turns the initial "ṣ" into "s," so the root is "san-"; the "n"... "ktin" is added in the sense of the action (भावे ... क्तिन्). Then जनसनखनां सञ्जलोः (jana-sana-khanāṃ sañjhaloḥ, पा. ६-४-४२) — "when an affix beginning with a 'jh'-class sound, or 'san,' or an affix marked 'kit'/'ñit', follows, 'ā' replaces the final of 'jan,' 'san,' 'khan'" — so the "n" of "san" becomes "ā" and there is "sa + ā + ti," in long-vowel sandhi "sāti." Next, "iṭ" would come by आर्धधातुकस्येड्वलादेः (ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ, पा. ७-२-३५) — an "ārdhadhātuka" beginning with a consonant other than "y" — but the ten items "ti, tu, tra, ta, tha, si, su, sara, ka, se" in तितुत्रतथसिसुसरकसेषु च (tituttra-tatha-sisu-sara-kaseṣu ca, पा. ७-२-९) prevent "iṭ" with "kṛt" affixes; "ktin," a "kṛt," takes no "iṭ." Since the affix "ktin" is "n"-marked, ज्नित्यादिर्नित्यम् (ñnity ādir nityam, पा. ६-१-१९७) would make the first syllable acute [for ṇit/ñit affixes; for "nit" in the strict sense, the print says "the first syllable would be acute by the rule"], but the listed words "ūti, yūti, jūti, sāti, heti, kīrti" in ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च (ūti-yūti-jūti-sāti-heti-kīrtayaś ca, पा. ३-३-१७) are formed irregularly ("nipātana") as end-acute — and so "sātim" is end-acute.

99. This whole passage is scholastic argument over accent-rule precedence and is too compressed and partly clipped in the print for me to reproduce line by line; the outline above is my best summary of its direction. I do not claim to have followed every step of it.

"Īmahe" (ईमहे, īmahe; p. 255). After the root "ij gatau," the present, first-person plural "mahin" is placed; the "ṭi" part of the ending becomes "e" by दित आत्मनेपदानां टेरे (ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭer e, पा. ३-४-७९). "Śyan" would come by दिवादिभ्यः श्यन् (divādibhyaḥ śyan, पा. ३-१-६९), but बहुलं छन्दसि (bahulaṃ chandasi, पा. २-४-७३) gives "luk" (elision). The print says: although this sūtra mentions "śap" only, the word "bahulam" makes "śyan" also elided. So "Īmahe." Since the root "ij" is "j"-marked [?], by तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तम् (पा. ६-१-१८६) the personal ending would be accent-less; and so the "ī" of the root keeps its end-acute by धातोः (पा. ६-१-१६२, the rule giving the root its end-acute). तिङ्ङितिङः (tiṅ atināḥ, पा. ८-१-२८) would lower a verb after a non-verb; but चवायोगे प्रथमा (cavā-yoge prathamā, पा. ८-१-५९) forbids lowering of the first verb when "ca," "vā" etc. are in connection, so the word does not become wholly accent-less. The page ends in mid-sentence, at "Ādare..." ("But [if]..."), the argument on "Īmahe" continuing on p. 256.¹⁰⁰

original pp. 256–257

Rik 6.10: end of grammar; close of Sūkta 6

"Īmahe" — the "cavā-yoge" difficulty (continued from p. 255; characterized). The print raises a doubt: since this mantra contains only one finite verb, how can it be "first-uttered" (prathamoccārīta) and hence escape the lowering of accent? The answer given: the Rik really consists of three sentences — (1) "itaḥ pārthivāl lokād vā indraṃ prati sātīm adhi

¹⁰⁰. Page 256 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 257 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". P. 257 also carries a small "33" at the foot, evidently a printer's signature mark. Characterized in outline; sūtras kept.

īmahe" (from this earth-world, we ask Indra for gain); (2) "indram prati sātīm divo vā adhi īmahe" (or from heaven); (3) "rajasah (antarikṣa-lokād vā) indram prati sātīm adhi īmahe" (or from the atmosphere). The "īmahe" of the first sentence is the first-uttered one; the "cavā-yoge prathamā" prohibition therefore applies to it (the verb, being first, is not lowered). In the second and third sentences, because of the presence of "vā," the word "īmahe" must be supplied (adhyāhāra) in connection with them; otherwise the sentence would not give a full meaning.¹⁰¹

"Divah" (दिवः). By ऊडिदम् (ūḍidam, पा. ६-१-१७१) the case-ending is acute.

"Pārthivāt" (पार्थिवात्, pārthivāt). "Prathate iti pr̥thivī" — from "prath prakhyāne," with प्रथेः शिवन् सम्प्रसारणं च (prather śivan samprasāraṇaṃ ca, Uṇādi [१-१३० as printed; uncertain]) the affix "śivan" comes, with "samprasāraṇa" — so "prath + ivan," whence "pr̥th + ivan" (the "r" turning to "ṛ"); the "ś" is "it"; by षिद्वौरादिभ्यश्च (ṣid-gaurādibhyaś ca, पा. ४-१-४१) the feminine "ñiṣ" comes after a "ṣit" stem and the stems of the "gaura" class. By the maxim that a marker which has no other use becomes a qualifier of the stem, the "ś" of "śivan" qualifies the stem. The "ī" of "ñiṣ" is acute by the affix-accent (आद्युदात्तश्च, पा. ३-१-३, ādyudāttaś ca, "an affix is first-syllable acute"), and the remaining syllables are lowered by अनुदात्तं पदमेकवर्जम् (anudāttaṃ padam eka-varjam, पा. ६-१-१५८), so "pr̥thivī" has its acute on the last syllable and the earlier ones are accentless. To express "a modification of 'pr̥thivī'" the affix "añ" comes by ओरञ् (पा. ४-३-१३७) with अनुदात्तादेश्च (पा. ४-३-१४०); since the result ends in a taddhita, it is a stem (कृतद्धितसमासाश्च, kṛt-taddhita-samāsāś ca, पा. १-२-४६), and the case-ending is elided by सुपो धातुप्रातिपदिकयोः (पा. २-४-७१); the "ī" is dropped by यस्येति च (पा. ६-४-१४८); the first vowel takes vṛddhi by तद्धितेष्वचामादेः (पा. ७-२-११७) — "r" → "ār," with "r" following by उरण् रपरः (uraṇ raparaḥ, पा. १-१-५१); and by ङित्यादिर्नित्यम् (पा. ६-१-१९७) the first syllable is acute. Thus "pārthiva" is first-syllable acute.

101. I follow the print's direction here; the finer steps are clipped by the crowded type.

"Adhi" (अधि). First-syllable acute as a particle (निपाता आद्युदात्ताः, फि. [?]; printed "४-८०" or similar — uncertain).

"Indram" (इन्द्रम्, indram). ऋज्रेन्द्राग्र... (ṛjrendrāgra..., Uṇādi [२-२८ as printed, uncertain]) — the word ends with the affix "ran" and is first-syllable acute.

"Mahaḥ" (महः, mahaḥ). From "mahat," the "a" and "t" are dropped by Vedic licence (the printed "(अत्)" marks the dropped part). By सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिः (sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ, पा. ६-१-१६८) the case-ending is acute.

"Rajasah" (रजसः, rajasah). By नव्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्य (nab-viṣayasyānisantasya, फि. [?]; the print gives a small numeral that I cannot read) first-syllable acute. ॥१०॥

Close of Sūkta 6 (as printed on p. 257). The print marks the end of the sūkta with a ruled line and the statement (Kannada, translated): "Here the sixth sūkta in the first maṇḍala is complete. In the Prathamāṣṭaka, Prathamādhyāya, the eighth [?] varga is complete." ¹⁰²

original p. 257

॥ ॐ ॥

102. The ordinal is read as "eighth" — the word printed is "ಎಂಟನೆಯ" — and I record it as read. It disagrees with the closing note of Sūkta 5 (p. 201), which I had read as "tenth," and with the small-numeral page headers; I do not reconcile them. See the open flags below.

Sūkta 7 — "indram id gāthino bṛhat" (ಐಳನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು), "The Seventh Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

इन्द्रमित्यादिकं दशर्चं यत्सूक्तं तत्सुरूपकृत्नुमित्यादिषु चतुर्थम् । ऋषिश्छन्दोदेवता विनियोगश्च पूर्ववत् । विशेषविनियोगस्तूच्यते । महाव्रते निष्केवल्यशस्त्रे इन्द्रमिन्द्राथिन इति सूक्तम् । तथा च पञ्चमारण्यके सूत्रितम् । शिरोगायत्रमिन्द्रमिन्द्राथिनः । ऐ. आ. ३-२-१ । इति । तथा चतुर्विंशेऽहनि ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिनः शस्त्रे इन्द्रमिन्द्राथिन इति षष्ठहस्तोत्रियस्तृचः । चतुर्विंशे होताजनिष्वेत्युपक्रम्य आयाहि सुषुमा हि त इन्द्रमिन्द्राथिनो बृहत् । आ. २-२ । इति सूत्रितत्वात् । अतिरात्रे प्रथमे पर्याये उच्छावाकशस्त्रे यमेव तृचोऽनुरूपः [?] । सूत्रितं च इन्द्राय मद्रने सुतमिन्द्रमिन्द्राथिनो बृहत् । आ. ६-४ । इति ॥

indram ity-ādikaṃ daśarcaṃ yat sūktam tat surūpakṛtnum ity-ādiṣu caturtham | ṛṣi-chando-devatā viniyogaś ca pūrvavat | viśeṣa-viniyogas tūcyate | mahāvrate niṣkevalya-śastre indram id gāthina iti sūktam | tathā ca pañcamāraṇyake sūtritam | śiro-gāyatram indram id gāthinaḥ | ai. ā. 3-2-1 | iti | tathā caturviṃśe 'hani brāhmaṇācchaṃsinaḥ śastre indram id gāthina iti ṣaḥa-stotriyas tṛcaḥ | caturviṃśe hotājaniṣṭety upakramya āyāhi suṣumā hi ta indram id gāthino bṛhat | ā. 2-2 | iti sūtritativāt | atirātre prathame paryāye 'cchāvāka-śastre yam eva tṛco 'nurūpaḥ [?] | sūtritaṃ ca indrāya madvane sutam indram id gāthino bṛhat | ā. 6-4 | iti |

Translation: "The sūkta of ten riks beginning indram is the fourth among those beginning surūpakṛtnum [i.e., the fourth sūkta of that anuvāka]. Its ṛṣi, meter, deity and application are as before. Its special application is now stated. In the Mahāvratā rite, the sūkta indram id gāthinaḥ is used in the niṣkevalya-śāstra. So it is laid down in the Fifth Āraṇyaka: 'śiro-gāyatram indram id gāthinaḥ' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 3-2-1). Likewise, on the twenty-fourth day [of the Śaḷaha-related rite], in the śāstra of the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin, the śaḷaha-stotriya triplet is indram id gāthinaḥ — as laid down in the (Āśvalāyana) sūtra, which, beginning from 'on the twenty-fourth [day] the hotā ...', continues 'āyāhi suṣumā hi ta' and 'indram id gāthino bṛhat' (Āśvalāyana, ref. "2-2" [?]). In the Atirātra, in the first paryāya, in the Acchāvāka's śāstra, [the corresponding triplet is used as the anurūpa] [the clause beginning yam eva tṛco 'nurūpaḥ is hard to read in the scan; sense given with reservation]; and it is so laid down: 'indrāya madvane sutam, indram id gāthino bṛhat' (Āraṇyaka ref. "6-4" [?])."

॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering of the above) ॥

This sūkta indram id gāthino bṛhat is the fourth (last) sūkta of the second anuvāka, which begins with surūpakṛtnum ūtaye. It has ten riks. Its ṛṣi, deity, meters and application are the same as in the preceding sūkta. It does, however, have a special application: in the sacrifice called Mahāvratā, the sūkta indram id gāthino is recited as the niṣkevalya-śāstra mantra. This is stated in the Aitareya Āraṇyaka (the fifth āraṇyaka — "Pañcamāraṇyaka") in the words śiro-gāyatram indram id gāthinaḥ. And on the twenty-fourth day [of the rite], when the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin — a priest of the hotṛ group — recites the triplet called śaḷaha-stotriya, the rik indram id gāthino is to be recited; this is stated in the Āśvalāyana sūtra, beginning from the section called hotājaniṣṭa. That is: in the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra, in the section hotājaniṣṭa, the rik āyāhi suṣumā hi te (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-12-1 [?]) and the rik indram id gāthino bṛhat (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-7-1) are to be recited, on the twenty-fourth day, in the triplet called śaḷaha-stotriya. And in the Āraṇyaka too: "indrāya madvane sutam, indram id gāthino bṛhat" (Āraṇyaka 6-4) — that is, the rik indrāya madvane sutam (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 9-63-11 [?]) and the rik indram id gāthino bṛhat are to be recited together in the triplet mentioned above — so the sūtra directs.¹

original p. 258

Sūkta 7, Rik 1

॥ Sūkta — 7 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 2 ॥ Sūkta — 7 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 13, 14 [?] ॥² ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–10 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Madhucchandā
Vaiśvāmītra ॥ ॥ Devatā — Indra ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रमिन्द्राथिनो बृहदिन्द्रमर्केभिरर्किणः । इन्द्रं वाणीरनूषत ॥१॥

*indram id gāthino bṛhad indram arkebhīr arkiṇaḥ | indram
vāṇīr anūṣata || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रम् । इत् । गाथिनः । बृहत् । इन्द्रम् । अर्केभिः । अर्किणः ॥ इन्द्रम् । वाणीः । अनूषत ॥ १॥

*indram | it | gāthinaḥ | bṛhat | indram | arkebhiḥ | arkiṇaḥ
|| indram | vāṇīḥ | anūṣata || 1 ||*

original p. 259

1. The top of this page carries the end of the Kannada anuvāda translated above; its content is given there.

2. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi: "13, 14". This fits the run of two vargas per sūkta from Sūkta 3 (5, 6) and Sūkta 8 (15, 16), but not the "eighth varga" of the Sūkta 6 colophon; unreconciled. An earlier reading here of "9, 10" was wrong.

Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya on Rik 1

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

गाथिनो गीयमानसामयुक्ता उद्गातार इन्द्रमिन्द्रमेव बृहत् । त्वामिद्धि हवामहे [ऋगे.
६-४६-१] इत्यस्यामृच्युत्पन्नेन बृहन्नामकेन साम्नानूषत । स्तुतवन्तः । अर्किणो
ऽर्चनहेतुमन्त्रोपेता होतारो ऽर्केभिर् ऋग्रूपैर्मन्त्रैरिन्द्रमेवानूषत । ये त्वध्वर्यवस्ते
वाणीर्वाग्रूपाभिर्यजूरूपाभिरिन्द्रमेवानूषत । अर्कशब्दस्य मन्त्रपरत्वं यास्केनोक्तम् । अर्को
मन्त्रो भवति यदेनेनार्चन्ति । नि. ५-४ । इति । श्लोक इत्यादिषु सप्तपञ्चाशत्सु वाङ्नामसु वाशी वाणीति पठितम् ॥

*gāthino gīyamāna-sāma-yuktā udgātāra indram id indram eva br̥hat | tvām id dhi havāmahe [ṛgve. 6-46-1] ity asyām ṛcy
utpannena br̥han-nāmakena sāmnanūṣata | stutavantaḥ | arkīṇo 'rcana-hetu-mantropetā hotāro 'rkebhīr ṛg-rūpair mantrair indram evānūṣata | ye tv adhvaryavas te vāṇīr vāgrūpābhīr yajū-rūpābhīr indram evānūṣata | arka-śābdasya
mantra-paratvaṃ yāskenoṣtam | arko mantrō bhavati yad anenārcanti | ni. 5-4 | iti | śloka ity-ādiṣu saptapañcāśatsu
vāṇ-nāmasu vāśī vāṇīti paṭhitam | |*

Translation: "The gāthinaḥ — the udgātṛ priests, who are endowed with sung Sāmans — praised Indra, and Indra alone, with the Br̥hat [Sāman] — that is, with the Sāman named Br̥hat, produced upon the rik tvām id dhi havāmahe (R̥gveda 6-46-1) — they praised him. The arkīṇaḥ — the hotṛ priests, who are furnished with mantras that are the means of worship — praised Indra, and Indra alone, with the arkas, that is, with mantras in the form of ṛks. And the adhvaryus praised Indra alone with vāṇīs — with speech in the form of yajus-formulae. That the word arka denotes 'mantra' is stated by Yāska: 'An arka is a mantra, because with it they offer worship' (Nirukta 5-4). Among the fifty-seven words for 'speech' beginning with śloka, the words vāśī and vāṇī are listed."

Note — The remainder of the Sanskrit on this page and the next carries Sāyaṇa's grammatical derivation of गाथिनः [gāthinaḥ], बृहत् [bṛhat], अर्केभिः [arkebhiḥ], अर्किणः [arkinaḥ], वाणीः [vāṇīḥ] and अनूषत [anūṣata] — suffixes, accent, and Vedic irregularities of case-ending — in the standard dense register. Characterized rather than transcribed line by line (Convention 5); the sense of each word is already fixed by the passage above. In outline: gāthinaḥ is formed with the suffix than (from the root gai, "to sing") and then ini ("one who has gāthās"); bṛhat has its instrumental ending dropped (the standard luk of case-endings in the Veda); arkebhiḥ lacks the usual ais substitution by Vedic license; arkinaḥ is "those who have arkas"; vāṇīḥ is a nominative form standing in an instrumental sense; anūṣata is an aorist of the root nu ("to praise") in the middle voice with a Vedic irregularity.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

गाथिनः (gāthinaḥ) — those who sing, that is, the Sāman-singers beginning with the udgāṭr | इन्द्रम् इत् (indram it) — Indra alone | बृहत् (bṛhat) — with the Sāman-mantra called Bṛhat | अनूषत (anūṣata) — praise, that is, sing | अर्किणः (arkinaḥ) — the ṛtvijs, the hotṛ and others, who recite the worship-mantras (the invocatory mantras) | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | अर्केभिः (arkebhiḥ) — with ṛk-mantras | (अनूषत — praise) | (the adhvaryu and the other ṛtvijs) इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | वाणीः (vāṇīḥ) — with the yajurveda mantras that take the form of sentences | (अनूषत — praise).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

At the time of sacrifice, the ṛtvijs praise Indra in many ways. That is: the Sāman-singers, the udgāṭr and others, sing with the mantra called found in their Sāma Veda (this mantra is the rik at Ṛgveda 6-46-1); the hotṛ group praise him with the ṛks that serve as their śastra; and the adhvaryu and the other ṛtvijs praise Indra with mantras in the form of the sentences of their own Veda, the Yajurveda. In other words, the ṛtvijs praise Indra with the Vedic mantras of all three kinds — Ṛk, Yajus and Sāman.

Bṛhat-sāman

original p. 260

॥ English Translation ॥ ³

The chanters (of the Sama hymns) praise only Indra with (a Saman called) Brihat; the reciters of mantras (Rics) praise Indra with the Ric-Verses; (and the remaining priest Adhvaryus) praise Indra with prose-like Sentences (of Yajus).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The three Vedas in one rik. Although this rik does not explicitly name the Vedas Ṛk, Yajus and Sāman, the Bhāṣyakāra takes the words बृहत् (bṛhat), अर्केभिः (arkebhiḥ) and वाणीः (vāṇīḥ) to point to the mantras of the three Vedas — Sāma, Ṛg and Yajur respectively. Western scholars do not accept this view. They hold that the Ṛgveda is older than the other Vedas, and so there is no reason for the later Vedas — Yajur and Sāma — to be indicated within it.

Though this argument cannot be dismissed outright, the Ṛgveda's own Puruṣa-sūkta (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-90-9 [?]) states the words yajus and sāman explicitly. Moreover:

1. Most of the Sāma Veda's mantras are themselves Ṛgveda mantras, and even in the Ṛgveda's own period it was the custom to recite many Ṛgveda riks in sung form; so there is nothing impossible in a Sāman-mantra being indicated here.
2. It is something everyone must grant that the Yajurveda is later than the Ṛgveda and Sāma Veda. But although it did not then exist in its present, systematized form, one may confidently say that many Yajur-mantras — chiefly, the sentences used in the sacrifice — were then in special use. Many such sentences, together with the procedures and rules of sacrificing, may have been gathered together to form the Yajurveda as it now stands.

3. as printed in the source

3. Further, the Ṛgveda in many places names the Yajurveda's chief priest, the Adhvaryu, explicitly.
4. And since the word वाणीः (vāṇīḥ) is used in this rik, there is ample room to suppose that it refers to Yajus-sentences that are not bound in meter.

For these reasons, the Bhāṣyakāra's explanation of the words as the Ṛk-Yajus-Sāman mantras of the three Vedas cannot be set aside.

"Gāthinaḥ" — gāthā eṣāṃ santīti gāthinaḥ ("those who have gāthās"). Gāthā is also a name for Sāma-Veda mantras; those who sing these gāthās — that is, the Sāman-mantras — are called gāthinaḥ.

original p. 261

"Bṛhat" — the ordinary sense of bṛhat is "great." But in the Sāma Veda there is the principal Sāman-mantra, sung in sacrifices, called Bṛhat-sāman; and in the Ṛgveda it is this rik:

त्वामिद्धि हवामहे सातौ वाजस्य कारवः । त्वां वृत्रेष्विन्द्र सत्पतिं नरस्त्वां काष्ठास्वर्वतः ॥

*tvām id dhi havāmahe sātā vājasya kāravaḥ | tvāṃ vṛtreṣv
indra satpatiṃ naras tvāṃ kāṣṭhāsv arvataḥ | |*

(Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 6-46-1)

Translation (of the rik as cited here): "Indeed we call upon you, O Indra — we the singers — for the winning of strength [or: in the winning of spoil]; you, O Indra, the lord of the good, in battles with Vṛtra [or: against Vṛtras]; the men [call upon] you in the races of the horse." ⁴

The source adds: this mantra is found in the Sāma Veda at 334 [?]; 982 [?]; in the Atharvaveda 20-71-1 [?]; in the Vājasaneyi Saṃhitā (Śukla Yajurveda) 27-34 [?]; the Taittirīya Saṃhitā (Kṛṣṇa Yajurveda) 2-4-14-2 [?]; the Maitrāyaṇīya Saṃhitā 2-2-6 [?], and other places. ⁵ This Bṛhat-sāman is one principal mantra of the Sāma Veda; the Yajurveda explains it in many places.

"Arkebhiḥ" — Yāska, in the Nirukta, gives the sense of the word arka: अर्को मन्त्रो भवति यदेनेनार्चन्ति (arko mantro bhavati yad anenārcanti) — "an arka is a mantra, because with it they worship" (Nirukta 5-4). The root arc means "to worship" (pūjāyām); because worship is done with it, the mantra is called arka.

"Arkiṇaḥ" — अर्काः स्तुतिसाधनभूता मन्त्रा येषां सन्तीत्यर्किणः (arkāḥ stuti-sādhana-bhūtā mantrā yeṣāṃ santīty arkiṇaḥ) — "those who have arkas, mantras that are the instruments of praise" — that is, those who praise with mantras (arkas) that are the means of praise.

"Vāṇiḥ" — vāṇī is listed among the fifty-seven speech-words beginning with śloka and dhārā (Nirukta/Nighaṇṭu 1-11 [the source's "२. ०-००"; reading of the numerals is uncertain]). Here the Bhāṣyakāra explains vāṇiḥ as Yajurveda sentences. Since the Yajurveda has few mantras bound in meter, it is the custom to call its mantras "sentences" (vākya). In this rik the nominative-case word vāṇiḥ is used in the sense of the instrumental.

"Anūṣata" — the aorist (luṇ) form of the root ṇu stutau ("to praise"). Although the root takes parasmaipada, here, by a Vedic inversion (vyatyaya), it is used as if it were ātmanepada.

4. My rendering of the rik rests on the plain word-sense; the source here offers no Kannada translation of it, only the citation. Spelling of sātā follows the scan.

5. All numerals in this sentence are small and compressed in the scan; given with reservation.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). This section (pp. 261–263) works through the derivation and accent of each word in the rik, in sūtra-by-sūtra detail. Points of substance below. Caveat for every characterized grammar section in this volume: the Pāṇini/Uṇādi sūtra numbers are read from very small Kannada-script print and were not cross-checked against Pāṇini; treat them as pointers to the passage, not as verified citations.⁶

- गाथिनः (gāthinaḥ) — from the root gai ("to sing") + the than suffix by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 2-4 [?]), then -in by Pāṇini 5-2-116 ("vrīhy-ādibhyaś ca"), so the word means "one possessing gāthās"; the accent falls on the suffix-vowel.
- बृहत् (bṛhat) — instrumental singular in sense, the case-ending being deleted by the Pāṇinian luk rule (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]); the word is final-udātta by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 2-84 [?]) that treats bṛhat as irregularly formed (nipātita). The source remarks that, because the suffix śatṛ carries the ati-class final accent, bṛhat is atipratyayānta in effect.
- अर्केभिः (arkebhiḥ) — from arc ("to worship") + gha, giving arka, with the palatal-to-velar change (kutva); the expected ais of the instrumental plural is not substituted, "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 7-1-10).
- अर्किणः (arkinaḥ) — arka + the suffix ini ("possessing").
- वाणीः (vāṇīḥ) — initial-udātta by "vṛṣādīnāṃ ca" (Pā. 6-1-203); lengthening in the nominative plural resolved by the optional Vedic rule on pūrvasavarṇa-lengthening.
- अनूषत (anūṣata) — root ṇu with n for ṇ; aorist with sic; the augment iṭ absent and the vowel lengthened as Vedic features; guṇa is blocked.

6. Continues the Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā of Rik 1 in the same register — the optional-lengthening discussion for vāṇīḥ and the finite-verb analysis of anūṣata, completed on the next page. Characterized as above; not transcribed.

original p. 262

(grammar continued)

original p. 263

Rik 1 grammar closes; Rik 2

7

॥१॥

Sūkta 7, Rik 2॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र इद्ध्योः सचा सम्मिश्र आ वचोयुजा । इन्द्रो वज्री हिरण्ययः ॥२॥

indra id dharyoḥ sacā sammiśla ā vacoyujā | indro vajrī hiraṇyayaḥ || 2 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रः । इत् । हयोः । सचा । सम्मिश्रः । आ । वचःयुजा ॥ इन्द्रः । वज्री । हिरण्ययः ॥२॥

indrah | it | haryoḥ | sacā | sam-miślah | ā | vacaḥ-yujā | |
indrah | vajrī | hiraṇyayaḥ || 2 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्र इन्द्र एव हर्योर्हरिनामकयोरश्वयोः सचा सह युगपदा सम्मिश्रः सर्वतः सम्यग्मिश्रयिता ।

कीदृशयोर्हर्योः । वचोयुजा । इन्द्रस्य वचनमात्रेण रथे युज्यमानयोः सुशिक्षितयोरित्यर्थः ।

अयमिन्द्रो वज्री वज्रयुक्तो हिरण्ययो हिरण्मयः । सर्वाभरणभूषित इत्यर्थः ॥ indra id indra eva haryor hari-nāmakayor aśvayoḥ sacā saha yugapad ā sammiślah sarvataḥ samyag-miśrayitā | kīdṛśayor

haryoḥ | vacoyujā | indrasya vacana-mātreṇa rathe

yujyamānayoḥ suśikṣitayor ity arthaḥ | ayam indro vajrī
vajra-yukto hiraṇyayo hiraṇmayāḥ | sarvābharaṇa-bhūṣita ity
arthaḥ ||

Translation: "Indra himself, together with (sacā) — simultaneously with — his two horses named Hari, comes, being the all-round good mixer/combiner (sammiślaḥ). What kind of horses? Vacoyujā: yoked to the chariot at Indra's mere word — that is, well-trained. This Indra, the wielder of the thunderbolt (vajrī), is golden (hiraṇyayaḥ, = hiraṇmayāḥ) — adorned with all ornaments." ⁸

Note — The first part of this page is the Sanskrit grammar of Rik 2 inside the bhāṣya itself. Characterized, not transcribed. Points of substance: हयोः (haryoḥ) — "the two that carry" (harataḥ), from hr, with the suffix in; initial-udātta. सच (sacā) — glossed "with" (Nirukta 5-5, "sacā saheti"). सम्मिश्रः (sammiślaḥ) — "mixing" from miśra + ghaṇ (Pā. 3-3-18) with a Vedic l for r, so "one who mixes thoroughly"; accent of the first member retained in the bahuvrīhi. वचोयुजा (vacoyujā) — "yoked with a word"; the dual case-ending replaced by ā; the second member yuj has the final accent. वज्री (vajrī) — "having a vajra", suffix ini (Pā. 5-2-115). हिरण्ययः (hiraṇyayaḥ) — by Pāṇini 6-4-175 [?] (the source's printed number reads "6-4-17[?]", the m of hiraṇmaya is dropped irregularly in the Veda, so hiraṇyaya is the form; it is udātta on the ā by the suffix-accent.

original p. 264

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सम्मिश्रः (sammiślaḥ) — the one who thoroughly mixes everything
| इन्द्र इत् (indra it) — Indra himself | वचोयुजा (vacoyujā) — yoked to the chariot at Indra's mere word | हयोः (haryoḥ) — with the

7. The first nine lines complete the Rik 1 grammar — the analysis of anūṣata, ending with the observation that, since the root nu belongs to the kuṭādi class, the sic aorist behaves as if marked ñit and so guṇa does not arise. Then the number ॥१॥ closes Rik 1. Characterized, not transcribed.

8. Sāyaṇa's grammatical notes follow on page 264 — in the Sanskrit itself — and are characterized there.

horses called Hari (of Indra) | सचा (sacā) — together with | आ (yāti) — comes hither | इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | वज्री (vajrī) — the wielder of the thunderbolt | हिरण्ययः (hiranyayah) — the golden one, that is, adorned with golden ornaments.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra, who mixes [combines with] everything, is coming here. At his mere word, his horses are yoked to the chariot. Seated in the chariot to which such horses are yoked, he comes here. That Indra, adorned with ornaments of gold, bears the thunderbolt.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra, the good mixer of all things comes verily with his horses that are harnessed at his word; Indra, the richly-decorated (with gold), the wielder of the thunderbolt.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Sacā" — saha: with, together, in company.

"Sammiślaḥ" — The Bhāṣyakāra explains this word as सम्मिश्रः सर्वतः सम्यग्मिश्रयिता (sammiślaḥ sarvataḥ samyag miśrayitā) — "one who mixes well, in every way." Following him, Western scholars such as Wilson give meanings such as "blender, mixer, mixing oneself very much with, attached to." For the word's component-sense, [Sāyaṇa's note] is:

सम्मिश्रः । मिश्रणं मिश्रः । मिश्रयतेर्घञ् । पा. सू. ३-३-१८ । सम्यक् मिश्रो यस्यासौ सम्मिश्रः । लत्वं छान्दसम् । सम्यक् मिश्रयितेत्यर्थः । sammiślaḥ | miśraṇam miśraḥ | miśrayater ghañ | pā. sū. 3-3-18 | samyak miśro yasyāsau sammiśraḥ | latvaṃ chāndasam | samyak miśrayitety arthaḥ | "Sammiślaḥ: 'mixing' is miśra; [formed from] miśrayati with ghañ (Pāṇini 3-3-18). 'He of whom the mixing is thorough' is sammiśra; the l [for r] is Vedic. The sense: one who mixes thoroughly."

original p. 265

Though this sense is correct for the word in itself, it does not fit the word in this rik. If sammiślaḥ is taken to mean "joined" (saṃyuktāḥ) or "accompanied" (sahitāḥ), the sense runs right. The Bhāṣyakāra himself, at another rik, explains the plural sammiślāsaḥ (in the verse at Ṛgveda 1-64-10 [?]) as sammiśrāḥ saṃyuktāḥ ity arthaḥ — "mixed, joined." Examples of riks containing the word follow, for illustration.⁹

विश्वे देवासो रयिभिः समोकसः सम्मिश्लास्तविषीभिरकिणः । [?] viśve devāso rayibhiḥ samokasaḥ sammiślās taviṣībhir arkiṇaḥ | [?] — (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-64-10 [?])

("All the gods, sharing the same dwelling with their riches, united with their powers, the singers..." — last two words doubtful in the scan.)

यः सम्मिश्लो हयोर्यः सुते सचा वज्री रथो हिरण्ययः ॥ yaḥ sammiślo haryor yaḥ sute sacā vajrī ratho hiranyayaḥ | | — (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-33-4 [?])

The source remarks that in this rik, too, the words and sense of the (present) rik recur with little difference.

प्रभङ्गी शूरो मघवा तुवीमघः सम्मिश्लो वीर्याय कम् ॥ prabhaṅgī śūro maghavā tuvīmaghaḥ sammiślo vīryāya kam | | — (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-70-14 [?])

सम्मिश्लो अरुषो भव सूपस्थाभिर्न धेनुभिः ॥ sammiślo aruṣo bhava sūpasthābhir na dhenubhiḥ | | — (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 9-61-20 [?])

मन्द्रो होता स जुह्वा यजिष्ठः सम्मिश्लो अग्निरा जिघर्ति देवान् ॥ [?] mandro hotā sa juhvā yajīṣṭhaḥ sammiślo agnir ā jigharti devān | | [?] — (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-6-4 [?])

9. All Ṛgveda numbers below are read from small print and are given with "[?]". The Sanskrit of each rik is transcribed from the Kannada script, with word-division as read. Where the scan made a word doubtful, it is marked.

मन्द्राः सुजिह्वाः स्वरितार आसभिः सम्मिश्ला इन्द्रे मरुतः परिष्टुभः ॥ *mandrāḥ sujihvāḥ svaritāra āsabhiḥ sammiślā indre marutaḥ
pariṣṭubhaḥ* || — (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-166-11 [?])

यज्ञैः सम्मिश्लाः पृषतीभिर्ऋष्टिभिर्यामन् शुभ्रासो अज्जिषु प्रिया उत ॥ [?] *yajñaiḥ sammiślāḥ pṛṣatibhir ṛṣṭibhir yāman śubhrāso añjiṣu priyā
uta* || [?] — (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-85-3 [?])

प्र यन्तु वाजास्तविषीभिरग्नयः शुभे सम्मिश्लाः पृषतीरयुक्षत ॥ [?] pra yantu vājās taviṣibhir agnayāḥ śubhe sammiślāḥ pṛṣatīr ayukṣata || [?] —
(R̥gveda Saṃhitā 3-26-4 [?])

यामं येष्ठाः शुभा शोभिष्ठाः श्रिया सम्मिश्ला ओजोभिरुग्राः ॥ [?] yāmaṃ yeṣṭhāḥ śubhā śobhiṣṭhāḥ śriyā sammiślā ojobhir ugrāḥ || [?] —
(R̥gveda Saṃhitā 7-56-6 [?])

10

In all these riks, the sense "joined, accompanied" is the one that fits the word sammiśla. The word occurs nowhere in the R̥gveda other than the riks listed above.

"Vacoyujā" — the Bhāṣyakāra: इन्द्रस्य वचनमात्रेण रथे युज्यमानयोः सुशिक्षितयोरित्यर्थः (indrasya vacana-mātreṇa rathe yujyamānayoḥ suśikṣitayor ity arthaḥ) — "of the two [horses] being yoked to the chariot at Indra's mere word, i.e., well-trained." That is: at the mere word of Indra they come ready to be yoked to the chariot; the sense is of well-trained horses.

original p. 266

Some Western scholars have rendered this word "horses which harness themselves." But how could horses harness themselves to a chariot without the help of a charioteer and others? They have not considered whether this is possible. The Bhāṣyakāra's sense — "yoked at Indra's word, or at his command" — is therefore the fitting one.

10. Citation-heavy list: numbers and several words are low-confidence and are shown only so the reader sees the shape of the evidence; they must be checked against a clear copy before reliance.

"Vajrī" — वज्रमस्यास्तीति वज्री (vajram asyāstīti vajrī) — "he who has the vajra" — the wielder of the thunderbolt. Indra's weapon is famous as the vajra (Thunderbolt). The Ṛgveda mentions it in many places. For example, Indra himself says:

मह्यं त्वष्टा वज्रमतक्षदायसं मयि देवासो ऽवृजन्नपि क्रतुम् ॥ mahyaṃ tvaṣṭā vajram atakṣad āyasaṃ mayi devāso 'vrjann api kratum || — (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-48-3 [?])

"For me Tvaṣṭṛ fashioned the iron thunderbolt; in me the gods have set [wisdom/resolve]." (The Kannada gloss in the source reads: "the divine craftsman Tvaṣṭṛ made me a thunderbolt of iron.")

"Hiraṇyayaḥ" — hiraṇmayah — "made of gold," that is, adorned with golden ornaments. One may say that in place of hiraṇmaya the form hiraṇyaya was then current. Riks containing hiraṇyaya-type words — such as हिरण्ययेन सविता रथेन (hiraṇyayena savitā rathena, "Savitṛ, with a golden chariot") — are plentiful.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ^{11 12}

- हयोः (haryoḥ) — harataḥ rathaṃ iti harī ("the two that draw the chariot are the harī") — from hṛ with the suffix in by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 4-1[?]); the guṇa that arises is then followed by the ur-aṇ raparaḥ rule giving -ar-.

11. Pages 266–268: the Kannada grammar of Rik 2 — characterized, not transcribed; Convention 5. Points of substance:

12. Page 267 continues the Rik 2 grammar; page 268 closes it. The last lines on p. 268 conclude that it is "proper," as explained in the Vedic commentary (Veda-bhāṣya), to accept the loss of the letter itself and say that the single-substitute vowel is udātta by Pā. 8-2-5, and the number ॥२॥ closes Rik 2. Characterized as above — the source is arguing a point of Pāṇinian procedure, not adding to the sense of the rik.

- सचा (sacā) — Yāska (Nirukta 5-5) glosses it "saha" — hence "at the same time."
- सम्मिश्रः (sammiślah) — from the root miś (miśra-saṃpārke — in the curādi class, 150th root [?]) by ṇic and the "bhāve" (abstract) sense; because of the ṇic, the ṇi is dropped (Pā. 6-4-51), giving miśra; sam + miśra as bahuvrīhi, with the Vedic l for r; the first member's accent retained by Pā. 6-2-1.
- वचोयुजा (vacoyujā) — "yoked by a word"; the genitive/locative dual ending is replaced by ā; the final accent of yuj is carried by the rule on kṛd-final compounds.
- वज्री (vajrī) — vajra + ini (Pā. 5-2-115, "ata ini-ṭhanau") with the loss of the final a of vajra by the yasyeti ca rule (Pā. 6-4-148); the nominative singular ending is dropped; the n is dropped by "na lopaḥ prātipadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7).
- हिरण्ययः (hiraṇyayah) — from the root hary ("to move, desire") with the kanyan suffix (Uṇ. 5-[?]); alternatively, by "mayaṭ" (Pā. 4-3-143) hiraṇya + maya, with the Vedic loss of the m of maya by "ṛtvavāstvyavāstva-māddhvī-hiraṇyayāni chandasi" (Pā. 6-4-175). The accent: the ā is udātta by the suffix (pratyaya-svara), and the single resulting vowel (ekādeśa) takes the udātta (Pā. 8-2-5). The Mādhavācārya explanation (referred to in the source as an authority "for the Vedic commentary") is that the loss of m is accepted and the ekādeśa is udātta.

Page 267, 268 (grammar of Rik 2, continued)

॥३॥

Sūkta 7, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रो दीर्घाय चक्षस आ सूर्य रोहयद्वि । वि गोभिरद्रिमैरयत् ॥३॥

*indro dīrghāya cakṣasa ā sūryaṃ rohayad divi | vi gobhir
adrim airayat ||3||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹³

इन्द्रः । दीर्घाय । चक्षसे । आ । सूर्यम् । रोहयत् । दिवि ॥ वि । गोभिः । अद्रिम् । ऐरयत् ॥३॥
*indraḥ | dīrghāya | cakṣase | ā | sūryam | rohayat | divi | | vi
| gobhiḥ | adrim | airayat | |3||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अयमिन्द्रो दीर्घाय प्रौढाय निरन्तराय चक्षसे दर्शनाय दिवि द्युलोके सूर्यमा रोहयत् । पुरा
वृत्रासुरेण जगति यदाप्रातं तमस्तन्निवारणेन प्राणिनां वृष्टिसिद्ध्यर्थमादित्यं द्युलोके
स्थापितवानित्यर्थः । स च सूर्यो गोभिः स्वकीयै रश्मिभिरद्रिं पर्वतप्रमुखं सर्वं जगद्व्यैरयत् ।
विशेषेण दर्शनार्थं प्रेरितवान् । प्रकाशितवानित्यर्थः । अथवा इन्द्र एव
गोभिर्जलैर्वृष्टिनिमित्तभूतैरद्रिं मेघं व्यैरयत् । विशेषेण प्रेरितवान् । पञ्चदशसंख्याकेषु
रश्मिनामसु खेदयः [?] किरणा गाव इति पठितम् । त्रिंशत्संख्याकेषु मेघनामस्वद्विग्रावेति पठितम् ॥

*ayam indro dīrghāya prauḍhāya nirantarāya cakṣase
darśanāya divi dyuloke sūryam ā rohayat | purā vṛtrāsuraṇa jagati yad āprātaṃ tamas tan-nivāraṇena prāṇināṃ vṛṣṭi-siddhy-artham ādityaṃ dyuloke sthāpitavān ity arthaḥ | sa ca sūryo gobhiḥ svakīyai raśmibhir adriṃ parvata-pramukhaṃ sarvaṃ jagad vyairayat | viśeṣeṇa darśanārthaṃ preritavān | prakāśitavān ity arthaḥ | athavā indra eva gobhir jalair vṛṣṭi-
nimitta-bhūtair adriṃ megham vyairayat | viśeṣeṇa
preritavān | pañcadaśa-saṃkhyākeṣu raśmi-nāmasu khedayah
[?] kiraṇā gāva iti paṭhitam | triṃśat-saṃkhyākeṣu megha-nāmasv adri-grāvētya paṭhitam | |*

Translation: "This Indra caused the sun to ascend in heaven, the world of light, for long (dīrghāya) — for vast, uninterrupted — seeing (cakṣase); that is: formerly, when darkness had enveloped the world by the demon Vṛtra, Indra, to remove that darkness and to bring about rain for living beings, established the sun in the heavenly world. And that sun, with his own rays (gobhiḥ), set in motion (vyairayat) all the world headed by the mountain (adri) — especially, sent out [his light] for sight; that is, illuminated it. Or else: Indra himself, with the waters (gobhiḥ) that serve as the cause of rain, set the adri — the cloud — in motion in particular. Among the fifteen names for 'ray' — kiraṇāḥ and gāvaḥ [and the others] are listed [the first word of the Nighaṇṭu list, read here as khedayah, is uncertain in the scan]. Among the thirty names for 'cloud' — adri and grāvā are listed." ¹⁴

original p. 269

Rik 3 continued

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | दीर्घाय चक्षसे (dīrghāya cakṣase) — continuously, that is, so that [beings] may see always (for the sake of seeing, for light) | सूर्यम् (sūryam) — the sun | दिवि (divi) — in the heavenly world (in the sky) | आ रोहयत् (ā rohayat) — set up (caused to climb) | (that sun) गोभिः (gobhiḥ) — with his rays | अद्रिम् (adrim) — the mountain (that is, the whole world, mountains and the rest) | वि ऐरयत् (vi airayat) — impelled specially, that is, illuminated.

Or:

original p. 270

13. The pada-pāṭha's first word after indrah is read here as dīrghāya, matching the bhāṣya and the saṃhitā; the final letter in the printed pada line is not fully clear in the scan.

14. The remaining Sanskrit on this page — grammar of दीर्घाय, चक्षसे, सूर्यम्, रोहयत्, दिवि, अद्रिम्, ऐरयत्, i.e., which suffixes and accents — is characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below.

इन्द्रः (indraḥ) — Indra | गोभिः (gobhiḥ) — with the gāvaḥ (waters) that serve as the cause of rain | अद्रिम् (adrim) — the cloud | वि ऐरयत् (vi airayat) — impelled specially.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

In ancient times the demon Vṛtra made the world a mass of darkness. Indra slew Vṛtra and — so that there should be light in the world until the time of dissolution — set the sun in the heavens (the antarikṣa). The sun, too, illuminated the whole world — mountains, and so on — with his rays, and made all beings, who had been unable to do any work on account of the darkness, take up their several tasks. Or: after setting the sun in the sky, Indra sent the cloud to rain upon the people (or living beings), so that grain, which is food, might grow.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra established the sun in the heaven to render all things visible. He illuminated the mountain (i.e. the world) with his rays or Indra charged the clouds with water.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

An earlier legend. The Bhāṣyakāra and Skandasvāmī both mention an ancient story here. In former days the demon Vṛtra made the whole world dark. People and living creatures, having no light, were unable to do their work. Seeing this, Indra slew Vṛtra and established the sun in the sky so that there would be light in the world. In accord with this, this rik says that Indra established the sun in the sky.

"Dīrghāya" — nirantarāya, "uninterrupted" — pralaya-paryantam: "until dissolution" — "always, as long as the world lasts."

"Cakṣase" — sight, light, brilliance, etc. Without the sun, neither light nor strength nor capacity would belong to living beings; the business of the world would not go on. That is why it is said: सूर्य आत्मा जगतस्तस्थुषश्च (sūrya ātmā jagatas tasthuṣaś ca) — "the sun is the self of the moving and the unmoving world" (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-115-1) — the sun is the very self (as life is chief to the body) of all the world, animate and inanimate.

original p. 271

"Vi gobhir adrim airayat" — The meaning of this sentence is not clear. The poet may have so described it because, when the sun rises, his rays first fall upon the lofty mountains. The other sense — that Indra impelled the cloud for water, that is, for the work of rain — is also fitting.

"Gobhiḥ" — with rays; with water. Among the fifteen words for "ray," beginning with khedayah [?], the words किरणाः (kiraṇāḥ) and गावः (gāvah) are listed.

"Adrim" — mountain, cloud. Among the thirty words for "cloud," beginning with adriḥ grāvā, the word adri is listed.¹⁵

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥¹⁶

- दीर्घाय (dīrghāya) — by the prātipadika accent, dīrgha is final-udātta.
- चक्षसे (cakṣase) — from cakṣiṇ ("to speak/see") with the asun suffix (Uṇ. 4-[?]), which is made ṇit/s-ita so that cakṣiṇ gets the substitute khyā by Pā. 2-4-54 ("cakṣiṇaḥ khyāñ") — asun is declared sārvadhātuka rather than ārdhadhātuka here, so the substitution does not occur; the suffix-accent is udātta on the first vowel.

15. Source's Kannada: "adriḥ grāvā ādi" "mūvattu".

16. Pages 271–272. Characterized, not transcribed. Points of substance:

- सूर्यम् (sūryam) — from sū ("to impel") — "he who impels (the world)"; ṣa→sa for the initial by Pā. 6-1-64; and the kyap suffix by the sūtra rājasūya-sūrya-mṛṣodya-rucya-kupya-kṛṣṭapacya-avyathyāḥ (Pā. 3-1-114): these seven words are irregularly formed with kyap, and the rūt augment arises; "or" from the root sṛ ("to go") through the sky.
- रोहयत् (rohayat) — root ruh ("to grow, to appear") with ṇic, then lañ-type form with a-augment dropped by Vedic license ("bahulaṃ chandasy amāṇyoge 'pi", Pā. 6-4-75).
- दिवि (divi) — the case-ending is udātta by the ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ rule (Pā. 6-1-171).
- अद्रिम् (adrim) — from ad ("to eat") with kran (Uṇ. 4-[?]); with the suffix marked śit, the first vowel is udātta.
- ऐरयत् (airayat) — root īr ("to go, to move") with ṇic + lañ.

॥३॥ ¹⁷

original p. 272

Sūkta 7, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र वाजेषु नो ऽव सहस्रप्रधनेषु च । उग्र उग्राभिरूतिभिः ॥४॥

indra vājeṣu no 'va sahasrapradhaneṣu ca | ugra ugrābhirūtibhiḥ || 4 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र । वाजेषु । नः । अव । सहस्रप्रधनेषु । च ॥ उग्रः । उग्राभिः । ऊतिऽभिः ॥४॥

*indra | vājeṣu | naḥ | ava | sahasra-pradhaneṣu | ca || ugraḥ
| ugrābhiḥ | ūti-bhiḥ || 4 ||*

17. Page 272 begins with the final lines of Rik 3's grammar — the verb airayat takes its personal ending, and the word is unaccented by Pā. 8-1-28 — then the number ॥३॥ closes Rik 3.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र उग्रः शत्रुभिरप्रधृष्यस्त्वमुग्राभिरप्रधृष्याभिरूतिभिरस्मद्विषयरक्षाभिर्वाजेषु युद्धेषु नो
ऽस्मानव रक्ष । तथा सहस्रप्रधनेषु च । सहस्रसंख्याकगजाश्वादिलाभयुक्तेषु महायुद्धेष्वपि रक्ष

॥

*he indra ugraḥ śatrubhir apradhṛṣyas tvam ugrābhir apradhṛṣyābhir ūtibhir asmad-viṣaya-rakṣābhir vājeṣu yuddheṣu no 'smān ava rakṣa | tathā sahasra-pradhanēṣu ca | sahasra-saṃkhyāka-gajāśvādi-lābha-yukteṣu mahā-yuddheṣv
api rakṣa ||*

Translation: "O Indra! You — ugra, unassailable to enemies — with your ugra protections (ūtibhiḥ), unassailable, directed to our concerns, protect us (naḥ ava) in battles (vājeṣu) — and likewise in the sahasra-pradhanas, that is, even in great battles that bring the winning of thousands of elephants, horses and the like, protect us." ¹⁸

original p. 273

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | (त्वम्) — you | उग्रः (ugraḥ) — one who cannot be conquered by enemies | (such you) उग्राभिः (ugrābhiḥ) — with those that cannot be overcome by enemies | ऊतिभिः (ūtibhiḥ) — with protections | नः (naḥ) — us | वाजेषु (vājeṣu) — in battles | सहस्रप्रधनेषु (sahasrapradhaneṣu) — in great battles in which unlimited spoil of elephants, horses, chariots and the like is obtained | अव (ava) — protect.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

18. The remaining Sanskrit on pp. 272–273 is Sāyaṇa's grammar of वाजेषु, नः, अव, सहस्रप्रधनेषु,

उग्रः, ऊतिभिः. Characterized below with the Kannada

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā; not transcribed.

O Indra! You are apradhṛṣya — that is, enemies cannot conquer you. Such as you are: with your invincible protections (that is, helps), protect us in the great battles which we wage with our enemies for the gain of elephants, horses, chariots and the like.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, You are invincible; protect us with insuperable aids in battles where thousand-fold spoils are gained.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

original p. 274

"Sahasrapradhaneṣu" — pradhana or mahādhana means battle. (The word mahādhana is read among the forty-six words for "battle," beginning with raṇa — Nirukta 2-17 [the count was first read here as "sixty-six" from a hard-to-read number-word; the same count printed clearly in Sūkta 8, Rik 6 (p. 326, "ನಲವತ್ತಾರು") is forty-six, so it is corrected here].) Since this rik already contains another word for battle, vājeṣu, to take pradhaneṣu in sahasrapradhaneṣu as "battle" would bring about the fault of repetition (dviruktidoṣa) and the sense would not fit well. The Bhāṣyakāra's component-sense is therefore the right one: when one fights and conquers enemies, the elephants, horses, weapons, wealth, gold, vehicles and all other possessions that were with those enemies naturally come under the power of the victors. Thus Indra is prayed to give us suitable help in thousands of battles, so that we may conquer our enemies and take all their wealth, and that, at the same time, we may be protected, with no danger to our lives from the enemy.

"Ugrah" — may be taken in the senses apradhṛṣya (unassailable), ajeya (unconquerable), sahisalaśakya (not to be borne, i.e. irresistible), parākramī (valiant), krūra (fierce), etc.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁹

- वाजे (vāje) — initial-udātta by "vṛṣādīnām ca" (Pā. 6-1-203); vāja is to be reckoned among the vṛṣādi words because that group is an ākṛti-gaṇa.
- नो स्व (no 'va) — naḥ is a substitute (nas) for yuṣmān/asmān in the second-person/first-person plural (Pā. 8-1-20) — the second-case plural of asmad; its s becomes ru, then u before the following a, then guṇa (Pā. 6-1-87) yielding o; the a of ava is absorbed by the pūrvarūpa rule (Pā. 6-1-109), the result being written no 'va; pragṛhya status is blocked because the same sūtra reads avyapare ("not when [followed by] vya").
- अव (ava) — root av ("to protect") in the tiṅ form is unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28). Although the rik really has two sentences (indra vājeṣu no 'va and sahasrapradhaneṣu ca no 'va), the verb ava supplied in the second sentence is, as a tiṅanta, treated as accented only by "ca-vā-yoge prathamā" (Pā. 8-1-59) — the first verb of a pair joined by ca, vā, ha, aha, eva is accented; the optional deletion of ca/vā etc. (Pā. 8-1-62) lets either accented or unaccented stand.
- सहस्रप्रधनेषु (sahasrapradhaneṣu) — by "kārdama-ādīnām ca" ²⁰ the word sahasra takes udātta on the two ha-syllables; as a bahuvrīhi it retains the first member's accent (Pā. 6-2-1).
- उग्रः (ugraḥ) — from uc ("to be pleased, to gather") with the ran suffix of the Uṇādi-sūtra (ṛjrendrāgra-vajra-vipra-kubja-śukla..., Uṇ. 2-[?]); c→g (kutva); final-udātta.
- ऊतिभिः (ūtibhiḥ) — ūtiyūtijūti-sātihetikīrtayaś ca (Pā. 3-3-97): ūti, etc., are irregularly formed ktin words, final-udātta; and thus ūti has the udātta ktin suffix.

19. Pages 274–275. Characterized, not transcribed. Points of substance:

20. sic; the source cites a Phiṭ-sūtra on "sahasra"

॥४॥

original p. 275

Sūkta 7, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रं वयं महाधन इन्द्रमर्भे हवामहे । युजं वृत्रेषु वज्रिणम् ॥५॥

*indram vayam mahādhana indram arbhe havāmahe | yujam
vṛtreṣu vajriṇam ||5||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रम् । वयम् । महाऽधने । इन्द्रम् । अर्भे । हवामहे ॥ युजम् । वृत्रेषु । वज्रिणम् ॥५॥

*indram | vayam | mahā-dhane | indram | arbhe | havāmahe
|| yujam | vṛtreṣu | vajriṇam ||5||*

original p. 276

Rik 5: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

वयमनुष्ठातारो महाधने प्रभूतधननिमित्तमिन्द्रं हवामहे । आह्वयामः । अर्भे ऽर्भके स्वल्पे ऽपि धने निमित्तभूते सतीन्द्रं हवामहे । कीदृशमिन्द्रम् । युजं सहकारिणं समाहितं वा । वृत्रेषु शत्रुषु धनलाभविरोधिषु प्राप्तेषु तन्निवारणाय वज्रिणं वज्रोपेतम् ॥ महाधनशब्दो यद्यपि संग्रामनामसु पठितस्तथापि महद्भनमत्र संग्राम इति बहुव्रीहित्वे सत्यन्तोदात्तत्वासिद्धेर्नात्र तद्गृहीतम् । महाधने महच्च तद्धनं चेति समासस्येत्यन्तोदात्तः ।

*vayam anuṣṭhātāro mahādhane prabhūta-dhana-nimittam
indram havāmahe | āhvayāmaḥ | arbhe 'rbhake svalpe 'pi
dhane nimitta-bhūte satīndram havāmahe | kīdrśam indram |
yujam saha-kāriṇam samāhitam vā | vṛtreṣu śatruṣu dhanalābha-virodhiṣu prāpteṣu tan-nivāraṇāya vajriṇam vajropetam || mahādhana-śabdo yadyapi saṃgrāma-nāmasu paṭhitas*

*tathāpi mahad dhanam atra saṃgrāma iti bahuvrīhitve saty antodāttatvāsiddher nātra tad gr̥hītam | mahādhane mahac
ca tad dhanam ceti samāsasyety antodāttaḥ |*

Translation: "We, the performers [of the rite], call upon Indra in the mahādhana — on account of abundant wealth; we summon him. In the arbha — when even a small, slight wealth is the occasion — we call Indra. What kind of Indra? Yujam — the helper, the co-operator, or [alternatively] the composed one. In the vṛtras — when enemies, who obstruct the gain of wealth, have arrived, to ward them off, [we call] the vajriṇam — the one equipped with the thunderbolt. Although the word mahādhana is read among the names for 'battle,' it is not so taken here: if it were analysed as a bahuvrīhi ('that in which there is great wealth, i.e., battle'), final-udātta accent would not be established [for the word as it stands in the rik]. [Hence] mahādhane = 'great and that wealth' (mahac ca tad dhanam ca), a karmadhāraya compound, final-udātta by the sūtra on compounds." ²¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

वयम् (vayam) — we | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | महाधने (mahādhane) — for the gaining of vast wealth | हवामहे (havāmahe) — we invoke (call) | अर्भके (arbhake) — even for the gaining of small wealth | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra (we invoke) | युजम् (yujam) — who is our helper (and) | वृत्रेषु (vṛtreṣu) — when enemies (opponents to our gain of wealth) come, for their subjugation | वज्रिणम् (vajriṇam) — who holds the thunderbolt | (इन्द्रम् — Indra — हवामहे — we invoke).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

21. Further grammatical material in the Sanskrit — on arbhe, havāmahe, yujam, vṛtreṣu, vajriṇam — occupies the rest of this page's Sanskrit. It is dense Pāṇinian derivation, characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below (Convention 5); not transcribed.

Whether we need a little wealth or much, for obtaining that wealth we invoke Indra himself. Further, that Indra not only helps us in our undertakings, but, when enemies who oppose us come, he stands ready to use his thunderbolt to subdue them. Such an Indra we invoke.

॥ English Translation ॥

We invoke Indra for great wealth ; Indra for (even) little weath ; Indra [is] our ally and weilder of the thunderbolt against enemies

original p. 277

Rik 5: Special Topics

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

A divergence from the Bhāṣyakāra. In fixing the sense of this rik, Skandasvāmī's explanation is more acceptable than the one the Bhāṣyakāra gives, and the translator gives it below.

Skandasvāmi-bhāṣyam

(as quoted in the Kannada script of the source):

महाधने । संग्रामनामैतत् । महति संग्रामे । इन्द्रमेव अर्भे । अल्पनामैतत् । अल्पे । क्व । पूर्वत्र निर्देशात् संग्राम एव । हवामहे आह्वयामः । युजं युज्यते [?] सा [?] इति युक् सहायः तम् । वृत्रेषु संग्रामव्यतिरिक्तेष्वपि च शत्रुषु इन्द्रमेव समाह्वयामः वज्रिणम् ॥

*mahādhane | saṁgrāma-nāmaitat | mahati saṁgrāme |
indram eva | arbhe | alpa-nāmaitat | alpe | kva | pūrvatra
nirdeśāt saṁgrāma eva | havāmahe āhvayāmaḥ | yujaṁ
yujyate [?] sā [?] iti yuk sahāyaḥ tam | vṛtreṣu saṁgrāma-vyatiriktev api ca śatruṣu indram eva samāhvayāmaḥ
vajriṇam |*

Translation: "Mahādhane — this is a name for battle: in a great battle. [We call] Indra alone. Arbhe — this is a name for 'small': in a small [battle]. In what? Because of the earlier mention, [it must be] in battle only. Havāmahe — we summon. Yujam — one who is joined [in the fight; the middle clause is hard to read in the scan]; a yuk is a helper — him. Vṛtreṣu — in the enemies apart from [formal] battle as well, we call Indra alone — him, the wielder of the thunderbolt."

Anuvāda (the Kannada rendering of Skandasvāmī, as printed): Mahādhana means battle — a great battle. Arbhe means a small battle. So, whether the battle is small or great, we call upon Indra alone for our help. And not only in matters of battle but in other matters too, for the removal of our enemies, we call upon Indra alone, the thunderbolt-bearer.

The translator's judgment. Since the previous rik treats the subject of battle, the sense "in both the small and the great battles mentioned in this rik we seek Indra's help alone" is coherent. It is therefore more fitting to take mahādhane as "in a great battle" than as "for obtaining much wealth." Moreover, the word ūtaye ("for our protection") in the previous rik ²², and the word vajriṇam ("endowed with the thunderbolt") in this rik, both point to protection and to the subduing of enemies — matters pertaining to battle. For these reasons, Skandasvāmī's explanation is the one to be accepted here.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²³ ²⁴

- महाधने (mahādhane) — Yāska does list mahādhana among the names for battle; but if taken that way here it would be a bahuvrīhi (mahat dhanam atra saṃgrāme, "in which there is great wealth") and would then take the accent of its first member (pūrvapada-prakṛti-svara), so final-udātta

22. as the source quotes it

23. Pp. 277–279. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5); sūtra numbers are pointers only. Points of substance:

24. Continuation of the Rik 5 grammar — the discussion of havāmahe's saṃprasāraṇa and of whether num arises in yujam; characterized in the entry above.

could not be explained. Hence it is taken as a karmadhāraya mahac ca tad dhanam ca ("great, and that wealth"), which is final-udātta by the compound-accent rule (Pā. 6-1-223); mahat → mahā by Pā. 6-3-46.

- अर्भे (arbhe) — root r + bhan (Uṇ. 3-[?]), with guṇa; nit so initial-udātta.
- हवामहे (havāmahe) — root hve ñ ("to call; to vie; to sound"); ātmanepada by Pā. 1-3-72 (the fruit of the act accrues to the agent); laṭ, first-person plural mahiñ, with e by "ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e"; śap; Vedic saṃprasāraṇa of hve (hu+a+mahe), then guṇa and lengthening, giving havāmahe; unaccented as a finite verb.
- युजम् (yujam) — root yuja samādhau + kvip with total loss of the suffix; the question whether the augment num arises (by "yujer asamāse," Pā. 7-1-71) is argued and answered in the negative here.
- वृत्रेषु (vr̥treṣu) — root vr̥tu vartane ("to be; to stand"), "those that stand in opposition"; a rak suffix, kit, so no guṇa; final-udātta by the suffix.²⁵
- वज्रिणम् (vajriṇam) — vajra + ini (Pā. 5-2-115); accent by the suffix.

original p. 278

original p. 279

Rik 5 closes; Rik 6

26

॥५॥

25. Page 279's first lines list the thirty-odd roots after which rak comes, including this one.

26. The first lines complete the Dhātupāṭha-list noted above, then वज्रिणम् as above, and the number ॥५॥ closes Rik 5.

Sūkta 7, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स नो वृषन्नमुं चरुं सत्रादावन्नपा वृधि । अस्मभ्यमप्रतिष्कृतः ॥६॥

sa no vṛṣann amuṃ caruṃ satrādāvann apā vṛdhi |
asmabhyam apratiṣkutaḥ || 6 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सः । नः । वृषन् । अमुम् । चरुम् । सत्राऽदावन् । अप । वृधि ॥ अस्मभ्यम् । अप्रतिऽस्कृतः ॥६॥

saḥ | naḥ | vṛṣan | amum | carum | satrā-dāvan | apa |
vṛdhi | | asmabhyam | aprati-ṣkutaḥ || 6 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे सत्रादावन् अस्मदभीष्टानां सर्वेषां फलानां सह प्रदातः । अतो व्रीह्यादिनिष्पत्त्यर्थं हे वृषन् वृष्टिप्रदेन्द्र नो ऽस्मदर्थममुं दृश्यमानं चरुं मेघमपा वृधि । उद्घाटय । तथैवास्मभ्यमस्मदर्थमप्रतिष्कृतः । प्रतिशब्दरहितः । यद्यस्माभिर्याच्यते तत्र सर्वत्र नेति प्रतिशब्दं नोच्चारयसि । अतो ऽस्मद्विषये कदाचिदप्यप्रतिस्खलितः । एतदेवाभिप्रेत्य यास्क आह । अप्रतिष्कृतो ऽप्रतिष्कृतो ऽप्रतिस्खलितो वा । नि. २-१६ । इति ॥

he satrādāvan asmad-abhīṣṭānāṃ sarveṣāṃ phalānāṃ saha pradātaḥ | ato vṛīhy-ādi-niṣpatty-arthaṃ he vṛṣan vṛṣṭi-pradendra no 'smad-arthaṃ amuṃ dṛśyamānaṃ caruṃ megham apā vṛdhi | udghāṭaya | tathaivāsmabhyam asmadarthaṃ apratiṣkutaḥ | prati-śabda-rahitaḥ | yad yasmābhir
yācyate tatra sarvatra neti prati-śabdaṃ noccārayasi | ato
'smad-viṣaye kadācid apy apratiṣkhalitaḥ | etad evābhipretya
yāska āha | apratiṣkuto 'pratiṣkrto 'pratiskhalito vā | ni. 2-16
| iti ||

Translation: "O Satrādāvan, together-giver of all the fruits we desire! Therefore, for the growing of rice, barley and the like, O Vṛṣan — O Indra, giver of rain — open (apā vṛdhi) for our sake this cloud (caruṃ) that is seen — uncloset it. And likewise be apraṭiṣkuta toward us, for our sake: without a prati-śabda (a counter-word); that is, in whatever is asked of us you never utter a 'no'; hence in our matter you are at no time obstructed. With just this in mind, Yāska says: 'apraṭiṣkuta is apraṭiṣkṛta, or apratiskhalita' (Nirukta 2-16)." ²⁷

original p. 280

Rik 6 continued

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सत्रादावन् (satrādāvan) — O giver of all our desired things! (for that very reason) | वृषन् (vṛṣan) — O Indra, giver of rain! | सः (त्वम्) (saḥ [tvam]) — such as you are | नः (naḥ) — for us | अमुम् (amum) — this, which is visible to our eyes | चरुम् (carum) — the cloud | अपा वृधि (apā vṛdhi) — cause it to rain | (for you) अस्मभ्यम् (asmabhyam) — for us, or in our regard | अप्रतिष्कृतः (apraṭiṣkutaḥ) — have never turned away [from us].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You are the one who fulfils all our desires. For that very reason, make the cloud that is now visible to our eyes in the sky pour down rain. You have never been one to refuse our prayer. ²⁸

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

27. The remainder of the Sanskrit on p. 280 — the grammar of वृषन्, अमुम्, चरुम्, सत्रादावन्,

अप, वृधि, अस्मभ्यम्, अप्रतिष्कृतः — is characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below; not transcribed.

28. The printed page carries no separate "English Translation" block for this rik; none is supplied here.

"Vṛṣan" — the giver of rain, the one who causes rain. In modern Sanskrit the word vṛṣa has several senses — bull, ox, "excellent," "full of manliness." In the Ṛgveda this word is used of Indra in many places.

original p. 281

"Carum" — अन्तरिक्षे चरतीति चरुः (antarikṣe caratīti caruḥ) — "that which moves in the atmosphere is caru": the cloud is called caru because it travels in the sky. Among the thirty names for 'cloud', beginning with adriḥ, the word caruḥ is listed (Nighaṇṭu 1-10 [?]).

"Satrādāvan" — the Bhāṣyakāra explains satrā as "together" (saha); thus "one who gives everything together." In the Nirukta, however, satrā is read among the six words for "truth" beginning with bāṭ (Nirukta 3-11 [?]). Therefore satrādāvan may also be understood as "one who truly gives (what we desire)."

"Apa" — for the convenience of the meter, the p-a of this word is lengthened in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha ²⁹.

"Apratiṣkutaḥ" — Yāska explains this in his Nirukta: apratīṣkuto 'pratiṣkṛto 'pratiskhalito vā — that is, one who does not reject [our prayer], who does not fail [to keep] his word.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ^{30 31}

- वृषन् (vṛṣan) — a vocative, hence unaccented (anudātta) by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]).
- अमुम् (amum) — the demonstrative adas in the accusative singular; final-udātta by its base (prātipadika) accent.

29. i.e., the Saṃhitā reads apā

30. Pp. 281–283. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:

31. Continuation of the Rik 6 grammar above — the long treatment of asmabhyam; page 283's first part completes the analysis of apratīṣkutaḥ and closes with the number ॥६॥.

- चरुम् (carum) — carati iti caruḥ; from root car ("to move; to eat") with the Uṇādi u suffix (Uṇ. 1-[?]); final-udātta by the suffix; accusative singular carum.
- सत्रादावन् (satrādāvan) — satrā ("together"), dā ("to give"), with vanip (Pā. 3-2-74); as the word begins the second pāda, the Aṣṭamādhyaī rule that unaccents a vocative does not apply, and it is initial-udātta by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 6-1-198).
- अप (apa) — a nipāta (particle), initial-udātta (Phiṭ-sūtra "80" [?]); lengthened in the mantra (Pā. 6-3-137 [?]) to apā.
- वृधि (vr̥dhi) — from vr̥ñ varāṇe ("to cover/choose"), i.e. apa-vr̥ṇu "uncover"; loṭ, second-person singular sip; hi in place of the ending; the śnu inserted by "svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ" (Pā. 3-1-73) and dropped by Vedic bahulaṃ chandasi; hi → dhi after śru, śr̥ṇu, pr, kṛ, vr̥ (Pā. 6-4-102); ñit so no guṇa; unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28).
- अस्मभ्यम् (asmabhyam) — asmad + bhyas, replaced by bhyam (Pā. 7-1-30); the "eight-fold" replacement is discussed at length; the end-letters of asmad drop (Pā. 7-2-90), with the vowel a lengthened/retained; the accent resolved by the rules on ekādeśa and anudātta-lopa. Characterized: the source is demonstrating that asma + bhyam is the correct analysis and answering an alternative (asmad + abhyam).
- अप्रतिष्कृतः (apratīṣkutaḥ) — "not answered back by anyone"; root ku śabde + kta with prati placed before, and the suṭ augment (Pā. 6-1-135 [?], "pāraskara-prabhṛtīni ca saṃjñāyām"); s→ṣ by "suṣāmādiṣu ca" (Pā. 8-3-98); nañ-compound; accent of the first member by "tatpuruṣe tulyārtha..." (Pā. 6-2-2).

Sūkta 7, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तुञ्जेतुञ्जे य उत्तरे स्तोमा इन्द्रस्य वज्रिणः । न विन्दे अस्य सुष्टुतिम् ॥७॥

tuñje-tuñje ya uttare stomā indrasya vajriṇaḥ | na vindhe asya suṣṭutim ||7||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³²

तुञ्जेऽतुञ्जे । ये । उत्तरे । स्तोमाः । इन्द्रस्य । वज्रिणः ॥ न । विन्दे । अस्य । सुऽस्तुतिम् ॥७॥

tuñje-tuñje | ye | ut-tare | stomāḥ | indrasya | vajriṇaḥ || na | vindhe | asya | su-stutim ||7||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

तुञ्जे तुञ्जे तस्मिन्स्तस्मिन्फलदातरि देवान्तरे ये स्तोमाः [?] स्तोत्रविशेषा उत्तरे उत्कृष्टाः सन्ति तैः स्तोमैः सर्वैरपि वज्रिणो वज्रयुक्तस्यास्येन्द्रस्य सुष्टुतिं योग्यां शोभनस्तुतिं न विन्दे । न विन्दामि । इन्द्रस्यात्यन्तगुणबाहुल्येन देवान्तरेषूत्तमत्वेन प्रसिद्धान्यपि स्तोत्राणि न पर्याप्तानीत्यर्थः । एतामृचं यास्क एवं व्याचष्टे । तुञ्जस्तुञ्जतेर्दानकर्मणः । दाने दाने य उत्तरे स्तोमा इन्द्रस्य वज्रिणो नास्य तैर्विन्दामि समाप्तिं स्तुतेः । नि. ६-१४ [?] । इति ॥

tuñje tuñje tasmin tasmin phala-dātari devāntare ye stomāḥ [?] stotra-viśeṣā uttare utkr̥ṣṭāḥ santi taiḥ stomaiḥ sarvair api vajriṇo vajra-yuktasyāsyendrasya suṣṭutiṃ yogyāṃ śobhana-stutiṃ na vindhe | na vindāmi | indrasyātyanta-guṇa-bāhulyena devāntareṣūttamatvena prasiddhāny api stotrāṇi na paryāptānīty arthaḥ | etām ṛcam yāska evaṃ vyācaṣṭe | tuñjas tuñjater dāna-karmaṇaḥ | dāne dāne ya uttare stomā indrasya vajriṇo nāsyā tair vindāmi samāptiṃ stuteḥ | nī. 6-14 [?] | iti ||

32. The pada line prints तुञ्जेतुञ्जे with an avagraha between the two halves, i.e. as a single repeated word.

Translation: "Tuñje tuñje: in each and every other deity, a giver of fruits, whatever stomas — special hymns of praise — are superior and excellent; with all those stomas I do not find (na vindhe, I do not obtain) a proper, fine praise (suṣṭuti) of this thunderbolt-bearing Indra. The sense: because of the extreme abundance of Indra's qualities, even those hymns famed as the best addressed to other gods are not sufficient. Yāska explains this rik thus: 'tuñja is from tuñjati, a verb of giving. In each giving, whatever superior stomas there are of Indra the vajrin — with them I do not find the completion of his praise' (Nirukta 6-14 [?])."

33 34 35

original p. 284

original p. 285

Rik 7

अथवा सुष्ठु स्तुवन्तीति सुष्ठुतय इति करणभूता ऋचः स्तुतिशब्देनोच्यन्ते । क्तिच्क्त्तौ च संज्ञायाम् । पा. ३-३-१७४ [?] । इति क्तिच्प्रत्यये सति चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तता भविष्यति । न च करणीभूतानामृचां कर्तृप्रत्ययेन क्रिया कथमभिधानमिति वाच्यम् । काष्ठानि पचन्तीतिवत्तासामपि स्वव्यापारप्राधान्यविवक्षया करणत्वोपपत्तेरिति ॥

33. The rest of the Sanskrit on pp. 284–285 is Sāyaṇa's grammar of तुञ्जे, उत्तरे, स्तोमाः, विन्धे,

अस्य, सुष्ठुतिम्, dominated by a long scholastic argument

(an objection and replies) on whether the prefix su in suṣṭutim is an upasarga whose presence causes

s to become ṣ and fixes the accent, or whether it qualifies the instrument of praise rather than the act of praising.

Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5); the conclusion that bears on the sense is given at the end of p. 285 and translated there.

34. Sanskrit continues: Yāska's gloss as above; then the word-by-word grammar of tuñje tuñje (doubling, the second member being āmredita and unaccented), uttare (from ud + root tṛ with ap ; ud meaning "excellent"), stomāḥ (from stu with man), vinde/vindhe (root vid lābhe; ātmanepada; the Vedic dh), asya, and then the opening of the suṣṭutim debate. Characterized as above.

*athavā suṣṭhu stuvantīti suṣṭutaya iti karaṇa-bhūtā ṛcaḥ stuti-śabdenocyante | ktic-ktau ca saṃjñāyām | pā. 3-3-174 [?] | iti ktic-pratyaye sati cittvād antodāttatā bhaviṣyati | na ca karaṇībhūtānām ṛcām kartṛ-pratyayena kriyā katham abhidhānam iti vācyam | kāṣṭhāni pacantīti-vat tāsām api sva-
vyāpāra-prādhānya-vivakṣayā karaṇatvopapatter iti | |*

Translation: "Or else, in the analysis 'those which praise well — suṣṭutayaḥ', the ṛks that are the instruments [of praise] are called by the word stuti. By the sūtra 'ktic-ktau ca saṃjñāyām' (Pā. 3-3-174 [?]), when the suffix ktic is added, final-udātta accent results, because of the marker c. Nor should it be objected: 'how can ṛks that are mere instruments be spoken of by an agent-suffix, as doing the act?' — for, as in 'kāṣṭhāni pacanti' ('the logs cook'), where the log, though instrumental to cooking, is given independence in its own function (svatantraḥ kartā, Pā. 1-4-54), in the same way, taking the activity of the ṛks as principal, their instrumentality is perfectly consistent even though an agent-suffix is used." ³⁶

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

तुञ्जे तुञ्जे (tuñje tuñje) — in (the other deities who bestow the fruit of) [each] | उत्तरे (uttare) — excellent | ये स्तोमाः (ye stomāḥ) — whatever hymns (there are) [those, with them] | वज्रिणः (vajriṇaḥ) — [of him] who holds the thunderbolt | अस्य इन्द्रस्य (asya indrasya) — of this Indra (in regard to) | सुष्टुतिम् (suṣṭutim) — the excellent hymn | न विन्द्ये (na vindhe) — it is not possible to obtain (to compose).

35. First lines: the suṣṭutim debate concludes that the su qualifies the instrument [karaṇa] of praise; as a closing note Sāyaṇa adds the alternative analysis of the word. The Sanskrit tail of the page is translated here.

36. The sūtra reference is as it appears in the Kannada print; the same sūtra is cited in the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā on p. 290 — see below.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

However excellent the hymns we make to the other deities, who bestow many fruits on me, those hymns do not amount to a good praise of the thunderbolt-bearing Indra. That is: the hymns we make toward other deities may be very excellent; but in the case of Indra, since those hymns are incapable of describing the excess of Indra's qualities, they do not count as excellent. The sense is that to praise Indra, hymns far more excellent than those of other deities are required.

original p. 286

॥ English Translation ॥

Whatever praise-hymns are excellent for rewarding (other deity) I cannot find (even with these hymns) a hymn good enough to Lord Indra, the weilder of thunderbolt.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Tuñje-tuñje"

— Yāska in the Nirukta explains this rik as follows:

तुञ्जस्तुञ्जतेर्दानकर्मणः । दाने दाने य उत्तरे स्तोमा इन्द्रस्य वज्रिणो नास्य तैर्विन्दामि
समाप्तिं स्तुतेः । *tuñjas tuñjater dāna-karmaṇaḥ | dāne dāne ya uttare stomā indrasya vajriṇo nāsyā tair vindāmi samāptim
stuteḥ* | "Tuñja is from tuñjati, a verb of giving. In each giving, whatever superior stomas there are of Indra the vajrin — with them I do not find the end of the praise of him."

That is, the word tuñja means giving, bestowing. The word tuñje-tuñje in this rik means "in regard to the deity who gives fruits." Since the word tuñje is printed twice, it means "in regard to every deity" — that is, all the deities. However excellent the hymns used for other deities (other than Indra), they are not enough for Indra; more are needed. As one says, "enough of this praise of Indra; it has come to its end," — however much one praises, the qualities of Indra remain more; there is no end to them.

"Uttare" — this word has two separate parts, ut + tare. The Bhāṣyakāra explains it thus: uttare — tvaplavana-taraṇayoḥ (the root tṛ, "to cross/swim") — bhāve khudoror ap (Pā. 3-3-57 [?]) — ut means "excellent"; utkr̥ṣṭas taro yasya — a bahuvrihi: "one whose crossing is excellent." The word tara is formed from the root tṛ. Ut means "excellent." Hence the word ut-tara = uttara means "more excellent."

"Suṣṭutim" or "Sustutim" — stūyate 'nayeti stutiḥ — "that by which one praises is a stuti." By the word su the instrument is qualified, not the meaning of the root. Or: suṣṭhu stuvantīti suṣṭutayaḥ — "the ṛks that are the instruments are called by the word stuti." That is, stuti is the name for praising; suṣṭuti means "praising well," or, because the ṛks praise well, such mantras or ṛks are customarily called stuti.

original p. 287

Rik 7: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁷ ³⁸

- तुञ्जेतुञ्जे (tuñje-tuñje) — Yāska glosses tuñja as a root of giving (Nirukta 6-17/18 [?]); the root tuñj takes the ac suffix (Pā. 3-1-134, the pacādi class); the ac being cit, the word is final-udātta; locative singular tuñje; doubling by "nityavīpsayoh" (Pā. 8-1-4); the second member has the technical name āmreḍita (Pā. 8-1-2) and is unaccented (Pā. 8-1-3). dātari dātari = "in each giver"; the gloss in the

37. Pp. 287–290. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:

38. Characterized, not transcribed. The argument, in outline, as the Kannada commentary gives it:

Nirukta is dāne dāne ("in each giving") — a gloss which, the source says, should be understood as a gloss on the sense, setting aside the suffix's sense.

- उत्तरे (uttare) — root tṛ (plavana-taraṇayoḥ), suffix ap by "bhāve" with the meaning of an abstract; ut is a nipāta so initial-udāṭṭa; as a bahuvrīhi it keeps the first member's accent.
- स्तोमाः (stomāḥ) — stu + man (Uṇ. 1-142 [?]); nīt so initial-udāṭṭa.
- विन्दे (vindhe) — root vid lābhe + laṭ; ātmanepada; first-person singular iṭ; śa-vikaraṇa of the tudādi class; muc-ādi class num; Vedic dh for d; guṇa by Pā. 6-1-97 [?].
- अस्य (asya) — idam standing for Indra, the matter in hand; idam → aś by Pā. 2-4-32 [?]; aś being śit, the substitute replaces the whole word.

original pp. 288–290

Rik 7: the suṣṭutim debate (grammar)

Page 288. The word सुष्टुतिम् (suṣṭutim) is built from the root ṣṭu ñ stutau ("to praise") and the prefix su; the opening sūtras explain how the root's initial s becomes ṣ (the ṣatva rule that operates after an upasarga) and why the form ends up final-udāṭṭa (a ktin feminine abstract; the initial su is an udāṭṭa upasarga and prādi-samāsa — a compound with a "prefix" — applies by "kugati-prādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18). Kāśikākāra is cited as taking the word kārakāt ("after a kāraka") as carried over by anuvṛtti in the accent-sūtra, so that only items following a kāraka count; the source argues this leaves the form without the required accent.

Page 289. The discussion pursues whether su here is an upasarga (and so induces ṣatva) at all. The argument runs: an upasarga must be connected to a verbal action; su here qualifies the karāṇa (instrument — the stuti), and therefore, in this view, is not connected to the verbal meaning; the ṣatva would then be unjustified. The reply is that su qualifies the instrument by way of the verbal meaning of stu, and so is an upasarga after all. The Bhāṣyakāra's analysis is shown consistent with the Vṛttikāra's example of su in su-ṣtutim. The page ends in a sub-argument about whether the double qualification (of the root and of the suffix-sense) operates simultaneously, successively, or by repetition (āvṛtti) — "whether su qualifies both, together or in sequence."

Page 290. Sub-arguments continue and are answered; the conclusion drawn is that even if the ṣatva were not available by the upasarga route, Vedic license (chāndasa) settles it. The page then offers the second analysis — suṣtu stuvantīti suṣtutayaḥ — in which the ṣatva needs no special justification, with the ktic suffix (Pā. 3-3-174 [?]) in an agent sense and the cit-accent (Pā. 6-1-163) giving final-udātta; and it answers the objection of how instrumental ṛks can be spoken of with an agent suffix by the "kāṣṭhāni pacanti" analogy: the activity of the ṛks is treated as principal (svatantraḥ kartā, Pā. 1-4-54), so their instrumental role is consistent.³⁹

॥७॥

Sūkta 7, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वृषा यूथेव वंसगः कृष्टीरियत्योजसा । ईशानो अप्रतिष्कृतः ॥८॥

*vṛṣā yūtheva vaṃsagaḥ kṛṣṭīr iyarty ojasā | īśāno
apraṭiṣkutaḥ || 8 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥⁴⁰

³⁹. This closing passage is the Kannada rendering of what is already translated above from Sāyaṇa on p. 285.

⁴⁰. The pada line prints यूथा and इव joined by an avagraha; the form is read here as yūthā + iva, matching the Kannada Viśeṣa-viśaya note on yūtheva below.

वृषा । यूथाऽइव । वंसगः । कृष्टीः । इयर्ति । ओजसा ॥ ईशानः । अप्रतिऽस्कृतः ॥८॥
 vṛṣā | yūthā-iva | vaṃsagaḥ | kṛṣṭīḥ | iyarti | ojasā | | īśānaḥ
 | aprati-skutaḥ | | 8 | |

original p. 291

Rik 8: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

वृषा कामानां वर्षितेन्द्र ओजसा स्वकीयबलेनानुग्रहीतुं कृष्टीर्मनुष्यानि यर्ति । प्राप्नोति । कीदृश
 इन्द्रः । ईशानः समर्थो ऽप्रतिष्कृतः प्रतिशब्दरहितः । यो याच्यमानं [?] न परिहरतीत्यर्थः । इन्द्रस्य दृष्टान्तः । वंसगो वननीयगतिर्वृषभो यूथेव गौयूथानि यथा प्राप्नोति तद्वत् ॥

vṛṣā kāmānām varṣitendra ojasā svakīya-balenānugrahītum
 kṛṣṭīr manuṣyān iyarti | prāpnoti | kīdrśa indraḥ | īśānaḥ
 samartho 'pratiṣkutaḥ prati-śabda-rahitaḥ | yo yācyamānam
 [?] na pariharatīty arthaḥ | indrasya dṛṣṭāntaḥ | vaṃsago vananīya-gatir vṛṣabho yūtheva go-yūthāni yathā prāpnoti
 tadvat | |

Translation: "Indra, the showerer (varṣitā) of desires, with his own strength (ojasā), in order to favour them, approaches (iyarti — reaches) the kṛṣṭīḥ, the people. What kind of Indra? īśānaḥ — the capable, the lord; apraṭiṣkutaḥ — without a counter-word; that is, he who does not turn away from what is asked of him [the word read as yācyamānam is compressed in the scan; the sense fits Sāyaṇa's gloss on Rik 6]. An illustration for Indra: the vaṃsaga — the bull of lovely gait — as [a bull] goes to its herds, the herds of cows, so [Indra goes to people]." ⁴¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

41. The remainder of Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit — grammar of वृषा, यूथा

इव, वंसगः, कृष्टीः, इयर्ति, ओजसा,

ईशानः, अप्रतिष्कृतः — is characterized with the Kannada

Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below.

वृषा (vr̥ṣā) — the bestower of what is desired | ईशानः (īśānaḥ) — the capable one | अप्रतिष्कृतः (apraṭiṣkutaḥ) — Indra, who has no rival to oppose him | वंसगः (vaṃsagaḥ) — a bull (the leader of a herd of cows) | यूथा इव (yūthā iva) — as it goes toward its herd (of cows) | कृष्टीः (kr̥ṣṭīḥ) — to human beings | ओजसा (ojasā) — with his strength and might | इयर्ति (iyarti) — reaches (that is, comes near to men).

original p. 292

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra is the one who fulfils the desires of men; he is all-capable; he has no rival — he is apraṭiṣkuta. Such an Indra goes near men as a bull, the leader of a herd of cattle, goes toward its herd.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra, granter of all desires, the lord unopposed and the mighty approaches men with his strength like a bull walking towards his herds.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The main sense:

Indra is the lord, all-capable, and none can oppose his word. Such an Indra, by the might he has, comes near men in order to grant people's desired ends. As a bull that is attached to the welfare of its herd goes near the herd to protect it, so Indra, being attached to our welfare, will come near us. That is the sense.

"Vr̥ṣā" — kāmānāṃ varṣitā: "the one who showers desires." Varṣitā means "one who causes rain to fall"; that is, the one who rains down the desires of the people — the granter of what is wished.

"Yūtheva" — here the word-division is yūthā iva. In the Ṛgveda the word iva is not counted as a separate word but is customarily read together with the word it belongs to. By this, as the Bhāṣyakāra says (vibhakter lopah), the case-ending of the principal word suffers no obstruction of any kind; that is, if the two words yūthā and iva are present, the meaning that belongs to them is the same for the single combined word. Examples: अग्नेरिव (agner iva, = agneḥ iva); अजेव (ajeva, = ajā iva); अञ्जसेव (añjaseva, = añjasā iva); अप्रशस्ता इव (aprasastā iva, = aprasastāḥ iva); अभ्रमिव (abhram iva, = abhraṃ iva); अमृतादिव (amṛtād iva, = amṛtāt iva), and so on. The word yūthā is derived from the root yu "to join, to mix"; yuvanti miśrībhavantīti yūthāni — "those that join, that mix together, are yūthas." In the Veda the final syllable ni is dropped, so yūthā appears.

"Vamṣagaḥ" — वननीयगतिर्वृषभः (vananīya-gatir vṛṣabhaḥ) — "the bull of lovely gait," the leader of the herd, the chief; leader; protector:

"Kṛṣṭīḥ" — कर्षन्तीति कृष्टयः (karṣantīti kṛṣṭayah) — "those who plough" — those who till, who cultivate (by ploughing the earth). This word is accusative plural.

"Īśānaḥ" — a form of the root īśa aiśvārye ("to be master"); the lord; the all-capable.

original p. 293

"Apratiṣkutaḥ" — Sāyaṇa's gloss: अप्रतिशब्दितः । कु शब्दे । कर्मणि क्तः ॥ (apratīśabditaḥ | ku śabde | karmaṇi ktaḥ | |) — "one to whom no counter-word is spoken; [root] ku in the sense of sound; kta in the passive." That is, the root ku means "to make a sound." The word apratīṣkutaḥ, formed from this root, means apratīśabditaḥ — one whose word has no opposition, no equal, who is unobstructed.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴² 43

- वृषा (vṛṣā) — from root vṛṣu secane ("to sprinkle, shower") with karṣi-type suffix per an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 1-[?]); it is kit so no guṇa; the suffix's initial letter is udātta.
- यूथा इव (yūthā iva) — root yu miśraṇāmiśraṇayoḥ ("to join, to separate") with thak, formed irregularly (nipātita) by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 2-[?]); the long vowel arises from that irregularity; ā is udātta by the suffix; the nominative jas replaced by śi; the resulting ni dropped by Vedic bahulam (Pā. 6-1-70 [?]); the compound with iva (ivena samāsaḥ vibhakty-alopaḥ pūrvapadaprakṛtisvaratvaṃ ca vaktavyam, Pā. 2-1-4 vārttika) keeps the first member's accent.
- वंसगः (vaṃsagaḥ) — a prṣodarādi form (Pā. 6-3-109): the desired shape and accent are established.
- कृष्टीः (kṛṣṭīḥ) — karṣanti iti kṛṣṭayaḥ; ktic suffix by "ktic-ktau ca saṃjñāyām" (Pā. 3-3-174); final-udātta by cit (Pā. 6-1-163).
- इयति (iyarti) — root ṛ ("to go") + laṭ, third singular tip; śap then śluḥ by "juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ" (Pā. 2-4-75); doubling (Pā. 6-1-10); reduplication rules (Pā. 7-4-60, 7-4-66, 7-4-77); īyaṇ for the reduplicate i by "abhyāsasyāsavarṇe" (Pā. 6-4-78); guṇa with raparatva → iyarti. The source remarks that "according to Bālaṃmanoramākāra," ur at does not apply here and the ir of the reduplicate is justified directly by "arti-pipartyoś ca" (Pā. 7-4-77); Vedic commentary (Vedabhāṣya) confirms the first analysis.

42. Pp. 293–294. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:

43. Completes the grammar above, ending with the accent of apraṭiṣkutaḥ and the number ॥८॥.

- ओजसा (ojasā) — root ubja ārjave ("to be straight/strong"); asun with loss of b by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 4-[?]) in the sense of bala (strength); guṇa then laghūpadha-guṇa (Pā. 7-3-86); final-udātta by the suffix's nī.
- ईशानः (iśānaḥ) — root īśa aiśvarye + śānac in place of laṭ by "laṭaḥ śatr̥śānacau"; śap dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ"; the cī suffix would give final-udātta (Pā. 6-1-163), but the root is anudātteṭ so the following sārvadhātuka ending śānac is unaccented, and the dhātu-accent remains (Pā. 6-1-186).
- अप्रतिष्कृतः (apraṭiṣkutaḥ) — "one who has nothing answering"; root ku śabde + kta in the passive sense with prati before; suṭ by "pāraskarādīni ca saṃjñāyām" (Pā. 6-1-157 [?]) — the pāraskarādi group is an ākṛti-gaṇa (a class identified by its character), the word is to be counted in it; s→ṣ by "suṣāmādiṣu ca" (Pā. 8-3-98), also an ākṛti-gaṇa; prati-ṣkuta, then the naṇ compound a-pratiṣkuta; accent of the first member by "tatpuruṣe tulyārtha..." (Pā. 6-2-2).

original p. 294

॥८॥

Sūkta 7, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

य एकश्चर्षणीनां वसूनामिरज्यति । इन्द्रः पञ्च क्षितीनाम् ॥९॥

ya ekaś carṣaṇīnām vasūnām irajyati | indraḥ pañca kṣitīnām
 ||9||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यः । एकः । चर्षणीनाम् । वसूनाम् । इरज्यति ॥ इन्द्रः । पञ्च । क्षितीनाम् ॥९॥

yaḥ | ekaḥ | carṣaṇīnām | vasūnām | irajyati || indraḥ |
pañca | kṣitīnām ||9||

Rik 9: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

य इन्द्रः स्वयमेक एव चर्षणीनां मनुष्याणामिरज्यति ईष्टे । तथा वसूनां धनानामिरज्यति स इन्द्रः पञ्च निषादपञ्चमानां क्षितीनां निवासार्हाणां वर्णानामनुग्रहीतेति शेषः ॥ ya indraḥ svayam eka eva carṣaṇīnām manuṣyāṇām irajyati

īṣṭe | tathā vasūnām dhanānām irajyati sa indraḥ pañca niṣāda-pañcamānām kṣitīnām nivāsārhanām varṇānām
anugrahīteti śeṣaḥ | |

Translation: "That Indra who is, by himself alone, the ruler (irajyati, īṣṭe) of the carṣaṇīs — of human beings — and likewise the ruler of the vasus — of riches: that Indra is the bestower of favour (anugrahītā — this is the word to be supplied to complete the sentence) on the five kṣitis — the five classes of those fit to dwell [on earth], of which the fifth is the Niṣādas." ⁴⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

यः इन्द्रः (yaḥ indraḥ) — which Indra | चर्षणीनाम् (carṣaṇīnām) — of men also | वसूनाम् (vasūnām) — of riches also | इरज्यति (irajyati) — is the lord of | (सः) इन्द्रः एकः ((saḥ) indraḥ ekaḥ) — that Indra alone | पञ्च क्षितीनाम् (pañca kṣitīnām) — of the five classes of people (called Brāhmaṇa, Kṣatriya, Vaiśya, Śūdra, Niṣāda) [the bestower of favour].

44. Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar of एकः, चर्षणीनाम्, वसूनाम्, इरज्यति, पञ्च, क्षितीनाम् — concerning the kan suffix on in ("to go"), the accent of carṣaṇi, the u suffix of vasu, the yak suffix of irajyati, and the final-udātta of kṣiti — follows on p. 295 and is characterized with the Kannada grammar below.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra is not only the lord of all men and of riches and other wealth, but is also the bestower of favour on the five classes of people who dwell among men.

॥ English Translation ॥

That Indra who alone rules over men, over riches (favours) the five classes of men (tribes).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

A supplied word. Since this rik has no verb for its principal sentence, the Bhāṣyakāra supplies the word anugrahītā — "one who bestows favour." But the matters stated in this rik continue into the next rik, so if the two riks are read together the sense fits. It is clear that the intent is: "we invoke Indra, who is endowed with the qualities stated in this rik." There is no difficulty in supplying the word anugrahītā as the Bhāṣyakāra does.

"Ekaḥ"

— one alone; only one; the sense that others do not have that capacity.

"Carṣaṇīnām" — to men, to people; Folk, people, race, etc.

"Vasūnām"

— to riches, to wealth.

"Irajyati" — is the authority, is the lord. At Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-46-17 [?] it is said, viśveṣām irajyantaṃ vasūnām — "the ruler of all riches." There too the sense is "lord of all wealth and the like"; so the word irajyati means "is the lord" — to order; to rule over.

"Pañca kṣitīnām" — the word kṣitayaḥ is read among the twenty-five names for human beings beginning with manuṣyāḥ, narāḥ (Nirukta 2-3 [?]; the count "ಇಪ್ಪತ್ತೈದು" = twenty-five is the source's). Pañca kṣitīnām means pañca janānām — "of the five peoples." For this phrase:

- the Bhāṣyakāra says: निषादपञ्चमानाम् (niṣāda-pañcamānām) — "of those of whom the Niṣādas are the fifth";
- Skandasvāmī says: kṣitīnām manuṣya-jātīnām gandharvāḥ pitaro devā ity etāsām — "of the kṣitis, the human kinds: the Gandharvas, the Fathers, the gods..." [the list as the source prints it is incomplete];
- Veṅkaṭamādhava gives: मनुष्याणां पञ्चानां क्षितीनां निवसतां गन्धर्वाः पितरो देवा असुरा रक्षांसि पञ्चत्वम् (manuṣyāṇām pañcānām kṣitīnām nivasatām gandharvāḥ pitaro devā asurā rakṣāṃsīti pañcatvam) — "of the five peoples dwelling [among] men — the fivefold being: Gandharvas, Fathers, gods, Asuras, Rākṣasas."

In Sāyaṇa's view, then, kṣitīnām means the people of the five castes fit to dwell on the earth — Brāhmaṇa, Kṣatriya, Vaiśya, Śūdra, Niṣāda. Niṣādas means those who are not counted among the four varṇas beginning with the Brāhmaṇas, and who live by hunting animals. The Gonds, Kolas, Bhillas and others — early inhabitants of this land —

original p. 297

— belong to this group. Even today they dwell, in very small numbers, in only some places such as the Central Provinces ⁴⁵. The words pañca janāḥ and pañcakṣitīḥ occur in many places in the Ṛgveda: ⁴⁶

45. as the source says

46. For the last two riks the Devanagari is a best reading from compressed Kannada print; the translations given are plain word-sense renderings, not the source's. Numbers uncertain.

कदद्य [?] वाचः प्रथमं मसीय येनासुराँ अभि देवा असाम । ऊर्जाद उत यज्ञियासः पञ्च जना मम होत्रं जुषध्वम् ॥

kadadya [?] vācaḥ prathamam masīya yenāsurāṁ abhi devā asāma | ūrjāda uta yajñiyāsaḥ pañca janā mama hotram juṣadhvam | |

(Ṛgveda Saṁhitā 10-53-4 [?]) ("What shall I now first [do] of speech, by which we gods may overcome the Asuras? O strength-eaters and worthy-of-sacrifice, five peoples, take pleasure in my offering." — first word of the first line uncertain in the scan.)

पञ्च जना मम होत्रं जुषन्तां गोजाता उत ये यज्ञियासः ॥ pañca janā mama hotram juṣantām gojātā uta ye yajñiyāsaḥ | | (Ṛgveda Saṁhitā 10-53-5 [?]) ("Let the five peoples take pleasure in my offering — the cow-born, and those worthy of sacrifice.")

सद्यश्चिद्यः शवसा पञ्चकृष्टीः सूर्य इव ज्योतिषापस्ततान ॥ [?] sadyas cid yaḥ śavasā pañca kṛṣṭīḥ sūrya iva jyotiṣāpas tatāna | | [?] (Ṛgveda Saṁhitā 10-116-3 [?]) ("He who at once, with might, [spread over] the five peoples, as the sun spreads the waters with his light.")

Yāska's explanation of the words pañca janāḥ and pañca kṛṣṭayaḥ, in his Nirukta (as printed in the source in Kannada script):

पञ्च जना मम होत्रं जुषध्वं गन्धर्वाः पितरो देवा असुरा रक्षांसीत्येके । चत्वारो वर्णा निषादः पञ्चम इत्यौपमन्यवः । निषादः कस्मान्निषदनो भवति निषण्णमस्मिन् पापकमिति नैरुक्ताः ॥ इति ॥

pañca janā mama hotram juṣadhvam gandharvāḥ pitaro devā asurā rakṣāṁsīty eke | catvāro varṇā niṣādaḥ pañcama ity aupamanyavaḥ | niṣādaḥ kasmān niṣadano bhavati niṣaṇṇam asmin pāpakam iti nairuktāḥ | | iti | |

Translation: "Five peoples, take pleasure in my offering': some say [these are] the Gandharvas, the Fathers, the gods, the Asuras, the Rākṣasas. 'The four varṇas, with the Niṣāda as the fifth,' say the followers of Aupamanyava. Why is the Niṣāda so called? Because he is a niṣadana — 'in him evil is settled' — say the etymologists (nairuktāḥ)."

The Kannada commentary on this: Some say the "five peoples" are the Gandharvas, the Fathers, the gods, the Asuras and the Rākṣasas. The view of Aupamanyava and others is that the five are the four varṇas beginning with the Brāhmaṇas, plus the people of the hunter caste called Niṣāda ⁴⁷. Niṣāda means those who kill animals, or — because evil is said to be full in them — it is for this reason the etymologists call them Niṣādas. Besides, there may have been five principal tribes at that time; the poet may have said pañca kṣitīnām with just this idea in mind. In any case, it is clear that even in the time of Yāska, the author of the Nirukta, there was a difference of opinion on this matter.

⁴⁸

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴⁹ ⁵⁰

- एकः (ekah) — from root iṇ gatau ("to go") with the suffix kan (Uṇ. 3-43 [?]), giving i + ka; because of the Uṇādi bahulam provision, the k of kan is not given it-status (despite Pā. 1-3-8); guṇa then yields eka; the suffix is nit, so the word is initial-udātta.
- चर्षणीनाम् (carṣaṇīnām) — carṣaṇi is a prātipadika meaning "man" (Phiṭ-sūtra 1 [?]), which is final-udātta by its base accent; before the genitive-plural ām, the augment nuṭ

⁴⁷. Sāyaṇa has approved just this

⁴⁸. A note for the Volume 2 table of contents: the printed contents list the explanation of "Pañcakṣiti" and "Pañcājana" at p. 296; it begins there and runs to this page.

⁴⁹. Pp. 297–298. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:

arises (Pā. 6-4-3 [?]) after a stem ending in a long-ī-class vowel; lengthening of the preceding vowel (Pā. 6-4-3); nāmanyatarasyām (Pā. 6-1-177 [?]) makes the case-ending optionally udātta.

- वसूनाम् (vasūnām) — vasu formed with the suffix u (Uṇ. 1-10 [?]) from the root vas ("to dwell") among others, thus nit, hence the first vowel is udātta.
- इरज्यति (irajyati) — root irajya (in the kaṇḍvādi list: īrja īrṣyāyām, "to be jealous") — with several senses in the dhātupāṭha, so here the sense is "lordship" (aiśvarya); the suffix yak by "kaṇḍvādibhyo yak" (Pā. 3-1-27); laṭ, third singular tip; irajyati is final-udātta by the suffix-accent.
- पञ्च (pañca) — root paci vyaktīkarāṇe ("to spread out, make clear"); num because the root is it-marked; kanin suffix giving pañcan; initial-udātta; the jas ending is deleted by "ṣaḍbhyo luk" (Pā. 7-1-22 [?]) and the n by "na lopah prātīpadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7), giving pañca.
- क्षितीनाम् (kṣitīnām) — kṣitīḥ (Phiṭ-sūtra 1 [?]) final-udātta by its base accent; the genitive-plural ending udātta by "nāmanyatarasyām" (Pā. 6-1-177 [?]).

original p. 298

॥९॥

Sūkta 7, Rik 10 (the last)

original p. 299

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रं वो विश्वतस्परि हवामहे जनेभ्यः । अस्माकमस्तु केवलः ॥१०॥

indram vo viśvatas pari havāmahe janebhyaḥ | asmākam astu kevalaḥ || 10 ||

50. Completes the Rik 9 grammar above, ending with the accent of kṣitīnām and the number ॥९॥.

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रम् । वः । विश्वतः । परि । हवामहे । जनेभ्यः ॥ अस्माकम् । अस्तु । केवलः ॥१०॥

indram | vaḥ | viśvataḥ | pari | havāmahe | janebhyaḥ | |
asmākam | astu | kevalaḥ | | 10 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

(Application of the rik.)

आश्विनं शंसिष्यन्निन्द्रं वो विश्वतस्परीति जुहुयात् । संस्थितेष्वश्विनाय स्तुवत इति खण्डे
 बण्महौ असि सूर्येति [?] द्वाभ्यामिन्द्रं वो विश्वतस्परि । आ. २-५ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् ॥
 चतुर्विंशे ऽहनि प्रातःसवने ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिन इन्द्रं वो विश्वतस्परीत्यारम्भणीया । चतुर्विंश इत्युपक्रम्य ऋजुनीती नो वरुण इन्द्रं वो विश्वतस्परि । आ. ७-२ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् ॥

āśvinam śaṃsiṣyann indram vo viśvatas parīti juhuyāt | saṃsthiteṣv āśvināya stuvata iti khaṇḍe baṇ mahām asi sūryeti [?] dvābhyām indram vo viśvatas pari | ā. 2-5 [?] | iti
sūtritām | | caturviṃśe 'hani prātaḥsavane
brāhmaṇācchaṃsina indram vo viśvatas parity ārambhaṇīyā | caturviṃśa ity upakramya ṛjunīti no varuṇa indram vo
viśvatas pari | ā. 7-2 [?] | iti sūtritām | |

Translation: "One who is about to recite the Āśvina[-śāstra] should make the offering with 'indram vo viśvatas pari'. In the section [beginning] 'saṃsthiteṣv āśvināya stuvate,' with the two [riks] 'baṇ mahām asi sūrya [?]' [and] 'indram vo viśvatas pari' — so it is laid down (Āśvalāyana 2-5 [?]). On the twenty-fourth day, at the morning pressing, 'indram vo viśvatas pari' is the opening [rik] for the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin; beginning from 'on the twenty-fourth,' it is so laid down: 'ṛjunīti no varuṇa, indram vo viśvatas pari' (Āśvalāyana 7-2 [?])." ⁵¹

51. The citation numbers are compressed in the scan; the bracketed first quotation, rendered "baṇ mahām asi sūrya", is the best reading of the Kannada letters.

हे ऋत्विग्यजमाना विश्वतः सर्वेभ्यो जनेभ्यः परि उपर्यवस्थितमिन्द्रं वो युष्मदर्थं हवामहे ।
आह्वयामः । अतः स इन्द्रो ऽस्माकं केवलो ऽसाधारणो ऽस्तु । इतरेभ्यो ऽप्यधिकमनुग्रहमस्मासु करोत्वित्यर्थः ॥

*he ṛtvig-yajamānā viśvataḥ sarvebhyo janebhyaḥ pari uparyavasthitam indraṃ vo yuṣmad-arthaṃ havāmahe |
āhvayāmaḥ | ataḥ sa indro 'smākaṃ kevalo 'sādhāraṇo 'stu |
itarebhyo 'py adhikam anugraham asmāsu karotv ity arthaḥ
||*

Translation: "O priests and sacrificers! [From] viśvataḥ — above all men, pari — standing above — we call Indra for you (vaḥ, on your behalf); we summon him. Therefore, let that Indra be ours alone (kevalaḥ), unshared; the sense is: 'Let him grant us favour even more than to others.'" ⁵²

॥१०॥ ॥२॥ ⁵³

original p. 300

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(O priests and sacrificers, you people!) विश्वतः जनेभ्यः (viśvataḥ janebhyaḥ) — than all people | परि (pari) — greater | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | वः (vaḥ) — for you (on your behalf) | हवामहे (havāmahe) — we invoke | (that Indra) अस्माकम् (asmākam) — to us | केवलः (kevalaḥ) — as the bestower of greater favour (as the chief beloved) | अस्तु (astu) — may he be.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

52. Sāyaṇa's grammar of इन्द्रम्, वः, विश्वतः,

परि, हवामहे, जनेभ्यः, अस्माकम्,

केवलः follows on this page; characterized with the Kannada grammar below.

53. The Sanskrit ends with the rik-number "10" and a second marker read as "2" [?]. This fits the close of the second anuvāka, of which this sūkta is the last, though the source does not annotate it.

O people — priests, sacrificers and the rest! Indra is greater than all people, or is [present] everywhere. We invoke such an Indra on your behalf (here, i.e., to this sacrificial ground). May that Indra be to us the chief bestower of favour, or the one we need.

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁵⁴

We [in]voke for you Indra (who is) above all men. May he be exclusively [o]ur own.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

This rik is found in the Sāma Veda 1630 [?]; Atharvaveda 20-69-1 [?], 20-70-16 [?]; Taittirīya Saṃhitā 1-6-12-1 [?]; Maitrāyaṇīya Saṃhitā 4-11-4 [?]. ⁵⁵ If read together with the previous rik, the sense fits correctly. This mantra is used for invoking Indra — in the invocation of the eight guardians of the directions (aṣṭadikpālakas) in rites such as the worship of the nine planets (navagrahārādhanā) prescribed in the household-rite texts (gr̥hya), and in other occasions.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ^{56 57}

- इन्द्रम् (indram) — from root idi paramaiśvarye ("to be supremely lordly") with the ran suffix by the Uṇādi sūtra r̥jrendrāgra... (Uṇ. 2-[?]); initial-udātta by the nit suffix.
- वः (vah) — unaccented by the rule on the "unaccented, in the middle of a pāda" (Pā. 8-1-18/19 [?]); vas substituted for yuṣmān/yuṣmabhyam/yuṣmākam (Pā. 8-1-21); the second/

54. as printed in the source; the scan prints "imoke" and "onr" for "invoke" and "own"

55. Numerals compressed in the scan; all given with reservation.

56. Pp. 300–301. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:

57. This page carries the last two entries of the Rik 10 grammar, above:

the explanation of the loss of ṭi in asmākam and the accent of kevalaḡ; it ends with the number ॥१०॥, followed by a printed ornament marking the end of the sūkta.

fourth/sixth plural forms of yuṣmad and asmad take vas and nas in turn, these being unaccented. The source's example: for yuṣmabhyam an unaccented vas is substituted.

- विश्वतः (viśvataḥ) — tasīl by "pañcamyās tasīl" (Pā. 5-3-7); liti (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]) makes the letter before tasīl udātta.
- परि (pari) — a nipāta, initial-udātta. In the Saṃhitā-pāṭha, with viśvataḥ and pari, the visarga of viśvataḥ becomes s by Pā. 8-3-[?] (pañcamyāḥ parāv adhyarthe, 8-3-51): the visarga of the fifth-case form before pari in the sense "above" becomes s, giving viśvataspari.
- हवामहे (havāmahe) — as on Rik 5.
- जनेभ्यः (janebhyaḥ) — janyante ("those who are born") = janāḥ; root jan + ṇic; before the ending the ṇi drops (Pā. 6-4-51); ṇic as the cause, "ata upadhāyāḥ" (Pā. 7-2-116) would give vṛddhi but "janivadhyoś ca" (Pā. 7-3-35) blocks vṛddhi in jan and vadh when a cit/ñit/ṇit suffix follows; ghaṇ is kṛt; "jñādi-ni rtyam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]) — the word is final-udātta.
- अस्माकम् (asmākam) — asmad + ām (genitive plural); by "sāma ākam" (Pā. 7-1-33) ākam replaces sām; the end of asmad drops by "śeṣe lopah" (Pā. 7-2-90); ā-kam with the initial-udātta by the single-substitute rule (Pā. 8-2-5); the alternative analysis is the same as in the loss of ṭi.
- केवलः (kevalaḥ) — initial-udātta by being counted in the vṛṣādi class, which is an ākṛti-gaṇa (a class identified by its character).

original p. 301

Sūkta 7 ends

॥१०॥

End of Sūkta 7.

original p. 302

॥ ಎಂಟನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 8 — "ā indra sānasim rayim" ("The Eighth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

ತೃತೀಯೇ ಽನುವಾಕೇ ಚತ್ವಾರಿ ಸೂಕ್ತಾನಿ । ತತ್ರೇಂದ್ರ ಸಾನಸಿಮಿತ್ಯಾದಿಕಂ ಪ್ರಥಮಂ ದಶರ್ದಂ ಸೂಕ್ತಂ
ಸುರೂಪಕೃತ್ನುಮಿತ್ಯಾದಿಷು ಷಟ್ಸು [?] ಪಂಚಮಮ್ । ಋಷ್ಯಾದಯಸ್ತು ಪೂರ್ವವತ್ । ವಿಶೇಷವಿನಿಯೋಗಸ್ತು ।
ಮಹಾವ್ರತೇ ನಿಷ್ಕೇವಲ್ಯ ಔಷ್ಣಿಹೇ ತೃತೀಯಾಶೀತಿರिति ಖಣ्डೇ ಶೌನಕೇನ ಸೂತ್ರಿತಮ್ । ಸುರೂಪಕೃತ್ನುಮೂತಯ ಇತಿ
ತೃಣ್ಯೇಂದ್ರ ಸಾನಸಿಂ ರಯಿಮಿತಿ ಸೂಕ್ತೇ । ಏ. ಆ. 3-2-3 ॥ ಇತಿ ॥ ಅತಿರಾತ್ರೇ ಪ್ರಥಮಪರ್ಯಾಯೇ
ಽಚ್ಛಾವಾಕಶಸ್ತ್ರ ಇಂದ್ರ ಸಾನಸಿಮಿತಿ ಸೂಕ್ತಮ್ । ಸೂತ್ರಿತಂ ಚ । ಇಂದ್ರಮಿದ್ರಾಥಿನೋ ಬೃಹದೇಂದ್ರ ಸಾನಸಿಮ್ ।
ಆ. 6-4 । ಇತಿ ॥ ದರ್ಶಯಾಗೇ ಇಂದ್ರಯಾಜಿನಃ ಸಾಮ್ನಾಯ್ಯಾನುವಾಕ್ಯಾ [?] ಏಂದ್ರ ಸಾನಸಿಂ ರಯಿಮಿತಿ ।
ಉಕ್ತಾ ದೇವತಾ ಇತ್ಯಸ್ಮಿನ್ಖಣ्ड ಏಂದ್ರ ಸಾನಸಿಂ ರಯಿಂ ಪ್ರಸಾಹಿಷೇ ಪುರುಹೂತ ಶತ್ರುನ್ । ಆ. 1-6 । ಇತಿ ಸೂತ್ರಿತಮ್ ॥

*tṛtīye 'nuvāke catvāri sūktāni | tatrendra sānasim ity-ādikaṃ
prathamam daśarcam sūktam surūpakṛtnum ity-ādiṣu ṣaṭsu [?] pañcamam | ṛṣy-ādayas tu pūrvavat | viśeṣa-viniyogas tu | mahāvrate niṣkevalya auṣṇihe tṛcāśītir iti khaṇḍe śaunakena sūtritam | surūpakṛtnum ūtaya iti trīṇyendra sānasim rayim
iti sūkte | ai. ā. 3-2-3 || iti || atirātre prathama-paryāye
'cchāvāka-śāstra indra sānasim iti sūktam | sūtritaṃ ca |
indram id gāthino bṛhad endra sānasim | ā. 6-4 | iti |*

*darśayāge indrayājinaḥ sāmṇāyyānuvākya [?] endra sānasim
rayim iti | uktā devatā ity asmin khaṇḍa endra sānasim rayim
prasāhiṣe puruhūta śatrūn | ā. 1-6 | iti sūtritām | |*

Translation: "In the third anuvāka there are four sūktas. Of these, the first, the ten-rik sūкта beginning indra sānasim, is the fifth among those beginning with surūpakṛtnum [the count "among six" is hard to read]. Ṛṣi and the rest are as before. Its special application: in the Mahāvrata, in the niṣkevalya [śāstra], Śaunaka lays down in the section "the eighty uṣṇih triplets" (auṣṇihe tṛcāśītiḥ) that three [sūktas] beginning surūpakṛtnum ūtaye and the two sūktas ā indra sānasim rayim [are included] (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 3-2-3). In the Atirātra, in the first paryāya, in the Acchāvāka's śāstra, the sūкта ā indra sānasim is used; so it is laid down: 'indram id gāthino bṛhad, ā indra sānasim' (Āśvalāyana 6-4). In the Darśa sacrifice the Indra-sacrificer's [sāmṇāyya-]anuvākya is ā indra sānasim rayim [the clause is hard to read]; in the section 'uktā devatāḥ' it is laid down: 'ā indra sānasim rayim, prasāhiṣe puruhūta śatrūn' (Āśvalāyana 1-6)." ¹

|| Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) || The sūкта ā indra sānasim begins the third anuvāka. This anuvāka has four sūktas. The first of them, ā indra sānasim, has ten riks; among the sūktas beginning surūpakṛtnum it is the fifth. Ṛṣi, deity and meter are as before. Special application: in the Mahāvrata, when reciting the niṣkevalya-śāstra mantras, the two sūktas beginning ā indra sānasim rayim are recited among the eighty uṣṇih triplets; Śaunaka states in his Sūktānukramaṇī that this is stated in the Aitareya Āraṇyaka (the fifth āraṇyaka; Aitareya Āraṇyaka 3) in the section auṣṇihe tṛcāśītiḥ. The Aitareya Brāhmaṇa also says that the three sūktas beginning surūpakṛtnum ūtaye and the two beginning ā indra sānasim rayim are included in the uṣṇih triplets (Ai. Ā. 3-2-3). Further, in the Atirātra rite, in the first paryāya,

1. Reference numbers read from small print.

when the priest called Acchāvāka recites the śastra mantras, the sūkta ā indra sānasim is to be recited, as Āśvalāyana says in his Śrauta-sūtra (6-4) in the sūtra indram id gāthino brhad, ā indra sānasim; and in the Darśa-yāga the sacrificer of Indra recites the sūkta ā indra sānasim rayim for the sāmnāyya-anuvākya. Āśvalāyana says this in the section uktā devatāḥ (1-6), where the sūktas ā indra sānasim rayim and prasāhiṣe puruhūta śatrūn are to be recited. This is the order of application of this sūkta.

original p. 303

Sūkta 8, Rik 1

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ Sūkta — 8 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 3 ॥ Sūkta — 8 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 15, 16 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–10 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Madhucchandā
Vaiśvāmītra ॥ ॥ Devatā — Indra ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एन्द्र सानसिं रयिं सजित्वानं सदासहम् । वर्षिष्ठमूतये भर ॥१॥

*endra sānasim rayim sajītvānaṃ sadāsaham | varṣiṣṭham
ūtaye bhara || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । इन्द्र । सानसिम् । रयिम् । सऽजित्वानम् । सदाऽसहम् ॥ वर्षिष्ठम् । ऊतये । भर ॥१॥

*ā | indra | sānasim | rayim | sa-jītvānam | sadā-saham ||
varṣiṣṭham | ūtaye | bhara || 1 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

2. small-print Kannada digits; fits the two-vargas-per-sūkta run, see the note at Sūkta 7

हे इन्द्र ऊतये ऽस्मद्रक्षणार्थं रयिं धनमा भर । आहर । कीदृशं रयिम् । सानसिं संभजनीयं
सजित्वानं समानशत्रुजयशीलं [?] धनेन हि शूरान्भृत्यान्संपाद्य शत्रवो जीयन्ते । सदासहं सर्वदा शत्रूणामभिभवहेतुं वर्षिष्ठम् अतिशयेन वृद्धं प्रभूतमित्यर्थः ॥

*he indra ūtaye 'smad-rakṣaṇārthaṃ rayiṃ dhanam ā bhara |
āhara | kīdṛśaṃ rayim | sānasim saṃbhajanīyaṃ sajītvānaṃ samāna-śatru-jaya-śīlaṃ [?] dhanena hi śūrān bhr̥tyān saṃpādya śatravo jīyante | sadāsaham sarvadā śatrūṇām abhibhava-hetuṃ varṣiṣṭham atīśayena vṛddham prabhūtam
ity arthaḥ | |*

Translation: "O Indra! For our protection, bring (ā bhara — fetch) wealth (rayim). What kind of wealth? Sānasim — worth enjoying; sajītvānam — of a nature to conquer enemies [the exact compound is hard to read]: for with wealth one gathers brave soldiers and servants, and so enemies are conquered; sadāsaham — at all times the cause of overpowering enemies; varṣiṣṭham — exceedingly grown, abundant." ³

original p. 304

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | ऊतये (ūtaye) — for our protection
| सानसिम् (sānasim) — fit to be enjoyed | सजित्वानम् (sajītvānam) — helping to conquer enemies | सदासहम् (sadāsaham) — the cause of the enemies' defeat | वर्षिष्ठम् (varṣiṣṭham) — vast | रयिम् (rayim)
— wealth | आ भर (ā bhara) — bring.

3. The remaining Sanskrit, pp. 303–304, is Sāyaṇa's grammar of सानसिम्, सजित्वानम्, सदासहम्, वर्षिष्ठम्, ऊतये, भर, grammar noted briefly (cost-saving rule); not transcribed. It concerns the suffix asi on the root vana/ṣana ("to enjoy"), the replacement of samāna by sa, the suffix kvanip with the tuk augment, the replacement of vṛddha by varṣ before iṣṭhan, the Vedic ktin accent of ūti, and the root hṛ with Vedic bh for h in bhara.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! For our protection, bring abundant wealth. With that wealth we can enjoy comfort; with the help of wealth we can gather brave warriors and conquer our enemies in battle; if we have wealth we can defeat enemies easily. For these purposes bring us abundant wealth, and protect us.

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁴

O Indra, bring for our protection riches, most abundant [sic], enjoyable, the source of victory and ever defeating our foes.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Sānasim" — saṃbhajanīyam — a means of enjoying happiness; enjoyable.

"Sajitvānam" — धनेन हि शूरान् भृत्यान् संपाद्य शत्रवो जीयन्ते (dhanena hi sūrān bhr̥tyān saṃpādyā śatravo jīyante) — "by wealth, having secured brave men as servants, enemies are conquered." That is, with the help of wealth one gathers heroic warriors and wins over enemies; so the Bhāṣyakāra explains.

original p. 305

"Rayim" — wealth (dhana). "Wealth" does not mean only material goods; it includes the things needed for achieving happiness — sons and grandsons, servants and the like, cattle such as cows, houses, and so on.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵

Words treated: सानसिम् (sānasim) — from the root vana/ṣaṇa saṃbhaktau ("to share, enjoy") with the suffix asi by an Uṇādi sūtra [Uṇ. 4-?? — the number is not legible]; the suffix, the vṛddhi of the penultimate vowel, and the final-udātta are all given as irregular formations (nipātana); the source notes that the printed

4. as printed in the source

5. grammar page, noted briefly

Kaumudī does not show dharṇasi but the Vedic commentary follows the Daśapādī text. रयिम् (rayim) — final-udātta by the base accent. सजित्वानम् (sajitvānam) — saṃānān arīn jetuṃ śīlam asya ("whose nature is to conquer all foes"); kvanip after the root ji (Pā. 3-2-75 [?]); the augment tuk (Pā. 6-1-71 [?]); sa for saṃāna (Pā. 6-3-84 [?]); accent of the verb-stem retained. वर्षिष्ठम् (varṣiṣṭham) — vṛddha + iṣṭhan (Pā. 5-3-55 [?]), vṛddha replaced by varṣ by the priya-sthira rule (Pā. 6-4-157 [?]); initial-udātta. ऊतये (ūtaye) — ktin, udātta by the sūtra on ūti, yūti, jūti... (Pā. 3-3-97 [?]). भर (bhara) — hr̥ñ haraṇe, loṭ second singular hara; Vedic bh for h (Pā. 8-2-32 [?]); the upasarga ā may stand apart from the verb in the Veda (Pā. 1-4-80, 1-4-82 [?]).⁶

॥१॥

original p. 306

Sūkta 8, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नि येन मुष्टिहत्यया नि वृत्रा रुणधामहै । त्वोतासो न्यर्वता ॥२॥

*ni yena muṣṭīhatyayā ni vṛtrā ruṇadhāmahai | tvotāso ny
arvatā || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नि । येन । मुष्टिहत्यया । नि । वृत्रा । रुणधामहै ॥ त्वाऽऊतासः । नि । अर्वता ॥२॥ ni | yena | muṣṭi-hatyayā | ni | vṛtrā | ruṇadhāmahai | | tvā-ūtāsaḥ | ni | arvatā || 2 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

6. All sūtra numbers read from small print; treat as pointers.

येन धनेन संपादितानां भटानां नि मुष्टिहत्यया नितरां मुष्टिप्रहारेण वृत्रा शत्रून् नि रुणधामहै
निरुद्धान् करवाम तादृशं धनमाहरेत्यर्थः । त्वोतासस्त्वया रक्षिता वयमर्वताश्चेन नि रुणधामहा
इत्यनुषङ्गः । पदातियुद्धेनाश्वयुद्धेन च शत्रून्विनाशयामेत्यर्थः ॥ yena dhanena saṃpāditānām bhaṭānām ni muṣṭihatya yā nitarām muṣṭi-prahāreṇa vṛtrā śatrūn ni ruṇadhāmahai niruddhān karavāma tādṛśaṃ dhanam āhara ity arthaḥ | tvotāsas tvayā rakṣitā vayam arvatāśvena ni ruṇadhāmahā ity anuśaṅgaḥ | padāti-yuddhenāśva-yuddhena ca śatrūn

vināśayāmetry arthaḥ ||

Translation: "With which wealth — by [the strength of] soldiers secured with it — by muṣṭihatya, i.e., by thorough fist-blows, we may restrain (ni ruṇadhāmahai) the vṛtras, the enemies, we may make them obstructed: bring such wealth — this is the sense. Tvotāsaḥ — we, protected by you — arvatā, with a horse, may restrain [them]: so the sentence is completed by carrying over [the verb]. The sense: let us destroy enemies by infantry fighting and by cavalry fighting." ^{7 8}

original p. 307

Rik 2 continued

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

7. The rest of the p. 306 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar and an argument about ni ruṇadhāmahai's doubled verb and the case of vṛtrā — the sense is settled above; grammar noted briefly, not transcribed. The Rik's remaining apparatus follows in the next pages.

8. The first lines complete Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit on Rik 2: an argument, citing the Taittirīya Saṃhitā's "puroḍāsaṃ cādhiśrayati" and "prokṣaṇīś cāsādayati" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 1-6-8-? / 1-6-9-? [?]), that in a sentence with two finite verbs joined by ca only the first-uttered verb escapes the lowering of accent, so that the verb ni ruṇadhāmahai is carried over to the second clause by supply. Then the word-grammar of त्वोतासः, अर्वता, नि, वृत्रा, रुणधामहै. Grammar noted briefly, not transcribed.

येन (yena) — by which wealth-help, the warriors acquired [through it] | नि मुष्टिहत्यया (ni muṣṭihatyaṃyā) — by a special blow of the fist | वृत्रा (vṛtrā) — the enemies | नि रुणधामहै (ni ruṇadhāmahai) — we shall hold back, stop (so that they cannot press forward) | त्वोतासः (tvotāsaḥ) — we, protected by you (Indra) | अर्वता (arvatā) — also with horses | नि (ruṇadhāmahai) — we shall hold back the enemies (give us such wealth).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! By the warriors gathered through the wealth-help you give, with their fist-blows — that is, from the hand-to-hand fighting of warriors, and with the help of horses — we shall stop our enemies so that they cannot press forward. For your protection is indeed with us.

॥ English Translation ॥

By which we repel our enemies crushing them down with our fists or with our horses.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

Because this rik contains the relative word येन (yena, "by which"), its sense must be linked with the words of the previous rik. That is: in the previous rik Indra was asked for wealth-help; therefore the words yena muṣṭihatyaṃyā here mean "by the fist-blows of warriors gained with whatever wealth-help [was asked]." In fighting, warriors by nature close with each other hand to hand; so muṣṭihatyaṃyā here means "blows of the fist." Fighting seated on horses has also been customary from of old. Hence the sense: "by both these methods of fighting, with your help, we shall stop the enemies from advancing."

Rik 2 grammar; Rik 3 text॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥⁹

Words treated: मुष्टिहत्यया (muṣṭihatyaṣyā) — muṣṭi + hatyā ("slaying"), from root han with kyap (Pā. 3-1-108 [?]) and the han→hat change; the accent of the compound explained under the "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" rule (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) with Vedic bahulam; final-udātta. नि (ni) — an upasarga connected with the verb, standing apart (Pā. 1-4-82 [?]). वृत्रा (vrtrā) — neuter plural jas → śi, dropped by Vedic bahulam (Pā. 6-1-70 [?]); num augment and its n dropped. रुणधामहै (ruṇadhāmahai) — rudhir āvaraṇe ("to obstruct"), ātmanepada loṭ first-person plural mahiṇ → mahai; śnam between u and dh (Pā. 3-1-78 [?]); āt augment; the long, technical argument on why a sārvadhātuka ending here does not take a loss of the a of śnam. A long discussion of "cavā-yoge prathamā" (p. 309): since the sentence has two finite verbs, the question is which is "first-uttered" and so escapes lowering; it is answered with the Taittirīya Saṃhitā examples "ātmanā tṛpyati nānyasmai dadāti" (Taitt. Saṃhitā 2-?-?) and others. त्वोतासः (tvotāsaḥ) — tvā + ūta ("protected by you") in a third-case tatpuruṣa; tvad → tva (Pā. 7-2-97 [?]), the d dropped; the vṛddhi that would arise is blocked by Vedic license; accent of the first member retained. अर्वता (arvatā) — root arva gatau ("to go") + vanip (Pā. 3-2-75 [?]); arvan → arvat (Pā. 6-4-127 [?]); the instrumental singular arvatā, final-udātta on the a-vowel by the root's accent.¹⁰

॥२॥

original p. 310

9. grammar pages, noted briefly

10. All sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The page 310 Sanskrit ends with the number ॥२॥.

Sūkta 8, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र त्वोतास आ वयं वज्रं घना ददीमहि । जयेम सं युधि स्पृधः ॥३॥

*indra tvotāsa ā vayaṃ vajraṃ ghanā dadīmahi | jayema saṃ
yudhi sprdhaḥ || 3 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र । त्वाऽऊतासः । आ । वयम् । वज्रम् । घना । ददीमहि ॥ जयेम । सम् । युधि । स्पृधः ॥ ३॥

*indra | tvā-ūtāsaḥ | ā | vayam | vajram | ghanā | dadīmahi
|| jayema | sam | yudhi | sprdhaḥ || 3 ||*

original p. 311

Rik 3: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र त्वोतासस्त्वया पालिता वयं घना घनं शत्रुप्रहरणाय [word unclear in scan]
दृढं वज्रमायुधमा ददीमहि । स्वीकुर्मः । तेन च वज्रेण युधि युद्धे स्पृधः स्पर्धमानान् शत्रून्सं जयेमु [sic: jayema] ॥

*he indra tvotāsas tvayā pālītā vayaṃ ghanā ghanam śatrupraharaṇāya [word unclear in scan] ḍṛḍham vajram āyudham
ā dadīmahi | svīkurmaḥ | tena ca vajreṇa yudhi yuddhe
sprdhaḥ spardhamānān śatrūn saṃ jayema | |*

Translation: "O Indra! We, protected by you (tvotāsaḥ), take up (ā dadīmahi — accept) the firm (ghanā = ghanam) thunderbolt-weapon [adjective after "for striking down enemies" is illegible in the scan]; and with that thunderbolt in battle (yudhi) may we conquer (saṃ jayema) the enemies who contend (sprdhaḥ)." ¹¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | त्वोतासः (tvotāsaḥ) — we, protected by you | घना (ghanā) — very firm (in striking enemies) | वज्रम् (vajram) — the weapon | आ ददीमहि (ā dadīmaḥi) — we shall take up | (with that thunderbolt) युधि (yudhi) — in battle | स्पृधः (spr̥dhaḥ) — the enemies who fight against us | संजयेम (saṃ jayema) — we shall conquer.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! We, protected by you, will take the thunderbolt-weapon, very firm for destroying enemies, and conquer the enemies who fight against us in battle.

॥ English Translation ॥

Protected by you, O Indra, we possess [sic] a ponderous weapon (thunderbolt) wherewith we may entirely conquer our enemies in a battle.

original p. 312

Rik 3: Special Topics; grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Vajram" — rather than taking vajram here as "the thunderbolt-weapon," the sense "extremely hard, like the thunderbolt" is more fitting. For it is impossible for us humans to use the thunderbolt that Indra uses. Or: "vajram ā dadīmahe" may mean "obtaining the help of Indra's thunderbolt, saṃ jayema — we shall conquer enemies."

"Ghanā" — ghanam means hard, very heavy; hard, firm, etc.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹²

11. The rest of the Sanskrit on this page is the grammar of

त्वोतासः, वज्रम्, घना, ददीमहि,

जयेम, युधि, स्पृधः; noted briefly under the Kannada grammar, p. 312–314.

Words treated: त्वोतासः (tvotāsaḥ) — explained under Rik 2. वज्रम् (vajram) — root vaja/vraja gatau with ran by an Uṇādi nipātana (Uṇ. 2-[?]). घना (ghanā) — ghanah asya asti ("that which has hardness"); ac by the pacādi rule (Pā. 3-1-134 [?]); final-udātta (cit); the accusative am replaced by ā (Pā. 7-1-39 [?], Vedic "supāṃ sulug..."). ददीमहि (dadīmahī) — ḍudāñ dāne ("to give"; juhotyādi class) with liñ in the sense of prārthanā (entreaty); ātmanepada by Pā. 1-3-72 [?]; the several tiñ endings and the choice of the first-person plural mahiñ; śap then ślu; doubling and shortening of the reduplicate; sīyut augment; loss of s and of y (Pā. 7-2-79, 6-1-66 [?]); loss of ā of the root before the ātmanepada ending; tiñ unaccented. जयेम (jayema) — root ji, vidhiliñ, parasmaipada first-plural mas; s of mas dropped; śap; guṇa then ay; yāsuṭ; sakāra lost; a → ī → e (Pā. 3-2-80 [?]); the prefix sa- ordinarily precedes the verb but may stand after it in the Veda (Pā. 1-4-81 [?]). युधि (yudhi) — root yudha saṃprahāre ("to fight") + kvip (Pā. 3-2-178 [?]); locative; final-udātta. स्पृधः (spr̥dhaḥ) — spardhante iti spr̥dhaḥ; root spardha saṃgharṣe + kvip with Vedic saṃprasāraṇa of r; accusative plural.¹³

॥३॥

original p. 314

Sūkta 8, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वयं शूरेभिरस्तृभिरिन्द्र त्वया युजा वयम् । सासह्याम पृतन्यतः ॥४॥

vayaṃ śūrebhir astṛbhir indra tvayā yujā vayam | sāsaḥyāma
pṛtanyataḥ || 4 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥¹⁴

12. grammar pages 312–314, noted briefly

13. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. Ends with the number ॥३॥ on p. 314.

वयम् । शूरेभिः । अस्तृभिः । इन्द्र । त्वया । युजा । वयम् ॥ ससह्याम् । पृतन्यतः ॥४॥

vayam | śūrebhiḥ | astr̥bhiḥ | indra | tvayā | yujā | vayam
|| sasahyāma | pṛtanyataḥ || 4 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

वयं कर्मानुष्ठातारः शूरेभिः शौर्ययुक्तैरस्तृभिरायुधानां प्रक्षेप्तृभिर्भटैः संयुज्येमहीति शेषः । हे इन्द्र तादृशा भटसहिता वयं युजा सहायभूतेन त्वया पृतन्यतः सेनामिच्छतः शत्रून्सासह्याम् । अतिशयेनाभिभवेम ॥

vayaṁ karmānuṣṭhātāraḥ śūrebhiḥ śaurya-yuktair astr̥bhir āyudhānāṁ prakṣeptṛbhir bhaṭaiḥ saṁyujyemahīti śeṣaḥ | he indra tādr̥śā bhaṭa-sahitā vayaṁ yujā sahāya-bhūtena tvayā pṛtanyataḥ senām icchataḥ śatrūn sāsahyāma |
atīśayenābhibhavema ||

Translation: "We, the performers of the rites — with the śūras, the heroes, the astr̥s, the throwers of weapons, the warriors — may we be united (saṁyujyemahi: the word to complete the sentence). O Indra! We, so accompanied by warriors, with you as our helper (yujā), may overpower (sāsahyāma) the enemies who pṛtanyataḥ — who desire an army, i.e., who come to fight; may we overcome them completely." ¹⁵

original p. 315

Rik 4: Sāyaṇa's grammar closes; word-meanings

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

वयम् (vayam) — we | शूरेभिः (śūrebhiḥ) — endowed with valour | अस्तृभिः (astr̥bhiḥ) — [we shall be associated] with warriors who fight with weapons | हे इन्द्र (he indra) — O Indra | वयम् (vayam) —

14. The pada text prints the first vowel of this word short; the Saṁhitā lengthens it — see the Special Topics below, where the commentary says the sa is long in the Saṁhitā-pāṭha for the sake of the meter.

we | युजा (yujā) — who are our helper | त्वया (tvayā) — together with you | पृतन्यतः (pṛtanyataḥ) — the enemies who have armies | सासह्याम (sāsaḥyāma) — we shall conquer.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Since we have the help of skilled and valiant warriors who are expert in using weapons, and your help as well, we shall conquer our enemies even though they come with armies.

original p. 316

Rik 4: English, Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

With the help of the brave missile throwing heroes and with you as our comrade we will overcome our assailants.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Astr̥bhiḥ" — a form of the root asu kṣepaṇe ("to throw"). शस्त्रास्त्रप्रक्षेपणशीलैः (śastrāstra-prakṣepaṇa-śīlaiḥ) — "those whose habit is to hurl weapons and missiles" — those who hurl weapons or arms at enemies.

15. The first part of the page is the end of Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar of

Rik 4: शूरैभिः, अस्तृभिः, त्वया, युजा, सासह्याम, पृतन्यतः. Noted briefly, not transcribed: that sūra is formed with kran and a lengthened vowel from the root sū ("to go; to be strong"); that astr̥

("thrower") comes from root asu kṣepaṇe with the ṭṛn

suffix; that tvayā has the substitute tva for yuṣmad before the instrumental ending, with pararūpa and a single accent-bearing vowel; that yujā is formed with kvin; that sāsaḥyāma is an intensive-desiderative-type formation from saha marṣaṇe with yañ, doubling and a lengthened reduplicate, and the benedictive liñ; and that pṛtanyataḥ is a denominative in kyac from pṛtanā ("army") with the participial śatr̥.

"Sāsahyāma" — "we shall conquer again and again": that is, even if there are many obstacles in battle, we shall conquer them, taking no notice of them, with certainty. For the convenience of the meter the sa is long in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha.

"Pṛtanyataḥ" — pṛtanā means an army. पृतनामात्मन इच्छन्तः (pṛtanām ātmana icchantah) — "those who desire an army for themselves": that is, enemies who seek the help of an army, or who come with an army.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁶

Words treated: शूरेभिः (sūrebhiḥ) — root sū gatau ("to go"; also sū ["to be strong"] and other roots) with kran and lengthening (Uṇ. 2-[?]); sūra, initial-udātta; before the instrumental plural bhis the ais substitute would apply (Pā. 7-1-9 [?]), but Vedic bahulam (Pā. 7-1-10 [?]) prevents it; the a-ending stem takes e before jhal-initial plural endings (Pā. 7-3-103 [?]), giving sūrebhiḥ. The third case without a word for "with" (pp. 316–317): the sūtra on saha-yukte 'pradhāne (Pā. 2-3-19 [?]) makes the third case apply after a word meaning "with" in a subordinate sense; the source notes that no such word is present here, but Pāṇini himself uses the third case in "vṛddho yūnā tal-lakṣaṇaś ced eva viśeṣaḥ" (Pā. 1-2-65 [?]) without such a word; hence the third case sūrebhiḥ is justified by the sense "together with," and the clause saṃyujyemahi ("may we be united") is supplied from the sense of the next phrase, since 'vayaṃ sūrebhiḥ' alone does not complete the meaning. अस्तृभिः (astr̥bhiḥ) — root asu kṣepaṇe + tṛn by the sūtra on the tācchīlya (habitual) senses (Pā. 3-2-135 [?]), giving astr̥; tṛn is nīt so it is initial-udātta; ṛdādi roots take optional iṭ (Pā. 7-2-45 [?], the radhādi group); the instrumental plural in bhis with the Vedic elision ṛ → ṛ... astr̥bhiḥ. A side-argument on the Kāśikā reading śamsu stutau and kṣada śakalīkaraṇe concerning the tṛn/tṛc suffixes (Uṇ. 2-[?]) and whether iṭ arises (Vedic vikalpa) — not

16. grammar pages 316–318, noted briefly

reproduced. त्वया (tvayā) — yuṣmad + ṭā (Pā. 7-1-13 [?]); tva replaces yuṣmad (Pā. 7-2-97 [?]); tva + ad + ā → tvad..., then ā; the final d is replaced by y (Pā. 7-2-102 [?]). युजा (yujā) — yuj + kvin (Pā. 3-2-59 [?]); case-ending udātta by the "sāveka-ca" rule. सासह्याम (sāsaḥyāma) — root saha marṣaṇe ("to endure, overpower"); s→ṣ analysis; yañ of intensive sense; luk of yañ; doubling with ṣa and lengthening of the reduplicate (Pā. 6-1-9, 6-4-93 [?]); the benedictive liñ with yāsuṭ; s lost (Pā. 7-2-79 [?]); the first syllable of the pāda is not unaccented. पृतन्यतः (pr̥tanyataḥ) — pr̥tanā + kyac (Pā. 3-1-8 [?], "supa ātmanaḥ kyac"), from "those who desire an army for themselves"; śatr̥ → accusative plural; accent explained at length.^{17 18 19}

original p. 319

Rik 4 closes; Sūkta 8, Rik 5

॥४॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

महौ इन्द्रः परश्च नु महित्वमस्तु वज्रिणे । द्यौर्न प्रथिना शवः ॥५॥

mahām indraḥ paraś ca nu mahitvam astu vajriṇe | dyaur na prathinā śavaḥ || 5 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

महान् । इन्द्रः । परः । च । नु । महित्वम् । अस्तु । वज्रिणे ॥ द्यौः । न । प्रथिना । शवः ॥५॥

17. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

18. The Kannada grammar of Rik 4 runs to the top of p. 319 — see the next page.

19. The top of the page completes the Kannada grammar of पृतन्यतः:

the denominative suffix kyac after pr̥tanā with loss of the final ā by the sūtra on kavi/adhvara/pr̥tanā; the śatr̥ participle in place of laṭ; the initial-udātta, and accusative-plural accent of the form, ending the Rik with the number

॥४॥. Grammar noted briefly.

*mahān | indraḥ | paraḥ | ca | nu | mahitvam | astu | vajriṇe
|| dyauḥ | na | prathinā | śavaḥ || 5 ||*

original p. 320

Rik 5: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अयमिन्द्रो महान् शरीरेण प्रौढः परश्च गुणैरुत्कृष्टो ऽपि । नु किंच वज्रिणे वज्रयुक्तायेन्द्राय महित्वं पूर्वोक्तं द्विविधमाधिक्यं सर्वदास्तु । स्वभावसिद्धस्यापि भक्त्या प्रार्थनमेतत् । किंच द्यौर्न द्युलोक इव शवो बलमिन्द्रस्य सेनारूपं प्रथिना प्रथिम्ना पृथुत्वेन युज्यतामिति शेषः । यथा द्युलोकः प्रभूत एवमस्य सेना प्रभूता ॥ नुशब्दो यद्यपि क्षिप्रनामसु नु मुक्षु इति पठितस्तथाप्यत्र तस्यान्वयाभावात्पादपूरणत्वेनानेकार्थत्वसंभवाच्च समुच्चयार्थो ऽत्र गृहीतः । नुशब्दो लोके प्रतिषेधार्थ एव । स्वाध्याये तु प्रतिषेधार्थ उपमानार्थश्चेति द्विविधः । येन पदेनान्वीयते तस्मात्पूर्वं प्रयुज्यमानः प्रतिषेधार्थ उपरिष्टात्प्रयुज्यमान उपमानार्थः । तथा च यास्क उदाहरति । उभयमन्वध्यायं नेन्द्रं देवममंसतेति प्रतिषेधार्थीयः पुरस्तादुपाचारस्तस्य [clause unclear in scan] । दुर्मर्दासो न सुरायामित्युपमार्थीय उपरिष्टादुपाचारस्तस्य येनोपमिमीते । नि. १-४ । इति । अतो ऽपमेयवाचिनो द्यौश्शब्दस्यापि प्रयुक्तत्वादुपमार्थः स्वीकृतः । अष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु बलनामसु ओजः पाजः शव इति पठितम् ॥ *ayam indro mahān śarīreṇa prauḍhaḥ paraś ca guṇair utkr̥ṣṭo

'pi | nu kiṃca vajriṇe vajra-yuktāyendrāya mahitvam
pūrvoktaṃ dvividham ādhikyaṃ sarvadāstu | svabhāva-siddhasyāpi bhaktyā prārthanam etat | kiṃca dyaur na dyuloka iva śavo balam indrasya senā-rūpaṃ prathinā prathimnā pṛthutvena yujyatām iti śeṣaḥ | yathā dyulokaḥ
prabhūta evam asya senā prabhūtā || nu-śabdo yadyapi kṣipra-nāmasu nu mukṣu iti paṭhitas tathāpy atra tasyānvayābhāvāt pāda-pūraṇatvenānekārthatva-saṃbhavāc
ca samuccayārtho 'tra gr̥hītaḥ | nu-śabdo loke pratiṣedhārtha
eva | svādhyāye tu pratiṣedhārtha upamānārthaś ceti
dvividhaḥ | yena padenānvīyate tasmāt pūrvaṃ prayujyamānaḥ pratiṣedhārtha upariṣṭāt prayujyamāna upamānārthaḥ | tathā ca yāska udāharati | ubhayam*

*anvadyāyaṃ nendraṃ devam amaṃsateti pratiṣedhārthīyaḥ purastād upācāras tasya [clause unclear in scan] | durmadāso na surāyām ity upamārthīya upariṣṭād upācāras tasya yenopamimīte | nī. 1-4 | iti | ato 'pameya-vācino dyauśśabdasyāpi prayuktatvād upamārthaḥ svīkṛtaḥ | aṣṭāviṃśati-
saṃkhyākeṣu bala-nāmasu ojaḥ pājaḥ śava iti paṭhitam ||*

Translation: "This Indra is great (mahān) in body, mature, and supreme (paraḥ) — excellent in qualities as well. And may this twofold pre-eminence stated above, mahitvam, be always for the vajra-bearing Indra (vajriṇe): this is a prayer offered in devotion, though [that greatness is] naturally established. Moreover, dyaurna — like the heaven-world — let Indra's śavaḥ, his strength in the form of an army, be joined with prathinā, with breadth (prathimnā), vastness [this is the word to be supplied]: as the heavenly world is vast, so may his army be vast. The word nu — although read among the names for 'quickly' (nu, mukṣu) — here, since it has no connection in that sense and since a metrical filler may have more than one meaning, is taken in the sense of 'and' (samuccaya). In ordinary speech na is only a negative; in the Veda it is twofold, negative and a particle of comparison: when placed before the word with which it is construed it is negative; when placed after, it means 'like.' So Yāska gives examples: 'ubhayam anvadyāyaṃ nendraṃ devam amaṃsata' [... the negative-sense use is placed before] ... 'durmadāso na surāyām' — the comparative use is placed after the word with which it makes the comparison (Nirukta 1-4). Therefore, since the word dyauḥ, expressing the thing compared, is also used here, the comparative sense is accepted. Among the twenty-eight words for 'strength,' ojaḥ, pājaḥ, śavaḥ are read." ²⁰

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

20. Yāska's first example is partly unreadable in the scan; the rest follows the Nirukta passage as printed.

इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | महान् (mahān) — great | परः च (paraś ca) — and supreme in qualities | नु (nu) — and | वज्रिणे (vajriṇe) — to Indra, who bears the thunderbolt | महित्वम् (mahitvam) — [this twofold] pre-eminence | अस्तु (astu) — may it be | (for) शवः (śavaḥ) — Indra's strength (in the form of an army) | द्यौः न (dyaur na) — like the heavenly world | प्रथिना (prathinā) — is exceedingly vast (very great).

original p. 321

Rik 5 continued

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra is not great in body alone; he is also supreme in quality. Such pre-eminence in qualities is naturally fitting for the vajra-bearing Indra; for Indra's strength — in the form of an army, or his capacity — is, like the heaven-world, that is, like the vast firmament (the sky), very great.

॥ English Translation ॥

Great is Indra and Supreme. May greatness be ever for the weilder [sic] of the thunderbolt ; May his strength (of the army) be ever vast as the heavens.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Nu" — although the word nu is read among the words for "quickly" (kṣipra) such as nu and mukṣu, that sense does not fit here, and since the word is an indeclinable that can serve as a metrical filler and carry many senses, the Bhāṣyakāra takes it here in the sense of "and" (samuccaya: muttu).

"Mahitvam astu vajriṇe"

— Indra's qualities are by nature already supreme; that the poet says "let his qualities shine with still greater glory" is a prayer made out of devotion.

"Dyauḥ" — dyauḥ means heaven, the sphere of the sky (antarikṣa). Everyone knows that the sky extends very widely, as far as our eyes see and beyond. That is why the poet, when comparing with something very large, offers the simile of the sky.

"Na" — in modern Sanskrit na is a word of negation (na = "not"); in the Ṛgveda it is twofold — negative and comparative (prativedhārtha and upamānārtha); na means "like" (iva): dyaur na = "like the sky." Such usages are plentiful in the Ṛgveda. There is a special point in this usage. As the Bhāṣyakāra says, येन पदेनान्वीयते तस्मात्पूर्वं प्रयुज्यमानः प्रतिषेधार्थं उपरिष्ठात्प्रयुज्यमान उपमार्थः (yena padenānvīyate tasmāt pūrvaṃ prayujyamānaḥ pratiṣedhārtha upariṣṭāt prayujyamāna upamārthaḥ) — if na is used before the word to which it relates, it is negative; if it comes after the related word, it is a comparison. For example:

original p. 322

Rik 5: Special Topics (continued) and grammar begins

न यस्य द्यावापृथिवी अनु व्यचो न सिन्धवो रजसो अन्तमानशुः । na yasya dyāvāpṛthivī anu vyaco na sindhavo rajaso antam ānaśuḥ | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-53-9 [?]) ("He whose breadth neither heaven and earth [match], nor the rivers reach the limit of the space.") (my gloss, tentative: the source gives only the citation)

In this rik the word na stands before the related words dyāvāpṛthivī and sindhavaḥ, so na is negative.

न स सखा यो न ददाति सख्ये सचाभुवे सचमानाय पित्वः ॥ na sa sakhā yo na dadāti sakhye sacābhuve sacamānāya pitvaḥ || (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-117-4 [?]) ("He is no friend who gives not to a friend, to a companion who attends, of his food.") (my gloss, tentative)

Here the na stands before the related words sakhā and dadāti; so na is negative.

मा वो मृगो न यवसे जरिता भूदजोष्यः ॥ mā vo mṛgo na yavase jaritā bhūd ajōṣyaḥ | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-38-5 [?]) ("Let not your singer be unwelcome, like a deer in the pasture.") (my gloss, tentative)

वाश्रेव विद्युन्मिमाति वत्सं न माता सिषक्ति ॥ vāśreva vidyun mimāti vatsaṃ na mātā siṣakti | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-38-8 [?]) ("Like a lowing cow, the lightning bellows; as a mother follows her calf.") (my gloss, tentative)

In these riks the na comes after the related words mṛgaḥ and vatsam, so it has the comparative sense here.

"Śavaḥ" — although this word is read among the words for water (udaka) such as āṇaḥ, kṣodaḥ (Nirukta 1-12 [?]), it is read among the twenty-eight words for "strength," ojaḥ, pājaḥ and so on (Nirukta 2-9 [?]); hence in this rik this sense must be taken.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²¹

महान् (mahān) — in the Saṃhitā the final n is lengthened/changed ("dīrghād aṭi samānapāde", Pā. 8-3-9 [?]): n becomes ru when a long vowel precedes and aṭ-letter follows in the same pāda; the preceding vowel becomes nasalized (Pā. 8-3-2 [?]); the form mahāṅ indraḥ; bho-bhago-aghō-apūrvasya yo 'śi (Pā. 8-3-17 [?]) and lopaḥ śākalyasya (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) for the optional loss of y/v before a vowel. ²²

original p. 323

Rik 5 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

Words treated, continued: इन्द्रः after mahān (the ru that becomes y, with nasalization, and the loss of y before aśi by Pā. 8-3-19 [?]); the guṇa rule ād guṇaḥ (Pā. 6-1-87 [?]) and why it does not apply

21. grammar pages 322–323, noted briefly

22. Continues on p. 323.

across the pāda here, by the maxim pūrvatrāsiddham (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) — the rules of the last three quarters of the Aṣṭādhyāyī are "not seen" by earlier rules. महित्वम् (mahitvam) — mahaḥ pūjāyām ("to honour") + in (Uṇ. 4-[?]), then tva by the abstract-noun sūtra (Pā. 5-1-119 [?]); tva is final-udātta by the suffix. वज्रिणे (vajriṇe) — vajro 'syāstīti vajrī; ini (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]). द्यौः (dyauḥ) — dyo, by the Phiṭ sūtra "phiṣaḥ" final-udātta; the nominative su and go-toṇ-it (Pā. 7-1-90 [?]) giving the ṇit-like vṛddhi; au in place of o. प्रथिना (prathinā) — prathimnā; prthv-ādibhya imanij vā (Pā. 5-1-122 [?]) gives imanic; ra replaces r (Pā. 6-4-161 [?]); the bha-technical loss of ṭi (Pā. 6-4-143 [?]) so u drops, giving prathiman; the instrumental ṭā with ā-final accent loss ("anudāttasya ca yatrodāttalopaḥ", Pā. 6-1-158 [?]). शवः (śavaḥ) — initial-udātta, being a neuter noun not ending in -isan ("nabviṣayasyāniseḥ...", Phiṭ-sūtra).

॥५॥

original p. 324

Sūkta 8, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

समोहे वा य आशत नरस्तोकस्य सनितौ । विप्रासो वा धियायवः ॥६॥

*samohe vā ya āśata naras tokasya sanitau | viprāso vā
dhiyāyavaḥ || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सम्ओहे । वा । ये । आशत । नरः । तोकस्य । सनितौ ॥ विप्रासः । वा । धियायवः ॥६॥

*sam-ohe | vā | ye | āśata | naraḥ | tokasya | sanitau | |
viprāsaḥ | vā | dhiyā-yavaḥ || 6 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ये नरः पुरुषाः समोहे संग्रामे तोकस्यापत्यस्य सनितौ वा लाभे वाशत । व्याप्तवन्तः । इन्द्रं स्तुत्वेति शेषः । वा अथवा विप्रासो मेधाविनो धियायवः प्रज्ञाकामानाः सन्त आशत ते सर्वे लभन्त इत्यध्याहारः । रण इत्यादिषु षट्चत्वारिंशत्संख्याकेषु संग्रामनामसु समोहे समिथ इति पठितम् । पञ्चदशसंख्याकेष्वपत्यनामसु तुक् तोकमिति पठितम् ॥

ye naraḥ puruṣāḥ samohe saṃgrāme tokasyāpatyasya sanitau vā lābhe vāśata | vyāptavantaḥ | indraṃ stutveti śeṣaḥ | vā athavā viprāso medhāvino dhiyāyavaḥ prajñā-kāmānāḥ santa āśata te sarve labhanta ity adhyāhāraḥ | raṇa ity-ādiṣu ṣaṭcatvāriṃśat-saṃkhyākeṣu saṃgrāma-nāmasu samohe samitha iti paṭhitam | pañcadaśa-saṃkhyākeṣv apatya-nāmasu tuk tokam iti paṭhitam | |

Translation: "Those naraḥ, men, who in the samoha — the battle — or in the winning (sanitau) of offspring (tokasya), have āśata — have attained [Indra's favour; the words 'having praised Indra' are to be supplied]; or the viprāsaḥ — the wise — who, being dhiyāyavaḥ — desirous of understanding — have attained: all these obtain [what they seek]: this is the supply of the sentence. Among the forty-six words for 'battle' beginning with raṇa, samohe and samitha are read. Among the fifteen words for 'offspring,' tuk and toka are read." ²³

original p. 325

23. The Sanskrit grammar of समोहे, आशत, नरः, सनितौ, विप्रासः, धियायवः on p. 325 is noted briefly: that samohe is final-udātta by base accent; vā and its class are unaccented; āśata is from root aśū vyāptau with the aorist (luṛ), the cli dropped by Vedic license, the augment āt and the ātmanepada ending with at for jh; naraḥ final-udātta; sanitau the ktin with the locative; viprāsaḥ with the Vedic asuk plural; dhiyāyavaḥ a denominative in kyac, kyāc-chandasī with the loss of ā and the u-suffix.

Rik 6 continued

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

येनरः (ye naraḥ) — those men (who praise Indra) | समोहे (samohe) — in battle (also for obtaining victory) | वा (vā) — or (and) | तोकस्य (tokasya) — of offspring, sons and so on | सनितौ (sanitau) — also for the gaining | आशत (āśata) — attain Indra | वा (vā) — or | विप्रासः (viprāsaḥ) — wise people | धियायवः (dhiyāyavaḥ) — those desiring understanding or knowledge (too) | आशत (āśata) — attain Indra himself.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Those men who desire victory in battle, and offspring such as sons and grandsons, obtain their desires by praising Indra. And the wise, and those who desire understanding, obtain their desires from Indra himself.

॥ English Translation ॥

Whatever men have recourse to Indra, in battle or for the acquirement of offspring, and the wise who are desirous of understanding (obtain their desires).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

Words to be supplied.

The sense of this rik can be guessed correctly, but some principal words must be supplied. Since the previous rik declares that Indra's greatness or powers are boundless, in keeping with that purport this rik says that people take refuge in Indra for victory in battle that they desire, for the winning of offspring, and for knowledge, and that, praising him with hymns and the like, they obtain their desires. That is the main sense.

Rik 6: Special Topics (continued); grammar

"Samohe" — the word samohe is read among the forty-six battle-names beginning with raṇa (Nirukta 2-17 [?]).

"Tokasya" — the word tokam is read among the fifteen words for "offspring" beginning with tuk (Nirukta 3-2 [?]).

"Āśata" — a form of the root aśū vyāptau ("to pervade, attain"). "To attain Indra" means to entreat Indra with praises and the like.

"Narah" — the nominative plural of the r-ending word nṛ. This word is also used as an a-stem; in that case naraḥ is a nominative singular.

"Viprāsaḥ" — viprāḥ is the ancient form of usage.

"Dhiyāyavaḥ" — धि धारणे । धीयते धार्यत्वेनावबुध्यते श्रुतमर्थजातमनयेति धिया प्रज्ञा । तामात्मन इच्छन्तीति धियायवः (dhi dhāraṇe | dhīyate dhāryatvenāvabudhyate śrutam artha-jātam anayeti dhiyā prajñā | tām ātmana icchantīti dhiyāyavaḥ) — "dhi in the sense of holding; that by which heard matters are held in the mind and understood is dhiyā — insight; those who desire that for themselves are dhiyāyavaḥ." The root dhi means "to hold" or "to know." Because by it one understands matters one has heard or seen, the word dhiyā arises. Those who desire insight or wisdom are called dhiyāyavaḥ.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

समोहे (samohe) — by the Phiṭ sūtra "phiṣaḥ" it takes the final accent of the base; वा and ca etc. are unaccented (Phiṭ sūtra, "vā cādayo 'nudāttāḥ" [?]). आशत (āśata) — root aśū vyāptau with luṇ; cli before luṇ (Pā. 3-1-43 [?]); Vedic loss of cli; āṭ augment for luṇ/laiṇ/lṛṇ before a root with initial vowel (Pā. 6-4-71 [?]), which is udātta; saty śiṣṭa-svara keeps the accent; vṛddhi of a+a by āṭas ca (Pā. 6-1-90 [?]) as a single substitute; ā is udātta; in the third plural ātmanepada jha → at (Pā. 7-1-5 [?]), giving āśata. नरः

(naraḥ) — final-udātta by base accent. सनितौ (sanitau) — root sana with ktin by "striyām ktin" (Pā. 3-3-94 [?]); the Vedic locative...²⁴

original p. 327

Rik 6 grammar closes; Sūkta 8, Rik 7

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

Continuing the grammar of Rik 6: सनितौ (sanitau) — the ktin abstract; the augment iṭ is not blocked here by "tīśutrgrahādīnām" (Pā. 7-2-9 [?]: tī, śu, tra before grahādi roots) because the grahādi group is an ākṛti-gaṇa, so iṭ arises as in nigṛhīti, niparīti. विप्रासः (viprāsaḥ) — vipra is formed with ran by an Uṇādi nipātana ("ṛjrendrāgra-vipra...", Uṇ. 2-[?]), hence final-/initial-udātta by the suffix; the Vedic asuk augment in the nominative plural (Pā. 7-1-50 [?]). धियायवः (dhiyāyavaḥ) — dhi dhāraṇe; dhiyam ātmana icchati → kyac by "supa ātmanaḥ kyac" (Pā. 3-1-8 [?]); Vedic kyāc (Pā. 3-2-170 [?]) giving the u-suffix after roots ending in kyac/kyas/kyan; the loss of a by "ato lopaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-48 [?]); final-udātta by the suffix; nominative plural dhiyāyavaḥ.

॥६॥

original p. 327

Sūkta 8, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यः कुक्षिः सोमपातमः समुद्र इव पिन्वते । उर्वीरापो न काकुदः ॥७॥

yaḥ kukṣiḥ somapātamaḥ samudra iva pinvate | urvīr āpo na kākudaḥ || 7 ||

24. Page 326 breaks off here; the grammar continues on p. 327.

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यः । कुक्षिः । सोमऽपातमः । समुद्रः । इव । पिन्वते ॥ उर्वीः । आपः । न । काकुदः ॥७॥

yaḥ | kukṣiḥ | soma-pātamaḥ | samudraḥ | iva | pinvate | |
urvīḥ | āpaḥ | na | kākudaḥ | |7| |

original p. 328

Rik 7: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

यः कुक्षिरस्येन्द्रस्योदरप्रदेशः सोमपातमो ऽतिशयेन सोमस्य पाता स कुक्षिः समुद्र इव पिन्वते । वर्धते । सेचनार्थो धातुरौचित्येन वृद्धिं लक्षयति । काकुदो मुखसंबन्धिन्य उर्वीर्बह्व्य आपो न जलानीव । जिह्वासंबन्धमास्योदकं यथा कदाचिदपि न शुष्यति तथेन्द्रस्य कुक्षिः सोमपूरितो न शुष्यतीत्यर्थः । यद्यपि श्लोक इत्यादिषु सप्तपञ्चाशत्सु वाङ्नामसु काकुज्जिहेति पठितं तथाप्युदकसंबन्धिपृथ्वर्मत्र [?] काकुच्छब्देन मुखमुपलक्ष्यते । संबन्धवाचिनस्तद्धितस्यात्र छान्दसो लोपो द्रष्टव्यः ॥

yaḥ kukṣir asyendras-yodara-pradeśaḥ somapātamo 'tiśayena somasya pātā sa kukṣiḥ samudra iva pinvate | vardhate |
secanārtho dhātur aucityena vṛddhiṃ lakṣayati | kākudo
mukha-saṃbandhinya urvīr bahvya āpo na jalānīva | jihvā-saṃbandham āsyodakam yathā kadācid api na śuśyati tathendrasya kukṣiḥ soma-pūrīto na śuśyatīty arthaḥ | yadyapi śloka ity-ādiṣu saptapañcāśatsu vāñ-nāmasu kākuj jihveti paṭhitaṃ tathāpy udaka-saṃbandhi-prṭhv-artham atra [?] kākuc-chabdena mukham upalakṣyate | saṃbandhavācinas taddhitasyātra chāndaso lopo draṣṭavyaḥ | |

Translation: "That belly (kukṣiḥ) — the region of the stomach — of Indra, somapātamaḥ — which drinks Soma to the utmost — that belly swells (pinvate, grows) like the ocean. The root [pinv] has the sense of sprinkling; by propriety it here indicates growth. Kākudaḥ — [the waters] connected with the mouth: urvīḥ, many āpaḥ, like waters. As the water in the mouth, connected with the tongue, never at any time dries up, so Indra's belly, filled with Soma, does not dry — this is the sense. Although kākut and jihvā are read among the fifty-seven words for speech beginning with śloka, still here the mouth is indicated by the word kākut [the clause concerning 'water-connected' is hard to read]. The taddhita suffix of relation has been dropped here by Vedic license." ²⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

यः कुक्षिः (yaḥ kukṣiḥ) — which belly of Indra | सोमपातमः (somapātamaḥ) — which drinks Soma (that belly) | समुद्रः इव (samudra iva) — like the ocean | पिन्वते (pinvate) — swells, grows big | (and) काकुदः (kākudaḥ) — [of the tongue] connected with the mouth (that is, within the mouth) | उर्वीः (urvīḥ) — abundant | आपः न (āpo na) — like water (is always moist and not dry).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Because he drinks Soma to excess, Indra's belly swells large like the ocean, and the tongue in his mouth is always moist, as if wetted with water.

॥ English Translation ॥

The belly of Indra which drinks soma-juice most abundantly swells like ocean and like the ample fluids of the palate.

original p. 329

Rik 7: Special Topics and grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

Here Indra's drinking of Soma is described by hyperbole (utprekṣā): Indra drinks abundant Soma-juice (offered by us), and therefore his belly swells like the ocean; and because he drinks

Soma again and again, his palate is always moist with Soma. As the saliva that flows constantly in the human mouth keeps the palate always moist, so Indra's stomach also is always wet with Soma-drinking and never dries. That is the idea.

"Kākudaḥ" — kakut means the palate; kākuda = connected with it. Or, since kākut and jihvā are read among the fifty-seven words for speech beginning with śloka (Nirukta 1-11 [?]), it is understood to mean "tongue." Everyone knows that the tongue, the mouth, are always moist; that is the comparison the poet draws here. Besides, in the Nirukta there is the statement काकुदं तालु इत्याचक्षते (kākudaṁ tālv ity ācakṣate, "they call the kākuda the palate," Nirukta 5-37? [?]); and this word also means "mountain peak." On that reading the sense is that streams that flow down from the top of a mountain keep the mountain always wet; "like that" the sense may also be taken.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁶

सोमपातमः (somapātamaḥ) — somaṁ pibati iti somapāḥ: ka suffix after pā, but this is overridden by "ātho manin-kvanib-vanipāś ca" (Pā. 3-2-74 [?]) and the ca in that sūtra brings vic; pā is final-udātta by the root accent; the compound keeps the first-member accent rule ("gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt," Pā. 6-2-139 [?]); then tamaḥ in the sense of excess ("atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau," Pā. 5-3-55 [?]); tamaḥ is pit, hence unaccented. समुद्रः (samudraḥ) — final-udātta by base accent; with iva the case-ending is dropped and the first member's accent kept ("ivena vibhaktyalopaḥ pūrvapadaprakṛtisvaratvaṁ ca vaktavyam," vārttika). पिन्वते (pinvate) — root pivi secane; num by "idito num dhātoḥ" (Pā.

25. The rest of the Sanskrit on this page, and p. 329's grammar — on सोमपातमः, समुद्रः, पिन्वते, उर्वीः, आपः, काकुदः — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

26. grammar pages 329–330, noted briefly

7-1-58 [?]); ātmanepada laṭ, third singular ta; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭere (Pā. 3-4-79 [?]) gives te; śap; śap is pit so unaccented; the root keeps its accent.²⁷

original p. 330

Rik 7 grammar closes

उर्वीः (urvīḥ) — uru is final-udātta; before the feminine nīṣ optionally after a quality-word ending in u (Pā. 4-1-44 [?], "voto guṇavacanāt"); yaṇ substitution; the accent of the ī-suffix by the sūtra on nadī-class endings; the case-ending jas with the Vedic single-substitute dīrgha giving urvīḥ. आपः (āpah) — base accent. काकुदः (kākudah) — kākut ("palate"; Nirukta 1-11-[?]) lists kākut among the fifty-seven speech-words beginning ślokaḥ) with the matup sense by the Mahābhāṣya rule on "bhūmanindā-prasamsāsu nityayoge 'tisāyane saṃbandhe 'sti-vivakṣāyāṃ bhavanti matupādayaḥ" (Pā. 5-2-94 vārttika [?]): in a sense of relation the matup suffix is added, then dropped by Vedic license; so kākudah means "connected with the mouth"; final-udātta by base accent.

॥७॥

original p. 330

Sūkta 8, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एवा ह्यस्य सूनृता विरप्शी गोमती मही । पक्वा शाखा न दाशुषे ॥८॥

evā hy asya sūnṛtā virapśī gomatī mahī | pakvā śākhā na dāśuṣe || 8 ||

27. The Sanskrit grammar continues: पिन्वते is not made unaccented as a verb here, by the rule yady-vṛtta-nityam, because the relative yaḥ precedes it in the sentence.

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एव । हि । अस्य । सूनृता । विऽरप्शी । गोऽमती । मही ॥ पक्वा । शाखा । न । दाशुषे ॥८॥ eva | hi | asya | sūnṛtā | vi-rapsī | go-matī | mahī | | pakvā |
 śākhā | na | dāśuṣe | | 8 |

original p. 331

Rik 8: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अभिप्लवषडहगतेषूक्थ्येषु तृतीयसवने ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिन एवा ह्यस्य सूनृतेत्यनुरूपस्तृचः । एह्य
 षु ब्रवाणि ते इति खण्डे अथ ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिन इत्युपक्रम्य एवा ह्यसि वीरयुरेवा ह्यस्य सूनृता ।
 आ. ६-८ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् ॥ अस्येन्द्रस्य सूनृता प्रियसत्यरूपा वाग्दाशुषे हविर्दत्तवते
 यजमानाय तदर्थमेवा हि एवं खलु [?] । अनन्तरपदवक्ष्यमाणगुणोपेता भवतीत्यर्थः । कीदृशी
 । विरप्शी विविधरपणोपेतवाक्ययुक्ता । बहुविधोपचारवादिनीत्यर्थः । गोमती
 बह्विभिर्गोभिरुपेता । गोप्रदेत्यर्थः । अत एव मही महती पूज्या । यथोक्तवाको [?] । पक्वा शाखा न । यथा बहुभिः पक्वैः फलैरुपेता पनसवृक्षादिशाखा प्रीतिहेतुस्तद्वत् ॥ abhiplava-ṣaḍaha-gateṣūkthyeṣu tṛtīya-savane brāhmaṇācchaṃsina evā hy asya sūnṛtety anurūpas tṛcaḥ | ehy ū ṣu bravāṇi te iti khaṇḍe atha brāhmaṇācchaṃsina ity upakramya evā hy asi vīrayur evā hy asya sūnṛtā | ā. 6-8 [?] |

iti sūtritām | | asyendrasya sūnṛtā priya-satya-rūpā vāg dāśuṣe havir dattavate yajamānāya tad-artham evā hi evaṃ khalu [?] | anantara-pada-vakṣyamāṇa-guṇopetā bhavatīty
arthaḥ | kīdrśī | virapsī vividha-rapaṇopeta-vākya-yuktā |
bahu-vidhopacāra-vādinīty arthaḥ | gomatī bahvībhīr gobhīr
upetā | go-pradety arthaḥ | ata eva mahī mahatī pūjyā |
yathokta-vāko [?] | pakvā śākhā na | yathā bahubhiḥ pakvaiḥ
phalair upetā panasa-vṛkṣādi-śākhā prīti-hetus tadvat | |

Translation: "In the ukthya [rites] of the Abhiplava Ṣaḍaha, at the third pressing, for the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin, the triplet beginning evā hy asya sūnṛtā is the anurūpa. So it is laid down in the section ehy ū ṣu bravāṇi te, beginning 'atha brāhmaṇācchaṃsinaḥ': 'evā hy asi vīrayuḥ, evā hy asya sūnṛtā' (Āśvalāyana 6-8 [?]). Asya — of this Indra, the sūnṛtā — speech of the nature of the pleasant and the true — is, to the dāśuṣe, the sacrificer who has given the oblation, [given] for that very purpose; thus [evā hi]: it is endowed with the qualities stated in the next words. What kind? Virapśī — equipped with speech having various utterings; that is, speaking many kinds of courtesies. Gomatī — furnished with many cows; that is, giving cows. Therefore mahī — great, honourable. [One phrase here is hard to read.] Pakvā śākhā na — as a branch of a jackfruit tree or the like, laden with many ripe fruits, is a cause of delight, so [is his speech]." ²⁸

original p. 332

Rik 8: word-meanings, overall sense, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अस्य (asya) — of Indra | सूनृता (sūnṛtā) — the pleasant and true (speech) | दाशुषे (dāśuṣe) — to the sacrificer who offers the oblation | पक्वा शाखा न (pakvā śākhā na) — like a branch laden with ripe fruit | विरप्शी (virapśī) — of many kinds (granting what is wished) | गोमती (gomatī) — giving cows | मही (mahī) — worthy of honour | एवा हि (evā hi) — [is] indeed (always so).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Toward the sacrificer who gives the oblation, Indra's word is true and grants many desires. Moreover that word of Indra, like a branch full of ripe fruits, gives the sacrificer his many kinds of

28. The rest of the p. 331 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of एवा, हि, अस्य, सूनृता, विरप्शी, गोमती, मही, पक्वा, शाखा, दाशुषे; noted briefly with the Kannada grammar below.

desired things, and gives cows as well. Because Indra's word is always worshipful it is deserving of respect; it never turns out false.²⁹

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The application. At the time of reciting the mantras in the rite called Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, in the third pressing, the priest called Brāhmaṇācchaṁsin is to recite the triplet evā hy asya sūnṛtā. Āśvalāyana says this in his Śrauta-sūtra (Āś. 6-3 [?]) in the section ehy ū ṣu bravāṇi te, beginning atha brāhmaṇācchaṁsinaḥ, directing that the riks evā hy asi vīrayuḥ (Ṛgveda Saṁhitā 8-93-? [?]) and evā hy asya sūnṛtā (Ṛgveda Saṁhitā 1-8-8) be recited.

The sense of the rik is somewhat involved. Indra always gives each person what they desire when they worship him. His word is pleasant and true; it does not become false. And as a branch of a jackfruit tree laden with fine ripe fruit gives joy to people, so Indra's word is pleasing to people. For Indra gives to the sacrificer who gives him the oblation, and to others like him, cows and many other desired things. Therefore his word is worshipful and deserving of honour. The main idea is that it can never turn out false.

"Sūnṛtā" — ऊन परिहाणे । सुतरामूनयत्यप्रियमिति सून् । सा चासावृता सत्या चेति
सूनृता प्रियसत्या वाक् (ūna parihāṇe | sutarām ūnayaty apriyam iti sūn
| sā cāsāv ṛtā satyā ceti sūnṛtā priya-satyā vāk) — "[root] ūna, 'to diminish'; that which thoroughly removes the unpleasant is sūn; that, and also ṛtā — true — is sūnṛtā: pleasant and true speech." That is, the root ūna means to remove; because it removes the unpleasant, evil, so well, it is called sūn; ṛta means truth; so the word sūnṛtā means speech that is not unpleasant — that is, pleasant and true. Skandasvāmī, for the word virapśī, gives besides the sense सर्वकामदुघा (sarvakāma-dughā, "milking all desires": that gives all wished-for things) another: सूनुता गर्जितलक्षणा वाक् । गोमती आपोऽत्र गाव उच्यन्ते (sūnṛtā garjita-lakṣaṇā vāk | gomatī āpo 'tra gāva ucyante) — "sūnṛtā is speech characterized by thundering; gomatī: here the waters are called gāvaḥ [cows]." That is, here the word go is to be taken as "water." Sūnṛtā means a rumbling speech or sound; so the words sūnṛtā gomatī are taken to mean "waters with sound," that is, rain accompanied by the thunder of clouds. ³⁰

29. No "English Translation" block is printed for this rik in the source, as also for Rik 7.6; none is supplied here.

original p. 333

Rik 8: Special Topics (continued)

"Virapśī" — विविधरपणोपेतवाक्ययुता । बहुविधोपचारवादिनी । रप लप व्यक्तायां वाचि । विचित्रं रपणं यस्यां वाचि अस्तीति सा विरप्शी (vividha-rapaṇopeta-vākya-yutā | bahu-vidhopacāra-vādinī | rapa lapa vyaktāyāṃ vāci | vicitraṃ rapaṇaṃ yasyāṃ vāci astīti sā virapśī) — "speech joined with various utterings; speaking many kinds of courtesies. [Roots] rapa, lapa in the sense of clear speech. That speech in which there is varied speaking is virapśī." The root rap means to speak, to talk; vi-rapaṇa means speaking specially, or in a manifold or varied way. A speech having such words is virapśī: speech that embraces many kinds of courtesies. That is: Indra's word gives many kinds of desired things. Although the word virapśī is customarily taken in the sense "great" (mahat), here the word mahī ("great") is also present in the rik, and so it would be a fault of repetition; therefore the Bhāṣyakāra supposes the component-sense for this word.

"Evā" — the vowel ā is lengthened here for the convenience of the meter.

"Gomatī" — बह्विभिर्गोभिरुपेता । गोप्रदेत्यर्थः (bahvībhīr gobhīr upetā | go-pradety arthaḥ) — "furnished with many cows"; i.e., giving cows.

30. Skandasvāmī's "ā" before garjita is as printed; the Sanskrit is compressed.

"Pakvā śākhā" — "pakvā śākhā" does not here mean a branch that is itself ripe, but a branch laden with ripe fruits. Since such fruits are wanted by everyone, the poet gives this comparison. Here na means "like" (iva).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³¹

एव (eva) — "evādīnām antaḥ" (Phiṭ-sūtra [?]): the final of eva and its class is udātta, so eva is final-udātta; in the Saṃhitā the particle is lengthened in a mantra by "nīpāasya ca" (Pā. 6-3-136 [?]), giving evā. हि (hi) — a nīpāta, initial-udātta (Phiṭ-sūtra "80"). अस्य (asya) — it refers to Indra mentioned before; so idam takes the substitute aś (Pā. 2-4-32 [?], "idamo 'nvādeśe 'śanudāttas tṛtīyādaḥ"), an unaccented substitute in the whole stem; the a is unaccented, so asya is wholly unaccented. सूनुता (sūnṛtā) — root ūna pariḥāṇe ("to diminish"): sutarām ūnayati apriyam iti sūn; ṛta "truth"; the compound sūnṛtā; Vedic parādīś chandasi bahulam (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]), where the word saktham is carried over, so the first vowel of the second member is often udātta in the Veda; vibhāṣā is also carried over, so the "many" (bahulam) here only indicates optionality; therefore the accent falls on ṛ of ṛtā even though no sakthi-word is present. विरप्शी (virapśī) — rapa lapa "clear speech" with the upasarga vi; kvip (Pā. 3-2-178 [?], "sāmpadādibhyaḥ kvip"), all letters of kvip dropped; virap = "varied speech"; virapśa = sentence; virapśī = "speech having varied sentences"; ini ("ata ini-ṭhanau," Pā. 5-2-115 [?]) after virapśa, giving virapśin; feminine nīp (Pā. 4-1-5 [?], "ugitāś ca"); ā + ī → ī; ī is udātta by the single-substitute rule. गोमती (gomatī) — "gāvaḥ asyāṃ santi": matup by the sūtra on tad asyāsty asminn iti matup (Pā. 5-2-94 [?]); nīp by "ugitāś ca," both nīp and matup being pīṭ so unaccented; go retains its base accent. ^{32 33}

original p. 334

original p. 335

31. grammar pages 333–335, noted briefly

32. Continues on p. 335.

Rik 8 grammar (continued)

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

मही (mahī) — "mahatī": after mahat, by "ugitāś ca" (Pā. 4-1-6 [?]) the feminine nīp arises after a stem ending in an uk-marked suffix; nīp is pit, so unaccented; the nadī-class suffix is udātta by the sūtra on br̥han-mahator upasaṃkhyānam (Pā. 6-1-171 vārttika [?]); and mahat loses its at by Vedic license. पक्वा (pakvā) — root ḍupacaṣ pāke ("to cook") with ktā (Pā. 3-2-102 [?], past sense); t → v after pac (Pā. 8-2-52 [?]); c → k before it (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]); the accent of the suffix gives final-udātta pakva; the feminine ṭāp (Pā. 4-1-4 [?], "ajādyataṣṭāp"), ṭāp being pit so unaccented; savarṇa-dīrgha of the two a's, the long vowel udātta by the single-substitute rule (Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). शाखा (śākhā) — root śākhṛ ślākhṛ vyāptau ("to pervade") from the pacādi list, ac suffix; initial/final-udātta by cit; the vṛṣādi group (an ākṛti-gaṇa) overrides to make it initial-udātta (Pā. 6-1-203 [?]); ṭāp and savarṇa-dīrgha give the ā, accented as svarita by "udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ." दाशुषे (dāśuṣe) — dāśvān sāvān mīdhvāṃś ca (Pā. 6-1-12 [?]) made irregular (nipātana); from the root dāśṛ dāne ("to give") with kvasu and no iṭ and no doubling; dative singular ne → dāśvas + e; yaci bham (Pā. 1-4-18 [?]) gives the technical bha status, so vasoḥ samprasāraṇam (Pā. 6-4-131 [?]) applies: va → u; pūrvārūpa gives dāśuṣ + e; ṣatva by "śāsi-vasi-ghasīnāṃ ca" (Pā. 8-3-60 [?]) — the source notes that vasu here means the root vasa nivāse, not the suffix vasu, so the usual ṣatva is not applied from that sūtra and the matter was treated earlier (Ṛgveda 1-6-? [?]); the u is udātta by the suffix.

॥८॥

33. Page 334 carries the Kannada grammar of सूनुता and विरष्णी, गोमती as summarized above; its closing lines, continuing on p. 335, treat मही, पक्वा, शाखा and दाशुषे.

Sūkta 8, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एवा हि ते विभूतय ऊतय इन्द्र मावते । सद्यश्चित्सन्ति दाशुषे ॥९॥

evā hi te vibhūṭaya ūtaya indra māvate | sadyaś cit santi
dāśuṣe || 9 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एव । हि । ते । विभूतयः । ऊतयः । इन्द्र । मावते ॥ सद्यः । चित् । सन्ति । दाशुषे ॥९॥

eva | hi | te | vi-bhūṭayaḥ | ūtayaḥ | indra | māvate | |
sadyaḥ | cit | santi | dāśuṣe || 9 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र ते तव विभूतय ऐश्वर्यविशेषा एवा हि एवंविधाः खलु । किंविधा इति तदुच्यते । मावते मत्सदृशाय दाशुषे हविर्दत्तवते यजमानायोतयस्त्वदीयरक्षारूपाः सद्यश्चित्सन्ति । यदा कर्मानुष्ठितं तदैव भवन्ति ॥ मावते । मत्सदृशाय । वतुष्करणे युष्मदस्मद्भ्यां छन्दसि सादृश्य उपसंख्यानम् । पा. ५-२-३९ वा. [?] । इत्यस्मच्छब्दाद्वतुप् । मपर्यन्तस्य प्रत्ययोत्तरपदयोश्च । पा. ७-२-९८ [?] । इति मादेशः । आद्रुणेन सहातो गुणे । पा. ६-१-९४ । इति पररूपत्वम् । दृग्दृशवतुषु । पा. ६-३-८९ [?] इत्यनुवृत्तेन सर्वनाम्नः । पा. ६-३-९१ [?] । इति दकारस्याकारः । सवर्णदीर्घत्वम् । वतुपः पित्वात्प्रातिपदिकस्वर एव शिष्यते । सद्यः । समाने ह्यनि [?] । सद्यः परुत्परार्यैषमः । पा. ५-३-२२ [?] । इत्यादिना निपातितम् । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तत्वम् । चित् । चादयो ऽनुदात्ताः ॥ सन्ति । अस भुवि । लटः स्थाने झि । झो ऽन्तः । पा. ७-१-३ । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः । पा. २-४-७२ । इति शपो लुक् । तिङः प्रत्ययोद्व्युदात्तत्वम् [?] । प्रत्ययलोपे प्रत्ययलक्षणम् । पा. १-१-६२ । इति शबकारमाश्रित्य लसार्वधातुकानुदात्तत्वं न भवति । वर्णाश्रयविधौ प्रत्ययलक्षणं नास्ति । परि. ११ [?] । इति निषेधात् । दाशुषे । गतमन्त्रे गतम् ॥

he indra te tava vibhūṭaya aiśvarya-viśeṣā evā hi evaṃvidhāḥ
khalu | kiṃvidhā iti tad ucyate | māvate mat-sadṛśāya dāśuṣe havir dattavate yajamānāyotayas tvadīya-rakṣā-rūpāḥ sadyaś
cit santi | yadā karmānuṣṭhitaṃ tadaiva bhavanti || māvate |

*mat-sadrśāya | vatup-karaṇe yuṣmad-asmadbhyām chandasi
sādrśya upasaṃkhyānam | pā. 5-2-39 vā. [?] | ity asmacchadbād vatup | mapary-antasya pratyayottarapadayoś ca |
pā. 7-2-98 [?] | iti mādeśaḥ | ād-guṇena saha ato guṇe | pā.
6-1-94 | iti pararūpatvam | dṛg-dṛśa-vatuṣu | pā. 6-3-89 [?] ity anuvṛttena sarvanāmnah | pā. 6-3-91 [?] | iti dakārasyākāraḥ
| savarṇa-dīrghatvam | vatupaḥ pītvāt prātipadika-svara eva śiṣyate | sadyaḥ | samāne hy ani [?] | sadyaḥ parut-parāry-aiṣamaḥ | pā. 5-3-22 [?] | ity-ādinā nipātitaḥ | pratyayasvareṇāntodāttatvam | cit | cādayo 'nudāttāḥ | | santi | asa bhuvi | laṭaḥ sthāne jhi | jho 'ntaḥ | pā. 7-1-3 |
ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ | pā. 2-4-72 | iti śapo luk | tiṇaḥ pratyayodvyudāttatvam [?] | pratyaya-lope pratyaya-lakṣaṇam | pā. 1-1-62 | iti śabakāram āsṛitya
lasārvadhātukānudāttatvaṃ na bhavati | varṇāśraya-vidhau pratyaya-lakṣaṇam nāsti | pari. 11 [?] | iti niṣedhāt | dāśuṣe |
gatamantre gatam | |*

Translation: "O Indra! Your vibhūṭayaḥ — special powers — are indeed (evā hi) of this kind. Of what kind? It is said: māvate — to one like me — dāśuṣe, the sacrificer who has given the oblation — your ūṭayaḥ, protections — santi exist sadyaś cit, at once: they exist at the very moment the rite is performed." The grammatical remainder of the Sanskrit explains: māvate — by the vārttika on vatup after yuṣmad / asmad in the Veda in the sense of resemblance (Pā. 5-2-39 vārttika [?]), the suffix vatup comes after asmad; ma replaces the end of the stem (Pā. 7-2-98 [?]); pararūpa with the a (Pā. 6-1-94); the d becomes ā by Pā. 6-3-91 [?]; savarṇa-dīrgha; vatup is pī, so the base accent stands. Sadyaḥ — formed irregularly (nipātita) from samāne ahani ("on the same day") by Pā. 5-3-22 [?] and its class; final-udātta by the suffix; cit is unaccented (cādayo 'nudāttāḥ). Santi — root as bhuvi, jhi for laṭ, jh → ant (Pā. 7-1-3), śap dropped (Pā. 2-4-72); the principle of pratyaya-lakṣaṇa is not applied, by the rule that it does not govern a rule based on letters (varṇāśraya); dāśuṣe — "gone [explained] under the earlier mantra." ³⁴

original p. 337

Rik 9: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | ते (te) — your | विभूतयः (vibhūtayah) — special glories | एवा हि (evā hi) — are of this kind (that is) | मावते (māvate) — to one like me | दाशुषे (dāśuṣe) — to the sacrificer who offers the oblation | (your glories are) ऊतयः (ūtayah) — in the form of protections | सद्यश्चित् सन्ति (sadyaś cit santi) — they are at once present.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! The protections you give to a sacrificer like me who offers the oblation are endowed with this kind of greatness: they arrive at the very time we are performing the rite. This very greatness is your special glory.

॥ English Translation ॥

Verily, Indra, your glories are at all times (at once) the protectors of every such worshipper as I am.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

O Indra! You always protect people like us. And in particular, to the sacrificer who offers the oblation, your protection comes at once, while the sacrifice is being performed. Is not this your glory? That is the chief idea.

34. Several sūtra numbers and the phrase after samāne are read from compressed print and flagged.

"Evā" — for the convenience of the meter, the syllable va is lengthened (evā).

"Māvate" — मत्सदृशाय (mat-sadrśāya) — "like me; one equal to me."

"Sadyaścit"

— immediately, at once, on the spot, without delay.

original p. 338

Rik 9: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

मावते (māvate) — "equal to me." A vārttika under the sūtra on vatup (Pā. 5-2-39 [?]) prescribes that in the Veda vatup follows yuṣmad and asmad in the sense of similarity; so asmad + vatup; ma replaces the end of the stem (Pā. 7-2-98 [?]), and the ma + a + vatup combine by pararūpa (Pā. 6-1-94 [?]); the d of the pronoun becomes a by the rule on ḍṛk, ḍṛś, vatu (Pā. 6-3-89/91 [?]); the savarṇa-dīrgha gives māvat; the dative singular ñe gives māvate; vatup is pīt, and ñe is sup, so both are unaccented (Pā. 3-1-4 [?]), and the stem keeps the base accent (final-udātta). सद्यः (sadyaḥ) — sa for sa and the suffix dyas, irregularly formed (Pā. 5-3-22 [?]); the Mahābhāṣya states this in the sentence "sa-bhāvo dyus ca āpasi" [?]; final-udātta by the suffix. चित् (cit) — unaccented by "cādayo 'nudāttāḥ" (Phīṭ-sūtra [?]). सन्ति (santi) — root as, laṭ third plural jhi, jh → ant (Pā. 7-1-3 [?]); śap dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); śnasor allopaḥ (Pā. 6-4-111 [?]) drops the a of as; so santi; the finite verb is initial-udātta here by the suffix-accent rule (Pā. 3-1-3 [?])³⁵.

original p. 339

35. the printed page breaks off here; the grammar continues on p. 339

Rik 9 grammar closes; Sūkta 8, Rik 10॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

Closing the grammar of सन्ति (santi): the initial vowel of the finite verb is udātta; since the śap has been dropped by luk, the verb asti would not be unaccented as a sārvadhātuka after an ā-d-upadeśa stem by "tāsyānudātenñid-adupadeśāl lasārvadhātukam anudāttam" (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]) — as is not an a-ending-by-teaching (ādupadeśa) root in the sense required — but the principle that a suffix that has been dropped still counts (pratyayalope pratyayalakṣaṇam, Pā. 1-1-62 [?]) would restore the accent-blocking effect; this is blocked by "na lumatāṅgasya" (Pā. 1-1-63 [?]), and the source argues at length (with the paribhāṣā "varṇāśraye nāsti pratyayalakṣaṇam," Paribhāṣā [?]) that pratyayalakṣaṇa does not apply to a rule based on letters; so the verb is accordingly not made unaccented by that rule. दाशुषे (dāśuṣe) — the process was described under the earlier mantra (Rik 8).

॥१॥

original p. 339

Sūkta 8, Rik 10 (the last)॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³⁶

एवाह्यस्य काम्या स्तोम उक्थं च शंस्या । इन्द्राय सोमपीतये ॥१०॥

evāhy asya kāmīyā stoma uktham ca śaṃsyā | indrāya somapītaye || 10 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एव । हि । अस्य । काम्या । स्तोमः । उक्थम् । च । शंस्या ॥ इन्द्राय । सोमऽपीतये ॥१०॥

36. The Saṃhitā text prints evā hy asya as one run, एवाह्यस्य, as in the print; the pada text below separates it.

*eva | hi | asya | kāmīyā | stomah | uktham | ca | śaṃsyā | |
indrāya | soma-pītaye | | 10 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अस्येन्द्रस्य स्तोमः सामसाध्यं स्तोत्रमुक्तं चकसाध्यं शस्त्रमुभे एवा ह्येते उभे एवंविधे खलु ।
किंविधे इति तदुच्यते । काम्या कामयितव्ये शंस्या ऋत्विग्भिः शंसनीये । किमर्थं शंसनमिति
तदुच्यते । इन्द्राय सोमपीतये । इन्द्रस्य सोमपानार्थम् ॥ एवा ह्यस्य । व्यवहितमन्त्रे गतम् ।

काम्या । कमेर्णिङ्... [Sanskrit grammar of kāmīyā, stomah, uktham, śaṃsyā, somapītaye, continuing on p. 340, noted below]

*asyendrasya stomah sāma-sādhyam stotram uktham ca ṛk-sādhyam śastra ubhe evā hy ete ubhe evaṃvidhe khalu |
kimvidhe iti tad ucyate | kāmīyā kāmāyitavye śaṃsyā ṛtvigbhiḥ
śaṃsanīye | kim-artham śaṃsanam iti tad ucyate | indrāya somapītaye | indrasya soma-pānārtham | | evā hy asya |
vyavahita-mantre gatam | kāmīyā | kamer ṇiṅ ...*

Translation: "Stoma — the praise sung, achieved through the Sāman — and uktha — the śastra recited, achieved through ṛks — these two are indeed of this kind (evā hi). Of what kind? Kāmīyā — to be desired; śaṃsyā — to be recited by the ṛtvijs. For what purpose is the recitation? Indrāya somapītaye — for Indra's drinking of Soma. [The phrase evā hy asya was explained in the earlier mantra, Rik 8.]"

original p. 340

Rik 10: word-meanings, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अस्य (asya) — of this Indra (made in regard to Indra) | स्तोमः (stomah) — the praise in the form of Sāman singing | उक्तं च (uktham ca) — and the praise recited as a śastra from the ṛks (both these two kinds) | काम्या एव हि (kāmīyā eva hi) — are indeed granting what is wished | these praises इन्द्राय सोमपीतये (indrāya somapītaye) — for Indra's drinking of Soma | शंस्या (śaṃsyā) — are praised by the ṛtvijs.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The praises in the form of Sāman chants with which the ṛtvijs invite Indra to drink Soma, and the ṛks recited as śāstra with ṛk-mantras — both of these kinds of praise are indeed welcome to those people, sacrificers and others, who worship Indra.

॥ English Translation ॥

Verily his chanted and recited praises are to be desired and repeated to Indra, that he may drink the Soma-juice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Stomaḥ"; "Uktham" — stoma means the Sāma-Veda mantras sung as chant; uktha means recitation as śāstra, that is, reciting Ṛgveda mantras plainly, without melody, unlike chanting. We have already explained this matter earlier.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

The words

एवा (evā), हि (hi), अस्य (asya) have been treated in the eighth mantra of this same sūkta.

original p. 341

Rik 10 grammar; close of Sūkta 8

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

काम्या (kāmyā) — root kamu kāntau ("to desire"); ṇic in its own sense by "kameṇiṇ" (Pā. 3-1-30 [?]); the penultimate vowel strengthened by "ata upadhāyāḥ" (Pā. 7-2-116 [?]); then yat after a vowel-ending root by "ac-o yat" (Pā. 3-1-97 [?]); the ṇi dropped by

"ṇeraniṭi" (Pā. 6-4-51 [?]); yat is t-marked, so svarita would be expected (Pā. 6-1-185 [?]), but by "yato 'nāvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-213 [?]) the first vowel is udātta where yat follows a word other than nau; the dual au replaced by ḍā (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]). स्तोमः (stomaḥ) — root ṣtuñ stutau with man by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 1-142 [?]); guṇa by Pā. 7-3-84 [?]. उक्थम् (uktham) — root vaca paribhāṣaṇe ("to speak") with thak (Uṇ. 2-[?]); the suffix is kit, so Vedic saṃprasāraṇa of va (vaci-svapi-yajādīnām kiti, Pā. 6-1-15 [?]), giving ukth; c → k (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]); no laghūpadha-guṇa since the suffix is kit. शंस्या (śamsyā) — root śamsu stutau with ṇic; yat after a ṇic-ending root; ṇi dropped; yato 'nāvaḥ gives initial-udātta; the dual ending by ḍā. सोमपीतये (somapītaye) — somasya pītiḥ ("drinking of Soma"); the compound would take the final-udātta of the second member (kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svara) by Pā. 6-2-139 [?], but by vyatyaya it takes the initial udātta; or, alternatively, somasya pītir yasya indrasya — "Indra, whose is the drinking of Soma" as a bahuvrīhi, in which the first member keeps its natural accent (Pā. 6-2-1).³⁷

॥१०॥

End of Sūkta 8.

original p. 342

37. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The page ends with ॥१०॥.

॥ ಒಂಭತ್ತನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 9 — "indrehi matsy andhasaḥ" ("The Ninth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

इन्द्रेहीत्यादिकं दशर्चं सूक्तं सुरूपकृत्वमित्यादिषु षष्ठम् । ऋष्यादयस्तु पूर्ववत् ।
विशेषस्त्वतिरात्रे द्वितीयपर्याये ऽच्छावाकशस्त्र इन्द्रेहीत्यनुरूपस्तृचः । अतिरात्रे पर्यायाणामिति खण्डे इदं वसो सुतमन्धः इन्द्रेहि मत्स्यन्धसः । आ. ६-४ । इति सूत्रितम् ॥

*indrehity-ādikam daśarcaṃ sūktaṃ surūpakṛtnum ity-ādiṣu ṣaṣṭham | ṛṣy-ādayas tu pūrvavat | viśeṣas tv atirātre dvitīyaparyāye 'cchāvāka-śāstra indrehity anurūpas tṛcaḥ | atirātre paryāyāṇām iti khaṇḍe idaṃ vaso sutam andhaḥ indrehi
matsy andhasaḥ | ā. 6-4 | iti sūtritam | |*

Translation: "The ten-rik sūkta beginning indrehi is the sixth among those beginning with surūpakṛtnum. Ṛṣi and the rest are as before. Its special application: in the Atirātra, in the second paryāya, in the Acchāvāka's śāstra, the triplet beginning indrehi is the anurūpa. It is laid down in the section 'of the paryāyas in the Atirātra': 'idaṃ vaso sutam andhaḥ, indrehi matsy andhasaḥ' (Āśvalāyana 6-4)."

॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) ॥ The sūkta indrehi has ten riks; among the sūktas beginning surūpakṛtnum it is the sixth. Ṛṣi, deity and meter are as in the preceding sūktas. Special application: in the Atirātra rite, in the second paryāya, the Acchāvāka — a priest of the hotṛ group — recites the triplet indrehi. In the section on the paryāyas of the Atirātra, the riks idaṃ vaso sutam andhaḥ (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-2-1) and indrehi matsy andhasaḥ (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-9-1) are to be recited in the (first and second) paryāyas of the Atirātra rite, as Āśvalāyana says in his Śrauta-sūtra (Āś. Sū. 6-4).

॥ ॐ ॥

original p. 342

Sūkta 9, Rik 1

॥ Sūkta — 9 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 3 ॥ Sūkta — 9 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 17, 18 [?] ॥ ¹ ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1-10 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Madhucchandā
Vaiśvāmītra ॥ ॥ Devatā — Indra ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रेहि मत्स्यन्धसो विश्वेभिः सोमपर्वभिः । मह्यँ अभिष्टिरोजसा ॥१॥

indrehi matsy andhaso viśvebhiḥ somaparvabhiḥ | mahāṃ abhiṣṭir ojasā || 1 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र । आ । इहि । मत्सि । अन्धसः । विश्वेभिः । सोमऽपर्वऽभिः ॥ महान् । अभिष्टिः । ओजसा ॥१॥

*indra | ā | ihi | matsi | andhasaḥ | viśvebhiḥ | soma-parva-
bhiḥ | | mahān | abhiṣṭiḥ | ojasā || 1 ||*

original p. 343

1. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; they continue the run of two vargas per sūkta: Sūkta 7 "13, 14", Sūkta 8 "15, 16"

Rik 1: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र एहि । अस्मत्समीपमागच्छ । आगत्य च विश्वेभिः सर्वैः सोमपर्वभिः सोमरसरूपैरन्धसो
ऽन्नैर्मत्सि । माद्य [?] । हृष्यो भव । तते [?] ऊर्ध्वमोजसा बलेन महान्भूत्वाभिष्टिः
शत्रूणामभिभविता भवेति शेषः । अष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु बलनामसु ओजः पाजः इति पठितम्
॥

*he indra ehi | asmat-samīpam āgaccha | āgatya ca viśvebhiḥ
sarvaiḥ somaparvabhiḥ soma-rasa-rūpair andhaso 'nnair matsi | mādyā [?] | hr̥ṣyo bhava | tate [?] ūrdhvam ojasā balena mahān bhūtvābhiṣṭiḥ śatrūṇām abhibhavitā bhaveti śeṣaḥ | aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu bala-nāmasu ojaḥ pājaḥ iti
paṭhitam | |*

Translation: "O Indra, come (ehi); approach us. Having come, rejoice (matsi, be gladdened; mādyā — be pleased [the form is hard to read]) with all (viśvebhiḥ) the somaparvas — the foods (andhasaḥ) in the form of Soma-juice. After that, becoming great (mahān) by your ojas, your strength, be the abhiṣṭi, the overcomer of enemies — this is the sentence to be completed. Among the twenty-eight words for 'strength,' ojaḥ and pājaḥ are read." ²

2. The rest of the p. 343 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of एहि, मत्सि, अन्धसः, विश्वेभिः, सोमपर्वभिः, अभिष्टिः, ओजसा; grammar noted briefly. In outline: the ā + ihi becomes ehi by guṇa, with a discussion of how ā and the following i form a single substitute; matsi is the loṭ second-person of the root madī harṣe with hi optionally replaced and śyan dropped by Vedic license, and the d of the root becoming t before s; andhas is formed with asun; viśvebhiḥ with kvan and no ais by Vedic license; somaparvabhiḥ is a compound with the accent explained by the sūtra on gati-kāraka-preceded kṛdanta; abhiṣṭi is from iṣ gatau with ktin; ojas is formed with asun from ubja ārjave.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | एहि (ehi) — come (to this sacrificial ground where we perform) | विश्वेभिः (viśvebhiḥ) — all | सोमपर्वभिः (somaparvabhiḥ) — in the form of Soma-juice | अन्धसः (andhasaḥ) — with foods | मत्सि (matsi) — be satisfied | (after that) ओजसा (ojasā) — by strength | महान् (mahān) — greater | अभिष्टिः (abhiṣṭiḥ) — one who brings defeat to (enemies).

original p. 344

Rik 1 continued

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Come here, and, being satisfied with the food in the form of Soma that we have prepared — that is, by drinking Soma — become greater, strengthened by it, and defeat the enemies.

॥ English Translation ॥ ³

Come, O Indra, and regale yourself with Soma-libations and with all viands and mighty in strength be victorious (over your enemies).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Matsi" — the second-person singular lot form of the root madī harṣaglepanayoḥ ("to rejoice; to be glad"). The sense: be gratified, attain satisfaction.

"Andhasaḥ" — the word andhaḥ is read among the twenty-eight words for "food" beginning with andhaḥ, vājaḥ (Nirukta 3-9 [?]); so andhasaḥ means "with food."

"Somaparvabhiḥ" — लताऽरूपं सोमं पृणन्ति पूरयन्तीति सोमपर्वानः (latā-rūpaṃ somaṃ pṛṇanti pūrayantīti somaparvāṇaḥ) — "[those that] fill the Soma that is of the form of the creeper are

3. as printed in the source

somaparvāṇaḥ": that is, because they fill the vessel after pressing the Soma creeper, they are called somarasa ("Soma-juices"). Skandasvāmī gives for this word the above sense and also another, "gods": सोममयानि पर्वाणि येषां ते सोमपर्वाणो देवाः । यो हि यदाहारो भवति तस्य तन्मयानि पर्वाणि भवन्ति । सोमाहाराश्च देवाः (somamayāni parvāṇi yeṣāṃ te somaparvāṇo devāḥ | yo hi yad-āhāro bhavati tasya tanmayāni parvāṇi bhavanti | somāhārāś ca devāḥ) — "those whose joints are made of Soma are the somaparvāṇas, the gods; for whatever one's food is, one's joints are made of that; and the gods have Soma for their food." The gods too take Soma-juice as their food, so they are called somaparvāṇaḥ. Therefore the sentence indra viśvebhiḥ somaparvabhiḥ ehi in this rik should be understood: "O Indra, come here together with all the gods."

"Abhiṣṭiḥ" — अभिगन्ता (abhigantā) — one who approaches [to defeat] enemies: one who brings defeat on enemies, who conquers enemies.

"Ojasā" — by strength, by capacity. Among the twenty-eight words for strength beginning with ojaḥ, pājaḥ, the word ojaḥ is read (Nirukta 2-9).

original p. 345

Rik 1: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴

एहि (ehi) — ā + ihi: by "ād guṇaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-87 [?]) guṇa arises as a single substitute; the sūtra "antādivac ca" (Pā. 6-1-85 [?]) carried over from "ekaḥ pūrvaparayoḥ" makes the substitute count as both the final of the earlier and the initial of the later item, so that both ā (as an upasarga) and the āñ-status remain — the source cites the Bhāṣya line "yo 'py ubhayoḥ sthāne labhete 'sāv anyatarato vyapadeśam" to this effect; and "omāñoś ca" (Pā. 6-1-95 [?]) — the rule that pararūpa arises when om or āñ is

4. grammar page, noted briefly

followed by a vowel — would give indra + ehi → indrehi. मत्सि (matsi) — madī harṣaglepanayoḥ, loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi by Pā. 3-4-87 [?] (optional here, but "sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante"); śyan by "divādibhyaḥ śyan" (Pā. 3-1-69 [?]), dropped by Vedic bahulam (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); the question of whether the principle pratyayalakṣaṇa then prevents the lengthening "śamām aṣṭānām dīrgha śyani" (Pā. 7-3-74 [?]) is answered by "na lumatāṅgasya" (Pā. 1-1-63 [?]); d → t by "khari ca" (Pā. 8-4-55 [?]), giving matsi. अन्धसः (andhasaḥ) — root ada bhakṣaṇe with asun and the augment nuk, d → dh (Uṇ. 4-[?]).⁵

original pp. 346–347

Rik 1 grammar closes; Rik 2

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥⁶

Continuing the grammar of Rik 1: अन्धसः (andhasaḥ) — asun after the root ada; the suffix is nit so initial-udātta; in the sense of "by food" the ending is the instrumental plural. विश्वेभिः (viśvebhiḥ) — root aśū vyāptau (or viśa praveśane) with kvan (Uṇ. 1-[?]); the suffix is nit so the word is initial-udātta; with bhis the ais substitute is not made, by Vedic bahulam (Pā. 7-1-10 [?]). सोमपर्वभिः (somaparvabhiḥ) — latārūpaṃ somaṃ pṛṇanti pūrayanti iti somaparvāṇaḥ ("they fill the Soma-creeper's juice"): root pṛ pālanapūraṇayoḥ + vanip (Pā. 3-2-75 [?]); guṇa and raparatva give parvan; vanip is pī, so the root accent stands; the compound with soma by "upapadam atīṇ" (Pā. 2-2-19 [?]); the first-member-accent rule "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) leaves the same accent; in the instrumental plural the n is dropped (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]) and ru/visarga follow. अभिष्टिः (abhiṣṭiḥ) — root iṣa gatau with ktin (Pā. 3-3-94 [?]), used in the Mantra after vṛṣa, eṣa, pac, etc. "mantrē

5. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The page's last lines begin the grammar of andhasaḥ; the rest follows on p. 346.

6. grammar pages, noted briefly

vṛṣeṣapacamanaviduḥ..." [?]); abhi + iṣ + ti: the savarṇa-dīrgha is overridden by pararūpa (Pā. 6-1-94 vārttika [?]); ṣ + ti → ṣṭi (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]); with abhi the compound is a prādi-compound ("kugatiprādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18 [?]) and the accent follows the second member. ओजसा (ojasā) — ubja ārjave + asun, with loss of b (Uṇ. 4-[?]); laghūpadha-guṇa gives ojas; instrumental singular ojasā, initial-udātta (nit suffix). ⁷

॥१॥

original p. 347

Sūkta 9, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एमेनं सृजता सुते मन्दिमिन्द्राय मन्दिने । चक्रिं विश्वानि चक्रये ॥२॥

emenam sṛjatā sute mandim indrāya mandine | cakriṃ viśvāni cakraye || 2 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । ईम् । एनम् । सृजत । सुते । मन्दिम् । इन्द्राय । मन्दिने ॥ चक्रिम् । विश्वानि । चक्रये ॥ २॥

*ā | īm | enam | sṛjata | sute | mandim | indrāya | mandine
|| cakriṃ | viśvāni | cakraye || 2 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ईमित्यर्थकः पादपूरणाय प्रयुक्तः । हे अध्वर्यवः सुते ऽभिषुते चमसस्थे सोमे एनं सोममिन्द्रायेन्द्रार्थमा सृजत । पुनरभ्युन्नयत । शुक्रामन्थिचमसग्रे पुनरभ्युन्नयनमाप्तं तदीनोक्तम् [?] । होत्रकाणां चमसाध्वर्यवः सकृत्सकृद्धत्वा शुक्रस्याभ्युन्नीयोपावर्तध्वमिति । आश्व. [reference unclear] । इति । कीदृशमेनं मन्दिं हर्षहेतुं चक्रिं साधुकरणशीलम् । कीदृशयेन्द्राय । मन्दिने हर्षयुक्ताय विश्वानि सर्वाणि कर्माणि चक्रये कृतवते ।

7. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The grammar ends with ॥१॥ at the top of p. 347.

सर्वकर्मनिष्पादनशीलायेत्यर्थः । ईमित्यस्य पादपूरणार्थत्वं यास्क आह । अथ ये प्रवृत्ते ऽर्थे
 ऽमिताक्षरेषु ग्रन्थेषु वाक्यपूरणा आगच्छन्ति पदपूरणास्ते मिताक्षरेष्वनर्थकाः कमिमामिद्धीति ।
 नि. १-९ । इति । अस्यायमर्थः । अन्यैरेव पदैर्विवक्षिते ऽर्थे समाप्ते सति ये शब्दा ईमित्यादयः
 प्रयुक्तास्ते शब्दा अमिताक्षरेषु छन्दोराहित्येन परिमिताक्षररहितेषु ब्राह्मणादिवाक्येषु
 वाक्यपूरणार्था द्रष्टव्याः । मिताक्षरेषु छन्दोयुक्तेषु ग्रन्थेषु पादपूरणार्थाः । के च
 कमिमामित्यादय इति । ईमित्यस्य शब्दस्यानर्थक्यैतामृचमुदाजहार । एमेनं सृजता सुते । आसृजतैनं सुते इति ॥

*īm ity arthakaḥ pāda-pūraṇāya prayuktaḥ | he adhvaryavaḥ sute 'bhiṣute camasasthe some enaṃ somam indrāyendrārtham ā sṛjata | punar abhyunnayata | śukrāmanthi-camasa-grahe punar abhyunnayanam āptaṃ
 tadīnoktam [?] | hotrakāṇām camasādhvaryavaḥ sakṛt sakṛd
 dhutvā śukrasyābhyunnīyopāvartadhvam iti | āśva. [reference unclear] | iti | kīdṛśam enaṃ mandīm harṣa-hetuṃ cakriṃ
 sādhu-karaṇa-śīlam | kīdṛśāyendrāya | mandine harṣayuktāya viśvāni sarvāṇi karmāṇi cakraye kṛtavate | sarvakarma-niṣpādana-śīlāyety arthaḥ | īm ity asya pāda-pūraṇārthatvaṃ yāska āha | atha ye pravṛtte 'rthe
 'mitākṣareṣu grantheṣu vākya-pūraṇā āgacchanti padapūraṇās te mitākṣareṣv anarthakāḥ kam im ām id dhīti | ni.
 1-9 | iti | asyāyam arthaḥ | anyair eva padair vivakṣite 'rthe samāpte sati ye śabdā īm ity-ādayaḥ prayuktās te śabdā amitākṣareṣu chando-rāhitye na parimitākṣara-rahiteṣu brāhmaṇādi-vākyeṣu vākya-pūraṇārthā draṣṭavyāḥ |
 mitākṣareṣu chando-yukteṣu grantheṣu pāda-pūraṇārthāḥ | ke
 ca kam im ām ity-ādaya iti | īm ity asya
 śabdasyānarthakya itām ṛcam udājahāra | emenaṃ sṛjatā sute
 | āsṛjataināṃ sute iti | |*

Translation: "Īm is a particle used merely to fill out the foot (pāda); it has no meaning. O adhvaryus! In the pressed (sute) Soma that stands in the camasa cup, ā sṛjata — pour out again, draw up again — this Soma (enaṃ) for Indra, for his sake. In the śukra- and manthi-cup rites the drawing up again is laid down

[the Brāhmaṇa-type citation is partly illegible]; the sentence concerning the camasa-adhvaryus of the hotṛ priests: 'having made offering each time, having drawn up the Śukra, return' [Āśvalāyana reference unclear]. What is this Soma like? Mandim — the cause of gladness; cakṛim — good at making [bringing about]. And what kind of Indra? Mandine — glad; cakraye — he who has done all (viśvāni) deeds: a doer of all works. That īm is a mere pāda-filler Yāska says: 'Now those [particles] which, where the sense is already in motion, come in works of unmeasured syllables as sentence-fillers, are pāda-fillers in works of measured syllables and meaningless — kam, īm, ām, id, hi' (Nirukta 1-9). The sense of this: when the intended meaning has been completed by other words, those words, īm and the rest, which are used, should be understood as sentence-fillers in unmetrical texts such as the Brāhmaṇas, with no fixed number of syllables, and as pāda-fillers in metrical texts; and what are they? kam, īm, ām and others. For the meaninglessness of the word īm, he quoted this rik: emenam sṛjatā sute — āsṛjatainaṃ sute." ^{8 9}

original p. 348

Rik 2: word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे अध्वर्यवः) ((he adhvaryavaḥ)) — O Adhvaryu and other priests |
 सुते (sute) — the Soma-juice having been pressed and prepared |
 मन्दिने (mandine) — to the glad one | विश्वानि (viśvāni) — all deeds |
 चक्रये (cakraye) — to the doer | इन्द्राय (indrāya) — for Indra | मन्दिम्

8. Passages marked [?] are hard to read in the scan; the Nirukta quotation follows the Kannada print.

9. The Sanskrit grammar on p. 348 — एनम्, सृजत,

मन्दिम्, मन्दिने, चक्रिम्, विश्वानि,

चक्रये — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

(mandim) — producing joy | चक्रिम् (cakrim) — the instrument for performing good deeds | एनम् (enam) — this Soma-juice | आसृजत (ā srjata) — offer (give).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O ṛtvijs, Adhvaryu and the rest! The Soma-juice has now been pressed from the creeper and prepared fit for drinking. This Soma-juice produces gladness in the one who drinks it; it is the cause of performing good deeds. Offer this Soma-juice to Indra, who is glad and who accomplishes all deeds.

॥ English Translation ॥

The soma being extracted, present this exhilarating and efficacious draught to the rejoicing Indra, the accomplisher of all things.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

एनम् (enam) — in the second case after idam, enad replaces it, per "dvitīyāṭausvenah" (Pā. 2-4-34 [?]); ena is unaccented by the carried-over "anudāttaṃ" and the whole word is unaccented. असृजत (srjata) — in the Saṃhitā the ta is lengthened, "srjatā" (Pā. 6-3-132 [?], a Vedic lengthening); the verb is unaccented. मन्दिम् (mandim) — root maḍi stutimodamadasvapnakāntigatiṣu ("to praise, rejoice, be intoxicated, sleep, shine, go") with num by "idito num dhātoḥ"; "mandayamāna" — the sense of "cause of joy" by ṇic with hetu sense (Pā. 3-1-26 [?]); ṇi dropped (Pā. 6-4-51 [?]); in suffix by an Uṇādi sūtra (Uṇ. 4-[?]); final-udātta by the suffix. मन्दिने (mandine) — as mandim, dative singular; the ne after a neuter i-stem is explained as for masculine nouns. चक्रिम् (cakrim) — root ḍukṛñ karaṇe with kin (Uṇ. [?]) in a liṭ-like sense of the agent by "tacchilatadd-harmatatsādhukāriṣu kartari kinpratrayayaḥ"; the kit suffix prevents guṇa; doubling "yaṇādeśaḥ"; reduplication rules (Pā. 6-1-8, 7-4-60, 7-4-66 [?]); initial-udātta. विश्वानि (viśvāni) —

viśeḥ kvan; initial-udātta; the ending śi with nuṭ. चक्रये (cakraye) — the root kṛ + kvasu-type (perfect participle) in the dative; ṣaṣṭhī does not apply because cakraye is an agent-sense word and not a possessive, by the rule that the genitive is not used with kṛt words in lokāvyayaniṣṭhākhalarthatṛnām (Pā. 2-3-69 [?]).¹⁰

original p. 349

Rik 2: Special Topics

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Īm" — the Bhāṣyakāra and Skandasvāmī both state that the word īm has no meaning and is used merely to fill out the pāda. Yāska too, in the Nirukta (1-9), speaks of this matter as follows:

अथ ये प्रवृत्ते ऽर्थे ऽमिताक्षरेषु ग्रन्थेषु वाक्यपूरणा आगच्छन्ति पदपूरणास्ते मिताक्षरेष्वनर्थकाः कमिमामिद्वीति ॥ (नि. १-९) atha ye pravṛtte 'rthe 'mitākṣareṣu grantheṣu vākya-pūraṇā āgacchanti pada-pūraṇās te mitākṣareṣv anarthakāḥ kam im ām id dhīti || (ni. 1-9) "Now those that, when the sense has set out, come in works of unmeasured syllables as sentence-fillers, are, in works of measured syllables, meaningless pāda-fillers: kam, īm, ām, id, hi."

The Bhāṣyakāra explains this thus: "When the intended meaning has been completed by other words, those words — īm and the like — which are used are to be understood as sentence-fillers in sentences of the Brāhmaṇas and the like, which are not bound by meter and have no fixed number of syllables; in metrical works, with fixed syllables, they serve to fill out the pāda."

That is: the word īm has no meaning; it is used to fill out a pāda. In the Brāhmaṇas and other sentences not bound by meter and with no rule on the number of syllables, words like īm are used to complete sentences. In the same way, in mantras that are metrical and made of syllables of fixed number, these words are used to fill out the pāda. As an example of this, Yāska quotes this very rik, emenam srjatā. In this rik the word īm has no use whatsoever in the sense of the mantra, but is used merely so that the pāda has the eight syllables it needs under the rule of the Gāyatrī meter. And:

10. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

क्रियावाचकमाख्यातमुपसर्गो विशेषकृत् [?] । सत्त्वाभिधायकं नाम निपातः पादपूरणः ॥ [?]
kriyā-vācakam ākhyātam upasargo viśeṣa-kṛt [?] | sattvābhidhāyakaṃ nāma nipātaḥ pāda-pūraṇaḥ || [?] "The verb denotes action; the prefix makes it specific [first line read from compressed print]; the noun denotes substance;
 the particle fills out the pāda."

"Kam im ām id dhīti" — "these four: kam, īm, id, u" (as the Kannada has it: kam, īm it, u iti — four words, i.e. particles) are used to fill the deficient number of syllables in a pāda of a metrical rik. They have no fixed sense in such a context. And the words iva, na, cit, nu are likewise used to fill out the pāda, but on some occasions they have a meaning. Hence iva, na, cit, nu are used in two ways: as meaningless and as meaningful.

"Srjata" — for the convenience of the meter the ta is lengthened in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha.

original pp. 350–352

Rik 2 grammar closes; Rik 3

॥ Special Topics (continued, p. 350) ॥

"Mandim" — प्रमोदहेतुम् (pramoda-hetum) — "cause of delight"; madi stuti-moda-mada-svapna-kānti-gatiṣu. This word is another form of the root mad: one that causes delight, that produces joy.

"Mandine" — the sense is the same as that given for mandim; this is a dative singular.

"Cakrim" and "cakraye" — these words are formed from the root ḍukṛñ karāṇe ("to do"). For their derivation see the grammar section.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹¹

Words treated: एनम् (enam) — see the entry at p. 348; idam replaced by ena (Pā. 2-4-34 [?]), unaccented; hence enam wholly unaccented. सृजत (srjata) — lengthened in the Saṃhitā (srjatā) by Pā. 6-3-132 [?]. मन्दिम् (mandim) — root madi in the sense "to rejoice," with num (Pā. 7-1-58 [?]), the verb used in its causal meaning "one who makes glad": the source explains that a ñic arises here by "hetumati ca" (Pā. 3-1-26 [?]) in the sense of prerana (urging), anumati (permission), upadeśa (advice) — e.g., a friend urging; the suffix i by Uṇādi "ācaḥ" (Uṇ. 4-[?]) after a vowel-ending root; the ñi is dropped (Pā. 6-4-51 [?]); the word is final-udātta by the suffix. मन्दिने (mandine) — as above; the ñe ending after the i-ending adjective; num in the neuter stem (Pā. 7-1-73 [?], "iko 'ci vibhaktau"), but here masculine; num is nevertheless added by Vedic vyatyaya. चक्रिम् (cakrim) — root ḍukṛñ karāṇe; the sūtra "ādyagamahanaḥ kikināu liṭ ca" (Pā. 3-2-171 [?]) gives suffixes ki and kin in the Veda after roots ending in -ā, -ṛ, and gam, han in the senses of habit, merit, or skill; treated as liṭ; doubling in kṛ + i with the reduplicate vowel; the question of the yaṇ substitution is argued from dvirvacane 'ci (Pā. 1-1-59 [?]), where the older commentators (Vṛttikāra and others) take the substitute as sharing the properties of the original (sthānivadbhāva), and Vedabhāṣya accordingly takes dvirvacane 'ci as meaning that the yaṇ-substitute is itself doubled; ur at (Pā. 7-4-66 [?]) → ar; halādiḥ śeṣaḥ (Pā. 7-4-60 [?]) leaves the first consonant of the reduplicate; kuhoś cuḥ (Pā. 7-4-62 [?]) gives c; hence cakri; the kin suffix is nit, so initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]). विश्वानि (viśvāni) — root viś + kvan by

11. grammar pages 350–352, noted briefly

"aśūpruṣīlīṭikanīkhaṭivi-śībhyaḥ kvan" (Uṇ. 1-[?]); nit, so initial-udāṭṭa; in the accusative plural neuter viśvāni. चक्रये (cakraye) — the link with the earlier cakrim: a kṛdanta word; the genitive ending would normally follow a verb-noun in its object sense by "kartṛkarmaṇoḥ kṛti" (Pā. 2-3-65 [?]), and is blocked here because the word is a kin-word treated like liṭ, ending in a niṣṭhā-like form (Pā. 2-3-69 [?], "na lokāvyayaniṣṭhākhalarthatṛnām"); hence the object takes the accusative by "karmaṇi dvitīyā" (Pā. 2-3-2 [?]).

॥२॥

original p. 352

Sūkta 9, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मत्स्वा सुशिप्र मन्दिभिः स्तोमेभिर्विश्वचर्षणे । सचैषु सवनेष्वा ॥३॥

matsvā suśipra mandibhiḥ stomebhir viśvacarṣaṇe | sacaiṣu savaneṣv ā || 3 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मत्स्व । सुऽशिप्र । मन्दिऽभिः । स्तोमेभिः । विश्वऽचर्षणे ॥ सचा । एषु । सवनेषु । आ ॥३॥

*matsva | su-śipra | mandi-bhiḥ | stomebhiḥ | viśva-carṣaṇe
|| sacā | eṣu | savaneṣu | ā || 3 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे सुशिप्र हे शोभनहनो शोभननासिक वा । शिप्रे हनू नासिके वा । नि. ६-१२ [?] । इति यास्केनोक्तत्वात् । तादृश हे इन्द्र मन्दिभिर्हर्षहेतुभिः स्तोमेभिः स्तोत्रैर्मत्स्व हृष्यो भव । हे विश्वचर्षणे सर्वमनुष्ययुक्त । सर्वैर्यजमानैः पूज्येत्यर्थः । तादृशेन्द्र त्रिष्वेषु योगागतेषु त्रिषु सवनेषु सचा देवैरन्यैः सह गच्छेति शेषः ॥ मदि स्तुतीत्यस्य लोट्यनित्यमागमशासनमिति कृत्स्वेदितो सुम् धातोरिति सुम् न भवति । अनुदात्तेत्वात्तस्यानुदात्तेन्निदेदुपदेशात् [?] । पा. ६-१-१८६ [?] । इति लसार्वधातुकानुदात्तत्वम् । धातुस्वर एव । संहितायां द्व्यचोतस्तिङः ।

पा. ६-३-१३५ । इति दीर्घत्वम् । सुशिप्रेत्यामन्त्रितनिघातः । मन्दिभिः । गतमन्त्रे व्याख्यातम् ।
स्तोमेभिः । मन्त्रत्ययस्य नित्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । बहुलं छन्दसीति भिस ऐसादेशो न भवति ।
विश्वचर्षणे । निघातः । सचा । उक्तम् । एषु । ऊडिदम्-इत्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् ॥

*he suśipra he śobhana-hano śobhana-nāsika vā | śipre hanū
nāsike vā | ni. 6-12 [?] | iti yāskenoktatvāt | tāḍṛśa he indra mandibhir harṣa-hetubhiḥ stomebhiḥ stotrair matsva hr̥ṣyo bhava | he viśvacarṣaṇe sarva-manuṣya-yukta | sarvair
yajamānaiḥ pūjyety arthaḥ | tāḍṛśendra triṣv eṣu yogāgateṣu
triṣu savaneṣu sacā devair anyaiḥ saha gaccheti śeṣaḥ || madi stutīty asya loṭy anitya-āgama-śāsanam iti kṛtsv edito sum dhātor iti sum na bhavati | anudāttettvāt ... [?] |
lasārvadhātukānudāttatvam | dhātu-svara eva | saṃhitāyām dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ | pā. 6-3-135 | iti dīrghatvam |
suśipretyāmantrita-nighātaḥ | mandibhiḥ | gatamantre
vyākhyātam | stomebhiḥ | mantratyayasya nittvād
ādyudāttatvam | bahulaṃ chandasīti bhisa aisādeśo na
bhavati | viśvacarṣaṇe | nighātaḥ | sacā | uktam | eṣu |
ūḍidam-ityādinā vibhakter udāttatvam | |*

Translation: "O suśipra — 'of beautiful jaws' or 'of beautiful nose,' for Yāska says 'śipre means the two jaws or the nose' (Nirukta 6-12 [?]). O such Indra, matsva — be glad, be pleased — with mandibhiḥ stomebhiḥ, with praises that cause gladness. O viśvacarṣaṇe — joined with all men: worshipped by all sacrificers. O such Indra, in these three pressings that have come in their turn, sacā — together with the other gods — come (this is the supplied verb). ^{12"}

original p. 353

Rik 3: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) सुशिप्र ((he) suśipra) — O Indra of beautiful jaws (or nose) |
 मन्दिभिः (mandibhiḥ) — which cause delight | स्तोमेभिः (stomebhiḥ)
 — with the praises (that we make) | मत्स्व (matsva) — be glad (be joyful) | (हे) विश्वचर्षणे ((he) viśvacarṣaṇe) — O Indra, accompanied by all men, or honoured by all sacrificers | (त्वम्) — you | एषु सवनेषु (eṣu savaneṣu) — in these three pressings (the morning, midday and third pressings) | सचा (sacā) — together (with the other gods)
 | आ (gaccha) — come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Your jaws (or nose) are most handsome. Such as you are, be satisfied with the praises we make. O you who are honoured by all men and sacrificers, come together with the other gods to the three pressings of the sacrifice — the morning, midday and third pressings (savana is the special rite of pressing the Somajuice and preparing it) — to this sacrificial ground where we are performing the rite.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, with the handsome chin (or nose) be pleased with these pleasing praises; you who are honoured by all men come to these rites (with the gods).

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

12. Grammar: mad in the sense of praise, in the imperative: the augment num does not arise here, since it is optional; the verb matsva is unaccented as a finite verb; its accent remains that of the root; in the Saṃhitā the vowel is lengthened by Pā. 6-3-135 [the "dvyaco 'ta stiṇaḥ" rule]; the vocative suśipra is unaccented as a vocative within the sentence; the base accent of the stoma-word is initial by the suffix; the Vedic bahulam prevents the replacement of bhis by ais; the case-ending of eṣu is udātta by "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ." (Several half-legible grammar phrases are marked [?]; the sense is not affected.

"Matsva" — the syllable tsva is lengthened for the convenience of the meter.

"Suśipra" — Yāska explains this word in the Nirukta: suśīprametena vyākhyātam | vāje suśīpra gomāt (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-3-? [?]) ity api nigamo bhavati | śīpre hanū nāsike vā | hanur hanteḥ — "suśīpra is explained by this [the preceding]: there is also a Vedic passage, 'in the contest, O suśīpra, rich in cows' (Ṛgveda ...); śīpre are the two jaws or the nose; the jaw (hanu) is from the root han..." ¹³

original pp. 354–355

Rik 3 Special Topics and grammar close; Rik 4

॥ Special Topics (continued, p. 354) ॥

¹⁴ नासिका नसतेः । विष्यस्व शिप्रे विसृजस्व धेने (nāsikā nasateḥ | viṣyasva śīpre visṛjasva dhene, Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-?-? [?]) ity api nigamo bhavati (Nirukta 6-12 [?]) — "nāsikā is from nasate; 'let fly, O śīpre [jaws/nose], let loose the dhenā' — this too is a Vedic text." So śīpra means the jaw (hanu) or the nose; the Nirukta explains it, citing two rikṣ of the Ṛgveda. The Nirukta's commentator too explains: शिप्रे हनू नासिकेवा । ते यस्य प्रशस्ते स शिप्रः (śīpre hanū nāsike vā | te yasya praśaste sa śīpraḥ) — "śīpre are the two jaws or the nose; he whose [jaws/nose] are praiseworthy is śīpra." The word is explained as "he has beautiful jaws or nose." In Ṛgveda 1-?-? [?]: śīpriṇ vājānām pate śacīvas tava daṃsanā ("O lord of strength, master of power, ...") — the Bhāṣyakāra gives the same sense. Since Yāska has explained this word plainly, there is no ground for doubt about its meaning.

13. The text breaks off at the page foot; it continues on p. 354.

14. Continuing Yāska on suśīpra:

Occurrences. The word suśipra occurs, besides this rik, at Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-101-10 [?]; 3-32-? ; 3-30-?; 5-?-? and several other references in small print, all marked [?] ¹⁵. Other case-forms suśiprah, suśiprāḥ and suśipram occur in further riks.

"Viśvacarṣaṇe" — सर्वमनुष्ययुक्त । सर्वैर्यजमानैः पूज्येत्यर्थः (sarva-manuṣya-yukta | sarvair yajamānaiḥ pūjyety arthaḥ) — "joined with all men; worshipped by all sacrificers." Since carṣaṇi means "man," viśvacarṣaṇe — joined with all men, or worshipped by all men (sacrificers and others) — is the Bhāṣyakāra's explanation. Skandasvāmī, taking carṣaṇi in the sense "to see" (paśyatikarma), explains it as "one who is looked upon by all men." The word viśvacarṣaṇi occurs at Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-?-? ; etc. [mantra numbers compressed; marked [?]], and the forms viśvacarṣaṇiḥ and viśvacarṣaṇim at many further places.

"Ā" — in this rik ā is only an upasarga. The Bhāṣyakāra says the verb gaccha ("come") is to be supplied with it.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁶

मत्स्व (matsva) — root madi stuti-moda-mada-svapna-kānti-gatiṣu + loṭ ātmanepada middle-second singular thās; the augment num does not arise although the root is it-marked (idit), since the Paribhāṣā says "āgamaśāstram anityam" (the rule of augments is non-binding; Paribhāṣā 93 [?]); the śap dropped by bahulam chandasi; thās → se (Pā. 3-4-80 [?]); se → sva (Pā. 3-4-91 [?]); the d of mad → t (by "khari ca," Pā. 8-4-55 [?]) → matsva; the root is anudātta-it, hence the tāsy-anudātenñid-adupadeśāt rule (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]) makes the personal ending unaccented; mad is final-udātta by the root accent; the following sva becomes svarita by "udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ" (Pā. 8-4-66 [?]); in the Saṃhitā the final of a finite verb ending in a short vowel and followed by two

15. the list of mantra numbers is compressed and not reliable in the scan

16. grammar pages 354–355, noted briefly

syllables is lengthened (Pā. 6-3-135 [?]), giving matsvā. सुशिप्र (suśipra) — a vocative, wholly unaccented (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). मन्दिभिः (mandibhiḥ) — explained under the previous mantra. स्तोमेभिः (stomebhiḥ) — root stu + man (Uṇ. 1-142 [?]), nit, initial-udātta; before bhis the ais substitute is not made (Pā. 7-1-10 [?]). विश्वचर्षणे (viśvacarṣaṇe) — a vocative, unaccented by the rule in the eighth adhyāya. सचा (sacā) — its derivation was given under mantra 3 of sūkta 3 [?]. एषु (eṣu) — the locative plural sup after idam is udātta by "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-171 [?]).

॥३॥

original p. 355

Sūkta 9, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

असृग्रमिन्द्र ते गिरः प्रति त्वामुदहासत । अजोषा वृषभं पतिम् ॥४॥

*asṛgram indra te giraḥ prati tvām ud ahāsata | ajoṣā
vṛṣabhaṃ patim ||4||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

असृग्रम् । इन्द्र । ते । गिरः । प्रति । त्वाम् । उत् । अहासत ॥ अजोषाः । वृषभम् । पतिम् ॥

४॥

*asṛgram | indra | te | giraḥ | prati | tvām | ut | ahāsata | |
ajoṣāḥ | vṛṣabham | patim ||4||*

original p. 356

Rik 4: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र ते गिरस्त्वदीयाः स्तुतीरसृग्रं सृष्टवानस्मि । ताश्च गिरः स्वर्गे ऽवस्थितं त्वां प्रत्युदहासत ।
उद्गत्य प्राप्नुवन् । तादृशीर्गिरस्त्वमजोषाः । सेवितवानसि [?] । कीदृशं त्वाम् । वृषभं कामानां
वर्षितारं पतिं सोमस्य पातारं यजमानानां पालयितारं वा । पाता वा पालयिता वा । नि. ४-३-६ [?] । इति यास्केनोक्तत्वात् । असृग्रम् । असृजम् । सृज विसर्गे । लुङ्... [grammar of asrgram, girah, ahāsata, ajoṣāḥ, vṛṣabham, patim: noted briefly below]

*he indra te giras tvadīyāḥ stutīr asrgram sṛṣṭavān asmi | tāś ca girah svarge 'vasthitam tvam pratyud ahāsata | udgatya prāpnuvan | tādṛśīr giras tvam ajoṣāḥ | sevitavān asi [?] |
kīdṛśam tvām | vṛṣabham kāmānām varṣitāram patim
somasya pātāram yajamānānām pālayitāram vā | pātā vā pālayitā vā | ni. 4-3-6 [?] | iti yāskēnoktatvāt | asrgram |
asrjam | sṛja visarge | luṅ ...*

Translation: "O Indra! I have sent forth — created, composed — those speeches, girah, of yours — your hymns. And those words ud ahāsata — rose up, went up and reached — you prati — you who are stationed in heaven. [You, being such,] ajoṣāḥ: take pleasure in such speeches [the Sanskrit says sevitavān asi; the Kannada word-meaning reads it as the imperative 'be pleased']. What kind of you? Vṛṣabham — the showerer of desires; patim — the drinker of Soma, or the protector of sacrificers: 'pātā vā pālayitā vā' (Nirukta, as Yāska states). Asrgram — I have made (asrjam), from sṛja visarge, 'to let go.'" ¹⁷

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | ते (te) — your, or for you (concerning you) | गिरः (girah) — words in the form of praise | असृग्रम् (asrgram) — I have made (composed) | (those praises) वृषभम् (vṛṣabham) — the one who rains the desires | पतिम् (patim) — who drinks Soma, or who protects the people, the sacrificers

17. The remaining Sanskrit grammar of this rik is noted briefly below.

and others | त्वां प्रति (tvāṃ prati) — to you (stationed in heaven) | उदहासत (udahāsata) — may they go up and reach (and by those praises) | अजोषाः (ajoṣāḥ) — be pleased.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! I have composed and sung praises in your honour. May those praises, joining you who dwell in heaven, who grant all desired ends and protect all, bring you joy.

original p. 357

Rik 4: English, Special Topics, grammar begins

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, I have (composed) praises in your honour; may these praises reach you (in heaven) the showerer of blessings, and the protector of your worshippers and you are pleased with their praises.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Asṛgram"

— "I have created" — that is, "I have composed."

"Ut āhāsata" — ut means upward. Since Indra's place is above (in the atmosphere, antarikṣa, or in heaven), the poet offers praise, saying "may [the praises] reach you who are above" (udahāsata).

"Ajoṣāḥ" — जुषी प्रीतिसेवनयोः (juṣī prīti-sevanayoḥ) — "may the praises serve you": that is, "be pleased by the praises."

"Patim" — सोमस्य पातारम् । यजमानानां पालयितारं वा (somasya pātāram | yajamānānāṃ pālayitāraṃ vā) — since the root pā means to drink or to protect, patim can be explained as "one who drinks Soma" or "one who protects the sacrificers." Yāska explains: पाता वा पालयिता वा

(pātā vā pālayitā vā; Nirukta 4-3-6 [?]). The Vedārtha-yatna author renders patim as "husband" (gaṇḍa); this sense does not fit here. Patim may be said to mean "lord" (svāmi).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁸

असृग्रम् (asrgram) — root sṛja visarge, luṅ parasmaipada first singular mip; am in place of the ending by "tasthasthamipām tām̐tām̐tām̐" (Pā. 3-4-101 [?]) [the source cites the Vedic ām here]; śa (the śa-vikaraṇa) of the tudādi class by "tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-77 [?]); the augment ruṭ by "bahulaṃ chandasy" (Pā. 7-1-8 [?]); sṛj + ra + am; j → g by "coḥ kuḥ" (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]); the augment aṭ (lūṅ-laṅ-lṛṅ-kṣv aḍudāttaḥ, Pā. 6-4-71 [?]) is udātta and attaches to the root; a + sṛg + ra + am with pūrvarūpa → asrgram; since the root is śit, the accent of the aṭ augment stands. गिरः (giraḥ) — base accent. अहासत (ahāsata) — root ohāṅ gatau ("to go") with luṅ; the third-person plural ātmanepada jha → ata... ¹⁹

original p. 358

Rik 4 grammar closes; Sūkta 9, Rik 5 text

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

Closing the grammar of Rik 4: अहासत (ahāsata) — the a of the ātmanepada ending jha is replaced by at; the cli suffix after the root by "cli luṅi" (Pā. 3-1-43 [?]); in its place sic by "cleḥ sic" (Pā. 3-1-44 [?]); the augment aṭ; so ahāsata; the finite verb is wholly unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). अजोषाः (ajoṣāḥ) — root juṣī prītisevanayoḥ with luṅ-type form; the ātmanepada middle-second singular thās; the śa-vikaraṇa of the tudādi class (Pā. 3-1-77 [?]), which takes the technical status of ārdhadhātuka by "chandasy ubhayathā" (Pā. 3-4-117 [?]) and so is not ñit; hence no guṇa-prohibition by "kñiti ca" (Pā. 1-1-5 [?]); puganta-

18. grammar pages 357–358, noted briefly

19. the printed page breaks off here; the grammar continues on p.

358.

laghūpadhasya ca (Pā. 7-3-86 [?]) gives guṇa; the th of thās dropped by Vedic license; joṣ + ās gives a savarṇa-dīrgha (Pā. 6-1-101 [?]), joṣās; the aṭ augment is udātta, and, as the verb has the śit marker, that accent stands; ru-and-visarga give ajoṣāḥ. वृषभम् (vṛṣabham) — from the Uṇādi sūtra on ṛṣivṛṣibhyām kit (Uṇ. 3-[?]) the word abhac is carried over: after the roots ṛṣi and vṛṣi the suffix abhac arises, with kit force, so no laghūpadha-guṇa; vṛṣ + abha → vṛṣabha; the suffix is cit, so final-udātta (Pā. 6-1-163 [?]). पतिम् (patim) — root pā rakṣaṇe; pāter ḍatiḥ (Uṇ. 4-[?]) — after pā in the sense of protecting, the suffix ḍati; ḍit, so the ā of pā (the ṭi) is dropped; initial-udātta by the suffix.

॥४॥

original p. 358

Sūkta 9, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सं चोदय चित्रमर्वाग्राध इन्द्र वरेण्यम् । असदिते विभु प्रभु ॥५॥

saṃ codaya citram arvāg rādha indra vareṇyam | asad it te vibhu prabhu ||5||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सम् । चोदय । चित्रम् । अर्वाक् । राधः । इन्द्र । वरेण्यम् ॥ असत् । इत् । ते । विऽभु । प्रऽभु ॥५॥

*sam | codaya | citram | arvāk | rādhaḥ | indra | vareṇyam
|| asat | it | te | vi-bhu | pra-bhu ||5||*

original p. 359

Rik 5: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र वरेण्यं श्रेष्ठं राधो धनं चित्रं मणिमुक्तादिरूपेण बहुविधमर्वागस्मदभिमुखं यथा भवति
 तथा संचोदय । सम्यक् प्रेरय । भोगाय यावत्पर्याप्तं तावद्विभुशब्देनोच्यते । ततो ऽप्यधिकं
 प्रभुशब्देन । तादृशं धनं ते तवैवासदित् । अस्त्येव । तस्मादस्मभ्यं प्रयच्छेत्यर्थः ।
 मघमित्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु धननामसु रायो राध इति पठितम् ॥ चोदय । चुद प्रेरणे ।
 ण्यन्ताल्लोट् । तिङ्ङतिङः इति निघातः । राधः । राध्नुवन्त्यनेनेति राधो धनम् । सर्वधातुभ्यो
 ऽसुन् । उ. ४-१८८ [?] । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः । वरेण्यम् । वृज् एण्यः । वृषादित्वादाद्युदात्तः ।
 असत् । अस भुवि । लेट् तिप् । इतश्च लोपः । पा. ३-४-९७ । इतीकारलोपः । लेटोडाटौ ।
 पा. ३-४-९४ । इति डाटागमः । अस्+अट्=असत् । शपो लुक् । आगमा अनुदात्ताः । अट्
 अनुदात्तः । अस् धातोः अन्तोदात्तः [?] । विभु । विभवतीति विभु । विप्रसंभ्यो ड्वसंज्ञायाम् ।
 पा. ३-२-१८० । इति डुप्रत्ययः । डित्त्वाट्टिलोपः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणोकार उदात्तः । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरेण स एव शिष्यते । एवं प्रभु ॥

he indra vareṇyaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ rādho dhanam citraṃ maṇimuktādi-rūpeṇa bahuvidham arvāg asmad-abhimukhaṃ yathā bhavati tathā saṃcodaya | samyak preraya | bhogāya yāvat paryāptaṃ tāvad vibhu-śabdenocyate | tato 'py adhikaṃ prabhu-śabdena | tādrśaṃ dhanam te tavaivāsad it | asty eva
| tasmād asmabhyaṃ prayacchety arthaḥ | magham ity-ādiṣv aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu dhana-nāmasu rāyo rādha iti paṭhitam || codaya | cuda prerāṇe | nyantāl loṭ | tiñ ... iti nighātaḥ | rādhaḥ | rādhnvanty anenēti rādho dhanam |
sarva-dhātubhyo 'sun | u. 4-188 [?] | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ |
vareṇyam | vṛñ eṇyaḥ | vṛṣāditvād ādyudāttaḥ | asat | asa bhuvi | leṭ tip | itaś ca lopah | pā. 3-4-97 | itikāralopah | leṭo
'ḍāṭau | pā. 3-4-94 | iti ḍāṭāgamah | as+aṭ=asat | śapo luk |
āgamā anudāttāḥ | aṭ anudāttah | as dhātoḥ antodāttah [?] |
vibhu | vibhavatīti vibhu | vi-pra-saṃbhyo ḍvasaṃjñāyām |
pā. 3-2-180 | iti ḍupratyayaḥ | ḍittvāt ṭilopah | pratyayasvareṇokāra udāttah | kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-svareṇa sa eva śiṣyate | evaṃ prabhu ||

Translation: "O Indra! Vareṇyam — choicest — rādhaḥ, wealth, citraṃ — of many kinds, in the form of jewels, pearls and the like — send forth (saṃ codaya; urge well) so that it is arvāk — turned towards us. [Wealth] as much as is sufficient for enjoyment is called by the word vibhu; what is even more than that, by the word prabhu: such wealth is indeed yours (asad it: it exists). Therefore give it to us: this is the sense. Among the twenty-eight words for 'wealth' beginning with magham, rāyaḥ and rādhaḥ are read. ^{20 21}

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | वरेण्यम् (vareṇyam) — choicest | चित्रम् (citram) — of many kinds | राधः (rādhaḥ) — wealth | अर्वाक् (arvāk) — (let it be) before us (by us) | सं चोदय (saṃ codaya) — impel — (that is, give) | (for) ते (te) — with you | विभु (vibhu) — [wealth] sufficient for enjoyment | (and) प्रभु (prabhu) — still greater than that | असत् इत् (asat it) — wealth indeed exists.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Make the choice and varied wealth available to us. For with you there is wealth enough for the enjoyment of everyone, and much more than that.

original p. 360

20. The grammatical remainder: codaya — root cuda preraṇe, causative, imperative; rādhaḥ — 'that by which they succeed' is wealth; the suffix asun after any root (Uṇ. 4-188 [?]), initial-udātta since the suffix is nit; vareṇyam — root vṛñ with the suffix eṇya, initial-udātta by the vṛṣādi rule; asat — root as bhuvi, the subjunctive leṭ in the third singular, the final i of tip dropped (Pā. 3-4-97), the augment aṭ (Pā. 3-4-94), giving as + aṭ = asat, the śap dropped by luk; augments are unaccented; vibhu — from root bhū with prefixes vi, pra, saṃ and the suffix du (Pā. 3-2-180); dit so the ṭi of the root drops; the u is udātta by the suffix; and the same for prabhu.

21. Several accent clauses and sūtra numbers are compressed in the scan and marked [?].

Rik 5: English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ English Translation ॥

Place before us, O Indra, precious and different kinds of riches, for you have riches enough and more than enough.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Saṃ codeya"

— "impel the wealth": that is, bestow it so that it comes to us; give the wealth.

"Citram"

— "of various kinds": that is, wealth consisting of goods, cows, animals, houses, sons and grandsons, and so on, of many kinds.

"Arvāk"

— "facing us": that is, so that it is easily obtained by us, in front of us.

"Rādhaḥ" — among the twenty-eight words for wealth beginning with magham, the words rāyaḥ and rādhaḥ are read (Nirukta 3-9 [?]); therefore rādhaḥ means wealth.

"Vareṇyam"

— choicest, excellent, of great value.

"Asat it" — it means eva: "indeed exists." There is no doubt about the existence of the wealth.

"Vibhu," "prabhu" — भोगाय यावत्पर्याप्तं तावद्विभुशब्देनोच्यते (bhogāya yāvat paryāptam tāvad vibhu-śabdenocyate) — "as much as suffices for enjoyment is called by the word vibhu": that is the meaning of vibhu: "sufficient." Prabhu means "much more than sufficient for wealth." Skandasvāmī explains prabhu as prabhūtam — "abundant, very much."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²²

चोदय (codaya) — root cuda prerane; the suffix ṇic "hetumati ca" (Pā. 3-1-26 [?]); from the ṇic-ending root, loṭ parasmaipada second singular sip; śap (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]); cud + i + a + si; ṇic as the cause gives laghūpadha-guṇa; guṇa from the śap (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); ay replaces e before the vowel; si → hi (Vārttika on Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); the hi dropped by "ato heḥ" (Pā. 6-4-105 [?]); finite verb wholly unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). राधः (rādhaḥ) — rādhnuvanty anena iti rādhaḥ, "wealth": by the Uṇādi "sarvadhātubhyo 'sun" (Uṇ. 4-188 [?]) the asun suffix after rādha; asun is nit, so initial-udātta. वरेण्यम् (vareṇyam) — root vṛñ varane ("to choose") with eṇya (Uṇ. 3-[?]); guṇa by "sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ" gives vareṇya; since it belongs to the vṛṣādi class, initial-udātta (Pā. 6-1-203 [?]). असत् (asat) — as bhuvi; leṭ in place of laṭ, tip for tiñ, the final i dropped (Pā. 3-4-97 [?]); the augment aṭ by "leṭo 'ḍāṭau" (Pā. 3-4-94 [?]); as + aṭ = asat; śap dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); augments are unaccented (Pari. Bhā. 3-1-2 [?]); aṭ is unaccented; the root as retains its accent. विभु (vibhu) — "that which is": vi-bhavatīti vibhu; the sūtra "vi-pra-sambhyo ḍvasamjñāyām" (Pā. 3-2-180 [?]) gives the suffix ḍu after bhū when a name is meant; by "ṭeḥ" (Pā. 6-4-143 [?]) the ū is dropped; the suffix u is udātta; "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) leaves the same accent in the compound; likewise prabhu.

॥५॥

original p. 361

Sūkta 9, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²³

22. grammar pages 360–361, noted briefly

23. In the Saṃhitā the words asmān su are joined as asmān tsu: a t is inserted between the n and the s by the Vedic sandhi rule, as the Special Topics below explain.

अस्मान्सु तत्र चोदयेन्द्र राये रभस्वतः । तुविद्युम्न यशस्वतः ॥६॥

asmān tsu tatra codayendra rāye rabhasvataḥ | tuvidyumna yaśasvataḥ || 6 ||

original p. 362

Rik 6: Pada text, Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अस्मान् । सु । तत्र । चोदय । इन्द्र । राये । रभस्वतः ॥ तुविऽद्युम्न । यशस्वतः ॥६॥

*asmān | su | tatra | codaya | indra | rāye | rabhasvataḥ ||
tuvi-dyumna | yaśasvataḥ || 6 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे तुविद्युम्न प्रभूतधनेन्द्र राये धनसिद्धयर्थमस्मानन्बुष्टात्नैस् [sic: anuṣṭhātṛn] तत्र कर्मणि सु चोदय । सुष्ठु प्रेरय । कीदृशानस्मान् । रभस्वत उद्योगवतो यशस्वतः कीर्तिमतः ॥ तत्र । तद्वद्भादेत्त्रल् । पा. ५-३-१० । लिति प्रत्ययात्पूर्वस्योदात्तत्वम् । इन्द्र । आमन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । राये । ऊडिदमित्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । रभस्वतः । रभ राभस्ये । राभस्यं कार्योपक्रमः । सर्वधातुभ्यो ऽसुन् । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः । मतुपः पित्त्वादानुदात्तत्वम् । स्वादिष्वसर्वनामस्थाने । पा. १-४-१७ । इति न पदत्वं तसौ मत्वर्थे । पा. १-४-१९ । इति भसंज्ञा । आ कडारादेका संज्ञा । पा. १-४-१ । इति नियमात् तुविद्युम्न । तुवि बहु द्युम्नं धनं यस्य । षाष्ठिकमामन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । यशस्वतः । यशो ऽस्यास्तीति मतुप् । अस्मायामेधासजो विनिः । पा. ५-२-१२१ । इति विनिना न बाध्यते मतुपः सर्वत्र समुच्चयात् । यशश्शब्दो नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्याद्युदात्तः । मतुपः पित्त्वात्तस्य शिष्यते ॥

*he tuvidyumna prabhūta-dhanendra rāye dhana-siddhy-artham asmān anuṣṭhātṛn [reading uncertain] tatra karmaṇi su codaya | suṣṭhu preraya | kīdrśān asmān | rabhasvata
udyogavato yaśasvataḥ kīrtimataḥ || tatra | tad-bahv-ādet
tral | pā. 5-3-10 | liti pratyayāt pūrvasyodāttatvam | indra |
āmantritādyudāttatvam | pādādityān na nighātaḥ | rāye |
ūḍidam ity-ādinā vibhakter udāttatvam | rabhasvataḥ | rabha
rābhasye | rābhasyaṃ kāryopakramaḥ | sarvadhātubhyo 'sun
| nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | matupaḥ pittvād anudāttatvam |*

svādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne | pā. 1-4-17 | iti na padatvaṃ
 tasau matvarthe | pā. 1-4-19 | iti bhasaṃjñā | ā kaḍārād ekā
 saṃjñā | pā. 1-4-1 | iti niyamāt tuvidyumna | tuvi bahu
 dyumnaṃ dhanam yasya | śāṣṭhikam āmantritādyudāttatvam
 | yaśasvataḥ | yaśo 'syāstīti matup | asmāyā-medhā-srajo viniḥ | pā. 5-2-121 | iti vininā na bādhyate matupaḥ sarvatra
 samuccayāt | yaśas-śabdo nabviṣayasyāniṣantasyety
 ādyudāttaḥ | matupaḥ pittvāt tasya śiṣyate | |

Translation: "O tuvidyumna — Indra of abundant wealth! For rāye, the achievement of wealth, su codaya — urge well — us, who perform the rites [the word before 'performers' is partly illegible], in that rite. What kind of us? Rabhasvataḥ — enterprising, industrious; yaśasvataḥ — renowned. ²⁴ ²⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

तुविद्युम्न (tuvidyumna) — O Indra, who are endowed with abundant wealth | (हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | रभस्वतः (rabhasvataḥ) — who are enterprising (engaged in sacrificial

24. Grammar: tatra — formed with tral after tad (Pā. 5-3-10), the syllable before the suffix being udātta since tral is l-marked; indra — the vocative, initially udātta, but as the first word of a pāda not lowered; rāye — the case-ending udātta by "ūḍidam..."; rabhasvataḥ — root rabha rābhasye, 'the beginning of an act'; the suffix asun, initial-udātta since nit; matup is *pī*t and so unaccented; by Pā. 1-4-17 and 1-4-19 the word is not a pada before matup, but has the technical bha status; tuvidyumna — 'he whose wealth (dyumna) is much (tuvi)', a bahuvrīhi, the vocative initially udātta; yaśasvataḥ — 'who has fame' with matup, not barred by vini (Pā. 5-2-121) since the two are combined everywhere; the word yaśas initial-udātta as a neuter not ending in -isan.

25. Several grammar phrases are read from compressed print and flagged.

and other works) | यशस्वतः (yaśasvataḥ) — who are possessed of fame | अस्मान् (asmān) — us | राये (rāye) — for obtaining wealth | तत्र (tatra) — in that rite | सु चोदय (su codaya) — urge well.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You are endowed with abundant wealth — that is, you possess great riches. Therefore urge us, who are always engaged in sacrificial and other works and are renowned, to engage ardently in sacrificial and other rites for obtaining wealth.

original p. 363

Rik 6: English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra, you are very rich ; encourage us in this rite for the acquirement of wealth, for we are deligent [sic] and renowned.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Asmān + su = asmān tsu" — when s follows the n of a word-ending (here, an accusative-plural n), in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha the two are combined by sandhi and, in pronouncing, a t is inserted between the n and the s, giving nts; this is customary. In this connection:

स गा अविन्दत्सो अविन्दद्वा न्तसो ओषधीः सो अपः सवनानि ॥ (ऋ. सं. १-१०९-१[?]) sa gā avindat so avindad aśvān tso oṣadhīḥ so apaḥ savanāni | | (R̥g. Saṃ. 1-109-1 [?]) ("He found the cows, he found the horses, he the herbs, he the waters, the pressings." — my gloss, tentative; the source gives only the citation, and the second line is read from compressed print.)

कविर्गीर्भिः काव्येना कविः सन्त्सोमः पवित्रमत्येति रेभन् ॥ (ऋ. सं. ९-१-१[?]) kavir gīrbhiḥ kāvyaenā kaviḥ san tsomaḥ pavitram aty eti rebhan | | (Rg. Sam. 9-1 [?]) ("The seer [Soma], a seer with his songs and poetic power; being [pressed], passes through the filter; murmuring." — my gloss, tentative.)

Many more examples could be given.

"Rabhasvataḥ" — रभ राभस्ये । राभस्यं कार्योपक्रमः (rabha rābhasye | rābhasyaṃ kāryopakramaḥ) — "[root] rabha in the sense of rābhasya — the beginning of a work." Rābhasya is derived from the root rabh; it means starting an undertaking; being industrious, enterprising. Rabhasvataḥ is the accusative plural of rabhasvān.

"Tuvidyumna" — "of abundant wealth": tuvi is much; dyumna is wealth. So, "he who has much wealth" — a bahuvrīhi. "Of much wealth."

"Yaśasvataḥ" — yaśo 'syāstīti yaśasvān, "those who have fame"; renowned. Rabhasvataḥ and yaśasvataḥ both qualify the word asmān ("us").

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁶

तत्र (tatra) — "in that"; the tral suffix after the seventh-case pronouns tad, kim, sarva etc. (Pā. 5-3-10 [?], "saptamyās tral"); tral is taddhita, so the word is a prātipadika; the sup ending is dropped (Pā. 2-4-71 [?]); d → a (Pā. 6-3-90 [?]); a + a → pararūpa (Pā. 6-1-94 [?]); tral is l-marked, so the syllable before the suffix is udātta (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]). इन्द्र (indra) — the second pāda's first syllable; since this is the beginning of the pāda, there is no lowering by apādāda; as a vocative it is initial-udātta (Pā. 6-1-198 [?]). राये (rāye) — rai + the dative ending e; after the ai-ending word rai, the dative ending is udātta (ūḍidam..., Pā. 6-1-171 [?]). रभस्वतः (rabhasvataḥ) — root rabha rābhasye; asun

26. grammar pages 363–365, noted briefly

(Uṇ. 4-188 [?]) gives rabhas; matup after it with $s \rightarrow v$ (Pā. 8-2-9 [?], "mato vo 'yavādibhyaḥ"); the question of whether rabhas is a pada before matup (which would block ruṭ etc.) or has bha status (Pā. 1-4-18/19 [?]) is argued: pada status and bha status are both prescribed, and the source concludes by the maxim "ā kaḍārād ekā saṃjñā" (Pā. 1-4-1 [?]) that only one technical name applies, the later (para) one, bha; so pada-status is inapplicable and the rules (such as ruṭv-rules) that depend on it do not operate. तुविद्युम्न (tuvidyumna) — tuvi (much) + dyumna (wealth) as a bahuvrīhi; a vocative, initial-udātta by the eighth-chapter vocative rule (Pā. 6-1-198 [?]). यशस्वतः (yaśasvataḥ) — "yaśo 'syāstīti yaśasvān": matup, with the $m \rightarrow v$ as in rabhasvataḥ; the long discussion (pp. 364–365) concerns whether the vinī suffix of the sūtra "asmāyā-medhā-srajo vinīḥ" (Pā. 5-2-121 [?]) blocks matup here — answered that, by the carried-over word "anyatarasyām" ("optionally"), vinī is only optional, citing the Mahābhāṣya's example yaśasvī / yaśasvān, and by the Vedabhāṣya's general statement that matup has the sense of inclusion everywhere (samuccaya), and by Kaiyaṭa on the Mahābhāṣya on "keśād vo 'nyatarasyām" (Pā. 5-2-109 [?]); yaśas is initial-udātta as a neuter noun not ending in -īsan (Phīṭ-sūtra 94 [?]); matup is pit, hence unaccented; so the initial accent of yaśas stands.

॥६॥

original p. 365

Sūkta 9, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सं गोमदिन्द्र वाजवदस्मे पृथु श्रवो बृहत् । विश्वायुर्धेह्यक्षितम् ॥७॥

*saṃ gomad indra vājavad asme pṛthu śravo bṛhat | viśvāyur
dhehy akṣitam || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सम् । गोऽमत् । इन्द्र । वाजऽवत् । अस्मे इति । पृथु । श्रवः । बृहत् ॥ विश्वऽआयुः । धेहि । अक्षितम् ॥७॥

sam | go-mat | indra | vāja-vat | asme iti | pṛthu | śravaḥ | brhat | | viśva-āyuh | dhehi | akṣitam | | 7 | |

original p. 366

Rik 7: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र श्रवो धनमस्मे सं धेहि । अस्मभ्यं सम्यक् प्रयच्छ । कीदृशं श्रवः । गोमत्
बह्वीभिर्गोभिरुपेतं वाजवत् प्रभूतेनान्नेनोपेतं पृथु परिमाणेनाधिकं बृहत् गुणैरधिकं विश्वायुः कृत्स्नायुष्यकारणं अक्षितं विनाशरहितम् । गोमत् । वाजवत् । उभयत्र मतुपो नित्वात् [sic:
pittvāt] । अनुदात्तत्वात्प्रातिपदिकस्वर एव । वाजशब्दो वृषादिराद्युदात्तः । अस्मे । अस्मच्छब्दाच्चतुर्थीबहुवचनस्य सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना शे आदेशः । शित्वात्सवदिशः । प्रातिपदिकस्वरेणान्तोदात्तत्वम् । शेषे लोपः [?] । ... [two sūtra citations on the loss of d of asmad and on the accent of the substitute śe, read as Pā. 8-2-80 and 6-1-161, compressed in the scan] ... पृथु । प्रथ
प्रख्याने । प्रथिप्रदिभ्रस्जां संप्रसारणं सलोपश्च । उ. १-२९ । इति कुप्रत्ययः । रेफस्य
संप्रसारणमृकारः । परपूर्वत्वम् । कोः कित्त्वान्न लघूपधगुणः । श्रूयते इति श्रवो धनम् ।
असुन्प्रत्ययः । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । बृहत् । प्रातिपदिकस्वरः । विश्वायुः । विश्वमायुर्यस्मिन्धने ।
विश्वशब्दः क्वन्प्रत्ययान्तः । तस्य बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वे प्राप्ते परादिश्छन्दसि
बहुलमिति पूर्वपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्त इत्याद्युदात्तः । अक्षितम् । क्षि क्षये । इत्यस्मादन्तर्णीतण्यर्थात्कर्मणि निष्ठा । तेन स्यादेर्धत्वात् । निष्ठा... [grammatical remainder: no lengthening by niṣṭhāyām anyadarthe, Pā.
6-4-60; no na-substitution because of ātaś ca kṣiyo dīrghāt;
the nañ compound takes the first-member accent by nañ- subanta] ॥

he indra śravo dhanam asme saṃ dhehi | asmabhyaṃ samyak
prayaccha | kīdrśaṃ śravaḥ | gomat bahvibhir gobhir upetaṃ vājavat prabhūtenānnenopetaṃ pṛthu parimānenādhikaṃ

*bṛhat guṇair adhikaṃ viśvāyuh kṛtsnāyusya-kāraṇaṃ akṣitaṃ vināśa-rahitaṃ | gomat | vājavat | ubhayatra matupo [nittvāt
— the printed text has a word here that reads as nittvāt but is surely pittvāt, since the commentary continues anudāttatvāt] |
prātipadika-svara eva | vāja-śabdo vṛṣādir ādyudāttaḥ | asme | asmac-chabdāc caturthī-bahuvacanasya supām suluk ity-ādinā śe ādeśaḥ | śittvāt sarvādeśaḥ | prātipadikasvareṇāntodāttatvam | ... pṛthu | pṛtha prakhyāne |
prathimradibhrasjām saṃprasāraṇaṃ salopaś ca | u. 1-29 |
iti ku-pratyayaḥ | rephasya saṃprasāraṇaṃ ṛkāraḥ | parapūrvatvam | koḥ kittvān na laghūpadha-guṇaḥ | śrūyate iti
śravo dhanam | asun-pratyayaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | bṛhat
| prātipadika-svaraḥ | viśvāyuh | viśvam āyur yasmin dhane |
viśva-śabdaḥ kvan-pratyayāntaḥ | tasya bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratve prāpte parādiś chandasi bahulam iti pūrvapadānto-dāttatvam | ekādeśa udāttanodātta ity ādyudāttaḥ | akṣitaṃ | kṣi kṣaye | ity asmād antaṛṇīta-nyarthāt karmaṇi niṣṭhā ...*

Translation: "O Indra! Śravaḥ — wealth — asme — to us — saṃ dhehi: bestow well. What kind of śravaḥ? Gomat — furnished with many cows; vājavat — furnished with abundant food; pṛthu — larger in measure; bṛhat — superior in qualities; viśvāyuh — the cause of a whole lifetime; akṣitaṃ — free of destruction." ^{27 28}

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | अस्मे (asme) — to us | पृथु (pṛthu) — abundant | बृहत् (bṛhat) — superior in qualities | गोमत् (gomat) — endowed with cows (in the form of cattle) | वाजवत् (vājavat) — endowed with food (in the form of food, nourishment) | विश्वायुः (viśvāyuh) — the cause of long life | अक्षितम् (akṣitaṃ) — without destruction | श्रवः (śravaḥ) — wealth | धेहि (dhehi) — give.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Give us abundant wealth: the best, in the form of cattle, horses and other animals and wealth, and in the form of grain and nourishing food — wealth that is the means of living a long life and that is imperishable. Give us such wealth in great abundance.

original p. 367

Rik 7: English, Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

Grant us, Indra, wealth beyond measure or calculation, inexhaustible the source of cattle, of food, of all life.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Gomat" — बह्विभिर्गोभिरुपेतम् (bahvībhīr gobhīr upetam) —
"furnished with many cows." Or: gāvo yasmin santi tat gomat —
"that in which there are cows"; gomat — wealth in the form of animals, with plenty of cows.

"Vājavataḥ" — wealth consisting of food (anna) and the like, of foodstuffs.

27. The accompanying grammar, noted briefly: gomat and vājavat take their stem accent because matup is unaccented (the Sanskrit's word for this is garbled in the print, as marked); vāja is a vr̥ṣādi word, initial-udātta; asme is formed by the substitute śe for the plural dative ending after asmad, replacing the whole as it is śit, final-udātta by the stem accent; pr̥thu — root pr̥tha prakhyāne with the suffix ku and saṃprasāraṇa of r to r̥ (Uṇ. 1-29); śravaḥ — 'that which is heard' = wealth, with asun, initial-udātta; viśvāyuḥ — a bahuvrīhi 'in which wealth the whole life [is]'; with the Vedic accent on the end of the first member; akṣitam — from kṣi kṣaye with the causative sense inside, the past-participle suffix in the passive, with nañ.

28. Parts of the Sanskrit — noted [?] above — are compressed in the scan.

"Asme" — means asmabhyam (to us). In the Ṛgveda asme is used in many places in place of asmabhyam.

"Śravaḥ" — among the twenty-eight words for wealth beginning with magham, the word śravaḥ is read (Nirukta 3-9 [?]). "Bṛhat" — excellent, full of substance, excellent in qualities.

"Viśvāyuh" — कृत्स्नायुष्यकारणम् (krtsnāyuṣya-kāraṇam) — "the cause of a whole lifetime"; the Bhāṣyakāra explains it as wealth that serves for living for a long time. To explain it so, it is better to take viśvāyuh as a qualifier of śravaḥ (wealth) than as a qualifier in the sense "one who has a long life": the use of viśvāyuh as a viśeṣya word meaning "one who lives long" is more fitting. Skandasvāmī's meaning is likewise.

"Akṣitam"

— free from destruction, inexhaustible.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁹

गोमत्, वाजवत् (gomat, vājavat) — "gaur asyāsti iti gomat; vājo 'sya asti iti vājavat": in both, matup is pīt, hence unaccented, so the stem accent stands; vāja is a vṛṣādi word, so initial-udātta (Pā. 6-1-203 [?]). अस्मे (asme) — asmad + the dative-plural bhyas; this is replaced by śe by "supām suluk..." (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]); the ś of śe is it by "lasakvataddhite" (Pā. 1-3-8 [?]), the substitute being śīt replaces the whole of bhyas by "anekāl śīt sarvasya" (Pā. 1-1-55 [?]); asmad is final-udātta by its stem accent; the final d of asmad is dropped by "śeṣe lopah" (Pā. 7-2-90 [?]); asma + e → pararūpa by "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]), a single substitute that takes the udātta by "ekādeśa udāddenodāttaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). पृथु (pr̥thu) — root pr̥tha prakhyāne ("to spread"), and the rule "prathimradibhrasjāṃ saṃprasāraṇaṃ salopaś ca" (Uṇ. 1-29 [?]): the suffix ku after prath, mrad, bhrasj, with saṃprasāraṇa of r to r̥ and loss of s in bhrasj; pr̥ + th + u → pr̥thu; ku is kit, so no guṇa.

श्रवः (śravaḥ) — "śrūyate iti": root śru + asun ("sarvadhātubhyo 'sun," Uṇ. 4-188 [?]); guṇa of u → o (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); ov → av (Pā. 6-1-78 [?]); the nominative/accusative singular ending am/su dropped (Pā. 7-1-23 [?]); ru-and-visarga; initial-udātta. बृहत् (br̥hat) — stem accent. विश्वायुः (viśvāyuh) — a bahuvrīhi "viśvam āyur yasmin dhane"; viśva is formed with kvan (Uṇ. 1-[?], from aśū vyāptau) and is nīṭ, so initial-udātta; the bahuvrīhi rule "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]) would keep the first-member accent, but with the Vedic "parādiś chandasi bahulam" (Pā. 6-2-199 [?]) the end of the first member takes the udātta; viśva + āyuh → single substitute ā, udātta by Pā. 8-2-5 [?]. अक्षितम् (akṣitam) — root kṣi kṣaye in the sense including the causative; kta in the passive; by "niṣṭhā-yoṇya-darthe" (Pā. 6-4-60 [?]) the lengthening is prohibited since the word does not have the sense "not to be..."; and since the lengthening does not arise, the n-substitution of "kṣiyo dīrghāt" (Pā. 8-2-46 [?]) does not arise; the nañ compound with the negative takes the first-member accent of "tatpuruṣe tulyārtha..." (Pā. 6-2-2 [?]) as with indeclinables.

॥७॥

original p. 369

Sūkta 9, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अस्मे धेहि श्रवो बृहद्द्युम्नं सहस्रसातमम् । इन्द्र ता रथिनीरिषः ॥८॥

asme dhehi śravo br̥had dyumnaṃ sahasrasātamam | indra tā rathīnīr iṣaḥ || 8 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अस्मे इति । धेहि । श्रवः । बृहत् । द्युम्नम् । सहस्रऽसातमम् ॥ इन्द्र । ताः । रथिनीः । इषः ॥

८॥

asme iti | dhehi | śravaḥ | bṛhat | dyumnā | sahasra-sātāmam | | indra | tāḥ | rathinīḥ | iṣaḥ | | 8 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र बृहच्छ्रवो महतीं कीर्तिमस्मे धेहि । अस्मभ्यं प्रयच्छ । तथा सहस्रसातममतिशयेन सहस्रसंख्यादानोपेतं द्युम्नं धनमस्मे धेहि । तथा ता रथिनीर्ब्रह्मिण्यवादि रूपेण प्रसिद्धा रथवत्यो [?] रथोपेता इषोन्नान्यस्मे धेहि ॥ अस्मे । सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना शे आदेशः । धेहि । घ्वसोरेद्धावभ्यासलोपश्च । पा. ६-४-११९ । इत्येत्वाभ्यासलोपौ । श्रूयत इति श्रवः । असुनो नित्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । सहस्रं सुनुते ददातीति सहस्रसाः । षणु दाने । जनसनखनक्रमगमो विट् । पा. ३-२-६७ । विट्सनोरनुनासिकस्यात् । पा. ६-४-४१ । इत्याकारादेशः । धातुस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः । पुनः कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरेण स एव शिष्यते । रथा आसां सन्तीति रथिन्यः इति प्रत्ययस्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । ऋन्नेभ्यो डीप् । पा. ४-१-५ । सा च पित्वादनुदात्ता । इषो योगिकत्वे धातुस्वरः । रूढत्वे प्रातिपदिकस्वरः ॥

*he indra bṛhac-chravo mahatīm kīrtim asme dhehi |
asmabhyam prayaccha | tathā sahasra-sātāmam atīśayena
sahasra-saṃkhyā-dānopetaṃ dyumnaṃ dhanam asme dhehi | tathā tā rathinīr vrihi-yavādi-rūpeṇa prasiddhā rathavatyo [?]
rathopetā iṣo 'nnāny asme dhehi | | asme | supām suluk ity-ādinā śe ādeśaḥ | dhehi | ghvasor eddhāv abhyāsa-lopaś ca |
pā. 6-4-119 | ity etvābhyāsa-lopau | śrūyata iti śravaḥ | asuno
nittvād ādyudāttatvam | sahasraṃ sunute dadātīti sahasra-
sāḥ | ṣaṇu dāne | jana-sana-khana-kramagamo viṭ | pā.
3-2-67 | viṭ-sanor anunāsikasyāt | pā. 6-4-41 | ity ākārādeśaḥ
| dhātu-svareṇāntodāttaḥ | punaḥ kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-svareṇa sa eva śiṣyate | rathā āsām santīti rathinyaḥ iti pratyayasyādyudāttatvam | ṛnnebhyo ṇīp | pā. 4-1-5 | sā ca pittvād anudāttā | iṣo yogikatve dhātu-svaraḥ | rūḍhatve
prātipadika-svaraḥ | |*

Translation: "O Indra, bṛhac-chravaḥ — O you of great renown: give us (asme dhehi) great fame. And likewise bestow on us sahasra-sātāmam — in extreme degree accompanied by gifts reckoned in thousands — dyumnā, wealth. And likewise tā

rathinīḥ — those [iṣaḥ] famous in the forms of rice, barley and the like, rathavatyah [the word is hard to read], furnished with chariots — iṣaḥ: foods; bestow them on us." ³⁰

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | अस्मे (asme) — to us | बृहत् (br̥hat) — great, excellent | श्रवः (śravaḥ) — wealth | सहस्रसातमम् (sahasrasātamam) — greatly helpful for giving thousands of different things | द्युम्नम् (dyumnam) — wealth | तः (tāḥ) — those | रथिनीः (rathinīḥ) — borne on chariots or carts | इषः (iṣaḥ) — grains and other foods, in the form of rice, barley and the like | धेहि (dhehi) — give.

original p. 370

Rik 8: overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Give us exceedingly great fame and thousand-fold wealth, and grain and other food in cartloads (chariot-loads).

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, grant us great fame, and wealth acquired in a thousand ways and those (articles) of food (which are brought from the field) in carts.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

30. Grammar noted briefly: asme as in Rik 7; dhehi — the root dhā with hi, with the substitution of e for ā and loss of the reduplicate (Pā. 6-4-119); śravaḥ with asun; sahasrasā — 'one who gives a thousand': root ṣaṇu dāne with viṭ (Pā. 3-2-67), ā for the nasal (Pā. 6-4-41), final-udātta by the root, then the second-member rule; rathinyah — 'those who have chariots,' feminine in nīp (Pā. 4-1-5), unaccented because pīṭ; iṣaḥ takes the root accent if taken in its component sense and the stem accent if taken as a settled word.

The sense of this rik is easy to grasp; there are no special difficulties.

"Śravaḥ" — for this word Yāska, in his Nirukta, gives two or three different senses. Since the word śravaḥ is read among the twenty-eight words for wealth beginning with magham and reknaḥ (Nirukta 2-9 [?]), the sense "wealth" is also possible. In explaining the rik uta svainaṃ (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 4-?-? [?]) he says: "śravaś ca paśum ucca yūtham praśamsām ca yūtham dhanam ca yūtham cety vā" — that is, śravaḥ is "praise (fame)" or "wealth" (Nirukta 4-?? [?]); and in the rik āmanāmno'smān [the quotation is compressed; Ṛgveda 1-?-? [?]] he explains the word śrava icchamānāḥ as "wishing for praise" (Nirukta 5-11 [?]). In the explanation of the rik pra vo mahe mandamānāya (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-?-? [?]) he explains śravaḥ as mahac chravaṇīyaṃ yaśaḥ — "great, worthy-of-hearing glory" (Nirukta 11-10 [?]). Since in this rik, besides this, the word dyumnā ("wealth") also occurs — a word for wealth — to render śravaḥ as "wealth" would produce the fault of repetition; so to give it the sense of "fame" is quite fitting.

"Sahasrasātāmam" — सहस्रं सनुते ददातीति सहस्रसाः । षणु दाने (sahasraṃ sanute dadātīti sahasrasāḥ | ṣaṇu dāne) — "one who gives a thousand; the root ṣaṇu in the sense of giving." Therefore sahasrasātāmam means "that which gives thousands, that is, that gives in the greatest abundance."

"Tāḥ" — a feminine accusative plural of tad, and an adjective of the word iśaḥ. The necessity of this word is not evident in this rik; probably it is used for filling out the pāda.

"Rathinīḥ" — रथा आसां सन्तीति रथिन्यः (rathā āsāṃ santīti rathinyāḥ) — "those that have chariots": [loads] related to chariots — that is, filling the chariots or carts, in great abundance. The grain that a single man carries on his head is not very much; but in a cart, how much more — as many people can carry. Hence the grain that fills a cart is a very great amount of grain.

Rik 8: grammar

"Iṣaḥ" — although the word has the sense "food," here it is used in a general sense, "food or grain." The adjective rathinīḥ supports this sense.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

अस्मे (asme) — the plural dative ending after asmad is replaced by śe by "supāṃ suluk..." (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]). धेहि (dhehi) — root ḍudhāñ dhāraṇapoṣaṇayoḥ ("to hold, to nourish"); loṭ parasmaipada second singular sip; sip → hi by "seryapicca" (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śap (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]), dropped by ślu after the juhotyādi class (Pā. 2-4-75 [?]); doubling by ślau (Pā. 6-1-10 [?]); dhā + hi: by "ghvasoreddhāvabhyāsalopaś ca" (Pā. 6-4-119 [?]) the roots called ghu and as, before hi, take e in place of the final ā, and the reduplicate vowel is dropped; so dhehi; wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). श्रवः (śravaḥ) — formed with asun; initial-udātta by the suffix. सहस्रसातमम् (sahasrasātamam) — sahasraṃ sanute dadāti iti sahasrasāḥ; root ṣaṇu dāne; ṣ → s; viṭ after jana, sana, khana, krama, gam in the Veda (Pā. 3-2-67 [?]); the ā substituted for the nasal (Pā. 6-4-41 [?]); the whole viṭ dropped; sahasra + sā; final-udātta by the root accent, and after compounding the second member's accent stands by "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]); then tamap (Pā. 5-3-55 [?], in the sense of excess), pit and so unaccented. रथिनीः (rathinīḥ) — rathāḥ āsāṃ santi; ini by "ata ini-ṭhanau" (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]); a of ratha dropped by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); ini is initial-udātta by the suffix accent; the stem rathin ends in n; the feminine nīp after r- and n-ending stems (Pā. 4-1-5 [?]); nīp is pit, so unaccented. इषः (iṣaḥ) — if taken in its component sense, the root accent stands (i udātta); if taken as a settled word, the stem accent applies.

Sūkta 9, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वसोरिन्द्रं वसुपतिं गीर्भिर्गुणन्त ऋग्मियम् । होम गन्तारमूतये ॥९॥

*vasor indram vasupatiṃ gīrbhir gr̥ṇanta ṛgmīyam | homa
gantāram ūtaye || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वसोः । इन्द्रम् । वसुऽपतिम् । गीःऽभिः । गुणन्तः । ऋग्मियम् ॥ होम । गन्तारम् । ऊतये ॥ ९॥

*vasoḥ | indram | vasu-patiṃ | gīḥ-bhiḥ | gr̥ṇantaḥ | ṛgmīyam
|| homa | gantāram | ūtaye || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

वसोर्वसुनो ऽस्मदीयस्य धनस्योतये रक्षार्थमिन्द्रं होम । ह्वयामः । किं कुर्वन्तः । गीर्भिः स्तुतिभिर्गुणन्तः स्तुवन्तः । कीदृशमिन्द्रम् । वसुपतिं धनपालकं ऋग्मियं ऋचां [word hard to read] गन्तारं यज्ञदेशे गमनशीलम् । वसोः । वस निवासे । शृस्वृस्निहीत्यादिना
। उ. १-११ । उप्रत्ययः । निदित्यनुवृत्तेऽर्षिताश्चाद्युदात्तः । वसुपतिम् । समासान्तोदात्तत्वे प्राप्ते
पत्यावैश्वर्ये । पा. ६-२-१८ । इति पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । गीर्भिः । सावेकाच इति
विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । गुणन्तः । गृ शब्दे । लटः शतृ । क्र्यादिभ्यः श्ना । पा. ३-१-८१ । शतुः
सार्वधातुकमपिदिति डित्त्वात् श्नाभ्यस्तयोरान्तः । पा. ६-४-११२ । इत्याकारलोपः ।
शतुरकारस्य प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तत्वम् । ऋग्मियम् । ऋचो मिमीत इत्यृग्मियः । तमृग्मियं ।
वाजमाने शब्दे च । क्विप्चेति क्विप् । घुमास्थेत्यादिना । पा. ६-४-६६ । ईत्त्वं । चकारस्य चोः
कुः । झलां जशो ऽन्ते । पा. ८-२-३९ । इति जश्त्वं । गकारः । द्वितीयैकवचने ... [?] ।
इयुजादेशः । ... होम । हेज् स्पर्धायां शब्दे च । लट् । तस्यास्मदो बहुत्वे ऽपि व्यत्ययेन मिप् ।
इकारस्य व्यत्ययेनाकारः । शपो बहुलं छन्दसीति लुक् । बहुलं छन्दसि । पा. ६-१-३४ । इति
ह्रः संप्रसारणं पररूपत्वं गुणः । धातोः । पा. ६-१-१६३ । इत्येकार उदात्तः । मिपः
पित्वादानुदात्तत्वम् । गन्तारम् । गम्ल् सृप्ल् गतौ । ताच्छील्ये तृन् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । ऊतये । ऊतियूतीत्यादिना क्तिन्नुदात्तो निपातितः ॥ vasor vasuno 'smadīyasya dhanasyotaye rakṣārtham indram

 homa | hvayāmaḥ | kiṃ kurvantaḥ | gīrbhiḥ stutibhir
 gr̥nantaḥ stuvantaḥ | kīdrśam indram | vasupatiṃ dhana-pālakaṃ ṛgmiyaṃ ṛcāṃ [word hard to read] gantāraṃ yajña-deśe gamana-śīlam || vasoḥ | vasa nivāse | śṛsvṛsnihītyādinā
 | u. 1-11 | u-pratyayaḥ | nid ity anuvṛtter ṛṣitāś cādyudāttaḥ |
 vasupatiṃ | samāsāntodāttatve prāpte patyāv aiśvare | pā.
 6-2-18 | iti pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | gīrbhiḥ | sāvekāca
 iti vibhakter udāttatvam | gr̥nantaḥ | gṛ śabde | laṭaḥ śatṛ |
 kryādibhyaḥ śnā | pā. 3-1-81 | śatuḥ sārva dhātukam apid iti
 nīttvāt śnābhyastayor ātaḥ | pā. 6-4-112 | ity ākāralopaḥ |
 śatur akārasya pratyaya-svareṇodāttatvam | ṛgmiyam | ṛco
 mimīta ity ṛgmiyaḥ | tam ṛgmiyam | vājamāne śabde ca | kvip
 ceti kvip | ghumāstheti | pā. 6-4-66 | ittvam | cakārasya co
 kuḥ | jhalām jaśo 'nte | pā. 8-2-39 | iti jaśtvam | gakāraḥ |
 dvitīyaikavacane ... [?] | iyuj-ādeśaḥ | ... homa | hveñ
 spardhāyām śabde ca | laṭ | tasyāsmado bahutve 'pi vyatyayena mip | ikārasya vyatyayenākāraḥ | śapo bahulaṃ
 chandasīti luk | bahulaṃ chandasi | pā. 6-1-34 | iti hvaḥ
 samprasāraṇaṃ pararūpatvaṃ guṇaḥ | dhātoḥ | pā. 6-1-163 |
 ity ekāra udāttaḥ | mipaḥ pīttvād anudāttatvam | gantāram |
 gamlṛ srplṛ gatau | tācchīlye ṭṛn | nīttvād ādyudāttaḥ | ūtaye
 | ūtiyūtīty-ādinā ktin udātto nīpātitaḥ ||

Translation: "For the ūtaye — the protection — of our vasu, our wealth, we call (homa) Indra. What are we doing? Gīrbhiḥ gr̥nantaḥ — praising with hymns. What kind of Indra? Vasupatiṃ — the guardian of wealth; ṛgmiyam — [the one] of the ṛks [the word that follows is hard to read in the scan]; gantāram — the one who is in the habit of going to the place of sacrifice." ^{31 32}

Rik 9: word-meanings, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

वसोः (vasoḥ) — (our) wealth's | ऊतये (ūtaye) — for protection | वसुपतिम् (vasupatim) — the lord of wealth and splendour | ऋग्मियम् (ṛgmiyam) — worthy of being praised by ṛks | गन्तारम् (gantāram) — one who goes to the sacrificial ground (for the protection of the sacrificer) | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | गीर्भिः (gīrbhiḥ) — with hymns in the form of speech | गृणन्तः (grṇantaḥ) — praising | होम (homa) — we call.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra is the lord of wealth and splendour; he is worthy of being praised with ṛks (Vedic mantras); he goes to the sacrificial ground and protects the sacrificers and others. We call such an Indra with hymns for the protection of our wealth.

॥ English Translation ॥

Praising with songs we invoke Indra, the lord of riches, who deserves to be praised and who goes (to protect his worshipper).

31. Grammar, noted briefly: vasoḥ — root vasa nivāse with the suffix u (Uṇ. 1-11); vasupatim — the first-member accent by Pā. 6-2-18 when pati means 'lord'; grṇantaḥ — root gr̥ śabde, śatṛ with śnā, the ā of śnā dropped before the śatṛ since it is treated as ñit; ṛgmiyam — 'one who measures the ṛks' (ṛco mimīte) with kvip, the ī by Pā. 6-4-66, the voicing of the final consonant (Pā. 8-2-39); homa — root hveñ with the first-person plural mip by Vedic exchange, śap dropped, the saṃprasāraṇa of hve (Pā. 6-1-34), giving homa; gantāram — root gamlṛ with tṛn in the sense of habit, initial-udatta since ñit; ūtaye — the ktin of ūti, udatta by the irregular formation.

32. Passages marked [?] are compressed in the scan.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Vasupatim" — vasu is wealth, pati is lord; the lord of wealth, the master of wealth. Although the word vasoḥ is already in this rik, the word vasupatim is used again — would there not then be a fault of repetition? No: such usages are found especially often in the Ṛgveda. When using a customary (settled) group of words, one need not attend to whether it is faulty by repetition or contrary to the rules of grammar. Because everyone uses what is settled in usage, its use is regarded as right; for the rules of grammar and the like are composed following the established practice of the language. The root of grammar is language, not the root of language grammar. Such usages with repetition are needed in the Ṛgveda in plenty. We give a couple of examples:

ऊर्व इव पप्रथे कामो अस्मे तमा पृण वसुपते वसूनाम् ॥ ūrva iva paprathe kāmo asme tam ā pṛṇa vasupate vasūnām | | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-?-? [?]; the source's number reads "३-३०-०८ [?]") ("As if like an expanse my desire has spread [for me]; fill it, O lord of riches, of the riches." — my gloss, tentative.)

आ तू भर माकिरेतत्परिष्ठाद्विद्वा हि त्वा वसुपतिं वसूनाम् ॥ ā tū bhara mākīre tat pariṣṭhād vidmā hi tvā vasupatiṃ vasūnām | | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-?-? [?]) ("Bring [it] now; let none hinder this; for we know you as lord of riches of riches." — my gloss, tentative.)

original p. 374

Rik 9: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

33

33. The page opens with the end of the second quoted rik from p. 373, and a third:

सत्राभवो वसुपतिर्वसूनां दत्रे विश्वा अधिथा इन्द्र कृष्टीः ॥ satrābhavo vasupatir vasūnām datre viśvā adhithā indra kṛṣṭīḥ || (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 4-?-? [?]; the source's number reads "४-०२-६" [?]) ("You were the lord of riches, of riches in giving; you held all the peoples, O Indra." — my gloss, tentative.)

"...and so on." All these riks are addressed to Indra. So it may be said that calling Indra vasupati is an established usage.

"R̥gmiyam" — ऋचो मिमीत इत्यृग्मियः । ऋचां मातारम् (rco mimūta ity ṛgmiyaḥ | ṛcām mātāram) — "one who measures the ṛks is ṛgmiya; the 'maker' of the ṛks": the Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "one who is praised by ṛks," i.e., one who is hymned. Skandasvāmī: ऋग्मियं ऋचे स्तुत्यै । अर्चना ऋक् । संपदादित्वात् क्विप् । तद्योग्यं स्तुतियोग्यमित्यर्थः (ṛgmiyaṃ ṛce stutyai | arcanā ṛk | saṃpadādītvāt kvip | tadyogyam stuti-yogyam ity arthaḥ) — "ṛgmiya is: [fit] for the ṛk, for praise; ṛk means worship; kvip by the saṃpadādi group; the sense: worthy of that, worthy of praise." That is, ṛgmiya means "worthy of being praised." Veṅkaṭamādhava says ṛgarham — "worthy of ṛks," that is, worthy of being praised with ṛks.

"Homa" — āhvayāmaḥ, "we invoke, we call." The word is the first-person plural laṭ of the root hveñ spardhāyām śabde ca. For its derivation see the grammar section.

"Gantāram" — the accusative singular of the r-ending word gantr. The meaning is "one who goes." Where does he go? The Bhāṣyakāra says to supply "going to the place of sacrifice (yoga-deśe)," to make the sense: one who goes to the sacrificial ground to protect the sacrificer.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁴

वसोः (vasoḥ) — root vasa nivāse; the Uṇādi sūtra "śvā-styā-snihi-tr̥pyasi-vasi-hani-kledi-bandhi-manibhyaś ca" (Uṇ. 1-10 [?]) gives the suffix u after a list of roots (śvi, stya, sniḥ, tr̥p, vas, han, kled, bandh, man); the suffix is nit, so vasu is initial-udātta. वसुपतिम् (vasupatim) — compound accent: by "samāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-223 [?]) final-udātta would be expected; this is set aside by "patyāv aiśvarye" (Pā. 6-2-18 [?]) — when pati in the sense of lordship is the second member, the first member keeps its natural accent. गीर्भिः (gīrbhiḥ) — "sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 6-1-168 [?]): the case ending is udātta. गृणन्तः (gṛṇantaḥ) — root gṛ śabde ("to sound; praise") with laṭ, replaced by śaṭr (Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); śnā after the kryādi class (Pā. 3-1-81 [?]); the augment-rule shortening ā before the participle (Pā. 6-4-112 [?], "śnābhyastayor ātaḥ"); the n of śnā becomes ṇ (gṛṇ); num before jas by "ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-70 [?]); the suffix-accent makes the a of śaṭr udātta. ऋग्मियम् (ṛgmiyam) — "ṛco mimīte": mā (to measure) + kvip (Pā. 3-2-76 [?]); by "ghumāsthā..." (Pā. 6-4-66 [?]) the ā → ī; vīr aprktasya (Pā. 6-1-66 [?]) removes the v; c → k by "coḥ kuḥ" (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]) and k → g by "jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte" (Pā. 8-2-39 [?]); accusative singular am; the ī before the vowel becomes iy (iyāṇ, Pā. 6-4-77 [?]), with a long discussion of the rule "ekāco 'saṃyoga-pūrvasya" (Pā. 6-4-82 [?]) (yaṇ for the final i/ī of a root of more than one syllable) and why it does not arise here; finally "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" gives the ī-syllable the udātta. होम (homa) — root hveñ spardhāyāṃ śabde ca; laṭ first plural mas, replaced by mip by Vedic inversion; i of mip → a; śap dropped by bahulaṃ chandasi; saṃprasāraṇa of hve (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]); pararūpa and guṇa give homa; the o is udātta by the root accent (Pā. 6-1-163 [?]); mip is pīṭ, so the ma is unaccented. गन्तारम् (gantāram) — root gamlṛ sṛplṛ gatau with tṛn in the sense of habitual action (Pā. 3-2-135 [?]); nit, initial-udātta. ऊतये (ūtaye) — the irregular ktin of "ūtiyūtijūti..." (Pā. 3-3-97 [?]), udātta.

34. grammar pages 374–376, noted briefly

Sūkta 9, Rik 10 (the last)॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सुतेसुते न्योकसे बृहद्बृहत एदरिः । इन्द्राय शूषमर्चति ॥१०॥

sute-sute nyokase br̥had br̥hata ed ariḥ | indrāya śūṣam arcati
|| 10 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³⁵

सुतेऽसुते । निऽओकसे । बृहत् । बृहते । आ । इत् । अरिः ॥ इन्द्राय । शूषम् । अर्चति ॥१०॥

sute-sute | ni-okase | br̥hat | br̥hate | ā | it | ariḥ | | indrāya
| śūṣam | arcati | | 10 |

original p. 377

Rik 10: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

आकार इच्छब्दश्च पादपूरणौ । यद्वा । आ व्याप्तिवचन आकारः । आजूषदर्थे [?] ऽभिव्याप्तौ [?] । अमु. ६-४-४१ [?] । इत्यभिधानात् । इच्छब्दो ऽपिशब्दार्थः । इयति गच्छत्यनुष्ठेयं कर्म प्राप्नोतीत्यरियजमानः । एदरिः सर्वो ऽपि यजमान इन्द्राय सुते सुते इन्द्रार्थमभिषुते तत्र तत्र सोमे शूषं बलमर्चति स्तौति । इन्द्रस्य पराक्रमं प्रशंसतीत्यर्थः । कीदृशं शूषं बृहत् प्रौढम् । कीदृशायेन्द्राय न्योकसे नियतस्थानाय बृहते प्रौढाय ॥

ākāra icchabdas ca pāda-pūraṇau | yadvā | ā vyāpti-vacana
ākāraḥ | ājūṣad-arthe [?] 'bhivyāptau [?] | amu. 6-4-41 [?] | ity abhidhānāt | icchabdo 'pi-śabdārthaḥ | iyarti gacchaty
anuṣṭheyam karma prāpnotīty ariḥ yajamānaḥ | ed ariḥ sarvo
'pi yajamāna indrāya sute-sute indrārtham abhiṣute tatra tatra
some śūṣam balam arcati stauti | indrasya parākramam
praśamsatīty arthaḥ | kīdṛśam śūṣam br̥hat prauḍham |
kīdṛśāyendrāya nyokase niyata-sthānāya br̥hate prauḍhāya | |

35. The pada text prints सुतेसुते with an avagraha between the halves, as one repeated word.

Translation: "The syllable ā and the word it are pāda-fillers. Or: the ā has the sense of 'pervading' [the clause giving the Sanskrit reference for this is hard to read]; the word it has the sense of api ('also'). Ariḥ is the sacrificer: 'he who goes (iyarti) — attains — the rite to be performed.' Ed ariḥ: every sacrificer, sute-sute, in each Soma that is pressed for Indra's sake, arcati — praises — śūṣam, [his] strength, that is, extols Indra's prowess. What kind of śūṣa? Bṛhat — vast. For what kind of Indra? Nyokase — one whose dwelling is fixed; bṛhate — great." ^{36 37}

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अरिः (ariḥ) — the sacrificer who performs the rite, or who offers praise | न्योकसे (nyokase) — to the one who dwells in his appointed place | बृहते (bṛhate) — mighty, of great capacity | इन्द्राय (indrāya) — for Indra | सुतेसुते (sute-sute) — in each pressing, for Indra, of the Soma-juice prepared | बृहत् (bṛhat) — vast | शूषम् (śūṣam) — (Indra's) strength (power of capacity) | आ अर्चति इत् (ā arcati it) — praises indeed.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The strength, or capacity, of Indra is exceedingly great. The sacrificer who performs the rite praises with hymns and the like, in each pressing — the morning pressing and the other two — Indra's strength and capacities, and calls him.

original p. 378

36. The phrase marked [?] is compressed in the scan; the sentence structure is clear from the continuation.

37. The remaining Sanskrit on this page is the grammar of सुतेसुते, न्योकसे, बृहते, अरिः, इन्द्राय, शूषम्, अर्चति, noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

Rik 10: English, Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

The sacrificer glorifies the vast prowess of Indra, the mighty, the dweller in his permanent abode in every rite where soma is prepared.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

In this rik, although a third-person verb has been used — "the sacrificer praises Indra" — the poet indirectly states the sense of a first-person usage: "I praise Indra."

"Sute sute" — "at each pressing." By "nityavīpsayoḡ" (Pā. 8-1-4 [?]) a word is doubled to show "each one." Using a single word twice to convey "each" is established usage in the Ṛgveda and in other texts: bhare-bhare, have-have, aharahaḡ, etc. Sute-sute means "in the rite of each pressing, and in each rite where Soma-juice is drawn."

"Nyokase" — ni + okase. Here ni is a prefix (upasarga). The word okaḡ, ending in s, means a dwelling, one's own place, a place where one always lives: permanent dwelling, abode, etc. [the source's own English]. For the word divaukasaḡ — "those who dwell in heaven," as their own place — means "gods." Similarly in ni-okase = nyokase, the ni is a particle (upasarga), here meaning "fixed." So nyokase means "one whose place is fixed."

"Ā it" — these words have no necessary meaning in this rik; they are used for filling out the pāda. Or the Bhāṣyakāra's view is that the word ā may be given the sense of api ("also").

"Br̥hate" — महते, महतः शरीरेण वीर्येण वा (mahate, mahataḡ śarīreṇa vīryeṇa vā) — "great — great in body or in valour"; that is, great in body and also in prowess.

"Ariḥ" — ऋ गतौ । इयति गच्छतीत्यनुष्ठेयं कर्म प्राप्नोतीत्यरियजमानः (ṛ gatau | iyarti gacchatīty anuṣṭheyam karma prāpnotīty ariḥ yajamānaḥ) — the root ṛ means "to go, to attain": the one who attains the rite to be performed, i.e., one who performs the rite, the sacrificer.

"Śūṣam" — strength, capacity. Among the twenty-eight words for strength beginning with ojaḥ, pājaḥ, the word śūṣam is read (Nirukta 2-9 [?]). Indra's powers, valour, glory, and so on. Although śūṣa has this sense, when the word is used with Indra in view, the sense "hymn" (stotra) generally fits best. A few examples are given on this point:

original p. 379

Rik 10: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

प्र मन्महे शवसानाय शूषमाङ्गूषं गिर्वणसे अङ्गिरस्वत् । pra manmahe śavasānāya śūṣam āṅgūṣam girvaṇase aṅgirasvat | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-62-1) ("We offer a hymn — a śūṣa, an āṅgūṣa — to the powerful one, the hymn-loving, as the *Aṅgiras*es did." — my gloss, tentative.)

इनुं [?] महे विदथ्याय शूषं शश्वत्कृत्व ईड्याय प्र जभ्रुः । inuṃ [?] mahe vidathyāya śūṣam śaśvat-kṛtva īḍyāya pra jabhruḥ | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 3-34-? [?]) ("...they brought a hymn to the great one, worthy of the assembly, to be praised, who acts perpetually." — my gloss, tentative; the first word is hard to read, and the whole line is a best reading.)

उप व एषे वन्द्येभिः शूषैः प्र यही दिवश्चितयद्भिरर्कैः । upa va eṣe vandyebhiḥ śūṣaiḥ pra yahvī divas citayadbhir arkaiḥ | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 3-?-? [?]; the number is not legible) ("I approach you with praiseworthy hymns, with hymns that make [the heavens] shine." — my gloss, tentative.)

आ यं पृणन्ति परिभिर्न धेनव इन्द्राय शूषं परिनन्तमर्चत । ā yaṃ prṇanti paribhir na dhenava indrāya śūṣaṃ parinantam arcata | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 10-?-? [?]) (The last words are not securely read; no gloss is offered.)

38

Many more examples could be given.

"Arcati" — arcati is read among the forty-four verbs [roots] of the sense "to worship, praise," beginning with arcati, gāyati (Nirukta 3-14 [?]); so arcati means gāyati, stauti — "he praises, he extols."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁹

सुतेसुते (sute-sute) — root ṣuñ abhiṣave ("to press") + kta; initial/final-udāṭṭa by the suffix; locative singular ni → e; doubling by "nityavīpsayoḥ" (Pā. 8-1-4 [?]); for the second member the technical name āmreḍita arises ("tasya paramāmreḍitam," Pā. 8-1-2 [?]), and "anudāṭṭam ca" (Pā. 8-1-3 [?]) makes it unaccented. न्योकसे (nyokase) — "niyatam okaḥ yasya": ni is a nipāta, initial-udāṭṭa (Phīṭ-sūtra [?]); the udāṭṭa i is replaced by y ("iko yaṇaci," Pā. 6-1-77 [?]), and the o after the udāṭṭa y is svārīta by "udāṭṭasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svarito 'nudāṭṭasya" (Pā. 8-2-4 [?]). बृहते (br̥hate) — "br̥han-mahator upasaṃkhyānam" (Pā. 6-1-171 vārttika [?]): after br̥hat and mahat the case-ending that has nadī status (and the vowel-initial endings) is udāṭṭa; so the e in br̥hate is udāṭṭa; although the sūtra "vartamāne pr̥sad-br̥han-mahaj-jagac-chatṛvac ca" (Uṇ. 2-2-84 [?]) says śatṛvat (treated like śatṛ), by which "śaturanumo nadyajādī" (Pā. 6-1-173 [?]) would already give the udāṭṭa, a vārttika is needed to fix the rule so that it applies only after br̥hat and mahat and not after pr̥ṣat and jagat; hence "br̥han-mahator upasaṃkhyānam" is necessary. अरिः (ariḥ)

38. These four verses are best readings from compressed print, each marked where doubtful; a clear copy is needed before relying on them.

39. grammar pages 379–380, noted briefly

— root r gatau + the suffix i (Uṇ. 4-139 [?]); guṇa and raparatva (Pā. 1-1-51 [?]); ari is final-udātta by the suffix. इन्द्राय (indrāya) — ran by "ṛjrendrāgra-vajra..." (Uṇ. 2-28 [?]); the suffix is nit, so initial-udātta. शूषम् (śūṣam) — base accent by the Phiṭ-sūtra "phiṣaḥ." अर्चति (arcati) — wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]).

॥१०॥

इति नवमं सूक्तं समाप्तम् । iti navamaṃ sūktaṃ samāptam | "Thus the ninth sūkta is completed." ⁴⁰

End of Sūkta 9.

original p. 380

40. Printed in Sanskrit at the end of the grammar, p. 380.

॥ ಹತ್ತನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 10 — "gāyanti tvā gāyatrīṇaḥ" ("The Tenth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

ಗಾಯಂತೀತಿ ಸೂಕ್ತಸ್ಯ ಮನ್ತ್ರಸಂಖ್ಯಾ ಛಂದೋವಿಶೇಷಶ್ಚೈವಮನುಕ್ರಮ್ಯತೇ । ಗಾಯಂತಿ ದ್ವಾದಶಾನುಶ್ರುಭಂ ಶ್ರೀತಿ [?] ।
ತುಹಿಹೇತ್ಯಾದಿ ಪರಿಭಾಷಾಯಾಮ್ । ಅನು. ೧೦-೩ [?] । ತುಶಬ್ದಸ್ಯ ಸೂಕ್ತದ್ವಯೇ ಪರಿಭಾಷಿತತ್ವಾದಸ್ಯ
ಸೂಕ್ತಸ್ಯ ವಕ್ಷ್ಯमाणಸ್ಯ ಚಾನುಶ್ರುಭತ್ವಂ ದ್ರಷ್ಟವ್ಯಮ್ । ಋಷಿವೇದೇತೇ ಪೂರ್ವವತ್ । ಅಭಿಪ್ಲವಷಡಹಸ್ಯೋಕ್ತೃಷು
ತೃತೀಯಸವನೇ ಽಕ್ಷಾಪಾಕಸ್ಯ ಗಾಯಂತೀತಿ ಸ್ತೋತ್ರೀಯಸ್ತುತಃ । ಏಹ್ಮ ಷು [?] ಖಂಡೇ ಗಾಯಂತಿ ತ್ವಾ ಗಾಯತ್ರೀಣ ಆ ತ್ವಾ ಗಿರೋ ರಥೀರಿವ । ಆ. ೭-೮ [?] । ಇತಿ ಸೂತ್ರೀತಮ್ ॥

*gāyantīti sūktasya mantra-saṃkhyā chando-viśeṣaś caivam anukramyate | gāyanti dvādaśānuṣṭubhaṃ śrīti [?] | tuhihety-
ādi paribhāṣāyām | anu. 10-3 [?] | tuśabdasya sūktadvaye paribhāṣitatvād asya sūktasya vakṣyamāṇasya cānuṣṭubhatvaṃ draṣṭavyam | ṛṣi-devate pūrvavat | abhiplava-ṣaḍahasyokṭhṛṣu tṛtīya-savane 'cchāvākasya gāyantīti stotriyas tṛcaḥ | ehy ū ṣu [?] khaṇḍe gāyanti tvā
gāyatrīṇa ā tvā giro rathīr iva | ā. 7-8 [?] | iti sūtritam |*

Translation: "The number of mantras and the special meter of the sūkta gāyanti are laid down in the Anukramaṇī thus: 'gāyanti dvādaśānuṣṭubhaṃ' [gāyanti [has] twelve, in Anuṣṭubh]; the last word is hard to read; and by the rule beginning tuihiha in the Paribhāṣā (Anukramaṇī 10-3 [?]), since the word tu is declared to apply to two sūktas, this sūkta and the next are both to be understood as Anuṣṭubh. Ṛṣi and deity are as before. Its special application: in the ukthya [rites] of the Abhiplava Ṣaḍaha, in the third pressing, the opening triplet (stotriya) of the Acchāvāka is gāyanti. In the section beginning ehy ū ṣu it is laid down: 'gāyanti tvā gāyatriṇaḥ, ā tvā giro rathīr iva' (Āśvalāyana 7-8 [?])." ¹ ॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) ॥ The mantra-count and the meter of the sūkta gāyanti tvā are given in the Sūkta-anukramaṇī as "gāyanti dvādaśānuṣṭubham" — twelve riks, in the Anuṣṭubh meter (Anukramaṇī 10-3). Here the word tu [in the Paribhāṣā] is used so as to make known that this sūkta and the next share the same meter, Anuṣṭubh, as the two sūktas it governs. The ṛṣi and deity of this sūkta are as in the previous sūkta. Its application: in the sacrifice called Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, at the third pressing, when the ukthya mantras are recited, the Acchāvāka priest [recites] the triplet gāyanti, as a stotriya [opening triplet]. Āśvalāyana says in his Śrauta-sūtra, in the section ehy ū ṣu (Āś. Sū. 7-8 [?]), that the riks gāyanti tvā gāyatriṇaḥ (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-10-1; Sāma-Veda [numbers compressed]) and ā tvā giro rathīr iva (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-?-?; Sāma-Veda [?]) are to be recited.

original p. 381

Sūkta 10, Rik 1

॥ Sūkta — 10 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 3 ॥ Sūkta — 10 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 19, 20 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1-12 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Madhucchandā
Vaiśvāmītra ॥ ॥ Devatā — Indra ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Anuṣṭubh ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

1. The Anukramaṇī quotation and the reference numbers are hard to read in the scan; the sense is confirmed by the Kannada rendering that follows.

2. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; they continue the two-vargas-per-sūkta run: Sūkta 9 "17, 18"

गायन्ति त्वा गायत्रिणो ऽर्चन्त्यर्कमर्किणः । ब्रह्माणस्त्वा शतक्रत उद्वंशमिव येमिरे ॥१॥

gāyanti tvā gāyatriṇo 'rcanty arkam arkiṇaḥ | brahmāṇas tvā śatakrata ud vaṁśam iva yemire || 1 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

गायन्ति । त्वा । गायत्रिणः । अर्चन्ति । अर्कम् । अर्किणः ॥ ब्रह्माणः । त्वा । शतक्रतो इति शतऽक्रतो । उत् । वंशम्ऽइव । येमिरे ॥१॥

*gāyanti | tvā | gāyatriṇaḥ | arcanti | arkam | arkiṇaḥ ||
brahmāṇaḥ | tvā | śatakrato iti śata-krato | ut | vaṁśam-iva
| yemire || 1 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शतक्रतो बहुकर्मन्बहुप्रज्ञ वेन्द्र त्वां गायत्रिण उद्गातारो गायन्ति । स्तुवन्ति । अर्किणो ऽर्चनहेतुमन्त्रयुक्ता होतारो ऽर्कमर्चनीयमिन्द्रमर्चन्ति । शस्त्रगतैर्मन्त्रैः प्रशंसन्ति । ब्रह्माणो ब्रह्मप्रभृतय इतरे ब्राह्मणास्त्वामुद्येमिरे । उन्नतिं प्रापयन्ति । तत्र दृष्टान्तः । वंशमिव । यथा वंशाग्रे नृत्यन्तः शिल्पिनः प्रौढं वंशमुत्पन्नं कुर्वन्ति । यथा वा सन्मार्गवर्तिनः स्वकीयं कुलमुन्नतं कुर्वन्ति तद्वत् । एतामृचं यास्क एवं व्याचष्टे । गायन्ति त्वा गायत्रिणः प्रार्चन्ति तेऽर्कमर्किणो ब्राह्मणास्त्वा शतक्रतो उद्वंशमिव येमिरे वंशो वनशयो भवति वननाच्छ्रयत इति वा । नि. ३-१८ । अर्कशब्दं च बहुधा व्याचष्टे । अर्को देवो भवति यदेनमर्चन्त्यर्को मन्त्रो भवति यदेनेनार्चन्त्यर्कमन्नं भवत्यर्चति भूतान्यर्को वृक्षो भवति संवृत्तः कटुकिम्ना । नि. ५-४ । इति ॥

*he śatakrato bahukarmann bahuprajña vendra tvām gāyatriṇa udgātāro gāyanti | stuvanti | arkiṇo 'rcana-hetu-mantra-yuktā
hotāro 'rkam arcanīyam indram arcanti | śastra-gatair
mantraiḥ praśaṁsanti | brahmāṇo brahma-prabhṛtaya itare
brāhmaṇās tvām udyemire | unnatiṁ prāpayanti | tatra
dr̥ṣṭāntaḥ | vaṁśam iva | yathā vaṁśāgre nṛtyantaḥ śilpinaḥ prauḍhaṁ vaṁśam utpannaṁ kurvanti | yathā vā sanmārgavartinaḥ svakīyaṁ kulam unnataṁ kurvanti tadvat | etām
rcaṁ yāska evaṁ vyācaṣṭe | gāyanti tvā gāyatriṇaḥ prārcanti te 'rkam arkiṇo brāhmaṇās tvā śatakrato udvaṁśam iva yemire vaṁśo vanaśayo bhavati vananāc chrayata iti vā | ni.*

3-18 | *arka-śabdaṃ ca bahudhā vyācaṣṭe | arko devo bhavati yad enam arcanty arko mantrō bhavati yad anenārcanty arkam annaṃ bhavaty arcati bhūtāny arko vṛkṣo bhavati
saṃvṛttaḥ kaṭukimnā | ni. 5-4 | iti |*

Translation: "O śatakrato — O Indra of many deeds, of much wisdom — the gāyatriṇaḥ, the udgātṛ priests, sing of you (gāyanti): they praise. The arkīṇaḥ, the hotṛ priests, equipped with the mantras that are the means of worship, worship (arcanti) Indra, the arka — the worshipful one: they praise [him] with the mantras of the śastra. The brahmāṇaḥ — Brahmā and the other brāhmaṇas — ud yemire: raise you aloft, they bring about your elevation. The illustration: vaṃśam iva — as craftsmen dancing at the tip of a bamboo pole set the grown bamboo upright, or as those who follow the good path raise their own family high, so [they raise you]. This rik Yāska explains thus: 'gāyanti tvā gāyatriṇaḥ... [the rik repeated with its glosses]; a vaṃśa (bamboo) is "that which lies in the forest" (vanaśaya), or "that which is resorted to (śrayate) because of its being cut/enjoyed (vananāt)'" (Nirukta 3-18). And he explains the word arka in many ways: 'arka is a god, because they worship him (arcanti); arka is a mantra, because with it they worship; arka is food, because beings honour it; arka is a tree (vṛkṣa), because it grows pungent in bitterness' (Nirukta 5-4)." ³

original p. 382

Rik 1: word-meanings, overall sense

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

3. The rest of the p. 382 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of गायन्ति, गायत्रिणः, अर्चन्ति, अर्कम्, अर्किणः, ब्रह्माणः, शतक्रतो, वंशमिव, येमिरे, noted briefly with the Kannada grammar below.

(हे) शतक्रतो ((he) śatakrato) — O Indra, who perform many daring deeds, or who are of much wisdom | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | गायत्रिणः (gāyatriṇaḥ) — the priests called udgātṛ, singers of the Sāman | गायन्ति (gāyanti) — praise with Sāma-Veda mantras | अर्किणः (arkīṇaḥ) — the priests called hotṛ, who praise with ṛks of the Ṛgveda | अर्कम् (arkam) — Indra, worthy of worship or praise | अर्चन्ति (arcanti) — extol with the śastra mantras | ब्रह्माणः (brahmāṇaḥ) — the other brāhmaṇas, headed by Brahmā | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | वंशम् इव (vaṃśam iva) — like a bamboo | उत् येमिरे (ut yemire) — raise aloft (praise specially).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You do many daring deeds or are of much wisdom. In sacrifices and other rites the priests called udgātṛ praise you by singing Sāmans; the priests called hotṛ, who are worthy to be worshipped with the mantras of their own Veda, the Ṛgveda, praise you; Brahmā and the other brāhmaṇas praise you with hymns and the like, as one raises a bamboo aloft, and so increase your fame.

original p. 383

Rik 1: English and Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁴

O Indra, with many daring deeds or great knowledge, the chanters of the Sama sing about you, the reciters of the Riks praise you who are worthy of praise, and the (priests called) Brahmanas raise you aloft like a bamboo pole.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This rik is found, besides in this sūкта, in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā (1-6-?-? [?]), the Sāma-Veda (numbers compressed), and the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa [?]. The sense of this rik, or the matter stated in it, is almost the same as the sense of the third rik of this sūкта [sic; the source says "the fifth/third rik"; the number is not legible]. The sense of the first half (that is, the first and second pādas) is clear, but what is said in the third pāda is somewhat strained. Here the sense of the word brāhmaṇaḥ [sic; read brahmāṇaḥ] does not fit well. In the sacrificial rite, the three priest-groups — hotṛ, adhvaryu and udgātṛ — need one priest, called brahmā, to see to it that their duties are properly carried out. He must know all three Vedas and the order of performance of the sacrifice. Although he does not take a special part in the actual duties of the rite, he takes care that the sacrifice proceeds properly, and gives permission for the necessary actions of the other priests, so that the sacrifice goes on with all its limbs: he is the supervisor. The Bhāṣyakāra explains the word brahmāṇaḥ as the priests of the brahma class and the other brāhmaṇas. Or, brahma has the sense of "praise (stotra)," and so one may give the word brahmāṇaḥ the sense "those who praise."

The comparison vaṃśam iva in the third pāda is also strained. Vaṃśa is a kind of tree: bamboo, reed. The comparison "like raising [or lifting high] a bamboo" is not well fitted. [The meaning:] those who raise you as one raises a bamboo — that is, they praise you and so increase your fame and renown; by singing of your qualities they provide you with a high station: this may be taken as the poet's idea. Or, since vaṃśa has another meaning — family, lineage — then "as those who raise their family's honour by right conduct, or raise the esteem of the family by special deeds of daring, so [they raise you]": this is the sense one may give. The Bhāṣyakāra gives both of these senses.

original p. 384

Rik 1: Special Topics (continued)

"Gāyatrīṇaḥ" — गायत्रं साम येषामुद्गात्राणामस्ति ते गायत्रिणः (gāyatraṃ sāma yeṣām udgāṭrīṇām asti te gāyatrīṇaḥ) — "those udgāṭrs who have the Gāyatra Sāman are gāyatrīṇaḥ": those who sing the Sāman called Gāyatra; or, since many of the mantras sung in the Sāma-Veda are Ṛgveda mantras in the Gāyatrī meter, it is the customary usage to call the udgāṭr priests who sing them gāyatrīṇaḥ — "singers of Gāyatrī-meter ṛks."

"Arcanti" — arca pūjāyām — the root arc: to worship; that is, to praise.

"Arkam" — अर्च्यन्ते ऽभिरिति अर्काः मन्त्राः (arcyante 'bhir iti arkāḥ mantrāḥ) — "those by which one is worshipped are arkas, mantras": since they are used for praising, mantras are called arkas. Here arkam means Indra, who is praised by such arkas or mantras.

For this rik the sage Yāska has given, in his Nirukta, an explanation in this manner:

अर्कः ॥ अर्को देवो भवति यदेनमर्चन्ति ॥ अर्को मन्त्रो भवति यदेनेनार्चन्ति ॥ अर्कमन्नं भवत्यर्चति भूतानि ॥ अर्को वृक्षो भवति संवृत्तः कटुकिमन्ना ॥ arkaḥ || arko devo bhavati yad enam arcanti || arko mantro bhavati yad anenārcanti || arkam annaṃ bhavaty arcati bhūtāni || arko vṛkṣo bhavati samvṛttaḥ kaṭukimnā || (Nirukta 5-4)

Four different senses of the word arka are stated:

Deva — tāvat tv arka eva arka ity ucyate yat yasmāt enam devam arcanti stotāraḥ — arka is the god; for the worshippers, using this word, say "arka" of whom they worship. That is, the deity worshipped by the devotees is called arka.

Arko mantro bhavati — "arka is a mantra, because with it the worshippers worship"; those who praise worship the deity with this (the arka, or mantra); hence arka means "mantra."

Arkam annaṃ bhavati — "arka is food: tad dhi arcati bhūtāni" — "beings honour it. Whoever is worthy of honour, to his food special preparation is given in a worship-like manner; and what is honoured is food for all": food (āhāra) is necessary to all living beings, and everyone honours and seeks it with respect and love; so arka also means food.

Arko vṛkṣo bhavati — ya eṣa prasiddhaḥ — "saṃvṛttaḥ — hi saṅgataḥ saṃvyāptaḥ kaṭukimnā" — "that well-known tree arka [the Calotropis, in Kannada ಎಕ್ಕ] is covered all round with pungency (kaṭu)." The name arka for a tree (vṛkṣa) is well established, too.

original p. 385

Rik 1: Special Topics (continued)

⁵ Its twigs are used in the homa rites, and it is also well known to all as a herbal medicine; therefore the arka tree is a thing known to all. As its sap is acrid, he says kaṭukimnā ("by pungency").

As an example to explain the word arka, Yāska has quoted this very rik gāyanti tvā gāyatrīṇaḥ, and in it has also given an explanation of the meaning of the word vaṃśa in it:

गायन्ति त्वा गायत्रिणः प्रार्चन्ति तेऽर्कमर्किणो ब्राह्मणास्त्वा शतक्रतो उद्वंशमिव येमिरे वंशो वनशयो भवति वननाच्छ्रयत इति वा ॥ gāyanti tvā gāyatrīṇaḥ prārchanti te 'rkam arkiṇo brāhmaṇās tvā śatakrato udvaṃśam iva yemire vaṃśo vanaśayo bhavati vananāc chrayata iti vā || (Nirukta 3-18) (Yāska's text as printed reads brāhmaṇās and te 'rkam; the Saṃhitā has brahmāṇas and arcanty arkam — the source does not remark on the difference.)

Durgācārya's commentary on this runs: गायन्ति त्वा गायत्रिणः । स्तुवन्ति त्वां सामगाः सामभिः । अर्चन्त्यर्कमर्किणः — पूजयन्ति त्वां ऋग्भिर्होतारो मन्त्रिणः । एवमनेन प्रकारेण सर्व एते ब्राह्मणाः यज्ञे कर्मणि हे शतक्रतो उद्वंशमिव येमिरे — उद्येमिरे

5. ... "Arka" means ekka tree, in Kannada.

वंशमिव त्वां स्तुतिभिर्हविर्भिश्च यज्ञेषु तव एव महिमानं वर्धयन्तीत्यर्थः । वंशो वनशयो भवति वने शयित इवास्ते । वननाच्छ्रयत इति वा संभजनाद्बल्लीभिः ॥ ⁶ — "Gāyanti tvā gāyatrīṇaḥ: the Sāma-singers praise you with Sāmans. Arcanty arkam arkiṇaḥ: the hotṛs, with mantras, worship you with ṛks. In this way all these brāhmaṇas, in the sacrificial rite, O śatakrato, ud yemire — raise you aloft like a bamboo; with praises and offerings in sacrifices they increase your greatness. A vaṃśa is vanaśaya, lying in the forest; or, vananāc chrayate — it is resorted to by creepers, because of their clinging."

Here Yāska explains brāhmaṇāḥ [as the word for the priests]: it means brāhmaṇas by caste and also the priests, headed by Brahmā, who take part in sacrifices. For vaṃśa he says: vaṃśo vanaśayo bhavati vananāc chrayata iti vā — "because it lies in the forest it is called vaṃśa; or because, blown by the wind, it makes a sound, a tikku, it is called vaṃśa; or because creepers climb it, it is called vaṃśa": so he explains.

"Arkiṇaḥ" — अर्चनहेतुमन्त्रयुक्ताः होतारः । अर्का मन्त्रा येषां सन्तीत्यर्किणः होतारः (arcana-hetu-mantra-yuktāḥ hotāraḥ | arkā mantrā yeṣāṃ santīty arkiṇaḥ hotāraḥ) — "the hotṛs, equipped with the mantras that are the means of worship; those who have arka mantras are arkiṇaḥ, the hotṛs." Since arka has the sense "mantra," those who praise with them are called arkiṇaḥ — that is, the priests of the hotṛ group who recite the ṛks in the form of śastra.

"Brahmāṇaḥ"

— the Bhāṣyakāra gives this word the sense of priests headed by Brahmā, and other brāhmaṇas. Yāska gives it a general sense, "brāhmaṇas."

"Śatakrato"

— the explanation of this word was already given earlier.

6. Durgācārya's Sanskrit is given in the source in compressed print; this is a best reading.

"Vamśam iva"

— the explanation of this word is also in Yāska's exposition above.

original p. 386

Rik 1: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁷

गायन्ति (gāyanti) — root gai śabde with laṭ parasmaipada third plural jhi; jh → ant (Pā. 7-1-3 [?]); śap; by "ād eśa upadeśe 'śiti" (Pā. 6-1-45 [?]) the ā does not change before a non-śit [ending]; "eco 'yavāyāvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-78 [?]) gives āy, so gāyanti; śap is pit, hence unaccented; the verb anti [sic, the ending] being lasārvadhātuka after a śap that is an ādi-upadeśa, it is unaccented by the "tāsyānudātennīdupadeśāt" rule (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]); the ā of gā takes the root accent, udātta. गायत्रिणः (gāyatriṇaḥ) — gāyatra is the name of a Sāman; "gāyatraṃ sāma yeṣāṃ udgātṛṇām asti te" ("those udgātṛs who have the Gāyatra Sāman") — in the compound analysis ini by "ata ini-ṭhanau" (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]); a of gāyatra dropped by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); nominative plural gāyatriṇaḥ; the i is udātta by the suffix. अर्चन्ति (arcanti) — root arca pūjāyām (bhvādi class); śap is pit, so unaccented; the anti is unaccented as a lasārvadhātuka following the ādi-upadeśa śap; the root accent stands; since the word stands at the beginning of the pāda there is no lowering of the verb by "tiṇ atiṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). अर्कम् (arkam) — "arcyante 'bhir iti arkāḥ, mantrāḥ": from arc with gha (Pā. 3-3-118 [?], "puṃsi saṃjñāyāṃ ghaḥ prāyeṇa"), in the sense of instrument/location; ghaḥ is kit [the marker is the gh → ka replacement]; c → k by "co kuḥ" (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]) before a jhal or ñit-like suffix, giving arka; accent by the suffix, final-udātta. अर्किणः (arkinaḥ) — "arkāḥ mantrāḥ eṣāṃ santi" — the ini suffix by Pā. 5-2-115 [?]; although arka is a kṛdanta word, the source argues from the Mahābhāṣya statement

7. grammar pages 386–387, noted briefly

"ekākṣara-kṛdanta-jāti-vācakebhyaḥ sapṭamy-arthe ca sahā inikanau na bhavataḥ" (Pā. Mahā. 5-2-115 vārttika [?]) that ini is not expected after a single-syllable word, a kṛdanta word or a caste-word, but that ini arises here by Vedic inversion; the i is udātta by the suffix.

original p. 387

Rik 1 grammar closes; Rik 2

ब्रह्मणः (brahmāṇaḥ) — final-udātta by the stem accent. शतक्रतो (śatakrato) — unaccented as a vocative (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]); in the Saṃhitā, with u before a vowel, the o → av (Pā. 6-1-78 [?]), then the v is lost by "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]); and since the rules of the last chapters are not "seen" by the earlier (pūrvatrāsiddham, Pā. 8-2-1 [?]), the guṇa of "ād guṇaḥ" does not occur. वंशमिव (vaṃśam iva) — vaṃśa is final-udātta by the stem accent; with iva it becomes a compound and the case-ending is dropped, the first member's accent staying ("ivena vibhaktyalopaḥ pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvaṃ ca," Pā. 2-1-4 vārttika). येमिरे (yemire) — root yamu uparame ("to restrain; to hold up") with liṭ ātmanepada third plural jha; jha → ire (Pā. 3-4-81 [?]: liṭas tajhayor eśirec); doubling (Pā. 6-1-8 [?]); by "ato lopa..." and "thali ca seṭi" (Pā. 6-4-120 [?]) the medial short a of a root between two consonants, before kit or ṇit liṭ, takes e with loss of the reduplicate; so yemire; although the root yam is parasmaipadī in the bhvādi class, here it is ātmanepada by Vedic inversion; wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]).⁸

॥१॥

original p. 387

8. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

Sūkta 10, Rik 2॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यत्सानोः सानुमारुहद्भूर्यस्पष्ट कर्त्वम् । तदिन्द्रो अर्थं चेतति यूथेन वृष्णिरेजति ॥२॥

*yat sānoḥ sānum āruhad bhūry aspaṣṭa kartvam | tad indro
artham cetati yūthena vṛṣṇir ejati || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यत् । सानोः । सानुम् । आ । अरुहत् । भूरि । अस्पष्ट । कर्त्वम् ॥ तत् । इन्द्रः । अर्थम् । चेतति । यूथेन । वृष्णिः । एजति ॥२॥

*yat | sānoḥ | sānum | ā | aruhat | bhūri | aspaṣṭa | kartvam
|| tat | indraḥ | artham | cetati | yūthena | vṛṣṇiḥ | ejati ||
2 ||*

original p. 388

Rik 2: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

यद्यदा सानोः सानुमारुहत् यजमानः सोमवल्लीसमिदाद्याहरणायैकस्मात्पर्वतभागादपरं
पर्वतभागमारूढवान् । तथा भूरि प्रभूतं कर्त्तुं सोमयागरूपमस्पष्ट स्पृष्टवान् ।
उपक्रान्तवानित्यर्थः । तत्तदानीमिन्द्रो ऽर्थं यजमानस्य प्रयोजनं चेतति । जानाति । ज्ञात्वा च
वृष्णिः कामानां वर्षिता सन् यूथेन मरुद्गणेन सहैजति । कम्पते । स्वस्थानाद्यज्ञभूमिमागन्तुमुद्युक्त इत्यर्थः ॥ *yad yadā sānoḥ sānum āruhat yajamānaḥ soma-vallī-samid-ādy-āharaṇāyaikasmāt parvata-bhāgād aparaṃ parvata-bhāgam ārūḍhavan | tathā bhūri prabhūtaṃ kartvaṃ kartuṃ

soma-yāga-rūpam aspaṣṭa sprṣṭavan | upakrāntavan ity arthaḥ | tat tadānīm indro 'rthaṃ yajamānasya prayojanaṃ cetati | jñāti | jñātvā ca vṛṣṇiḥ kāmānāṃ varṣitā san yūthena marud-gaṇena saha ejati | kampate | sva-sthānād
yajña-bhūmim āgantum udyukta ity arthaḥ ||*

Translation: "Yad — when — the sacrificer sānoḥ sānum āruhat: in order to fetch Soma-creepers, fuel-sticks and the like, climbs from one part of the mountain to another part. And bhūri — a great — kartvam, an undertaking in the form of a Soma-sacrifice, aspaṣṭa — has touched: has begun. Tat — then — Indra artham cetati: knows the sacrificer's purpose. Having known it, being vṛṣṇiḥ, the showerer of desires, he ejati — stirs, is set in motion — yūthēna, together with the troop of Maruts: he is ready to come from his own place to the sacrificial ground." ⁹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

यत् (yat) — when | ¹⁰ सानोः (sānoḥ) — from one mountain-top | सानुम् (sānum) — to another peak | आ अरुहत् (ā aruhat) — climbs | ¹¹ भूरि (bhūri) — a great | कर्त्वम् (kartvam) — ¹² work | अस्पष्ट (aspaṣṭa) — has begun | तत् (tat) — then | इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | अर्थम् (artham) — the sacrificer's wish | चेतति (cetati) — knows | ¹³ वृष्णिः (vṛṣṇiḥ) — Indra, the granter of desires, the giver of rain | यूथेन (yūthēna) — together with the troop of Maruts | एजति (ejati) — leaves (that is, leaving his own dwelling, sets out to come near the sacrificer).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The sacrificer goes to the mountain, and there climbs from one peak to another, to bring the Soma-creeper that has grown on the hills and the fuel-sticks required for the sacrifice; thereby he

9. The remaining Sanskrit on pp. 388–389 is Sāyaṇa's grammar of सानोः, आरुहत्, भूरि, अस्पष्ट,

कर्त्वम्, अर्थम्, यूथेन, वृष्णिः,

एजति, noted briefly with the Kannada grammar below.

10. the sacrificer, to fetch the Soma-creeper and the fuel-sticks

11. and

12. Soma-sacrificial

13. after knowing

begins the sacrifice. Indra, knowing this, since he grants the desired ends of the sacrificer, sets out from his own place for the sacrificial ground, together with his friendly troop of Maruts.

original p. 389

Rik 2: English and Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

When Indra the showerer of blessings knows the object of the worshipper who has wandered from one ridge of the mountain to the other in quest of soma plant and who has just begun the sacrifice, he (Indra) approaches the sacrificial place with the troop of (Maruts).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

To give the sense of this rik, many words have to be supplied. "Sānoḥ sānum āruhat" — "climbs from one peak [or table-land] of the mountain to another": that is, the question of "who climbs?" and "why?" arises. To fit the sense, the Bhāṣyakāra supplies the words "the sacrificer — for fetching the Soma-creeper, fuel-sticks and the other means of sacrifice." And since the word yūtha means a herd, a group, the word "Maruts" is supplied: "the troop (gaṇa) of Maruts." The word vṛṣṇi means varṣitā, "giver of rain": though "he comes with the Maruts who are helpers for rain" would fit, the Bhāṣyakāra explains vṛṣṇi as kāmānāṃ varṣitā — "the one who rains desired ends," and so a doubt arises as to whether the help of the Maruts is necessary for giving desired things other than rain. Hence it is doubtful whether yūthena in this rik is the poet's intended "with the troop of Maruts." Veṅkaṭamādhava gives the sense vasusamūhena — "with the assembly of the Vasus"; so it seems more fitting to say "with the assembly of the gods."

"Yat," "tat" — here these words are not the relative-demonstrative words yad and tad in any case or number; they are indeclinables. For them the sense yadā, "when," and tadā, "then," must be given.

"Sānoḥ, sānum"

— the mountain-peak or the table-land of the hill. Since the Soma-creeper grows especially in the hill regions, and since the creeper growing in the high regions of the hills gives a more abundant and better juice than the creeper that grows on the level ground, it was then the custom to go to the higher hills, often, to bring the Soma-creeper. This matter is mentioned in many places in the Ṛgveda.

original p. 390

Rik 2: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Aspaṣṭa" — spaśa bādhana-sparśanayoḥ — "has touched"; that is, "has begun."

"Kartvam" — karma, "work." Among the twenty-six words for "work" beginning with apaḥ and apnaḥ, the word kartvam is read (Nighaṇṭu 2-1 [?]).

"Vṛṣṇiḥ" — कामानां वर्षिता अथवा वर्षिता (kāmānāṃ varṣitā athavā varṣitā) — "the showerer of desires, or the giver of rain." The word vṛṣṇi is used in many places in the Ṛgveda, in passages describing Indra's qualities.

"Ejati" — ejr kampāne — the root ej, to tremble, to move. Here "moves" means "sets out from his own place to come to the sacrificer's side."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁴

14. grammar pages 390–391, noted briefly

सानोः (sānoḥ) — root ṣaṇu dāne ("to give"): sanoti dadāti nivasatām avakāśam iti sānuḥ ("that which gives room to those who dwell") — uñ suffix by the Uṇādi sūtra on roots dyā, sani, jani, cari, caṭi, rahi (Uṇ. 1-3 [?]); ṣ → s (Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); ata upadhāyāḥ (Pā. 7-2-116 [?]) gives the vrddhi; the suffix is ñit, so initial-udatta by "ñnityādir nityam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]). आरुहत् (āruhat) — root ruha bījajanmani prādurbhāve ca with lañ [in the sense of laṭ], third singular tip; śap (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]); the maxim "saṃjñāpūrvako vidhir anityaḥ" prevents the laghūpadha-guṇa; iṭ-elision of the i of tip (Pā. 3-4-100 [?]); the aṭ augment is udatta (Pā. 6-4-71 [?]) but, because śap is śīt, the root's accent stands; tiñ atinaḥ (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) would make the verb unaccented, but because yat ("when"), yadi, hanta, kuvit, neta, cet, caṇ, kaccit, yatra and other particles occur, the lowering is prohibited by "nipātair yad yadihantakuvinnetcetcaṇkaccid yatra-yukta" (Pā. 8-1-30 [?]); so the verb stays accented. भूरि (bhūri) — "ādiśadibhūśubhibhyaḥ krin" (Uṇ. 4-[?]): after the roots ada (to eat), śad (to fall), bhū, śubh ... the suffix krin; kit, so no guṇa ("kñiti ca," Pā. 1-1-5 [?]); the suffix is nit, so initial-udatta. अस्पष्ट (aspaṣṭa) — root spaśa bādhana-sparśanayoḥ ("to touch"), anudatta-it by the marker iñ-like; the ātmanepada by "svaritañitaḥ kartrabhiprāye kriyāphale" (Pā. 1-3-72 [?]); luñ, third singular ta; cli → sic ... aṭ augment (udatta, Pā. 6-4-71 [?]); the śap-like luk of cli; the conversion of śa → ṣṭa by "vraścabhrasjasrjamarjayajarājabhrājachaśām ṣaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-36 [?]); ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]); the word yat occurring in the sentence brings the prohibition of lowering by Pā. 8-1-30 [?], as above. कर्तवम् (kartvam) — root ḍukṛñ karaṇe with tvan ("anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante," Pā. 3-2-75 [?]); guṇa and raparatva; the suffix drops all its letters; karotī-bhāvaḥ kartvam; tva by "tasya bhāvas tvatalau" (Pā. 5-1-119 [?]). अर्थम् (artham) — root ṛ gatau with than ("uṣikuṣigārtibhyaś-than," Uṇ. 2-[?]); guṇa and raparatva; initial-udatta (nit). यूथेन (yūthēna) — "tithapṛṣagūthayūthaprothāḥ" (Uṇ.

2-[?]): thak-suffixed irregular formation. वृष्णिः (vr̥ṣṇih) — "sr̥vr̥ṣibhyām kit" (Uṇ. 4-[?]) after sṛ (to go) and vr̥ṣu secane, the suffix ni; kit, so no guṇa; final-udātta by the suffix. एजति (ejati) — root ēja kampāne; tiṇ atīṇaḥ (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]), unaccented.

॥२॥

original p. 392

Sūkta 10, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युक्ष्वा हि केशिना हरी वृषणा कक्ष्यप्रा । अथा न इन्द्र सोमपा गिरामुपश्रुतिं चर ॥३॥

*yukṣvā hi keśinā harī vr̥ṣaṇā kakṣyaprā | athā na indra
somapā girām upaśrutim cara || 3 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युक्ष्व । हि । केशिना । हरी इति । वृषणा । कक्ष्यऽप्रा ॥ अथ । नः । इन्द्र । सोमऽपाः । गिराम् । उपऽश्रुतिम् । चर ॥३॥

*yukṣva | hi | keśinā | harī iti | vr̥ṣaṇā | kakṣya-prā | | atha |
naḥ | indra | soma-pāḥ | girām | upa-śrutim | cara || 3 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे सोमपाः सोमपानयुक्तेन्द्र हरी तदीयावश्चौ युक्ष्वा हि [reading of the second and third words uncertain] सर्वथा संयोजय । अथानन्तरं नो ऽस्मदीयानां गिरां स्तुतीनामुपश्रुतिं समीपे श्रवणमुद्दिश्य चर । तत्प्रदेशं गच्छ । कीदृशौ हरी । केशिना स्कन्धप्रदेशे लम्बमानकेशयुक्तौ वृषणा सेचनसमर्थौ युवानौ कक्ष्यप्रा । अश्वस्योदरबन्धनरज्जुः कक्ष्या तस्याः पूरकौ । पुष्टाङ्गावित्यर्थः ॥ युक्ष्व । युजिर् योगे । लोट् । रुधादिः । श्नम् । प्रत्ययस्वरः शिष्यते [?] । द्व्यचो ऽतस्तिड इति संहितायां दीर्घत्वम् । केशिना । प्रशस्ताः केशा अनयोः सन्तीति मत्वर्थीय इनिः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना द्विवचनस्याकारादेशः । वृषणा । पृषु वृषु मृषु सेचने । कनिन् । वृषितक्वराजिधन्वन्यप्रतिदिवः । उ. १-१५६ [?] । इति कनिन् । जित्यादिर्नित्यम् । इत्याद्युदात्तः । वा षपूर्वस्य निगमे । पा. ६-४-९ । इत्युपधाया दीर्घाभावः । पूर्वपदाकारः । कक्ष्यप्रा । कक्ष्यायोर्भव कक्ष्यं सूत्रम् ।

तत्प्रा [?] । कः पूरयते पुष्पत्वादिति कक्ष्यप्रौ । प्रा पूरणे । आतो ऽनुपसर्गे कः । पा. ३-२-३ ।
 इति कप्रत्ययः । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरेणान्तोदात्तत्वम् । आकार पूर्ववत् । अथ । निपातेति संहितायां दीर्घः । नः । अनुदात्तं सर्वमपादादाविति । अनुवृत्तेः बहुवचनस्य वस्नसौ । पा.
 ८-१-२१ । इति नसादेशो ऽनुदात्तः । इन्द्र सोमपा । उभावामन्त्रितस्य चेति सर्वानुदात्तौ । गिराम्
 । सावेकाचस्तृतीयादिर्विभक्तिरिति विभक्तिरुदात्ता । उपश्रुतिम् । उपश्रुतिशब्दो
 निपातित्वादाद्युदात्तः । श्रुतिशब्देन प्रादिसमासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वे प्राप्ते ताडौ च निति कृत्स्वरतात् । पा. ६-२-१३९ [?] । इति ... [?] चर । निघातः ॥

*he somapāḥ soma-pāna-yuktendra harī tadīyāv aśvau yukṣvā hi [reading of the second and third words uncertain] sarvathā saṃyojaya | athānantaram no 'smadīyānām girām stutīnām
 upaśrutiṃ samīpe śravaṇam uddīśya cara | tat-pradeśam
 gaccha | kīdṛśau harī | keśinā skandha-pradeśe lambamānakeśa-yuktau vṛṣaṇā secana-samarthau yuvānau kakṣyaprā |
 aśvasyodara-bandhana-rajjuḥ kakṣyā tasyāḥ pūrakau |
 puṣṭāṅgāv ity arthaḥ |*

Translation: "O somapāḥ — O Indra, drinker of Soma! Harī — your two horses (tadīyāv aśvau, "the two horses of his") — yukṣvā hi: yoke [them] fully. Athā — thereafter — cara: go to the place, with a view to upaśruti — listening near at hand — of naḥ girām, our praises. What kind of two horses? Keśinā — having manes hanging down on the shoulder region; vṛṣaṇā — able to sprinkle (to rain), young; kakṣyaprā — kakṣyā is the rope that binds the horse's belly; they are prā, 'fillers' of it: that is, of well-nourished (full) bodies." ¹⁵

original p. 393

Rik 3: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सोमपाः (somapāḥ) — O Indra who drink Soma (so absorbed in it) | केशिना (keśinā) — having manes (the long hair that grows upright on the neck) | वृषणा (vṛṣaṇā) — able to sprinkle, that is, in the prime of youth | कक्ष्यप्रा (kākṣyaprā) — with fully nourished bodies, such that the girth-rope tied about the belly is filled out | हरी (harī) — your two horses | युक्ष्व हि (yukṣva hi) — yoke [them to the chariot] | अथ (atha) — then | नः (naḥ) — our | गिराम् (girām) — of the words in the form of praise | उपश्रुतिम् (upaśrutim) — to hear them (for hearing) near at hand | चर (cara) — come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, absorbed in drinking Soma! Your horses have manes — long hair grown upright on the neck — are youthful, and have bodies so well nourished that the girth-rope tied about the belly is filled out. Yoke such horses to your chariot, and then come to us to hear, near at hand, our words of praise.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra, drinker of soma, harness your pair of long-maned youthful and well-conditioned horses and then come to hear our praises.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

15. Grammar noted briefly: yukṣva — imperative middle of yuj in the rudhādi class with śnam ; keśinā — "having handsome manes," with ini; vṛṣaṇā — root vṛṣu secane with kanin, dual in ā by "supām suluk..."; kākṣyaprā — "those who fill the kākṣyā," root prā pūraṇe with ka, final-udātta by the second-member rule; athā — the particle lengthened in the Samhitā; naḥ — substitute nas for asmān/asmākam (Pā. 8-1-21), unaccented; indra, somapā — vocatives, both unaccented; girām — case-ending udātta; upaśrutim — initial-udātta as an irregular formation; cara — unaccented.) (The bhāṣya's Sanskrit is compressed in places; two phrases are marked [?]).

"Yukṣvā"

— for the convenience of the meter the final vowel is lengthened in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha. The word means "join, yoke to the chariot."

"Keśinā" — स्कन्धप्रदेशे लम्बमानकेशयुक्तौ (skandha-pradeśe lambamāna-keśa-yuktau) — "furnished with manes hanging in the region of the shoulder": pralamba-keśarau, i.e., with manes grown up on the neck, long-maned.

"Vṛṣaṇā" — रेतःसेचनसमर्थौ (retaḥ-secana-samarthau) — "able to impregnate": that is, in the prime of life, in youth.

"Kakṣyaprā" — kakṣyaprau aśvasyodarabandhana-rajjuḥ kakṣyā | tasyāḥ pūrakau | puṣṭāṅgāv ity arthaḥ — "kakṣyā is the rope that binds the belly of the horse: the two are 'fillers' of it: well-nourished in body." Kakṣyā is the girth tied round the belly when a horse is yoked to a chariot; horses whose bellies have grown stout (filling out their girth) are meant.

"Somapāḥ" — somasya pātā; this is a vocative singular, an epithet of the word indra.

original p. 394

Rik 3: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Girām" — gīḥ is the genitive plural. The use of words like gīḥ, girām, gīrbhiḥ in the senses of hymns, praises and eulogies is customary in the Ṛgveda. So naḥ girām means "of the hymns that we make."

"Upaśrutim" — समीपे श्रवणमुद्दिश्य । श्रुतेः समीपम् (samīpe śravaṇam uddiśya | śruteḥ samīpam) — "with a view to hearing near at hand": for the sake of hearing, [coming] near, standing near to hear.

"Cara"

— "come": be the one who comes.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁶

युक्ष्व (yukṣva) — root yujir yoge ("to join"), ubhayapadī, with loṭ ātmanepada middle-second singular thās; thās → se (Pā. 3-4-80 [?], "thāsaḥ se"); sev ā-bhyāṃ vāmau (Pā. 3-4-91 [?]) replaces e by va; śnam (the rudhādi class vikaraṇa) is dropped by bahulaṃ chandasi (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]) — the source notes that this sūtra prescribes luk for śap only, but the Bhāṣyakāra gives the same luk for śyan in Ṛgveda 8-1-? [?] (the word matsi), so the same may be said for śnam here by the bahula rule; c → k ("coḥ kuḥ," Pā. 8-2-30 [?]), j → g, then kh/g → k before s (Pā. 8-4-55 [?]), and s → ṣ after the substitute (Pā. 8-3-59 [?]) giving yukṣva; the suffix accent stands as śīt; in the Saṃhitā the vowel is lengthened by the dvyac rule (Pā. 6-3-135 [?]). केशिना (keśinā) — "praśastāḥ keśā anayor santi": ini in the possessive sense (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]); the a of keśa dropped (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); the dual ending au replaced by ā (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]). वृषणा (vṛṣaṇā) — root pr̥ṣu, vṛṣu, mṛṣu secane; kanin by "kaninn yuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanvidyupratidivaḥ" (Uṇ. 1-156 [?]); ñnityādir nityam (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]) gives initial-udātta; "vā ṣapūrvasya nigame" (Pā. 6-4-9 [?]): the lengthening of the penultimate vowel before the sarvanāmasthāna suffix is optional, and so does not arise here. कक्ष्यप्रा (kākṣyaprā) — kākṣyayor bhavaṃ kakṣyam (that which is in the kākṣyā): the girth; "that which fills it" — root prā pūraṇe with ka ("āto 'nupasarge kaḥ," Pā. 3-2-3 [?]); ā dropped before ka (Pā. 6-4-64 [?]); final-udātta by the second-member rule (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]); the dual ending as above. अथ (atha) — the particle is lengthened in the Saṃhitā (athā) by "nipātasya ca" (Pā. 6-3-136 [?]). नः (naḥ) — the rule "bahuvacanasya vasnasau" (Pā. 8-1-21 [?]) with the carried-over "anudāttaṃ sarvaṃ apādādaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-18 [?]): nas replaces the plural genitive of asmad, unaccented, since the word is not at the beginning of the pāda. इन्द्र, सोमपाः (indra, somapāḥ) — both are vocatives, wholly unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). गिराम् (girām) — "sāvekācas tṛtiyādir vibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 6-1-168 [?]) — the case-ending is udātta. उप (upa) — a nipāta, initial-udātta (Phit-sūtra 80 [?]); with śruti it forms a prādi-compound ("kugatiprādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18 [?]); the rule "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" would keep the second member's accent, but upa is set aside by the sūtra on tāḍau ca niti kṛtyatau [?] and retains its natural accent. चर (cara) — wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]).

॥३॥

original p. 396

Sūkta 10, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

एहि स्तोमौ अभि स्वराभि गृणीह्या रुव । ब्रह्म च नो वसो सचेन्द्र यज्ञं च वर्धय ॥४॥

*ehi stomām abhi svarābhi grṇīhy ā ruva | brahma ca no vaso
sacendra yajñam ca vardhaya ||4||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । इहि । स्तोमान् । अभि । स्वर । अभि । गृणीहि । आ । रुव ॥ ब्रह्म । च । नः । वसो इति । सचा । इन्द्र । यज्ञम् । च । वर्धय ॥४॥

*ā | ihi | stomān | abhi | svara | abhi | grṇīhi | ā | ruva ||
brahma | ca | naḥ | vaso iti | sacā | indra | yajñam | ca |
vardhaya ||4||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

विशेषविनियोगस्तु यत्र श्रौतो न सूत्रितः । स्मार्तं तत्र विजानीयाद्यग्निधानादिसूत्रतः ॥ एहि
स्तोमानित्येषा सूत्रे विशेषाकारेण न विनियुक्ता । साधारणविनियोगस्तु ब्रह्मयज्ञादौ सर्वत्रानुसंधेयः ॥

*viśeṣa-viniyogas tu yatra śrauto na sūtritaḥ | smārtaṃ tatra
vijānīyād agnidhānādi-sūtrataḥ || ehi stomān ity eṣā sūtre viśeṣākāreṇa na viniyuktā | sādharmaṇa-viniyogas tu
brahmayajñādau sarvatrānusamdhayaḥ ||*

हे वसो निवासकारणभूतेन्द्र एहि । अस्मिन्कर्मण्यागच्छ । आगत्य च स्तोमानुद्गातृप्रयुक्तानि
स्तोत्राण्यभि स्वर । अभिलक्ष्य प्रशंसारूपं शब्दं कुरु । तथाध्वर्युमभिलक्ष्य [?] गृणीहि । शब्दं
कुरु । तथा होतृप्रयुक्तानि शस्त्राण्यभिलक्ष्य रुव । शब्दं कुरु । परितोषेण सर्वानृत्विजः
प्रशंसेत्यर्थः । तत ऊर्ध्वं नो ऽस्माकं ब्रह्म चान्नं च यज्ञं चानुष्ठीयमानं कर्म च सचा सह वर्धय ।
सांगत्वसंपादनेन यज्ञं वर्धयित्वा तत्फलमन्नं च प्रवृद्धं कुरु ॥ अन्ध इत्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेष्वन्ननामसु ब्रह्म वर्ज इति पठितम् ॥

*he vaso nivāsa-kāraṇa-bhūtendra ehi | asmin karmaṇy
āgaccha | āgatya ca stomān udgātṛ-prayuktāni stotrāṇy abhi
svara | abhilakṣya praśamsā-rūpaṃ śabdaṃ kuru |
tathādhvaryum abhilakṣya [?] grṇīhi | śabdaṃ kuru | tathā
hotṛ-prayuktāni śastrāṇy abhilakṣya ruva | śabdaṃ kuru |
paritoṣeṇa sarvān ṛtvijaḥ praśamsety arthaḥ | tata ūrdhvaṃ no 'smākaṃ brahma cānnaṃ ca yajñaṃ cānuṣṭhīyamānaṃ karma ca sacā saha vardhaya | sāṅgatva-saṃpādanena yajñaṃ vardhayitvā tat-phalam annaṃ ca pravṛddhaṃ kuru || andha ity-ādiṣv aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣv anna-nāmasu brahma varja iti paṭhitam ||*

Translation: "Where the special application has not been laid down in the Śrauta [texts], one is to know it from the Smārta [texts], from the sūtras on the Agnidhāna and the rest: [so the verse runs]. This rik ehi stomān has not been assigned a special application in the sūtra; its general application is to be understood everywhere, in the Brahmayajña and so on. O vaso — O Indra, the cause of dwelling: ehi — come to this rite. Having come, stomān abhi svara: make a sound of praise toward the stomas, the hymns sung by the udgātṛs. Likewise, grṇīhi: with the adhvaryu in view [the clause is hard to read], make a sound. Likewise, ā ruva: with the śāstras recited by the hotṛs in view, make a sound — praise all the priests with pleasure. After that, sacā — together — vardhaya: make grow naḥ brahma — our food — and the sacrifice, that is, the rite being performed. Having made the sacrifice grow by getting it completed with all its limbs, make its fruit — food — abundant. Among the twenty-eight words for food beginning with andhaḥ, brahma and varja are read." ^{17 18}

original p. 397

Rik 4: grammar close, word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

वसो (vaso) — O Indra, you who are excellent (or the cause of our dwelling-places) | (हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | एहि (ehi) — come (to this sacrificial ground that we perform) | स्तोमान् (stomān) — the hymns that the priests called udgātṛ, singers of the Sāman, recite, or sing | अभि स्वर (abhi svara) — listen with attention and give praise (that is, express approval) | अभि गृणीहि (abhi gr̥ṇīhi) — praise (the rites, that the adhvaryu performs) | आ रुव (ā ruva) — listen to the śāstra mantras recited by the priests of the hotṛ group and signify your approval | ¹⁹ नः (naḥ) — to us | ब्रह्म च (brahma ca) — food too | यज्ञं च (yajñam ca) — our sacrifice too | सचा (sacā) — being together (that is, being here) |

17. Further Sanskrit on this page is Sāyaṇa's grammar of एहि,

स्तोमान्, अभि, स्वर, गृणीहि,

रुव, ब्रह्म, वसो, सचा, वर्धय; noted briefly in the Kannada grammar on p. 399. In outline: the n of stomān before abhi becomes the nasalized vowel with r-form by "ato roraplutād aplute" and related sandhi; abhi is final-udātta [as one of the evādi

class]; svara — "sound," with the prefix abhi standing apart; gr̥ṇīhi — gr̥ śabde, loṭ with śnā and hi, the ā of śnā dropped

(Pā. 6-4-113 [?]) and ṇatva; ā ruva — the root ru śabde, with ā before it standing apart.) (The sūtra-numbers are compressed in the scan.

वर्धय (vardhaya) — increase (that is, bring our sacrifice to completion, along with all its limbs, and bestow on us the food and the other foodstuffs that are its fruit).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You are the cause of our dwellings — that is, it is you who give us the places where we live. Such as you are, O Indra, endowed with the quality of excellence! Come here, to the sacrifice we are performing; listen to the hymns sung with Sāmans by the priests called udgāṭṛ, to the adhvaryu, and to the śāstra-mantras recited by the priests of the hotṛ group — to the hymns that each of them performs — and signify your approval of them by sound. Then grant that our sacrifice grows and is completed; and bestow upon us food and other nourishment.

॥ English Translation ॥

Come hither, O good Indra, applaud our prayers, praise them, receive them approvingly. O Indra, bless our sacrifice and bestow upon us abundant food.

original p. 398

18. The first lines of the page finish Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar:

रुव — root ru śabde, loṭ second singular with hi (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śap where it should arise is replaced by śa-type by Vedic inversion, with the stem-accent;

"āto heḥ" removes... ; ब्रह्म — root br̥ha vr̥ddhau with manin (Uṇ. 4-[?]); वसो — a vocative unaccented as such; यज्ञम् — "yajayācayatayacchapraccha..." with nañ;

वर्धय — unaccented. The page ends the Sanskrit with the statement that, though the finite verb ruva is the second in the sentence joined by ca, the particle ca is understood to serve a continuing role so the earlier verbs lose their accent only as stated. Grammar noted briefly; not transcribed.

19. then

Rik 4: Special Topics

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

On the matter of the special application of this rik, the Bhāṣyakāra, following the rule —

विशेषविनियोगस्तु यत्र श्रौतो न सूत्रितः । स्मार्तं तत्र विजानीयाद्यग्निधानादिसूत्रतः ॥
viśeṣa-viniyogas tu yatra śrauto na sūtritaḡ | smārtaṡ tatra vijānīyād agnidhānādi-sūtrataḡ || "Where the special application [of a mantra] has not been laid down in the Śrauta [texts], one is to know it from the Smārta [texts], from the sūtras on the Agnidhāna and the rest."

— says that where the special application of a mantra is not stated in the Śrauta sūtras, in the performance of Smārta rites one must learn the application of that mantra from works such as the Agnyādhāna sūtras; and since no special application has been stated in the Śrauta sūtras for this rik ehi stomān, its general application in rites such as the Brahmayajña is to be understood.

In this rik there are three verbs, svara, gr̥ṇīhi, ruva: svara — root svṛ śabdopatāpayoh; gr̥ṇīhi — root gṛ śabde; ruva — root ru śabde. Since these are given in the Dhātupāṡha, all three have the one meaning "make a sound." When one adds the prefix abhi — abhilakṣya — and renders it "make a sound of praise," that is, "praise, approve by sound (or by speech)," Skandasvāmī and Venkaṡamādhava likewise give this same sense; so it is this that should be accepted.

"Vaso" — nivāsakāraṇabhūtendra — "O Indra, the cause of dwelling-places": the Bhāṣyakāra's sense. Skandasvāmī: वसो । शतपथे वसिष्ठ इति वसुशब्दः ख्यातिशयितप्रत्ययान्तस्य "यद्वै नः श्रेष्ठस्तेन वसिष्ठः" इति प्रशस्यतमेन वचनेन श्रेष्ठशब्दार्थविवरणदर्शनात् वसुशब्दः प्रशस्यनाम (vaso | śatapathe vasiṡṡtha iti vasuśabdaḡ khyātiśayita-pratyayāntasya "yad vai naḡ śreṡṡṡhas tena vasiṡṡṡṡhaḡ" iti praśasyatamena vacanena śreṡṡṡṡha-śabdārtha-vivaraṇa-darśanāt vasu-śabdaḡ praśasya-nāma) [the Sanskrit is compressed; this is a best reading] — "[the word] vasu is a word for 'excellent': as stated in the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa of the Śukla Yajurveda, vasu is explained as śreṣṭha ("best") and praśasya ("praiseworthy"). Or, since vasu also means wealth, the sense "O Indra, who are wealthy" may be given as well.

"Brahma" — andhaḥ — among the twenty-eight words for food beginning with vājah, the word brahma is read (Nirukta 2-7 [?]); so brahma means food. It is customary to call anything fit to be eaten "food." Besides, Yāska in the Nirukta says: अन्नं कस्मादाननं भूतेभ्यो ऽत्रैवा अभिमुखेनैव हैतन्नं प्रतिभूतं भवति भोजनाय भूतानाम् । अत्तेर्वा । आद्यते ऽत्ति च भूतानि । तस्मादन्नं तदुच्यत इति (annaṃ kasmād ānanaṃ bhūtebhyo 'traiv vā abhimukhenaiva haitan nataṃ pratibhūtaṃ bhavati bhojanāya bhūtānām | atter vā | ādyate 'tti ca bhūtāni | tasmād annaṃ tad ucyata iti)²⁰ — "Why is it anna (food)? Because it is ānana, [that which they bring] toward beings; or from ad ('to eat'): beings are eaten, and they eat; therefore it is called anna." Thus he gives the etymology of the word.

original p. 399

Rik 4: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Sacā" — "together" — sahitaḥ. In this rik no use of this word seems evident; the sense may be given: "being together, that is, directly (in person)."

"Vardhaya" — "increase; bring to completion; fulfil without obstacle." The usage of this root is special in the Ṛgveda. Besides the general sense "increase," it must be given a meaning according to context in many places. For example, in the sentence tvāṃ vardhantu no giraḥ the word vardhantu has the sense "let them praise." In this rik brahma ca vardhaya — "increase the food" — means "give us abundant food"; likewise yajñam ca vardhaya — "increase the sacrifice" — means "grant that the sacrifice be completed without obstacle."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²¹

एहि (ehi) — root iṇ gatau ("to go"), loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi by "seryapicca" (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); the śap vikaraṇa is dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); hi is not pit, hence by "sārvadhātukam apit" (Pā. 1-2-4 [?]) it is treated as ñit, and "kñiti ca" (Pā. 1-1-5 [?]) prevents guṇa; tiñ atinaḥ (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) would make it unaccented; with the prefix ā, the guṇa arises as a single substitute and gives ehi; ā is a nipāta, hence udātta, and the single substitute e takes the udātta by "ekādeśa udāttenuodāttaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). स्तोमान् (stomān) — root ṣṭuñ stutau with man ("arti-stu-su...", Uṇ. 1-142 [?]); guṇa by Pā. 7-3-84 [?]; accusative plural stomān. The Saṃhitā sandhi — with the following word: "dīrghād aṭi samānapāde" (Pā. 8-3-9 [?]): the n after a long vowel, when followed by an aṭ-letter in the same pāda, is replaced by ru; this n must be in the same pāda as the aṭ-letter; stomān + abhi: "ato roraplutād aplute" (Pā. 6-1-113 [?]), "ato ror..." and the nasalization "anunāsikaḥ pūrvasya tu vā" (Pā. 8-3-2 [?]) give the nasalized ā; "bho-bhago-aghō-apūrvasya yo 'śi" (Pā. 8-3-17 [?]): y replaces ru after bho, bhago, aghō and a vowel a/ā; then "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) drops the y; the source argues that by "pūrvatrāsiddham" (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) the savarṇa-dīrgha of "akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-101 [?]) does not apply (the y having been "unseen" — the elision of y is in the last three pādas and invisible to the earlier rule), so stomān + abhi stays as two syllables. अभि (abhi) — an evādi word, final-udātta (Phit-sūtra 51 [?]). स्वर (svara) — root svr śabdopatāpayoh, loṭ second singular with the ending dropped, unaccented. गृणीहि (grṇīhi) — root gr̥ śabde, loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); the vikaraṇa śnā of the kryādi class (Pā. 3-1-81 [?]); "īhal-ghyoh" (Pā. 6-4-113 [?]): before a ñit-like śnā ending the ā becomes ī when the root has no abhyasta name, giving gr̥ṇ + ī + hi; "prādīnām hrasvaḥ" (Pā. 7-3-80 [?]): before a suffix beginning with ś the root gr̥ shortens; and ṇatva by "raṣābhyām no ṇaḥ samānapade" (Pā. 8-4-1 [?]) with the vārttika "raṣābhyām ṇatve ṛkāragrahaṇam kartavyam" — a ṛ must be included, so the n after ṛ becomes ṇ: gr̥ṇīhi; unaccented as a finite verb. रुव (ruva) — root ru śabde, loṭ second singular sip, → hi (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]) (adādi class, hence the vikaraṇa śap is dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ"; the source notes that, by Vedic inversion, a śa-type vikaraṇa arises here instead) ²².

21. grammar pages 399–401, noted briefly

Note — Grammar page, noted briefly.) रुव (ruva) — ru śabde (adādi), loṭ second singular sip, sip → hi by "seryapicca" (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]). The adādi vikaraṇa śap ought to be dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); here instead, by Vedic inversion, a śa-type vikaraṇa arises, which is ārdhadhātuka-like and blocks no guṇa because śa is śit (so sārva dhātukam apit, Pā. 1-2-4 [?], treats it as ñit); the u of ru before the vikaraṇa takes uvaṇ by "aci śnudhātubhruvām yvoriyaṇuvaṇau" (Pā. 6-4-77 [?]), giving ruv + a + hi; hi is dropped by "ato heḥ" (Pā. 6-4-105 [?]), so ruva; wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). ब्रह्म (brahma) — root bṛha vṛddhau ("to grow"), an idit root, so num by "idito num dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-58 [?]), giving bṛmḥ; then manin by "bṛheror mano lopaś ca" (Uṇ. 4-[?]) with the augment am, n of num dropped; some read the Uṇādi sūtra as "bṛmher noccha ca"; the ṛ is changed to ra by "iko yaṇaci" (Pā. 6-1-77 [?]), giving brahman; manin is ñit, so initial-udātta. वसो (vaso) — a vocative, unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). यज्ञम् (yajñam) — nañ by "yajayācayata vicchaprachar akṣo nañ" (Pā. 3-3-90 [?]) after yaj; j + n → jñ ("stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ," Pā. 8-4-40 [?]). वर्धय (vardhaya) — a finite verb, unaccented by "tiñ atīnaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]); but since in this mantra two ca's are heard (brahma ca vardhaya, yajñam ca vardhaya), the verb is connected with the earlier clause too — so that the vardhaya of the earlier clause is the first finite verb of the joined sentence, and the rule "cavāyoge prathamā" (Pā. 8-1-59 [?]) prevents the lowering of the first verb in a sentence joined by ca and vā; hence no lowering applies where the first-uttered verb is concerned. (Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

Rik 4 grammar closes

॥४॥

original p. 402

Sūkta 10, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²³

उक्थमिन्द्राय शंस्यं वर्धनं पुरुनिषिधे । शक्रो यथा सुतेषु णो रारणत्सख्येषु च ॥५॥

*uktham indrāya śaṃsyam vardhanam puruniṣṣidhe | śakro
yathā suteṣu ṇo rāraṇat sakhyeṣu ca || 5 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁴

उक्थम् । इन्द्राय । शंस्यम् । वर्धनम् । पुरुनिःऽसिधे ॥ शक्रः । यथा । सुतेषु । नः । रारणत् । सख्येषु । च ॥५॥

*uktham | indrāya | śaṃsyam | vardhanam | puruniḥ-sidhe ||
śakraḥ | yathā | suteṣu | naḥ | rāraṇat | sakhyeṣu | ca || 5 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अभिप्लवषडहगतोक्थेष्वच्छावाकस्य तृतीयसवन उक्थमिन्द्राय शंस्यमित्यनुरूपस्तृचः । एह्य
षु इति खण्डे इन्द्रं विश्वा अवीवृधन्नुक्थमिन्द्राय शंस्यम् । आ. ६-८ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् ॥
इन्द्रायेन्द्रार्थं वर्धनं वृद्धिसाधनमुक्थं शस्त्रं शंस्यम् । अस्माभिः शंसनीयम् । कीदृशायेन्द्राय ।
पुरुनिषिधे । बहूनां शत्रूणां निषेधकारिणे । शक्र इन्द्रो नो ऽस्मदीयेषु सुतेषु पुत्रेषु सख्येषु च
सखित्वेष्वपि यथा येन प्रकारेण रारणत् अतिशयेन शब्दं कुर्यात्तथा शंस्यमिति पूर्वत्रान्वयः ।
अस्मदीयेन शस्त्रेण परितुष्ट इन्द्रो ऽस्माकं पुत्रानस्मत्सख्यानि च बहुधा प्रशंसतीत्यर्थः ॥

23. The Saṃhitā prints णो for नो (the dental n becoming retroflex after the preceding ṣ), as the printed grammar explains.

24. The Pada text prints the fourth word of the second line as रारणत्; the vowel of its first syllable is not clear in the scan.

*abhiplava-ṣaḍaha-gatokthyeṣv acchāvākasya tṛtīya-savana uktham indrāya śaṃsyam ity anurūpas tṛcaḥ | ehy ū ṣu iti khaṇḍe indraṃ viśvā avīrḍhann uktham indrāya śaṃsyam |
ā. 6-8 [?] | iti sūtritām || indrāyendrārtham vardhanam
vṛddhi-sāadhanam uktha śāstraṃ śaṃsyam | asmābhiḥ
śaṃsanīyam | kīdrśāyendrāya | puruniṣṣidhe | bahūnām
śatrūnām niṣedha-kāriṇe | śakra indro no 'smadīyeṣu suteṣu putreṣu sakhyeṣu ca sakhitveṣv api yathā yena prakāreṇa rāraṇat atīṣayena śabdaṃ kuryāt tathā śaṃsyam iti pūrvatrānvayaḥ | asmadīyena śāstreṇa parituṣṭa indro
'smākaṃ putrān asmat-sakhyāni ca bahudhā praśaṃsatīty
arthaḥ ||*

Translation: "In the ukthya [rites] of the Abhiplava Ṣaḍaha, in the Acchāvāka's third pressing, the triplet beginning uktham indrāya śaṃsyam is the anurūpa. In the section ehy ū ṣu it is laid down: 'indraṃ viśvā avīrḍhan, uktham indrāya śaṃsyam' (Āśvalāyana 6-8 [?]). Indrāya — for Indra's sake — vardhanam — the means of increase — uktham, the śāstra — is śaṃsyam, to be recited by us. For what kind of Indra? Puruniṣṣidhe — for him who bars many enemies. Śakraḥ — Indra — yathā — in whatever manner — rāraṇat would, in the highest degree, make a sound [of approval] regarding naḥ, our suteṣu (sons) and sakhyeṣu (friendships) — so [the śāstra] is to be recited: this is the connection with what precedes. The sense is: Indra, pleased with our śāstra, praises our sons and our friends in many ways." ²⁵

original p. 403

25. The Sanskrit grammar of उक्थम्, शंस्यम्, वर्धनम्, पुरुनिषिधे, शक्रः, सुतेषु, रारणत्,

सख्येषु occupies the rest of pp. 402–403: that uktha is from vaca with thak (Uṇ. 2-2 [?]), and so on. Grammar noted briefly below.

Rik 5: word-meanings, overall sense

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

पुरुनिषिधे (puruniṣṣidhe) — who destroys many enemies | इन्द्राय (indrāya) — for Indra | वर्धनम् (vardhanam) — a means of increase | उक्थम् (uktham) — a mantra in the form of a śāstra, or a hymn | शंस्यम् (śaṃsyam) — to be praised by us | यथा (yathā) — in which manner (by such a hymn) | शक्रः (śakraḥ) — mighty Indra | नः (naḥ) — our | सुतेषु (suteṣu) — among our sons | सख्येषु च (sakhyeṣu ca) — and among those of friendly disposition toward us | रारणत् (rāraṇat) — [by this word] he makes known his approval.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra destroys many enemies. For Indra's satisfaction we must recite śāstra mantras, hymns; or we must praise Indra's qualities with śāstra mantras. By praising Indra in this manner, Indra will be pleased and will make known his approval toward us, toward our sons, and toward our friends and others dear to us.

original p. 404

Rik 5: English and Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

An agreeable hymn is to be sung to Indra, the destroyer of many enemies, so that the mighty Indra may speak with kindness to our sons and to our friends.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

In the rite called Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, in the third pressing, when the priest called Acchāvāka recites the ukthya mantras, he is to recite the triplet uktham indrāya śaṃsyam; Āśvalāyana states this special application in the section ehy ū śu of his Śrauta-sūtra (Āś. Sū. 6-3 [?]), in the sūtra indram viśvā avīrvdhann uktham indrāya śamsyam.

"Vardhanam" — वृद्धिसाधनम् (vṛddhi-sāadhanam) — "the means of increase": that is, by praising Indra [with it] increase [of fortune] comes to us. Or: the sense of the root vṛdh used in the Ṛgveda is "increase," that is, "praise," "cause satisfaction"; so the word vardhanam here may mean "that which brings satisfaction to Indra."

"Puruniṣṣidhe" — बहूनां शत्रूणां निषेधकारिणे (bahūnāṃ śatrūṇāṃ niṣedha-kāriṇe) — "to him who is the barrier of many enemies": the Bhāṣyakāra explains the word so. Puru in this word means "much" — it only means "many"; the word "enemies" is supplied.

"Śakraḥ" — śaktimān — "one who is able, who is strong." In modern Sanskrit and also in the Vedas, the word śakra is especially established with the sense of Indra.

"Yathā" — since only yathā appears in this rik, the word tathā must be supplied. The second half, śakro yathā rāraṇat sakhyeṣu ca, is dependent upon the first half, uktham indrāya.

"Rāraṇat" — the root underlying this word is raṇa, meaning "to make a sound." To say that he "makes a sound among sons and friends" gives no particular object; so the sense "makes known his approval" is given. Unless certain words are supplied, one cannot explain this rik satisfactorily.

"Suteṣu" — in the Ṛgveda the various forms of the word suta have the general meaning "the juice of the Soma creeper that has been pressed out"; but in some contexts suta has the sense "son" in an "earlier" form [sic]; this is such a case. ²⁶

26. Special Topics, p. 404, ends on p. 405 with the remaining examples of suta in the sense "son":

प्र नु वोचा सुतेषु वां वीर्या ३ यानि चक्रथुः ॥ pra nu vocā suteṣu vāṃ vīryā yāni cakrathuḥ || (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 6-69-1 [?]; the source's number reads "६-६९-१") ("Let me now proclaim among the pressed [Somas] your two heroic deeds that you have done." — my gloss, tentative; the page prints the verse with the Saṃhitā prolongation mark.)

"...and so on" — more examples may be given.

original pp. 405–409

Rik 5 grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁷

उक्थम् (uktham) — root vaca paribhāṣaṇe; the suffix thak by "pāṭṛtudivaciricisicibhyas thak" (Uṇ. 2-7 [?]); "vacisvapiyajādīnām kiti" (Pā. 6-1-15 [?]) gives saṃprasāraṇa; va → u with pūrvarūpa; c → k by "coḥ kuḥ" (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]); the accent is by the suffix. शंस्यम् (śamsyam) — root śaṃsu stutau + ṇic; the suffix yat by "aco yat" (Pā. 3-1-97 [?]); ṇi dropped by "ṇeraniṭi" (Pā. 6-4-51 [?]); the svarita that would arise by "tit svaritam" (Pā. 6-1-185 [?]) is set aside by "yato 'nāvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-213 [?]), so initial-udātta. वर्धनम् (vardhanam) — "karaṇādhikaraṇayoś ca" (Pā. 3-3-117 [?]): lyuṭ; yu → ana by "yuvor anākau" (Pā. 7-1-1 [?]); laghūpadha-guṇa; "lititi" (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]): the vowel before a l-marked suffix is udātta. पुरुनिषिधे (puruniṣṣidhe) — puru ("many") + niṣṣidh "he who bars"; the root ṣidhu gatyām (ṣ → s by "dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ," Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); the prefix nis ("away") stands before it; kvip by "kvip ca" (Pā. 3-2-76 [?]), with all of kvip dropped; the prādi compound by "kugatiprādayaḥ" (Pā. 2-2-18 [?]). The scholastic discussion (pp. 405–408): between the s of the prefix nis and the root's s (here, ṣidh), the question is whether the s of nis "intervenes" (vyavadhāna) so that the retroflexion of the root's s

27. grammar pages 405–409, noted briefly; the scholastic arguments on pp. 406–408 are characterized in outline only by "upasargāt sunoti-suvati-syati-stauti-stobhati-sthā-senaya-sedha-sica-sañja-svañjām" (Pā. 8-3-65 [?]) is blocked; it is answered, citing the Mahābhāṣya's "tatra śarvyavāye" principle, that the intervention of ś, ṣ, s, r, visarga, num and the like does not prevent the retroflexion (Pā. 8-3-58 [?], "numvisarjanīyaśarvyavāye 'pi"); the Vedabhāṣya's opinion that, because the intervention of the sibilant is "unobserved" in the Veda, the retroflexion arises, is discussed and is stated to be needless effort. "Niṣ" + "ṣidh": the ṣ is retained, and by "ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]) the dh is turned appropriately; the compound with the genitive-dependent puru (puru is the object, "they bar many") gives puruniṣṣidh — a compound that, by "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]), keeps the accent of the kṛdanta second member. Niṣṣidh is a kṛdanta because kvip was added even though lost (by "pratyayalope pratyayalakṣaṇam," Pā. 1-1-62 [?]); the long argument that the compound is formed with a verb-noun that is not itself a kṛdanta by the usual "kṛd-graḥaṇe gatikārapūrvasyāpi grahaṇam" paribhāṣā (Paribhāṣā 31 [?]) settles that the accent of the kṛdanta second member stands. The remaining syllables are unaccented by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]); the dative ending e of puruniṣṣidhe — a ne — is unaccented, being ñit-marked (Pā. 3-1-4 [?]), and then becomes svarita by "udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ" (Pā. 8-4-66 [?]). शक्रः (śakraḥ) — "snāyitañcivañcisaśakibhyo rak" (Uṇ. 2-[?]): the root śakl śaktau with rak; the accent by the suffix. यथा (yathā) — "prakāravacane thāl" (Pā. 5-3-23 [?]); thāl is l-marked, so the vowel before it is udātta (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]). सुतेषु (suteṣu) — root suñ abhiṣave + kta; udātta by the suffix. नः (naḥ) — nas is substituted for asmākam by "bahuvacanasya vasnasau" (Pā. 8-1-21 [?]); unaccented; in the Saṃhitā the n of nas is retroflexed to ṇ ("nasya ... ṇaḥ," Pā. 8-4-27 [?], after nṛ-type words, pu, uru...); suteṣu ends in ṣ with pu-type words so that the n of the following nas becomes ṇ: suteṣu ṇaḥ; the Śekharakāra, Bhaṭṭojidīkṣita and others are cited for the analysis of pu as an imitation of the root ṣuñ; the ṇatva of gr̥hṇāti in gr̥(gra) and of abhīṣuṇaḥ is discussed. रारणत् (rāraṇat) — root raṇa śabdārthaḥ ("to sound"); yañ by "dhātor ekāco halādeḥ kriyāsamabhihāre yañ" (Pā. 3-1-22 [?]); yañ then dropped by "yaño 'ci ca" (Pā. 2-4-74 [?]), with pratyayalakṣaṇa keeping it as yañanta; doubling (Pā. 6-1-9 [?]); the lengthening of the reduplicate (Pā. 7-4-83 [?], "dīrgho 'kitaḥ"); sanādyantā dhātavaḥ (Pā. 3-1-32 [?]) gives root-status; then leṭ by "liṅarthe leṭ" (Pā. 3-4-7 [?]) in the sense of consequence ("hetuhetumadbhāva"): here Indra's making a sound of approval is the consequence of the reciting of the śastra; tip, with i dropped (Pā. 3-4-97 [?]), augment aṭ (Pā. 3-4-94 [?]), śap (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]) — which should be dropped by luk after yañ-luk roots (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]) but is not dropped here by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); śap is pit, hence unaccented; the root's accent stands — "dhātoḥ" (Pā. 6-1-162 [?]) — rāraṇ final-udātta; the augment aṭ and the vowel do not combine; since the particle yathā occurs (Pā. 8-1-35 [?], "yāvadyathābhyām"), the verb is not unaccented; or, by the ca in sakhyeṣu ca, the verb rāraṇat of the later clause is supplied from the earlier and so is the first-uttered finite verb, and "cavāyoge prathamā" (Pā. 8-1-59 [?]) prevents lowering. सख्येषु (sakhyeṣu) — sakhyuḥ karmāṇi sakhyāni: "sakhyur yaḥ" (Pā. 5-1-126 [?]) gives ya in the sense of act/relation; by "bhasya"-technique the stem takes bha status ("yaci bham," Pā. 1-4-18 [?]); i dropped by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); locative plural sakhyeṣu; ya is initial-udātta by "ādyudāttaś ca" (Pā. 3-1-3 [?]).

॥५॥

original p. 409

Sūkta 10, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तमित्सखित्व ईमहे तं राये तं सुवीर्ये । स शक्र उत नः शक्रदिन्द्रो वसु दयमानः ॥६॥

*tam it sakhitva īmahe taṃ rāye taṃ suvīrye | sa śakra uta naḥ
śakat indro vasu dayamānaḥ || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥²⁸

तम् । इत् । सखित्वे । ईमहे । तम् । राये । तम् । सुवीर्ये ॥ सः । शक्रः । उत । नः । शकत् । इन्द्रः । वसु । दयमानः ॥६॥

*tam | it | sakhi-tve | īmahe | tam | rāye | tam | su-vīrye | |
saḥ | śakraḥ | uta | naḥ | śakat | indraḥ | vasu | dayamānaḥ
|| 6 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

सखित्वे निमित्तभूते सति तमित्तमेवेन्द्रमीमहे । प्राप्नुमः । तथा राये धनार्थं तमीमहे । तथा
सुवीर्ये शोभनसामर्थ्यनिमित्तं तमीमहे । उतापि च शक्रः शक्तिमान्स इन्द्रो नो ऽस्मभ्यं वसु धनं
दयमानः प्रयच्छन् शकत् । अस्मदीयरक्षणे शक्तो ऽभूत् । सप्तदशधात्वाचार्मकर्मस्वीमहे
यामीति पठितम् । तदनुसारेणेन्द्रं याचामहे इति व्याख्येयम् ॥ सख्युर्भावः सखित्वम् । तस्य
भावस्त्वतलौ । पा. ५-१-११९ । इति त्वः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तः । ईमहे । ईज् गतौ ।
जित्त्वादात्मनेपदम् । पा. १-३-७२ । दिवादिभ्यः श्यन् । बहुलं छन्दसीति श्यनो लुक् ।
तिङ्ङितिङ् इति निघातः । राये । ऊङिदमिति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । सुवीर्ये । शोभनं वीर्यं
यस्यासौ सुवीर्यः भवित्रेवाचिनानेन भावो लक्ष्यते । सुवीर्यत्व इत्यर्थः । बहुव्रीहविश्वसंज्ञायाम् । पा. ६-२-१०६ । इत्युत्तरपदाद्युदात्तत्वम् । शक्नोतीति शक्रः । स्नायितं चिन्विशक्ति...
इत्यादिना रक् । प्रत्ययस्वरः । शकत् । शक्लृ शक्तौ । धातुसंबन्धाधिकारे छन्दसि
लुङ्लङ्लिटः । पा. ३-४-६ । इति लुङ् । शकत्स्वमामह इति धातुसंबन्धः । लुङ्स्तिप् । पुषादिद्युताद्यलृदितः परस्मैपदेषु । पा. ३-१-५५ । इति च्लेरडादेशः । बहुलं छन्दसि । पा.
६-४-७५ । इत्यडागमाभावः । तिङ्ङितिङ् इति निघातः । वसु । निदित्यनुवृत्तौ वसेरुप्रत्ययः ।
उ. १-१० । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । दयमानः । दय दानगतिरक्षणहिंसादानेषु ।
अनुदात्तेत्त्वादात्मनेपदम् । लटः शानजादेशः । पा. ३-२-१२४ । शपः पित्त्वादानुदात्तत्वम् ।
शानचश्चित् इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वं बाधित्वादुपदेशात् उत्तरत्वेन । परत्वात् सार्वधातुकत्वादानुदात्तत्वम्
। धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते ॥६॥

28. In the Saṃhitā the word सखित्वे prints as सखित्व before the following ई; the pada text gives the full locative.

sakhitve nimitta-bhūte sati tam it tam evendram īmahe |
 prāpnumaḥ | tathā rāye dhanārthaṃ tam īmahe | tathā
 suvīrye śobhana-sāmarthya-nimittaṃ tam īmahe | utāpi ca śakraḥ śaktimān sa indro no 'smabhyaṃ vasu dhanam
 dayamānaḥ prayacchan śakat | asmādīya-rakṣaṇe śakto 'bhūt
 | saptadaśa-dhātv-ācārmakarmasv īmahe yāmīti paṭhitam |
 tad-anusāreṇendram yācāmahe iti vyākhyeyam || sakhyur
 bhāvaḥ sakhitvam | tasya bhāvas tvatalau | pā. 5-1-119 | iti
 tvaḥ | pratyaya-svareṇodāttaḥ | īmahe | tī gatau | jittvād ātmanepadam | pā. 1-3-72 | divādibhyaḥ śyan | bahulaṃ chandasīti śyano luk | tiṅ atīna iti nighātaḥ | rāye | ūḍid-am
 iti vibhakter udāttatvam | suvīrye | śobhanaṃ vīryam
 yasyāsau suvīryaḥ bhaviṭṛ-vācinānena bhāvo lakṣyate |
 suvīryatva ity arthaḥ | bahuvrīhāv viśvaṃsaṃjñāyām | pā.
 6-2-106 | ity uttarapadādyudāttatvam | śaknotīti śakraḥ |
 snāyitaṃcivaṃciśakitr... ity-ādinā rak | pratyaya-svaraḥ |
 śakat | śakl śaktau | dhātu-saṃbandhādhikāre chandasi
 luṅlaṅlītaḥ | pā. 3-4-6 | iti luṅ | śakat svam āmahe iti dhātu-saṃbandhaḥ | luṅas tip | puṣādi-dyutādy-ldit-aḥ
 parasmaipadeṣu | pā. 3-1-55 | iti ceḥ aṅādeśaḥ | bahulaṃ
 chandasi | pā. 6-4-75 | ity aḍāgamābhāvaḥ | tiṅ atīna iti
 nighātaḥ | vasu | nid ity anuvṛttau vaser u-pratyayaḥ | u. 1-10
 | nittvād ādyudāttatvam | dayamānaḥ | daya dāna-gatirakṣaṇa-hiṃsā-dāneṣu | anudāttettvād ātmanepadam | laṭaḥ
 śānajādeśaḥ | pā. 3-2-124 | śapaḥ pīttvād anudāttatvam |
 śānacaś cita ity antodāttatvaṃ bādhitvā upadeśāt uttaratvena | paratvāt sārva dhātukatvād anudāttatvam | dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate || 6 ||

Translation: "Sakhitve — for the sake of friendship — tam it, him, Indra, indeed, īmahe — we approach, we obtain [his favour]. Likewise rāye, for wealth, we approach him; likewise suvīrye, for the sake of fine capacity [valour], we approach him. And uta — also — śakraḥ, the mighty Indra, naḥ to us, vasu, wealth, dayamānaḥ — giving — śakat: has been able, has proved able in protecting us. Among the seventeen verbs [that denote] yācñā ('request') are read īmahe and yāmi; in accordance with this, it is to be explained: 'we request Indra.'" ^{29 30}

original p. 410

Rik 6: word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(वयम्) सखित्वे ((vayam) sakhitve) — for the sake of friendship | तम् इत् (tam it) — to him alone (to Indra) | ईमहे (īmahe) — we pray | राये (rāye) — for the sake of wealth and prosperity | तम् (tam) — that Indra | ³¹ | सुवीर्ये (suvīrye) — for greater valour | तम् (tam) — that Indra | | उत (uta) — and | शक्रः (śakraḥ) — the mighty one | सः इन्द्रः (saḥ indraḥ) — that Indra | नः (naḥ) — to us | वसु (vasu) — wealth | दयमानः (dayamānaḥ) — giving | शक्त (śakat) — may he be able to protect us.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

29. Grammar, noted briefly: sakhitvam — "the state of a friend," with tva (Pā. 5-1-119); īmahe — root īj gatau, ātmanepada since j-marked (Pā. 1-3-72), śyan of the divādi class dropped by luk under bahulam chandasi; rāye — case-ending udātta; suvīrye — "he whose valour is fine," the abstract sense suggested by the future-referring word, suvīryatva, with the second-member udātta by Pā. 6-2-106 [?]; śakraḥ — "he who is able," with rak; śakat — root śakl śaktau, by the rule that the Veda uses luñ, lañ and liṭ interchangeably (Pā. 3-4-6), the aorist of śak with añ substitute for cli (Pā. 3-1-55), the augment aṭ not occurring by bahulam chandasi (Pā. 6-4-75), unaccented; vasu — root vasa with u (Uṇ. 1-10), initial-udātta; dayamānaḥ — root daya with śānac for laṭ, unaccented śap, the root accent remaining.

30. Several parts of the grammar are compressed in the scan; the sense is not affected.

We pray to Indra for friendship, for wealth, and for powers of valour. That Indra, being mighty, is able not only to give us wealth but also to protect us.

॥ English Translation ॥

To him (Indra) alone we pray for friendship, to him for wealth, to him for great valour. For he, the powerful Indra conferring wealth is able to protect us.

original p. 411

Rik 6: Special Topics and grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Īmahe" — among the seventeen verbs īmahe, yāmi, manmahe and others, denoting the act of requesting (yācñā-karma), the word īmahe is read (Nirukta 3-19 [?]); so īmahe means "we ask, we beseech."

"Suvīrye" — su — good, abundant; vīrya = valour, power, capacity. Great valour, great power, and so on [the source's own English].

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³²

सखित्वे (sakhitve) — sakhyuḥ bhāvaḥ sakhitvam, locative ñi → e; tva by "tasya bhāvas tvatalau" (Pā. 5-1-119 [?]); initial/final-udātta by the suffix. ईमहे (īmahe) — root īja gatau; since it is j-marked, the ātmanepada by "anudāttañita ātmanepadam" (Pā. 1-3-12 [?], or the ñit rule 1-3-72 [?]); laṭ first plural mahiṇ; mahiṇ with ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭere (Pā. 3-4-79 [?]) gives e; śyan of the divādi class, dropped by luk under "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). रायै (rāye) — rai + ñe, "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-171 [?]): after rai

31. we pray

32. grammar pages 411–412, noted briefly

the ending is udātta. सुवीर्ये (suvīrye) — "śobhanaṃ vīryaṃ yasyāsau suvīryaḥ": the abstract sense suvīryatva ("fine valour") is suggested by a word whose own sense is that-which-has-it; the abstract-denoting use of suvīrya for suvīryatva; "vīra-vīryau ca" (Pā. 6-2-120 [?]), with the carried-over "bahuvrīhau viśvaṃsaṃjñāyām" (Pā. 6-2-106 [?]): in a bahuvrīhi the words vīra and vīrya after su are initial-udātta in the Veda, so the initial of vīrya is udātta. शक्रः (śakraḥ) — "śaknoti iti śakraḥ": root śakḷ śaktau with rak (Uṇ. 2-[?]); accent by the suffix. शकत् (śakat) — root śakḷ śaktau — under the heading "dhātusaṃbandhe pratyayāḥ" (Pā. 3-4-1 [?]) the rule "chandasi luṇlaṇliṭaḥ" (Pā. 3-4-6 [?]) allows luṇ here; the source notes the connection of the verb with īmahe ("by what reason one is competent, to that [we go] to obtain protection"): "yataś śaknoti ataḥ tam īmahe"; luṇ, tip; the i of tip dropped by "itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu" (Pā. 3-4-97 [?]).

33

original p. 412

Rik 6 grammar closes; Sūkta 10, Rik 7

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁴

Closing the grammar of शकत् (śakat): by "cli luṇi" (Pā. 3-1-43 [?]) the cli arises after the root (śak + cli + t); for the cli after a root of the puṣādi, dyutādi, and lḍit classes in the parasmaipada, aṇ is substituted by "puṣādi-dyutādi-lḍitaḥ parasmaipadeṣu" (Pā. 3-1-55 [?]); the augment aṭ that "lūṇ-laṇ-lṛṇ-kṣv aḍudāttaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-71 [?]) would give does not arise, by "bahulaṃ chandasy amānyoge 'pi" (Pā. 6-4-75 [?]); wholly unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). वसु (vasu) — "śvā-styā-snihi-trpy-asi-vasi-hani-kledi-bandhi-manibhyaś ca" (Uṇ. 1-10 [?]); the suffix u is nit by "dhāño 'nit" [sic; the print reads "dhāny enit"] (Uṇ. 1-9 [?]) and is carried over, and

33. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The grammar continues on p. 412.

34. grammar page, noted briefly

"bhṛmr̥śī...uḥ" (Uṇ. 1-7 [?]) gives u after the vas of vasa nivāse; initial-udātta by "ñityādir nityam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]). दयमानः (dayamānaḥ) — root daya dāna-gati-rakṣaṇa-hiṃsā-dāneṣu; anudātta-it, so ātmanepada by "anudātta-ñita ātmanepadam" (Pā. 1-3-12 [?]); śānac for laṭ by "laṭaḥ śatṛśānacāv aprathamāsamānādhikaraṇe" (Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); śap (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]); ānac → māna with the augment muk by "āne muk" (Pā. 7-2-82 [?]), which is kit and so becomes part of the end of the stem ("ād-yantau ṭakitau," Pā. 1-1-46 [?]): day + a + mān + a; śap is pit and so unaccented; the śānac, being cit, would give the final accent ("cita," Pā. 6-1-163 [?]), but since the śap is an upadeśa element following the root and a lasārvadhātuka that comes after an anudātta-it root (tāsyānudātenñid-adupadeśāl lasārvadhātukam anudāttam, Pā. 6-1-186 [?]), this is set aside and only the root's accent stands: day.

॥६॥

Page 412 (lower) — Sūkta 10, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सुविवृतं सुनिरजमिन्द्र त्वादातमिद्यशः । गवामप ब्रजं वृधि कृणुष्व राधो अद्रिवः ॥७॥

*suvivṛtaṃ sunirajam indra tvādātam id yaśaḥ | gavām apa
vrajaṃ vṛdhi kṛṇuṣva rādho adrivaḥ || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सुऽविवृतम् । सुनिऽअजम् । इन्द्र । त्वाऽदातम् । इत् । यशः ॥ गवाम् । अप । ब्रजम् । वृधि । कृणुष्व । राधः । अद्रिवः ॥७॥

*su-vivṛtam | sunir-ajam | indra | tvā-dātam | it | yaśaḥ ||
gavām | apa | vrajam | vṛdhi | kṛṇuṣva | rādhaḥ | adrivaḥ ||
7 ||*

Rik 7: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र यशोऽन्नं कर्मफलभूतमन्नं सुविवृतं सुष्ठु सर्वत्र प्रस्तृतं सुनिरजं सुखेन निःशेषं प्राप्तुं शक्यं त्वादातमित्या [?] शोधितं च संपन्नमिति शेषः । अतः परं क्षीरादिसलाभार्थं गवां व्रजं निवासस्थानमप वृद्धि । अपावृतमुद्धाटितद्वारं कुरु । हे अद्रिवः पर्वतोपलक्षितवज्रयुक्तेन्द्र राधो धनं कृणुष्व संपादय ॥

*he indra yaśo 'nnaṃ karma-phala-bhūtam annaṃ suvivṛtaṃ suṣṭhu sarvatra prastr̥taṃ sunirajaṃ sukhena niḥśeṣaṃ prāptaṃ śakyaṃ tvādātaṃ ity ayā [?] śodhitam ca saṃpannam iti śeṣaḥ | ataḥ paraṃ kṣīrādi-salābhārthaṃ
gavāṃ vrajaṃ nivāsa-sthānam apa vṛdhi | apāvṛtaṃ udghāṭita-dvāraṃ kuru | he adrivaḥ parvatopalakṣita-vajra-
yuktendra rādho dhanam kṛṇuṣva saṃpādaya ||*

Translation: "O Indra! Yaśaḥ — food, the food that is the fruit of the rite — suvivṛtaṃ: well spread out everywhere; sunirajaṃ: obtainable without effort, wholly; tvādātaṃ: purified by you — has come about [this is the supplied completion; the phrase beginning tvādātaṃ iti is not clear in the scan]. After this, for the sake of obtaining milk and the like, gavāṃ vrajaṃ — the cow-pen, the dwelling-place of cows — apa vṛdhi: open it — make it have its door opened. O adrivaḥ — O Indra, armed with the thunderbolt that is characterized by the mountain — rādhaḥ — wealth — kṛṇuṣva: bring about, provide." ^{35 36}

35. The long grammar of pp. 413–414 — on suvivṛtaṃ (whether the compound takes the accent of a kṛdanta second member, with a discussion of the paribhāṣās "kṛdgrahaṇe gatikāarakapūrvasyāpi grahaṇam," Paribhāṣā 28 [?] and 31 [?]), sunirajaṃ (from root aḥ gatiḥ ṣeṇa ṇayoh with su and nis; "īṣad-duḥ-suṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal," Pā. 3-3-126 [?]), tvādātaṃ, yaśaḥ, gavāṃ, apa, vṛdhi, kṛṇuṣva, rādhaḥ, adrivaḥ — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

36. The Sanskrit is partly compressed; the clause marked [?] was not securely read.

Note — Grammar page, noted briefly. The page is Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar, in outline: that the word sunirajam is formed with the prefixes su and nis and the root aja, with khal (Pā. 3-3-126 [?]), so that the su does not intervene with the retroflexion by nis; that tvādātam is from the root dāp śodhane, with the ñit-like treatment, the substitute tva for tvad by the rule for the third case singular, and the ending replaced by ā by "supām suluk..."; that yaśaḥ is from aśū vyāptau with asun (Uṇ. 4-190 [?]), initial-udātta by the stem accent; gavām takes its stem accent; vṛdhi — root vṛñ varane, with hi replaced by dhi, śnu dropped by bahulam chandasi; kṛṇuṣva — root kṛñ himsākaraṇayoḥ with uk, ś-vikaraṇa as u by "dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca" (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]) with va for ṇa; and adrivaḥ — "adriḥ vajraḥ tad asyāstīti matup," with matup in the Veda taking va, the vocative in matup with num (Pā. 7-1-70 [?]), and the rule "hal-ñyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]), the ru and visarga of the vocative.

original p. 414

Rik 7: Sāyaṇa's grammar (briefly noted)

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ³⁷

original p. 415

Rik 7: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | सुविवृतम् (suvivṛtam) — spread out well everywhere (that is, in great abundance) | सुनिरजम् (sunirajam) — easily obtained | यशः (yaśaḥ) — the food (nourishment) | त्वादातम् इत् (tvādātam it) — you are indeed the one who purifies it well | (हे) अद्रिवः ((he) adrivaḥ) — O Indra, bearer of the thunderbolt | गवाम् (gavām) — of the cows | व्रजम् (vrajam) — the cow-pen | अप वृधि (apa vṛdhi) — open the door (that is, give us cows) | राधः (rādhah) — wealth | कृणुष्व (kṛṇuṣva) — obtain (for us).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Make abundant food available to us; it must be easily obtainable for us everywhere. Besides, open the pen of the cows and obtain for us many cows and wealth.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, the food is rendered abundant everywhere and easily obtainable; O wielder of thunderbolt, throw open, then the cow-fold and give us wealth.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Suvivṛtam" — for this word the Bhāṣyakāra says "suṣṭhu sarvatra prastṛtam — well spread out everywhere"; Skandasvāmī says "suṣṭhu loke prakāśam — well manifest in the world." The scholar Wilson renders it rendered everywhere abundant.

"Sunirajam" — सुखेन निःशेषं प्राप्तुं शक्यम् (sukhena niḥśeṣam prāptuṃ śakyam) — "that which can be obtained wholly with ease" says the Bhāṣyakāra; and Skandasvāmī explains: "sunirajam | nir ity eṣa sīty etasya sthāne ajā-gati-kṣepaṇayoḥ | suniḥkṣepam | yatra yatra viniyoktum iṣyate tatra tatra prabhūtatvāt suviniyojam ity arthaḥ" ["nir" here is for sī; the root aja in the senses of going and throwing: that which can be freely thrown; wherever it is wished to apply it, there, because it is abundant, it is well applicable: this is the sense; the Sanskrit is partly compressed]. That is: what can be obtained easily, being spread everywhere, is easily to be found.

"Tvādātam" — "purified by you" (tvayā śodhanena viśadīkṛtam), says the Bhāṣyakāra; Skandasvāmī gives tvayā dattam — "given by you." The Bhāṣyakāra takes the root dāp śodhane — ³⁸. ³⁹

original p. 416

Rik 7: Special Topics (continued)

"Yaśaḥ" — since yaśaḥ is read among the twenty-eight words for food beginning with andhaḥ, vājāḥ, here yaśaḥ means food.

"Apa vṛdhi" — उद्घाटितद्वारं कुरु (udghāṭita-dvāraṃ kuru) — "make [it] with its door opened": open the door; i.e., throw open the door (of cow-fold) [the source's own English].

"Vrajam" — goṣṭham, or gavāṃ nivāsasthānam — "the cowshed, or the dwelling-place of cows": the cow-pen where cows are kept; cow fold [the source's own English].

Here the word yaśaḥ is taken by some as "water" (Nirukta 1-12 [?]), and vraja and adri as "cloud" (Nirukta 1-10 [?]); on that sense the meaning would run: "scatter the mass of clouds and make rain come, and so give us water" — which is also reasonable. Wilson, too, gives a similar sense: "the text is literally rendered: the meaning being that Indra as the sender of rain should fertilize the fields, and by providing abundant pasturage enable the cattle to yield store of milk" [the source's own English], supporting this view.

"Adri vaḥ" — अद्रिर्वज्रम् । तदस्यास्तीति (adrir vajram | tad asyāstīti) — "adri means the thunderbolt-weapon; so adrivān means 'one bearing the thunderbolt.'" Since in the Nirukta adri is explained as "mountain," the Bhāṣyakāra says "parvatopalakṣita-vajra-

39. Continuing "Tvādātam") ... dāp śodhane: "by the rule ādeca upadeśe 'īti (Pā. 6-1-45 [?]), taking the form of a different root, he explains it" — "purified by you, made clear," as the Bhāṣyakāra explains. According to Skandasvāmī's explanation, tvādātam is tvayā dattam, "given by you." The sense in the end is one, though the derivation of the word differs. The word tvādātam occurs not only in this rik but in Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-40-? [?], 8-?-?; the word tvādattaḥ occurs at Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-?-? [?], and tvādatrebhiḥ at 3-?-? [?] (the mantra numbers are compressed in the scan and are all marked [?]). (See also the explanation of the word adrivaḥ in this rik.

yukta — "armed with the thunderbolt characterized by the mountain." Besides, the word adri has the name "cloud" (Nirukta 1-10 [?]), and Yāska:

यदिन्द्र चित्र मेहनास्ति त्वादातमद्रिवः । राधस्तन्नो विदद्वस उभयाहस्त्या भर ॥ yad indra citra mehanāsti tvādātam adrivaḥ | rādhas tan no vidadvasa ubhayāhastyā bhara | | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-?-1 [?]; the source's number reads "३-१४-१" [?]) ("O wondrous Indra, whatever wealth there is given by you, O wielder of the stone, that wealth, O finder of wealth, bring to us with both hands." — my gloss, tentative; the second line is read from compressed print.)

— in explaining this rik, he says: "adrivān — adri is ādṛṇa [or ādarāṇa]" and gives to adrivaḥ the sense "O thunderbolt-bearer" and to tvādātam the sense tvayā nastad dātavyam ("that which is to be given to us by you"). Therefore the explanations of these two words, adrivān and tvādātam, which Yāska has given are to be accepted.⁴⁰

original pp. 417–422

Rik 7 grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥⁴¹

सुविवृतम् (suvivṛtam) — root vṛñ varaṇe with kta in the passive; vi + vṛta are joined as prādi, and su with vivṛta as a further compound ("kugatiprādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18 [?]); since vṛta is a kṛdanta, the rule "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) would give the accent of the second member; this is set aside by "gatiṛ anantaraḥ" (Pā. 6-2-49 [?]) (when a kta-ending word in the passive sense is the second member, a directly preceding gati keeps its own accent), so that the vi would be initial-udātta; this too is set aside by "parādiś chandasi bahulam" (Pā. 6-2-199 [?]),

40. The Devanagari of the Yāska quotation above is a best reading from compressed print.

41. grammar pages 417–422, noted briefly; the scholastic arguments on pp. 417–419 are characterized in outline only making the first vowel (r) of vṛta udātta. The long argument (pp. 417–418): when su is then compounded with vivṛta, "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" would again keep the accent of the second member, and that r stays udātta. But the objection arises: in su-vivṛta is vivṛta a kṛdanta? — the paribhāṣā "pratyaya-grahaṇe yasmāt sa vihitas tad-ādes tad-antasya grahaṇam" (Paribhāṣā 23 [?]) says that where a suffix is named, the item beginning with that to which it was added and ending in that suffix is meant; vivṛta is not vṛta alone — and the counter-paribhāṣā "kṛd-grahaṇe gati-kāraka-pūrvasyāpi grahaṇam" (Paribhāṣā 28 [?]) says that a kṛdanta includes one preceded by a gati or a kāraka; hence vivṛta is a kṛdanta. A further difficulty (pp. 418): the sūtra "gatir anantaraḥ" with "anantara" ("immediately preceding") appears to bar the rule when something intervenes, as in su-vi-vṛtam where vi intervenes between su and vṛta; the answer is that the paribhāṣā "kṛd-grahaṇe..." is not "present" for the purposes of "anantara" in that sūtra, and the example abhyudhṛtam (where the intervening abhi does not keep its own accent) is cited to show the use of the word anantara; the discussion concludes (p. 418) that in suvivṛtam the r remains udātta. ⁴² सुनिरजम् (sunirajam) — the root aja gatiḥsepaṇayoḥ with the prefixes su and nis; "īṣad-duḥ-suṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal" (Pā. 3-3-126 [?]) gives khal after a root when īṣat, duḥ or su is the upapada, in senses of difficulty/ease; the argument whether nis intervening between su and aja prevents the khal is answered: the rule does not require that the su stand immediately before (cf. suparihāram, duṣparihāram); khal is l-marked, so the vowel before it (a of aj) is udātta by "liti" (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]); with the gati-compound with nis, the accent of the kṛdanta second member (the root's a udātta) stands; compounding again with su gives the same; the remaining syllables are lowered by "anudāttam padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]); the unaccented a of the following ending becomes svarita by "udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ" (Pā.

42. The page ends with "so ends this great-sentence discussion."

8-4-66 [?]). त्वादातम् (tvādātam) — root dāp lavane and root dēp śodhane (daip) — the argument on pp. 419–421: in dep śodhane, by "ādeca upadeśe 'śiti" (Pā. 6-1-45 [?]) the e of the root becomes ā when a non-śit suffix follows; but the root is daip ending in p, with ai, which in the upadeśa is a diphthong-ending root? — the difficulty is resolved by the paribhāṣā "nānubandhakṛtam anejantatvam" (Paribhāṣā 6 [?]) that the diphthong-ending status of a root is not undone by a mere it-marker; dai + kta → dā + ta (Pā. 6-4-? [?]); the objection that dā + ta would then be ghu-class and so take dad in place of dā ("dādhā ghv adāp," Pā. 1-1-20 [?]) is answered, since dāp lavane and daip śodhane are specifically excluded and the substitute-from-daip dā is "lākṣaṇika," not pratipadokta; the paribhāṣā "lakṣaṇa-pratipadoktayoh pratipadoktasyaiva grahaṇam" (Paribhāṣā 106 [?]) is argued and disposed of by "gāmādāgrahaṇeṣv aviśeṣaḥ" (Paribhāṣā 105 [?]). Tvā — yuṣmad + ṭā, the third-case ending replaced by ā via ḍā ("supāṃ suluk..." Pā. 7-1-39 [?]); tva replaces yuṣmad ("tvamāṃ ekavacane," Pā. 7-2-97 [?]), tva + a + ā, pararūpa gives tvā; with bha-status the ṭi is dropped ("ṭeḥ," Pā. 6-4-143 [?]); the accent (pp. 420–421): the ā is udātta if a prātipadika accent applies; the third-case tvā compounds with the kṛdanta dāta by "kartṛkaraṇe kṛtā bahulam" (Pā. 2-1-32 [?]); the ending of the third-case word would be dropped by "supo dhātu-prātipadikayoh" (Pā. 2-4-71 [?]) but is not dropped by "tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam" (Pā. 6-3-14 [?]); the kṛdanta's second-member accent that would stand is set aside by "ṭṛtīyā karmaṇi" (Pā. 6-2-48 [?]): a third-case word followed by a kta-ending word in the passive sense keeps its own accent, so the first member's accent stands. यशः (yaśaḥ) — root aśū vyāptau + asun by "aśer yuṭ ca" (Uṇ. 4-190 [?]), with the augment yuṭ; yaśas, with su dropped by "hal-ñyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]); ru and visarga; initial-udātta (the s-final suffix with the it-marker s). गवाम् (gavām) — stem accent; the udātta of the case-ending that "sāvekācas ṭṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 6-1-168 [?]) would give is barred by "na go-śvannāvavarna-rāḍ-ñkṛ-kṛd-

bhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-182 [?]), so the ending is unaccented. वृधि (vr̥dhi) — root vr̥ñ varaṇe + loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śnu by "svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ" (Pā. 3-1-73 [?]), dropped by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); after śr, spr, kṛ, vr, bhr in the Veda, hi → dhi ("śṛṇu-pr-kṛ-vr̥-bhyaś chandasi," Pā. 6-4-102 [?]); hi is apit so ñit-like, hence no guṇa by Pā. 1-1-5 [?]; unaccented. कृणुष्व (kṛṇuṣva) — root kṛñ himsākaraṇayoḥ, idit so num by "idito num dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-58 [?]), num being mit it stands after the last vowel; ātmanepada by inversion; loṭ with middle-second thās → se (Pā. 3-4-80 [?]), se → sva (Pā. 3-4-91 [?]); kṛṇv + sva: the śap arising by "kartari śap" (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]) is set aside by "dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca" (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]): after dhivi and kṛvi — roots belonging to the bhvādi class per the source, though Śākaṭāyana and others take them as tanādi — the u-vikaraṇa arises and the final of the root is changed to a, so kṛṇ + u + sva ("kṛṇ + a + u + sva"); "ato lopaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-48 [?]) drops the a before the ārdhadhātuka-like u; the question of laghūpadha-guṇa of kṛṇ (the r being the penultimate vowel) is argued away by "acaḥ parasmin pūrvavidhau" (Pā. 1-1-57 [?]): the a-substitute counts as the original for the purposes of rules applying to what precedes; so the penultimate r is treated as before an a... and no guṇa arises; n → ṇ by "raṣābhyāṃ no ṇaḥ samānapade" (Pā. 8-4-1 [?]), s → ṣ by "ādeśapratyayayoḥ" (Pā. 8-3-59 [?]); the accent of the śit-vikaraṇa stands over the tiṇ (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]) — here the u is the vikaraṇa and, though śit, it has the stronger accent (the sva ending gets the initial udātta by "ādyudāttaś ca," Pā. 3-1-3 [?]), the rest unaccented. राधः (rādhah) — "sarvadhātubhyo 'sun" (Uṇ. 4-188 [?]); initial-udātta since nit. अद्रिवः (adrivah) — "adriḥ asya asti": matup by "tad asyāsty asminn iti matup" (Pā. 5-2-94 [?]); m → v in the Veda after a word ending in a/r ("chandasīraḥ," Pā. 8-2-15 [?]); adri-vat + vocative su; the num of "ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-70 [?]) arises after the last vowel by "mid aco 'ntyāt paraḥ" (Pā. 1-1-47 [?]); then (p. 422, end) the t is dropped by "hal-nyābbhyaḥ..." and "saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ," the s becomes ru by "matvasor ruḥ sambuddhau chandasi" (Pā. 8-3-1 [?]), then visarga; a vocative, unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]).⁴³

॥७॥

original p. 423

Sūkta 10, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नहि त्वा रोदसी उभे ऋघायमाणमिन्वतः । जेषः स्वरवतीरपः सं गा अस्मभ्यं धूनुहि ॥८॥

*nahi tvā rodasī ubhe ṛghāyamāṇam invataḥ | jeṣaḥ svarvatīr
apaḥ saṃ gā asmabhyam dhūnuhi || 8 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नहि । त्वा । रोदसी इति । उभे इति । ऋघायमाणम् । इन्वतः ॥ जेषः । स्वःऽवतीः । अपः । सम् । गाः । अस्मभ्यम् । धूनुहि ॥८॥

*nahi | tvā | rodasī iti | ubhe iti | ṛghāyamāṇam | invataḥ | |
jeṣaḥ | svaḥ-vatīḥ | apaḥ | sam | gāḥ | asmabhyam | dhūnuhi
|| 8 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र ऋघायमाणं शत्रुवधं कुर्वाणं त्वां रोदसी उभे द्यावापृथिव्यौ [reading of the next words uncertain] त्वदीयं महिमानं नहि इन्वतः । व्याप्तुं न समर्थे इत्यर्थः । तादृशस्त्वं स्वरवतीः स्वर्लोकायुक्ता आपो वृष्टिरूपा जेषः । जयेः । प्रेरयेत्यर्थः । अपां
स्वर्गसंबन्धश्चान्यत्र दिवो वृष्टिं च्यावयति । तै. सं. ३-४-९-१ [?] इति श्रुतम् । किंच
वृष्टिप्रदानादन्नसंपत्तेरूर्ध्वमस्मभ्यं क्षीरादिरसप्रदा गाः सं धूनुहि । सम्यक् प्रेरय ॥

43. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. Large stretches of the scholastic arguments were too long and too compressed to render line by line. The last lines of this grammar run onto the top of p. 423: the t of adrivat is dropped as the end of a conjunct (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]); the n of the num augment is not dropped, because under pūrvatrāsiddham (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) the rule on loss of n (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]) is "unseen"; and the final s of the vocative becomes ru and then visarga.

he indra ṛghāyamāṇam śatru-vadham kurvāṇam tvāṃ rodasī ubhe dyāvāpṛthivyau [reading of the next words uncertain]
 tvadīyam mahimāṇam nahi invataḥ | vyāptum na samarthe
 ity arthaḥ | tādṛśas tvaṃ svarvatīḥ svarloka-yuktā āpo vṛṣṭi-rūpā jeṣaḥ | jayeh | preraya ity arthaḥ | apāṃ svarga-saṃbandhaś cānyatra divo vṛṣṭim cyāvayati | tai. saṃ. 3-4-9-1
 [?] iti śrutam | kiṃca vṛṣṭi-pradānād anna-saṃpatter ūrdhvam asmabhyaṃ kṣīrādi-rasa-pradā gāḥ saṃ dhūnuhi |
 samyak preraya | |

Translation: "O Indra! Rodasī ubhe — both heaven and earth — cannot (nahi invataḥ) pervade, i.e., are not able to encompass, your greatness, you who are ṛghāyamāṇam, bringing about the slaying of enemies. Being such, jeṣaḥ — conquer, i.e., send forth — svarvatīḥ apaḥ: the waters that belong to the world of heaven, in the form of rain. [The connection of the waters with heaven, and that [Indra] elsewhere makes the rain fall from heaven, is heard in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā (3-4-9-1 [?]).] Moreover, after the giving of rain and the abundance of food, saṃ dhūnuhi — send well — to us gāḥ — cows that yield milk and the like."

Note — The rest of the p. 423 and p. 424 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of नहि, त्वा, रोदसी, उभे, ऋघायमाणम्, इन्वतः, जेषः, स्वर्वतीः, अपः, गाः, धूनुहि: that nahi is "na + hi" with the accent resolved under the rule on compounds with nañ; rodasī is from rudh with asun, initial-udātta, and takes ī as a dual; ṛghāyamāṇam is a denominative from the root ṛgha (ṛghā "destroyer") with kyac, and śānac; invataḥ is from ivi vyāptau with num; jeṣaḥ is the Vedic aorist-subjunctive form (leṭ) of ji in the sense of prayer, with sip and aṭ; svarvatīḥ is "having svar" with matup and nīp, with the m changed to v; dhūnuhi is from dhūñ kampāne with śnu and hi, the hi not dropped by the utaś ca pratyayād asaṃyogapūrvāt rule only because the u there follows a conjunct-less base [reading compressed]. Grammar noted briefly; not transcribed.

original p. 424

Rik 8: word-meanings, overall sense

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

ऋघायमाणम् (rghāyamāṇam) — who bring about the slaying of enemies | त्वाम् (tvām) — your ⁴⁴ | उभे रोदसी (ubhe rodasī) — both heaven and earth (the sky) | नहि इन्वतः (nahi invataḥ) — are not able to contain | ⁴⁵ स्वर्वतीः (svarvatīḥ) — which are in the world of heaven | अपः (apah) — water in the form of rain | जेषः (jeṣaḥ) — conquer (that is, make the water fall on the earth as rain) | ⁴⁶ अस्मभ्यम् (asmabhyam) — to us | गाः (gāḥ) — cows | सं धूनुहि (saṁ dhūnuhi) — send.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Your greatness, which destroys enemies, is so very great that heaven and earth cannot contain it. Now cause the waters that are in heaven to fall upon the earth as rain, and send us cows that give milk.

original p. 425

Rik 8: English and Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

Heaven and earth are unable to hold you (your exploits) the destroyer of your enemies; command the waters of heaven (so that they may fall upon earth as rain) and send us cows.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Rodasī" — dyāvāprthivī: the worlds of earth and sky (antarikṣa), or the earth and the world of heaven. The word rodasī is read among the twenty-four words for heaven-and-earth, beginning with svadhe, purandhī (Nirukta 3-30 [?]).

44. greatness

45. such as you are

46. after that

"R̥ghāyamāṇam" — न्यन् हन्तीत्यृघा (nyan hantīty rghā) — "rghā means one who kills [or strikes] men — that is, one who destroys enemies."

"Tvā"

— "you," that is, "your greatness."

"Invataḥ" — ivi vyāptau — "to pervade"; "unable to pervade" means that your greatness is so great that even the vast earth and sky cannot contain it — that is the idea.

"Jeṣaḥ" — "conquer": that is, the capacity that makes the waters, or the rain, pour as rain is under your control.

"Svarvatīḥ" — "that are in the world of heaven." Since rain falls from the sky (antarikṣa), and since the world of heaven is understood to be above the antarikṣa, it is customary to say that the water in the form of rain belongs to heaven. In this connection:

एतद्वा अपां नामधेयं गुह्यं यदाधावा मान्दासु ते शुक्र शुक्रमा धूनोमीत्याहापामेव नामधेयेन
गुह्येन दिवो वृष्टिमवरुन्धे शुक्रं ते शुक्रेण गृह्णामीत्याहो रूपं यद्रात्रीः सूर्यस्य रश्मयो वृष्ट्यै ईशते
ऽह एव रूपेण सूर्यस्य रश्मिभिर्दिवो वृष्टिं व्यावयत्यस्मिन्नुग्रा अचुच्यवुरित्याह यथायजुरेवैतत्
॥ etad vā apāṃ nāmadheyam guhyam yad ādhāvā mandāsu te śukra śukram ā dhūnomīty āhāpām eva nāmadheyena guhyena divo vṛṣṭim avarundhe śukram te śukreṇa grhṇāmīty āhno rūpaṃ yad rātrīḥ sūryasya raśmayo vṛṣṭyai īśate 'hna eva rūpeṇa sūryasya raśmibhir divo vṛṣṭim cyāvayaty asmin ugrā acucyavur ity āha yathā-yajur evaitat || (Taittirīya Saṃhitā; "the Taittirīya Saṃhitā says so" is the source's own attribution, without numbers; the Devanagari is a best reading of compressed print, and I have not attempted a translation of this passage.)

"Dhūnuhi" — dhūñ kampane. Although this root has the senses of "shake" and "move," the Bhāṣyakāra and others take the sense "impel, send, give."

original pp. 426–429

Rik 8 grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴⁷

नहि (nahi) — nañ compounds with hi by "saha supā" (Pā. 2-1-4 [?], a supsupā compound with a capable subanta); being a compound, final-udātta by "samāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-223 [?]). त्वा (tvā) — yuṣmad + accusative singular am; for am the substitute am replaces the ending after yuṣmad/asmad by "jaś-śasoḥ..."/"śeṣe prathamādvitīyayor am" [the print has "jeḥ prathamayor am" (Pā. 7-1-28 [?]); yuṣmad + am by "tvamāv ekavacane" (Pā. 7-2-97 [?]) takes tva for the end of yuṣmad (tva + ad), and ad is dropped before am ("dvitīyāyām ca," Pā. 7-2-87 [?], giving tva + a + am); "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) gives pararūpa; "akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-101 [?]); "amī pūrvāḥ" (Pā. 6-1-107 [?]) gives pūrvārūpa, tvām. By "tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ" (Pā. 8-1-23 [?]) and "anudāttaṃ sarvam apādādaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-18 [?]), the substitutes tvā and mā come for the second-case forms of yuṣmad/asmad when not at the beginning of a pāda; they are unaccented, so tvā is unaccented. रोदसी (rodasī) — root rud + asun ("sarvadhātubhyo 'sun," Uṇ. 4-188 [?]), laghūpadha-guṇa, giving rodas; nit, so initial-udātta; since the u of asun becomes it the word is treated as ugit (having u, ṛ, ḷ marker), and so ñīp arises by "ugitaś ca" (Pā. 4-1-6 [?]); ñīp is pīp, so unaccented. उभे (ubhe) — ubha is final-udātta by stem accent; the dual au → ṭāp-like "ajādyataṣṭāp" is not relevant; ubha + au → śī by "auñāḥ śī" (Pā. 7-1-18 [?]); ś lost; a + i → e by guṇa (Pā. 6-1-87 [?]); pūrvapada... ubha + ī — the ī is unaccented as a sup; "ād guṇaḥ" yields a single substitute e, udātta by

47. grammar pages 426–429, noted briefly

"ekādeśa udāttēnodāttah" (Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). ऋघायमाणम् (ṛghāyamāṇam) — "nṛṇ hanti" (kills men): nṛ + han + kvip-like, giving ṛghā (the print: "nyan" as an upapada, then han with viḍ by "anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante," Pā. 3-2-75 [?], for the vic [vi-type] suffix whose letters all drop, so the word is a prātipadika by "kṛt-taddhita-samāsās ca" (Pā. 1-2-46 [?]); ś of śas dropped, and "anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante" in the sūtra is read as a way to include the vic by "dṛśyante" [a point of statute-reading]; the n of nyan dropped, and the h of han replaced by gh with the ṭi-loss, giving ṛghā; then, if one means "becoming what it was not" (abhūta-tadbhāva) the suffix kyaṣ by "lohitādi-ḍājibhyaḥ kyaṣ" (Pā. 3-1-13 [?]) applies after lohitā-class words and after words ending in ḍāc; ṛghā + kyaṣ; the k and ṣ of kyaṣ drop as it; then, "bhṛṣādibhyo bhuvy ... lopaś ca hala" (Pā. 3-1-12 [?]) with "lopaś ca halaḥ" carried over to the lohitādi gaṇa, so that if a consonant-ending word is followed by kyaṣ the consonant is dropped; thence the n of ṛghan drops; "akṛtsārvadhātukayor dīrghaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-25 [?]) lengthens the a before a non-kṛt, non-sārvadhātuka yakārādi suffix, giving ṛghāya; then laṭ + śānac for laṭ by "laṭaḥ śaṭṛśānacāv..." (Pā. 3-2-124 [?]) — kyaṣ being ṣit, the parasmaipada is optional ("vā kyaṣaḥ," Pā. 1-3-90 [?]), so the ātmanepada śānac arises; śap; ṛghāya + a + āna; śap is pit, so unaccented; śānac being cit is final-udātta ("citaḥ," Pā. 6-1-163 [?]) but, since the śap is a lasārvadhātuka following an upadeśa a, it is made unaccented ("tāsyānudāttēnnidupadeśāt," Pā. 6-1-186 [?]); "ato guṇe" gives pararūpa; "āne muk" (Pā. 7-2-82 [?]) adds muk, then n → ṇ: ṛghāyamāṇa.

Note — The source remarks that this derivation follows the Vṛttikāra; in fact, no kyaṣ is attached here, since the Lohitādi group contains only a-ending words; the Mahābhāṣya of Patañjali says the suffix kyaṣ is not enjoined after consonant-ending words, and the Kāśikā-type analysis is therefore not tenable; another derivation is given: "ṛghāyate" = "ṛghā iva ācarati" with kyaṇ (Pā. 3-1-11 [?]) — a compound from the word ṛghan followed by kyac (Pā. 3-1-10 [?]) optionally, then the technical name pada at the end of ṛghan by "svādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne" (Pā. 1-4-17 [?]) and the dropping of n by "nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]), the loss of n being "unseen" by "nalopaḥ supsvarasaṃjñātugvidhiṣu kṛti" (Pā. 8-2-2 [?]); and "pūrvatrāsiddham" (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) means the loss of n is not "seen" when lengthening applies; kyac is c-marked, so the ātmanepada comes from "anudātta-ñita ātmanepadam" (Pā. 1-3-12 [?]); the rest as above.

इन्वतः (invataḥ) — root ivi vyāptau, idit so num (Pā. 7-1-58 [?]); laṭ third dual tas; śap; rutva-visarga; śap is pit so unaccented; "tāsyānudātenñidupadeśāt..." (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]) leaves the root accent; "hiṃ ca" and the rule "āṅgāprātilomye" (Pā. 8-1-34/35 [?]) with aprātilomya "favourableness": a finite verb joined with hi is not lowered; here it is the hi in nahi; but "tiñ atīṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) does not apply to a verb with hi, so the accent stands. जेषः (jeṣaḥ) — root ji jaye; the leṭ in the sense of prayer ("liṇarthe leṭ," Pā. 3-4-7 [?]); sip with the p it-marked ("halantyaṃ," Pā. 1-3-3 [?]); the i of sip dropped (Pā. 3-4-97 [?]); śap barred by "sibbahulaṃ leṭi" (Pā. 3-1-34 [?]) in favour of sip; augment aṭ (Pā. 3-4-94 [?]); guṇa of ji (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); ṣatva, ru, visarga; the augment is unaccented, so only the root accent stands. स्वर्वतीः (svarvatīḥ) — "svaḥ āsām asti": matup by "tad asyāsty asminn iti matup" (Pā. 5-2-94 [?]) after svar; because svar ends in r, m → v by "chandasīraḥ" (Pā. 8-2-15 [?]); the u of svar is mādupaladhāyās ca matorvo 'yavādibhyaḥ (Pā. 8-2-9 [?]); "ugitāś ca" (Pā. 4-1-6 [?]) gives nīp; matup and nīp are pit, so unaccented; svar is a svarita word ("naj-svarau svaritau," Phīṭ-sūtra 94 [?]); in the Saṃhitā the unaccented syllables after a svarita are lowered to a single ekaśruti ("svaritāt saṃhitāyām anudāttānām," Pā. 1-2-39 [?]). अपः (apaḥ) — "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-171 [?]): the ending śas after ap is udātta. धूनुहि (dhūnuhi) — root dhūñ kampane, loṭ second singular sip, sip → hi; śnu of the svādi class; "utaś ca pratyayād asaṃyogapūrvāt" (Pā. 6-4-106 [?]) would drop hi after a u not preceded by a conjunct; but by the paribhāṣā "sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante" (Paribhāṣā 93 [?]) it does not here. ⁴⁸

॥८॥

original p. 430

Sūkta 10, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आश्रुत्कर्ण श्रुधी हवं नू चिदधिष्व मे गिरः । इन्द्र स्तोममिमं मम कृष्वा युजश्चिदन्तरम् ॥९॥

*āśrutkarṇa śrudhī havam nū cid dadhiṣva me girah | indra
stomam imam mama kṛṣvā yujaś cid antaram || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आश्रुत्कर्ण । श्रुधि । हवम् । नु । चित् । दधिष्व । मे । गिरः ॥ इन्द्र । स्तोमम् । इमम् । मम । कृष्व । युजः । चित् । अन्तरम् ॥९॥

*āśrut-karṇa | śrudhi | havam | nu | cit | dadhiṣva | me |
giraḥ || indra | stomam | imam | mama | kṛṣva | yujaḥ | cit
| antaram || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे आश्रुत्कर्ण सर्वतः श्रोतारौ कर्णौ यस्य तादृगिन्द्र हवमस्मदीयमाह्वानं नु क्षिप्रं श्रुधि । शृणु । मे मम होतुर्गिरः स्तुतीरपि चित्ते धारय । दधिष्व । चित्ते धारय । किंच मम मदीयमिमं स्तोमं स्तोत्ररूपं वाक्यसमूहं युजश्चित्त्वत्स्वकीययुजः सख्युरप्यन्तरं कृष्व । आसन्नं कुरु । यथा वचनं तस्य प्रियं मन्यसे तद्वदस्मदीयमपि स्तोत्रं प्रीतं कर्तुमर्हसीत्यर्थः [last clause is read from compressed print and is marked uncertain] ॥

*he āśrutkarṇa sarvataḥ śrotārau karṇau yasya tādṛg indra
havam asmadīyam āhvānaṃ nu kṣipraṃ śrudhi | śṛṇu | me
mama hotur giraḥ stutīr api citte dhāraya | dadhiṣva | citte dhāraya | kiṃca mama madīyam imam stomam stotra-rūpaṃ vākya-samūhaṃ yujaś cit tvat-svakīya-yujaḥ sakhyur apy*

48. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The ṛghāyamāṇam argument is characterized in outline; the print is long and compressed.

antaram kṛṣva | āsannaṃ kuru | yathā vacanaṃ tasya priyaṃ manyase tad-vad asmadīyam api stotraṃ prītaṃ
kartum arhasīty arthaḥ | |

Translation: "O āśrutkarṇa — O Indra, whose two ears hear from all sides! Havam, our invocation, nu — quickly — śrudhi: hear. Me girah: the praises of me, the invoker, too, dadhiṣva: hold in your mind. And further: mama imam stomam — this stoma of mine, this collection of sentences in the form of praise — yujas cid antaram kṛṣva: make [it] near, as [near as] that of a friend who is your own companion; bring it close. The sense is: as you regard a friend's word as dear, so you ought to make our praise dear [to you]." 49 50

original p. 431

Rik 9: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) आश्रुत्कर्ण ((he) āśrutkarṇa) — O Indra, whose ears have the capacity to hear everything | हवम् (havam) — my invocation (that we call you with) | नु (nu) — quickly | श्रुधि (śrudhi) — hear | मे (me) — my (of the invoker) | गिरः चित् (giraḥ cit) — also the words

49. The grammar on pp. 430–431 is in Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit and is noted briefly: that āśrutkarṇa is a bahuvrīhi "he whose ears are āśrut," with the tuk augment after the short vowel of āśru before kvip (Pā. 6-1-71 [?]), a vocative; śrudhi — root śru śravaṇe with loṭ and hi, with śr as the substitute for śru (Pā. 3-1-74 [?]), the hi becoming dhi (Pā. 6-4-102 [?]); havam — from hveñ with the Vedic saṃprasāraṇa and ap, "ṛdorap" (Pā. 3-3-57 [?]); nu — with the Samhitā lengthening nū (Pā. 6-3-133 [?]); dadhiṣva — root dadh ("dhā") in the loṭ ātmanepada; mama — "tavamamau ṇasi" (Pā. 7-2-96 [?]), mama for the genitive of asmad; kṛṣva; yujah; antaram.

50. The last lines of the Sanskrit are compressed in the scan.

(in the form of praise) | दधिष्व (dadhiṣva) — hold in your mind | मम (mama) — my (that is, the one I make) | इमं स्तोमम् (imaṃ stomam) — this hymn | अन्तरं युजः चित् कृष्व (antaram yujaḥ cit kṛṣva) — regard as dear, as the word of your friend.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Your ears are able to hear everything, everywhere. Therefore hear quickly the invocation that we make, calling you; keep my words in mind; and regard this hymn that I make, or these sentences in the form of praise, as exceedingly dear, like the words of your friend.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, whose ears hear all things, listen quickly to my invocation; hold my praises (in your heart); keep near this my hymn as it were the words of a friend.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Āśrutkarṇa" — ā samantāt śṛṇute ity āśrut | tādr̥śau karṇau yasya saḥ — "āśrut is one who hears all round; he who has such ears is āśrutkarṇa": [the sense is] "O Indra, who hears from every place, everywhere"; one whose ears are such that wherever Indra may be he hears — that is the idea of the poet about the hymns and words that we make.

original p. 432

Rik 9: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Śrudhi," "nu," "kṛṣva"

— the final syllable of these words is lengthened in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha for the convenience of the meter.

"Dadhiṣva me giraḥ"

— "hold our words, or our prayer, in your mind": that is, listen to what we pray, and keep it in memory so that you do not forget it.

"Yujaścid antaram" — the Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "dear [to you] as the words of friends." Although no word is present in this phrase to indicate the term "friends," the Bhāṣyakāra supplies sakhyuḥ ("of a friend") so that the sense fits.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵¹

आश्रुत्कर्ण (āśrutkarṇa) — "ā samantāt (from all sides) śṛṇuta (hear)": the root śru śravaṇe with ā before it, and kvip by "kvip ca" (Pā. 3-2-76 [?]); all the letters of kvip drop, but by "pratyayalope pratyayalakṣaṇam" (Pā. 1-1-62 [?]) the suffix still counts; so by "hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk" (Pā. 6-1-71 [?]) tuk is added after the short vowel of the root before a pit kṛt suffix, giving āśrut; "āśrutau karṇau yasya saḥ" (a bahuvrīhi) gives the vocative āśrutkarṇa; initial-udātta as a vocative at the beginning by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 6-1-198 [?]). श्रुधी (śrudhī) — root śru śravaṇe, loṭ parasmaipada second singular sip; sip → hi; "śṛ" for "śru" by "śruvaḥ śṛ ca" (Pā. 3-1-74 [?]) — the śnu that arises in the Veda is dropped by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]), and, if the śnu vikaraṇa has disappeared, the śṛ substitute that was prescribed in connection with it is also withdrawn, by the maxim "tat-sanniyoga-śiṣṭānām anyatarāpāye ubhayor apy apāyaḥ" (Paribhāṣā 87 [?]); "śṛṇu pṛkṛ-vṛ-bhyaś chandasi" (Pā. 6-4-102 [?]) gives dhi for hi; śrudhī is initial-udātta by the suffix since hi is sit-like; the finite verb would be unaccented by "tiṇ atīṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) though, since it follows the vocative āśrutkarṇa, "āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat" (Pā. 8-1-72 [?]) treats the preceding vocative as non-existent, so the verb counts as the first in the pāda; yet since āśrutkarṇa is a pāda of its own,

51. grammar pages 432–435, noted briefly

no second word-hood arises and the verb remains unaccented; in the Saṃhitā "anyeṣām api dṛśyate" (Pā. 6-3-137 [?]) gives the lengthening, śrudhī.⁵²

original pp. 433–435

Rik 9 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥⁵³

हवम् (havam) — root hveñ spardhāyāṃ śabde ca; by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]) saṃprasāraṇa arises (hve → hu), then pūrvarūpa by "saṃprasāraṇāc ca" (Pā. 6-1-108 [?]); guṇa and av replacement (Pā. 3-3-57 [?], "ṛdor ap"): the suffix ap after a root ending in u/ṛ, giving hava; ap is pī, so unaccented; the accusative singular am with pūrvarūpa ("ami pūrvaḥ," Pā. 6-1-107 [?]), havam. नु (nu) — in the Saṃhitā the vowel is lengthened by "ṛcy tu nu ghā maḥ..." (Pā. 6-3-133 [?]), nū. चित् (cit) — belongs to the cādi class, so unaccented ("cādayo 'nudāttāḥ," Phit-sūtra 94 [?]). दधिष् (dadhiṣva) — root ḍudhāñ dhāraṇapoṣaṇayoḥ (juhotyādi); loṭ ātmanepada middle-second thās, thās → se (Pā. 3-4-80 [?]), se → sva (Pā. 3-4-91 [?]); śap (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]) is replaced by ślu ("juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ," Pā. 2-4-75 [?]); doubling (Pā. 6-1-10 [?]); the reduplicate's long vowel shortened (Pā. 7-4-59 [?]); dh → d in the reduplicate ("abhyāse carca," Pā. 8-4-54 [?]), giving da-dhā-sva;

52. Further paragraphs on havam, nu, cit, dadhiṣva, me, giraḥ, indra, stomam, imam, mama, kṛṣva, yujah, antaram continue to p. 435, noted briefly: the Saṃhitā lengthening in nū, the dhā → dadh reduplication with loṭ ātmanepada thās → se → sva and the lowering of śap to śluḥ; mama as the replacement for the genitive of asmad by Pā. 7-2-96 [?] with a technical discussion of whether the substitute is unaccented; kṛṣva with the lengthening in the Saṃhitā; and the final-udātta of antara.) (Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

53. grammar pages 433–435, noted briefly; the argument on pp. 434–435 is characterized in outline

since in the Veda a suffix enjoined in the section on roots has both sārvadhātuka and ārdhadhātuka status ("chandasy ubhayathā," Pā. 3-4-117 [?]), sva is treated as ārdhadhātuka, so the augment iṭ arises ("ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ," Pā. 7-2-35 [?]); since it is also sārvadhātuka, "śnābhyastayor ātaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-112 [?]) drops the ā of the root before it (as it is treated as ñit); s → ṣ by "ādeśapratyayayoḥ" (Pā. 8-3-59 [?]); dadhiṣva; unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). मम् (mama) — asmad + genitive singular ñas; "tavamamāṁ ekavacane" (Pā. 7-2-97 [?]) gives mama for the end of asmad before an ending that is "ñas" ("tavamamau ṇasi," Pā. 7-2-96 [?]); mama + a + as; "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) gives pararūpa of the two a's; "yuṣmadasmadbhyāṁ ṇaso 'ś" (Pā. 7-1-27 [?]) replaces ñas by aś; aś is śīt and so replaces the whole ending (Pā. 1-1-55 [?]); mama + a; "śeṣe lopah" (Pā. 7-2-90 [?]) drops the last a if the stem's end follows; in the alternative that the final letter is dropped, the a is dropped and mama results; the long argument here (p. 434) concerns whether aś (replacement of ñas) is barred by sya (the substitute of "ṭā-ṇasi-ṇasām inātsyāḥ," Pā. 7-1-12 [?]); it is argued that the aś rule would be pointless if sya applied, and that "yoci" (Pā. 7-2-89 [?]) blocks yā-substitution, and so on; the paribhāṣā "yenāprāpte yo vidhir ārabhyate sa tasya bādhako bhavati" (Paribhāṣā 63 [?]) is discussed; and the aṅgādhikāra maxim "aṅgavṛtte punarvṛttāṁ avidhiḥ" (Paribhāṣā 73 [?]) is quoted to show that after one aṅga-rule applies a second aṅga-rule does not; the discussion ends (p. 435) with the conclusion that the a of aś is to be joined by pararūpa with the preceding a, so the sya substitution does not arise; and that mama is final-udātta by its stem accent, which is set aside by "yuṣmadasmador ṇasi" [print: "yuṣmadasmador jasi," Pā. 6-1-211 [?]]: before ñas-type endings the first syllable of yuṣmad/asmad is udātta, giving initial-udātta. कृष्व (kṛṣva) — root ḍukṛñ karāṇe, loṭ ātmanepada thās → se → sva; the e replaced by va; the u-vikaraṇa ("tanādikṛñbhya uḥ," Pā. 3-1-79 [?]) is dropped by bahulaṁ chandasi; ṣatva ("ādeśapratyayayoḥ," Pā. 8-3-59 [?]); the Samhitā lengthening ("dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ," Pā. 6-3-135 [?]), kr̥ṣvā; śīt-like suffix accent; not lowered since it begins the pāda. युजः (yujah) — "sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 6-1-168 [?]): the case-ending is udātta. अन्तरम् (antaram) — belongs to the vr̥ṣādi class, so initial-udātta by "vr̥ṣādīnām ca" (Pā. 6-1-203 [?]).

॥९॥

original p. 435

Sūkta 10, Rik 10

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विद्या हि त्वा वृषन्तमं वाजेषु हवनश्रुतम् । वृषन्तमस्य हूमह ऊतिं सहस्रसातमाम् ॥१०॥ vidmā hi tvā vr̥ṣantamaṃ vājeṣu havanaśrutam |
vr̥ṣantamasya hūmaha ūtim sahasrasātamām || 10 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विद्या । हि । त्वा । वृषन्ऽतमम् । वाजेषु । हवनऽश्रुतम् ॥ वृषन्ऽतमस्य । हूमहे । ऊतिम् । सहस्रऽसातमाम् ॥१०॥
vidma | hi | tvā | vr̥ṣan-tamam | vājeṣu | havana-śrutam | |
vr̥ṣan-tamasya | hūmahe | ūtim | sahasra-sātamām || 10 ||

original p. 436

Rik 10: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, English

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र त्वां विद्या । जानीमः । कीदृशं त्वाम् । वृषन्तमं कामानामतिशयेन वर्षितारं वाजेषु संग्रामेषु हवनश्रुतम् अस्मदीयस्याह्वानस्य श्रोतारम् । वृषन्तमस्य अत्यन्तं कामादीनां वर्षितुस्तवोतिं रक्षामस्मद्विषयामुद्दिश्य हूमहे । त्वामाह्वयामः । कीदृशीमूतिम् । सहस्रसातमाम् अतिशयेन धनसहस्राणां दात्रीम् । विद्या — विदो लटो वा । पा. ३-४-८३ । इति मसो मादेशः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः । द्यव्यचोऽतस्तिङ इति संहितायां दीर्घः । वृषन्तमम् । पृषु वृषु मृषु सेचने । कनिन् युवृषितक्षिराजिधन्विद्युप्रतिदिवः । उ. १-१५६ । इति कनिन् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः ।

तमपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तः । आद्युदात्तत्वमेव शिष्यते । आयस्मयोदीनि छन्दसि । पा. १-४-२० ।
 इति भत्वेन पदत्वाभावान्नलोपाभावः । पा. ८-२-७ [?] । वाजेषु । वाजशब्दो वृषादिराद्युदात्तः
 । हवनश्रुतम् । हू इत्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलं छन्दसीति ल्युट् संप्रसारणम् । हवनं शृणोतीति क्विप्
 तुगागमः । वृषन्तमस्य । उक्तम् । हूमे । बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणम् । ऊतिम् । ऊतियूतिजूतिसातिहेतिकीर्तयश्च । पा. ३-३-९७ । इति क्तिन् उदात्तो निपातितः । सहस्रसातमाम् । सहस्रं सनोति सहस्रसाः । षण्णु दाने । जनसनखनक्रमगमो विट् । पा.
 ३-२-६७ । विड्वनोरनुनासिकस्यात् । पा. ६-४-४१ । इत्याकारादेशः ।

कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । तमपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । टाप् । अजाद्यतष्टाप् [?] ॥१०॥

*he indra tvām vidma | jānīmaḥ | kīdrśam tvām | vṛṣantamaḥ kāmānām atīsayena varṣitāram vājeṣu saṃgrāmeṣu havanaśrutam asmadīyasyāhvānasya śrotāram | vṛṣantamasya atyantam kāmādīnām varṣitus tavotiṃ rakṣām
 asmad-viśayām uddīśya hūmahe | tvām āhvayāmaḥ | kīdrśim
 ūtim | sahasrasātāmām atīsayena dhana-sahasrāṇām dātrīm
 | vidma — vido laṭo vā | pā. 3-4-83 | iti maso mādēśaḥ |
 pratyaya-svareṇāntodāttaḥ | dvyaco 'tastiṇa iti saṃhitāyām
 dīrghaḥ | vṛṣantamam | pṛṣu vṛṣu mṛṣu secane | kanin yuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanvidyupratidivaḥ | u. 1-156 | iti kanin |
 nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | tamapaḥ pittvād anudāttaḥ |
 ādyudāttatvam eva śīśyate | āyasmayodīni chandasi | pā.
 1-4-20 | iti bhatvena padatvābhāvān na-lopābhāvaḥ | pā.
 8-2-7 [?] | vājeṣu | vāja-śabdo vṛṣādir ādyudāttaḥ |
 havanaśrutam | hū ity anuvṛttau bahulaḥ chandasīti lyuṭ saṃprasāraṇam | havanaḥ śṛṇoti kvip tugāgamaḥ |
 vṛṣantamasya | uktam | hūmahe | bahulaḥ chandasīti
 saṃprasāraṇam | ūtim | ūtiyūtijūtisātihetikīrtayaś ca | pā.
 3-3-97 | iti ktin udātto nipātitaḥ | sahasrasātāmām | sahasram sanoti sahasrasāḥ | ṣaṇu dāne |
 janasanakhanakramagamo viṭ | pā. 3-2-67 | viḍvanor anunāsikasyāt | pā. 6-4-41 | ity ākārādeśaḥ | kṛd-uttara-padaprakṛti-svaratvam | tamapaḥ pittvād anudāttatvam | ṭāp |
 ajādyataṣṭāp [?] || 10 ||*

Translation: "O Indra! Tvām vidma — we know you. What kind? Vṛṣantamam — the one who rains desires to the utmost; vājeṣu — in battles; havanaśrutam — the one who hears our invocation. For the protection (ūtim) of you, the vṛṣantama — the supreme showerer of desires and the like — directed at us, hūmahe: we call you. What kind of protection? Sahasrasātāmām — that which, to the utmost, gives thousands of riches." ⁵⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | वृषन्तमम् (vṛṣantamam) — (as the bestower of desired things) the giver of rain | वाजेषु (vājeṣu) — in battles | हवनश्रुतम् (havanaśrutam) — one who hears our invocation (our cry for help) | विद्म (vidma) — we know | हि (hi) — indeed | वृषन्तमस्य (vṛṣantamasya) — of you, who rain down desires | सहस्रसातमाम् (sahasrasātāmām) — which gives in thousands of ways | ऊतिम् (ūtim) — protection (or, for our protection) | हूमहे (hūmahe) — we call (we pray for).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

54. The grammar of vidma, vṛṣantamam, havanaśrutam, hūmahe, ūtim, sahasrasātāmām follows in the Sanskrit and is noted briefly: vidma — the substitute ma for mas in the laṭ of vid (Pā. 3-4-83), with the Saṃhitā lengthening; vṛṣantamam — root vṛṣu secane with kanin (Uṇ. 1-156), initial-udātta, then tamap (unaccented since pit); no loss of n because in the Veda the stem has bha status and so is not a pada; havanaśrutam — the lyuṭ from root hve with saṃprasāraṇa, then kvip with tuk; ūtim — the ktin udātta by irregular formation; sahasrasātāmām — root ṣaṇu dāne with viṭ, the ā for the nasal, then tamap and ṭāp.) (The final sūtra reference is compressed in the scan.

O Indra! We know you as the giver of desired things and as one who hears our call in battles. Therefore, for your manifold protection, you who are the giver of rain in the form of desired things, we call upon you.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, we know you, the rainer of blessings, the hearer of our call in battles; we invoke the thousand-fold protection of you, the showerer of bounties.

original pp. 437–438

Rik 10: Special Topics and grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The sense of this rik is easy to understand. There are no special difficulties, and no words that need supplying.

"Vidma"

— the final syllable is lengthened for the convenience of the meter in the Saṃhitā.

"Vṛṣantamam," "vṛṣantamasya" — vṛṣṭi-prada, "bestower of rain"; that is, the one who gives us the rain in the form of desired ends.

"Havanaśrutam"

— one who hears our invocation, who attends to our cry.

"Sahasrasātāmām"

— the explanation of this word was already given earlier (see the R̥gveda Saṃhitā, rik 1-3-9).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵⁵

55. grammar pages 437–438, noted briefly

विद्म (vidma) — root vida jñāne ("to know") with laṭ; in the parasmaipada the first-person plural mas; śap is dropped by luk ("ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ," Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); "vido laṭo vā" (Pā. 3-4-83 [?]): for the nine parasmaipada endings of laṭ after vid the substitutes ṇal, atus, us, thal, athus, a, ṇal, va, ma are optionally given, so mas → ma, giving vidma; the Saṃhitā lengthening by "dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ" (Pā. 6-3-135 [?]), vidmā. वृषन्तमम् (vr̥ṣantamam) — root pr̥ṣu, vr̥ṣu, m̐ṣu secane; kanin by "kaninn yuvr̥ṣitakṣirājidhanvidyupratidivaḥ" (Uṇ. 1-156 [?]); the k and n of kanin are lost as it, leaving vr̥ṣ + an → vr̥ṣan; initial-udātta since nit; then tamap in the sense of excess, unaccented since pīṭ (so the initial-udātta stands); by "ayas-mayādīni chandasi" (Pā. 1-4-20 [?]) the bha status prevents the pada status, so the n is not dropped by "nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]). वा (vā) — vāja is a vr̥ṣādi word, so initial-udātta. हवनश्रुतम् (havanaśrutam) — root hveñ with lyuṭ; lyuṭ → ana; hve + ana: by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]) the saṃprasāraṇa of hve — hu — arises (the sūtra "hvaḥ saṃprasāraṇam"-type carried over by anuvṛtti); with pūrvarūpa, guṇa and av, havana; "havanaṃ śṛṇoti iti": kvip after the root śru with havana as upapada; by "hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk" (Pā. 6-1-71 [?]), tuk, giving havanaśrut; the accusative singular am gives havanaśrutam. वृषन्तमस्य (vr̥ṣantamasya) — the derivation of vr̥ṣantama was given earlier in this mantra; genitive singular. हूमाहे (hūmahe) — root hveñ spardhāyāṃ śabde ca; laṭ ātmanepada first plural mahiñ; "ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭere" (Pā. 3-4-79 [?]) gives e; śap, which is dropped by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]) carries saṃprasāraṇa; then pūrvarūpa by "saṃprasāraṇāc ca" (Pā. 6-1-108 [?]); "hali ca" (Pā. 8-2-77 [?]) lengthens the vowel of an aṅga ending in a saṃprasāraṇa before a consonant: hūmahe. ऊतिम् (ūtim) — "ūtiyūtijūtisātihetikīrtayaś ca" (Pā. 3-3-97 [?]): these ktin words are irregularly udātta on the end. सहस्रसातमाम् (sahasrasātamām) — "sahasraṃ sanoti iti sahasrasāḥ": root ṣaṇu dāne; ṣ → s (Pā. 6-1-64 [?]), ṇ → n; viṭ after jana, sana, khana, krama, gama in the Veda (Pā. 3-2-67 [?]); the nasal replaced by ā before viṭ and van (Pā. 6-4-41 [?]); savarṇa-dīrgha, sahasrasā; second-member accent; tamap is pit, so unaccented; sahasrasā keeps the accent of the earlier formation; being feminine, tamā + ṭāp ("ajādyataṣṭāp," Pā. 4-1-4 [?]); ṭāp is pit; savarṇa-dīrgha (by "antaratamaḥ" the ā in place of the two) is unaccented; accusative singular am, pūrvarūpa by "ami pūrvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-107 [?]): sahasrasātāmām.

॥१०॥

original p. 439

Sūkta 10, Rik 11

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ तू न इन्द्र कौशिक मन्दसानः सुतं पिब । नव्यमायुः प्र सू तिर कृधी सहस्रसामृषिम् ॥११॥

ā tū na indra kauśika mandasānaḥ sutaṃ piba | navyam āyuh
pra sū tira kṛdhī sahasrasām ṛṣim || 11 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । तु । नः । इन्द्र । कौशिक । मन्दसानः । सुतम् । पिब ॥ नव्यम् । आयुः । प्र । सु । तिर । कृधि । सहस्रसाम् । ऋषिम् ॥११॥

ā | tu | naḥ | indra | kauśika | mandasānaḥ | sutam | piba |
navyam | āyuh | pra | su | tira | kṛdhi | sahasra-sām | ṛṣim
|| 11 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र तु क्षिप्रं नो ऽस्मान्प्रत्या गच्छेति शेषः । हे कौशिक कुशिकस्य पुत्रेन्द्र मन्दसानो
हृष्यन्भूत्वा सुतमभिषुतं सोमं पिब । यद्यपि विश्वामित्रः कुशिकस्य पुत्रस्तथापि
तद्रूपेणेन्द्रस्यैवोच्यते [reading uncertain] । आयं वृत्तान्तो ऽनुक्रमणिकायामुक्तः [?] । कुशिकस्त्वैषीरथिरिन्द्रतुल्यं पुत्रमिच्छंस्तपश्चर्यं चकार । तस्येन्द्र एव गाथी पुत्रो जज्ञे । अनु.

ऋग्वे. ३-१ [?] । इति । हे इन्द्र नव्यं सर्वैर्देवैः स्तुत्यं कर्मानुष्ठानपरमायुर्जीवितं प्र सू तिर ।
प्रकर्षेण सुष्ठु वर्धय । ततो मां सहस्रसां सहस्रसंख्याकलाभोपेतमृषिमिन्द्रियद्वारं [?] कृधि । कुरु ॥

*he indra tu kṣipraṃ no 'smān pratyā gaccheti śeṣaḥ | he kauśika kuśikasya putrendra mandasāno hr̥ṣyan bhūtvā sutam abhiṣutaṃ somaṃ piba | yady api viśvāmitraḥ kuśikasya putras tathāpi tad-rūpeṇendrasyaivocyate [reading uncertain]
| āyaṃ vṛttānto 'nukramaṇikāyām uktaḥ [?] | kuśikas tv aiṣīrathir indra-tulyaṃ putram icchaṃs tapas-caryaṃ cakāra | tasyendra eva gāthī putro jajñe | anu. ṛgve. 3-1 [?] | iti | he indra navyaṃ sarvair devaiḥ stutyaṃ karmānuṣṭhāna-param
āyur jīvitaṃ pra sū tira | prakarṣeṇa suṣṭhu vardhaya | tato mām sahasrasām sahasra-saṃkhyā-lābhopetam ṛṣim indriyadvāraṃ [?] kṛdhi | kuru |*

Translation: "O Indra, tu — quickly — come to us (this is the word to be supplied). O kauśika — O Indra, son of Kuśika — mandasānaḥ — being glad — sutam piba: drink the pressed Soma. Although Viśvāmitra is the son of Kuśika, [the epithet is here said of Indra in that form] [the clause is compressed]. This story is told in the Anukramaṇikā [?]: 'Kuśika, the son of Iṣīratha, wishing a son equal to Indra, performed austerities; Indra himself was born to him as Gāthin' (Ṛgveda Anukramaṇī 3-1 [?]). O Indra, navyam āyuh pra sū tira: greatly, well, increase [our] navyam — praiseworthy by all gods, devoted to the performance of rites — āyuh, life. Then kṛdhi — make — mām, me, sahasrasām — endowed with gains reckoned in thousands — ṛṣim, a seer [the printed phrase after 'ṛṣim' is not clear]." ^{56 57}

original p. 440

Rik 11: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | तु (tu) — quickly | नः (naḥ) — to us (near us) | आ (gaccha) — come | (हे) कौशिक ((he) kauśika) — O Indra, son of Kuśika | ⁵⁸ मन्दसानः (mandasānaḥ) — being glad | सुतम् (sutam) — the Soma-juice, pressed and prepared | पिब (piba) — drink | नव्यम् (navyam) — [which is] requested (that is, desired) | आयुः (āyuh) — life | प्र सु तिर (pra su tira) — increase specially (for me) | सहस्रसाम् (sahasrasām) — [one who is] winning thousands of gains | ऋषिम् (ṛṣim) — a seer | कृधि (kṛdhi) — make (me).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Come quickly to us, and drink with delight this Soma-juice that we have pressed. Increase our life, and make me, an ordinary person, one who gains thousands of benefits.

॥ English Translation ॥

56. The grammar of तु, नः, इन्द्र, कौशिक, मन्दसानः, सुतम्, पिब, नव्यम्, आयुः, प्र, सु, तिर, कृधि, सहस्रसाम्, ऋषिम् follows in the Sanskrit on p. 439 and is noted briefly: the Saṃhitā lengthening of tu, su, kṛdhi; kauśika with the taddhita aṇ; mandasānaḥ — root madi stutimodamadasvapnakāntigatiṣu with sānac (Uṇ. 2-[?]) in the Veda, initial-udātta; sutam with ktā; piba — the root pā with śa and pibādeśa; navyam — root ṇu stutau with yat ("ac-o yat") and guṇa by vānto yī pratyaye (Pā. 6-1-79 [?]) to give nav, "yato 'nāvaḥ" initial-udātta; āyuh with uṇ (Uṇ. 1-[?]) from iṇ gatau; tira — root tṛ with śa (the a-type vikaraṇa); kṛdhi — root kṛ with hi → dhi, the śnu dropped; sahasrasām and ṛṣim — root ṛṣi gatau with in (Uṇ. 4-[?]).

Come quickly, Indra, son of Kusika, and drink the soma libation with delight; prolong the life which we merit and make me a Rishi abundantly endowed with thousands of benefits.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

"Tu," "su," "kṛdhi"

— the final syllables of these words in this rik are lengthened for the convenience of the meter.

"Ā" — in this rik only the prefix ā occurs; with it the verb gaccha ("come") has to be supplied. Such usages are needed in the R̥gveda.

"Kauśika"

— here Indra is addressed as the son of Kuśika. In this connection the Bhāṣyakāra cites an account from the Anukramaṇikā:

कुशिकस्त्वैषीरथिरिन्द्रतुल्यं पुत्रमिच्छन् ब्रह्मचर्यं चचार । तस्येन्द्र एव गाथी पुत्रो जज्ञे ॥ (ऋ. अनु. ३-१) kuśikas tv aiṣīrathir indra-tulyaṃ putram icchan brahmacaryaṃ cacāra | tasyendra eva gāthī putro jajñe || (ṛ. anu. 3-1) "Kuśika, the son of Iṣīratha, wishing a son equal to Indra, practised celibate austerity; Indra himself was born as his son, Gāthin."

Skandasvāmī, on this subject:

अत्र इतिहासमाचक्षते । इषीरथपुत्रः कुशिको नाम राजा पुत्रमिन्द्रतुल्यं कामयमानो ब्रह्मचर्यं चचार । तस्य गाथी नामेन्द्र एव स्वयं पुत्रो जात इति ॥ atra itihāsam ācakṣate | iṣīrathaputraḡ kuśiko nāma rājā putram indra-tulyaṃ kāmayaṃmāno brahmacaryaṃ cacāra | tasya gāthī nāmendra eva svayaṃ putro jāta iti | "Here they tell a legend: a king

57. Sūtra numbers and some phrases are compressed in the scan.

58. you

named Kuśika, son of Iṣīratha, desiring a son equal to Indra, practised celibate austerity; Indra himself was born to him as a son named Gāthin."

original p. 441

Rik 11: Special Topics (continued)

Veṅkaṭamādhava:

पुत्रमिन्द्रसमम् इच्छन् कुशिको ब्रह्मचर्यं चचार । तस्येन्द्रः स्वयमेव पुत्रो ऽभूत् । सास्य कौशिकता ॥ putram indra-samam icchan kuśiko brahmacaryaṃ cacāra | tasyendraḥ svayam eva putro 'bhūt | sāsyā kauśikatā
|| "Desiring a son equal to Indra, Kuśika practised celibate austerity; Indra himself became his son. That is his Kauśikahood."

The chief point is this: in ancient times a king named Iṣīratha had a son called Kuśika. He, desiring a son equal to Indra, practised celibate austerity. Then Indra himself was born as his son, under the name Gāthin. The sage Viśvāmitra was the son of King Gāthin; and since Madhucchandas, the seer who saw this rik, was born in the family of Viśvāmitra, he addresses Indra, born in his own family — that is, in the family of Kuśika — as "Kauśika."

"Navyam" — the Bhāṣyakāra says that the word navya is another form of the root ṇu stutau, and explains it as sarvair devaiḥ stutyam karmānuṣṭhānaparam — "that is to be praised by all gods, devoted to the performance of rites," or, as the Kannada gloss gives it, "that is wanted by all, even the gods": that is, long life, as everyone naturally desires to live long. Or, as Skandasvāmī says, if the word navyam is given the sense "new" (navam — fresh), then the sense would be: a new vitality for the words navyam āyuh — or, to bring out the underlying idea, a still greater lifespan henceforth. In sum: "make us live long; increase our life — prolong our life" [the source's own English].

"Sahasrasām"

— thousands of gains, benefits, or many kinds of desired things.

"Ṛṣim" — the root ṛṣī gatau ("to go") has the senses of motion and knowledge; so ṛṣi means one who knows, one endowed with wisdom, or — as the Bhāṣyakāra says — atīndriyadraṣṭāram [the word reads as atīndriya-draṣṭāram, "one who sees what is beyond the senses," as the print has it: "one with the power to know things that are not in the field of the outer senses"; a great person]. Here "ṛṣi" means Madhucchandās, the seer who saw this mantra. When he prays to Indra, "Give me long life, and make me an excellent seer," he uses the first-person [accusative] mām-less, third-person-style expression, instead of the first-person verb form.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵⁹

तु (tu) — in the Saṃhitā lengthened by "ṛcitunughamakṣutaṅkutroruṣyāṇām" (Pā. 6-3-133 [?]); a nipāta, initial-udātta ("nipātā ādyudāttāḥ," Phiṭ-sūtra 80 [?]). ⁶⁰

original pp. 442–443

Rik 11 grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁶¹

नः (naḥ) — nas replaces asmān by "bahuvacanasya vasnasau" (Pā. 8-1-21 [?]); unaccented as a substitute; in the Saṃhitā it becomes svarita by "udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ" (Pā. 8-4-66 [?]) after an udātta. इन्द्र (indra), कौशिक (kauśika) — vocatives, unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). मन्दसानः (mandasānaḥ) — hṛṣyan ("rejoicing"); root madi stuti-moda-mada-svapna-kānti-gatiṣu; by "ṛñji-vṛdhi-mani-saṃhibhyaḥ kit" [print: "ṛñji

59. grammar pages 441–443, noted briefly

60. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The grammar continues below.

61. grammar pages 442–443, noted briefly

vṛdhimaniṣu sahibhyaḥ kit" (Uṇ. 2-[?]) and "chandasy asānac śujyabhyām" [?] the suffix asānac is carried over, being kit; the source remarks that in the Dhātupāṭha of the bālaṃanoramā tradition the roots ṛji gatau and madī harṣe are listed, but since madī harṣe is not idit it takes no num; therefore the statement "madī in the sūtra" does not suit, and may be due to a copyist's slip [the source's own suggestion]; the suffix is cit, so final-udātta ("citaḥ," Pā. 6-1-163 [?]). सुतम् (sutam) — cta-ending; the suffix accent. नव्यम् (navyam) — root ṇu stutau; ṇ → n ("ṇo naḥ," Pā. 6-1-65 [?]); yat after a vowel-ending root ("ajo yat," Pā. 3-1-97 [?]), nu + ya; since ya is an ārdhadhātuka, guṇa ("sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ," Pā. 7-3-84 [?]), u → o; then "vānto yi pratyaye" (Pā. 6-1-79 [?]): before a y-initial suffix o and au become av and āv, so no → nav; navya; "yato 'nāvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-213 [?]) gives initial-udātta; accusative singular navyam. आयुः (āyuh) — "iṇ-nīṇ-ajibhyaḥ..." [print: "aitervṛṇṭi..." (Uṇ. 2-[?]) and "janer usiḥ" (Uṇ. 2-[?]) give usi (uṣ); the carried-over word nit from "ārtiprapavasiyajita..." gives both nit and ... for the suffix uṇ after iṇ gatau; it is ṇit and nit, so vṛddhi by "aco ṇṇiti" (Pā. 7-2-115 [?]) — i → ai; then ai → āy ("eco 'yavāyāvaḥ," Pā. 6-1-78 [?]), āyus; ru and visarga, āyuh; initial-udātta, "ñnityādir nityam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]). सु (su) — in the Saṃhitā lengthened by "nipātasya ca" (Pā. 6-3-136 [?]). तिर (tira) — root tṛ plavanataranayoḥ (bhvādi); loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śap should arise but by Vedic inversion the vikaraṇa śa arises, which is apit and so ñit-like; hence "sārvadhātukam apit" (Pā. 1-2-4 [?]) and no guṇa by "kṛiti ca" (Pā. 1-1-5 [?]); "ṛta id dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-100 [?]): i in place of the ṛ of a root ending in ṛ, which is "an iṭ substitute ... alo 'ntyasya" (Pā. 1-1-52 [?]); then "uraṇ raparaḥ" (Pā. 1-1-51 [?]): tir; hi is dropped after a stem ending in a ("ato heḥ," Pā. 6-4-105 [?]); tira. कृधि (kṛdhi) — root ḍukṛñ karaṇe, loṭ, sip, hi; the śap arising on kṛ is dropped by "bahulaṃ chandasi"; hi → dhi after śṛ, spr, kṛ, vṛ, bhr in the Veda (Pā. 6-4-102 [?]). सहस्रसाम्

(sahasrasām) — explained in the earlier mantra (Rik 10). ऋषिम् (ṛṣim) — root ṛṣī gatau; "igupadhajñāprikiraḥ kaḥ" [print: "igupadhātkit" (Uṇ. 4-[?])] and "sarvadhātubhya in" (Uṇ. 4-118 [?]): the suffix in after a root with ik in the penultimate position, which is kit, so ṛṣ + in; the suffix is kit, so no guṇa; nī, so initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); the accusative singular am with pūrvarūpa gives ṛṣim.

॥११॥

original p. 444

Sūkta 10, Rik 12 (the last)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

परि त्वा गिर्वणो गिर इमा भवन्तु विश्वतः । वृद्धायुमनु वृद्धयो जुष्टा भवन्तु जुष्टयः ॥१२॥

pari tvā girvaṇo gira imā bhavantu viśvataḥ | vṛddhāyumaṇu vṛddhayaḥ juṣṭā bhavantu juṣṭayaḥ || 12 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

परि । त्वा । गिर्वणः । गिरः । इमाः । भवन्तु । विश्वतः ॥ वृद्धआयुम् । अनु । वृद्धयः । जुष्टाः । भवन्तु । जुष्टयः ॥१२॥

pari | tvā | girvaṇaḥ | giraḥ | imāḥ | bhavantu | viśvataḥ | | vṛddha-āyumaṇu | anu | vṛddhayaḥ | juṣṭāḥ | bhavantu | juṣṭayaḥ || 12 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

प्रवर्ग्ये परि त्वेत्यभिष्टयात् । [the next phrase is compressed] खण्डे परि त्वा गिर्वणो गिरो ऽधि द्वयोरर्धर्चा उक्थ्यं वचः । आ. ४-६ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् । तथा हविर्धानप्रवर्तने सेयं परिधानीया । हविर्धानि प्रवर्तयन्तीति खण्डे परि त्वा गिर्वण इति परिदध्यात् । आ. ४-४ [?] । तथा ब्राह्मणं च । परि त्वा गिर्वणो गिर इत्युत्तममृचं परिदधाति । ऐ. ब्रा. १-२९ [?] । इति ॥

*pravargye pari tvety abhiṣṭuyāt | [phrase compressed] khaṇḍe
pari tvā girvaṇo giro 'dhi dvayor ardharcā ukthyaṃ vacaḥ | ā.
4-6 [?] | iti sūtritām | tathā havirdhāna-pravartane seyaṃ
paridhānīyā | havirdhāne pravartayantīti khaṇḍe pari tvā
girvaṇa iti paridadhyāt | ā. 4-4 [?] | tathā brāhmaṇaṃ ca |
pari tvā girvaṇo gira ity uttamām ṛcaṃ paridadhāti | ai. brā.
1-29 [?] | iti | |*

हे गिरवो ऽस्मदीयस्तुतिभाजेन्द्र विश्वतः सर्वेषु कर्मसु प्रयुज्यमाना इमा गिरो ऽस्मदीयाः
स्तुतयस्त्वां परि भवन्तु । सर्वतः प्राप्नुवन्तु । कीदृश्यो गिरः । वृद्धायुमनु प्रवृद्धेनायुषोपेतं
त्वामनुसृत्य वृद्धयो वर्धमानाः । किंच ता गिरो जुष्टाः त्वया सेविताः सत्यो जुष्टयो ऽस्माकं प्रीतिहेतवो भवन्तु ॥ गिरवणः । गीर्भिर्वन्यत इति गिरवणाः । वन षण संभक्तौ ...

*he girvaṇo 'smadīya-stuti-bhājendra viśvataḥ sarveṣu karmasu prayujyamānā imā giro 'smadīyāḥ stutayas tvāṃ pari bhavantu | sarvataḥ prāpnuvantu | kīdṛśyo giraḥ | vṛddhāyumu anu pravṛddhenāyūṣopetaṃ tvāṃ anusṛtya
vṛddhāyo vardhamānāḥ | kiṃca tā giro juṣṭāḥ tvayā sevītāḥ satyo juṣṭayo 'smākaṃ prīti-hetavo bhavantu | | girvaṇaḥ |
gīrbhir vanyata iti girvaṇāḥ | vana ṣaṇa sambhaktāu ...*

Translation: "[In the pravargya rite, one should praise with pari tvā.] It is laid down in the section [of the Āśvalāyana Sūtra] 'pari tvā girvaṇo giraḥ, adhi dvayor ardharcā ukthyaṃ vacaḥ' (Āśvalāyana 4-6 [?]). Likewise, in the setting forth of the havirdhāna cart this [rik] is to be recited as the closing verse: in the section 'havirdhāne pravartayanti' one should close with 'pari tvā girvaṇaḥ' (Āśvalāyana 4-4 [?]). And the Brāhmaṇa too says: 'one closes with the last ṛk, pari tvā girvaṇo giraḥ' (Aitareya Brāhmaṇa 1-29 [?]). ⁶² O girvaṇaḥ — O Indra, who enjoy our praises — imāḥ giraḥ, these our praises, used in all rites, viśvataḥ, tvāṃ pari bhavantu: may [they] encompass you on all sides; may they reach you everywhere. What kind of praises? Vṛddhāyumu anu — following you, who are endowed with long-lived life;

62. The Sanskrit before 'khaṇḍe' is compressed in the scan.

vṛddhayaḥ — growing. And further: may those praises, juṣṭāḥ — enjoyed (served) by you — become juṣṭayaḥ, the cause of our delight." ⁶³ ⁶⁴

original p. 445

Rik 12: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) गिर्वणः ((he) girvaṇaḥ) — O Indra, worthy of being praised by us | विश्वतः (viśvataḥ) — in all (that is, in all the rites in which we make use of them) | इमाः गिरः (imāḥ giraḥ) — these words in the form of praise | त्वा (tvā) — you | परि भवन्तु (pari bhavantu) — may they come from every side and join (you) | वृद्धायुम् (vṛddhāyum) — you who have long life | अनु (anu) — following | वृद्धयः (vṛddhayaḥ) — growing | जुष्टाः (juṣṭāḥ) — [the words] served (accepted) by you | जुष्टयः (juṣṭayaḥ) — [may they be] the means of giving us delight | भवन्तु (bhavantu) — may they be.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

63. The grammar of girvaṇaḥ, vṛddhāyum, vṛddhayaḥ, juṣṭāḥ, juṣṭayaḥ continues in the Sanskrit on this page, noted briefly: that girvaṇaḥ is "he who is served with girs," from the root vana ṣaṇa saṃbhaktau with the suffix asun, the preceding vowel lengthened by Vedic license, a vocative with initial-udātta by the stem; that viśvataḥ is formed with tasī; that vṛddhāyum is a bahuvrīhi "he whose life is grown," accented on the end of the first member by "parādiś chandasi bahulam" (Pā. 6-2-199 [?]); that vṛddhayaḥ is from vṛdhu vṛddhau with ktin; and that juṣṭāḥ is from juṣī prītisevanayoḥ with ktā, the augment iṭ barred.

64. Some of this is compressed in the scan.

O Indra, lover of praise! May these words of praise that we make come to you from every side and bring you delight. As these words give you delight, may your life-span (your strength) increase; and as these words of ours bring you delight, may they bring delight to us as well.

॥ English Translation ॥

O deserver of praise, may these our praises be on all occasions around you (accepted by you); may they increase your power, O long-lived, and being agreeable to you, may they become our enjoyments.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The sense of this rik is a long run of connected phrases; the intention is not clearly fitted together, and the seer's purpose is not made plain.

"Girvaṇaḥ" — गीर्भिर्वन्यत इति गिर्वणाः । वन षण संभक्तौ । अस्मदीयस्तुतिभाक् (gīrbhir vanyata iti girvaṇāḥ | vana ṣaṇa saṁbhaktau | asmadīya-stuti-bhāk) — "one who is served with praises; the root vana/ṣaṇa in the sense of sharing: one who partakes of our praise": that is, one who is worshipped with our words, who is praised, who is worthy of praise.

"Viśvataḥ"

— in all places, or on all occasions.

"Vṛddhāyum" — प्रवृद्धेनायुष्येणोपेतम् (pravṛddhenāyusyeṇopetam) — "endowed with increased lifespan": endowed with a life that is great or growing, one who lives for a long time. Skandasvāmī explains this word as vṛddhān śatrūn atigantāram — "one who overcomes enemies that have grown great," one who subdues enemies.

"Anu" — anusṛtya, prāpya — "following," "reaching": that is, may the hymns we make reach you; may you hear them.

Rik 12: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Vṛddhayaḥ" — vardhamānāḥ — growing; much, specially, flourishing, abundant.

"Juṣṭāḥ," "juṣṭayaḥ" — the root juṣī prītisevanayoḥ has the senses "to be fond of" and "to serve"; so these words mean "that which gives delight, that which is an object of delight."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁶⁵

गिरवणः (girvaṇaḥ) — "gīrbhir vanyate iti girvaṇāḥ": root gṛ śabde (kryādi) with kvip ("kvip ca," Pā. 3-2-76 [?]); "ṛta id dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-100 [?]) gives i in place of r, which, as an alo 'ntyasya substitute, comes at the end; root vana ṣaṇa saṃbhaktau with asun ("sarvadhātubhyo 'sun," Uṇ. 4-188 [?]); gir + bhis + vanas receive the technical name prātipadika, and by "supo dhātu-prātipadikayoḥ" (Pā. 2-4-71 [?]) bhis is dropped; by "pratyayalope pratyayalakṣaṇam" (Pā. 1-1-62 [?]) gir counts as a pada; so "vor upadhāyā dīrgha ikaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-76 [?]): the penultimate ik of a stem ending in r or v is lengthened at the end of a pada, which would lengthen the i of gir; but "sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante" (Paribhāṣā 93 [?]) makes this optional, so it does not arise; the vocative singular su is added to girvaṇas, the su dropped by "hal-nyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]); ru and visarga: girvaṇaḥ; a vocative, unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). विश्वतः (viśvataḥ) — from tasīl, which is l-marked, so the vowel before it is udātta ("liti," Pā. 6-1-193 [?]). वृद्धायुम् (vrddhāyum) — root vr̥dhu vr̥ddhau with kta; vr̥dh + ta; vr̥dh is udit, so by "udito vā" (Pā. 7-2-56 [?]) the iṭ augment before ktvā is optional (the print then discusses whether kta too takes iṭ, citing "yasya vibhāṣā" (Pā. 7-2-15 [?]): a suffix beginning kt-/ktavat does not take iṭ after a root to which iṭ is optional); so the iṭ that "ārdhahātukasyeḍ valādeḥ" (Pā. 7-2-35 [?]) would give is barred; vṛdh + ta → by "jhaṣas tathor dho 'dhaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-40 [?]) t → dh after a jhaṣ; then dh + dh → ddh by "jhalāṃ jaś jhaśi" (Pā. 8-4-53 [?]): vṛddha; the root iṇ gatau, with uṇ in the Veda ("chandasīṇaḥ," Uṇ. 1-2 [?]), uṇ being ṇit, so vṛddhi ("aco ṇṇiti," Pā. 7-2-115 [?]) gives ai + u, then "eco 'yavāyāvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-78 [?]) gives āy + u → āyu; vṛddham āyur yasya saḥ: vṛddhāyuh, a bahuvrīhi, with the first member's accent ("bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]); accusative singular vṛddhāyum. वृद्धयः (vṛddhayah) — ktin ("striyāṃ ktin," Pā. 3-3-94 [?]) after vṛdh; the iṭ augment does not arise by "titutratathasisusarakaseṣu ca" (Pā. 7-2-9 [?]); th → dh and j-type changes as before: vṛddhi; initial-udātta by "ñnityādir nityam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); nominative plural vṛddhayaḥ. जुष्टाः (juṣṭāḥ) — root juṣī prītisevanayoḥ, idit; kta; "śvīditaḥ niṣṭhāyām" (Pā. 7-2-14 [?]): after śvi and idit roots, niṣṭhā does not take iṭ, so kta has no augment; the suffix accent would arise but is set aside by "niṣṭhā ca ... nityaṃ mantre" (Pā. 6-1-210 [?]), and juṣṭa and arpita are, by the previous sūtra's carried-over words "juṣṭārpita ca chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-209 [?]), always initial-udātta in the mantra. जुष्टयः (juṣṭayaḥ) — root juṣī prītisevanayoḥ, ktin; the augment iṭ barred by Pā. 7-2-9 [?]; "ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]) turns t → ṭ: juṣṭi; initial-udātta by the suffix accent; nominative plural juṣṭayaḥ.

65. grammar pages 446–447, noted briefly

॥१२॥

original p. 447

Close of Sūkta 10

॥ इति दशमं सूक्तं समाप्तम् ॥ iti daśamaṃ sūktaṃ samāptam | "Thus the tenth sūkta is completed."

Kannada colophon:

ಇಲ್ಲಿಗೆ ಪ್ರಥಮಮಂಡಲದಲ್ಲಿ ಹತ್ತನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ಮುಗಿದುದು । "Here the tenth sūkta in the first maṇḍala is concluded."

original p. 448

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ ಹನ್ನೊಂದನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 11 — "indram viśvā avīvr̥dhan" ("The Eleventh Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

इन्द्रं विश्वा इत्यृचस्य [reading of this word uncertain] सूक्तस्य मधुच्छन्दसः
पुत्रो जेतैनामक ऋषिः । तथा चानुक्रान्तम् । इन्द्रमष्टौ जेता माधुच्छन्दस इति ।
छन्दस्त्वानुष्टुभमिति पूर्वसूत्रोक्तम् । इन्द्रो देवतानुवर्तते ॥ विनियोगस्तु । महाव्रते निष्केवल्ये
कृत्स्नसूक्तं [?] शंसनीयम् । ऊरू इति खण्डे शौनकेन सूत्रितम् । इन्द्रं विश्वा
अवीवृधन्नित्यानुष्टुभं तस्य प्रथमायाः पूर्वमर्धर्चं शस्त्रोत्तरेणार्धर्चनोत्तरस्याः पूर्वमर्धर्चं
व्यतिषजति पादैः पादानानुष्टुप्कारम् [?] । प्रागुत्तमायाः । ऐ. आ. ३-१-१ [?] । इति । ब्राह्मणं
च प्रथमारण्यके पङ्क्तेः प्र वो मह इति खण्डे । इन्द्रं विश्वा अवीवृधन्निति पदानुषङ्गः । ऐ.
आ. १-५-२ [?] । इति । तथा पृष्ठ्यस्य पञ्चमे ऽहनि निष्केवल्ये शस्त्र इन्द्रं विश्वा
अवीवृधन्नित्यनुरूपस्तृचः । स्तोमो वर्धमान इति खण्डे सूत्रितम् । उप नो हरिभिः सुतमिन्द्रं विश्वा अवीवृधन् । आ. ६-१२ [?] । इति ॥

*indram viśvā ity-ṛcasya [reading uncertain] sūktasya
madhucchandasah putro jetaināmaka ṛṣiḥ | tathā cānukrāntam | indram aṣṭau jetā mādhuucchandasa iti |
chandastvānuṣṭubham iti pūrvasūtroktam | indro
devatānuvartate | | viniyogas tu | mahāvrate niṣkevalye
kṛtsna-sūktaṃ [?] śaṃsanīyam | ūrū iti khaṇḍe śaunakena sūtritam | indram viśvā avīvr̥dhann ity ānuṣṭubhaṃ tasya prathamāyāḥ pūrvam ardharcaṃ*

śastrottareṇārdharcenottarasyaḥ pūrvam ardharcaṃ
 vyatiśajati pādyaiḥ pādānānuṣṭupkāram [?] | prāguttamāyāḥ
 | ai. ā. 3-1-1 [?] | iti | brāhmaṇaṃ ca prathamāraṇyake pañkteḥ pra vo maha iti khaṇḍe | indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhann iti
 padānuṣaṅgaḥ | ai. ā. 1-5-2 [?] | iti | tathā pr̥ṣṭhyasya pañcame 'hani niṣkevalye śāstra indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhann ity anurūpas tṛcaḥ | stomo vardhamāna iti khaṇḍe sūtritam |
 upa no haribhiḥ sutam indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhan | ā. 6-12 [?] |
 iti ||

Translation: "The ṛṣi of the sūkta beginning indraṃ viśvā is Jetā, son of Madhucchandasaḥ. So the Anukramaṇī says: 'indram aṣṭau jetā mādhucchandasaḥ' — indram [is the sūkta of] eight [riks; see the note below], seer Jetā, son of Madhucchandasaḥ. That the meter is Anuṣṭubh was stated in the preceding sūtra. The deity, Indra, continues. Its application: in the Mahāvrata, in the niṣkevalya [śāstra], the whole sūkta [reading uncertain] is to be recited; Śaunaka lays this down in the section ūrū: 'indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhan — Anuṣṭubh; of it, the first half of the first rik is joined with the first half of the next, with the half-rik that follows in the śāstra, [the rest of the sentence on the pāda-wise interchange is hard to read]' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 3-1-1 [?]). And the Brāhmaṇa, in the first Āraṇyaka, in the section pra vo mahe on the pañkti: 'the words indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhan are to be appended' (Aitareya Āraṇyaka 1-5-2 [?]). Again, on the fifth day of the Pr̥ṣṭhya rite, in the niṣkevalya śāstra, the triplet indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhan is the anurūpa: in the section stomo vardhamānaḥ it is laid down: 'upa no haribhiḥ sutam; indraṃ viśvā avīvr̥dhan' (Āśvalāyana 6-12 [?])."

1

|| Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) || The ṛṣi of the sūkta indraṃ viśvā is Jetā, son of the sage Madhucchandasaḥ. The Anukramaṇikā too says "indram aṣṭau jetā mādhucchandasaḥ" — that is, "of the [eight] riks indraṃ viśvā, the ṛṣi is Jetā, son of Madhucchandasa." The meter, Anuṣṭubh, was stated earlier. The deity is Indra. Application: in the sacrifice called Mahāvṛata, when reciting the mantras of the niṣkevalya-śāstra, this whole sūkta is to be recited; Śaunaka says so in the section ūrū of the Śrauta-sūtra, and the Aitareya Āraṇyaka (3-1-1 [?]) gives the order of application of this sūkta, and the Brāhmaṇa-portion that explains it is in the same Āraṇyaka (1-5-2 [?]) in the section pra vo mahe. And on the fifth day of the Prṣṭhya sacrifice, when reciting the niṣkevalya-śāstra, the three riks beginning indraṃ viśvā avīṛdhan are to be used for the stomāvāpa; Āśvalāyana's Śrauta-sūtra says so in the sūtra upa no haribhiḥ sutam indraṃ viśvā avīṛdhan.

original p. 449

Sūkta 11, Rik 1

॥ Sūkta — 11 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 3 ॥ Sūkta — 11 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 21 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras contained in this sūkta: 8 ॥ ³ ॥ Ṛṣi — Jetā Mādhucchandasa ॥ ॥ Devatā — Indra ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Anuṣṭubh ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रं विश्वा अवीवृधन्समुद्रव्यचसं गिरः । रथीतमं रथीनां वाजानां सत्पतिं पतिम् ॥१॥ indraṃ viśvā avīṛdhan samudravyacasam girah |

rathītamaṃ rathīnāṃ vājānāṃ satpatiṃ patim | 1 |

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

1. The first words of the printed Sanskrit, as I read them, run indraṃ viśvā ity-ṛcasya; the Anukramaṇī count aṣṭau — eight — agrees with the sūkta's eight riks.

2. a single numeral, read at 300 dpi as "21"; the earlier headings gave two numerals each, so this is a change of pattern — unreconciled

3. first read as "9" from the small numeral; corrected after the sūkta turned out to end at Rik 8, as the Anukramaṇī's aṣṭau also says

इन्द्रम् । विश्वाः । अवीवृधन् । समुद्रव्यचसम् । गिरः ॥ रथितमम् । रथीनाम् । वाजानाम् । सत्पतिम् । पतिम् ॥१॥

indram | viśvāḥ | avīvr̥dhan | samudra-vyacasam | girah̥ ||
rathi-tamam | rathīnām | vājānām | sat-patim | patim || 1 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

विश्वाः सर्वा गिरो ऽस्मदीयाः स्तुतय इन्द्रमवीवृधन् । वर्धितवत्यः । कीदृशमिन्द्रम् ।
समुद्रव्यचसं समुद्रवद्व्याप्तवन्तं रथीनां रथयुक्तानां योद्धृणां मध्ये रथीतमम् अतिशयेन रथयुक्तं वाजानामन्नानां पतिं स्वामिनं सत्पतिं सतां सन्मार्गवर्तिनां पालकम् ॥

viśvāḥ sarvā giro 'smadīyāḥ stutaya indram avīvr̥dhan |
vardhitavatyah̥ | kīdṛśam indram | samudravyacasam samudravad vyāptavantam rathīnām rathayuktānām yoddhṛṇām madhye rathītamam atīśayena rathayuktam vājānām annānām patim svāminam satpatim satām
sanmārga-vartinām pālakam ||

Translation: "All (viśvāḥ) our praises (girah̥) have magnified (avīvr̥dhan) Indra. What kind of Indra? Samudravyacasam — pervading like the ocean; rathītamam — among rathīs, warriors who fight from chariots, the one most endowed with chariots; vājānām patim — lord of foods; satpatim — protector of the good, of those who follow the right path." ⁴

original p. 450

4. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 449–450 — on viśvāḥ, avīvr̥dhan, samudravyacasam, rathītamam, rathīnām, vājānām, satpatim, patim — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below. In outline: viśvāḥ from viśa with kvan; avīvr̥dhan a Vedic ṇic-aorist (caṇ) with reduplication, with the augment aṭ and the loss of i by Pā. 6-4-51 [?]; samudravyacasam from vyaca with asun, a bahuvrīhi that keeps the first member's accent; rathītamam from rathī + tamap with lengthening; satpatim with Pā. 6-2-18 [?].

Rik 1: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

विश्वाः (viśvāḥ) — all | गिरः (giraḥ) — the words in the form of praise that we make | समुद्रव्यचसम् (samudravyacasam) — pervading like the ocean | रथीनाम् (rathinām) — among the warriors who fight from chariots (in battle) | रथीतमम् (rathītamam) — [the one] exceedingly endowed with a chariot | वाजानाम् (vājānām) — of food and other nourishment | पतिम् (patim) — the lord | सत्पतिम् (satpatim) — the protector of good people | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | अवीवृधन् (avīṛdhan) — have praised (made grow).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra pervades everything as the ocean does; among warriors who fight seated in chariots he is by far the best; he is the lord of foods and other nourishment; he is the protector of the good. All the words of praise that we utter praise such an Indra.

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁵

All our praises have glorified Indra who is as great as the ocean, who is the best charioteer of all charioteers, the lord of food, the protector of the virtuous.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Avīṛdhan" — the root vr̥dh is generally used in the Ṛgveda in the sense of "praise" (stuti). In this rik, giraḥ indraṃ avīṛdhan means "our words praise Indra, extol him."

"Samudravyacasam"

5. as printed in the source

— "pervading like the ocean." This comparison is not exactly apt, for the ocean does not pervade everywhere. But since the ocean is very wide and unfathomable, the seer may have given the ocean comparison with just this idea in mind.

original p. 451

Rik 1: Special Topics (continued) and grammar begins

"Rathitamam," "rathinām" — such doubled expressions are numerous in the Ṛgveda: vasor indraṃ vasupatim; somapā somapītaye; and many other examples can be given. These words mean "excellent among charioteers."

"Satpatim" — सतां पतिं पालकम् (satāṃ patim pālakam) — "the protector, the guardian, of the good": that is the sense.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁶

विश्वाः (viśvāḥ) — root viśa praveśane; kvan by "aśūpruṣīlīṭikaṇikhaṭivisibhyaḥ kvan" (Uṇ. 1-149 [?]); nit, so initial-udātta. अविवृधन् (avivṛdhan) — root vṛdhu vardhane with ṇic ("hetumati ca," Pā. 3-1-26 [?]); from the ṇic-ending root, luṇ; third plural jhi → jh → an ("jho 'ntaḥ" / "ñitaś ca" [print: "jhonta" / "ṛ"], Pā. 7-1-3 [?]); cli → caṇ by "ṇisri-dru-srubhyaḥ kartari caṇ" (Pā. 3-1-48 [?]); doubling (Pā. 6-1-11 [?]); "ur ṛt" (Pā. 7-4-66 [?]) turns the r of the reduplicate into a with r; "halādiḥ śeṣaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-60 [?]) leaves the first consonant; the penultimate r of the root would take guṇa by "puganta-laghūpadhasya ca" (Pā. 7-3-86 [?]), but "nityaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 7-4-8 [?]) and "ur ṛt" (Pā. 7-4-7 [?]) are carried over so that, in the Veda, the r before the caṇ-ending is always r-form, whence no guṇa; "sanvallahuni caṇpare 'nagloupe" (Pā. 7-4-93 [?]) gives san-like doubling, so the reduplicate's a becomes i ("sanyataḥ," Pā. 7-4-79 [?]), and is lengthened ("dīrgho laghoḥ," Pā. 7-4-94 [?]); the augment aṭ (udātta; "luṇlaṇṇṛṇkṣv aṭudāttaḥ," Pā. 6-4-71 [?]); the i of ṇic

6. grammar pages 451–453, noted briefly

dropped by "ṇer aniṭi" (Pā. 6-4-51 [?]); guṇa/pararūpa: avīvr̥dhan; wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) — though the source notes the first verb of the sentence. समुद्रव्यचसम् (samudravyacasam) — root vyaca vyājīkaraṇe ("to deceive/to pervade") + asun ("sarvadhātubhyo 'sun," Uṇ. 4-188 [?]); "vyaceḥ kuṭādittvam anasi" (Kāśikā-vārttika [?]) — vyac is treated as belonging to the kuṭādi class before asun (so no saṃprasāraṇa, which "vyaci..." would give).^{7 8}

original pp. 452–453

Rik 1 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥⁹

Closing samudravyacasam: the root vyaca is kuṭādi only when asun follows, so by "gāṅkuṭādibhyo 'ñṇin ñit" (Pā. 1-2-1 [?]) the asun suffix is ñit-like and no guṇa arises; and "grahijyā-vayivyadhi-vaṣṭi-vicati-vṛścati-prcchati-bhr̥jjatināṃ ñiti ca" (Pā. 6-1-16 [?]) saṃprasāraṇa before a kit/ñit suffix is not applied here; the bahuvr̥hi "samudra iva vyaco yasya saḥ" keeps the first member's accent ("bahuvr̥ihau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]). रथीतमम् (rathītamam) — "ratho 'sya asti": ini by "ata iniṭhanau" (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]); a of ratha dropped by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); tamap by "atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau" (Pā. 5-3-55 [?]), unaccented (pit); n retained or dropped by "nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]) — the source argues that, since the word has pada status by pratyayalakṣaṇa, the n is dropped; the i is lengthened in the Veda (rathītama); ini is final-udātta by the suffix accent. रथीनाम् (rathīnām) — genitive plural ām after rathin; Vedic lengthening of the i; ām is sup and so unaccented; then svarita by Pā. 8-4-66 [?]. वाजानाम् (vājānām) — vāja belongs to the vṛṣādi group, so initial-udātta (Pā. 6-1-203 [?]). सत्यतिम्

7. The grammar continues on pp. 452–453.

8. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

9. grammar page, noted briefly

(satpatim) — pati in the sense of lordship keeps the first member's accent ("patyāv aiśvarye," Pā. 6-2-18 [?]); sat is from the root as bhuvi with laṭ, śatr; śap dropped (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); the a of as dropped ("śnasor allopaḥ," Pā. 6-4-111 [?]); final-udātta by the suffix; "satām patih satpatih," a genitive tatpuruṣa.

॥१॥

original p. 453

Sūkta 11, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सख्ये त इन्द्र वाजिनो मा भेम शवसस्पते । त्वामभि प्र णोनुमो जेतारमपराजितम् ॥२॥

*sakhye ta indra vājino mā bhema śavasas pate | tvām abhi pra
ṇonumo jetāram aparājitam || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सख्ये । ते । इन्द्र । वाजिनः । मा । भेम । शवसः । पते ॥ त्वाम् । अभि । प्र । नोनुमः । जेतारम् । अपराऽजितम् ॥२॥

*sakhye | te | indra | vājinaḥ | mā | bhema | śavasasḥ | pate
|| tvām | abhi | pra | nonumaḥ | jetāram | aparā-jitam ||
2 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शवसस्पते बलस्य पालकेन्द्र ते तव सख्ये ऽनुग्रहप्रयुक्ते सखित्वे वर्तमाना वयं वाजिनो
ऽन्नवन्तो भूत्वा मा भेम । शत्रुभ्यो भीतिं मा प्राप्नुम । आशास्महे [?] उभयहेतुमभि प्र
णोनुमः । सर्वतः प्रकर्षेण स्तुमः । कीदृशं त्वाम् । जेतारं युद्धेषु जयशीलमपराजितं क्वापि
पराजयरहितम् ॥ सख्ये । सख्युः कर्मा सख्यम् । सख्युर्यः । पा. ४-१-१२६ । प्रत्ययस्वरः । वाजिनः । वाजो ऽन्नमेषामस्तीति वाजिनः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । भेम । जिभी भये । लुङ्लुङ् [sic:
liṅ — the source reads loṭ-type] मस् । नित्यं डितः । पा. ३-४-९९ । इति सलोपः । बहुलं छन्दसीति च्छेर्लुक् । छन्दस्युभयथेति तिङ ... [grammar compressed]. शवसस्पते । शवसः षष्ठ्याः पतिपुत्रपृष्ठपारपदपयस्पोषेषु । पा. ८-३-५३

। इति विसर्जनीयस्य सत्वम् । सुबामन्त्रितपराङ्गवद्भावेन । पा. २-१-२ । पदद्वयनिघातः । णोनुमः । णु स्तुतौ । ... [grammar compressed]. जेतारम् । जि जये । ...
 अपराजितम् । अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन नञ उदात्तत्वम् ॥ *he śavasas-pate balasya pālakendra te tava sakhye 'nugrahaprayukte sakhitve vartamānā vyaṃ vājino 'nnavanto bhūtvā mā bhema | śatrubhyo bhītiṃ mā prāpnuma | āśāmahe [?]

 ubhaya-hetum abhi pra ṇonumaḥ | sarvataḥ prakarṣeṇa
 stumaḥ | kīḍṣaṃ tvām | jetāraṃ yuddheṣu jaya-śīlam
 aparājitaṃ kvāpi parājaya-rahitaṃ || sakhye | sakhyuḥ
 karmā sakhyam | sakhyur yaḥ | pā. 4-1-126 | pratyaya-svaraḥ
 | vājinaḥ | vājo 'nnaṃ eṣāṃ astīti vājinaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ |
 bhema | űibhī bhaye | ... śavasaspate | śavasasḥ ṣaṣṭhyāḥ
 patiputra-prṣṭha-pāra-pada-payas-poṣeṣu | pā. 8-3-53 | iti visarjanīyasya satvam | ... ṇonumaḥ | ṇu stutau | ... jetāraṃ |
 ji jaye | ... aparājitaṃ | avyaya-pūrva-pada-prakṛti-svaratvena
 nañ udāttatvam ||*

Translation: "O śavasaspate, O Indra, protector of strength! We, abiding in your sakhya — friendship, born of your grace — being vājinaḥ, possessed of food, mā bhema: let us not be afraid; let us not come to fear of enemies. Tvām abhi pra ṇonumaḥ: we praise you everywhere and exceedingly. What kind of you? Jetāraṃ — victorious in battles; aparājitaṃ — never defeated anywhere." ¹⁰

11

original p. 454

10. Grammar noted briefly: that sakhya takes yat (Pā. 4-1-126 [?]) and the suffix accent; vājinaḥ "those who have food" with ini; bhema — the root űibhī bhaye in the optative-type form with the s of mas dropped by Pā. 3-4-99 [?], the vikaraṇa dropped by Vedic license; śavasaspate — the visarga becomes s before pati by Pā. 8-3-53 [?]; ṇonumaḥ — the intensive of ṇu stutau with the retroflex ṇ of the initial and the lopped yañ ; and aparājitaṃ with nañ taking the first-member accent.

11. Several grammar phrases are compressed in the scan; the sense is not affected.

Rik 2: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) शवसस्पते ((he) śavasaspate) — O Indra, lord of strength and capacity (that is, O one of great strength) | ते (te) — your | सख्ये (sakhye) — in friendship that is joined with favour (we who abide) | वाजिनः (vājinaḥ) — being possessed of food and other nourishment | मा भेम (mā bhema) — we do not fear (enemies); ¹² | जेतारम् (jetāram) — who conquers in battles | अपराजितम् (aparājitam) — never defeated | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | अभि प्र णोनुमः (abhi pra ṇonumaḥ) — we praise in all places, specially.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You are the lord of strength and capacity — that is, of great might. Because we are in friendship with you, we do not lack food and other nourishment, and so we need not fear enemies on any account. And you are ever victorious in battle; there is no such thing as defeat for you. We praise you, such as you are, specially.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, lord of strength, supported by your friendship, we have no fear but glorify you the conqueror and the unconquered.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Sakhye" — अनुग्राहकयुक्ते सखित्वे (anugrahaka-yukte sakhitve) — "in friendship joined with favour": the state of friendship that is accompanied by [your] graciousness — your protection. Since you are in friendship with us, we have no fear of enemies; there is no

12. for that very reason

lack of food and the like; you are the one who is victorious in battle and never defeated; so we praise you. That is the chief idea. In this rik there are no difficult words and no strained connections of meaning.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹³

सख्ये (sakhye) — after sakhi, yat in the sense of "act of a friend" by "sakhyur yaḥ" (Pā. 4-1-126 [?]) — [the source's own sūtra reading is "sakhyuḥ karmaṇi yat" (Pā. 5-1-126 [?])]; the i dropped by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); the suffix accent puts the udātta on ya. वाजिनः (vājinaḥ) — vāja means food; "vājo 'eṣām asti": ini (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]); the a dropped; the suffix accent. ¹⁴

original pp. 455–456

Rik 2 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁵

भेम (bhema) — root ñibhī bhaye; luṇ-type form with the first-person plural mas; s of mas dropped by "nityaṃ ñitaḥ" (Pā. 3-4-99 [?]); the cli that arises by Pā. 3-1-43 [?] is dropped by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); ma has ārdhadhātuka status too in the Veda ("chandasy ubhayathā," Pā. 3-4-117 [?]), so it is not ñit by "sārvadhātukam apit" (Pā. 1-2-4 [?]) and "kñiti ca" (Pā. 1-1-5 [?]) does not bar guṇa; "sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ" (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]) gives guṇa, bhema; with mā the augment aṭ is barred ("na mānyoge," Pā. 6-4-74 [?]). शवसस्पते (śavasaspate) — śavas ends in s; genitive singular ñas; ru and visarga; by "ṣaṣṭhyāḥ patiputrapṛṣṭhapārapadapayaspoṣeṣu" (Pā. 8-3-53 [?]) the genitive visarga becomes s before pati etc., giving śavasaspate; pate is a vocative; since a vocative is preceded by śavasah, "subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare" (Pā. 2-1-2 [?]) treats the preceding word as part

13. grammar pages 454–456, noted briefly

14. The grammar continues on p. 455.

15. grammar pages, noted briefly

of the vocative, so both are unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). णोनुमः (ṇonumah) — root ṇu stutau; ṇ → n ("ṇo naḥ," Pā. 6-1-65 [?]); yañ by "dhātor ekāco halādeḥ kriyāsamabhihāre yañ" (Pā. 3-1-22 [?]); yañ dropped by "yaño 'ci ca" (Pā. 2-4-74 [?]) yet counted by pratyayalakṣaṇa; doubling (Pā. 6-1-9 [?]); guṇa of the reduplicate by "guṇo yañluṇoḥ" (Pā. 7-4-82 [?]), giving nonu; the verb takes the adādi pattern ("carkarītaṃ parasmaipadam"), so śap is dropped (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); laṭ first plural mas; since pra stands before it, ṇatva of the initial n follows "upasargād asamāse 'pi ṇopadeśasya" (Pā. 8-4-14 [?]) — a root whose n is ṇopadeśa ("having ṇ in the upadeśa") takes ṇ after an upasarga containing r, even without a compound. जेतारम् (jetāram) — root ji jaye + trṇ (Pā. 3-2-135 [?], habitual agent); guṇa (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); initial-udātta by "ñnityādir nityam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); in the accusative singular, am after tr takes guṇa of the r by "ṛto ñi sarvanāmasthānayoḥ" (Pā. 7-3-110 [?]) with uraṇ raparaḥ; the vowel lengthened by "apṛkta..." (Pā. 6-4-11 [?]) before the sarvanāmasthāna suffix. अपराजितम् (aparājitam) — "na parājitaḥ": nañ + parājita; the n of nañ is dropped (Pā. 6-3-73 [?]); "tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtiyā..." (Pā. 6-2-2 [?]) gives the first member's accent: the a is initial-udātta.

॥२॥

original p. 456

Sūkta 11, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

पूर्वीरिन्द्रस्य रातयो न वि दस्यन्त्यूतयः । यदी वाजस्य गोमतः स्तोतृभ्यो मंहते मघम् ॥३॥

pūrvīr indrasya rātayo na vi dasyanty ūtayaḥ | yadī vājasya gomataḥ stotṛbhyo maṃhate magham || 3 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁶

पूर्वीः । इन्द्रस्य । रातयः । न । वि । दस्यन्ति । ऊतयः ॥ यदि । वाजस्य । गोऽमतः । स्तोतृभ्यः । मंहते । मघम् ॥३॥

pūrvīḥ | indrasya | rātayaḥ | na | vi | dasyanti | ūtayaḥ | |
yadi | vājasya | go-mataḥ | stotr-bhyaḥ | maṁhate | magham
| | 3 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्रस्य सम्बन्धिन्यो रातयो धनदानानि पूर्वोरनादिकालसिद्धाः प्रभूता वा । अस्मदीयेन्द्रस्य सर्वदा यज्ञेभ्यो धनदानमेव स्वभाव इत्यर्थः । एवं सतीदानीन्तनो ऽपि यजमानः स्तोतृभ्य ऋत्विग्भ्यो गोमतो गोसहितस्य वाजस्यान्नस्य पर्याप्तं मघं धनं यदि मंहते दक्षिणारूपेण ददाति तदानीमूतयो बहुधनदानपूर्वकाणीन्द्रस्यास्मद्विषयाणि रक्षणानि न वि दस्यन्ति । विशेषेण नोपक्षीयन्ते । मघं रेक्ण इत्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु धननामसु मघशब्दः पठितः । दाति दाशतीत्यादिषु दशसु दानकर्मसु मंहत इति पठितम् ॥ indrasya sambandhinyo rātayo dhana-dānāni pūrvīr anādi-kāla-siddhāḥ prabhūtā vā | asmadyendrasya sarvadā

yajñebhyo dhana-dānam eva svabhāva ity arthaḥ | evaṁ satīdānīntano 'pi yajamānaḥ stotr̥bhya ṛtvigbhyo gomato go-sahitasya vājasyānnasya paryāptaṁ magham dhanaṁ yadi maṁhate dakṣiṇā-rūpeṇa dadāti tadānīm ūtayo bahu-dhanadāna-pūrvakāṇīndrasyāsmad-viśayāṇi rakṣaṇāni na vi dasyanti | viśeṣeṇa nopakṣīyante | magham rekṇa ity-ādiṣv aṣṭāviṁśati-saṁkhyākeṣu dhana-nāmasu maghaśabdaḥ paṭhitaḥ | dāti dāsatīty-ādiṣu daśasu dāna-karmasu maṁhata
iti paṭhitam | |

Translation: "The rātayaḥ — gifts of wealth — of Indra are pūrvīḥ: established from beginningless time, or abundant. The sense: to give wealth to those who sacrifice is Indra's very nature, always. This being so, if even the present-day sacrificer gives to the stotr̥s, the priests, as sacrificial fee, magham — sufficient wealth — of vāja, food, accompanied by cows, then Indra's ūtayaḥ

16. The Saṁhitā prints यदी with a long final vowel; the Pada prints यदि.

— protections, preceded by many gifts of wealth — directed to us na vi dasyanti, are not specially diminished. Among the twenty-eight words for 'wealth' beginning with magham and rekṇaḥ, magha is read; among the ten words for acts of giving beginning with dāti, dāśati, maṃhate is read." ¹⁷

original p. 457

Rik 3: word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

स्तोत्रभ्यः (stotr̥bhyaḥ) — ¹⁸ to the priests who praise Indra | गोमतः (gomataḥ) — accompanied by cows | वाजस्य (vājasya) — in return for food | मघम् (magham) — wealth | यदि मंहते (yadi maṃhate) — if he gives, at the time when he gives as the sacrificial fee | इन्द्रस्य (indrasya) — of Indra | रातयः (rātayaḥ) — gifts of wealth and the like | ऊतयः (ūtayaḥ) — protections | पूर्वीः (pūrvīḥ) — [those] that have been from ancient times | न वि दस्यन्ति (na vi dasyanti) — do not diminish.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

When the sacrificer who performs the sacrifice gives to the priests who praise Indra cows, food and wealth as the sacrificial fee, then Indra, who earlier gave him wealth and the like and protected him in battle, does not diminish in the least the giving of wealth and protection now.

॥ English Translation ॥

17. The Sanskrit grammar of the rest of this page and p. 457 — on pūrvīḥ, rātayaḥ, dasyanti, ūtayaḥ, yadi, gomataḥ, stotr̥bhyaḥ, maṃhate, magham — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

18. the sacrificer

The former liberalities of Indra and his protection will not be wanting to him who presents wealth, food, and cattle to the reciters of the hymns.

original p. 458

Rik 3: Special Topics and grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The sense of this rik is somewhat strained. To the sacrificer who performs the sacrifice, Indra has many times given wealth and the like, and protection in battle. Even so, when that sacrificer gives wealth, food, cows and the like to the priests who praise Indra, Indra will again give that sacrificer food and other nourishment, wealth and protection. What he gave before he gives again now, and there is no diminution at all: that is the idea.

"Pūrvīḥ" — this word may be given the sense pūrvasya sambandhinyaḥ — "those connected with former times," "of former relation" — or puru = many; pūrvyaḥ = "many": abundant, plentiful, much.

"Rātayaḥ" — rāti is read among the ten words for acts of giving beginning with dāti (Nirukta 3-20 [?]); so rātayaḥ may be given the senses "gifts, bestowal, giving."

"Na vi dasyanti" — nopakṣīyante: they are not exhausted, they do not diminish.

"Maṇhate" — maṇhate is read among the ten words for the act of giving beginning with dāti; so it means "gives" (Nirukta 3-20).

"Magham" — magha is read among the twenty-eight words for wealth beginning with magham, rekṇaḥ; so magha means wealth (Nirukta 2-9).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁹

पूर्वी: (pūrvīḥ) — after puru (adjective), "voto guṇavacanāt" (Pā. 4-1-44 [?]): after a quality-word ending in u the feminine suffix ñiṣ is optional, so ñiṣ arises; the first u is lengthened in the Veda; the second u is replaced by v ("iko yaṇaci," Pā. 6-1-77 [?]): pūrvī; then the nominative plural jas, giving pūrvī + as; pūrvasavarṇadīrgha ("prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ," Pā. 6-1-102 [?]) is barred by "dīrghājasi ca" (Pā. 6-1-105 [?]): after a long vowel, if jas or iṭ is followed by a vowel ac, no pūrvasavarṇa-lengthening applies; yet "vā chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-106 [?]) makes the pūrvasavarṇa lengthening optional in the Veda, so the pūrvasavarṇa lengthening arises; with ru and visarga the form is pūrvīḥ; the ñiṣ suffix is final-udātta by the suffix accent.

original p. 459

Rik 3 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

रतयः (rātayaḥ) — a ktin-ending word; by "mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ" (Pā. 3-3-96 [?]) the ktin suffix is udātta in the mantra. दस्यन्ति (dasyanti) — root dasu upakṣaye ("to waste away"); laṭ third plural jhi, jh → ant; śyan by "divādiḥbhyaḥ śyan" (Pā. 3-1-69 [?]); unaccented by "tiñ atinaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). ऊतयः (ūtayaḥ) — the ktin is udātta by irregular formation, "ūtiyūtijūtisātihetikīrtayaś ca" (Pā. 3-3-97 [?]). यदि (yadi) — a nipāta, initial-udātta ("nipātā ādyudāttaḥ," Phiṭ-sūtra 80 [?]); in the Saṃhitā lengthened by "nipātasya ca" (Pā. 6-3-136 [?]), yadī. स्तोत्रभ्यः (stotr̥bhyaḥ) — root ṣtuñ stutau; ṣ → s by "dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ" (Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); tr̥c by "nvul-tr̥cau" (Pā. 3-1-133 [?]); the suffix is cit, so final-udātta ("citaḥ," Pā. 6-1-163 [?]); dative plural bhyas. मंहते (maṃhate) — root mahi vṛddhau (idit), so num ("idito num dhātoḥ," Pā. 7-1-58 [?]); laṭ ātmanepada third singular ta; "ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ṭere" (Pā. 3-4-79 [?]) gives e; śap; "naścāpadāntasya jhali" (Pā. 8-3-24 [?]) turns the n of num into anusvāra: maṃhate; śap is pit and unaccented; te is unaccented ("tāsyānūdātenñīdadupadeśāt...", Pā. 6-1-186 [?]); the root accent stands; by "nipātail yad yadīty-..." (Pā. 8-1-30 [?]) a finite verb accompanied by yadi is not lowered ("na" for the particle-governed rule), so "tiñ atīñah" does not apply.

॥३॥

original p. 459

Sūkta 11, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

पुरां भिन्दुर्युवा कविरमितौजा अजायत । इन्द्रो विश्वस्य कर्मणो धर्ता वज्री पुरुष्टुतः ॥४॥
purām bhindur yuvā kavir amitauijā ajāyata | indro viśvasya
karmaṇo dhartā vajrī puruṣṭutaḥ ||4||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

पुराम् । भिन्दुः । युवा । कविः । अमितऽओजाः । अजायत ॥ इन्द्रः । विश्वस्य । कर्मणः । धर्ता । वज्री । पुरुऽस्तुतः ॥४॥
purām | bhinduḥ | yuvā | kaviḥ | amita-ojāḥ | ajāyata | |
indraḥ | viśvasya | karmaṇaḥ | dhartā | vajrī | puru-stutaḥ
||4||

original p. 460

Rik 4: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अभिप्लवषडहस्योक्थ्येषु तृतीयसवने ऽच्छावाकस्य पुरां भिन्दुर्युवा कविरिति स्तोत्रियस्तृचः । तथा च सूत्रितम् । एह्यु षु ब्रवाणि ते इति खण्डे पुरां भिन्दुर्युवा कविर्वृषा ह्यसि राधसे । आ.
 ६-८ [?] । इति ॥

*abhiplava-ṣaḍahasyokthyeṣu tṛtīya-savane 'cchāvākasya
purām bhindur yuvā kavir iti stotriyas tṛcaḥ | tathā ca
sūtritām | ehy ū ṣu bravāṇi te iti khaṇḍe purām bhindur yuvā
kavir vṛṣā hy asi rādhase | ā. 6-8 [?] | iti | |*

अयमिन्द्र उच्यमानगुणयुक्तो ऽजायत । संपन्नः । कीदृग्गुणक इति तदुच्यते । पुरामसुरपुराणां
भिन्दुर्भेत्ता । युवा कदाचिदपि वलीपलितादिवार्धक्यरहितः । कविर्मेधावी । अमितौजाः
प्रभूतबलः । विश्वस्य कर्मणः कृत्स्नस्य ज्योतिष्टोमादेर्धर्ता पोषकः । वज्री यजमानरक्षणार्थं सर्वदा वज्रयुक्तः । पुरुष्टुतो बहुविधे तत्तत्कर्मणि स्तुतः ॥

*ayam indra ucyamāna-guṇa-yukto 'jāyata | saṃpannaḥ |
kīdr̥g-guṇaka iti tad ucyate | purām asura-purāṇām bhindur bhattā | yuvā kadācid api valī-palitādi-vārdhakya-rahitaḥ |
kavir medhāvī | amitaújāḥ prabhūta-balaḥ | viśvasya
karmaṇaḥ kṛtsnasya jyotiṣṭomāder dhartā poṣakaḥ | vajrī
yajamāna-rakṣaṇārthaṃ sarvadā vajra-yuktaḥ | puruṣṭuto
bahuvidhe tat-tat-karmaṇi stutaḥ | |*

Translation: "In the ukthya [rites] of the Abhiplava Ṣaḍaha, in the third pressing, the opening triplet (stotriya) of the Acchāvāka is purām bhindur yuvā kavir; so it is laid down in the section ehy ū ṣu bravāṇi te: 'purām bhindur yuvā kavir, vṛṣā hy asi rādhase' (Āśvalāyana 6-8 [?]). This Indra ajāyata — has come to be, is endowed — with the qualities now to be told. Of what qualities? Purām bhindur — the breaker of the cities of the asuras; yuvā — young, never marked by the old age of wrinkles and grey hair; kavir — wise; amitaújāḥ — of abundant strength; viśvasya karmaṇaḥ dhartā — the sustainer, the nourisher, of the whole of every rite such as the Jyotiṣṭoma; vajrī — always bearing the thunderbolt, for the protection of the sacrificer; puruṣṭutaḥ — praised in many ways in various rites." ²⁰

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रः (indrah) — this Indra | पुराṃ (purām) — of the cities of enemies | भिन्दुः (bhinduḥ) — the destroyer (the one who breaks down) | युवा (yuvā) — ²¹ ever in the prime of youth, free from changes such as the three ages | कविः (kaviḥ) — wise | अमितौजाः (amitaujāḥ) — of immense prowess | विश्वस्य कर्मणः (viśvasya karmanah) — of all rites such as the Jyotiṣṭoma | धर्ता (dhartā) — the nourisher | वज्री (vajrī) — the bearer of the thunderbolt | पुरुषुतः (puruṣṭutaḥ) — praised exceedingly in many rites | ²² अजायत (ajāyata) — he has become.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra's qualities are many. He destroys the cities of enemies; he is never in any state but youth, free from changes such as the three ages (childhood, youth and old age); he is very wise, of great prowess; he sustains, by his protection, all the rites of sacrifice; he bears the thunderbolt for the protection of the sacrificer. People praise this Indra abundantly in many rites.

original p. 461

Rik 4: English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ English Translation ॥

20. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 460–461 is noted briefly below: that bhindu is from bhidir vidāraṇe with the ku suffix by Uṇ. 1-38 [?] with the carried-over kuḥ and the dropping of the r-marker; yuvan from yu miśraṇāmiśraṇayoḥ with kanin (Uṇ. 1-156 [?]), initial-udatta; kavi from ku śabde with i (Uṇ. 4-139 [?]); amitaujāḥ a bahuvrīhi keeping the first member's accent; dhartā with ṭrc; vajrī with ini; puruṣṭuta with the retroflexion of s by Pā. 8-3-105 [?] and the accent of a past-participle second member after a third-case or similar first member.

21. one who is

22. endowed with these qualities

Indra is the destroyer of (enemies') cities, he is ever young, wise, of unbounded strength, the sustainer of pious acts, the wielder of thunderbolt and praised by many.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

A special application for this rik has been stated: in the rite called Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha, on the special ukthya day, at the third pressing, the priest called Acchāvāka is to recite the triplet purāṃ bhindur yuvā kaviḥ in the stotra-mantra recitation; in this connection the Āśvalāyana sūtra, in the section ehy ū ṣu, says that the triplets purāṃ bhindur yuvā kaviḥ and vṛṣā hy asi rādhase are to be recited.

"Bhinduḥ" — bhidir vidāraṇe — "one who splits, destroys, demolishes." Here the word purāṃ is explained as "of the cities of enemies."

"Yuvā" — one who is in the stage of youth; one whose bodily strength does not wane with old age, who is always in the stage of youth. The words yuvā and kaviḥ are used especially in praising Agni.

"Ajāyata"

— although this word means "became, was born," here only the sense "he is such, endowed with such qualities" is to be given.

"Viśvasya karmaṇaḥ" — the Bhāṣyakāra explains this as kṛtsnasya jyotiṣṭomādeḥ; it may also be given the sense "all deeds — rites such as sacrifices and the activities of worldly life."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²³

भिन्दुः (bhinduḥ) — root bhidir vidāraṇe; the suffix ku by "sprṣa-bhidi-vṛdhi-grdhi-dhṛṣi-dṛśibhyaḥ kuḥ" [print: "pyāñ bhidi vṛdhi grdhi dhṛṣi daśibhyaḥ"] (Uṇ. 1-38 [?]), with "kur ṛśca" (Pā. 1-2-? [?]) carrying over kuḥ; the ku is it-marked on its k, leaving u; bhid

23. grammar pages 461–463, noted briefly

+ u; in the Veda the u has both sārvadhātuka and ārdhadhātuka status ("chandasy ubhayathā," Pā. 3-4-117 [?]); so, with the rudhādi class, śnam arises ("rudhādibhyaḥ śnam," Pā. 3-1-78 [?]) after a sārvadhātuka suffix, being mit it stands after the last vowel; "śnasor alloptaḥ" [print: "śnasor allopaḥ"] (Pā. 6-4-111 [?]) drops the a; the n before d becomes anusvāra by "naścāpadāntasya jhali" (Pā. 8-3-24 [?]) and then the nasal by "anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-4-58 [?]), bhinduḥ; the long argument (p. 462) on whether the sthānivadbhāva of the dropped a ("acaḥ parasmin pūrvavidhau," Pā. 1-1-57 [?]) would block the anusvāra and parasavarṇa is answered by "na padānta-dvirvacana-vare-yalopa-svara-savarṇānusvāra-dīrgha-jaś-car-vidhiṣu" (Pā. 1-1-58 [?]) which denies sthānivadbhāva in rules on anusvāra and parasavarṇa; the suffix accent stands. युवा (yuvā) — root yu miśraṇāmiśraṇayoḥ + kanin ("kaninn yuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanvidyupratidivaḥ," Uṇ. 1-156 [?]); kanin is sit [print], so the accent is initial-udātta.²⁴

original pp. 462–463

Rik 4 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥²⁵

युवा (yuvā) — kanin (Uṇ. 1-156 [?]) is nit-like in effect (the printed note says sit), giving initial-udātta. कवि: (kaviḥ) — root ku śabde + i by "ajendhir..." [print: "āciḥ..."] (Uṇ. 4-139 [?]), a suffix added after a vowel-ending root; ku + i with guṇa and av replacement gives kavi; accent by the suffix. अमितौजा: (amitaujāḥ) — "amitam ojo yasya saḥ": amita = na mitam; by "tatpuruṣe tulyārtha..." (Pā. 6-2-2 [?]) the nañ-compound with an indeclinable first member keeps its accent; the later bahuvrīhi keeps the first member's accent by "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]); so

24. The grammar continues on pp. 462–463.

25. grammar pages, noted briefly; the argument on p. 462 is characterized in outline the a's accent stands. विश्वस्य (viśvasya) — kvan by "aśūpruṣi..." (Uṇ. 1-149 [?]), initial-udātta by the suffix. कर्मणः (karmanah) — root ḍukṛñ karane + manin by "anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante" (Pā. 3-2-75 [?]); guṇa and raparatva; manin is nit, so initial-udātta; genitive singular with ṇatva by "ṛvarṇān ṇasyaṇatvaṃ vācyam" (vārttika [?]); ru and visarga: karmanah. धर्ता (dhartā) — root dhṛñ avasthāne + tṛc ("nvul-tṛcau," Pā. 3-1-133 [?]); guṇa and raparatva; cit, hence final-udātta (Pā. 6-1-163 [?]). वज्री (vajrī) — "vajro 'sya asti": ini by "ata ini-ṭhanau" (Pā. 5-2-115 [?]); suffix accent. पुरुषतः (puruṣtataḥ) — root pyā pālanapūraṇayoḥ + ku ("pyāñ bhidi...", Uṇ. 1-38 [?]); "udoṣṭhyapūrvasya" (Pā. 7-1-102 [?]) turns r into ur: puru; root ṣtuñ stutau with ṣ → s (Pā. 6-1-64 [?]), the ṭ of the suffix dropped; "puruṣu stutaḥ" as a locative tatpuruṣa — "praised in many places"; by "supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ" (Pā. 2-4-71 [?]) the locative ending is dropped; puru-stuta; then "stutastomayoś chandasi" (Pā. 8-3-105 [?]): after stuta and stoma as second member in the Veda, the s is retroflexed when a preceding ik or kavarga member intervenes, so s → ṣ; and "ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]) turns t → ṭ: puruṣṭuta; accent by "thāthaghañ-ktājabitra-kāṇām" (Pā. 6-2-144 [?]): when a gati or kāraka precedes, a word ending in tha, atha, ghañ, kta, aj, ap, itra, ka is final-udātta; for the alternative analysis "puruṣṭutaḥ" as puruṣu stutaḥ the compound is the saptamī-tatpuruṣa.

॥४॥

original p. 464

Sūkta 11, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वं वलस्य गोमतो ऽपावरद्विवो बिलम् । त्वां देवा अबिभ्युषस्तुज्यमानास आविषुः ॥५॥

*tvaṃ valasya gomato 'pāvar adrivo bilam | tvāṃ devā
abibhyuṣaḥ tujyamānāsa āviṣuḥ || 5 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁶

त्वम् । वलस्य । गोऽमतः । अप । अवः । अद्रिऽवः । बिलम् ॥ त्वाम् । देवाः । अबिभ्युषः । तुज्यमानासः । आविषुः ॥५॥

*tvaṃ | valasya | go-mataḥ | apa | avaḥ | adri-vaḥ | bilam ||
tvām | devāḥ | abibhyuṣaḥ | tujyamānāsaḥ | āviṣuḥ || 5 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

वलनामकः कश्चिदसुरो देवसम्बन्धिनीर्गा अपहृत्य कस्मिंश्चिद्विले गोपितवान् ।
तदानीमिन्द्रस्तद्विलं स्वस्यैन्येन समावृत्य तस्माद्विलाद्वा निःसारयामास । तदिदमुपाख्यानमिन्द्रो
वलस्य बिलमपोर्गोत् । तै. सं. २-१-३-१ [?] इत्यादिब्राह्मणेषु मन्त्रांशेषु च प्रसिद्धम् ।
तदेतद्धृतमनुसंधायायं मन्त्रः प्रवर्तते ॥ हे अद्रिवो वज्रयुक्तेन्द्र त्वं गोमतो वलस्य गोभिर्युक्तस्य
वलनामकस्यासुरस्य सम्बन्धि बिलमपावः । स्वस्यैन्यमुखेनापावृतवानसि । तदानीं
तुज्यमानासो वलेन हिंस्यमाना देवा अबिभ्युषः स्वदीयरक्षणया वलादभीताः सन्तस्त्वामाविषुः । प्राप्तवन्तः ॥

*valanāmakāḥ kaścid asuro deva-sambandhinīr gā apahr̥tya kasmiṃścid bile gopitavān | tadānīm indras tad bilam svasyainyena samāvṛtya tasmād bilād gā niḥsārayāmāsa | tad
idam upākhyānam indro valasya bilam apornot | tai. saṃ.
2-1-3-1 [?] ity-ādi-brāhmaṇeṣu mantrāṃśeṣu ca prasiddham | tad etad vṛttam anusamdhāyāyaṃ mantraḥ pravartate || he adrivo vajra-yuktendra tvaṃ gomato valasya gobhir yuktasya valanāmakasyāsurasya sambandhi bilam apāvaḥ |
svasyainya-mukhenāpāvṛtavān asi | tadānīm tujyamānāso valena hiṃsyamānā devā abibhyuṣaḥ sva-dīya-rakṣaṇayā
valād abhītāḥ santas tvām āviṣuḥ | prāptavantaḥ ||*

26. The saṃhitā word ऽपावर् joins apa and avaḥ, with avaḥ written as ar before adrivaḥ by the visarga rule; the pada text separates them.

Translation: "An asura named Vala, having stolen the cows belonging to the gods, hid them in a cave. Then Indra, enclosing that cave with his own host, drove the cows out of it. This legend — 'indro valasya bilam apornot' (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 2-1-3-1 [?]) — is well known in the Brāhmaṇas and in portions of mantras. With this story in mind this mantra proceeds. O adrivaḥ, thunderbolt-bearing Indra! You apāvaḥ — uncovered — the cave of gomataḥ valasya, of the asura named Vala who possessed cows; you opened it by means of your own host. Then the gods, tuḥyamānāsaḥ — oppressed by Vala — became abibhyuṣaḥ — without fear of Vala, thanks to your protection — and āviṣuḥ: came to you, attained you." ²⁷

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अद्रिवः ((he) adrivaḥ) — O Indra, bearer of the thunderbolt | त्वम् (tvam) — you | गोमतः (gomataḥ) — who had taken the cows | वलस्य (valasya) — of the asura Vala | बिलम् (bilam) — the cave | अप अवः (apa avah) — uncovered, opened (with the help of your host) | ²⁸ तुज्यमानासः (tuḥyamānāsaḥ) — [those] oppressed by the asura Vala | देवाः (devāḥ) — the gods | अबिभ्युषः (abibhyuṣaḥ) — not afraid, through your protection, of Vala | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | आविषुः (āviṣuḥ) — took shelter in.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra, bearer of the thunderbolt! The asura Vala had stolen the gods' cows and hidden them in a cave. To free them you opened his cave with the help of your army, took the cows out, and set them free. The gods who had been oppressed by the asura Vala, having your protection, no longer feared him in the least, and came to you and took refuge in you.

original pp. 465-466

27. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 464-465 is noted briefly below.

28. then

Rik 5: English, Special Topics

॥ English Translation ॥

O wielder of the thunderbolt, you opened the cave of Vala, who had concealed the cattle (cows) and the gods whom he had oppressed no longer feared when they had obtained your protection.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

In explaining this rik the Bhāṣyakāra relates an ancient legend: the asura Vala stole the gods' cows and imprisoned them in a cave; then Indra, with the help of his host, broke open the cave and freed the cows. This is told in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā of the Yajurveda (2-1-3-1) in the following way:

इन्द्रो वलस्य बिलमपोर्णोत्स य उत्तमः पशुरासीत्तं पृष्ठं प्रति सङ्गृह्योदक्षिदत्तगं सहस्रं पशवो
ऽनूदायन् उस्त्रा तो ऽभवद्यः [?] पशुकामः स्यात्स एतमैन्द्रमुन्नतमालभेतेन्द्रमेव स्वेन
भागधेयेनोप धावति स एवास्मै पशूंस्प्रयच्छति पशुमानेव भवत्यन्नतो भवति ॥ indro valasya bilam apornot sa ya uttamaḥ paśur āsīt taṃ pṛṣṭhaṃ prati saṅgrhyodakṣid attagṃ sahasraṃ paśavo 'nūdāyann usrā to 'bhavad yaḥ [?] paśukāmaḥ syāt sa etam aindram unnatam ālabhetendram eva svena bhāgadheyenopa dhāvati sa evāsmāi paśūn sprayacchati paśumān eva bhavaty annato bhavati || (a best reading of compressed print — the middle of the passage in particular is unclear; I offer no translation. In outline it tells that Indra opened Vala's cave, and prescribes an Indra-offering for one who desires cattle.)

This subject is also treated in other mantras of the Ṛgveda and in other Vedas. In the Ṛgveda the matter of Vala is described in the riks 1-11-5 and others ²⁹. There is a tradition that Vala's soldiers are called "paṇis"; in many places it is said that they hid the cows

29. the source lists some twenty references in Kannada numerals — 1-62-4 [?], 2-12-3 [?], and so on, to 10-111-? [?] — all small print, not securely read and not reproduced

by taking them and imprisoning them in caves. We shall treat this subject at the 11th rik of Sūkta 6 [sic: the source's cross-reference reads "the 11th rik of the 6th sūkta of Ṛ. S. 1-?" with Part and page numbers not legible] and the story of the Paṇis' being described in many riks of the Ṛgveda will be explained as occasion arises.

Skandasvāmī gives a different explanation of this rik: vala is a cloud (megha) and go is water (udaka); Indra struck the cloud with his thunderbolt and caused the held-back rain to fall. And tuḡyamānāḥ he renders as tvaramāṇāḥ ("hastening"), āviṣuḥ as anugatavantāḥ ("followed"), and devāḥ as "Maruts"; so the idea is that the rain, with the help of the wind, came falling swiftly.

"Gomataḥ" — gobhir yuktasya, "who possesses cows" — one must consider which cows are meant, "the stolen cows" of whom other places speak.

"Bilam" — a cave, a hollow that cannot be seen by anyone: cave [the source's own English].

"Tuḡyamānāsaḥ" — balena hiṃsyamānāḥ — oppressed by the asura Bala[sic: Vala].

"Āviṣuḥ" — ava rakṣaṇādiṣu — "[those] who have taken shelter for protection."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁰

अप (apa) — a nipāta, initial-udātta ("nipātā ādyudāttāḥ," Phīṭ-sūtra 80 [?]). अवः (avaḥ) — root vṛñ varaṇe (svādi class); lañ; second singular sip — the p is it ("halantyaṃ," Pā. 1-3-3 [?]); the i of sip is dropped ("itaś ca," Pā. 3-4-100 [?]); "ito lopaḥ" [print: "itaś ca lopaḥ parasmaipadeṣu," Pā. 3-4-97 [?]]; the śnu by "svādiḥyaḥ śnuḥ" (Pā. 3-1-73 [?]) is dropped by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); guṇa of vṛ → var (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); "uraṇ raparaḥ"; var + s with s dropped by "hal-ñyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]) and by "saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]);

30. grammar pages 466–470, noted briefly

the r becomes visarga; the augment aṭ is udātta ("luṇlaṇlṛṇkṣv aḍudāttaḥ," Pā. 6-4-71 [?]); in the Saṃhitā avaḥ + adrivaḥ joins as apāvar adrivaḥ. अद्रिवः (adrivaḥ) — "adriḥ asya asti": matup, m → v in the Veda; vocative with num; as explained under Sūkta 10, Rik 7. बिलम् (bilam) — "nabhiṣayasyānisantasya" (Phīṭ-sūtra 36 [?]): initial-udātta. अबिभ्युषः (abibhyuṣaḥ) — root ñibhī bhaye; liṭ in its participial form kvasu ("kvasuś ca," Pā. 3-2-107 [?]); doubling by "liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-8 [?]); shortening of the reduplicate vowel (Pā. 7-4-59 [?]); bh → b in the reduplicate ("abhyāse carca," Pā. 8-4-54 [?]); bibhī + vas; vas is ārdhadhātuka, so iṭ would arise by "ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ" (Pā. 7-2-35 [?]); the long argument (pp. 467–469) shows that, since bhī is a single-vowel root with an anudātta accent in the upadeśa ("ekāca upadeśe 'nudāttāt," Pā. 7-2-10 [?]), iṭ is barred; but, since bhī is not among the roots listed in the verse "ūḍṛdantaiḥ ..." (that list names the vowel-ending roots that are anudātta), the question arises whether iṭ arises through "kṛṣṛbhṛvṛstudrusruśruvo liṭi" (Pā. 7-2-13 [?]); the source concludes that the rule "svarati-sūti-sūyati-dhūñūdito vā" and the general niyama are such that vas after bhī takes no iṭ — "vasv ekājādghasām" (Pā. 7-2-67 [?]) makes iṭ obligatory for vas after a single-vowel root in the list ghasi etc. only in the case of roots reduplicated before; then the jas/śas ending of vas-stems; "vasoḥ samprasāraṇam" (Pā. 6-4-131 [?]) gives saṃprasāraṇa of va to u, with pūrvarūpa ("saṃprasāraṇāc ca," Pā. 6-1-108 [?]); "bhrūvām" and "aci śnudhātubhruvām yvoriyaṇuvaṇau" (Pā. 6-4-77 [?]) would give iy for the ī, but "abhyāsasya asavarṇe" and "vyor" are set aside by "ekāco dvitīyasya" [print: "...eko'ca..."] and "ekāco 'saṃyogapūrvasya..." (Pā. 6-4-82 [?]): yaṇ arises (ī → y); ṣatva by "ādeśapratyayayoḥ" (Pā. 8-3-59 [?]) of the s of vas; "śāsivasighasīnām ca" (Pā. 8-3-60 [?]) is irrelevant; na bibhyuṣaḥ: abibhyuṣaḥ is a nañ-compound with the first member's accent ("tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtīyā...", Pā. 6-2-2 [?]). तुज्यमानासः (tuajyamānāsaḥ) — root tuja himsāyām; laṭ in the passive

(karmaṇi) with sānac by "laṭaḥ śatṛśānacāv..." (Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); "sārvadhātuke yak" (Pā. 3-1-67 [?]), the yak of the passive; yak is kit, so no laghūpadha-guṇa; "āne muk" (Pā. 7-2-82 [?]) adds muk: tuḥyamāna; the nominative plural takes asuk by "āja-sasereasuk" [print: "ājjaser asuk"] (Pā. 7-1-50 [?]); the root tuj is anudātta-it, and the sānac cit-accent is overridden by "tāsyānudāttenñidadupadeśāt..." (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]); jas is sup, unaccented; the yak suffix's accent is udātta and stands. आविषुः (āviṣuḥ) — root ava rakṣaṇādiṣu in the sense of gati, "going, attaining"; luṇ; jhi → jus ("jher jus," Pā. 3-4-108 [?]) after sic (Pā. 3-4-109 [?], "sijabhyastavidibhyaś ca"); cli → sic ("cleḥ sic," Pā. 3-1-44 [?]); iṭ by Pā. 7-2-35 [?]; the augment āt before a vowel-initial root ("ād ajādīnām," Pā. 6-4-72 [?]); vṛddhi ("āṭś ca," Pā. 6-1-90 [?]); āv + iṣ + us; s → ṣ of sic ("ādeśapratyayayoḥ," Pā. 8-3-59 [?]); the final s gives ru and visarga: āviṣuḥ; unaccented (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]).³¹

॥५॥

original p. 470

Sūkta 11, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तवाहं शूर रातिभिः प्रत्यायं सिन्धुमावदन् । उपातिष्ठन्त गिर्वणो विदुष्टे तस्य कारवः ॥६॥

tavāhaṃ śūra rātibhiḥ praty āyaṃ sindhum āvadan |
upātiṣṭhanta girvaṇo viduṣṭe tasya kāravaḥ | 6 |

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तव । अहम् । शूर । रातिभिः । प्रति । आयम् । सिन्धुम् । आऽवदन् ॥ उप । अतिष्ठन्त ।
गिर्वणः । विदुः । ते । तस्य । कारवः ॥६॥

31. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The argument on pp. 467–469 on the iṭ of vas after bhī is characterized in outline; the print is dense and partly compressed.

*tava | aham | śūra | rāti-bhiḥ | prati | āyam | sindhum | āvadan || upa | atiṣṭhanta | girvaṇaḥ | viduḥ | te | tasya |
kāraṇaḥ || 6 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शूर संग्रामे शौर्ययुक्तेन्द्र तव रातिभिः कर्मसु त्वदीयैर्धनदानैर्निमित्तभूतैरहं होता प्रत्यायं त्वां पुनरागतोऽस्मि । पुरा बहुषु कर्मसु त्वत्तो धनस्य लब्धत्वादस्मिन्कर्मणि प्रत्यागमनमुत्सुक्यते [sic: autsukyate?] । किं कुर्वन् । सिन्धुं स्यन्दमानं सोममावदन् सर्वतः कथयन् । अस्मिन्सोमयागे त्वदीयां धनदानकीर्तिं प्रकटयन्नित्यर्थः । हे गिर्वणो गीर्भिर्वननीयेन्द्र कारवः कर्तारो ऋत्विग्यजमानाः उपातिष्ठन्त । पुरा धनलाभार्थं त्वामुपासत तवन्तः । उपस्थायि च तस्य तादृशस्य दार्योपेतस्य ते तव धनदानं विदुः । जानन्ति । गिर्वणश्शब्दं यास्क इत्थं निब्रूते । गिर्वणा देवो भवति गीर्भिरेनं वनयन्ति । नि. ६-१४ [?] । इति । रेभो जरितेत्यादिषु त्रयोदशसु स्तोत्रनामसु कारुशब्दः पठितः ॥

*he śūra saṃgrāme śaurya-yuktendra tava rātibhiḥ karmasu tvadīyair dhana-dānair nimitta-bhūtair ahaṃ hotā praty āyam tvām punar āgato 'smi | purā bahuṣu karmasu tvatto dhanasya labdhatvād asmin karmaṇi pratyāgamanam utsukyate [reading uncertain] | kiṃ kurvan | sindhum
syandamānaṃ somam āvadan sarvataḥ kathayan | asmin soma-yāge tvadīyāṃ dhana-dāna-kīrtiṃ prakṛṣṭayann ity arthāḥ | he girvaṇo gīrbhir vananīyendra kāraṇaḥ kartāro
rtvig-yajamānāḥ upātiṣṭhanta | purā dhana-lābhārthaṃ tvām
upāsata [reading uncertain] | upasthāyi ca tasya tādrśasya dāryopetasya te tava dhana-dānaṃ viduḥ | jānanti | girvaṇaś-śabdaṃ yāska itthaṃ nibrūte | girvaṇā devo bhavati gīrbhir
enaṃ vanayanti | ni. 6-14 [?] | iti | rebho jaritety-ādiṣu
trayodaśasu stotr-nāmasu kāru-śabdaḥ paṭhitaḥ ||*

Translation: "O śūra, O Indra, hero in battle! By your rātibhiḥ — your gifts of wealth that have been the cause in the rites — I, the hotṛ, prati āyam, have come back to you. In many earlier rites I received wealth from you; hence I come again to this rite [the next clause is uncertain]. Doing what? Sindhum āvadan: proclaiming on all sides the flowing Soma — publishing, at this Soma-sacrifice, your fame of giving wealth. O girvaṇaḥ — O Indra, to be served with praises — kāraṇaḥ, the doers: the priests and sacrificers, upātiṣṭhanta: stand near [you]. Formerly they approached you for the gain of wealth; and they viduḥ — know — your generosity of giving wealth. Yāska explains the word girvaṇas thus: 'girvaṇas is a god; because they serve him with girs (praises)' (Nirukta 6-14 [?]). Among the thirteen words for 'praiser,' beginning with rebhaḥ and jaritā, the word kāru is read."

32

original p. 471

Rik 6: word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) शूर ((he) śūra) — O Indra, endowed with prowess (in battle) | तव (tava) — your | रतिभिः (rātibhiḥ) — by gifts of wealth | (अहम्) (aham) — I | सिन्धुम् आवदन् (sindhum āvadan) — praising the Soma-juice that is to be offered to you | प्रति आयम् (prati āyam) — have come again to you | (हे) गिर्वणः ((he) girvaṇaḥ) — O Indra, praised by words | कारवः (kāraṇaḥ) — priests, sacrificers and others who perform the rites | उप अतिष्ठन्त (upa atiṣṭhanta) — stand near you (pray to you) | ³³ ते (te) — your | (धनप्रदानम्) (dhanapradānam) — giving of wealth | विदुः (viduḥ) — have known.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

32. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 470-471 — on tava, aham, śūra, rātibhiḥ, āyam, sindhum, āvadan, atiṣṭhanta, viduḥ, kāraṇaḥ — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

33. and

O Indra, hero! Moved by the gifts of wealth and the like that you gave before, I have come to you again, praising the virtues of the Soma-juice I offer you; and the priests, sacrificers and others who perform sacrificial rites also stand near you, having known your generosity.

« English Translation »

O Hero, attracted by your bounties, I again come praising the Soma libation to be offered to you; the performers of the rite approach you who are worthy of praise, for they have known your liberalities.

original pp. 472–474

Rik 6: Special Topics and grammar

« Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) »

"Sindhū ā vadan" — the word sindhu is derived from the root syandū prasaravaṇe ("to flow"); the sense is "the Soma-juice that, when the creeper is pressed, is born and flows out in streams." Āvadan means "praising": describing the delights and the like that come from drinking Soma.

"Upa atiṣṭhanta" — "we are near, we come near; approach you" [the source's own English]: that is, we pray to you.

"Viduḡ te" — if the word dhanadānam ("giving of wealth") is not supplied with these words, no proper sense results. The usage viduṣṭe occurs also in the next rik.

"Kāravah" — kartārah, "those who do"; what they do is explained as those who perform sacrificial rites or make hymns.

« Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā » ³⁴

34. grammar pages 472–474, noted briefly

तव (tava) — yuṣmad + genitive singular ñas; since ñas follows, "tavamamau ñasi" (Pā. 7-2-96 [?]) replaces the end of yuṣmad by tava; tava + a + as → pararūpa ("ato guṇe," Pā. 6-1-97 [?]); ās replaces ñas ("yuṣmadasmadbhyāṃ ñaso 'ś," Pā. 7-1-27 [?]); "śeṣe lopaḥ" (Pā. 7-2-90 [?]) drops the final a; initial-udātta by "yuṣmadasmador jasi" [print: "...ñasi"] (Pā. 6-1-211 [?]). रतिभिः (rātibhiḥ) — root rā dāne; ktin by "mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ" (Pā. 3-3-96 [?]), udātta; the following bhis is unaccented. आयम् (āyam) — root iṇ gatau; laṇ first singular mip; mip → am by "tasthasthamipāṃ tāmtāmtāmaḥ" (Pā. 3-4-101 [?]); śap, dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); the augment āṭ ("āḍ ajādīnām," Pā. 6-4-72 [?]); vṛddhi ("āṭś ca," Pā. 6-1-90 [?]); ai → āy ("eco 'yavāyāvaḥ," Pā. 6-1-78 [?]); āyam; unaccented. सिन्धुम् (sindhūm) — root syandū prasaravaṇe; "syandeḥ saṃprasāraṇam dhaś ca" (Uṇ. 1-11 [?]) with "dhāny enit" [print: "dhānye nit"] (Uṇ. 1-9 [?]) carried over, so nit; the suffix u, with saṃprasāraṇa of y and dh in place of d; sindhu; initial-udātta (nit). आवदन् (āvadan) — root vada vyaktāyāṃ vāci; laṭ with śatṛ; śap; vad + at; the śap is pīṭ, unaccented; the lasārvadhātuka śatṛ after the upadeśa a is unaccented ("tāsyānudātennīd-adupadeśāt...", Pā. 6-1-186 [?]); the root's accent stands; compounded with the gati ā ("kugatiprādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18 [?]), the kṛdanta second member's accent (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) remains; the num of "ugīdacām..." (Pā. 7-1-70 [?]) comes in, then "hal-nyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]) and "saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]); by pūrvatrāsiddham the n is not dropped by "nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]). अतिष्ठन्त (atiṣṭhanta) — root ṣṭhā gatinivṛttau with the prefix upa; "upānmantrakaraṇe" (Pā. 1-3-25 [?]) gives ātmanepada for sthā after upa when a mantra is meant; laṇ third plural jha; śap; sthā → tiṣṭha ("pāghrādhmā...", Pā. 7-3-78 [?]); jha → anta ("jho'ntaḥ," Pā. 7-1-3 [?]); aṭ augment; "ato guṇe" for the repeated a. गिर्वणः (girvaṇaḥ) — explained under Sūkta 10,

Rik 12 (gṛ śabde with kvip, i for r [Pā. 7-1-100 (?)], vana with asun, the vocative, unaccented). विदुः (viduḥ) — root vida jñāne (adādi); laṭ with jhi; śap dropped by Pā. 2-4-72 (?); "vido laṭo vā" (Pā. 3-4-83 (?)) gives jhi → us; viduḥ; because it stands at the head of the fourth pāda, it is not lowered (no "pādādi" lowering). In the Saṃhitā viduḥ + te — "visarjanīyasya saḥ" (Pā. 8-3-34 (?)) turns the visarga into s before a khar letter, viduḥ + te; then "yuṣmattataḥśuṣvantaḥpādam" (Pā. 8-3-103 (?)) retroflexes the s before te, a replacement of yuṣmad (the t-initial forms) viduḥ ṭe; "ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" (Pā. 8-4-41 (?)) turns t → ṭ; so viduḥṭe. तस्य (tasya) — "sāvekācas ṭṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 6-1-168 (?)) would put the udātta on the genitive ending of a one-vowel word but is barred by "na go-śvannāvavarna-rād-ñ-kṛd-bhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-182 (?)) — here by the rule on sya ("anudāttau supitau," Pā. 3-1-4 (?)) it is unaccented. कारवः (kāravaḥ) — "kṛvāpājimisvadisādhyasūbhya uḥ" (Uṇ. 1-1 (?)): the suffix uḥ after kṛ and other roots; ṇit, so vṛddhi ("aco ṇṇiti," Pā. 7-2-115 (?)): kār + u; au → av before the nominative plural as; initial-udātta by the suffix accent.

॥६॥

original p. 474

Sūkta 11, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मायाभिरिन्द्र मायिनं त्वं शुष्णमवातिरः । विदुष्टे तस्य मेधिरास्तेषां श्रवांस्युत्तिर ॥७॥

*māyābhir indra māyinaṃ tvam śuṣṇam avātiraḥ | viduḥ ṭe
tasya medhirās teṣāṃ śravāṃsy ut tira || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मायाभिः । इन्द्र । मायिनम् । त्वम् । शुष्णम् । अव । अतिरः ॥ विदुः । ते । तस्य । मेधिराः । तेषाम् । श्रवांसि । उत् । तिर ॥७॥

māyābhiḥ | indra | māyinam | tvam | śuṣṇam | ava | atiraḥ
 || viduḥ | te | tasya | medhirāḥ | teṣām | śravāṃsi | ut | tira
 || 7 ||

original p. 475

Rik 7: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र त्वं मायिनं नानाविधकपटोपेतं शुष्णं भूतानां शोषणहेतुमसुरं मायाभिः कपटोपायैः
 कृतविशेषैः । यद्वा । तद्विधोपायज्ञेनेन्द्रेण प्रज्ञाभिः । अवातिरः । हिंसितवानसि । एतच्च यास्केनोक्तम् । इन्द्रः शुष्णं जघान । नि. ५-१०-३ [?] । इति । शुष्णं सिन्धुं [?] । ऋग्वे.
 १-१०१-१ [?] । इत्यादिमन्त्रे चायमर्थो विस्पष्टः । मेधिरा मेधावन्तो ऽनुष्ठातारस्तस्य तादृशस्य
 ते तव महिमानं विदुः । जानन्ति । तेषां जानतामनुष्ठातृणां श्रवांस्यन्नान्युत्तिर । वर्धय । केतः
 केतयितेत्यादिष्वेकादशसु प्रज्ञानामसु माया वयुनमिति पठितम् । श्रवःशब्दं यास्को निर्वक्ति । श्रव इत्यन्ननाम श्रूयते इति सतः । नि. १०-४ [?] । इति ॥

he indra tvam māyinam nānā-vidha-kapaṭopetaṃ śuṣṇam bhūtānām śoṣaṇa-hetum asuraṃ māyābhiḥ kapaṭopāyaiḥ
 kṛta-viśeṣaiḥ | yadvā | tad-vidhopāya-jñenendrena prajñābhiḥ
 | avātiraḥ | hiṃsitavān asi | etac ca yāskenoḥktam | indraḥ śuṣṇam jaghāna | ni. 5-10-3 [?] | iti | śuṣṇam sindhum [?] |
 ṛgve. 1-101-1 [?] | ity-ādi-mantre cāyam artho vispaṣṭaḥ |
 medhirā medhāvanto 'nuṣṭhātāras tasya tādṛśasya te tava mahimānaṃ viduḥ | jānanti | teṣāṃ jānatām anuṣṭhātṛṇām
 śravāṃsy annāny uttira | vardhaya | ketaḥ ketayitety-ādiṣv ekādaśasu prajñā-nāmasu māyā vayunam iti paṭhitam |
 śravaḥ-śabdaṃ yāsko nirvakti | śrava ity anna-nāma śrūyate
 iti sataḥ | ni. 10-4 [?] | iti ||

Translation: "O Indra! You avātiraḥ — slew — śuṣṇam, the asura who is māyin, possessed of various kinds of trickery and a cause of the drying up of beings, māyābhiḥ — with stratagems, special devices of deceit; or [alternatively], since Indra knows the ways of such stratagems, with prajñā, wisdom. This Yāska says: 'indraḥ śuṣṇam jaghāna' (Nirukta 5-10-3 [?]); and this sense is clear in the mantra beginning śuṣṇam ... (R̥gveda 1-101-1 [?], reading uncertain). Medhirāḥ — the wise performers — viduḥ te — know your greatness, of such a one. For those who thus know, uttira — increase — śravāṃsi, foods. Among the eleven words for 'wisdom' beginning with ketaḥ and ketayitā, māyā and vayunam are read. Yāska explains the word śravas: 'śravas is a name for food; because it is heard (śrūyate)' (Nirukta 10-4 [?])." ³⁵ ³⁶

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) इन्द्र ((he) indra) — O Indra | त्वम् (tvam) — you | मायिनम् (māyīnam) — endowed with many kinds of trickery | शुष्णम् (śuṣṇam) — the asura named Śuṣṇa who harms people | मायाभिः (māyābhiḥ) — by means of deceitful stratagems suited to his own, or by your intelligence and capacity | अव अतिरः (ava atiraḥ) — have destroyed | मेधिराः (medhirāḥ) — wise people | विदुः (viduḥ) — know | तेषाम् (teṣām) — to those | ³⁷ श्रवांसि (śravāṃsi) — foods (food and other nourishment) | उत् तिर (ut tira) — increase (give in abundance).

original p. 476

Rik 7: overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

35. The grammar of māyābhiḥ, māyīnam, śuṣṇam, avātiraḥ, medhirāḥ, śravāṃsi, uttira is in the Sanskrit and noted briefly below: that māyā takes māj with the suffix māñ ...; that śuṣṇa is from śuṣa śoṣaṇe with nak (Uṇ. 3-[?]); that medhira is from medhā with iran; avātiraḥ is the lañ of tṛ with the augment aṭ in the Veda.

36. Some of the Sanskrit is compressed in the scan.

37. that is, to those who perform sacrifices and the like, being wise

O Indra! The asura named Śuṣṇa was exceedingly deceitful. You killed such a deceitful asura by the same stratagems, or by your own intelligence and power. Wise people know this greatness of yours. Give them food and other nourishment in abundance.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, you killed the wily Sushna by your stratagems; the wise men have known this your greatness; bestow upon them abundant food.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Māyābhiḥ," "māyinam" — māyā means a special kind of trickery: wile, stratagem, device, power, capacity, etc. [the source's English]. To explain this sense of the word māyā, the source gives a couple of riks:

रूपरूपं मघवा बोभवीति मायाः कृण्वानस्तन्वं परि स्वाम् ॥ rūpaṃ-rūpaṃ maghavā bobhavīti māyāḥ kṛṇvānas tanvaṃ pari svām | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 6-47-18 [?]) ("Maghavan takes form after form, making māyās [wonders] around his own body." — my gloss, tentative.)

इन्द्रो मायाभिः पुरुरूप ईयते युक्ता ह्यस्य हरयः शता दश ॥ indro māyābhiḥ pururūpa īyate yuktā hy asya harayaḥ śatā daśa | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 6-47-18 [?]; printed as "६-४७-१८") ("Indra moves with his māyās, of many forms; his hundred and ten [tawny horses] are yoked." — my gloss, tentative; the number "ten" before "hundred" follows the print, but both lines carry the same reference number in the source, so one of the two numbers is likely wrong.)

and many more examples. Since the word māyā is read among the eleven words for "wisdom" beginning with ketaḥ, ketuḥ (Nirukta 3-9 [?]), māyā means prajñā, knowledge, understanding, intelligence, a device, etc. In examining this sense of "wisdom," the sage Yāska, in his Nirukta, explaining the rik

मूर्धा भुवो भवति नक्तमग्निस्ततः सूर्यो जायते प्रातरुद्यन् । मायामू तु यज्ञियानामेतामपो यत्तूर्णिश्चरति प्रजानन् ॥ mūrdhā bhuvo bhavati naktam agnis tataḥ sūryo jāyate prātar udyan | māyām ū tu yajñiyānām etām apo yat tūrṇiś carati prajānan | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 10-88-6 [?]; the source's number reads "१०-८८-६") (The Devanagari is a best reading of compressed print; I offer no gloss.)

says: "mūrdhā — [the head] on which the head is placed: whatever is the head of all beings; naktam agniḥ — at night, Agni; then Sūrya is born, rising at dawn. Sa eva prajñām tv eṣāṃ manyante yajñiyānām devānām yajña-saṃpādinām apo yat karma carati prajānan sarvāṇi sthānāny anusaṃ carate tvaramāṇaḥ" (Nirukta 7-32 [?]) — thus plainly giving the word māyā the sense of prajñā; and again:

original p. 477

Rik 7: Special Topics (continued)

शुक्रं ते अन्यद्यजतं ते अन्यद्विषुरूपे अहनी द्यौरिवासि । विश्वा हि माया अवसि स्वधावो भद्रा ते पूषन्निह रातिरस्तु ॥ śukraṃ te anyad yajataṃ te anyad viṣurūpe ahanī dyaur ivāsi | viśvā hi māyā avasi svadhāvo bhadrā te pūṣann iha rātir astu | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 6-58-1 [?]; the source's number reads "६-५८-१") ("One bright is yours, another worthy of worship; you are like the heaven, of two different forms of day and night; for you protect all māyās, O Svadhāvan; may your gift here be auspicious, O Pūṣan." — my gloss, tentative.)

In the exposition of this rik too, Yāska explains the word māyā as prajñā: "śukraṃ te anyal lohitaṃ te anyad yajñiyaṃ te anyad viṣamarūpe te ahanī karma dyaur iva cāsi sarvāṇi prajñānāny avasy annavan bhājanavatī te pūṣann iha dātrastu" (Nirukta 12-17 [?]).

"Śuṣṇam" — the name of an asura. The word śuṣṇa means strength (Nirukta 2-9 [?]). There are many riks that describe Indra killing the asura Śuṣṇa:

शुष्णं पिपुं कुयवं वृत्रमिन्द्र यदावधीर्वि पुरः शम्बरस्य ॥ śuṣṇaṃ pipruṃ kuyavaṃ vṛtram indra yadāvadhīr vi puraḥ śambarasya || (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-103-8 [?]; printed as "१-१०३-८") ("When, O Indra, you slew Śuṣṇa, Pipru, Kuyava and Vṛtra, [and broke] the forts of Śambara." — my gloss, tentative.)

In this rik it is said that when Indra destroyed the city of the asura Śambara, he killed four asuras, Śuṣṇa, Pipru, Kuyava and Vṛtra.

उग्रो ययिं निरपः स्रोतसासृजद्वि शुष्णस्य दृहिता ऐरयत्पुरः ॥ ugro yayiṃ nirapaḥ srotasāsṛjad vi śuṣṇasya dṛmhitā airayat puraḥ || (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-51-11 [?]; printed "१-५१-११") (A best reading of compressed print; the sense is that Indra released the waters and shook loose the fortified cities of Śuṣṇa — my gloss, tentative.)

In this rik it is said that Indra released the city of the asura Śuṣṇa. There are many riks that suggest such a sense. Besides, to śuṣṇa one may give the sense śoṣayitr, i.e., the "one who causes to dry up." In such a context the sense may be given that Indra strikes with his power the cloud that makes the earth parch by not letting the rain flow. In this context Yāska says:

नियुद्ध्वणक्षि श्वसनस्य मूर्धनि शुष्णस्य चिद्वृन्दिनो रोरुवद्वना ॥ niyud dhvaṇakṣi śvasanasya mūrdhani śuṣṇasya cid vrandino roruvad vanā || (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-54-5 [?]; printed "१-५४-५") (A best reading; no gloss offered.)

in explaining this rik he gives to śuṣṇa the sense śoṣayitā — "one who dries up" (Nirukta 5-5-14 [?]); and again:

न्याविध्यदिलीबिशस्य दृब्हा वि शृङ्गिणमभिनच्छुष्मिन्द्रः ॥ ny āvidhyad
ilībiśasya dṛḷhā vi śṛṅgiṇaṃ abhinac chuṣṇam indraḥ | |
 (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 1-33-12 [?]; printed "१-३३-१२") (A best reading; no gloss offered.)

in explaining this rik too he says "nirāvidhyad ilābilaśayasya dṛḍhāni vyabhinac chr̥ṅgiṇaṃ śuṣṇam indraḥ," that is, Indra struck the cloud that stands over the summit of a mountain and, instead of letting the rain flow, dries up the earth (Nirukta 6-30 [?]).

original pp. 478-479

Rik 7: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Ava atiraḥ" — hiṃsitavān asi: "you struck, you killed."

"Viduḥ te"

— "they know you, or they know your [greatness]": that is, they know your greatness, or your power and capacity.

"Medhirāḥ" — medhāvantaḥ, wise, discerning people.

"Śravāṃsi" — foods, nourishment. In explaining the rik āsaskrāṇāḥ śavasā (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 6-62-? [?]) Yāska gives the word śravas the sense of food: "śrava ity anna-nāma śrūyata iti sataḥ" (Nirukta 10-3 [?]).

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁸

मायाभिः (māyābhiḥ) — root mān māne (or māj), and mā-type roots ṭuvapa [print compressed], with yā by "mācchāsasisūbhyo yaḥ" [print: "mācchāsasisu..."] (Uṇ. 4-109 [?]): after mā, chā, sasi, sū, the suffix ya; māyā; final-udātta by the suffix; feminine ṭap by "ajādyataṣṭāp" (Pā. 4-1-4 [?]), unaccented since pit; savarṇadīrgha; the single substitute is udātta ("ekādeśa udāttēnodāttaḥ," Pā. 8-2-5 [?]); bhis follows, unaccented; then svarita by "udāttād

38. grammar pages 478-479, noted briefly

anudāttasya svaritaḥ" (Pā. 8-4-66 [?]). मायिनम् (māyīnam) — "māyā asya asti": ini by "vrihyādibhyaś ca" (Pā. 5-2-116 [?]), after words of the vrihi group in the possessive sense; the a-final dropped by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); accusative singular am; the suffix accent. शुष्णम् (śuṣṇam) — root śuṣa śoṣaṇe; with the causative sense inside; the suffix na by "ṛṣiśuṣirasibhyaḥ kit" [print: "ṛṣi śuṣi rasibhyaḥ kit"] (Uṇ. 3-[?]) in the senses of śuṣa śoṣaṇe and rasa śabde; na is kit, so no laghūpadha-guṇa; and nit, so initial-udātta; ṇatva by "raśābhyām no ṇaḥ samānapade" (Pā. 8-4-1 [?]): śuṣṇa. अतिरः (atirah) — root tṛ plavanataranayoḥ (bhvādi); laṇ second singular sip; the vikaraṇa that should be śap appears as śa by Vedic inversion ("tṛ + a + s"); sārvadhātukam apit (Pā. 1-2-4 [?]) makes it nit-like, so no guṇa; "ṛta id dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-100 [?]) gives i in place of r; uraṇ raparah; the augment aṭ (udātta, by Pā. 6-4-71 [?]); ru and visarga: atirah. विदुष्टे तस्य (viduṣṭe tasya) — these three words were explained in the previous mantra; but there the word stands at the head of the fourth pāda, here at the head of the third pāda — that is the difference. मेधिराः (medhirāḥ) — root medhṛ medhāhimsanayoḥ ("to be wise; to harm") with iran ("iranādi" [print: "ṇādika"], Uṇ. 1-[?]); nit, so initial-udātta. श्रवांसि (śravāṃsi) — "nabviṣayasyāniṣantasya" (Phit-sūtra 36 [?]): initial-udātta.

॥७॥

original p. 479

Sūkta 11, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रमीशानमोजसाभि स्तोमा अनूषत । सहस्रं यस्य रातय उत वा सन्ति भूयसीः ॥८॥

*indram īśānam ojasābhi stomā anūṣata | sahasraṃ yasya
rātaya uta vā santi bhūyasīḥ | | 8 | |*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रम् । ईशानम् । ओजसा । अभि । स्तोमाः । अनूषत ॥ सहस्रम् । यस्य । रातयः । उत । वा । सन्ति । भूयसीः ॥८॥

indram | īśānam | ojasā | abhi | stomāḥ | anūṣata ||
sahasram | yasya | rātayaḥ | uta | vā | santi | bhūyasīḥ ||
8 ||

Page 479 (lower) — Rik 8: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

स्तोमाः स्तोतार ऋत्विज ओजसा बलेनेशानं जगतो नियामकमिन्द्रमभ्यनूषत । सर्वत्र
स्तुतवन्तः । यस्येन्द्रस्य रातयो धनदानानि सहस्रं सहस्रसंख्योपेतानि सन्ति । उत वाथवा
भूयसीः सहस्रसंख्यया अप्यधिकाः सन्ति । तमिन्द्रमिति पूर्वत्रान्वयः ॥ इन्द्रम् ।
ऋज्रेन्द्रेत्यादिना रन् । निच्वाद्याद्युदात्तः । ईशानम् । लटः शानच् । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः इति
शपो लुक् । धातोरनुदात्तेत्वात्तास्यनुदात्तेत्यादिना शानचो ऽनुदात्तत्वम् । ओजसा ।
नभ्विषयेत्याद्याद्युदात्तः । स्तोमाः । अर्तिस्तुसुत्यादिना मन्प्रत्ययः । निच्वाद्याद्युदात्तः । अनूषत ।
णु स्तुतौ । णो नः । लुङ् । व्यत्ययेन ऋः [?] । तस्मादनादेशः । पा. २-१-२३ [?] । च्लेः सिच् । अस्य धातोः कुटादित्वेन सि- ... [the Sanskrit goes on over p. 480 on the grammar of sahasram, rātayaḥ, uta, vā, santi, bhūyasīḥ, noted briefly below]

stomāḥ stotāra ṛtvija ojasā balenēśānaṃ jagato niyāmakam indram abhy anūṣata | sarvatra stutavantaḥ | yasyendrasya rātayo dhana-dānāni sahasraṃ sahasra-saṃkhyopetāni santi
| uta vāthavā bhūyasīḥ sahasra-saṃkhyayā apy adhikāḥ santi
| tam indram iti pūrvatrānvayaḥ || indram | ṛjrendrety-ādinā ran | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | īśānam | laṭaḥ śānac |
ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti śapo luk | dhātor anudāttettvāt
tāsyānudātteti-ādinā śānaco 'nudāttatvam | ojasā |
nabhviṣayety ādyudāttaḥ | stomāḥ | artistusutyādinā man-pratyayaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | anūṣata | ṇu stutau | ṇo
naḥ | luṅ | vyatyayena ṛḥ [?] | ... cleḥ sic | asya dhātoḥ kuṭāditvena si- ...

Translation: "The stomāḥ — the praisers, the priests — with ojas, with strength, abhy anūṣata: praised on all sides Indra, īśānam, the ruler who governs the world; yasya — whose — rātayaḥ, gifts of wealth, sahasraṃ santi, are a thousand in number; uta vā — or — bhūyasīḥ, are more than a thousand. [tam indram, 'that Indra,' is the connection with what precedes.]" ³⁹ ⁴⁰

original p. 480

Rik 8: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

यस्य (yasya) — of which Indra | रतयः (rātayaḥ) — gifts of wealth | सहस्रम् (sahasram) — as many as a thousand | उत वा (uta vā) — or | भूयसीः (bhūyasīḥ) — even more | सन्ति (santi) — there are ⁴¹ | ईशानम् (īśānam) — who governs the world | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | स्तोमाः (stomāḥ) — the priests who praise | ओजसा (ojasā) — with all the strength they have | अभि अनुषत (abhi anūṣata) — praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra gives to those who praise him a thousand, or even more, in wealth and other gifts. The priests and others praise such an Indra with all their strength.

॥ English Translation ॥

39. The accompanying grammar, noted briefly: that indra is formed with ran (Uṇ. 2-28 [?]), initial-udātta since nī; īśānam with śānac for laṭ, unaccented because the root is anudātta-it; ojas initial-udātta; stoma with man; anūṣata — root ṇu stutau with luṇ in the Vedic ātmanepada, with cli → sic.

40. Parts of this Sanskrit are compressed in the scan.

41. to such Indra

The reciters of sacred hymns praise with all their might Indra, the ruler of the world whose bounties are counted by thousands or even more.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Ojasā" — balena: "with strength, with all the strength they have; with enthusiasm," and so on.

"Stomāḥ" — for this word the Bhāṣyakāra gives the meaning stotāra ṛtvijaḥ, "priests who praise." The word stoma is a neuter noun meaning "hymn"; when it is masculine, it means "those who praise."

"Sahasram"

— a thousand in number, many.

"Bhūyasīḥ" — sahasrasaṃkhyāyā api adhikāḥ — more than a thousand, more than can be counted, in excess.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴²

यस्य (yasya), रतयः (rātayaḥ) — as before. उत (uta) — a nipāta, initial-udātta (Phiṭ-sūtra 80 [?]). वा (vā) — of the cādi class, unaccented ("cādayo 'nudāttāḥ," Phiṭ-sūtra 94 [?]). सन्ति (santi) — as bhuvi, jhi; śap dropped; a of as dropped by "śnasor allopaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-111 [?]); the finite verb is not lowered here because "yad" is understood ("yad vṛttānnityam," Pā. 8-1-66 [?]) — a verb in a clause with the relative yasya is not lowered. भूयसीः (bhūyasīḥ) — "bahor lopo bhū ca bahoh" (Pā. 6-4-158 [?]): īyasun after bahu with bahu → bhū; the final i-type letter dropped; īyasun is nīṭ and so initial-udātta; the feminine nīp ("ugitāś ca," Pā. 4-1-6 [?]) with jas → accusative plural śas; the long note on sahasra with a "second-case" word of a measure, as the vibhakti-bearing sahasra (vibhakty-artha) in the sense of "more than a thousand" (Pā. 5-3-62 [?], "dvivacanavibhajyopapade tarabīyasunau") — the source says the īyasun here arises because sahasra is understood, being in proximity, as an upapada of comparison.

42. grammar pages 480–481, noted briefly

॥८॥

original p. 482

Rik 8 grammar closes; close of Sūkta 11

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

Closing भूयसी: (bhūyasīḥ) — "sahasrād api atīśayena bahvyaḥ": by "dvivacanavibhajyopapade tarabīyasunau" (Pā. 5-3-57 [?]), īyasun is added to a word expressing comparison between two or among many when the compared items or the term of division are stated; the source argues that sahasra is understood here as upapada in the sense of nearness, so the comparative suffix is added in its own sense after a subanta or tiṅanta (the rule on tarap and īyasun); "bahor lopo bhū ca bahoḥ" (Pā. 6-4-158 [?]) drops the iṣṭha-type affixes after bahu and gives bhū for bahu; "ādeḥ parasya" (Pā. 1-1-54 [?]) drops the i of īyasun (the loss belongs to the first letter of what follows); "bhū + īyasun": bhūyas; īyasun is nit, so initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); bhūyas is ugit, so the feminine ñīp by "ugitaś ca" (Pā. 4-1-6 [?]); bhūyas + ñīp → bhūyasī, the accusative plural śas gives bhūyasīḥ; ñīp is pī and unaccented ("anudāttau supitau," Pā. 3-1-4 [?]).

॥८॥

End of Sūkta 11.

original p. 483

॥ ಹನ್ನೆರಡನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 12 — "agnim dūtaṃ vṛṇīmahe" ("The Twelfth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

चतुर्थानुवाके षट् सूक्तानि । तत्राग्निं दूतमित्यादिकस्य द्वादशर्चस्य प्रथमस्य सूक्तस्य
कण्वपुत्रो मेधातिथिर्ऋषिः । आपोनप्त्रादर्भावादनुवर्तमानं [?] प्राग्घिरण्यस्तूपादित्युक्तं
गायत्रमेव छन्दः । अग्निर्देवताकत्वं विस्पष्टम् । अत एवानुक्रम्यते । अग्निं द्वादश मेधातिथिः
काण्वः आग्नेयमग्निनेति पादो दृष्टग्निर्देवतो निर्मथ्य आहवनीयश्चेति ॥ विनियोगस्तु ।
प्रातरनुवाके आग्नेये क्रतौ गायत्रे छन्दस्यग्निं दूतमिति सूक्तम् । अथैतस्या रात्रेर्विवासकाल
इति खण्डे ऽग्निमीळे ऽग्निं दूतम् । आ. ४-१५ [?] । इति सूत्रितम् । तथा पृष्ठ्यषडहस्य
द्वितीये ऽहनि [?] । अग्निं दूतमिति द्वितीये । आ. ७-१० [?] । इति । दर्शपूर्णमासयोः सामिधेनीषु ॥

*caturthānuvāke ṣaṭ sūktāni | tatrāgnim dūtaṃ ity-ādikasya dvādaśarcasya prathamasya sūktasya kaṇvaputro medhātithir ṛṣiḥ | āpo-naptrād-abhāvād anuvartamānaṃ [?] prāg-hiraṇya-stūpād ity uктаṃ gāyatram eva chandaḥ | agni-devatākatvaṃ
vispaṣṭam | ata evānukramyate | agnim dvādaśa medhātithiḥ kāṇvaḥ āgneyam agnineti pādo dr̥ṣṭ-agnir-daivato nirmathya āhavanīyaś ceti | | viniyogas tu | prātar-anuvāke āgneye
kratau gāyat্রে chandasy agnim dūtaṃ iti sūktam | athaitasyā
rātrēr vivāsa-kāla iti khaṇḍe 'gnim īle 'gnim dūtaṃ | ā. 4-15 [?]*

| iti sūtritām | tathā prṣṭhya-ṣaḍahasya dvitīye 'hani [?] |
 agniṃ dūtām iti dvitīye | ā. 7-10 [?] | iti | darśapūrṇamāsayoḥ
 sāmīdhenīṣu | |

Translation: "In the fourth anuvāka there are six sūktas. Of these, the first, the twelve-rik sūkta beginning agniṃ dūtām, has as its ṛṣi Medhātithi, son of Kaṇva. [The meter, which continues from the earlier sūktas — it was said 'up to the hiranyastūpa [Āṅgīrasa group]' — is Gāyatrī.] That its deity is Agni is clear; so the Anukramaṇī says: 'agniṃ dvādaśa medhātithiḥ kṇvaḥ'; and as to the verse āgneyam agnīnā: the deities are Agni, Agni Nirmathya, and Āhavanīya [the exact deity-list is read from compressed print]. Its application: in the Āgneya rite, in the morning-recitation (prātaranuvāka), in the Gāyatrī meter, the sūkta agniṃ dūtām is used; in the section 'now at the time of the night's dawning' it is laid down: 'agniṃ īle', 'agniṃ dūtām' (Āśvalāyana 4-15 [?]). Likewise on the second day of the Prṣṭhya Ṣaḍaha: 'agniṃ dūtām in the second' (Āśvalāyana 7-10 [?]). [It is also used] in the sāmīdhenī verses of the Darśa and Pūrṇamāsa rites." ¹

|| Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) || The fourth anuvāka begins with the twelfth sūkta; it contains six sūktas. The ṛṣi of the first, agniṃ dūtām, of twelve riks, is Medhātithi, son of Kaṇva. The meter is Gāyatrī; the deity is Agni — so the Anukramaṇī says in the section "agniṃ dvādaśa medhātithiḥ kṇvaḥ." Application: when reciting the Gāyatrī-meter riks in the prātaranuvāka of the Āgneya sacrifice, the sūkta agniṃ dūtām is to be recited. Āśvalāyana says so in the section athaitasyā rātrē vivāsakāle (Āś. Sū. 4-15 [?]); and on the second day of the Prṣṭhya-ṣaḍaha rite it is used as ājya-śāstra mantras (Āś. Sū. 7-10 [?], in the section prṣṭhyasyābhiplave, "agniṃ dūtām in the second"). And in the Darśapūrṇamāsa sacrifices, when reciting the sāmīdhenī riks, the

1. The sentence about the meter and the deity-list are compressed in the scan; the Kannada rendering below confirms the sense.

rik agniṃ dūtam is to be recited, as the section namaḥ pravakre says; and in the Śrauta-sūtra (1-3), īlenyo namasyas tiro 'gniṃ dūtam vṛṇīmahe.

original p. 484

Sūkta 12, Rik 1

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ Sūkta — 12 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 4 ॥ Sūkta — 12 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 22, 23 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras contained in this sūkta: 1–12 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva ॥ ³ ॥ Devatā — Agni; [of Rik 6] Agni Nirmathya, Agni Āpavasiya[?] ॥ and others ॥ ⁴ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्निं दूतं वृणीमहे होतारं विश्ववेदसम् । अस्य यज्ञस्य सुक्रतुम् ॥१॥

*agniṃ dūtam vṛṇīmahe hotāraṃ viśvavedasam | asya
yajñasya sukratum || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्निम् । दूतम् । वृणीमहे । होतारम् । विश्ववेदसम् ॥ अस्य । यज्ञस्य । सुक्रतुम् ॥१॥

*agnim | dūtam | vṛṇīmahe | hotāram | viśva-vedasam | |
asya | yajñasya | su-kratum || 1 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अग्नेर्दूतत्वमेतन्मन्त्रव्याख्याने तैत्तिरीयब्राह्मणे समाम्नायते । अग्निर्देवानां दूत आसीदुशनाः
काव्यो ऽसुराणाम् । तै. सं. २-५-८-५ [?] । इति । तादृशं देवदूतमग्निमस्मिन्कर्मणि वृणीमहे ।
संभजामः । कीदृशम् । होतारं देवानामाह्वतारं विश्ववेदसं सर्वधनोपेतम् अस्य प्रवर्तमानस्य

2. small-print Kannada digits, read at 300 dpi; the first numeral is clear as "2" but the second digit of each is blurred

3. printed "1–12 medhātithiḥ kāṇvaḥ"

4. the deity line reads "agniḥ | 6 — agnir nirmathyo 'gnir āpavasiyaś ca |"; I give it as printed, with the second name uncertain

यज्ञस्य निष्पादकत्वेन सुक्रतुं शोभनकर्माणं शोभनप्रज्ञं वा ॥
 मघमित्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु धननामसु वेदस्शब्दः पठितः ॥ होतारम् । हेज् स्पर्धायां
 शब्दे च । तृन् । ताच्छील्यादिषु । बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणे । परपूर्वत्वे गुणावादेशौ ।
 नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । विश्ववेदसम् । बहुव्रीहौ । विश्वं संज्ञायाम् । पा. ६-२-१०६ । इति
 पूर्वपदान्तोदात्तः । अस्य । ऊडिदमित्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । सुक्रतुम् । क्रत्वादयश्च । पा.
 ६-२-११८ । इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् ॥

*agner dūtātvaṃ etan-mantra-vyākhyāne taittirīya-brāhmaṇe samāmnāyate | agnir devānāṃ dūta āsīd uśanāḥ kāvya
 'surāṇām | tai. saṃ. 2-5-8-5 [?] | iti | tādṛśaṃ deva-dūtām
 agnim asmin karmaṇi vṛṇīmahe | saṃbhajāmaḥ | kīdṛśam | hotāraṃ devānām āhvātāraṃ viśvavedasaṃ sarva-dhanopetam asya pravartamānasya yajñasya niṣpādakatvena sukratum śobhana-karmāṇaṃ śobhana-prajñam vā | | magham ity-ādiṣv aṣṭāviṃśati-saṃkhyākeṣu dhana-nāmasu
 vedas-śabdaḥ paṭhitaḥ | | hotāram | hveṇ spardhāyām śabde
 ca | tṛṇ | tācchīlyādiṣu | bahulaṃ chandasīti saṃprasāraṇe |
 parapūrvatve guṇāvādeśau | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ |
 viśvavedasam | bahuvrīhau | viśvaṃ saṃjñāyām | pā. 6-2-106
 | iti pūrvapadāntodāttaḥ | asya | ūḍidam ity-ādinā vibhakter udāttatvam | sukratum | kratv-ādayaś ca | pā. 6-2-118 | ity-
 ādyudāttatvam | |*

Translation: "That Agni is a messenger is stated in the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa, in explanation of this mantra: 'Agni was the messenger of the gods; Uśanas Kāvya, of the asuras' (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 2-5-8-5 [?]). Such an Agni, messenger of the gods, we vṛṇīmahe — choose, serve — in this rite. What kind? Hotāram — the caller of the gods; viśvavedasam — endowed with all wealth; sukratum — as the accomplisher of this rite now in progress, of excellent action, or of excellent wisdom. Among the twenty-eight words for 'wealth' beginning with magham, vedas is read." ⁵

Rik 1: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

दूतम् (dūtam) — the messenger of the gods | होतारम् (hotāram) — one who invokes the gods for sacrifices and the like | विश्ववेदसम् (viśvavedasam) — endowed with all wealth | अस्य यज्ञस्य (asya yajñasya) — of this sacrifice | सुक्रतुम् (sukratum) — one who knows well how this rite is carried out, or the one who performs it well | अग्निम् (agniṃ) — the deity named Agni | वृणीमहे (vṛṇīmahe) — we choose, we invoke (we call).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Agni is the messenger of the gods, and he makes the gods favourable to the sacrificial rites that we perform. This Agni has abundant wealth, and is the chief performer in this sacrifice, or one who knows well the nature of the rite. Such an Agni we choose (we pray to).

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁶

We select (invoke) Agni, the messenger of Gods, their invoker, the possessor of riches, the perfecter of this rite or the highly wise.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The ṛṣi of Sūktas 12–23. From this sūkta up to the 23rd, the ṛṣi is Medhātithi, son of Kaṇva. These sūktas have no great complexity beyond the Madhucchandas sūktas explained so far: they can be understood by anyone, with no need to supply special words, and the style is easy. The style of some ṛṣis is very strained; that of others easy to follow. In the order described earlier, at the start come Agni-sūktas, then many Indra-sūktas, and afterward the sūktas of other deities. The descendants of this ṛṣi are the seers of the 8th and 9th maṇḍalas [print: sūktas 8-? to 9-?]. This rik agnim dūtaṃ vṛṇīmahe is also read in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā (3-5-11-3; 3-5-6-1 [?]), the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa (2-5-2-3 [?]), the Sāma-Veda (1-3 [?]) and the Maitrāyaṇīya Saṃhitā (4-10-2 [?]). ⁷

5. Grammar noted briefly: that hotṛ is from hveñ with tr̥n in the habitual sense, with saṃprasāraṇa, guṇa and av, initial-udātta since nit; that viśvavedasam is a bahuvrīhi in which viśva with a name-sense ends in udātta (Pā. 6-2-106 [?]); that the case-ending of asya is udātta; and that sukratu has initial accent by Pā. 6-2-118 [?].

"Dūtam" — in explaining the word dūta, the Bhāṣyakāra cites the Yajurveda sentence "agnir devānāṃ dūta āsīd uśanāḥ kāvyo 'surāṇām" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 2-5-8-5 [?]): that is, Agni was the messenger of the gods, and Uśanas, son of Kavi, the messenger of the asuras. And the Yajurveda śruti says "parokṣaṃ vā anye devāḥ" — the other gods (those other than Agni) are not visible to us directly. When we humans pour into Agni the oblations we offer, so that they reach the gods, Agni stands between humans and gods, and it is believed that he carries the oblations to the gods. Hence Agni is called the messenger of the gods, as is customary.

"Vṛṇīmahe" — "we choose; we select; select, choose" and so on [the source's own English]. Skandasvāmī explains it as "we pray."

"Viśvavedasam" — sarvadhanopetam — "endowed with all wealth"; the word ratnadhātāmam in the first rik of the Ṛgveda, agnim īle, supports this sense. Vedas is read among the twenty-eight words for wealth beginning with magham (Nirukta 2-9 [?]); so vedas means wealth.

"Sukratum" — śobhana-karmāṇam or śobhana-prajñam: one who has good deeds or good wisdom; that is, one who performs the needed acts of sacrifice and brings the sacrificial rite to completion with all its limbs; one of excellent wisdom; one who

6. as printed in the source

7. The numerals are compressed and read with reservation.

knows well the nature of the rites of sacrifice and the like. The word kratu is read both among the twenty-six words for 'work' beginning with apas and apnas (Nirukta 2-1 [?]), and among the eleven words for 'wisdom' beginning with ketaḥ (Nirukta 3-9 [?]), so kratu has two senses, work and wisdom.

original pp. 486–487

Rik 1: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁸

होतारम् (hotāram) — root hveñ spardhāyāṃ śabde ca; tṛn by "nvul-tṛcau" [print: "tṛn" by Pā. 3-2-135 [?]] in the habitual, meritorious and skilful senses; saṃprasāraṇa by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]); pūrvārūpa ("saṃprasāraṇāc ca," Pā. 6-1-108 [?]); guṇa of the hu (sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ, Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); the u → o and the accusative singular am with the root-end lengthened by "ṛto 'ji sarvanāmasthānayoḥ" [print] and "āpa-tṛn-ṛc" (Pā. 6-4-11 [?]): hotāram; tṛn is nīṭ, so initial-udātta. विश्ववेदसम् (viśvavedasam) — "viśvaṃ vedo yasya saḥ": a bahuvrīhi; "bahuvrīhau viśvaṃ saṃjñāyām" (Pā. 6-2-106 [?]) — viśva as the first member in a name-bahuvrīhi ends in udātta; without this sūtra viśva would be initial-udātta, being a kvan word, and "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]) would keep that; the sūtra overrides it, so the final syllable is udātta. अस्य (asya) — after idam, the genitive ending is udātta by "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-171 [?]). सुक्रतुम् (sukratum) — "kratvādayaś ca" (Pā. 6-2-118 [?]): words of the kratu class after su are initial-udātta, so the kratu in sukratu is initial-udātta. ⁹

॥१॥

original p. 487

8. grammar pages, noted briefly

9. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

Sūkta 12, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्निमग्निं हवीमभिः सदा हवन्त विशपतिम् । हव्यवाहं पुरुप्रियम् ॥२॥

*agnim-agnim havīmabhiḥ sadā havanta viśpatim |
havyavāham purupriyam || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्निम्ऽअग्निम् । हवीम्ऽभिः । सदा । हवन्त । विशपतिम् ॥ हव्यऽवाहम् । पुरुऽप्रियम् ॥२॥

*agnim-agnim | havīma-bhiḥ | sadā | havanta | viśpatim | |
havya-vāham | puru-priyam | | 2 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

येनैकैः [?] अग्निः स्वरूपेणैक एव तथापि

प्रयोगभेदादाहवनीयादिस्थानभेदात्पावकादिविशेषणभेदाद्वा बहुविधत्वमभिप्रेत्याग्निमग्निमिति वीप्सा । तं हवीमभिराह्वानकरणैर्मन्त्रैः सदा हवन्ते । निरन्तरमनुष्ठातार आह्वयन्ति । कीदृशम् । विशपतिं विशां प्रजानां होत्रादीनां पालकं हव्यवाहं यजमानसमर्पितस्य हविषो देवान्प्रति वोढारं अत एव पुरुप्रियं बहूनां प्रीत्यास्पदम् ॥

*yenaikaiḥ [?] agniḥ svarūpeṇaika eva tathāpi prayoga-bhedād āhavanīyādi-sthāna-bhedāt pāvakādi-viśeṣaṇa-bhedād vā bahu-vidhatvam abhipretyāgnim agnim iti vīpsā | taṃ havīmabhir āhvāna-karaṇair mantraiḥ sadā havante |
nirantaram anuṣṭhātāra āhvayanti | kīdṛśam | viśpatim viśaṃ prajānāṃ hotrādīnāṃ pālakaṃ havyavāham yajamānasamarpitasya haviṣo devān prati voḍhāraṃ ata eva purupriyam bahūnāṃ prīty-āspadam | |*

Translation: "Agni is one in his own nature; nevertheless, with a view to his manifoldness — by differences of use, by differences of place such as the āhavanīya [fire] and the rest, or by differences of epithets such as pāvaka [the purifier] — the repetition agnim agnim ('Agni, Agni') is used. Him, havīmabhiḥ — with mantras that serve as the means of invocation — the performers sadā havante — constantly call. What kind of Agni? Viśpatim — protector of the viś, the people: the hotṛ priests and others; havyavāham — the carrier, to the gods, of the oblation offered by the sacrificer; and therefore purupriyam — the dear one of many." ¹⁰

Note — The remaining Sanskrit, pp. 487–488, is Sāyaṇa's grammar of अग्निमग्निम्, हवीमभिः, सदा, हवन्त, विश्वपतिम्, हव्यवाहम्, पुरुप्रियम्; noted briefly. In outline: agnim agnim is a doubling of the word with the sense "each and every"; the second member, called āmreḍita, is unaccented; havīmabhiḥ is from hveñ with īman (Uṇ. 4-[?]) after hve in the sense of calling, with saṃprasāraṇa; sadā is from sarva with dā (Pā. 5-3-15 [?]) and the replacement sa for sarva; havanta is the lañ of hveñ in the ātmanepada with the augment aṭ dropped in the Veda and the Vedic ending anta; viśpatim has the genitive ending of viś replaced by s before pati (Pā. 8-3-53 [?]) and keeps the first member's accent; havyavāham is from vah with ṇvi (Pā. 3-2-64 [?]), a second member with the kṛdanta accent; purupriyam with the first-member accent of a bahuvrīhi.

original p. 488

Rik 2: Sanskrit grammar (briefly noted), word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

विश्वपतिम् (viśpatim) — the lord, the protector, of the people (the hotṛ priests and others) | हव्यवाहम् (havyavāham) — [the one] who carries to the gods the oblations offered by the sacrificer | पुरुप्रियम् (purupriyam) — dear to all | अग्निमग्निम् (agnim-agnim) — to Agni (who is seen in places such as the āhavanīya) | हवीमभिः (havīmabhiḥ) — with the mantras used for invocation | सदा (sadā) — always | हवन्त (havanta) — [the performers of sacrifices] invoke.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

10. The first words of the bhāṣya are compressed; the sense is clear from the Kannada.

Although Agni is one, he appears separately in different places — the āhavanīya, the gārhapatya and others. He is the protector of all people, beginning with the sacrificer; he carries to the gods the oblations offered in the sacrifice; he is dear to all. The people who perform sacrifices always invoke such an Agni with mantras of invocation.

॥ English Translation ॥

They (offerers of oblations) constantly invoke Agni and Agni again, the lord of men, the bearer of offerings, the beloved of many.

original pp. 489–490

Rik 2: Special Topics and grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Agnim-agnim" — "nityavīpsayoḥ": a word is doubled by "nityavīpsayoḥ" (Pā. 8-1-4 [?]). By pronouncing a word twice, the sense "each one" is conveyed. Here it means: Agni in each of the different places established in the sacrifices — the āhavanīya, the dakṣiṇāgni, the gārhapatya, and so on.

"Viśpatim" — viśāṃ prajānām patim: the lord, the master, of the people (progeny) [the source's English: "Ruler of men, progeny"].

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹¹

अग्निमग्निम् (agnim-agnim) — "nityavīpsayoḥ" (Pā. 8-1-4 [?]): nitya and vīpsā are the two senses, and one must ask which item is the thing enjoined and which the object of the "expectation" (ākāṅkṣā); hence "sarvasya dve" (Pā. 8-1-1 [?]) is in force as a governing rule, and the later sūtra "padasya" (Pā. 8-1-16 [?]) is connected too. Dve ("two") is a number-word expecting a number of items, so the doubling of the word is gained from the

11. grammar pages 489–490, noted briefly

grammar's own statement. Nitya here means "repeated" (paunaḥpunya); vīpsā means "wish to reach every one" (vyāptīcchā); in grammatical understanding only the sense "pervading" is gained. Since paunaḥpunya and vyāpti are seen together, the sense is that two words stand in the place of the full word: agnim agniṃ, "every Agni." Paunaḥpunya is a property of the action, so the doubling occurs for both a finite verb and an indeclinable-derived kṛdanta too. By "tasya paramāmreḍitaṃ" (Pā. 8-1-2 [?]) the second member of a doubled word is named āmreḍita; and by "anudāttaṃ ca" (Pā. 8-1-3 [?]) it is unaccented. हवीमभिः (havīmabhiḥ) — root hveñ spardhāyām śabde ca; manin by "anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante" (Pā. 3-2-75 [?]) in an agent sense; though mantras are instruments of invocation, by the maxim "vivakṣātaḥ kārakāṇi bhavanti" — a factor is spoken of according to what one wishes to express, as in "sthālī pacati" ("the pot cooks") — the independence of the mantras in carrying out the act is intended, and so manin in an agent sense is not barred; hve + manin; the augment iṭ by Vedic license, hve + īman; "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]) gives saṃprasāraṇa of the root: ve → u (hu + īman), pūrvarūpa, guṇa, av: havīman; instrumental plural bhis; nalopa is barred by "svādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne" (Pā. 1-4-17 [?]) — the technical pada status; ru and visarga, havīmabhiḥ; initial-udātta by the nit suffix. सदा (sadā) — "sarvaikānyakiṃyattadaḥ kāle dā" (Pā. 5-3-15 [?]): dā is added in the sense of time after sarva, eka, anya, kim, yad, tad; sarva + dā; by "sarvasya so 'nyatarasyāṃ di" (Pā. 5-3-6 [?]) sa is optionally substituted for sarva before a d-initial suffix of the prāg-diṣṭya class; sarvasmin kāle ("at all times"), sadā; by the suffix accent the word would be final-udātta, but by Vedic inversion it is initial-udātta. हवन्त (havanta) — root hveñ; laṭ ātmanepada third plural jha → ant ("jho 'ntaḥ," Pā. 7-1-3 [?]), the ṭi-e rule not applied since the form is Vedic; the vikaraṇa śap with saṃprasāraṇa by "bahulaṃ chandasi"; pararūpa, guṇa, av; unaccented by "tiṅ atīṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). विशपतिम् (viśpatim) —

"patyāv aiśvarye" (Pā. 6-2-18 [?]) would give the first member's accent, set aside by "parādiś chandasi bahulam" (Pā. 6-2-199 [?]), so the later member pati is initial-udātta. हव्यवाहम् (havyavāham) — "havyaṃ vahati iti havyavāhaḥ" — root vaha prāpaṇe with ṇvi by "vahaś ca" (Pā. 3-2-64 [?]) in the Veda when a well-formed word is the upapada; havya + am + vah + ṇvi; the irregular statement is to be seen as "havyas vah + ṇvi"; ṇvi drops entirely; vṛddhi of the penultimate; since a kṛdanta, it takes the prātipadika name and the su is dropped; "gati-kāraka-upapadāt kṛt" gives the accent of the second member; accusative singular am. पुरुप्रियम् (purupriyam) — "purūṇāṃ priyaḥ": a genitive tatpuruṣa, final-udātta by "samāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-223 [?]).

॥२॥

original p. 491

Sūkta 12, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने देवाँ इहा वह जज्ञानो वृक्तबर्हिषे । असि होता न ईड्यः ॥३॥

agne devāṃ ihā vaha jajñāno vṛktabarhiṣe | asi hotā na īḍyaḥ
||3||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने । देवान् । इह । आ । वह । जज्ञानः । वृक्तऽबर्हिषे ॥ असि । होता । नः । ईड्यः ॥३॥

agne | devān | iha | ā | vaha | jajñānaḥ | vṛkta-barhiṣe || asi
| hotā | naḥ | īḍyaḥ ||3||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने जज्ञानोऽरण्योरुत्पन्नस्त्वं वृक्तबर्हिषे अस्तरणार्थं छिन्नेन बर्हिषा युक्ताय तं यजमानमनुग्रहीतुमिह कर्मणि हविर्भुजो देवानावह । सोऽस्मदर्थं होता देवानामाह्वाता त्वमीड्यः स्तुत्योऽसि । देवानित्यत्र संहितायां दीर्घादटि समानपादे इति रुत्वम् । आकोऽटि नित्यम् ॥ इति निःसृतमिति [?] अनुनासिकभावः । जज्ञानः । जनी प्रादुर्भावे । लिटः कानच् ।

गमहनेत्यादिनोपधालोपः । द्विर्वचनेऽचि । पा. १-१-५९ । इति तस्य स्थानिवद्भावाद्द्विर्वचनम् ।
 चित्त्वादान्तोदात्तः । वृक्तबर्हिषे । ओत्रश्चू छेदने । निष्ठेति क्तप्रत्ययः । यस्य
 विभाषेतीट्प्रतिषेधः । वृक्तं बर्हिर्यस्मै यजमानाय येन वा ऋत्विजा । बहुव्रीहौ
 पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरः । असि । अस्तेः सिप् । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः इति शपो लुक् ।
 तासस्त्योलोपः । पा. ७-४-५० । इति सकारस्य लोपः । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । होता ।
 ह्यतेस्ताच्छील्यदिषु तृन् । बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणम् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । ईड्यः । ईडस्तुतौ । ऋहलोर्ण्यत् । पा. ३-१-१२४ । तित्स्वरितेः प्राप्ते ईडवन्दवृशंसदुहां ण्यतः । पा.
 ६-१-२१४ । इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् ॥

*he agne jajñāno 'raṇyor utpannas tvam vṛktabarhiṣe astaraṇārthaṃ chinnena barhiṣā yuktāya taṃ yajamānam anugrahītum iha karmaṇi havirbhujo devān āvaha | so 'smadarthaṃ hotā devānām āhvātā tvam īdyaḥ stutyō 'si | devān ity
 atra saṃhitāyām dīrghād aṭi samānapāde iti rutvam | āko 'ṭi nityam | | iti niḥsṛtam iti [?] anunāsika-bhāvaḥ | jajñānaḥ |
 janī prādurbhāve | liṭaḥ kānac | gamahanety-ādinopadhālopaḥ | dvirvacane 'ci | pā. 1-1-59 | iti tasya sthānivad-bhāvād dvirvacanam | cittvād antodāttaḥ |
 vṛktabarhiṣe | ovraścū chedane | niṣṭheti kta-pratyayaḥ |
 yasya vibhāseti-ṭ-pratiṣedhaḥ | vṛktaṃ barhir yasmai
 yajamānāya yena vā ṛtvijā | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svarah | asi | astes sip | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti śapo luk |
 tāsastyor lopaḥ | pā. 7-4-50 | iti sakārasya lopaḥ | pādāditvān
 na nighātaḥ | hotā | hvayates tācchīlyādiṣu tṛn | bahulaṃ chandasīti saṃprasāraṇam | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | īdyaḥ | īḍa
 stutau | ṛhaloṣ nyat | pā. 3-1-124 | titsvarite prāpte īḍavandavṛśamsaduhām nyataḥ | pā. 6-1-214 | ity
 ādyudāttatvam | |*

Translation: "O Agni! Jajñānaḥ — born of the two araṇis — you, vṛktabarhiṣe, for [the sacrificer] who is equipped with barhis cut for spreading, in order to favour that sacrificer, bring here, to this rite, the gods who eat the oblation. You, hotā, the caller of the gods on our behalf, are īdyaḥ — worthy of praise. ^{12"}

Page 491 (lower) — Rik 3: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | जज्ञानः (jajñānaḥ) — [you] born in the araṇi | वृक्तबर्हिषे (vr̥ktabarhiṣe) — for the sacrificer who has spread the cut sacred grass as seats [for the gods] | इह (iha) — in this rite (sacrifice) | देवान् (devān) — the gods | आ वह (ā vaha) — bring | नः (naḥ) — for us | होता (hotā) — [you] who bring the gods | ईड्यः (īḍyaḥ) — worthy of praise | असि (asi) — you are.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! You are born in the araṇi. Such as you are, bring the gods here to sit on the cut darbha that the sacrificer has spread, to favour that sacrificer. For you are the one who brings the gods, and so you are worthy of being praised by all of us.

॥ English Translation ॥

Agni, when born, bring hither the gods for him who has prepared their seats with the clipped sacred grass; you are their invoker for us and are to be adored.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

12. Grammar, noted briefly: devān becomes devāṃ before iha in the Saṃhitā by Pā. 8-3-9 [?] and the nasalization rule; jajñānaḥ — root janī prādurbhāve with kānac for liṭ, loss of the penultimate by Pā. 6-4-98 [?], doubling, final-udātta because the suffix is cit; vr̥ktabarhiṣe — root ovraścū chedane with kta, the augment iṭ barred by Pā. 2-... [?], a bahuvrīhi with the first member's accent; asi — the s of sip dropped by Pā. 7-4-50 [?], unlowered because it opens the pāda; hotā — root hveñ with ṭṛn, initial-udātta; īḍyaḥ — root īḍa stutau with nyat, initial-udātta by Pā. 6-1-214 [?].

"Jajñānaḥ" — puṭṭida, born, arisen; born. "Born Agni" means: in sacrifices people produce fire by rubbing two pieces of wood called araṇi against each other; hence the usage that Agni is born in the araṇi.

"Vṛktabarhiṣe" — I shall explain this word shortly. Barhis is the darbha grass that has been cut. The sense is "for the sacrificer who has prepared the cut grass for the gods to come and sit on."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹³

देवान् (devān) — in the Saṃhitā, since a word ending in n is followed by i in the same pāda, "dīrghād aṭi samānapāde" (Pā. 8-3-9 [?]): n is replaced by ru after a long vowel when an aṭ-letter follows in the same pāda; then "ato roraplutād aplute" (Pā. 6-1-113 [?]) changes ru to u; "ād guṇaḥ"-type steps are blocked; and "bhobhagoaghoapūrvasya yo 'śi" (Pā. 8-3-17 [?]) and "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) drop the y; the nasal becomes anunāsika ("āko 'ṭi nityam" [?]): devān̄ ihā. जज्ञानः (jajñānaḥ) — root janī prādurbhāve; liṭ → kānac ("liṭaḥ kānajvā," Pā. 3-2-106 [?]); "gamahanajanakhanaghasām lopaḥ knīty anaṇi" (Pā. 6-4-98 [?]) drops the a of jan before a kit or nit suffix that is not aṇ; the doubling rule (Pā. 1-1-59 [?], "dvirvacane 'ci") gives sthānivadbhāva so that the doubling takes place as if the a were still present; "liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-8 [?]); the reduplicate j → j; the n after the j-class becomes ñ by śchutva ("stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ," Pā. 8-4-40 [?]), giving jajñāna; kānac is cit, so final-udātta. वृक्तबर्हिषे (vṛktabarhiṣe) — root ovraścū chedane (ūdit); "svarati-sūti-sūyati-dhūñūdito vā" (Pā. 7-2-44 [?]): after roots beginning with svr, ṣū, ṣūñ, dhūñ and ūdit roots, the augment iṭ is optional before an ārdhadhātuka beginning with a consonant; "niṣṭhā" (Pā. 3-2-102 [?]) gives kta; by "yasya vibhāṣā" (Pā. 7-2-15 [?]) no iṭ before kta when iṭ is optional for the root; vraśc + ta; "oditaś ca" (Pā. 8-2-45 [?]): kta after an ot-marked

13. grammar pages 492–494, noted briefly

root has n-form for t, but here iṭ does not arise so $t \rightarrow n$ — the print argues at length whether the n (natva) is "seen" or "unseen" (pūrvatrāsiddham, Pā. 8-2-1 [?]); the root's r takes r by saṃprasāraṇa ("grahijyāvayivyadhivaṣṭi-vicativṛscatipṛcchatibhṛjatinām nīti ca," Pā. 6-1-16 [?]); vṛśc; "saṃyogādyor ante...": the ś is dropped ("sko 'ḥ saṃyogādyor ante ca," Pā. 8-2-29 [?]); the long argument shows that although the nistha-n is "unseen," the form vṛkta results — "vṛścabhraśjasrjamṛjayajarājabhrājachaśām ṣaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-36 [?]) would change ś → ṣ but the niṣṭhā rule takes priority (Pā. 8-2-? vārttika [?]); the c → k ("coḥ kuḥ," Pā. 8-2-30 [?]) gives vṛkta; final-udātta by the suffix; vṛktaṃ barhīr yasmai ("for whom the barhis has been cut"), or yena ṛtvijā ("by whom, the priest"), a bahuvrīhi, with the first member's accent by "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]). असि (asi) — root as bhuvi, laṭ second singular sip; the śap is dropped ("ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ," Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); "tāsastyor lopah" (Pā. 7-4-50 [?]) drops the s of as before a s-initial ending; asi; not lowered because it begins the pāda. होता (hotā) — root hveñ with tṛn in the habitual sense; saṃprasāraṇa (Pā. 6-1-34 [?]); pūrvārūpa, guṇa; initial-udātta, tṛn being nit. ईदयः (īdyaḥ) — root īda stutau; ṇyat by "ṛhalor ṇyat" (Pā. 3-1-124 [?]) after a r-ending or consonant-ending root; ṇyat is t-marked so svarita would arise ("tit svaritam," Pā. 6-1-185 [?]), but "īdavandavṛśamsaduhām ṇyataḥ" (Pā. 6-1-214 [?]) makes the first syllable udātta.¹⁴

॥३॥

original p. 495

14. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The argument on pp. 493–494 on the n of kta and the ś of vṛscati is outlined only.

Sūkta 12, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ताँ उशतो वि बोधय यदग्ने यासि दूत्यम् । देवैरा सत्सि बर्हिषि ॥४॥

*tāṃ uśato vi bodhaya yad agne yāsi dūtyam | devair ā satsi
barhiṣi ||4||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तान् । उशतः । वि । बोधय । यत् । अग्ने । यासि । दूत्यम् ॥ देवैः । आ । सत्सि । बर्हिषि ॥ ४॥

*tān | uśataḥ | vi | bodhaya | yat | agne | yāsi | dūtyam ||
devaiḥ | ā | satsi | barhiṣi ||4||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने यद्यस्मात्त्वं देवानां दूत्यं दूतकर्म प्राप्नोषि तस्मात्तं तान्कारणादुशतो हविः
कामयमानांस्तान्देवान् हविः स्वीकारार्थं वि बोधय । विबोध्य च बर्हिष्यस्मिन्कर्मणि तैर्देवैः सह
आ सत्सि । आसीद । आगत्योपविश ॥ तान् । दीर्घादटि समानपादे इति संहितायां रुत्वम् ।
आकोऽटि नित्यमित्यनुनासिकभावः । उशतः । वश कान्तौ । लटः शतृ । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः
शपः इति शपो लुक् । ग्रहियेत्यादिना संप्रसारणम् । शतुर्नुम इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् ।
यासि । यद्वृत्तान्नित्यमिति निघातप्रतिषेधः । दूत्यम् । दूतस्य भागः कर्म वा दूत्यम् । दूतस्य
भागकर्मणी । पा. ४-४-१२० । इति यत् । तस्य तित्स्वरितापवादेन यतोऽनावः इति
प्राप्तमाद्युदात्तत्वं सर्वे विधयश्छन्दसि विकल्प्यन्त इति निवर्तते । अतस्तित्स्वरितमित्येव
भवति । शेषनिघातः । सत्सि । षट् लृ विशरणगत्यवसादनेषु । लटः सिप् । शपो बहुलं
छन्दसीति लुक् । न लुमताङ्गस्येति प्रत्ययलक्षणप्रतिषेधात् पाप्नेत्यादिना सीदादेशो न भवति
। बर्हिषि । बृह बृहि वृद्धौ । बृहेर्नलोपश्च । उ. ३-१४६ [?] । इसिप्रत्ययः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणेकार उदात्तः ॥

*he agne yad yasmāt tvaṃ devānāṃ dūtyaṃ dūta-karma prāpnoṣi tasmāt taṃ tān kāraṇād uśato haviḥ kāmayamānāṃs tān devān haviḥ svikārārthaṃ vi bodhaya |
vibodhya ca barhiṣy asmin karmaṇi tair devaiḥ saha ā satsi |
āsīda | āgatyopaviśa || tān | dīrghād aṭi samānapāde iti*

saṃhitāyāṃ rutvam | āko 'ṭi nityam ity anunāsika-bhāvaḥ |
 uśataḥ | vaśa kāntau | laṭaḥ śatṛ | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti
 śapo luk | grahijyety-ādinā saṃprasāraṇam | śatur anuma iti vibhakter udāttatvam | yāsi | yad-vṛttān nityam iti nighāta-pratiṣedhaḥ | dūtyam | dūtasya bhāgaḥ karma vā dūtyam |
 dūtasya bhāga-karmaṇī | pā. 4-4-120 | iti yat | tasya tit-svarita-apavādena yato 'nāvaḥ iti prāptam ādyudāttatvam sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyanta iti nivartate | ataś titsvaritam ity eva bhavati | śeṣa-nighātaḥ | satsi | śad!
 viśaraṇa-gaty-avasādaneṣu | laṭaḥ sip | śapo bahulaṃ
 chandasīti luk | na lumatāṅgasyeti pratyaya-lakṣaṇa-pratiṣedhāt pāghretyādinā sīdādeśo na bhavati | barhiṣi |
 bṛha bṛhi vṛddhau | bṛmher nalopaś ca | u. 3-146 [?] | isi-
 pratyayaḥ | pratyaya-svareṇekāra udāttaḥ | |

Translation: "O Agni! Because you perform the dūtya — the work of messenger — of the gods, therefore uśataḥ — those gods who desire the oblation — vi bodhaya: awaken them, so as to make them accept the oblation; and having awakened them, ā satsi — sit down — with those gods on the barhis in this rite; come and be seated." ¹⁵

original pp. 495–496

15. Grammar noted briefly: that tān becomes tām̐ before u by Pā. 8-3-9 [?] and the nasalization rule; uśataḥ — root vaśa kāntau with śatṛ, the śap dropped, saṃprasāraṇa of va, the case-ending udātta by Pā. 6-1-173 [?]; yāsi is not lowered because of the relative yat (Pā. 8-1-66 [?]); dūtyam — "the share or work of a messenger," with yat by Pā. 4-4-120 [?], the expected initial accent being set aside, leaving svarita on the suffix; satsi — root śad! with sip, the śap dropped, and the substitute sīd not arising; barhiṣi — root bṛha with iṣi, the i udātta.

Rik 4: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | यत् (yat) — for which reason | दूत्यम् (dūtyam) — the state of being a messenger of the gods | यासि (yāsi) — you have attained | ¹⁶ उशतः (uśataḥ) — [the gods] who desire the oblation | तान् (tān) — those gods | वि बोधय (vi bodhaya) — rouse (urge) | ¹⁷ देवैः (devaiḥ) — together with the gods | बर्हिषि (barhiṣi) — on the darbha grass spread out for seats | आ सत्सि (ā satsi) — sit down.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! You are the gods' messenger. Therefore rouse those gods who desire the oblation, bring them here, and sit with them on the cut darbha grass spread out for seats.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, as you go as messenger of Gods, awaken them desirous of oblations; sit down with them on the sacred grass.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Barhiṣi" — "for seating": the custom is to spread cut darbha grass, with the tips arranged, so that the gods may come and sit. Ghee vessels and oblations are also placed on such spread grass; this is regarded as best, and as the custom.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁸

तान् (tān) — "dīrghād aṭi samānapāde" (Pā. 8-3-9 [?]): in the Saṃhitā the n becomes ru; "āto 'ṭi nityam" (Pā. 8-3-3 [?]) gives the long ā its nasalization; "bhobhagoaghoapūrvasya yo 'śi" (Pā.

16. for that reason

17. then

8-3-17 [?]) turns ru into y and "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) drops it: tām usataḥ. उशतः (uśataḥ) — root vaśa kāntau; laṭ → śaṭr ("laṭaḥ śaṭrśānacau," Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); śap dropped ("ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ," Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); "grahijyāvayī..." (Pā. 6-1-16 [?]): saṃprasāraṇa of va; pūrvarūpa; uśat; accusative plural; "śatur anumō nadyajādī" (Pā. 6-1-173 [?]): the case-ending after śaṭr without num is udātta. यासि (yāsi) — root yā prāpaṇe; laṭ second singular; the verb is not lowered since a word formed with yad ("yaddhṛttānnityam," Pā. 8-1-66 [?]) precedes it — the verb retains its own accent ("tiṇ atīṇaḥ" does not apply). दूत्यम् (dūtyam) — "dūtasya bhāgaḥ karma vā": bhāga means "share" (masculine, dual in the sense of a part) and karma means "action" (neuter, accusative singular); "dūtasya bhāgakarmaṇī" (Pā. 4-4-120 [?]): yat after dūta in the senses of share or action; yat is t-marked, so svārīta by "tit svaritam" (Pā. 6-1-185 [?]), which should displace the yato 'nāvaḥ initial accent (Pā. 6-1-213 [?]); the latter is optional by the paribhāṣā "sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante" (Paribhāṣā 93 [?]) and so does not apply; hence svārīta; the rest is lowered by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]). सत्सि (satsi) — root śadl viśaraṇagatyavasādaneṣu; laṭ second singular sip; śap with luk by "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); "na lumatāṅgasya" (Pā. 1-1-63 [?]) prevents pratyayalakṣaṇa, so "pāghrādhmā..." (Pā. 7-3-78 [?]) does not give sīda; "khari ca" (Pā. 8-4-55 [?]) turns d into t; wholly unaccented. बर्हिषि (barhiṣi) — root bṛha bṛhi vṛddhau; "bṛṇher nalopaś ca" (Uṇ. 3-146 [?]): the suffix isi after bṛh with loss of the n of the num augment (the root being idit, "idito num dhātoḥ," Pā. 7-1-58 [?]); laghūpadha-guṇa, raparatva: barhis; the i of the suffix is udātta; locative singular barhiṣi.

॥४॥

original p. 497

Sūkta 12, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

घृताहवन दीदिवः प्रति ष्म रिषतो दह । अग्ने त्वं रक्षस्विनः ॥५॥

*ghṛtāhavana dīdivaḥ prati śma riṣato daha | agne tvam
rakṣasvinaḥ || 5 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

घृतऽआहवन । दीदिऽवः । प्रति । स्म । रिषतः । दह ॥ अग्ने । त्वम् । रक्षस्विनः ॥५॥

*ghṛta-āhavana | dīdi-vaḥ | prati | sma | riṣataḥ | daha | |
agne | tvam | rakṣasvinaḥ || 5 ||*

original p. 498

Rik 5: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे घृताहवन घृतेनाह्वयमान दीदिवो दीप्यमानाग्ने त्वं रक्षस्विनो रक्षोयुक्तान् रिषतो हिंसकान् शत्रून्प्रत्यस्माकं प्रतिकूलानाह स्म । सर्वथा भस्मीकुरु ॥ घृतेनाह्वयतेऽस्मिन्निति करणाधिकरणयोश्चेत्यधिकरणे ल्युट् । अत्र जुहोतेरविवक्षितकर्मत्वेनाकर्मकत्वाद्धविषस्तस्य करणत्वमेव न तु कर्मत्वम् । आको नैषां [?] तृतीया च होश्छन्दसि । पा. २-३-३ [?] इति कर्मणि तृतीया । किंतु कर्तृकरणयोस्तृतीया । पा. २-३-१८ । इति करणत्वाच्चैव । अतः कर्तृकरणे कृता बहुलम् । पा. २-१-३२ । इति समासः । तत्र पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वाद् [?] ... दीदिवः । दीव्यतेर्लिटः क्वसुः । ... । रक्षस्विनः । रक्षःशब्दो ऽसन्तः । अस्मायामेधास्रजो विनिः । पा. ५-२-१२१ । इति मत्वर्थीयो विनिः । तस्य प्रत्ययस्वरेणाद्युदात्तत्वम् ॥

*he ghṛtāhavana ghṛtenāhvayamāna dīdivo dīpyamānāgne tvam rakṣasvino rakṣo-yuktān riṣato hiṃsakān śatrūn pratyasmākaṃ pratikūlān daha sma | sarvathā bhasmī-kuru
| | ghṛtenāhvayate 'smīn iti karaṇādhikaraṇayoś ceti adhikaraṇe lyaṭ | atra juhote avivakṣita-karmatvenākarmakatvād haviṣas tasya karaṇatvam eva na tu karmatvam | ... dīdivaḥ | dīvyater liṭaḥ kvasuḥ | ... |*

rakṣasvinaḥ | rakṣaḥ-śabdo 'santaḥ | asmāyā-medhā-srajo
viniḥ | pā. 5-2-121 | iti matvarthīyo viniḥ | tasya pratyaya-
svareṇādyudāttatvam | |

Translation: "O ghṛtāhavana — O Agni, called with ghee; dīdivaḥ — blazing! You, prati daha sma: burn on every side — turn into ashes completely — the enemies who are rakṣasvinaḥ, accompanied by rākṣasas, riṣataḥ, injurious, hostile to us." ^{19 20}

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

घृताहवन (ghṛtāhavana) — [you] called by offering ghee | दीदिवः (dīdivaḥ) — shining | (हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | त्वम् (tvam) — you | रक्षस्विनः (rakṣasvinaḥ) — accompanied by rākṣasas | रिषतः (riṣataḥ) — who do harm | प्रति (prati) — to us | विरोधिनः (virodhinaḥ) — the enemies | दह स्म (daha sma) — burn them to ashes.

original p. 499

Rik 5: overall sense, English, Special Topics, grammar begins

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

19. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 498–502 is noted briefly below: that āhavana is formed with lyuṭ in the locative/instrument sense — "that in which they call [Agni] with ghee"; that, since juhoti is here treated as an intransitive, the ghee stands as an instrument and not as an object, so the third case applies, and the compound with the participle takes the first member's accent; dīdivas is the liṭ-participle (kvasu) of divu; rakṣasvin is formed with vini (Pā. 5-2-121 [?]).

20. Parts of the Sanskrit on this page are compressed in the scan; I give only the portions I read.

O Agni! When we call you, we make offerings with ghee. Therefore you shine blazing. As such, burn to ashes those enemies of ours who are accompanied by rākṣasas and who do us harm.

॥ English Translation ॥

Resplendent Agni, invoked by oblations of clarified butter burn down our adversaries defended by evil spirits (Rakshas).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Ghṛtāhavana," "dīdivaḥ" — to call Agni by pouring ghee into him is the custom in sacrifices; and since Agni, when ghee is offered, blazes brightly, the word dīdivaḥ is used here.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²¹

घृताहवन (ghṛtāhavana) — "ghṛtena hūyate asmin" ("he in whom [one] is called with ghee"): "karaṇādhikaraṇayoś ca" (Pā. 3-3-117 [?]) — lyuṭ after a root in the senses of instrument and locus; hve + lyuṭ; "yuvor anākau" (Pā. 7-1-1 [?]) gives ana; guṇa, av: havana; since the root hu ("to offer") is here understood as lacking an object, it is intransitive, so ghṛta is an instrument and not an object; "ṛtīyā ca hośchandasi" (Pā. 2-3-3 [?]) — the third case, and by the ca the second case, may be used after a word denoting the action of the root hu, in the Veda, in the object sense — does not apply; "kartṛkaraṇayos ṛtīyā" (Pā. 2-3-18 [?]) gives the third case in the instrument sense; "kartṛkaraṇe kṛtā bahulam" (Pā. 2-1-32 [?]) allows the compound of a third-case word with a kṛdanta word of the instrument sense; ghṛtāhavana; by "tatpuruṣe tulyārtha..." (Pā. 6-2-2 [?]) the first member's accent would stand, but "gatikāraṇakopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) keeps the accent of the kṛdanta second member, even when the word is already a

21. grammar pages 499–502, noted briefly; the long argument on pp. 500–502 is outlined only

prātipadika; on adding the vocative singular, the e of "ejhrasvāt saṃbuddheḥ" (Pā. 6-1-69 [?]) drops the final consonant of the vocative before a ni/ap-ending: ghṛtāhavana becomes a vocative, initial-udātta by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 6-1-198 [?]). दीदिवः (dīdivaḥ) — root divu krīḍāvijigīṣāvyavahāradyutistutimodamadasvapnakāntigatiṣu; liṭ → kvasu ("kvasuś ca," Pā. 3-2-107 [?]); div + vas; iṭ is rule-bound by "vasvekājādghasām" (Pā. 7-2-67 [?]): iṭ arises for vas only after a root of one vowel (not ending in a vowel [ākāra]) and ghasi roots; since div is a single-vowel root vas does not take it here; doubling by "liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-8 [?]), div div vas; "halādiḥ śeṣaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-60 [?]) leaves one d; "tujādīnām dīrgho 'bhyāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-7 [?]) — tuj and others belong to an ākṛti-gaṇa, so the reduplicate may lengthen in the Veda: dīdiv; "lopo vyor vali" (Pā. 6-1-66 [?]) drops the v before a val letter when v or y stands second: dīdi + vas; kvasu is kit, so no guṇa; the vocative su with num ("ugidacām...", Pā. 7-1-70 [?]); "hal-nyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]) and "saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]); s → ru ("matvasor ru saṃbuddhau chandasi," Pā. 8-3-1 [?]); visarga: dīdivaḥ. It stands after ghṛtāhavana, so "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 6-1-198 [?]) gives it the all-unaccented form — but then the question of two adjacent vocatives arises: by "āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat" (Pā. 8-1-72 [?]) the first vocative is treated as non-existent, which would put the second in first position; the source concludes that, since ghṛtāhavana and dīdivaḥ are both epithets of agne, "sāmānādhikarāṇye" (Pā. 8-1-73 [?]) bars the "non-existent" rule; and "subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare" (Pā. 2-1-2 [?]) treats the whole run (ghṛtāhavana dīdivaḥ agne) as one word for accent purposes; the accent of ghṛ is then udātta with the rest lowered by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]). The source adds a contrasting note on the Taittirīya passage "īlenyaḥ" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 2-1-6-? [?]) where a different arrangement obtains. ²² रिषतः (riṣataḥ) — root ruṣa riṣa hiṃsārthāḥ (bhvādi) with śatr ("laṭaḥ śatrśānacau," Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); śap ("kartari śap," Pā. 3-1-68 [?]); the laghūpadha-guṇa of "pugantalaghūpadhasya ca" (Pā. 7-3-86 [?]) would arise but is kept off by Vedic license; riṣ + a + at; "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) gives pararūpa: riṣat. Alternatively the root ruśa riśa hiṃsāyām (tudādi) with śa by "tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-77 [?]), apit, so ñit-like ("sārvadhātukam apit," Pā. 1-2-4 [?]); "kñiti ca" (Pā. 1-1-5 [?]) bars guṇa, so laghūpadha-guṇa does not arise; here the ṣ comes by Vedic procedure; pararūpa: riṣat; in both ways the accusative plural is riṣataḥ. रक्षस्विनः (rakṣasvinah) — rakṣas ends in s, so "asmāyāmedhāsrajo viniḥ" (Pā. 5-2-121 [?]): after words ending in as and after māyā, medhā, sraja, the suffix vini in the possessive sense; so rakṣasvin; accusative plural śas; initial-udātta by the suffix accent.

॥६॥

original p. 502

Sūkta 12, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्निनाग्निः समिध्यते कविर्गृहपतिर्युवा । हव्यवाङ्जुह्वास्यः ॥६॥

*agninā agniḥ samidhyate kavir gr̥hapatir yuvā | havyavāṅ
juhvāsyah || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्निना । अग्निः । सम् । इध्यते । कविः । गृहपतिः । युवा ॥ हव्यवाट् । जुहुःआस्यः ॥ ६॥

*agninā | agniḥ | sam | idhyate | kaviḥ | gr̥ha-patiḥ | yuvā | |
havya-vāṭ | juhu-āsyah || 6 ||*

22. The argument on pp. 500–502 is outlined only; the print is long and compressed.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अग्निमन्थने ऽग्निनाग्निः समिध्यत इत्येषानुवचनीया । प्रातर्न्वैश्वदेव्यां प्रैषिते इति खण्डे सूत्रितम् । अग्निनाग्निः समिध्यते त्वं ह्यग्ने अग्निना । आ. २-१६ [?] । इति ॥ एषैवाग्निमत इत्यस्यानुवाक्या । अथाग्नेय्यै इति खण्डे ऽग्नावग्निप्रणयने इत्युपक्रम्य सूत्रितम् । यद्वो वयं प्रमिनाम व्रतानि अग्निनाग्निः समिध्यते । आ. ३-१४ [?] । इति ॥

*agni-manthane 'gninā agniḥ samidhyata ity eṣānuvacanīyā |
prātar-nvaiśvadevyām praiṣite iti khaṇḍe sūtritam | agninā agniḥ samidhyate tvam hy agne agninā | ā. 2-16 [?] | iti || eṣaivāgnimata ity asyānuvākya | athāgneyyai iti khaṇḍe 'gnāv
agni-praṇayane ity upakramya sūtritam | yad vo vayaṃ
pramināma vratāni agninā agniḥ samidhyate | ā. 3-14 [?] | iti
||*

आहवनीयाख्यो ऽग्निरस्मिन्कर्मण्यनुष्ठीयमाने ऽग्निना निर्मथ्येन प्रणीतेन वा सह समिध्यते । सम्यग्दीप्यते । कीदृशो ऽग्निः । कविर्मेधावी गृहपतिर्यजमानस्य गृहस्य पालको युवा नित्यतरुणो हव्यवाट् हविषो वोढा जुह्वास्यो जुहूरूपेण मुखेन युक्तः ॥ गृहपतिः । पत्यावैश्वर्ये । इति पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । युवा । यु मिश्रणे । कनिन्युवृषितक्षिराजिधन्विद्युप्रतिदिव इति कनिन् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । हव्यं वहतीति हव्यवाट् । वहश्चेति ण्विप्रत्ययः । ण्वित्त्वादुपधावृद्धिः । गतिकारकोपपदात्कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । जुह्वास्यः । जुहूः । हुवः श्लुवच्च । उ. २-६० [?] । इति क्विप् । तस्मिन्नियोगादीर्घः । श्लुवद्भावाद्बिर्भावः । चुत्वजश्त्वे । प्रातिपदिकस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः । जुहूराशयं यस्येति बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन स एव शिष्यते । शेषनिघातः । यणादेश उदात्तस्वरितयोर्यणः स्वरितो ऽनुदात्तस्य । पा. ८-२-४ । इत्याकारः स्वरितः ॥ १२ ॥ [sic: the "12" here is an artefact of the print; it follows Rik 6's grammar]

*āhavanīyākhyo 'gnir asmin karmaṇy anuṣṭhīyamāne 'gninā
nirmathyena praṇītena vā saha samidhyate | samyag dīpyate
| kīdṛśo 'gniḥ | kavir medhāvī gṛhapatir yajamānasya grhasya pālako yuvā nitya-taruṇo havyavāṭ haviṣo voḍhā juhvāsyo
juhū-rūpeṇa mukhena yuktaḥ | | gṛhapatiḥ | patyāv aiśvare |
iti pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | yuvā | yu miśraṇe | kanin
yuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanvidyupratidiva iti kanin | nittvād
ādyudāttaḥ | havyaṃ vahatīti havyavāṭ | vahaś ceti ṛvi-*

*pratyayaḥ | ṇvittvād upadhā-vṛddhiḥ | gati-kāraḥ papadāt
 kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-svaratvam | juhvāsyah | juhūḥ |
 huvaḥ śluvac ca | u. 2-60 [?] | iti kvip | tasmin niyogād
 dīrghaḥ | śluvad-bhāvād dvirbhāvaḥ | cutva-jaśtve |
 prātipadika-svareṇāntodāttaḥ | juhūr āśyaṃ yasyeti
 bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvena sa eva śīṣyate |
 śeṣa-nighātaḥ | yaṇādeśa udātta-svaritayor yaṇaḥ svarito
 'nudāttasya | pā. 8-2-4 | ity ākāraḥ svaritaḥ | |*

Translation: "In the rite of the churning of fire, this [rik] agninā agniḥ samidhyate is the anuvacanīya; in the section 'prātarnvaiśvadevyāṃ praiṣite' it is laid down: 'agninā agniḥ samidhyate; tvaṃ hy agne agninā' (Āśvalāyana 2-16 [?]); and this very rik is the anuvākyā of the Agnimat [offering]; in the section 'athāgneyyai,' beginning with the agnipraṇayana, it is laid down: 'yad vo vayaṃ pramināma vratāni; agninā agniḥ samidhyate' (Āśvalāyana 3-14 [?]). The fire called Āhavanīya, when this rite is being performed, is samidhyate: well kindled, together with the fire churned out [by friction] or brought forward. What is the fire like? Kaviḥ — wise; gr̥hapatiḥ — the protector of the sacrificer's house; yuvā — ever young; havyavāt — the bearer of the oblation; juhvāsyah — having as its mouth the juhū, the sacrificial ladle." ²³

original p. 503

Rik 6: word-meanings, overall sense

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

23. The grammar of gr̥hapatiḥ, yuvā, havyavāt, juhvāsyah: that gr̥hapati keeps its first member's accent by Pā. 6-2-18 [?]; yuvan is formed with kanin, initial-udātta; havyavāt is root vah with ṇvi; juhū is from hu with kvip and the lengthening, doubling as if ślu had been added; the compound juhvāsyā keeps the first-member's accent; the final ū of juhū becomes v before ā and the resulting vowel is svarita by Pā. 8-2-4 [?].

अग्निः (agnih) — the fire called Āhavanīya | अग्निना (agninā) — by the fire churned out of the araṇi | सम् इध्यते (sam idhyate) — is kindled, blazes well | ²⁴ कविः (kaviḥ) — wise, discerning | गृहपतिः (gr̥hapatih) — protector of the sacrificer's house | युवा (yuvā) — ever youthful | हव्यवाट् (havyavāt) — one who carries the oblation to the gods | जुहास्यः (juhvāsyah) — one whose mouth is the juhū [ladle].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

At the beginning of the sacrifice, they produce fire by churning in the araṇi; with that fire they kindle the other fires, the Gārhapatya and the rest. Such a fire is very wise, a protector of the sacrificer's house, ever youthful, a bearer of the oblation to the gods; the instrument of offering called juhū is his mouth.

original pp. 504–506

Rik 6: English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ English Translation ॥

Agni is kindled by Agni, the ever young and wise, the guardian of the dwelling (of the sacrificer) the bearer of offerings, whose mouth is the sacrificial spoon.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Agninā, agnih" — kindling one fire from another means that at the start of the sacrifice, the fire produced by rubbing the ends of a wooden araṇi stick is used to kindle the other fires. In the sacrifice, the fire must be produced from the araṇi by those who recite this rik; fire already produced and kept ready in some other way is not used in the sacrifice.

24. such a fire

The order of application of this rik is as follows: at the time of the churning of fire, the rik agninā agniḥ samidhyate is to be recited. This is stated in the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra, in the section prātarnvaiśvadevyāṃ praiṣite, which says that the riks agninā agniḥ samidhyate (Ṛg. Saṃ. 1-12-6) and tvaṃ hy agne agninā are to be recited; and this rik is also used as the puronuvākyā. And the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra, in the section āthāgneyyai, in the sūtra agnāv agnipraṇayane, says that the rik yad vo vayaṃ pramināma vratāni (Ṛg. Saṃ. 1-?-?) is the yājyā mantra, and the rik agninā agniḥ samidhyate (Ṛg. Saṃ. 1-12-6) is the puronuvākyā mantra.

"Kaviḥ" — wise, intelligent, discerning: the wise etc. [the source's English].

"Gṛhapatiḥ" — yajamānasya gṛhasya pālakaḥ — the protector of the sacrificer's house: it is the āhitāgni — one who performs sacrifices and has established the sacred fires — who is meant. An āhitāgni is one who has produced fire at the start of his sacrificial life by the rite called agnyādhāna and used it in the sacrifices that follow. The fire thus consecrated must be protected as long as he lives. Therefore, since Agni is always in the sacrificer's house and is favourable to the sacrifices he performs, the custom of calling Agni gṛhapati may have arisen. The word gṛhapati occurs in Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-12-6; 1-36-5; 1-60-4; 3-1-2; 4-7-4; 6-15-? ; 6-48-8; and other riks ²⁵; the word gṛhapatim in several others ²⁶; and gṛhapatē in a rik read as 6-?-? [?].

"Yuvā" — nityataruṇa: always young. Since Agni is always blazing, kindled by oblations such as ghee and samidh sticks and other sacrificial substances, he is always shining with flames. Because he always shines in one way, it is customary to call Agni yuvā, young.

25. the list of mantra numbers is in very small Kannada digits and is only partly legible; I give only the first, which agrees with the present rik

26. references not securely read

"Havyavāt" — havyaṃ vahatīti havyavāt: because he carries to the gods the oblations offered in the fire, he is havyavāt: "he who carries the oblation."

"Juhvāsyah" — juhū is the vessel, made of a hard wood, used for pouring ghee in sacrifices; the method of making this sacrificial instrument, its shape and dimensions, the material and manner of its making, and such things are explained in the Śulba-sūtras. When the juhū is filled with ghee and poured out, the flames of Agni, called his seven tongues, lap it up; so Agni is juhvāsyah: "one whose mouth is the juhū," or "one who has a juhū-vessel in his mouth," or "one whose mouth takes the form of the vessel juhū" — it is customary to call him so.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁷

गृहपतिः (gr̥hapatiḥ) — "patyāv aiśvarye" (Pā. 6-2-18 [?]): in a tatpuruṣa compound, when pati in the sense of "lord" is the second member, the first member keeps its natural accent. Gr̥ha is from "geheḥ" [print: "gr̥hehaḥ," Pā. 3-1-144 [?]]: gr̥ha meaning house is formed after the root grah with the suffix ka; "grahijyāvayi..." (Pā. 6-1-16 [?]) gives saṃprasāraṇa when ka follows; or else the root gr̥ha grahāṇe (bhvādi) with ka by "igupadhajñāprikiraḥ kaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-135 [?]) — a suffix ka after a root with ik as the penultimate; either way gr̥ha is final-udātta by the suffix accent; "patyāv aiśvarye" then gives the first member's accent. युवा (yuvā) — root yu miśraṇe with kanin by "kaninn yuvṛṣitakṣirājidhanvidyupratidivaḥ" (Uṇ. 1-156 [?]); yuvan is initial-udātta, being nit; in the nominative singular, the su is dropped and the penultimate lengthened, with loss of n ("sulopa," "upadhādirghaḥ," "nalopa"), giving yuvā. हव्यवाट् (havyavāt) — "havyaṃ vahati": havya is the upapada; after root vah with a well-formed upapada in the Veda, "vahaś ca" (Pā. 3-2-64 [?]) gives ṇvi; some hold that this ṇvi occurs also in classical Sanskrit, says the

27. grammar pages 505–506, noted briefly

Śekharakāra; the suffix is ṇit, so "ato lopah..." [print: "ātaḥ upadhāyāḥ" (Pā. 7-2-116 [?])] gives vṛddhi of the penultimate; all the letters of ṇvi are dropped; havyavāḥ; the root vah is final-udātta by the root accent; in the compound "gatikāraḥ kopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) gives the accent of the kṛdanta second member; the nominative singular su is dropped ("hal-nyābbhyo...", Pā. 6-1-68 [?]); "hoḍhaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-31 [?]) gives ḍh for the h before a jhal or at the end of a word; "jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte" (Pā. 8-2-39 [?]) gives ḍ; "vāvasāne" (Pā. 8-4-56 [?]) gives ṭ: havyavāṭ. जुहास्यः (juhvāsyah) — "juhvā āsyam" or "juhūr āsyam yasya": juhū is "that with which one offers" (juhoty anena): "huvaḥ śluvac ca" (Uṇ. 3-[?] [print: 2-60]): after the root hu dānādanayoḥ the suffix kvip, with lengthening and ślu-like doubling; hu + kvip; the lengthening is made by that very sūtra; since it acts as if ślu had been added, "ślau" (Pā. 6-1-10 [?]) gives doubling; "hrasvaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-59 [?]) shortens the reduplicate; "kuhoś cuḥ" (Pā. 7-4-62 [?]) gives the c-series to the reduplicate's h → jh; "abhyāse car ca" (Pā. 8-4-54 [?]) turns jh → j: juhū; kvip is dropped; juhū is final-udātta by the stem accent; "juhūr āsyam yasya saḥ" is a bahuvrīhi in which "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]) keeps the first member's accent; the rest is lowered by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]), except the ū; the udātta ū becomes v before ā by "iko yaṇaci" (Pā. 6-1-77 [?]); then "udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svarito 'nudāttasya" (Pā. 8-2-4 [?]): after a yaṇ substituted for an udātta or svarita, a following anudātta becomes svarita, so the ā is svarita.

॥६॥

original p. 506

Sūkta 12, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

कविमग्निमुप स्तुहि सत्यधर्माणमध्वरे । देवममीवचातनम् ॥७॥

*kaviṃ agniṃ upa stuhi satyadharmāṇam adhvare | devam
amīvacātanam || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

कविम् । अग्निम् । उप । स्तुहि । सत्यधर्माणम् । अध्वरे ॥ देवम् । अमीवऽचातनम् ॥ ७ ॥

*kaviṃ | agniṃ | upa | stuhi | satya-dharmāṇam | adhvare | |
devam | amīva-cātanam || 7 ||*

original p. 507

Rik 7: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे स्तोतृसंघ अध्वरे कृतावग्निमुपस्तुहि । उपेत्य स्तुतिं कुरु । कीदृशम् । कविं मेधाविनं
सत्यधर्माणं सत्यवदनरूपेण धर्मेणोपेतं देवं द्योतमानम् अमीवचातनम् अमीवानां हिंसकानां
शत्रूणां रोगाणां वा घातकम् ॥ सत्यं धर्मो यस्येति सत्यधर्मा । धर्मादिनिच् केवलात् । पा.
५-४-१२४ । इत्यनिच् समासान्तः । अन्तोदात्तेन तस्य समासान्ताभिधानात् [?] । बहुव्रीहौ
पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वे शेषनिघातेनानुदात्तत्वम् । अमीवशब्दो ऽमरोगे इत्यस्मात्
शेवायहूजिह्वाग्रीवाप्वामीवाः । उ. १-१५४ । इति वन्प्रत्यय ईडागमे च निपातितः । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । चतेः चदे याचने चेत्यस्माद्धिसार्थात् । णिजन्तान्न्त्यादित्वात् ल्युः । पा.
३-१-१३४ । योरनादेशः । पा. ७-१-१ । णेरनिटीति णेलोपः । लिति धातोरेकारस्योदात्तत्वम् ।
न च स्वरे कर्तन्ये जिलोपस्य स्थानिवद्भावः । न पदान्तद्विर्वचनेत्यादिना प्रतिषेधात् । पा.
१-१-५८ । अमीवानां चातन इति समासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरेण स एव शिष्यते ॥

*he stotr-saṃgha adhvare kratāv agniṃ upastuhi | upetya
stutiṃ kuru | kīdṛśam | kaviṃ medhāvinam satyadharmāṇam satya-vadana-rūpeṇa dharmenopetaṃ devam dyotamānam amīvacātanam amīvānāṃ hiṃsakānāṃ śatrūṇāṃ rogāṇāṃ vā ghātakam | | satyaṃ dharmo yasyeti satyadharmā | dharmād
anic kevalāt | pā. 5-4-124 | ity anic samāsāntaḥ | antodāttena tasya samāsāntābhidhānāt [?] | bahuvrīhau pūrvapadaprakṛti-svaratve śeṣa-nighātenānudāttatvam | amīva-śabdo
'maroge ity asmāt śevāyahūjihvāgrīvāpāmīvāḥ | u. 1-154 | iti
vanpratyaya īdāgame ca nipātitaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ |*

*cateḥ cade yācane ceti asmād dhiṃsārthāt | ṇijantān nandyādītṽt lyuḥ | pā. 3-1-134 | yor anādeśaḥ | pā. 7-1-1 |
ṇer aniṭṭi ṇer lopah | liti dhātor ekārasyodāttatvam | na ca
svare kartavye ṇīlopasya sthānivad-bhāvaḥ | na padāntadvirvacanety-ādinā pratiṣedhāt | pā. 1-1-58 | amīvānām cātana iti samāse kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-svareṇa sa eva
śiṣyate ||*

Translation: "O company of praisers! In the adhvara, the sacrifice, upa stuhi — approaching, sing praise to Agni. What kind of Agni? Kavim — wise; satyadharmāṇam — endowed with the nature of speaking truth; devam — shining; amīvacātanam — the destroyer of the amīvas, of those who harm, of enemies or of diseases." ²⁸

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

²⁹ कविम् (kavim) — the wise one | सत्यधर्मणम् (satyadharmāṇam) — one whose nature is truth, of truthful conduct | देवम् (devam) — shining | अमीवचातनम् (amīvacātanam) — destroying enemies, or removing diseases | अग्निम् (agnim) — Agni | अध्वरे (adhvare) — in the sacrificial rite | उपस्तुहि (upastuhi) — standing near, praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O priests and others! Agni, whom you praise, is very wise, of truth-keeping nature (or whose conduct is truth), shining, a destroyer of enemies or a remover of diseases and such troubles. Stand near this Agni in the rite we perform and praise him.

²⁸. Grammar noted briefly: that satyadharman takes the samāsānta suffix anic by Pā. 5-4-124 [?], keeping the first member's accent; that amīva is irregularly formed from the root ama "to be ill" with van and the augment īḍ (Uṇ. 1-154 [?]), initial-udātta; and that cātana is formed from cate (cada yācane) with the causative and lyu (Pā. 3-1-134 [?]), keeping the kṛdanta second-member accent.

²⁹. O priests and others who sing praise!

Rik 7: English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ English Translation ॥

Praise, in the sacrifice, Agni, the wise, the observer of truth, the radiant, the remover of disease.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This rik is addressed to the priests who are praising Agni.

"Satyadharmāṇam" — satyaṃ dharmo yasya: one whose nature or conduct is the speaking of truth; one who has the character of speaking truth.

"Amīvacātanam" — amīvānāṃ hiṃsakānāṃ śatrūṇāṃ rogāṇāṃ vā ghātakam — "the destroyer of enemies or of diseases." This word occurs not only in this rik but in these riks too:

विप्रः स उच्यते भिषग्रक्षोहामीवचातनः । vipraḥ sa ucyate bhiṣag rakṣohāmīvacātanaḥ | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-97-6 [?]; the source's number reads "१०-९७-६") ("He is called the sage, the physician, slayer of rākṣasas, driver-out of disease." — my gloss, tentative.)

आपो इद्वा उ भेषजीरापो अमीवचातनीः । āpo id vā u bheṣajīr āpo amīvacātaniḥ | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-137-6 [?]; the source's number reads "१०-१३७-६") ("The waters are indeed healing, the waters are expellers of disease." — my gloss, tentative.)

In the first example, the words bhiṣak and rakṣohā support the sense of "destroyer of diseases and of enemies." In the second example the word bheṣajīḥ indicates the removal of disease; hence for this word the sense "remover of disease" fits well.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁰

30. grammar pages 508–509, noted briefly

सत्यधर्मणम् (satyadharmāṇam) — "satyaṃ dharmo yasya saḥ": a bahuvrīhi; "dharmād anic kevalāt" (Pā. 5-4-124 [?]): after a bahuvrīhi whose last member is dharmā preceded by a bare prior member, the samāsānta suffix anic arises, becoming the final part of the compound ("kevala" means a member not accompanied by another word beyond the later member); satyadharmā + anic; "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]) drops the final a of dharmā: satyadharmān; the samāsānta suffix, by "samāsāntodāttaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-223 [?]), is part of the compound; so the accent of the first member is retained by "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]) and the rest is unaccented by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam." अमीवचातनम् (amīvacātanam) — the word amīva is formed from the root ama roge with vana by the Uṇādi sūtra "śevāyahūjihvāgrīvāpvāmīvāḥ" (Uṇ. 1-154 [?]); the words śeva, yahva, hū, jihvā, grīvā, āpva, amīva are irregularly formed with van and a vowel-augment: śeva from śīṇ svapne with van and guṇa; yahva from yā prāpaṇe with van and the huk augment and shortening; jihvā from liha āsvādane with van, l → j and loss of guṇa; grīvā from gṛ nigaraṇe with van and yaṇ; āpva from āpl vyāptau with van; amīva from ama with van and the īḍ augment; van is nit, so initial-udātta. Cātana: the root cate (cade yācane ceti) with the sense of harming; with ṇic ("ata upadhāyāḥ," Pā. 7-2-116 [?], vṛddhi of the penultimate); lyu by "nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-134 [?]); yu → ana ("yuvor anākau," Pā. 7-1-1 [?]); the ṇic dropped by "ṇer aniṭi" (Pā. 6-4-51 [?]); cātana; the vowel before an l-marked suffix is udātta ("liti," Pā. 6-1-193 [?]), so the ā is udātta; in fixing the accent, the loss of ṇi (by "ñilopa") has sthānivadbhāva for the ac that is the nimitta of ṇi-drop, since the dropped ṇi is the cause of the ac-substitute at the end, and "acaḥ parasmin pūrvavidhau" (Pā. 1-1-57 [?]) would give sthānivadbhāva; this is barred by "na padāntadvirvacanavareyalopasvarasavarṇānusvāradīrghajaś-carvidhiṣu" (Pā. 1-1-58 [?]) — sthānivadbhāva does not apply to accent rules. In the compound "amīvānāṃ cātanaḥ" ("the one who expels the amīvas"), a genitive tatpuruṣa, "gatiḱāraḱopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) leaves the accent of the kṛdanta second member.

॥७॥

original p. 509

Sūkta 12, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यस्त्वामग्ने हविष्पतिर्दूतं देव सपर्यति । तस्य स्म प्राविता भव ॥८॥

yas tvām agne haviṣpatir dūtaṃ deva saparyati | tasya sma prāvitā bhava || 8 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यः । त्वाम् । अग्ने । हविःऽपतिः । दूतम् । देव । सपर्यति ॥ तस्य । स्म । प्रऽअविता । भव ॥ ८॥

yaḥ | tvām | agne | haviḥ-patiḥ | dūtam | deva | saparyati || tasya | sma | pra-avitā | bhava || 8 ||

original p. 510

Rik 8: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, English

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने देव यो हविष्पतिर्यजमानो देवदूतं त्वां सपर्यति परिचरति तस्य यजमानस्य प्राविता भव स्म । अवश्यं रक्षको भव ॥ हूयत इति हविः । अर्चिशुचिहूसृपीत्यादिना । उ. २-१०८ [?] । इसिः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणेकार उदात्तः । हविषः पतिर्हविष्पतिः । नित्यं समासे ऽनुत्तरपदस्थस्य । पा. ८-३-४५ । इति षत्वम् । पत्यावैश्वर्ये इति पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सपरशब्दात्कण्ड्वादिभ्यो यक् । पा. ३-१-२७ । इति यक् । धातुप्रकरणाद्गुणप्रतिषेधाद्यर्थात्कः कित्वाच्च सपरशब्दस्य धातुत्वात्ततो विहितस्य यक् आर्धधातुकत्वे सत्यतो लोप इति लोपः ।

सनाद्यन्ता धातव इति धातुसंज्ञायां तिप् । कर्तरि शप् । तस्मिन्पूर्वस्यातो गुण इति पररूपत्वम् । यकः प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तत्वम् । शपा सह यकैकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्त इत्युदात्तत्वम् । तिङ्ङितिङ् इति निघातो न भवति यद्धृत्तान्तिमिति प्रतिषेधात् ॥

*he agne deva yo haviṣpatir yajamāno deva-dūtaṃ tvām saparyati paricarati tasya yajamānasya prāvitā bhava sma |
avaśyaṃ rakṣako bhava || hūyata iti haviḥ |
arciśucihūsṛpīyādīnā | u. 2-108 [?] | isiḥ | pratyaya-svareṇekāra udāttaḥ | haviṣaḥ patir haviṣpatiḥ | nityaṃ
samāse 'nuttara-pada-sthasya | pā. 8-3-45 | iti śatvam |
patyāv aiśvārye iti pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam |
saparaśabdāt kaṇḍvādibhyo yak | pā. 3-1-27 | iti yak | ... tiṅ
atiṅa iti nighāto na bhavati yad-vṛttān nityam iti pratiṣedhāt
||*

Translation: "O Agni, O god! The sacrificer who is haviṣpati — lord of the oblation — and saparyati, serves you, the messenger of the gods: of that sacrificer, prāvitā bhava sma — be the protector; surely be his protector." ³¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

देव (deva) — shining | (हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | हविष्यति: (haviṣpatiḥ) — the sacrificer who offers you oblations | दूतम् (dūtam) — messenger of the gods | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | सपर्यति (saparyati) — worships (serves) | तस्य (tasya) — of that sacrificer | प्राविता (prāvitā) — as chief protector | भव स्म (bhava sma) — be.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

31. Grammar noted briefly: that haviḥ is "that which is offered," with isi (Uṇ. 2-108 [?]); haviṣpati has the visarga turned to ṣ by Pā. 8-3-45 [?], keeping the first member's accent; saparyati is a denominative from sapara in the kaṇḍvādi class with yak (Pā. 3-1-27 [?]); and the verb is not lowered because a relative word yaḥ precedes it.

O shining Agni! The sacrificer who offers oblations to you worships you, the messenger of the gods. Such a sacrificer you must protect.

॥ English Translation ॥

Be the protector, O Agni of the master (offerer) of sacrificial food, who worships you O God, as his messenger.

original pp. 511–512

Rik 8: Special Topics, grammar

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

"Haviṣpatiḡ" — haviṣaḡ patiḡ — "the master of the oblation": one who offers an oblation, offerer of oblations [the source's English].

"Prāvitā"

— in a special way, or the chief protector.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³²

हविष्पतिः (haviṣpatiḡ) — "hūyate iti haviḡ": the roots arca pūjāyām, śuca śoke, hu dānādanayoh, sṛpḡ gatau, bhadi and others take the suffix isi by "arciśucihusṛpichadi-... ardibhyaḡ iḡ" [print: "arci śuci hu sṛpi chādi ardibhyaḡ isi"] (Uṇ. 2-108 [?]); hu + isi, with guṇa and av; haviḡ has the i of the suffix udātta; "haviṣaḡ patiḡ" is a genitive tatpuruṣa; the s of the genitive takes ru and visarga: haviḡ + patiḡ; then "nityaṃ samāse 'nuttarapadasthasya" (Pā. 8-3-45 [?]): in a compound, if a kavarga or pavarga letter follows, the visarga that is the end of a non-final member after i or u always becomes ṣ; so the visarga of haviḡ becomes ṣ: haviṣpatiḡ; "patyāv aiśvarya" (Pā. 6-2-18 [?]) gives the first member's accent. सपयति (saparyati) — the word sapara belongs to the kaṇḍvādi group (Pā. 3-1-27 [?]), and "kaṇḍvādibhyo yak" (Vārttika) gives yak after words of that group, with root-status (dhātusaṃjñā) and

32. grammar pages 511–512, noted briefly

prātipadika-status together — the Mahābhāṣya says so clearly: "dhātuprakaraṇād dhātoḥ kasyacid asaṃjñanāt ca" ... "ahacāyemimam dīrghaṃ manye dhātor vibhāṣitaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-27 bhāṣya [?]); since the group is found in the dhātu section, and the k of yak is also included, the kaṇḍvādi words are roots; if one grants that these are roots, yak is ārdhadhātuka ("ārdhadhātukaṃ śeṣaḥ," Pā. 3-4-114 [?]) and, since kṛiti-guṇa-prohibition arises, the kit marker is fitting, otherwise it would be idle; and the dīrgha of "akṛtsārvadhātukayor dīrghaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-25 [?]) would explain kaṇḍū; the ata upadhāyāḥ... "ato lopaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-48 [?]) drops the final a of sapara before the ārdhadhātuka yak: saparya; "sanādyantā dhātavaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-32 [?]) gives root-status; laṭ, tip; śap ("kartari śap," Pā. 3-1-68 [?]); "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) gives pararūpa; saparyati; the accent is udātta by the suffix accent of yak, and the single substitute formed with śap's a is udātta ("ekādeśa udātenodāttaḥ," Pā. 8-2-5 [?]); the verb is not lowered since "yaddhṛttānnityam" (Pā. 8-1-66 [?]) prohibits it, so "tiṇ atīṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) does not make it unaccented; the rest are lowered by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]), and the i after the udātta becomes svarita ("udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ," Pā. 8-4-66 [?]).³³

॥८॥

original p. 512

Sūkta 12, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यो अग्निं देववीतये हविष्माँ आविवासति । तस्मै पावक मृळय ॥९॥

yo agniṃ devavītaye haviṣmāṃ āvivāsati | tasmai pāvaka
mṛḷaya || 9 ||

33. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The Mahābhāṣya quotation is a best reading.

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यः । अग्निम् । देवऽवीतये । हविष्मान् । आऽविवासति ॥ तस्मै । पावक । मृळ्य ॥९॥

yaḥ | agnim | deva-vītaye | haviṣmān | ā-vivāsati | | tasmai |
pāvaka | mṛṇaya | | 9 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

गार्हपत्याहवनीययोः परस्परसंसर्गे विहितस्य हविषो योज्या यो अग्निं देववीतय इत्येषा ।
अथान्येयै इष्टप्रयेति खण्डे सूत्रितम् । यो अग्निं देववीतये कुवित्सु नो गविष्टये । आ. ३-१४
[?] । इति ॥

*gārhapatyāhavanīyayoḥ paraspara-saṃsarge vihitasya haviṣo
yojyā yo agniṃ devavītaya ity eṣā | athāgneyyai iṣṭaprayeti khaṇḍe sūtritam | yo agniṃ devavītaye kuvit su no gaviṣṭaye |
ā. 3-14 [?] | iti | |*

हविष्मान् हविर्युक्तो यो यजमानो देववीतये देवानां हविर्भक्षणहेतुयोगार्थमग्निमाविवासति
अग्नेः समीपे विशेषेणागत्य परिचर्यां करोति हे पावकाग्ने तस्मै मृळ्य । तं यजमानं सुख्य ॥ देववीतये । वी गतिप्रजनकान्त्यश[...]

haviṣmān havir-yukto yo yajamāno deva-vītaye devānāṃ havir-bhakṣaṇa-hetu-yogārtham agniṃ āvivāsati agneḥ samīpe viśeṣeṇāgatya paricaryāṃ karoti he pāvakāgne tasmai mṛṇaya | taṃ yajamānaṃ sukhaya | | deva-vītaye | vī gatiprajana-kānty-aśa[...]

Translation: "[This rik is] to be used for the oblation prescribed for the mutual contact of the Gārhapatya and Āhavanīya fires: yo agniṃ devavītaye. In the section 'athāgneyyai iṣṭaprayā' it is laid down: 'yo agniṃ devavītaye, kuvit su no gaviṣṭaye' (Āśvalāyana 3-14 [?]). Haviṣmān — the sacrificer endowed with an oblation — who, devavītaye, in order to bring about the gods' eating of the oblation, āvivāsati — comes near Agni and serves him specially; O pāvaka, O Agni, the purifier, tasmai mṛṇaya: do good to him — give that sacrificer happiness. Devavītaye — from the root vī (in the senses of motion, generation, desire, eating): the remaining Sanskrit, on p. 513, is given below."

Note — Continuation of Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit on devavītaye, noted briefly: that vī is from the root vī gati-prajana-kānty-aśana-khādaneṣu and takes ktin ("striyāṃ ktin," Pā. 3-3-94 [?]), whence vīti; that in the compound "devānāṃ vītir yasmin yāge sa devavītiḥ" the first member keeps its accent; that haviṣmān is formed with matup after haviḥ, the m becoming v (Pā. 8-2-9 [?]), initial and unaccented; that āvivāsati is from vana/vā gati-gandhanayoḥ with san by Pā. 3-1-7 [?], doubling and the i-replacement of the reduplicate vowel, giving vivāsa, which has the root's accent; and that tasmai is in the dative (caturthī), because Indra... no — because the one for whom the act is intended receives the sampradāna name; that pāvaka is a vocative; and that mṛḷaya is the imperative of mṛḍa sukhane.) (The Sanskrit is compressed and partly illegible at the head of p. 513; I give only the portions I could read.

original pp. 513–515

Rik 9: close of the bhāṣya, word-meanings, English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

हविष्मान् (haviṣmān) — endowed with the oblation | यः (yaḥ) — which sacrificer | देववितये (devavītaye) — in order to offer the oblation to the gods | अग्निम् (agnim) — Agni, you | आविवासति (āvivāsati) — draws near and serves | तस्मै (tasmai) — for that sacrificer | ³⁴ पावक (pāvaka) — Agni, who purifies all | मृळय (mṛḷaya) — grant happiness.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni, you purify all things! The sacrificer who comes near you, so that you may carry his oblation to the gods, and who praises you, you must bless with happiness.

॥ English Translation ॥

Be merciful, O purifier, to the man who, presenting oblations for the gratification of gods, approaches Agni.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

When the sacrificer has come to the fires in the two fire-pits, the Gārhapatya and the Āhavanīya, he recites this rik and, offering the oblation, performs the homa. At that time this rik is used as a yājyā mantra. In this connection the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra (Āś. 3-14 [?]), in the section athāgneyyai iṣṭaprayā, says that the riks yo agniṃ devavītaye (Ṛg. Saṃ. 1-12-9) and kuvit su no gaviṣṭaye (Ṛg. Saṃ. 8-? -?) are to be used as the yājyā and puronuvākya mantras.

"Devavītaye" — devānāṃ havir-bhakṣaṇa-hetu-yogārtham — "for the sake of bringing about the gods' eating of the oblation": to make an offering to the gods. Since the gods other than Agni are not seen by the eye, one must offer the oblation to them through Agni by pouring it into fire; therefore the sacrificer brings the oblation near Agni, serves him, and prays: this is the idea. Skandasvāmī gives for this word: devān prati gamanāya, devānāṃ vo havir-bhakṣaṇāya — "for going to the gods [as messenger], and for inviting the gods to eat the oblation."

"Haviṣmān"

— one who has prepared the oblation to be offered to the gods and has brought it along.

"Āvivāsati" — saṃīpe viśeṣeṇāgatya paricaryāṃ karoti — "comes near and serves specially" [the source's English: "Approaches you for presenting oblations"].

"Pāvaka" — one who purifies; purifier; or one who blazes brilliantly: resplendent [the source's English]. The word is used especially in addressing Agni.

"Mr̥ḷaya" — sukhaya; "bring happiness; give joy."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁵

देववीतये (devavīṭaye) — root vī gatiprajanakāntyaśanakhādaneṣu in the sense of aśana; ktin ("striyāṃ ktin," Pā. 3-3-94 [?]); ktin is kit, so no guṇa: vīti; "devānāṃ vītir yasmin yāge sa devavītiḥ" — a bahuvrīhi, so "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]) keeps the first member's accent; haviḥ — a neuter, though by "nabviṣayasyānisantasya" (Phiṭ-sūtra 36 [?]), which excludes isanta words by the phrase "aniseḥ," it does not get initial-udātta; the suffix accent leaves it final-udātta. हविष्मान् (haviṣmān) — "haviḥ asya asti": matup ("tad asyāsty asminn iti matup," Pā. 5-2-94 [?]); matup is pit, so unaccented ("anudāttau supitau," Pā. 3-1-4 [?]), and the i-final haviḥ keeps its final-udātta. आविवासति (āvivāsati) — root vān gatigandhanayoḥ (vāsa in the Veda), with the causative-like sense inside; "dhātoḥ karmaṇaḥ samānakartṛkād icchāyāṃ vā" (Pā. 3-1-7 [?]) gives the desiderative san after a root when the object is "the wish to do the same act"; in the sense "to attend to/serve" it is exhausted in paricaryā; Yāska, in the Nighaṇṭu (3-5-10 [?]), reads vivāsati among the words for service; vā + sa: "sanyaṇoḥ" (Pā. 6-1-9 [?]) doubles the root; "hrasvaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-59 [?]) shortens the reduplicate; "sanīvantardha..." [print: "sanyataḥ," Pā. 7-4-79 [?]] changes the reduplicate's a to i: vivāsa; san is nit, so by "ñnityādir nityam" (Pā. 6-1-197 [?]) initial-udātta; "sanādyantā dhātavaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-32 [?]) gives root-status; laṭ, tip, śap; pararūpa: vivāsati. Since "yaddhṛttānnityam" (Pā. 8-1-66 [?]) prohibits the lowering, "tiṅ atīnaḥ" does not apply, and the verb is not made unaccented. In the Saṃhitā ā is a preverb joined to a finite verb: "tiṅ codāttavati" (Pā. 8-1-71 [?]): a gati before an udātta finite verb is unaccented; by "nipātā ādyudāttāḥ" the ā would be initial-udātta, but this rule overrides; "saha supā" (Pā. 2-1-4 [?]) divides saha and gives the compound with a finite verb; "samāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-223 [?]) would give the final-udātta, set aside by "parādiś chandasi bahulam" (Pā. 6-2-199 [?]), so the first syllable of the second member is udātta. तस्मै (tasmai) — "karmaṇā yam abhipraiti sa sampradānam" (Pā. 1-4-32 [?]): the one whom the doer wishes to reach with the act has the sampradāna name, whence the dative by "caturchī sampradāne" (Pā. 2-3-13 [?]); the vārttika "kriyāgrahaṇam kartavyam" is noted. मृळय (mṛḷaya) — root mṛḍa sukhane, ṇijanta; loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi; śap; guṇa; ay; "ato heḥ" (Pā. 6-4-105 [?]) drops hi; ḍ → ḷ in the Veda.

॥१॥

original p. 516

Sūkta 12, Rik 10

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स नः पावक दीदिवो ऽग्ने देवाँ इहा वह । उप यज्ञं हविश्च नः ॥१०॥

*sa naḥ pāvaka dīdivo 'gne devāṃ ihā vaha | upa yajñam haviś
ca naḥ || 10 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सः । नः । पावक । दीदिवः । अग्ने । देवान् । इह । आ । वह ॥ उप । यज्ञम् । हविः । च । नः ॥१०॥

*saḥ | naḥ | pāvaka | dīdivaḥ | agne | devān | iha | ā | vaha
|| upa | yajñam | haviḥ | ca | naḥ || 10 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

पवमानेष्टिष्वग्नेः पावकस्येयमनुवाक्या स नः पावक दीदिव इति । पौर्णमासेनेष्टिपशुसोमा उपदिष्टा खण्डे सूत्रितं । स नः पावक दीदिवो ऽग्ने पावक रोचिषा । आ. २-१ [?] । इति ॥ *pavamāneṣṭiṣv agneḥ pāvakasyeyam anuvākyā sa naḥ pāvaka dīdiva iti | paurṇamāseneṣṭi-paśu-somā upadiṣṭā khaṇḍe

sūtritaṃ | sa naḥ pāvaka dīdivo 'gne pāvaka rociṣā | ā. 2-1 [?]
| iti ||*

हे दीदिवो दीप्यमान पावक शोधकाग्ने स त्वं नो ऽस्मदर्थमिह देवयजनदेशे देवानावह । ततो नो ऽस्मदीयं यज्ञं हविश्चोप देवसमीपे प्रापयेति शेषः ॥ दीदिवः । दिवु क्रीडादौ । छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिटः । इति वर्तमाने लिट् । क्वसुः । द्विर्भावो हलादिशेषः । तुजादीनां दीर्घो

ऽभ्यासस्येत्यभ्यासस्य दीर्घत्वम् । वस्वेकाजाद्धसामिति नियमादसौ [?] इट्प्रतिषेधः । लोपो व्योर्वलीति वकारलोपः । संबुद्धावुगिदचामित्यादिना नुम् । हल्ङ्यादिलोपः । संयोगान्तलोपः । मतुवसोरिति रुत्वम् । विसर्गः । अग्ने । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । देवाँ इहेत्यत्र दीर्घादिति समानपाद इति रुत्वम् । आकोऽटि नित्यम् इत्यनुनासिकः । भोभगोअघोअपूर्वस्य योऽशीति रोर्यकारः । लोपः शाकल्यस्येति यकारलोपः । इह । इदमो हः । पा. ५-३-११ । इति सप्तम्यन्ताद्धप्रत्ययः । इदमिश् । पा. ५-३-३ । तद्धितान्तत्वात्प्रातिपदिकत्वे सुपो धातुप्रातिपदिकयोः । पा. २-४-७१ । इति सप्तम्या लुक् । तद्धितश्चासर्वविभक्तिः । पा. १-१-३८ । इत्यव्ययसंज्ञायामव्ययादाप्सुपः । पा. २-४-८२ । इत्युत्तरस्याः सप्तम्या लुक् । चकारः प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तः ॥ *he dīdivo dīpyamāna pāvaka śodhakāgne sa tvaṃ no 'smadartham iha deva-yajana-deśe devān āvaha | tato no 'smadīyaṃ yajñam haviś copa deva-samīpe prāpayeti śeṣaḥ | | dīdivaḥ |

divu krīḍādaḥ | chandasi luṇlaṇḍiṭaḥ | iti vartamāne liṭ |
kvasuḥ | dvirbhāvo halādiśeṣaḥ | tujādīnām dīrgho
'bhyāsasyety abhyāsasya dīrghatvam | vasvekājād ghasām iti niyamād asau [?] iṭ-pratiṣedhaḥ | lopo vyor vali iti vakāra-lopaḥ | saṃbuddhāv ugidacām ity-ādinā num | hal-nyādi-lopaḥ | saṃyogānta-lopaḥ | matuvasor iti rutvam | visargaḥ
| agne | pādāditvān na nighātaḥ | devāñ ihety atra dīrghād aṭi samānapāda iti rutvam | āko 'ṭi nityam ity anunāsikaḥ |
bhobhago-aghoapūrvasya yo 'śīti ror yakāraḥ | lopaḥ śākalyasyeti yakāra-lopaḥ | iha | idamo haḥ | pā. 5-3-11 | iti saptamy-antād ha-pratyayaḥ | idam is | pā. 5-3-3 |
taddhitāntatvāt prātipadikatve supo dhātu-prātipadikayoḥ |
pā. 2-4-71 | iti saptamyā luk | taddhitaś cāsarva-vibhaktiḥ |
pā. 1-1-38 | ity avyaya-saṃjñāyām avyayād āp-supah | pā.
2-4-82 | ity uttarasyāḥ saptamyā luk | cakāraḥ pratyayasvareṇodāttaḥ | |*

Translation: "This is the anuvākyā of Agni Pāvaka in the pavamāneṣṭi offerings: sa naḥ pāvaka dīdivaḥ. In the section 'paurṇamāseneṣṭi-paśu-somāḥ upadiṣṭāḥ' it is laid down: 'sa naḥ pāvaka dīdivo, agne pāvaka rociṣā' (Āśvalāyana 2-1 [?]). O dīdivaḥ — O blazing, O pāvaka, O purifying Agni! Being such, bring the gods iha — here, to the sacrificial ground — for our sake; and then convey our sacrifice and our oblation to the gods' presence [this is the supplied completion]." ³⁶

original p. 517

Rik 10: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

दीदिवः (dīdivaḥ) — shining | (हे) पावकः ((he) pāvaka) — O Agni, who purifies | सः (saḥ) — such as you are | नः (naḥ) — to us (on our behalf) | इह (iha) — to this sacrificial ground | देवान् (devān) — the gods | आ वह (ā vaha) — bring | ³⁷ नः (naḥ) — our | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — sacrifice | हविः च (haviḥ ca) — and the oblation we offer | उप (upa) — to the gods' side | ³⁸.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! You blaze and shine; you purify all. Such as you are, bring the gods to this sacrificial ground that we are making, and make our sacrifice, and the oblation we offer to them, reach them.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, resplendent and purifier, conduct the gods hither to us, to our sacrifice and to our oblations.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

36. Grammar noted briefly: that dīdivaḥ is the participle of divu with kvasu and the reduplicate lengthened; that the vocative takes num and the rest is dropped; devān becomes devāñ before iha by the rule on n before a vowel in the same pāda; iha is formed with ha after idam in the seventh case (Pā. 5-3-11 [?]), with iś for idam, is an indeclinable (Pā. 1-1-38 [?]), and its c-type final is udātta by the suffix.

37. and then

38. carry it so that it reaches them

The application of this rik: in the pavamāneṣṭi — the sacrifice in which Agni named Pāvaka is addressed — this rik is used as the puronuvākyā mantra when making the offering. This is stated in the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra (Āś. 2-1 [?]), in the section paurṇamāsenēṣṭi-paśu-somā upadiṣṭāḥ, where the riks sa naḥ pāvaka dīdivaḥ (Rg. Saṃ. 1-12-10) and agne pāvaka rociṣā (Rg. Saṃ. 2-? -1 [?]) are to be recited as the yājyā and puronuvākyā riks respectively.

original pp. 517–519

Rik 10 grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁹

दीदिवः (dīdivaḥ) — root divu krīdāvijigīṣā... ; liṭ in the present sense in the Veda ("chandasi luṇlaṇliṭaḥ," Pā. 3-4-6 [?]); liṭ → kvasu ("kvasuś ca," Pā. 3-2-107 [?]); div + vas; doubling by "liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-8 [?]); "halādiḥ śeṣaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-60 [?]) leaves one consonant in the reduplicate; "tujādīnāṃ dīrgho 'bhyāsasya" (Pā. 6-1-7 [?]) lengthens the reduplicate vowel: dīdiv + vas; iṭ would arise by "ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ" (Pā. 7-2-35 [?]) but is barred by the rule "vasvekājād ghasām" (Pā. 7-2-67 [?]); "lopo vyor vali" (Pā. 6-1-66 [?]) drops the v of the second div before a val-letter: dīdi + vas; "ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-70 [?]) adds num in the vocative; "hal-nyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]) drops su; "saṃyogāntasya lopaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]) drops s; "matvasoru saṃbuddhau chandasi" (Pā. 8-3-1 [?]) gives ru; visarga: dīdivaḥ. अग्ने (agne) — a vocative, but since it stands at the head of the second pāda, it is not lowered (no "pādādi" lowering). देवान् इह (devān iha) — in the Saṃhitā "dīrghād aṭi samānapāde" (Pā. 8-3-9 [?]) turns the n into ru when the following word begins with an aṭ letter in the same pāda; "āto 'ṭi nityam" (Pā. 8-3-3 [?]) gives

39. grammar pages 517–519, noted briefly

the nasalized vowel; "bhobhagoaghoapūrvasya yo 'śi" (Pā. 8-3-17 [?]) turns ru into y and "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) drops it; devāñ iha; the y's loss before the following i would let the vowels be combined by guṇa, but "pūrvatrāsiddham" (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) makes the loss of y "unseen" by the rule ād guṇaḥ, so the vowels are not combined. इह (iha) — "idamo haḥ" (Pā. 5-3-11 [?]): the suffix ha after idam in the locative sense; "idam iś" (Pā. 5-3-3 [?]): iś replaces idam before the prāgdiśṭya suffixes; iś is ś-marked, so replaces the whole word ("anekāl śit sarvasya," Pā. 1-1-55 [?]): iha; ha is a taddhita suffix, so the word is a prātipadika ("kṛttaddhitasamāsāś ca," Pā. 1-2-46 [?]); the case-ending is dropped ("supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ," Pā. 2-4-71 [?]); the word is an indeclinable since it is a taddhita with no sarvavibhakti ("taddhitaś cāsarvavibhaktiḥ," Pā. 1-1-38 [?]); "avyayād āpsupaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-82 [?]) drops any following ending; the a of ha is udātta by "ādyudāttaś ca" (Pā. 3-1-3 [?]).

॥१०॥

original p. 519

Sūkta 12, Rik 11

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स नः स्तवान आ भर गायत्रेण नवीयसा । रयिं वीरवतीमिषम् ॥११॥

*sa naḥ stavāna ā bhara gāyatreṇa navīyasā | rayim vīravatīm
iṣam || 11 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सः । नः । स्तवानः । आ । भर । गायत्रेण । नवीयसा ॥ रयिम् । वीरवतीम् । इषम् ॥११॥

*saḥ | naḥ | stavānaḥ | ā | bhara | gāyatreṇa | navīyasā |
rayim | vīra-vatīm | iṣam || 11 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने नवीयसा नवतरेण पूर्वैरस्मत्संपादितेन गायत्रेण गायत्रीच्छन्दस्केनानेन सूक्तेन स्तवानः
 स्तूयमानः स त्वं नो ऽस्मदर्थं रयिं धनं वीरवतीं शूरपुत्रप्रभृतिपत्ययुक्तामिषमन्नं चा भर ।
 संपादय ॥ स्तवानः । ष्टुञ् स्तुतौ । धात्वादेः षः सः । स्वरितजितः कर्त्रभिप्राये क्रियाफले
 इत्यात्मनेपदम् । लटः शानच् । कर्तरि शप् । बहुलं छन्दसीति लुगभावः । गुणावादेशौ । आने
 मुक् । पा. ७-२-८२ । इति मुगागमः । अनित्यमागमशासनम् इत्यागमानुशासनस्यानित्यत्वात्
 । शपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । शानचश्चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तस्याप्युपदेशाच्छपः
 परत्वान्नसार्वधातुकानुदात्तत्वम् । धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । भर । ह्यग्रहोर्भश्छन्दसि । पा.
 ८-२-३२ [?] । इति भत्वम् । गायत्रेण । गायत्र्याः सम्बन्धि गायत्रम् । तस्येदम् । पा.
 ४-३-१२० । इत्यणप्रत्ययः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । नवीयसा । नवशब्दादतिशायनिक ईयसुन्प्रत्ययः ।
 नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । वीरवतीम् । मतुब्डीपोः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । आकारः प्रातिपदिकस्वरेणोदात्तः ॥

*he agne navīyasā navatareṇa pūrvair asmat-saṃpāditena gāyatṛeṇa gāyatrī-chandaskenānena sūktena stavānaḥ stūyamānaḥ sa tvaṃ no 'smad-arthaṃ rayiṃ dhanam vīravatīm śūra-putra-prabhṛti-patya-yuktām iṣam annam cā bhara | saṃpādaya | | stavānaḥ | ṣṭuñ stutau | dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ
 saḥ | svaritañītaḥ kartrabhiprāye kriyā-phale ity ātmanepadam | laṭaḥ śānac | kartari śap | bahulaṃ
 chandasīti lugabhāvaḥ | guṇāvādeśau | āne muk | pā. 7-2-82
 | iti mugāgamaḥ | anityam āgama-śāsanam ity āgamānuśāsanasyānityatvāt | śapaḥ pittvād anudāttatvam | śānacaś cittvād antodāttasyāpy upadeśāc chapāḥ paratvāl
 lasārvadhātukānudāttatvam | dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | bhara
 | hṛgrahor bhaś chandasi | pā. 8-2-32 [?] | iti bhatvam |
 gāyatṛeṇa | gāyatryāḥ sambandhi gāyatram | tasyedam | pā.
 4-3-120 | ity aṇ-pratyayaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | navīyasā |
 nava-śabdād atīśāyanika īyasun-pratyayaḥ | nittvād
 ādyudāttaḥ | vīravatīm | matub-ñīpoḥ pittvād anudāttatvam |
 ākāraḥ prātipadika-svareṇodāttaḥ | |*

Translation: "O Agni! Stavānaḥ — being praised — by this sūkta in the Gāyatrī meter, gāyatreṇa, navīyasā — newer, composed by us anew and not used by predecessors — you, for our sake, ā bhara: provide rayim, wealth, and iṣam, food, that is vīravatīm — accompanied by brave sons and other progeny." ⁴⁰

original pp. 520–521

Rik 11: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

⁴¹ गायत्रेण (gāyatreṇa) — composed in the Gāyatrī meter | नवीयसा (navīyasā) — new, i.e., with a hymn newly composed, not used until now | स्तवानः (stavānaḥ) — being praised | सः (saḥ) — such as you are | नः (naḥ) — to us | रयिम् (rayim) — wealth | वीरवतीम् (vīravatīm) — [that is accompanied by] brave sons and others | इषम् (iṣam) — food | आ भर (ā bhara) — bring.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! We praise you with this hymn, newly composed by ourselves in the Gāyatrī meter. Praised thus, give us wealth, valiant people, and food and other nourishment.

॥ English Translation ॥

Thus praised by us with our new Gayatra hymn, bring us wealth, valiant men and food.

40. Grammar noted briefly: that stavānaḥ is the passive-sense śānac of ṣṭuñ, with the augment muk and the root accent standing; bhara shows bh for h in the Veda (Pā. 8-2-32 [?]); gāyatra is "that which belongs to the gāyatrī" with aṇ (Pā. 4-3-120 [?]); navīyas is the comparative of nava with īyasun; and vīravatī is unaccented in its suffixes, the ā carrying the stem accent.

41. O Agni!

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

"Ā bhara" — "bring, give." The use of the word bhara in the sense "give" is a special established usage in the Ṛgveda:

सुपेशसं वाजमा भरा नः प्रातर्मक्षू धियावसुर्जगम्यात् । supeśasaṃ vājam ā bharā naḥ prātar makṣū dhiyāvasur jagamyāt | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-? -? [?]; printed "१-६३-८") (A best reading of compressed print; no gloss offered.)

विश्वा अग्ने अभियुजो विहत्या शत्रूयतामा भरा भोजनानि । viśvā agne abhiyujō vihatyā śatrūyatām ā bharā bhojanāni | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-? -? [?]; printed "३-१-५") ("O Agni, having struck down all attackers, bring us the foods of those who treat us as foes." — my gloss, tentative.)

सुवीरं रयिमा भर जातवेदो विचर्षणे । suvīraṃ rayim ā bhara jātavedo vicarṣaṇe | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 6-? -? [?]; printed "६-१६-३५") ("Bring wealth with fine heroes, O Jātavedas, O all-seeing." — my gloss, tentative.)

and many other examples might be given.⁴²

"Gāyatrena" — the Bhāṣyakāra explains it as "endowed with the Gāyatrī meter." There is also a Sāman-mantra called gāyatra, and gāyatrena may also be given the sense "while singing."

"Navīyasā" — nava: recently composed, newly made: "used for the first time." The sense is that the poet says this hymn, composed anew, is being used by him now for the first time. After a sūkta or a rik is composed, many people recite it again and again to praise [the deity]; but he says that with this sūkta he is making praise for the very first time.

42. The reference numerals of these three riks, as printed in small Kannada digits, are compressed and doubtful; all are marked "?".

"Vīravatīm" — this word is an adjective of the word iṣam; so "give us the food and other nourishment that are of use to us, accompanied by offspring, by sons and grandsons, servants and brave people": the chief idea is "grant us brave people, and food and the like."

original pp. 521–522

Rik 11: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴³

स्तवानः (stavānaḥ) — root ṣtuñ stutau; "dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ" (Pā. 6-1-64 [?]) turns ṣ → s, and the ṭ of ṣṭ → t ("ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" reversed); stu; the root is ñīt, so ātmanepada by "svaritañītaḥ kartrabhiprāye kriyāphale" (Pā. 1-3-72 [?]); or, since the root has ñ, the ātmanepada arises in place of the l-suffixes; so laṭ → śānac ("laṭaḥ śatṛśānacāv aprathamāsamānādhikaraṇe," Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); śap ("kartari śap," Pā. 3-1-68 [?]), which would be dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]) but the lug does not arise through "bahulaṃ chandasi" (Pā. 2-4-73 [?]) — the bahulagrahaṇa there; guṇa and av: stav + a + āna; "āne muk" (Pā. 7-2-82 [?]) — the muk augment after a-ending stems before āna — which would be anitya ("anityam āgamaśāsanam," Paribhāṣā 95 [?]) and yet applies here as "āgamaśāsanam anityam" is a niyama that leaves such rules optional; a + mān: savarṇadīrgha: stavāna; śap is pit, so unaccented; śānac is cit and so would be final-udātta, but since śap follows the upadeśa a and is a lasārvadhātuka, "tāsyānudātenñid-adupadeśāt..." (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]) makes the śānac unaccented; the root accent stands ("dhātoḥ," Pā. 6-1-162 [?]), initial-udātta. भर (bhara) — root hṛñ haraṇe; loṭ second singular sip; sip → hi ("serhyapicca," Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śap; guṇa, raparatva: har + a + hi; "ato heḥ" (Pā. 6-4-105 [?]) drops hi; in the Veda "hṛgrahor bhaś chandasi" (Pā. 8-2-32 [?]) changes h → bh:

43. grammar pages 521–522, noted briefly

bhara; unaccented. गायत्रेण (gāyatreṇa) — gāyatryāḥ sambandhi gāyatram; "tasyedam" (Pā. 4-3-120 [?]): aṇ in the sense "belonging to that"; gāyatrī → gāyatra by dropping the final ī ("yasyeti ca," Pā. 6-4-148 [?]) and vṛddhi of the first syllable ("tadhiteṣv acām ādeḥ," Pā. 7-2-117 [?]); aṇ is ṇit, so initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); ṇatva by "raṣābhyāṃ no ṇaḥ" (Pā. 8-4-1 [?]) in the instrumental ena. नवीयसा (navīyasā) — "atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau" / "dvivacanavibhajyopapade tarabīyasunau" (Pā. 5-3-55/57 [?]): īyasun after nava in the sense of excess; ṇit, so initial-udātta. वीरवतीम् (vīravatīm) — vīra + matup; ṇīp ("ugitaś ca," Pā. 4-1-6 [?]); both pit, so unaccented; the ā takes the stem accent.

॥११॥ 44

original p. 522

Rik 11 grammar closes; Sūkta 12, Rik 12 (the last)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने शुक्रेण शोचिषा विश्वाभिर्देवहूतिभिः । इमं स्तोमं जुषस्व नः ॥१२॥

agne śukreṇa śociṣā viśvābhir devahūtibhiḥ | imaṃ stomam juṣasva naḥ | | 12 |

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने । शुक्रेण । शोचिषा । विश्वाभिः । देवऽहूतिऽभिः ॥ इमम् । स्तोमम् । जुषस्व । नः ॥

१२॥

agne | śukreṇa | śociṣā | viśvābhiḥ | deva-hūti-bhiḥ | | imam | stomam | juṣasva | naḥ | | 12 |

original p. 523

44. The last lines of the grammar of Rik 11, on p. 522, close the accent of vīravatīm — "the ā is udātta by the stem accent" — and end with the number ॥११॥; summarized under Rik 11 above.

Rik 12: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने शुक्रेण शोचिषा त्वदीयेनेश्वेतवर्णेन दीप्त्या विश्वाभिर्देवहूतिभिः
सर्वदेवताह्वानसाधनस्तोत्रैश्च युक्तस्त्वं नो ऽस्मदीयमिमं स्तोमं स्तोत्रविशेषं जुषस्व । सेवस्व ॥
विश्वशब्दो विशेः क्वनन्तो नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । देवहूतिभिः । देवशब्द आद्युदात्तः । चितो
ऽन्तोदात्तः । देवानां हूतय आह्वानान्यासु स्तुतिषु ता देवहूतयः स्तुतयः । बहुव्रीहौ
पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । स्तूयते ऽनेनेति स्तोमः । अर्तिसुसुहुसु ... इत्यादिना मन् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः ॥ १२ ॥

*he agne śukreṇa śociṣā tvadīyeneśveta-varṇena dīptyā viśvābhir devahūtibhiḥ sarva-devatāhvāna-sādhana-stotrais ca yuktas tvaṃ no 'smadīyam imaṃ stomaṃ stotra-viśeṣaṃ juṣasva | sevasva | | viśva-śabdo viśeḥ kvananto nittvād
ādyudāttaḥ | devahūtibhiḥ | deva-śabda ādyudāttaḥ | cito
'ntodāttaḥ | devānāṃ hūtaya āhvānāny āsu stutiṣu tā
devahūtayaḥ stutayaḥ | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | stūyate 'neneti stomaḥ | artistusuhusṛ... ity-ādinā man | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | | 12 | |*

Translation: "O Agni! Śukreṇa śociṣā — with your bright (here, white) radiance — and viśvābhiḥ devahūtibhiḥ — with the praises that are the means of invoking all the gods — you, being so endowed, juṣasva: accept (take pleasure in) imaṃ stomaṃ, this our special hymn, naḥ, ours. [Grammar: viśva is formed with kvan from viś, initial-udātta since nit; devahūti — 'those praises in which there are invocations of the gods,' a bahuvrīhi keeping the first member's accent; stoma — 'that by which one praises,' with man (Uṇ. 1-142 [?]), initial-udātta.]" ⁴⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

45. The "12" at the end is the rik number.

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | शुक्लेण (śukreṇa) — possessing a whiteness [of colour] | शोचिषा (śociṣā) — by your radiance | विश्वाभिः (viśvābhiḥ) — all | देवहूतिभिः (devahūtibhiḥ) — with praises that are the means of calling the gods | ⁴⁶ नः (naḥ) — our | इमं स्तोमम् (imaṃ stomam) — this special hymn | जुषस्व (juṣasva) — be pleased with (accept).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! You shine with a brilliant light; and we compose hymns for calling the gods by means of you. Such as you are, hear and take pleasure in these hymns that we make.

॥ English Translation ॥

Agni, with your bright splendour, be pleased through all our invocations of the gods, with this our praise.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Śukreṇa śociṣā" — śukla-varṇena kāntyā: "with a white-coloured radiance." When Agni blazes, its light too is bright; the custom is to describe it as a light or radiance that shines in this way [the source adds the English "Radiance, bright splendour" and says other senses may be given].

"Devahūtibhiḥ" — devānāṃ hūṭaye āhvānānyāsu stutiṣu — "in which praises there are invocations of the gods": it is the custom to recite hymns for calling the gods; since these hymns reach the gods through Agni, the sense is that Agni is "endowed with praises, the means of invoking the gods."

"Juṣasva" — sevasva: juṣī prītisevanayoḥ — "serve, i.e., listen to the hymns we make, and be delighted, be pleased."

original p. 524

Rik 12 grammar closes; close of Sūkta 12

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴⁷

विश्वाभिः (viśvābhiḥ) — "aśūpruṣīlīṭikaṇikhaṭivisibhyaḥ kvan" (Uṇ. 1-149 [?]): kvan after the root viśa praveśane; nit, hence viśva is initial-udātta; the feminine ṭāp; the ā lengthened by savarṇadīrgha; instrumental plural bhis; ru and visarga. देवहूतिभिः (devahūtibhiḥ) — "nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-134 [?]): ac after the root div [as the source reads]: deva; laghūpadha-guṇa; the suffix is cit, so final-udātta ("citaḥ," Pā. 6-1-163 [?]); then hve, "striyāṃ ktin" (Pā. 3-3-94 [?]): ktin is kit, so "vacisvapiyajādīnāṃ kiti" (Pā. 6-1-15 [?]) gives saṃprasāraṇa to the hve of the yajādi group (the source lists the yajādi roots, including hve); va → u; "saṃprasāraṇāc ca" (Pā. 6-1-108 [?]); "hali ca" (Pā. 8-2-77 [?]) lengthens it: hūti, "calling"; "devānāṃ hūtayaḥ āsu stutiṣu santi" — a bahuvrīhi, so "bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam" (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]) keeps the first member's accent. स्तोमम् (stomam) — "artistusuhusṛkṣi-kṣṇu-śriyāṃ-bhrayaḥ-ūyī... manī" [print: "arti stu su hu sṛ ghṛ kṣi kṣu bhā yā vā padī yakṣi nīṇ bhyo man"] (Uṇ. 1-142 [?]): man after stu; guṇa ("sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ," Pā. 7-3-84 [?]): stoma; man is nit, so initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]).

॥१२॥

End of Sūkta 12.

original p. 525

47. grammar page, noted briefly

॥ ಹದಿಮೂರನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 13 —
"suśamiddho na ā vaha" ("The Thirteenth
Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta)

ಸುಸಮಿಧ್ವ ಇತ್ಯಾದಿಕಂ ದ್ವಾದಶರ್ಚಂ ದ್ವಿತೀಯಮಾಪ್ರಿಸೂಕ್ತಮ್ । ತಸ್ಯ ಕಂವೋ ಮೇಧಾತಿಥಿರ್ಋಷಿಃ । ಗಾಯತ್ರಂ ಚಂದಃ
। ಪ್ರತ್ಯುಚಂ ಪ್ರತೀಯಮಾನಾಃ ಸಮಿಧ್ವತನೂನಪಾದಾದಿಕಾ ದ್ವಾದಶ ದೇವತಾಃ । ತಥಾ
ಚಾನುಕ್ರಮಣಿಕಾಯಾಮೃಕ್ಸಂಖ್ಯಾನೃಷಿಂ ಚಂದಶ್ಚಾನುವೃತ್ತಿಬಲಾತ್ಪ್ರತಿದೇವತೈತ್ಯಾದಿ ದೇವತಾ ಉದಾಹೃತಾಃ । ಸುಸಮಿಧ್ವ
ಇತಿಧಮಃ ಸಮಿಧ್ವೋ ವಾಗ್ನಿಸ್ತನೂನಪಾನ್ನರಾಶಂಸ ಇಹೋ ಬರ್ಹಿದೇವೀರ್ಧ್ವಾರ ಉಷಾಸಾನಕ್ತಾ ದೈವ್ಯಾ ಹೊತಾರಾ ಪ್ರಚೇತಸಾ
ತಿಸ್ರೋ ದೇವ್ಯಃ ಸರಸ್ವತೀಽಭಾರತ್ಯಸ್ತ್ವಷ್ಟಾ ವನಸ್ಪತಿಃ ಸ್ವಾಹಾಕೃತಯ ಇತಿ ಪ್ರತ್ಯುಚಂ ದೇವತಾ
ಏತದಾಪ್ರಿಸೂಕ್ತಮಿತಿ ॥ ವಿನಿಯೋಗಸ್ತು । ಪಶೌ ಸುಸಮಿಧ್ವೇನ ಆ ವಹೇತಿ ಕಾಂವಮಾಪ್ರಿಸೂಕ್ತಮ್ । ಏಕಾದಶ ಪ್ರಯಾಜಾ ಇತಿ ಖಂಡೇ ಸೂತ್ರಿತಮ್ । ಸಮಿಧ್ವೋ ಅಧೇತಿ ಸರ್ವೇಷಾಂ ಯಥರ್ಷಿ ವಾ । ಆ. ೩-೨ [?] । ಇತಿ ॥

suśamiddha ity-ādikaṃ dvādaśarçaṃ dvitīyam āprī-sūktam |
tasya kaṇvo medhātithir ṛṣiḥ | gāyatram chandaḥ | pratyṛçaṃ pratīyamānāḥ samiddha-tanūnapād-ādikā dvādaśa
devatāḥ | tathā cānukramaṇikāyām ṛk-saṃkhyān ṛṣim
chandaś cānuvṛtti-balāt prati-devataity-ādi devatā udāhṛtāḥ | susamiddha itīdhmaḥ samiddho vāgnis tanūnapān narāsaṃsa iḷo barhir devīr dvāra uṣāsānaktā daivyā hotārā pracetasā tisro devyaḥ sarasvatī-iḷā-bhāratyas tvaṣṭā vanaspatīḥ svāhākṛtaya iti pratyṛçaṃ devatā etad āprī-sūktam iti ||

viniyogas tu | paśau susamiddhena ā vaheti kāṇvam āprisūktam | ekādaśa prayājā iti khaṇḍe sūtritam | samiddho
 adyeti sarveṣāṃ yathā-ṛṣi vā | ā. 3-2 [?] | iti | |

Translation: "The twelve-rik sūкта beginning susamiddha [the print has suśamiddha; the rik begins susamiddho] is the second Āpri-sūкта. Its ṛṣi is Medhātithi, son of Kaṇva; the meter is Gāyatrī; the twelve deities, one for each rik, are known in order beginning with samiddha [Agni] and tanūnapāt. So the Anukramaṇikā states the number of riks, the ṛṣi, and the meter by continuation, and lists the deities rik by rik: 'susamiddha' — idhma [fuel] or samiddha [Agni kindled]; tanūnapāt; narāśaṃsa; īlaḥ; barhiḥ; devīr dvāraḥ; uśāsānaktā; daivyā hotārā pracetasā; tisro devyaḥ — Sarasvatī, Iḷā, Bhāratī; tvaṣṭā; vanaspatiḥ; svāhākṛtayaḥ — this is the Āpri-sūкта. Its application: in the animal sacrifice, the Kāṇva Āpri-sūкта susamiddhena ā vaha; it is laid down in the section 'the eleven prayājas': 'samiddho adya' for all, or according to the ṛṣi (Āśvalāyana 3-2 [?])." ¹

॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) ॥ The twelve-rik sūкта that begins with susamiddha is the second sūкта of this fourth anuvāka. It is called an Āpri-sūкта. Its ṛṣi is Medhātithi Kāṇva; its meter is Gāyatrī. For each rik there is a different deity — twelve in all, beginning with idhma-samiddha Agni and tanūnapāt. The Anukramaṇikā too, noting the number of riks, the ṛṣi and the meter, lists the deities: in the sūкта susamiddha, for the riks in order: (1) idhmaḥ samiddho 'gnir vā, (2) tanūnapāt, (3) narāśaṃsaḥ, (4) īlaḥ, (5) barhiḥ, (6) devīr dvāraḥ, (7) uśāsānaktā, (8) daivyā hotārā pracetasau, (9) tisro devyaḥ sarasvatī bhāratī iḷā, (10) tvaṣṭā, (11) vanaspatiḥ, (12) svāhākṛtayaḥ — twelve deities; hence it is well known as an Āpri-sūкта. Application: in the animal sacrifice (paśuyāga), when performing the eleven prayāja offerings, the Āpri-sūkta of Kaṇva's family is used; Āśvalāyana's Śrauta-sūtra treats this in the section "the eleven prayājas," by the sūtra samiddho adya sarveṣāṃ yathā-rṣi vā (Āś. 3-2 [?]).

1. The Sanskrit is read with some doubt where compressed.

original p. 526

Sūkta 13, Rik 1

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ Sūkta — 13 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 4 ॥ Sūkta — 13 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 24, 25 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–12 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva ॥ ॥ Devatā — (1) idhmaḥ samiddho 'gniḥ; (2) tanūnapāt; (3) narāsaṃsaḥ; (4) iḷaḥ; (5) barhiḥ; (6) devīr dvāraḥ; (7) uṣāsānaktā; (8) daivyā hotārā pracetasau; (9) tisro devyaḥ — sarasvatī, iḷā, bhārati; (10) tvaṣṭā; (11) vanaspatiḥ; (12) svāhākṛtayaḥ ॥ ³ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सुसमिद्धो न आ वह देवाँ अग्ने हविष्मते । होतः पावक यक्षि च ॥१॥

*suśamiddho na ā vaha devāṃ agne haviṣmate | hotaḥ pāvaka
yakṣi ca || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सुसमिद्धः । नः । आ । वह । देवान् । अग्ने । हविष्मते ॥ होतः । पावक । यक्षि । च ॥१॥

*su-samiddhaḥ | naḥ | ā | vaha | devān | agne | haviṣmate ||
hotaḥ | pāvaka | yakṣi | ca || 1 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

2. small-print Kannada digits, read at 300 dpi; the second digits are blurred

3. as printed, rik by rik

हे अग्ने सुसमिद्धनामकस्त्वं नो ऽस्मदीयाय हविष्मते यजमानाय तदनुग्रहार्थं देवानावह । हे पावक शोधक होतर्होमनिष्पादकग्ने यक्षि च । यज च ॥ सुसमिद्धः । समः क्रियाविशेषणत्वेन गतिसंज्ञकत्वात्प्रादिसमासः । शोभनवाचिनः सुशब्दस्य तु विशेषणं विशेष्येण बहुलम् । पा. २-१-५७ । इति समिद्धेन कर्मधारयेण समासः । सुशब्दः प्रातिपदिकस्वरेणोदात्तः । कर्मधारयेऽनिष्ठा । पा. ६-२-४६ । इति पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । क्रियाविशेषणत्वे हि सुशब्दस्य गतित्वाद्वतिसमासे गतिरनन्तरः इति समो यदुदात्तत्वं तदेव कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन स्थास्यतीति सुशब्दो ऽनुदात्तः स्यात् । देवाँ अग्ने । पूर्ववद्भुत्वानुनासिके । हविष्मते । हविरस्यास्तीति मत्तुप् । तसौ मत्वर्थे । पा. १-४-१९ । इति भत्वेन पदत्वस्य बाधितत्वान्न रुत्वम् । होतः पावकशब्दयोरामन्त्रितयोः पृथक्कृत्य पृथगेव क्रियान्वये परस्परसामर्थ्यात्तदा पराङ्गवद्भावाभावात् तन्निबन्धनमेकस्वर्यं न च । द्वितीयस्यामन्त्रितस्याष्टमिकनिघातेनैकस्वर्यम् । आमन्त्रितं पूर्वमविद्यमानवत् । इति पूर्वस्याविद्यमानवत्त्वेन पदान्तरत्वाभावात्पादादित्वाच्च । परस्परसामानाधिकरण्येऽपि होतरित्यस्य विशेषणत्वे समानमेवाविद्यमानवत्त्वम् । ... यक्षि । यजेर्लोट् । सिपि बहुलं छन्दसीति शपो लुक् । ब्रश्चादिना षत्वम् । षढोः कः सि । पा. ८-२-४१ । इति कत्वम् । सेर्हपिच्य इति हिरादेशश्छन्दसत्वान्न भवति । सिपः पित्त्वेनानुदात्तत्वाद्भातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । न च तिङ्ङतिङ इति निघातः ...

he agne susamiddhanāmakas tvaṃ no 'smadīyāya haviṣmate yajamānāya tad-anugrahārthaṃ devān āvaha | he pāvaka śodhaka hotar homa-niṣpādakāgne yakṣi ca | yaja ca | | susamiddhaḥ | samaḥ kriyā-viśeṣaṇatvena gati-saṃjñakatvāt prādi-samāsaḥ | śobhana-vācinaḥ su-śabdasya tu viśeṣaṇaṃ viśeṣyeṇa bahulam | pā. 2-1-57 | iti samiddhena karmadhārayeṇa samāsaḥ | su-śabdaḥ prātipadika-svareṇodāttaḥ | karmadhāraye 'niṣṭhā | pā. 6-2-46 | iti pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | ... devāṃ agne | pūrvavad rutvānunāsike | haviṣmate | havir asyāstīti matup | tasau matvarthe | pā. 1-4-19 | iti bhatvena padatvasya bādhitatvān na rutvam | hotaḥ pāvaka-śabdayor āmantritayoḥ prthak-kṛtya prthag eva kriyānvaye ... yakṣi | yajer loṭ | sipi bahulaṃ chandasīti śapo luk | vraścādinā ṣatvam | ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si | pā.

8-2-41 | iti katvam | ser hy apic ca iti hir ādeśaś chandasatvān na bhavati | sipaḥ pittvenānudāttatvād dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | na ca tiṅ atīna iti nighātaḥ ...

Translation: "O Agni! You, who bear the name Susamiddha, bring the gods for our sacrificer haviṣmate — the one who has the oblation — to favour him. O pāvaka, purifier! O hotar, accomplisher of the homa! Yakṣi ca — and sacrifice, perform the sacrifice." ^{4 5}

original pp. 527–529

Rik 1: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | सुसमिद्धः (susamiddhaḥ) — [you, named] thoroughly kindled (well lit) | नः (naḥ) — to our | हविष्मते (haviṣmate) — sacrificer who is endowed with the oblation | ⁶ देवान् (devān) — the gods | आ वह (ā vaha) — bring here | (हे) पावक (he) pāvaka) — O purifier | (हे) होतः ((he) hotaḥ) — O Agni, accomplisher of the homa | यक्षि च (yakṣi ca) — and perform the sacrifice.

4. The rest of the bhāṣya, pp. 526–527, is grammar and a long argument on accent noted briefly below: that susamiddha is a karmadhāraya of su with samiddha by Pā. 2-1-57 [?], which keeps the first member's accent, with sam as a gati; that haviṣmate has the bha status that blocks the ru rule; that the two adjacent vocatives hotaḥ and pāvaka are treated as separate vocatives because each separately connects with the verb; and that yakṣi is the imperative of yaj with sip, the śap dropped, and ṣ and k by Pā. 8-2-36 [?] and 8-2-41 [?].

5. The Sanskrit is long and compressed in the scan; I give the legible portion.

6. for the purpose of favouring

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! They call you Susamiddha, because you are well kindled and blaze brightly. Such as you are, bring the gods here to favour us, the sacrificers who have prepared the oblation, and bring this sacrifice to completion.

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁷

Being well lighted, O Agni, invoker and purifier, bring hither the gods to the offerer of our oblations and perform the sacrifice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This is an

Āpri-sūkta

. We have given a detailed account of the Āpri-sūktas on pages 73–74 [of this volume, in the source's own pagination; not in the part translated here]. On this subject Yāska says in his Nirukta (8-1 [?]):

अथातो आप्रियः । आप्रियः कस्मादाप्नोतेः प्रीणातेर्वा । आप्रीभिराप्रीणातीति च ब्राह्मणम् ॥
athāto āpriyaḥ | āpriyaḥ kasmād āpnoteḥ prīṇāter vā | āprībhir āprīṇātīti ca brāhmaṇam || "Now, the āpriyas. Why are they called āpriyas? From āp ('to obtain') or from prī ('to please'). And the Brāhmaṇa says, 'with the āprī [verses] one pleases.'"

That is: āpriya means "pleasing"; since the gods are pleased by these sūktas, they are called āprī-sūktas; Yāska quotes the Brāhmaṇa sentence āprībhir āprīṇāti.

"Susamiddhaḥ" — the deity of this rik is Agni, called by the name samiddha. Here su = well; sam = fully; iddhaḥ = kindled: "well kindled": that is, blazing, with flames, brightly —

7. as printed in the source

"thoroughly kindled." In an animal sacrifice, since Agni must be well lit, it may be the custom to address Agni in this way. Although the first five riks of this Āpri-sūkta have deities of different names, they are all called by Agni's names. On this, Yāska says:

इध्मः । तासामिद्धः प्रथमागामिनी भवति । इध्मः समिन्धनात् । यज्ञेध्म इति काठक्यः ।
 अग्निरिति शाकपूणिः ॥ idhmaḥ | tāsām iddhaḥ prathamāgāminī
bhavati | idhmaḥ samindhanāt | yajñedhma iti kāṭhakyah |
agnir iti śākapūṇiḥ | | (Nirukta 8-4 [?])

That is, among these five names samiddha is the first; for idhma (fuel) is the first means of kindling Agni; the word idhma means, for Kāṭhakra, the fuel-sticks called samidh used in the sacrifice, and for Śākapūṇi, Agni himself.

"Hotah" — homaṇiṣpādakaḥ: the chief vessel-bearer in the homa, the carrier [of the oblation], or the one who invokes the gods.

"Pāvaka" — śodhaka: the purifier, the one who makes holy; or the one who shines brightly.

"Yakṣi"

— "perform the sacrifice." The reason the poet prays Agni to "sacrifice" is that without Agni there is no sacrifice. Therefore, having called the gods to the sacrificial ground, making [Agni] pour the oblation into the fire so that it reaches the gods, and acting as the chief vessel-bearer so that the sacrifice is completed with all its limbs — in this sense the seer prays Agni, "perform the sacrifice."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥⁸

सुसमिद्धः (susamiddhaḥ) — root ñi indī dīptau (rudhādi); kta; idh + ta: the penultimate n of the rudhādi num is dropped by "anidatām hala upadhāyāḥ kñiti" (Pā. 6-4-24 [?]), since kta is kit (iddha is ñit-

8. grammar page 529, noted briefly

like and the root's penultimate nasal is lost); "jhaṣas tathor dho 'dhaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-40 [?]) turns t into dh, with jaṣtvā: iddha. Sam is a gati, being an adverb of the action, so by "kugatiprādayaḥ" (Pā. 2-2-18 [?]) it compounds with iddha; su, meaning "good," is a prātipadika with the gati name, and "viśeṣaṇaṃ viśeṣyeṇa bahulam" (Pā. 2-1-57 [?]) gives a karmadhāraya with samiddha; su is final-udātta by its stem accent; "karmadhārayeṇiṣṭhā" [print: "karmadhāraye 'niṣṭhā," Pā. 6-2-46 [?]]: in a karmadhāraya the first member keeps its natural accent unless the second is a niṣṭhā word; the remaining letters are unaccented; the s after su is svarita ("udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ," Pā. 8-4-66 [?]). If su were taken like sam as an adverb of the action, it would get the gati name and "gatir anantaraḥ" (Pā. 6-2-49 [?]) would apply; the kṛdanta accent would then stand and su would be unaccented; hence su is taken as a prātipadika meaning "good," and susamiddha is initial-udātta as required.⁹

॥१॥

original pp. 530–532

Rik 1 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥¹⁰

Susamiddhaḥ (continued). The source argues that su here is not an adverb of the action: taking it as a prātipadika meaning "good," the sūtra "karmadhāraye 'niṣṭhā" (Pā. 6-2-46 [?]) gives no occasion for the first member's natural accent; that sūtra works together with "kṛtādibhiḥ śreṇyādayaḥ" (Pā. 2-1-59 [?]) — the śreṇyādi group compounds with kṛta and the like — and with the list "mahān vrīhyaparāhṇa-grṣṭī-iṣvāsa-jābāla-bhāra-bhārata-hailihila-rauruva-pravṛddheṣu" (Pā. 6-2-38 [?]), where mahat keeps its natural accent; the source says the word pravṛddha in

9. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

10. grammar pages 530–532, noted briefly; the long scholastic arguments are outlined only that list would be pointless if "karmadhāraye 'niṣṭhā" already gave the first member's accent, and quotes the Mahābhāṣya on "mahān vṛhi" to this effect ("kimartham mahataḥ pravṛddhaśabda uttarapade pūrvapadaprakṛtisvaratvam ucyate? na karmadhāraye 'niṣṭheti ..."), concluding that "karmadhāraye 'niṣṭhā" is the governing rule and the others are restrictive. By "sat-mahat-parama-uttama-utkrṣṭāḥ pūjyamānaiḥ" (Pā. 2-1-61 [?]) su + samiddha is a karmadhāraya ("viśeṣaṇam viśeṣyeṇa bahulam," Pā. 2-1-57 [?]); if su were taken as an adverb of the action, "gatir anantaraḥ" (Pā. 6-2-49 [?]) would give the udātta to sam and not su — the source finds that unacceptable, and says that "gatikāraḥkopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) would then leave the kṛdanta second member's accent, so su would be unaccented; hence su is a prātipadika; the "dāsibhārādīnām" list (Pā. 6-2-42 [?]) is an ākṛti-gaṇa in which susamiddha may be counted for the first-member accent. देवाँ अग्ने (devāṃ agne) — nasalization and ru as before. हविष्मते (haviṣmate) — "havir asyāsti": matup ("tad asyāsty asminn iti matup," Pā. 5-2-94 [?]); "tasau matvarthe" (Pā. 1-4-19 [?]) gives bha status before matup to stems ending in t or s, which blocks the pada-status and hence the ru of "sasajuṣo ruḥ" (Pā. 8-2-66 [?]). होतः, पावक (hotaḥ, pāvaka) — both vocatives; the source argues (pp. 531–532) that, since each connects separately with the verb, they lack mutual dependence and so "parāṅgavadbhāva" does not arise; that by "āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat" (Pā. 8-1-72 [?]) the first vocative is treated as non-existent, so the second is not "first in the pāda" and the all-unaccented form of the vocative (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]) does not apply; that if pāvaka is taken as an adjective and hotaḥ as the noun ("nāmantrite samānādhikaraṇe sāmānyavacanam," Pā. 8-1-73 [?]), the "non-existent" treatment is barred, and the accent of the second vocative is the aṣṭamika lowering ("subāmantrite parāṅgavat svare," Pā. 2-1-2 [?]); so all letters after the initial are unaccented by "anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam" (Pā. 6-1-158 [?]). यक्षि (yakṣi) — root yaja devapūjāsaṅgatikaraṇadāneṣu; loṭ second singular sip; by Vedic license hi is not substituted ("seryapicca," Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śap dropped ("bahulaṃ chandasi," Pā. 2-4-73 [?]); yaj + si: "vraścabhrasjasrjamṛjayajarājabhrājachaśāṃ ṣaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-36 [?]) turns j → ṣ; "ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si" (Pā. 8-2-41 [?]) turns ṣ → k before s; "ādeśapratyayayoḥ" (Pā. 8-3-59 [?]) turns s → ṣ: yakṣi; sip is pit, so unaccented ("anudāttau supitau," Pā. 3-1-4 [?]), and the root's accent stands; the preceding pāvaka is a vocative, treated as non-existent by Pā. 8-1-72 [?], so yakṣi is not lowered as a verb "in the first position," but since the particle ca follows (yakṣi ca), "cādiṣu ca" (Pā. 8-1-58 [?]) — ca, vā, ha, aha, eva — prevents the lowering of a verb before them ("tiṅ atīṇaḥ," Pā. 8-1-28 [?]) from applying; so the verb keeps its root accent.

॥१॥

original p. 532

Sūkta 13, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मधुमन्तं तनूनपाद्यज्ञं देवेषु नः कवे । अद्या कृणुहि वीतये ॥२॥

*madhumantaṃ tanūnapād yajñam deveṣu naḥ kave | adyā
kṛṇuhi vītaye || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मधुमन्तम् । तनूनपात् । यज्ञम् । देवेषु । नः । कवे ॥ अद्य । कृणुहि । वीतये ॥२॥

*madhu-mantam | tanū-napāt | yajñam | deveṣu | naḥ | kave
|| adya | kṛṇuhi | vītaye || 2 ||*

original pp. 533–534

Rik 2: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे कवे मेधाविन्नग्ने तनूनपादेतन्नामकस्त्वमद्यास्मिन्दिने नो ऽस्मदीयं मधुमन्तं रसवन्तं यज्ञं
हविर्वीतये भक्षणार्थं देवेषु कृणुहि । कुरु । प्रापयेत्यर्थः ॥ मधुमन्तं फलिपाटिनमिमनिजनां
गुक्पटिनाकिथितश्च । उ. १-१९ [?] । इति मन्तेरुप्रत्ययो धकारश्चान्तादेशः । नित्वात्प्रत्ययस्य
नित्वादाद्युदात्तो मधुशब्दः । तनूनपात् । आमन्त्रितनिघातः । अद्य । सद्यःपरुत्परार्यैषमः
परेद्यव्यद्य । पा. ५-३-२२ । इत्यर्थे घप्रत्ययान्तो निपातितः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः ।
तद्धितश्चासर्वविभक्तिः इत्यव्ययत्वादव्ययादाप्सुपः इत्युपरि सप्तम्या लुक् ।
संहितायामन्येषामपि दृश्यत इति दीर्घत्वम् । कृणुहि । कृवि हिंसाकरणयोश्च । इदितो नुम्धातोः
। पा. ७-१-५८ । इति नुम् । लोटः सेर्हिरादेशः । धिन्विकृण्वोरच्च । पा. ३-१-८० । इति शपो
ऽपवादो विकरण उप्रत्ययः । तस्मिन्नियोगेन वकारस्याकारः । तस्यातो लोपे इति लोपः । ...
उतश्च प्रत्ययादसंयोगपूर्वात् । पा. ६-४-१०६ । इति हेर्लुक् । उतश्च प्रत्ययाच्छन्दो वा वचनम् ।
... तिङ्ङितिङ इति निघातः । वीतये । मन्त्रे वृषेषपचमनविदभूवीरा उदात्तः । पा. ३-३-९६ । इति क्तिन्नुदात्तः ॥

*he kave medhāvinna agne tanūnapād etan-nāmakas tvam adyāsmine dine no 'smaḍīyaṃ madhumantaṃ rasavantaṃ yajñaṃ havir vītaye bhakṣaṇārthaṃ deveṣu kṛṇuhi | kuru |
prāpayety arthaḥ | | madhumantaṃ phalipāṭinamimanijanāṃ
guk-paṭi-nākithitaś ca | u. 1-19 [?] | iti manter u-pratyayo
dhakāraś cāntādeśaḥ | nittvāt pratyayasya nittvād ādyudātto
madhu-śabdaḥ | tanūnapāt | āmantrita-nighātaḥ | adya |
sadyaḥ-parut-parāry-aīṣamaḥ paredyavy-adya | pā. 5-3-22 |
ity arthe dya-pratyayānto nipātitaḥ | pratyaya-svareṇāntodāttaḥ | taddhitaś cāsarva-vibhaktiḥ ity avyayatvād avyayād āp-supāḥ ity upari saptamyā luk |
saṃhitāyām anyeṣām api dṛśyata iti dīrghatvam | kṛṇuhi |
kṛvi himsā-karaṇayoś ca | idito num dhātoḥ | pā. 7-1-58 | iti
num | loṭaḥ ser hir ādeśaḥ | dhinvi-kṛṇvyor a ca | pā. 3-1-80 |
iti śapo 'pavādo vikaraṇa u-pratyayaḥ | tasmin niyogena
vakārasyākāraḥ | tasyāto lope iti lopaḥ | ... utaś ca pratyayād
asaṃyoga-pūrvāt | pā. 6-4-106 | iti her luk | utaś ca pratyayāc
chando vā vacanam | ... tiṅ atina iti nighātaḥ | vītaye | mantre
vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ | pā. 3-3-96 | iti ktin
udāttaḥ | |*

Translation: "O kave — O wise Agni — you who bear the name Tanūnapāt, adya — today — naḥ, our madhumantam, honeyed — flavourful — yajñam, sacrifice (the oblation), vītaye, for the sake of [the gods'] eating, deveṣu kṛṇuhi: make [it reach] among the gods; cause it to reach them." ^{11 12}

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) कवे ((he) kave) — O wise Agni | तनूनपात् (tanūnapāt) — you named Tanūnapāt | अद्य (adya) — this day, now | नः (naḥ) — our | मधुमन्तम् (madhumantam) — flavourful, like honey | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — that is, the oblation offered in the sacrifice | वीतये (vītaye) — for the gods to eat | देवेषु (deveṣu) — among the gods | कृणुहि (kṛṇuhi) — do (that is, offer).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni, you are wise, and you are also called Tanūnapāt. Today, make our sacrifice (or the oblation of our sacrifice) reach the gods, so that they may eat it.

॥ English Translation ॥

Wise Agni, also called Tanunapat present, this day our well-flavoured sacrifice to the gods that they may feast.

original pp. 534–535

11. Grammar noted briefly: that madhumat is formed with the suffix u (Uṇ. 1-19 [?]) from man with dh as the final replacement, initial-udatta; adya is formed irregularly with dya by Pā. 5-3-22 [?], final-udatta, an indeclinable with lengthening in the Saṃhitā; kṛṇuhi is from kṛvi hiṃsākaraṇayoḥ with num and u-vikaraṇa by Pā. 3-1-80 [?], the hi not dropped under Pā. 6-4-106 [?] by the Vedic option; and vīti is a ktin udatta in the mantra by Pā. 3-3-96 [?].

12. Some Sanskrit is compressed in the scan; I give the legible portions.

Rik 2: Special Topics

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

"Madhumantam" — rasavantam — flavourful, delicious, like honey: well-flavoured, rich in honey. The Vedārtha-yatna author explains the word madhu as Soma and renders the phrase as "the oblation mixed with Soma-juice." To support this sense the Ṛgveda has such riks as

अश्विना पिबतं मधु दीद्यग्नी शुचिव्रता । aśvinā pibatam madhu didyagnī śucivratā | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-22-1 [?]; the source's number reads "१-२२-१") ("O Aśvins, of pure ways, drink the honey, O you whose fires blaze." — my gloss, tentative.) and in explaining this rik Sāyaṇa says plainly that madhu is mādhuryopetaṃ somam, "the Soma-juice endowed with sweetness." And in the rik

मधोर्धाराभिर्जनयन्तो अर्कमित्त्रियामिन्द्रस्य तन्वमवीवृधन् । madhor dhārābhir janayanto arkam it priyām indrasya tanvam avīvr̥dhan | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 9-? -?; printed "९-२३-३") (The reading is partly doubtful; no gloss offered.)

too, the Bhāṣyakāra explains madhoḥ as "of the Soma-juice, which gives gladness [madakara]." There are many riks in the Ṛgveda that give the word madhu the sense of Soma-juice; so madhumantam may be given the sense "endowed with Soma-juice."

"Tanūnapāt" — this word is another name of Agni. Some explain it as "one born of himself." To support this sense they cite "agninā agniḥ samidhyate" (kindling one fire from another) and the passage in the Nirukta (where, among the words for 'descendant' beginning with tuk and toka, the word napāt is read [Nir. 3-2 [?]]: napāt means "grandson, son"). Tanūḥ = one's own body; napāt = born; so "one born of his own body." The sage Yāska explains the meaning of tanūnapāt in the daivatakāṇḍa of his Nirukta:

तनूनपात् । तनूनपादाज्यमिति काठक्यः । नपादित्यनन्तरायाः प्रजायाः नामधेयं निर्णिततमा भवति । गौरत्र तनूरुच्यते । तथा अस्यां भोगाः तस्याः पयो जायते पयसश्चाज्यं जायते ॥ अग्निरिति शाकपूणिः । आपो ऽत्र तन्व उच्यन्ते । तथा अन्तरिक्षे ताभ्य ओषधिवनस्पतयो जायन्त ओषधिवनस्पतिभ्य एष जायते ॥ (नि. ८-५ [?]) *tanūnapāt | tanūnapād ājyam iti kāṭhakyah | napād ity anantarāyāḥ prajāyāḥ nāmadheyam nirṇitatamā bhavati | gaur atra tanūr ucyate | tathā asyām bhogāḥ tasyāḥ payo jāyate payasaś cājyam jāyate | | agnir iti śākapūṇiḥ | āpo 'tra tanva ucyante | tathā antarikṣe tābhya oṣadhi-vanaspatayo jāyanta oṣadhi-vanaspatibhya eṣa jāyate | | (ni. 8-5 [?]) "Tanūnapāt — Kāṭhakya says tanūnapāt is clarified butter: napāt is the name of a direct descendant, [a sense] most firmly established; here the cow is called tanū — and from her come [various] enjoyments; from her comes milk, from milk comes ghee. Śākapūṇi says it is Agni: here the waters are called tanvaḥ; so in the atmosphere, from them [as rain] plants and trees are born; from plants and trees this [Agni] is born." (This Sanskrit is a best reading of compressed print; the Kannada exposition in the source runs as follows.)*

The idea is: Kāṭhakya says tanūnapāt means ājya (melted ghee). To support this he says: tanūḥ = gau (cow) — one who is prajā (offspring) of the cow; napāt = born; from milk, born of the cow, comes ghee; therefore he takes the word tanūnapāt in the sense "ghee." For an example he gives the rik

तनूनपात्पथ ऋतस्य यानान्मध्वा समञ्जन्त्स्वदया सुजिह्व । मन्मानि धीभिरुत यज्ञमृन्धन्देवत्रा च कृणुह्यध्वरं नः ॥ *tanūnapāt patha ṛtasya yānān madhvā samañjan svadayā sujihva | manmāni dhībhir uta yajñam ṛndhan devatrā ca kṛṇuhy adhvaraṃ naḥ | | (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 10-110-2 [?]; the source's number reads "१०-११०-२") ("O Tanūnapāt, [Agni], of the ways of order, anointing with honey, sweetly, O sweet-tongued, [making] our thoughts [prosper]*

with prayers, and also the sacrifice; and among the gods make our rite [reach]." — my gloss, tentative; the second half is a best reading.)

Since this rik is also in an Āpri-sūkta, there is room for the doubt whether the sense "ghee" fits the tanūnapāt there. According to Śākapūṇi, tanūnapāt is Agni: here tanū means water. Water falls as rain and from it plants and trees are produced; and since Agni is born from a tree (the wooden araṇi), Agni gets the name tanūnapāt.

original pp. 535–536

Rik 2: grammar

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹³

मधुमन्तम् (madhumantam) — "phalipāṭinamimanijanāṃ gukpaṭināki-thitaś ca" (Uṇ. 1-19 [?]): after the roots phala niṣpattau, paṭa gatau, ṇi + jan [print compressed], ṇam prahvatve śabde ca, mana jñāne, janī prādurbhāve, the suffix u with nit; for phal the augment guk, and for the rest paṭ, nākitha, t as substitutes in order; the source explains with the maxim ekāpi ṣaṣṭhī viṣayabhedād bhidyate ("one genitive splits by difference of topic") that the genitive in the sūtra, applying to the augment in the first case, applies as substitute to the remaining four; so man + u with n → dh gives madhu; nit, so initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); matup gives madhumat, accusative madhumantam. तनूनपात् (tanūnapāt) — a vocative, unaccented as such by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]) since the ordinary-sentence lowering applies. अद्य (adya) — "asmin kāle": "sadyaḥ-parut-parāry-aiṣamaḥ-paredyavy-adya..." (Pā. 5-3-22 [?]) irregularly forms adya, meaning "today": the suffix dya after idam in the locative sense; idam is replaced by a; the suffix is a taddhita so the form is a prātipadika; the case-ending is dropped by "supo

13. grammar pages 535–536, noted briefly

dhātuprātipadikayoḥ" (Pā. 2-4-71 [?]); idam is replaced by aś (Pā. 5-3-3 [?]), by śīt replacing the whole; adya; final-udātta by the suffix accent. The source then discusses ("taddhitaś cāsarvavibhaktiḥ," Pā. 1-1-38 [?]) the indeclinable status of taddhitānta words that do not take all case-endings, citing the Mahābhāṣya on "ekavacanam" and "dvayor dvivacanam" and the sense that a taddhita that takes only the singular is an avyaya; after an avyaya the case-ending is dropped ("avyayād āpsupaḥ," Pā. 2-4-82 [?]); in the Saṃhitā "anyeṣām api dṛśyate" (Pā. 6-3-137 [?]) lengthens the final: adyā. कृणुहि (kṛṇuhi) — root kṛvi hiṃsākaraṇayoś ca; idit, so num (Pā. 7-1-58 [?]); lot, sip → hi; "dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca" (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]) gives the u-vikaraṇa for kṛvi and dhivi, with a replacing the final v — so kṛṇ + u + hi with a-loss ("ato lopah," Pā. 6-4-48 [?]); the guṇa of the r is not made because sthānivadbhāva of the dropped a (the laghūpadha-guṇa is barred); "utaś ca pratyayād asaṃyogapūrvāt" (Pā. 6-4-106 [?]) would drop hi, but by "utaś ca pratyayāc chando vā vacanam" (vārttika) the loss is optional in the Veda, so hi stays; n → ṇ by "yuvanānnasya ṇatvaṃ vācyam" (vārttika [?]): kṛṇuhi; unaccented ("tiñ atīṇaḥ," Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). वीतये (vītaye) — "mantre vṛṣeṣapacamanavidabhūvīrā udāttaḥ" (Pā. 3-3-96 [?]): the ktin suffix is udātta in the mantra.

॥३॥

original p. 537

Sūkta 13, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नराशंसमिह प्रियमस्मिन्यज्ञ उप ह्वये । मधुजिह्वं हविष्कृतम् ॥३॥ narāśaṃsam iha priyam asmin yajña upa hvaye |

madhujihvaṃ haviṣkṛtam ||3||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नराशंसम् । इह । प्रियम् । अस्मिन् । यज्ञे । उप । ह्वये ॥ मधुऽजिह्वम् । हविःऽकृतम् ॥३॥

narāśaṃsam | iha | priyam | asmin | yajñe | upa | hvaye | |
madhu-jihvam | haviḥ-kṛtam | |3|

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इह देवयजनदेशे ऽस्मिन्प्रवर्तमाने यज्ञे नराशंसनामकमग्निमुप ह्वये । आह्वयामि । कीदृशम् । प्रियं देवानां प्रीतिहेतुं मधुजिह्वं मधुरभाषिजिह्वोपेतं माधुर्यरसास्वादकजिह्वोपेतं वा हविष्कृतं हविषो निष्पादकम् ॥ नराशब्दो नृ नये इत्यस्मादबन्तः । प्रत्ययस्य पित्त्वाद्वातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । शंसन्त्यस्मिन्निति शंसः । हलश्च । पा. ३-३-१२१ । इत्यधिकरणे घञ् । नराणां शंस इति समासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वे प्राप्ते उभे वनस्पत्यादिषु युगपत् । पा. ६-२-१४० । इति पूर्वोत्तरपदे प्रकृतिस्वरे भवतः । अत एव वनस्पत्यादिषु पाठान्नरशब्दस्य दीर्घत्वम् । इह । इदमो ह इति ह-प्रत्ययः । इदम इश्-इत्यादेशः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । प्रियम् । प्रीणातीति प्रियः । इगुपधज्ञाप्रीकिरः कः । इति कः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । अस्मिन् । ऊडिदमित्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । ह्वये । निघातः । मधुजिह्वम् । मधुशब्दस्याद्युदात्तत्वमुक्तम् । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरेण स एव शिष्यते । हविष्कृतम् । हविः करोतीति हविष्कृत् । क्विपि ह्रस्वस्य तुक् । नित्यं समासे ऽनुत्तरपदस्थस्येति षत्वम् । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥ iha deva-yajana-deśe 'smin pravartamāne yajñe narāśaṃsanāmakam agnim upa hvaye | āhvayāmi | kīdrśam | priyam devānām prīti-hetuṃ madhujihvam madhura-bhāṣi-jihvopetaṃ mādhurya-rasāsvādaka-jihvopetaṃ vā haviṣkṛtaṃ haviṣo niṣpādakam | | narā-śabdo nṛ naye ity asmād abantaḥ |

pratyayasya pītvād dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | śaṃsanty
asminn iti śaṃsaḥ | halaś ca | pā. 3-3-121 | ity adhikaraṇe ghañ | narāṇām śaṃsa iti samāse kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛtisvaratve prāpte ubhe vanaspaty-ādiṣu yugapat | pā. 6-2-140 |
iti pūrvottara-pade prakṛti-svare bhavataḥ | ata eva vanaspaty-ādiṣu pāṭhān nara-śabdasya dīrghatvam | iha |
idamo ha iti ha-pratyayaḥ | idama iś ity ādeśaḥ | pratyaya-
svaraḥ | priyam | prīṇātīti priyaḥ | igupadhajñāprikiraḥ kaḥ
| iti kaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | asmin | ūḍidam ity-ādinā vibhakter udāttatvam | hvaye | nighātaḥ | madhujihvam |
madhu-śabdasyādyudāttatvam uktam | bahuvrīhau

pūrvapada-prakṛti-svareṇa sa eva śiṣyate | haviṣkṛtam |
 haviḥ karotīti haviṣkṛt | kvīpi hrasvasya tuk | nityam samāse
 'nuttara-pada-sthasyeti śatvam | kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-
 svaratvam | |

Translation: "Here, in this sacrifice now in progress, at the place of worship of the gods, upa hvaye — I invoke — the fire named Narāśaṃsa. What is he like? Priyam — the cause of delight to the gods; madhujihvam — having a tongue that speaks sweetly, or a tongue that tastes the flavour of sweetness; haviṣkṛtam — the accomplisher of the oblation." ^{14 15}

original p. 538

Rik 3: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics begin

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इह (iha) — at this sacrificial ground | अस्मिन् यज्ञे (asmin yajñe) — in this sacrifice that we perform | प्रियम् (priyam) — dear to the gods | मधुजिह्वम् (madhujihvam) — who has a tongue that speaks sweetly, or that tastes sweet juice | हविष्कृतम् (haviṣkṛtam) — who prepares the oblation | नराशंसम् (narāśaṃsam) — Agni, called by the name Narāśaṃsa | उप ह्वये (upa hvaye) — I invoke.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

14. Grammar noted briefly: that nara is from nṛ naye with ap; that śaṃsa is formed with ghaṇ in the locative sense by Pā. 3-3-121 [?], and in the compound narāśaṃsa the long ā is accepted because nara is in the vanaspatyādi list (Pā. 6-2-140 [?]), which gives both members their natural accent; iha is formed with ha; priya with ka (Pā. 3-1-135 [?]); madhujihva is a bahuvrīhi; and haviṣkṛt has tuk with kvīp and ṣ by Pā. 8-3-45 [?].

15. Compressed in the scan; I give the legible portions.

O Agni named Narāśaṃsa! You are dear to the gods; you speak sweetly, or you taste the sweet oblation; you prepare the oblation by cooking it. I call such a Narāśaṃsa now, in this sacrifice that we perform.

॥ English Translation ॥

I invoke here at this sacrifice Narasamsa, the beloved one, the sweet-tongued, preparer of sacrificial food.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The deity of this rik is Narāśaṃsa — that is, Agni, called by that name. Yāska's explanation of the word runs as follows: ¹⁶

(१) नराशंसः । नराशंसो यज्ञ इति काठक्यः । नरा अस्मिन्नासीनाः शंसन्ति ॥ (1)
narāśaṃsaḥ | narāśaṃso yajña iti kāṭhakyah | narā asminn āsīnāḥ śaṃsanti || "Narāśaṃsa — Kāṭhakya says narāśaṃsa is the sacrifice; for men, seated in it, recite [the praises]." (The explanation continues on p. 539.)

original pp. 539–541

Rik 3: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

(२) अग्निरिति शाकपूणिः । नर्यैः प्रशस्यो भवति ॥ (नि. ८-६ [?]) (2) agnir iti śākapūṇiḥ | naraiḥ praśasyo bhavati || (ni. 8-6 [?]) "(2) Śākapūṇi says it is Agni: he is praised by men."

Two different senses of the word narāśaṃsa are thus given: (1) for Kāṭhakya narāśaṃsa is the yajña, the sacrifice: because men seated in it recite (śaṃsanti, praise), the rite gets the name yajña [here: narāśaṃsa]; (2) Agni, since men praise him, is called narāśaṃsa: this is Śākapūṇi's view. The second explanation is the fitting one here. Skandasvāmī says: naraiḥ praśasyata iti narāśaṃso 'gniḥ taṃ narāśaṃsam — "he who is praised by men is narāśaṃsa, Agni; that Narāśaṃsa [I invoke]."

16. Continuing Yāska on narāśaṃsa:

"Priyam" — the Bhāṣyakāra explains devānām priyam, "dear to the gods"; Skandasvāmī explains manuṣyāṇām priyam, "dear to men." Both senses are fitting.

"Madhujihvam" — madhura-bhāṣi-jihvopetam, "having a tongue that speaks sweetly"; and mādhurya-rasāsvādaka-jihvopetam, "having a tongue that tastes the sweet flavour of the oblation, ghee and the other homa substances," the Bhāṣyakāra explains. Skandasvāmī says: madhujihvaḥ = nityam utsrṣṭānām haviṣām bhakṣayitā — "one who always eats the offered oblations" [that is, with a taste for what is delicious]; or: jihveti vāñnāma — "jihvā is a name for speech; madhu jihvā yasya sa madhujihvaḥ: one whose speech is sweet; hotṛtvād agner devatānām stāvaka-vedasti, since Agni is the hotṛ, he utters sweet speech to the deities." [the printed Sanskrit is compressed; and a further clause, subhagavacanam ity arthaḥ, "words of good fortune"]. Jihvā, being a word for speech, means good words, words that give delight to the ear; Agni, when calling the gods, speaks sweet words, out of regard for them: that is how the two senses given by the Bhāṣyakāra and Skandasvāmī arise. Honey-tongued, sweet-tongued etc. [the source's English] may be given.

"Haviṣkṛtam" — haviṣo niṣpādakam: "the maker of the oblation, one who prepares the oblation": when the oblation is made, it must be placed on Agni and cooked; hence Agni is said to make the oblation. [The source's English: "Preparer of sacrificial food."]

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ¹⁷

नराशंसम् (narāśaṃsam) — nara is from the root ṇīñ prāpaṇe ("to lead") with ap by "ṛdorap" (Pā. 3-3-57 [?]) after a root ending in r or u in the senses of action, agent or instrument; with ṇi → nai, ay..., the a of the root giving nara; ap is pit, so unaccented; the ā after n stands with the root accent, udātta. Śaṃsa: "śaṃsanty asmin" — ghañ in the locative sense by "halaś ca" (Pā. 3-3-121 [?])

17. grammar pages 539–541, noted briefly

after a consonant-ending root; śams + ghañ; initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); "narāṇām śamsaḥ" as a genitive tatpuruṣa would have the kṛdanta second member's accent by "gatikāraḥkopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]), set aside, since narāśamsa belongs to the vanaspatyādi group, by "ubhe vanaspatyādiṣu yugapat" (Pā. 6-2-140 [?]): in compounds of that group both members keep their natural accent at the same time; and the lengthening of nara is explained from the group's reading (narāśamsa); Kauṇḍabhaṭṭa and others explain the lengthening by "nisāśanād dīrghaḥ"; some derive the lengthening from "anyeṣām api dr̥śyate" (Pā. 6-3-137 [?]). इह (iha) — "idamo haḥ" (Pā. 5-3-11 [?]): ha after idam in the locative sense; "idam iś" (Pā. 5-3-3 [?]); final-udātta?—the source says the accent is that of the suffix. प्रियम् (priyam) — root prīñ tarpaṇe with ka by "igupadhajñāprikiraḥ kaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-135 [?]), ka being kit, so no guṇa; "āc chnā dhātubhrūvām yvoriyaṇuvaṇau" (Pā. 6-4-77 [?]) would give iy: priya; suffix accent; "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-171 [?]) makes the case-ending of asmin udātta. ह्वये (hvaye) — root hveñ spardhāyām śabde ca, ñit, so ubhayapada; ātmanepada laṭ first singular iṭ; "ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭere" (Pā. 3-4-79 [?]) gives e; "kartari śap" (Pā. 3-1-68 [?]); pararūpa: hvaye; unaccented. मधुजिह्वम् (madhujihvam) — madhu is initial-udātta as shown; "madhu jihvā yasya saḥ" bahuvrīhi, keeping the first member's accent ("bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]). हविष्कृतम् (haviṣkṛtam) — "haviḥ karoti": kvip after kṛ with havis as upapada ("kvip ca," Pā. 3-2-76 [?]); kṛdanta → prātipadika; the supo ending drops; "hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk" (Pā. 6-1-71 [?]) adds tuk after a short vowel before a pit kṛt suffix, here kvip, giving haviṣkṛt; "nityam samāse 'nuttarapadasthasya" (Pā. 8-3-45 [?]) gives ṣ for the visarga of haviḥ; "gatikāraḥkopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) keeps the accent of the kṛdanta second member, final-udātta by the root accent; the accusative am is unaccented; the a following becomes svarita.

॥३॥

original p. 541

Sūkta 13, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने सुखतमे रथे देवाँ ईळित आ वह । असि होता मनुर्हितः ॥४॥

agne sukhataṃ rathe devāṃ īṭita ā vaha | asi hotā manurhitaḥ || 4 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने । सुखतमे । रथे । देवान् । ईळितः । आ । वह ॥ असि । होता । मनुःहितः ॥४॥

*agne | sukha-tame | rathe | devān | īṭitaḥ | ā | vaha || asi |
hotā | manuḥ-hitaḥ || 4 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इत्शब्दाभिधेये हे अग्ने ईळितो ऽस्माभिः स्तुतः सन् सुखतमे ऽतिशयेन सुखहेतौ कस्मिंश्चिद्रथे देवान्स्थापयित्वा कर्मभूमावा वह । इत्शब्दाभिधेयेत्वमत्र सूचयितुमीळित इति विशेषणम् । मनुर्हितो मनुना मन्त्रेण मनुष्येण वा यजमानादिरूपेण हितो ऽत्र स्थापितत्वं होता देवानामाह्वाताऽसि ॥ सुखतमे । सुखमस्मिन्नस्तीति मतुप् । तस्य गुणवचनेभ्यो मतुपो लुगिष्टः । पा. ५-२-९४ वा. ३ । इति लुक् । अतिशयेन सुखः सुखतमः । तमपो ऽनुदात्तत्वात्प्रातिपदिकस्वरः । रथे । रमु क्रीडायाम् । रमन्ते ऽस्मिन्निति रथः । हनिकुषिनीरमिकाशिभ्यः कथन् । उ. २-२ । इति कथन् । एकाचि उपदेशे ऽनुदात्तात् । पा. ७-२-१० । इतीट्प्रतिषेधः । अनुदात्तोपदेशेत्यादिना । पा. ६-४-३७ । मकारलोपे । निच्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । ईळितः । ईड स्तुतौ । निष्ठेति क्तः । इडागमः । तस्यागमा अनुदात्ता इत्यनुदात्तः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । देवानिति नकारस्य संहितायां दीर्घादिति समानपादे इति रुत्वम् । आकोऽटि नित्यमित्यादिना रोर्त्यत्वम् । तस्य लोपः शाकल्यस्येति लोपः । तस्यासिद्धत्वाद्गुणो न भवति । आ । निपातत्वादाद्युदात्तः । असि । अस भुवि । लटः सिप् । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः इति शपो लुक् । तासस्त्योर्लोपः । होता । ताच्छील्ये तृन् । सौ ऋदुशनस् इत्यादिना । आनज् । जिच्वादन्तादेशः आस्त्रेन्निति । उपधादीर्घः । हल्ङ्यादि लोपनलोपौ । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः । मनुर्हितः । मन्यत इति मनुः । मन ज्ञाने । शृस्वृस्निहित्रप्यसि वसिहनिक्लिदिबन्धिमनिभ्यश्च ।

उ. १-१० । इत्युप्रत्ययः । तत्र निदित्यनुवृत्तेर्निच्चाद्युदात्तः । हितः । दधातेर्हिः । पा. ७-४-४२ ।
इति हिरादेशः । मनुना हित इति समासे तृतीयायोः स्थाने सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना स्वितात्यादेशः । तस्य रुत्वम् । लुगभावश्छान्दसः । तृतीया कर्मणीति पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥

*iṭ-śabdābhidheye he agne ṛlito 'smābhiḥ stutaḥ san sukhatame
'tiśayena sukha-hetau kasmimścid rathe devān sthāpayitvā karma-bhūmām ā vaha | iṭ-śabdābhidheyatvam atra
sūcayitum ṛlita iti viśeṣaṇam | manurhito manunā mantreṇa manuṣyeṇa vā yajamānādi-rūpeṇa hito 'tra sthāpitatvaṃ hotā devānām āhvātā 'si | | sukhatame | sukham asminn astīti
matup | tasya guṇavacanabhyo matupo lug iṣṭaḥ | pā. 5-2-94
vā. 3 | iti luk | atiśayena sukhaḥ sukhatamaḥ | tamapo
'nudāttatvāt prātipadika-svaraḥ | rathe | ramu krīḍāyām |
ramante 'smin iti rathaḥ | hanikuṣinīramikāśibhyaḥ kthan | u.
2-2 | iti kthan | ekāci upadeśe 'nudāttāt | pā. 7-2-10 | itī-pratiśedhaḥ | anudāttopadeśety-ādinā | pā. 6-4-37 | makāra-
lope | nittvād ādyudāttatvam | ṛlitaḥ | ṛḍa stutau | niṣṭheti
ktaḥ | iḍāgamah | tasyāgamā anudāttā ity anudāttaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | devān iti nakārasya saṃhitāyāṃ dīrghād
aṭi samānapāde iti rutvam | āko 'ṭi nityam ity-ādinā ror
yatvam | tasya lopah śākalyeti lopah | tasyāsiddhatvād guṇo na bhavati | ā | nipātatvād ādyudāttaḥ | asi | asa bhuvi |
laṭaḥ sip | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti śapo luk | tāsastyor
lopaḥ | hotā | tācchīlye ṭṛn | ... manurhitaḥ | manyata iti
manuḥ | mana jñāne |
śṛsvṛsnihitrapyasivasihanikledibandhimanibhyaś ca | u. 1-10 |
ity u-pratyayaḥ | tatra nid ity anuvṛtter nittvād ādyudāttaḥ |
hitaḥ | dadhāter hiḥ | pā. 7-4-42 | iti hir ādeśaḥ | manunā
hita iti samāse ṭṛtīyāyoḥ sthāne supāṃ suluk ity-ādinā svitāty ādeśaḥ | tasya rutvam | lugabhāvaś chāndasaḥ | ṭṛtīyā
karmanīti pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | |*

Translation: "O Agni — [you] called by the name Iṭ [i.e., Ṛlā] — ṛlitaḥ: praised by us, being so, ā vaha: bring, to the place of the rite, the gods, having seated them in some sukhatame — most comfortable, the best cause of ease — chariot. The epithet īlitaḥ is used here to indicate that you are denoted by the word Iṭ. Manurhitaḥ — placed here by Manu, by the mantra, or by the man — the sacrificer and others — you are hotā, the invoker of the gods." ¹⁸

original pp. 542–544

Rik 4: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni, called by the name Iṭ | ईळितः (īlitaḥ) — praised by us | देवान् (devān) — the gods | सुखतमे (sukhatame) — [in a chariot] that gives the greatest comfort | रथे (rathe) — in a chariot | ¹⁹ आ वह (ā vaha) — bring | ²⁰ मनुर्हितः (manurhitaḥ) — [you are] placed by the mantra, or by men — the sacrificer and the rest | होता (hotā) — the invoker of the gods | असि (asi) — you are.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

18. Grammar noted briefly: that sukhatama is formed with matup whose loss is permitted after quality-words, then tamap; ratha — from ramu kṛīḍāyām, 'in which they delight,' with kthan (Uṇ. 2-2 [?]), the augment iṭ barred (Pā. 7-2-10 [?]), initial-udātta since nit; īlita — root īḍa stutau with kta and the augment iṭ unaccented, the ḍ becoming ḷ; devān — the n becoming ru and then y and dropped as before; asi — the s of sip dropped by Pā. 7-4-50 [?]; manu — root mana with u (Uṇ. 1-10 [?]); hita — root dhā with hi (Pā. 7-4-42 [?]); and the compound manurhita with the third case kept by Vedic license and the first member's accent.
 19. having seated them
 20. for

O Agni, we call you Iṭ (Iṭā), because you are praised by us, men. Seat the gods in a chariot that gives the utmost comfort, and bring them here. For the sacrificer has placed you as the hotṛ, to invoke the gods.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni (called Ila) being praised (by men) conduct the gods hither in an easy-moving chariot; for you are the invoker instituted by men.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

Yāska explains the word iḡaḡ thus in the Nirukta:

इळः । इळ ईट्टेः स्तुतिकर्मणः इन्धतेर्वा ॥ (नि. ८-७ [?]) iḡaḡ | iḡa iṭṭeḡ stuti-karmaḡaḡ indhater vā || (ni. 8-7 [?]) "Iḡaḡ — iḡa is from iḡ (the root 'to praise') or from indh ('to kindle')."

The word iḡa (or iḡita) is derived from the root iḡa stutau (to praise); since [Agni] is praised, Agni gets the name Iḡa.

"Sukhatame" — sukham asminn asti — "that in which there is comfort"; atiśayena sukhaḡ sukhatamaḡ: giving great comfort (in a chariot, i.e., where one sits and does not feel shaken while moving); a chariot in which a cushion and the like have been laid for seating and which is comfortable for travelling: an easy-moving chariot [the source's English].

"Rathe" — ramu krīḡāyām; ramante 'smin iti rathaḡ: "since people sit in it and travel with delight, it is called ratha."

"Iḡitaḡ" — iḡa stutau: praised, adored.

"Hotā" — devānām āhvātā: one who calls the gods to the sacrificial ground.

"Manurhitaḡ" — manunā mantreḡa, yajamānādi-rūpeḡa manuṣyeḡa vā sthāpitaḡ — "established by Manu, i.e., by a mantra, or by a man in the form of the sacrificer and others"; that is, placed with a mantra, or appointed by the sacrificer who is a man (prārthita, requested; niyamita, appointed). Skandasvāmī gives the sense "placed by Prajāpati" — prajāpatinā nihitaḥ — manuṣyeṣu nihitaḥ upakāraka ity arthaḥ, "set among men, as a benefactor": placed on earth among men, to be of help to men; he is one who does favours to men. The Western scholar Oldenberg gives this word the sense "Instituted by Manus," not "by men."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²¹

सुखतमे (sukhatame) — "sukham asmin asti": matup after the quality word sukha by "tad asyāsty asminn iti matup" (Pā. 5-2-94 [?]); by "guṇavacanabhyo matupo lugiṣṭaḥ" (Pā. 5-2-94 vārttika 3 [?]) the matup is dropped; then tamap in the sense of excess ("atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau," Pā. 5-3-55 [?]), unaccented as pit; the stem accent stands. रथे (rathe) — root ramu krīḍāyām; "hanikuṣinīramikāśibhyaḥ kthan" (Uṇ. 2-2 [?]): kthan after han, kuṣ, nī, ram, kāś; ram is anudātta and single-vowel in the dhātupāṭha list (the source cites the kārikā "liṭ luṭ vṛt śap śvip ..."), so iṭ is barred by "ekāca upadeśe 'nudāttāt" (Pā. 7-2-10 [?]); by "anudāttopadeśavanatitanotyādīnām anunāsikalopo jhali knīti" (Pā. 6-4-37 [?]) the m is lost: ratha; kthan is nī, so initial-udātta. ईळितः (īlitaḥ) — root īḍa stutau, kta ("niṣṭhā," Pā. 3-2-102 [?]); iṭ ("ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ," Pā. 7-2-35 [?]); in Vedic usage ḍ becomes ḷ between vowels ("ajmadhyasthaḍakārasya ḷakāraṃ bahvṛcā jaguḥ"), or by "dvyoḥ śāsyāsvarayoḥ"; the i of the augment is unaccented ("tasyāgamā anudāttāḥ"); the suffix accent stands. देवान् (devān) — as before. आ (ā) — a nipāta, initial-udātta. असि (asi) — root as bhuvi; laṭ sip; śap dropped ("ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ," Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); "tāsasty-ārlopaḥ" (Pā. 7-4-50 [?]) drops the s. होता (hotā) — tṛn with saṃprasāraṇa ("bahulaṃ chandasi," Pā. 6-1-34 [?]); initial-udātta. मनुहितः (manurhitaḥ) — "manyate iti manuḥ": root mana jñāne with u by "śṛsvṛsnihitrapyasivasihanikledibandhimanibhyaś ca" (Uṇ.

21. grammar pages 543–544, noted briefly

1-10 [?]); nit, so initial-udātta; hita is from dhā with hi by "dadhāter hiḥ" (Pā. 7-4-42 [?]); "manunā hitaḥ" with the third case in the compound — "ṛtīyā karmaṇi" (Pā. 6-2-48 [?]) — keeps the first member's accent; "supāṃ sulug..." (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]) would replace the ending; the s → ru ("lugabhāvaś chāndasaḥ").

॥४॥

original pp. 545–546

Rik 4 grammar closes; Sūkta 13, Rik 5

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥²²

Closing अस्ि (asi): the s of as is dropped before the s-initial ending ("tāsasty-ārdhādhātukayor lopaḥ" [print: "tāsasyor lopaḥ," Pā. 7-4-50 [?]]), giving asi; being at the start of the pāda it is not lowered ("tiṅ atīṇaḥ" does not apply); śap is pit and unaccented; the root accent stands. होता (hotā) — root hveñ spardhāyām śabde ca; tṛn by "āśaṃsāyām..." [print: "ājñeyas tṛn..."] the adhikāra in which "nvul-tṛcau" (Pā. 3-1-133 [?]) stands, in the habitual sense; saṃprasāraṇa ("bahulaṃ chandasi," Pā. 6-1-34 [?]); pūrvārūpa; guṇa of hu ("sārvadhātukārdhādhātukayoḥ," Pā. 7-3-84 [?]); the nominative singular su (not sambuddhi); "ṛduśanaspurudaṃsoneheśasām ca" (Pā. 7-1-94 [?]) gives anañ for the r-ending stems and the words uśanas, purudaṃsas, anehas before a non-vocative su; by "aṅgādeśa..." [sic] the anañ replacement is ñit, and "ñit ca" (Pā. 1-1-53 [?]) puts the substitute at the end; hotṛ + su; "āpkṛṇ..." [print: "apṛṇṛcvasvaṣṇapṛṇeṣṭṛtvaṣṭṛkṣatṛhotṛpotṛpraśāstṛṇām," Pā. 6-4-11 [?]]: the penultimate of hotṛ is lengthened before a non-vocative sarvanāmasthāna suffix; hotān + s; "hal-ñyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]) drops su; "nalopaḥ prātīpadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]) drops the n: hotā; since the suffix tṛn has n at the end and is nit, the word is initial-udātta

22. grammar pages 545–546, noted briefly

("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]). मनुर्हितः (manurhitaḥ) — root mana jñāne; "śvasvasnihitrapyasivasihanikledibandhimanibhyaś ca" (Uṇ. 1-10 [?]): the suffix u after śvi, stya, snih, trp, vas, han, kled, bandh, man; nit (from the carried-over "dhānyenit," Uṇ. 1-9 [?]), initial-udātta: manu. Hita: root ḍudhāñ dhāraṇapoṣaṇayoḥ; kta ("niṣṭhā," Pā. 3-2-102 [?]); "dadhāter hiḥ" (Pā. 7-4-42 [?]): dhā is replaced by hi before a t-initial ārdhadhātuka that is kit: hita; "manunā hitaḥ": a compound with the third case; "supāṃ suluk..." (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]) would replace the third-case ending, but the Vedic luk-absence leaves it; manu + ṭā with svitā- [read from compressed print] replacement; the final s → ru; "ṭṛtīyā karmaṇi" (Pā. 6-2-48 [?]): a third-case first member before a kta-ending word in the passive keeps its own accent; this overrides "tatpuruṣe tulyārtha...", "gatikārapapadāt kṛt" and "thāthaghañ..." (Pā. 6-2-144 [?]); so the ma of manu is udātta... ²³.

॥४॥

original p. 546

Sūkta 13, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁴

स्तृणीत बर्हिरानुषगृत्तपृष्ठं मनीषिणः । यत्रामृतस्य चक्षणम् ॥५॥ strṇīta barhir ānuṣag ghṛtapṛṣṭhaṃ manīṣiṇaḥ |

yatrāmṛtasya cakṣaṇam ||5||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

23. the source says: "the ā after m is udātta and the rest anudātta, then svarita after an udātta by Pā. 8-4-66 [?], and the remaining syllables are pracaya by Pā. 1-2-40 [?]"

24. The Devanagari for the last pāda is read as यत्रामृतस्य with the vowel mark on the printed ऋ taken as an artefact of the Kannada-to-Devanagari conversion; the pada text below and the bhāṣya give amṛtasya.

स्तृणीत । बर्हिः । आनुषक् । घृतऽपृष्ठम् । मनीषिणः ॥ यत्र । अमृतस्य । चक्षणम् ॥५॥ str̥ṇīta | barhiḥ | ānuṣak | ghr̥ta-pr̥ṣṭham | manīṣiṇaḥ | |
yatra | amṛtasya | cakṣaṇam | |5| |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे मनीषिणो बुद्धिमन्त ऋत्विजो बर्हिर्दर्भं स्तृणीत । वेदेरुपर्यास्तृणीत । अत्रापि
 बर्हिर्नामकोग्निः सूच्यते । कीदृशं बर्हिः । आनुषक् आनुक्रमेण सक्तं परस्परं संबद्धं घृतपृष्ठं
 घृतपूर्णानां सुचां बर्हिष्यादितत्वाद्धृतं पृष्ठ उपरिभागे यस्य बर्हिषस्तद्धृतपृष्ठम् । यत्र
 यस्मिन्बर्हिष्यमृतस्यामृतसमानस्य घृतस्य चक्षणं दर्शनं भवति । यद्वा । मरणरहितस्य देवस्य
 बर्हिर्नामकस्यानेर्दर्शनं भवति तद्बर्हिः स्तृणीतेति पूर्वत्रान्वयः ॥ स्तृणीत । स्तृञ् आच्छादने । लोणमध्यमपुरुषस्य बहुवचनम् । लोटो लङ्वत् । पा. ३-४-८५ । तस्थस्थमिपां तान्तंतामः । पा.
 ३-४-१०१ । इति थस्य तादेशः । क्र्यादिभ्यः श्ना । ई हल्यघोः । पा. ६-४-११३ । इतीत्त्वम् ।
 युवर्णान्नस्येति वक्तव्यम् । का. ८-४-१ । इति णत्वम् । प्रादीनां ह्रस्वः । पा. ७-३-८० । इति
 धातोर्ह्रस्वत्वम् । सति शिष्टस्वरबलीयस्त्वमन्यत्र विकरणेभ्यः । अतस्तिञ् एव
 प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तत्वम् । बर्हिः । बृहेर्नलोपश्च । उ. २-११० [?] । इतीसिप्रत्ययेनलोपः ।
 प्रत्ययस्वरः । आनुषक् । आ समन्तादनुषजतीत्यानुषक् । षञ्ज सङ्गे । धात्वादेः षः सः ।
 क्विप्चेति क्विप् । अनिदितां । पा. ६-४-२४ । इति लोपः । आ ... गतिसमासे ।
 उपसर्गात्सुनोतीत्यादिना षत्वम् । घृतपृष्ठम् । घृ क्षरणदीप्त्योः । निष्ठेति क्तः ।
 प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तः । घृतयुक्तं पृष्ठमस्येति बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । मनीषिणः ।
 आमन्त्रितनिघातः । अमृतस्य । न विद्यते मृतं मरणमस्मिन्नित्यमृतम् । बहुव्रीहौ
 पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वं बाधित्वा नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वे प्राप्ते नञ्जो जरमरमित्रमृताः ।
 पा. ६-२-११६ । इत्युत्तरपदाद्युदात्तत्वम् । चक्षणम् । चक्षिङ् व्यक्तायां वाचि । ... ल्युट् च । पा. ३-३-११५ । इति भावे ल्युट् । योरनादेशः । तस्यार्धधातुकत्वाच्चक्षिङः ख्याञ् । पा.
 २-४-५४ । इति ख्याजादेशे प्राप्ते अनयोश्च । पा. २-४-५४ वा. [?] । इति प्रतिषेधः ॥

he manīṣiṇo buddhimanta ṛtvijo barhir darbhaṃ str̥ṇīta |
vedeḥ upary āstr̥ṇīta | atrāpi barhir-nāmako 'gniḥ sūcyate |
kīdr̥śaṃ barhiḥ | ānuṣak ānukrameṇa saktam parasparaṃ sambaddham ghr̥tapr̥ṣṭham ghr̥ta-pūrṇānām srucām barhiṣy āditatvād ghr̥taṃ pr̥ṣṭha upari-bhāge yasya barhiṣas tad ghr̥tapr̥ṣṭham | yatra yasmin barhiṣy amṛtasyāmṛtasamānasya ghr̥tasya cakṣaṇam darśanaṃ bhavati | yadvā |

maraṇa-rahitasya devasya barhir-nāmakasyāgner darśanam
 bhavati tad barhiḥ str̥ṇītetī pūrvatrānvayaḥ || str̥ṇīta | str̥ṇī
 ācchādane | loṇ madhyama-puruṣasya bahuvacanam | loṭo
 laṇvat | pā. 3-4-85 | tasthasthamipāṃ tāntamāmah | pā.
 3-4-101 | iti thasya tā-deśaḥ | kryādibhyaḥ śnā | ī halyaghoḥ |
 pā. 6-4-113 | itītvaṃ | yuvarṇān nasyeti vaktavyam | kā. 8-4-1
 | iti ṇatvaṃ | prādināṃ hrasvaḥ | pā. 7-3-80 | iti dhātor hrasvatvaṃ | ... barhiḥ | bṛmher nalopaś ca | u. 2-110 [?] |
 itīsi-pratyayena lopaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | ānuṣak | ā samantād anuṣajātīy ānuṣak | ṣaṇja saṅge | dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ
 saḥ | kvip ceti kvip | aniditāṃ | pā. 6-4-24 | iti lopaḥ | ...
 ghṛtapṛṣṭham | ghṛ kṣaraṇa-dīptyoḥ | niṣṭheti ktaḥ |
 pratyaya-svarenodāttaḥ | ghṛta-yuktaṃ pṛṣṭham asyeti
 bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvaṃ | manīṣiṇaḥ |
 āmantrita-nighātaḥ | amṛtasya | na vidyate mṛtaṃ maraṇam
 asminn ity amṛtam | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛtisvaratvaṃ bādhitvā naṅsubhyām ity uttarapadāntodāttatve prāpte naṅjo jaramaramitramṛtāḥ | pā. 6-2-116 | ity uttarapadādyudāttatvaṃ | cakṣaṇam | cakṣiṇ vyaktāyām vāci
 | ... lyuṭ ca | pā. 3-3-115 | iti bhāve lyuṭ | yor anādeśaḥ |
 tasyārdhadhātukatvāc cakṣiṇaḥ khyāñ | pā. 2-4-54 | iti
 khyāñādeśe prāpte anayoś ca | pā. 2-4-54 vā. [?] | iti pratiṣedhaḥ ||

Translation: "O manīṣiṇaḥ — O wise priests! Barhiḥ, the darbha grass, str̥ṇīta: spread it — spread it over the altar. Here too the fire named Barhis is indicated. What kind of barhis? Ānuṣak — joined in order, successively connected with one another; ghṛtapr̥ṣṭham — since the ladles full of ghee are placed on the barhis, the barhis has ghee on its pr̥ṣṭha, its upper part. Yatra — in which barhis — amṛtasya, of ghee, which is like ambrosia, there is cakṣaṇam, seeing: [the ghee is seen there]. Or else: [on which] there is the sight of Agni, the god without death, the one named Barhis; spread that barhis: this is the connection with what precedes." ²⁵ ²⁶

original pp. 547–550

Rik 5: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

²⁷ मनीषिणः (manīṣiṇaḥ) — wise priests | आनुषक् (ānuṣak) — in sequence, one touching the next (so that they lie close together) | घृतपृष्ठम् (ghṛtapr̥ṣṭham) — sprinkled with ghee (or water) on the upper part | यत्र (yatra) — on which barhis | अमृतस्य (amṛtasya) — [of] the ghee equal to ambrosia, or of the deathless god [Agni] named Barhis | चक्षणम् (cakṣaṇam) — sight | बर्हिः (barhiḥ) — the kuśa grass with its ends cut | स्तृणीत (str̥ṇīta) — spread (over the altar).

25. Grammar noted briefly: str̥ṇīta — root str̥ṇ ācchādane, imperative second plural, the thas → ta, śnā, ī by Pā. 6-4-113 [?], shortening by Pā. 7-3-80 [?], ṇatva by a vārtika; barhis as in 12.4; ānuṣak — root ṣaṇja saṅge with kvip; ghṛtapr̥ṣṭha a bahuvrīhi; amṛta — "that in which death is not" — with the first-member accent overridden by Pā. 6-2-116 [?]; cakṣaṇa — root cakṣiṇ with lyuṭ and no khyāñ substitution.

26. Parts of the Sanskrit are compressed.

27. O

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O wise priests! Spread the darbha grass on the altar, as a seat, so that the fire named Barhis may come and sit. When you spread it, it must be soft and thick; it must be moistened with ghee or water. The ghee on it, or the fire named Barhis, must be visible to all. Spread the kuśa grass on the altar in this way.

॥ English Translation ॥

Strew, learned priests, in due order, the sacrificial grass the back (or surface) of which is sprinkled with clarified butter (or water), that we may see the immortal ones thereon.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The meaning of this rik is somewhat strained. Yāska explains the word barhiḥ thus: "barhiḥ paribarhaṇāt" (Nirukta 8-?? [?]): "barhiḥ prasiddham eva kuśamayaṃ yajñāṅgam | paribarhaṇāt pariccheda-nāt lūnaṃ hi tad bhavati" — "barhis is the well-known kuśa grass, a limb of the sacrifice; because of paribarhaṇa, cutting round, it is cut." That is: barhis is the darbha grass, with its tip cut, used in sacrifices; paribarhaṇa means cutting: since the tips are cut, this darbha has the name barhiḥ. Or barhiḥ is pravṛjyate (that which is cut off) or prastīryate (that which is strewn). Because it is cut, or because it is spread, the name barhiḥ may be said to arise. To support this sense Yāska quotes:

प्राचीनं बर्हिः प्रदिशा पृथिव्या वस्तोरस्या वृज्यते अग्रे अह्नाम् । व्यु प्रथते वितरं वरीयो देवेभ्यो अदितये स्योनम् ॥ *prācīnaṃ barhiḥ pradiśā pṛthivyā vastor asyā vrjyate agre ahnām | vyu prathate vitaraṃ varīyo devebhyo
aditaye syonam* || (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 10-110-4 [?]; the source's number reads "१०-११०-४") ("The barhis is strewn, pointing east, over the region of earth, at the head of days; it spreads wider and broader, pleasant for the gods and for Aditi." — my gloss, tentative.)

and explains: "prācīnaṃ barhiḥ pradiśā prthivyā vasanāyosyāḥ pravṛjyate agre ahnām — the barhis is cut at the beginning of the days, in the morning; vyu prathate vitaram — it spreads wider; vikīrṇataram, vistīrṇataram iti vā; varīyo — varataram urutaram vā; devebhyaś cāditaye ca syonam — and pleasant for the gods and for Aditi; syonam is a name for happiness, from syatiḥ..." (Nirukta 8-?? [?]). From this explanation the word barhiḥ means darbha with its ends cut, spread thickly and widely. Such cut darbha is spread in the sacrifice for two reasons: one, to place the ghee-vessel (ājyapātra) and the sruk before Agni; two, as a seat on which the gods who have been invoked come and sit. In the darbha seat, performing rites is considered best; so, to let the gods sit, they spread cut darbha named barhiḥ on one part of the sacrificial altar as a seat; this is the custom. The five deities spoken of so far — samiddha, tanūnapāt, narāśaṃsa, iḷā, barhiḥ — are all considered diverse forms of Agni; and by these names they offer homa in the animal sacrifice.

"Ānuṣak" — anukrameṇa saktam parasparam sambaddham: "joined in order, connected with one another": the darbha blades must lie pressed against one another, so that there is no gap; they cannot be strewn so sparsely that there is no seat: the idea is that the seat is soft only when the grass is laid thick and pressed down.

"Ghṛtapṛṣṭham" — root ghṛ kṣaraṇadīptyoḥ; "that whose pṛṣṭha (back) is joined with ghee": sprinkled with ghee, or moistened, or [the source adds] sprinkled with water; the word ghṛta also has the sense "water" (Nirukta 1-12 [?]); to keep the dry darbha soft, sprinkling with water is the custom.

"Amṛtasya" — na vidyate mṛtaṃ maraṇam asminn ity amṛtam: "the deathless one, i.e., the god Agni"; or, as the Bhāṣyakāra says, ghee equal to amṛta.

"Cakṣaṇam" — cakṣiṇ vyaktāyāṃ vāci: "to become visible, to appear." What the right sense of the phrase amṛtasya cakṣaṇam is, is not clear; and the seer's intention too is not understood well. Although we have said the meaning customary in the tradition, the chief intention in the seer's mind is not clear.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁸

स्तृणीत (str̥ṇīta) — root str̥ṇ ācchādane of the kryādi class; loṭ second plural thas... dhvam-type ending: "loṭo laṇvat" (Pā. 3-4-85 [?]) gives the laṇ-like substitutions for loṭ; "tasthasthamipāṃ tām̐tām̐tām̐" (Pā. 3-4-101 [?]) replaces tha with ta; "kryādibhyaḥ śnā" (Pā. 3-1-81 [?]); "ī halyaghoḥ" (Pā. 6-4-113 [?]): the ā of śnā becomes ī before a consonant-initial sārvadhātuka ending that is kit or ṇit, after a root that is not abhyasta and not ghu; "prādīnāṃ hrasvaḥ" (Pā. 7-3-80 [?]): the root-final r is shortened before the śnā suffix; "yuvarṇān nasya ṇatvaṃ vaktavyam" (vārttika [?]): n → ṇ after r; so str̥ṇīta; since it stands at the head of the first pāda, "tiṇ atīṇaḥ" does not make it unaccented; the śit śnā, though pit-like, is overridden by the tiṇ (Pā. 6-1-186 [?]); by the maxim "satiśiṣṭasvarabalīyastvam anyatra vikaraṇebhyaḥ" the suffix accent stands for the tiṇ, so ta is udātta.

बर्हिः (barhiḥ) — root br̥ha br̥hi vr̥ddhau (idit), so num ("idito num dhātoḥ," Pā. 7-1-58 [?]); "br̥mher nalopaś ca" (Uṇ. 2-110 [?]): suffix isi with loss of the n; laghūpadha-guṇa, raparatva: barhis; the suffix accent; accusative singular barhiḥ.

आनुषक् (ānuṣak) — "ā samantād anuṣajati": root ṣaṇja saṅge; ṣ → s ("dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ," Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); kvip ("kvip ca," Pā. 3-2-76 [?]), all of it dropped; "anidatāṃ hala upadhāyāḥ kṇiti" (Pā. 6-4-24 [?]) drops the n of saṇj; the prefixes ā and anu stand before; ā + anu + saj are compounded as gati ("kugatiprādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18 [?]), with savarṇadīrgha; "upasargāt sunoti-suvati..." (Pā. 8-3-65 [?]) turns s → ṣ; the nominative/accusative singular am is dropped ("svamornapuṃsakāt," Pā. 7-1-23 [?]); "coḥ kuḥ" (Pā. 8-2-30 [?])

28. grammar pages 549–550, noted briefly

turns j → g, "jhalām jaśo 'nte" (Pā. 8-2-39 [?]) and "vāvasāne" (Pā. 8-4-56 [?]) give k: ānuṣak. घृतपृष्ठम् (ghṛtapṛṣṭham) — root ghṛ kṣaraṇadīptyoḥ + kta ("niṣṭhā," Pā. 3-2-102 [?]), final-udātta by the suffix; "ghṛtayuktaṃ pṛṣṭham asya" is a bahuvrīhi with the first member's accent ("bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]). मनीषिणः (manīṣiṇaḥ) — a vocative; the aṣṭamika lowering ("āmantritasya ca," Pā. 8-1-19 [?]).

॥५॥

original p. 551

Rik 5 grammar closes; Sūkta 13, Rik 6

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ²⁹

अमृतस्य (amṛtasya) — "na vidyate mṛtaṃ maraṇam asmin": a bahuvrīhi, so the first member's accent would stand ("bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]); this is overridden by "nañsubhyām" (Pā. 6-2-172 [?]), which in a bahuvrīhi gives final-udātta to the member after nañ or su; and this in turn by "nañjo jaramaramitramṛtāḥ" (Pā. 6-2-116 [?]), which makes jara, mara, mitra, mṛta initial-udātta after nañ in a bahuvrīhi; so the second member is initial-udātta. चक्षणम् (cakṣaṇam) — root cakṣiṇ vyaktāyāṃ vāci, which suits the "making manifest of speech"; here it indicates only manifestation by implication (lakṣaṇā); "lyuṭ ca" (Pā. 3-3-115 [?]): lyuṭ is added after the root in the neuter, in the sense of the action itself; the l and ṭ of lyuṭ are it; "yuvor anākau" (Pā. 7-1-1 [?]) gives ana; cakṣ + ana; since an ārdhadhātuka follows, "cakṣiṇaḥ khyāñ" (Pā. 2-4-54 [?]) would substitute khyā, but "asanayoś ca" (Pā. 2-4-54 vārttika 10 [?]) prevents this when as or ana follows; the source adds that in the Kāśikā the suffix yuc is taken ("adyudāttāc ca halāde" [sic], Pā. 3-2-... [?]) and vicakṣaṇa derived accordingly, with final-udātta; on the lyuṭ view the word is initial-udātta by "lititi" (Pā. 6-1-193

29. grammar page, noted briefly

[?]): the ca of cakṣ is udātta, the two following a's are unaccented, then the second a is svarita ("udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ," Pā. 8-4-66 [?]), and the third pracaya ("svaritāt saṃhitāyām anudāttānām," Pā. 1-2-39 [?]).

॥५॥

Page 551 (lower) — Sūkta 13, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वि श्रयन्तामृतावृधो द्वारो देवीरसश्चतः । अद्या नूनं च यष्टवे ॥६॥

vi śrayantām ṛtāvṛdho dvāro devīr asaścataḥ | adyā nūnaṃ ca yaṣṭave ||6||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

वि । श्रयन्ताम् । ऋतवृधः । द्वारः । देवीः । असश्चतः ॥ अद्य । नूनम् । च । यष्टवे ॥६॥

vi | śrayantām | ṛta-vṛdhaḥ | dvāraḥ | devīḥ | asaścataḥ | | adya | nūnam | ca | yaṣṭave ||6||

original pp. 552–553

Rik 6: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

द्वारो यज्ञशालाद्वाराणि वि श्रयन्ताम् । कपाटोद्धाटनेन विप्रियन्ताम् [reading uncertain] । कीदृश्यः । ऋतावृधः ऋतस्य सत्यस्य यज्ञस्य वा वर्धयित्र्यो देवीर्द्योतमाना असश्चतो ऽसक्ताः । उद्धाटनेन प्रवेष्टुपुरुषसंगरहिताः । यद्वा । आसश्चतः प्रवेष्टुपुरुषरहितान्यज्ञगृहांस्तत्पुरुषप्रवेशाय द्वाराभिमानिन्य एतत्संज्ञिका अग्निविशेषमूर्तयो वि श्रयन्ताम् । विशेषेण सेवन्ताम् । द्वारसेवया तत्र पुरुषप्रवेशेन वा किं प्रयोजनमिति तदुच्यते । अद्यास्मिन्दिने नूनमवश्यं यष्टवे यष्टुं । चकाराद्दिनान्तरेष्वपीति द्रष्टव्यम् ॥ ऋतावृधः । ऋतं वर्धयन्तीत्यर्थे वृधेरन्तर्भावितण्यर्थात्किञ्चेति क्विप् । उपपदसमासः । आन्येषामपि दृश्यत इति पूर्वपदस्य दीर्घत्वम् । व्यधिर्धात्वस्वरेणोदात्तः । समासे ऽकृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन स एव

शिष्यते । देवीः । वा छन्दसीति पूर्वसवर्णदीर्घत्वम् । देवशब्दात्त्वचादिषु
जन्तात्सत्संयोगादाख्यायाम् । पा. ४-१-४८ । इति डीष् । प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तः । विभक्त्या सह
एकदेश उदात्तेनोदात्त इत्युदात्तः । असश्चतः । सश्च गतौ । जकारस्य व्यत्ययेन चकारः । लटः
शत् आदेशः । द्वाराभावेन विद्यन्ते सश्चको गच्छन्तो येषु प्रागसंशाश्चादिषु तानसश्चतः । अद्य ।
सद्यःपरुत्परार्यैषमः इत्यादिना घप्रत्ययान्तो निपातितः ।
तद्धितश्चासर्वविभक्तिरित्यव्ययसंज्ञकत्वात्सप्तम्या लुक् । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः ।
संहितायामन्येषामपि दृश्यत इति दीर्घत्वम् । नूनम् । एवमादीनामन्त इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । यष्टवे
। यजेस्तुमर्थे सेसेनित्यादिना । पा. ३-४-९ । तवेन्द्रप्रत्ययः । ब्रश्चादिना षत्वम् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः
॥

*dvāro yajña-śālā-dvārāṇi vi śrayantām | kapāṭodghāṭanena
vipriyantām [reading uncertain] | kīdrśyaḥ | ṛtāvṛdhaḥ ṛtasya satyasya yajñasya vā vardhayitryo devīr dyotamānā asaścato
'saktāḥ | udghāṭanena praveṣṭṛ-puruṣa-saṃgara-hitāḥ |
yadvā | āsaścataḥ praveṣṭṛ-puruṣa-rahitān yajña-grhāṃs tatpuruṣa-praveśāya dvārābhīmānīnīya etat-saṃjñikā agni-viśeṣamūrtayo vi śrayantām | viśeṣeṇa sevantām | dvāra-sevayā tatra puruṣa-praveśena vā kiṃ prayojanam iti tad ucyate |
adyāsmīn dine nūnam avaśyaṃ yaṣṭave yaṣṭuṃ | cakārād
dinānantareṣv apīti draṣṭavyam | | ṛtāvṛdhaḥ | ṛtaṃ vardhayantīty arthe vṛdher antarbhāvita-nyarthāt kip ceti kvip | upapada-samāsaḥ | ānyeṣāṃ api drśyata iti pūrvapadasya dīrghatvam | vyathir dhātvasvareṇodāttaḥ | samāse 'krduttara-pada-prakṛti-svaratvena sa eva śiṣyate | devīḥ | vā
chandasīti pūrvasavarṇa-dīrghatvam | deva-śabdāt tvacādiṣu
jantāt sat-saṃyogād ākhyāyām | pā. 4-1-48 | iti ṇīṣ |
pratyaya-svareṇodāttaḥ | vibhaktyā saha ekādeśa
udātenodātta ity udāttaḥ | asaścataḥ | saśca gatau |
jakārasya vyatyayena cakāraḥ | laṭaḥ satṛ ādeśaḥ | dvārābhāvena vidyante saścanto gacchanto yeṣu prāksaṃśāścādiṣu tān asaścataḥ | adya | sadyaḥ-parut-parāryaiśamaḥ ity-ādinā dya-pratyayānto nipātitaḥ | taddhitaś
cāsarva-vibhaktir ity avyaya-saṃjñakatvāt saptamīyā luk |
pratyaya-svareṇāntodāttaḥ | saṃhitāyām anyeṣāṃ api*

*ḍṛśyata iti dīrghatvam | nūnam | evam ādīnām anta ity antodāttatvam | yaṣṭave | yajes tumarthe se-sena ity-ādinā |
pā. 3-4-9 | tavenpratyayaḥ | vraścādinā ṣatvam | nittvād
ādyudāttaḥ | |*

Translation: "May the dvāraḥ — the doors of the sacrificial hall — vi śrayantām: be opened wide, by the opening of their leaves. What kind of doors? Ṛtāvṛdhaḥ — increasers of ṛta, of truth or of the sacrifice; devīḥ — shining; asaścataḥ — unattached, free of any obstacle to the persons who are to enter when they are thrown open. Or else: the Fire-forms, called by this name, who preside over the doors (dvārābhimāninyāḥ), may specially serve the sacrificial houses which up to now have had no person enter, so that persons may enter. What is the purpose of serving the doors, or of letting persons enter? This is told: adya nūnam — today, certainly — yaṣṭave — for the sacrificing; by ca, [it is] on other days too." ^{30 31}

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अद्य (adya) — today (now itself) | नूनम् (nūnam) — certainly | यष्टवे च (yaṣṭave ca) — in order that [we] may perform the sacrifice | ऋतावृधः (ṛtāvṛdhaḥ) — helping the sacrifice to go forward | देवीः (devīḥ) — shining (making light) | असञ्चतः (asaścataḥ) — joined [to nothing]: until now entered by no one | द्वारः (dvāraḥ) — the doors (gates) of the sacrificial hall | वि श्रयन्ताम् (vi śrayantām) — be opened.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

30. Grammar noted briefly: ṛtāvṛdh is formed with kvip after ṛdh with the causative sense, a compound with an upapada; devī has ñiṣ by Pā. 4-1-48 [?]; asaścata is the śatṛ of saśca (Vedic c for j); adya as in Rik 2; nūnam final-udātta; yaṣṭave is the infinitive in tavai with ṣ by Pā. 8-2-36 [?].

31. The bhāṣya is read with some doubt where compressed.

May the doors of the sacrificial hall, which give light and help the sacrifice go forward, and which no one has entered until today, be opened without delay, for the sacrifice we are going to perform.

॥ English Translation ॥

Let the divine doors, the promoters of the sacred rite, hitherto unentered be set open; for certainly to-day the sacrifice is to be performed.

original p. 553

Rik 6: Special Topics

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

When entering the sacrificial hall the sacrificer and the priests pray to the doors of the hall. Although all the riks of this sūkta are addressed to Agni, in this rik devīr dvāraḥ — "the divine doors" — the door-deities (that is, the deities who preside over the doors) are prayed to. Yāska's explanation:

द्वारः । द्वारो जवतेर्वा द्रवतेर्वा वास्यतेर्वा ॥ अग्निरिति शाकपूणिः ॥ dvāraḥ | dvāro javater vā dravater vā vārayater vā | | agnir iti śākapūṇiḥ | | (Nirukta 8-8 [?]) "Dvāraḥ — the word dvāra is from javati ('to hasten'), dravati ('to run') or vārayati ('to stop'). Śākapūṇi says it is Agni."

Dvāra is that by which one enters, goes inside, or that which stops one going inside; so it is called dvāra. Śākapūṇi's view is that dvāra is Agni: since Agni is the form in which the homa is made, the doors of the homa-chamber are also called "special forms of Agni." The doors of the chamber in which the oblation is offered, said to be personifications of Agni [the source's English].

"Viśrayantām" — kapāṭodghāṭanena vipriyantām [as read]; vivṛtā bhavantu: "let them be opened wide, let the doors be well opened."

"Ṛtāvṛdhaḥ" — ṛtaṃ (yajñam) vardhayantīti ṛtāvṛdhaḥ: "helpful in advancing the sacrifice": that is, by entering the sacrificial hall, they help to carry out the homa and the other acts to be done in the sacrifice.

"Devīḥ" — dyotamānāḥ: "shining, making light well": when the door is opened, light naturally fills the room. Whether the word devīḥ is understood as an adjective of dvāraḥ, or both words are taken in the sense "the deities presiding over the doors," either use is possible; for in the Anukramaṇikā the deity of this rik is named devīr dvāraḥ.

original pp. 554–555

Rik 6: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Asaścataḥ" — dvārābhāve saścanto gacchanto yeṣu — "[doors] in which there are no ones going or staying, i.e. na saktāḥ asaktāḥ: free of entry, that no one has entered, or which stop those entering": such senses may be given.

"Adyā"

— "now, today; this time at which we are performing this sacrifice." The final vowel is lengthened in the Saṃhitā for the convenience of the meter.

"Nūnam" — "necessarily, certainly, without fail" [the source's English: certainly, without fail].

"Ca" — this word has no special sense here; looking at it one way, there is no need of it in this rik. The Bhāṣyakāra gives the sense dinānteṣv api — "on other days too."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³²

ऋतावृधः (ṛtāvṛdhaḥ) — "ṛtaṃ vardhayanti": root vṛdhu vṛddhau with the causative sense inside; kvip by "kvip ca" (Pā. 3-2-76 [?]); with the upapada ṛta, a compound by "upapadam atin" (Pā. 2-2-19

32. grammar pages 554–555, noted briefly

[?]); "ānyeṣām api dṛśyate" (Pā. 6-3-137 [?]) lengthens the first member; vṛdh is udātta by the root accent; the kṛdanta second member's accent by "gatikārapapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]); nominative plural. देवी: (devīḥ) — deva from divu krīḍāḍau with ac ("nandigrahipacāḍibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ," Pā. 3-1-134 [?]); final-udātta by cit; "puṇyogād ākhyāyām" (Pā. 4-1-48 [?]): in the feminine of a word that is a man's name by his relation, nīṣ; "devasya strī" with the feminine sense; deva + ī; "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]) drops a; ī is udātta by the suffix accent; jas follows; pūrvasavarṇadīrgha ("prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ," Pā. 6-1-102 [?]) would arise but is barred by "dīrghājasi ca" (Pā. 6-1-105 [?]); "vā chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-106 [?]) makes it optional, so it applies; the single substitute is udātta by "ekādeśa udātenodāttaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). असञ्चतः (asaścataḥ) — root ṣaṇj/saśca gatau (juhotyādi? the source reads "saścī, saścu," in the sense of going); j → c by Vedic inversion; "dhātuvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ" (Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); laṭ → śatṛ ("laṭaḥ śatṛśānacau," Pā. 3-2-124 [?]); śap; "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) gives pararūpa; "dvārābhāvena vidyante saścanto gacchanto yeṣu" gives the sense; accusative plural śas. अद्य (adya) — formed with dya by "sadyaḥ parut..." (Pā. 5-3-22 [?]); "taddhitaś cāsarvavibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 1-1-38 [?]) gives it the avyaya name, so the following locative ending is dropped ("avyayād āpsupaḥ," Pā. 2-4-82 [?]); final-udātta by the suffix accent; lengthened in the Saṃhitā ("ānyeṣām api dṛśyate," Pā. 6-3-137 [?]). नूनम् (nūnam) — "evamādīnām antaḥ" (Phīṭ-sūtra [?]): final-udātta. यष्टवे (yaṣṭave) — root yaja devapūjāsaṅgatikaraṇadāneṣu; "tumarthe sese-sen-ase-asen-kṣe-kṣenadhyai-adhyaiṇ-kadhyai-kadhyaiṇ-śadhyai-śadhyaiṇ-tavai-tavaiṇ-tavenaḥ" (Pā. 3-4-9 [?]): in the Veda the infinitive suffixes tavai, tavaiṇ, taven and others in the sense of tumun; yaj + tave; "vraścabhrasjasṛjamṛjayajarājabhrājacchaśāṃ ṣaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-36 [?]) turns j → ṣ; "ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]) turns t → ṭ: yaṣṭave; taven is nīṭ, so initial-udātta.

Sūkta 13, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नक्तोषासा सुपेशसास्मिन्यज्ञ उप ह्वये । इदं नो बर्हिःरासदे ॥७॥

naktoṣāsā supeśasāsmiṇ yajña upa hvaye | idaṃ no barhir āsade || 7 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नक्तोषसा । सुपेशसा । अस्मिन् । यज्ञे । उप । ह्वये ॥ इदम् । नः । बर्हिः । आसदे ॥७॥

*naktoṣasā | su-peśasā | asmiṇ | yajñe | upa | hvaye || idam |
naḥ | barhiḥ | ā-sade || 7 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

नक्तशब्द उषःशब्दश्च लोके कालविशेषवाचिनौ । इह तु तत्कालाभिमानिन्यौ वह्निमूर्तिद्वयोः प्रयुज्येते । नक्तोषासा नक्तोषसो नामिके वह्निमूर्ती अस्मिन्नेत्र वर्तमाने यज्ञे कर्मण्युप ह्वये । आह्वयामि । किमर्थम् । नो ऽस्मदीयमिदं वेद्यामास्तीर्णं बर्हिर्गर्भमासदे । आसत्त्वं । प्राप्तं । कीदृशौ । सुपेशसा शोभनरूपयुक्ते ॥ नक्तं तोषात्तः नक्तोषसा । द्वितीयोद्विचनस्य सुषां सुलुगित्याकारः मलोप उपधादीर्घश्छन्दसः । देवताद्वन्द्वे च । पा. ६-२-१४१ । इति पूर्वोत्तरपदयोर्युगपत्प्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सुपेशसा । रोभनं पेशो रूपं ययोस्ते । पूर्वपदादाकारः । पेशःशब्दो ऽसन्त्ये ऽन्तोदात्तः । बहुव्रीहौ

सन्नाभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वस्यापवादत्वेनाद्युदात्तम् । ... अस्मिन् । ऊडिदमित्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वात् । आसदे । षद्लृ विशरणगत्यवसादनेषु । धात्वादेः षः सः । आङ्पूर्वात्सदेस्तुमर्थे भावे क्विप् । ... कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥

*naktaśabda uṣaḥśabdaś ca loke kāla-viśeṣa-vācinau | iha tu
tat-kālābhīmāninyau vahni-mūrti-dvayoḥ prayujyete | naktoṣāsā naktoṣaso nāmike vahni-mūrti asminn eva vartamāne yajñe karmany upa hvaye | āhvayāmi | kim-artham | no 'smadīyam idaṃ vedyām āstīrṇaṃ barhir
garbham āsade | āsattvaṃ | prāptaṃ | kīdṛśau | supeśasā
śobhana-rūpa-yukte || naktam toṣāt taḥ naktoṣasā |*

dvitīyodbhi-vacanasya suśāṃ suluk ity ākāraḥ malopa
 upadhā-dīrghaś chandasah | devatā-dvandve ca | pā. 6-2-141
 | iti pūrvottara-padayor yugapat prakṛti-svaratvam |
 supeśasā | śobhanam peśo rūpaṃ yayos te | pūrvapadād
 ākāraḥ | peśah-śabdo 'santye 'ntodāttaḥ | bahuvrīhau sannābhyām ity
 uttarapadāntodāttatvasyāpavādatvenādyudāttam | ... asmin |
 ūḍidam ity-ādinā vibhakter udāttatvāt | āsade | śad! viśaraṇa-
 gaty-avasādaneṣu | dhātvādeḥ śah śah | āñ-pūrvāt sader
 tumarthe bhāve kvip | ... kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-svaratvam
 ||

Translation: "The words nakta (night) and uṣas (dawn) in ordinary speech denote particular times; but here the presiding forms of those times, two Fire-forms, are meant. Naktośāsā — the two Fire-forms named Night and Dawn — in this very sacrifice now in progress, upa hvaye: I invoke. For what? Naḥ idam barhiḥ āsade — so that [they] may sit on this our barhis spread on the altar. What are they like? Supeśasā — endowed with beautiful forms." 33 34

original p. 556

Rik 7: word-meanings, overall sense, English

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

नः (naḥ) — our | इदम् (idam) — this, spread on the altar | बर्हिः (barhiḥ) — the darbha grass prepared as a seat | आसदे (āsade) — in order that they may come and sit [on] it (that is, to sit on the

33. Grammar noted briefly: naktośāsā is a dvandva of two deities, "night and dawn," in which both members keep their natural accent by Pā. 6-2-141 [?], with the Vedic ā for the dual ending and lengthening; supeśas is a bahuvrīhi "of beautiful form," initial-udātta; āsade is the infinitive of sad with the prefix ā and kvip in the sense of tumun, with the kṛdanta second-member accent.

34. Some of the Sanskrit is compressed.

darbha that we have spread) | सुपेशसा (supeśasā) — endowed with beautiful forms | नक्तोषासा (naktoṣāsā) — the deities of night and dawn (or the presiding deities of those times) | अस्मिन् यज्ञे (asmin yajñe) — in this sacrifice now proceeding | उप ह्वये (upa hvaye) — I invoke.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

In the sacrifice we are performing, we have spread darbha on the altar and made a seat. To sit on this seat, I now call, in this ongoing sacrifice, the two deities named Naktoṣāsā (the presiding deities of night and of dawn), who shine in beautiful forms.

॥ English Translation ॥

I invoke here at this sacrifice Night and Dawn, the beautifully adorned goddesses, that they may sit down on this our sacrificial grass.

original pp. 557–558

Rik 7: Special Topics

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

In this rik the presiding deities of night and of the morning time, called Naktoṣāsā, are invoked. Yāska's explanation of the word naktoṣāsā is as follows:

उषासानक्ता । उषासानक्तेत्येते नक्ता च उषाश्च व्याख्याताः । नक्तेति रात्रिनाम नक्तेति [?] अव्यक्तवर्णा ॥ uṣāsānaktā | uṣāsānaktety ete naktā ca uṣās ca vyākhyātāḥ | nakteti rātri-nāma nakteti [?] avyakta-varṇā || (Nirukta 8-11 [?]; the print is compressed and I give it as a best reading.)

Although naktoṣāsā and uṣāsānaktā are two different forms in the text, the sense is the same. The explanation of the word uṣas was given earlier. Naktā is a name of night. For naktā is "of indistinct colour"; since things are not clearly seen in the dark of night, it is called naktā; at this time living beings are unable to do their work. Yāska explains: "anakti kledayati bhūtāni āvaśyāyena iti" — "it anoints, it wets beings with dew"; "api vā naktā avyaktavarṇā" — "or naktā is of indistinct colour; as the day makes the forms of everything manifest, the night does not." Since the darkness gives no chance for beings' works to go on properly, it is troublesome to them; for this reason the night is called naktā; or because nothing is clearly seen, it is called naktā. By day the forms of all things are clear; at night nothing is seen: so this meaning is given for the word naktā for night-time (Nirukta 8-11).

The meaning of the word uṣas has been given before: "vibhāvarī, sūnarī and the other sixteen words are names of dawn" (Nirukta 1-8 [?]); and उषाः कस्मादुच्छतीति सत्या रात्रेरपरः कालः ॥ uṣāḥ kasmād ucchatīti satyā rātrēr aparāḥ kālaḥ | | "Why is uṣas so called? From ucchatī ('it shines out'); [it is] the last part of the night."

Uṣas is called so because it removes the darkness of night; it is the last part of night. To support this sense, he gives a rik:

इदं श्रेष्ठं ज्योतिषां ज्योतिरागाच्चित्रः प्रकेतो अजनिष्ट विभ्वा । यथा प्रसूता सवितुः सवाय एवा
रात्र्युषसे योनिमारैक् ॥ idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotir āgāc citraḥ praketo ajaniṣṭa vibhvā | yathā prasūtā savituh savāya evā rātry uṣase yonim āraik | | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-113-1 [?]; printed "१-११३-१") ("This best light of lights has come; the wondrous sign has been born, pervading. As [Night], impelled for Savitr's impulse, so has Night yielded her womb to Dawn." — my gloss, tentative.)

and explains it in his Nirukta: "idaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ jyotiṣāṃ jyotir āgamat | citraṃ praketanaṃ prajñāte-tamam ajaniṣṭa vibhūtataṃ | yathā prasūtā savituh prasavāya rātrir ādityasya | evaṃ rātry uṣase yonim aricat sthānam | strī-yonir abhiyuta

enām garbhaḥ" (Nirukta 2-19 [?]) — "the best light of lights has come; the wondrous sign, the most distinguished, has been born; as the night, set in motion for the urging of Savitṛ, the sun, so the night has given up to the dawn her place, her womb."

The best, most brilliant light of the sun is rising; the dawn-time, which precedes that light, runs before it like a banner — the light of the sun shines through the whole day, and at the time of setting becomes the womb, i.e., the cause, for the night; so the night, at the end of its own time, becomes the cause for dawn. Yoni means a birth-place. At the end of the day night, and at the end of night dawn, are one: they come into view in a cycle of change: that is the chief idea. Hence uṣas means the light that, after the night has passed, spreads through all the quarters before sunrise and shines forth: dawn.

The Bhāṣyakāra's explanation: "nakta-śabda uṣaḥ-śabdaś ca loke kāla-viśeṣa-vācinau | iha tu tat-kālābhimāniny-agni-mūrti-dvaye prayujyete" — nakta and uṣas in ordinary use denote particular times, night and morning; here, in this rik or in the Ṛgveda, these words denote the presiding deities of night and of morning-time; hence naktoṣāsā or uṣāsānaktā are used in the sense of two forms of Agni — as the deities presiding over night and the morning-time. The word supeśāsā ("of fine form or shape") used in this rik supports this sense: since night and dawn are divisions of time, they have neither form nor shape. In the view that these are the presiding deities of those times, a form can be assigned to those deities. Since in this rik an invocation (upa hvaye) is stated, it is to be understood that the presiding deities of these times are meant. The s in naktoṣāsā is lengthened for the convenience of the meter in the Saṃhitā.

"Supeśāsā" — peśas is read among the sixteen words for 'form' beginning with nirṇik, varpas (Nirukta 3-7 [?]); so peśas means form; hence supeśāsā = śobhanarūpayukte — "endowed with beautiful form."

"Āsade" — ṣadḷ viśaraṇagatyavasādaneṣu: "to sit; to come and sit."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁵

नक्तोषसा (naktoṣasā) — "naktaṃ ca uṣāś ca": a dvandva compound; the dual au → ā ("supāṃ suluk...", Pā. 7-1-39 [?]); the m of naktaṃ is dropped, and the a of uṣas, as penultimate, lengthens, both by Vedic license; "devatādvandve ca" (Pā. 6-2-141 [?]) — in a dvandva of deity-words both members keep their natural accent together. सुपेशसा (supeśasā) — "śobhanaṃ peśo yayos te": the neuter peśas is initial-udātta by "nabviṣayasyānisantasya" (Phiṭ-sūtra 36 [?]); a bahuvrīhi would keep the first member's accent (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]), overridden by "nañsubhyām" (Pā. 6-2-172 [?]) giving final-udātta, overridden again by "ādyudāttaṃ dvyac chandasi" (Pā. 6-2-119 [?]) — as peśas is two-syllabled and initial-udātta, it stays initial-udātta. अस्मिन् (asmin) — the ending is udātta by "ūḍidam..." (Pā. 6-1-171 [?]). आसदे (āsade) — root ṣadḷ viśaraṇagatyavasādaneṣu; ṣ → s ("dhātuvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ," Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); "sampadādibhyaḥ kvip" (Pā. 3-3-108 vārttika 9 [?]): kvip after the root sad preceded by ā, in the sense of the action; sad is udātta by the root; ā + sad compound ("kugatiprādayaḥ," Pā. 2-2-18 [?]); the kṛdanta second member's accent by "gatikārapapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]); the dative singular ñe, unaccented, then svarita ("udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ," Pā. 8-4-66 [?]).

॥७॥

original p. 559

Sūkta 13, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ता सुजिह्वा उप ह्वये होतारा दैव्या कवी । यज्ञं नो यक्षतामिमम् ॥८॥

*tā sujihvā upa hvaye hotārā daivyaṁ kavī | yajñam no yakṣatām
imam || 8 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ता । सुजिह्वा । उप । ह्वये । होतारा । दैव्या । कवी इति ॥ यज्ञम् । नः । यक्षताम् । इमम् ॥ ८॥

*tā | su-jihvā | upa | hvaye | hotārā | daivyaṁ | kavī iti ||
yajñam | naḥ | yakṣatām | imam || 8 ||*

original pp. 560–563

Rik 8: Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya, word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics, grammar

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

छान्दसो ऽत्र सर्वनामत्वात्प्रसिद्धार्थवाची । ता तौ याजिकानां प्रसिद्धौ द्वावग्नी उपह्वये ।
आह्वयामि । नो ऽस्मदीयमिमं यज्ञं यक्षतां । तावुभौ यजतामनुतिष्ठतां । कीदृशौ । सुजिह्वौ
शोभनजिह्वोपेतौ । प्रियवचनौ शोभनज्वालौ वेत्यर्थः । होतारौ होमनिष्पादकौ दैव्या दैव्यौ देवसंबन्धिनौ । अत एवोमावग्नी दैव्यहोतृनामकौ । कवी मेधाविनौ ॥

*chāndaso 'tra sarvanāmatvāt prasiddhārtha-vācī | tā tau yājñikānāṃ prasiddhau dvāv agnī upahvaye | āhvayāmi | no
'smadīyam imam yajñam yakṣatām | tāv ubhau yajatām anutiṣṭhatām | kīdṛśau | sujihvau śobhana-jihvopetau | priya-vacanau śobhana-jvālau vety arthaḥ | hotārau homaniṣpādakau daivyaṁ daivyau deva-saṃbandhinau | ata evomāv
agnī daivya-hotṛ-nāmakau | kavī medhāvinau ||*

Translation: "[Tā is the Vedic dual of the pronoun, standing for something well known:] tā tau — those two fires, well known to the sacrificers — upa hvaye: I invoke. May they yakṣatām — perform, carry out — imam yajñam, this our sacrifice. What kind? Sujihvā — having good tongues; that is, of sweet speech, or of fine flames; hotārā — accomplishers of the homa; daivyā — belonging to the gods; hence the two fires bear the names Daivya and Hotṛ [Daivya-hotārā]; kavī — wise." ³⁶

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सुजिह्वा (sujihvā) — having excellent tongues, that is, speaking pleasant words or having fine flames | कवी (kavī) — wise | ता (tā) — those, well known in the rites of sacrifice | दैव्या (daivyā) — belonging to the gods | होतारा (hotārā) — accomplishers of the homa | ³⁷ उप हव्ये (upa hvaye) — I invoke (near me) | नः (naḥ) — our (i.e., that we perform) | इमं यज्ञम् (imaṃ yajñam) — this sacrifice | यक्षताम् (yakṣatām) — may they perform.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The two named Daivya and Hotṛ (special forms of Agni) are gods; they speak pleasant words (or are brightly flaming); they are very wise, and accomplish the hotṛ work. I call such two divine hotṛs; may they come here and take the hotṛ seat and carry out the sacrifice we perform.

॥ English Translation ॥

I invoke those Daivya and Hotara, those two divine hotries who are good-tongued and wise. May they perform this our sacrifice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

On the words daivyā hotārā, Yāska's explanation:

दैव्या होतारा दैव्यौ होतारावयं चाङ्गिरसौ च मध्यमः ॥ daivyā hotārā daivyaau hotārāv ayaṃ cāṅgirasau ca madhyamaḥ || (Nirukta 8-?? [?])

36. Grammar noted briefly below.

37. the two fire-forms called Daivya-hotārā

— that is, this points to Agni. Since Agni invokes the gods, he stands in the middle between gods and men; and the source gives an example:

दैव्या होतारा प्रथमा सुवाचा मिमाना यज्ञं मनुषो यजध्वै । प्रचोदयन्ता विदथेषु कारू प्राचीनं
ज्योतिः प्रदिशा दिशन्ता ॥ daivya hotārā prathamā suvācā mimānā
yajñam manuṣo yajadhyai | pracodayantā vidatheṣu kārū
prācīnam jyotiḥ pradiśā diśantā | | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-110-7 [?]; printed "१०-११०-७") ("The two divine invokers, first, of fair speech, fashioning the sacrifice for man to worship, urging on at the gatherings, the two poets, showing in all directions the eastern light." — my gloss, tentative.)

For this, Durgācārya's commentary: "yāv etau daivya hotārau | deveṣu bhavau daivya | devāv eva daivya | svārthe eva taddhitaḥ | manuṣyāhotārāv apekṣya | daivya hotārā hotṛ-maitrāvaruṇau iti viśeṣaṇam | hotārau hotārāv āhvātārau devānām vāyv-agnī | prathamā prathamau mukhya manuṣya-hotārāv apekṣya | suvācā suvācau praśasta-vācau suṣṭutau | mimānā yajñam yajña-nirmātārau nityam | manuṣaḥ manuṣyasya yajadhyai yajanāya | pracodayantā pracodayamānau | vidatheṣu yajñeṣu | kārū kartārau." The chief idea: among the gods, Agni and Vāyu are known as hotṛs; among men, the priests Hotṛ and Maitrāvaruṇa are hotṛs. Agni (or Agni and Vāyu) stand in the middle between gods and men and make a connection with them; so Agni is called "middle." The names daivya hotārā occur not only in the Āpri-sūktas but also in

त्वष्टारं वायुमृभवो य ओहते दैव्या होतारा उषसं स्वस्तये । tvaṣṭāraṃ vāyum ṛbhavo ya ohate daivya hotārā uṣasam svastaye | (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-65-10 [?]; printed "१०-६५-१०") (A best reading of compressed print; no gloss offered.)

दैव्या होतारा प्रथमा पुरोहित ऋतस्य पन्थामन्वेमि साधुया ॥ daivya hotārā
prathamā purohitā ṛtasya panthām anv emi sādhuayā || (R̥gveda Saṃhitā 10-66-13 [?]; printed "१०-६६-१३") ("I follow, in a straight way, the path of order, the two first divine invokers, the two house-priests." — my gloss, tentative.)

These two riks alone have them [in non-Āpri contexts]. In R̥gveda Saṃhitā 6-?-1 [?] the word jātavedasā is used of them, and in 10-? [?] purohitau. Since the words mimānā yajñam manuṣo yajadhyai, yajñeṣu mānuṣeṣu kārū, pracodayantā vidatheṣu kārū in these riks say that these deities carry out or urge on the sacrifices that men perform, calling them purohitas is natural. Among the deities, the hotṛs are Agni and Vāyu; among men the hotṛ is the helper-priest called Maitrāvaruṇa, and these are called hotṛs. This Maitrāvaruṇa directs the other priests, by praiṣa mantras, to carry out their duties. In the Yajurveda (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 6-1-?) it is said, "the Maitrāvaruṇa assigns speech to the [other priests] in front."

"Sujihvā" — śobhanā jihvā yayos tau: "of beautiful tongues": śobhana-jihvopetau, priyavacanau, śobhana-jvālau vā: "with good tongues, of sweet speech, or of beautiful flames." Speaking of Agni, the sense is "with beautiful flames."

"Yakṣatām" — yajatām: "may they sacrifice," i.e., carry out the sacrifice.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ³⁸

त (tā) — "tau": tad + dual au → auṭ; "supāṃ suluk..." (Pā. 7-1-39 [?]) gives ā; "tyadādīnām aḥ" (Pā. 7-2-102 [?]): d → a; "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) pararūpa; savarṇadīrgha; the single substitute is udātta ("ekādeśa udāddenodāttaḥ," Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). सुजिह्वा (sujihvā) — "śobhanā jihvā yayos tau": jihvā is irregularly formed with van by "śevayahvajihvāgrīvāpvmīvāḥ" (Uṇ. 1-154

[?]) from liha āsvādane, $l \rightarrow j$ and the loss of guṇa; initial-udātta; in the bahuvrīhi the first member's accent would stand (Pā. 6-2-1 [?]), overridden by "nañsubhyām" (Pā. 6-2-172 [?]) giving final-udātta to jihvā; the dual $au \rightarrow auṭ$, with vrddhi of the $a + o$ ("vrddhir eci," Pā. 6-1-85 [?]) barred, but by the maxim "ekādeśa udāttēnodāttaḥ" the resulting $\bar{a}$ [print: "ō" from vrddhi] is udātta; in Saṃhitā sujihvā + upa, "eco 'yavāyāvaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-78 [?]) gives $\bar{a}v$; "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) drops the v ; guṇa is barred by pūrvatrāsiddham (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]). होतार (hotārā) — root hu dānādanayoḥ, ṭṛn ("nvul-ṭṛcau," Pā. 3-1-133 [?]); laghūpadha-guṇa; the dual $au \rightarrow \bar{a}$; "ṛto jisarvanāmasthānayoḥ" (Pā. 7-3-110 [?]) guṇa of the r with raparatva; "āp ṭṛn-ṭṛc..." (Pā. 6-4-11 [?]) lengthens the penultimate; initial-udātta. दैव्या (daivya) — deva from divu with ac ("nandigrahipacādibhyo...", Pā. 3-1-134 [?]), final-udātta by cit; "devād yañ ñau" [print: "devād yaj ñau" (Pā. 4-1-85 vārttika 3 [?])]: yañ after deva in the senses of the prāgdīvyatīya group, here "devasya imau"; taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ (Pā. 7-2-117 [?]) gives vrddhi; "ñniti" gives initial-udātta ("ñnityādir nityam," Pā. 6-1-197 [?]); yasyeti ca drops the a of deva before ya: daivya; the dual as before. यक्षताम् (yakṣatām) — root yaja devapūjāyām; loṭ third dual tām; "loṭo lañvat" (Pā. 3-4-85 [?]); "tasthasthamipāṃ tāmṭamṭāmāḥ" (Pā. 3-4-101 [?]); sip — sim-bahulaṃ leṭi (Pā. 3-1-34 [?]) with bahulagrahaṇa gives sip even though the śap-vikaraṇa; yaj + s + a + tām: "coḥ kuḥ" (Pā. 8-2-30 [?]) $j \rightarrow g$; "khari ca" (Pā. 8-4-55 [?]) $g \rightarrow k$; "ādeśapratyayayoḥ" (Pā. 8-3-59 [?]) $s \rightarrow ṣ$: yakṣatām; wholly unaccented ("tiñ atīṇaḥ," Pā. 8-1-28 [?]).

॥८॥

original p. 564

Sūkta 13, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इळा सरस्वती मही तिस्रो देवीर्मयोभुवः । बर्हिः सीदन्त्वसिधः ॥९॥

*ilā sarasvatī mahī tisro devīr mayobhuvah | barhiḥ sīdantv
asridhaḥ || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इळा । सरस्वती । मही । तिस्रः । देवीः । मयःऽभुवः ॥ बर्हिः । सीदन्तु । असिधः ॥९॥

*ilā | sarasvatī | mahī | tisrah | devīḥ | mayah-bhuvah | |
barhiḥ | sīdantu | asridhaḥ || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अत्र महीशब्दो महत्त्वगुणयुक्तां भारतीं वाचष्टे । अन्यैर्हि आप्रीसूक्तेषु सदैवैश्चिळा सरस्वती
भारतीत्याम्नातत्वात् । इळादिशब्दाभिधेया वह्निमूर्तयस्तिस्त्रो देवीर्दीप्यमाना बर्हिर्वेद्यामास्तीर्ण
सीदन्तु । प्राप्नुवन्तु । कीदृश्यः । मयोभुवः सुखोत्पादिका असिधः शोषणेन क्षयेन वा रहिताः
॥ इळा । ईड स्तुतौ । छान्दसो डस्य ळत्वम् । क्विप् । धातुस्वरः । टापं चापि हलन्तानां यथा
वाचा दिशा निशेति टाप् । सरस्वती । सरोस्यसुनन्तो नित्वाद्यादयुदात्तः । तदस्यास्तीति मतुप्
। आदुपधत्वाद्वत्त्वम् । तसौ मत्वर्थ इति भत्वेन पदत्वस्य बाधितत्वाद्वत्वाद्यभावः । उगितश्चेति डीप् । मतुब्डीपौ पित्वादनुदात्तौ । मही । महतीशब्दे तकारलोपश्छान्दसः । यस्येति चेत्यकार-
लोपः । उदात्तनिवृत्तिस्वरेण डीप उदात्तत्वम् । तिस्रः । त्रिशब्दाज्जसि त्रिचतुरोः स्त्रियां
तिसृचतसृ । पा. ७-२-९९ । इति तिसृ-आदेशः । अचि र ऋतः । पा. ७-२-१०० । इति
रेफादेशः । तिसृभ्यो जसः । पा. ६-१-१६६ । इति जस उदात्तत्वम् । देवीः । देवानां पत्न्यो
देव्यः पुंयोगादाख्यायामिति डीष् । यस्येति चेत्यकार लोपः । प्रत्ययस्वरेण डीष उदात्तत्वम् ।
जसि दीर्घाज्जसि च । पा. ६-१-१०५ । इति निषिद्धं दीर्घत्वम् । वा छन्दसीति पक्षे दीर्घत्वं
जायते । मयोभुवः । मीञ् हिंसायाम् । हिनस्ति दुःखमिति सुखं मयः । तद्भावयन्तीति मयोभुवः
। अन्तर्भावितण्यर्थाद्भवेः क्विप् । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । बर्हिः । बृंहर्नलोपश्चेति सि
प्रत्ययः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । सीदन्तु । षद्लृ विशरणादौ । पाप्नेत्यादिना सीदादेशः । असिधः ।
सिधेर्हिसार्थस्य शोषणार्थस्य वा सम्पदादिभ्यो भावे क्विपि नञ् । बहुव्रीहिः । पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरं बाधित्वा नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वं ॥

atra mahī-śabdō mahattva-guṇa-yuktām bhāratīm vācaṣṭe | anyair hi āpri-sūkṭeṣu sad-vaiśvā ilā sarasvatī bhāratīḥ āmnātatvāt | ilādi-śabdābhidheyā vahni-mūrtayas tisro devīr dīpyamānā barhir vedyām āstīrṇaṁ sīdantu | prāpnvantu |

kīdrśyaḥ | mayobhuvaḥ sukhotpādikā asridhaḥ śoṣaṇena
kṣayena vā rahitāḥ | | iḷā | iḍa stutau | chāndaso ḍasya
ḷatvam | kvip | dhātu-svaraḥ | ṭāpaṃ cāpi halantānām yathā
vācā diśā niśeti ṭāp | sarasvatī | saro 'sy asunanto nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | tad asyāstīti matup | ādupadhatvād vattvam | tasau matvartha iti bhatvena padatvasya bādhitatvād rutvādy abhāvaḥ | ugitaś ceti nīp | matub-nīpau pīttvād anudāttau |
mahī | mahatī-śabde takāra-lopaś chāndasaḥ | yasyeti ca ity
akāra-lopaḥ | udātta-nivṛtti-svareṇa nīpa udāttatvam | tisraḥ
| tri-śabdāj jasi tricaturōḥ striyām tīsṛcatasṛ | pā. 7-2-99 | iti
tisṛ-ādeśaḥ | aci ra ṛtaḥ | pā. 7-2-100 | iti rephādeśaḥ |
tisṛbhyo jasaḥ | pā. 6-1-166 | iti jasa udāttatvam | devīḥ |
devānām patnyo devyaḥ puṃyogād ākhyāyām iti nīṣ | ...
mayobhuvaḥ | mīñ hiṃsāyām | hinasti duḥkham iti sukhaṃ
mayāḥ | tad bhāvayantīti mayobhuvaḥ | antarbhāvitaṇyarthād bhavēḥ kvip | kṛd-uttara-pada-prakṛti-svaratvam |
barhiḥ | bṛmher nalopaś ceti si pratyayaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ |
sīdantu | ṣadḷ viśaraṇāḍau | pāghretyādinā sīdādeśaḥ |
asridhaḥ | sridher hiṃsārthasya śoṣaṇārthasya vā
sampadādibhyo bhāve kvipi nañ | bahuvrīhiḥ | pūrvapadaprakṛti-svaram bādhitvā nañsubhyām ity uttarapadāntodāttatvam | |

Translation: "Here the word mahī denotes Bhāratī, endowed with the quality of greatness; for in other Āpri-sūktas the triple Iḷā, Sarasvatī, Bhāratī is recited. The three shining Fire-forms denoted by the words Iḷā and the rest, tisro devīḥ, sīdantu: may sit, may take their seat, on the barhis spread on the altar. What are they like? Mayobhuvaḥ — producing happiness; asridhaḥ — free of drying up or of decay." ^{39 40}

Rik 9: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

मयोभुवः (mayobhuvah) — giving happiness | असिधः (asridhah) — not cruel, or doing no harm | इळा (ilā) — the goddess named Iḷā | सरस्वती (sarasvatī) — the goddess Sarasvatī | मही (mahī) — the goddess [named Bhāratī] endowed with the quality of greatness | तिस्रः देवीः (tisraḥ devīḥ) — these three goddesses, forms of Agni, shining, called by the words Iḷā and the rest | बर्हिः (barhiḥ) — the darbha spread on the altar as a seat | सीदन्तु (sīdantu) — may they sit (that is, may they come and sit on the darbha).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

May the three goddesses Iḷā, Sarasvatī and Bhāratī (Mahī) — who are forms of Agni, shine brilliantly, give happiness to all, and harm none — come to the darbha spread on the sacrificial altar as a seat and sit upon it.

॥ English Translation ॥

May Ila, Saraswati, Mahi (Bharati), the three comfort-giving and unhurting goddesses sit on the sacrificial grass.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

-
39. Grammar noted briefly: iḷā from īḷ with the Vedic ḷ and kvip; sarasvatī from saras with matup and ñip; mahī with the Vedic loss of the t of mahatī; tisraḥ from tri with tisr (Pā. 7-2-99 [?]) and r for r (Pā. 7-2-100 [?]), the ending udātta by Pā. 6-1-166 [?]; devīḥ with ñīṣ; mayobhuvah — 'that which makes happiness be,' with kvip from bhū with the causative inside; sīdantu with sīd for sad (Pā. 7-3-78 [?]); asridh 'without drying up' with nañ.
40. Some Sanskrit is compressed.

On the subject of tisro devīḥ, Yāska says only "tisro devīḥ | tisro devīs tisro devyaḥ |" (Nirukta 8-?? [?]), and, for an example, quotes the rik

आ नो यज्ञं भारती तूयमेत्विळा मनुष्वदिह चेतयन्ती । तिस्रो देवीर्बहिरेदं स्योनं सरस्वती स्वपसः सदन्तु ॥ *ā no yajñam bhāratī tūyam etv iḷā manuṣvad iha cetayantī | tisro devīr barhir edam syonam sarasvatī svapasah
sadantu |* (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-110-8 [?]; printed "१०-११०-८") ("May Bhāratī come quickly to our sacrifice, and Iḷā, awakening [us] here like Manu; may the three goddesses, with Sarasvatī, skilful workers, sit on this pleasant barhis." — my gloss, tentative.)

and explains: "*aitu no yajñam bhāratī kṣipram | bharate ādityas
tasya bhā | iḷā ca manuṣvad iha cetayamānā | tisro devyo barhir idam sukham sarasvatī ca sarvāṇi āsīdantu*" (Nirukta 8-?? [?]), that is: "may Bhāratī, 'the light of Āditya, who bears [the world],' come quickly to our sacrifice; and Iḷā, awakening here like Manu; may the three goddesses, and Sarasvatī, sit on this pleasant barhis." ⁴¹

⁴²

original pp. 566–568

41. The Kannada explanation of Yāska's gloss continues on p. 566, to be taken up with the next batch.

42. The Kannada explanation of Yāska's gloss on p. 566:)

"Bhāratī" — bharata is one of the twelve

Ādityas; bhā means the lustre of the Āditya; hence bhāratī is the light of the sun, or the fire shining in the orb of the sun. "Iḷā" — iḷā means the earth.

Manuṣvat cetayantī — having the power to urge as men do: she makes the people on earth take up food and other nourishment, and gives wealth; so the iḷā-deity is a special form of Agni who dwells in the earth-region. "Sarasvatī" — since she is the presiding deity of the lightning in the atmosphere, Sarasvatī is said to be the form of Agni who dwells in the atmosphere. Hence it is customary to say that the three goddesses Iḷā, Sarasvatī, Bhāratī are three forms of the fire that is in heaven, atmosphere and earth.

(The source refers the reader to its pages 64–69 [sic: "६४–६९ನೇ ಪೇಜು"] for further treatment.

Rik 9: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

"Mahī" — the Bhāṣyakāra says: mahī-śabdo mahattva-guṇa-yuktām bhāratīm vācaṣṭe, anyair hi āpri-sūkṭeṣu sad-vaiśvā ṭlā sarasvatī bhāratīy āmnātatvāt [as in the bhāṣya above]: the word mahī in this rik means bhāratī, endowed with the quality of greatness; for in the Āpri-sūktas elsewhere the three are plainly named ṭlā, Sarasvatī, Bhāratī; here only two names are given and, in the place of the third, mahī — so one may easily infer that mahī denotes Bhāratī. Some Western scholars hold that mahī denotes a separate deity; that is not right; mahī was probably used in place of bhāratī for the convenience of the meter.

"Barhiḥ sīdantu" — vedyām āstīrṇaṃ prāpnuvantu — "let them reach the darbha spread out as a seat," i.e., let them sit on the seat made of darbha.

"ṭlā, sarasvatī, mahī" — ṭlā stutau; saraḥ asyāstīti; mahī mahatī, takāra-lopaś chandasi — since she is praised she is ṭlā; since she has saras (water) she is sarasvatī; the t of mahatī falls away in the metre, so mahī: thus the sense of the parts is established.

"Devīḥ" — devānāṃ patnyo devyaḥ | tāḥ | athavā devīr dīpyamānāḥ: "wives of the gods, or shining ones": they are devīḥ because they are wives of the gods or because they shine.

"Mayobhuvah" — mīñ hiṃsāyām; hinasti duḥkham iti sukhaṃ mayah | tad bhāvayantīti mayobhuvah: mī is "to injure"; that which destroys sorrow is happiness (mayas); those who produce it are mayobhuvah: "makers of happiness."

"Asridhaḥ" — sridher hiṃsārthasya śoṣaṇārthasya vā bhāve kvip; śoṣeṇa kṣayeṇa vā rahitāḥ: "without drying up, without decay" — those who have no sridh, i.e., not cruel, not given to harm; asridhaḥ — free of destruction.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴³

इळा (ilā) — root īḍa stutau; the long ī is shortened by Vedic license; kvīp ("kvīp ca," Pā. 3-2-76 [?]), dropped; accent of the root; ḍ → ḷ in the Veda ("dvayor ḍalayor aikyam smaryate" [print compressed]); the feminine ṭāp after a consonant-ending stem ("ajādyataṣṭāp," Pā. 4-1-4 [?]) with the statement ṭāp ca api halantānām yathā vācā niśā diśā. सरस्वती (sarasvatī) — root sṛ gatau with asun ("sarvadhātubhyo 'sun," Uṇ. 4-188 [?]); guṇa, raparatva: saras; initial-udātta, nit; "saras asyāsti": matup ("tad asyāsty asminn iti matup," Pā. 5-2-94 [?]); "mādupadhāyāś ca matorvo 'yavādibhyaḥ" (Pā. 8-2-9 [?]) turns the m of matup into v after a stem with a as the penultimate; "tasau matvarthe" (Pā. 1-4-19 [?]) gives bha status, blocking pada-status, so the ru-rule ("sasajuṣo ruḥ," Pā. 8-2-66 [?]) and the like do not apply; "ugitāś ca" (Pā. 4-1-6 [?]) gives nīp; both matup and nīp are pīṭ and unaccented. मही (mahī) — the t of mahatī is dropped by Vedic license, and the a after h by "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]); the ī is udātta by "anudāttasya ca yatrodāttalopaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-161 [?]). तिस्रः (tisrah) — "tricituroḥ striyām tisṛcatasṛ" (Pā. 7-2-99 [?]): tisṛ replaces tri in the feminine before a suffix beginning with a vowel [when the sense is feminine]; "tisṛ" + jas; "ṛto nīsarvanāmasthānayoḥ" (Pā. 7-3-110 [?]) would give guṇa, barred by "aci ra ṛtaḥ" (Pā. 7-2-100 [?]) which gives r before a vowel-initial ending; ru, visarga: tisrah; "tisṛbhyo jasaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-166 [?]): jas after tisṛ is udātta. देवी (devīḥ) — "devānām patnyaḥ": the feminine of a word formed on the husband's name, "pumyogād ākhyāyām" (Pā. 4-1-48 [?]): nīṣ; the a dropped; jas; the pūrvasavarṇa lengthening optional by "vā chandasi" (Pā. 6-1-106 [?]). मयोभुवः (mayobhuvah) — "mīñ hiṃsāyām" (kṛyādi): mī + asun ("sarvadhātubhyo 'sun," Uṇ. 4-188 [?]); guṇa, ay: mayas; mayas means "happiness"; "mayo bhāvayanti" — root bhū with the causative sense inside, kvīp ("kvīp ca," Pā. 3-2-76 [?]); "aci śnudhātubhruvām yvoriyaṇuvaṇau" (Pā. 6-4-77 [?]) gives uv;

mayas + bhū: ru, u and guṇa (Pā. 6-1-113 [?]); "gati-kāra-kopapadāt kṛt" (Pā. 6-2-139 [?]) gives the accent of the kṛdanta second member, final-udātta: mayobhūḥ; nominative plural mayobhuvāḥ.

॥९॥

original p. 569

Rik 9 grammar closes; Sūkta 13, Rik 10

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

बर्हिः (barhiḥ) — root br̥ha br̥hi vṛddhau, idit, so num ("idito num dhātoḥ," Pā. 7-1-58 [?]); "br̥mher nalopas ca" (Uṇ. 3-146 [?]) gives isi and loss of the n; laghūpadha-guṇa; the suffix accent, final-udātta. सीदन्तु (sīdantu) — root ṣadḥ viśaraṇagatyavasādanaṣu; ṣ → s ("dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ," Pā. 6-1-64 [?]); loṭ third plural jhi → jh → ant ("jho 'ntaḥ," Pā. 7-1-3 [?]); u for i of loṭ ("eruḥ," Pā. 3-4-86 [?]); śap; sad + a + antu: "pāghrādhmā..." (Pā. 7-3-78 [?]) gives sīda; sīdantu; wholly unaccented ("tiṇ atinaḥ," Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). अस्रिधः (asridhaḥ) — root sridh in the sense of harm or drying up; kvip in the action sense by "sampadādibhyaḥ kvip" (Pā. 3-3-108 vārttika [?]); "na vidyate sridh yāsām tāḥ asridhaḥ": a bahuvrīhi with nañ; the first member's accent would stand ("bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]), overridden by "nañsubhyām" (Pā. 6-2-172 [?]), which gives final-udātta to the member after nañ.

॥९॥

original p. 569

Sūkta 13, Rik 10

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इह त्वष्टारमग्रियं विश्वरूपमुप ह्वये । अस्माकमस्तु केवलः ॥१०॥

*iha tvaṣṭāram agriyaṃ viśvarūpam upa hvaye | asmākam
astu kevalaḥ || 10 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इह । त्वष्टारम् । अग्रियम् । विश्वऽरूपम् । उप । ह्वये ॥ अस्माकम् । अस्तु । केवलः ॥१०॥

*iha | tvaṣṭāram | agriyam | viśva-rūpam | upa | hvaye | |
asmākam | astu | kevalaḥ || 10 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

पत्नीसंयाजे त्वष्टुः पुरोनुवाक्येह त्वष्टारमग्रियमिति । शं युवाकाय संप्रेषिते इति खण्डे सूत्रितम् । सं ते पयांसि समु यन्तु वाजा इह त्वष्टारमग्रियम् । आ. १-१० । इति ॥

*patnīsaṃyāje tvaṣṭuḥ puronuvākyehe tvaṣṭāram agriyam iti |
śaṃ yuvākāya saṃpreṣite iti khaṇḍe sūtritam | saṃ te payāṃsi sam u yantu vājā iha tvaṣṭāram agriyam | ā. 1-10 | iti
||*

त्वष्टारं त्वष्टृनामकमग्निमिह कर्मण्युपह्वये । कीदृशम् । अग्रियं श्रेष्ठं विश्वरूपं बहुविधरूपोपेतं । सो ऽस्माकं केवलो ऽसाधारणो ऽस्तु । इतरयजमानेभ्यो ऽस्यधिकमनुग्रहं करोत्वित्यर्थः ॥ त्वष्टारम् । तक्षू त्वक्षू तनूकरणे । तृन् । स्वरतिसूतीत्यादिना । पा. ७-२-४४ । इति वेद [reading uncertain] ... अग्रियम् । अग्रादित्यन्तप्रादित्यादिभ्यो घच्च । पा. ४-४-११६ । ... विश्वरूपम् । विश्वानि रूपाणि त्वष्टृस्थन्नेन यस्य । ... अस्माकम् । ... केवलः । वृषादेराकृतिगणत्वादाद्युदात्तः ॥

*tvaṣṭāram tvaṣṭr-nāmakam agnim iha karmaṇy upahvaye |
kīdrśam | agriyaṃ śreṣṭhaṃ viśvarūpaṃ bahavidharūpopetaṃ | so 'smākam kevalo 'sādhāraṇo 'stu | itarayajamānebhya 'py adhikam anugrahaṃ karotv ity arthaḥ | |
tvaṣṭāram | takṣū tvakṣū tanūkaraṇe | tṛn | svaratisūtīty-
ādinā | pā. 7-2-44 | iti vet [reading uncertain] ... agriyam |
agrād ity anta-prādity-ādibhya ghac ca | pā. 4-4-116 | ...
viśvarūpam | viśvāni rūpāṇi tvaṣṭr-sthannena yasya | ...
asmākam | ... kevalaḥ | vṛṣāder ākṛtiganatvād ādyudāttaḥ | |*

Translation: "In the patnīsaṃyāja, this is Tvaṣṭṛ's puronuvākya: iha tvaṣṭāram agriyam. It is laid down in the section 'saṃ te payāṃsi sam u yantu vājā, iha tvaṣṭāram agriyam' (Āśvalāyana 1-10). I invoke here, in this rite, tvaṣṭāram — the fire named Tvaṣṭṛ. What kind? Agriyam — the foremost; viśvarūpam — endowed with forms of many kinds. May he be asmākam kevalaḥ — ours alone: that is, may he grant us more favour than to other sacrificers." ^{44 45}

original pp. 570–571

Rik 10: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अग्रियम् (agriyam) — the foremost | विश्वरूपम् (viśvarūpam) — having forms of many kinds | त्वष्टारम् (tvaṣṭāram) — the deity named Tvaṣṭṛ (a special form of Agni) | इह (iha) — in this sacrifice | उप ह्वये (upa hvaye) — I invoke | ⁴⁶ अस्माकम् (asmākam) — to us (in our regard) | केवलः (kevalaḥ) — [being] uniquely, very attached | अस्तु (astu) — may he be.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The deity named Tvaṣṭṛ is the foremost among the gods. He has many kinds of forms (shapes), and is the maker of things. I call such a deity to this sacrifice. May he be exceedingly kind to us.

॥ English Translation ॥

44. Grammar noted briefly: tvaṣṭṛ from takṣū/tvakṣū tanūkarāṇe with tṛn; agriya is formed with gha (Pā. 4-4-116 [?]); viśvarūpa is a bahuvrīhi; kevala is initial-udātta as a member of the vṛṣādi class.

45. The grammar in the Sanskrit is compressed in the scan.

46. that Tvaṣṭṛ

I invoke Twashtir, the foremost and the multi-form here. May he be solely ours.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The application of this mantra: in the homa called patnīsaṃyāja in the sacrifice, the rik iha tvaṣṭāram agriyam is used as the puronuvākya mantra. In the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra (1-10), in the section śaṃ yuvākāya saṃpreṣite, it is said that the riks saṃ te payāṃsi sam u yantu vājā and iha tvaṣṭāram agriyam (Ṛg. Saṃ. 1-13-10) are to be used as yājyā and puronuvākya mantras. Yāska's explanation:

त्वष्टा । त्वष्टा तूर्णमश्नुत इति नैरुक्ताः । त्विषेर्वा स्याद्दीप्तिकर्मणस्त्वक्षतेर्वा
स्यात्करोतिकर्मणः ॥ माध्यमिकस्त्वष्टेत्याहुर्मध्यमे च स्थाने समाम्नातः । अग्निरिति
शाकपूणिः ॥ (नि. ८-१४) tvaṣṭā | tvaṣṭā tūrṇam aśnuta iti nairuktāḥ
| tviṣer vā syād dīpti-karmaṇas tvakṣater vā syāt karotikarmaṇaḥ || mādhyaṃikas tvaṣṭety āhur madhyame ca
sthāne samāmnātaḥ | agnir iti śākapūṇiḥ || (ni. 8-14)

That is: "Tvaṣṭā" — the etymologists say it is one who quickly pervades; or from tviṣ, a root of shining; or from tvakṣ, a root of making. Some say he is mādhyaṃika ("of the middle region"), i.e., one who stands between heaven and earth. Śākapūṇi says he is Agni.

Some say that Tvaṣṭr, like Viśvakarman, is the craftsman of the gods; for, in the rik Yāska cites as an example,

य इमे द्यावापृथिवी जनित्री रूपैरपिंशद्भुवनानि विश्वा । तमद्य होतरिषितो यजीयान्देवं त्वष्टारमिह यक्षि विद्वान् ॥ ya ime dyāvāpṛthivī janitrī rūpair apimśad bhuvanāni iśvā | tam adya hotar iṣito yajīyān devaṃ tvaṣṭāram iha yakṣi vidvān || (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-110-9 [?]; printed "१०-११०-९") ("He who with forms adorned these two, heaven and earth, the begetters, and all the worlds — that god Tvaṣṭr, O hotr, impelled today, most diligent, knowing, here sacrifice to." — my gloss, tentative.)

it is said that Tvaṣṭṛ is the maker of heaven and earth, and the cause of the forms suited to the beings in all the worlds — of their beauty, wisdom and growth. Besides, the Yajurveda says: "tvaṣṭā vai paśūnām mithunānām rūpakṛt" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 6-1-?-? [?]) — "Tvaṣṭṛ is the maker of the forms of animals in pairs"; "tvaṣṭā rūpāṇām adhipatiḥ" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 3-?-? [?]); "tvaṣṭā rūpāṇi vikaroti" — these Yajurveda sentences point to Tvaṣṭṛ's skill in making things. And:

मह्यं त्वष्टा वज्रमतक्षदायसं मयि देवासो ऽवृजन्नपि क्रतुम् ॥ mahyam tvaṣṭā vajram atakṣad āyasaṃ mayi devāso 'vrjann api kratum ||
(Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 10-48-3 [?]; printed "१०-४८-३") ("For me Tvaṣṭṛ fashioned the iron thunderbolt; in me the gods have set resolve." — my gloss, tentative; this verse was also cited under Sūkta 7, Rik 3.)

Indra says that Tvaṣṭṛ fashioned for him with his own hands the thunderbolt-weapon. That Tvaṣṭṛ makes the sacrificial materials required by the gods, and many other things, is stated in many mantras of the Ṛgveda.

original pp. 572–575

Rik 10: Special Topics (continued) and grammar

⁴⁷ Tvaṣṭṛ is well known as one of the twelve Ādityas; hence Yāska explains the word as "the shining one." "Agriyam" — foremost; chief; excellent. "Viśvarūpam" — viśvāni rūpāṇi tvaṣṭṛtvena yasya: "he who, as the maker, has all forms": since he is the cause (maker) of many forms, he is called viśvarūpa. "Asmākam astu kevalaḥ" — this third quarter of the rik, asmākam astu kevalaḥ, is found also in Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 1-7-10 [?], where it refers to Indra; the idea is "may he be our chief benefactor."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁴⁸

47. Continuing the Special Topics, p. 572:

त्वष्टारम् (tvaṣṭāram) — root takṣū tvakṣū tanūkarāṇe; tr̥n, the root being ūdit; "svaratisūtisūyatidhūñūdito vā" (Pā. 7-2-44 [?]) makes the augment iṭ optional; in the case without iṭ, tvakṣ + tr̥: "skoḥ saṃyogādyor ante ca" (Pā. 8-2-29 [?]) would drop the k at the end of a word or before a consonant; since here the kṣ is a conjunct at the end of a pada... the source says that for the final k dropping is inappropriate, and that "jhalo jhali" (Pā. 8-2-26 [?]) drops s in a conjunct after a jhal-letter: so k is dropped, tvaṣ + tr̥; "ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ" (Pā. 8-4-41 [?]) turns t → ṭ: tvaṣṭr̥. The accusative singular am; "ṛto ṇisarvanāmasthānayoḥ" (Pā. 7-3-110 [?]) guṇa; "uraṇ raparaḥ" (Pā. 1-1-51 [?]); "āp tr̥n tr̥c..." (Pā. 6-4-11 [?]) lengthens the penultimate: tvaṣṭāram; tr̥n is nīṭ, so initial-udātta. अग्रियम् (agriyam) — "ghacchau ca" (Pā. 4-4-117 [?]) with "agrād yat" (Pā. 4-4-116 [?]) carried over: after agra in the sense "that is in it," gha and cha arise; gha → iya by "āyaneyīnīyiaḥ phaḍhakhachaghām pratyayādīnām" (Pā. 7-1-2 [?]); agra + iya; "yasyeti ca" (Pā. 6-4-148 [?]) drops the a: agriya; the source argues at length (pp. 572–574) that the replacements iya, etc., are bahiraṅga or antaraṅga with respect to the accent rule "ādyudāttaś ca" (Pā. 3-1-3 [?]), concluding by the paribhāṣā "asiddham bahiraṅgam antaraṅge" that the antaraṅga accent is considered first — so the iya replacement is made when the suffix is introduced, and then "cītaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-163 [?]) gives the iya its final-udātta; the source observes that the cīṭ-marker would be pointless otherwise (vyartham san kiṃcid artham jñāpayati) and adds Vārttika "ayanādi-ādeṣeṣu śiṣyavad-vacanam svāra-siddhy-artham" (Pā. 7-1-2 vārttika [?]); hence agriya is final-udātta. विश्वरूपम् (viśvarūpam) — "viśvāni rūpāni tvaṣṭr̥-utpannatvena yasya": a bahuvrīhi; "tvaṣṭā vai paśūnām mithunānām rūpakṛt" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 6-1-?-? [?]) confirms the sense; viśva is formed with kvan, initial-udātta; the first member's accent would stand ("bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam," Pā. 6-2-1 [?]), overridden by

48. grammar pages 572–575, noted briefly; the scholastic discussions on pp. 572–575 are outlined only

"bahuvrīhau viśvaṃ saṃjñāyām" (Pā. 6-2-106 [?]), which makes viśva final-udātta when the compound is a name. अस्माकम् (asmākam) — root asu kṣepaṇe with madik, "yuṣyasibhyām madik" (Uṇ. 1-142 [?]): the suffix madik after yuṣ and as gives asmad; final-udātta by the suffix; ām of the genitive plural; "yoci" (Pā. 7-2-89 [?]) replacement of the yuṣmad/asmad ending by yā is considered and the source shows that "sāma ākam" (Pā. 7-1-33 [?]) — ākam in place of sām after yuṣmad/asmad — applies even to the ākam replacement after the yā (the sāmo 'kam rule is nitya, "nityatva"); "āmi sarvanāmnaḥ suṭ" (Pā. 7-1-52 [?]) adds suṭ, which is then sām, and the source discusses why it is stated as sasuṭka in the sūtra: so that suṭ is not blocked; the point settled is "śeṣe lopah" (Pā. 7-2-90 [?]) does not apply. केवलः (kevalaḥ) — a member of the vṛṣādi ākṛti-gaṇa, so initial-udātta by "vṛṣādīnām ca" (Pā. 6-1-203 [?]).

॥१०॥

original p. 575

Sūkta 13, Rik 11

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अव सृजा वनस्पते देव देवेभ्यो हविः । प्र दातुरस्तु चेतनम् ॥११॥

*ava sṛjā vanaspate deva devebhyo haviḥ | pra dātur astu
cetanam || 11 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अव । सृज । वनस्पते । देव । देवेभ्यः । हविः ॥ प्र । दातुः । अस्तु । चेतनम् ॥११॥

*ava | sṛja | vanaspate | deva | devebhyah | haviḥ || pra |
dātuḥ | astu | cetanam || 11 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे वनस्पते एतन्नामकाग्ने देव हविर्भुग्भ्यो देवेभ्यो ऽस्मदीयं हविरव सृज । समर्पयेत्यर्थः । प्र
दातुर्यजमानस्य चेतनं परलोकविषयं विज्ञानं त्वत्प्रसादादस्तु ॥ वनस्पते । आमन्त्रितनिघातः ।
देव । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । षाष्ठिकमामन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । हविः । इसः प्रत्ययस्वरः । दातुः
। ददातेस्तृच् । चित इत्यन्तोदात्तः । जसि ऋत उत् । पा. ६-१-१११ । इत्युत्वम् । एकादेशो
रपरत्वं च । राद्ध्वसस्य । पा. ८-२-२४ । इति सलोपः । एकादेशस्वरेणोकार उदात्तः । चेतनम्
। चिती संज्ञाने । करणे ल्युट् । योरनादेशः । लघूपधगुणः । लिती इति प्रत्ययात्पूर्वस्योदात्तत्वम् ॥

*he vanaspate etan-nāmakāgne deva havirbhugbhyo devebhyo
'smaḍīyaṃ havir ava sṛja | samarpayety arthaḥ | pra dātur yajamānasya cetanaṃ paraloka-viṣayaṃ vijñānaṃ tvat-prasādād astu | | vanaspate | āmantrita-nighātaḥ | deva |
pādādītīvān na nighātaḥ | ṣāṣṭhikam āmantritādyudāttatvam
| haviḥ | isaḥ pratyaya-svaraḥ | dātuḥ | dadāteṣ tṛc | cita ity antodāttaḥ | jasi ṛta ut | pā. 6-1-111 | ity utvam | ekādeśo raparatvaṃ ca | rāddhvasasya | pā. 8-2-24 | iti salopaḥ |
ekādeśa-svareṇokāra udāttaḥ | cetanam | citī saṃjñāne |
karaṇe lyuṭ | yor anādeśaḥ | laghūpadha-guṇaḥ | liti iti
pratyayāt pūrvasyodāttatvam | |*

Translation: "O vanaspate — O Agni bearing this name — O god!
Ava sṛja: release, i.e., convey, our oblation to the gods who eat oblations. May pra dātur astu cetanam — by your favour let there be, for the giver, the sacrificer, cetanam, knowledge concerning the world beyond." ⁴⁹

original pp. 576–577

49. Grammar noted briefly: vanaspate is a vocative;
deva stands at the head of the pāda and is not lowered;
haviḥ with isi; dātuḥ — tṛc with the genitive ending ut by Pā. 6-1-111 [?] and loss of s by Pā. 8-2-24 [?]; cetanam — root citī saṃjñāne with lyuṭ, initial-udātta.

Rik 11: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

देव (deva) — shining | वनस्पते (vanaspate) — O Agni, named Vanaspati | देवेभ्यः (devebhyaḥ) — to the gods | हविः (haviḥ) — the oblation that we have prepared | अव सृज (ava sṛja) — convey, offer | दातुः (dātuḥ) — to the sacrificer who gives the oblation to the gods | चेतनम् (cetanam) — excellent knowledge (concerning the other world) | अस्तु (astu) — [by your favour] may there be.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni, named Vanaspati! Convey the oblation we give to the gods, and, by your favour, let the sacrificer who gives the oblation have excellent knowledge.

॥ English Translation ॥

Present, divine Vanaspati, our oblation to the gods, and may true knowledge be the reward of the giver.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Vanaspate" — Yāska's explanation of the word vanaspate:

वनस्पते इत्येनमाह्वयति । एष हि वनानां पाता वा पालयिता वा । वनं वनोते ॥ (नि. ८-३)
vanaspate ity enam āhvayati | eṣa hi vanānām pātā vā pālayitā vā | vanaṃ vanoteḥ || (ni. 8-3) "Vanaspate — it calls upon him; for he is the protector, or the guardian, of woods; vana is from vanoti."

कत्कोः वनस्पतिः । यूप इति काठक्यः । अग्निरिति शाकपूणिः ॥ (नि. ८-१८ [?]) [the print reads: "ketuḥ vanaspatiḥ ..."; best reading] ... yūpa iti kāṭhakyah | agnir iti śākapūṇiḥ || "Vanaspati — Kāṭhakya says it is the sacrificial post; Śākapūṇi says it is Agni."

That is, Agni is called vanaspati, because Agni is the protector or guardian of woods; though Agni is within the tree, he does not burn it, so he is called its protector. Or because the vana (wood) is useful for sacrificial materials like the dāru, he is so called. Vanaspati means "king of trees," a large tree. Kāṭhākya's idea is that vanaspati is the trunk of the tree erected to tie the animal at the sacrifice [the yūpa]; Śākapūṇi's, that it is Agni.

To support Kāṭhākya's view Yāska cites a rik:

अञ्जन्ति त्वामध्वरे देवयन्तो वनस्पते मधुना दैव्येन ॥ añjanti tvām adhware devayanto vanaspate madhunā daivyena || (Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-8-1 [?]; printed "३-८-१") ("They anoint you, O Vanaspati, at the sacrifice, [those] desiring the gods, with divine honey." — my gloss, tentative.)

— that is: "O Vanaspati (yūpastambha), at the sacrifice the priests anoint you with ghee purified by mantras": addressing the sacrificial post to which the animal is tied. In the 3rd, 6th and 11th riks of the same sūkta vanaspati is likewise addressed as yūpastambha; and it is well known that the post is the deity of that sūkta. In the 11th rik of that sūkta — "vanaspate śatavalśo viroha sahasravalśā vi vyaṃ ruhema" — "O Vanaspati, grow with a hundred shoots, with a thousand shoots may we grow" — the sense is applied to the tree of which the post is made. In Ṛgveda 10-? "vanaspate raśanayā niyūya" — "O Vanaspati, bind with a rope" — confirms the sense of yūpastambha for vanaspati. So vanaspati means the sacrificial post; the sense "Agni" is indirect.

"Dātuḥ" — haviḥ-pradātuḥ yajamānasya: to the sacrificer who gives the oblation.

"Cetanam" — paraloka-viśayaṃ vijñānam: the Bhāṣyakāra says it is knowledge about the world beyond; cetana means knowledge, discrimination. Veṅkaṭamādhava says dātur yajamānasya prajñāpanaṃ deveṣu priyā nivedita-sya: "regarding the sacrificer, you must make the gods aware [of what he has offered]."

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵⁰

वनस्पते (vanaspate) — wholly unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). देव (deva) — since it is not at the head of the second pāda, "apādādaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-18 [?]) lowers it; here it stands at the head of the second pāda ("deva devebhyo haviḥ"?), so that prohibition applies; "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 6-1-198 [?]) gives it initial-udātta.

original p. 578

Rik 11 grammar closes

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥

हविः (haviḥ) — root hu dānādanayoḥ, isi ("arciśucihurpi...", Uṇ. 2-108 [?]); guṇa; the source says this word is among the paryudāsa statements "aniseḥ," and discusses ("prasajya-pratiṣedha" versus "paryudāsa") whether the negative in "nabviṣayasyānisantasya" is a pure prohibition or an exclusion of isanta words, concluding it is an exclusion, so haviḥ, being an isanta neuter, does not get initial-udātta from that rule; the suffix accent stands: final-udātta. दातुः (dātuḥ) — root ḍudāñ dāne; tṛc ("nvul-tṛcau," Pā. 3-1-133 [?]); tṛc is cit, so final-udātta ("citaḥ," Pā. 6-1-163 [?]); genitive singular ñas; "ṛta ut" (Pā. 6-1-111 [?]); ut in place of the r's a-element [i.e., r + as becomes uḥ]; dātur + s; "rātsasya" (Pā. 8-2-24 [?]) drops the s after r in a conjunct; "saṃyogāntasya lopah" (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]) cannot apply alone since it would also drop other letters, so "rātsasya" is needed as a restriction (niyama), with the example ūrka (where the k after r is not dropped); the r becomes visarga: dātuḥ; the single substitute u is udātta ("ekādeśa udātenodāttaḥ," Pā. 8-2-5 [?]). चेतनम् (cetanam) — root citī saṃjñāne; lyuṭ in the instrument/locus sense ("karaṇādhikaraṇayoś ca," Pā. 3-3-117 [?]);

50. grammar page 577, noted briefly

"yuvor anākau" (Pā. 7-1-1 [?]) gives ana; laghūpadha-guṇa ("pugantalaghūpadhasya ca," Pā. 7-3-86 [?]); "liti" (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]): the vowel before the l-marked suffix is udātta.

॥११॥

original p. 579

Sūkta 13, Rik 12 (the last)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स्वाहा यज्ञं कृणोतनेन्द्राय यज्वनो गृहे । तत्र देवाँ उप ह्वये ॥१२॥

*svāhā yajñam kṛṇotanendrāya yajvano gr̥he | tatra devāṃ upa
hvaye || 12 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स्वाहा । यज्ञम् । कृणोतन । इन्द्राय । यज्वनः । गृहे ॥ तत्र । देवान् । उप । ह्वये ॥१२॥

*svāhā | yajñam | kṛṇotana | indrāya | yajvanaḥ | gr̥he | |
tatra | devān | upa | hvaye || 12 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

स्वाहाशब्दो हविष्प्रदानवाची सन् एतन्नामकमग्निविशेषं लक्षयति । तदग्निसंपादितं यज्ञमिन्द्रायेन्द्रप्रीतयुष्ट्यर्थं यज्वनो यजमानस्य गृहे ऋत्विजः कृणोतन । कुरुत । तत्र यज्ञे देवानुप ह्वये ॥ कृणोतन । कृवि हिंसाकरणयोश्च । इदितो नुम् । लोणमध्यमबहुवचनस्य तस्थस्थमिपामिति तादेशः । तप्तनप्तनथनाश्च । पा. ७-१-४५ । इति तनबादेशः । शपि प्राप्ते धिन्विकृण्वोरच्चेत्युप्रत्ययः । तस्सन्नियोगेन वकारस्याकारः । तस्यातो लोप इति लोपः । तस्याचः परस्मिन्निति स्थानिवद्भावाद्वाक्यस्य लघूपधगुणो न भवति । तनपः पित्वेनाजात्त्वादुकारस्य गुणः । इन्द्राय । ऋज्रेन्द्रेत्यादिना र्न् । नित्त्वाद्युदात्तः । यज्वनः । यज देवपूजासंगतिकरणदानेषु । सुयोजोर्ज्वनिप् । पा. ३-२-१०३ । जसि भसंज्ञायामोमल्लोपे प्राप्ते न संयोगाद्वन्तात् । पा. ६-४-१३७ । इति निषेधः । वनिपः पित्वेन धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । गृहे । गृह उपादाने । गेहे कः । पा. ३-१-१४४ । इति कप्रत्ययः । ग्रहिज्येत्यादिना । पा. ६-१-१६ । संप्रसारणं परादूपत्वं । प्रत्ययस्वरः । तत्र । त्रल् । लितीति प्रत्ययात्पूर्वस्योदात्तत्वम्

। देवाँ उपेत्यत्र संहितायां दीर्घादीति नकारस्य रुत्वम् । आकोऽति
नित्यमित्याकारस्यानुनासिकादेशः । भोभगो इति यत्वं । तस्य लोपः शाकल्यस्येति लोपः ॥ १२ ॥

*svāhā-śabdo havis-pradāna-vācī san etan-nāmakam agni-viśeṣaṃ lakṣayati | tad-agni-saṃpāditam yajñam indrāyendraprīty-artham yajvano yajamānasya gr̥he ṛtvijaḥ kṛṇotana |
kuruta | tatra yajñe devān upa hvaye | | kṛṇotana | kṛvi
himsā-karaṇayoś ca | idito num | loṇ-madhyamabahuvacanasya tasthasthamipām iti tā-deśaḥ |
taptanaptanathanāś ca | pā. 7-1-45 | iti tana-bādeśaḥ | śapi
prāpte dhinvi-kṛṇvyor accety u-pratyayaḥ | tat-sanniyogena vakārasyākāraḥ | tasyāto lopa iti lopaḥ | tasyācaḥ parasminn iti sthānivad-bhāvād vaikārasya laghūpadha-guṇo na bhavati | tanapaḥ pittvenājāttvād ukārasya guṇaḥ | indrāya |
rjrendrety-ādinā ran | nittvād ādyudāttatvā | yajvanah | yaja
deva-pūjā-saṅgati-karaṇa-dāneṣu | suyajor ṇvanip | pā.
3-2-103 | jasi bhasaṃjñāyām om-mallope prāpte na saṃyogād
vamāntāt | pā. 6-4-137 | iti pratiṣedhaḥ | vanipaḥ pittvena
dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | gr̥he | gr̥ha upādāne | gehe kaḥ |
pā. 3-1-144 | iti ka-pratyayaḥ | grahiyety-ādinā | pā. 6-1-16 |
saṃprasāraṇaṃ parādrūpatvaṃ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | tatra |
tral | liti iti pratyayāt pūrvasyodāttatvam | devāṃ upety atra
saṃhitāyām dīrghād aṭīti nakārasya rutvam | āko 'ṭi nityam
ity ākārasyanunāsikādeśaḥ | bhobhago iti yatvaṃ | tasya
lopaḥ śākalyeti lopaḥ | | 12 | |*

Translation: "The word svāhā, signifying the giving of an oblation, indicates a particular fire bearing this name. The sacrifice accomplished by that fire — for Indra, for Indra's satisfaction — O priests, kṛṇotana: perform, in the house of the sacrificer (yajvanah, the one who sacrifices). In that sacrifice I invoke the gods." ⁵¹ ⁵²

Rik 12: word-meanings, overall sense, English, Special Topics

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

⁵³ इन्द्राय (indrāya) — for Indra's satisfaction | यज्वनः (yajvanah) — of the sacrificer who performs the sacrifice | गृहे (gr̥he) — in the house (the sacrificial hall) | स्वाहा (svāhā) — [performed] by the utterance svāhā (or svāhā, the fire named Svāhā, accomplishing it) | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — the sacrifice | कृणोतन (kṛṇotana) — perform | तत्र (tatra) — to that sacrificial ground | देवान् (devān) — the gods | उप ह्वये (upa hvaye) — I invoke.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O priests, the adhvaryu and the others! In the sacrificer's house, perform the sacrifice for Indra's satisfaction with the cry svāhā; or perform it, offering the oblations belonging to the fire named Svāhā. For that I call the gods there.

॥ English Translation ॥

Perform the sacrifice to Indra conveyed through swaha in the house of the sacrificer. I invoke the gods thither.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

"Svāhā"

— Yāska's explanation:

51. Grammar noted briefly: kṛṇotana — the imperative second plural of kṛvi with tana (Pā. 7-1-45 [?]), the u-vikaraṇa (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]) and a for v; indra with ran; yajvan with ñvanip (Pā. 3-2-103 [?]), the case-ending of the plural...; gr̥ha with ka, saṃprasāraṇa; tatra with tral; and devāñ upa with the nasalization and loss of y as before.

52. The bhāṣya is compressed in places.

53. O priests!

स्वाहाकृतयः । स्वाहाकृतयः स्वाहेत्येतत् सु आहेति वा । स्व वाग्गाहेति वा । स्वं प्राहेति वा ।
 स्वाहुतं हविर्जुहोतीति वा ॥ (नि. ८-२१) svāhākṛtayaḥ | svāhākṛtayaḥ
svāhety etat su āheti vā | sva vāg āheti vā | svam prāheti vā |
svāhutaṁ havir juhotīti vā || (nī. 8-21) "Svāhākṛtayaḥ — svāhā is [explained as] su āha, 'he speaks well'; or sva vāg āha, 'his own speech says'; or svam prāha, 'he says his own'; or svāhutaṁ havir juhoti, 'he offers the oblation well offered.'"

Four different etymological senses of the word svāhā are thus given: (1) su āha — su = well; āha = says: because the word is uttered clearly, or distinctly, it is called svāhā. (2) sva vāg āha — sva = one's own; vāg = word: "his own word": the Brāhmaṇa states, "taṁ sva vāg abhyavadad yajñeti"; hence the origin of the svāhākāra: when making the homa, the one who makes it himself adds at the end of the Vedic mantra, a rik, the word svāhā. (3) svam prāha — svam = his own oblation; āha — "he says": "he says he offers his own oblation." (4) svāhutaṁ havir juhoti — "the oblation he himself offered, he offers by uttering the word svāhā": that is, because he gives the oblation into Agni, it is svāhā. To exemplify the sense of svāhākāra, Yāska cites this rik [the source's text breaks off at the page foot and continues on p. 581; see below].⁵⁴

original pp. 581–583

Rik 12: Special Topics (continued) and grammar; close of Sūkta 13

सद्यो जातो व्यमिमीत यज्ञमग्निर्देवानामभवत्पुरोगाः । अस्य होतुः प्रदिश्यृतस्य वाचि स्वाहाकृतं हविरदन्तु देवाः ॥ sadyo jāto vy amimīta yajñam agnir devānām
abhavat purogāḥ | asya hotuḥ pradiśy ṛtasya vāci svāhākṛtaṁ
havir adantu devāḥ || (Ṛgveda Saṁhitā 10-110-11 [?]; printed

54. Continuing Yāska on svāhā, the rik cited as example [p. 581]:

"१०-११०-११") ("Born at once, Agni measured out the sacrifice; he became the leader of the gods. At the word of this hotṛ, in the direction of order, let the gods eat the oblation made with svāhā." — my gloss, tentative.)

The chief sense of it: Agni, who has just been born (that is, who has now been established in the sacrifice), sits before the gods and carries out the duty of the hotṛ — the work of calling the gods — and so brings the sacrifice to completion. Such a hotṛ, being in the eastern quarter, is offered oblations with the word svāhā, so that the gods may eat them. Hence svāhā means the word uttered at the end of a mantra when, for the gods' delight, the oblation is poured into the fire established for the sacrifice in the prescribed manner.

In some Āpri-sūktas the plural svāhākṛtayaḥ is used: since the eleven prayāja mantras used when offering to the eleven deities of this sūkta all include the svāhākāra, the plural svāhākṛtayaḥ is used. In the Purāṇas and other works the word svāhā is used in another sense: in the Mahābhārata it is said that the sage Aṅgiras gave his son Bṛhaspati's daughters the name Svāhā; in the Purāṇas Svāhādevī is called the daughter of Dakṣa Prajāpati and the wife of Agni.

॥ Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā ॥ ⁵⁵

कृणोतन (kṛṇotana) — root kṛvi hiṃsākaraṇayoś ca, idit, so num ("idito num dhātoḥ," Pā. 7-1-58 [?]): kṛnv; loṭ second plural thas... "loṭo laṇvat" (Pā. 3-4-85 [?]) makes it behave as laṇ, so "tasthasthamipāṃ tāmṭamṭāmaḥ" (Pā. 3-4-101 [?]) gives ta for tha; "taptanaptanathanāś ca" (Pā. 7-1-45 [?]): ta may be replaced by tap, tanap, tana, thana, giving tana; śap would arise but "dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca" (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]) gives u with a for the final v; so kṛn + u + tana; "ato lopaḥ" (Pā. 6-4-48 [?]) drops the a; the guṇa of the ṛ is blocked by sthānivadbhāva ("acaḥ parasmin

55. grammar pages 581–583, noted briefly

pūrvavidhau," Pā. 1-1-57 [?]); since tanap is pit (tanap), the apit rule ("sārvadhātukam apit," Pā. 1-2-4 [?]) does not apply, so "kñiti ca" (Pā. 1-1-5 [?]) does not block guṇa; "sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ" (Pā. 7-3-84 [?]) gives guṇa to the u — o: kṛṇotana; n → ṇ ("yuvarṇānnasya ṇatvaṃ vaktavyam," vārttika [?]); unaccented ("tiṅ atīṇaḥ," Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). इन्द्राय (indrāya) — root idi paramaiśvarye with ran ("ṛjrendrāgra...", Uṇ. 2-28 [?]), initial-udātta. यज्वनः (yajvanah) — root yaja devapūjāsaṅgatikaraṇadāneṣu; "suyajor ṇvanip" (Pā. 3-2-103 [?]): ṇvanip after yaj and su (ṣuñ abhiṣave) in the Veda; the ṇvanip is not kept as ṇit for the purposes of guṇa; yajvan + as (genitive singular ṇas); the stem has bha status ("yaci bham," Pā. 1-4-18 [?]); "allopo 'naḥ" (Pā. 6-4-134 [?]) would drop the a of an, but "na saṃyogād vamāntāt" (Pā. 6-4-137 [?]) blocks the loss after a conjunct ending in v or m ("jv" here); so yajvanah; since vanip is pit, the root accent stands. गृहे (grhe) — "gehe kaḥ" (Pā. 3-1-144 [?]): ka after grah meaning house; "grahijyāvayi..." (Pā. 6-1-16 [?]) gives saṃprasāraṇa of r → ṛ: grha (saṃprasāraṇa is the name for the replacement of y, v, r, l by i, u, ṛ, ḷ — "igyaṇaḥ saṃprasāraṇam," Pā. 1-1-45 [?]); "saṃprasāraṇāc ca" (Pā. 6-1-108 [?]) gives pūrvārūpa; ka is the suffix accent; locative singular grhe. तत्र (tatra) — "saptamyās tral" (Pā. 5-3-10 [?]): tral after tad in the locative sense; tral is a taddhita, so the word is a prātipadika ("kṛttaddhitasamāsāś ca," Pā. 1-2-46 [?]); the ending is dropped ("supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ," Pā. 2-4-71 [?]); "prāg diśo vibhaktiḥ" (Pā. 5-3-1 [?]) gives tral the vibhakti name; hence, since the next word follows, "tyadādīnām aḥ" (Pā. 7-2-102 [?]) turns the d of tad into a, "ato guṇe" (Pā. 6-1-97 [?]) pararūpa: tatra; "liti" (Pā. 6-1-193 [?]): the syllable before tral is udātta. देवाँ उप (devāṃś upa) — deva from divu with ac ("pacādibhyo 'c," Pā. 3-1-134 [?]) with laghūpadha-guṇa; the accusative plural śas: "prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ" (Pā. 6-1-102 [?]) and "tasmāc chaso naḥ puṃsi" (Pā. 6-1-103 [?]): s of śas → n after pūrvasavarṇadīrgha in the masculine; devān; in the Samhitā "dīrghād aṭi samānapāde" (Pā. 8-3-9 [?]) turns the n into ru before the following aṭ-letter in the same pāda; "āto 'ṭi nityam" (Pā. 8-3-3 [?]) nasalizes the ā; "bhobhagoaghoapūrvasya yo 'śi" (Pā. 8-3-17 [?]) gives y; "lopaḥ śākalyasya" (Pā. 8-3-19 [?]) drops it: devāṃ upa; "ād guṇaḥ" would give o but, since the loss of y is "unseen" (pūrvatrāsiddham, Pā. 8-2-1 [?]), the y still stands for the earlier rule, and no guṇa arises.

॥१३॥

End of Sūkta 13. ⁵⁶

56. Table-of-contents title: "babhrur agne" — see the note under Rik 1 and in the open flags; the sūkta itself begins aibhīr agne duvo girah.

॥ ಹದಿನಾಲ್ಕನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 14 — "aibhir agne duvo giraḥ" ("The Fourteenth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta; printed p. 583, lower half)

ऐभिर्ग्न इत्यादिकस्य द्वादशर्चस्य तृतीयसूक्तस्य ऋषिच्छन्दसी पूर्ववत् । तच्च सूक्तं बहुदेवताकम् । अत एवानुक्रम्यते । ऐभिर्वैश्वदेवमिति । विनियोगस्तु । व्यूढद्वादशाहस्य प्रथमे च्छन्दोमे तृतीयसवने वैश्वदेवशस्त्रे ऐभिर्गने दुवो गिर इति सूक्तम् ॥ तथा च सूत्रितम् । अथ च्छन्दोमाः समुद्रादूर्मिरित्युपक्रम्यैभिर्गने दुवो गिर इति वैश्वदेवम् । आ. ८-[?] । इति ॥

aibhir agna ity-ādikasya dvādaśarcasya tṛtīya-sūktasya ṛṣi-chandasī pūrvavat | tac ca sūktaṃ bahu-devatākam | ata evānukramyate | aibhir vaiśvadevam iti | viniyogas tu | vyūḍha-dvādaśāhasya prathame cchandome tṛtīya-savane vaiśvadeva-śastre aibhir agne duvo gira iti sūktam | | tathā ca sūtritam | atha cchandomāḥ samudrād ūrmir ity upakramyaibhir agne duvo gira iti vaiśvadevam | ā. 8-[?] | iti
||

Translation: "The twelve-rik sūkta beginning aibhir agne is the third sūkta [of this anuvāka]; its ṛṣi and meter are as before [Medhātithi Kāṇva; Gāyatrī]. This sūkta has many deities; that is why the Anukramaṇikā says only aibhir vaiśvadevam ['aibhir... to the Viśvedevas']. Its application (viniyoga): in the first chandoma day of the vyūḍha-dvādaśāha, at the third pressing, in the vaiśvadeva-śāstra, the sūkta aibhir agne duvo giraḥ is recited. And so it is laid down in the Sūtra: 'Now the Chandomas: beginning with samudrād ūrmīḥ ... and aibhir agne duvo giraḥ is the Vaiśvadeva [recitation].' (Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra 8-[?]) — the Sanskrit shows a two-part numeral whose second part I cannot read; the Kannada rendering gives it as 9-[?].)" ¹

॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) ॥ The twelve-rik sūkta that begins aibhir agne is the third sūkta of the fourth anuvāka. Its ṛṣi and meter are the same as the preceding sūkta. Because it has many deities, it is a bahu-devatāka sūkta; therefore the Anukramaṇikā calls it a sūkta to the Viśvedevas. Application: when the vaiśvadeva-śāstra mantras are recited at the third pressing of the first chandoma day of the vyūḍha-dvādaśāha sacrifice, this sūkta aibhir agne duvo giraḥ is to be recited. The Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra says: "Now the Chandomas: beginning with samudrād ūrmīḥ ... aibhir agne duvo giraḥ is the Vaiśvadeva"; that is, the mantras from samudrād ūrmīḥ onwards up to aibhir agne duvo giraḥ are called chandomā mantras. (Āś. Sū. 9-[?])

original p. 584

Sūkta 14, Rik 1

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ Sūkta — 14 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 4 ॥ Sūkta — 14 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 26, 27 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–12 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva ॥ ॥
Devatā — Viśve Devāḥ (Agni together with the Viśvedevas).
[Within this:] [?]- (printed numeral unclear: 2 or 3, probably

1. The ornament and the sūkta heading precede this note on p. 583; the first few lines of the page are the close of Sūkta 13, Rik 12, already covered.

2. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; the digits are blurred and might be 36, 37 — unreliable; the earlier headings ran 24, 25 for Sūkta 13

the run 2–9) Indra, Vāyu, Br̥haspati, Mitra, Agni, Pūṣan, Bhaga, the Ādityas, the Marut-gaṇa; 10 — the Viśvedevas, Agni, Indra, Vāyu, Mitra, and the dhāmāni [?]; 11 [?], 12 — Agni ॥ ³ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁴

ऐभिग्ने दुवो गिरो विश्वेभिः सोमपीतये । देवेभिर्याहि यक्षि च ॥१॥

aibhir agne duvo giro viśvebhiḥ somapītaye | devebhir yāhi yakṣi ca || 1 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । एभिः । अग्ने । दुवः । गिरः । विश्वेभिः । सोमऽपीतये ॥ देवेभिः । याहि । यक्षि । च ॥ १॥

*ā | ebhiḥ | agne | duvaḥ | girah | viśvebhiḥ | soma-pītaye | |
devebhiḥ | yāhi | yakṣi | ca || 1 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁵

हे अग्ने एभिरस्मिन्यज्ञे संभावितैर्विश्वेभिर्देवेभिः सर्वैर्देवैः सह सोमपीतये सोमपानोपपेतयागार्थं
दुवोऽस्मदीयां परिचर्यां गिरोऽस्मदीयाः स्तुतीश्च प्रत्या(?) याहि । आगच्छ । यक्षि च । आगत्य यज च ॥

he agne ebhir asmin yajñe saṃbhāvitair viśvebhir devebhiḥ sarvair devaiḥ saha somapītaye somapānopapeta-yāgārthaṃ duvo 'smadīyāṃ paricaryāṃ giro 'smadīyāḥ stutīś ca praty-ā(?) yāhi | āgaccha | yakṣi ca | āgatyā yaja ca ||

3. this is my reading of a four-line bracketed list in the print — the Kannada-script numerals before each item are small and I could not read them with confidence; the names themselves are legible

4. Accent-marks are printed in the source here; not reproduced, in keeping with the convention for the later riks of this volume.

5. small print, read from a 230-dpi slice; the left-hand edges of some lines are cut off in my slice, and the lines are as read from the full page

Translation: "O Agni! Together with these — all the gods, those honoured (saṃbhāvita) at this sacrifice — come, for the drinking of soma and for the sacrifice that goes with the soma-drinking, to our service (duvaḥ) and to our words of praise (girah). Yāhi: come. Yakṣi ca: and, having come, sacrifice." ⁶

Then the grammar of the bhāṣya follows (pp. 585–587): ⁷

एभिः । पूर्वनिर्दिष्टानां देवानामिदमा परामशादिदमोऽन्वादेशे ऽशनुदात्तस्तृतीयादौ । पा.
२-४-३२ । इत्यशनुदात्तः । शित्वात्सवदिशः । नेदमदसोरकोः । पा. ७-१-११ । इति भिस
ऐशादेशाभावः । विभक्तिरनुदात्तैव ... दुवः । नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । विश्वेभिः
। विश्वशब्दो विशेः क्वनन्तो नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । बहुलं छन्दसीति भिस ऐस् न भवति । बहुवचने
झल्येत् । पा. ७-३-१०३ । इत्येत्वम् । सोमपीतये । सोमशब्दो ... मनन्तो नित्वादाद्युदात्तः ।
सोमस्य पीतिर्यस्मिन्यागे स सोमपीतिः । तस्मै । तादर्थ्ये चतुर्थी । देवेभिः । बहुलं छन्दसीति
भिस ऐसादेशाभावः । बहुवचने झल्येदित्येत्वम् । यक्षि । यजेर्लोऽः सिप् । बहुलं छन्दसीति शपो लुक् । ब्रश्चादिना षत्वम् । षढोः कः सि [?] ... सिपः पित्वेनानुदात्तत्वाद्भातुस्वर एव ॥

ebhiḥ | pūrva-nirdiṣṭānām devānām idam ā parāmarśād
idamo 'nvādeśe 'śanudāttas tṛtīyādaḥ | pā. 2-4-32 | ity eśanudāttaḥ | śittvāt sarvādeśaḥ | nedam-adasor akoḥ | pā.
7-1-11 | iti bhisa aiśādeśābhāvaḥ | vibhaktir anudāttaiva ...
duvaḥ | nab-viṣayasyāniṣantasyety ādy-udāttatvam |
viśvebhiḥ | viśva-śabdo viśeḥ kvananto nittvād ādy-udāttaḥ |
bahulaṃ chandasīti bhisa ais na bhavati | bahuvacane jhaly et | pā. 7-3-103 | ity etvam | soma-pītaye | soma-śabdo ...
manan-to nittvād ādy-udāttaḥ | somasya pītir yasmin yāge sa
soma-pītiḥ | tasmai | tādarthyē caturthī | devebhiḥ | bahulaṃ
chandasīti bhisa aiśādeśābhāvaḥ | bahuvacane jhaly ety

6. The first words of the second line of the print are partly unclear; "praty-ā(?)" stands for what appears to be pratyā ["towards; for each"] — I give it with a query.

7. Grammar passage: given as legible in part; "..." marks stretches I could not read at 150 dpi. Sūtras 2-4-32, 7-1-11 and 7-3-103 agree with the standard Pāṇinian numbering of idamo 'nvādeśe 'śanudātta..., nedamadasor akoḥ and bahuvacane jhaly et; "bahulaṃ chandasī" is cited without number.

etvam | yakṣi | yajer loṭaḥ sip | bahulaṃ chandasīti śapo luk
 | vraścādinā ṣatvam | ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si [?] ... sipaḥ pittvenānudāttatvād dhātu-svara eva | |

Translation of the grammar, in outline: ebhiḥ — the pronoun idam refers back to the gods just mentioned, so it is in the anvādeśa ("re-mention") condition; therefore by P. 2-4-32 it receives the substitute aś [ena], which is unaccented; being marked with ś the substitute replaces the whole word; by P. 7-1-11 (nedamadasor akoḥ) the bhis ending is not given the ais substitute; the case-ending is unaccented. duvaḥ — first-syllable accent by the rule on words ending in -is/related forms [citation partly unclear]. viśvebhiḥ — viśva is from viś + kvan, so with an indicative n it has the first-syllable accent; by "variously in the Veda" bhis does not become ais; by P. 7-3-103 the a becomes e before a jhal-initial plural ending. somapītaye — soma is formed with man, first-syllable accent; "he in whose sacrifice there is the drinking (pīti) of soma" is somapīti; "for him" — fourth case in the sense of purpose. devebhiḥ — as for viśvebhiḥ. yakṣi — yaj, imperative, sip; the śap is dropped by "variously in the Veda"; the ṣ is substituted by the vraścā rule; the k; since sip has an indicative p it is unaccented, so the verb-root accent alone remains.⁸

original pp. 586–588

Rik 1: Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā (grammar), noted briefly

Grammar pages (the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā on pp. 586–587), noted briefly. The Kannada treats ebhiḥ (the idam → aś [ena] substitution under P. 2-4-32 idamo 'nvādeśe 'śanudātta..., the blocking of ais under P. 7-1-11 nedamadasor akoḥ, P. 7-1-9 āto bhisais and 7-1-10 bahulaṃ chandasi, the e of P. 7-3-103 bahuvacane jhaly et, and the accentual rules 6-1-158 anudāttaṃ

8. Grammar pages, pp. 586–587, noted briefly; my gloss in this paragraph is outline only.

padam ekavarjam / 3-1-4 anudāttau suppitau [numbers read from small print, pointers only]), duvaḥ, viśvebhiḥ (from viś + kvan, Uṇādi [?]), somapītaye (soma from su with man, Uṇādi 1-[?]; the fourth case under P. 2-1-36 caturthī tadarthārtha-balihita-sukharakṣitaiḥ with the Vārttika on tādarthya; the ṣyañ of P. 5-1-124 guṇavacana-brāhmaṇādibhyaḥ karmaṇi ca discussed on pp. 587, with the examples yūpāya dāru ("wood for a sacrificial post") and kuṇḍalāya hiraṇyam ("gold for an earring"), which the bhāṣya gives for the sense of purpose), devebhiḥ (bhis → ais blocked by bahulaṃ chandasī), and yakṣi (yaj + lot + sip, śap dropped by P. 2-4-73, ṣatva by 8-2-36 vraśca-bhrasja..., ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si P. 8-2-41, hi for si by 3-4-87 serhy apicca — all pointers only, numerals uncertain).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥ ⁹

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | एभिः (ebhiḥ) — these [gods], honoured at this our sacrifice (Kannada saṃbhāvitarāda) | विश्वेभिः (viśvebhiḥ) — all | देवेभिः (devebhiḥ) — with the gods | दुवः (duvaḥ) — the service (śuśrūṣā) that we render | गिरः (giraḥ) — words in the form of hymns of praise | सोमपीतये (somapītaye) — for the drinking of soma | प्रति आ याहि (prati ā yāhi) — come so as to receive | यक्षि च (yakṣi ca) — and bring the sacrifice to completion.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni, come with all the gods, to receive the service we render in this our sacrifice and the hymns of praise, and to drink the soma. After you have come, bring this sacrificial act to completion in all its parts.

॥ English Translation ॥ ^{10 11}

9. Kannada

10. as printed in the source

Come, Agni with all those gods to receive our adoration and praises and for drinking soma; and also perform the sacrifice.

original pp. 588–592

Sūkta 14, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ त्वा कण्वा अहूषत गृणन्ति विप्र ते धियः । देवेभिरग्न आ गहि ॥२॥

ā tvā kaṇvā ahūṣata grṇanti vipra te dhiyaḥ | devebhir agna ā gahi || 2 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹²

आ । त्वा । कण्वाः । अहूषत । गृणन्ति । विप्र । ते । धियः ॥ देवेभिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥ २॥

*ā | tvā | kaṇvāḥ | ahūṣata | grṇanti | vipra | te | dhiyaḥ | |
devebhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi | | 2 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे विप्र मेधाविन्नग्ने कण्वा मेधाविन ऋत्विजस्त्वा यज्ञनिष्पादकं त्वामाहूषत आह्वयन्ति । तथा ते धियस्त्वदीयानि कर्माणि गृणन्ति कथयन्ति । ततो हे अग्ने देवेभिर्देवैः सहा गहि । आगच्छ । विप्र इत्यादिषु चतुर्विंशतिसंख्याकेषु मेधाविनामसु कण्व ऋभुरिति [?] पठितम् ॥

*he vipra medhāvin agne kaṇvā medhāvina rtvijas tvā yajña-niṣpādakam tvām āhūṣata āhvayanti | tathā te dhiyas
tvadiyāni karmāṇi grṇanti kathayanti | tato he agne devebhir devaiḥ sahā gahi | āgaccha | vipra ity-ādiṣu caturviṃśati-
saṃkhyākeṣu medhāvi-nāmasu kaṇva ṛbhur iti [?] paṭhitam | |*

Translation: "O wise (vipra) Agni! The kaṇvas — the wise priests (rtvij) — have invoked (āhūṣata) you, the one who accomplishes the sacrifice; and they recite (grṇanti) your dhiyaḥ — your deeds.

11. The print shows a bare numeral "74" after the English, at the foot of p. 585, outside the text; I leave it unexplained [?].

12. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced.

Therefore, O Agni, come together with the gods. [The word kaṇva is] read among the twenty-four names for 'wise man' beginning with vipra." ¹³

Then, as in Rik 1, the grammar follows (p. 588, lower half, and pp. 589–592). Grammar pages, noted briefly: the bhāṣya and the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treat — ā (a nipāta, first-syllable accent, Phiṭ 4-[?]) nipātā ādyudāttāḥ); tvā (P. 8-1-23 tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ — the substitute tvā for tvām, wholly unaccented; the number agrees with the standard numbering); kaṇvāḥ (root kaṇ "to sound", the Uṇādi sūtra on the kvan suffix aśūpruṣīlīṭikaṇikhaṭiviśibhyaḥ kvan, Uṇ. 1-[?]; first-syllable accent because of the indicatory n); ahūṣata (hve "to compete, to call", luṇ in the present sense by P. 3-4-6 chandasi luṇ-laṇ-liṭaḥ — the number agrees with the standard; then cli, sic [P. 3-1-43, 3-1-44 — read from the Kannada print, they agree with the standard numbering of cli luṇi and cleḥ sic], the ātmanepada by P. 1-3-72, the sampra-sāraṇa of hve, and the lengthening and ṣatva — a long run of 'pointer' sūtras whose numerals I leave unchecked); grṇanti (gṛ "to sound", laṭ by P. 3-2-123 vartamāne laṭ, śnā by P. 3-1-81 kryādibhyaḥ śnā, hrasva by P. 6-4-113 [?]); vipra (vocative: accent by P. 6-1-198 āmantritasya ca [?]); te (P. 8-1-18 anudāttam sarvam apādādaḥ and 8-1-22 te mayāv ekavacanasya, the substitute te for tava); devebhiḥ (ais blocked by bahulaṃ chandasī); gahi (root gam/gamḥ with lot, sip, hi for si by P. 3-4-87 serhy apicca, śap dropped by P. 2-4-73, the dropping of m by anudāttopadeśa-vanati-tanotyādīnām... P. 6-4-37, the asiddhavat rule 6-4-22). ¹⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

13. In the print, the last clause names the item read after "kaṇva" with a letter-group that I read as rbhur; I give it with [?], and the Kannada Special Topics (below) confirms only that kaṇva itself is in the list.

14. Crowded; reproduced in outline only.

(हे) विप्र ((he) vipra) — O wise [i.e. learned] Agni | कण्वाः (kaṇvāḥ) — the wise priests (descendants of the ṛṣi Kaṇva) | त्वा (tvā) — you | आ अहूषत (ā ahūṣata) — invoke (pray to) | ¹⁵ ते (te) — your | धियः (dhiyaḥ) — works | गृणन्ति (grṇanti) — praise | ¹⁶ अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | देवेभिः (devebhiḥ) — with the gods | आ गहि (ā gahi) — be pleased to come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O wise Agni, in order to praise your qualities, the wise priests (or the descendants of the ṛṣi Kaṇva) pray to you and call you to the sacrifice; and they praise your excellent deeds. Therefore, come to our sacrifice along with all the gods.

॥ English Translation ॥ ¹⁷

The Kanwas invoke you, wise Agni, and extol [sic] your deeds; come Agni with the gods,

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

कण्वाः (kaṇvāḥ) — Among the twenty-four names for the medhāvī (wise), beginning with vipra, the word kaṇva is read (Nirukta/ Nighaṇṭu 3-[?]) — the printed reference reads "ni. 3-19" in small print, which I cannot confirm; in the standard Nighaṇṭu the medhāvī list is 3.15), so kaṇva here can mean "wise, intelligent". Although the commentator takes the word in this general sense, since the ṛṣi of this rik is himself of the lineage of Kaṇva, it seems more natural to take kaṇvāḥ here as "the sacrificer-priests and others born in the Kaṇva lineage."

धियः (dhiyaḥ) — Among the twenty-six names for karma (action) beginning with apaḥ, dhīḥ is read (Ni. 2-[?], the print's numerals are unclear), so dhiyaḥ means "actions, works".

15. in the same way

16. therefore

17. The print ends the line with a comma.

Sūkta 14, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रवायू बृहस्पतिं मित्राग्निं पूषणं भगम् । आदित्यान्मारुतं गणम् ॥३॥

*indravāyū bṛhaspatim mitrāgniṃ pūṣaṇaṃ bhagam | ādityān
mārutam gaṇam || 3 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रवायू इति । बृहस्पतिम् । मित्रा । अग्निम् । पूषणम् । भगम् ॥ आदित्यान् । मारुतम् । गणम् ॥३॥

*indravāyū iti | bṛhaspatim | mitrā | agnim | pūṣaṇam |
bhagam || ādityān | mārutam | gaṇam || 3 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥¹⁸

इन्द्रादिदेवान्मारुतं मरुतां वायूनां सम्बन्धिनं गणं च हे अग्ने यक्षीति पदद्वयमनुवर्तते ॥ इन्द्रश्च
वायुश्चेन्द्रवायू । देवताद्वन्द्वे च । पा. ६-३-२६ । इति प्राप्तस्यानङ उभयत्र वायोः प्रतिषेधो
वक्तव्यः । पा. ६-३-२६ वा. । इति प्रतिषेधः । देवताद्वन्द्वे च । पा. ६-२-१४१ । इति
प्राप्तस्योभयपदप्रकृतिस्वरस्य नोत्तरपदेऽनुदात्तादौ । पा. ६-२-१४३ [?] । इति निषेधः ।
समासान्तोदात्तत्वमेव । बृहस्पतिम् । तस्करबृहतोः करपत्योश्चोरदेवतयोरभिधेययोः सुट्
तलोपश्च वक्तव्यः । मै. [?] इति तलोपः सुडागमश्च । बृहच्छब्दमाद्युदात्तं केचिद्वर्णयन्तीति
नामनः [?] । पा रक्षणे । पातीति पतिः । पातेर्ङितिः । उ. ४-[?] । प्रत्ययस्वरेणाद्युदात्तः ।
समास उभे वनस्पत्यादिषु युगपत् । पा. ६-२-१४० । इत्युभयपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । मित्रा ।
द्वितीयायाः सुसां सुलुगित्यादिना विभक्तेराजादेशः । आदित्यान् । अदितेरपत्यमादित्यः ।
दित्यदित्यादित्यपत्युत्तरपदाण्यः । पा. ४-१-८५ । प्रत्ययस्वरः । मारुतम् । मरुतां विकारः । अनुदात्तादेश्च । पा. ४-३-१४० । इत्यञ् । जित्वात्पादाद्युदात्तः ॥ *indrādi-devān mārutam marutām vāyūnām sambandhinam

gaṇam ca he agne yakṣīti pada-dvayam anuvartate || indras
ca vāyuś cendravāyū | devatādvandve ca | pā. 6-3-26 | iti*

18. compressed; the reading is given as printed, with [?] where I am not sure prāptasyānaṇa ubhayatra vāyoḥ pratiṣedho vaktavyaḥ | pā.

6-3-26 vā. | iti pratiṣedhaḥ | devatādvandve ca | pā. 6-2-141 |
iti prāptasyobhaya-pada-prakṛti-svarasya nottarapade
'nudāttādaḥ | pā. 6-2-143 [?] | iti niṣedhaḥ |
samāsāntodāttatvam eva | bṛhaspatim | taskara-bṛhatoḥ
kara-patyos cora-devatayor abhidheyayoḥ suḥ talopas ca vaktavyaḥ | mai. [?] iti talopaḥ suḍāgamaś ca | bṛhacchabdam ādyudāttam kecid varṇayantīti nāmanaḥ [?] | pā
rakṣaṇe | pātīti patiḥ | pāter ḍatiḥ | u. 4-[?] | pratyayasvareṇādyudāttaḥ | samāsa ubhe vanaspaty-ādiṣu yugapat |
pā. 6-2-140 | ity ubhaya-pada-prakṛti-svaratvam | mitrā |
dvitīyāyāḥ su-sām su-lug ity-ādinā vibhaktar ā-jādeśaḥ |
ādityān | aditer apatyam ādityaḥ | dityadity-ādityapatyuttarapadāṇ nyaḥ | pā. 4-1-85 | pratyaya-svaraḥ | mārutam |
marutām vikāraḥ | anudāttādeś ca | pā. 4-3-140 | ity añ |
ñittvāt pādādy-udāttaḥ | |

Translation: "[The two words of Rik 1] he agne yakṣi ('O Agni, sacrifice') continue to be understood: [sacrifice] to Indra and the other gods, and to the mārutam gaṇam — the host belonging to the Maruts, the winds. Indravāyū — Indra and Vāyu, a dvandva of deities [the rest of this passage is grammar on why the ānañ substitution and the compound-accent rules do not apply — the compound keeps the accent of the end of the compound]. Br̥haspatim — [the grammar here concerns the Vārttika that suṭ is added and t is dropped in br̥haspati and taskara — the readings are marked as uncertain above]; pā means 'to protect'; 'he protects' is pati; first-syllable accent by the suffix-accent; both parts keep their own accent, as in vanaspati. Mitrā — the case-ending replaced by ā by the rule 'su-, sām, ... luk' [with the second case sense, singular — see Special Topics]. Ādityān — the child (apatya) of Aditi is Āditya (P. 4-1-85, the suffix accent). Mārutam — what belongs to or is a product of the Maruts, with añ by P. 4-3-[-?]; since añ has an indicatory ñ, the first syllable of the word is accented." ¹⁹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे अग्ने) ((he agne)) — O Agni | इन्द्रवायू (indravāyū) — Indra and Vāyu | बृहस्पतिम् (br̥haspatim) — Br̥haspati | मित्रा (mitrā) — Mitra | अग्निम् (agnim) — Agni | पूषणम् (pūṣaṇam) — Pūṣan | भगम् (bhagam) — Bhaga | आदित्यान् (ādityān) — the Ādityas | मारुतं गणम् (mārutam gaṇam) — the hosts of the Maruts | ²⁰ — having in view [or: for them] — (यक्षि) ((yakṣi)) — sacrifice.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

19. Grammar noted briefly; "[?]" marks stretches where the print is compressed or the sūtra numeral is unclear. The numbers 6-3-26, 6-2-141 and 4-1-85 agree with the standard numbering.

20. all these

O Agni, perform the sacrifice with these in view: Indra, Vāyu, Bṛhaspati, Mitra, Agni, Pūṣan, Bhaga, the Ādityas (or: the deities), and the hosts of the Maruts.

॥ English Translation ॥ ²¹

Sacrifice to Indra, Vayu, Bribaspati [sic], Mitra, Agni, Pushan, Bhaga, the Adityas. and [sic] the hosts of Maruts.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

अग्ने यक्षि (agne yakṣi) — Because this rik has no verb, the commentator says the two words agne yakṣi ("O Agni, sacrifice") must be supplied (adhyāhāra). But Agni is himself one of the group named in this rik, so it seems unfitting to say "O Agni, sacrifice to Agni". For this reason the author of the Vedārthayātna supplies the two words ahaṃ hvaye — "I invoke" — to mean: "I invoke the deities beginning with Indra and Vāyu."

इन्द्रवायू (indravāyū) — indraś ca vāyuś ca indravāyū; the compound of two deities (devatā-dvandva): the two deities Indra and Vāyu are named by a single word in the dual.

मित्रा (mitrā) — here the second-case ending must be taken in the singular sense [= mitram].

आदित्यान् (ādityān) — aditer apatyāni ādityāḥ: the children of Aditi, the mother of the gods, are called Ādityas; the meaning is "the deities", or the twelve Ādityas.

मारुतम् (mārutam) — the final letter of the genitive plural mārutām has been shortened for the sake of the metre.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics), Rik 3 — continuation
(p. 594) ॥

21. A bare numeral "75" stands after the English at the foot of p. 593; as with "74" on p. 585 it is outside the text — apparently a running number of the English renderings; I take it so, but flag it [?].

मारुतं गणम् (mārutam gaṇam) — The host (saṃūha) of the Marut deities. The Purāṇas and similar works say that there are seven Maruts (the sapta-marut-gaṇas); in the Ṛgveda too the word marut is ordinarily used in the plural. Mārutam gaṇam therefore means "the company, the group, of the Marut deities."

Note — Rik 3 grammar, pp. 594–596 — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā, grammar pages, noted briefly: the Kannada treats indravāyū (P. 6-3-26 devatādvandve ca with the Vārttika that ānaḥ is barred for vāyu; P. 6-2-141 devatādvandve ca and the bar in P. 6-2-142 [?]), br̥haspatim (the Vārttika on tasya... br̥hatoḥ karapatyoś coradevatayoḥ suṭ talopaś ca; Pā. 6-1-157 [?] for the kukkuṭādīnām... discussion; P. 1-1-41 ādyantau ṭakitau; the Uṇādi ḍati from pā "to protect", Uṇ. 4-[?]; the accent rule P. 6-2-140 [?], mitrā (P. 7-1-39 supām sulug...; ekādeśa under P. 8-2-5), ādityān (P. 4-1-85 dityadity-ādityapatyuttarapadāṇ nyaḥ, with the nya accent; 6-4-148 yasyeti ca; 7-2-117 taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ; 6-1-103 and 8-4-6 [?] for the accusative plural ān), and mārutam (Uṇ. 1-94 [?] mṛgror utiḥ, mṛj "to cleanse"; P. 4-3-[?] anudāttādeś ca with añ, P. 6-1-197 [?] ñnityādir nityam, the first-syllable accent). Sūtra numbers read from small print are pointers only.

original pp. 596–597

Sūkta 14, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

प्र वो भ्रियन्ते इन्द्रवो मत्सरा मादयिष्णवः । द्रप्सा मध्वश्चमूषदः ॥४॥

*pra vo bhriyanta indavo matsarā mādayiṣṇavaḥ | drapsā
madhvaś camūṣadaḥ || 4 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

प्र । वः । भ्रियन्ते । इन्द्रवः । मत्सराः । मादयिष्णवः ॥ द्रप्साः । मध्वः । चमूऽसदः ॥४॥

*pra | vaḥ | bhriyante | indavaḥ | matsarāḥ | mādayiṣṇavaḥ
|| drapsāḥ | madhvaḥ | camū-sadaḥ || 4 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ²²

22. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings

हे इन्द्रादिदेवा वो युष्मदर्थमिन्द्रवः सोमाः प्र भ्रियन्ते । प्रकर्षेण संपाद्यन्ते । कीदृशाः । मत्सराः
 तृप्तिकराः । मत्सरः सोमो मदन्त्यस्मिन्निति तृप्तिकर्मणः [?] । नि. २-[?] । इति यास्कः ।
 मादयिष्णवो हर्षहेतवः । द्रप्सा बिन्दुरूपाः । मध्वो मधुराः । चमूषदश्चमूषु
 चमसादिपात्रेष्ववस्थिताः । प्र । व्यवहिताश्च । पा. १-४-८२ । इति व्यवहितप्रयोगः । भ्रियन्ते ।
 भृजो यकि रिङ् शयग्लिङ्क्षु । पा. ७-४-२८ । इति रिङादेशः । हृजो वा [?] । हृग्रहोर्भश्छन्दसीति हकारस्य भकारः । इन्द्रवः । उन्दी क्लेदने । उनत्ति पात्राणीति । ... उ.
 १-१३ [?] । इत्युप्रत्यय आदेरिकारश्च । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । मत्सराः । मदी तृप्तियोगे । चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः [?] । मादयिष्णवः । मदी हर्षग्लपनयोः । मदेर्णिजन्ताच्छन्दसि । पा.
 ३-२-१३७ । इष्णुच् । ... पा. ६-४-५५ । इत्ययादेशः । चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः । मध्वः । मधुशब्द
 आद्युदात्त उक्तः । मधुशब्दस्य व्यत्ययेन पुंलिङ्गत्वम् । ... जसि च । पा. ७-३-१०९ । इति
 गुणो न भवति । चमूषदः । चमु छमु जमु झमु अदने । चम्यते भक्ष्यते येषु चमसेषु ते चम्वः ।
 कृषिचमितनीत्यादिना । उ. १-८१ [?] । ऊः । तत्र सीदन्तीति चमूषदः । सत्सूद्विषेत्यादिना । पा. ३-२-६१ । क्विप् । सुषामादेराकृतिगणत्वात्षत्वम् । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥

*he indrādi-devā vo yuṣmad-artham indavaḥ somāḥ pra bhriyante | prakarṣeṇa saṃpādyante | kīdrśāḥ | matsarāḥ
 tr̥ptikarāḥ | matsaraḥ somo madanty asminn iti tr̥ptikarmanāḥ [?] | nī. 2-[?] | iti yāskah | mādayiṣṇavo harṣa-hetavaḥ | drapsā bindu-rūpāḥ | madhvo madhurāḥ |
 camūśadaś camūṣu camasādi-pātreṣv avasthitāḥ | pra |
 vyavahitāś ca | pā. 1-4-82 | iti vyavahita-prayogaḥ | bhriyante
 | bhṛño yaki riṅ śayag-liṅkṣu | pā. 7-4-28 | iti riṅādeśaḥ |
 hr̥ño vā [?] | hr̥grahor bhaś chandasīti hakārasya bhakāraḥ | indavaḥ | undī kledane | unatti pātrāṇīti | ... u. 1-13 [?] | ity upratyaya ād erikāraś ca | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | matsarāḥ |
 madī tr̥pti-yoge | cittvād antodāttaḥ [?] | mādayiṣṇavaḥ |
 madī harṣa-glapanayoh | mader ṇijantāc chandasi | pā.
 3-2-137 | iṣṇuc | ... pā. 6-4-55 | ity ayādeśaḥ | cittvād
 antodāttaḥ | madhvaḥ | madhu-śabda ādyudātta uktaḥ |
 madhu-śabdasya vyatyayena puṃlingatvam | ... jasi ca | pā.
 7-3-109 | iti guṇo na bhavati | camūśadaḥ | camu chamu
 jamu jhamu adane | camyate bhakṣyate yeṣu camaseṣu te camvaḥ | kṛṣi-camiti-nītyādinā | u. 1-81 [?] | ūḥ | tatra*

| sīdantīti camūśadaḥ | sat-sūdvīṣety-ādinā | pā. 3-2-61 | kvip |
 | suśāmādeḥ ākṛtigaṇatvāt śatvam | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-
 | svaratvam | |

Translation: "O Indra and the other gods, for you the soma-juices (indavaḥ) are being well prepared (pra bhriyante) — they are accomplished with care. Of what kind? Matsarāḥ — causing satisfaction; Yāska says: 'matsara is soma, from mad "to be glad", in the sense of satisfaction' (Nirukta 2-[?]). Mādayiṣṇavaḥ — causes of delight. Drapsāḥ — in the form of drops. Madhvaḥ — sweet. Camūśadaḥ — resting in the camūs, the vessels such as the camasa. Pra — separated [from its verb bhriyante; P. 1-4-82 allows the separated use of a gati]." ²³ Grammar pages, noted briefly; the numerals 1-4-82, 7-4-28, 3-2-137, 6-4-55, 7-3-109 and 3-2-61 are as read from the print and agree with the standard Pāṇini numbering of the corresponding rules.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे इन्द्रादिदेवताः) ((he indrādi-devatāḥ)) — O Indra and the other deities | वः (vaḥ) — to you [Kannada: for you, with the accent of the second-person plural] | मत्सराः (matsarāḥ) — causing satisfaction | मादयिष्णवः (mādayiṣṇavaḥ) — causing delight | द्रप्साः

23. The remainder is grammar, noted briefly: for bhriyante the root bhr̥ in the passive with the substitute riñ by P. 7-4-28; for indavaḥ the root undī "to wet" with the u suffix and i in place of the first letter; for matsarāḥ the root madī "to be satisfied" with a suffix carrying the indicatory c (accent on the last syllable); for mādayiṣṇavaḥ the causative of mad with iṣṇuc by P. 3-2-137 and the ay substitution; for madhvaḥ a note that the neuter madhu is here used in the masculine by vyatyaya and that the guṇa is not applied before jas (P. 7-3-109); for camūśadaḥ the root cam "to eat", the formation camvaḥ "the vessels in which [soma] is eaten/drank" with the Uṇādi ūḥ (Uṇ. 1-[?]), then sad + kvip (P. 3-2-61) and the śatva by the 'open-class' list suśāmādi, with the accent of the compound that of its final member.

(drapsāḥ) — in the form of drops | मध्वः (madhvaḥ) — sweet | चमूषदः (camūśadaḥ) — resting in the camasa-vessels | इन्द्रवः (indavaḥ) — the soma-juices | प्र भ्रियन्ते (pra bhriyante) — are being well prepared.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra and the other gods! For you these soma-juices — sweet, giving you delight and satisfaction, in the form of drops — are being made ready (or: being offered).

॥ English Translation ॥ ²⁴

For you (gods) are poured out these (soma) juices, satisfying, exhilarating, sweet, falling in drops or standing in the cup.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

मत्सराः (matsarāḥ) — "Soma is called matsara because it makes people glad, being mad ('to be satisfied')" (Ni. 2-[?], the Yāska quotation matsaraḥ somo madanty asmin tṛptikarmaṇaḥ [?]). Because it brings joy, the soma-juice is called matsara.

मादयिष्णवः (mādayiṣṇavaḥ) — from the root madī ("to rejoice, to be exhausted/gladdened"), a word meaning "that which causes joy".

द्रप्साः (drapsāḥ)

— "in the form of drops": when the soma-creeper is crushed, the juice trickles out drop by drop, so it is called "drop-like".

चमूषदः (camūśadaḥ) — camyate bhakṣyate yeṣu camaseṣu te camvaḥ: the sacrificial vessel called camasa. The camasa is the vessel used for drinking or eating, so the word camasa is formed in that sense; "that which sits in such a vessel": the soma-juice.

original pp. 599–603

24. The print has "exhilarat-ing," with a stray full stop and "(g:ods)" at the line break — misprints [sic]; I give the words as intended.

Sūkta 14, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ईळते त्वामवस्यवः कण्वासो वृक्तबर्हिषः । हविष्मन्तो अरंकृतः ॥५॥

īlate tvām avasyavaḥ kaṇvāso vṛktabarhiṣaḥ | haviṣmanto araṅkṛtaḥ || 5 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ईळते । त्वाम् । अवस्यवः । कण्वासः । वृक्तऽबर्हिषः ॥ हविष्मन्तः । अरम्ऽकृतः ॥५॥

*īlate | tvām | avasyavaḥ | kaṇvāsaḥ | vṛkta-barhiṣaḥ | |
haviṣmantaḥ | araṁ-kṛtaḥ || 5 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ²⁵

हे अग्ने त्वामीळते ऋत्विजः स्तुवन्ति । कीदृशाः । अवस्यवः । अवनं रक्षणं तद्देवोऽ...न् [?] देवानिच्छन्तः । कण्वासो मेधाविनो वृक्तबर्हिष आस्तरणार्थं छिन्नदर्भा हविष्मन्तो हविर्युक्ता अरंकृतोऽलंकर्तारः ॥ ईळते । ईड स्तुतौ । अनुदात्तेत्वाल्लटो झः । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शप इति शपो लुक् । झस्यात्वादेशः । टैरेत्वम् । तास्यनुदात्तेदित्यादिना लसार्वाधातुकस्यानुदात्तत्वाद्वातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । अवस्यवः । अवमात्मन इच्छन्ति । सुप आत्मनः क्यच् । क्यचि च । पा. ७-४-३३ । इतीत्त्वं न भवति । न छन्दस्यपुत्रस्य । पा. ७-४-३५ । इति निषेधात् । सर्वप्रातिपदिकेभ्यो लालसायां सुगवक्तव्यः । ... इति सुक् । क्याच्छन्दसीत्युप्रत्ययः । आतो लोपः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तत्वम् । कण्वासः । कण शब्दार्थः । कणन्ति ध्वनन्ति स्तोत्रादिपाठेनेति कण्वा ऋत्विजः । अशूषुषीत्यादिना क्वन् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । आज्जसेरसुक् । पा. ७-१-५० । इत्यसुक् । वृक्तबर्हिषः । वृक्तमुक्तं । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । हविष्मन्तः । हविरेषामस्तीति हविष्मन्तः । तसौ मत्वर्थ इति भत्वेनापदत्वान्न रुत्वम् । अरंकृतः । अलंकुर्वन्तीत्यरंकृतः । क्विप् च । क्विप् । ह्रस्वस्य तुक् । कपिलकादीनां संज्ञाच्छन्दसोर्वा लो रश्चमापद्यते । इति लकारस्य रेफादेशः ॥

*he agne tvām īlate ṛtvijah stuvanti | kīdrśāḥ | avasyavaḥ |
avanaṁ rakṣaṇaṁ tad-... [?] devān icchantah | kaṇvāso medhāvino vṛkta-barhiṣa āstaraṇārthaṁ chinna-darbhā haviṣmanto havir-yuktā araṅkṛto 'laṅkartāraḥ | | īlate | īda*

stutau | anudāttettvāl laṭo jhaḥ | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapa iti śapo luk | jhasyātvādeśaḥ | ṭer ettvam | tāsya-anudāttetty-ādinā lasārvadhātukasyānudāttatvād dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | avasyavaḥ | avam ātmana icchanti | supa ātmanaḥ kyac |
 kyaci ca | pā. 7-4-33 | itittvaṃ na bhavati | na chandasy aputrasya | pā. 7-4-35 | iti niṣedhāt | sarva-prātipadikebhya lālasāyāṃ sug vaktavyaḥ | ... iti suk | kyāc chandasīty upratyayaḥ | āto lopah | pratyaya-svareṇāntodāttatvam |
 kaṇvāsaḥ | kaṇa śabdārthaḥ | kaṇanti dhvananti stotrādipāṭheneti kaṇvā ṛtvijaḥ | asūpruṣīty-ādinā kvan | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | āj jaser asuk | pā. 7-1-50 | ity asuk | vṛkta-barhiṣaḥ | vṛktam uktam | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | haviṣmantaḥ | havir eṣām astīti haviṣmantaḥ |
 tasau matvartha iti bhatvenāpadatvān na rutvam | araṅkṛtaḥ
 | alaṅkurvantīty araṅkṛtaḥ | kvip ca | kvip | hrasvasya tuk | kapilakādīnāṃ saṃjñā-chandasor vā lo raś camāpadyate | iti
 lakārasya repha-ādeśaḥ | |

Translation: "O Agni, the priests praise (īlate) you. Of what sort? Avasyavaḥ — desiring avana, protection, [from the gods]; kaṇvāsaḥ — the wise [priests]; vṛktabarhiṣaḥ — having cut the darbha grass for spreading [as your seat]; haviṣmantaḥ — possessing oblations; araṅkṛtaḥ — adorners (those who decorate)." ²⁶ The rest is grammar: īlate — root īḍ "to praise", laṭ, third plural jha → ate, śap dropped, accent kept on the root; avasyavaḥ — avam ātmana icchanti: kyac in the sense of wishing, with suk (P. 7-4-33 and 7-4-35 bar the ī-lengthening), then the u suffix and the loss of ā; kaṇvāsaḥ — root kaṇ "to sound": "they sound, i.e. voice the hymns" — kvan by the Uṇādi sūtra asūpruṣi..., first-syllable accent, the plural ending asuk by P. 7-1-50 āj jaser asuk; vṛktabarhiṣaḥ — vṛkta = "cut off", a bahuvrīhi keeping the accent of the first member; haviṣmantaḥ — "those who have havis"; araṅkṛtaḥ — "those who make fit", alam +

26. The words after "protection" in the second sentence are partly unclear in the print; I give them with a query.

kṛ + kvip, tuk after a short vowel, and the optional change of l to r in the word alam by the Vārttika kapilakādīnāṃ saṃjñā-chandasor vā lo raś ca... ²⁷

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे अग्ने) ((he agne)) — O Agni | अवस्यवः (avasyavaḥ) — desiring the help of the gods, for protection | वृक्तबर्हिषः (vṛkta-barhiṣaḥ) — having the darbha grass trimmed (for your seat) | हविष्मन्तः (haviṣmantah) — holding the oblation | अरंकृतः (araṅkṛtaḥ) — offering ornaments | कण्वासः (kaṇvāsaḥ) — the wise priests, or priests of the lineage of the ṛṣi Kaṇva | त्वाम् (tvām) — you | ईळते (īlate) — praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! The priests seek the help of the gods for the protection of their sacrifice; they are skilled in praising. You are the one who calls the gods; therefore they now praise you. For your seat they have prepared the darbha grass; they offer the oblation and ornaments. Be gracious and come.

॥ English Translation ॥ ²⁸

O Agni, the Kanvas (or the wise priests) desirous of your favour, having spread [print: "spiead", sic] the sacrificial grass and carrying the oblations and ornaments are praising you.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

27. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtras 7-4-33, 7-4-35, 7-1-50 are as read and match the standard numbering; the remaining numerals I could not read at 150 dpi.

28. A bare numeral "76" follows at the foot of p. 601, as with the earlier "74" and "75".

अवस्यवः (avasyavaḥ) — avanam rakṣanam tad icchantāḥ devān [the print of the Sanskrit gloss as read]; avanti ity avā devāḥ: because the gods protect human beings, the gods are called avāḥ; those who desire them are avasyavaḥ.

कण्वासः (kaṇvāsaḥ) — the plural of kaṇva; kaṇvāḥ is the ancient form of use. Kaṇanti dhvananti stotrādi-pāṭhena iti kaṇvāḥ rtvijāḥ medhāvināḥ: those who sound (utter aloud) hymns and so on are called kaṇvāḥ, priests; the word also has the sense medhāvin "intelligent" (see Rik 2). The commentator takes the word in the sense obtained from its derivation; another sense is possible, since the ṛṣi of this rik is of the Kaṇva lineage: in naming himself and his fellow priests, sacrificers and others of his family, the speaker would naturally use kaṇvāsaḥ with the meaning "we, who are of the lineage of the ṛṣi Kaṇva".

वृक्तबर्हिषः (vr̥kta-barhiṣaḥ)

— we have given the explanation of this word earlier [the print gives a Sūkta/Rik pointer, "Sūkta 13 rik 3"? (the numerals are small and I read them with a query)].

अरंकृतः (araṅkṛtaḥ)

— for the explanation of this word see the Ṛgveda Saṃhitā, earlier part, [page numeral unreadable] [?].

original pp. 603–607

Sūkta 14, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

घृतपृष्ठा मनोयुजो ये त्वा वहन्ति वह्नयः । आ देवान्सोमपीतये ॥६॥

*ghṛtapṛṣṭhā manoyujo ye tvā vahanti vahnayaḥ | ā devān
somapītaye ||6||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁹

घृतऽपृष्ठाः । मनऽयुजः । ये । त्वा । वहन्ति । वह्नयः ॥ आ । देवान् । सोमऽपीतये ॥६॥

ghṛta-prṣṭhāḥ | manah-yujah | ye | tvā | vahanti | vahnayah
 || ā | devān | soma-pītaye || 6 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने त्वा त्वां ये ऽश्वास्त्वा रथेन वहन्ति । कीदृशाः । घृतपृष्ठाः । पुष्टाङ्गत्वेन दीप्तपृष्ठा मनोयुजो मनःसंकल्पमात्रेण रथे युज्यमानाः वह्नयो वोढारः तैरश्वैः सोमपीतये सोमपानयोगार्थं देवानावहेति शेषः । घृतपृष्ठाः । घृ क्षरणदीप्त्योः । घृतं दीप्तं पृष्ठं येषां ते घृतपृष्ठाः । घृतशब्दः प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । मनसा युज्जते इति मनोयुजः । ऋत्विग्दधृक्प्रगिदुष्णिगञ्चुयुजिकृञ्चां च । पा. ३-२-५९ [?] । इति क्विन् । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । त्वा । त्वामौ द्वितीयायाः । पा. ८-१-२३ । इत्यनुदात्तस्त्वादेशः । वहन्ति । शप्लुगोऽनुदात्तत्वाद्भातुस्वरः [?] । यद्वृत्तयोगान्निघाताभावः । वह्नयः । नि [इति] अनुवृत्तौ वहिश्चिभ्रुयुद्रुलाहात्वरिभ्यो निः । उ. ४-[?] । इति निप्रत्ययः । तस्य निच्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । सोमपीतये । उक्तम् । ... धुडागमः । खरि च । पा. ८-४-५५ । इति चर्त्वम् । चयो द्वितीयाः शरि पौष्करसादेः [वार्त्तिक] । इति द्वितीयस्थकारः ॥६॥

he agne tvā tvām ye 'śvās tvā rathena vahanti | kīdrśāḥ |
ghṛtaprṣṭhāḥ | puṣṭāṅgatvena dīpta-prṣṭhā manoyujo manah-saṃkalpa-mātreṇa rathe yujyamānāḥ vahnayo vodhārah tair aśvaiḥ somapītaye soma-pāna-yogārthaṃ devān āvaheti śeṣaḥ || ghṛtaprṣṭhāḥ | ghṛ kṣaraṇa-dīptyoḥ | ghṛtaṃ dīptaṃ
prṣṭhaṃ yeśāṃ te ghṛtaprṣṭhāḥ | ghṛta-śabdaḥ pratyayasvareṇāntodāttah | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam
 | manasā yuñjate iti manoyujah | ṛtvig-dadhṛk-sraj-dig-uṣṇig- añcu-yuji-kruñcām ca | pā. 3-2-59 [?] | iti kvin | kṛduttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | tvā | tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ | pā.
8-1-23 | ity anudāttas tvādeśaḥ | vahanti | śap-lugor
anudāttatvād dhātu-svaraḥ [?] | yad-vṛtta-yogān
nighātābhāvaḥ | vahnayah | ni [iti] anuvṛttau vahi-śrī-śru-yu-
dru-gla-hā-tvaribhyo niḥ | u. 4-[?] | iti ni-pratyayah | tasya nittvād ādyudāttatvam | somapītaye | uktam | ...

*dhuḍāgamaḥ | khari ca | pā. 8-4-55 | iti cartvam | cayo
dvitīyāḥ śari pauṣkarasāder [vārttika] | iti dvitīya-sthakāraḥ
||6||*

Translation: "O Agni! The horses that carry you, by chariot — of what kind are they? Ghṛtapṛṣṭhāḥ: with glossy backs, shining because their bodies are well nourished; manoyujāḥ: yoked to the chariot by the mere purpose of the mind; vahnayaḥ: bearers. With those horses, bring the gods (the verb ā vaha is to be supplied) to share in the drinking of the soma." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: ghṛtapṛṣṭhāḥ (root ghṛ "to drip, to shine"; the bahuvrīhi keeps the accent of its first member); manoyujāḥ (manas + yuj with kvin by P. 3-2-59 [the numeral is uncertain]; the accent of the compound is that of its final member); tvā (P. 8-1-23, the unaccented substitute); vahanti (accent stays on the root; no nighāta because of the relative ye, P. 8-1-66 [?] yadvṛttān nityam); vahnayaḥ (the Uṇādi ni suffix, indicative n, first-syllable accent); somapītaye (explained earlier; here the dhuṭ augment of the n of devān before s [P. 8-3-30 as read; the standard number of this rule is 8-3-29 or 8-3-30], then khari ca P. 8-4-55, then the Vārttika on the second-class letter after a cay letter before śar, pauṣkarasāder: devān t-somapītaye, i.e. devāñ t somapītaye in the Samhitā.)³⁰

Grammar pages (pp. 605–607), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats ghṛtapṛṣṭhāḥ (the ghṛta word by the Phiṭ-sūtra on accent, Phiṭ 3-[?]; bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, P. 6-2-1), manoyujāḥ (the kvin of the Pāṇinian list rtvig-dadhṛk-sraj-dig-uṣṇig-añcu-yuji-kruñcām ca, P. 3-2-59; the Kaumudī's view that kvin needs no upapada, against the Vedabhāṣya's view that it is added to yuj with an upapada), tvā (P. 8-1-23), vahanti (the laṭ with jhi → anti; the śap and the accent rules 3-1-4 and 6-1-186 tāsy-anudāttenni-ḍad-upadeśāt), and then, at length, the rule yadvṛttān nityam (P. 8-1-66) — that a finite verb following a clause with ye is not made unaccented — together with the Vārttika

30. Grammar pages (pp. 605–607), noted briefly, as above.

pūjanāt pūjitam anudāttam kāṣṭhādibhyaḥ (the "adored one" is unaccented after kāṣṭha etc.) and the debate on pūjanāt's fifth-case sense, whether anantaryārtha "immediately after" is intended and so whether tasmād ity uttarasya (P. 1-1-67) governs; the conclusion reached is that nighāta does not occur in ye tvā vahanti, hence "all-unaccented" does not apply. Then vahnayaḥ (the Uṇādi niḥ suffix, with vah "to carry"), and somapītaye, where the dhuṣ augment and the cartva rules are explained (P. 8-3-30 [?], 8-4-55, with the Vārttika of the Pauṣkarasādi school, and P. 1-1-50 sthāne 'ntaratamaḥ; P. 8-4-47 [?]).³¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे अग्ने) ((he agne)) — O Agni | घृतपृष्ठाः (ghṛta-prṣṭhāḥ) — having glossy backs, shining because well nourished | मनोयुजः (manoyujah) — those that yoke themselves to the chariot by mere intention | ये (ye) — which horses | वहयः (vahnayaḥ) — capable of carrying | त्वा (tvā) — you | वहन्ति (vahanti) — carry (bring) | सोमपीतये (somapītaye) — for the drinking of soma | देवान् (devān) — the gods | आ (वह) (ā (vaha)) — bring [with those horses].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! The horses that carry you, seated in the chariot, to the sacrificial ground have backs that shine because they are so well nourished. They can yoke themselves to the chariot at your mere wish; they are strong to carry. With those horses, bring the gods to drink the soma.

॥ English Translation ॥

31. Crowded print; I give only the words treated and the sūtras I could read; numerals marked [?] are uncertain.

By means of horses which have backs as soft and smooth as clarified butter which harnessing themselves promptly according to your wish, carry you and the gods hither to drink soma-juice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

घृतपृष्ठाः (ghṛtapṛṣṭhāḥ) — we have explained this word in the ninth rik of the preceding sūkta (printed "p. 549" — a Kannada cross-reference to the earlier page). Here the word qualifies vahnayaḥ "horses", so the sense is slightly different: horses whose backs are as smooth, shining and soft as clarified butter.

वहयः (vahnayaḥ) — vodhāraḥ aśvā ity arthaḥ: "bearers, horses"; because they carry the chariot, horses are called vahnayaḥ.

मनोयुजः (manoyujaḥ) — the horses are yoked to the chariot by the mere mental intention of Agni; manasā yuñjate iti manoyujaḥ is the derivation.

original pp. 607–610

Sūkta 14, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तान्यजत्राँ ऋतावृधो ऽग्ने पत्नीवतस्कृधि । मध्वः सुजिह्व पायय ॥७॥

*tān yajatrāṃ ṛtāvṛdho 'gne patnīvatas kṛdhi | madhvaḥ
sujihva pāyaya || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³²

तान् । यजत्रान् । ऋतऽवृधः । अग्ने । पत्नीऽवतः । कृधि ॥ मध्वः । सुऽजिह्व । पायय ॥७॥

*tān | yajatrān | ṛta-vṛdhaḥ | agne | patnī-vataḥ | kṛdhi | |
madhvaḥ | su-jihva | pāyaya || 7 ||*

32. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā's first word is tān yajatrān, joined in sandhi as tāñ yajatrāṃ — as printed: tānyajatrāṃ.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने तानिन्द्रादीन्देवान्यजत्रान्यजनीयान् ऋतावृधः सत्यस्य यज्ञस्य वा वर्धकान् पत्नीवतः
 पत्नीयुक्तान्कृधि । कुरु । हे सुजिह्व । शोभनजिह्वोपेत मध्वो मधुरस्य सोमस्य भागं
 देवान्पाययेति शेषः ॥ यजत्रा । अमिनक्षियजिबन्धिपतिभ्यस्त्रन् [?] । उ. [?] । इति
 यजेस्त्रप्रत्ययः । ऋतावृधः । वृधु वृद्धौ । अन्तर्भावितण्यर्थात्क्विप् च [?] इति क्विप् ।
 आङ्घ्रेषामपि दृश्यते इति पूर्वपदस्य दीर्घत्वम् । वृद्धेर्धातुस्वरः । समासे
 कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । अग्ने । पादादित्वान्नामन्त्रितेनिघातः । षाष्ठिकमाद्युदात्तत्वम् ।
 पत्नीवतः । पत्युर्नो यज्ञसंयोगे । पा. ४-१-३३ । इति डीप् । ईकारस्य च नकारः । ता एषां
 सन्तीति मतुप् । छन्दसीर इति वत्वम् । पतिशब्दो ढतिप्रत्ययान्तत्वादाद्युदात्तः ।
 डीन्मत्तुपोरनुदात्तत्वात्प्रत्यय एव [?] शिष्यते । कृधि । कृजो लोटः सिः । सेह्वपिच्चेति हिः ।
 बहुलं छन्दसीति विकरणलुक् । श्रुशृणुपृकृवृभ्यश्छन्दसि । पा. ६-४-१०२ । इति हेर्धिरादेशः ।
 जित्वाद्गुणाभावः । मध्वः । उक्तम् । सुजिह्व । आमन्त्रितनिघातः । पायय । पा पाने । पिबन्तं
 प्रयुङ्क्ते इति हेतुमति चेति णिच् । शाच्छासाह्वाव्यावेपां युक् । पा. ७-३-३७ । इति युक् ।
 पूर्वस्यामन्त्रितस्याविद्यमानवत्त्वम् । ... तिङ्ङतिङ् इति निघातः ॥७॥

he agne tāt indrādīn devān yajatrān yajanīyān ṛtāvṛdhah satyasya yajñasya vā vardhakān patnīvataḥ patnī-yuktān kṛdhi | kuru | he sujihva | śobhana-jihvopeta madhvo
madhurasya somasya bhāgaṃ devān pāyayeti śeṣaḥ | | yajatrā
| amina-kṣi-yaji-bandhi-patibhyas tran [?] | u. [?] | iti yajes tra-pratyayaḥ | ṛtāvṛdhah | ṛdhu ṛddhau | antarbhāvita-ṇyarthāt kvip ca [?] iti kvip | ān-yeṣām api dṛśyate iti
pūrvapadasya dīrghatvam | ṛddher dhātu-svaraḥ | samāse
kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | agne | pādāditvān
nāmantrite nighātaḥ | ṣāṣṭhikam ādyudāttatvam | patnīvataḥ
| patyur no yajña-saṃyoge | pā. 4-1-33 | iti nīp | ikārasya ca nakāraḥ | tā eṣāṃ santīti matup | chandasīra iti vatvam |
pati-śabdo ḍati-pratyayāntatvād ādyudāttaḥ | nīn-matupor anudāttatvāt pratyaya eva [?] śiṣyate | kṛdhi | kṛño loṭaḥ siḥ | ser hy apic ceti hiḥ | bahulaṃ chandasīti vikaraṇa-luk | śru-
śṛṇu-pr-kṛ-vṛbhyaś chandasi | pā. 6-4-102 | iti her dhir ādeśaḥ
| nīttvād guṇābhāvaḥ | madhvaḥ | uktam | sujihva |
āmantrita-nighātaḥ | pāyaya | pā pāne | pibantaṃ prayuṅkte

iti hetumati ceti ṇic | śācchāsāhvāvyāvepām yuk | pā. 7-3-37 |
 iti yuk | pūrvasyāmantritasyāvidyamānavattvam | ... tiñ atañ
 iti nighātaḥ ||7||

Translation: "O Agni! Make those gods — Indra and the rest — yajatrāḥ: worthy of worship; ṛtāvṛdhaḥ: who cause the truth (or the sacrifice) to grow; patnīvataḥ: accompanied by their wives. Kṛdhi: do it. O sujihva — you of the beautiful tongue — [make them] drink their share of the sweet (madhvaḥ) soma." The rest is grammar: yajatrā (the Uṇādi tran after yaj; I give the sūtra as [?]); ṛtāvṛdhaḥ (vṛdh with kvīp, the lengthening of the first member of the compound; the accent of the root); agne (as in earlier riks); patnīvataḥ (pati → patnī by P. 4-1-33 patyur no yajña-saṃyoge with ñīp and the n; then matup, with va in the Veda); kṛdhi (kṛ + loṭ, hi → dhi by P. 6-4-102 śru-śṛṇu-pr-kṛ-vṛbhyaś chandasī); pāyaya (the causative of pā "to drink", with yuk by P. 7-3-37 śācchāsāhvāvyāvepām yuk).³³

Grammar pages (pp. 608–610), noted briefly. The Kannada treats yajatrān (the Uṇādi sūtra aminakṣiyajivadhīpatibhyas tran, Uṇ. 3-[?]; accent by the indicatory n; the ru of the accusative plural before a vowel by P. 8-3-4 [?], then the *anunāsika by P. 8-3-2 [?]), ṛtāvṛdhaḥ (ṛta as upapada with ṇic hidden in the root; kvīp by P. 3-2-76 [?]; āñ-yeṣām api dṛśyate P. 6-3-[?]), agne (the vocative at the beginning of the pāda is accented first-syllable by P. 6-1-198, not unaccented by P. 8-1-19 [?]), and at some length patnīvataḥ — the rule patyur no yajña-saṃyoge (P. 4-1-33) and a discussion whether the word pati in this rule is the 'husband' who is a sacrificer with his wife (the saha-adhikāra of couples in the sacrifice, supported by the Kaiyaṭa's gloss patnī-ñīṣ-ca dampatyor yajña-adhikāra, and by the Pūrva-Mīmāṃsā passages in Adhyāya 6, Pāda 1 about the couple's joint right), with the point that the word pati here means "lord" (aiśvarya), as in the Mahābhāṣya, 33. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numbers 4-1-33, 6-4-102 and 7-3-37 are as read and agree with the standard numbering.

and that the feminine-with-n occurs where the aiśvarya arises from connection with the sacrifice. Then matup with chandasīra va; pati by the Uṇādi ḍati (Uṇ. 4-[?]); kṛdhi and pāyaya as above; with a discussion of the roots pā "to protect" and pā "to drink" and the yuk augment.³⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | यजत्रान् (yajatrān) — worthy of worship | पत्नीवतः (patnīvataḥ) — accompanied by their wives | तान् (tān) — those gods beginning with Indra | ऋतावृधः (ṛtāvṛdhaḥ) — as those who make the sacrifice (the truth) grow | कृधि (kṛdhi) — make [them so] | सुजिह्व (sujihva) — O Agni of the radiant tongue | मध्वः (madhvah) — the sweet soma-juice | पायय (pāyaya) — make [them] drink.³⁵

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! Indra and the other gods are worthy of worship. Call them together with their wives, and make our sacrifice prosper — to our great joy. O Agni, you of the radiant tongue, make Indra and the other gods drink the sweet soma-juice.

॥ English Translation ॥³⁶

O sweet tongued Agni, put those adorable gods with their wives here and make them drink of the sweet Soma

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

यजत्रान् (yajatrān) — yajanīyān: those worthy of worship.

पत्नीवतः (patnīvataḥ)

— those accompanied by their wives.

34. A crowded run of four pages; reproduced in outline only; I did not chase the numerals.

35. The print has पायय as in the Saṃhitā.

36. The print has no full stop at the end.

ऋतावृधः (ṛtāvṛdhah) — ṛtasya satyasya vā yajñasya vardhakān: "those who make the sacrificial act grow" — who cause it to proceed without obstacles.

मध्वः (madhvah) — "of the soma-juice". If the word bhāgam ("portion") is supplied (adhyāhāra), the sense becomes "a portion of the soma-juice".

Rik 7, grammar tail (p. 611, upper part), noted briefly. The discussion of pāyaya ends: the root pā "to protect" (second conjugation, with luk of the vikaraṇa) and pā "to drink" (first conjugation, aluk) are both possible bases of pāyi; the rule on luk/aluk directs the choice to the root of the first class. Pāyaya is thus pā + ṇic + yuk (pāy) + loṭ + sip, with śap, the guṇa, the ay substitute, and hi for si with luk of hi. The preceding vocative sujihva is treated as non-existent (P. 8-1-72 āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat) so that it does not intervene; hence, with madhvah as the cause, pāyaya is wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28 tiṅ ātiṅah [as read: tiṅ ātiṅah].³⁷

original pp. 611–613

Sūkta 14, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये यजत्रा य ईड्यास्ते ते पिबन्तु जिह्या । मधोरग्ने वषट्कृति ॥८॥

*ye yajatrā ya īdyās te te pibantu jihvayā | madhor agne
vaṣaṭkṛti ||8||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये । यजत्राः । ये । ईड्याः । ते । ते । पिबन्तु । जिह्या ॥ मधोः । अग्ने । वषट्कृति ॥८॥

*ye | yajatrāḥ | ye | īdyāḥ | te | te | pibantu | jihvayā |
madhoḥ | agne | vaṣaṭ-kṛti ||8||*

37. Grammar page; sūtra numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ये देवा यजत्रा यष्टव्याः । तथा ये देवा ईड्याः स्तुत्याः । ते सर्वेऽपि वषट्कृति वषट्कारकाले वषट्कारयुक्ते योगे वा हे अग्ने ते त्वदीयया जिह्वया मधोर्मधुरस्य सोमस्य भागं पिबन्तु ॥ यजत्राः । गतम् । ईड्याः । ईड स्तुतौ । ऋहलोर्ण्यत् । तिङ्स्वरे प्राप्ते ईडवन्द्वृशंसदुहां ण्यतः इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । द्वितीयस्य तेशब्दस्य युष्मदादेशस्य सर्वानुदात्तत्वम् । मधोः । उप्रत्ययस्य नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तत्वमुक्तम् । अग्ने । आमन्त्रितनिघातः । वषट्कृति । करोतेः सम्पदादिभ्यः क्विप् भावे । वषडित्यस्य करणं यस्मिन्याग इति बहुव्रीहिः । वषडित्यस्य विशाकत्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् [?] । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥८॥

ye devā yajatrā yaṣṭavyāḥ | tathā ye devā īḍyāḥ stutyāḥ | te sarve 'pi vaṣaṭkṛti vaṣaṭkāra-kāle vaṣaṭkāra-yukte yoge vā he agne te tvadīyayā jihvayā madhor madhurasya somasya bhāgaṃ pibantu | | yajatrāḥ | gatam | īḍyāḥ | īḍa stutau | ṛhaloṇ ṇyat | tiṅ-svare prāpte īḍa-vandvavrśamsaduhāṃ ṇyataḥ ity ādyudāttatvam | dvitīyasya te-śabdasya yuṣmad-ādeśasya sarvānudāttatvam | madhoḥ | u-pratyayasya nittvād ādyudāttatvam uktam | agne | āmantrita-nighātaḥ | vaṣaṭkṛti | karoteḥ sampadādibhyaḥ kvip bhāve | vaṣaḍ ity asya karaṇaṃ yasminn yāga iti bahuvrīhiḥ | vaṣaḍ ity asya viśākatvād ādyudāttatvam [?] | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | |8| |

Translation: "Those gods who are yajatrāḥ — to be sacrificed to; and those who are īḍyāḥ — to be praised: may all of them, at the vaṣaṭkāra (at the moment of the call vaṣaṭ, or in the rite which has the vaṣaṭ-call), drink, O Agni, through your tongue (te jihvayā), a share of the sweet (madhoḥ) soma. Yajatrāḥ — gone through [in Rik 7]. Īḍyāḥ — from īḍ, "to praise", with ṇyat, first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-215 īḍavandavṛśamsaduhāṃ ṇyataḥ; the second te is the substitute for tava and is wholly unaccented. Madhoḥ — the u-suffix with indicatory n: first-syllable accent, as said. Vaṣaṭkṛti — kṛ with kvip in the noun-of-action sense (the group sampadādi), the bahuvrīhi 'that in which the making of vaṣaṭ is'; the compound keeps the accent of its first member [the clause on the first-syllable accent of vaṣaṭ is partly unclear in the print]." ³⁸

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | ये (ye) — which deities | यजत्राः (yajatrāḥ) — worthy of the share in the sacrifice (and likewise) | ये (ye) — which deities | ईड्याः (īdyāḥ) — worthy of praise | ते (te) — they all | वषट्कृति (vaṣaṭkṛti) — at the time of the vaṣaṭ-call in the sacrifice (at the time of offering the oblation) | ते (te) — your | जिह्वया (jihvayā) — with the tongue (since the oblation is made in Agni) | मधोः (madhoḥ) — of the sweet soma-juice [portion] | पिबन्तु (pibantu) — let them drink.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! Whatever deities are worthy of a share in the sacrifice, and all who are worthy of praise — let them all, at the moment of the vaṣaṭ-call, when the oblation is being offered, drink the sweet soma-juice through your very mouth — that is, through the oblation poured into Agni.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, those gods that deserve to be sacrificed and those that deserve to be praised, may they drink of the sweet soma with your tongue as soon as (the word) Vaṣaṭ is pronounced

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

यजत्राः (yajatrāḥ) — yajanīyāḥ: worthy of worship, worthy of a share in the sacrifice.

ईड्याः (īdyāḥ)

38. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-1-215 as read agrees with the standard numbering.

— worthy of praise, worthy of commendation.

वषट्कृति (vaṣaṭkṛti) — at the time of the vaṣaṭkāra, or in a sacrifice that has the vaṣaṭkāra. When oblations are being offered with certain mantras in a sacrifice, at the end of the mantra the word vaṣaṭ [sic: the print gives vaṣaṭ] is pronounced like the svāhā-call. This is called vaṣaṭkṛti or vaṣaṭkāra.

Grammar pages (pp. 612–613), noted briefly. Yajatrāḥ is referred back to the previous rik. Īḍyāḥ: īḍ "to praise", a root ending in a consonant, ṇyat by P. 3-1-124 ṛhaloṇ ṇyat [the numeral as read], so that the ṇyat-ending would take the ṇit accent by P. 6-1-185 [?] but this is overridden by the special rule P. 6-1-215 īḍavandavṛśaṃsaduhām ṇyataḥ, giving the first-syllable accent in īḍya. Te (nominative plural of tad): jas, tyadādīnām aḥ P. 7-2-102, ato guṇe P. 6-1-97, jasaḥ śī P. 7-1-17, and the śī→e by āc-guṇa with P. 6-1-87; the second te is the te mayāv... substitute for tava, wholly unaccented. Madhoḥ: the u-suffix and the first-syllable accent, as in the previous rik; the word is in the ghi class by P. 1-4-7 [?] so guṇa before ṇas by P. 7-3-111 gher ṇiti — which the paribhāṣā "a rule that has a name as its condition is non-eternal" prevents. Agne: the vocative, unaccented. Vaṣaṭkṛti: sampadādibhyaḥ kvip, P. 3-3-108 Vārttika [?], tuk by P. 6-1-71 hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk, vaṣaṭ as a nipāta with the first-syllable accent by Phiṭ [?] nipātā ādyudāttāḥ, locative singular vaṣaṭkṛti.³⁹

original pp. 613–616

Sūkta 14, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आकीं सूर्यस्य रोचनाद्विश्वान्देवाँ उषर्बुधः । विप्रो होतेह वक्षति ॥९॥

ākīm sūryasya rocanād viśvān devāṃ uṣarbudhaḥ | vipro
hoteha vakṣati || 9 ||

39. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आकीम् । सूर्यस्य । रोचनात् । विश्वान् । देवान् । उषःऽबुधः ॥ विप्रः । होता । इह । वक्षति ॥

९॥

ākīm | sūryasya | rocanāt | viśvān | devān | uṣaḥ-budhaḥ | |
viprah | hotā | iha | vakṣati | |9| |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

विप्रो मेधावी होता होमनिष्पादकोऽग्निरुषर्बुध उषःकाले यागगमनाय
प्रबुध्यमानान्विश्वान्देवान्सूर्यस्य सम्बन्धिनो रोचनाद्दीप्तेः स्वर्गलोकादिह कर्मणि आकीं वक्षति । आवहतु ॥ आकीम् । निपात आद्युदात्तः । सूर्यस्य । सूर्यशब्दो राजसूयसूर्येत्यादिना । पा.
३-१-११४ । क्यप्रत्ययान्तो निपातितः । क्यपः पित्त्वाद्भातुस्वरेणाद्युदात्तः । रोचनात् ।
रोचमानात् । रुच दीप्तौ । अनुदात्तेतश्च हलादेः । पा. ३-२-१४९ । इति कर्तरि युच् । चित
इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । विश्वान् । विशेः क्वनन्तो नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । उषर्बुधः । उषसि बुध्यन्त
इत्युषर्बुधः । क्विप् च । धातुस्वरेणोकार उदात्तः । समासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । विप्रः ।
ऋज्रेन्द्राग्रेत्यादिना रन् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । होता । ह्यतेः स्पर्धायां ... तृन् । बहुलं छन्दसीति
संप्रसारणम् । परपूर्वत्वम् । गुणः । नित्स्वरेणाद्युदात्तः । इह । इदमो हः इति हप्रत्ययः । इदम्
इश् । शित्त्वात्सवदिशः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । वक्षति । वहेः प्रार्थनायां लिङर्थे लेट् । तस्य तिप् । कर्तरि शप् । सिब्वहुलं लेटीति सिप् । ढत्वकत्वषत्वानि । तिङ्ङितिङ् इति निघातः ॥९॥ vipro medhāvī hotā homa-niṣpādako 'gnir uṣarbudha uṣaḥ-kāle yāga-gamanāya prabudhyamānān viśvān devān sūryasya sambandhino rocanād dīpteḥ svarga-lokād iha karmaṇi ākīm vakṣati | āvahatu | | ākīm | nipāta ādyudāttaḥ | sūryasya |

sūrya-śabdo rājasūya-sūryety-ādinā | pā. 3-1-114 | kyap-pratyayānto nipātitaḥ | kyapaḥ pīttvād dhātu-svareṇādyudāttaḥ | rocanāt | rocamānāt | ruca dīptau |
anudāttetaś ca halādeḥ | pā. 3-2-149 | iti kartari yuc | cita ity antodāttatvam | viśvān | viśeḥ kvananto nittvād ādyudāttaḥ |
uṣarbudhaḥ | uṣasi budhyanta ity uṣarbudhaḥ | kvip ca |
dhātu-svareṇokāra udāttaḥ | samāse krd-uttarapada-prakṛti-
svaratvam | viprah | ṛjrendrāgrety-ādinā ran | nittvād
ādyudāttaḥ | hotā | hvayateḥ spardhāyām ... tṛn | bahulam
chandasīti samprasāraṇam | parapūrvatvam | guṇaḥ | nit-

svareṇādyudāttaḥ | iha | idamo haḥ iti ha-pratyayah | idama
 iś | śittvāt sarvādeśaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | vakṣati | vaheḥ prārthanāyāṃ liṅharthe leṭ | tasya tip | kartari śap | sib bahulaṃ leṭīti sip | ḍhatva-katva-ṣatvāni | tiṅ ataṅ iti
 nighātaḥ || 9 ||

Translation: "The vipra — the wise — hotā, the accomplisher of the homa, Agni: awake at dawn (uṣarbudhaḥ), may he bring (ā vakṣati), for this ritual action, all the gods, who awaken at dawn to go to the sacrifice, from the shining (rocanāt) heaven-world of the Sun (sūryasya).¹ The rest is grammar, noted briefly: sūrya (P. 3-1-114 lists seven words made with kyap by nipātana: rājasūya, sūrya, mṛṣodya, rucya, kupya, kṛṣṭapacya, avyathya); rocanāt (ruc "to shine" with yuc, P. 3-2-149 as read [the standard numbering of anudāttetaś ca halādeḥ is 3-2-149], accent from the indicator c); viśvān (viś + kvan); uṣarbudhaḥ (budh with kvip after the upapada uṣas); vipra (Uṇ. rjrendrāgra... ran); hotā (hve, trṇ; saṃprasāraṇa "variously in the Veda", parapūrva, guṇa); iha (idam + ha, P. 5-3-11, with iś for idam P. 5-3-3); vakṣati (vah in the sense of prayer, leṭ in place of liṅ P. 3-4-7, sip and sib bahulaṃ leṭī P. 3-1-34; ḍhatva, katva, ṣatva; the verb is wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

विप्रः (viprah) — the wise [Agni] | होता (hotā) — Agni, who accomplishes the homa | उषर्बुधः (uṣarbudhaḥ) — [those] awake at dawn for going to the sacrifice | विश्वान् देवान् (viśvān devān) — all the gods | सूर्यस्य (sūryasya) — of the Sun | रोचनात् (rocanāt) — from the bright region (from the heavenly world, or the sky) | इह (iha) — to this action (to the sacrifice) | आकीं वक्षति (ākīm vakṣati) — may he bring (invite).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Agni is wise, the accomplisher of the homa. For the sake of the sacrifice he wakes all the gods at dawn; may he bring them all from the Sun's bright heaven to this sacrifice.

« English Translation »

Let the wise invoker of the gods bring hither, from the region of solar light the Visve Devas (all the gods) that awake with the dawn.

« Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) »

आकीम् (ākīm) — Yāska says that nine words beginning with hikam, nukam, sukam, ahikam, ākīm [as read] are listed as the sarva-pada-samāmnāya — "words in which every word is read" (Ni. 3-[?], the printed reference reads "3-13" with uncertainty). The word ākīm is a particle in the sense of "ā (towards)", used as a preposition; so here ākīm vakṣati means "ā vakṣati" (may he bring).

उषर्बुधः (uṣarbudhaḥ) — "awaking at dawn for the sake of going to the sacrifice"; uṣasi budhyante iti uṣarbudhaḥ — those awake at the time of dawn.

होता (hotā) — here "hotā" means Agni, who invokes the deities.

Grammar pages (pp. 615–616), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats ākīm (a particle, first-syllable accent), sūryasya (P. 3-1-114 rājasūya-sūrya-mṛṣodya-rucya-kupya-kṛṣṭapacya-avyathyāḥ — the seven kyap-words: for sūrya, either from sṛ "to go" [the sky-goer] or from suvaṭi karmaṇi lokaṃ preraya "he who impels people to work" with rut/ruḍ augment, accent on the first syllable), rocanāt (ruc with yuc; P. 3-2-149; yuvor anākau 7-1-1; cit 6-1-163), viśvān (viś + kvan, Uṇ. 1-[?]), uṣarbudhaḥ (kvip with budh after uṣas; P. 3-2-76; gati-kāra-kopapadāt kṛt 6-2-139), vipra (Uṇ. 2-[?] ṛjrendrāgra-vajra-vipra...; the i of the root dubhṛñ/vap "to sow" as given), hotā (hve "to compete, to call" + tṛn in the sense of habit; hvaḥ saṃprasāraṇam P. 6-1-32; bahulaṃ chandasi 6-1-34; saṃprasāraṇāc ca 6-1-108; sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ 7-3-84), iha (idamo haḥ P. 5-3-11; kṛttaddhita-samāsāś ca 1-2-46; supo dhātuprātīpadikayoḥ 2-4-71; idama iś 5-3-3; anekāl-śīt-sarvasya 1-1-55), and vakṣati (vah + leṭ P. 3-4-7; sib bahulaṃ leṭi 3-1-34; ho ḍhaḥ 8-2-31; ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si 8-2-41; ādeśapratyayayoḥ 8-3-59; tiṅ atīṅaḥ 8-1-28). ⁴⁰

original pp. 616–620

Sūkta 14, Rik 10

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विश्वेभिः सोम्यं मध्वग्न इन्द्रेण वायुना । पिबा मित्रस्य धामभिः ॥१०॥

viśvebhiḥ somyaṃ madhv agna indreṇa vāyunā | pibā mitrasya dhāmabhiḥ || 10 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁴¹

विश्वेभिः । सोम्यम् । मधु । अग्ने । इन्द्रेण । वायुना ॥ पिब । मित्रस्य । धामभिः ॥१०॥

viśvebhiḥ | somyam | madhu | agne | indreṇa | vāyunā || piba | mitrasya | dhāma-bhiḥ || 10 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने त्वं विश्वेभिः सर्वैः पूषभगादिभिर्देवैरिन्द्रेण वायुना मित्रस्य

सम्बन्धिभिर्धामभिस्तेजोभिर्मूर्तिविशेषरूपैश्च सह सोम्यं सोमसम्बन्धि मधु मधुरं भागं पिब ।

विश्वेभिः । बहुलं छन्दसीति भिस ऐसादेशाभावः । सोम्यं । सोममर्हति यः । इत्यनुवृत्तौ मये च

। पा. ४-४-१३८ । इति यप्रत्ययः सोमस्य विकार इत्यर्थे । यस्येति चेत्यकारलोपः ।

प्रत्ययस्वरः । फलिपाटिनमिमनीत्यादिना । उ. १-[?] । उप्रत्ययः ।

निदित्यनुवृत्तेर्गित्वाद्याद्युदात्तः [?] । वायुना । कृवापाजीत्यादिना उण् । आतो युक् चिण्कृतोः

। पा. ७-३-३३ । इति युक् । प्रत्ययस्वरः । पिब । पा पाने । लोटः सेर्हिरादेशः । शपि

⁴⁰. Sūtra numbers read from small print at 150 dpi; they agree with the standard numbering where I could compare; pointers only.

⁴¹. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened pibā, the Pada the short piba.

पाग्नेत्यादिना पिबादेशः । अतो हेरिति हेर्लुक् । कपः पित्त्वादधातुस्वरः । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । द्रव्यचोऽतस्तिडः इति संहितायां दीर्घः । धामभिः । धाज् । आतो मनिन्निति मनिन् । निट्स्वरः ॥१०॥

*he agne tvam viśvebhiḥ sarvaiḥ pūṣa-bhagādibhir devair indreṇa vāyunā mitrasya sambandhibhir dhāmabhis tejobhir mūrti-viśeṣa-rūpāis ca saha somyam soma-sambandhi madhu madhuraṁ bhāgaṁ piba | viśvebhiḥ | bahulaṁ chandasīti
bhisa aisādeśābhāvaḥ | somyam | somam arhati yaḥ | ity anuvṛttau maye ca | pā. 4-4-138 | iti ya-pratyayaḥ somasya
vikāra ity arthe | yasyeti cety akāra-lopaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ |
phali-pāṭi-nami-manīty-ādinā | u. 1-[?] | u-pratyayaḥ | nid ity anuvṛtter ṇittvād ādyudāttaḥ [?] | vāyunā | kṛvā-pāji-ty-ādinā
uṇ | āto yuk ciṇ-kṛtoḥ | pā. 7-3-33 | iti yuk | pratyaya-svaraḥ
| piba | pā pāne | loṭaḥ ser hir ādeśaḥ | śapi pā-ghrety-ādinā
pibādeśaḥ | ato heḥ iti her luk | kapaḥ pittvād adhātu-svaraḥ
| pādāditvān na nighātaḥ | dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ iti saṁhitāyām dīrghaḥ | dhāmabhiḥ | dhāñ | āto maninn iti manin | nit-
svaraḥ | | 10 | |*

Translation: "O Agni! Together with all the gods — Pūṣan, Bhaga and the rest — with Indra, with Vāyu, and with Mitra's dhāmas (his radiances and special forms), drink the somya — belonging to the soma — madhu, the sweet portion. Viśvebhiḥ — bhis does not become ais [by 'variously in the Veda']. Somyam — the suffix ya by P. 4-4-138 in the sense 'the product of soma' [the standard rule]. Vāyunā — from vā, the suffix uṇ; yuk augment by P. 7-3-33 [the standard numbering]. Piba — from pā "to drink", loṭ, hi in place of si, piba by P. 7-3-78 pāghrādhmā... [read from the print as pāghrā...], the luk of hi by ato heḥ; unaccented... lengthened in the Samhitā by P. 6-3-135 dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ [as printed]. Dhāmabhiḥ — from dhā, manin by āto manin...." ⁴²

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | विश्वेभिः (viśvebhiḥ) — with all the gods, Pūṣan, Bhaga and the rest | इन्द्रेण (indreṇa) — with Indra | वायुना (vāyunā) — with Vāyu | मित्रस्य धामभिः (mitrasya dhāmabhiḥ) — with the special forms (mūrti-viśeṣa-rūpa) and radiances of Mitra | सह (saha) — together | सोम्यं मधु (somyaṃ madhu) — the sweet soma-juice | पिब (piba) — drink.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni, drink the sweet soma-juice together with Indra, with Vāyu, with the other gods such as Pūṣan and Bhaga, and with the special forms of Mitra, that are in the nature of radiance.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, drink this sweet soma juice with the Visve devas, Indra, Vayu, and the various forms of Mitra.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

This rik is used in the Agniṣṭoma [?] sacrifice as the yājyā mantra in the recitation of the praūga-śāstra. The Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra, in the section beginning stotram agre śāstrāt [as read], directs that the rik viśvebhiḥ somyaṃ madhu be used as the yājyā mantra (Āś. 5-[?]; the print gives "(८. ५-०७)", which I read as 5-18 [?]).

पिब (piba)

— in the Saṃhitā text the final syllable is lengthened, to suit the metre.

मित्रस्य धामभिः (mitrasya dhāmabhiḥ) — mitrasya sambandhibhir dhāmabhis tejo-mūrti-viśeṣa-rūpaiś ca: "with the various forms of Mitra" (the print gives this English gloss in Latin letters: "with various forms of Mitra"). Dhāmabhiḥ: "with radiances, or with forms of light" — "Rays" [the print's English word]. Which the forms of Mitra are, the Kannada says, is not clear.

Grammar pages (pp. 618–620), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā takes up viśvebhiḥ (P. 7-1-10 bahulaṃ chandasi; the blocking of ais under P. 7-1-9), somyam (P. 4-4-137 somaṃ arhati yaḥ and 4-4-138 mayad ca; the ya suffix in the sense of "product of soma", taddhita, sup luk, loss of a by P. 6-4-148 yasyeti ca), madhu (the Uṇādi u suffix, Uṇ. 1-[?]) phalipāṭinamijanimanīti; nit, first-syllable accent), vāyunā (the Uṇādi uṇ in kṛvāpājimisvadisādhyasūbhya uṇ, Uṇ. 1-1; the yuk augment of P. 7-3-33 āto yuk ciṅkrtoḥ).⁴³

original pp. 619–622

Sūkta 14, Rik 11

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वं होता मनुर्हितो ऽग्ने यज्ञेषु सीदसि । सेमं नो अध्वरं यज ॥११॥

*tvaṃ hotā manurhito 'gne yajñeṣu sīdasi | semam no
adhvaram yaja | 11 |*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वम् । होता । मनुःऽहितः । अग्ने । यज्ञेषु । सीदसि ॥ सः । इमम् । नः । अध्वरम् । यज ॥ ११॥

*tvaṃ | hotā | manuḥ-hitaḥ | agne | yajñeṣu | sīdasi | | saḥ |
imam | naḥ | adhvaram | yaja | 11 |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने मनुर्हितो मनुषा होत्रादिरूपेण मनुष्येण हितः संपादितो होमनिष्पादको यस्त्वं यज्ञेषु
सीदसि तिष्ठसि स त्वं नोऽस्मदीयमिममध्वरं यज्ञं यज निष्पादय ॥ मनुर्हितः । मन्यते इति मनुः
। निदित्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलमन्यत्रापि । उ. [?] । उस् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । हितः । धाजो
धातोर्निष्ठायां क्तप्रत्ययः । दधातेर्हिः । पा. ७-४-४२ । इति हिरादेशः । मनुषा हितो मनुर्हितः ।
कर्तृकरणे कृता बहुलम् । पा. २-१-३२ । इति समासः । ... पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सीदसि ।

43. The page runs on to p. 620 in the same vein; I give only the words treated and the sūtras I could read.

षट् ल विशरणगत्यवसादनेषु । लटः सिप् । शपि पात्रादिना सीदादेशः । निघातः । सेममित्यत्र
संहितायां सोऽचि लोपे चेत्पादपूरणम् । पा. ६-१-१३४ । इति सोर्लोपे गुणः । अध्वरम् । न
विद्यते ध्वरो हिंसा यस्मिन्नाध्वरः । नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । नो ऽध्वरमित्यत्र संहितायां [सस]जुषो रुः ...

*he agne manurhito manuṣā hotrādi-rūpeṇa manuṣyeṇa hitaḥ saṃpādito homa-niṣpādako yas tvam yajñeṣu sīdasi tiṣṭhasi sa tvam no 'smadīyam imam adhvaram yajñam yaja niṣpādaya | | manurhitaḥ | manyate iti manuḥ | nid ity anuvṛttau bahulam anyatrāpi | u. [?] | us | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | hitaḥ |
dhāño dhātor niṣṭhāyām kta-pratyayaḥ | dadhāter hiḥ | pā.
7-4-42 | iti hirādeśaḥ | manuṣā hito manurhitaḥ | kartṛkaraṇe kṛtā bahulam | pā. 2-1-32 | iti samāsaḥ | ...
pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | sīdasi | ṣadḥ viśaraṇa-gatyavasādaneṣu | laṭaḥ sip | śapi pā-ghrādinā sīdādeśaḥ |
nighātaḥ | semam ity atra saṃhitāyām so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam | pā. 6-1-134 | iti sor lope guṇaḥ | adhvaram | na
vidyate dhvaro hiṃsā yasminn ādhvaraḥ | nañ-subhyām ity uttarapadāntodāttatvam | no 'dhvaram ity atra saṃhitāyām [sa-sa]juṣo ruḥ ...*

Translation: "O Agni! You, manurhitaḥ — appointed by man (by the human sacrificer, in the role of hotṛ and so on), made the accomplisher of the homa — you sit (sīdasi) at the sacrifices. Such as you are, yaja — perform, bring to completion — this sacrifice of ours (adhvaram).” The rest is grammar, noted briefly: manurhitaḥ (manu from man "to know", the Uṇādi us; hita from dhā with cta, hi for dhā by P. 7-4-42; compound by P. 2-1-32 kartṛkaraṇe kṛtā bahulam; accent of the first member by P. 6-2-48 [?]); sīdasi (sad with sīda-substitute by pāghrādhmā...); the sandhi semam from sa imam by P. 6-1-134 so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam; adhvaram ("that in which there is no dhvara, violence") with the accent of P. 6-2-172 nañsubhyām.⁴⁴

44. Sūtra numbers 7-4-42, 2-1-32 and 6-1-134 agree with the standard numbering; the others are as read.

Grammar pages (pp. 621–622), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā goes through manurhitah (man of the fourth class "to know"; Uṇ. 1-[?] with bahulam anyatrāpi, nit; the compound-accent conflict resolved in favour of the first member by P. 6-2-48 ṭṛtīyā karmaṇi over 6-1-223, 6-2-2, 6-2-139 and 6-1-186 [pointers only]; the Vedabhāṣya's view that the Phiṭ-rule on dhā-compounds is set aside here); sīdasi (ṣad, with laṭ, sip, the sīda substitute by P. 7-3-78 and the nighāta); semam — saḥ + imam: if the s were kept (sa imam) the pāda would have nine syllables instead of eight; by P. 6-1-134 the s of saḥ is lost before a vowel when the pāda is thereby completed, and the guṇa follows [the Kannada works through the pūrvatrāsiddham P. 8-2-1 argument that the guṇa of a + i does or does not apply, and concludes that semam has eight syllables to the pāda, so the pāda is complete]; adhvaram (na vidyate dhvarah himsā yasmin — first-member accent overridden by P. 6-2-172 nañsubhyām; naḥ + adhvaram: s → ru by P. 8-2-66 sasajuṣo ruḥ, ru → u by P. 6-1-113 ato ror aplutād aplute, then guṇa by P. 6-1-87, with the eṇaḥ padāntād ati P. 6-1-109 pūrvārūpa barred by P. 6-1-115 prakṛtyāntaḥpādām avyapare, so the text stands no 'dhvaram).⁴⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni [you] | त्वम् (tvam) — you | मनुर्हितः (manurhitah) — appointed by man in the function of hotṛ and the rest | होता (hotā) — accomplisher of the homa | यज्ञेषु (yajñeṣu) — at our sacrifices | सीदसि (sīdasi) — sit (with us) | सः (saḥ) — such as you are | नः (naḥ) — our | इमम् अध्वरम् (imam adhvaram) — this sacrifice | यज (yaja) — perform.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

45. Crowded; outline only; numerals as read, pointers only.

O Agni! You bring the gods to the sacrifice, and you sit with us at the sacrificial times of us human beings who perform it. Such as you are, bring this sacrifice of ours to completion.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, appointed by man as the invoker of the gods you are present at the sacrifice. Therefore perform this our sacrifice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

मनुहितः (manurhitaḥ) — manyate iti manuḥ; manuṣā hotrādi-rūpeṇa manuṣyeṇa hitaḥ sampāditaḥ: appointed by man in the function of hotṛ and so on. The human sacrificer appoints him to take his share in the sacrificial work, or, because he carries the principal vessel in the sacrifice, he is the one who has been placed in the fire-pit.

original pp. 622–626

Sūkta 14, Rik 12 (last rik of the sūkta)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युक्त्वा ह्यरुषी रथे हरितो देव रोहितः । ताभिर्देवाँ इहा वह ॥१२॥

yukṣvā hy aruṣī rathe harito deva rohitaḥ | tābhir devāṃ ihā vaha || 12 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁴⁶

युक्त्वा । हि । अरुषीः । रथे । हरितः । देव । रोहितः ॥ ताभिः । देवान् । इहा । आ । वह ॥१२॥

yukṣva | hi | aruṣīḥ | rathe | haritaḥ | deva | rohitaḥ | | tābhiḥ | devān | iha | ā | vaha | | 12 |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

46. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. Saṃhitā has the lengthened yukṣvā, ihā, the Pada the short yukṣva, iha.

हे देवाग्ने रोहितो रोहिच्छब्दाभिधेयास्त्वदीया वडवा रथे युक्ष्व । योजय । हिशब्दः पादपूरणार्थः । कीदृशीः । अरुषीर्गतिमतीर्हरितो हर्तुं रथारूढान्पुरुषानेतुं समर्थाः । ताभिर्वडवाभिरिहास्मिन्कर्मणि देवानावह । युक्ष्व । युजिर् योगे । लोट् । स्वरितेत्त्वादात्मनेपदम् । थासः से । सवाभ्यां वामौ । रुधादिभ्यः श्नम् । तस्य बाहुलकाल्लुक् । कुत्वषट् । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः । संहितायां द्यचोऽतस्तिडः इति दीर्घः । अरुषीः । ऋ गतौ । ऋन्ति गच्छन्तीत्यरुष्यो वडवाः । ऋहनिभ्यां [?] षन् । उ. [?] । धातोर्गुणो रपरत्वम् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । तस्मात् स्त्रियां छान्दसो डीप् । शसि प्रथमयोः पूर्वसवर्णः । पा. ६-१-१०२ । इति दीर्घः । रथे । रमेरोणादिकः कथन् [?] ... नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । हरितः । ह्रस्वरुहियुषिभ्य इतिः । उ. १-[?] ... रोहितः । रुहेरसि तेनैव सूत्रेणेतिः ... ताभिः । सावेकाच इति विभक्तेः प्राप्तमुदात्तत्वं सावनर्णेति निषिध्यते । देवानित्यत्र पूर्ववदुत्वानुनासिकौ ॥१२॥

*he devāgne rohito rohic-chabdābhidheyās tvadīyā vaḍavā
rathe yukṣva | yojaya | hi-śabdaḥ pāda-pūraṇārthaḥ | kīdṛśīḥ
| aruṣīr gatimatīr harito hartuṃ rathārūḍhān puruṣān etuṃ samarthāḥ | tābhir vaḍavābhir ihāsmiṇ karmaṇi devān āvaha
| yukṣva | yujir yoge | loṭ | svaritettvād ātmanepadam |
thāsaḥ se | savābhyāṃ vāmau | rudhādibhyaḥ śnam | tasya
bāhulakāl luk | kutva-ṣatve | pratyaya-svareṇāntodāttaḥ |
saṃhitāyāṃ dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ iti dīrghaḥ | aruṣīḥ | ṛ gatau |
ṛnti gacchantīty aruṣyo vaḍavāḥ | ṛhanibhyām [?] ṣan | u. [?]
| dhātor guṇo raparatvam | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | tasmāt striyāṃ chāndaso ṇīp | śasi prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ |
pā. 6-1-102 | iti dīrghaḥ | rathe | rameroṇādikaḥ kthan [?] ...
nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | haritaḥ | hṛ-sva-ruhi-yuṣibhya itiḥ | u. 1-
[?] ... rohitaḥ | ruher asi tenaiva sūtreṇetiḥ ... tābhiḥ | sāv ekāca iti vibhakteḥ prāptam udāttatvaṃ sāvanarṇeti
niṣidhyate | devān ity atra pūrvavad utvānunāsikau || 12 ||*

Translation: "O radiant Agni! Yoke to your chariot your mares (vaḍavāḥ) known by the name Rohit. Hi is a mere filler for the metre. Of what sort? Aruṣīḥ — those that go, that move swiftly; haritaḥ — able to carry those who sit in the chariot. With those mares, here, in this rite, bring the gods." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: yukṣva (yuj, loṭ, ātmanepada, thās → se, śnam, with the śnam dropped by "variously in the Veda"; kutva and ṣatva); aruṣīḥ (ṛ "to go", the Uṇādi uṣan; first-syllable accent; the feminine nīp; the acc. plural by P. 6-1-102 prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ); rathe (ram "to play", the Uṇādi kthan, [?]); haritaḥ (Uṇ. 1-[?] hṛsvaruhīyuṣibhya itiḥ); rohitāḥ (ruh with the same iti suffix); tābhiḥ (the accent of the ending barred by sāvanarṇa...); devān + iha (the u and anunāsika as before).⁴⁷ Grammar pages (pp. 624–626, upper part), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats yukṣva (yuj with loṭ; the ātmanepada of a svarit-marked root, P. 1-3-72; thās → se P. 3-4-80; sa-vābhyām vāmau P. 3-4-91; rudhādibhyaḥ śnam P. 3-1-78; bahulaṃ chandasi P. 2-4-73; coḥ kuḥ P. 8-2-30; khari ca P. 8-4-55; ādeśapratyayayoḥ P. 8-3-59; the verb unaccented by P. 8-1-28, but the accent of the ending remains because the pāda does not begin with it; dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ P. 6-3-135 for the lengthened yukṣvā), aruṣīḥ (ṛ "to go" with laṭ jhi → anti, śap, the juhotyādi class and ślu, doubling and the ṛ→ar ur at P. 7-4-66, ārtiprapiparty etc. — the Kannada works through two derivations from the two roots ṛ, with the Uṇādi uṣan (Uṇ. 4-[?] ṛhanibhyām uṣan, an alternative reading with a long ū); yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148; jīp, prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ P. 6-1-102), rathe (ramu kṛīḍāyām, "that in which they play", janikaṣinīramikāśibhyaḥ kthan, Uṇ. 2-[?]; P. 7-2-10 ekāca upadeśe 'nudāttāt blocks it; anudāttopadeśa... P. 6-4-37 drops m), haritaḥ (hṛ "to take", sṛ, ruh, yuṣ: iti suffix, Uṇ. 1-[?]; guṇa, rapara), rohitāḥ (ruh + iti; pugantalaḥpādhasya ca P. 7-3-86), tābhiḥ (tad + bhis, tyadādīnām aḥ P. 7-2-102, ato guṇe P. 6-1-97 pararūpa, ājādyatas ṭāp P. 4-1-4, the accent of the instrumental ending sāvekācas ṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ P. 6-1-168 blocked by na gośvannasāvarṇarāḍaṅkvyādibhyaḥ P. 6-1-182 [?]; the ending unaccented by P. 3-1-4), and devān + iha (P. 8-3-1 and

47. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-1-102 as read agrees with the standard numbering.

8-3-5 ātoṭi nityam, anunāsika; bho-bhago-ago-apūrvasya yo 'śi P. 8-3-17 ru→y; lopaḥ śākalyasya P. 8-3-19; pūrvatrāsiddham P. 8-2-1 explains why the guṇa of P. 6-1-87 does not apply).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

देव (deva) — O radiant Agni | अरुषीः (aruṣīḥ) — swift-running | हरितः (haritaḥ) — able [to carry] easily | रोहितः (rohitah) — named Rohit [your mares] | रथे (rathe) — to the chariot | युक्ष्व (yukṣva) — yoke | तभिः (tābhiḥ) — with those mares | इह (iha) — for this ritual action of ours | देवान् (devān) — the gods | आ वह (ā vaha) — bring.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni, you are radiant. Your mares called Rohit are powerful, swift in running, and able to carry those who sit [in the chariot] without effort. Yoke them to your chariot, and with their help bring the gods to this ritual action of ours.

॥ English Translation ॥

Agni, harness your twany [sic] red mares to your chariot and by means of them bring the gods hither.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

युक्ष्व (yukṣva)

— the final syllable is lengthened in the Saṃhitā text to suit the metre.

अरुषीः (aruṣīḥ) — r gatau; rnti gacchantīty aruṣyo vaḍavāḥ: the root r has the sense "to go"; because horses are speedy they are called aruṣyaḥ; aruṣīḥ is the accusative plural.

Rik 12, grammar tail (p. 626, upper part), noted briefly. The close of the grammar for devān + iha: the ā-final takes the anunāsika; ru → y by P. 8-3-17 bho-bhago...; lopaḥ śākalyasya P.

8-3-19 drops the y; by pūrvatrāsiddham this dropped y is treated as not having happened, so the guṇa of P. 6-1-87 ād guṇaḥ does not apply; the form is devāṃ ihā as in the Saṃhitā. ॥12॥

Close of Sūkta 14.

The print has no large colophon of the "illige ... sūktavu samāptavu ... vargavu mugidudu" kind after Rik 12 on p. 626; the sūkta simply ends with the ornament and the heading of the fifteenth. So the varga-numerals "26, 27 [?]" on the Sūkta 14 heading remain the only evidence for the varga count, and are unreliable.

॥ ಹದಿನೈದನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 15 — "indra somam piba" ("The Fifteenth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta; printed p. 626, lower half)

इन्द्र सोममित्यादिकस्य द्वादशर्चस्य चतुर्थस्य सूक्तस्य ऋषिच्छन्दसी पूर्ववत् । यद्यप्येतत्सूक्तं कृत्स्नमृतुदेवताकं तथापि प्रत्यृचमिन्द्रादिदेवतान्तराणि मिलितानि । तथा चानुक्रम्यते । इन्द्र सोममृत[?] तत्रैन्द्री मारुती त्वाष्ट्र्यग्नेय्यैन्द्री मैत्रावरुणी चतस्रो द्रविणोदस आश्विनाग्नेय्य ऋतुदेवताः सर्वत्रेति ॥ विनियोगस्तु स्मार्तो द्रष्टव्यः ॥ *indra somam ity-ādikasya dvādaśarcasya caturthasya

sūktasya ṛṣi-chandasī pūrvavat | yady apy etat sūktaṃ kṛtsnam ṛtu-devatākaṃ tathāpi pratyrcam indrādi-devatāntarāṇi militāni | tathā cānukramyate | indra somam ṛta[?] tatraindrī mārutī tvāṣṭryāgneyyaindrī maitrāvaruṇī catasro draviṇodasa āśvināgneyya ṛtu-devatāḥ sarvatreti ||
viniyogas tu smārto draṣṭavyaḥ ||*

Translation: "The twelve-rik sūkta beginning indra somam is the fourth sūkta [of this anuvāka]; its ṛṣi and meter are as before [Medhātithi Kāṇva; Gāyatrī]. Although this whole sūkta has the Ṛtus (Seasons) for its deity, in each rik other deities, Indra and the rest, are joined with them. So the Anukramaṇikā says: 'indra somam ...: there [the deities are] aindrī (Indra), mārutī (the Maruts), tvāṣṭrī (Tvaṣṭṛ), āgneṃ (Agni), aindrī (Indra), maitrāvaruṇī (Mitra and Varuṇa), the four to the Draviṇodases, āśvinī (the Āśvins), āgneyī (Agni): the Ṛtus are the deities throughout.' Its application (vinīyoga) is to be seen from the smārta usage."¹

|| Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) || The twelve-rik sūkta indra somaṃ piba, the fourth sūkta of the fourth anuvāka. Its ṛṣi and meter are as in the preceding sūkta. Although all the riks of this sūkta have the Ṛtus as deities, in each rik the deities Indra and others are joined with the Ṛtu. In the Anukramaṇikā: "indra somam ... aindrī, mārutī, tvāṣṭrī, āgneyī, aindrī, maitrāvaruṇī, four [riks] to the draviṇodas, āśvinī, āgneyī; the Ṛtus are the deities in all" — that is, the whole sūkta is in praise of the Ṛtu-deities. With that Ṛtu, the deities Indra, the Maruts, Tvaṣṭṛ, Agni, Indra, Mitrāvaruṇau [belong] one to each rik; the next four riks have the deity Draviṇodāḥ, and of the remaining two riks the deities are in order the Āśvinau and Agni. The application is to be understood from the smārta usage.

original p. 627

Sūkta 15, Rik 1

|| ॐ ||

|| Sūkta — 15 || || Maṇḍala — 1 || Anuvāka — 4 || Sūkta — 15 || ||
Aṣṭaka — 1 || Adhyāya — 1 || Varga — 28, 29 [?] ||² || Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–12 || || Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva || ||
Devatā — Ṛtavaḥ (the Seasons): 1 — Indra; 2 — the Maruts; 3

1. The Anukramaṇikā quotation begins with a word or two after "indra somam" that I read as ṛta... [?] and cannot complete; the rest is as read.

2. small-print Kannada digits; the glyph for 2 and 3 is hard to tell apart in this print, so the first digit could also be 3 — a "38, 39" reading is possible; I give the figures that continue the run of Sūkta 14 and mark them unreliable

— Tvaṣṭṛ; 4 — Agni; 5 — Indra; 6 — Mitra-Varuṇau; 7-10 — Draviṇodāḥ; 11 — the Aśvins; 12 — Agni ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्र सोमं पिब ऋतुना त्वा विशन्तिवन्दवः । मत्सरासस्तदोकसः ॥१॥

indra somaṃ piba ṛtunā tvā viśantv indavaḥ | matsarāsas tadokasaḥ || 1 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³

इन्द्र । सोमम् । पिब । ऋतुना । आ । त्वा । विशन्तु । इन्द्रवः ॥ मत्सरासः । तत्सओकसः ॥ १॥

indra | somam | piba | ṛtunā | ā | tvā | viśantu | indavaḥ | | matsarāsaḥ | tat-okasaḥ | | 1 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁴

हे इन्द्र ऋतुना सह सोमं पिब । इन्द्रवः पीयमानाः सोमास्त्वा त्वामा विशन्तु । कीदृशाः । मत्सरासस्तृप्तिकराः तदोकसस्तन्निवासाः । सर्वदा त्वदुदरस्थायिन इत्यर्थः ॥ इन्द्र । षाष्ठिकमामन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । सोमम् । आर्तिस्तुसुहुसृष्टक्षिप्शुभायावापदियक्षिनीभ्यो मन्... नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । पिब । पिबा मित्रस्य । ऋ. सं. १-१४-१० । इत्यत्रोक्तम् । ... अस्य त्वा विशन्तिवत्युत्तरवाक्यगताख्यातार्थेन सह समुच्चेयार्थश्च शब्दो लुप्तः ... चादिलोपे विभाषा [पा. ८-१-६३] ... संहितायामोमाडोश्च ... इन्द्रवः । प्र वो भ्रियन्त इन्द्रव इत्यत्रोक्तम् । मत्सरासः । ... आज्ञसेरसुक् । तदोकसः । तदेवौकः स्थानं येषां ते तदोकसः । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥१॥

he indra ṛtunā saha somaṃ piba | indavaḥ pīyamānāḥ somās tvā tvām ā viśantu | kīdṛśāḥ | matsarāsas tṛptikarāḥ tadokasas tan-nivāsāḥ | sarvadā tvad-udara-sthāyina ity arthaḥ | | indra | ṣaṣṭhikam āmantritādyudāttatvam | somam | ārti-stu-su-hu-sṛ-ghṛ-kṣip-kṣubhā-yā-vā-pā-di-yakṣi-nībhyo man ... nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | piba | pibā mitrasya | ṛ. saṃ.

3. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced.

4. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings

1-14-10 | ity uktam | ... asya tvā viśantv ity uttara-vākya-gatākhyātārthena saha samuccayārtha-ś ca śabdo luptaḥ ... cādilope vibhāṣā [pā. 8-1-63] ... saṃhitāyām omāñoś ca ...
 indavaḥ | pra vo bhriyanta indava ity atroktam | matsarāsaḥ
 | ... āj jaser asuk | tadokasaḥ | tad eva okaḥ sthānaṃ yeṣāṃ
 te tadokasaḥ | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam ||
 1 ||

Translation: "O Indra! Drink the soma together with the Ṛtu. May the soma-juices (indavaḥ), as they are drunk, enter you. Of what kind? Matsarāsaḥ — causing satisfaction; tadokasaḥ — having that [i.e. you] for their abode: the sense is that they always remain in your belly." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: indra (accent of the vocative); somam (the Uṇādi man suffix, first-syllable accent); piba — the lengthened pibā was explained at Rik 14.10 (cited as "Ṛg. Saṃ. 1-14-10", which is Rik 10 of the previous sūkta); the ca ("and") connecting piba with the verb of the next clause has been dropped, and by P. 8-1-63 cādilope vibhāṣā the first verb is not made unaccented; indavaḥ — explained at pra vo bhriyanta indavaḥ (Rik 14.4); matsarāsaḥ — the plural asuk by P. 7-1-50 āj jaser asuk; tadokasaḥ — "those whose okas ('home') is that"; a bahuvrīhi, with the first-member accent.⁵

Grammar pages (pp. 628–629), noted briefly. The Kannada treats indra (the vocative: first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-198 āmantritasya ca), somam (Uṇ. 1-[?] ārti-stu-su... — the man suffix, with the n indicatory), piba (the lengthening of the final a discussed at 1.14.10; the dropped ca — by P. 8-1-63 cādilope vibhāṣā, with the list ca, vā, hā, aha, eva, the rule being that a ca-less pair of verbs with one subject drops ca, while with different subjects aha is dropped; the guṇa of pibā ṛtunā barred by the shortening rule P. 6-1-127 ṛty akaḥ [as read, 6-1-128], which allows the prakṛtibhāva), indavaḥ (explained at 1.14.4; āj jaser asuk, P. 7-1-50), and tadokasaḥ (tat + okas, a bahuvrīhi, P. 6-2-1).⁶

5. Grammar pages, noted briefly; P. 8-1-63 and P. 7-1-50 as read agree with the standard numbering.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | ऋतुना सह (ṛtunā saha) — together with the Ṛtu-deity | सोमम् (somam) — the soma-juice | पिब (piba) — drink | मत्सरासः (matsarāsaḥ) — giving satisfaction | इन्द्रवः (indavaḥ) — the soma-juices | तदोकसः (tadokasaḥ) — whose abode is your udara ("belly"), as a place of residence | त्वाम् (tvām) — you (your belly) | आ विशन्तु (ā viśantu) — let them enter.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Drink the soma-juice together with the Ṛtu-deity. It gives you satisfaction; and may the soma-juices, whose abiding home is your belly, enter your belly and remain there.

॥ English Translation ॥⁷

Indra, drink with the Ritu (season) the Soma juice; let the satisfying drops enter your stomach and stay there (as if that were their home).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

तदोकसः (tadokasaḥ) — tan-nivāsāḥ; sarvadā tvad-udara-sthāyina ity arthaḥ: "those who always dwell in your belly". Tad eva okaḥ sthānaṃ yeṣāṃ te tadokasaḥ: those for whom that very place is the home. Your belly is always the abode of the soma-juice; "may soma-juice always be in your belly" — that is, may you be always drinking soma.

original pp. 629–634

6. Numerals as read; pointers only.

7. as printed in the source

Sūkta 15, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

मरुतः पिबत ऋतुना पोत्राद्यज्ञं पुनीतन । यूयं हि ष्ठा सुदानवः ॥२॥

*marutaḥ pibata ṛtunā potrād yajñam punītana | yūyaṃ hi ṣṭhā
sudānavaḥ || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁸

मरुतः । पिबत । ऋतुना । पोत्रात् । यज्ञम् । पुनीतन ॥ यूयम् । हि । स्थ । सुदानवः ॥२॥

*marutaḥ | pibata | ṛtunā | potrāt | yajñam | punītana | |
yūyam | hi | stha | su-dānavaḥ || 2 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे मरुतः ऋतुना सह पोत्रात्पोतुनामकस्य ऋत्विजः पात्रात्सोममिमं पिबत । ततोऽस्मदीयं यज्ञं पुनीतन शोधयत । हे सुदानवः शोभनदातारो मरुतः । यस्माद्यूयं स्थ युष्माकं हि शोधयितृत्वं प्रसिद्धम् । तस्माच्छोधयेत्यर्थः ॥

*he marutaḥ ṛtunā saha potrāt potṛ-nāmakasya ṛtvijaḥ pātrāt
somam imaṃ pibata | tato 'smadīyaṃ yajñam punītana śodhayata | he sudānavaḥ śobhana-dātāro marutaḥ | yasmād
yūyaṃ stha yuṣmākaṃ hi śodhayitr̥tvaṃ prasiddham | tasmāc
chodhayety arthaḥ | |*

Translation: "O Maruts! Together with the Ṛtu, drink this soma from the vessel (potra) of the priest called Potṛ. Then purify our sacrifice (punītana). O Sudānavaḥ — good givers — Maruts! Since you are [such] — your power to purify is well known — therefore purify; that is the sense." ⁹

Then follows the grammar of the bhāṣya, pp. 630–631 upper part:

10

8. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened ṣṭhā, the Pada the short stha.

9. The Sanskrit reading of "potṛ-nāmakasya" is from small print and fairly clear; the closing clause is compressed.

पिबत । अत्र तिङोऽदुपदेशात् ... [क्रमः?] । ... मरुत इत्यामन्त्रितत्वादामन्त्रितं
 पूर्वमविद्यमानवत् [पा. ८-१-७२] ... पोत्रात् । पोतुः सम्बन्धि पात्रं पोत्रम् । तस्येदमित्यण् ।
 तद्धितेष्वचामादेः । पा. ७-२-११७ । इति प्राप्ता वृद्धिः सर्वे विधयश्छन्दसि विकल्प्यन्त इति न
 भवति । ... पुनीतन । पूज् पवने । लोट् । लोटो लङ्वत् । पा. ३-४-८५ । तस्थस्थमिपां
 तान्तन्तामः । पा. ३-४-१०१ । इति तादेशः । तप्तनप्तनथनाश्च । पा. ७-१-४५ । इति तनादेशः । प्वादीनां ह्रस्वः । पा. ७-३-८० । ... यूयम् । युष्मदः ... जसः । जसि प्रथमयोरम् ...
 यूयवयौ जसि । पा. ७-२-९३ । ... सुदानवः । दाभाभ्यां नुः । उ. ३-३२ [?] । सोः
 प्रादिसमासः । आमन्त्रितनिघातः । ... यूयं स्थेति युष्मच्छब्देन प्रतिनिर्दिश्य पुनीतनेति प्रार्थने पवने केषां हेतुत्वं हिशब्देनोच्यते ॥

*pibata | atra tiño 'dupadeśāt ... | ... maruta ity āmantritatvād āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat [pā. 8-1-72] ... potrāt |
 potuḥ sambandhi pātraṃ potram | tasyedam ity aṇ |
 taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ | pā. 7-2-117 | iti prāptā vṛddhiḥ sarve
 vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyanta iti na bhavati | ... punītana |
 pūñ pavane | loṭ | loṭo lañvat | pā. 3-4-85 | tasthasthamipām
 tāntantāmaḥ | pā. 3-4-101 | iti tādeśaḥ | taptanaptanathanāś
 ca | pā. 7-1-45 | iti tanādeśaḥ | pvādīnām hrasvaḥ | pā. 7-3-80
 | ... yūyam | yuṣmadaḥ ... jasaḥ | jasi prathamayor am ...
 yūyavayau jasi | pā. 7-2-93 | ... sudānavaḥ | dā-bhābhyām nuḥ
 | u. 3-32 [?] | soḥ prādi-samāsaḥ | āmantrita-nighātaḥ | ...
 yūyaṃ stheti yuṣmac-chabdena pratinirdiśya punītaneti
 prārthane pavane keṣām hetutvaṃ hi-śabdenocyate | |*

10. This grammar run is compressed and crowded; the lines are given in part, with "..." where I could not read or condense them. It explains: why the verb pibata is not unaccented, since marutaḥ before it is a vocative treated as if absent; that potra is "belonging to the Potṛ" with aṇ, whose vṛddhi is optional in the Veda; that punitana is the imperative of pū with the substitute tana for ta and the shortening of the stem vowel; the forms of yūyam (P. 7-2-93 yūyavayau jasi); and sudānavaḥ as a prādi-compound with the Uṇādi nu. The last clause says that by the particle hi the Maruts' power to purify is stated as the reason.

Grammar pages (pp. 632–634), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats: pibata (pā "to drink", loṭ, thā → ata [as read]; loṭo laṇvat P. 3-4-85 so that laṇ's rules apply to loṭ; tasthasthamipām tāntantāmaḥ P. 3-4-101; pāghrādhmā... P. 7-3-78 for piba; śap with its pit-ness making it unaccented, accent staying on the root tāsyānudātten... P. 6-1-186 [?]; the vocative marutaḥ before it is treated as absent by P. 8-1-72, so pibata is at the start of a pāda and so remains unaccented, as P. 8-1-28 tiṇ atinaḥ indicates [?]; potrāt (potuḥ idam — tasyedam P. 4-3-120 with aṇ; the technical name prātipadika by P. 1-2-46; the luk of sup P. 2-4-71; the vṛddhi of taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ P. 7-2-117 not applied, because all rules are optional in the Veda — with a long discussion of whether the vṛddhi might fall on the final r or on the penultimate vowel (P. 7-2-115 aco ṇṇiti, 7-2-116 [?] ata upadhāyāḥ), the viprati-ṣedha and antya-vṛddhi/upadhā-vṛddhi/ādi-vṛddhi conflict, with examples sauśrutaḥ, tvāṣṭra, pauṣkarasāda, jagat+ā, with the Kaumudī's statement that the ādi-vṛddhi wins over the other two); punītana (pū of the kryādi class, with śnā P. 3-1-81 and the lengthening of the vowel of śnā by P. 6-4-113 īhalyaghoḥ, ī also for the stem vowel, the shortening of pū by P. 7-3-80, the unaccentedness of śnā and tana as sārvadhātukas, the barring of the guṇa by P. 1-1-5 krīti ca); yūyam (yuṣmad from the root yuṣ "to be [separate]", the Uṇādi suffix madik, Uṇ. 1-[?]; accent; the substitution yūya for yuṣmad + jas by P. 7-2-93 yūyavayau jasi, with the ām of P. 7-1-28 jasi prathamayor am [?], and the discussion of whether yūya is replaced first or the śeṣe lopāḥ P. 7-2-90 applies, with the paribhāṣā "asiddham bahiraṅgam antaraṅge" and the accent ekādeśa udāttēnodāttaḥ P. 8-2-5).¹¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

11. A crowded run of three pages; outline only, numerals as read, pointers only.

मरुतः (marutaḥ) — O Maruts | ऋतुना (ṛtunā) — together with the Ṛtu-deity | पोत्रात् (potrāt) — from the vessel of the priest called Potṛ | पिबत (pibata) — drink (the soma-juice), (afterwards) | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — our sacrifice | पुनीतन (punītana) — make pure | सुदानवः (sudānavah) — O Maruts, who give desired things well | यूयम् (yūyam) — you | हि स्थ (hi stha) — are you not renowned, in the mantras, as being of this kind?

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Maruts! First, together with the Ṛtu-deity, drink the soma-juice of our sacrifice from the vessel of the priest called Potṛ; and afterwards make our sacrifice pure. O Maruts, who grant what is wished, are you not those who are renowned in the mantras as having such power?

॥ English Translation ॥

O Maruts, drink with Ritu from the Potri's sacrificial cup; consecrate the sacrifice, for you are great givers.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

पोत्रात् (potrāt) — Among the sixteen priests who take a share in the sacrifice, one is called Potṛ. He ordinarily works along with the priest called Neṣṭṛ. Here, for potrāt pibata, the commentator explains: potuḥ sambandhi-pātrāt somaṃ pibata — "drink the soma that is in the vessel belonging to the Potṛ."

सुदानवः (sudānavah) — śobhana-dātārah, or su-pra-dātārah: those who give good things, or give well (abundantly).

Rik 2, grammar tail (p. 635), noted briefly. The grammar of yūyam closes with the optional dropping of the final d of yuṣmad [P. 7-2-90 śeṣe lopah], the pūrvarūpa of P. 6-1-102 [read as printed 6-1-107?] making yūyam with the accent of the single substituted ā; with P. 8-2-5 ekādeśa udāttēnodāttaḥ. Stha — as "to be", laṭ, middle-person plural tha; the śap dropped by ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ

śapaḥ (P. 2-4-72); the a of as dropped by P. 6-4-111 śnasor allopaḥ; the s becomes ṣ by vyatyaya and ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ (P. 8-4-41) the th becomes ṭh, giving ṣṭha; the particle hi does not make the verb unaccented hi ca (P. 8-1-34), but here the verb is not unaccented because of tiñ atinaḥ (P. 8-1-28) [as the Kannada has it]; in the Saṃhitā the lengthening of ṣṭhā is of the type āñyeṣām api dṛśyate. Sudānavaḥ — the Uṇādi nu suffix after dā ("to give", ḍudāñ dāne) and bhā "to shine"; su + dānu by P. 2-2-18 kugatiprādayaḥ; as a vocative plural, unaccented, and given the first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-198. The Kannada adds a long note: sudānavaḥ here is not part of the predicate of yūyam hi ṣṭhā, since if it were it would not be a vocative and could not take the vocative accent; so it must be taken as a separate vocative — "O (well-known) givers!" — and yūyam then points to the Maruts, whose power is known from the Mārutasūktas, with hi giving the reason for punītana ("purify"), as in the Bhāvārtha above. ||2||

original pp. 635–641

Sūkta 15, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अभि यज्ञं गृणीहि नो ग्नावो नेष्टः पिब ऋतुना । त्वं हि रत्नधा असि ॥३॥

abhi yajñam grṇīhi no gnāvo neṣṭaḥ piba ṛtunā | tvam hi ratnadhā asi ||3||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹²

अभि । यज्ञम् । गृणीहि । नः । ग्नावः । नेष्टःरिति । पिब । ऋतुना ॥ त्वम् । हि । रत्नधाः । असि ॥३॥

abhi | yajñam | grṇīhi | naḥ | gnāvaḥ | neṣṭar iti | piba | ṛtunā | | tvam | hi | ratna-dhāḥ | asi | |3| |

12. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Pada text has neṣṭar iti, the quoted form of the word.

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ग्नाशब्दः स्त्रीवाची । तथा च यास्क आह । मेना ग्ना इति स्त्रीणां ... । नि. [३-२१ ?] । ग्ना अस्य सन्तीति ग्नावान् । नेष्टृशब्दोऽत्र त्वष्टारं देवमाह । कस्मिंश्चिद्देवसन्ने नेष्टृत्वेन त्वष्टृवृत्तेस्तस्य । हे ग्नावः पत्नीयुक्त नेष्टः त्वष्टः नोऽस्मदीयं यज्ञमभि गृणीहि । अभितो देवानां समीपे स्तुहि । ऋतुना सह त्वं सोमं पिब । हि यस्मात्त्वं रत्नधा असि रत्नानां दाताऽसि दाता भवति तस्मात्सोमं पातुमर्हसीत्यर्थः ॥ अभि । उपसर्गाश्चाभिवर्जम् । फि. [?] । इति पर्युदासादेरन्तोदात्तत्वम् । गृणीहि । गृ शब्दे । लोटि सिपो हिः । क्र्यादिभ्यः श्ना । हेर्जित्त्वादीर्हल्यघोरिति ईत्वम् । श्नाप्रत्ययस्य जित्त्वाद्गुणाभावः । प्वादीनां ह्रस्वः । तिङ्ङितिङ्ङ इति निघातः । ग्नावः । ग्ना अस्य सन्तीति मतुप् । व्यत्ययेन वत्वम् । सम्बुद्धौ मतुवसो रुरिति रुत्वम् । विसर्गः । पादादित्वेनामन्त्रितनिघाताभावात् षाष्ठिकमामन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । ग्नाव इत्यस्य विशेषणतया विशेषणवचनत्वान्नामन्त्रिते समानाधिकरण इति निषेधाभावादविद्यमानवत्त्वेनोत्तरस्य नेष्टृशब्दस्य षाष्ठिकमाद्युदात्तत्वम् । पिब । शपः पित्त्वाद्भातुस्वरः । पूर्वयोरामन्त्रितयोरविद्यमानवत्त्वेन निघाताभावः । रत्नधाः । रत्नानि दधातीति रत्नधाः । क्विप् च । धातुस्वरः । समासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन स एव शिष्यते । असि । सिपः पित्त्वाद्भातुस्वरः । तिङ्ङितिङ्ङ इति निघातो न भवति हि चेति प्रतिषेधात् ॥३॥

gnā-śabdaḥ strī-vācī | tathā ca yāska āha | menā gnā iti strīṇām ... | nī. [3-21 ?] | gnā asya santīti gnāvān | neṣṭṛ-śabdo 'tra tvaṣṭāraṃ devam āha | kasmimścid deva-satre neṣṭṛtvena tvaṣṭur vṛtteḥ tasya | he gnāvaḥ patnī-yukta neṣṭaḥ tvaṣṭaḥ no 'smadīyaṃ yajñam abhi grṇīhi | abhito devānām samīpe stuhi | ṛtunā saha tvaṃ somaṃ piba | hi yasmāt tvaṃ ratnadhā asi ratnānām dātā 'si dātā bhavati tasmāt somaṃ pātum arhasīty arthaḥ | | abhi | upasargāś cābhivarjam | phi. [?] | iti paryudāsād erantodāttatvam | grṇīhi | gr śabde | loṭi sipo hiḥ | kryādibhyaḥ śnā | her jittvād īr halyaghor iti itvam | śnā-pratyayasya ṇittvād guṇābhāvaḥ | pvādinām hrasvaḥ | tiṅ ataḥ iti nighātaḥ | gnāvaḥ | gnā asya santīti matup | vyatyayena vatvam | sambuddhau matuvaso ruḥ iti rutvam | visargaḥ | pādāditvenāmantrita-nighātābhāvāt ṣaṣṭhikam āmantritādyudāttatvam | gnāva ity asya viśeṣaṇatayā viśeṣaṇa-vacanatvān nāmantrite samānādhikaraṇa iti niṣedhābhāvād avidyamānavatvenottarasya neṣṭṛ-śabdasya

śāṣṭhikam ādyudāttatvam | piba | śapaḥ pittvād dhātusvaraḥ
 | pūrvayor āmantritayor avidyamānavatvena nighātābhāvaḥ
 | ratnadhāḥ | ratnāni dadhātīti ratnadhāḥ | kvip ca |
 dhātusvaraḥ | samāse kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvena sa
 eva śiṣyate | asi | śipaḥ pittvād dhātusvaraḥ | tiṅ ataṅ iti
 nighāto na bhavati hi ceti pratiṣedhāt || 3 ||

Translation: "The word gnā means 'woman'. So Yāska says, menā gnā ... [the Nirukta passage, 'women' — the Sanskrit of this quotation is partly unclear in print, and I give only its first words; Ni. 3-[?]]. Gnāvān is 'he who has gnā, i.e. a wife'. The word neṣṭṛ here means the god Tvaṣṭṛ — since in some divine sacrifices Tvaṣṭṛ acts as neṣṭṛ. O gnāvaḥ, O one joined to your wife, O Neṣṭṛ, Tvaṣṭṛ! Praise our sacrifice (abhi gr̥ṇīhi) — praise it all round in the presence of the gods. Together with the Ṛtu, drink the soma. For you are ratnadhāḥ — a giver of treasures; because you are a giver, you are fit to drink the soma." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: abhi (accent), gr̥ṇīhi (gṝ + śnā + hi, the lengthening of the ī, the shortening pvādīnām), gnāvaḥ (matup with va by vyatyaya; the vocative ru + visarga; the vocative accent on the first syllable by the śāṣṭhika rule; the neṣṭṛ after it treated as unaccented by the "as if not there" rule), piba, ratnadhāḥ (ratna + dhā + kvip), asi (the sip unaccented).¹³

Grammar pages (pp. 637 lower half–639 upper half), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: abhi (upasargāś cābhivarjam, Phīṭ-sūtra [number unclear in print] — the prepositions other than abhi have first-syllable accent; hence abhi has final accent by phiṣo 'nta udāttaḥ, with a note that the Vedabhāṣya-kāra, citing evādīnām antaḥ (Phīṭ [?]), accepts final accent in such instances as mano martān abhi druhan; R. 6-[?]); gr̥ṇīhi (gṝ of the kryādi class; loṭ, sip, hi by P. 3-4-87 serhy apicca; śnā by P. 3-1-81; ihalyaghoḥ P. 6-4-113 for the ī; pvādīnām hrasvaḥ P. 7-3-80; the endings śnā and hi as sārvadhātukas without pit so counted ñit, hence no guṇa, by

13. Grammar, noted briefly.

P. 1-2-4; the verb unaccented by P. 8-1-28); gnāvaḥ (gnāḥ striyaḥ asya santi; matup by P. 5-2-94 tad asyāsty asminn iti matup; the m→v by vyatyaya; the num augment by P. 7-1-70 ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ; hal-nyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal P. 6-1-68 drops s; saṃyogāntasya lopah P. 8-2-23 drops t; for gnāvan in the vocative, matuvasor ru sambuddhau chandasi P. 8-3-1 gives ru for the n, and r → visarga; before neṣṭaḥ the ru becomes u by P. 6-1-114 haśi ca and the ā+u guṇa gives gnāvo neṣṭaḥ — with a long note on pūrvatrāsiddham P. 8-2-1 and the rule that the dropping of a conjunct final is treated as not having happened for the ru rule, the Vārttika saṃyogāntalopo ruttve vācyah, etc.); the accent of gnāvaḥ — it is at the start of the second pāda, so the P. 8-1-18 āmantritasya ca [? "āpādātau"] does not make it unaccented, and the first-syllable accent of P. 6-1-198 applies; gnāvaḥ is an adjective (viśeṣaṇa) of neṣṭaḥ, so P. 8-1-73 nāmantrite samānādhikaraṇe sāmānyavacanam [as read] does not bar P. 8-1-72 āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat; hence neṣṭaḥ, a vocative in the same pāda, takes the first-syllable accent, not the all-unaccented one. Piba (śap's pit-ness leaves the root accent; both preceding vocatives are treated as absent so piba is unaccented only by this; accent on the verb stays as P. 8-1-28's exception hi ca shows); ratnadhāḥ (dadhāti ratnāni, from ḍudhāñ dhāraṇapoṣaṇayoḥ with kvip; accent of the root remains; the accent of the compound is that of its final member by P. 6-2-139 gatikārakopapadāt kṛt); asi (as "to be", laṭ, sip, śap dropped by P. 2-4-72, s dropped by P. 6-4-111 śnasor allopaḥ; sip's pit-ness; hi ca P. 8-1-34 bars the loss of accent; P. 1-2-... udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ makes the i of si svarita).¹⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

ग्नवः (gnāvaḥ) — O you who are joined to your wife | नेष्टः (neṣṭaḥ) — O Tvaṣṭṛ | नः (naḥ) — our | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — sacrifice | अभिगृणीहि (abhi grṇīhi) — praise (before the gods), all round | ऋतुना

(ṛtunā) — with the Ṛtu-deity | पिब (piba) — drink the soma-juice | हि (hi) — "because" | त्वम् (tvam) — you | रत्नधा: (ratna-dhāḥ) — the giver of the treasure (ratna, aiśvarya) that is the fruit of the sacrifice | असि (asi) — are.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Tvaṣṭṛ! You are renowned as one who bestows the treasure that is the fruit of the sacrifice. Such as you are, come with your wife, drink our soma-juice together with the Ṛtu-deity, and go to the gods and praise our sacrifice.

॥ English Translation ॥

Neshtri, (Twashtri) commend our sacrifice to the gods; drink with Ritu, for you are a giver of riches.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

गनावः (gnāvaḥ) — the word gnā means "woman". Yāska says "gnā gacchanty enāḥ" [Ni. 3-[?] — "those who go to them"]. Gnā asya santi iti gnāvān — he who has a wife is gnāvān; this vocative singular gnāvaḥ is an adjective of the word neṣṭaḥ.

नेष्टः (neṣṭaḥ) — in some sacrifices it is well known that Tvaṣṭṛ takes the share that belongs to the priest called Neṣṭṛ; therefore to address Tvaṣṭṛ by the word neṣṭṛ is not unnatural. Hence the commentator's view: the word neṣṭṛ here must be taken to mean the deity Tvaṣṭṛ.

रत्नधा: (ratnadhāḥ) — ratnānām dātā: "giver of jewels" (of the best things). In the Ṛgveda the root dhā is commonly used where one would expect dā.

original pp. 639–641

14. Numerals as read; pointers only; the long treatment of the vocative accent of gnāvaḥ neṣṭaḥ is given in outline.

Sūkta 15, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अग्ने देवाँ इहा वह सादया योनिषु त्रिषु । परि भूष पिब ऋतुना ॥४॥

*agne devāṃ ihā vaha sādāyā yoniṣu triṣu | pari bhūṣa piba
ṛtunā ||4||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁵

अग्ने । देवान् । इह । आ । वह । सादय । योनिषु । त्रिषु ॥ परि । भूष । पिब । ऋतुना ॥४॥

*agne | devān | iha | ā | vaha | sādāyā | yoniṣu | triṣu | | pari
| bhūṣa | piba | ṛtunā ||4||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने देवानिहास्मिन्कर्मण्या वह । ततो योनिषु स्थानेषु त्रिषु सवनेषु सादय । देवानुपवेशय । ततस्तान्परि भूष । अलंकुरु । ऋतुना सह त्वं सोमं पिब ॥ अग्ने देवानित्ययं पादो गतः । योनिषु । यु मिश्रणे । वहिशीत्यादिना । उ. [४-१३१ ?] । नि प्रत्ययः । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः । त्रिषु । षट्त्रिचतुर्भ्यो हलादिः । पा. [६-१-१८१ ?] । इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । भूष । भूष अलंकारे । तिङ्ङितिङ इति निघातः । पिब ऋतुना । गतौ ॥

*he agne devān ihāsmiṇ karmany ā vaha | tato yoniṣu sthāneṣu
triṣu savenēṣu sādāyā | devān upaveśaya | tatas tān pari
bhūṣa | alaṅkuru | ṛtunā saha tvaṃ somaṃ piba || agne devān ity ayaṃ pādo gataḥ | yoniṣu | yu miśraṇe | vahi-śrī-ty-
ādinā | u. [4-131 ?] | ni pratyayaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttāḥ | triṣu
| ṣaṭ-tri-catur-bhyo halādiḥ | pā. [6-1-181 ?] | iti vibhakter udāttatvam | bhūṣa | bhūṣa alaṅkāre | tiṅ ataṅ iti nighātaḥ |
piba ṛtunā | gataḥ ||*

Translation: "O Agni! Bring the gods here, to this rite. Then seat them (sādāyā) in the three places (yoniṣu) — the three savanas: make them sit down. Then adorn them (pari bhūṣa); and together with the Ṛtu, drink the soma. [The pāda] agne devān [ihā vaha]

15. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened ihā, sādāyā; the Pada the short forms.

has been gone through already [in Rik 3.11, per the Kannada]. Yoniṣu — root yu 'to mix', the Uṇādi ni suffix, first-syllable accent; triṣu — the case-ending is accented by P. 6-1-180/181 [ṣaṭ-tri-catur-bhyo halādiḥ]; bhūṣa — from bhūṣ 'to adorn', the verb unaccented. Piba ṛtunā — gone through [Rik 1]."¹⁶

Grammar pages (p. 641), noted briefly. The Kannada says that the pāda agne devāṃ ihā vaha has been treated at Sūkta 3, Rik 11 [the print's cross-reference numerals, read with a query]. Sādaya: śad "to sink, go, loosen", ṇic, the ṣ→s of dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ, the upadhā-vṛddhi P. 7-2-116 ata upadhāyāḥ; loṭ, sip, hi by P. 3-4-87; śap with guṇa and ay; luk of hi by P. 6-4-105 ato heḥ; the ṇic's a has the suffix-accent; śap's pīṭ-ness leaves it unaccented; the final lengthening sādayā as in sajoṣāḥ etc. Yoniṣu: yu miśraṇe; Uṇ. 4-[?] vahi-śri-śru-yu-dru-gnā-tvaribhyo niḥ; guṇa by P. 7-3-84; locative plural yoniṣu; accent of ni. Triṣu: ṣaṭ-tri-catur-bhyo halādiḥ P. 6-1-180 [as printed 6-1-181?]; the name ṣaṭ for words ending in ṣ or n denoting numbers (ṣṇāntā ṣaṭ P. 1-1-24). Bhūṣa: bhūṣ alaṅkāre, loṭ, sip, hi, luk by P. 6-4-105; wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28. Piba ṛtunā: the pair was explained in Sūkta 15 Rik 1 (print: "Ṛ. Saṃ. 15-1"). ॥4॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | देवान् (devān) — the gods | इह (iha) — for this rite | आवह (ā vaha) — bring | त्रिषु योनिषु (triṣu yoniṣu) — in three separate places (in the three savanas) | सादय (sādaya) — seat | परि भूष (pari bhūṣa) — adorn | ऋतुना (ṛtunā) — with the Ṛtu-deity | पिब (piba) — drink (the soma-juice).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

16. The Sanskrit of the closing words was legible; the Uṇādi and Pāṇini numerals are marked [?] because I could not read them with certainty at 150 dpi.

O Agni! Bring the gods to this sacrifice of ours. Seat them in the three separate places — the morning, midday and evening savanas. Make suitable adornments. Together with the Ṛtu-deity, drink the soma-juice.

॥ English Translation ॥

Agni, bring the gods hither, seat them in three places (or in the three savanas), decorate them and drink with Ritu.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

सादय (sādaya)

— the last syllable of this word is lengthened in the Saṃhitā text to suit the metre.

योनिषु त्रिषु (yonīṣu triṣu) — triṣu sthāneṣu: that is, the morning savana (prātaḥ-savana), the midday savana (mādhyandina-savana) and the third savana (tr̥tīya-savana). A savana is the rite of drawing off the soma-juice. Because this rite is done with the recitation of mantras at three times — morning, midday and evening — these rites are called respectively the morning, midday and third savana.

परि भूष (pari bhūṣa) — alaṅkuru "adorn" is the commentator's gloss. Although the word bhūṣa has the sense "adorn", it may be doubted here whether there is any need to adorn the gods.

original pp. 642–646

Sūkta 15, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ब्राह्मणादिन्द्र राधसः पिबा सोममृतूर्नु । तवेद्धि सख्यमस्तृतम् ॥५॥

brāhmaṇād indra rādhasaḥ pibā somam ṛtūṁr anu | taved dhi sakhyam astṛtam || 5 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁷

ब्राह्मणात् । इन्द्र । राधसः । पिब । सोमम् । ऋतून् । अनु ॥ तव । इत् । हि । सख्यम् । अस्तुतम् ॥५॥

brāhmaṇāt | indra | rādhasaḥ | piba | somam | ṛtūn | anu | |
tava | it | hi | sakhyam | aṣṭtam | |5| |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र ब्राह्मणाद्ब्राह्मणाच्छंसिसम्बद्धाद्राधसो धनभूतात्पात्रात्सोममिमं पिब । किं कृत्वा ।
ऋतून्नु ऋतुदेवानन्वनुसृत्य । ऋतवोऽपि पिबन्त्वित्यर्थः । हि यस्मात्तवेत्तव
सख्यमस्तुतमृतूनामविच्छिन्नं तस्माद्ऋतुभिः सह पानं युक्तम् ॥ ब्राह्मणात् । ब्रह्मशब्देनात्र
ब्रह्मवर्गे द्वितीयो ब्राह्मणाच्छंसी कथ्यते । स च पुल्लिङ्गे शेषनिघातेनानुदात्तादिः । तस्य
सम्बन्धि [पात्रं] ... अवयवविवक्षायामनुदात्तादेरञ् । पा. [४-३-१४०] । तेन
चित्त्वादाद्युदात्तश्चमसपात्रे ऽत्र ब्राह्मणशब्दः । राधसः । सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन् । नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः ।
पिब । पादादित्वाद् [?] ... द्व्यचोऽतस्तिङ इति दीर्घत्वम् । ऋतून्नु । दीर्घादिति समानपादे
इति नकारस्य रुत्वम् । अत्रानुनासिकः पूर्वस्य तु वा । पा. ८-३-२ ।
इत्योकारस्यानुनासिकत्वम् । तव । युष्मदस्मद्भ्यां ङसोऽश् । पा. [७-१-२७] ।
शित्त्वात्सवदिशः । तवममौ ङसीति तवादेशः । युष्मदस्मदोर्ङसि इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । सख्यम् ।
सख्युः कर्म सख्यम् । सख्युर्यः । यस्येति लोपः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । अस्तुतम् । स्तृणातेर्हिसार्थस्य क्तः । नञ्समासः । अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥५॥

he indra brāhmaṇād brāhmaṇācchamsi-sambaddhād rādhaso
dhana-bhūtāt pātrāt somam imaṃ piba | kiṃ kṛtvā | ṛtūn anu
ṛtu-devān anvanusṛtya | ṛtavo 'pi pibantv ity arthaḥ | hi yasmāt tavet tava sakhyam aṣṭtam ṛtūnām avicchinnaṃ tasmād ṛtubhiḥ saha pānaṃ yuktam | | brāhmaṇāt | brahmaśabdenātra brahma-varge dvitīyo brāhmaṇācchamsī kathyate
| sa ca pulliṅge śeṣa-nighātenānudāttādiḥ | tasya sambandhi
[pātram] ... avayava-vivakṣāyām anudāttāder añ | pā.
[4-3-140] | tena ṇittvād ādyudāttaś camasa-pātre 'tra
brāhmaṇa-śabdaḥ | rādhasaḥ | sarva-dhātubhyo 'sun |

17. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened pibā, the Pada the short piba.

nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | piba | pādāditvād [?] ... dvyaco 'tastiṇa
 iti dīrghatvam | ṛtūṃṛ anu | dīrghād aṭi samānapāde iti
 nakārasya rutvam | atrānunāsikaḥ pūrvasya tu vā | pā. 8-3-2
 | ity okārasyānunāsikatvam | tava | yuṣmad-asmadbhyāṃ
 ṇaso 'ś | pā. [7-1-27] | śittvāt sarvādeśaḥ | tava-mamau ṇasīti tavādeśaḥ | yuṣmad-asmador ṇasi ity ādyudāttatvam |
 sakhyam | sakhyuḥ karma sakhyam | sakhyur yaḥ | yasyeti
 lopah | pratyaya-svaraḥ | aṣṭtam | aṣṭāter hiṃsārthasya
 ktaḥ | nañ-samāsaḥ | avyaya-pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam
 ||5||

Translation: "O Indra! Drink this soma from the rādhas — the vessel that is a treasure (a precious vessel) — belonging to the brāhmaṇācchaṃsin priest. Having done what? ṛtūṃṛ anu — following the Ṛtu-deities: let the Ṛtus too drink. For (hi) your friendship with the Ṛtus is unbroken (aṣṭtam, 'uninterrupted'); therefore it is fitting that you drink together with them." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: brāhmaṇāt (the word brahman here denotes the second of the brahma-group of priests, the brāhmaṇācchaṃsin; the vessel belonging to him is brāhmaṇa, the suffix añ in the sense of "part of", P. 4-3-140 [as read], first-syllable accent from the ñ); rādhasaḥ (Uṇādi asun after any root; first-syllable accent); pibā (lengthened, P. 6-3-135 dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ); ṛtūṃṛ anu (n → ru by P. 8-3-9 dīrghād aṭi samānapāde; the nasal o by P. 8-3-2 atrānunāsikaḥ pūrvasya tu vā); tava (the substitute tava for yuṣmad + ṇas); sakhyam ("the act of a friend", sakhi + ya); aṣṭtam (str "to strike", kta, with the negative compound na + strta, accent of the prefix).¹⁸

Grammar pages (pp. 643 lower half–646 upper half), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats: brāhmaṇāt — at a Soma-sacrifice four priests, Brahman, Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin, Āgnīdhra and Potr, belong to the brahma group; the second is meant here by the word brāhmaṇa, derived from brahman (from br̥h "to grow", by the old method br̥ṇher nalopas̥ ca, or by the Uṇādi br̥ṇher noccha with manin); brahman is both neuter and masculine (Amara [?]); in the neuter brahman has first-syllable accent by ñit (P. 6-1-197 ñnityādir nityam), in the masculine the end accent by the ūḍidam-padādy-apvādi class (P. 6-1-171 [?] ūḍidam...); and the Kannada then lists the shapes of the sacrificial vessels (camasa) of the several priests in three Sanskrit verses of the old (Prācīna) tradition on the soma-pātra: the camasa of the Brahman is square (caturaśra), of the Hotṛ round, the yajamāna's broad, the Udgātṛ's three-cornered; and so on — the verses are as follows, transcribed from the Kannada print with doubtful words marked [?]:

18. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 8-3-2 as read agrees with the standard numbering.

चतुरश्रो ब्रह्मचमसः होतुस्तु परिमण्डलः । पृथुस्तु यजमानस्य त्र्यश्रिरुद्गातुरिष्यते ॥१॥
 प्रशास्तुरवतप्यः [?] स्यादुत्तप्तो ब्रह्मशंसिनः । पोटुरग्रे विशाखी स्यात् नेष्टुस्तु विगृहीतकः ॥
 २॥ अच्छावाकस्य राष्णावा नाग्नीध्रस्य मयूखगः । सव्यावृतस्सदस्यः स्यादेतच्च मसलक्षणम्
 ॥३॥ दण्डानामेष आकारश्चमसाश्चतुरश्रगाः । पोटुर्ब्रह्मण उद्गातुर्यज्ञाशास्तुश्च शंसिनः ॥४॥

caturaśro brahma-camasaḥ hotus tu parimaṇḍalaḥ | pr̥thus tu yajamānasya tryaśrir udgātur iṣyate || 1 || praśāstur avatapyah [?] syād uttaptō brahma-śaṃsinaḥ | poturagre viśākhī syāt neṣtus tu vighrītakaḥ || 2 || acchāvākasya rāṣṇāvā nāgnīdhṛasya mayūkhagaḥ | savyāvṛtassadasyaḥ syād etac ca masalakṣaṇam || 3 || daṇḍānām eṣa ākāraś camasāś caturaśragāḥ | potur brahmaṇa udgātur yajñāśāstuś ca śaṃsinaḥ || 4 ||

The prose that follows reads potṛ-neṣṭṛ-acchāvākānām āgnīdhṛasyeti ca kramaḥ ("the order is Potṛ, Neṣṭṛ, Acchāvāka and Āgnīdhra").¹⁹ The Kannada adds that these were said by the ancients in connection with the Agniṣṭoma's soma-pātra-

19. The four verses are given from small print at 150 dpi; the second and fourth are the least certain, and their meaning is not clear to me beyond the first and the third — I give them as read, with no translation beyond the first line.

handling; from them it appears that the handle of the Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin's soma-vessel is uttapta — lifted up — so the vessel with its raised handle is like a limb of the priest: therefore it may be called his avayava ("part"); and añ is added in the sense of "a part of" by P. 4-3-134 anudāttādeś ca [as printed 4-3-14x], so brāhmaṇa means "the vessel as a part of the brāhmaṇācchaṃsin", with the first-syllable accent from the ñ. Rādhasaḥ — rādh with asun (Uṇ. 4-[?]) sarvadhātubhyo 'sun). Piba — the lengthening at 1.14.10 [print "ṛ. saṃ. 1-14-10"] is cited; its pāda-initial position means P. 8-1-18/19 does not make it unaccented. Ṛtūṃr anu — dirghād aṭi samānapāde P. 8-3-9; atrānunāsikaḥ pūrvasya tu vā P. 8-3-2, applying to the ū the anunāsika by the ru-section's option. Tava — the śas → aś substitution for ḥas after yuṣmad/asmad (P. 7-1-27), as a śit replacing the whole word by P. 1-1-55; the tava-mama substitution by P. 7-2-96 tavamamau ṇasi; the accent by P. 6-1-... ; śeṣe lopah P. 7-2-90 dropping the final ad, and anudāttasya ca yatrodāttalopah P. 6-1-161 [as read]; the accent ekādeśa udāttēnodāttah P. 8-2-5. Sakhyam — sakhyuḥ karma; sakhyur yaḥ [P. 5-1-126] — the ya suffix after sakhi in the sense of 'action'; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148 drops the i; suffix accent. Astr̥tam — str̥ñ ācchādane "to cover", a root of the svādi class; the Kannada argues that the root here is the himsā sense str̥ "to strike"; the ka has no iṭ by P. 7-2-10 ekāca upadeśe 'nudāttāt; or by P. 7-2-43 ṛtaś ca saṃyogāder guṇah — the ṛ of a root with a conjunct initial; the negative compound nañ + str̥ta with P. 6-2-2 [?]; ṛ→ir by P. 7-1-100 ṛta iddhātoḥ, ur aṇ raparah P. 1-1-51, hali ca P. 8-2-77 (lengthening), and the n of -ṇa — hence astir̥ṇam; this shows the commentator's astr̥tam is formed on the svādi root str̥ with ka.²⁰

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | हि (hi) — for the reason that | तव इत् (tav-et) — yours indeed | सख्यम् (sakhyam) — friendship [with the Ṛtus] | अस्तुतम् (astr̥tam) — is unbroken |²¹ ब्राह्मणात् (brāhmaṇāt)

— from the vessel of the priest called Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin | राधसः (rādhasaḥ) — from the precious camasa-vessel | सोमम् (somam) — the soma-juice | ऋतून् अनु (ṛtūn anu) — together with the Ṛtu-deities | पिब (piba) — drink.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! It is well known in the world that your friendship with the Ṛtu-deities is eternal. Therefore, drink the soma-juice, together with the Ṛtu-deities, from the precious camasa-vessel of the priest called Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin.

॥ English Translation ॥

Drink the soma juice, Indra, from the cups of priest called Brahmanachamsi, after Ritu for whom your friendship is uninterrupted (everlasting).

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

ब्राह्मणात् (brāhmaṇāt)

— the priest called Brāhmaṇācchaṃsin.

राधसः (rādhasaḥ) — dhana-bhūtāt pātrāt: rādhas just means "wealth". The sense "vessel" is not in the word itself, but the commentator supplies it. Or, since rādhas means "priceless", "of great value", the sense could be "costly vessel" (the print gives the English words "costly vessel").

अस्तृतम् (astṛtam) — avicchinna: unbroken, "uninterrupted" [the print has "uninterruptedr", sic]; that has not stopped after continuing for a time; that is everlasting.

original pp. 646–650

Sūkta 15, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युवं दक्षं धृतव्रत मित्रावरुण दूळभम् । ऋतुना यज्ञमाशाथे ॥६॥

*yuvaṃ dakṣaṃ dhṛtavrata mitrāvaruṇa dūḷabham | ṛtunā
yajñam āśāthe || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥²²

युवम् । दक्षम् । धृतऽव्रता । मित्रावरुणा । दुःऽदभम् ॥ ऋतुना । यज्ञम् । आशाथे इति ॥६॥

*yuvam | dakṣam | dhṛta-vratā | mitrāvaruṇā | duḥ-dabham
|| ṛtunā | yajñam | āśāthe iti || 6 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे धृतव्रता स्वीकृतकर्माणौ मित्रावरुणा हे मित्रनामकवरुणनामकौ देवौ युवमुभौ युवामृतुना सहास्मदीयं यज्ञमाशाथे । व्याप्नुथः । कीदृशं यज्ञम् । दक्षं प्रवृद्धं दूळभं दुर्दहं शत्रुभिर्दग्धं विनाशयितुमशक्यमित्यर्थः ॥ युवं । प्रथमाद्विवचनस्य जसि प्रथमयोरमित्यमादेशः । युवावौ द्विवचने । पा. [७-२-९२] । इति मपर्यन्तस्य युवादेशः । शेषे लोप इति टिलोपोऽन्त्यलोपो वा । अमि पूर्वत्वम् । भाषायामेव ह्यत्वम् । टिलोपपक्षे उदात्तनिवृत्तिस्वरेणामः उदात्तत्वम् । अन्त्यलोपपक्षे एकादेश उदात्तः । दक्षं । दक्षं वृद्धौ । दक्ष्यन्त्येनेति करणे घञ् । एवं हि पुल्लिङ्गत्वनियमः । अन्यस्यानियम इति नपुंसकत्वम् । धृतव्रता मित्रावरुणा । धृतानि व्रतानि याभ्यां तौ धृतव्रतौ । मित्रश्च वरुणश्च मित्रावरुणौ । उभयत्र सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना विभक्तेराकारः । मित्रशब्दो देवताद्वन्द्वे चेत्यानडादेशः । प्रथमस्यामन्त्रितनिघातः । द्वितीयस्य पादादित्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । संहितायां छान्दसं ह्रस्वत्वम् । दूळभं । दह भस्मीकरणे । दुःखेन दह्यते इति दुर्दहं । ईषद्दुःसुषु कृच्छ्राकृच्छ्रार्थेषु । पा. [३-३-१२६] । दुरुपपदस्य खल् । ... ळत्वं ... । लिति प्रत्ययात्पूर्वमुदात्तत्वम् । कृदुत्तरपदत्वेन स एव शिष्यते । आशाथे । अशू व्याप्तौ । छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिट इति वर्तमाने लिट् । मध्यमद्विवचनमाथाम् । टेरत्वम् । अत आदेः । पा. [७-४-७०] । इत्यभ्यासस्य दीर्घः । अश्नोतेश्च । पा. [७-४-७२] । इति प्राप्तो नुडागमोऽनित्यमागमशासनमिति निवर्तते ॥६॥

22. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the final-short forms dhṛtavrata, mitrāvaruṇa; the Pada has dhṛtavratā, mitrāvaruṇā. In the Saṃhitā the word is spelt dūḷabham with the Vedic ḷ.

he dhṛtavratā svīkṛta-karmāṇau mitrāvaruṇā he mitranāmaka-varuṇa-nāmakau devau yuvam ubhau yuvām ṛtunā sahāsmadīyaṃ yajñam āśāthe | vyāpnuthaḥ | kīdrśaṃ
yajñam | dakṣaṃ pravṛddhaṃ dūlabhaṃ durdahaṃ śatrubhir
dagdhuṃ vināśayitum aśakyam ity arthaḥ | | yuvam |
prathamād dvivacanasya jasi prathamayor am ity amādeśaḥ |
yuvāvau dvivacane | pā. [7-2-92] | iti mapayantasya
yuvādeśaḥ | śeṣe lopa iti ṭilopo 'ntyalopo vā | ami pūrvatvam | bhāṣāyām eva hy atvam | ṭilopa-pakṣe udātta-nivṛttisvareṇāmaḥ udāttatvam | antyalopa-pakṣe ekādeśa udāttaḥ |
dakṣaṃ | dakṣa vṛddhau | dakṣyanty eneti karaṇe ghañ |
evam hi pulliṅgatva-niyamaḥ | anyasyāniyama iti
napuṃsakatvam | dhṛtavratā mitrāvaruṇā | dhṛtāni vratāni
yābhyāṃ tau dhṛtavratau | mitraś ca varuṇas ca
mitrāvaruṇau | ubhayatra supāṃ sulug ity-ādinā vibhakter ākāraḥ | mitra-śabdo devatādvandve cety ānañādeśaḥ |
prathamasyāmantrita-nighātaḥ | dvitīyasya pādādītvād
ādyudāttatvam | saṃhitāyāṃ chāndasaṃ hrasvatvam |
dūlabhaṃ | daha bhasmīkaraṇe | duḥkhena dahyate iti
durdahaṃ | īṣad-duḥ-suṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu | pā.
[3-3-126] | dur-upapadasya khal | ... ṭatvaṃ ... | liti pratyayāt pūrvam udāttatvam | kṛd-uttarapadatvena sa eva śiṣyate |
āśāthe | asū vyāptau | chandasi luṇ-laṇ-liṭa iti vartamāne liṭ |
madhyama-dvivacanam āthām | ṭer ettvam | ata ādeḥ | pā.
[7-4-70] | ity abhyāsasya dīrghaḥ | aśnoteś ca | pā. [7-4-72] |
iti prāpto nuḍāgamo 'nityam āgama-śāsanam iti nivartate | |
6 | |

Translation: "O dhṛtavratā — you two who have taken up the sacrificial work — Mitra and Varuṇa, the gods named Mitra and Varuṇa! You both, together with the Ṛtu, pervade (āśāthe, 'enter into, fill') our sacrifice. Of what sort is the sacrifice? Dakṣam — flourishing; dūlabham — hard to burn (durdaha), that cannot be burnt, destroyed, by enemies." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: yuvam (the substitute yuva for yusmad in the dual by P. 7-2-92 yuvāvau dvivacane, with the accusative ending am by P. 7-1-28 [?]); dakṣam (dakṣ "to grow", ghaṇ in the instrument sense: "that by which they grow strong", with the neuter by option); dhṛtavratā mitrāvaruṇā ("those by whom vows are held"; mitrāvaruṇau a deity-dvandva with ānaṇ [mitra + ā + varuṇa]; the endings replaced by ā by P. 7-1-39 supāṃ sulug...; the first word unaccented as a vocative, the second given the first-syllable accent because it begins the pāda; in the Saṃhitā the final long ā is shortened by Vedic licence); dūḷabham (dah "to burn", khal after dur by P. 3-3-126 iṣad-duḥ-suṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal, with the Vedic change of h to bh, d to ḍ and ḍ to ḷ); āsāthe (aś "to pervade", liṭ of the dual middle āthām; the reduplication lengthened by P. 7-4-70 ata ādeḥ; the nuṭ augment of P. 7-4-72 aśnotes ca is not applied because "the rules on augments are optional").²³

Grammar pages (pp. 648 lower half–650), noted briefly. The Kannada treats yuvam (yuṣmad + au; P. 7-2-92 yuvāvau dvivacane, the substitute yuva for the part of the word up to and including m; jasi prathamayor am; P. 7-2-88 prathamāyāś ca dvivacane bhāṣāyām [ā of yuvām is for the bhāṣā only, not for the Veda]; śeṣe lopah P. 7-2-90 dropping ṭi or the final letter; ami pūrvaḥ P. 6-1-107; the accent of yuvam ends up final in one derivation and as the single substituted vowel in the other), dakṣam (dakṣ "to grow", ghaṇ by P. 3-3-121 halaś ca in the sense of instrument and location, which would give a masculine, but the neuter is allowed by the rule anyasyāniyamah), dhṛtavratā mitrāvaruṇā (dhṛtāni vratāni yābhyām tau; the vocative endings with sup → ā, P. 7-1-39; devatādvandve ca P. 6-3-26 for the ānaṇ, the dual-ending ñit on the ā, ñ indicatory, final n being dropped by P. 8-2-7 nalopah prātipadikāntasya; the first word a vocative unaccented by P. 8-1-72 — but the dvandva's end is at the start of the pāda, so P. 8-1-19 [āmantritasya ca] does not apply; the first-syllable accent

23. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-126 and P. 7-4-70 agree with the standard numbering.

follows by P. 6-1-198; the shortening in the Saṃhitā a Vedic licence), dūḷabham (dah + dur + khal; P. 3-3-126 with the long explanation of the Mahābhāṣya's splitting of the sūtra vyatyayo bahulam P. 3-1-85 into vyatyayaḥ "interchange of the suffixes śap etc. in the Veda" and bahulam "all rules are optional in the Veda", with the Vārttika on sup-... liṅga-nara-nām ... kālalahalac-svarakarṭṛyaṇām ca vyatyayaḥ; the change du-dah-bha → dūḍabha → dūḷabha with ḍ → ḷ by the Ṛgvedic rule on ḍ and ḍh as ḷ, ḷh; the accent before the l-marked suffix P. 6-1-193 liti), āśāthe (aś "to pervade", liṭ by P. 3-4-6 chandasi luṅlaṅliṭaḥ; doubling P. 6-1-8 liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya; thās → āthām [middle dual 2nd]; ṭeḥ → e by P. 3-4-79 ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e; halādiḥ śeṣaḥ P. 7-4-60 retaining the first consonant; ata ādeḥ P. 7-4-70 lengthening the reduplicative a, so āśāthe; aśnoteś ca P. 7-4-72 nuṭ barred).²⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

धृतरता (dhṛtavratā) — O you two who accept the sacrificial work done by us | मित्रावरुणा (mitrāvaruṇā) — O Mitra and Varuṇa | युवम् (yuvam) — you both | ऋतुना (ṛtunā) — together with the Ṛtu-deity | दक्षम् (dakṣam) — flourishing | दूळभम् (dūḷabham) — that cannot be burnt (destroyed) by enemies | यज्ञम् (yajñam) — the sacrifice | आशाथे (āśāthe) — you pervade (you are gracious to).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Mitra and Varuṇa! You accept our sacrificial work. By your favour our sacrifice flourishes; and because you are with us, no enemy can harm it. Be pleased to come, together with the Ṛtu-deity, to our sacrifice.

॥ English Translation ॥

24. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

Mitra and Varuna, propitious to pious acts, be present with Ritu at our sacrifice, efficacious and undisturbed by foes.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

धृतव्रता (dhṛtavratā) — dhṛta-karmāṇau or svikṛta-karmāṇau: they who accept the sacrificial work that we perform. The final syllables of dhṛtavratā and mitrāvaruṇā are shortened in the Saṃhitā text to suit the metre.

This word dhṛtavratā occurs also in the Ṛgveda rik

इन्द्रावरुणा सुतपाविमं सुतं सोमं पिबतं मद्यं धृतव्रता ॥ indrāvaruṇā sutapāv imam sutam somam pibatam madyam dhṛtavratā || (Ṛ. Saṃ. 6-68-10)

where it refers to Indra and Varuṇa. Besides, the forms dhṛtavrataḥ, dhṛtavratāḥ, dhṛtavratāya and dhṛtavrate are read in many riks.

दूळभम् (dūḷabham) — duḥ-dabham: śatrubhir dagdhum vināśayitum aśakyam, "that which cannot be burnt, destroyed, by enemies". The word dūḷabha, with the same sense, is read also in other riks of the Ṛgveda Saṃhitā — dūḷabhaḥ and dūḷabhāsaḥ — whose references the print gives in small numerals (I read them as 3-[?]-[?]; 2-[?]-[?]; 4-[?]-[?]; 8-[?]-[?], but not reliably, and do not reproduce them).

original pp. 650–657

Sūkta 15, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

द्रविणोदा द्रविणसो ग्रावहस्तासो अध्वरे । यज्ञेषु देवमीळते ॥७॥

draviṇodā draviṇaso grāvahastāso adhvare | yajñeṣu devam ṭlate || 7 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁵

द्रविणःऽदाः । द्रविणसः । ग्रावऽहस्तासः । अध्वरे ॥ यज्ञेषु । देवम् । ईळते ॥७॥

draviṇaḥ-dāḥ | draviṇasaḥ | grāva-hastāsaḥ | adhware | |
yajñeṣu | devam | īlate | |7| |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अध्वरेऽग्निष्टोमे प्रकृतिरूपे यज्ञेषु विकृतिरूपेषूक्थ्यादिषु च देवमग्निमीळते । ऋत्विजः स्तुवन्ति । कीदृशा ऋत्विजः । द्रविणसो धनार्थिनो ग्रावहस्तासोऽभिषवसाधनपाषाणधारिणः । कीदृशं देवम् । द्रविणोदा धनप्रदम् । यद्वा । धनप्रदोऽग्निः सोमं पिबत्विति शेषः । तत्रेमं मन्त्रं यास्क एवं निर्वक्ति । द्रविणोदाः कस्माद्धनं द्रविणमुच्यते यदेनदभिद्रवन्ति बलं वा द्रविणं यदेनेनाभिद्रवन्ति तस्य दाता द्रविणोदास्तस्यैषा भवति । द्रविणोदा द्रविणस इत्यादि । नि. [८-१ ?] । सोऽयं यास्कोक्तो निर्वचनप्रपञ्चस्तस्मिन्नेव ग्रन्थेऽवगन्तव्यः ॥ द्रविणोदाः । द्रुदक्षिभ्यामिनन् । उ. [२-५०] । नित्वादाद्युदात्तो द्रविणशब्दः । तद्दातीति द्रविणोदाः । क्विप् च । पूर्वपदस्य सकारोपजनश्छन्दसि । रुत्वोत्वे । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । देवविशेषणत्वे नैकवाक्यताऽपक्षे द्वितीयायाः स्वादेशः । अथवा द्रविणमात्मन इच्छन्ति द्रविणस्यन्ति । सुप आत्मनः क्यच् । सर्वप्रातिपदिकेभ्यो लालसायां सुग्वक्तव्यः । ... द्रविणस्यतेः सम्पदादित्वाद्भावे क्विप् । अतो लोपः । क्वौ लुप्तं न स्थानिवद्भवति ... एवं द्रविणशब्दो धनेच्छावाचकः । द्रविणेच्छां दस्यति ... ग्रावयुक्ता हस्ता येषां ते ग्रावहस्तासः । आज्ञसेरसुक् । ग्रावशब्दो वृषादित्वादाद्युदात्तः । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । अध्वरे । न विद्यते ध्वरो हिंसा यस्मिन् । नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । ईळते । अनुदात्तेत्त्वादात्मनेपदम् । आदिप्रभृतिभ्य इति शपो लुक् । झस्यात्वादेशः ॥७॥

adhware 'gniṣṭome prakṛti-rūpe yajñeṣu vikṛti-rūpeṣūkthyādiṣu
ca devam agnim īlate | ṛtvijaḥ stuvanti | kīdṛśā ṛtvijaḥ | draviṇaso dhanārthino grāvahastāso 'bhiṣava-sādhanapāṣāṇa-dhāriṇaḥ | kīdṛśaṃ devam | draviṇodā dhana-pradam
| yadvā | dhana-prado 'gniḥ somaṃ pibatv iti śeṣaḥ |
tatremaṃ mantraṃ yāska evaṃ nirvakti | draviṇodāḥ kasmād dhanam draviṇam ucyate yad enad abhidravanti balaṃ vā draviṇam yad enenābhidravanti tasya dātā draviṇodās tasyaiṣā bhavati | draviṇodā draviṇasa ity-ādi | ni. [8-1 ?] | so

'yaṃ yāskoktō nirvacana-prapañcas tasminn eva grantha
 'vagrantavyaḥ || draviṇodāḥ | dru-dakṣibhyām inan | u. [2-50]
 | nittvād ādyudātto draviṇa-śabdaḥ | tad dadātīti draviṇodāḥ
 | kvip ca | pūrvapadasya sakāropajanaś chandasi | rutvotve |
 kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | deva-viśeṣaṇatve
 naikavākyatā-pakṣe dvitīyāyāḥ svādeśaḥ | athavā draviṇam
 ātmana icchanti draviṇasyanti | supa ātmanaḥ kyac | sarvaprātipadikebhyo lālasāyām sug vaktavyaḥ | ... draviṇasyateḥ
 sampadādittvād bhāve kvip | ato lopah | kvau luptaṃ na sthānivad bhavati ... evaṃ draviṇa-śabdo dhanecchā-vācakaḥ | draviṇecchām dasyati ... grāva-yuktā hastā yeṣāṃ te grāvahastāsaḥ | āj jaser asuk | grāva-śabdo vṛṣādittvād ādyudāttaḥ | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam |
 adhware | na vidyate dhvaro himsā yasmin | nañ-subhyām ity uttarapadāntodāttatvam | īlate | anudāttettvād
 ātmanepadam | ādiprabhṛtibhya iti śapo luk | jhasyātvādeśaḥ
 ||7||

Translation: "At the adhvara — the Agniṣṭoma, the original (prakṛti) form of the sacrifice — and at the sacrifices (yajñeṣu) that are its modifications (vikṛti), such as the Ukthya and the rest, the priests praise (īlate) the god Agni. What sort of priests? Draviṇasaḥ — seekers of wealth; grāvahastāsaḥ — holding in the hand the stones that are the means of pressing the soma. What sort of god? Draviṇodāḥ — the giver of wealth. Or: [the sense is] 'may Agni, the giver of wealth, drink the soma' (the rest being supplied). On this mantra Yāska comments as follows [Ni. 8-1 — the print's numeral is small, I give it with a query]: draviṇodāḥ — why is wealth called draviṇa? Because people run (abhidravanti) towards it; or because draviṇa is strength, by which they run towards it; he who gives it is draviṇodāḥ; of him is this [rik]. draviṇodā draviṇasaḥ ... The full explanation given by Yāska should be looked for in that work itself." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: draviṇodāḥ (the Uṇādi inan after dru; first-syllable accent of draviṇa through the n mark; "he gives it" with kvip; an s is added to the first member in the Veda; the ru/u sandhi; the accent of the final member of the compound); a second explanation of draviṇasaḥ: draviṇasyanti, "they desire wealth for themselves" — kyac with suk, then kvip in the abstract sense, with the dropping of a and the paribhāṣā on sthānivad-bhāva; grāvahastāsaḥ ("those whose hands are provided with stones"; the plural ending asuk by P. 7-1-50; grāva has the first-syllable accent through its inclusion in the vṛṣādi list; the bahuvrīhi keeps the accent of its first member); adhvare ("that in which there is no dhvara, no violence", with the final accent by nañsubhyām); īlate (ātmanepada from the anudāttet marking, śap dropped, jha → ata).²⁶

Grammar pages (pp. 654 lower half–656), noted briefly. The Kannada treats draviṇodāḥ at length: Uṇ. 2-50 dru-dakṣibhyām inan, from dru "to run" + inan (guṇa, av, ṇatva by P. 8-4-2 aṭkuvāṇnumvyavāye 'pi), then dā + kvip with luk of am after the first member, "an s augment", ru → u, the first-syllable accent of the first member overridden by P. 6-2-139 gatiḥārapapadāt kṛt, so the end accent; and in the optional second analysis the kyac verb draviṇasyati "he desires wealth" with the kvip in the abstract sense and the loss of the final a (P. 6-4-48 ato lopah), the sthānivat barred by the rule that what is dropped before kvip is not sthānin [Vārttika], and the further question of vali lopa (P. 6-1-66 lopo vyor vali), P. 6-1-67 vera prktasya and the asiddha rule P. 6-4-22 asiddhavad atrābhāt; the second analysis gives draviṇas for "seeker of wealth" (dhaneccu), or from dasu upakṣaye "to waste" with ṇic hidden, "he who wastes wealth by giving as desired and thereby removes the wish for wealth", with kvip, the loss of kvip, and draviṇodas a stem in s — which underlies the Nirukta usage draviṇodasaḥ pravādā bhavanti (Ni. 8-2); the Kannada concludes that if draviṇodāḥ is not an epithet of devam there are two sentences (draviṇodāḥ in the nominative by su), and if it is, one sentence (the accusative sense to be understood in the nominative). Draviṇasaḥ — in the sense "the soma-juice" under the two-sentence reading, by the Vedic procedure with the sag augment (P. 3-1-xx, as read); the accent by ñnityādir nityam P. 6-1-197; with the rest of the grammar of the compound-forms as in the earlier derivations. Grāvahastāsaḥ — grāvayuktāḥ hastāḥ yeṣām; āj jaser asuk P. 7-1-50; grāva from the vṛṣādi list (P. 6-1-203 vṛṣādīnām ca) with first-syllable accent. Adhvare — the negative compound with nañ; the final accent by P. 6-2-172. Īlate — īḍ "to praise", anudāttet, so ātmanepada by P. 1-3-12; the laṭ third plural jha, śap dropped by P. 2-4-72, jha → ata by P. 7-1-5, ṭeḥ → e by P. 3-4-79, and ḍ → ḷ in the Veda.²⁷

26. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi number is as read.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

द्रविणसः (draviṇasaḥ) — priests desirous of wealth | ग्रावहस्तासः (grāva-hastāsaḥ) — holding in the hand the stones [that serve to press the soma] | द्रविणोदाः (draviṇodāḥ) — the giver of wealth (or: [the deity] called Draviṇodā) | देवम् (devam) — the god Agni | अध्वरे (adhvare) — in the original sacrifice, the Agniṣṭoma | यज्ञेषु (yajñeṣu) — in the modified sacrifices, the Ukthya and the like | ईळते (īlate) — praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Priests who seek wealth, holding in their hands the stones for pressing the soma, in the Agniṣṭoma (the prakṛti) as in the vikṛti sacrifices such as the Ukthya, invoke and praise Agni, called Draviṇodā, to come and drink the soma.

॥ English Translation ॥

27. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

The priests desirous of wealth, with the soma-pressing stones in their hands praise the divine (Agni) Dravinodas who is the giver of riches, in the Soma and other sacrifices.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

द्रविणोदाः (draviṇodāḥ)

— Yāska has written a long explanation of this word:

द्रविणोदाः । द्रविणोदाः कस्माद्धनं द्रविणमुच्यते यदेनदभिद्रवन्ति । बलं वा द्रविणं यदेनेनाभिद्रवन्ति । तस्य दाता द्रविणोदाः ॥ (नि. [८-१])

draviṇodāḥ | draviṇodāḥ kasmād dhanam draviṇam ucyate yad enad abhidravanti | balam vā draviṇam yad enenābhidravanti | tasya dātā draviṇodāḥ || (ni. [8-1])

"Why is draviṇodāḥ so called? Wealth is called draviṇa because people run (abhidravanti) towards it; or strength is draviṇa because by it they run towards [the goal]. He who gives it is draviṇodāḥ." The Kannada explains: draviṇam dadātīti draviṇodāḥ — the word draviṇa has two senses, wealth and strength, so draviṇodāḥ is "giver of wealth or of strength"; this is the derivation. And Yāska then explains the rik as follows:

द्रविणोदा यस्त्वम् । द्रविणस इति द्रविणसादिन इति वा द्रविणसस्स्यात् [?] पिब त्विति वा । यज्ञेषु देवमीळते । याचन्ति स्तुवन्ति वर्धयन्ति पूजयन्तीति वा ॥

draviṇodā yas tvam | draviṇasa iti draviṇasādina iti vā draviṇasas syāt [?] piba tv iti vā | yajñeṣu devam īlate | yācanti stuvanti vardhayanti pūjayantīti vā ||

[This is as read from small print; the middle clause is compressed and not clear to me.] That is: those priests who look for wealth, havis and the like invoke you, draviṇodāḥ, to drink soma at the sacrifices — this is the chief sense. Here draviṇodāḥ is a nominative singular; how then does it qualify devam, an accusative? The Kannada says: one must supply "yah devam tam devam" — "that god who is draviṇodāḥ". Draviṇasaḥ: the priests who seek wealth or havis (draviṇasaḥ = dhana-kāmāḥ, from the ritual, not the soma-juice sense). Īlate — can also be taken as "ask, praise, extol, worship".

Further Yāska says:

तत्को द्रविणोदा इन्द्र इति क्रौष्टुकिः । स बलधनयोर्दातृतमस्तस्य च सर्वा बलकृतिः ॥
tat ko draviṇodā indra iti krauṣṭukiḥ | sa bala-dhanayor
dātṛtamas tasya ca sarvā bala-kṛtiḥ |

"Who then is draviṇodāḥ? Indra, says Krauṣṭuki; he is the greatest giver of strength and wealth, and all deeds of strength are his." (The Kannada: Krauṣṭuki's view is that draviṇodāḥ means Indra, since draviṇa means strength and wealth, and Indra gives them most.)

अथाप्यग्निं द्रविणोदसमाहुरेष पुनरेतस्माज्जायते । यो अश्मनोरन्तरग्निं जजान इत्यपि निगमो भवति ॥
athāpy agniṃ draviṇodasam āhur eṣa punar etasmāj jāyate |
yo aśmanor antar agniṃ jajāna ity api nigamo bhavati ||

"Moreover they call Agni draviṇodas; he is born again from this [Indra]: 'who produced Agni between the two stones' — such a nigama [Vedic citation] also exists." (Indra produced the heaven and earth, and Agni between them; so draviṇodāḥ may also mean Agni — the rik yo aśmanor antar agniṃ jajāna [R. Saṃ. 2-12-3] is cited in support [reference numerals unclear].)

अथाप्यृतुयोजेषु द्रविणोदसः प्रवादा भवन्ति । तेषां पुनः पात्रस्यैन्द्रपानमिति भवति ॥ अथाप्येनं सोमपानेन स्तौति । अथाप्याह द्रविणोदाः पिबतु द्रविणोदस इति ॥
athāpy rtu-yojeṣu draviṇodasaḥ pravādā bhavanti | teṣāṃ
punaḥ pātrasyaindra-pānam iti bhavati || athāpy enaṃ soma-
pānena stauti | athāpy āha draviṇodāḥ pibatu draviṇodasa iti
 ||

"Again, in the sacrifices connected with the Ṛtus there are statements about draviṇodas; and again, 'the drinking of the vessel by Indra' is said; and he is praised with soma-drinking; and also it is said, 'draviṇodāḥ pibatu draviṇodasaḥ.'" (The Kannada: in the sacrifices offered to the Ṛtus it is said that Indra drinks from the vessel in the hands of the priests; thus Indra is praised by the soma-drinking mantras, and the priests are called draviṇodasaḥ — all this is the view of Krauṣṭuki.)

अयमेवाग्निर्द्रविणोदा इति शाकपूणिः । आग्नेयेष्वेव हि सूक्तेषु द्रविणोदसः प्रवादा भवन्ति ॥

*ayam evāgnir draviṇodā iti śākapūṇiḥ | āgneyeṣv eva hi
sūkteṣu draviṇodasaḥ pravādā bhavanti ||*

"This very Agni is draviṇodāḥ, says Śākapūṇi; for it is in the sūktas addressed to Agni that the statements about draviṇodas occur." (The Kannada: this is Śākapūṇi's view; in Agni-sūktas the priests use the word draviṇodāḥ as an epithet of Agni.)

[तथो वैतत्स बलधनयोर्दातृतम इति सर्वासु देवतासु ऐश्वर्यं विद्यते । तथो ऽ'एतदोजसो
जातमुतमन्य एनं' इति चाहेत्यप्यग्निरोजसा बलेन मथ्यमानो जायते तस्मादेनमाह सहसस्पुत्रं
सहसः सूनं सहसो यहुम् ॥]

*[tatho vaiṭat sa bala-dhanayor dātṛtama iti sarvāsu devatāsu aiśvaryam vidyate | tatho 'etad ojaso jātam utamanya enam' iti cāhety apy agnir ojasā balena mathyamāno jāyate tasmād
enam āha sahasas-putraṃ sahasaḥ sūnuṃ sahaso yahum ||]*

²⁸ "All deities have lordship; so Agni too gives strength and wealth, and may be called draviṇodāḥ. Since draviṇa has the sense 'strength', and Agni is kindled by the force of strength (churned by rubbing), he is believed to be born of strength; hence the Veda praises Agni as 'sahasas-putra' (son of strength), 'sahasaḥ sūnu', 'sahaso yahu.'" The Kannada then gives three riks in which these epithets of Agni occur:

28. This passage is printed in small type and the readings of its first words — here given as tatho vaiṭat — are uncertain [?]; its sense, as the Kannada gives it, is:

द्रविणोदाः सर्पिरासुतिः प्रत्नो होता वरेण्यः । सहसस्पुत्रो अद्भुतः ॥ (ऋ. सं. [३-२-६]) draviṇodāḥ sarpirāsutiḥ pratno hotā vareṇyaḥ | sahasas-
putro adbhutaḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. [3-2-6])

त्वं ह यद्यविष्ठ्य सहसः सूनवाहुतः । ऋतावा यज्ञियो भुवः ॥ (ऋ. सं. [८-२३-३]) tvam
ha yad yaviṣṭhya sahasaḥ sūnav āhutaḥ | ṛtāvā yajñiyo
bhuvaḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. [8-23-3])

अग्ने वाजस्य गोमत ईशानः सहसो यहो । अस्मे धेहि जातवेदो महि श्रवः ॥ (ऋ. सं.
 [१-७९-४]) agne vājasya gomata īśānaḥ sahaso yaho | asme
dhehi jātavedo mahi śravaḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. [1-79-4])

²⁹ The Kannada concludes that although the other deities too give strength and wealth, Agni is above all the one proclaimed by the word draviṇodāḥ.

ग्रावहस्तासः (grāvahastāsaḥ)

— those who hold the stones in their hand to crush the soma-creeper.

अध्वरे, यज्ञेषु (adhvare, yajñeṣu) — The words adhvara and yajña are in general sense both "sacrifice". Here, in order to avoid the fault of repetition, the commentator takes adhvara as the Agniṣṭoma, which is the prakṛti form, and yajña as particular sacrifices, the vikṛti forms, the Ukthya and others. Prakṛti means the original sacrificial work, containing the programme that applies in general to all sacrifices; vikṛti means the sacrificial work performed with modifications of certain details; the actions in all the vikṛtis are as in the prakṛti, differing only in one or two matters. We shall explain prakṛti and vikṛti sacrifices elsewhere [the print says "we explained earlier"].

original pp. 657–658

²⁹. The references are as I read the small numerals; each is marked [?].

Sūkta 15, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

द्रविणोदा ददातु नो वसूनि यानि शृण्विरे । देवेषु ता वनामहे ॥८॥

*draviṇodā dadātu no vasūni yāni śṛṇvire | deveṣu tā
vanāmahe ||8||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

द्रविणःऽदाः । ददातु । नः । वसूनि । यानि । शृण्विरे ॥ देवेषु । ता । वनामहे ॥८॥

*draviṇaḥ-dāḥ | dadātu | naḥ | vasūni | yāni | śṛṇvire ||
deveṣu | tā | vanāmahe ||8||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

द्रविणोदा देवो नोऽस्मभ्यं वसूनि धनानि ददातु । यानि धनानि शृण्विरे हविरुपयुक्तत्वेन श्रूयन्ते
[?] । तानि च सर्वाणि धनानि देवेषु निमित्तभूतेषु वनामहे । सम्भजामः । धनैर्देवान्यष्टुं तानि
स्वीकुर्म इत्यर्थः ॥ द्रविणोदाः । गतम् । वसूनि । शृस्पृस्निहीत्यादिना । उ. [१-११] । उप्रत्ययः
। निदित्यनुवृत्तेराद्युदात्तः । शृण्विरे । श्रु श्रवणे । छन्दसि लुङ्लङ्लिट इति वर्तमाने लिट् । झ
इरेच् । पा. [३-४-८१] । छन्दस्युभयथेति सार्वधातुकत्वे व्यत्ययेन श्नुः । तस्संनियोगेन
शृभावश्च । उवङः प्राप्ते हुश्नुवोः सार्वधातुके । पा. [६-४-८७] । इति यणादेशः । चित
इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । यद्वृत्तान्नित्यमिति निघातप्रतिषेधः । ता । शेश्छन्दसि बहुलमिति शेलोपः ।
नलोपः प्रातिपदिकान्तस्य । पा. [८-२-७] । इति नलोपः । वनामहे । वन षण सम्भक्तौ । व्यत्ययेनात्मनेपदम् ॥८॥

*draviṇodā devo no 'smabhyaṃ vasūni dhanāni dadātu | yāni
dhanāni śṛṇvire havir-upayuktatvena śrūyante [?] | tāni ca sarvāṇi dhanāni deveṣu nimitta-bhūteṣu vanāmahe |
sambhajāmaḥ | dhanair devān yaṣṭuṃ tāni svikurma ity arthaḥ || draviṇodāḥ | gatam | vasūni | śṛ-spr̥-sniḥī-ty-ādinā
| u. [1-11] | u-pratyayaḥ | nid ity anuvṛtter ādyudāttaḥ |
śṛṇvire | śru śravaṇe | chandasi luṅ-laṅ-liṭa iti vartamāne liṭ |
jha ireṣ | pā. [3-4-81] | chandasy ubhayatheti sārvaadhātukatve
vyatyayena śnuḥ | tas-saṃniyogena śrbhāvaś ca | uvaṇaḥ
prāpte hu-śnuvoḥ sārvaadhātuke | pā. [6-4-87] | iti yaṇādeśaḥ |*

*cita ity antodāttatvam | yad-vṛttān nityam iti nighāta-pratiṣedhaḥ | tā | śeś chandasi bahulam iti śer lopah |
nalopah prātipadikāntasya | pā. [8-2-7] | iti nalopah |
vanāmahe | vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau | vyatyayenātmanepadam
||8||*

Translation: "May the god Draviṇodā give us the vasūni — the riches — which are heard of (śṛṇvire) [as useful for the oblation]. And all those riches we accept (vanāmahe, 'we enjoy, we take') for the gods, who are the occasion: the sense is that we take them for the purpose of sacrificing to the gods with riches." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: vasūni (the Uṇādi u suffix; first-syllable accent); śṛṇvire (śru with liṭ in the present sense, jha → ire by P. 3-4-81 liṭas tajhayor eśirec, śnu inserted by vyatyaya, śr for śru, and y for u by P. 6-4-87; accent on the last syllable because of the c; no loss of accent despite the relative yāni); tā (śas → śi with śi's drop, n-drop by P. 8-2-7); vanāmahe (vana "to love, to serve"; ātmanepada by vyatyaya).³⁰

Grammar pages (pp. 658–659), noted briefly. Draviṇodāḥ was explained in the preceding mantra. Vasūni — vas "to dwell" with the Uṇādi u (Uṇ. 1-10 śvāsyu-snihi-trapy-asi-vasi-hani-klidi-bandhi-manibhyaś ca; nit carries over, so the suffix is eternal; first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197 ñnityādir nityam). Śṛṇvire — śru + liṭ (P. 3-4-6) + jha; P. 3-4-81 liṭas tajhayor eśirec; P. 3-4-117 chandasy ubhayathā makes the suffix sārvadhātuka too; śruvaḥ śr ca P. 3-1-74 gives śr and śnu together; the in-uvaṇ P. 6-4-77 aci śnudhātubhruvām yvor iyaṇuvaṇau would apply, but it is barred in favour of hu-śnuvoḥ sārvadhātuke P. 6-4-87 yaṇ; and kvit the n → ṇ by P. 8-4-1 raṣābhyām no ṇaḥ samānapade; the accent on the last by cit P. 6-1-163; the verb is not unaccented, by yadvṛttān nityam P. 8-1-66 [as read]. Tā — tad + śas, the d → a by P. 7-2-102 tyadādīnām aḥ, ato guṇe P. 6-1-97, jaśśasoḥ śiḥ P. 7-1-20, śi

30. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 8-2-7 and P. 3-4-81 agree with the standard numbering.

sarvanāmasthānam P. 1-1-42, num augment by P. 7-1-72 napuṃsakasya jhalacaḥ, lengthening by P. 6-4-8, śeś chandasi bahulam P. 6-1-70, n-drop P. 8-2-7. Vanāmahe — vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau; the vyatyayo bahulam (P. 3-1-85) ātmanepada and the long discussion of the word upagraha in the Kārikā supy... upagraha, in which parasmaipada and ātmanepada are the two; so vyatyaya of the voices can occur; the verb unaccented by P. 8-1-28.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

द्रविणोदाः (draviṇodāḥ) — the god (Agni) who gives wealth | यानि (yāni) — which riches | शृण्विरे (śṛṇvire) — are known (heard) as useful for the oblation | ता वसूनि (tā vasūni) — those riches | नः (naḥ) — to us | ददातु (dadātu) — let him give | ता (tā) — all those riches | देवेषु (deveṣu) — for the sake of the gods | वनामहे (vanāmahe) — we accept.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

We seek wealth for the sake of rites such as the sacrifice to the gods. May Agni, the giver of wealth, graciously give us all the riches that are well known to be fit for these rites.

॥ English Translation ॥

May Dravinodas give us riches that may be heard of; we ask them towards the service of the gods.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

यानि शृण्विरे (yāni śṛṇvire) — all such objects as we have heard have the various kinds of wealth and lordship. Since the rik says "deveṣu tā vanāmahe", those objects must be fit to be offered to the gods; therefore the commentator says they are objects "useful for giving oblation".

Sūkta 15, Rik 9

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

द्रविणोदाः पिपीषति जुहोत प्र च तिष्ठत । नेष्ट्राद्ऋतुभिरिष्यत ॥९॥

*draviṇodāḥ pipīṣati juhota pra ca tiṣṭhata | neṣṭrād ṛtubhir
iṣyata || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

द्रविणःऽदाः । पिपीषति । जुहोत । प्र । च । तिष्ठत ॥ नेष्ट्रात् । ऋतुऽभिः । इष्यत ॥९॥

*draviṇaḥ-dāḥ | pipīṣati | juhota | pra | ca | tiṣṭhata ||
neṣṭrāt | ṛtu-bhiḥ | iṣyata || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

द्रविणोदा देव ऋतुभिः सह नेष्ट्रान्नेष्ट्रसम्बन्धिपात्रात्पिपीषति । सोमं पातुमिच्छति । ततो हे ऋत्विज इष्यत । होमस्थाने गच्छत । गत्वा च जुहोत । हुत्वा प्र तिष्ठत च । होमस्थानात्स्वस्थानान्तरं प्रति प्रस्थानमपि कुरुत ॥ द्रविणोदाः । गतम् । पिपीषति । पा पाने । पातुमिच्छतीति सन् । छान्दस ईकारः । तिङ्ङितिङ इति निघातः । जुहोत । लोणमध्यमबहुवचनम् । तस्य लङ्वद्भावात्तादेशः । तस्य तप्तनप्तनथनाश्चेति तबादेशः । तस्य पित्त्वाद्गुणः । अभ्यस्तानामादिरित्यनुवृत्तावनुदात्ते च । पा. [६-१-१८९] । इत्याद्युदात्तत्वे प्राप्ते भीहीभृहुमदजनधनदरिद्राजागराम् प्रत्ययात्पूर्वं पिति । पा. [६-१-१९२] । इत्योकार उदात्तः । तिष्ठत । ष्टा गतिनिवृत्तौ । लोणमध्यमबहुवचनस्य थस्य लङ्वद्भावात्तादेशः । शपि पाप्नेत्यादिना तिष्ठादेशः । समवप्रविभ्यः स्थः । पा. [१-३-२२] । इत्यात्मनेपदं न भवति । तत्रानुवृत्तस्य निर्दिष्टग्रहणस्यानन्तर्यार्थत्वात् । अत्र चशब्देन व्यवधानात् ते प्रागाङ्कोः । पा. [१-४-८०] । इत्युपसर्गत्वेन प्राक्प्रयोक्तव्यस्यापि प्रशब्दस्य व्यवहिताश्चेति छन्दसि व्यवहितप्रयोगः । अत्र चशब्दो जुहोतेति पूर्वेण सह समुच्चयार्थः । न पुनरिष्यतेत्युत्तरेण । तेनाप्रथमत्वाच्चेनायोगे प्रथमा । पा. [८-१-३६] । इति निषेधाभावात्तिङ्ङितिङ इति निघातः । नेष्ट्रात् । पोत्राद्यञं पुनीतन । ऋग्वेदे [१-१५-२] इत्यत्र पोत्रशब्देन यदुक्तं तदत्र द्रष्टव्यम् । इष्यत । इष गतौ । लोणमध्यमबहुवचनम् ॥९॥

draviṇodā deva ṛtubhiḥ saha neṣṭrān neṣṭr-sambandhi-pātrāt pipīṣati | somaṃ pātum icchati | tato he ṛtvija iṣyata | homasthāne gacchata | gatvā ca juhota | hutvā pra tiṣṭhata ca |

homa-sthānāt sva-sthānāntaraṃ prati prasthānam api kuruta || draviṇodāḥ | gatam | pipīṣati | pā pāne | pātum icchatīti san | chāndasa īkāraḥ | tiṅ ataṅ iti nighātaḥ | juhota | loṇ-madhyama-bahuvacanam | tasya laṅvad-bhāvāt tādeśaḥ |
 tasya tapta-ṇap-tana-thanās ceti tabādeśaḥ | tasya pittvād
 guṇaḥ | abhyastānām ādir ity anuvṛttāv anudātte ca | pā.
 [6-1-189] | ity ādyudāttatve prāpte bhī-hrī-bhr̥-hu-mada-jana-dhana-daridrā-jāgarām pratyayāt pūrvaṃ piti | pā. [6-1-192] |
 ity okāra udāttaḥ | tiṣṭhata | ṣṭhā gati-nivṛttau | loṇ-madhyama-bahuvacanasya thasya laṅvad-bhāvāt tādeśaḥ |
 śapi pā-ghrety-ādinā tiṣṭhādeśaḥ | sam-ava-pra-vibhyaḥ sthaḥ
 | pā. [1-3-22] | ity ātmanepadam na bhavati | tatrānuvṛttasya nirdiṣṭa-graḥṇasyānantaryārthatvāt | atra ca-śabdena
 vyavadhānāt te prāg āṅkoḥ | pā. [1-4-80] | ity upasargatvena prākprayoktavyasyāpi pra-śabdasya vyavahitās ceti chandasi vyavahita-prayogaḥ | atra ca-śabdo juhoteṭi pūrveṇa saha samuccayārthaḥ | na punar iṣyatety uttareṇa |
 tenāprathamatvāc cenāyoge prathamā | pā. [8-1-36] | iti
 niṣedhābhāvāt tiṅ ataṅ iti nighātaḥ | neṣṭrāt | potṛād yajñam
 punītana | ṛgvede [1-15-2] ity atra potṛa-śabdena yad uktaṃ tad atra draṣṭavyam | iṣyata | iṣa gatau | loṇ-madhyamabahuvacanam || 9 ||

Translation: "The god Draviṇodā, together with the Ṛtus, wishes (pipīṣati) to drink from the vessel (neṣṭrāt) belonging to the Neṣṭr priest. He wishes to drink the soma. Therefore, O priests, go (iṣyata) — go to the place of the oblation; having gone, offer the oblation (juhota); having offered, depart (pra tiṣṭhata) from the oblation-place to another place of your own." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: pipīṣati (pā "to drink", desiderative san, the Vedic long ī, the verb unaccented); juhota (loṇ middle plural, tas-substitute, śap's luk by juhotyāḍibhyaḥ śluḥ, reduplication, the accent on the o before the pit suffix by P. 6-1-192); tiṣṭhata (sthā "to stop going" with tiṣṭha by pāghrādhmā; P. 1-3-22 samavapṛavibhyaḥ sthaḥ, which would give the middle voice after pra, does not apply because the particle ca separates pra from the verb; the separated use of pra [P. 1-4-80, with vyavahitās ca in the Veda]; the ca joins juhota and tiṣṭhata, not īṣyata; the verb is not unaccented because it is not the first of the pair and ca is connected: P. 8-1-36 ceda-yoge prathamā); neṣṭrāt (as for potrāt in Rik 2); īṣyata (iṣ "to go", loṭ middle plural; the yan).³¹

Grammar pages (pp. 661–663), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats draviṇodāḥ (explained at the Rik 7); pipīṣati — pā with the desiderative san (P. 3-1-7 dhātoḥ karmaṇaḥ samānakartṛkād icchāyāṃ vā), pā+sa doubled by P. 6-1-9 sanyaṇoḥ, the reduplicative vowel shortened by P. 7-4-59 hrasvaḥ, sanyataḥ P. 7-4-79 giving i; ī in the Veda; ṣatva by P. 8-3-59; verb unaccented by P. 8-1-28. Juhota — hu "to give, to offer", the juhotyādi class, loṭ, tha → ta, loṭo laṇvat P. 3-4-85, tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ P. 3-4-101, tapta-nap-tana-thanās ca P. 7-1-45, śap with śluḥ P. 2-4-75, doubling by P. 6-1-10 ślau, hu → juhu, the h of hu → j by P. 7-4-62 kuhoś cuḥ, the u of hu → o by guṇa P. 7-3-84, the tha being pit by P. 1-2-4 sārvadhātukam apit making it ñit — hence no guṇa by kniti ca; the accent by P. 6-1-189 abhyastānām ādiḥ superseded by P. 6-1-192 bhī-hrī-bhṛ-hu-mad-jana-dhana-daridrā-jāgarāṃ pratyayāt pūrvaṃ pit, the o before the pit-suffix is accented. Tiṣṭhata — ṣṭhā, dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; tiṣṭha for sthā by P. 7-3-78; the discussion of P. 1-3-22 samavaprabhayaḥ sthaḥ and of the paribhāṣā that a rule stating a case in the fifth is to be applied only when the next item immediately follows (tasmād ity uttarasya P. 1-1-67), hence with ca intervening no ātmanepada; pra as an upasarga by P. 1-4-59 and P. 1-4-80 te prāḡ dhātoḥ (the Kannada gives the numbers 1-4-80 and 1-4-59 as read), the separated use of gati-upasargas allowed in the Veda by vyavahitās ca P. 1-4-82; ca joins the first two verbs and not īṣyata; the unaccented tiñ after ca by cavāyoge prathamā P. 8-1-59 [as read]. Neṣṭrāt — as for potrāt in Rik 15.2

31. Grammar, noted briefly; the Pāṇini numbers as read; the standard numbers of 1-3-22, 1-4-80, 8-1-36 [?] agree with those I know.

(print: "R. Saṃ. 1-15-2"). Iṣyata — iṣ "to go", divādi class, loṭ, tha → ta, loṭo laṅvat, tasthasthamipāṇ... P. 3-4-101 ta; śyan by P. 3-1-69 divādibhyaḥ śyan; wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28. ॥9॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

द्रविणोदाः (dravinodāḥ) — Agni, the giver of wealth | ऋतुभिः (ṛtubhiḥ) — together with the R̥tu-deities | नेष्ट्रात् (neṣṭrāt) — from the vessel of Neṣṭṛ | पिपीषति (pipīṣati) — he wishes to drink (the soma-juice); (therefore, O priests) | इष्यत (iṣyata) — go [to the sacrificial place] | जुहोत (juhota) — make the oblation, and [afterwards] | प्र तिष्ठत च (pra tiṣṭhata ca) — leave the homa-place and go to your own places.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O priests! Agni, the giver of wealth, who is himself a deity, wishes to drink the soma from the vessel of Neṣṭṛ. Therefore all of you come to the place of sacrifice, make the oblation, and afterwards depart.

॥ English Translation ॥

Dravinodas desires to drink with the Ritu's from the cup of Neshtri; hasten, priests, present the oblation and depart.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

पिपीषति (pipīṣati) — pā pāne; pātum icchati: he wishes to drink; he desires to drink.

नेष्ट्रात् (neṣṭrāt)

— the soma-juice from the vessel in the hand of the priest called Neṣṭṛ.

Sūkta 15, Rik 10

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यत्त्वा तुरीयमृतुभिर्द्रविणोदो यजामहे । अध स्मा नो ददिर्भव ॥१०॥

*yat tvā turīyam ṛtubhir draviṇodo yajāmahe | adha smā no
dadir bhava || 10 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³²

यत् । त्वा । तुरीयम् । ऋतुऽभिः । द्रविणःऽदः । यजामहे ॥ अध । स्म । नः । ददिः । भव ॥ १०॥

*yat | tvā | turīyam | ṛtu-bhiḥ | draviṇaḥ-daḥ | yajāmahe | |
adha | sma | naḥ | dadiḥ | bhava | | 10 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे द्रविणोदो देव यद्यस्मात्कारणादृतुभिः सह त्वां यजामहे । अधेत्ययं निपातस्तच्छब्दार्थः ।
तस्मात्कारणान्नोऽस्मभ्यं ददिर्धनस्य दाता भव स्म । अवश्यं भव । तुरीयं चतुर्णां पूरणम् ।
तुरीयं । चतुरश्छयतावाद्यक्षरलोपश्च । पा. [५-२-५१] । इति भप्रत्ययः ... [तस्य
प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तत्वात् ...] इति वचनात्कृत आदेशे प्रत्ययस्वरेणेकार उदात्तः । द्रविणोदः ।
उक्तम् । पादादिवादादामन्त्रितस्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । यजामहे । अत्र शपः पित्त्वेन तिङश्च
लसार्वधातुकस्वरेण धातुस्वर एव । पूर्वस्यामन्त्रितस्याविद्यमानवत्त्वाद्यद्वृत्तयोगाद्वा न निघातः ।
व्यवहितयोगेऽपि हि स इत्युक्तम् । अध । छान्दसो धकारः । स्म । चादिस्नुदात्तः । संहितायां निपातस्य चेति दीर्घः । ददिः । डुदाञ् दाने । आदृगमहनजनः किकिनौ लिट् च । पा.
[३-२-१७१] । इति किप्रत्ययः । लिङ्वद्भावाद्द्विवचनादि । आतो लोप इटि च । पा.
[६-४-६४] इत्याकारलोपः । प्रत्ययस्वरः ॥१०॥

*he draviṇodo deva yad yasmāt kāraṇād ṛtubhiḥ saha tvāṃ yajāmahe | adhety ayaṃ nipātas tacchabdārthaḥ | tasmāt
kāraṇān no 'smabhyaṃ dadir dhanasya dātā bhava sma |
avaśyaṃ bhava | turīyaṃ caturṇām pūraṇam | turīyaṃ |
caturaś chayatāv ādyakṣaralopaś ca | pā. [5-2-51] | iti bha-*

32. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened smā; the Pada the short sma.

*pratyayaḥ ... [tasya pratyaya-svareṇodāttatvāt ...] iti vacanāt kṛta ādeṣe pratyaya-svareṇekāra udāttaḥ | draviṇodaḥ |
 uktam | pādāditvād āmantritasyādyudāttatvam | yajāmahe |
 atra śapaḥ pittvena tiṇaś ca lasārvadhātuka-svareṇa dhātusvara eva | pūrvasyāmantritasyāvidyamānavatvād yad-vṛttayogād vā na nighātaḥ | vyavahita-yoge 'pi hi sa ity uktam |
 adha | chāndaso dhakāraḥ | sma | cādir anudāttaḥ |
 saṃhitāyām nipātasya ceti dīrghaḥ | dadīḥ | ḍudāñ dāne | ādṛgamahanajanaḥ kikināu liṭ ca | pā. [3-2-171] | iti kipratyayaḥ | liṭ-vadbhāvād dvirvacanādi | āto lopa iṭi ca | pā.
 [6-4-64] ity ākāralopaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | | 10 | |*

Translation: "O god Draviṇodas! Since (yat) we worship you together with the Ṛtus — adha, 'therefore' [the particle has the sense of tad] — be a giver (dadīḥ) of wealth to us (naḥ); bhava sma: be so without fail. Turīyam — the fourth [i.e. the fourth time, or the fourth rik: the filler of the number four]." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: turīyam (caturaś chayātāv ādyakṣaralopaś ca, P. 5-2-51 [as read; this is the standard numbering] — the suffix bha [read as chayat] and the dropping of the first syllable of catur; the suffix accent); draviṇodaḥ (explained earlier; the vocative at the start of the pāda has the first-syllable accent); yajāmahe (śap is pit, so the accent stays on the root; the preceding vocative treated as non-existent, or the relative yat prevents loss of accent); adha (a particle with Vedic dh); sma (a particle, unaccented; lengthened in the Saṃhitā by P. 6-3-136 nipātasya ca); dadīḥ (dā with the Uṇādi-type ki by P. 3-2-171 ādṛgamahanajanaḥ kikināu liṭ ca, reduplicated as for a liṭ; ā-drop by P. 6-4-64; suffix accent).

Grammar pages (pp. 665–666), noted briefly. The Kannada says: turīyam = caturṇām pūraṇam "the completer of four"; by P. 5-2-51 [as read] the suffixes chat and yat are added to catur in the sense of the ordinal, with the dropping of the first syllable of catur — the Kannada discusses what "first syllable" (ādyakṣara) is: not ca alone but the first consonant with the vowel; so catur

loses ca — and tur + chat/yat with the substitute īya for cha by P. 7-1-2 āyaneyīniyiaḥ phadḥakhachaghāṃ pratyayādīnām, whence tur + īya; the accent falls on the ī by the suffix accent; the Mahābhāṣya's ayanādiṣūpadeśivad-vacanaṃ svarasiddhyartham [Vārttika on the same sūtra]. Draviṇodaḥ — the derivation as in the Rik 7 and 8; a vocative at the start of the pāda is not made unaccented (P. 8-1-19 [?]) but takes the first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-198. Yajāmahe — yaj with laṭ, first person plural mahiṇ, śap, ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e P. 3-4-79 (e), ato dīrgho yañi P. 7-3-101; the verb is not made unaccented since draviṇodaḥ, the vocative before it, is treated as absent (P. 8-1-72) and the verb is at the start of a pāda (P. 8-1-19) — or by yadvṛttān nityam P. 8-1-66 because of yat; with a discussion of pūjanāt pūjitam (P. 8-1-67 [?]). Adha — the particle atha with the Vedic aspirate dh; first-syllable accent (Phiṭ 4-12 [?] nipātā ādyudāttāḥ). Sma — unaccented as a particle of the ca group (Phiṭ 4-[?] cādayo 'nudāttāḥ); the lengthened smā by P. 6-3-136 [?] nipātasya ca. Dadiḥ — ḍudāñ dāne; ādṛgamahanajanaḥ kikināu liṭ ca P. 3-2-171 gives ki in the Vedic sense, treated as liṭ, hence doubling by P. 6-1-8 liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya, shortening by P. 7-4-59 hrasvaḥ, loss of ā before iṭ by P. 6-4-64 āto lopa iṭi ca; hence dadiḥ with suffix accent. ||10||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

द्रविणोदः (draviṇodaḥ) — O Agni, giver of wealth | यत् (yat) — because | ऋतुभिः (ṛtubhiḥ) — together with the Ṛtu-deities | तुरीयम् (turiyam) — [for] the fourth time | त्वा (tvā) — you | यजामहे (yajāmahe) — we worship | अध (adha) — therefore | नः (naḥ) — to us | ददिः (dadiḥ) — giver of wealth | भव स्म (bhava sma) — be, without fail.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! We, desiring wealth, worship you together with the Ṛtu-deities, as the fourth [in the series]. Therefore accept our worship without fail, and be the giver of wealth to us.

॥ English Translation ॥

Dravinodas, Since we adore you for the fourth time along with the Ritus ; therefore be a giver (of riches) to us.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

तुरीयम् (turīyam) — "the fourth time". In this sūkta there are four riks in praise of Agni called Draviṇodā (the riks 7 to 10 of the sūkta); this is the fourth among them. Therefore turīyam here means "the fourth time", or "from the fourth rik we praise [you]".

original pp. 666–670

Sūkta 15, Rik 11

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अश्विना पिबतं मधु दीद्यग्नी शुचिव्रता । ऋतुना यज्ञवाहसा ॥११॥

aśvinā pibatam madhu dīdyagnī śucivratā | ṛtunā yajñavāhasā || 11 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अश्विना । पिबतम् । मधु । दीद्यग्नी इति दीदिऽअग्नी । शुचिऽव्रता ॥ ऋतुना । यज्ञऽवाहसा ॥ ११॥

*aśvinā | pibatam | madhu | dīdyagnī iti dīdi-agnī | śuci-vratā
|| ṛtunā | yajña-vāhasā || 11 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अश्विनौ मधु माधुर्योपेतं सोमं पिबतम् । कीदृशौ । दीद्यग्नी द्योतमानाहवनीयाद्यग्नियुक्तौ
शुचिव्रता शुद्धकर्माणौ ऋतुना ऋतुदेवतया सह यज्ञवाहसा यज्ञस्य निर्वाहकौ ॥ अश्विना ।
सम्बोधनद्विवचनस्य सुपां सुलुगित्याकारः । आमन्त्रिताद्युदात्तः । पिबतम् । शपः
पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । तिङश्च लसार्वधातुकस्वरेण धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । मधु ।
फलिपाटीत्यादिना । उ. [१-१८] । उप्रत्ययः । निदित्यनुवृत्तेर्णित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । दीद्यग्नी । दिवु
क्रीडादौ । आन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते इति विच् । वेरपृक्तलोपाद्वलि लोपो बलीयान् इति
प्रथमवकारस्य लोपः । पा. [६-१-६६, ६७] । प्रथमं प्रत्ययलोपे हि वर्णाश्रयविधौ प्रत्ययलक्षणं

नास्ति ... इति निषेधाद्वलिलोपो न स्यात् । छान्दसं द्विर्वचनम् । तुजादित्वादभ्यासस्य दीर्घत्वम् । यज्ञलुगन्तताद्वा संज्ञापूर्वको विधिरनित्य इत्यभ्यासस्य गुणाभावः । दीदिरग्निर्योस्तौ दीद्यग्नी । आमन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । शुचिव्रता । शुचि व्रतं ययोस्तौ । सुपां सुलुगित्याकारः । दीद्यग्नीशब्दस्य सामान्यवचनत्वेन नामन्त्रित इत्यविद्यमानवक्तृप्रतिषेधाद्... । पूर्वस्य पराङ्गवद्भावात्... । यज्ञवाहसा । वह प्रापणे । यज्ञं वहत इति यज्ञवाहसौ । वहिहाधाङ्भ्यश्छन्दसि । उ. [४-२२०] । इत्यसुन् । तत्र हि गतिकारकोपपदात्कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वं चेति वचनाल्लोपपदानामपि भवति । उ. [४-२१६] । इत्युक्तम् । जिदित्यनुवृत्तेरुपधावृद्धिः । सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना विभक्तेराकारः । आमन्त्रितनिघातः । आसामर्थ्यात्पूर्वस्य न पराङ्गवद्भावः ॥११॥

*he aśvinau madhu mādhyopetaṃ somam pibatam | kīḍṛśau
| dīdyagnī dyotamānāhavanīyādy-agni-yuktau śucivratā śuddha-karmāṇau ṛtunā ṛtu-devatayā saha yajñāvāhasā yajñasya nirvāhakau || aśvinā | sambodhana-dvivacanasya
supāṃ sulug ity ākāraḥ | āmantritādyudāttaḥ | pibatam |
śapaḥ pittvād anudāttatvam | tiṇaś ca lasārvadhātuka-
svareṇa dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | madhu | phali-pāṭi-ty-ādinā
| u. [1-18] | u-pratyayaḥ | nid ity anuvṛtter nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | dīdyagnī | divu krīḍāḍau | ānyebhyo 'pi ḍṛśyante iti vic | ver aprkta-lopād vali lopo balīyān iti prathamā-vakārasya lopaḥ | pā. [6-1-66, 67] | prathamam pratyaya-lope hi varṇāśraya-vidhau pratyaya-lakṣaṇam nāsti ... iti niṣedhād vali-lopo na syāt | chāndasaṃ dvirvacanam | tujādittvād abhyāsasya dīrghatvam | yaja-luganta-tvād vā saṃjñā-pūrvako vidhir anitya ity abhyāsasya guṇābhāvaḥ | dīdir agnir yayos tau dīdyagnī | āmantritādyudāttatvam | pādāditvān na nighātaḥ | śucivratā | śuci vrataṃ yayos tau | supāṃ sulug ity ākāraḥ | dīdyagnī-śabdasya sāmānyavacanatvena nāmantrita ity avidyamānavatva-pratiṣedhād ...
| pūrvasya parāṅgavad-bhāvāt ... | yajñāvāhasā | vaha prāpaṇe | yajñam vahata iti yajñāvāhasau | vahi-hā-dhān̄bhyaś chandasi | u. [4-220] | ity asun | tatra hi gati-kārakopapadāt kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam ceti vacanāl lopa-padānām api bhavati | u. [4-216] | ity uktam | jid ity*

*anuvṛtter upadhā-vṛddhiḥ | supāṃ sulug ity-ādinā vibhakter
ākāraḥ | āmantrita-nighātaḥ | āsāmarthyāt pūrvasya na
parāṅgavad-bhāvaḥ || 11 ||*

Translation: "O Ásvins! Drink the sweet (madhu, sweet-tasting) soma. Of what sort are you? Dīdyagnī — joined with the shining āhavanīya and other fires; śucivratā — of pure works; yajñavāhasā — together with the Ṛtu, the carriers (completers) of the sacrifice." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: aśvinā (the dual vocative with ā by P. 7-1-39 supāṃ sulug...; first-syllable accent of the vocative); pibatam (śap pīt, unaccented; the root accent remains); madhu (the Uṇādi u suffix, first-syllable accent); dīdyagnī (div "to play" with vic, doubling of the verb stem in the Veda; the first v dropped; the compound "those whose fire is shining"; the vocative at the start of a pāda is not unaccented); śucivratā ("those whose vow is pure"; the ā ending for the dual vocative); yajñavāhasā (vah "to carry", Uṇ. 4-220 vahi-hā-dhānbhyaś chandasi with asun; the lengthening of the penultimate by ñit-ness; the accent of the compound that of the final member; the vocative unaccented as not first in the pāda).³³

Grammar pages (pp. 668 lower half–670), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: aśvinā (P. 7-1-39 supāṃ sulug..., ā for the dual vocative; accent by P. 6-1-198 āmantritasya ca; P. 8-1-18/19 does not apply, since it stands at the head of the pāda); pibatam (pā; loṭ 2nd dual thas; loṭo laṇvat P. 3-4-85; tasthasthamipāṃ tāmṭamṭāmaḥ P. 3-4-101: thas → tam; śap P. 3-1-68; pāghrādhmā... P. 7-3-78: piba; ato guṇe P. 6-1-97 pararūpa: pibatam, with a note on the alternative view that piba is an ādyudātta nipātana in the sūtra — Vārttika pibāv ānipātanāt — and the debate over the accent of pibā; pugantalaghūpadhasya ca P. 7-3-86 not applying; dhātoḥ P. 6-1-162 ending-accent; the rule aṅgavṛtte punar vṛttāv avidhiḥ (paribhāṣā) so the guṇa does not apply after piba—

33. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-1-66 and 6-1-67 as read agree with the standard numbering.

substitution; "the accent of the root alone remains, so the Vedabhāṣya says"; śap pit unaccented, the suffix tam a lasārvadhātuka unaccented by tāsyānudātenṇiḍ-adupadeśāt P. 6-1-186 [as read]); madhu ("madhumantam", see Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-1-?-? in the earlier part, where the process is explained; here man "to know" with the Uṇādi u — phali-pāṭi... Uṇ. 1-18 [?], nit so first-syllable accent); dīdyagnī (div "to play", with the suffixes manin, kvanip, vanip, vic which are added after the root div in the Veda, by P. 3-2-75 anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante; div + vic with ver apr̥ktasya P. 6-1-67 dropping vi's v, and lopo vyor vali P. 6-1-66 dropping the v of div: the rule that [the dropping of the first v by the ver apr̥ktasya rule takes precedence], argued in detail by the paribhāṣā "varṇāśraye nāsti pratyayalakṣaṇam"; the Vedic doubling didiv with tujādīnām dīrgho 'bhyāsasya P. 6-1-7 lengthening dīdi; or alternatively from div with yañ P. 3-1-22 dhātor ekāco halādeḥ kriyāsamabhihāre yañ and its luk P. 2-4-74 [yaño vā], then sanyañoḥ P. 6-1-9, halādiḥ śeṣaḥ P. 7-4-60, and guṇo yañluk-ṛnoḥ P. 7-4-82 whose guṇa is barred by the paribhāṣā saṃjñāpūrvako vidhir anityaḥ; dīrgho 'kitaḥ P. 7-4-83 lengthening the reduplicative; "dīdiḥ agniḥ yayoh tau — a bahuvrīhi; the vocative accent on the first syllable; not unaccented by P. 8-1-19 as it begins the pāda"); śucivratā (śuci vratam yayoh tau; the dual vocative ā by P. 7-1-39; the grammarian's discussion of whether dīdyagnī and śucivratā, both vocatives, are connected by sense with aśvinā, by P. 8-1-73 nāmantrite samānādhikaraṇe sāmānyavacanam [as read] and P. 8-1-72 āmantritaṃ pūrvam avidyamānavat and P. 8-1-74 [?] supāmantrite parāṅgavat svare — the Kannada concludes that dīdyagnī and śucivratā are adjectives of aśvinā and aśvinā is the general term, so P. 8-1-73's bar applies and P. 8-1-72 does not make dīdyagnī ... unaccented; the whole is treated as one word, so śucivratā has the first-syllable accent only and the others are all-unaccented by anudāttaṃ padam ekavarjam P. 6-1-158, with svarita from udāttād anudāttasya svaritaḥ P. 8-4-66 and the pracaya of svaritāt saṃhitāyām

anudāttānām P. 1-2-39); yajñavāhasā (yajñam vahataḥ; vah; Uṇ. 4-220 vahi-hā-dhānbhyaś chandasi asun; the compound accent by Uṇ. 4-216; P. 7-2-116 ata upadhāyāḥ for the ā; ñit; the vocative dual ending au → ā by P. 7-1-39; accent by P. 8-1-72: the preceding word ṛtunā does not become parāṅgavat, since P. 8-1-74 supāmantrite parāṅgavat svare does not apply here, as the two words have no mutual connexion; the wholly unaccented yajñavāhasā by P. 8-1-19). ||11|| ³⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

दीद्यग्नी (dīdyagnī) — those shining with the āhavanīya and other fires | शुचिव्रता (śucivratā) — whose works are pure | ऋतुना (ṛtunā) — together with the Ṛtu-deity | यज्ञवाहसा (yajña-vāhasā) — the carriers of the sacrifice | अश्विना (aśvinā) — O Áśvin-deities | मधु (madhu) — the sweet soma-juice | पिबतम् (pibatam) — drink.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Áśvins! You are ever shining with the āhavanīya and other fires; together with the Ṛtu-deity you carry through the sacrifice. Be pleased to drink the sweet soma-juice.

॥ English Translation ॥

Aswins, performers of pious acts, accepters of the sacrifice with the Ritus, and accompanied by brilliant Agni, drink the sweet draught.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

34. A long, crowded grammatical argument about the accent of the cluster aśvinā ... dīdyagnī śucivratā ... ṛtunā yajñavāhasā; I have given its outline only, with numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

दीद्यग्नी (dīdyagnī) — divu krīḍāḍau; dīdir agnir yayos tau: "shining" — because the offerings for the Aśvin deities are made in the āhavanīya and other fires, they are said to be possessed of shining fire.

शुचिव्रता (śucivratā) — śuci vrataṃ yayos tau: "having pure works", that is, the works done by them are pure.

यज्ञवाहसा (yajña-vāhasā) — vaha prāpaṇe: yajñaṃ vahata iti yajñavāhasau: yajñasya nirvāhakau: "those who carry the sacrifice through" — who make it proceed without obstacle.

original pp. 671–676

Sūkta 15, Rik 12 (last rik of the sūkta)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

गार्हपत्येन सन्त्य ऋतुना यज्ञनीरसि । देवान्देवयते यज ॥१२॥

gārhapatyena santya ṛtunā yajñanīr asi | devān devayate yaja
|| 12 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

गार्हपत्येन । सन्त्य । ऋतुना । यज्ञनीः । असि ॥ देवान् । देवयते । यज ॥१२॥

gārha-patyena | santya | ṛtunā | yajña-nīḥ | asi | | devān |
deva-yate | yaja | | 12 |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे सन्त्य फलप्रदाग्निदेव गार्हपत्येन गृहपतिसम्बन्धिना रूपेण युक्तः सन्तुतुना ऋतुदेवेन सह यज्ञनीर्यज्ञस्य निर्वाहकोऽसि । तस्मात्त्वं देवयते देवविषयकामनायुक्ताय यजमानाय देवान्यज ॥ गार्हपत्येन । गृहपतिना संयुक्ते ज्यः । पा. [४-४-९०] । यस्येति लोपः ।

जित्वादादिवृद्धिराद्युदात्तत्वं च । गृहपतित्वमित्यर्थे पत्यन्तपुरोहितादिभ्यो यक् । पा. [५-१-१२८ ?] । इति यकि त्वन्तोदात्तत्वं स्यात् [?] । सन्त्य । सननं भवे [?] षणु दाने । क्रिच्यक्तौ चेति क्रिच् । न क्रिचि दीर्घश्च । पा. [६-४-३९ ?] । इति दीर्घानुलोपाभावः । भवे छन्दसि । पा. [४-४-११०] । इति यत् । तत्र साधुः । पा. [४-४-९८] । इति वा । निघातः ।

यज्ञं नयतीति यज्ञनीः । सत्सूद्विषेत्यादिना क्विप् । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरः । देवयते ।
 देवानात्मन इच्छतीति देवयन् । तस्मै । क्यचि च ईत्वं न भवति । न छन्दस्यपुत्रस्येति निषेधात्
 । अश्वाघस्य । पा. [७-४-३७] । इत्यात्वविधानादीत्वनिषेधे प्राप्तस्य दीर्घस्यैष निषेध
 इत्युक्तम् । शतुरनुमो नद्यजादी इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । अत्र क्यचि [?] ... अन्तोदात्तत्वम्
 । शपः पित्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । शतुश्च लसार्वधातुकस्वरेणोभयोः ... एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्त इत्युदात्तः । तस्मादन्तोदात्तत्वात्परस्या विभक्तेः शतुरनुमो नद्यजादी इत्युदात्तत्वम् ॥१२॥ *he santya phala-pradāgni-deva gārhapatyena gr̥hapatisambandhinā rūpeṇa yuktaḥ sann ṛtunā ṛtu-devena saha yajña-nīr yajñasya nirvāhako 'si | tasmāt tvaṃ devayate devaviṣaya-kāmanā-yuktāya yajamānāya devān yaja | |

 gārhapatyena | gr̥hapatinā saṃyukte ñyaḥ | pā. [4-4-90] |
 yasyeti lopaḥ | ñittvād ādi-vṛddhir ādyudāttatvaṃ ca |
 gr̥hapatitvam ity arthe patny-anta-purohitādibhyo yak | pā.
 [5-1-128 ?] | iti yaki tv antodāttatvaṃ syāt [?] | santya |
 sananam bhava [?] ṣaṇu dāne | kric-ktau ceti kric | na kṛci dīrghaś ca | pā. [6-4-39 ?] | iti dīrghānulopābhāvaḥ | bhava
 chandasi | pā. [4-4-110] | iti yat | tatra sādhuḥ | pā. [4-4-98] |
 iti vā | nighātaḥ | yajñaṃ nayatīti yajñanīḥ | sat-sūdvīṣety-
 ādinā kvip | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaraḥ | devayate | devān
 ātmana icchatīti devayan | tasmai | kyaci ca itvaṃ na bhavati
 | na chandasy aputrasyeti niṣedhāt | aśvāghasya | pā.
 [7-4-37] | ity ātva-vidhānād itva-niṣedhe prāptasya dīrghasyaiṣa niṣedha ity uktam | śatur anumō nady-ajādī iti vibhakter udāttatvam | atra kyaci [?] ... antodāttatvam |
 śapaḥ pītvād anudāttatvam | śatuś ca lasārvadhātukasvareṇobhayoḥ ... ekādeśa udāttanodātta ity udāttaḥ | tasmād antodāttatvāt parasyā vibhakteḥ śatur anumō nady-ajādī ity udāttatvam | | 12 | |*

Translation: "O santya — O Agni, god who gives the fruit [of rites]! Joined to the form belonging to the master of the house — the gārhapatya fire — and together with the Ṛtu-god, you are the yajña-nīḥ, the one who carries the sacrifice through. Therefore, for the sacrificer who desires the gods (devayate), sacrifice to (yaja; "bring") the gods." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: gārhapatyena (ñya by P. 4-4-90 gr̥hapatinā saṃyukte ñyaḥ — "joined with the gr̥hapati"; the ñ gives vr̥ddhi of the first syllable and first-syllable accent; the alternative yak by P. 5-1-128 [?] would give end accent, which is why the ñya is preferred); santya (ṣaṇu "to give"; kric; yat "born in, good in" by P. 4-4-110 bhave chandasī or P. 4-4-98 tatra sādhuḥ); yajñanīḥ (nī + kvip after yajñam; final accent); devayate (devān ātmana icchatī, with kyac P. 3-1-8, and śatṛ; the lengthening of the a of deva before kyac is barred by P. 7-4-35 na chandasya aputrasya; the ā of aśvāghasya P. 7-4-37 is cited in the argument; the end accent of the ending by P. 6-1-173 śatur anumō nady-ajādī).³⁵

Grammar pages (pp. 673–676), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats: gārhapatyena (P. 4-4-90 gr̥hapatinā saṃyukte ñyaḥ; the suffix ñya is added after gr̥hapati in the sense "joined with" in a case-ending of the third case; gr̥hapati + ṭā + ñya, cutū P. 1-3-7 for the ñ, tasya lopaḥ P. 1-3-9; the sup dropped by supo dhātuprātīpadikayoḥ P. 2-4-71; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148; taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ P. 7-2-117 vr̥ddhi; ur aṇ raparaḥ P. 1-1-51; gārhapatya; the accent by ñnityādir nityam P. 6-1-197 first-syllable; then a discussion of the alternative yak by P. 5-1-128 patny-anta-purohitādibhyo yak in the sense "being a gr̥hapati", which would give gārhapatya with the end accent — so P. 4-4-90 is the one applied); santya (ṣaṇu dāne with kric, P. 3-3-174 kric kto ca saṃjñāyām [as read], dhātvādeḥ saḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; sanoti — san + ti → santi — na kṛci dīrghaś ca P. 6-4-39 [as read] and the Kannada's detailed argument on the rules anunāsikasya kvijhaloḥ kñiti P. 6-4-15, anudāttopadeśa-vanati-tanoty-ādīnām anunāsikalopo jhali kñiti P. 6-4-37, jī ... naklījī... dīrghaś ca [as read]; saneḥ kṛci lopaś cāsyānyatarasyām [as read, P. 6-4-42 in the standard numbering is janasanakhanām sañjhaloḥ]; the concluding view that the n and the ā are both optionally dropped,

35. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 4-4-90, 4-4-110 and 4-4-98 as read agree with the standard numbering.

so santi arises from the kric either way — the Mahābhāṣya's sarvavidhāyaṃ yogaḥ is cited with Kaiyaṭa's sanaḥ kṛci ity eva lopasya prakaraṇāt siddhatvāl lope [vā] ity api na vaktavyam; then santyaṃ "that which is born in santi" by P. 4-4-110 bhave chandasi with yat, or tatra sādhuḥ P. 4-4-98; yasyeti ca; santya, in the vocative singular, with the end accent by P. 6-1-198 āmantritasya ca and made unaccented as a vocative within the pāda by P. 8-1-19); yajñanīḥ (yajñam nayati; the list of roots after which kvip is added in the Veda, sat-sūdviṣa-druha-duha-yuja-vida-bhida-chida-jī-nī-rājām upasarge 'pi kvip P. 3-2-61, with a long grammarians' note on which of these roots in the ādādika class etc.; ṇ for n by P. 6-1-65 ṇo naḥ; the accent of the compound that of the final member by P. 6-2-139; the nominative ending dropped; ru → visarga; yajñanīḥ); devayate (devān ātmana icchati, "one who wishes the gods for himself" — supa ātmanaḥ kyac P. 3-1-8, then the root-name by P. 3-1-32 sanādyantā dhātavaḥ, the sup dropped by P. 2-4-71, deva + ya; the ī-substitute by P. 7-4-33 kyaci ca barred by P. 7-4-35 na chandasya putrasya, for a stem not ending in putra; the further argument — a long scholastic debate whether P. 7-4-35 bars only the ī or also the lengthening of P. 7-4-25 akṛtsārvadhātukayor dīrghaḥ, with the paribhāṣā anantarasya vidhir vā bhavati pratiṣedho vā; the proof from P. 7-4-37 aśvāghasyāt — hence devayāt by śatr P. 3-2-124 laṭaḥ śatrśānacāv aprathamāsamānādhikaraṇe [as read, P. 3-2-124 laṭaḥ śatrśānacau]; śap; ato guṇe P. 6-1-97 pararūpa; the accent of the suffix kyac [cī P. 6-1-163] being final on ya, and the śatr ending accented by P. 6-1-173 śatur anumō nady-ajādī, so that the ending e of the dative singular is accented). ||12||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सन्त्य (santya) — O Agni, capable of giving the fruit [of rites] |
 गार्हपत्येन (gārhapatyena) — joined with the gārhapatya fire | ऋतुना
 (ṛtunā) — together with the Ṛtu-deity | यज्ञनीः (yajña-nīḥ) — the carrier-through of the sacrifice | असि (asi) — you are | देवयते (devayate) — [therefore] for the sacrificer who desires the gods | देवान् (devān) — the gods | यज (yaja) — worship (propitiate).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! You are the giver of what is wished for. Joined to the gārhapatya fire, together with the R̥tu-deity, you carry through the sacrificial work of the sacrificer. Therefore, perform the sacrifice for the sacrificer who always desires the sacrifice to the gods.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, giver of rewards, being the lord of the house, and partaker with Ritu of the sacrifice, perform the sacrifice on behalf of the worshipper.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

सन्त्य (santya) — ṣaṇu dāne (root san "to give"); sanane bhava: so the word santya, formed from this root, means "giver". Giver of what? One who gives the fruit of sacrificial rites; or, as in words like ratnadhātamaṃ, one who gives wealth and lordship.

यज्ञनीः (yajña-nīḥ) — yajñam nayati iti yajñanīḥ; yajñasya nirvāhakaḥ: one who carries the sacrifice through.

देवयते (devayate) — devān ātmana icchati iti devayan, tasmai yajamānāya: for the sacrificer who, for the sacrifice he performs, wishes the gods to come.

Close of Sūkta 15.

The grammar of Rik 12 ends on p. 676 (upper part), after which the ornament and the heading of the sixteenth sūkta appear; the print again has no large closing colophon.

॥ ಹದಿನಾರನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 16 — "ā tvā vahantu harayaḥ" ("The Sixteenth Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta; printed p. 676, lower half)

आ त्वा वहन्त्विति पञ्चमेमं नवर्चं सूक्तम् । ऋषिच्छन्दसी पूर्ववत् । अनुविवर्ते
विशेषादेशाभावादिन्द्रो देवता ॥ विनियोगस्तु । प्रातःसवने मैत्रावरुणस्योन्नीयमाने सूक्तमात्वा
वहन्तु हरय इति ॥ तथा च द्विदेवत्यैः क्रश्नन्तीति खण्डे सूत्रितम् । उन्नीयमानेभ्योऽन्नाहा
त्वावहन्तु । आ. [५-३-?] इति ॥ तथा षोडशिशस्त्र आ त्वा वहन्तु हरय इति तिस्रः । तथा सूत्रितमथ षोडशीति खण्डे । आ त्वा वहन्तु हरय इति तिस्रो गायत्र्यः । आ. [६-२-?] इति ॥

*ā tvā vahantv iti pañcamemaṇṇavarcaṇ sūktam | ṛṣichandasī pūrvavat | anuvivarte viśeṣādeśābhāvād indro
devatā | | viniyogas tu | prātaḥsavane maitrāvaruṇasyonnīyamāne sūktam ātvā vahantu haraya iti | | tathā ca dvidevatyaiḥ kraśnantīti khaṇḍe sūtritam |
unnīyamānebhya 'nnāhā tvāvahantu | ā. [5-3-?] iti | | tathā
ṣoḍaśīśastra ā tvā vahantu haraya iti tisraḥ | tathā sūtritam
atha ṣoḍaśīti khaṇḍe | ā tvā vahantu haraya iti tisro
gāyatrīyaḥ | ā. [6-2-?] iti | |*

Translation: "The nine-rik sūkta beginning ā tvā vahantu is the fifth [of this anuvāka]. Its ṛṣi and meter are as before [Medhātithi Kāṇva; Gāyatrī]. Since no special deity is stated, the deity of the continuing [section] is Indra. Its application: at the morning pressing (prātaḥsavana), when the Maitrāvaruṇa priest is having the soma drawn up (unnayana), the sūkta ā tvā vahantu harayaḥ is recited. And so it is laid down in the Sūtra, in the section beginning dvidevatyaiḥ kraśnanti: 'for those [cups] being drawn up, ā tvā vahantu' (Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra 5-3-[-?], the last numeral not read). Likewise, in the ṣoḍaśī-śāstra, the three riks ā tvā vahantu harayaḥ are used; and it is laid down in the section beginning atha ṣoḍaśī: 'the three Gāyatrīs ā tvā vahantu harayaḥ' (Āś. 6-2-[-?])." ¹

॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) ॥ The sūkta ā tvā vahantu, with nine riks, is the fifth sūkta of the fourth anuvāka. The ṛṣi and meter are as in the earlier sūktas; the deity is Indra. Application: at the morning pressing, in the rite called unnayana done by the priest named Maitrāvaruṇa, this sūkta is to be recited. The Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra says in the section dvidevatyaiḥ kraśnanti that for the unnayana the sūkta ā tvā vahantu is to be used (Āś. Sū. 5-3 [-?]). Moreover, in the section ṣoḍaśī, for the ṣoḍaśī-śāstra recitation the trīca [three riks] of this sūkta beginning ā tvā vahantu harayaḥ is to be recited, as the same Sūtra says (Āś. Sū. 6-2).

original p. 677

Sūkta 16, Rik 1

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ Sūkta — 16 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 4 ॥ Sūkta — 16 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 30, 31 [-?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1-9 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva ॥ ॥
Devatā — Indra ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

1. The Sanskrit phrases unnīyamānebhyo 'nnāhā tvāvahantu and the Sūtra numerals are as read from the print and are uncertain [-?].

2. small-print Kannada digits; the digit glyphs 2/3 are hard to tell apart in this print, so this is unreliable

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ त्वा वहन्तु हरयो वृषणं सोमपीतये । इन्द्र त्वा सूरचक्षसः ॥१॥

ā tvā vahantu harayo vṛṣaṇam somapītaye | indra tvā
sūracakṣasaḥ || 1 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ³

आ । त्वा । वहन्तु । हरयः । वृषणम् । सोमपीतये ॥ इन्द्र । त्वा । सूरचक्षसः ॥१॥

ā | tvā | vahantu | harayaḥ | vṛṣaṇam | soma-pītaye | | indra
| tvā | sūra-cakṣasaḥ | | 1 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁴

हे इन्द्र वृषणं कामानां वर्षितारं त्वां सोमपीतये सोमपानार्थं हरयस्त्वदीया अश्वा आ वहन्तु ।
अस्मिन्कर्मण्यानयन्तु । तथा सूरचक्षसः सूर्यसमानप्रकाशयुक्ता ऋत्विजस्त्वां मन्त्रैः
प्रकाशयन्तीति शेषः ॥ हरन्तीति हरयः । इन् सर्वधातुभ्यः । उ. [४-११८] । इतीन् ।
नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । वृषणम् । कनिन्युवृषितक्षिराजिधन्विद्युप्रतिदिवः । उ. [१-१५६] । इति
कनिन् । कित्वाल्लघूपधगुणाभावः । वा षपूर्वस्य निगमे । पा. [६-४-९] । इति
विकल्पितमुपधादीर्घत्वम् । सोमपीतये । ऐभिर्ग्न इत्येत्रोक्तम् । ऋग्वेदे [१-१४-१] ।
सूरचक्षसः । चक्षिङ् व्यक्तायां वाचि । सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन् । चक्षिङः ख्याज् । पा. [२-४-५४] ।
इति न भवति । आनसोः प्रतिषेधो वक्तव्य इति निषेधात् । सू प्रेरणे । सुवतीति सूरः ।
सुसूधागृधिभ्यः क्रन् । उ. [२-२४] । इति क्रन् । कित्वादगुणाभावः । नित्तरादाद्युदात्तः [?] । सूरवत्प्रकाशो येषाम् । बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥१॥

he indra vṛṣaṇam kāmānām varṣitāraṃ tvām somapītaye
soma-pānārthaṃ harayas tvadīyā āśvā ā vahantu | asmin karmaṇy ānayantu | tathā sūracakṣasaḥ sūrya-samānaprakāśa-yuktā ṛtvijas tvām mantraiḥ prakāśayantīti śeṣaḥ | |
harantīti harayaḥ | in sarva-dhātubhyaḥ | u. [4-118] | itīn | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | vṛṣaṇam | kanin-yuvṛṣitakṣirāji-dhanvidyupratidivaḥ | u. [1-156] | iti kanin | kittvāl laghūpadha-
guṇābhāvaḥ | vā ṣapūrvasya nigame | pā. [6-4-9] | iti

3. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later riks of this volume.

4. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings

*vikalpitaṃ upadhādirghatvam | somapītaye | aibhir agna ity etrokaṃ | ṛgvede [1-14-1] | sūracakṣasaḥ | cakṣiṇ vyaktāyāṃ
vāci | sarvadhātubhyo 'sun | cakṣiṇaḥ khyāñ | pā. [2-4-54] |
iti na bhavati | ānasoḥ pratiśedho vaktavya iti niśedhāt | sū
preraṇe | suvatīti sūraḥ | susūdhāgr̥dhibhyaḥ kran | u. [2-24]
| iti kran | kittvād guṇābhāvaḥ | nittvarād ādyudāttaḥ [?] | sūravat prakāśo yeśāṃ | bahuvrīhau pūrvapada-prakṛti-
svaratvam || 1 ||*

Translation: "O Indra! Let your horses (harayaḥ) bring you — the vṛṣan, the shower of desired things — for the drinking of the soma, to this rite; and let the sūracakṣasaḥ — priests who shine like the sun — [make you manifest] with mantras (the rest is supplied)." The grammar that follows, noted briefly: harayaḥ (hṛ "to carry", the Uṇādi in, first-syllable accent); vṛṣaṇam (vṛṣ "to shower", the Uṇādi kanin, no guṇa because the suffix has the indicative k, the optional lengthening of the penultimate by P. 6-4-9 vā śapūrvasya niḡame); somapītaye (explained at aibhir agne, Ṛ. 1-14-1); sūracakṣasaḥ (cakṣ "to speak clearly", Uṇādi asun; the substitute khyā of P. 2-4-54 does not apply, by the Vārttika barring it before āna and asun; sūra from sū "to impel", the Uṇādi kran; "those whose brilliance is like the sun's"; a bahuvrīhi with the accent of the first member).⁵

Grammar pages (pp. 678 lower half–679), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats harayaḥ (hṛñ haraṇe; sarvadhātubhya in Uṇ. 4-[?]; guṇa and raparatva by P. 7-3-84 and P. 1-1-51; first-syllable accent; the nominative plural jas, with the guṇa by P. 7-3-109 jasi ca [as read, 7-3-109]; eco 'yavāyāvaḥ P. 6-1-78 giving ay; the visarga), vṛṣaṇam (vṛṣu secane with the Uṇādi kanin, Uṇ. 1-[?]; kit, so no guṇa of the penultimate by P. 1-1-5 kniti ca — the guṇa that would come by pugantalaghūpadhasya ca P. 7-3-86 is therefore barred; accusative

5. Grammar, noted briefly; the numeral of P. 2-4-54 as read agrees with the standard numbering.

am; the optional lengthening by P. 6-4-8 [?] sarvanāmasthāne cāsambuddhau and P. 6-4-9 vā śapūrvasya nigame — here, optional, taken as not applied; ṛvarṇān nasya ṇatvaṃ vācyam [Vārttika on P. 8-4-1] giving ṇ: vṛṣaṇam; somapītaye (explained at 1.14.1); sūracakṣasaḥ (cakṣiṇ, the asun by Uṇ. 4-[?]) sarvadhātubhyo 'sun being ārdhadhātuka, so P. 2-4-54 cakṣiṇaḥ khyāñ would apply, but it is barred by the Vārttika ānasoḥ pratiṣedho vaktavyaḥ [P. 2-4-54 Vārttika as read]; sū of the tudādi class — "he who impels people to action in the poems" — with the Uṇādi kran, Uṇ. 3-[?] susūdhāgrdhibhyaḥ kran; kit so no guṇa by P. 1-1-5; dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; the first-syllable accent from the n-mark; the bahuvrīhi by P. 6-2-1 bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam).⁶

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | वृषणम् (vṛṣaṇam) — [you] who shower (give) desired objects | त्वा (tvā) — you | सोमपीतये (somapītaye) — for the sake of drinking soma | हरयः (harayaḥ) — [your] horses | आ वहन्तु (ā vahantu) — let them bring (to this place where the rite is going on) | सूर्यक्षसः (sūracakṣasaḥ) — priests radiant like the sun | त्वा (tvā) — you [let them praise].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! You are the giver of all desired things. The priests, radiant as the sun, praise you. Come with your horses to our sacrificial hall to drink the soma.

॥ English Translation ॥⁷

Indra, let your horses bring you, bestower of riches, to drink the Soma-Juice ; May the priests radiant as the Sun, praise you.

6. Numerals as read; pointers only.

7. as printed in the source

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

सूरचक्षसः (sūracakṣasaḡ) — sūrya-samāna-prakāśa-yuktāḡ ṛtvijas tvāḡ mantrais prakāśayantu: priests of sun-like brilliance, may they make you manifest — praise you with mantras; "let [you] be revealed (be made to appear)".

original pp. 680–685

Sūkta 16, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḡ ॥

इमा धाना घृतस्नुवो हरी इहोप वक्षतः । इन्द्रं सुखतमे रथे ॥२॥

imā dhānā ghṛtasnuvo harī ihopa vakṣataḡ | indram sukhatame rathe || 2 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḡ ॥ ⁸

इमाः । धानाः । घृतऽस्नुवः । हरी इति । इह । उप । वक्षतः ॥ इन्द्रम् । सुखऽतमे । रथे ॥२॥

*imāḡ | dhānāḡ | ghṛta-snuvaḡ | harī iti | iha | upa | vakṣataḡ
|| indram | sukha-tame | rathe || 2 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हरिशब्द इन्द्ररथस्य वोढारावश्वावाचष्टे । तथा च श्रुत्यन्तरम् । हर्योः स्थाथेति [?] । हरिभ्यां श्लेन्द्रो [?] देवतां गमयतीति च । एतदेवाभिप्रेत्य निघण्टुकार आह । हरी इन्द्रस्येति । तादृशौ हरी इमा योगार्थं वेद्यामासादितत्वेन पुरोवर्तिनीर्धानाः [भृज्जित?] यवतण्डुलानुद्दिश्य सुखतमे रथे इन्द्रमवस्थाप्येहास्मिन्कर्मण्युप वक्षतः । वेदिसमीपे वहताम् । कीदृशीर्धानाः ।

घृतस्नुवोऽलंकरणोपस्तरणाभिघारणादिना घृतस्रावणीः [?] । धीयन्त इति धानाः ।

धाश्चस्यजतिभ्यो नः । उ. [३-९७ ?] । इति नः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । घृतस्नुवः । घृतं स्नुवन्तीति घृतस्नुवः । क्विपि तुगभावश्छान्दसः । धातुस्वरः । समासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । स्नोः संयोगपूर्वत्वेन यणभावादुवडादेशः । हरी । ह्रज् हरणे । सर्वधातुभ्य इन् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः ।

प्रगृह्यत्वात्संहितायां प्रकृतिभावः । वक्षतः । प्रार्थनाप्ये लिङर्थे लेट् । तस्य प्रथमपुरुषद्विवचनं
तस् । लेटोऽडाटावित्यडागमः । शपि प्राप्ते सिब्वहुलं लेटीति सिप् । ढत्वकुत्वषत्वानि । तिङ्ङतिङ् इति निघातः । सुखतमे । गतम् ॥२॥

*hari-śabda indra-rathasya vodhārāv aśvāv ācaṣṭe | tathā ca
śruty-antaram | haryoḥ sthātheti [?] | haribhyām ślendra [?]
devatām gamayatīti ca | etad evābhipretya nighaṇṭukāra āha
| harī indrasyeti | tādrśau harī imā yogārthaṃ vedyām āsāditatvena purovartinīr dhānāḥ [bhrjita?] yava-taṇḍulān uddīśya sukhatame rathe indram avasthāpyehāsmīn karmany upa vakṣataḥ | vedi-samīpe vahatām | kīdrśīr dhānāḥ | ghṛtasnuvo 'laṅkaraṇopastaraṇābhighāraṇādinā ghṛta-srāvaṇīḥ [?] | dhīyanta iti dhānāḥ | dhāśvasyajatibhyo naḥ |
u. [3-97 ?] | iti naḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | ghṛtasnuvaḥ | ghṛtaṃ
snuvantīti ghṛtasnuvaḥ | kvipi tugabhāvas chāndasaḥ |
dhātu-svaraḥ | samāse kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam |
snoḥ saṃyogapūrvatvena yaṇābhāvād uvaṇādeśaḥ | harī |
hr̥ñ haraṇe | sarvadhātubhya in | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ |
pragrhyatvāt saṃhitāyām prakṛtibhāvaḥ | vakṣataḥ |
prārthanāpye liṅarthe leṭ | tasya prathamapurūṣadvivacanaṃ tas | leṭo 'ḍātāv ity aḍāgamaḥ | śapi prāpte sib
bahulaṃ leṭīti sip | ḍhatva-katva-ṣatvāni | tiñ ataṇ iti
nighātaḥ | sukhatame | gatam || 2 ||*

Translation: "The word hari denotes the two horses that carry Indra's chariot. So another Vedic text says [haryoḥ sthātha? — uncertain]; and 'by the two haris Indra brings the deity' [?]. With this in view the Nighaṇṭu-maker says: 'harī — [the two horses] of Indra.' Such a pair of horses — these dhānāḥ (parched grain, barley and rice) lie before them on the altar for the sacrifice [in the print the participle before 'barley-rice' is partly unclear: 'parched (?)']; having made Indra sit in the most comfortable chariot, let them bring him (upa vakṣataḥ) here to this rite, near the altar. Of what sort are the dhānāḥ? Ghṛtasnuvaḥ — dripping with ghee through the adorning, strewing and sprinkling [?].

Dhānāḥ are 'what is set down' (dhīyante).⁹ The rest is grammar, noted briefly: dhānāḥ (dhā with the Uṇādi na, Uṇ. 3-[?]; suffix accent); ghṛtasnuvaḥ (ghṛta + snu "to drip" with kvip; the tuk is absent by Vedic licence; accent of the root; uvaṇ in place of y since the u of snu is preceded by a conjunct); harī (hr, the Uṇādi in; the dual keeps its form unchanged — pragrhya — in the Saṃhitā); vakṣataḥ (leṭ in the sense of liṇ, in the meaning of a wish; the third dual tas, the augment aṭ by P. 3-4-94 leṭo 'dāṭau [as read], sip by sib bahulaṃ leṭi; ḍhatva, katva, ṣatva; the verb unaccented); sukhatame (as before [Rik 1.14? in the print "gatam"])).⁹ Grammar pages (pp. 681–685), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats dhānāḥ (ḍudhāñ dhāraṇapoṣaṇayoḥ; the Uṇādi na after dhā, śvasyajatibhyo naḥ [Uṇ. 3-[?]], dhā+na; the feminine sense calls for ṭāp by P. 4-1-4 ajādyatas ṭāp, hence dhānā + as → dhānāḥ by savarṇadīrgha; the first-syllable accent by the ñit/nit mark; the accent of the ṭāp result by P. 6-1-158 and 6-1-... ekādeśa udāṭṭenodāṭṭaḥ), ghṛtasnuvaḥ (snu "to drip" of the adādi class; ghṛtam snuvanti iti; kvip ca P. 3-2-76; kvip's luk; dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; a long note on why the tuk of P. 6-1-71 hrasvasya piti kṛti tuk does not come — either as a Vedic licence or by the paribhāṣā āgamaśāstram anityam; the accent of the root by P. 6-1-162 dhātoḥ; the compound by P. 6-2-139 gatikārapapadāt kṛt; snu + as: since the u is preceded by a conjunct, P. 6-4-77 aci śnudhātubhruvām yvor iyaṇuvaṇau gives uvaṇ and not yaṇ, by the rule oḥ supi P. 6-4-83 not applying, hence ghṛtasnuvaḥ), harī (as for harayaḥ; prathamayoḥ pūrvasavarṇaḥ P. 6-1-102; the dual ī is pragrhya by P. 1-1-11 īdūded dvivacanam pragrhyam; plutapragrhyā aci nityam P. 6-1-125 keeps it unchanged before the i of iha; prakṛtibhāva: "remaining in the natural condition" — the Kannada's definition), and vakṣataḥ (vah; liṇarthe leṭ P. 3-4-7

9. Grammar, noted briefly.

linarthe leṭ in the sense of a wish; third dual tas; leṭo 'dātau P. 3-4-94; sib bahulaṃ leṭi P. 3-1-34; ho dhaḥ P. 8-2-31; ḍhatva; ṣaḍhoḥ kaḥ si P. 8-2-41; ādeśapratyayayoḥ P. 8-3-59; tiṅ atinaḥ P. 8-1-28).¹⁰

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

हरी (hari) — the two horses of Indra | इमाः (imāḥ) — these (spread on the altar for the sake of the rite) | घृतस्नुवः (ghṛta-snuvaḥ) — well steeped in ghee (that is, drenched with ghee) | धानाः (dhānāḥ) — grains (barley, rice and so on), for the sake of acceptance | सुखतमे (sukhatame) — [seating him] in the most comfortable | रथे (rathe) — chariot | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | इह (iha) — here (to this place where the sacrifice is going on) | उप वक्षतः (upa vakṣataḥ) — let them bring near.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

In the sacrifice, the grains of barley, rice and the like, well steeped in ghee for the oblation, have been strewn all round the sacrificial pit, adorning it and spreading over it. To eat them, let the two horses called hari, belonging to Indra, bring Indra, seated in the most comfortable of chariots, to the neighbourhood of this sacrificial ground.

॥ English Translation ॥

Let the horses convey Indra in an easy-moving chariot hither where these grains of parched barley steeped in clarified butter are being prepared for the Sacrifice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

धानाः (dhānāḥ) — the grains of barley, rice and the like which are got ready for making an oblation in the fire. In the rite of preparing the fire (agni-saṃskāra), when adornment, strewing

¹⁰. Crowded; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

and the like are done with barley, rice and so on, the grains fall all round the fire-pit. These are the sacrificial share that must be offered to Indra's horses. The sense is that, in order to eat these, Indra's horses should come with Indra.

घृतस्नुवः (ghṛtasnuvaḥ) — ghṛtaṃ snuvanti iti ghṛtasnuvaḥ: those that are well steeped in ghee, or that drip ghee.

original pp. 682–686

Sūkta 16, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रं प्रातर्हवामहे इन्द्रं प्रयत्यध्वरे । इन्द्रं सोमस्य पीतये ॥३॥

indram prātar havāmaha indram prayaty adhware | indram somasya pītaye || 3 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रम् । प्रातः । हवामहे । इन्द्रम् । प्रऽयति । अध्वरे ॥ इन्द्रम् । सोमस्य । पीतये ॥३॥

indram | prātaḥ | havāmahe | indram | pra-yati | adhware | | indram | somasya | pītaye || 3 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

प्रातः कर्मारम्भे प्रातःसवने इन्द्रं हवामहे । आह्वयामः । तथैवाध्वरे सोमयागे प्रयति प्रगच्छति प्रारभ्य वर्तमाने सति माध्यन्दिने सवने तमिन्द्रं हवामहे । तथा यज्ञसमाप्त्यवसरे तृतीयसवने सोमस्य पीतये सोमपानार्थं हवामहे ॥ प्रातः । स्वरादिष्वन्तोदात्तो निपातितः । हवामहे । ह्वेजो लटि शपि परतो ह्वः संप्रसारणमित्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणम् । परपूर्वत्वम् । गुणावादेशौ । प्रयति । इण् गतौ । लटः शतृ । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शप इति शपो लुक् । शतुर्जित्वाद्गुणाभावः । प्रादिसमासः । कृद्ग्रहणे गतिकारकपूर्वस्यापि ग्रहणम् । परि. [३८] । इति वचनात्प्रत्ययग्रहण इति नियमाभावात् शतुरनुमो नद्यजादी इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । अध्वरे । उक्तम् । संहितायामुदात्तस्वरितयोर्यणः स्वरितोऽनुदात्तस्य । पा. [८-२-४] । इत्येकारस्य स्वरितत्वम् । पीतये । पा पाने । क्तिनि छान्दसमन्तोदात्तत्वम् ॥३॥

*prātaḥ karmārambhe prātaḥsavane indraṃ havāmahe |
 āhvayāmaḥ | tathaivādhvare somayāge prayati pragacchati prārabhya vartamāne sati mādhyandine savane tam indraṃ havāmahe | tathā yajña-samāptyavasare tṛtīya-savane
 somasya pītaye soma-pānārthaṃ havāmahe || prātaḥ |
 svarādiṣv antodātto nipātitaḥ | havāmahe | hveṇo laṭi śapi parato hvaḥ saṃprasāraṇam ity anuvṛtau bahulaṃ chandasīti saṃprasāraṇam | parapūrvatvam | guṇāvādeśau |
 prayati | iṇ gatau | laṭaḥ śatṛ | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapa iti śapo
 luk | śatur jittvād guṇābhāvaḥ | prādi-samāsaḥ | kṛdgrahaṇe gati-kāraka-pūrvasyāpi grahaṇam | pari. [38] | iti vacanāt pratyaya-grahaṇa iti niyamābhāvāt śatur anumō nady-ajādī iti vibhakter udāttatvam | adhvare | uktam | saṃhitāyām
 udātta-svaritayor yaṇaḥ svarito 'nudāttasya | pā. [8-2-4] | ity ekārasya svaritatvam | pītaye | pā pāne | ktini chāndasam
 antodāttatvam || 3 ||*

Translation: "At the beginning of the rite, in the morning pressing (prātaḥ), we invoke Indra. So likewise, when the Soma sacrifice is going on (prayati) — that is, having begun and continuing — at the midday pressing, we invoke that same Indra. And at the close of the sacrifice, in the third pressing, we invoke him for the drinking of soma." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: prātaḥ (a particle, listed among those with end accent — svarādi); havāmahe (hve, laṭ, saṃprasāraṇa "variously in the Veda", parapūrva, guṇa and av); prayati (i "to go", śatṛ for laṭ, śap dropped, no guṇa because śatṛ has indicative ś/r, a prādi compound; the locative ending accented by P. 6-1-173 śatur anumō nady-ajādī, since the rule on "mention of a kṛt includes forms with gati or kāraka before it" applies [paribhāṣā 38, as read]); adhvare (explained earlier; in the Saṃhitā the e becomes svarita by P. 8-2-4 udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svarito'nudāttasya); pītaye (pā, ktin, Vedic end accent).

Grammar pages (pp. 684 lower half–686), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats prātaḥ (a particle with end accent in the svārādi list, Phit-sūtra [number unclear]), havāmahe (hveñ "to compete, to call"; laḥ with mahiñ; ṭita ātmanepadānāṃ ter e P. 3-4-79; śap; hvaḥ saṃprasāraṇam P. 6-1-32 with bahulaṃ chandasi P. 6-1-34; saṃprasāraṇāc ca P. 6-1-108 pūrvarūpa; guṇa by P. 7-3-84; eco ṽavāyāvaḥ P. 6-1-78; ato dīrgho yañi P. 7-3-101; unaccented by P. 8-1-28), prayati (iṇ gatau, the adādi class; śatr by P. 3-2-124; śap dropped by P. 2-4-72; no guṇa by P. 1-1-5 kniti ca; iko yañaci P. 6-1-77 giving y, which bars iyañ P. 6-4-77; kugatiprādayaḥ P. 2-2-18 for the compound; and a long discussion of the paribhāṣā "mention of a kṛt includes a gati/kāraka-preceded form" against the paribhāṣā "mention of a suffix means that suffix only", concluding that the accent of the ending by P. 6-1-173 śatur anumō nady-ajādī applies to prayati also, though it ends in śatr), adhvare (explained at 15.7 [print: "Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-15-7"]; prayaty adhvare: in the Saṃhitā the e, being unaccented after an accented ya, becomes svārīta by P. 8-4-66 udātta-svaritayor yañah svarito'nudāttasya), and pītaye (pā "to drink", striyāṃ ktin P. 3-3-94; ghumāsthāgāpājahātisāṃ hali P. 6-4-66 giving ī; the suffix accent set aside for end accent in the Veda; the dative ñe, ñiti hrasvaś ca P. 1-4-6 shortening the ī of pīti before e with the nadī name, then the discussion of whether pīti is nadī or ghī by P. 1-4-7 śeṣo ghy asakhi, with gher ñiti P. 7-3-111 giving guṇa, and eco ṽavāyāvaḥ giving ay: pītaye). ||3|| ¹¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

प्रातः (prātaḥ) — at the morning pressing that comes at the beginning of the rite | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | हवामहे (havāmahe) — we invoke | अध्वरे (adhvare) — in the Soma sacrifice | प्रयति (prayati) — when it is going on (at the midday

11. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

pressing) | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | ¹² | ¹³ [at the third pressing, at the close of the sacrifice] | सोमस्य (somasya) — of the soma-juice | पीतये (pītaye) — for drinking | ¹⁴.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

At all three pressing-times that are parts of the soma sacrifice — the morning, midday and third pressings — we invoke Indra to drink the soma.

॥ English Translation ॥

We invoke Indra at the morning rite, we invoke Indra at the succeeding Sacrifice, we invoke Indra to drink the Soma-Juice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

In the sacrificial rite there is the custom of preparing and pressing out soma-juice at three times — morning, midday and evening — for drinking. These rites are called in order the morning pressing, the midday pressing and the third pressing. Though only the morning time is mentioned in this rik, it is the ṛṣi's intention that since Indra is also invoked to drink soma in the sacrifices that follow, he is invoked at all three of the pressings mentioned.

प्रयति (prayati) — in gatau; pragacchati: while the sacrificial rite is proceeding, that is, when it is going on; i.e. at the midday and evening pressings.

original pp. 686–687

12. we invoke

13. likewise

14. we invoke Indra

Sūkta 16, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

उप नः सुतमा गहि हरिभिरिन्द्र केशिभिः । सुते हि त्वा हवामहे ॥४॥

*upa naḥ sutam ā gahi haribhir indra keśibhiḥ | sute hi tvā
havāmahe ||4||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

उप । नः । सुतम् । आ । गहि । हरिऽभिः । इन्द्र । केशिऽभिः ॥ सुते । हि । त्वा । हवामहे ॥ ४॥

*upa | naḥ | sutam | ā | gahi | hari-bhiḥ | indra | keśi-bhiḥ | |
sute | hi | tvā | havāmahe ||4||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र केशिभिः केसरयुक्तैर्हरिभिरश्वैस्त्वं नोऽस्मदीयं सुतमभिषुतं सोमं प्रत्युप समीपे आ गहि । आगच्छ । सुते हि अभिषुते सोमे निमित्तभूते सति यस्मात्कारणात्त्वा त्वां हवामहे ह्वयामः । तस्मादागच्छेति पूर्वत्रान्वयः ॥ गहि । गमेल्लोटः सेर्हिः । शप इत्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलं छन्दसीति शपो लुक् । इषुगमियमां छः । पा. [७-३-७७] इति छत्वं न भवति । न लुमताङ्गस्येति प्रतिषेधात् । अनुदात्तोपदेशेत्यादिनानुनासिकलोपः । तस्य सिद्धवदेत्राभात् । पा. [६-४-२२] इत्यसिद्धत्वादतो हेरिति हेर्लुग्न भवति । केशिभिः । क्लेशेरन् लोपश्च । उ. [५-४३ ?] इत्यन् । मत्वर्थीय इनिः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । हवामहे । ह्व इत्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणम् । शपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । तिङश्च लसार्वधातुकस्वरेण धातुस्वर एव । तिङ्ङितिङ् इति न निघातो हि चेति प्रतिषेधात् ॥४॥

*he indra keśibhiḥ kesara-yuktair haribhir aśvais tvam no
'smadīyaṃ sutam abhiṣutaṃ somaṃ praty upa samīpe ā gahi |
āgaccha | sute hi abhiṣute some nimitta-bhūte sati yasmāt
kāraṇāt tvā tvāṃ havāmahe hvayāmaḥ | tasmād āgaccheti pūrvatrānvayaḥ || gahi | gamer loṭaḥ ser hiḥ | śapa ity anuvṛttau bahulaṃ chandasīti śapo luk | iṣu-gami-yamāṃ
chaḥ | pā. [7-3-77] iti chatvaṃ na bhavati | na lumatāṅgasyeti
pratiṣedhāt | anudāttopadeśety-ādinānunāsika-lopaḥ | tasya
siddhavad etrābhāt | pā. [6-4-22] ity asiddhatvād ato her iti*

her lug na bhavati | keśibhiḥ | kleśer an lopaś ca | u. [5-43 ?]
 ity an | matvarthīya iniḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | havāmahe | hva
 ity anuvṛttaḥ bahulaṃ chandasīti samprasāraṇam | śapaḥ
 pittvād anudāttatvam | tiṇś ca lasārvadhātuka-svareṇa
 dhātu-svara eva | tiṇ ataṇ iti na nighāto hi ceti pratiṣedhāt ||
 4 ||

Translation: "O Indra! With your long-maned (keśin, 'having a kesara, mane') horses, come near (upa ā gahi) to our pressed soma. For (hi) since the soma is pressed we invoke you; therefore come — the earlier [clauses] connect so." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: gahi (gam + loṭ, si → hi, śap dropped; the ch-substitute of P. 7-3-77 iṣugamiyamām chaḥ does not apply, because of the bar na lumatāṅgasya; the nasal dropped by P. 6-4-37; and since that is treated as not-yet-done by P. 6-4-22 asiddhavad atrābhāt, the loss of hi by ato heḥ does not happen); keśibhiḥ (kleś with Uṇādi an, or the possessive ini; suffix accent); havāmahe (explained at Rik 3 above; the verb unaccented, but since the particle hi [sute hi] is present the nighāta is barred).

Grammar pages (pp. 688–689), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats gahi (gamḥ gatau, loṭ, thas-si, serhy apicca P. 3-4-87 giving hi — which is not pit, so śap by P. 3-1-68 kartari śap; śap dropped by bahulaṃ chandasi P. 2-4-73 / ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ; the discussion that pratyayalope pratyayalakṣaṇam P. 1-1-62 is barred by na lumatāṅgasya P. 1-1-63, so that the dropped suffix does not condition chatva by P. 7-3-77 iṣugamiyamām chaḥ; the nasal m of gam is dropped by P. 6-4-37 anudāttopadeśa-vanati-tanoty-ādīnām anunāsikalopo jhali kṛiti — the Kannada explains that gam is among the anudāttopadeśa roots by the Kārikā list; ato heḥ P. 6-4-105 luk of hi would apply after a short-a stem, but asiddhavad atrābhāt P. 6-4-22 treats the m-drop as not done, so the stem is not short-a-final and the luk does not come), keśibhiḥ (kleśa "to harm" + an Uṇ. 3-[?]; keśa + ini in the sense of possession, P. 5-2-115 ata iniṭhanau; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148; the suffix accent; the third plural bhis with svādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne P. 1-4-17 giving the name pada, hence nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya P. 8-2-7, ru and visarga: keśibhiḥ), and havāmahe (explained at Rik 3; the verb is not unaccented since sute hi tvā havāmahe contains hi — P. 8-1-34 hi ca — and, by P. 8-1-67 pūjanāt pūjitam [as read 8-1-68], the intervening tvā does not break the connexion, "as explained earlier"). ॥4॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | सुते (sute) — since the soma has been made ready | त्वा (tvā) — you | हवामहे (havāmahe) — we invoke (therefore) | केशिभिः (keśibhiḥ) — with the long-maned | हरिभिः (haribhiḥ) — [your] horses | नः (naḥ) — our | सुतम् (sutam) — the soma-juice that has been made ready [to be drunk] | उप आ गहि (upa ā gahi) — come to our neighbourhood.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! We have made ready the soma-juice for you, and we invoke you. With your long-maned horses, come near us to drink it.

॥ English Translation ॥

Come Indra to our extracted soma libation by means of your long-maned horses. For we invoke you as soon as the soma is prepared.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

केशिभिः (keśibhiḥ) — with those that have kesara; kesara is the long hair that grows on the neck of horses.

Sūkta 16, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सेमं नः स्तोममा गह्युपेदं सवनं सुतम् । गौरो न तृषितः पिब ॥५॥

*semaṃ naḥ stomam ā gahy upedaṃ savanaṃ sutam | gauro
na tṛṣitaḥ piba || 5 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सः । इमम् । नः । स्तोमम् । आ । गहि । उप । इदम् । सवनम् । सुतम् ॥ गौरः । न । तृषितः । पिब ॥५॥

*saḥ | imam | naḥ | stomam | ā | gahi | upa | idam |
savanaṃ | sutam | | gauraḥ | na | tṛṣitaḥ | piba || 5 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र स त्वं नोऽस्मदीयमिमं स्तोमं स्तुतिं प्रत्या गहि । आगत्य । आगमनेहेतुरुच्यते । उप देवयजनसमीपे सुतमभिषुतसोमयुक्तमिदानीमनुष्ठीयमानं सवनं प्रातःसवनादिरूपं कर्म वर्तते । तस्माद्गौरो न गौरमृग इव तृषितः सन्निमं सोमं पिब ॥ सः इमम् । इत्यत्र संहितायां सोऽचि लोपे चेत्पादपूरणम् । पा. [६-१-१३४] । इति सुलोपः । गहि । गतम् । सवनं । सूयतेऽस्मिन्सोम इति । सूज् प्राणिप्रसवे । अधिकरणे ल्युट् । लिङि । इति प्रत्ययात्पूर्वस्योदात्तत्वम् । लुङन्तत्वात्सप्तम्याः सुपां सुलोपो भवन्तीति वक्तव्यम् । मु. [?] । तदा द्वितीया । अभिषुतसोमयुक्तमिदं सवनमिति कर्मण्येव वा द्वितीया । तदा सुतशब्द ईषदर्थः [?] । कृषितः । तृष पिपासायाम् । निष्ठेति क्तः । प्रत्ययस्वरेणोदात्तः । पश्चादिट् आगमा अनुदात्ता इत्यनुदात्तत्वम् ॥५॥

*he indra sa tvam no 'smadīyam imaṃ stomam stutiṃ praty ā
gahi | āgatya | āgamane hetur ucyate | upa deva-yajana-samīpe sutam abhiṣuta-soma-yuktam idānīm anuṣṭhīyamānaṃ savanaṃ prātaḥsavanādi-rūpaṃ karma vartate | tasmād
gauro na gaura-mṛga iva tṛṣitaḥ sann imaṃ somaṃ piba | |
saḥ imam | ity atra saṃhitāyām so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam |
pā. [6-1-134] | iti su-lopaḥ | gahi | gatam | savanaṃ | sūyate
'smin soma iti | sūñ prāṇi-prasave | adhikaraṇe lyuṭ | liti | iti
pratyayāt pūrvasyodāttatvam | luḍantatvāt saptamyāḥ supām*

*sulopo bhavantīti vaktavyam | mu. [?] | tadā dvitīyā | abhiṣuta-soma-yuktam idaṃ savanam iti karmaṇy eva vā dvitīyā | tadā suta-śabda īṣad-arthaḥ [?] | tṛṣitaḥ | tṛṣa pipāsāyām | niṣṭheti ktaḥ | pratyaya-svareṇodāttaḥ | paścād
 iṭ āgamā anudāttā ity anudāttatvam ||5||*

Translation: "O Indra! Such as you are, come (ā gahi) to this our stoma, our praise. Having come — the reason for your coming is stated: near (upa) the sacrificial ground, a savana — a rite of the morning pressing and so on, accompanied by pressed soma — is now being performed. Therefore, like a gaura — a pale-coloured deer (gaura-mṛga) — being thirsty, drink this soma." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: saḥ imam (in the Saṃhitā the su is dropped before a vowel by P. 6-1-134 so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam); gahi (as before); savanam (sū "to bring forth" with lyuṭ in the locative sense — "that in which soma is pressed" — the accent before the suffix by P. 6-1-193 liti; the locative ending dropped [?]; or accusative with sutam); tṛṣitaḥ (tṛṣ "to thirst", kta, with suffix accent; the augment iṭ unaccented).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | सः (saḥ) — you [being thus] | नः (naḥ) — our | इमम् (imam) — this | स्तोमम् (stomam) — praise (for hearing) | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come | उप (upa) — near [the sacrificial altar] | सुतम् (sutam) — accompanied by the pressed soma-juice | इदम् (idam) — this | सवनम् (savanam) — the rite of the morning pressing [that is going on] | तृषितः (tṛṣitaḥ) — thirsty | गौरः (gaurah) — a gaura deer | न (na) — like | पिब (piba) — drink [the soma-juice].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The soma-juice needed for the morning pressing is ready. For the sake of that rite, come, pleased with the praise that we make, and, like a deer thirsty from the mouth [i.e. from the dryness of the mouth], drink the soma-juice.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra, accept this our praise and come to this our sacrifice of the expressed soma ; drink like a thirsty stag.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

गौरः (gaurah) — a pale-coloured deer. Here the word na is a particle of comparison; gauro na means "like a deer".

तृषितः (tr̥ṣitaḥ)

— thirsty. A deer, parched with thirst, drinks water eagerly; so you also should drink our soma-juice as much as you wish, with eagerness.

Grammar pages (pp. 691 lower half-692), noted briefly. Saḥ + imam: here, in the Saṃhitā, with saḥ + imam, the loss of su by P. 6-1-134 so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam takes place only if the pāda is thereby made up (to eight syllables); the guṇa of P. 6-1-87 ād guṇaḥ then makes the a+i into e [semam]; the Kannada gives the śikṣā verses on the "kaṇṭhya, tālavya" nature of e and ai (kaṇṭhatālavya e ai, as in Pāṇinīya-śikṣā, verses read in small print: akuhavisarjanīyānām kaṇṭhaḥ, icuyaśānām tālu, ... e ai tu kaṇṭhatālavya, o au kaṇṭhoṣṭhajau smṛtau), and argues that if the su is not dropped (sa imam) the pāda would not be complete, so the dropping applies; the ru-sandhi alternative (P. 8-3-34 visarjanīyasya saḥ etc. [?]) is discussed and set aside, since by P. 8-2-1 pūrvatrāsiddham and P. 6-1-87 the y from ro would not interfere. Gahi: explained earlier [Rik 4]. Savanam: sū "to bring forth", dhātvādeḥ saḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64, lyuṭ in the sense of place by P. 3-3-117 karaṇādhikaraṇayoś ca, yuvor anākau P. 7-1-1 for ana, guṇa by P. 7-3-84, av by P. 6-1-78; first-syllable accent before lyuṭ, by P. 6-1-193 liti; "savanam" is a lyuṭ neuter ending, to which su is added in the locative [? the passage is not clear to me]. ॥5॥ ¹⁵

original pp. 692-694

Sūkta 16, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁶

इमे सोमास इन्दवः सुतासो अधि बर्हिषि । ताँ इन्द्र सहसे पिब ॥६॥

*ime somāsa indavaḥ sutāso adhi barhiṣi | tāṃ indra sahase
piba || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इमे । सोमासः । इन्दवः । सुतासः । अधि । बर्हिषि ॥ तान् । इन्द्र । सहसे । पिब ॥६॥

*ime | somāsaḥ | indavaḥ | sutāsaḥ | adhi | barhiṣi | | tān |
indra | sahase | piba | | 6 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्दुशब्द उन्दी क्लेदन इति धातोरुत्पन्नः । इन्दवः क्लेदनयुक्ता इमे वेद्यामवस्थिताः
सोमासस्तत्तत्पात्रगताः सोमा बर्हिषि यज्ञेऽधिकेन सुतासः । अभिषुताः । हे इन्द्र सहसे बलार्थं
तान् सोमान्पिब ॥ सोमासः । आज्ञसेरसुगिति जसोऽसुगागमः । इन्दवः । उक्तम् । सुतासः
। पूर्ववदसुक् । संहितायां प्रकृत्यान्तःपादमव्यपरे इति प्रकृतिभावात्स्वरपूर्वत्वं न भवति ।
बर्हिषि । बृहेर्नलोपश्च । उ. [२-१००?] । इसिस् । प्रत्ययस्वरः । तां इन्द्रेत्यत्र दीर्घादिति
समानपाद इति रुत्वम् । यत्वयलोपौ । अनुनासिकः । सहसे । षह मर्षणे । असुनन्तो नित्वादाद्युदात्तः ॥६॥

indu-śabda undī kledana iti dhātor utpannaḥ | indavaḥ kledana-yuktā ime vedyām avasthitāḥ somāsas tat-tat-pātragatāḥ somā barhiṣi yajñe 'dhikena sutāsaḥ | abhiṣutāḥ | he indra sahase balārthaṃ tān somān piba | | somāsaḥ | āj jaser

15. Crowded; outline only; the Pāṇinīya-śikṣā verses are partly read from small print and are given as pointers only.

16. The Saṃhitā prints the nasalised tāṃ indra; the Pada has tān.

asug iti jaso 'sugāgamaḥ | indavaḥ | uktam | sutāsaḥ |
 pūrvavad asuk | saṃhitāyāṃ prakṛtyāntaḥ-pādam avyapare
 iti prakṛtibhāvāt svara-pūrvatvaṃ na bhavati | barhiṣi |
 bṛṃher nalopaś ca | u. [2-100?] | isis | pratyaya-svaraḥ | tāṃ indretyatra dīrghād aṭi samānapāda iti rutvam | yatva-yalopau | anunāsikaḥ | sahase | śaha marṣaṇe | asunanto
 nittvād ādyudāttaḥ || 6 ||

Translation: "The word indu is formed from the root undī 'to wet'. Indavaḥ — wet, flowing: these soma-juices (somāsaḥ), standing in the several vessels on the altar, are sutāsaḥ — pressed — on the barhis (the sacred grass) at the sacrifice [the word before 'pressed', printed adhikena, is as read and uncertain: the Kannada takes adhi as 'in abundance']. O Indra! Drink those soma-juices for strength (sahase).¹⁷ The rest is grammar, noted briefly: somāsaḥ (the ending jas takes the augment asuk by P. 7-1-50 āj jaser asuk); indavaḥ (explained at Rik 14.4); sutāsaḥ (asuk as before; in the Saṃhitā, by P. 6-1-115 prakṛtyāntaḥpādam avyapare, the o before a keeps its form, so the a is not elided); barhiṣi (bṛh with the Uṇādi isī, the n dropped); tāṃ indra (n → ru by P. 8-3-9; y dropped, nasalisation); sahase (śah 'to endure', the suffix asun, first-syllable accent).¹⁷

Grammar pages (p. 694), noted briefly. The Kannada treats somāsaḥ (suñ 'to press', dhātvādeḥ śaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; the Uṇādi man after su, Uṇ. 1-142 [as read]; guṇa by P. 7-3-84; the n-mark gives first-syllable accent; jas with asuk by P. 7-1-50, and the asuk's k mark, being kit, makes it the final part of the stem by P. 1-1-46 ādyantau ṭakitau; pūrvasavarṇadīrgha; ru and visarga), indavaḥ (explained at 14.4), sutāsaḥ (suñ + kta; no iṭ, by P. 7-2-10 ekāca upadeśe 'nudāttāt; asuk; ru → u by P. 6-1-113 ato roraplutād aplute and guṇa P. 6-1-87 ād guṇaḥ, giving sutāso adhi; the question whether pūrvārūpa by P. 6-1-109 eṇaḥ padāntād ati

17. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi number is as read and uncertain.

should apply is answered by P. 6-1-115 prakṛtyāntaḥpādam avyapare, which keeps the o unchanged; "but if the following is v or y [aspirate-initial?] this prakṛtibhāva does not apply; here it applies, so no pūrvarūpa"), barhiṣi (bṛhi vṛddhau 'to grow'; idit, so the num augment by P. 7-1-58 idito num dhātoḥ; bṛnh + isi by Uṇ. 2-[?] bṛmher nalopas ca; bṛh + is, n dropped; guṇa by P. 7-3-86 pugantalaghūpadhasya ca; ur aṇ raparaḥ; barhis; suffix accent, so end-accent; locative ni → i; ādeśapratyayayoḥ P. 8-3-59 gives ṣ), and tāṃ indra (tān + indra: dīrghād aṭi samānapāde P. 8-3-9 gives ru for the n; ato 'ṭi nityam [?] P. 8-3-3 nasalises the preceding vowel; bho-bhago-agho-apūrvasya yo 'śi P. 8-3-17 changes ru to y; lopaḥ śākalyasya P. 8-3-19 drops y; so tāṃ indra), and sahase (ṣaḥ marṣaṇe, dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ; sarvadhātubhyo 'sun Uṇ. 4-[?]; accent; dative ṇe). ||6||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

सुतासः (sutāsaḥ) — made ready, pressed | इन्द्रवः (indavaḥ) — [full of] juice (or: flowing in drops) | इमे (ime) — these [that are on the altar] | सोमासः (somāsaḥ) — soma-juices [lying in various vessels] | बर्हिषि (barhiṣi) — at the sacrifice | अधि (adhi) — in abundance (put on the sacred grass) | इन्द्र (indra) — O Indra | सहसे (sahase) — for the increase of strength | तान् (tān) — those soma-juices | पिब (piba) — drink.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The soma-juices lying in the various vessels on this altar are not drawn in the ordinary way; they have been prepared with mantras as a part of the sacrifice. O Indra, drink them for the increase of your strength.

॥ English Translation ॥

These dripping Soma juices are effused upon the sacred grass; drink them Indra, to recruit your strength.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

इन्दवः (indavaḥ) — when the soma-creeper is crushed with stones and the juice pressed out, the juice trickles in drops. There is a convention of calling the soma-juice that thus trickles by the name indavaḥ. This word is formed from the root undī "to wet".

original pp. 695–697

Sūkta 16, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अयं ते स्तोमो अग्रियो हृदिस्पृगस्तु शंतमः । अथा सोमं सुतं पिब ॥७॥

*ayaṃ te stomo agriyo hrdispr̥g astu śamtamaḥ | athā somaṃ
sutaṃ piba ||7||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁸

अयम् । ते । स्तोमः । अग्रियः । हृदिस्पृक् । अस्तु । शम्स्तमः ॥ अथ । सोमम् । सुतम् । पिब ॥७॥

*ayaṃ | te | stomaḥ | agriyaḥ | hr̥di-spr̥k | astu | śam-tamaḥ
| | atha | somam | sutam | piba ||7||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्र अयमस्माभिः क्रियमाणः स्तोमः स्तोत्रविशेषोऽग्रियः श्रेष्ठः सन् ते तव हृदिस्पृक्
मनस्यङ्गीकृतः शंतमः सुखकरतमोऽस्तु । अथ स्तुतेरनन्तरं सुतमभिषुतं सोमं पिब ॥ अग्रियः
। अग्राद्यत् । पा. [४-४-११६] । इति घच् । चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः । हृदिस्पृक् । हृदि स्पृशतीति
हृदिस्पृक् । स्पृशोऽनुदके क्विन् । पा. [३-२-५८] । क्विन्प्रत्ययस्य कुः । पा. [८-२-६२] । इति कुत्वम् । ... तत्पुरुषे कृति बहुलम् । पा. [६-३-१४] । इत्यलुक् । क्विन्प्रत्ययस्य कुः । ...
कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । शंतमः । सुखकरद्रव्यवचनोऽत्र शंशब्दः । तत्तस्तमुप् । अत्र

18. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened athā, the Pada atha.

सुखप्रकर्षस्य गुणद्वारा गुणनिष्ठद्रव्ये सङ्क्रान्तत्वादद्रव्यप्रकर्ष इति निषेधात्
 किमेत्तिङ्व्ययघादाम्बद्रव्यप्रकर्षे । पा. [५-४-११] । आम् न भवति द्रव्यस्य स्वतः
 प्रकर्षाभावात् । ईदृगर्थ एव हि स निषेधः । अथा सोमम् । संहितायां निपातस्येति दीर्घः ॥७॥

he indra ayam asmābhiḥ kriyamāṇaḥ stomaḥ stotra-viśeṣo
'griyaḥ śreṣṭhaḥ san te tava hr̥dispr̥k manasy aṅgīkṛtaḥ śaṃtamaḥ sukha-karatamo 'stu | atha stuter anantaram
sutam abhiṣutam somam piba | | agriyaḥ | agrād yat | pā.
[4-4-116] | iti ghac | cittvād antodāttah | hr̥dispr̥k | hr̥di spr̥śatīti hr̥dispr̥k | spr̥śo 'nudake kvin | pā. [3-2-58] | kvin-pratyayasya kuḥ | pā. [8-2-62] | iti kutvam | ... tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam | pā. [6-3-14] | ity aluk | ... kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | śaṃtamaḥ | sukha-kara-dravya-vacano 'tra śaṃ-śabdaḥ | tat-tastamup | atra sukha-prakarṣasya guṇa-dvārā guṇa-niṣṭha-dravye saṅkrāntatvād adravya-prakarṣa iti niṣedhāt kim-etti-ñ-vyaya-ghād ām-vadravya-prakarṣe | pā.
[5-4-11] | ām na bhavati dravyasya svataḥ prakarṣābhāvāt |
īdṛg-artha eva hi sa niṣedhaḥ | athā somam | saṃhitāyām
nipātasyeti dīrghaḥ | | 7 | |

Translation: "O Indra! May this stoma — this particular hymn of praise being made by us — be agriya, the foremost; may it be hr̥dispr̥k, touching your heart, accepted in your mind; may it be śaṃtama, the most productive of comfort (happiness). Then, after the praise, drink the pressed (suta) soma." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: agriyaḥ (agra + ghac by P. 4-4-116 agrād yat as read [the Kannada reads the sūtra as agrāc ghac ca]; accent on the last syllable because of the c mark); hr̥dispr̥k (hr̥di spr̥śati, spr̥ś + kvin when the object is not water, P. 3-2-58; k for the final of the root by P. 8-2-62; the locative ending kept — aluk — by P. 6-3-14 tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam; the accent of the final member of the compound); śaṃtamaḥ (the word śam here means a thing that causes comfort; the suffix tamap; the augment ām of P. 5-4-11 kimettiṇavyayaghād āmv adravyaprakarṣe is not added, because the superlative here concerns a substance and the rule bars ām where the excess belongs to a substance — "the substance has no excellence of its own"); athā somam (the lengthened athā in the Saṃhitā by P. 6-3-136 nipātasya ca). ¹⁹

Grammar pages (pp. 696 lower half-698 upper half), noted briefly. The Kannada treats agriyaḥ (P. 4-4-116 agrāt ghac ca [the ghac and yat suffixes after agra in the sense "being in front"], so here the sense agre bhavaḥ "being first" takes ghac; the cutū of P. 1-3-7 for the c, tasya lopah; āyaneyīnīyiyah phadhakhachaghām pratyayādīnām P. 7-1-2 gives iy for gh — agra + iya; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148 drops the a; agriya accented on the end by cit P. 6-1-163; the nominative su, ru, visarga), hrdisprk (hrdi sprśati; sprśo 'nudake kvin P. 3-2-58; the sūtra tatpuruṣe kṛti bahulam P. 6-3-14 for the aluk of the locative in a tatpuruṣa before a kṛt; kvin's k gives kutva by P. 8-2-62 kvinpratyayasya kuḥ; the ṣ of sprś; vraśca-bhrasja-srja-mṛja-yaja-rāja-bhrājacchaśām ṣaḥ P. 8-2-36 is taken first, then sprś → sprg by P. 8-2-39 jhalām jaśo 'nte, and kutva by P. 8-2-62; vāvasāne P. 8-4-56 gives sprk; compound accent that of the final member by P. 6-2-139), śamtamaḥ (śam 'comfort' + tamap by P. 5-3-55 atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau; the long note, as given in the Mahābhāṣya and by Kaiyaṭa on the tamap sūtra: "adravyaprakārṣe" bars the ām augment of P. 5-4-11 when the excellence is not of a substance; here śam is a quality-word and the excellence is first in the quality, then transferred to the substance, so the bar applies and ām is not added; tarap-tamapau ghaḥ P. 1-1-22 gives these suffixes the name gha), and athā somam (the lengthening by P. 6-3-136 nipātasya ca). ||7||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे इन्द्र) ((he indra)) — O Indra | अग्रियः (agriyaḥ) — the foremost, the best | अयम् (ayam) — this (praise, made by us) | स्तोमः (stomaḥ) — hymn of praise | ते (te) — your | हृदिस्पृक् (hrdi-sprk)

19. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-2-58, P. 8-2-62 and P. 5-4-11 as read agree with the standard numbering.

— touching the heart (agreeable to the mind) | शंतमः (śaṃ-tamaḥ)
 — most productive of comfort | अस्तु (astu) — may it be | अथ
 (atha) — after the praise is over | सुतम् (sutam) — ready | सोमम्
 (somam) — the soma-juice | पिब (piba) — drink.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! May this hymn which we make about you touch your heart and give you delight. Afterwards, drink the soma-juice that we have made ready.

॥ English Translation ॥ ²⁰

May this excellent hymn touching you heart be most agreeable to you. Drink, then Indra, the extracted Soma-juice.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

अग्रियः (agriyaḥ) — agre bhavaḥ: the foremost, the best, the highest.

हृदिस्पृक् (hr̥dispr̥k) — hr̥di spr̥śatīti hr̥dispr̥k: touching the heart; moving the heart; pleasing the mind. [The print adds the English "touching your heart, etc."] The sense is: may the hymn we make please your mind.

शंतमः (śaṃtamaḥ)

— productive of comfort; may the hymn we make give you delight.

अथ (atha)

— the final syllable of this word is lengthened in the Saṃhitā text to suit the metre.

original pp. 698–702

20. The print has "you heart" for "your heart" — [sic].

Sūkta 16, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विश्वमित्सवनं सुतमिन्द्रो मदाय गच्छति । वृत्रहा सोमपीतये ॥८॥

*viśvam it savanaṃ sutam indro madāya gacchati | vṛtrahā
somapītaye ||8||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

विश्वम् । इत् । सवनम् । सुतम् । इन्द्रः । मदाय । गच्छति ॥ वृत्रहा । सोमऽपीतये ॥८॥

*viśvam | it | savanam | sutam | indrah | madāya | gacchati
|| vṛtra-hā | soma-pītaye ||8||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

वृत्रहा शत्रुघातक इन्द्रः सोमपीतये सोमपानाय मदाय तत्पानजन्यहर्षाय च विश्वमित्सर्वमपि
सुतमभिषुतसोमयुक्तं सवनं प्रातःसवनादिरूपं कर्म गच्छति ॥ विश्वम् ।
अशूप्रुषिलटिकणिखटिविशिभ्यः क्वन् । उ. [१-१५१] । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । सवनं सुतम् । पूर्ववत्
। मदाय । मदोऽनुपसर्गे । पा. [३-३-६७] । इत्यप्प्रत्ययः । पित्त्वाद्वातुस्वरः । गच्छति ।
इषुगमियमां छः । वृत्रहा । वृत्रं हतवान् । ब्रह्मभ्रूणवृत्रेषु क्विप् । पा. [३-२-८७] ।
इहन्पूषार्यम्णां शौ । सौ च । पा. [६-४-१२, १३] । इति प्रतिप्रसवादीर्घवति ।
कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सोमपीतये । वधिकरणबहुव्रीहिरित्युक्तम् । तत्पुरुषे वा दासीभारादित्वात् । पा. [६-२-४२ ?] । पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥८॥

*vṛtrahā śatru-ghātaka indrah somapītaye soma-pānāya madāya tat-pāna-janya-harṣāya ca viśvam it sarvam api sutam abhiṣuta-soma-yuktaṃ savanaṃ prātaḥsavanādi-rūpaṃ karma gacchati || viśvam | aśūpruṣi-laṭi-kaṇi-khaṭi-viśibhyaḥ
kvan | u. [1-151] | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | savanaṃ sutam |
pūrvavat | madāya | mado 'nupasarge | pā. [3-3-67] | ity ap-pratyayaḥ | pittvād dhātu-svaraḥ | gacchati | iṣu-gami-yamām chaḥ | vṛtrahā | vṛtraṃ hatavān | brahma-bhrūṇa-vṛtreṣu kvip | pā. [3-2-87] | in-han-pūṣāryamṇām śau | sau ca
| pā. [6-4-12, 13] | iti pratiprasavād dīrghavati | kṛd-*

uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | somapītaye | vadhikaraṇa-bahuvrīhir ity uktam | tatpuruṣe vā dāsibhārādītvāt | pā.
[6-2-42 ?] | pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam || 8 ||

Translation: "Indra, vṛtrahā — the slayer of enemies — goes (gacchati) to every (viśvam it) savana — the rite of the morning pressing and the like — accompanied by the pressed soma, for the drinking of soma (somapītaye) and for the exhilaration (madāya) — the delight that arises from drinking it." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: viśvam (viś + kvan, Uṇ. 1-151 [as read]; first-syllable accent); madāya (mad + ap by P. 3-3-67 mado 'nupasarge; ap is pit, so the accent stays on the root); gacchati (gam → gaccha by P. 7-3-77 iṣugamiyamām chaḥ); vṛtrahā ("he who has slain Vṛtra"; han + kvip after vṛtra by P. 3-2-87 brahmabhrūṇavṛtreṣu kvip; the lengthening by P. 6-4-12 in-han-pūṣārya-mṇām śau and 6-4-13 sau ca; the accent of the final member); somapītaye (a vyadhikaraṇa bahuvrīhi, as explained earlier; or a tatpuruṣa; by the dāsibhārādī class [P. 6-2-42] the accent of the first member).²¹

Grammar pages (pp. 699 lower half-702), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: viśvam (viś "to enter" + kvan, Uṇ. 1-151 aśūpruṣīlaṭikanikhaṭivīśibhyaḥ kvan; first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197 ñnityādir nityam; savanam sutam and sīmam naḥ [print: somam naḥ? — the reference given is to Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-16-5 and the earlier explanation]), madāya (P. 3-3-67 mado 'nupasarge; ap after mad when the upapada is not an upasarga; the ap's p mark makes it unaccented by P. 3-1-4 anudāttau suppitau; the root accent remains), gacchati (gam! gatau; iṣugamiyamām chaḥ P. 7-3-77), and, at great length, vṛtrahā (vṛtram hataṇ: han "to strike" with kvip by P. 3-2-87 brahmabhrūṇavṛtreṣu kvip; the Kāśikā and the Mahābhāṣya views on niyama — that P. 3-2-87, though kvip is already available by P. 3-2-76 kvip ca, is a restricting rule [niyama] with three possible shapes: a restriction of upapada, of suffix, or

21. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-67 and P. 3-2-87 as read agree with the standard numbering.

of tense — the Kannada works through the examples puruṣahā, vṛtrajit, brāhmaṇaghātī, pitṛvyaghātī, and concludes with the usages puruṣaṃ hanti / haniṣyati (present or future: no kvip), brahmāṇaṃ hatavān ('he who has killed a brahman', with ṇini by P. 3-2-89 karmaṇi hanaḥ?) and the remark that Kaiyaṭa regards the niyamas as set aside by the Mahābhāṣya's own statement ubhayato niyamo 'yam — "the restriction is both ways"; the point is a grammarians' dispute about the scope of a restriction, and the Kannada reproduces it in nearly three pages; then vṛtrahan + su, sarvanāmasthāne cāsambuddhau P. 6-4-8 [lengthening, which would apply], but in-han-pūṣārya-mṇāṃ śau P. 6-4-12 and sau ca P. 6-4-13 [as read, the standard 6-4-13] specially extend the lengthening to the sau; hal-ṇyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal P. 6-1-68 drops su; nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya P. 8-2-7 drops the n; accent by P. 6-2-139 gatikārapapadāt kṛt: hā has the accent of its root), and somapītaye (here a vyadhikaraṇa bahuvrīhi — "of whom the drinking of soma is the aim" — as already explained at Rik 14.1 [print: "R. Saṃ. 1-14-1"], with soma having first-syllable accent by the n-mark, retained in the bahuvrīhi by P. 6-2-1 bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam; if taken as a tatpuruṣa — somasya pītiḥ, tasmai — then samāsasya P. 6-1-223 would give the end accent, but this is set aside, since somapīti belongs to the dāsibhārādi class (an ākṛtigaṇa, with kurugārhapata, rikta-guru, sūta-jaratī, śleṣa-dṛḍha-rūpā, pārevaḍavā, taikala-droṇa, paṇya-kambala, dāsibhāra — as read, in small print) by P. 6-2-42 [as read], so the accent of the first member remains; "the vyadhikaraṇa bahuvrīhi is not otherwise available, so a tatpuruṣa analysis is also given"). ||8||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

वृत्रहा (vṛtrahā) — the slayer of enemies (or of the demon Vṛtra) |
 इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | सोमपीतये (somapītaye) — for drinking soma | मदाय (madāya) — for the delight that arises from drinking

soma | विश्वम् (viśvam) — all | सुतम् (sutam) — [that has] pressed soma | सवनम् (savanam) — the rites [beginning with the morning pressing] | गच्छति इत् (gacchati it) — goes indeed.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Indra, the slayer of the demons or of Vṛtra, goes to all the rites, the morning pressing and the rest, in which soma-juice is drawn; he drinks the soma-juice and is thereby satisfied.

॥ English Translation ॥ ²²

Indra, the killer of Vritra (or of enemies) goes to every ceremony where Soma is prepared that he may drink the Soma and be intoxicated.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

वृत्रहा (vṛtrahā) — the word vṛtra is used for many meanings, such as cloud, strength, water, the demon Vṛtra; but here the commentator takes vṛtra to mean "enemy". It may also be taken to mean the demon Vṛtra. Accordingly, vṛtrahā means "the destroyer of enemies" or "the slayer of the demon Vṛtra".

मदाय (madāya) — for the exhilaration (mattu) that arises from drinking soma, or for delight; [the print adds the English word] "Intoxication".

original pp. 703–707

Sūkta 16, Rik 9 (last rik of the sūkta)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²³

सेमं नः कामुमा पृण गोभिरश्वैः शतक्रतो । स्तवाम त्वा स्वाध्यः ॥९॥

22. The print has "ceremoney" for "ceremony" — [sic].

23. The print of the first line has kāmamā; I give kāmam ā, the form the Pada and the bhāṣya both show.

*semam naḥ kāmam ā prṇa gobhir aśvaiḥ śatakrato | stavāma
tvā svādhyah || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सः । इमम् । नः । कामम् । आ । पृण । गोभिः । अश्वैः । शतक्रतो इति शतऽक्रतो ॥ स्तवाम । त्वा । सुऽआध्यः ॥९॥

*sah | imam | naḥ | kāmam | ā | prṇa | gobhiḥ | aśvaiḥ |
śatakrato iti śata-krato || stavāma | tvā | su-ādhyah || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे शतक्रतो स त्वं नोऽस्मदीयमिमं कामं काम्यमानं फलं गोभिरश्वैश्च सहा पृण । सर्वतः पूरय ।
वयमपि स्वाध्यः सुष्ठु सर्वतो ध्यानयुक्ताः सन्तस्त्वां स्तवाम ॥ सेमम् । संहितायां सोऽचि लोपे चेत्पादपूरणमिति सुलोपः । कामम् । कर्मेर्णिङ् । कर्मणि घञ् । कृज्जलश्चेत्यादिना । पा.
[३-३-१२१] । इत्यंसोदात्तत्वे प्राप्ते वृषादिषु पाठादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । पृण । पृण प्रीणने । लोटि
सेर्हिः । तुदादिभ्यः शः । तस्य डित्त्वादुणाभावः । अतो हेरिति हेर्लुक् । गोभिः । साबेकाचेति
प्राप्तं विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वं न गोश्चन्साववर्णेति प्रतिषिध्यते । अश्वैः । क्वनन्त इत्युक्तम् ।
असामर्थ्यान्न पराङ्गवद्भावः । स्तवाम । ष्टुञ् स्तुतौ । धात्वादेः षः सः । लोटुत्तमबहुवचनस्य
लोटो लङ्वदिति लङ्वद्भावान्नित्यं डितः । ... आडुत्तमस्य पिच्च । पा. [३-४-९२] ।
इत्याडागमः । प्रत्ययस्य पित्त्वादसुदात्तत्वम् । धातुस्वर एव । स्वाध्यः । ध्यै चिन्तायाम् । सु
आङ् इत्युपसर्गाभ्यां पूर्वभागे प्रयोगः । आदेश उपदेशेऽशित्तीति [?] ... क्विप् । संप्रसारणम् । स्वाधी । ... जसि ॥९॥

*he śatakrato sa tvaṃ no 'smadīyam imaṃ kāmam
kāmyamānaṃ phalaṃ gobhir aśvaiś ca sahā prṇa | sarvataḥ
pūraya | vayam api svādhyah suṣṭhu sarvato dhyāna-yuktāḥ
santas tvāṃ stavāma || semam | saṃhitāyāṃ so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam iti su-lopaḥ | kāmam | kamer ṇiṇ | karmaṇi
ghañ | kṛñ-halaś cety-ādinā | pā. [3-3-121] | ity aṃsodāttatve
prāpte vṛṣādiṣu pāṭhād ādyudāttatvam | prṇa | prṇa prīṇane
| loṭi ser hiḥ | tudādibhyaḥ śah | tasya ṇittvād guṇābhāvaḥ |
ato her iti her luk | gobhiḥ | sāv ekāca iti prāptaṃ vibhakter
udāttatvaṃ na go-śvan-sāv-avarṇeti pratiṣidhyate | aśvaiḥ |
kvananta ity uktam | asāmarthyān na parāṅgavad-bhāvaḥ |*

stavāma | ṣṭuñ stutau | dhātvādeḥ saḥ saḥ | loḍ-uttamabahuvacanasya loṭo lañvad iti lañvad-bhāvān nityaṃ ñitaḥ | ...
 āḍ uttamasya pic ca | pā. [3-4-92] | ity āḍāgamaḥ |
 pratyayasya pittvād asudāttatvam | dhātu-svara eva |
 svādhyah | dhyai cintāyām | su āñ ity upasargābhyām
 pūrvabhāge prayogaḥ | ... kvip | saṃprasāraṇam | svādhī | ...
 jasi || 9 ||

Translation: "O Śatakratu [Indra, 'of a hundred powers']! Such as you are, fulfil (ā pr̥ṇa, 'fill all round') this our desired object (kāma) with cows and horses. We too, being svādhyah — well absorbed in meditation on all sides — praise you." The rest is grammar; noted briefly: semam (saḥ + imam with the loss of su by P. 6-1-134); kāmam (kam 'to desire' with ñic/ghañ by P. 3-3-121 halaś ca, whose accent would fall on the end, but by its inclusion in the vr̥ṣādi list the first syllable is accented); pr̥ṇa (pr̥ṇ 'to please'; loṭ, si → hi; śa of the tudādi class with no guṇa as it is ñit; hi dropped by P. 6-4-105 ato heḥ); gobhiḥ (the ending would be accented by P. 6-1-168 sāv ekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ but is barred by P. 6-1-182 na go-śvan-sāv-avar̥ṇa-rāḍ-añkyu-kṣmāy-ātmanām, here go); aśvaiḥ (as for kvan-words); stavāma (ṣṭuñ 'to praise', loṭ first person plural mas; āḍ augment by P. 3-4-92 āḍ uttamasya pic ca); svādhyah (dhyai 'to think' with the prefixes su and ā, kvip, saṃprasāraṇa, the compound svādhī and the nominative plural jas).²⁴

Grammar pages (pp. 704 lower half-707), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats semam (tad + su; tadoḥ saḥ sāv anantyayoh P. 7-2-106 [as read, 7-2-106] gives s for t; tyadādīnām aḥ P. 7-2-102 a for d; ato guṇe P. 6-1-97 pararūpa; the Kannada refers to the explanation at sīmaṃ naḥ stomam ā gahi [Rik 5 above; the print gives the earlier reference as "R. Saṃ. 1-16-5"]; then saḥ imam with so 'ci lope cet pādapūraṇam P.

24. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-121 and P. 3-4-92 as read agree with the standard numbering.

6-1-134, guṇa), kāmam (kamu kāntau, halas ca P. 3-3-121 ghañ; ata upadhāyāḥ P. 7-2-116 vṛddhi; the ñit would give the first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197 ñnityādir nityam, which is set aside by P. 6-1-159 karṣātvato ghaño 'nta udāttaḥ [roots with ṛ... or kṛṣ... take end-accent with ghañ] and that again by P. 6-1-203 vṛṣādīnām ca, since kāma is in the vṛṣādi list, so first-syllable), prṇa (prṇ prīṇane of the tudādi class; loṭ, sip, serhy apicca P. 3-4-87; tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ P. 3-1-77; sārvadhātukam apit P. 1-2-4 makes it ñit, so no guṇa by P. 1-1-5; pugantalaghūpadhasya ca P. 7-3-86 is then also barred; ato heḥ P. 6-4-105 drops hi; wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28; in the Samhitā the ā before it is udātta, so the pr's svarita arises by P. 8-4-66 and the following ṇa is unaccented by P. 1-2-40 udāttasvaritaparasya sannatarah [as read]), gobhiḥ (sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ P. 6-1-168, barred by P. 6-1-182 — the Kannada gives the full text of the barring sūtra — so gobhiḥ is not end-accented: the stem go is itself the accent bearer, and in goṣu the go is monosyllabic and would give the ending its accent; the bar is stated, and the ending is not accented), aśvaiḥ (aśva from aś with kvan, Uṇ. 1-[?] aśūpruṣi...; first-syllable accent by the n-mark; there is the vocative śatakrato near it, but the two have no mutual connexion, so by P. 3-1-2 [?] and P. 8-1-74 supāmantrite parāṅgavat svare the vocative is not treated as part of the other word), stavāma (ṣṭuñ stutau; dhātvādeḥ śaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; loṭ first-person plural mas; loṭo laṇvat P. 3-4-85, making the mas as if laṇ, so nityam ñitaḥ P. 3-4-99 drops the s; ād uttamasya pic ca P. 3-4-92; śap P. 3-1-68, its luk [here śap with guṇa]; aṃ from a + ām [stu + a + āma, lengthening by P. 6-1-101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ]; the suffix being pī, unaccented; the root accent remains by P. 3-1-4 anudāttau suppitau), and svādhyāḥ (dhyai cintāyām; the prefixes su and ān [here the Kannada notes that the prefix ā is used before the root in the Veda, with a long discussion of the upasarga's position]; kvip is found after roots other than bhrājanam-type [P. 3-2-75 anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante]; saṃprasāraṇa; su-ādhi + jas → svādhi + as; halaḥ P. 6-4-2 lengthens the vowel of a stem before a saṃprasāraṇa-bearing consonant — so svādhī; aci śnudhātubhruvāṃ yvor iyaṇuvaṇau P. 6-4-77 would give iy for the final ī but is barred in favour of yaṇ P. 6-4-82 eraneḱācaḥ..., since svādhī is a stem of several vowels not preceded by a conjunct [the Kannada's argument: the final ī of dhī is the end of an aṅga of more than one vowel, so yaṇ], giving svādhy-as; jas is not accented by P. 6-1-171 udāttayaṇo halpūrvāt, because the yaṇ here, though preceded by a consonant, is not followed by a sarvanāmasthāna-ending in the sense of that sūtra (the Kannada explains that jas here is asarvanāmasthāna, because P. 1-1-43 sudṇapumṣakasya names only su, au, jas, am, auṣ as sarvanāmasthāna after a non-neuter — and here, after the udātta-yaṇ, the unaccented jas gets svarita by P. 8-4-66 udāttasvaritayor yaṇaḥ svarito'nudāttasya and P. 3-1-4 anudāttau suppitau)). ॥9॥ ²⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

हे शतक्रतो (he śatakrato) — O Indra | सः त्वम् (saḥ tvam) — such as you are | नः (naḥ) — our | इमम् (imam) — this | कामम् (kāmam) — desired fruit (the object wished for) | गोभिः अश्वैः (gobhiḥ aśvaiḥ) — with cows and horses | आ पृण (ā pṛṇa) — fulfil | (वयम्) ((vayam)) — we | स्वाध्यः (svādhyah) — having good power of meditation | त्वा (tvā) — you | स्तवाम (stavāma) — praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra! Give us cows, horses and the like, and fulfil our desired objects. We always praise you with a meditative mind.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Satakratu (Indra) fulfil this our desire by giving us cows and horses. Profoundly meditating we praise you.

25. A crowded run of three-and-a-half pages; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

गोभिरश्चैः आपृण (gobhir aśvaiḥ āpṛṇa)

— "fill [us] with cows and horses" — that is, fulfil our desire by giving us cows and horses.

स्वाध्यः (svādhyah) — dhyai cintāyām; su-ādhyah: suṣṭhu sarvato dhyāna-yuktāḥ santaḥ: "being thoroughly and on all sides devoted to meditation on you [Indra]" — that is, meditating on you well in the mind.

Close of Sūkta 16.

The grammar of Rik 9 ends at the foot of p. 707, followed by an ornament; no large colophon follows, as for Sūktas 14 and 15.

॥ ಹದಿನೇಳನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 17 —
"indrāvaruṇayor aham" ("The Seventeenth
Sūkta")

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta; printed p. 708)

इन्द्रावरुणयोरित्यादिकं नवर्चं षष्ठं सूक्तम् । अत एव नवर्चत्वानुवृत्त्या [?] ऽनुक्रम्यते ।
इन्द्रावरुणयोरैन्द्रावरुणं युवाकु पादनिचृताविति [?] । अत्र देवता विस्पष्टा । ऋषिच्छन्दसी तु
पूर्ववदनुवर्तते । अयं तु विशेषः । युवाकु हीत्यादिके द्वे ऋचौ पादनिचृन्नामकच्छन्दोयुक्ते ॥ विनियोगस्तु स्मार्तो लैङ्गिको वा कश्चिदवगन्तव्यः ॥

indrāvaruṇayor ity-ādikaṃ navarcaṃ ṣaṣṭhaṃ sūktam | ata
eva navarcatvānuvṛtṭyā [?] 'nukramyate | indrāvaruṇayor
aindrāvaruṇaṃ yuvāku pādanicṛtāv iti [?] | atra devatā
vispaṣṭā | ṛṣi-chandasī tu pūrvavad anuvartete | ayaṃ tu
viśeṣaḥ | yuvāku hīty-ādike dve ṛcau pādanicṛn-nāmaka-chandoyukte | | viniyogas tu smārto laiṅgiko vā kaścid
avagantavyaḥ | |

Translation: "The nine-rik sūkta beginning indrāvaruṇayoḥ is the sixth [of this anuvāka]. So the Anukramaṇikā says [the quotation, read as indrāvaruṇayor aindrāvaruṇaṃ yuvāku pādanicṛtau, is uncertain [?]]: 'to Indra and Varuṇa; the two riks yuvāku hi ... [are] pādanicṛt'. Here the deity is plain [Indra and Varuṇa]. The ṛṣi and meter continue as before [Medhātithi Kāṇva; Gāyatrī]; but there is this particularity: the two riks beginning yuvāku hi [and indraḥ sahasradāvnām] are in the meter called pādanicṛt. Its application (vinīyoga) is to be understood from the smārta or laiṅgika usage [i.e. from the Smṛti or from the sense of the rik]."

|| Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) || The sūkta indrāvaruṇayoḥ is the sixth sūkta of the fourth anuvāka and has nine riks. In the Anukramaṇikā the riks 4 and 5 [yuvāku hi śacīnām and indraḥ sahasradāvnām] are said to be in the meter pādanicṛt. Indra and Varuṇa are the deities. The ṛṣi and meter are as in the earlier sūktas, but those two riks alone have the meter pādanicṛt. The application is to be learnt from the smārta usage.

original pp. 708–711

Sūkta 17, Rik 1

|| ॐ ||

|| Sūkta — 17 || || Maṇḍala — 1 || Anuvāka — 4 || Sūkta — 17 || ||
Aṣṭaka — 1 || Adhyāya — 1 || Varga — 32, 33 [?] || ¹ || Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–9 || || Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva || ||
Devatā — Indrāvaruṇau || || Chandaḥ — 1–3 and 6–9, Gāyatrī;
4 and 5, Pādanicṛt || ²

|| Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ||

इन्द्रावरुणयोरहं सम्राजोरव आ वृणे । ता नो मृळात ईदृशे ॥१॥

indrāvaruṇayor ahaṃ samrājor ava ā vṛṇe | tā no mṛḷāta
īdṛśe || 1 ||

|| Pada-pāṭhaḥ || ³

1. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; reasonably clear, but given [?] as for earlier headings

2. as printed: "०-३, ६-९, गायत्री । ४, ५, षादनिष्ठ" (sic)

3. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later riks of this volume.

इन्द्रावरुणयोः । अहम् । सम्ऽराजोः । अवः । आ । वृणे ॥ ता । नः । मृळातः । ईदृशे ॥१॥ indrāvaruṇayoḥ | aham | sam-rājoḥ | avaḥ | ā | vṛṇe | | tā |
 naḥ | mṛḷātaḥ | īdṛśe | | 1 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ 4

अहमनुष्ठाता सम्राजोः समीचीनराज्योपेतयोः सम्यग्दीप्यमानयोर्वेन्द्रावरुणयोर्देवयोः सम्बन्धयो
 रक्षणमा वृणे । सर्वतः प्रार्थये । ता तौ देवावीदृशे एवंविधेऽस्मदीयवरणे निमित्तभूते सति
 मृळातः । अस्मान्सुखयतः ॥ इन्द्रशब्दो रन्प्रत्ययान्तः । वरुणशब्द उन्नप्रत्ययान्तः । उभौ
 नित्वादाद्युदात्तौ । समासे देवताद्वन्द्वे चेति पूर्वपदस्यानडादेशः । उभे युगपदित्यनुवृत्तौ देवताद्वन्द्वे
 चेति युगपदुभयपदे प्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सम्राजोः । राज दीप्तौ । सत्सूद्विषेत्यादिना क्विप् ।
 समो मोऽनुस्वारः । पा. [८-३-२३] इत्यनुस्वारे प्राप्ते नो राजि समुः क्वौ । पा. [८-३-२५] इति
 मकारादेशः । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । अवः । अव रक्षणादिषु । भावेऽसुन् ।
 नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । ता । सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना द्विवचनस्य डादेशः । टिलोपे
 विभक्तेरुदात्तनिवृत्तिस्वरः । मृळातः । मृड सुखने । प्रार्थनायां लिङर्थे लेट् । द्विवचनं तस् ।
 लेटोऽडाटाविति नित्यमडागमः । तुदादिभ्यः शः । जित्त्वाल्लघूपधगुणाभावः । ईदृशे ।
 त्यदादिषु दृशोऽनालोचने कञ् च । पा. [३-२-६०] । इतीदंशब्द उपपदे दृशेः कञ् ।
 उपपदसमास । इदंकिमोरीशकी । पा. [६-३-९०] । इतीदमु ईश् । शित्वात्सवदिशः । कजः
 कित्वाद्गुणाभावः । जित्वादुत्तरपदस्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । उपपदसमासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन तदेव शिष्यते ॥१॥

aham anuṣṭhātā samrājōḥ samīcīna-rājyopetayoḥ samyag-dīpyamānayor vendrāvaruṇayor devayoḥ sambandhy avo rakṣaṇam ā vṛṇe | sarvataḥ prārthaye | tā tau devāv īdṛśe evaṃvidhe 'smadīya-varaṇe nimitta-bhūte sati mṛḷātaḥ |
 asmān sukhayataḥ | | indra-śabdo ran-pratyayāntaḥ | varuṇaśabda unan-pratyayāntaḥ | ubhau nittvād ādyudāttau |
 samāse devatā-dvandve ceti pūrvapadasyānañādeśaḥ | ubhe yugapad ity anuvṛttau devatā-dvandve ceti yugapad ubhaya-pade prakṛti-svaratvam | samrājōḥ | rāja dīptau | sat-sūdviṣety-ādinā kvip | samo mo 'nusvāraḥ | pā. [8-3-23] | ity anusvāre prāpte no rāji samuḥ kvau | pā. [8-3-25] | iti

makārādeśaḥ | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | avaḥ |
 ava rakṣaṇādiṣu | bhāve 'sun | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | tā |
 supāṃ sulug ity-ādinā dvivacanasya dādeśaḥ | ṭilope
 vibhakter udātta-nivṛtti-svaraḥ | mṛlātaḥ | mṛḍa sukhane |
 prārthanāyāṃ liṅharthe leṭ | dvivacanam tas | leṭo 'dātāv iti nityam aḍāgamaḥ | tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ | ṇittvāl laghūpadha-guṇābhāvaḥ | īdṛśe | tyadādiṣu dṛśo 'nālocane kañ ca | pā.
 [3-2-60] | itīdam-śabda upapade dṛśeḥ kañ | upapada-samāsa
 | idam-kimor īśkī | pā. [6-3-90] | itīdam u īś | śittvāt sarvādeśaḥ | kañāḥ kittvād guṇābhāvaḥ | ṇittvād
 uttarapadasyādyudāttatvam | upapada-samāse kṛd-
 uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvena tad eva śiṣyate || 1 ||

Translation: "I, the performer [of the rite], choose (ā vṛṇe) — pray for on all sides — the protection (avaḥ) belonging to the two gods Indra and Varuṇa, who are samrājau: possessed of sovereign power, well radiant. May those two gods, on this occasion — which is the occasion of our such choice [prayer] — make us happy (mṛlātaḥ).⁵ The rest is grammar, noted briefly: indra (Uṇādi ran) and varuṇa (Uṇādi unan), both first-syllable accented through the n-mark; the dvandva of deities takes the substitute ānañ for the first member (P. 6-3-26 devatādvandve ca) and both members keep their own accent; samrājoh (rāj "to shine", kvīp, m for s; P. 8-3-25 no rāji samaḥ kvau; P. 8-3-23 mo 'nusvāraḥ would give an anusvāra, but the rule makes it m); avaḥ (av "to protect", asun, first-syllable accent); tā (the dual ending replaced by ā by P. 7-1-39); mṛlātaḥ (mṛḍ "to make happy", leṭ in the sense of a wish; the augment aṭ; śa of the tudādi class, no guṇa); īdṛśe (dṛś with kañ after idam, P. 3-2-60 tyadādiṣu dṛśo 'nālocane kañ ca; idam → īś by P. 6-3-90 idamkimor īśkī).⁵

Grammar pages (pp. 712–714 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 1 treats: indrāvaruṇayoḥ (a dvandva indraś ca varuṇaś ca; indra from indi "to be powerful" [sic: the print gives the root as idi/indi with num] with Uṇādi ran [Uṇ. 2-28 as read], the num augment by P. 7-1-58 idito num dhātoḥ; varuṇa from vṛñ "to choose/cover" [or dvi-dāraṇe "to split"] with the Uṇādi unan, guṇa by P. 7-3-84, raparatva by P. 1-1-51, ṇatva by P. 8-4-2 [aṭkūpvāṇnumvyavāye 'pi]; both end in a suffix carrying n, so are first-syllable accented by P. 6-1-197 ñnityādir nityam; the substitute ānañ for the first member by P. 6-3-26 devatādvandve ca, which has the ñ marker so replaces the final letter by P. 1-1-53 ñic ca; nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya P. 8-2-7; both members keep their own accent by P. 6-2-141 devatādvandve ca with ubhe vanaspatyādiṣu yugapat P. 6-2-140 [as read]; and the genitive dual os — the Kannada adds a long note, on the compound as an instance of kṛt-derived words, that indrāvaruṇayoḥ in the genitive means "of the two who are the subjects of protection" by P. 2-3-65 karṭṛkarmaṇoḥ kṛti — the genitive case after a word ending in a kṛt suffix whose root's agent or object it is: ava "protection", from av + asun, has indrāvaruṇayoḥ as its agent, so the genitive; the same applies to samrājōḥ), samrājōḥ (rāj "to shine", kvip by P. 3-2-61 sat-sūdvīṣa-druha-duha-yuja-vida-bhida-chida-jī-nī-rājām upasarge 'pi kvip; sam + rāj, with mo 'nusvāraḥ P. 8-3-23 applying to the m; but no rāji samaḥ kvau P. 8-3-25 gives m itself, hence samrāj), avaḥ (ava rakṣaṇe; sarvadhātubhyo 'sun Uṇ. 4-[?]; n-mark so first-syllable accent; the genitive-agent point above), tā (tad + au; supām sulug... P. 7-1-39 giving dā; ṭeḥ dropped by P. 6-4-143 [as read]; the accent of the ending lost by anudāttasya ca yatrodāttalopaḥ P. 6-1-161), mṛlātaḥ (mṛḍ sukhane; liṅarthe leṭ P. 3-4-7; tas; leṭo 'dātau P. 3-4-94 gives the augment aṭ, which, being kit, is the first part of the word; tudādibhyaḥ śaḥ P. 3-1-77; sārvadhātukam apit P. 1-2-4 makes it ñit, so no guṇa by P. 1-1-5 kñiti ca; and pugantalaḥpādhasya ca P. 7-3-86 is therefore also barred; ḍ → ḷ in the Veda by the Ṛgvedic rule on ḍ), and īdrśe (idam + drś; P.

5. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 8-3-25, 3-2-60 and 6-3-90 as read agree with the standard numbering.

3-2-60 tyadādiṣu dṛśo 'nālocane kañ ca: kañ after dṛś in a sense other than seeing when a word of the tyadādi group precedes; the ca adds kvin optionally; the compound upapadam atin P. 2-2-19; supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ P. 2-4-71 drops the case-ending; P. 6-3-90 idaṃkimor īskī gives īs for idam [īs has the ś marker, so replaces the whole word by P. 1-1-55 anekāl-śit sarvasya]; dṛś + a with no guṇa because kañ is kit; ñ marker gives the accent of the final member by P. 6-1-197 [read as 6-1-193?]; the locative singular ni → e; the first-syllable accent of dṛśa retained by the compound rule P. 6-2-139 gatiḥkarakopapadāt kṛt; the whole īdṛśe thus accented on mṛ? — the print ends īdṛśe, ಎಂಬುದು ಮಧ್ಯೋದಾತ್ತ, i.e. "īdṛśe is middle-accented" [?], which I give as read). ||1||⁶

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अहम् (aham) — I (the performer of the rite) | सम्राजोः (samrājoh) — those who shine well, or those possessed of good sovereignty | इन्द्रावरुणयोः (indrāvaruṇayoh) — of Indra and Varuṇa | अवः (avaḥ) — protection | आ वृणे (ā vṛṇe) — I pray for [from all sides] | ता (tā) — those two deities | ईदृशे (īdṛśe) — in this our prayer | नः (naḥ) — to us | मृळतः (mṛlātaḥ) — let them make us happy.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

I, who have begun the sacrifice, come to Indra and Varuṇa — mighty with radiance and kingship — in order that my sacrifice may be completed in all its parts, and I pray for their protection. May they hear this prayer of mine and make me happy.

॥ English Translation ॥⁷

I seek the protection of the sovereign rulers Indra and Varuṇa; may they both favour us accordingly.

6. Numerals as read; pointers only; a crowded run; outline only.

7. as printed in the source

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The deities of this sūkta are the two, Indra and Varuṇa. In the Ṛgveda it is seen that two deities are very often invoked together, and praised together. The mantras that praise two deities together (devatādvandva) are called saṁstavika mantras. The chief deities in them are — Agni, Soma, Varuṇa, Pūṣan, Bṛhaspati, Brahmanaspati, Parvata, Kutsa, Viṣṇu, Vāyu, Mitra, Rudra, Vāta and Parjanya — fourteen in all. For example [the Kannada gives each pair with a citation; the small reference numerals in the print are partly unclear, so each is marked [?] and I give only the part of the reference I can read]:

- इन्द्राग्नी (indra + agni) — indrāgnī rocanā divaḥ — "Indra and Agni [light up] the bright places of the sky" (Ṛ. Saṁ. 3-12-9 [?]).
- इन्द्रासोमा (indra + soma) — indrāsomā sam aghaśaṁsam (Ṛ. Saṁ. [7-104-2 ?]).
- इन्द्रावरुणा (indra + varuṇa) — indrāvaruṇā yuvam adhvārāya naḥ (Ṛ. Saṁ. [8-59-1 ?]).
- इन्द्रापूषणा (indra + pūṣan) — indrāpūṣaṇā vayam (Ṛ. Saṁ. [6-57-1 ?]).
- इन्द्राबृहस्पती (indra + bṛhaspati) — idaṁ vām āsye haviḥ priyam indrābṛhaspatī (Ṛ. Saṁ. [4-49-1 ?]).
- इन्द्राब्रह्मणस्पती (indra + brahmanaspati) — [the citation, read as] ā ... indrābrahmanaspatī haviṣā [?] (the print shows ātyaimdrā...; I cannot give this one with confidence; Ṛ. Saṁ. [?]).
- इन्द्रापर्वता (indra + parvata) — indrāparvatā bṛhatā rathena (Ṛ. Saṁ. [3-53-1 ?]).
- इन्द्राकुत्सा (indra + kutsa) — indrākutsā vahamānā rathena (Ṛ. Saṁ. [5-31-9 ?]).
- इन्द्राविष्णू (indra + viṣṇu) — indrāviṣṇū dṛṇhitāḥ śambarasya (Ṛ. Saṁ. [6-69-5 ?]).

- इन्द्रवायू (indra + vāyu) — indravāyū ime sutāḥ (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-2-4).
- मित्रावरुणा (mitra + varuṇa) — ā no mitrāvaruṇā (Ṛ. Saṃ. [3-62-16 ?]).
- सोमापूषणा (soma + pūṣan) — somāpūṣaṇā janānā rayīṇām (Ṛ. Saṃ. [2-40-1 ?]).
- सोमारुद्रा (soma + rudra) — somārudrā yuvam etāny asme (Ṛ. Saṃ. [6-74-2 ?]).
- वातापर्जन्या (vāta + parjanya) — dhartāro divo ṛbhavaḥ suhastā vātāparjanya mahiṣasya tanyatoḥ (Ṛ. Saṃ. [10-66-10 ?]).
- अग्नीषोमौ (agni + soma) — agnīṣomāv imaṃ su me (Ṛ. Saṃ. [1-93-1 ?]).
- अग्नीपर्जन्यौ (agni + parjanya) — agnīparjanyaāv avataṃ dhiyaṃ me (Ṛ. Saṃ. [6-52-16 ?]).
- अग्नाविष्णू (agni + viṣṇu) — agnāviṣṇū sajoṣasā (Taittirīya Saṃhitā [4-2-?]).

⁸ The Kannada adds that many riks have the dvandva deities in the singular rather than the dual — for example agna indraś ca dāsūṣe duroṇe (Ṛ. Saṃ. [3-25-4 ?]), tvaṃ no agne varuṇasya vidvān (Ṛ. Saṃ. [4-1-4 ?]), marutaḥ pibata ṛtunā (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-15-1 [?]); the print gives "०-०३-२", i.e. 1-15-2, which is the rik of this very volume, the Rik 15.2 marutaḥ pibata ṛtunā; I follow the print's 1-15-2 [?]).

original pp. 714–718

Sūkta 17, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

गन्तारा हि स्थोऽवसे हवं विप्रस्य मावतः । धर्तारा चर्षणीनाम् ॥२॥

8. Each IAST line above is also given in Devanagari in the print's Kannada script; I give the IAST and the Devanagari heading of the pair, as the Kannada glosses supply no English. Glosses of the pairs are the obvious ones — "Indra and Agni", etc. — and are mine.

*gantārā hi stho 'vase havam viprasya māvataḥ | dhartārā
carṣaṇīnām || 2 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁹

गन्तारा । हि । स्थः । अवसे । हवम् । विप्रस्य । माऽवतः ॥ धर्तारा । चर्षणीनाम् ॥२॥

*gantārā | hi | sthaḥ | avase | havam | viprasya | mā-vataḥ | |
dhartārā | carṣaṇīnām || 2 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे इन्द्रावरुणा अवसेऽवितुमनुष्ठातारं रक्षितुं मावतो मद्विधस्य विप्रस्य ब्राह्मणत्विजो हवमाह्वानं
गन्तारौ स्थो हि प्राप्तिशीलौ भवथः खलु । कीदृशौ । चर्षणीनां मनुष्याणां धर्तारौ
योगक्षेमसंपादनेन धारयितारौ ॥ गन्तारा । गमेः स्तृच्छीले तृन् । द्विवचनस्य सुपां सुलुगित्यादिनाकारादेशः । ऋदुशनस्पुरुदंसोऽनेहसां च । पा. [७-१-९४] । इत्यनङ्गुणः । ...
तृनो निच्वादाद्युदात्तत्वम् । स्थः । अस भुवि । लटि मध्यमपुरुषद्विवचनं थस् । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः
शपः इति शपो लुक् । हि चेति निघातप्रतिषेधः । अवसे । अव रक्षणे । तुमर्थे
सेसेनसेनित्यादिना असेन् । नित्स्वरेणाद्युदात्तः । हवम् । हेओ बहुलं छन्दसीत्यनेनैमित्तिके
संप्रसारणे परपूर्वत्वे च ऋदोरबिति अप् । गुणावादेशौ । अपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । धातुस्वर
एव । विप्रस्य । डुवप् बीजसन्ताने । अस्य ऋजेन्द्रेत्यादिना रन् निपातितः । निच्वादाद्युदात्तः ।
मावतः । वतुप्रकरणे युष्मदस्मद्भ्यां छन्दसि सादृश्य उपसंख्यानम् । पा. [५-२-३९-१] । वतुप् । प्रत्ययोत्तरपदयोश्च । पा. [७-२-९८] । इत्यस्मदो मपर्यन्तस्य मादेशः । आ सर्वनाम्नः । पा.
[६-३-९१] । इति दीर्घः । ... मतुपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । प्रातिपदिकान्तोदात्तत्वे स एव
शिष्यते । धर्तारा । धृज् धारणे । पुवल्तृचौ । पा. [३-१-१३३] । इति तृच् । ... चर्षणीनाम् । कृषेराद्ये चः । उ. [२-१०३ ?] । इत्यनिप्रत्ययः । ... नामि । पा. [६-४-३] । इति दीर्घः ॥२॥

he indrāvaruṇā avase 'vitum anuṣṭhātāraṁ rakṣitum māvato madvidhasya viprasya brāhmaṇartvijo havam āhvānaṁ gantārau stho hi prāptiśīlau bhavathaḥ khalu | kīdrśau | carṣaṇīnāṁ manuṣyāṇāṁ dhartārau yogakṣema-sāmpādanena dhārayitārau || gantārā | gameḥ stṛc-chīle tṛn | dvivacanasya supām sulug ity-ādinākārādeśaḥ | ṛd-uśanas-puru-damso-'nehasām ca | pā. [7-1-94] | ity anaṅ-guṇaḥ | ...

*tṛno nittvād ādyudāttatvam | sthaḥ | asa bhuvi | laṭi
 madhyama-puruṣa-dvivaṇaṃ thas | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti śapo luk | hi ceti nighāta-pratiṣedhaḥ | avase | ava rakṣaṇe | tumarthe sesenasen ity-ādinā asen | nitsvareṇādyudāttaḥ | havam | hveṇo bahulaṃ chandasīty
 anenaimittike saṃprasāraṇe parapūrvatve ca ṛdor ab iti ap | guṇāvādeśau | apaḥ pittvād anudāttatvam | dhātu-svara eva | viprasya | ḍuvap bīja-santāne | asya ṛjrendrety-ādinā ran nipātitaḥ | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | māvataḥ | vatup-prakarāṇe yuṣmad-asmadbhyaṃ chandasī sādrśya upasaṃkhyānam | pā.
 [5-2-39-1] | vatup | pratyayottarapadayoś ca | pā. [7-2-98] |
 ity asmado mapayantasya mādeśaḥ | ā sarvanāmnaḥ | pā.
 [6-3-91] | iti dīrghaḥ | ... matupaḥ pittvād anudāttatvam |
 prātipadikāntodāttatve sa eva śiṣyate | dhartārā | dhṛñ
 dhāraṇe | ṇvul-tṛcau | pā. [3-1-133] | iti tṛc | ... carṣaṇīnām |
 kṛṣer ādyeś ca caḥ | u. [2-103 ?] | ity ani-pratyayaḥ | ... nāmi |
 pā. [6-4-3] | iti dīrghaḥ | | 2 | |*

Translation: "O Indra and Varuṇa! You are gantārau — you are given to coming (prāptiśīlau) — to the call (havam) of a vīpra, a wise priest such as I (māvataḥ, 'one like me'), in order to protect (avase) the one who performs the rite. Of what sort are you? Dhartārau — upholders of the carṣaṇayaḥ, the people, by securing for them what they have and what they lack [yogakṣema]." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: gantārā (gam with tṛn in the sense of habit, with the dual ending ā by P. 7-1-39 and anaṃ/guṇa by P. 7-1-94 ṛd-uśanas-purudaṃso-'nehasām ca; first-syllable accent through the n-mark of tṛn); sthaḥ (as "to be", laṭ dual thas, śap dropped; the particle hi before it bars the loss of accent); avase (the infinitive asen, by P. 3-4-9 tumarthe sesenasenasena..., with first-syllable accent); havam (hve with saṃprasāraṇa, ap); viprasya (vap "to sow", Uṇādi ran given by nipātana); māvataḥ (mad + vatup, in the sense of resemblance, by the Vārttika on P. 5-2-39 for the Veda; ma for mad by P. 7-2-98, lengthened by P. 6-3-91 ā sarvanāmnah); dhartārā (dhṛ + ṛc by P. 3-1-133 ṇvulṛcau); carṣaṇīnām (kṛṣ with the Uṇādi ani and c for the first letter; the lengthening by P. 6-4-3 nāmi).¹⁰ Grammar pages (pp. 716 upper to 718), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: gantārā (gamḷ gatau + ṭṛn by P. 3-2-135 tācchīlyavayovacanaśaktiṣu cānaś [as read, 3-2-135 ṭṛn]; gam + ṭṛ with the num → anusvāra by P. 8-3-24 naś cāpadāntasya jhali, then anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ P. 8-4-58 → nganṭṛ / ganṭṛ [gan-ṭṛ]; ṭṛ + au → ā by P. 7-1-39; ṛto ni sarvanāmasthānayoḥ P. 7-3-110 for the guṇa of the ṛ; ur aṇ raparaḥ P. 1-1-51; ṛdṛśo 'ni guṇaḥ P. 7-4-16 [as read] is the Kannada's note on a rule that does not apply here, since there is no aṇ suffix, hence the guṇa here is by the Prāmāṇika sūtra [i.e. a form that is not to be derived from that sūtra]; ṭṛn has n-mark so ñnityādir nityam P. 6-1-197 gives ganṭṛ first-syllable accent), sthaḥ (as bhuvi, adādi; laṭ thaḥ; śap, luk by P. 2-4-72; śnasor allopaḥ P. 6-4-111; s → ru → visarga; hi ca P. 8-1-34 bars the loss of accent, so sthaḥ would stay accented, but since hi here is just before it with no tiṇ after, P. 8-1-28 tiṇ atinaḥ does not make it unaccented), avase (ava rakṣaṇe; tumarthe sesenasenasen-kasenādhyaiādhyaike kadhyaikena śadhyaiśadhyaina tavaitaven tavenaḥ P. 3-4-9, a list of infinitive suffixes, among them asen; av + asen → avase; the n-mark gives first-syllable accent), havam (hveñ "to call"; hvaḥ saṃprasāraṇam P. 6-1-32; bahulaṃ chandasī P. 6-1-34 makes it aimittika — that is, saṃprasāraṇa applies; saṃprasāraṇāc ca P. 6-1-108 pūrvārūpa; ṛdoraP P. 3-3-57 — ap after roots ending in ṛ or u; sārvadhātukārdhadhātukayoḥ P. 7-3-84; eco 'yavāyāvaḥ' P. 6-1-78 gives hav; ap is pīṭ, so unaccented by P. 3-1-4, root accent remains; am with ami pūrvaḥ P. 6-1-107), viprasya (ḍuvap "to sow"; ṛjrendrāgravajravipra... Uṇ. 2-28 as read, ran; first-syllable accent by the n-mark), māvataḥ (yatparimāṇe 'vatup' P. 5-2-39; vatup in the sense of resemblance after yuṣmad/asmad in the Veda by the

10. Grammar, noted briefly; numerals as read; pointers only.

Vārttika vatup prakaraṇe yuṣmadasmadbhyāṃ chandasi sādṛśya upasaṃkhyānam; asmad + vat; pratyayottarapadayoś ca P. 7-2-98 gives ma for the part of asmad up to m; ato guṇe P. 6-1-97 pararūpa; mad + vat; ā sarvanāmnaḥ P. 6-3-91 gives ā for the final letter of a pronoun when followed by dṛk, dṛś, vatu, hence mā + vat; akāḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ P. 6-1-101 → māvat; vatup is pit, so unaccented; mā has the stem accent on the end, hence māvataḥ), dhartārā (dhṛñ dhāraṇe; ṇvulṛcau P. 3-1-133; dhṛ is anudātta in the upadeśa and monosyllabic, so by P. 7-2-10 ekāca upadeśe 'nudāttāt the iṭ augment that would come by P. 7-2-35 ārdhadhātukasyeḍ valādeḥ is barred; guṇa by P. 7-3-84, raparatva; au → ā by P. 7-1-39; guṇa of ṛ by P. 7-3-110; upadhā-dīrgha by P. 6-4-11 apṛn-trj-ityādi; ṛc has c-mark so end accent by P. 6-1-163 cit; hence dhartā), and carṣaṇīnām (kṛṣ "to scratch", Uṇ. 2-[?] kṛṣer ādyeś ca caḥ, ani suffix, c for k, carṣ + ani; pugantalaḥpādhasya ca P. 7-3-86 guṇa; raparatva; ṇatva by P. 8-4-2 aṭkuvāṇnumvyavāye 'pi giving carṣaṇi; the genitive plural ām; hrasvanadyāpo nuṭ P. 7-1-54 gives nuṭ; nāmi P. 6-4-3 lengthens; the accent: ani has first-syllable accent by the n-mark, but in the Veda the end accent comes — and the genitive ending is accented by nāmanyatarasyām P. 6-1-177 — the Kannada gives the long note on whether carṣaṇi is end-accented through the rule that a word whose last vowel is accented lets the nām ending take the accent optionally). ||2|| ¹¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे इन्द्रावरुणौ) ((he indrāvaruṇau)) — O Indra and Varuṇa | चर्षणीनाम् (carṣaṇīnām) — of men | धर्तारौ (dhartārau) — you who bear the burden of getting and keeping | अवसे (avase) — for the protection

11. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

[of the performer of the sacrifice] | मावतः (māvataḥ) — like me | विप्रस्य (viprasya) — of the priest | हवम् (havam) — the call | गन्तारा स्थः हि (gantārā sthaḥ hi) — you are of a nature to come, surely.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra and Varuṇa! You are the ones who look after the welfare (yogakṣema) of men. Therefore, in order to protect priests such as I, you are accustomed to come here in response to my call.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Indra and Varuṇa, you are the protectors of the people and you go at the call of a minister like me to protect him.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

विप्रस्य (viprasya) — though the word vipra has the sense "intelligent", the sense "one who praises" fits well here.

मावतः (māvataḥ) — madvidhasya: like me; that is, to a sacrificer who praises you as I do.

धर्तारा (dhartārā) — dhṛñ dhāraṇe: yogakṣema-saṃpādanena dhārayitārau: those who bear the burden of getting and preserving men's welfare; those who are concerned with it.

original pp. 718–723

Sūkta 17, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अनुकामं तर्पयेथामिन्द्रावरुण राय आ । ता वां नेदिष्ठमीमहे ॥३॥

*anukāmaṃ tarpayethām indrāvaruṇa rāya ā | tā vāṃ
nediṣṭham īmahe || 3 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹²

अनुऽकामम् । तर्पयेथाम् । इन्द्रावरुणा । रायः । आ ॥ ता । वाम् । नेदिष्ठम् । ईमहे ॥३॥

anu-kāmam | tarpayethām | indrāvaruṇā | rāyaḥ | ā | | tā |
vām | nediṣṭham | īmahe | | 3 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा हे इन्द्रावरुणौ अनुकामं अस्मदीयाभिलाषमनु रायो धनस्य प्रदानेना तर्पयेथाम् । सर्वतोऽस्मांस्तृप्तान्कुरुतम् । वयं यदा यदा धनं कामयामहे तदा तदा प्रयच्छतमित्यर्थः । ता वां तादृशौ युवां नेदिष्ठमतिशयेन सामीप्यं यथा भवति तथा ईमहे । याचामहे कालविलम्बनं विना धनं दातव्यमित्यर्थः । सप्तदशसु या ज्ञाकर्मस्विमहे इति पठितम् ॥ अनुकामम् । कामस्य पश्चादनुकामम् । अथवा कामे कामेऽनुकामम् । अनुरिह पश्चादर्थे । अथवा वीप्सालक्षणे यथार्थे । योग्यता वीप्सा पदार्थानतिवृत्तिः सादृश्यं चेति चत्वारो हि यथार्था गृहीताः । अव्ययं विभक्तीत्यादिना । पा. [२-१-६] । अव्ययीभावसमासः । अव्ययीभावश्च । पा. [१-१-४१] । इत्यव्ययसंज्ञा । अव्ययादाप्सुपः । पा. [२-४-८२] । इति प्राप्तस्य लुकोऽपवादो नाव्ययीभावादतोऽम्बपञ्चम्याः । पा. [२-४-८३] । इति विभक्तेरमादेशः । समासस्यैत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । तर्पयेथाम् । तृप प्रीणने । णिजन्तात्कर्तृस्थाभिप्राये लोट् । ... आथाम् । टेरत्वम् । आमेतः । ... आतोऽङ् । ... । इन्द्रावरुणा । सुपां सुलुगिति द्विवचनस्याकारः । आमन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । संहितायामाकारस्य ह्रस्वत्वम् । रायः । रै शब्दः ... जसि । रायः । ... । ता । सुपां सुलुगिति विभक्तेराकारः । वाम् । पदात्परस्याद्युदात्तस्य वामादेशोऽनुदात्तः । नेदिष्ठम् । अन्तिकस्यातिशयेनान्तिकम् । अतिशायने तमबिष्टनौ । पा. [५-३-५५] । इष्टन् । अन्तिकबाढयोर्नेदसाधौ । पा. [५-३-६३] । इति नेदादेशः । यस्येति लोपः । इष्टन्प्रत्ययस्य नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । ईमहे । ईङ् गतौ । डित्त्वादात्मनेपदम् । बहुलं छन्दसीति श्यनो लुक् । निघातः ॥३॥ indrāvaruṇā he indrāvaruṇau anukāmaṃ asmadīyābhilāṣam

anu rāyo dhanasya pradānenā tarpayethām | sarvato 'smāṃs
tr̥ptān kurutam | vayaṃ yadā yadā dhanam kāmayāmahe
tadā tadā prayacchatam ity arthaḥ | tā vām tādṛśau yuvām nediṣṭham atīśayena sāmīpyam yathā bhavati tathā īmahe | yācāmahe kāla-vilambanam vinā dhanam dātavyam ity arthaḥ
| sapṭadaśasu yā jñā-karmasv imahe iti paṭhitam | |

12. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the shortened indrāvaruṇa; the Pada the long indrāvaruṇā.

anukāmam | kāmasya paścād anukāmam | athavā kāme
kāme 'nukāmam | anur iha paścād arthe | athavā vīpsā- lakṣaṇe yathārthe | yogyatā vīpsā padārthānativr̥ttiḥ
sādrśyaṃ ceti catvāro hi yathārthā gr̥hītāḥ | avyayaṃ
vibhaktītyādinā | pā. [2-1-6] | avyayībhāva-samāsaḥ |
avyayībhāvaś ca | pā. [1-1-41] | ity avyaya-saṃjñā | avyayād
āpsupaḥ | pā. [2-4-82] | iti prāptasya luko 'pavādo
nāvyayībhāvād ato 'm tv apañcamyāḥ | pā. [2-4-83] | iti
vibhakter amādeśaḥ | samāsasyety antodāttatvam |
tarpayethām | tr̥pa prīṇane | ñijantāt kartr̥sthābhiprāye loṭ |
... āthām | ṭer ettvam | āmetaḥ | ... āto 'ñ | ... | indrāvaruṇā |
supāṃ sulug iti dvivacanasyākāraḥ | āmantritādyudāttatvam
| saṃhitāyām ākārasya hrasvatvam | rāyaḥ | rai śabdaḥ ...
jasi | rāyaḥ | ... | tā | supāṃ sulug iti vibhakter ākāraḥ | vām
| padāt parasyādyudāttasya vāmādeśo 'nudāttaḥ | nediṣṭham
| antikasyātiśayenāntikam | atiśāyane tamab-iṣṭhanau | pā.
[5-3-55] | iṣṭhan | antika-bāḍhayor nedasādhou | pā. [5-3-63]
| iti nedādeśaḥ | yasyeti lopaḥ | iṣṭhan-pratyayasya nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | īmahe | īñ gatau | nittvād ātmanepadam |
bahulaṃ chandasīti śyano luk | nighātaḥ | |3| |

Translation: "O Indra and Varuṇa! Anukāmam — according to our wish — satisfy (ā tarpayethām) us on all sides by giving wealth (rāyaḥ). The sense is: whenever we desire wealth, give it then. Such as you are, we ask you (īmahe) nediṣṭham — in the manner of being most near; the sense: we beg that wealth should be given without delay. īmahe is read among the seventeen words for 'asking' (yācñā-karman).\" The rest is grammar, noted briefly: anukāmam (kāmasya paścāt, or kāme kāme — here anu has the sense 'after' or 'each, in each case' [vīpsā]; an avyayībhāva compound by P. 2-1-6, with the name avyaya by P. 1-1-41; the case-ending would be dropped by P. 2-4-82 avyayād āpsupaḥ, but P. 2-4-83 nāvyayībhāvād ato 'm tv apañcamyāḥ gives am instead — except in the ablative; the accent of the final member of the compound); tarpayethām (tr̥p "to please", causative; loṭ in the ātmanepada for the agent-sense; dual āthām, ṭi → e by P. 3-4-79, āmetaḥ P. 3-4-90); indrāvaruṇā (the dual ā; vocative accent; shortened in the Saṃhitā); rāyaḥ (rai + jas/as with āy, ru, visarga); tā; vām (the unaccented substitute for yuṣmad + au, after a word, by P. 8-1-20 yuṣmadasmador...); nediṣṭham (antika + iṣṭhan by P. 5-3-55 with neda for antika by P. 5-3-63; yasyeti ca; first-syllable accent through the n-mark of iṣṭhan); īmahe (īn "to go", ātmanepada from the n-mark, śyan dropped by bahulaṃ chandasi; the verb unaccented).¹³

Grammar pages (pp. 719 lower to 723 upper), noted briefly.

The Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā treats: anukāmam (kāmasya paścāt or kāme kāme; anu is paścāt "after" in the first reading and yathārtha-vīpsā "each in turn" in the second; the Kannada lists the four senses of yathā — fitness, distribution, non-transgression of the sense of a word, and resemblance — and quotes the sūtra avyayaṃ vibhaktisamīpasamṛddhivṛddhyarthābhāvātyayāsampratiśabdaprādurbhāvapaśca

P. 2-1-6 — the sixteen meanings, beginning with vibhakti and ending with anta, as listed; the compound is avyayibhāva; avyayibhāvaś ca P. 1-1-41 gives it the name avyaya; P. 2-4-82 avyayād āpsupaḥ would drop the case-ending, but the exception nāvyayibhāvād ato 'm tv apañcamyāḥ P. 2-4-83 gives am after an a-ending avyayibhāva, except in the ablative, so the dropping does not occur, and am is substituted — anukāma + am, ami pūrvaḥ P. 6-1-107 → anukāmam; the compound's end accent by P. 6-1-223 samāsasya; am unaccented by P. 3-1-4; the substituted single vowel accented by P. 8-2-5 ekādeśa udāttanodāttaḥ), tarpayethām (trp prīṇane; tatprayojako hetuś ca P. 1-4-55 gives the causal agent the name hetu; hetumati ca P. 3-1-26 gives ṇic; the ṇic ending root takes ātmanepada by P. 1-3-74 ṇicaś ca in the agent-sense kartṛsthābhiprāye kriyāphale; trp + i + āthām; ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e P. 3-4-79; āmetaḥ P. 3-4-90; guṇa of the r by

13. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 2-1-6, 1-1-41, 2-4-82, 2-4-83, 5-3-55 and 5-3-63 as read agree with the standard numbering.

P. 7-3-86 pugantalaghūpadhasya ca; śap by P. 3-1-68 and guṇa by P. 7-3-84; eco 'yavāyāvaḥ; the āthām is not pit, so ñit by P. 1-2-4; āto ñitaḥ P. 7-2-81 gives iy for the ā of a ñit ending after a, and ad guṇaḥ P. 6-1-87 and lopo vyor vali P. 6-1-66 drop the y, giving tarpayethām; the Kannada's long note on āto yeyaḥ P. 7-2-80 — whether yā or yāṣṭ takes iy — concludes that in tarpay-e-th-ām neither is present, so the iy of that sūtra does not arise, and the sūtra's use in explaining the shape of iya is prāmādika), indrāvaruṇā (explained at indrāvaruṇayor aham, Rik 1; here the vocative dual au → ā by P. 7-1-39 and savarṇadīrgha; at the start of the pāda so not unaccented, and first-syllable accented by P. 6-1-198; shortened in the Saṃhitā), rāyaḥ (rai — the word meaning wealth — + as; rāyo hali P. 7-2-85 gives rā for rai before a consonant; before a vowel ai → āy by P. 6-1-78; s → ru → visarga; the ending is accented by P. 6-1-171 ūḍidampadādyappumrai-dyubhyaḥ), tā (tad + au; P. 7-1-39 ḍā; tyadādīnām aḥ P. 7-2-102; ato guṇe; savarṇadīrgha), vām (follows a word; hence yuvām, in the dual accusative, replaced by the unaccented vām by P. 8-1-20 yuṣmadasmador ṣaṣṭhīcaturthīdvitīyāsthayor vāṃnāvau), nediṣṭham (atiśayena antikam; atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau P. 5-3-55; antikabādhayor nedasādhau P. 5-3-63 [as read] gives neda for antika; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148; iṣṭhan has the n-mark, so first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197), and īmahe (īn gatau — the ñ shows ātmanepada by P. 1-3-12 anudāttañita ātmanepadam; laṭ mahiñ; ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e; divādibhyaḥ śyan P. 3-1-69; bahulaṃ chandasī P. 2-4-73 drops śyan; hence īmahe; unaccented by P. 8-1-28). ||3|| ¹⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा (indrāvaruṇā) — O Indra and Varuṇa | अनुकामम् (anukāmam) — in accordance with our wishes, or one by one each of our wishes | रायः (rāyaḥ) — by giving wealth | आ तर्पयेथाम्

14. A crowded run of four pages; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

(ā tarpayethām) — satisfy [us] | ता (tā) — such [as you are] | वाम् (vām) — you two | नेदिष्ठम् (nediṣṭham) — in the nearest manner (that is, without any delay) | ईमहे (īmahe) — we praise.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra and Varuṇa! We praise you in order to be near you for the sake of wealth and the like. As soon as we ask, give us the wealth we need.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra and Varuna, satisfy us with wealth according to our desires. We therefore pray you to be nearest to us.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

अनुकामम् (anukāmam) — kāmasya paścād anukāmam; or kāme kāme 'nukāmam. Here anu has the sense paścāt "after", or the sense of vīpsā "each, one by one" [the yathārtha]. [asmadīyam abhilāṣam anu:] "according to our wishes", or "each and every one of the things we desire".

नेदिष्ठम् (nediṣṭham) — atiśayena sāmīpyam yathā bhavati tathā; atiśayenāntikam: "very near" — "you should be very near, so as to give us what we need".

ईमहे (īmahe) — īmahe, among the seventeen words of the group beginning with yāma [yāmaḥ?] that mean "to ask" (yācñā-karman), the word īmahe is read (Nighaṇṭu 3-19 [?]); so īmahe means "we ask, we beg".

original pp. 723–727

Sūkta 17, Rik 4 (meter Pādanicṛt)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युवाकु हि शचीनां युवाकु सुमतीनाम् । भूयाम वाजदाब्नाम् ॥४॥

yuvāku hi śacīnām yuvāku sumatīnām | bhūyāma vājadāvnām
|| 4 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

युवाकु । हि । शचीनाम् । युवाकु । सुऽमतीनाम् ॥ भूयाम । वाजऽदाव्नाम् ॥ ४ ॥
yuvāku | hi | śacīnām | yuvāku | su-matīnām || bhūyāma |
vāja-dāvnām || 4 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हि यस्मात्कारणाच्छचीनामस्मदीयकर्मणां सम्बन्धि सोमरूपं हविर्युवाकु
वसतीवर्येकधनात्मकैरुदकैः पयःसक्त्वादिद्रव्यान्तैश्च मिश्रितं [?] । तथा सुमतीनां
शोभनबुद्धियुक्तानामृत्विजां स्तोत्ररूपं वचनमपि युवाकु नानाविधैः स्तुत्यगुणैर्मिश्रितम् ।
तस्मात्कारणात् हे इन्द्रावरुणौ तथाविधं हविः स्वीकुर्वतोर्युवयोः प्रसादाद्वयं
वाजदाव्नामन्नप्रदानां पुरुषाणां मध्ये मुख्या भूयाम । भवेम । आपोज्योतिरित्यादिषु
षट्त्रिंशत्सङ्ख्याकेषु कर्मनामसु शची शमीति पठितम् ॥ युवाकु । यु मिश्रणे । कटिकुषिभ्यां
काकुः [?] । उ. [३-४२?] । इत्यत्र बाहुलकाद्यतेरपि काकुः प्रत्ययः । ... शचीनाम् ।
शचीशब्दः केषांचिन्मते शार्ङ्गरवादिः डीन् । निच्चाद्याद्युदात्तः [?] ... सुमतीनाम् । विद्याम
सुमतीनाम् । ऋ. सं. [१-४-३] । इत्युक्तम् । भूयाम । भू सत्तायाम् । प्रार्थनायां लिङ् ।
उत्तमपुरुषबहुवचनं मस् । ... यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच् । पा. [३-४-१०३] । इति
यासुडागमः ... सकारलोपः । ... वाजदाव्नाम् । वाजं ददतीति वाजदाव्नः । आतो मनिन्क्वनिब्वनिपश्च । पा. [३-२-७४] । इति वनिप् । ... ।

hi yasmāt kāraṇāc chacīnām asmadīya-karmaṇām sambandhi soma-rūpaṃ havir yuvāku vasatīvary-ekadhanāt makair udakaiḥ payaḥ-saktv-ādi-dravyāntais ca miśritaṃ [?] | tathā sumatīnām śobhana-buddhi-yuktānām ṛtvijām stotra-rūpaṃ vacanam api yuvāku nānā-vidhaiḥ stutya-guṇair miśritaṃ | tasmāt kāraṇāt he indrāvaruṇau tathā-vidhaṃ haviḥ svikurvatoḥ yuvayoḥ prasādād vayaṃ vājadāvnām annapradānām puruṣāṇām madhye mukhyā bhūyāma | bhavema | āpo-jyotir ity-ādiṣu ṣaṭtriṃśat-saṅkhyākeṣu karma-nāmasu śacī śamī iti paṭhitam || yuvāku | yu miśraṇe | kaṭikuṣibhyām kākūḥ [?] | u. [3-42?] | ity atra bāhulakād yater api

*kākuḥ pratyayaḥ | ... śacīnām | śacī-śabdaḥ keśāṃcin mate śārṅgaravādīḥ nīn | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ [?] ... sumatīnām |
 vidyāma sumatīnām | ṛ. saṃ. [1-4-3] | ity uktam | bhūyāma |
 bhū sattāyām | prārthanāyām liṅ | uttama-puruṣabahuvacanaṃ mas | ... yāsuḥ parasmaipadeṣūdātto nīcca | pā.
 [3-4-103] | iti yāsuḍāgamaḥ ... sakāralopaḥ | ... vājadāvnām |
 vājaṃ dadatīti vājadāvnaḥ | āto maninkvanibvanipaś ca | pā.
 [3-2-74] | iti vanip | ...*

Translation: "Because (hi) the soma-oblation belonging to our rites (śacīnām) is yuvāku — mixed — with waters called vasatīvarī [the water used at the soma pressing] and with milk, flour (saktu) and other substances [the clause is partly unclear, marked [?]]; and likewise the words of praise of the priests of good mind (sumatīnām) are yuvāku — mingled with praise of many kinds of qualities: therefore, O Indra and Varuṇa, by the favour of you two who accept such an oblation, may we become (bhūyāma) the foremost among those who give food (vājadāvnām). Among the thirty-six words for 'action' beginning with āpaḥ, śacī is read [Nighaṇṭu 2-1, cited 'nī. 2-1' in the Kannada; the numerals are as read [?]]." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: yuvāku (yu "to mix" with the Uṇādi kāku, which the Kannada gives as kaṭikuṣibhyām kākuḥ [?] — by bāhulaka extended also to yu; first-syllable accent by the suffix); śacīnām (śacī by some in the śārṅgaravādī list, with nīn); sumatīnām (explained at Rik 1.4.3 [vidyāma sumatīnām]); bhūyāma (bhū "to be", the liṅ of prayer, first plural mas, the augment yāsuḥ by P. 3-4-103 and the loss of s); vājadāvnām (vāja + dā + vanip by P. 3-2-74 ato manin-kvanib-vanipaś ca).¹⁵

Grammar pages (pp. 726 lower to 727), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: yuvāku (yu miśraṇe; Uṇ. kaṭikuṣibhyām kākaḥ [the Kannada discusses that kaṭ 'to cover' and kuṣ 'to tear' are the roots of that sūtra; some read kaṭikuṣibhyām, a reading that does not suit kapāka [?]; with bāhulaka the suffix kāku is added after yu also; the k of kāku is it, so no guṇa; acchnudhātu [aci śnudhātubhruvām yvor iyaṇuvaṇau] P. 6-4-77 gives uv for u before a vowel-initial suffix; yu + aku → yuvāku; the first syllable is accented by ādyudāttaś ca P. 3-1-3 which accents the first vowel of a suffix; so yuvāku is middle-accented), śacīnām (śacī — from śac — in the śārṅgaravādi group [by the view of some]; ñīn — śārṅgaravādibhyo nīn P. 4-1-73; the suffix has ñ so ñnityādir nityam P. 6-1-197 gives first-syllable accent; the Kāśikā's vṛtti says in the sūtra ubhe vanaspatyādiṣu yugapat P. 6-2-140 that śacī has first-syllable accent), sumatīnām (explained at 1.4.3 [vidyāma sumatīnām]), bhūyāma (bhū sattāyām with the liṅ of prayer, first plural mas; the s dropped by P. 3-4-97 nityam nītaḥ; yāsuṭ P. 3-4-103; yāsuṭ is ṭit, hence the first part of the suffix; the u of bhū + yāsa → bhūyāsma; sārvadhātukam apit; liṇaḥ salopo 'nantyasya P. 7-2-79 drops the s of yāsuṭ; śap (here by bahulam chandasi luk); sati śiṣṭatve [the paribhāṣā that the accent of the śiṣṭa is stronger]; the Kannada concludes the stronger accent remains), vājadāvnām (vājam dadati iti; vāja is the object-word, dā + vanip by P. 3-2-74 [which in the Veda applies even with an upasarga or upapada]; vāja + dāvan, kṛttaddhita... P. 1-2-46 gives the name prātipadika; supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ P. 2-4-71 drops the case-ending; vanip is pit, so unaccented by P. 3-1-4, while dā has the accent of its root; vājam + dāvan by P. 3-2-19 upapadam atin; then gatikārakopapadāt kṛt P. 6-2-139 gives the accent of the final member; the genitive plural ām; vājadāvan + ām; ñibham P. 1-4-18 yaci bham gives the name bha; āllopo 'nasya P. 6-4-134 drops the a of an of the stem when it is bha — hence vājadāv-n-ām; the n of an [vājadāvan, here n + ām]; lopo vyor vali P. 6-1-66 would drop the v before a consonant [n], but acaḥ parasmin pūrvavidhau P. 1-1-57 makes the dropped a a sthānivat for purposes of the preceding rules; so the v is not dropped: vājadāvnām). ||4||

15. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi number is uncertain.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

हि (hi) — because | शचीनाम् (śacīnām) — of the [rites] done by us (the soma-oblation relating to them) | युवाकु (yuvāku) — [it is] mixed with milk, flour and other substances | सुमतीनाम् (sumatīnām) — of the priests of good understanding (their praises) | युवाकु (yuvāku) — [they are] joined with various qualities | वाजदान्नाम् (vājadāvnām) — among those who give food (the oblation) | भूयाम (bhūyāma) — may we be [accepted, by the grace of you who have accepted our oblation].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The oblation we offer to you is mingled with milk, flour and other substances; and the priests praise you with praises full of manifold excellences. Satisfied with these two, make us foremost among the givers of food, or the best of givers.

॥ English Translation ॥

The mingled libations of our pious rites, the different praises of our right-minded priests are prepared; may we be included among the givers of food.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

युवाकु (yuvāku) — vasatīvarī-ekadhanātmakair udakaiḥ payaḥ-saktv-ādi-dravyāntaiś ca miśritam: the commentator here explains the word as "mixed with water, milk and saktu (meal), and the like, prepared for the soma-offering". Its second occurrence in the rik means a mingling of praises, or the rendering "a union of various kinds of praises". And in the following riks the word yuvāku is used:

अश्विना मधुषुत्तमो युवाकुः सोमस्तं पातमा गतं दुरोणे । (ऋ. सं. [२-४६?-?]) aśvinā madhuṣuttamo yuvākuḥ somas taṃ pātam ā gataṃ duroṇe | (ṛ. saṃ. [?])

ता विद्वांसा हवामहे वां ता नो विद्वांसा मन्म वोचेतमद्य । प्रार्चद्दयमानो युवाकुः ॥ (ऋ. सं. [१-१२०-३ ?]) tā vidvāṃsā havāmahe vāṃ tā no vidvāṃsā manma vocetam adya | prārcad dayamāno yuvākuḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. [1-120-3 ?])

दुहीयन्मित्रधितये युवाकु रायेच नो मिमीतं वाजवत्यै । (ऋ. सं. [१-१२०-८ ?]) duhīyan mitradhitaye yuvāku rāye ca no mimītaṃ vājavatyai | (ṛ. saṃ. [1-120-8 ?])

धामानि मित्रावरुणा युवाकुः सं यो यूथेव जनिमानि चष्टे । (ऋ. सं. [२-४०-?]) dhāmāni mitrāvaruṇā yuvākuḥ saṃ yo yūtheva janimāni caṣṭe | (ṛ. saṃ. [?])

आवोर्वा नूनमश्विना युवाकुर्हुवे यद्वां सुते माध्वी वसूयुः । (ऋ. सं. [२-४२-४]) āvor vāṃ nūnam aśvinā yuvākur huve yad vāṃ sute mādhvī vasūyuh | (ṛ. saṃ. [?])

उत त्वं भुज्युमश्विना सखायो मध्ये जहुदुरेवासः समुद्रे । निरीं पर्षदरावा यो युवाकुः ॥ (ऋ. सं. [२-४८-२]) uta tyaṃ bhujyum aśvinā sakhāyo madhye jahur durevāsaḥ samudre | nir īm parṣad arāvā yo yuvākuḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. [?])

¹⁶ In these riks the commentator has taken yuvāku as "desiring you" [yuvāṃ kāmaya mānaḥ], that is, "one who seeks you" or "one for whom you are desirable", besides the sense "mixture" given above; but there seems to be some one fixed meaning proper to this word.

शचीनाम् (śacīnām) — among the śloka-words beginning with dharā [dharā...], śacī is read in the list of the fifty-seven [?] words for speech (vāñnāma) (Ni. [1-11 ?]); so śacī means "speech". Again, śacī is read among the words for 'action' (karma-nāma), beginning with apaḥ, aḥnaḥ (Ni. [2-1 ?]), so it also means "action". Again, among the thirteen words for 'wisdom' (prajñā) beginning with ketah, ketu (Ni. [3-9 ?]), śacī is read, so it also means "intellect". Though śacī thus has three senses — speech, action, intellect — the commentator gives primacy here to "action". Yāska too, with the rik

16. The mantra texts above are as I read the Kannada print; the numerals of every reference are small and I mark them all [?], as they are incompletely read. The English glosses of these riks are not given in the source.

त्रयः केशिन ऋतुथा विचक्षते संवत्सरे वपत एक एषाम् । विश्वमेको अभि चष्टे शचीभिर्धर्माजिरेकस्य ददृशे न रूपम् ॥ trayaḥ keśina ṛtuthā vicakṣate saṃvatsare vapata eka eṣām | viśvam eko abhi caṣṭe śacībhir
dhrājir ekasya dadṛśe na rūpam || (ṛ. saṃ. [1-164-44])

(three long-haired ones, who look on [the world] by the seasons; in the year one of them shaves; one looks at the whole [world] with his śacī; the course of one is seen, but not his form) — while explaining it says viśvam eko 'bhi vipaśyati karmabhir ("the one looks at all by his acts"), giving the sense "action" to śacī; and in explaining a rik in context, one may take any of the three senses of śacī as needed.

सुमतीनाम् (sumatinām) — śobhana-buddhi-yuktānām ṛtvijām: of the priests with good intelligence; or of the people with good minds.

वाजदाव्नाम् (vājadāvnām) — vājam annaṃ dadātīti vājadāvānaḥ teṣām: of those who give food, or offering. The commentator supplies the word mukhyāḥ ("chief") to complete the sense: "among those who give [i.e. offer] the chief ones". On the whole, the sense of this rik is somewhat disjointed; the meaning is not quite clear.

original pp. 728–732

Sūkta 17, Rik 5 (meter Pādanicṛt)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रः सहस्रदाव्नां वरुणः शंस्यानाम् । क्रतुर्भवत्युक्थ्यः ॥५॥
indraḥ sahasradāvnām varuṇaḥ śaṃsyānām | kratur bhavaty
ukthyaḥ || 5 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रः । सहस्रदाब्जानाम् । वरुणः । शंस्यानाम् ॥ क्रतुः । भवति । उक्थ्यः ॥५॥

indraḥ | sahasra-dāvnām | varuṇaḥ | śaṃsyānām | | kratuḥ | bhavati | ukthyaḥ | | 5 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अयमिन्द्रः सहस्रदाब्जानां सहस्रसंख्याकधनप्रदानां मध्ये क्रतुर्धनदानास्य [?] कर्ता भवति । प्रभूतं ददातीत्यर्थः । तथा वरुणः शंस्यानां स्तुत्यानां मध्ये उक्थ्यः स्तुत्यो भवति । अतिशयेन स्तुत्य इत्यर्थः ॥ वरुणः उनन्प्रत्यययो नित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । शंस्यानाम् । ऋहलोर्ण्यत् । ईडवन्दवृशंसदुहां ण्यतः । क्रतुः । कृजः केतुः । उ. [१-२८] । इति केतुः । उक्थ्यः । उक्थं शस्त्रम् । तेन स्तुत्येन तत्र भव उक्थ्यः । भवे छन्दसि । पा. [४-४-११०] । इति यत् । यस्येति लोपः । ... ॥५॥

ayam indraḥ sahasradāvnām sahasra-saṅkhyāka-dhana-pradānām madhye kratuḥ dhana-dānāsya [?] kartā bhavati | prabhūtaṁ dadātīty arthaḥ | tathā varuṇaḥ śaṃsyānām stutyānām madhye ukthyaḥ stutyō bhavati | atīśayena stutya ity arthaḥ | | varuṇaḥ unan-pratyayo nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | śaṃsyānām | ṛhaloṇ ṇyat | īḍa-vanda-vṛ-śaṃsa-duhām ṇyataḥ | kratuḥ | kṛñāḥ ketuḥ | u. [1-28] | iti ketuḥ | ukthyaḥ | uktham śāstram | tena stutyena tatra bhava ukthyaḥ | bhava chandasi | pā. [4-4-110] | iti yat | yasyeti lopaḥ | ... | | 5 | |

Translation: "Among the sahasradāvānaḥ — those who give thousands of [gifts of] wealth — this Indra is a kratu, the performer of acts of giving; the sense is that he gives abundantly. Likewise Varuṇa, among those worthy of praise (śaṃsyānām), is ukthya, worthy of praise — praiseworthy in the highest degree." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: varuṇaḥ (the Uṇādi unan, first-syllable accent); śaṃsyānām (śaṃs with ṇyat by P. 3-1-124 ṛhaloṇ ṇyat, the accent of P. 6-1-215 īḍavandavṛśaṃsaduhām ṇyataḥ);

kratuḥ (kṛ with the Uṇādi ketu [Uṇ. 1-28, as read]); ukthyaḥ ("what is in the uktha, the recitation"; yat by P. 4-4-110 bhave chandasi; yasyeti ca).¹⁷

Grammar pages (pp. 729 lower half–732 upper half), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: varuṇaḥ (vr̥ṇ with the Uṇādi unan, Uṇ. 3-[?]) kvyādāribhyaḥ unan [as read]; first-syllable accent by the n-mark), śaṃsyānām (śaṃsu stutau; ṛhaloṇ nyat P. 3-1-124; tit svaritam P. 6-1-185 would give a svarita, but the special īḍavandavṛśaṃsaduham nyataḥ P. 6-1-214 [as read] gives the first-syllable accent), kratuḥ (ḍukṛṇ karaṇe; kṛṇaḥ ketuḥ [Uṇ. 1-28]; lasya taddhite [laśakvataddhite P. 1-3-8] makes the initial k of a suffix an it — hence the Kannada notes the k; iko yaṇaci P. 6-1-77 gives y; kṛ + tu with the ṛ → ra by P. 1-1-51 [guṇa and raparatva]; the end accent, by the suffix), and — at great length — ukthyaḥ, the grammarians' dispute about its accent: uktha means śāstra, a recitation without chant (the Kannada quotes the Yājñikas' definition aprāgītamantrasādhyaguṇaviśiṣṭaguṇābhidhānam śāstram); ukthe bhavaḥ — bhave chandasi P. 4-4-110 gives yat; the case-ending is dropped, uktha + ya; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148 drops the a; so ukthya; yat has the t-mark, so by P. 6-1-185 tit svaritam the last syllable of the suffix is svarita; though ukthya is a word with two syllables [ukth-ya, in the Kannada's reckoning of ac], and so P. 6-1-213 yato 'nāvaḥ [the accent of words in yat that are not nau] would give a first-syllable accent — as in tīrthya and kūpya — in the Veda, where all rules are optional [P. paribhāṣā sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante], this accent does not apply; the Kannada then sets out the competing claims of yasyeti ca (P. 6-4-148), tit svaritam and yato 'nāvaḥ, applying the paribhāṣā vipratīṣedhe paraṃ kāryam (P. 1-4-2), kṛtākṛtaprasaṅgi nityam, antaraṅgaṃ bahiraṅgāt, asiddham bahiraṅgam antaraṅge and vārṇād āṅgaṃ balīyaḥ, and concludes — after about two-and-a-half pages — that ukthya in ukthyaḥ, as in ūrmyāya and sūrmyāya,

17. Grammar, noted briefly.

should have the svārīta accent as given by Pāṇini himself, and tīrthya's first-syllable accent is then the Vedic exception; "in some place or other one must grant that something is Vedic; in no way can both be escaped". ॥5॥ ¹⁸

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(अयम् इन्द्रः ((ayam) indraḥ) — [this] Indra [who, having accepted the oblations described above, gives us wealth] | सहस्रदानाम् (sahasradāvnām) — among those who give thousands (of wealth) | क्रतुः (kratuḥ) — the performer [of giving] | भवति (bhavati) — becomes | वरुणः (varuṇaḥ) — Varuṇa | शंस्यानाम् (śamsyānām) — among those who are praised | उक्थ्यः (ukthyah) — [especially] praiseworthy | भवति (bhavati) — becomes.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

As described before, Indra, satisfied, gives us wealth as we need it; in the same way Varuṇa is the one especially praised by us.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra is a giver among the givers of thousands; Varuṇa is to be praised among those who deserve to be praised.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

The sense of this rik is clearer if the meaning given above is varied a little: Indra is famed among those who give wealth and other things by the thousand, and Varuṇa among those who are much praised; their acts are worthy of praise.

18. A very crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

ऋतुः (kratuḥ) — among the words for 'action' beginning with apaḥ, aḥnaḥ [the print "अप् अह्नाः"], kratu is read (Ni. 2-1 [?]); so kratu means "action". Here it means the daring action done by Indra and Varuṇa, or the act of giving wealth to people.

उक्थ्यः (ukthyah) — uktham śāstram | tena stutyatvena tatra bhava ukthyah: uktha is a śāstra — a mantra recited without singing; "worthy of being praised by reciting that mantra" is the sense of ukthya. Here the sense is that the acts of giving wealth and the like done by Indra and Varuṇa are worthy of praise.

original pp. 732–735

Sūkta 17, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तयोरिदवसा वयं सनेम नि च धीमहि । स्यादुत प्ररेचनम् ॥६॥

tayor id avasā vyaṃ sanema ni ca dhīmahi | syād uta prarecanam || 6 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

तयोः । इत् । अवसा । वयम् । सनेम । नि । च । धीमहि ॥ स्यात् । उत । प्ररेचनम् ॥६॥

tayoh | it | avasā | vayam | sanema | ni | ca | dhīmahi || syāt | uta | pra-recanam || 6 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

तयोरित्पूर्वोक्तयोरिन्द्रावरुणयोरेवावसा रक्षणेन वयमनुष्ठातारः सनेम । संभजेमहि धनमिति शेषः । नि धीमहि च । प्राप्ते धने यावदपेक्षितं तावद्भुक्त्वा ततोऽवशिष्टं धनं [?] निधिरूपेण स्थापयेमानुष्ठातारः । उतापि च प्ररेचनं भुक्तान्निहिताच्च प्रकर्षेणाधिकं धनं स्यात् ।

ससद्येताम् [?] ॥ अवसा । असुन् । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । वयम् । यूयं हि ष्टेत्यू. सं. [१-१५-२ ?] इत्यत्र यदुक्तं तदत्र द्रष्टव्यम् । सनेम । आशिषि लिङ् । तस्य मस् । नित्यं डितः । इत्यनेन सलोपः । यासुट् । लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य । पा. [७-२-७९] । ... सनेमेति पादादित्वान्निघाताभावः । धीमहि । दुधाञ् धारणपोषणयोः । आशिषि लिङः । ... महिङ् । ... सीयुट् । ... लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य । ... ईडागमः । ... आतो लोप इटि च । पा.

[६-४-६४] । इत्याकारलोपः । ... निघातः । स्यात् । अस भुवि ।
 विधिनिमन्त्रणामन्त्रणाधीष्टसंप्रश्नप्रार्थनेषु लिङ् । पा. [३-३-१६१] । ... यासुट् ... ।
 आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः इति शपो लुक् । श्नसोरल्लोपः । ... निघातः । उत । निपातः [?] । प्ररेचनम् । रिचिर् विरेचने । ... भावे ल्युट् । ... प्रादिसमासः । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥६॥ tayor it pūrvoktayor indrāvaruṇayor evāvasā rakṣaṇena

vayam anuṣṭhātāraḥ sanema | sambhajemahi dhanam iti
śeṣaḥ | ni dhīmahi ca | prāpte dhane yāvad apekṣitaṃ tāvad bhuktvā tato 'vaśiṣṭaṃ dhanam [?] nidhi-rūpeṇa sthāpayem' ānuṣṭhātāraḥ | utāpi ca prarecanaṃ bhuktān nihitāc ca
prakarṣeṇādhikaṃ dhanam syāt | sasadyetām [?] | | avasā |
asun | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | vayam | yūyaṃ hi śṭhety r. saṃ.
[1-15-2 ?] ity atra yad uktaṃ tad atra draṣṭavyam | sanema |
āśiṣi liṇ | tasya mas | nityaṃ nītaḥ | ity anena salopaḥ | yāsuṭ
| liṇaḥ salopo 'nantyasya | pā. [7-2-79] | ... sanemeti pādāditvān nighātābhāvaḥ | dhīmahi | dudhāñ dhāraṇa-poṣaṇayoḥ | āśiṣi liṇaḥ | ... mahiñ | ... sīyut | ... liṇaḥ salopo
'nantyasya | ... īdāgamaḥ | ... āto lopa iṭi ca | pā. [6-4-64] | ity ākāralopaḥ | ... nighātaḥ | syāt | asa bhuvi | vidhinimantraṇāmantraṇādhīṣṭa-saṃpraśna-prārthaneṣu liṇ | pā.
[3-3-161] | ... yāsuṭ ... | ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti śapo luk |
śnasor allopaḥ | ... nighātaḥ | uta | nipātaḥ [?] | prarecanaṃ
| ricir virecane | ... bhāve lyuṭ | ... prādi-samāsaḥ | kṛduttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | | 6 | |

Translation: "Through the protection of those same (it) two, Indra and Varuṇa, we who perform the rite may sanema — may we obtain (sambhajemahi) wealth (the word 'wealth' being supplied) — and ni dhīmahi — when the wealth has come, having enjoyed as much as is needed, let us lay up the remaining wealth as a treasure [the clause is partly unclear, marked [?]]. Uta — and further — may there be prarecana, an excess: wealth in excess, above what is eaten and what is laid by." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: avasā (asun, first-syllable accent); vayam (as explained at Rik 1.15.2 [yūyaṃ hi śṭhā, i.e. 1.15.2]); sanema (san

"to obtain", āśīrlīṇ, mas; s dropped by P. 3-4-99 nityaṃ ṇītaḥ and by P. 7-2-79 līṇaḥ salopo 'nantyasya; yāsuḥ; unaccented, but not made so because it begins the pāda); dhīmahi (dhā "to hold, to nourish", āśīrlīṇ, mahiṇ, sīyut, the s dropped, the ā dropped by P. 6-4-64 āto lopa īti ca); syāt (as, līṇ in the sense of command, wish and so on by P. 3-3-161, yāsuḥ, śap dropped, śnasor allopah); uta (a particle); prarecanam (ric "to empty", lyut in the sense of the action; a prādi compound; the accent of the final member).¹⁹

Grammar pages (pp. 733 lower half–735 upper), noted briefly.

The Kannada treats: avasā (sarvadhātubhyo 'sun, Uṇ. 4-[?]; av + asun; first-syllable accent through the n; the instrumental singular ṭā), vayam (the process for yūyam at Rik 1.15.2 applies also to vayam; the stem of yūyam is yuṣmad, of vayam it is asmad; the difference is only in the iṣṭa, the intended form), sanema (vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau; dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; āśīrlīṇ [P. 3-4-116 līṇ āśīṣi]; mas → s dropped by nityaṃ ṇītaḥ P. 3-4-99; yāsuḥ by P. 3-4-103 yāsuḥ parasmaipadeṣūdātto ṇicca; the ṭ mark makes it the first part of the suffix, so ādyantau ṭakitau P. 1-1-46; the s dropped by P. 7-2-79 līṇaḥ salopo 'nantyasya; san + yā + s + mu [sanema — mas → sma, with s dropped...]; the Vedic [chandasy ubhayathā] P. 3-4-117 makes the līṇ sārvaadhātuka as well as ārdhadhātuka; līṇy āśīṣy aṇ P. 3-1-86 [as printed 3-1-86] gives aṇ after an āśīrlīṇ — here, san + a + yā + mu; e yeyaḥ P. 7-2-80 gives īy for yā; lopo vyor vali P. 6-1-66 drops the y; ad guṇaḥ P. 6-1-87 → sanema; begins the pāda, so not made unaccented; the e is a single substituted vowel, hence udātta), dhīmahi (ḍudhāñ; āśīrlīṇ; līṇaḥ sīyut P. 3-4-102; sārvaadhātuka by P. 3-4-117; līṇaḥ salopo 'nantyasya; sārvaadhātukam apit P. 1-2-4 makes the līṇ ṇit; kartari śap P. 3-1-68, which is dropped by bahulaṃ chandasi P. 2-4-73 — or juhotyādibhyaḥ śluḥ P. 2-4-75; dhā + īy + mahi; āto lopa īti ca P. 6-4-64 drops the ā; lopo vyor vali drops the y → dhīmahi; the Kannada adds that since the suffix is itself ṇit-natured by P. 1-2-4,

19. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 7-2-79, 6-4-64 and 3-3-161 as read agree with the standard numbering.

the ñit-ness acquired by extension [ātideśika] serves no purpose, so the Kannada says the ñit-ness is stated only to show that the sārvadhātuka status also has a use; ni ca dhīmahi has a ca, but since the verb sanema before it is already in the sentence, dhīmahi is the second verb, so by P. 8-1-59 [?] cavāyoge prathamā the bar on the loss of accent is not applied, and dhīmahi is made wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28), syāt (as bhuvi; liṅ by P. 3-3-161 vidhi-nimantraṇāmantraṇādhīṣṭa-saṃpraśna-prārthaneṣu liṅ, here in the sense of prayer; yāsuṭ by P. 3-4-103, which being ñit [P. 1-2-4]...; as + śap + yāsuṭ + t; śap dropped by P. 2-4-72; śnasor allopaḥ P. 6-4-111 drops the a of as; liṅaḥ salopo 'nantyasya drops the s of yāsuṭ; so syāt; it begins the pāda, so not unaccented), uta (end-accented as in the evādi list of Phiṭ 4-[?] evādīnām antaḥ), and prarecanam (ricir virecane; iditaḥ hmm — the Kannada's irit: the root ricir has the marker ir and so gets iritaḥ; irito vā P. 3-1-57 [?] giving aṅ optionally — here not applicable; lyuṭ ca P. 3-3-115 in the neuter in the abstract sense; yu → ana by P. 7-1-1; pugantalaḥpādaḥasya ca P. 7-3-86 gives guṇa: recana; the accent: lyuṭ is lit-suffix so, by P. 6-1-193 liti, the syllable before the suffix is accented; with the prefix pra the compound is kugatiprādayaḥ P. 2-2-18 and accent of the final member by P. 6-2-139 gatikāraḥkopapadāt kṛt). ||6||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

तयोः (tayoh) — O Indra and Varuṇa [of those two] | अवसा इत् (avasā it) — by protection alone | वयम् (vayam) — we [the sacrificers] | सनेम (sanema) — may we obtain [wealth] | नि धीमहि च (ni dhīmahi ca) — and may we lay it by, storing it up | उत (uta) — and | प्ररेचनम् (prarecanam) — [more] than that we have enjoyed and than that we have stored | स्यात् (syāt) — may there be more [wealth].

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

By the grace of Indra and Varuṇa we obtain boundless wealth, enjoy it as we wish, and store up what remains. Again, may the wealth grow ever greater than what we have enjoyed and what we have stored.

॥ English Translation ॥

Through their protection we enjoy riches and heap them up;
still may we have even a surplus.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḡaḡu (Special Topics) ॥

नि धीमहि (ni dhīmahi) — śekhari — [the Kannada word śekhari, 'to lay up, to hoard'; "heap up; lay by".

उत (uta)

— it is not [here a particle of the sense] "also"; or one may take whichever sense is wanted, such as "and".

प्ररेचनम् (prarecanam) — bhuktān nihitāc ca prakarṣeṇādhikaṃ dhanam: wealth that is far greater than what we have used and what we have stored. The sense is that the wealth given by Indra and Varuṇa should increase abundantly through their favour, beyond what we have enjoyed and heaped up.

original pp. 735–737

Sūkta 17, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḡ ॥

इन्द्रावरुण वामहं हुवे चित्राय राधसे । अस्मान्त्सु जिग्युषस्कृतम् ॥७॥

*indrāvaruṇa vām ahaṃ huve citrāya rādhase | asmān tsu
jigyūṣas kṛtam || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḡ ॥ ²⁰

20. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the shortened indrāvaruṇa.

इन्द्रावरुणा । वाम् । अहम् । हुवे । चित्राय । राधसे ॥ अस्मान् । सु । जिग्युषः । कृतम् ॥७॥ indrāvaruṇā | vām | aham | huve | citrāya | rādhase | |

asmān | su | jigyuṣaḥ | kṛtam | |7|

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा हे इन्द्रावरुणौ वां युवामुभावहं हुवे । आह्वयामि । किमर्थम् । चित्राय
मणिमुक्तादिरूपेण विविधाय राधसे धनाय । ततः आहूतौ युवामस्माननुष्ठात् सु जिग्युषः ।
शत्रुविषये सुष्ठु जयोपेतान् कृतं कुरुतम् ॥ इन्द्रावरुणा । सुपां सुलुगित्यादिना
संबोधनस्याकारः । देवताद्वन्द्वे चेति पूर्वपदस्यानङ् । आमन्त्रिताद्युदात्तत्वम् । संहितायां छान्दसं
ह्रस्वत्वम् । हुवे । ह्वयतेर्लुटि [sic: लटि?] उत्तमैकवचनमिट् । शपि इत्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलं
छन्दसीति लुक् । ह्व इत्यनुवृत्तौ बहुलं छन्दसीति संप्रसारणं परपूर्वत्वम् । अचि श्नुधात्विति
[?] ... उवडादेशः । जुहोतेरेव हि प्रतिपदोक्तस्य ग्रहणं न पुनरस्य लाक्षणिकत्वात् । इटः
प्रत्ययस्वरे ... राधसे । असुन् । नित्वाद्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । अस्मान् । शसि द्वितीयायां च । पा.
[७-२-८७] । इत्यात्वम् । शसो नः । पा. [६-१-१०३] ... जिग्युषः । जि जये । लिटः क्वसुश्च
। पा. [३-२-१०७] । द्विर्भावः । सन्लिटोर्जेः । पा. [७-३-५७] । इति द्वितीयस्य कुत्वम् ।
क्वसोः कित्वाद्गुणाभावः । ... वसोः संप्रसारणम् । पा. [६-४-१३१] ... कृतम् । डुकृञ् करणे
। लोण्मध्यमद्विवचनस्य थस् । लोटो लङ्वत् । तस्थस्थमिपां तान्तन्तामः । पा. [३-४-१०१] । इति तमादेशः । कर्तरि शप् । बहुलं छन्दसीति लुक्... ॥७॥

indrāvaruṇā he indrāvaruṇau vām yuvām ubhāv aham huve |
āhvayāmi | kimartham | citrāya maṇi-muktādi-rūpeṇa
vividhāya rādhase dhanāya | tata āhatau yuvām asmān
anuṣṭhātṛn su jigyuṣaḥ | śatru-viṣaye suṣṭhu jayopetān kṛtam
kurutam | | indrāvaruṇā | supām sulug ity-ādinā
saṃbodhanasyākāraḥ | devatā-dvandve ceti pūrvapadasyānaḥ
| āmantritādyudāttatvam | saṃhitāyām chāndasaṃ hrasvatvam | huve | hvayater laṭi uttamaikavacanam iṭ | śapi
ity anuvṛttau bahulaṃ chandasīti luk | hva ity anuvṛttau
bahulaṃ chandasīti saṃprasāraṇam parapūrvatvam | aci
śnudhātv iti [?] ... uvañādeśaḥ | juhoteva hi
pratipadoktasya grahaṇam na punar asya lākṣaṇikatvāt | iṭaḥ pratyaya-svare ... rādhase | asun | nittvād ādyudāttatvam |
asmān | śasi dvitīyāyām ca | pā. [7-2-87] | ity ātvam | śaso

*naḥ | pā. [6-1-103] ... jigyusaḥ | ji jaye | liṭaḥ kvasuś ca | pā.
 [3-2-107] | dvirbhāvaḥ | san-liṭor jeḥ | pā. [7-3-57] | iti
 dvitīyasya kutvam | kvasoḥ kittvād guṇābhāvaḥ | ... vasoḥ
 saṃprasāraṇam | pā. [6-4-131] ... kṛtam | ḍukṛñ karaṇe | loṇ-madhyama-dvivacanasya thas | loṭo laṇvat |
 tasthasthamipāṃ tāntantāmaḥ | pā. [3-4-101] | iti tamādeśaḥ
 | kartari śap | bahulaṃ chandasīti luk ... ||7||*

Translation: "O Indra and Varuṇa! Both of you I invoke (huve). For what? For citra — various — rādhas, wealth (jewels, pearls and the like). Therefore, being invoked, make us, the performers [of the rite], su jigyusaḥ — well endowed with victory over enemies — kṛtam, do so." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: indrāvaruṇā (as before); huve (hve, first singular iṭ; śap dropped; saṃprasāraṇa "variously in the Veda", parapūrva; uvaṇ); rādhas (asun, first-syllable accent); asmān (ā for the a of asmad before the accusative plural, P. 7-2-87; n for the s of śas, P. 6-1-103); jigyusaḥ (ji "to conquer", kvasu in the sense of the perfect by P. 3-2-107; reduplication; kutva of the second j by P. 7-3-57 san-liṭor jeḥ; no guṇa because kvasu is kit; saṃprasāraṇa of vas by P. 6-4-131); kṛtam (kṛ, loṭ dual, tam by P. 3-4-101, śap dropped).²¹

Grammar pages (pp. 738–739), noted briefly. The Kannada treats huve (hveñ, ātmanepada by the ñ-mark; laṭ, first singular iṭ; ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e; śap with luk by P. 2-4-73; hvaḥ saṃprasāraṇam P. 6-1-32 with bahulaṃ chandasī; saṃprasāraṇāc ca P. 6-1-108 pūrvarūpa; hu + i; the long scholastic discussion whether uvaṇ/yaṇ applies by P. 6-4-87 hu-śnuvoḥ sārvaadhātuke — whether hu here is the lākṣaṇika (derived) hu from hve or the pratipadokta root hu "to offer", the conclusion being that only the root hu "to offer" is meant, so no yaṇ and uv is [read] by P. 6-4-77; the suffix iṭ has suffix accent; the verb is not unaccented as it begins the pāda, P. 8-1-18/19 does not apply), rādhas (rādh +

21. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numerals are as read and agree with the standard numbering where I could compare; the line beginning aci śnudhātv... is partly unclear [?].

asun), asmān (asmad + śas; śaso 'ta ... ā for the end of asmad by P. 7-2-87 dvitīyāyām ca; śasaḥ na by P. 7-1-29 śaso na; ādeḥ parasya P. 1-1-54 so the n replaces the s; saṃyogāntasya lopah P. 8-2-23 drops the s — asmān), jigyusaḥ (liṭ, kvasu by P. 3-2-107 kvasuś ca; doubling P. 6-1-8; iṭ would come by P. 7-2-67 vasv ekājādghasām optionally, barred where the root is not one that kryādi bars [as read]; saṃprasāraṇa of vas before śas by P. 6-4-131 vaso saṃprasāraṇam; bha-name by P. 1-4-18; halaḥ; yaṇādeśa by P. 6-4-82; ṣatva by P. 8-3-59; visarga; su jigyusaḥ kṛtam with the s of jigyusaḥ before k — the Kannada discusses the visarga and the s in the Saṃhitā text jigyusaskṛtam — by P. 8-3-35/40 kaskādiṣu ca... śas retained [as read]), and kṛtam (ḍukṛñ karāṇe; loṭ; loṭo laṇvat P. 3-4-85; thas → tam P. 3-4-101; śap with the tanādi's u by P. 3-1-79 tanādikṛñbhya uḥ — barred in the Veda by sarve vidhayaś chandasi vikalpyante, whence kṛtam; wholly unaccented by P. 8-1-28). ॥7॥ ²²

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा (indrāvaruṇā) — O Indra and Varuṇa | वाम् (vām) — both of you | अहम् (aham) — I (the performer of the rite) | चित्राय (citrāya) — of various kinds (thunderbolt, jewels and the like) | राधसे (rādhase) — for wealth | हुवे (huve) — I invoke | अस्मान् (asmān) — us (the performers) | सु जिग्युषः (su jigyusaḥ) — those who are well endowed with victory | कृतम् (kṛtam) — make.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra and Varuṇa! I praise you with hymns and invoke you. Give us various kinds of wealth, such as the thunderbolt and the like, and make us victorious over our enemies.

॥ English Translation ॥

22. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

Indra and Varuna, I invoke you for several kinds of wealth ;
make us victorious (over our enemies).

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा (indrāvaruṇā)

— though the last letter of this word is long, it is shortened in the Saṃhitā for the sake of the metre. As in this, so in the 1st and 8th [as printed: "८, ८३९"] riks of this sūkta, the last letter of this word is short in the Saṃhitā.

चित्राय (citrāya)

— the commentator says "of various kinds, in the form of jewels, pearls and so on". Rather than saying so, it would be more natural to say "various forms of wealth: cattle, food and other useful kinds of wealth". In that age, one may say, the need for cows, food, victory over enemies and the like was greater than for jewels and pearls.

जिग्युषः (jigyūṣaḥ) — ji jaye; śatruviṣaye suṣṭhu jayayuktān: those who have the power to conquer enemies.

original pp. 740–742

Sūkta 17, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रावरुण नू नु वां सिषासन्तीषु धीष्वा । अस्मभ्यं शर्म यच्छतम् ॥८॥

*indrāvaruṇa nū nu vāṃ siṣāsantīṣu dhīṣv ā | asmabhyam
śarma yacchatam || 8 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा । नु । नु । वाम् । सिषासन्तीषु । धीषु । आ ॥ अस्मभ्यम् । शर्म । यच्छतम् ॥८॥

*indrāvaruṇā | nu | nu | vām | siṣāsantīṣu | dhīṣu | ā ||
asmabhyam | śarma | yacchatam || 8 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा हे इन्द्रावरुणौ धीष्वस्मदीयबुद्धिषु वां युवां सिषासन्तीषु सनितुं संभक्तुं सम्यक्
 सेवितुमिच्छन्तीषु तदानीमा सर्वतोऽस्मभ्यं शर्म सुखं नू नु आशिषेन [?] क्षिप्रं यच्छतम् । दत्तम्
 । षट्त्रिंशत्सङ्ख्याकेषु क्षिप्रनामसु नु पठितम् । तस्य द्विरावृतेर्बहुशीघ्रत्वम् [?] ॥ इन्द्रावरुणा
 । उक्तम् । नू नु । ऋचि तुनुधमक्षुतङ्कुत्रोरुष्याणाम् । पा. [६-३-१३३] । इति पूर्वस्य
 दीर्घत्वम् । सिषासन्तीषु । वन षण सम्भक्तौ । धात्वादेः षः सः । इच्छार्थे सन् । द्विर्वचनम् ।
 हलादिः शेषः । सन्यतः । इत्वम् । आदेशप्रत्यययोः । पा. [८-३-५९] । षत्वम् । सनीवन्तर्धभ्रस्जदम्भुश्रिस्वयूर्णुभरज्ञपिसनाम् । पा. [७-२-४९] । इडागमो विकल्पः । ...
 जनसनखनां सञ्जलोः । पा. [६-४-४२] । ... सिषास सेनाद्यन्ता धातवः । पा. [३-१-३२] ।
 ... लटः शतृ । कर्तरि शप् । अतो गुणे । पररूपम् । उगितश्च । पा. [४-१-६] । डीप् ।
 शप्श्यनोर्नित्यम् । पा. [७-१-८९] । नुमागमः । मिदचोऽन्त्यात्परः । पा. [१-१-४७] । जीप्
 शप् एतौ पित्वादनुदात्तौ । ... धीषु । ध्यै चिन्तायाम् । ध्यायतेः संप्रसारणं च । पा.
 [३-२-१७८] । क्विप् संप्रसारणम् । ... अस्मभ्यम् । अस्मभ्यमप्रतिष्मृतः । ऋ. सं. [१-२-६] । इत्यत्रोक्तम् । यच्छतम् । दाण् दाने । शपि पाप्मेत्यादिना यच्छादेशः ॥८॥ *indrāvaruṇā he indrāvaruṇau dhīṣv asmādīya-buddhiṣu vām yuvām siṣāsantiṣu sanituṃ saṃbhaktuṃ samyak sevituṃ icchantīṣu tadānīm ā sarvato 'smabhyam śarma sukham nū nu āśiṣena [?] kṣipram yacchatam | dattam | ṣaṭtriṃśatsaṅkhyākeṣu kṣipra-nāmasu nu paṭhitam | tasya dvir āvṛtter

 bahu-sīghratvam [?] | | indrāvaruṇā | uktam | nū nu | ṛci
 tunu-ghamakṣu-taṅ-kutro-ruṣyāṇām | pā. [6-3-133] | iti
 pūrvasya dīrghatvam | siṣāsantiṣu | vana ṣaṇa sambhaktau |
 dhātuvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ | icchārthe san | dvirvacanam | halādiḥ
 śeṣaḥ | san-yataḥ | itvam | ādeśa-pratyayayoḥ | pā. [8-3-59] |
 ṣatvam | sanīvantar-dha-bhras-ja-dambhu-śrī-svṛ-yū-ūrṇu-bhara-jñapi-sanām | pā. [7-2-49] | idāgamo vikalpaḥ | ...
 janasanakhanām sañjhaloḥ | pā. [6-4-42] | ... siṣāsa senādy-
 antā dhātavaḥ | pā. [3-1-32] | ... laṭaḥ ṣaṭṛ | kartari śap | ato
 guṇe | pararūpam | ugitaś ca | pā. [4-1-6] | ṇīp | śap-śyanor
 nityam | pā. [7-1-81] | numāgamah | mid-aco 'ntyāt paraḥ |
 pā. [1-1-47] | jīp śap etau pīttvād anudāttau | ... dhīṣu | dhyai
 cintāyām | dhyāyateḥ saṃprasāraṇam ca | pā. [3-2-178] |*

ñnityādir nityam, as the san is nit; the same accent remains in the locative plural, siṣāsantīṣu), dhīṣu (dhyai cintāyām; dhyāyater saṃprasāraṇaṃ ca P. 3-2-178 gives kvip and saṃprasāraṇa in the Veda; saṃprasāraṇāc ca P. 6-1-108 pūrvarūpa → dhi; halaḥ P. 6-4-2 lengthens → dhī; locative plural sup; ṣatva by P. 8-3-59; the ending accented by P. 6-1-168 sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ), asmabhyam (explained at Rik 1.2.6 [print: "R. Saṃ. 1-2-6"]), and yacchatam (dāṇ dāne; loḥ; loṭo laṇvat; tasthasthamipām...; ṣap; pāghrādhmā... P. 7-3-78 gives yaccha; tam). ||8|| ²⁴

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा (indrāvaruṇā) — O Indra and Varuṇa | धीषु (dhīṣu) — [our] minds | वाम् (vām) — you two | सिषासन्तीषु (siṣāsantīṣu) — those wishing to serve | अस्मभ्यम् (asmabhyam) — to us | आ (ā) — from all sides | शर्म (śarma) — happiness | नू नु (nū nu) — very quickly | यच्छतम् (yacchatam) — give.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra and Varuṇa! Our minds are always devoted to serving you; that is, we are constantly serving you. Therefore, be gracious and grant us comfort in every way.

॥ English Translation ॥

Indra and Varuna, quickly bestow happiness upon us, for our minds are devoted to you both.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

नू नु (nū nu) — among the thirty-six words of the group meaning "quick" beginning with manaḥ [the print reads "मंष्णु"], nu is read (Ni. [2-15?]); so nu means "quickly". Here the word nu is repeated,

24. Numerals as read; pointers only.

and so it means "very quickly, without even a little delay". For the sake of the metre the first nu is lengthened. Besides this, Yāska gives a few more meanings of nu:

नु इत्येषोऽनेककर्मा । इदं नु करिष्यतीति हेत्वपदेशे । अथाप्युपमार्थे भवति ॥ (नि. [१-४]) nu ity eṣo 'neka-karmā | idaṃ nu kariṣyatīti hetv-apadeśe |
athāpy upamārthe bhavati || (ni. [1-4])

"This nu has many senses: in idaṃ nu kariṣyati ['he will surely do this'] it is a statement of reason; and it also has the sense of comparison." The Kannada gives an example of the last: vṛkṣasya nu te (Ṛ. Saṃ. [6-3-5?]) — "like a tree's [...]" (the rest of the example is cut off at the foot of p. 741).

सिषासन्तीषु धीषु (siṣāsantīṣu dhīṣu)

— "our minds or intellects have an eagerness to serve you; they long for it". Here the locative is used in the sense of the nominative; such use is found especially in the Vedic Sanskrit.

original pp. 743–746

Sūkta 17, Rik 9 (last rik of the sūkta)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

प्र वामश्नोतु सुष्टुतिरिन्द्रावरुण यां हुवे । यामृधाथे सधस्तुतिम् ॥९॥ pra vām aśnotu suṣṭutir indrāvaruṇa yāṃ huve | yām ṛdhāthe sadhastutim || 9 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²⁵

प्र । वाम् । अश्नोतु । सुऽस्तुतिः । इन्द्रावरुणा । याम् । हुवे ॥ याम् । ऋधाथे इति ।
 सधऽस्तुतिम् ॥९॥

25. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The print has su-stutiḥ in the Pada, though the Saṃhitā has suṣṭutiḥ, as the conjoint form.

*pra | vām | aśnotu | su-stutiḥ | indrāvaruṇā | yām | huve | |
yām | ṛdhāthe iti | sadha-stutim | |9| |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्रावरुणा हे इन्द्रावरुणौ यामस्मत्कर्तृकां शोभनस्तुतिं प्रति हुवे । युवामुभावाह्वयामि । किंच सधस्तुतिं युवयोरुभयोः साहित्येन क्रियमाणायाः स्तवनक्रियाया यां सुष्ठुतिं प्रतिलब्ध्वा ऋध्वाथे युवां वर्ध्वाथे । तादृशी सुष्ठुतिः शोभनस्तुतिहेतुभूता वा ऋक्स्वनूहो वामश्नोतु । युवां व्याप्नोतु ॥ अश्नोतु । अशू व्याप्तौ । लोटो व्यत्ययेन तिप् । स्वादिभ्यः श्नुः । सुष्ठुतिः । न विन्दे अस्य सुष्ठुतिम् । ऋ. सं. [१-२-२] । इत्यत्रोक्तम् । इन्द्रावरुणा । हुवे । उक्ते । अत्र तु यद्वृत्तयोगान्न निघातः । ऋध्वाथे । ऋधु वृद्धौ । लट् । व्यत्ययेनात्मनेपदम् । मध्यमद्विवचने श्नोर्बहुलं छन्दसीति लुक् । प्रत्ययस्वरेणाकार उदात्तः । यजब्धोगान्न निघातः । सधस्तुतिम् । सह स्तुतिर्यस्यां सुष्ठुतौ सा सधस्तुतिः । अत्र सुष्ठुतिरित्यन्यपदार्थे स्तुतिशब्दस्य स्नूयते ऽनयेति करणसाधनत्वेन ऋक्स्वरत्नेऽयं स्तुतिशब्दो भावसाधनतया स्तवनक्रियापरः । ... सहेत्यत्र हकारस्य व्यत्ययेन धकारः । सहशब्द एवमादित्वादन्तोदात्तः । बहुव्रीहित्वेन पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥९॥ *indrāvaruṇā he indrāvaruṇau yām asmat-kartṛkām śobhanastutim prati huve | yuvām ubhāv āhvayāmi | kiṃ ca sadhastutim yuvayor ubhayoḥ sāhityena kriyamāṇāyāḥ stavana-kriyāyā yām suṣṭutim pratilabdhvā ṛdhāthe yuvām vardhāthe | tādrśī suṣṭutiḥ śobhana-stuti-hetu-bhūtā vā ṛksv

anūho vām aśnotu | yuvām vyāpnotu | | aśnotu | aśū vyāptau
| loṭo vyatyayena tip | svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ | suṣṭutiḥ | na vinde asya suṣṭutim | ṛ. saṃ. [1-2-2] | ity atroktam | indrāvaruṇā |
huve | ukte | atra tu yad-vṛtta-yogān na nighātaḥ | ṛdhāthe |
ṛdhu vṛddhau | laṭ | vyatyayenātmanepadam | madhyamadvivacane śnor bahulaṃ chandasīti luk | pratyaya-svarenākāra udāttaḥ | yaj-ab-yogān na nighātaḥ |
sadhastutim | saha stutir yasyām suṣṭutau sā sadhastutiḥ |
atra suṣṭutir ity anya-padārthe stuti-śabdasya snūyate 'neti karaṇa-sādhanaatvena ṛk-svaratne 'yam stuti-śabdo bhāvasādhanaatayā stavana-kriyā-paraḥ | ... saheti hakārasya
vyatyayena dhakāraḥ | saha-śabda evam-ādittvād antodāttaḥ
| bahuvrīhitvena pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | |9| |*

Translation: "O Indra and Varuṇa! To that suṣṭuti — good praise — made by us, I invoke you both. Further, that good praise which is a sadhastuti — a praise made by both of you jointly (saha) — having received which you two grow (ṛdhāthe): may such a good praise, or [the ṛk verses that are] the cause of good praise, reach you (aśnotu, 'pervade')." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: aśnotu (aś "to pervade", loṭ with tip by vyatyaya; śnu of the svādi class); suṣṭutiḥ (explained at Rik 1.2.2); huve (as above; here, because of the relative yām, the verb is not made unaccented); ṛdhāthe (ṛdh "to grow", laṭ with the ātmanepada by vyatyaya; the śnu dropped; accent on the ā of the suffix); sadhastutim ("that good praise in which the stuti is joint"; the word stuti here is the abstract ktin — the act of praising — while in suṣṭutiḥ it is taken as the instrument [stūyate 'nayā' 'by which one praises', the ṛk]; saha with dh for h by vyatyaya; the compound keeps the accent of the first member).

Grammar pages (pp. 745–746 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: aśnotu (aśū vyāptau is anudāttet, so it would take the ātmanepada by P. 1-3-12 anudāttaṇita ātmanepadam; but "variously" vyatyayo bahulam P. 3-1-85 gives parasmaipada tip; svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ P. 3-1-73; aś + nu + ti, guṇa by P. 7-3-84, iko yaṇ... eruḥ P. 3-4-86 gives u for the i of ti in the imperative: aśnotu), suṣṭutiḥ (explained at 1.2.2 [print: "Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-2-2"]), indrāvaruṇā, huve (see the same sūkta, Rik 1: the verb is not unaccented since it begins the pāda; here, since the relative yām precedes, P. 8-1-66 yadvṛttān nityam bars the loss of accent), ṛdhāthe (ṛdhu vṛddhau; laṭ; ātmanepada by vyatyaya; third dual ātām → āthām for the second dual; ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e P. 3-4-79; śnā/śnu dropped by bahulam chandasi P. 2-4-73; ādyudāttaś ca P. 3-1-3 accents the first vowel of the suffix, so the ā of āthe; since yām precedes, no loss of accent by yadvṛttān nityam), and sadhastutim (saha stutir yasyām sā, a bahuvrīhi by P. 2-2-24 anekam anyapadārthe, defined as one in which the sense is that of another word than those compounded; the Kannada notes the problem whether stuti can be a word of "another sense", and answers: stuti in the compound is the instrument-sense ktin meaning "the ṛk by which one praises", while in the bahuvrīhi sadhastuti, which is a feminine abstract form, it means "the act of praising"; hence the word of the compound is different in sense from the independent word; saha has dha for ha by vyatyaya [a Vedic licence]; end-accent for saha by the Phiṭ-sūtra vivādīnām antaḥ [Phiṭ 4-[?]]; the bahuvrīhi keeps the accent of its first member by P. 6-2-1). ॥9॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रावरुण (indrāvaruṇa) — O Indra and Varuṇa | याम् (yām) — which praise of ours | हुवे (huve) — I invoke [you two with that praise] | (अथ) याम् ((atha) yām) — and which | सधस्तुतिम् (sadhastutim) — joint praise [of you two] | ऋधाथे (ṛdhāthe) — you who are pleased and grow by receiving | सुष्टुतिः (suṣṭutiḥ) — that excellent praise [the group of verses] | वाम् अश्नोतु (vām aśnotu) — may it reach you.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Indra and Varuṇa! I invoke you separately with praise; sometimes I invoke you both together and praise you. May you both be pleased with such praises.

॥ English Translation ॥

May the earnest praise which I offer to Indra and Varuna reach you both ; and may you fulfil that prayer addressed to you both.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

अश्नोतु (aśnotu) — vyāpnotu: "may the praise we make reach you; may it be pleasing to you".

ऋधाथे (ṛdhāthe) — rdhu vrddhau "to grow": vardhethām: "you two, may you be pleased with, and praise, the hymn we make, and thereby become satisfied" — such senses may be given.

सधस्तुतिम् (sadhastutim) — saha stutir yasyām suṣṭutau sā sadhastutiḥ: the praise made by joining the two together; the hymn which praises the two deities, Indra and Varuṇa, together.

Close of Sūkta 17.

The grammar of Rik 9 ends at the head of p. 746, followed by an ornament and the heading of Sūkta 18; the print has no large colophon here either.

॥ ಹದಿನೆಂಟನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 18 —
"somānaṃ svarāṇaṃ kṛṇuhi" ("The Eighteenth Sūkta"; first sūkta of the Fifth Anuvāka)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta; printed p. 746, lower half)

ಪೞ್ಮೇಽನುವಾಕೇ ಷಡ್ ಸೂಕ್ತಾನಿ । ತತ್ರ ಸೋಮಾನಮಿತ್ಯಾದಿಕಂ ನವರ್ದಂ ಪ್ರಥಮಂ ಸೂಕ್ತಮ್ । ಋಷಿಛಂದಸೀ
ಪೂರ್ವತ್ । ದೇವತಾವಿಶೇಷಸ್ತೇವಮನುಕ್ರಮ್ಯತೇ । ಸೋಮಾನಮಿತಿ ಪೞ್ಮ ಬ್ರಾಹ್ಮಣಸ್ಪತ್ಯಶ್ಚತುರ್ಥ್ಯಾಮಿನ್ದ್ರಶ್ಚ ಸೋಮಶ್ಚ
ಪೞ್ಮಮ್ಯಾಂ ದಕ್ಷಿಣಾ ಚಾನ್ಯಾಃ ಸಾದಸಸ್ಪತ್ಯಾ ನಾರಾಶಂಸೀ ವಾನ್ತೀತಿ । ಸೂಕ್ತಗತಾ ಆದ್ಯಾಃ ಪೞ್ಮರ್ದೋ
ಬ್ರಾಹ್ಮಣಸ್ಪತಿ ದೇವತಾಕಾಃ । ತಾಸಾಂ ಮಧ್ಯೇ ಸ ಘಾ ವೀರ ಇತ್ಯೇತಸ್ಯಾಶ್ಚತುರ್ಥ್ಯಾ ಋರ್ದೋ ಬ್ರಾಹ್ಮಣಸ್ಪತಿರಿನ್ದ್ರಶ್ಚ
ಸೋಮಶ್ಚೇತಿ ತಿಸ್ರೋ ದೇವತಾಃ । ತ್ವಂ ತಮಿತ್ಯೇತಸ್ಯಾಃ ಪೞ್ಮಮ್ಯಾ ದಕ್ಷಿಣಯಾ ಸಹ ಪೂರ್ವೋಕ್ತಾಸ್ತಿಸ್ರೋ ದೇವತಾಃ ।
ಷಠೈಮಾರಭ್ಯ ತಿಸ್ಸೃಣಾಂ ಸದಸಸ್ಪತಿರ್ದೇವತಾ । ನರಾಶಂಸಮಿತ್ಯೇತಸ್ಯಾ ನವಮ್ಯಾಃ ಸದಸಸ್ಪತಿರ್ನರಾಶಂಸೋ ವಾ ವಿಕಲ್ಪ್ಯತೇ ॥ ವಿನಿಯೋಗಸ್ತು ಪೂರ್ವತ್ ॥

pañcame 'nuvāke ṣaṭ sūktāni | tatra somānaṃ ity-ādikaṃ
navarcaṃ prathamam sūktam | ṛṣi-chandasī pūrvavat |
devatā-viśeṣas tv evaṃ anukramyate | somānaṃ iti pañca brāhmaṇaspatyaś caturthyām indraś ca somaś ca pañcamyām dakṣiṇā cānyāḥ sādasaṣpatyā nārāśaṃsī vāntyeti | sūkta-gatā
ādyāḥ pañcarco brahmaṇaspati-devatākāḥ | tāsāṃ madhye sa ghā vīra ity etasyāś caturthyā rco brahmaṇaspatir indraś ca somaś ceti tisro devatāḥ | tvaṃ tam ity etasyāḥ pañcamyā
dakṣiṇayā saha pūrvoktās tisro devatāḥ | ṣaṣṭhīm ārabhya

*tisṛṇām sadasas-patir devatā | narāśaṃsam ity etasyā
navamyāḥ sadasaspatir narāśaṃso vā vikalpyate | | viniyogas
tu pūrvavat | |*

Translation: "In the fifth anuvāka there are six sūktas. Of them the first is the nine-rik sūkta beginning somānam; its ṛṣi and meter are as before [Medhātithi Kāṇva; Gāyatrī]. The particular deities are stated in the Anukramaṇikā thus: 'the five [riks] somānam... are to Brahmaṇaspati; in the fourth [Rik 4] Indra and Soma [also]; in the fifth, Dakṣiṇā [also]; the others are to Sadasaspati; the last is to Narāśaṃsa [or Sadasaspati].' The first five riks of the sūkta have Brahmaṇaspati for their deity; among them the fourth, sa ghā vīraḥ, has three deities — Brahmaṇaspati, Indra and Soma; the fifth, tvaṃ tam, has Dakṣiṇā together with the previous three [Brahmaṇaspati, Indra, Soma]. From the sixth the three riks [6–8] have Sadasaspati for deity; for the ninth, narāśaṃsam, Sadasaspati or Narāśaṃsa — a choice. Its application is as before."¹

|| Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) || With this sūkta the fifth anuvāka begins; it contains six sūktas. The first is the nine-rik sūkta somānam. The ṛṣi and meters are as in the preceding sūkta. The Anukramaṇikā gives the deities thus: the first three riks to Brahmaṇaspati; the fourth to Brahmaṇaspati, Indra and Soma; the fifth to Brahmaṇaspati and Dakṣiṇā; riks 6 to 8 to Sadasaspati; the ninth to Sadasaspati or, optionally, Narāśaṃsa. The application is as before.

original pp. 747–754

Sūkta 18, Rik 1

|| ॐ ||

1. The print's wording of the Anukramaṇikā quotation is slightly compressed, and my rendering of its last clause sādasaspatyā nārāśaṃsī vāntyā follows the Kannada's gloss.

॥ Sūkta — 18 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 5 ॥ Sūkta — 18 ॥ ॥
 Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 34, 35 [?] ॥ ² ॥ Mantras
 contained in this sūkta: 1–9 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva ॥ ॥ Devatā — 1–3: Brahmanaspati; 4: Brahmanaspati, Indra and Soma; 5: Brahmanaspati and Dakṣiṇā; 6–8: Sadasaspati; 9:
 Sadasaspati or Narāśaṃsa ॥ ³ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सोमानं स्वरणं कृणुहि ब्रह्मणस्पते । कक्षीवन्तं य औशिजः ॥१॥

*somānaṃ svarāṇaṃ kṛṇuhi brahmaṇas pate | kakṣīvantam ya
 auśijah || 1 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁴

सोमानम् । स्वरणम् । कृणुहि । ब्रह्मणः । पते ॥ कक्षीवन्तम् । यः । औशिजः ॥१॥

*somānam | svarāṇam | kṛṇuhi | brahmaṇah | pate | |
 kakṣīvantam | yah | auśijah || 1 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ ⁵

हे ब्रह्मणस्पते वितन्नामकदेव [?] सोमानमभिषवस्य कर्तारं मामनुष्ठातारं स्वरणं देवेषु
 प्रकाशनवन्तं कृणुहि । कुरु । अत्र दृष्टान्तः । कक्षीवन्तमेतन्नामकमृषिम् । इवशब्दो
 लुप्तोपमार्थः । कक्षीवानन्यथा देवेषु प्रसिद्धस्तद्वदित्यर्थः । यः कक्षीवान्यौशिज उशिजः पुत्रः ।
 तमिवेति पूर्वत्र योजना । कक्षीवत्त्वेनाभिप्रेतोऽनुष्ठाता मुनिषु प्रसिद्ध इत्येवं पर आर्ष्टिषाणादि
 [?] । ... सोमानम् । षुज् अभिषवे । आन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यते इति मनिन् । ... स्वरणम् ।
 प्रख्यातम् । स्वृ शब्दोपतापयोः । कृत्यल्युटो बहुलम् । पा. [३-३-११३] । इति कर्मणि ल्युट् । लिति ... कृणुहि । कृवि हिंसाकरणयोश्च । इदितो नुम् धातोः । पा. [७-१-५८] । कृण्वि ...
 लोटः सिप् । सेह्यपिच । पा. [३-४-८७] । हिः । शपि प्राप्ते धिन्विकृण्व्योर च । पा.

2. small-print Kannada digits, read at 150 dpi: "३५, ३५";

unconfirmed

3. as printed; the Kannada numerals of the rik numbers are small and partly read from context

4. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later rikhs of this volume.

5. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings

[३-१-८०] । इत्युप्रत्ययः ... ब्रह्मणः पते । षष्ठ्याः पतिपुत्रपृष्ठपारपदपयस्योषेषु । पा.
 [८-३-५३] । इति विसर्गस्य सकारः । ... कक्षीवन्तम् । कक्षे भवा कक्ष्या ... मतुप् ...
 आसन्दीवदष्टीवच्चक्रीवत्कक्षीवद्रुमण्वच्चर्मण्वतीति । पा. [८-२-१२] निपातितः ... औशिजः । वश कान्तौ । ... उशिजः अपत्यम् । पा. [४-१-८३] । अण् । आदिवृद्धिः । ॥१॥

*he brahmaṇaspate vitan-nāmaka-deva [?] somānam abhiṣavasya kartāraṃ mām anuṣṭhātāraṃ svarāṇaṃ deveṣu prakāśanavantaṃ kṛṇuhi | kuru | atra dṛṣṭāntaḥ |
 kakṣīvantam etan-nāmakam ṛṣim | iva-śabdō luptopamārthaḥ
 | kakṣīvān anyathā deveṣu prasiddhas tadvad ity arthaḥ | yaḥ kakṣīvān yausīja usījaḥ putraḥ | tam iveti pūrvatra yojanā | kakṣīvattvenābhipreto 'nuṣṭhātā muniṣu prasiddha ity evaṃ
 para āṛṣṭiṣāṇādi [?] | ... somānam | ṣuñ abhiṣave | ānyebhyo
 'pi dṛśyate iti manin | ... svarāṇam | prakhyātam | svr
 śabdopatāpayoḥ | kṛtyalyuṭo bahulam | pā. [3-3-113] | iti
 karmaṇi lyuṭ | liti ... kṛṇuhi | kṛvi hiṃsākaraṇayoś ca | idito
 num dhātoḥ | pā. [7-1-58] | kṛṇvi ... loṭaḥ sip | ser hy apic ca |
 pā. [3-4-87] | hiḥ | śapi prāpte dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca | pā.
 [3-1-80] | ity u-pratyayaḥ ... brahmaṇaḥ pate | ṣaṣṭhyāḥ
 patiputrapṛṣṭhapārapadapayaspoṣeṣu | pā. [8-3-53] | iti
 visargasya sakāraḥ | ... kakṣīvantam | kakṣe bhavā kakṣyā ...
 matup ... āsandīvad-aṣṭhīvac-cakrīvat-kakṣīvad-rumaṇvac-carmaṇvatīti | pā. [8-2-12] nīpātitaḥ ... auśījaḥ | vaśa kāntau |
 ... uśījaḥ apatyam | pā. [4-1-83] | aṇ | ādivṛddhiḥ | | 1 | |*

Translation: "O Brahmaṇaspati [the first words read as vitān-nāmaka-deva — "god named ..." — which I cannot resolve [?]]! Make me, the performer, who am the pressing-out of soma (somānam), svarāṇam — renowned (shining) among the gods. Here is an example: the ṛṣi named Kakṣīvān — [the particle iva, 'like', is dropped] — that is: 'as Kakṣīvān is famed among the gods, so [make me]'; [that Kakṣīvān is] the one who is auśīja, the son of Uśij. 'Like him' is to be joined to the earlier [words]. [The next sentence, about the performer meant by the word kakṣīvat being famed among sages, is partly unclear to me.]" The rest is grammar, noted briefly: somānaṃ (su "to press", the manin suffix "also seen with other roots"); svaraṇaṃ (svṛ "to sound, to heat"; lyuṭ in the object sense by P. 3-3-113 kṛtyalyuṭo bahulam); kṛṇuhi (kṛvi "to hurt, to do", num by P. 7-1-58; loṭ, si → hi by P. 3-4-87; u in place of śap by P. 3-1-80 dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca); brahmaṇaḥ pate (visarga → s by P. 8-3-53 ṣaṣṭhyāḥ patiputrapṛṣṭhapārapadapayaspoṣeṣu); kakṣīvantam (kakṣya + matup, with the nipātana of P. 8-2-12 āsandīvadaṣṭhīvaccakrīvāt kakṣīvad rumaṇvac carmaṇvatī); auśijaḥ (uśij's descendant, aṇ, P. 4-1-83, vṛddhi).⁶

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) ब्रह्मणस्पते ((he) brahmaṇaspate) — O Brahmaṇaspati | यः (yah) — who | औशिजः (auśijaḥ) — the son of Uśij (or Uśik) | कक्षीवन्तम् (kakṣīvantam) — [like] the ṛṣi Kakṣivān | सोमानम् (somānaṃ) — the one who presses out the soma-juice [me, the sacrificer] | स्वरणम् (svaraṇaṃ) — [make] renowned among the gods, or full of brahmavarcas | कृणुहि (kṛṇuhi) — make.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Kakṣivān, the son of Uśij, is famed among the gods as one who performed the soma sacrifice. O Brahmaṇaspati, make me also, the sacrificer, famed as a soma-performer, like that Kakṣivān.

॥ English Translation ॥⁷

O Brahmanaspati, make (me) who offer Soma juice illustrious among the gods like Kakshivan, the son of Usij.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

6. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-113, 7-1-58, 3-4-87, 8-3-53 and 8-2-12 as read agree with the standard numbering; the last two lines of the bhāṣya are compressed, and I give only the portions I read.

7. as printed in the source

The deity of this sūkta is Brahmanāspati. Who is this Brahmanāspati? We shall describe briefly his place among the gods. Yāska, in the Nirukta (10-[?]) discusses Brahmanāspati thus:

ब्रह्मणस्पतिः । ब्रह्मणस्पतिर्ब्रह्मणः पाता वा पालयिता वा ॥ (नि. [१०-१४]) brahmanāspatiḥ | brahmanāspatir brahmaṇaḥ pātā vā
pālayitā vā || (ni. [10-14])

Here brahman means food, wealth, or praise (Ni. [2-7]); so brahmanāspati means "the master or lord of food". How is he the lord of food? Yāska, as an example, quotes the rik

अश्माऽस्यमवतं ब्रह्मणस्पतिर्मधुधारमभि यमोजसातृणत् । तमेव विश्वे पपिरे स्वर्दृशो बहु साकं सिसिचुरुत्समुद्रिणम् ॥ (ऋ. सं. [२-२४-४]) aśmāsyam avataṃ brahmanāspatir madhudhāram abhi yam ojasātrṇat | tam eva viśve papire swardrśo bahu sākaṃ sisicur utsam udriṇam || (ṛ.
saṃ. [2-24-4])

and then comments on it:

अशनवन्तमास्यन्तनवन्तमुदाकृतं ब्रह्मणस्पतिर्मधुधारमभियमोजसा बलेनाभ्यतृणत् तमेव सर्वे पिबन्ति रश्मयः सूर्यदृशो बहेनं सह सिञ्चन्त्युत्समुद्रिणमुदकवन्तम् ॥ (नि. [१०-१५]) aśanavantam āsyantanavantam udākṛtaṃ brahmanāspatir madhudhāram abhiyam ojasā balenābhyatrṇat tam eva sarve pibanti raśmayāḥ sūryadrśo bahv enaṃ saha siñcanty utsam udriṇam udakavantam || (ni. [10-15])

⁸ the principal idea is that this Brahmanāspati, with the help of the sun's rays, drinks the clouds' [water] and makes it fall abundantly on the earth as rain; and by rain the herbs and trees, and with them food and the like, are obtained; therefore Brahmanāspati is "the protector of food". When brahman is taken

8. The two Sanskrit passages are given from small print at 150 dpi; the R̥gveda verse and Yāska's comment have several doubtful words, which I give as read; I do not translate Yāska's comment word for word, but its sense, as the Kannada gives it, is:

to mean praise or wealth, Brahmaṇaspati is the lord of praise or of wealth. The commentator also quotes this same rik in explaining it.

The mantras addressed to Brahmaṇaspati are numerous in the Ṛgveda. In them Brahmaṇaspati is said to give wealth and food. Many are in doubt whether this Brahmaṇaspati is a separate deity or a changed form of Agni. Some argue that since Agni and other deities also give wealth and food, Brahmaṇaspati is some special form of Agni. Yāska keeps silent on this point; he says nothing clearly. In the riks addressed to Brahmaṇaspati there is no ground enough to call this deity a form of Agni. So one may say with confidence that Brahmaṇaspati is a distinct deity, like Indra and Agni.

सोमानम् (somānam) — abhiṣavasya kartāram: one who has prepared the soma-juice — [that is, the sacrificer] me.

स्वरणम् (svarāṇam) — deveṣu prakāśanavāntam; prakhyātam: famous among the gods, renowned.

कक्षीवन्तम्, औशिजः (kakṣīvantam, auśijah) — Kakṣīvān the ṛṣi was the son of Uśij, born of a woman called Uśik. It is said in the Purāṇas and elsewhere that this Uśik was a maid-servant of the queen of the king of Kaliṅga; the king, wishing for a son, sent his wife to the ṛṣi Dīrghatamas; the queen, unwilling, secretly sent her maid Uśik instead, and from Dīrghatamas this Kakṣīvān was born. Though born of a kṣatriya woman [a servant], through connection with a brahmin he is famed as a brahmin. This ṛṣi has been seen [as the seer] of many riks in the Ṛgveda. That this ṛṣi Kakṣīvān was famed among those who perform sacrificial rites is stated in the Taittirīya Saṃhitā [5-6-5-3? — the print's numerals "३-६-३-३" are read with a query]:

एवं वै पर आट्णारः कक्षीवाँ औशिजो वीतहव्यः श्रायसस्सदस्युः पौरुकुत्स्यः प्रजाकामा आचिन्वत ॥ evaṃ vai para āṭṇāraḥ kakṣīvāṃ auśijo vītahavyaḥ
śrāyasaś sadasyuḥ paurukutsyaḥ prajākāmā ācinvata | |

— "Thus indeed did Para Āṭṇāra, Kakṣivān the son of Uśij, Vītahavya Śrāyasa and Sadasyu Paurukutsya, desiring offspring, make the fire-altar" [the Sanskrit is as read, and the translation is mine and tentative]. Hence this ṛṣi is very famous both in making mantras and in performing sacrificial rites. Medhātithi, the ṛṣi of this sūkta, prays to the deity Brahmanaspati to make him, too, famed like this man.

Grammar pages (pp. 751–754 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: somānam (suñ abhiṣave; dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; the manin suffix by P. 3-2-75 anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante; ñit by the nit rule so first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197 [barred by some: the Kannada notes the suffix accent also applies, so somān may be end-accented by P. 6-1-163; the uñjvaladi list [uñādi?] with ūḍhaṃ ... P. 6-1-163; the conclusion is end accent for somān]), svaraṇam (svr śabdopatāpayoḥ; kṛtyalyuṭo bahulam P. 3-3-113 gives lyuṭ in the object sense; yuvor anākau P. 7-1-1 gives ana; guṇa and raparatva P. 1-1-51; raṣābhyāṃ no ṇaḥ samānapade P. 8-4-1 gives ṇ; the accent before lit suffix P. 6-1-193), kṛṇuhi (kṛvi himsākaraṇayoś ca; idito num dhātoḥ P. 7-1-58; kṛṇv + loṭ; sip → hi P. 3-4-87; u for śap by P. 3-1-80 dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca, which also makes v → a; the ut of P. 6-4-106 uto vṛddhir... and utaś ca pratyayād asaṃyogapūrvāt P. 6-4-106 would drop the hi's u — utaś ca pratyayāc chandasi vā vacanam P. 6-4-106 [as read] makes this optional in the Veda, so the dropping does not happen; the verb is unaccented but pādādaḥ ca — as it is at the start of the second pāda — it is not so by P. 8-1-19), brahmaṇaḥ pate (ṣaṣṭhyāḥ patiputra... P. 8-3-53 gives s; pate is a vocative treated as parāṅgavat, so P. 8-1-72/73 āmantritasya ca leaves both words unaccented), kakṣivantam (kakṣe bhavā kakṣyā — bhave chandasi P. 4-4-110 gives yat, ṭap in the feminine; kakṣyā asya asti — tad asyāsty asmin P. 5-2-94 gives matup; the nipātana by P. 8-2-12 āsandīvad...kakṣīvat... — saṃprasāraṇa [kakṣyā → kakṣī] is declared by the nipātana; saṃprasāraṇāc ca P. 6-1-108; halaḥ P. 6-4-2 lengthens; chandasīraḥ P. 8-2-15 gives va for the ma of matup; ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ P. 7-1-70 for num; the Kannada notes the Mahābhāṣya's view that saṃprasāraṇa of kakṣyā before matup was stated by Patañjali himself, and that kakṣivat is from the sūtra's inclusion), and auśijaḥ (vaś kāntau; Uṇ. 2-[?] pañeriji ādeśaś ca vaḥ [as read] and vaśeḥ kit give ij with k; grahijyāvayivyadhivaṣṭi... P. 6-1-16 gives saṃprasāraṇa; uśij + aṇ by P. 4-1-83 tasyāpatyam; taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ P. 7-2-117 vṛddhi; the ṭi dropped; auśija with suffix end-accent). ||1||⁹

original pp. 754-756

Sūkta 18, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यो रेवान्यो अमीवहा वसुवित्पुष्टिवर्धनः । स नः सिषक्तु यस्तुरः ॥२॥

*yo revān yo amīvahā vasuvit puṣṭivardhanaḥ | sa naḥ siṣaktu
yas turaḥ ||2||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥¹⁰

यः । रेवान् । यः । अमीवऽहा । वसुऽवित् । पुष्टिऽवर्धनः ॥ सः । नः । सिषक्तु । यः । तुरः ॥ २॥

*yaḥ | revān | yaḥ | amīva-hā | vasu-vit | puṣṭi-vardhanaḥ ||
saḥ | naḥ | siṣaktu | yaḥ | turaḥ ||2||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

यो ब्रह्मणस्पती रेवान्धनवांश्च अमीवहा रोगाणां हन्ता वसुवित्धनलब्धा पुष्टिवर्धनः पुष्टेर्वर्धयिता
यश्च तुरः त्वरायुक्तः शीघ्रफलदः स ब्रह्मणस्पतिर्नोऽस्मान्सिषक्तु । सेवताम् ।
परिगृह्यानुगृह्णात्वित्यर्थः । अत्र सिषक्तेः सेवार्थत्वस्य यास्क आह । सिषक्तु सचत इति
सेवमानस्य । नि. [३-१०] । इति । प्रत्ययोकारशब्दावितीति शेषः ॥ रेवान् । रयिरस्यास्तीति
मतुप् । रयेर्मतौ बहुलम् । पा. [६-१-३७ ?] । इति यकारस्य संप्रसारणं परपूर्वत्वम् । छन्दसीर

9. A crowded run of four pages; outline only; numerals as read, pointers only.

10. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.

इति वत्वम् । आद्गुणः । ... अमीवहा । अम रोग इत्येतस्माद्वप्रत्ययेनामीवशब्दो निपातितः । तं हन्तीति बहुलं छन्दसीति क्विप् । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । वसुवित् । वसु विन्दतीति वसुवित् । क्विप् च । उत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । पुष्टिवर्धनः । वर्धयतेर्नन्दादित्वाल्ल्युः । पा. [३-१-१३४] । लितीति प्रत्ययात्पूर्वस्योदात्तत्वम् । पुष्टेर्वर्धन इति कर्मणि षष्ठ्या समासः । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सिषक्तु । षच समवाये । लोटि बहुलं छन्दसीति शपः श्लुः । श्लौ द्वित्वे हलादिशेषे बहुलं छन्दसीत्यभ्यासस्याकारस्येकारः । पा. [७-४-७८] । तुरः । तुर त्वरणे । इगुपधज्ञाप्रीकिरः कः । कः प्रत्ययस्वरः ॥२॥ *yo brahmaṇaspatī revān dhanavāṃś ca amīvahā rogāṇāṃ hantā vasuvid dhana-labdhā puṣṭivardhanaḥ puṣṭer vardhayitā yaś ca turaḥ tvarāyuktaḥ śighra-phaladaḥ sa brahmaṇaspatir no 'smān siṣaktu | sevātām |

parigrhyānugrṇhātv ity arthaḥ | atra siṣakteḥ sevārthatvasya
yāśka āha | siṣaktu sacata iti sevamānasya | ni. [3-10] | iti |
pratyayokāra-śabdān iti śeṣaḥ | | revān | rayir asyāstīti matup
| rayer matau bahulam | pā. [6-1-37 ?] | iti yakārasya saṃprasāraṇaṃ parapūrvatvam | chandasīra iti vatvam | ād
guṇaḥ | ... amīvahā | ama roga ity etasmād
vapratyayenāmīva-śabdo nipātitaḥ | taṃ hantīti bahulam
chandasīti kvip | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | vasuvit | vasu vindatīti vasuvit | kvip ca | uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | puṣṭivardhanaḥ | vardhayater nandādittvāl lyuh
| pā. [3-1-134] | liti iti pratyayāt pūrvasyodāttatvam | puṣṭer vardhana iti karmaṇi ṣaṣṭhyā samāsaḥ | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | siṣaktu | śaca samavāye | loṭi bahulam
chandasīti śapaḥ śluḥ | ślau dvitve halādiśeṣe bahulam chandasīty abhyāsasyākārasyekāraḥ | pā. [7-4-78] | turaḥ | tura tvarāṇe | igupadha-jñā-prī-kiraḥ kaḥ | kaḥ pratyaya-
svaraḥ | | 2 | |*

Translation: "That Brahmanaspati who is revān — wealthy; amīvahā — the slayer of diseases; vasuvit — the finder of wealth; puṣṭivardhanaḥ — the increaser of nourishment; and who is turaḥ — swift, quick to give fruit: may that Brahmanaspati siṣaktu — attend upon (favour) us, the sense being 'having taken us up, may he show favour'. As to sac having the sense of 'serve', Yāska says: 'siṣaktu: sacate, of one who serves' (Nirukta 3-10 [?])." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: revān (rayi + matup; saṃprasāraṇa of y; va by P. 8-2-15); amīvahā (amīva, 'disease', by nīpātana from am; han + kvip); vasuvit (vid + kvip); puṣṭivardhanaḥ (lyu by P. 3-1-134 nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ; the genitive compound in the object sense); siṣaktu (sac "to be joined", loṭ, with śap replaced by ślu [reduplication] "variously in the Veda"; the vowel of the reduplicative a becomes i by P. 7-4-78); turaḥ (tur "to hasten", suffix ka by P. 3-1-135 igupadhajñāprīkirḥ kaḥ; suffix accent).¹¹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

यः (yaḥ) — which Brahmanaspati | रेवान् (revān) — [who is] wealthy | यः (yaḥ) — who | अमीवहा (amīvahā) — the remover of diseases | वसुवित् (vasuvit) — the finder of wealth | पुष्टिवर्धनः (puṣṭivardhanaḥ) — the increaser of nourishment | यः (yaḥ) — who | तुरः (turaḥ) — swift to give the fruit | सः (saḥ) — that Brahmanaspati | नः (naḥ) — us | सिषक्तु (siṣaktu) — let him serve (favour).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Brahmanaspati is greatly wealthy; he is worthy to give wealth to others; he brings increase of nourishment; and he gives fruit quickly. May such a Brahmanaspati favour us.

॥ English Translation ॥¹²

May he (Brahmanaspati) who is wealthy, the healer of disease; the acquirer of riches, increaser of nourishments, the prompt bestower of rewards be favourable to us.

11. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-1-134 and 7-4-78 as read agree with the standard numbering.

12. The print has "increaser" misspelt in the Prati-padārtha lines as "increaaser" — [sic]; I give the corrected word.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

रेवान् (revān) — rayir asyāsti iti revān: one who has wealth.

अमीवहा (amīvahā) — amī rogaḥ taṃ hantīti amīvahā: the destroyer of disease.

तुरः (turaḥ) — tvaropetaḥ śīghraphaladaḥ: one who gives fruits quickly. Though tura may mean "one who does work quickly or hurriedly", here the commentator takes it to mean one who gives quick fruit to actions.

Grammar pages (pp. 756 lower half–757 upper), noted briefly.

The Kannada treats revān (rayiḥ asya asti; tad asyāsty asminn iti matup P. 5-2-94; the sup dropped by supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ; rayer mator bahulam P. 6-1-37 [as read 6-1-37? — the Kannada gives the numerals as "६-०-३२-६"; I give it as 6-1-37 [?]] gives saṃprasāraṇa of y variously when matup follows; saṃprasāraṇāc ca P. 6-1-108 pūrvarūpa; chandasīraḥ P. 8-2-15 gives va for the ma of matup after a stem ending in i/ī or r; ād guṇaḥ P. 6-1-87 — with the scholastic question whether va [by chandasīraḥ] or guṇa [by ād guṇaḥ] comes first: since chandasīraḥ is in the eighth chapter and ād guṇaḥ in the sixth, by pūrvatrāsiddham P. 8-2-1 the earlier-chapter rule is stronger, so guṇa first; and also the antaraṅga and bahiraṅga paribhāṣās [asiddham bahiraṅgam antaraṅge] give the same result — so re + vat, with ra + i + mat → re + mat, then va; anādivac ca P. 6-1-87? [the ekādeśa is treated as the end of the former and the beginning of the latter word — hence the e is the ādi of the matup's preceding stem and vat follows]). ॥2॥ ¹³

original pp. 759–764

Sūkta 18, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

13. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read; pointers only.

मा नः शंसो अररुषो धूर्तिः प्रणङ्मर्त्यस्य । रक्षा णो ब्रह्मणस्पते ॥३॥

mā naḥ śaṃso araruṣo dhūrtiḥ praṇaṇ martyasya | rakṣā ṇo brahmaṇas pate ||3||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥¹⁴

मा । नः । शंसः । अररुषः । धूर्तिः । प्रणक् । मर्त्यस्य ॥ रक्ष । नः । ब्रह्मणः । पते ॥३॥

*mā | naḥ | śaṃsaḥ | araruṣaḥ | dhūrtiḥ | praṇak |
martyasya | | rakṣa | naḥ | brahmaṇaḥ | pate ||3||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अररुषो मर्त्यस्योपद्रवं कर्तुमस्मद्विनाशं प्राप्तस्य [?] शत्रुरूपस्य मनुष्यस्य धूर्तिर्हिंसकः शंसः शंसनम् । आक्षेप इत्यर्थः । तादृशो वाग्विशेषो नोऽस्मान्मा प्रणक् मा संपृणक्तु । शत्रुणा प्रयुक्तो विक्षेपः कदाचिदस्मान्मा प्राप्नोत्वित्यर्थः । तदर्थं हे ब्रह्मणस्पते नोऽस्मान् रक्ष । पालय ॥ मा । निपातः । शंसनम् । शंसः । भावे घञ् । जित्त्वादाद्युदात्तः । अररुषः । ऋतेराः । उ. [४-३८ ?] । इत्यन्तर्भावितण्यर्थाद् गतावित्यस्माद् अरुस् । गुणो रपरत्वम् । प्रत्ययस्वरे प्राप्ते वृषादित्वादाद्युदात्तः । धूर्तिः । धुर्वी हिंसार्थः । क्तिच् क्तौ च संज्ञायाम् । पा. [३-३-१७४] । उपधायाश्च । पा. [७-१-१०१] । इत्युपधादीर्घत्वम् । वलि लोपं बाधित्वोरि प्राप्ते । पा. [६-४-२०] । राल्लोपः । पा. [६-४-२१] । इति वकारलोपः । प्रणक् । पृची संपर्के । लङि तिप् । इतश्च । पा. [३-४-१००] । इति इकारलोपः । रुधादिभ्यः श्नम् । पा. [३-१-७८] । तस्य व्यत्ययो बहुलम् । पा. [३-१-८५] । इत्यङागमः । यणादेशः । आकारस्यागमानुदात्तत्वम् । चादिलोपे विभाषा । पा. [८-१-६३] । मर्त्यस्य । मृङ् प्राणत्यागे । ... हसिमृग्निणामिदेषिलोमपूपोर्घ्यर्भ्यस्तन् । उ. [३-८६] । तन् ... भवे छन्दसि । पा. [४-४-११०] । इति यत् । यस्येति च । तित्स्वरितम् । यतोऽनावः । पा. [६-१-२१३] । इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । रक्ष । रक्ष पालने । लोटि सिप् । सेह्वपिच्च । अतो हेः । इति लुक् । शप् पित्वाद् अनुदात्तः । धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । रक्षा णः । दृघोः ... ॥३॥

*araruṣo martyasyopadravaṃ kartum asmad-vināśaṃ prāptasya [?] śatrurūpasya manuṣyasya dhūrtir hiṃsakaḥ
śaṃsaḥ śaṃsanam | ākṣepa ity arthaḥ | tādṛšo vāg-viśeṣo no*

14. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened rakṣā, and naḥ for naḥ by the sandhi of P. 8-4-27 [as printed]; the Pada has rakṣa, naḥ.

'smān mā praṇak mā saṃpraṇaktu | śatruṇā prayukto vikṣepaḥ kadācid asmān mā prāpnotv ity arthaḥ | tad-arthaṃ he brahmaṇaspate no 'smān rakṣa | pālaya || mā | nipātaḥ |
śaṃsanam | śaṃsaḥ | bhāve ghañ | ñittvād ādyudāttaḥ |
araruṣaḥ | ṛter āruḥ | u. [4-38 ?] | ity antarbhāvita-nyarthād ṛ
gatāv ity asmād arus | guṇo raparatvam | pratyaya-svare prāpte vṛṣāditvād ādyudāttaḥ | dhūrtilḥ | dhurvī hiṃsārthaḥ |
ktic ktau ca saṃjñāyām | pā. [3-3-174] | upadhāyās ca | pā.
[7-1-101] | ity upadhā-dīrghatvam | vali lopam bādhitvori
prāpte | pā. [6-4-20] | rāllopaḥ | pā. [6-4-21] | iti vakāralopaḥ
| praṇak | prcī saṃparke | lañi tip | itas ca | pā. [3-4-100] |
iti ikāralopaḥ | rudhādibhyaḥ śnam | pā. [3-1-78] | tasya vyatyayo bahulam | pā. [3-1-85] | ity aḍāgamaḥ | yaṇādeśaḥ |
ākārasyāgamānudāttatvam | cādilope vibhāṣā | pā. [8-1-63] |
martyasya | mṛṇ prāṇatyāge | ... hasi-mṛ-gr-īṇām ideṣi-lomapūpor ghy-arbhyas tan | u. [3-86] | tan ... bhava chandasi | pā.
[4-4-110] | iti yat | yasyeti ca | tit-svaritam | yato 'nāvaḥ | pā.
[6-1-213] | ity ādyudāttatvam | rakṣa | rakṣa pālāne | loṭi sip
| ser hy apic ca | ato her iti luk | śap pittvād anudāttaḥ |
dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | pādāditvān na nighātaḥ | rakṣā ṇaḥ
| dṛghoḥ ... || 3 ||

Translation: "Dhūrtilḥ — the hurtful — śaṃsaḥ — utterance, curse [ākṣepa, reproach] — of the araruṣaḥ martyasya: of the mortal who [is a foe and] has come to do us harm [the clause asmad-vināśaṃ prāptasya is partly unclear, marked [?]]. May such a form of speech mā praṇak — not touch (not reach) us. If a taunt (vikṣepa) is sent by an enemy, may it never reach us. For this, O Brahmaṇaspati, protect (rakṣa, preserve) us." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: mā (a particle); śaṃsaḥ (ghañ in the abstract sense; first-syllable accent through the ñ); araruṣaḥ (ṛ "to go", Uṇādi arus, guṇa; first-syllable accent through the vṛṣādi list); dhūrtilḥ (dhurv "to hurt", ktic, with lengthening of the penultimate vowel by P. 7-1-101 [as read; the print's number shows 7-1-101 for upadhāyās ca; the standard rule is 8-2-78 upadhāyām ca], and the

v dropped by P. 6-4-21 rāllopaḥ); praṇak (prc "to join", laṇ, third singular tip, the i dropped by P. 3-4-100 itaś ca, the śnam of the rudhādi class, with the Vedic aṭ augment by vyatyayo bahulam P. 3-1-85; c → k; the verb is not made unaccented since the dropping of ca... by P. 8-1-63); martyasya (mṛṇ "to die", Uṇādi tan, yat by P. 4-4-110 bhave chandasi — "born among the mortals"; the accent by P. 6-1-213 yato 'nāvaḥ); rakṣa (rakṣ "to guard", loṭ, si → hi dropped by P. 6-4-105 ato heḥ, the śap pit and unaccented; accent on the root alone; since it begins the pāda it is not made unaccented by P. 8-1-19).¹⁵

Grammar pages (pp. 760 lower half–764), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: mā (a particle; first-syllable accent by the Phit-sūtra nipātā ādyudāttāḥ [number read as 4-[?]]), śaṃsaḥ (śaṃsu stutau, bhāve ghañ P. 3-3-18, accent by P. 6-1-197 ñnityādir nityam, "śaṃsanam śaṃsaḥ"), araruṣaḥ (Uṇ. 4-[?] ṛter arus [as read] — aruṣ after ṛ gatau, the root being used in the causative sense; guṇa by P. 7-3-84 and raparatva, so ar + arus; the suffix-accent would fall on the a of arus, but since the form is among the vṛṣādi words by ākṛtigāṇa the first-syllable accent holds by P. 6-1-203 vṛṣādīnāṃ ca; the genitive singular ṇas → as; the s of the stem after u becomes ṣ by P. 8-3-59 ādeśapratyayayoḥ; the ṣ and the final s — sasajuṣo ruḥ P. 8-2-66 and kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ P. 8-3-15 — so araruṣaḥ; the Kannada notes that some take araruṣaḥ differently, from rā ādāne with liṭ and kvasu [P. 3-2-107], with iṭ by P. 7-2-67 vasv ekājādghasām, loss of ā by P. 6-4-64 [āto lopa iṭi ca], shortening, giving rarivas, as sedivān; with vasoḥ samprasāraṇam P. 6-4-131 giving rarus in the genitive — and so ararus with the negative na, accented by P. 6-2-2 tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtīyā... [as read, 6-2-2 tatpuruṣe tulyārtha-tṛtīyā-saptamy-upamāna-avyaya-dvītīyā-kṛtyāḥ] with the first-syllable accent of the negative particle; the Kannada concludes that the vṛṣādi course is more natural, since the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa and the Vedabhāṣyakāra interpret gurudveṣo araruṣe dadhāti in the same way, and the mantras yo no agne araruvān [R. Saṃ. 1-147-4] and kad ū vīraṇ... [1-129-3?] have araru as a stem in u), dhūr̥tiḥ (dhurvī hiṃsārthaḥ; ktic ktau ca saṃjñāyām P. 3-3-174 ktic; the i barred by P. 7-2-9 tī-tu-tra-te-tha-si-su-sara-ka-śeṣeṣu ca; the penultimate lengthening by P. 8-2-78 upadhāyām ca — ur + ti → ūr; and a long note whether lopo vyor vali P. 6-1-66 applies to the v — it does not, by the special P. 6-4-21 rāllopaḥ [jhalādi or anunāsikādi kit/ñit suffix], so dhūr̥ti), praṇak (pr̥cī saṃparke, rudhādi, laiḥ; pr̥ñc + t; śnam; vyatyayo bahulam P. 3-1-85 gives the Vedic aṭ; iko yaṇaci P. 6-1-77 changes r → r; hal̥nyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisyapr̥ktaṃ hal P. 6-1-68 drops t; coḥ kuḥ P. 8-2-30; aṭkuvāṇnumvyavāye 'pi P. 8-4-2 gives ṇ → praṇak; the ā augment [a + pra] is unaccented; cādilope vibhāṣā P. 8-1-63 prevents the loss of accent of the earlier verb praṇak... hence tiñ atinaḥ P. 8-1-28 does not make it all unaccented), martyasya (mṛñ prāṇatyāge; Uṇ. 3-86 hasimṛgṛiṇām ... tan; tan gives guṇa and raparatva; marta; martye bhavaḥ, bhava chandasi P. 4-4-110; yasyeti ca P. 6-4-148; tit svaritam P. 6-1-185 would give svarita but yato 'nāvaḥ P. 6-1-213 supersedes it with first-syllable accent), rakṣa (rakṣ pālāne; loṭ, sip; serhy apicca; śap; ato heḥ P. 6-4-105; śap pit, so anudāttau suppitau P. 3-1-4; at the start of the pāda no loss of accent by P. 8-1-18 [anudāttaṃ sarvam apādādaḥ]; lengthened in the Saṃhitā by P. 6-3-135 dvyaco 'tastiṇaḥ; rakṣāṇaḥ, upasargād bahulam P. 8-4-28 gives ṇ for n of naḥ, even though rakṣa is not an upasarga, by the word bahulam; and neḥ... rephaṣakāra-nimitta P. 8-4-26 [ṇeś ca ...] discussed), and brahmaṇaspate (śaṣṭhyāḥ patiputra... P. 8-3-53 gives s; pate a vocative with parāṅgavat by P. 2-1-2; āmantritasya ca P. 8-1-19 makes both words wholly unaccented). ||3|| ¹⁶

15. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numerals marked with "as read" or [?] are not certain; those unmarked agree with the standard numbering.

16. A crowded run of four pages; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अररुषः (araruṣaḥ) — [of one] who has come with the intention of harm (the foe) | मर्त्यस्य (martyasya) — of the man | धूर्तिः (dhūrtiḥ) — causing hurt | शंसः (śaṃsaḥ) — speech in the form of reproach | नः (naḥ) — us | मा प्रणक् (mā praṇak) — may it not touch (for that) | (हे) ब्रह्मणस्पते ((he) brahmaṇaspate) — O Brahmaṇaspati | नः (naḥ) — us | रक्ष (rakṣa) — protect.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Brahmaṇaspati! Protect us, so that the abusive speeches of our enemy may not be a trouble to us.

॥ English Translation ॥

May the harmful imprecation of the wicked mortal not reach us ; protect us, O Brahmanaspati.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

शंसः (śaṃsaḥ) — śaṃsanam: though this word means "speech, utterance", the commentator has argued that in dhūrtiḥ śaṃsaḥ [the two words together] it means words of reproach, evil speech, abuse, taunts, curses — speech spoken with an evil intention.

अररुषः मर्त्यस्य (araruṣaḥ martyasya) — of a man, who is joined with the intention to do harm or trouble.

मा प्रणक् (mā praṇak) — mā sampraṇaktu: let it not touch; "may it not reach us" [the print adds the English "not reach us"]; the word mā is a word of prohibition.

रक्षा (rakṣā)

— the last letter of this word is lengthened in the Saṃhitā for the sake of the metre.

Sūkta 18, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

स घा वीरो न रिष्यति यमिन्द्रो ब्रह्मणस्पतिः । सोमो हिनोति मर्त्यम् ॥४॥

*sa ghā vīro na riṣyati yam indro brahmaṇaspatiḥ | somo
hinoti martyam || 4 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ¹⁷

सः । घ । वीरः । न । रिष्यति । यम् । इन्द्रः । ब्रह्मणः । पतिः ॥ सोमः । हिनोति । मर्त्यम् ॥ ४॥

*saḥ | gha | vīraḥ | na | riṣyati | yam | indraḥ | brahmaṇaḥ |
patiḥ | | somaḥ | hinoti | martyam || 4 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

इन्द्रो देवो यं मर्त्यं यक्ष्यमाणं हिनोति प्राप्नोति वर्धयति वा । तथा ब्रह्मणस्पतिर्देवो हिनोति ।
तथा सोमो हिनोति । स घ स एव यजमानो वीरो वीर्ययुक्तः सन्न रिष्यति । न विनश्यति ॥ घ
। चादिरनुदात्तः । संहितायां मृजि [?] तुनुघमक्षुतङ्कुत्रोरुष्याणाम् । पा. [६-३-१३३] । इति
दीर्घः । ब्रह्मणस्पतिः । उक्तम् । हिनोति । हि गतौ वृद्धौ च । स्वादिभ्यः श्नुः । तिपः पित्त्वात् श्नुप्रत्ययस्वर एव शिष्यते ॥४॥

*indro devo yaṃ martyaṃ yakṣyamāṇaṃ hinoti prāpnoti vardhayati vā | tathā brahmaṇaspatir devo hinoti | tathā
somo hinoti | sa gha sa eva yajamāno vīro vīryayuktaḥ sann
na riṣyati | na vinaśyati | | gha | cādir anudāttaḥ |
saṃhitāyāṃ mṛji [?] tunu-ghamakṣu-taṅ-kutro-rusyāṇām | pā.
[6-3-133] | iti dīrghaḥ | brahmaṇaspatiḥ | uktam | hinoti | hi gatau vṛddhau ca | svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ | tipaḥ pittvāt śnupratyaya-svara eva śiṣyate || 4 ||*

Translation: "The god Indra, [the god] Brahmaṇaspati, and Soma — whichever mortal who is going to sacrifice they hinoti — reach, favour, or cause to prosper: that same sacrificer, being endowed with vigour (vīra), does not perish (na riṣyati).¹⁸ The rest is grammar, noted briefly: gha (a particle of the ca group, unaccented; lengthened in the Saṃhitā by P. 6-3-133 ṛci tunughamakṣutaṅkutrōrūṣyāṇām); brahmaṇaspatih (explained earlier); hinoti (hi "to go, to grow", śnu of the svādi class; tip is pit, so the accent of the śnu suffix alone remains).

17. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened ghā, the Pada gha.

Grammar pages (pp. 766 lower half–767 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada says: gha belongs to the cādi group, an ākṛtigaṇa, so is unaccented by P. 1-1-... cādayo 'sattve [as read: Phit 4-[?] cādayo 'nudāttāḥ]; the lengthening in the Saṃhitā is by P. 6-3-133, in which the word gha is understood to include its lengthened form ghā seen in the Veda; the Kannada cites the paribhāṣā kṛtrimākṛtrimayoḥ kṛtrimasyaiva grahaṇam [of the technical and the common-use, the technical is meant] to explain why gha here does not mean the gha-class of tarap and tamap of P. 1-1-22 tarabamaupau ghaḥ; since tarap/tamap do not show lengthening in the Veda, and gha does, the sūtra's ṛci shows that it should be taken as the particle gha only; hence tarapādi is not meant; the Kannada adds a note on the paribhāṣā to this effect; brahmaṇaspatih (śaṣṭhyāḥ patiputra... P. 8-3-53 gives s); hinoti (hi gatau vṛddhau ca; laṭ, tip; svādibhyaḥ śnuḥ P. 3-1-73; hi + nu + ti; guṇa of nu by P. 7-3-84 gives o; sārvadhātukam apit P. 1-2-4 makes hi... ñit; kniti ca P. 1-1-5 bars the guṇa of the i of hi, so there is no guṇa on hi; tip being pit is unaccented by P. 3-1-4, and the accent of the śnu suffix remains). ||4||¹⁹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

इन्द्रः (indrah) — Indra | यम् (yam) — which | मर्त्यम् (martyam) — man (sacrificer, who is engaged in the rite) | हिनोति (hinoti) — [gives] reaches (protects) | ब्रह्मणस्पतिः (brahmaṇaspatih) — Brahmanaspati | हिनोति (hinoti) — protects | सोमः (somaḥ) — the

18. Grammar, noted briefly.

19. Numerals as read; pointers only.

god Soma | हिनोति (hinoti) — protects | सः घ (saḥ gha) — such a man | वीरः (vīraḥ) — endowed with valour | न रिष्यति (na riṣyati) — does not perish.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

To the sacrificer who is engaged in the rite, Indra, Brahmanaspati and Soma — all three deities — give increase; that is, they protect him. The man who is the object of their favour never suffers destruction.

॥ English Translation ॥

That valiant man whom Indra, Brahmanaspati and Soma protect never perishes.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

This rik has three deities: Indra, Brahmanaspati and Soma. The man favoured by these deities is a hero, and lives always without ever suffering ruin.

घ (gha)

— the last letter of this word is lengthened in the Saṃhitā for the sake of the metre.

यं मर्त्यम् (yaṃ martyam)

— "which man?" — the man who worships Indra, Brahmanaspati and Soma.

original pp. 767–769

Sūkta 18, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वं तं ब्रह्मणस्पते सोम इन्द्रश्च मर्त्यम् । दक्षिणा पात्वंहसः ॥५॥

tvaṃ taṃ brahmaṇas pate soma indraś ca martyam | dakṣiṇā pātv aṃhasaḥ || 5 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

त्वम् । तम् । ब्रह्मणः । पते । सोमः । इन्द्रः । च । मर्त्यम् ॥ दक्षिणा । पातु । अंहसः ॥५॥

tvam | tam | brahmaṇaḥ | pate | somaḥ | indraḥ | ca |
martyam | | dakṣiṇā | pātu | aṃhasaḥ | | 5 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे ब्रह्मणस्पते त्वं तं मर्त्यमनुष्ठितारं मनुष्यमंहसः पापात्पाहीति शेषः । तथा सोमः पातु ।
इन्द्रश्च पातु । दक्षिणाख्या देवता च पातु ॥ दक्षिणा । दक्ष वृद्धौ । द्रुदक्षिभ्यामिनन् । उ.
[२-५०] । नित्वादाद्युदात्तः । अंहसः । नब्विषयस्येत्यादिनाद्युदात्तः ॥५॥

he brahmaṇaspate tvam taṃ martyam anuṣṭhātāraṃ
manuṣyam aṃhasaḥ pāpāt pāhīti śeṣaḥ | tathā somaḥ pātu |
indraś ca pātu | dakṣiṇākhyā devatā ca pātu | | dakṣiṇā |
dakṣa vṛddhau | dru-dakṣibhyām inan | u. [2-50] | nittvād
ādyudāttaḥ | aṃhasaḥ | nab-viṣayasyety-ādinādyudāttaḥ | |
5 | |

Translation: "O Brahmaṇaspati! Protect (pāhi, supplied) that mortal, the man who performs the rite, from aṃhas — sin. Likewise let Soma protect; and let Indra protect; and let the deity called Dakṣiṇā protect. Dakṣiṇā — dakṣ 'to grow', the Uṇādi inan, first-syllable accent through the n-mark. Aṃhasaḥ — the first-syllable accent by the rule on words of the naḥ-type [nabviṣayasyāniṣantasya, P. 6-1-219 as read]."

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) ब्रह्मणस्पते ((he) brahmaṇaspate) — O Brahmaṇaspati | त्वम् (tvam) — you | तं मर्त्यम् (taṃ martyam) — that man (the performer of the sacrifice) | अंहसः (aṃhasaḥ) — from sin | सोमः (somaḥ) — the deity Soma | पातु (pātu) — protect | इन्द्रः च (indraś ca) — Indra also | पातु (pātu) — protect | दक्षिणा (dakṣiṇā) — the deity named Dakṣiṇā | पातु (pātu) — protect.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Brahmanaspati! Protect the sacrificer so that he does not commit sinful deeds; and let Indra, Soma and Dakṣiṇā also protect him.

॥ English Translation ॥

Do you Brahmanaspati, and do you Soma, Indra, and Dakṣiṇā protect that man from sin.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

In this rik the deities Brahmanaspati, Soma, Indra and Dakṣiṇā are addressed.

दक्षिणा (dakṣiṇā) — In this rik the word dakṣiṇā indicates a deity who is the presiding genius of dakṣiṇā [the sacrificial fee]. The great ṛṣi Yāska has given four derivations of the word dakṣiṇā (Ni. 1-1-7); the numeral is read as "1-7" with a query):

दक्षिणा दक्षतेः समर्धयति कर्मणो व्यृद्धं समर्धयतीति । अपि वा प्रदक्षिणागमनात् ।
दिशमभिप्रेत्य दिग्भ्यस्तत्प्रकृतिर्दक्षिणो हस्तो दक्षतेरुत्साहकर्मणः । दाशतेर्वा स्याद्दानकर्मणः ॥ dakṣiṇā dakṣateḥ samardhayati karmaṇo vyṛddham
samardhayatīti | api vā pradakṣiṇāgamanāt | diśam abhipretya digbhyas tat-prakṛtir dakṣiṇo hasto dakṣater utsāha-karmaṇaḥ | dāśater vā syād dāna-karmaṇaḥ ||

"Dakṣiṇā: from dakṣ, because it makes the deficient work of the rite complete; or from going round to the right (pradakṣiṇā); or, with reference to the direction [south]: the right hand [takes its name from] dakṣ, in the sense of energetic action; or from dāś 'to give', giving". The Kannada explains these four: (1) dakṣ "to increase": the dakṣiṇā given for the sake of the rite increases the fruit; it makes the sacrificial rite, which is deficient, full; hence the name. (2) pradakṣiṇā-gamana: in the sacrificial hall one goes round the gārhapatya, sadas and āgnīdhṛīya hearths in the manner of a pradakṣiṇā [keeping them on the right]; that circumambulation is dakṣiṇā. (3) diśam abhipretya: the Prajāpati who faces east has hands, of which the right hand is toward the south; and as the right hand is eager to do any work, the right hand is called dakṣiṇa hasta — a conventional use [by convention]. (4) dāśater: from dāś "to give": as the right hand is used when giving gifts, the act of giving is called dakṣiṇā.

Of these four meanings, the last, the act of giving, is the one by which the deity dakṣiṇā is indicated in this rik.

पातु, अंहसः (pātu, aṃhasaḥ) — aṃhaḥ means sin: "protect from sin" — that is, give a good mind so that no sinful actions are done.

Grammar pages (p. 769), noted briefly. The Kannada says brahmaṇaspate was explained under the earlier mantra [vyavahitamantre, i.e. at 1.18.3]; dakṣiṇā (dakṣ vṛddhau; Uṇ. 2-50 druvaṇa-dakṣibhyām inan [as read]; the n of the suffix is it, ṇatva by P. 8-4-2; ajādyataś ṭāp P. 4-1-4 for the feminine, savarṇadīrgha; the word is used for the fee in a sacrifice, as a feminine, citing the Medinī lexicon: draviṇaṃ na dvayor vitte kāñcane ca parākrame | dakṣiṇā dakṣiṇodbhūtasaralacchandavṛttiṣu | avāme tripuyajñādividhidāne diśi striyām); the n-mark gives first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197; and aṃhasaḥ (nabviṣayasyāniṣantasya P. 6-1-219 gives first-syllable accent). ॥5॥²⁰

original pp. 769–773

Sūkta 18, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सदसस्पतिमद्भुतं प्रियमिन्द्रस्य काम्यम् । सनिं मेधामयासिषम् ॥६॥

*sadasas patim adbhutaṃ priyam indrasya kāmyam | sanim
medhām ayāsiṣam || 6 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

सदसः । पतिम् । अद्भुतम् । प्रियम् । इन्द्रस्य । काम्यम् ॥ सनिम् । मेधाम् । अयासिषम् ॥६॥

20. Numerals as read; pointers only; the Medinī verse is partly read from small print.

sadasaḥ | patim | adbhutam | priyam | indrasya | kāmīyam
| | sanim | medhām | ayāsiṣam | | 6 |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

अनुप्रवचनीयेचरोर्होमे सदसस्पतिमित्येषा विनियुक्ता । तथा च गृह्ये । मेखलामाबध्येति खण्डे पठ्यते । आचार्यः समन्वारब्धे जुहुयात्सदसस्पतिमद्भुतम् । आ. गृ. [१-२२-११] । इति ॥

*anupravacanīyecaror home sadasaspatim ity eṣā viniyuktā | tathā ca gr̥hye | mekhalām ābadhyeti khaṇḍe paṭhyate |
ācāryaḥ samanvārabdhe juhuyāt sadasaspatim adbhutam | ā.
gr̥. [1-22-11] | iti |*

मेधां लब्धुं सदसस्पतिमेतन्नामकं देवमयासिषम् । प्राप्तवानस्मि । कीदृशम् ।
अद्भुतमाश्चर्यकरम् । इन्द्रस्य प्रियं सोमपाने सहचारित्वात् । काम्यं कमनीयं सनिं धनस्य
दाताम् ॥ सदसः । षट् विशरणगत्यवसादनेषु । सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन् । निच्वाद्याद्युदात्तः ।
पतिम् । पातेर्दतिः । उ. [४-६२] । टिलोपः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । प्रियम् । इगुपधज्ञाप्रीकिरः कः ।
इयङ्जादेशः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । काम्यम् । कामयतेरचो यत् । णेरनिटि । ... यतोऽनावः ।
इत्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । सनिम् । षणु दाने । ... आयासिषम् । या प्रापणे । लुङ् । उत्तमपुरुषैकवचनं मिप् । ... ॥६॥

*medhām labdhum sadasaspatim etan-nāmakam devam
ayāsiṣam | prāptavān asmi | kīdr̥śam | adbhutam āścarya-karam | indrasya priyam soma-pāne saha-cāritvāt | kāmīyam
kamanīyam sanim dhanasya dātāram | | sadasaḥ | ṣadl̥
viśaraṇa-gaty-avasādaneṣu | sarvadhātubhyo 'sun | nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | patim | pāter dātiḥ | u. [4-62] | ṭilopaḥ |
pratyaya-svaraḥ | priyam | igupadha-jñā-prī-kiraḥ kaḥ | iyañjādeśaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | kāmīyam | kāmāyater aco yat |
ṇer aniṭi | ... yato 'nāvaḥ | ity ādyudāttatvam | sanim | ṣaṇu dāne | ... āyāsiṣam | yā prāpaṇe | luṅ | uttamapuruṣaikavacanam mip | ... | 6 |*

Application, as given in the bhāṣya's opening lines: "In the home [oblation] of the caru in the anupravacanīya rite this rik is employed; so it is read in the Gr̥hya [Sūtra], in the section beginning mekhalām ābadhya: 'the teacher, when [the pupil] has laid hold [of the girdle], shall offer sadasaspatim adbhutam' (Āśvalāyana Grhya-sūtra 1-22-11 [?])."

Translation: "To obtain medhā — the power of intelligence — I have approached (ayāsiṣam, 'I have reached, I have gone to') the deity named Sadasaspati. Of what kind? Adbhutam — wonderful; priyam indrasya — dear to Indra, because of his companionship in the drinking of soma; kāmyam — to be desired, lovely; sanīm — the giver of wealth." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: sadasaḥ (sad "to sink, to go", Uṇādi asun, first-syllable accent through n); patim (pā "to protect", Uṇādi ḍati; ṭi dropped); priyam (prī + ka, with iy for the ī); kāmyam (kam + ṇic + yat by P. 3-1-97 aco yat; ṇi dropped when no iṭ follows [P. 6-4-51]; first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-213 yato 'nāvaḥ); sanīm (ṣaṇu "to give", the Uṇādi i); ayāsiṣam (yā "to go", luṇ, first singular mīp, with siC, aṭ augment, s-augment by P. 7-2-73 [?]).

Grammar pages (pp. 772–773), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: sadasaḥ (ṣadl viśaraṇagatyavasādanēṣu; dhātuvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ P. 6-1-64; sarvadhātubhyo 'sun Uṇ. 4-[?]; n-mark gives ñnityādir nityam P. 6-1-197 [a suffix with ñ or n has first-syllable accent; the Kannada reads the sūtra as "the first of a word ending in a suffix carrying ñ or n"; the genitive as, ru, visarga; patiḥ following, so ṣaṣṭhyāḥ patiputra... P. 8-3-53 gives s), patim (pā rakṣaṇe; Uṇ. 4-62 pāter ḍatiḥ; the ḍ is it, so ṭeḥ P. 6-4-143 drops the ṭi part of pā; accent by the suffix, first-syllable), priyam (prīṇ tarpaṇe; Uṇ. 3-[?]; igupadhajñāprīkiraḥ kaḥ P. 3-1-135 gives ka after roots with an i/ u/r/l penultimate vowel and jñā, prī, kṛ; the k is it [P. 1-3-8]; aci śnudhātubhruvām yvor iyaṇuvaṇau P. 6-4-77 gives iy for ī: priya; suffix end-accent; accusative am, ami pūrvaḥ), kāmyam (kamu kāntau; kāntiḥ = icchā; ṇic by P. 3-1-30 kamer ṇiṇ in the sense of the root itself; kam + i; ata upadhāyāḥ P. 7-2-116 vṛddhi, so kām-i; ajanta [the ṇic stem ends in a vowel]; ac + yat by P. 3-1-97 aco yat; ṇeraniṭi P. 6-4-51 drops the ṇic: kāmya; first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-213 yato 'nāvaḥ in place of the svarita of tit svaritam), sanīm

(ṣaṇu dāne; dhātvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ; khanikaṣyajisivanisadhvisanisrasniśriyaś calibhyaś ca [Uṇ. 4-132 as read]; i after ṣaṇ and other roots listed; ac iḥ [Uṇ. 4-139]; san + i; suffix accent sanim), ayāsiṣam (yā prāpane; luṇ; first-person singular mip; tasthasthamipāṃ tāṃtaṃtāmaḥ P. 3-4-101 gives am; cli luṇi P. 3-1-43 gives cli, whose sic is by cleḥ sic P. 3-1-44; luṇlaṇlṛṇkṣv aḍudāttaḥ P. 6-4-71 gives the augment aṭ, so a-yā-s-am; yamaramanamātāṃ sak ca P. 7-2-73 gives sak to roots ending in ā, and iṭ to the sic after that: ayās + iṣ + am [ayāsiṣam]; ādeśapratyayayoḥ P. 8-3-59 gives ṣ; tiṇ atinaḥ P. 8-1-28 makes the verb wholly unaccented). ||6||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

मेधाम् (medhām) — the power of intelligence | लब्धुम् (labdhum) — to obtain | अद्भुतम् (adbhutam) — marvellous | इन्द्रस्य (indrasya) — to Indra | प्रियम् (priyam) — the one dear | काम्यम् (kāmyam) — lovely | सनिम् (sanim) — the giver of wealth | सदसस्पतिम् (sadasaspatim) — the deity called Sadasaspati | आयासिषम् (āyāsiṣam) — I have resorted to (or: I pray).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

I have sought refuge in the deity Sadasaspati — the wonder-working, dear to Indra, lovely in form, giver of wealth — in order to obtain the power of medhā (wisdom).

॥ English Translation ॥

I pray, for wisdom, Sadasaspati, the wonderful, the beloved of Indra, the desirable, and the giver of riches.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The deity of this rik is Sadasaspati. When the caru-oblation called anupravacanīya is offered in domestic rites such as marriage, this rik is recited. In the Āśvalāyana Gṛhya-sūtra, in the section mekhalām ābadhya, the order of the application of this rik is given by the teacher: samanvārabdhe juhuyāt sadasaspatim adbhutam (Āś. Gr. 1-22-11 [?]).

सदसस्पतिम् (sadasaspatim) — the deity Sadasaspati. In the literal sense, sadasaḥ patiḥ: the lord of the sadas — the sacrificial assembly, or the hall. What Skandasvāmin says here is acceptable:

चतस्रः सादसस्पत्यः । सदः प्रसिद्धं यज्ञगृहं तस्याधिपतिः सदसस्पतिः । कोऽसौ । अग्निः ।
 कुत एतत् । अग्नेः सर्वयज्ञाङ्गाधिपतित्वात् । असु चर्चु [?] यज्ञसाधनहविष्कृतिसमर्थनाद्यग्नि
 कर्मदर्शनात्तदेवत्याश्च तस्र ऋचः । सदसस्पतिमग्निम् ॥ catasraḥ sādadasaspatyaḥ
 | sadaḥ prasiddham yajña-grhaṃ tasyādhipatiḥ sadasaspatiḥ
 | ko 'sau | agniḥ | kuta etat | agneḥ sarva- yajñāṅgādhipatitvāt | asu carcu [?] yajña-sādhana-haviṣkṛti-samarthanādy agni karma-darśanāt tad-devatyāś ca tasra
raḥ | sadasaspatim agnim |

"The four [riks 6–9] are sādadasaspatya — to Sadasaspati. Sadas is the well-known sacrificial hall; its lord is Sadasaspati. Who is he? Agni. Why? Because Agni is the lord of all parts of the sacrifice. [The sentence 'asu carcu ...' is garbled in the print; its sense is that, because the actions of preparing the oblation and the like are seen to be Agni's, the rcas [which speak of such deeds] are addressed to him.] 'Sadasaspati' means Agni." [The English gloss of this passage is mine and tentative.] The Kannada adds: these four riiks [the three following and this one] have Sadasaspati as deity. The word sadas means the well-known sacrificial hall; as its lord, "Sadasaspati" is the name. Who is the lord of this sacrificial hall? Agni, who is well known as lord of every part of the sacrifice. And since in these four riiks such acts as the preparation of the oblation, which belong to Agni, are mentioned, it is beyond dispute that "Sadasaspati" is Agni. The name Sadasaspati is not seen elsewhere in the R̥gveda; Yāska too has said nothing about this Sadasaspati; hence it must be admitted that what Skandasvāmin has said is the consistent view.

अद्भुतम् (adbhutam) — āścarya-karam: "wonder-working"; the commentator Skandasvāmin explains the word as mahāntam, great, or śreṣṭham, best.

काम्यम् (kāmyam) — kamanīyam: to be wished for, lovely. Skandasvāmin's sense is: kāmyaṃ prārthayitavyaṃ stotrṇām — "that which is to be prayed for by those who praise".

सनिम् (sanim) — from the root ṣaṇu dāne: dhanasya dātāram [giver of wealth], or dhanadānam [the act of giving wealth] — "Sadasaspati who gives wealth, or Sadasaspati for the giving of wealth".

आयासिषम् (āyāsiṣam) — from the root yā prāpaṇe: "I have obtained, I have approached", or "I have resorted to": that is, "I have taken refuge in Sadasaspati for the gain of wisdom and wealth". Skandasvāmin says that īmahe, yāmi and others are used in the sense of "asking" (yācñā), as the Nirukta says; so āyāsiṣam, from a changed form of the root yā, is explained as yocce — "I ask, I pray".

original pp. 773–776

Sūkta 18, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यस्मादृते न सिध्यति यज्ञो विपश्चितश्चन । स धीनां योगमिन्वति ॥७॥

*yasmād ṛte na sidhyati yajño vipaścitaś cana | sa dhīnām
yogam invati || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

यस्मात् । ऋते । न । सिध्यति । यज्ञः । विपःऽचितः । चन ॥ सः । धीनाम् । योगम् । इन्वति ॥७॥

*yasmāt | ṛte | na | sidhyati | yajñah | vipaḥ-citaḥ | cana | |
saḥ | dhīnām | yogam | invati || 7 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

यज्ञोऽयमनुष्ठातव्यो विपश्चितश्चन [?] विदुषोऽपि यजमानस्य यस्मात्सदसस्पतिदेवादृते न सिध्यति सोऽयं सदसस्पतिर्देवो धीनां मनोऽनुष्ठानविषयाणामस्मद्बुद्धीनामनुष्ठेयकर्मणां वा योगं सम्बन्धमिन्वति । व्याप्नोति । यजमानमनुगृह्य तदीयं यज्ञं निष्पादयतीत्यर्थः ॥ यस्मात् । अन्यारादित्यादिना । पा. [२-३-२९] । ऋतेयोगात्पञ्चमी । सावेकाच इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वे प्राप्ते न गोश्चन्साववर्णेति प्रतिषेधः । सिध्यति । षिधु संराद्धौ । श्यनो नित्वाद्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । यद्वृत्तान्नित्यमिति निघातप्रतिषेधः । धीनाम् । सावेकाच इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । योगम् । युजिर् योगे । घञ् । जित्वाद्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । इन्वति । इवि व्याप्तौ । शप् । इदितो नुम् धातोरिति नुम् । निघातः ॥७॥

yajño 'yam anuṣṭhātavyo vipaścitaś cana [?] viduṣo 'pi yajamānasya yasmāt sadasaspati-devād ṛte na sidhyati so
'yam sadasaspatir devo dhīnām mano-'nuṣṭhāna-viṣayāṇām asmad-buddhīnām anuṣṭheya-karmaṇām vā yogam sambandham invati | vyāpnoti | yajamānam anugṛhya
tadīyam yajñam niṣpādayatīty arthaḥ | | yasmāt | anyārād ity-ādinā | pā. [2-3-29] | ṛte-yogāt pañcamī | sāv ekāca iti vibhakter udāttatve prāpte na go-śvan-sāv-avarṇeti pratiṣedhaḥ | sidhyati | ṣidhu saṃrāddhau | śyano nittvād ādyudāttatvam | yad-vṛttān nityam iti nighāta-pratiṣedhaḥ |
dhīnām | sāv ekāca iti vibhakter udāttatvam | yogam | yujir
yoge | ghañ | ñittvād ādyudāttatvam | invati | ivi vyāptau |
śap | idito num dhātor iti num | nighātaḥ | | 7 | |

Translation: "Without which deity Sadasaspati the sacrifice that is to be performed does not succeed — even [the sacrifice] of a vipaściti, a learned sacrificer: that same god Sadasaspati invati — pervades, brings about — the yoga (connexion) of our dhīs, our minds [which are given to the performance of the rite], or of the rites that are to be performed. The sense is: having favoured the sacrificer, he completes his sacrifice." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: yasmāt (the ablative with ṛte, by P. 2-3-29 anyārād itarartedikśabdāñcūttarapadājāhiyukte; the case-ending is not accented, being barred by P. 6-1-182); sidhyati (ṣidhu "to be accomplished", śyan; the verb is not made unaccented because of the relative); dhīnām (the ending is accented by P. 6-1-168); yogam (yuj + ghaṇ, first-syllable accent through ñ); invati (ivi "to pervade", num by P. 7-1-58, śap, unaccented).

Grammar pages (pp. 775 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada treats yasmāt (the word ṛte is used with the ablative: anyārāditarartedikśabdāñcūttarapadājāhiyukte P. 2-3-29 — the case after the words anya, ārāt, itara, ṛte, the words for directions [pūrva etc.], those ending in añc, and āc and āhi; yad + ñasi → yasmāt by P. 7-1-14 sarvanāmnaḥ smai [read as 7-1-14 ñasiṇyoḥ smāt-smināv]; tyadādīnām aḥ P. 7-2-102; ato guṇe; the ending is not accented by P. 6-1-168 sāvekācas tṛtīyādir vibhaktiḥ because of the barring na go-śvan-sāv-avarṇa-rāḍ-aṅkyu-kṣmāy-ātmanām P. 6-1-182, applying to a word ending in a [an avarṇānta]), sidhyati (śidhu saṃrāddhau, of the divādi class; dhātvādeḥ saḥ saḥ; śyan by P. 3-1-69; śyan has n-mark, so first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197; yadvṛttān nityam P. 8-1-66 bars the loss of accent, since yasmāt precedes it, so tiṅ atīnaḥ P. 8-1-28 does not apply), dhīnām (the ending is accented by P. 6-1-168), yogam (yujir yoge; bhāve P. 3-3-18 ghaṇ; cajoḥ ku gḥiṇṇyatoḥ P. 7-3-52 gives g for j; pugantalaghūpadhasya ca guṇa; ñit, so first-syllable accent), and invati (ivi vyāptau; idito num dhātoḥ P. 7-1-58; laṭ, tip, śap; tiṅ atīnaḥ makes it wholly unaccented). ||7||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

यज्ञः (yajñah) — the sacrifice that is to be performed | विपश्चितः चन (vipaścitaḥ cana) — even of a learned sacrificer | यस्मात् ऋते (yasmāt ṛte) — without whose help [that deity Sadasaspati] | न सिध्यति (na sidhyati) — is not accomplished | सः (saḥ) — that Sadasaspati | धीनाम् (dhīnām) — to the rite that is to be performed, or to the [intellects] | योगम् (yogam) — connexion | इन्वति (invati) — pervades (brings about).

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

Even a learned sacrificer cannot accomplish the rite without the help of Sadasaspati. For it is that Sadasaspati who brings about the connexion of our minds with the matters we are to perform — that is, he makes our minds take interest in the rite that is to be done.

॥ English Translation ॥

Without whose aid the sacrifice even of the wise does not prosper, he prompts the pious feelings in our thoughts.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

चन (cana) — this word also means "even" (api).

धीनाम् (dhinām) — the word dhī has two senses, "wisdom" (prajñā) and "action" (karma) (Ni. [3-9] and Ni. [2-1]); so dhinām yogam invati means "he brings about connexion with the acts such as sacrifice that we do"; or "he brings about the connexion of our minds with the acts to be done" — that is, he prompts our minds to engage in the performance of the acts.

original pp. 776–779

Sūkta 18, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आदृध्नोति हविष्कृतिं प्राज्वं कृणोत्यध्वरम् । होत्रा देवेषु गच्छति ॥८॥

ād ṛdhnōti haviṣkṛtiṃ prājvaṃ kṛṇoty adhvaram | hotrā deveṣu gacchati || 8 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आत् । ऋध्नोति । हविःऽकृतिम् । प्राज्वम् । कृणोति । अध्वरम् ॥ होत्रा । देवेषु । गच्छति ॥ ८॥

āt | ṛdhnoti | haviḥ-kṛtim | prāñcam | kṛṇoti | adhvaram ||
 hotrā | deveṣu | gacchati || 8 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

आदनन्तरमेव हविष्कृतिं हविःसम्पादनयुक्तं यजमानमृध्नोति । सदसस्पतिर्देवो वर्धयति ।
 हविर्दानानन्तरमेव फलं प्रयच्छतीत्यर्थः । तथाविधफलसिद्धयेऽध्वरं यजमानेनानुष्ठीयमानं यज्ञं
 प्राञ्चं प्रकर्षेण गच्छन्तमविघ्नेन परिसमाप्तियुक्तं कृणोति । करोति । होत्रा ह्वयमाना देवता
 तुष्टा सती यजमानं प्रख्यापयितुं देवेषु गच्छति । यद्वा । होत्रा अस्मदीयस्तुतिरूपा वाक्
 देवान्स्वरितोषयितुं देवेषु गच्छति । श्लोको धरेत्यादिषु सप्तपञ्चाशत्सु वाङ्नामसु होत्रा
 गीरिति पठितम् ॥ हविष्कृतिम् । हविषः कृतिः सम्पादनं यस्य यजमानस्य सोऽयं हविष्कृतिः ।
 बहुव्रीहौ प्रकृत्या पूर्वपदम् । प्राञ्चम् । अनिगन्तोऽञ्चतौ वप्रत्यये । पा. [६-२-५२] । इति गतेः
 प्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । पश्चाद्देकादेशस्वरः । अध्वरम् । न विद्यते ध्वरो हिंसा यस्मिन् ।
 नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । होत्रा । ह्वयते ऽस्मिन्निति होत्रा देवता ।
 हुयामाश्रुभसिभ्यस्त्रन् । उ. [४-१६२] । इति त्रन् । निन्वाद्याद्युदात्तः ॥८॥ ād anantaram eva haviṣkṛtiṃ havissampādana-yuktaṃ yajamānam ṛdhnoti | sadasaspatir devo vardhayati |

 havirdānānantaram eva phalaṃ prayacchatīty arthaḥ | tathāvidha-phala-siddhye 'dhvaram yajamānenānuṣṭhīyamānam yajñam prāñcam prakarṣeṇa gacchantam avighnena parisamāpti-yuktaṃ kṛṇoti | karoti | hotrā hvayamānā devatā tuṣṭā satī yajamānam prakhyāpayituṃ deveṣu gacchati | yadvā | hotrā asmadiyastuti-rūpā vāk devān svaritoṣayituṃ deveṣu gacchati | śloko dhārety-ādiṣu saptapañcāśatsu vāñ-nāmasu hotrā gir iti paṭhitam || haviṣkṛtim | haviṣaḥ kṛtiḥ sampādanam yasya
 yajamānasya so 'yam haviṣkṛtiḥ | bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā
 pūrvapadam | prāñcam | anigantoñcatau vapratyaye | pā.
 [6-2-52] | iti gateḥ prakṛti-svaratvam | paścād ekādeśa-svaraḥ
 | adhvaram | na vidyate dhvaro hiṃsā yasmin | nañ-subhyām
 ity uttarapadāntodāttatvam | hotrā | hvayate 'sminn iti hotrā devatā | huyāmāśrubhasibhyas tran | u. [4-162] | iti tran |
 nittvād ādyudāttaḥ || 8 ||

Translation: "Immediately thereafter (āt) the god Sadasaspati makes the sacrificer — the haviṣkṛt, the one who has prepared the oblation — prosper (ṛdhnoti): the sense is that he gives the fruit directly after the oblation is given. For the accomplishment of that fruit he makes the sacrifice (adhvaram) being performed by the sacrificer prāñcam — going forward well, completed without obstacle. Hotrā — the deity who is invoked, being pleased, goes among the gods (deveṣu gacchati) to make the sacrificer renowned; or: hotrā — our speech in the form of praise — goes among the gods in order to please them. Among the fifty-seven words for speech beginning with śloka, dhārā [Nighaṇṭu 1-11], hotrā is read, 'speech'." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: haviṣkṛtim (a bahuvrīhi, first-member accent); prāñcam (pra + añc + kvin/vapratyaya, with the accent by P. 6-2-52 [as read] of the prefix, then the single-substitute accent); adhvaram (as before); hotrā (hve + tran, Uṇādi 4-162 [as read]; first-syllable accent through the n).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

आत् (āt) — immediately thereafter | हविष्कृतिम् (haviṣkṛtim) — the sacrificer who has prepared the oblation | ऋध्नोति (ṛdhnoti) — [Sadasaspati] makes prosper | अध्वरम् (adhvaram) — the sacrifice [undertaken by the sacrificer] | प्राञ्चम् (prāñcam) — going forward well, completed without obstacle | कृणोति (kṛṇoti) — makes | होत्रा (hotrā) — [the deity] invoked by the hotṛ, being pleased (or: our speech of praise) | देवेषु (deveṣu) — among the gods | गच्छति (gacchati) — goes.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

As soon as we have given the share of the oblation, Sadasaspati makes the sacrificer prosper and brings the sacrifice he has undertaken to a successful end without obstacle. And the deity, invoked and pleased, goes among the gods to praise the sacrificer; or, our speech of praise goes to the gods and is heard by them.

॥ English Translation ॥

And then he rewards the presenter of oblations ; brings the sacrifice to its conclusion ; our prayer then reaches the gods.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

आत् (āt) — "then"; "immediately after" (anantaram). Yāska, in the Nirukta (4-[?]), gives the sense atha, anantaram to the word āt in the rik yad ed adyed yuktā haritaḥ sadhasthād ātrī vāsas sunute simasmai (R. Saṃ. 1-[?]).

हविष्कृतिम् (haviṣkṛtim) — haviṣaḥ kṛtiḥ sampādanam yasya yajamānasya so 'yam haviṣkṛtiḥ — the sacrificer who offers oblations. Or, as Skandasvāmin says, haviṣkṛtiḥ haviṣkṛtām haviṣi sārako vṛddhāni karotīty arthaḥ [as read, uncertain]: haviṣkṛti means the act of giving the oblation; he makes it the most essential.

प्राज्यम् (prāñcam) — prakarṣeṇa gacchantam avighnena parisamāptiyuktaḥ karotīty arthaḥ: "he makes it go well, completed without obstacle".

होत्रा (hotrā) — hūyamānā devatā or asmadīyastutirūpā vāk: that is, the deity invoked in the sacrifice, or the speech of praise that we make: the two senses are given. Of these two, the second — vāk, speech — seems the natural one here. Since hotrā is read among the fifty-seven words for speech beginning with śloka, dhārā (Ni. 1-[?]), hotrā means "speech".

देवेषु गच्छति (deveṣu gacchati)

— that is, goes to the deities. If it refers to the deity, the sense is that the deity, pleased in the sacrifice, goes to the gods to tell that the sacrificer has satisfied him; if to speech, our praises go to the gods, or are made known to them and heard, so that they are satisfied.

Grammar pages (pp. 778 lower half–779 upper), noted briefly.

The Kannada treats haviṣkṛtim (haviṣaḥ kṛtiḥ sampādanaṃ yasya — a bahuvrīhi, first-member accent by P. 6-2-1), prāñcam (pra añcati; here pra stands as an upapada, and kvin is added by P. 3-2-59 ṛtvigdadhr̥ksragdigusṇigañcuyujikruñcām ca; the k, n, i are it, only v remains; the a dropped before kit/ñit suffix by P. 6-4-24 anidītāṃ halaḥ upadhāyāḥ kñiti; pra + ac + v; akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ: prāñc; the aṅga [stem] which is aniganta — not ending in ik — [and so añc] with gati takes the first-member accent by P. 6-2-52 [as read, aniginto 'ñcatau vapratyaye]; since pra is among the prefixes it is first-syllable accented upasargād abhyāsāt... [as read], and by P. 6-2-139 gatikārapapadāt kṛt the accent of the final member would come, but the pra's own accent stays, then the single-substituted vowel is udātta by P. 8-2-5; vero 'prktasya P. 6-1-67 drops the v; accusative am; ugidacāṃ sarvanāmasthāne 'dhātoḥ P. 7-1-70 gives num: prāñcam; naś cāpadāntasya jhali P. 8-3-24 gives anusvāra, then anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ P. 8-4-58 gives ñ), adhvaram (as before: na vidyate dhvaraḥ himsā yasmin; the accent of the final member by P. 6-2-172 nañsubhyām), and hotrā (hūyate 'smin; Uṇ. 4-[?]) huyāmāśrubhasibhyas tran — tran after hu "to give, to offer" [or yā, mā, śru, bhas, sibh]; the feminine denoting a deity by tāp; hotrā; the suffix has n-mark so first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197).
॥8॥

original pp. 779–782

Sūkta 18, Rik 9 (last rik of the sūkta)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नराशंसं सुधृष्टममपश्यं सप्रथस्तमम् । दिवो न सद्ममखसम् ॥९॥

narāśaṃsaṃ sudhr̥ṣṭamam apaśyaṃ saprathastamam | divo na sadmamakhasam || 9 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नराशंसम् । सुऽधृष्टमम् । अपश्यम् । सप्रथऽतमम् ॥ दिवः । न । सद्मऽमखसम् ॥९॥

*narāśaṃsam | su-dhr̥ṣṭamam | apaśyam | saprathaḥ-tamam
|| divaḥ | na | sadma-makhasam || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

नराशंसमेतन्नामकं देवविशेषम् । यद्वा । अवयवार्थवृत्त्या सदसस्पतिदेवताप[र]ोऽयं शब्दः । व्युत्पत्तिं च यास्को दर्शयति । नराशंसो यज्ञ इति काठुक्यो नरा अस्मिन्नासीनाः शंसन्त्यग्निरिति शाकपूणिनैः प्रशस्यो भवति । नि. [८-६] । इति । अत्राग्निवद्देवतायाः [?] नरैः शस्यमानत्वान्नराशंसत्वम् । एवमेवाभिप्रायं हृदि निधाय ब्राह्मणमेवमामनन्ति । प्रजा वै नरो वाक् शंसः । ऐ. ब्रा. [६-३२] । इति । अतो मनुष्यैः शस्यमानो यः सदसस्पतिर्यो वा नराशंसनामको देवस्तमपश्यम् । शास्त्रदृष्ट्या दृष्टवानस्मि । कीदृशम् । सुधृष्टमम् [इत्यादि] । ... सुधृष्टमम् । शोभनं धृष्णोतीति सुधृक् । क्विप् । क्विब्बा [?] । अतिशायनिकस्तमप् । सकारस्य जश्त्वाभावश्छान्दसः । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेन ऋकार उदात्तः । अपश्यम् । पाप्नेत्यादिना पश्यादेशः । लुङ्लङ्लृङ्क्ष्वडुदात्तः । पा. [६-४-७९] । इत्यट उदात्तत्वम् । पादादित्वान्न निघातः । सप्रथस्तमम् । प्रथ प्रख्याने । प्रथनं प्रथः । सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन् । नित्वाद्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । सह प्रथसा वर्तते इति । तेन सहेति तुल्ययोगे । पा. [२-२-२८] । इति बहुव्रीहिसमासः । वोपसर्जनस्य । पा. [६-३-८२] । इति सादेशः । पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वे प्राप्ते परादिश्छन्दसि बहुलमित्युत्तरपदाद्युदात्तत्वम् । दिवः । ऊडिदंपदाद्यप्पुमैद्युभ्यः । पा. [६-१-१७१] । इति विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । सद्ममखसम् । सीदन्त्यस्मिन्निति सद्म । षट् विशरणादौ । अन्येभ्योऽपि दृश्यन्ते इति मनिन् । नित्वाद्याद्युदात्तः । सद्म मखो यस्येति बहुव्रीहौ हकारस्य व्यत्ययेन खकारः ॥९॥

*narāśaṃsam etan-nāmakam deva-viśeṣam | yadvā |
avayavārtha-vṛṭtyā sadasaspati-devatā-p[ar]o 'yaṃ śabdaḥ |
vyutpattiṃ ca yāsko darśayati | narāśaṃso yajña iti kāṭṭhakyo narā asminn āsīnāḥ śaṃsanty agnir iti śākapūñir
naraiḥ praśasyo bhavati | ni. [8-6] | iti | atrāgnivad devatāyāḥ*

[?] naraiḥ śasyamānatvān narāśaṃsatvam | evam evābhiprāyaṃ hṛdi nidhāya brāhmaṇam evam āmananti |
 prajā vai naro vāk śaṃsaḥ | ai. brā. [6-32] | iti | ato manuṣyaiḥ śasyamāno yaḥ sadasaspatir yo vā narāśaṃsa-nāmako devas tam apaśyam | śāstra-dṛṣṭyā dṛṣṭavān asmi |
 kīdṛśam | sudhṛṣṭamam [ity-ādi] | ... sudhṛṣṭamam |
 śobhanaṃ dhr̥ṣṇotīti sudhṛk | kvip | kvib vā [?] | atīśāyanikas
 tamap | sakārasya jaśtvābhāvaś chāndasaḥ | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvena ṛkāra udāttaḥ | apaśyam | pāghrety-ādinā paśyādeśaḥ | luṇ-laṇ-lṛṇkṣv aḍudāttaḥ | pā. [6-4-71] | ity aṭa udāttatvam | pādādītvān na nighātaḥ | saprathastamam |
 pratha prakhyāne | prathanam prathaḥ | sarvadhātubhyo
 'sun | nittvād ādyudāttatvam | saha prathasā vartate iti |
 tena saheti tulyayoge | pā. [2-2-28] | iti bahuvrīhi-samāsaḥ | vopasarjanasya | pā. [6-3-82] | iti sādeśaḥ | pūrvapadaprakṛti-svaratve prāpte parādiś chandasi bahulam ity uttarapadādyudāttatvam | divaḥ |
 ūḍidam padādyappumraidyubhyaḥ | pā. [6-1-171] | iti
 vibhakter udāttatvam | sadmamakhasam | sīdanty asminn iti
 sadma | ṣadḷ viśaraṇāḍau | anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante iti manin |
 nittvād ādyudāttaḥ | sadma makho yasyeti bahuvrīhau
 hakārasya vyatyayena khakāraḥ | |9| |

Translation: "Narāśaṃsa is a particular god of that name; or, by the sense of its parts, this word applies to the deity Sadasaspati. And Yāska shows the derivation: 'Narāśaṃsa is the sacrifice, say the Kāthakyas — men seated in it praise; Agni, says Śākapūṇi, [is Narāśaṃsa], since he is praised by men' (Nirukta 8-6 [?]). Here, as with Agni, a deity praised by men is narāśaṃsa. With this same sense the Brāhmaṇa says: 'The people are nara; speech is śaṃsa' (Aitareya Brāhmaṇa [6-32 ?]). Therefore the god Sadasaspati — or the god named Narāśaṃsa — who is praised by men: him I have seen (apaśyam), seen by the vision of the śāstras. Of what sort? Sudhṛṣṭamam — the most bold [or: of the greatest daring], saprathastamam — the most renowned, divo na sadmamakhasam — of splendid might, like the home of heaven [the clauses are partly compressed, marked [?]]. The rest is grammar, noted briefly: sudhr̥ṣṭamam (su + dhṛṣ + kvip + tamap; the s not changing to j by Vedic licence); apaśyam (paśya for dr̥ś by P. 7-3-78; aṭ accented by P. 6-4-71 luṅlaṅlṛṅkṣv aḍudāttaḥ; the verb is not made unaccented as it begins the pāda); saprathastamam (prath "to spread, to be famous", asun; saprathas is a bahuvrīhi by P. 2-2-28 tena saheti tulyayoge, with the sa substitute by P. 6-3-82 vopasarjanasya; the final member's first-syllable accent given by "variously in the Veda"); divaḥ (the ending accented by P. 6-1-171 ūḍidaṃpadādyappumraidyubhyaḥ); sadmamakhasam (sadma from sad "to sink", the manin suffix "also seen with other roots"; sadma-makhaḥ a bahuvrīhi; kh for h by vyatyaya, so makhas for mahas).

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(अहम्) ((aham)) — I | सुधृष्टमम् (sudhr̥ṣṭamam) — endowed with the greatest courage | सप्रथस्तमम् (saprathastamam) — of the greatest renown | दिवः न (divaḥ na) — like the heavenly world | सद्गमखसम् (sadmamakhasam) — shining with great brilliance | नराशंसम् (narāśaṃsam) — Sadasaspati, praised by men; or the deity called Narāśaṃsa (Agni) | अपश्यम् (apaśyam) — I have seen.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

This Sadasaspati (or Narāśaṃsa) is of very great prowess, and very famous, and he shines with splendour like the heavenly world (where the sun, moon and the rest are). I have seen such a Sadasaspati (or Narāśaṃsa).

॥ English Translation ॥

I have seen Narasamsa the most valiant, the most renowned and radiant as the heavens.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

The deity of this rik is Sadasaspati or Narāśaṃsa. Although the name Sadasaspati does not occur in this rik, since the previous three riks have Sadasaspati as deity, and since the Anukramaṇikā says this rik has Sadasaspati or Narāśaṃsa as one deity, the word sadasaspatim must be supplied (adhyāhāra) as an adjective of narāśaṃsam, the commentator has taken the view that narāśaṃsa, by etymology, means "one praised by men", and so it describes Sadasaspati. Alternatively, if one takes Narāśaṃsa as the deity of this rik, there is no objection, since the word narāśaṃsam itself stands in the rik. Yāska explains the sense of the parts of this word as follows:

नराशंसो यज्ञ इति काठुक्यो नरा अस्मिन्नासीनाः शंसन्त्यग्निरिति शाकपूणिनैः प्रशस्यो भवति ॥ (नि. [८-६]) narāśaṃso yajña iti kāṭhakyō narā asminn āsīnāḥ śaṃsanty agnir iti śākapūṇir naraiḥ praśasyo bhavati || (ni. [8-6])

"Narāśaṃsa is the sacrifice, according to Kāṭhakyā, because men seated in it recite praise; according to Śākapūṇi, [Narāśaṃsa is] Agni, as he is to be praised by men." The Kannada adds: Kāṭhakyā's view is that narāśaṃsa means the sacrifice; Śākapūṇi's, the praiseworthy Agni, because men praise [him]. In this matter the commentator quotes the Aitareya Brāhmaṇa sentence prajā vai naro vāk śaṃsaḥ (Ai. Brā. [6-32 ?]) — nara means people or men; śaṃsa means speech. Therefore narāśaṃsaḥ means "he who is praised by people or by men". The word narāśaṃsa thus applies to any of the three deities — Sadasaspati, Narāśaṃsa, or Agni. We have already discussed this matter earlier [print: "in an earlier volume, p. [?]"].

सुधृष्टमम् (sudhr̥ṣṭamam) — śobhanaṃ dhr̥ṣṇotīti — one who has the highest courage (or the highest fixity).

सप्रथस्तमम् (saprathastamam) — pratha prakhyāne: saha prathasā vartate iti: "[the one] who has prathas, fame": hence "possessed of the greatest renown".

दिवो न (divo na)

— "like heaven". The comparison is not very exact. The ṛṣi may have had in his mind the sun, moon and other luminaries shining in heaven.

सद्ममखसम् (sadmamakhasam) — here kh has been used in place of h in mahasam by vyatyaya; so makhasam means mahasam. Sadma mahaḥ yasya saḥ sadmamahāḥ or sadmamakhāḥ — [a bahuvrīhi] "he who has a dwelling of [great] splendour" — that is, one who shines with great brilliance or splendour.

Grammar pages (pp. 781 lower half-782), noted briefly. The Kannada treats sudhr̥ṣṭamam (ñidhr̥ṣā prāgalbhye, of the svādi class; su "good", "dh̥r̥ṣnoti" in the sense intended; kvip ca P. 3-2-76; kvip's luk of all; atiśāyane tamabiṣṭhanau P. 5-3-55; sudhr̥ṣ + tama; jhalām jaś jhaśi P. 8-4-53 would give j → ḍ [here ṣ → ḍ], but this is Vedic [chāndasa] and does not happen; ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ P. 8-4-41 gives ṭ; accusative am; ami pūrvah; the r of dh̥r̥ṣ is accented by the root; when the compound is made with su, the accent of the final member [after gatikārapapadāt kṛt P. 6-2-139] stays), apaśyam (dṛśir prekṣaṇe; lañ, first singular mip; tasthasthamipām... P. 3-4-101 gives am; kartari śap P. 3-1-68; pāghrādhmā... P. 7-3-78 gives paśya for dṛś; paśya + am; ami pūrvah; luñlañlṛñkṣv aḍudāttah gives the accented aṭ; it begins the pāda so not wholly unaccented), saprathastamam (prath prakhyāne; prathanam prathah; sarvadhātubhyo 'sun; nit, first-syllable accent; saha prathasā vartate — tena saheti tulyayoge P. 2-2-28 [the word saha, which expresses the idea of simultaneity of two actions, is compounded with a word in the instrumental] — it is a bahuvrīhi; vopasarjanasya P. 6-3-82 gives sa for saha; sa + prathas; by bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam the first member's accent would stand, but "variously in the Veda" the last member, prathas, keeps its first-syllable accent; tamap), divah (ūḍidaṃpadādyappumraidyubhyaḥ P. 6-1-171 accents the ending), and sadmamakhasam (ṣadḷ viśaraṇagatyavasādaneṣu; dhātuvādeḥ ṣaḥ saḥ; anyebhyo 'pi dṛśyante P. 3-2-75 gives manin; the nit suffix gives first-syllable accent; sadma mahaḥ yasya saḥ sadmamahāḥ a bahuvrīhi; kh for h by vyatyayo bahulam P. 3-1-85, sadmamakhas; accusative am). ॥9॥

Close of Sūkta 18.

The grammar of Rik 9 ends at the foot of p. 782, followed by an ornament; the print has no large colophon here either.

॥ ಹತ್ತೊಂಭತ್ತನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು ॥ — Sūkta 19 — "prati tyam cārum adhvaram" ("The Nineteenth Sūkta"; second sūkta of the Fifth Anuvāka; last sūkta of this volume)

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ (introductory note on the application of the sūkta; printed p. 783, upper half)

प्रति त्यमिति नवर्चं द्वितीयं सूक्तम् । ऋषिच्छन्दसी पूर्ववत् । देवतात्वनुक्रम्यते ।
प्रतित्यमग्निर्मारुतमिति ॥ कारीरीष्ट्यां प्रति त्यमित्येषा धाय्या । तथा च सूत्रितम् । वर्षकामेष्टिः कारीरी तस्यां प्रति त्यं चारुमध्वरमीळे अग्निं स्वश्वसं नमोभिरिति धाय्ये । आ.
[२-१३?] इति ॥

*prati tyam iti navarcaṃ dvitīyaṃ sūktam | ṛṣi-chandasī pūrvavat | devatā tv anukramyate | prati-tyam agnir
mārutam iti | | kārīrīṣṭyāṃ prati tyam ity eṣā dhāyyā | tathā
ca sūtritam | varṣakāmeṣṭiḥ kārīrī tasyāṃ prati tyam cārum adhvaram īle agniṃ svaśvasaṃ namobhir iti dhāyye | ā.
[2-13?] iti | |*

Translation: "The nine-rik sūkta beginning prati tyam is the second [of this anuvāka]. Its ṛṣi and meter are as before [Medhātithi Kāṇva; Gāyatrī]. As to the deity, the Anukramaṇikā says: 'prati tyam: Agni and the Maruts.' In the kārīrī-iṣṭi [the sacrifice performed to obtain rain], this first rik prati tyam is the dhāyyā [verse of the 'laying down']. So it is laid down in the Sūtra:

'The kārīrī iṣṭi is for one who desires rain; in it the two dhāyyā verses are prati tyam cārum adhvaram and īle agniṃ svasvasam namobhiḥ' (Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra 2-[?], numeral not read)."

॥ Anuvāda (Kannada rendering) ॥ Prati tyam is the second sūkta of this fifth anuvāka; it has nine riks. As to its deity, the Anukramaṇikā says the deities of prati tyam are Agni and the Maruts. In the sacrifice called kārīrī-iṣṭi — a sacrifice performed for the sake of rain — the sūkta prati tyam is to be recited. In it the two riks prati tyam cārum adhvaram (Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-19-1) and īle agniṃ svasvasam namobhiḥ (Ṛ. Saṃ. [3-10-1]) are to be used as yājyā and puronuvākya verses, says the Āśvalāyana Śrauta-sūtra (Āś. [2-13]).

original pp. 783–786

Sūkta 19, Rik 1

॥ ॐ ॥

॥ Sūkta — 19 ॥ ॥ Maṇḍala — 1 ॥ Anuvāka — 5 ॥ Sūkta — 19 ॥ ॥
Aṣṭaka — 1 ॥ Adhyāya — 1 ॥ Varga — 36, 37 [?] ॥ ¹ ॥ Mantras
contained in this sūkta: 1–9 ॥ ॥ Ṛṣi — Medhātithi Kāṇva ॥ ॥
Devatā — Agni and the Maruts ॥ ॥ Chandaḥ — Gāyatrī ॥

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

प्रति त्वं चारुमध्वरं गोपीथाय प्र हूयसे । मरुद्भिर्ग्न आ गहि ॥१॥

prati tyam cārum adhvaram gopīthāya pra hūyase |
marudbhir agna ā gahi || 1 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²

1. small-print Kannada digits "೨೬, ೨೭", read at 150 dpi

2. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later riks of this volume.

प्रति । त्यम् । चारुम् । अध्वरम् । गोऽपीथाय । प्र । हूयसे ॥ मरुत्ऽभिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥१॥

prati | tyam | cārum | adhvaram | go-pīthāya | pra | hūyase
|| marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi || 1 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥ 3

त्यच्छब्दः सर्वनाम तच्छब्दपर्यायः । हे अग्ने यो यज्ञः शास्त्रोक्ताङ्गवैकल्यरहितस्त्वं [?] तथाविधं चारुमध्वरं प्रतिलभ्य गोपीथाय सोमपानाय प्र हूयसे । प्रकर्षेण त्वं हूयसे । तस्मादस्मिन्ध्वरे त्वं मरुद्भिर्देवविशेषैः सहा गहि । आगच्छ । सेयमृग्यास्केनैवं व्याख्याता । त्वं प्रति चारुमध्वरं सोमपानाय प्रहूयसे सोऽग्ने मरुद्भिः सहागच्छ । नि. [१०-४६] । इति ॥ प्रति । निपात आद्युदात्तः । त्यम् । त्यादीनाम् । पा. [७-२-१०२] ... चारुम् । द्व्यसनिजनिचरिचटिभ्यो [?] इञुण् । उ. [१-३] ... गोपीथाय । निशीथगोपीथावगथाः । उ. [२-९] । इति थक्प्रत्ययान्तो निपातितः । प्र । निपातस्वरः ॥१॥

tyac-chabdaḥ sarvanāma tac-chabda-paryāyaḥ | he agne yo yajñāḥ śāstroktāṅga-vaikalya-rahitas tvam [?] tathāvidham cārum adhvaram pratilabhya gopīthāya soma-pānāya pra hūyase | prakarṣeṇa tvam hūyase | tasmād asminn adhware tvam marudbhir deva-viśeṣaiḥ sahā gahi | āgaccha | seyam ṛg yāskenaivam vyākhyātā | tyam prati cārum adhvaram soma-pānāya prahūyase so 'gne marudbhiḥ sahāgaccha | ni. [10-46] | iti || prati | nipāta ādyudāttaḥ | tyam | tyādīnām | pā. [7-2-102] ... cārum | dvyasani-jani-cari-caṭibhyo [?] iñuṇ | u. [1-3] ... gopīthāya | niśītha-gopīthāvagathāḥ | u. [2-9] | iti thak-pratyayānto nipātitaḥ | pra | nipāta-svaraḥ || 1 ||

Translation: "The word tya is a pronoun, a synonym of tad. O Agni! You, [having obtained] this adhvara — the sacrifice complete in its parts as the śāstras direct [the clause is partly unclear, marked [?]] — a lovely one (cārum), are summoned (pra hūyase) gopīthāya — for the drinking of soma. You are summoned most earnestly. Therefore, at this sacrifice, do come together with the Maruts, a particular class of gods. Yāska has explained this rik so: 'tyaṃ prati cāruṃ adhvaraṃ somapānāya prahūyase so 'gne marudbhiḥ sahāgaccha' (Nirukta [10-46 ?]). Prati — a particle, first-syllable accent. Tyam — [the pronouns] beginning with tyad, P. 7-2-102. Cārum — the Uṇādi iñuṇ after caṭ [or car]. Gopīthāya — niśītha-gopīthāvagathāḥ, Uṇ. 2-9: the thak-ending words by nipātana. Pra — a particle with the accent of particles." ⁴

Grammar pages (pp. 785 lower half-786), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: prati (a particle; nipātā ādyudāttāḥ Phiṭ [1-?] gives first-syllable accent), tyam (tyad belongs to the tyadādi group; the accent is end-accent by Phiṭ-sūtra phiṣo 'nta udāttāḥ [Phiṭ 1-1]; tyad + am; tyadādīnām aḥ P. 7-2-102 gives a for the final d; ato guṇe P. 6-1-97 pararūpa; ami pūrvāḥ P. 6-1-107; the single substituted vowel is accented by P. 8-2-5 ekādeśa udāttanodāttāḥ, and the pūrvārūpa that results is itself ekādeśa so accented too), cārum (dvyasanijanicaraciṭibhya iñuṇ Uṇ. 1-[?], from dvi "to split", paṇ "to give", jan "to be born", car "to move", caṭ "to split"; here car + u, the i/ñ/ṇ being it; ata upadhāyāḥ P. 7-2-116 gives vrddhi: cāru; the suffix has ñ so first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197; accusative am), gopīthāya (niśītha-gopītha-avagathāḥ Uṇ. 2-[?]: these three, niśītha, gopītha and avagatha, are given by nipātana as formed with the suffix thak; the commentator on the Vṛtti explains gopītha as "a bathing-place" [tīrtha], while the Vedabhāṣya-kāra says it means somapāna, soma-drinking; dative ne → ya), and pra (a particle, accent as stated). ||1|| ⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | चारुम् (cārum) — free from defects of deficiency or excess, hence lovely; or [that which is] complete | अध्वरम् प्रति (adhvaram prati) — to that sacrifice | त्यम् (tyam) —

4. Grammar, noted briefly; Uṇādi and Nirukta numerals marked [?]; the standard rule P. 7-2-102 is as read.

5. Numerals as read; pointers only.

[you] to that | गोपीथाय (gopīthāya) — for the drinking of soma | प्र हूयसे (pra hūyase) — you are summoned | ⁶ मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with the deities called the Maruts | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! You are summoned to every excellent sacrifice that is performed without defect of deficiency or excess, in order to drink soma. Therefore, come here now, together with the Marut-deities.

॥ English Translation ॥ ⁷

O Agni, to every perfect and handsome sacrifice you are invoked to drink Soma ; come hither, Agni, with the Maruths.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

Yāska has explained this rik in the Nirukta; the explanation is the same as that given by the commentator. There is no variation in it.

त्यम् = तम् (tyam = tam) — this is a pronoun. By vyatyaya, tyam stands in place of tam. [To show that] the word tyā has the sense of tad, we give two rikṣ as examples:

त्यं चिदत्रिमृतजुरमर्थमश्वं न यातवे । (ऋ. सं. [१०-१४३-१]) tyam cid atrim rtajuram artham aśvaṁ na yātave | (ṛ. saṁ. [10-143-1])
त्वं सुमेषं महयो स्वर्विदं शतं यस्य सुभ्वः साकमीरते । (ऋ. सं. [१-५३-१ ?]) [the print is partly unclear here: tyam sumeṣaṁ mahayo svarvidaṁ śataṁ yasya subhvaḥ sākam īrate — marked [?]; Ṛ. Saṁ.
[1-53-1 ?]]

त्यम् षु वाजिनं देवजूतं सहावानं तरुतारं रथानाम् । (ऋ. सं. [१०-१७८-१]) tyam ū ṣu vājinaṁ devajūtaṁ sahāvānaṁ tarutāraṁ rathānām | (ṛ. saṁ.
[10-178-1])

6. therefore

7. as printed in the source

उदु त्यं जातवेदसं देवं वहन्ति केतवः । (ऋ. सं. [१-५०-१]) ud u tyam jātavedasaṃ devaṃ vahanti ketavaḥ | (ṛ. saṃ. [1-50-1])

and so on. In these rikṣ the word tyam has the sense tam ("that"). ⁸

गोपीथाय (gopīthāya) — The word go means cow, water, ray, praise (stotr), soma [?], speech, and many other senses; but here the commentator takes it to mean soma. The Vedārtha-yatna-kāra and some others take go to mean milk or butter. This is not very consistent; the sense soma given by the commentator is the right one.

The last line of every rik of this sūkta is marudbhir agna ā gahi, repeated like a refrain.

original pp. 786–788

Sūkta 19, Rik 2

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

नहि देवो न मर्त्यो महस्तव क्रतुं परः । मरुद्भिर्गन् आ गहि ॥२॥
nahi devo na martyo mahas tava kratum paraḥ | marudbhir
agna ā gahi | | 2 | |

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ⁹

नहि । देवः । न । मर्त्यः । महः । तव । क्रतुम् । परः ॥ मरुद्भिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥२॥
nahi | devaḥ | na | martyaḥ | mahaḥ | tava | kratum | paraḥ
 | | marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi | | 2 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने महो महस्तव सम्बन्धिनं क्रतुं कर्मविशेषमुल्लङ्घ्य परो नहि उत्कृष्टो देवो न भवति खलु । तथा मर्त्यो मनुष्यश्च परो न भवति । ये मनुष्यास्त्वदीयं क्रतुमनुतिष्ठन्ति ये च देवास्त्वदीये क्रताविद्यन्ते त एवोत्कृष्टा इत्यर्थः । मरुद्भिरित्यादि पूर्ववत् ॥ नहि ।

8. The citations are read from the Kannada print; all reference numerals are small and marked [?].

9. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.

एवमादीनामन्त इत्येकोदात्तः । देवः । पचाद्यञन्तः । क्षित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः । महः ।
 महतेस्तलोपश्छान्दसः । बृहन्महतोरुपसंख्यानम् । [पा. ६-१-१६८-१] । इति
 विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । तव । युष्मदस्मदोर्दसीत्यादिनाद्युदात्तत्वम् । क्रतुम् । कृजः केतुः [?] ।
 उ. [१-२८] । प्रत्ययाद्युदात्तत्वम् । गहि । गम्लृ । लोटः सेर्हिः । बहुलं छन्दसीति शपो लुक् ।
 अनुदात्तोपदेशेत्यादिनानुनासिकलोपः । तस्यासिद्धवदत्राभादित्यसिद्धत्वादतो हेरिति लुङ् भवति । निघातः ॥२॥

*he agne maho mahatas tava sambandhinam kratum karma-viśeṣam ullaṅghya paro nahi utkr̥ṣṭo devo na bhavati khalu |
 tathā martyo manuṣyaś ca paro na bhavati | ye manuṣyās tvadīyaṃ kratum anuṭiṣṭhanti ye ca devās tvadīye kratāv
 vidyante ta evotkr̥ṣṭā ity arthaḥ | marudbhir ity-ādi pūrvavat
 | | nahi | evam-ādinām anta ity ekodāttaḥ | devaḥ | pacādy-
 ac-antaḥ | kṣittvād antodāttaḥ | mahaḥ | mahates talopas
 chāndasaḥ | bṛhan-mahator upasaṃkhyānam | [pā.
 6-1-168-1] | iti vibhakter udāttatvam | tava | yuṣmad-asmador ṇasi ity-ādinādyudāttatvam | kratum | kṛñāḥ ketuḥ
 [?] | u. [1-28] | pratyayādyudāttatvam | gahi | gaml̥ | loṭaḥ ser hiḥ | bahulaṃ chandasīti śapo luk | anudāttopadeśetyādinānunāsika-lopaḥ | tasyāsiddhavad atrābhād ity asiddhatvād ato her iti luṅ na bhavati | nighātaḥ | | 2 | |*

Translation: "O Agni! No god is greater (paraḥ, 'superior') than your great (mahaḥ) kratu — your particular act [of the rite], surpassing it; nor is any mortal, any human, superior. Those men who perform your kratu, and those gods who are present at your kratu, are the ones who are excellent: that is the sense. [The refrain] marudbhiḥ ... is as before." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: nahi (end-accent by the Phit list evamādinām antaḥ); devaḥ (div + ac of the pacādi class; since the ac has the mark ñit/kṣit, end accent [as read]); mahaḥ (mahat with the loss of t, Vedic; the ending accented by the Vārttika on P. 6-1-168); tava (the substitute tava for yuṣmad + ṇas with first-syllable accent); kratum (kṛ + Uṇādi ketu [Uṇ. 1-28], with the suffix-first accent [?]);

gahi (as at 1.14.2: gam, loṭ, hi, the śap dropped; the nasal dropped; hi is not dropped by ato heḥ because the nasal-drop is treated as not-yet-done by P. 6-4-22 asiddhavad atrābhāt).¹⁰

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | महः (mahah) — the greatest | तव (tava) — your | क्रतुम् (kratum) — action (the sacrifice) | उल्लङ्घ्य (ullaṅghya) — to transgress, to go beyond | परः (paraḥ) — superior | देवः (devah) — god | नहि (nahi) — is not |¹¹ मर्त्यः (martyah) — man |¹² न (na) — is not |¹³ मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with the Marut deities | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! The act or the sacrifice that is yours is the greatest. Neither a god nor a man is able to go beyond it. Therefore come here, together with the Marut deities.

॥ English Translation ॥

Neither god nor man has power over a rite (dedicated) to you who are great : come hither, Agni, with the Maruths.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

महः (mahah) — mahataḥ: of the highest, or of one of great strength, of much power. Here the letter t is dropped.

क्रतुम् (kratum) — this word has two senses, karman "action" (Ni. [2-1]) and prajñā "wisdom" (Ni. [3-9]); but the commentator gives only the sense "action".

Grammar pages (p. 787 lower half), noted briefly. The Kannada treats nahi (a word of the vivādi group, end-accented by the Phiṭ-sūtra vivādīnām antaḥ [Phiṭ 4-[[?]]) and devah (divu

10. Grammar, noted briefly.

11. and

krīḍāyām; pacādi; nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ P. 3-1-134 gives ac; pugantalaghūpadhasya ca P. 7-3-86 gives guṇa; the suffix, having the mark c, is accented on its end by P. 6-1-163 cit, giving deva). ||2||

original pp. 788-792

Sūkta 19, Rik 3

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये महो रजसो विदुर्विश्वे देवासो अद्रुहः । मरुद्भिर्गन् आ गहि ॥३॥

ye maho rajaso vidur viśve devāso adruhaḥ | marudbhir agna ā gahi ||3||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये । महः । रजसः । विदुः । विश्वे । देवासः । अद्रुहः ॥ मरुत्भिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥३॥

ye | mahaḥ | rajasaḥ | viduḥ | viśve | devāsaḥ | adruhaḥ | | marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi ||3||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने ये मरुतो महो रजसो महत उदकस्य वर्षणप्रकारं विदुः । तैर्मरुद्भिरित्यन्वयः । कीदृशा मरुतः । विश्वे सर्वे सप्तविधगणोपेताः । सप्तगणा वै मरुतः । तै. सं. [१-२-११-१] । इति श्रुतेः । देवासो द्योतमाना अद्रुहो द्रोहरहिता वर्षणेन सर्वभूतोपकारित्वात् । तथा चोपरिष्ठादाम्नायते । उदीरयथा मरुतः समुद्रतो यूयं वृष्टिं वर्षयथा पुरीषिणः । ऋग्वेदे [५-५३-६] । इति । शाखान्तरेऽपि मन्त्रान्तरस्य ब्राह्मणमेवमाम्नायते । मरुतां पृषतयः स्थेत्याह मरुतो वै वृष्ट्यै ईशते इति । रजःशब्दो यास्केन बहुधा व्याख्यातः । रजो रजतेज्योतिर्वा रज उच्यते उदकं रज उच्यते । लोका रजांस्युच्यन्ते । नि. [४-१९] । इति ॥ रजसः । नब्विषयस्यानिसन्तस्येत्यादिनाद्युदात्तः । विदुः । विद ज्ञाने । विदो लटो वा । पा. [३-४-८३] । इति झेरुसादेशः । प्रत्ययस्वरः । यद्वृत्तयोगान्न निघातः । विश्वे । विशेः क्वनन्तस्य

12. also

13. therefore you

नित्वाद्याद्युदात्तत्वम् । देवासः । आज्जसेरसुक् । देवशब्दः पचाद्यजन्तः । चित्त्वादन्तोदात्तः ।
अद्रुहः । सम्पदादित्वाद्भावे क्विपि बहुव्रीहौ नञ्सुभ्यामित्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । कर्तरि वाक्विप् [?] ।
तत्पुरुषे हि [?] तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थतृतीया... । अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥३॥ *he agne ye maruto maho rajaso mahata udakasya varṣaṇaprakāraṃ viduḥ | tair marudbhir ity anvayaḥ | kīdrśā

marutaḥ | viśve sarve saptavidha-gaṇopetāḥ | sapta-gaṇā vai
marutaḥ | tai. saṃ. [1-2-11-1] | iti śruteḥ | devāso dyotamānā
adruho droha-rahitā varṣaṇena sarva-bhūtopakāritvāt | tathā copariṣṭād āmnāyate | udīrayathā marutaḥ samudrato yūyaṃ
vṛṣṭiṃ varṣayathā puriṣiṇaḥ | ṛgvede [5-53-6] | iti |
śākhāntare 'pi mantrāntarasya brāhmaṇam evam āmnāyate |
marutāṃ prṣatayaḥ sthety āha maruto vai vṛṣṭyai īsate iti |
rajaḥ-śabdo yāskena bahudhā vyākhyātaḥ | rajo rajater jyotir
vā raja ucyate udakaṃ raja ucyate | lokā rajāṃsy ucyante |
ni. [4-19] | iti | | rajasaḥ | nab-viṣayasyāniṣantasyetyādinādyudāttaḥ | viduḥ | vida jñāne | vido laṭo vā | pā.
[3-4-83] | iti jher usādeśaḥ | pratyaya-svaraḥ | yad-vṛtta-
yogān na nighātaḥ | viśve | viśeḥ kvananta-sya nittvād
ādyudāttatvam | devāsaḥ | āj jaser asuk | deva-śabdaḥ pacādy-ajantaḥ | cittvād antodāttaḥ | adruhaḥ | sampadādītvād bhāve kvipi bahuvrīhau nañ-subhyām ity
antodāttatvam | ... ||3||*

Translation: "O Agni! Those Maruts who know (viduḥ) the way in which great (mahaḥ) rajas — great waters — is made to rain: with those Maruts [come] — that is the construction. What sort of Maruts? Viśve — all, having the seven-fold gaṇa ('The Maruts are seven-troop' — Taittirīya Saṃhitā [1-2-11-1], so the śruti says); devāsaḥ — shining; adruhaḥ — free from malice (droha), since by raining they benefit all beings. And so it is read further on [in the mantra]: 'udīrayathā marutaḥ samudrato yūyaṃ vṛṣṭiṃ varṣayathā puriṣiṇaḥ' — 'You, O Maruts, raise [the waters] from the sea; you, full of water, cause the rain to fall' (Ṛg-veda [5-53-6]). In another recension too a Brāhmaṇa of another mantra reads thus: 'marutām prṣatayaḥ sthety āha maruto vai vṛṣṭyai īśate' — 'He says "you are the spotted deer of the Maruts"; the Maruts indeed have power over rain.' The word rajas has been explained in many ways by Yāska: 'rajaḥ — from raj "to shine"; light is called rajas; water is called rajas; worlds are called rajāṃsi' (Nirukta [4-19])." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: rajasah (first-syllable accent by the rule on neuter words not ending in ni or s...); viduḥ (vid "to know", jhi → us by P. 3-4-83 vido laṭo vā; the verb is not made unaccented because of the relative ye); viśve (viś + kvan; first-syllable accent through the n); devāsaḥ (the asuk ending, P. 7-1-50); adruhaḥ ("those who have no droha", kvip in the abstract sense; the bahuvrīhi with the accent of the final member by P. 6-2-172).¹⁴

Grammar pages (pp. 790 lower half–792 upper), noted briefly.

The Kannada treats: rajasah (the word rajas is a neuter noun; "nabviṣayasyāṇiśantasya" P. 6-1-219 [as read] gives first-syllable accent to a neuter word not ending in -is/-ṣ-, hence rajaḥ, genitive singular), viduḥ (vid jñāne; laṭ third plural jhi, which by P. 3-4-83 vido laṭo vā is replaced optionally by us; vid + us; the long Kannada explanation of the substitutes ṇal, atus, us, ṇal, va, ma [P. 3-4-82 parasmaipadānām ṇalatusus-thalathusaṇalvamāḥ] for the nine parasmaipada endings of the perfect; the verb is not made wholly unaccented since it follows the relative ye, P. 8-1-66 yadvṛttān nityam; the suffix accent remains), viśve (viś praveśane + kvan [Uṇ. 1-[?] aśūpruṣi...]; first-syllable accent; jas → śī; the ś dropped, viśva + ī; ād guṇaḥ gives e), devāsaḥ (divu + ac by P. 3-1-134 nandigrahipacādibhyo lyuṇinyacaḥ; guṇa; the c-mark gives end accent by P. 6-1-163 cit; jas + asuk by P. 7-1-50 āj jaser asuk, in which the k makes asuk the end of the stem; savarṇadīrgha; ru, visarga), and, at great length, adruhaḥ — druḥ jighāṃsāyām with kvip by P. 3-2-61 or by P. 3-2-76 kvip ca in the abstract sense; the bahuvrīhi na druhaḥ yeṣām te has first-

14. Grammar, noted briefly; the Ṛgveda reference numerals are as read and marked [?], and P. 3-4-83 agrees with the standard numbering.

member accent by P. 6-2-1 bahuvrīhau prakṛtyā pūrvapadam, which would make adruhaḥ first-syllable accented; but nañsubhyām P. 6-2-172 overrides it with end accent on the last member; alternatively kvip ca P. 3-2-76 [the Kannada's reading of P. 3-2-76]; the alternative analysis as a tatpuruṣa na druhaḥ, with tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtīyāsaptamyupamānāvyayadvitīyākṛtyāḥ P. 6-2-2 giving first-member accent and gatikārapapadāt kṛt P. 6-2-139 giving final-member accent, the latter prevailing in the compound of a kṛdanta with a word that is neither gati nor kāraka — here na is neither [na is upapada], so the final-member accent holds anyway, "no obstacle"; the Kannada concludes that the Vedabhāṣya's reading of the tatpuruṣa with yato nañ na gatiṃ na ca kāraka... is a slight inexactness, because na has no kāraka-name; hence the tatpuruṣa is not mentioned there and only the bahuvrīhi is to be maintained). ||3|| ¹⁵

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

अद्रुहः (adruhaḥ) — free from malice (doing only good) | विश्वे (viśve) — complete, having seven-fold troops | ये देवासः (ye devāsaḥ) — those luminous deities | महः (mahaḥ) — great | रजसः (rajasah) — of water (the way of raining) | विदुः (viduḥ) — who know | मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with such Marut deities | अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

The Marut deities are luminous and are in seven troops. They do no harm to anyone; they do only good by sending rain. They know how to make the rain fall in abundance. O Agni, come here together with such Marut deities.

॥ English Translation ॥

15. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read; pointers only.

Come, Agni, with the Maruts, who are all divine, and devoid of malignity and who know how to cause the descent of great waters.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

महः रजसः (mahaḥ rajasah) — of great water (rain). The word rajas is explained by Yāska: rajo rajateḥ jyotir vā raja ucyate udakaṃ raja ucyate | lokā rajāmsy ucyante (Ni. [4-19]) — that is, rajas means light, water, or world; here the commentator takes the sense water. The Vedārthayātnakāra gives the sense jyotiḥ (light); on his view the Maruts are those who move in the sky with much light. That sense too is appropriate here.

देवासः (devāsaḥ) — an ancient form of the word devāḥ; "gods".

विश्वे (viśve) — "all", i.e. with the seven troops; there is a śruti sentence saptagaṇā vai marutaḥ (Tai. Saṃ. [1-2-11-1]).

अद्रुहः (adruhaḥ) — droharahitāḥ: those who do no harm, i.e. those who do good to men by sending rain. In this matter the commentator quotes this rik:

उदीरयथा मरुतः समुद्रतो यूयं वृष्टिं वर्षयथा पुरीषिणः ॥ (ऋ. सं. [५-५३-६]) udīrayathā marutaḥ samudrato yūyaṃ vṛṣṭiṃ varṣayathā purīṣiṇaḥ | | (ṛ. saṃ. [5-53-6])

and the Brāhmaṇa sentence

मरुतां पृषतयः स्थेत्याह मरुतो वै वृष्ट्यै ईशते ॥ (तै. ब्रा.) marutām prṣatayaḥ
sthety āha maruto vai vṛṣṭyai īśate | | (tai. brā.)

These two make clear that the Maruts are the deities who give rain.

original pp. 792–795

Sūkta 19, Rik 4

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

य उग्रा अर्कमानचुरुनाधृष्टास ओजसा । मरुद्भिर्ग्न आ गहि ॥४॥

ya ugrā arkam āṇrcur anādhṛṣṭāsa ojasā | marudbhir agna ā gahi ||4||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये । उग्राः । अर्कम् । आनृचुः । अनाधृष्टासः । ओजसा ॥ मरुत्भिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥ ४॥

*ye | ugrāḥ | arkam | āṇrcuḥ | anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ | ojasā | |
marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi | |4||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे मरुत उग्रास्तीव्राः सन्तोऽर्कमुदकमानृचुः अर्चितवन्तः । वर्षणेन सम्पादितवन्त इत्यर्थः ।
तैर्मरुद्भिरित्यन्वयः । कीदृशा मरुतः । ओजसा बलेनानाधृष्टासोऽतिरस्कृताः । सर्वेभ्योऽपि
प्रबला इत्यर्थः । अर्कशब्दस्योदकवाचित्वं वाजसनेयिन आमनन्ति । आपो वा अर्कः । शत.
ब्रा. [१०-६-५-१] । इति । तन्निर्वचनं च त एवामनन्ति । सोऽर्चन्नचरत्तस्यार्चत
आपोऽजायन्तार्चते वै मे कमभूदिति तदेवार्कस्यार्कत्वम् । शत. ब्रा. [१०-६-५-१] । इति ।
जगत्सृष्ट्वा हिरण्यगर्भ उदकं सृष्टुमुद्यक्तो ऽर्चन्नुदकसत्यसङ्कल्पमहिमप्रख्यापनेन स्वात्मानं
पूजयन्नचरत् । तथा पूजयतो हिरण्यगर्भस्य सकाशादुदकमुत्पन्नम् । तदानीमर्चतो मत्तः
कमभूदित्यवोचत् । तेनोदकस्यार्कनाम निष्पन्नमित्यर्थः ॥ आनृचुः । अर्च पूजायाम् । लिट् झि
। ... अनाधृष्टासः । अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । ओजसा । उब्जेर्बलोपश्च । उ. [४-१८१ ?]
। इत्यसुन् । नित्वाद्याद्युदात्तः ॥४॥

*he maruta ugrās tivrāḥ santo 'rkam udakam āṇrcuḥ arcitavantah | varṣaṇena sampāditavanta ity arthaḥ | tair
marudbhir ity anvayaḥ | kīdrśā marutaḥ | ojasā balenānādhṛṣṭāso 'tiraskṛtāḥ | sarvebhyo 'pi prabalā ity arthaḥ | arka-śabdasyodaka-vācitvaṃ vājasaneyina āmananti
| āpo vā arkaḥ | śata. brā. [10-6-5-1] | iti | tan-nirvacanaṃ ca ta evāmananti | so 'rcann acarat tasyārcata āpo 'jāyantārcate
vai me kam abhūd iti tad evārkasyārkatvam | śata. brā.
[10-6-5-1] | iti | jagat sṛṣṭvā hiraṇyagarbha udakam sraṣṭum udyakto 'rcann udaka-satya-saṅkalpa-mahima-prakhyāpanena svātmānaṃ pūjayann acarat | tathā pūjayato*

*hiranyagarbhasya sakāśād udakam utpannam | tadānīm
arcato mattaḥ kam abhūd ity avocat | tenodakasyārka-nāma
niṣpannam ity arthaḥ || āṇṛcuḥ | arca pūjāyām | liṭ jhi | ...
anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ | avyaya-pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | ojasā
| ubje rbalopas ca | u. [4-181 ?] | ity asun | nittvād
ādyudāttaḥ || 4 ||*

Translation: "O Maruts! Being fierce (ugrāḥ), they āṇṛcuḥ — have worshipped, have produced — the arka, the water: that is, they have accomplished [it] by raining. [The construction is] 'with those Maruts [come]'. What sort of Maruts? Anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ — unassailed, unsurpassed, by (ojasā) strength: stronger than all. That the word arka means 'water' the Vājasaneyins read: 'āpo vā arkaḥ — 'water, indeed, is arka' (Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa [10-6-5-1]); and the explanation of that they too read: 'so 'rcann acarat tasyārcata āpo 'jāyantārcate vai me kam abhūd iti tad evārkasyārkavam' — 'He went about worshipping; from him, worshipping, the waters were born; "for me, worshipping, there has been kam [water, happiness]" — that is the arka-ness of arka.' Meaning: Hiraṇyagarbha, having created the world, and wishing to create water, set out worshipping — worshipping his own self by proclaiming the greatness of the truth of his resolve for water. As he thus worshipped, water was born from Hiraṇyagarbha; then he said, "To me who worship, there has been kam"; from that the water got the name arka." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: āṇṛcuḥ (arc "to worship", the perfect, with the reduplication in ā); anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ (a compound with a particle as first member, with that member's accent); ojasā (ubj "to be straight", with the loss of b, Uṇādi asun; first-syllable accent).¹⁶

Grammar pages (pp. 794 lower half–795), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: āṇṛcuḥ (arc pūjāyām; liṭ, third plural jhi → us by P. 3-4-82; arc + us; doubling by P. 6-1-8 liṭi dhātor anabhyāsasya;

16. Grammar, noted briefly; Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa numerals are as read and marked [?].

the consonants of the reduplicative dropped by halādiḥ śeṣaḥ P. 7-4-60; ata ādeḥ P. 7-4-70 lengthens the reduplicative a, so ā-arc-us; tasmān nuḍ dviḥalaḥ P. 7-4-71 gives the augment nuḍ to a two-consonant root after a lengthened vowel: ānarc-us; saṃprasāraṇa of r to ṛ in the reduplicative by the nipātana of P. 6-1-36 apasṛdhethām āṇṛcuḥ āṇṛhuś cicyuṣe tatnikṣe tatrikṣe... [the Kannada gives the full sūtra: apasṛdhethām āṇṛcur āṇṛhuś cicyuṣe tatrikṣe tatriśāte tatriśre ... śrīñ... as read]; the rule applies to āṇṛcuḥ, āṇṛce and āṇṛhuḥ; the Kannada notes that the same process applies to āṇṛce and so on; yadvṛttān nityam P. 8-1-66 prevents the verb from losing its accent, so the accent of the suffix remains), anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ (na ādhṛṣṭāḥ; ājaser asuk; tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtīyā... P. 6-2-2 gives first-member accent for na), and ojasā (ubj āṛjave; ubjer bal-lopaś ca Uṇ. 4-[?]) gives asun after ubj in the sense of strength, with the loss of b; uj + as; guṇa; first-syllable accent through the n; instrumental ṭā). ॥4॥ ¹⁷

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

उग्राः (ugrāḥ) — [Maruts who are] fierce (quick-going) | ओजसा (ojasā) — by strength | अनाधृष्टासः (anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ) — unassailable | ये (ye) — which Marut deities | अर्कम् (arkam) — water | आनृचुः (āṇṛcuḥ) — [have] caused to rain | ¹⁸ मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with the Marut deities | अग्ने (agne) — O Agni | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! Come here together with the Maruts, who have power that none can resist, and who blow swiftly and send down water as rain.

॥ English Translation ॥

17. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

18. such

O Agni, come hither with the Maruts, who are fierce (or blow fiercely) and send down rain and are unsurpassed in strength.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

उग्राः (ugrāḥ) — tīvrāḥ: those who blow swiftly.

अर्कम् (arkam) — water; we have already (p. [?]) explained the four kinds of meaning that Yāska gives for the word arka. Here the commentator gives udaka, water, for arka as another meaning, and to support it he quotes the sentence of the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa of the Śukla Yajurveda — so'rcann acarat tasyārcata āpo 'jāyantārcate vai me kam abhūd iti tad evārkasyārkatvam (Śa. Brā. [10-6-5-1]) — which he then explains: Hiraṇyagarbha (Prajāpati), having created the world, set out to create water and, being firmly resolved in truth, began to worship himself; as he worshipped, water was produced from his presence; then Prajāpati said, "from me, what is this that has been produced? (kam)": from that, because from worship (arcana) kam (water) arose, the water was named arka.

आनृचुः (ānṛcuḥ) — arcitavantah, varṣaṇena sampāditavantah: worshipped; i.e. brought about the water produced by the act of worship, by causing it to rain.

अनाधृष्टासः (anādhṛṣṭāsaḥ) — atiraskṛtāḥ, sarvebhyo 'pi prabalāḥ: those who cannot be insulted; the strongest of all, more powerful.

original pp. 795-798

Sūkta 19, Rik 5

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये शुभ्रा घोरवर्षसः सुक्षत्रासो रिशादसः । मरुद्भिस्म आ गहि ॥५॥

*ye śubhrā ghoravarpasaḥ sukṣatrāso riśādasah | marudbhir
agna ā gahi ||5||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये । शुभ्राः । घोरऽवर्पसः । सुऽक्षत्रासः । रिशादसः ॥ मरुत्ऽभिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥५॥

ye | śubhrāḥ | ghora-varpasah | su-kṣatrāsah | riśādasah ||
marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi || 5 ||

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ये मरुतः शुभ्रत्वादिगुणोपेताः शास्त्रैर्मरुद्धिरित्यन्वयः । शुभ्राः शोभना घोरवर्पसः उग्ररूपधराः सुक्षत्रासः शोभनधनोपेता रिशादसो हिंसकानां भक्षकाः । मघमित्यादिष्वष्टाविंशतिसंख्याकेषु धननामसु क्षत्रं भगे इति पठितम् ॥ शुभ्राः । स्वायुतंचेत्यादिना शुभेराणादिको रक्त्यैयः [?] । प्रत्ययस्वरः । घोरवर्पसः । घोरं वर्षो येषां बहुव्रीहौ पूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् । सुक्षत्रासः । बहुव्रीहौ नञ्सुभ्यामित्युत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वम् । आद्युदात्तं द्व्यच्छन्दसि । पा. [६-२-११९] । इत्येव तु न भवति । क्षत्रशब्दस्यान्तोदात्तत्वात् । रिशन्ति हिंसन्तीति रिशाः । तानदन्तीति रिशादसः । सर्वधातुभ्योऽसुन्तियैयः । नित्स्वरेणोत्तरपदमाद्युदात्तं । कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरेण स एव शिष्यते ॥५॥

ye marutaḥ śubhratvādi-guṇopetāḥ śāstrair marudbhir ity anvayaḥ | śubhrāḥ śobhanā ghoravarpasah ugra-rūpa-dharāḥ sukṣatrāsah śobhana-dhanopetā riśādaso himsakānām bhakṣakāḥ | maghamity-ādiṣv aṣṭāviṃśati-saṅkhyākeṣu
dhana-nāmasu kṣatram bhage iti paṭhitam || śubhrāḥ |
svāyutaṁ cety-ādinā śuber āṇādiko rakty-aiyah [?] | pratyaya-
svaraḥ | ghoravarpasah | ghoram varpo yeṣām bahuvrīhau
pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | sukṣatrāsah | bahuvrīhau
nañ-subhyām ity uttarapadāntodāttatvam | ādyudāttaṁ dvyac
chandasi | pā. [6-2-119] | ity eva tu na bhavati | kṣatra-śabdasyāntodāttatvāt | riśanti himsantīti riśāḥ | tān adantīti riśādasah | sarvadhātubhyo 'sun nity aiyah | nit-svareṇottarapadam ādyudāttaṁ | kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svareṇa sa eva śiṣyate || 5 ||

Translation: "Those Maruts who have the qualities of brilliance and the rest — [the construction] 'with those Maruts [come]' per the śāstras — śubhrāḥ — beautiful, bright; ghoravarpasah — bearing a terrible form; sukṣatrāsah — possessed of splendid wealth; riśādasah — devourers of the destructive [i.e. of foes who hurt]. Among the twenty-eight words for 'wealth' beginning with magha, kṣatra is read as 'wealth' [or: kṣatram bhage — 'in the sense of fortune']. The rest is grammar, noted briefly: śubhrāḥ (the Uṇādi suffix after śubh; suffix accent); ghoravarpasah (a bahuvrīhi, first-member accent); sukṣatrāsaḥ (a bahuvrīhi, final-member end-accent by P. 6-2-172, since kṣatra is end-accented; the rule P. 6-2-119 on first-syllable accent of a two-syllable word in the Veda is not applied); riśādasah (riś "to hurt" + ad "to eat" + asun; accent of the final member).¹⁹

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | ये (ye) — which Marut deities | शुभ्राः (śubhrāḥ) — endowed with the quality of brightness | घोरवर्पसः (ghoravarpasah) — wearing a terrible form | सुक्षत्रासः (sukṣatrāsaḥ) — possessed of excellent wealth | रिशादसः (riśādasah) — devourers of hostile foes (destroyers) | मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with such Marut deities | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! The Marut deities are always bright; fierce in strong form; endowed with excellent wealth; destroyers of enemies who harm. Come here with such Marut deities.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, come with the Maruths who are brilliant, have frightful forms who are possessors of great wealth and destroyers of the enemies.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

19. Grammar, noted briefly; numerals marked [?] or as read.

शुभ्राः (śubhrāḥ) — prakāśamānāḥ, svacchāḥ: shining, clear (the print adds the English "brilliant, resplendent, (transparent?)").

घोरवर्षसः (ghoravarpasaḥ) — ghorarūpāḥ: dvayor eṣāṃ nityayoḥ parasparavirodhivāt kālabhedena yojanā: "of two kinds, their mutual opposition to be resolved by a difference of time": śobhanāḥ krīḍākāle — "lovely in the time of play"; ghorarūpāḥ saṃgrāmakāle — "terrible in form in the time of battle"; or krūra (cruel) or frightful form [the print adds the English "of terrible or frightful forms"]. [The passage continues on p. 797: the grammar notes, treated below.] ²⁰

Rik 5, remaining Special Topics and grammar (p. 797), noted briefly. Śubhrāḥ — "shining" or "of gentle quality" (the print notes that the word may mean either "shining" or "having a gentle (saumya) quality"); ghoravarpasaḥ — "of terrible form"; the Kannada reconciles the two epithets (lovely, terrible) by a difference of time: at play they are gentle, in battle they are terrible in form. Sukṣatrāsaḥ — among the twenty-eight words for "wealth" beginning with magha, the word kṣatra is read (Ni. [2-10] — numeral marked [?]); so sukṣatrāsaḥ means "possessed of good wealth". Riśādasah — riśanti hiṃsantīti riśāḥ śatravaḥ, "those who hurt are riśāḥ, enemies; [the Maruts] devour (adanti) them": the destroyers of hurtful enemies. Grammar pages (p. 797 lower half), noted briefly: śubhrāḥ (śubh with the Uṇādi rak of the ujjvalādi [? "Oṇādika"] class, Uṇ. 2-[?] svāyūṃ taṭ śubhyo rak [as read, partly], suffix accent); ghoravarpasaḥ (vrj-śīrj-bhyām... Uṇ. 4-[?]: vrj "to cover", śīrj; rūpa; asun with the augment puṭ; varpas "form"; the bahuvrihi with the first-member accent, ghora being end-accented); sukṣatrāsaḥ (su-kṣatram = wealth; āj jaser asuk; the first-member accent would apply, but nañsubhyām P. 6-2-172 gives end accent on the final member; the rule ādyudāttaṃ dvyac chandasi P. 6-2-119, for a two-syllable word, would give first-

20. The Sanskrit of this passage is partly garbled in the print; I give it as read.

syllable accent after su, but does not apply because kṣatra is end-accented [two-syllable by ac count only if it is not otherwise accented]); riśādasah (riś hiṃsāyām; tān adanti — the root ad after the upapada riśa, with asun by P. 3-4-... sarvadhātubhyo 'sun [as printed]; the upapada is end-accent; by P. 6-2-139 gatikārakopapadāt kṛt the accent of the final member [kṛt stands). ॥5॥

original pp. 798–800

Sūkta 19, Rik 6

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये नाकस्याधि रोचने दिवि देवास आसते । मरुद्भिर्गन् आ गहि ॥६॥

ye nākasyādhi rocane divi devāsa āsate | marudbhir agna ā gahi || 6 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये । नाकस्य । अधि । रोचने । दिवि । देवासः । आसते ॥ मरुत्भिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥ ६॥

*ye | nākasya | adhi | rocane | divi | devāsaḥ | āsate | |
marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi | | 6 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ये मरुतो नाकस्याधि दुःखरहितस्य सूर्यस्योपरि दिवि द्युलोके रोचने दीप्यमाने ये देवासः स्वयमपि दीप्यमाना आसते । तैर्मरुद्भिरित्यन्वयः ॥ नाकस्य । कं सुखं । तद्यस्मिन्नास्त्यसावकः । इति बहुव्रीहिं कृत्वा पश्चान्नञ् । न अकः । नाक इति नञ्त्तत्पुरुषः । नलोपो नञः । पा. [६-३-७३] । इति लोपो न भवति । नभ्राणनपादित्यादिना । पा. [६-३-७५] । प्रकृतिभावात् । तत्पुरुषे तुल्यार्थेत्यादिना । पा. [६-२-२] । अव्ययपूर्वपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वेनोदात्तत्वम् । प्रथमतस्तत्पुरुषं कृत्वा पश्चाद्बहुव्रीहावुत्तरपदान्तोदात्तत्वं स्यात् । अधिशब्द उपर्यर्थे । उपसर्गप्रतिरूपको निपातः । रोचने । रुच दीप्तौ । अनुदात्तेश्च हलादेरिति युच् । चित इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । दिवि ।

ऊडिदमित्यादिना विभक्तेरुदात्तत्वम् । देवासः । आज्जसेरसुगित्त्वादसुक् । आसते । आस उपवेशने । अनुदात्तेत्त्वादात्मनेपदम् । ऋषस्यादेशः [?] । आदिप्रभृतिभ्यः शपः इति शपो लुक् । अनुदात्तेत्त्वान्नसार्वधातुकानुदात्तत्वम् । यद्वृत्तयोगान्न निघातः ॥६॥

*ye maruto nākasyādhi duḥkha-rahitasya sūryasyopari divi dyuloke rocane dīpyamāne ye devāsaḥ svayam api dīpyamānā
āsate | tair marudbhir ity anvayaḥ | | nākasya | kaṃ sukhaṃ
| tad yasminn nāsty asāv akaḥ | iti bahuvrīhiṃ kṛtvā paścān nañ | na akaḥ | nāka iti nañ-tatpuruṣaḥ | nalopo nañah | pā.
[6-3-73] | iti lopo na bhavati | nabhrāṇ-ṇapād ity-ādinā | pā.
[6-3-75] | prakṛtibhāvāt | tatpuruṣe tulyārthety-ādinā | pā.
[6-2-2] | avyaya-pūrvapada-prakṛti-svaratvenodāttatvam | prathamatas tatpuruṣaṃ kṛtvā paścād bahuvrīhāv uttarapadāntodāttatvaṃ syāt | adhi-śabda upary-arthe |
upasarga-pratirūpako nipātaḥ | rocane | rucā dīptau |
anudāttetaś ca halāder iti yuc | cita ity antodāttatvam | divi |
ūḍid-ity-ādinā vibhakter udāttatvam | devāsaḥ | āj jaser asug
gittvād asuk | āsate | āsa upaveśane | anudāttettvād
ātmanepadam | ... ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ iti śapo luk |
anudāttettvāl lasārvadhātukānudāttatvam | yad-vṛtta-yogān
na nighātaḥ || 6 ||*

Translation: "Those Maruts who — devāsaḥ, gods themselves shining — sit (āsate) in the shining (rocane) div, the heaven-world, above (adhi) the nāka — the sun, free of sorrow: with those Maruts [come]. Nākasya — kaṃ is 'happiness'; that in which there is no aka ('sorrow') is nāka: first it is made a bahuvrīhi, and afterwards the negative; na-akaḥ, a negative tatpuruṣa; the dropping of the n of the negative (P. 6-3-73) does not occur because of the prakṛtibhāva by P. 6-3-75 nabhrāṇnapāt...; the accent is the first-member accent of a particle by P. 6-2-2. Adhi is in the sense 'above', a particle that imitates a preposition. Rocane — ruc 'to shine', yuc by P. 3-2-149; the c-mark gives end accent.

Divi — the ending accented by P. 6-1-171. Āsate — ās 'to sit', middle voice from the anudāttet marking; śap dropped; the verb is not made unaccented because of the relative." ²¹

Grammar pages (pp. 799 lower half–800), noted briefly. The Kannada treats nākasya (kam = sukham; na vidyate kam sukham yasmin saḥ akaḥ = sorrow; a bahuvrīhi, whose final member aka, accented on the end by P. 6-2-172, is first formed, then compounded with the negative; nalopo nañāḥ P. 6-3-73 would drop the n of nañ before a vowel, but this does not occur here, by the list of exceptions nabhrāṇnapān... P. 6-3-75 giving prakṛtibhāva [the word nāka is among the nañ-compounds not dropping the n]; with the negative as a tatpuruṣa [nañ tatpuruṣa] and the particle nañ accented first-syllable by nipātā ādyudāttāḥ the compound has first-member accent by P. 6-2-2 [tatpuruṣe tulyārthatṛtīyā...]; the Kannada argues that one should first make the tatpuruṣa and then the bahuvrīhi, in which case final-member accent would result — but that is not the order), adhi (here with the sense upari, a particle resembling an upasarga; accent by nipātā ādyudāttāḥ; in nākasya adhi the a of the genitive ending is unaccented by svarita rule P. 6-1-... and the single substitute ekādeśa accent is udātta, so the following ka [of nāka] gets the svarita-based unaccented by P. 1-2-40), rocane (ruc dīptau, anudāttet; anudāttetaś ca halādeḥ P. 3-2-149 gives yuc; yuvor anākau P. 7-1-1 gives ana; pugantalaḥpādhasya ca; roca-ana; the c-mark gives end accent by P. 6-1-163; locative singular ñi → e), divi (ūḍidaṃ padādyappumraidyubhyaḥ P. 6-1-171 accents the ending after div), devāsaḥ (āj jaser asuk), and āsate (ās upaveśane, anudāttet; anudāttañita ātmanepadam P. 1-3-12 gives middle voice; laṭ third plural jha; śap dropped by P. 2-4-72; jha → at by P. 7-1-5 ātmanepadeṣv anataḥ, after a stem not ending in a; ṭita ātmanepadānām ṭer e P. 3-4-79; the verb is not made unaccented since it follows ye, by P. 8-1-66 yadvṛttān nityam; the discussion of

21. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-3-73 and 6-3-75 are given with [?] since the print's numerals were small.

tasmād ity uttarasya P. 1-1-67 and pūjanāt pūjitam P. 8-1-67, as in earlier riks; the verb ās being anudāttet the laṭ ending is unaccented by tāsyānudāttēṇiḍ... P. 6-1-186). ॥6॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | ये देवासः (ye devāsaḥ) — those Marut deities | नाकस्य (nākasya) — of the sun's orb that is free from sorrow | अधि (adhi) — above | रोचने (rocane) — in the shining | दिवि (divi) — in the heavenly world | आसते (āsate) — who sit | मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with those Marut deities | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! Come here with the Marut deities who dwell in the shining heaven that is above the sorrow-free orb of the sun.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, come hither with those divine Maruths who sit in resplendent heaven above the sky.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

नाकस्य (nākasya) — nāka means heaven; but since in this rik another word, divi, meaning heaven, also occurs, the commentator gives an etymology for nāka: kaṃ sukham — na vidyate 'kaṃ duḥkhaṃ yasmin — nāka; that is, a place of happiness without sorrow, heaven. Here nāka is said to be the orb of the sun; and adhi is explained as "above that".

original pp. 801–802

Sūkta 19, Rik 7

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥ ²²

ये ईङ्खयन्ति पर्वतान्तिरः समुद्रमर्णवम् । मरुद्भिरग्ने आ गहि ॥७॥

*ya īṅkhayanti parvatān tiraḥ samudram arṇavam | marudbhir
agna ā gahi || 7 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

ये । ईङ्खयन्ति । पर्वतान् । तिरः । समुद्रम् । अर्णवम् ॥ मरुत्ऽभिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥ ७॥

*ye | īṅkhayanti | parvatān | tiraḥ | samudram | arṇavam | |
marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi | | 7 | |*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ये मरुतः पर्वतान्मेघानीङ्खयन्ति चालयन्ति । तथार्णवमुदकयुक्तं समुद्रं तिरः कुर्वन्तीति शेषः । निश्चलस्य जलस्य तरङ्गाद्युत्पत्तये चालनं तिरस्कारः । तैर्मरुद्भिरित्यन्वयः ॥ ईङ्खयन्ति । उख उखी इत्यादावीखिगत्यर्थः [?] । हेतुमति चेति णिच् । इदितो नुम् धातोरिति नुम् । णिजन्तधातोरित्त्वादित्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । शपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । तिङश्च लसार्वधातुकस्वरेण धातुस्वर एव शिष्यते । पर्वतान् । पूर्व पर्व मर्व पूरणे । औणादिकोऽतन् । प्रत्ययस्वरः ॥७॥

*ye marutaḥ parvatān meghān īṅkhayanti cālayanti |
tathārṇavam udaka-yuktaṁ samudraṁ tiraḥ kurvanti śeṣaḥ | niścalasya jalasya taraṅgādy-utpattaye cālanam tiraskāraḥ |
tair marudbhir ity anvayaḥ | | īṅkhayanti | ukha ukhī ity-ādāv
īkhi-gaty-arthaḥ [?] | hetumati ceti ṇic | idito num dhātor iti
num | ṇijanta-dhātor ṇittvād ity antodāttatvam | śapaḥ
pittvād anudāttatvam | tiṇś ca lasārvadhātuka-svareṇa
dhātu-svara eva śiṣyate | parvatān | pūrva parva marva
pūraṇe | auṇādiko 'tan | pratyaya-svaraḥ | | 7 | |*

Translation: "Those Maruts who īṅkhayanti — shake, set in motion — the parvatas, the clouds; and, [the word kurvanti being supplied], they tiraḥ — put to scorn, agitate — the arṇava, the water-bearing ocean (samudra). To agitate still water so as to raise waves and so on is tiraskāra. With those Maruts [come] — that is the construction. Īṅkhayanti — [the root is of the group ukh, ukhī, etc., sense 'to go' (the print's first words are partly unclear [?]); the causative ṇic by P. 3-1-26 hetumati ca; num by P. 7-1-58 idito num dhātoḥ; the causative root, having the ñ-mark, has end accent [as read]; the verb is unaccented (śap being pit) and the root accent alone remains. Parvatān — the root pūrva, parva, marva 'to fill'; the Uṇādi suffix atan; suffix accent."

22. The print's first word is ये ईङ्खयन्ति, as in the Pada [ye īṅkhayanti]; I give the Saṃhitā in sandhi, ya īṅkhayanti, as the Kannada does in the Saṃhitā line.

Grammar pages (pp. 802 lower half–803 upper), noted briefly.

The Kannada says that īṅkhayanti comes from the root īṅkh — in the dāṇḍaka "ukhi... gatyarthāḥ" list [ukha ukhi... gatyarthāḥ, "roots meaning 'to go'"]; idit, so num by P. 7-1-58 [with the anusvāra/parasavarṇa of P. 8-3-24 naś cāpadāntasya jhali and P. 8-4-58, giving īṅkh]; "parvatāḥ īṅkhayanti — the Maruts move the clouds, they make mountains move"; the Maruts thus are prayojakakarṭṛ — instigating agents — and are given the name hetu by P. 1-4-55 tatprayojako hetuś ca and the agent-name; the Kannada explains hetumat — "one who has hetu" — and the ṇic by P. 3-1-26 hetumati ca; īṅkh + i [ṇic]; the ṇic has c so end-accent; then laṭ, jhi; jher antaḥ P. 7-1-3 gives ant for jh; śap with guṇa and ay [eco 'yavāyāvah], parāṅgavat — īṅkhayanti; śap is pit so unaccented; śap follows the relative-clause word, so by tāsyānudātenṇidadupadeśāt P. 6-1-186 the ending is unaccented and the root accent remains. Parvatān — from pūrva, parva, marva "to fill", with the Uṇādi atan; the suffix has n so the first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197, hence parvata is first-syllable accented; accusative plural. ||7||

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | ये (ye) — which Marut deities | पर्वतान् (parvatān) — clouds | ईङ्खयन्ति (īṅkhayanti) — shake (make move) | अर्णवम् (arṇavam) — [made full] of water | समुद्रम्

(samudram) — the ocean | तिरः (tiraḥ) — make surge and toss in waves | मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with such Marut deities | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! The Maruts have the strength to move the clouds; they make the great ocean, full of unfathomable water, toss and surge. Come here with such Marut deities.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, come hither with Maruths who scatter the clouds and agitate the sea (with waves).

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

पर्वतान् (parvatān) — adriḥ and the other words — among the thirty words for "cloud" beginning with adri, the word parvata is read (Ni. [1-10] — numeral marked [?]); hence parvata here means "cloud". Skandasvāmin gives two meanings to the word parvata: "mountain" and "cloud". However hard the wind blows, it is impossible for it to move a mountain; so to give the sense "cloud" here is appropriate.

तिरः (tiraḥ) — tiraskurvanti: here the word kurvanti must be supplied. Tiraskāra means making the sea toss and surge by the wind rising with force, like the waves that rise in the sea.

अर्णवम् (aṛṇavam) — aṛṇaḥ means water (Ni. [1-12] [?]); aṛṇavam is "that which has water", i.e. the ocean.

original pp. 803–805

Sūkta 19, Rik 8

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ ये तन्वन्ति रश्मिभिस्तिरः समुद्रमोजसा । मरुद्भिस्मन आ गहि ॥८॥

ā ye tanvanti raśmibhis tiraḥ samudram ojasā | marudbhir
agna ā gahi || 8 ||

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

आ । ये । तन्वन्ति । रश्मिऽभिः । तिरः । समुद्रम् । ओजसा ॥ मरुत्ऽभिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥८॥

ā | ye | tanvanti | raśmi-bhiḥ | tiraḥ | samudram | ojasā | |
marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi | | 8 | |

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

ये मरुतो रश्मिभिः सूर्यकिरणैः सहा तन्वन्ति आप्नुवन्ति । आकाशमिति शेषः । किञ्च ओजसा
स्वकीयबलेन समुद्रं तिरस्कुर्वन्ति । तैर्मरुद्भिरित्यन्वयः ॥ तन्वन्ति । तनु विस्तारे । लटो इयन्तः [?] । तनादिभ्यः कृञ्भ्य उः । पा. [३-१-७९] । सति शिष्टस्वरबलीयस्त्वमन्यत्र विकरणेभ्यः ।
... समुद्रम् । उन्दी क्लेदने । स्थायिताम्नेती रक्[?] । समासे कृदुत्तरपदप्रकृतिस्वरत्वम् ॥८॥

ye maruto raśmibhiḥ sūrya-kiraṇaiḥ sahā tanvanti āpnuvanti | ākāśam iti śeṣaḥ | kiṃca ojasā svakīya-balena samudraṃ tiraskurvanti | tair marudbhir ity anvayaḥ | | tanvanti | tanu vistāre | laṭo jhy antaḥ [?] | tanādibhyaḥ kṛñbhya uḥ | pā.
[3-1-79] | sati śiṣṭa-svara-baliyastvam anyatra vikaraṇebhyaḥ
| ... samudram | undī kledane | sthāyitām netī rak [?] |
samāse kṛd-uttarapada-prakṛti-svaratvam | | 8 | |

Translation: "Those Maruts who spread out (tanvanti), pervade — the sky (supplied) — together with the rays (raśmibhiḥ) of the sun; and further by their own strength (ojasā) they agitate the sea. With those Maruts [come]." The rest is grammar, noted briefly: tanvanti (tan 'to spread', laṭ third plural; the suffix u [uḥ] of the tanādi class and of kṛ by P. 3-1-79; the accent of the suffix prevails over that of the others [satiśiṣṭa] except for the vikaraṇas); samudram (und 'to wet' with the Uṇādi rak, saṃ as prefix; the final member's accent).²³

23. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi note is partly unclear [?].

Grammar pages (pp. 804 lower half–805 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada treats tanvanti (tanu vistāre; vartamāne laṭ P. 3-2-123; third plural jhi; jher jus — in the Kannada jhi → ant by P. 7-1-3 jho 'ntaḥ; tanādikṛñbhya uḥ P. 3-1-79 gives u [tanādi-class vikaraṇa] after the tanādi roots and kṛ; tan + u + anti; guṇa of u by P. 7-3-84 would give o, but sārvadhātukam apit P. 1-2-4 makes the ending ñit [the jhi/anti is not pit], so kniti ca P. 1-1-5 bars the guṇa; iko yaṇaci P. 6-1-77 gives v: tanvanti; the u suffix, having been introduced as a vikaraṇa with its own accent, the ñit-accent rule satisiṣṭasvarabalīyastvam anyatra vikaraṇebhyaḥ [Paribhāṣā] gives the accent of the suffix its strength except for the vikaraṇas; since u is a vikaraṇa its accent is not stronger; hence the accent of the anti ending, being part of tiñ, falls on the first syllable by the suffix accent), and samudram (saṃ + undī kledane; Uṇ. 3-[?]) sthāyitāmnetirakṣivīṣṭhībhya vasuh... rak [as read, partly]; anidītām halaḥ upadhāyāḥ kniti P. 6-4-24 drops the nasal of und; saṃ + udra, with samudra; the accent of the suffix is on the end; and after the compound with the prefix [gati-kārahapadāt kṛt P. 6-2-139], the final-member accent holds). ॥8॥

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | ये (ye) — which Marut deities | रश्मिभिः (raśmibhiḥ) — with the rays of the sun | (आकाशम्) आ तन्वन्ति ((ākāśam) ā tanvanti) — pervade [the sky] | ओजसा (ojasā) — by their own strength | समुद्रम् (samudram) — the sea | तिरः (tiraḥ) — make surge | मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with such Marut deities | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! The Marut deities, together with the rays of the sun, pervade the whole of the sky, and by their strength make the sea toss and surge. Come here with such Marut deities.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, come hither with the Maruths who spread all over the sky with the rays of the Sun and with their strength agitate the ocean.

॥ Viśeṣa-viśayagaḷu (Special Topics) ॥

रश्मिभिः आ तन्वन्ति (raśmibhiḥ ā tanvanti)

— "they spread over the sky along with the rays of the sun": that is, as the sun's rays spread through the whole firmament in an instant, so the wind too spreads, along with them, through the firmament or the sky.

ओजसा (ojasā)

— that is: because the wind blows with force, great waves rise in the sea.

original pp. 805–807

Sūkta 19, Rik 9 (last rik of the sūkta and of the volume)

॥ Saṃhitā-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अभि त्वा पूर्वपीतये सृजामि सोम्यं मधु । मरुद्भिर्गन् आ गहि ॥९॥

*abhi tvā pūrvapītaye sṛjāmi somyaṃ madhu | marudbhir agna
ā gahi || 9 ||*

॥ Pada-pāṭhaḥ ॥

अभि । त्वा । पूर्वपीतये । सृजामि । सोम्यम् । मधु ॥ मरुद्भिः । अग्ने । आ । गहि ॥९॥

*abhi | tvā | pūrvapītaye | sṛjāmi | somyam | madhu ||
marut-bhiḥ | agne | ā | gahi || 9 ||*

॥ Sāyaṇa-bhāṣyam ॥

हे अग्ने पूर्वपीतये पूर्वकाले प्रवृत्तायै पानाय त्वां प्रति सोम्यं मधु सोमसम्बन्धिनं मधुररसमभि
 सृजामि । सर्वतः सम्पादयामि । अतस्त्वं मरुद्भिः सहात्रागच्छ ॥ अभि । एवमादीनामन्त
 इत्यन्तोदात्तत्वम् । त्वा । त्वामौ द्वितीयायाः । पा. [८-१-२३] । इति त्वादेशः सर्वानुदात्तः ।
 पूर्वपीतये । पूर्वा चासौ पीतिश्च । पुंवत्कर्मधारयजातीयदेशीययोः । पा. [६-३-४२] । पुंवद्भावः
 । सृजामि । सृज विसर्गे । मिपः पित्त्वादनुदात्तत्वम् । विकरणस्वरः । सोम्यम् । सोममर्हति यः
 । प्रत्ययस्वरेणान्तोदात्तः । मधु । फलिपाटनमि... । उ. [१-१८] । उप्रत्ययः । निदित्यनुवृत्तेराद्युदात्तत्वम् । अन्यद्गतम् ॥९॥

*he agne pūrva-pītaye pūrva-kāle pravṛttāyai pānāya tvām prati somyam madhu soma-sambandhinam madhura-rasam abhi sṛjāmi | sarvataḥ sampādayāmi | atas tvam marudbhiḥ
 sahātrāgaccha || abhi | evam-ādīnām anta ity antodāttatvam
 | tvā | tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ | pā. [8-1-23] | iti tvādeśaḥ sarvānudaṭṭaḥ | pūrvapītaye | pūrvā cāsau pītis ca | puṃvat-karmadhārāya-jātīya-deśīyayoḥ | pā. [6-3-42] | puṃvad-bhāvaḥ | sṛjāmi | sṛja visarge | mipaḥ pīttvād anudāttatvam | vikaraṇa-svaraḥ | somyam | somam arhati yaḥ | pratyayasvareṇāntodāṭṭaḥ | madhu | phali-pātana-mi... | u. [1-18] | u-
 pratyayaḥ | nid ity anuvṛtter ādyudāttatvam | anyad gatam
 ||9||*

Translation: "O Agni! For the pūrvapīti — the drinking that [takes place] first — I pour out (abhi sṛjāmi, 'I prepare on all sides') for you the somya madhu — the sweet juice belonging to the soma. Therefore come here together with the Maruts. Abhi — end-accent by the list of evamādi words; tvā — the substitute tvā for tvām, by P. 8-1-23, wholly unaccented; pūrvapītaye — pūrvā cāsau pītis ca, a karmadhārāya, the feminine taking the masculine form by P. 6-3-42; sṛjāmi — sṛj 'to emit'; the mip ending is pit and unaccented, the accent of the vikaraṇa [śap? — tudādi śa] remains; somyam — 'that which is fit for soma', end accent by the suffix; madhu — Uṇ. 1-18, the suffix u, first-syllable accent. The rest has been dealt with."

॥ Prati-padārthaḥ ॥

(हे) अग्ने ((he) agne) — O Agni | त्वाम् (tvām) — you, or [for] you | पूर्वपीतये (pūrvapītaye) — [that you may] drink first of all | सोम्यम् (somyam) — belonging to soma | मधु (madhu) — the sweet juice | अभि सृजामि (abhi sṛjāmi) — I put into the vessel and make ready | मरुद्भिः (marudbhiḥ) — with the Marut deities | आ गहि (ā gahi) — come here.

॥ Bhāvārthaḥ ॥

O Agni! I pour the soma-juice, delightful to the taste, into the vessel and prepare it for you to drink before all others. Therefore come here together with the Marut deities.

॥ English Translation ॥

O Agni, I pour out the sweet drink of Soma to you that you may drink first ; come hither with the Maruths.

॥ Viśeṣa-viṣayaḥ (Special Topics) ॥

पूर्वपीतये (pūrvapītaye)

— "so that you may drink before all". For this word Wilson, the scholar, gives the wrong meaning "as of old" [the print gives the English phrase: "as of old"]. The sense "before all others" given by the commentator is the appropriate one.

अभि सृजामि (abhi sṛjāmi) — sarvataḥ sampādayāmi: "I put into the vessel and make ready".

सोम्यम् (somyam) — somam arhati yaḥ: worthy of soma; belonging to soma.

मधु (madhu) — sweet, delicious; somyam madhu means the delicious soma-juice.

Grammar pages (pp. 806 lower half–808 upper), noted briefly. The Kannada treats: abhi (vivādīnām antaḥ [Phiṭ-sūtra 4-[?]] gives end accent), tvā (yuṣmad + am; tvāmau dvitīyāyāḥ P. 8-1-23 gives tvā and mā for a following accusative singular of yuṣmad/asmad when not at the beginning of a pāda, and those substitutes are wholly unaccented), pūrvapītaye (pūrvā cāsau pītis ca; the compound karmadhāraya, pūrvā feminine; puṇvat karmadhārayajātīyadeśīyayoḥ P. 6-3-42 gives masculine form to the feminine first member of a karmadhāraya; the Kannada discusses at length the scope of this sūtra and the preceding striyāḥ puṇvad bhāṣitapuṃskād anūn samānādhikaraṇe striyām apūraṇīpriyādiṣu P. 6-3-34, with its exclusions of ordinal and priyā-type words; the bhāṣitapuṃska "word whose masculine form is spoken", ūn-ending, apūraṇīpriyādi; the atideśa of sevenfold kind [kāryarūpanimittārthaśāstratāṅgātmyaśabdāḥ — as the Kannada gives it, the verse vyapadeśaś ca saptaitān atideśān pracakṣate]; the tāṅgātmya-atideśa applies here, "the form of the masculine"; the dative singular ñe → ye, pūrvapīti + e; ñiti hrasvaś ca P. 1-4-6 shortens the ī; ghī-name; gher ñiti P. 7-3-111 gives guṇa; eco 'yavāyāvaḥ), sṛjāmi (sṛja visarge, tudādi; laṭ first person singular mip; śa [vikaraṇa] with sṛj + a + mi; ato dīrgho yañi P. 7-3-101 lengthens the a; mip is pīti so unaccented by P. 3-1-4; the accent of the vikaraṇa [śa] remains), somyam (somam arhati yaḥ P. 5-1-... dvitīyāntāt; yat after the accusative soma in the sense "deserving"; soma + am + ya; supo dhātuprātipadikayoḥ P. 2-4-71 drops am; yasyeti ca drops the a of soma; somya; suffix accent), and madhu (phalipāṭinami... Uṇ. 1-[?]) gives the suffix u; nit carried over, so first-syllable accent by P. 6-1-197; the process for madhu is explained in Ṛ. Saṃ. 1-[?]; the remaining words have been dealt with earlier). ||9|| ||19|| ||37|| ²⁴

original p. 808

24. The closing numerals read "९ || १९ || ३७" — Rik 9, Sūkta 19, Varga 37 — which supports the "36, 37" of the heading; I read them at 150 dpi, not enlarged.

Close of Sūkta 19, of Adhyāya 1, and of the volume

॥ Closing verse and colophon (Sanskrit, in Kannada script)

॥

वेदार्थस्य प्रकाशेन तमो हार्दं निवारयन् । पुमर्थाश्चतुरो देयाद्विद्यातीर्थमहेश्वरः ॥

vedārthasya prakāśena tamo hārdaṃ nivārayan |
pumarthāñś caturo deyd vidyā-tīrtha-maheśvaraḥ | |

Translation: "May Vidyātīrtha-Maheśvara, dispelling the darkness of the heart by the light of the meaning of the Veda, grant the four human aims." ²⁵

इति श्रीमद्राजाधिराजपरमेश्वरवैदिकमार्गप्रवर्तकश्रीवीरबुक्कभूपालसाम्राज्यधुरंधरेण
सायणाचार्येण विरचिते माधवीये वेदार्थप्रकाशे ऋक्संहिताभाष्ये प्रथमाष्टके प्रथमोऽध्यायः समाप्तः ॥ ॐ तत्सत् ॥

iti śrīmad-rājādhirāja-parameśvara-vaidika-mārga-pravartaka-śrī-vīrabukka-bhūpāla-sāmrājya-dhuraṇdhareṇa sāyaṇācāryeṇa viracite mādhavīye vedārtha-prakāśe ṛksaṃhitā-bhāṣye prathamāṣṭake prathamo 'dhyāyaḥ samāptaḥ
| | om tat sat | |

Translation: "Thus ends the First Adhyāya in the First Aṣṭaka of the Ṛk-saṃhitā-bhāṣya — the Mādhavīya Vedārthaprakāśa — composed by Sāyaṇācārya, the bearer of the burden of the empire of the glorious King Vīra-Bukka, the King of Kings, Supreme Lord, the establisher of the Vedic path. Om, That is the Real."

॥ Kannada colophon ॥

"Here the First Adhyāya in the First Aṣṭaka of the Ṛgveda-saṃhitā, with the Bhāṣya of Śrī Sāyaṇa and a Kannada rendering, comes to its end."

²⁵ The verse is the standard benediction found at the close of each section of the Mādhavīya Vedārthaprakāśa; I give it as printed, and the English is mine.

यदक्षरपदभ्रष्टं मात्राहीनं तु यद्भवेत् । तत्सर्वं क्षम्यतां देव वागीश्वर नमोऽस्तु ते ॥

yad akṣara-pada-bhraṣṭaṁ mātrā-hīnaṁ tu yad bhavet | tat sarvaṁ kṣamyatāṁ deva vāgīśvara namo 'stu te |

Translation: "Whatever may be faulty in letter or word, or deficient in measure — may all that be forgiven, O God, Lord of Speech; salutations to you." ²⁶

॥ शुभं भूयात् ॥ ॥ मंगळं ॥

|| śubhaṁ bhūyāt || || maṅgaḷaṁ ||

"May there be auspiciousness. Blessing."

Imprint (English, as printed): Printed by Y. R. Ranga Rao, Proprietor, Sri Chamundeswari Electric Press, Clock Tower Square, Mysore—1949.

26. The English is mine.

Collected Notes

Every translator's note and editorial remark of this volume, gathered by Sūkta and Rik.

Table of Contents (Vishayanukramanike) of the Original...

1. Page numbers above refer to this volume's own internal pagination, which restarts from page 1 independent of Volume 1.

Sūkta 3

1. This table runs to 24 rows of small Kannada numerals at this scan's resolution; the first row is given with reasonable confidence, but the remaining rows are not transcribed individually here to avoid asserting precise figures that cannot be verified reliably at this resolution. The prose below confirms the totals that matter: 191 suktas across 24 Anuvakas in Mandala 1.
2. The first two Stotras are sung by the Udgātṛ; the latter three Shastras are recited by the Hotṛ's assistant priests — Maitrāvaruṇa, Brāhmaṇācchaṃsī, and Acchāvāka.
3. The first five are sung by the Udgātṛ; the latter three are recited by the Hotṛ's assistants, Maitrāvaruṇa and others.
4. the source's own printed figure reads "1–13," but the deity-breakdown below accounts for only 12 mantras in four groups of three, matching the "twelve-mantra sūkta" already confirmed by the Sutra citation on page 5 — the "13" is treated here as a likely scanning artifact for "12"
5. the same rishi who composed Suktas 1 and 2
6. This page continues and closes the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya's grammatical derivation of "aśvinā," "āmantritasya," "yajvarī," "dravat-pāṇī," "śubhas-patī," and "purubhujā" in the established dense sutra-citation register — including specific accent-rules and a cross-reference to the word

"khādāte" discussed elsewhere. Given the density, this portion is characterized rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice for this register throughout the project.

7. Bhaṭṭasi's gloss.
8. The grammatical derivation for this sukta's opening verse — covering "aśvinā" as a vocative-adjacent form (per Phit-sutra 1.1.28), "yajvarī" analyzed via the root meaning "to accomplish the sacrifice," "iṣaḥ" and its accent-variants, "dravat-pāṇī" as a compound of "dravat" (running/swift) and "pāṇī" (hand/foot), "śubhas-patī" with its accent-retention rule, and "canasyatam" as a denominative verb formed from "canas" — proceeds here in the same dense sutra-citation register used throughout this work. Given its density, it is characterized here rather than transcribed line by line, consistent with standing practice; none of it alters the senses already established above in the Bhāṣya, Pratipadārtha, and Viśeṣārtha sections for this verse.
9. This entire page continues the Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā for Rik 3.1 in the same dense register — working through "śubhaspatī" (accent-retention and compound-analysis), "aśvinā" (vocative/accusative accent variants), "purubhujā" (bahuvrīhi-compound derivation), and "canasyatam" (a denominative formation from "canas," with its affix and accent rules, including cross-reference to the Nirukta 5.16 gloss of "canaḥ" as "food"). Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice for this register; none of it changes the senses already established above.
10. This page opens with the closing lines of Rik 3.1's grammar discussion — covering the accent-behavior of "canasyatam" as a denominative verb, and the word "dhiṣṇyā" cross-referenced ahead — in the established dense register; not reproduced in detail.
11. the word "daṃsa" is listed among the Nighaṇṭu's words for "karma"
12. Note: the scan at this point is somewhat worn, and a few words in the Sanskrit above are reconstructed with reasonable but not full confidence from context.
13. The bulk of this page continues the Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya's grammatical analysis of "purudaṃsasā," "dhiṣṇyā," "vanatam," and "giraḥ" in the established dense register — covering compound-formation, accent-retention rules, and cross-references to related forms elsewhere in the R̥gveda. Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice.

14. This page and those following work through the grammatical analysis of "aśvinā," "purudaṃsasā," "narā," and "dhiṣṇyā" together as a set of co-referential vocative/nominative forms, in the established dense sutra-citation register — covering accent-retention rules for words in grammatical apposition (sāmānādhikaraṇya), and a careful technical argument about why "nāmantrite" (a word not in the vocative) can still take sarvānūdātta accent when standing in apposition with a genuine vocative. Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice for this register; the overall sense already established in the Bhāṣya and Pratipadārtha above is unaffected.
15. The opening lines close out Rik 3.2's grammar discussion, including a supporting citation from the Taittiriya Samhita — "ete te aśvinā nāmāni" — on the many names used for the Ashvins in praise, and detailed accent-derivations for "śavīrayā," "dhiyā," "vanatam," and "giraḥ," in the established dense register; not reproduced in full. This closes the apparatus for Rik 3.2.
16. Sayana's commentary, Pratipadartha, Bhavartha, and English translation for this third and closing Ashvin-verse follow on the next page.
17. The grammatical derivation of "dasrā," "yuvākavaḥ," and the accent-rules governing this verse's vocative forms continues in the established dense register; not reproduced in full, consistent with standing practice.
18. In modern Sanskrit, "suta" instead means "son."
19. This section works through the grammatical derivation of "dasrā" as a vocative-adjacent form, "yuvāku" and "mitra-bhavati" relationships, "upasargāc chandasi" accent rules, and the derivation of "Rudra" itself from the root meaning "to roar/weep" (Taittiriya Samhita 1.8.1) versus alternate readings, in the established dense sutra-citation register. Characterized here rather than transcribed line-by-line, consistent with standing practice. This closes the full apparatus for Rik 3.3, completing the three-verse Ashvin group that opens this sukta.
20. This opens the second group of three Riks within this sukta — mantras 4–6, addressed to Indra. Sayana's commentary and full apparatus follow on the next page.
21. Source note: in this scan the Sanskrit bhāṣya is printed in Kannada script. It is rendered below into Devanagari and IAST letter by letter from the page image. Where the print is blurred or looks irregular, the reading is bracketed with [?] rather than corrected from memory.

22. Note: the second "tanā" is taken by the Bhāṣya as "nityam," "constantly"; the sentence "tanā nityaṃ pūtāsaḥ" is read in the print as shown.
23. Reading note: the print of the clause after "karmaṇa" is blurred, and the letters look like "ibhrātrṛṇām." The Nirukta's own continuation is known to run "indraḥ śatrūṇāṃ dārayitā...", but that is a restoration from outside knowledge, not a clear reading, so it is flagged here. "idanter" is also printed thus, where a form of the root "ind/ind" might be expected. "vera/vendave" etc. are "vā + irām / vā + indave," in sandhi.
24. Note: "nāmy eṣa" is the print's reading as I could make it out; the sense, 'is the name — this one,' is not affected.
25. continues on the next page
26. Page header: "Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Continuing from the previous page, where the Bhāṣya was quoting "indro..."
27. Reading notes: the Ṛgveda reference is read from the print as "6-47-18"; the print's root-name before "bhave" is unclear — "dr" is my best reading, and the sense is not affected.
28. short; transcribed in full
29. Reading note, revised at p. 38: at first I read the opening of this sūtra as "voko"; the clearer larger print on p. 38 reads "voto guṇavacanāt" (Pā. 4-1-44), and the text above has been changed to that.
30. Kannada, translated
31. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." From here the page is the Kannada commentary, which re-lists Yāska's and Sāyaṇa's etymologies one by one. The Sanskrit lemmas it quotes repeat what was already transcribed on pp. 31–32 and are given here in short form, in all three layers.
32. indra irām dṛṇātīti verām dadātīti verām dadhātīti verām dārayatīti verām dhārayatīti vendave dravatīti vendau ramata iti vendhe bhūtānīti vā tad yad enaṃ prāṇaiḥ samaindhaṃs tad indrasyendratvam iti vijñāyata idaṃ-karaṇād ity āgrāyaṇa idaṃ darśanād ity aupamanyava inder vaiśvarya-karmaṇa [?] ibhrūtrūṇām [?] dārayitā vā drāvayitā
vādarayitā ca yajvanām | iti | | ni. 10-8 | |
33. Reading note: the same unclear stretch — "...karmaṇa ibhrū-trūṇām..." — appears here as on p. 31, in slightly different letter-forms. Since it recurs in both places, it looks like a printing/ligature problem in the source rather than a one-off blur; I leave it flagged and unrestored.

34. The sentence continues on the next page: for the sake of that Soma, he runs to the sacrificial ground.
35. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Correction note: this page prints the clause "prāṇair vāk-cakṣur-ādīndriyaiḥ" legibly; on p. 31 the first word of that clause was blurred and was provisionally read "pāṇyaiḥ [?]". The p. 31 text has been corrected in place to "prāṇaiḥ," as it is the one reading the clearer print supports.
36. Continuation of (6):
37. The commentary adds:
38. Correction note: on p. 32 the last etymology's closing word was provisionally read "paripartā"; this page prints it plainly as "parihartā" ("remover of fear"), and p. 32 has been corrected in place.
39. Continuation of (12):
40. read here as "dṛ"
41. The source prints these citations without translation. The short English glosses are mine, based on the Devanagari read from the page; where a letter or a reference-number was not clear in the print it is marked [?].
42. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
The glosses below are mine; the source prints these citations without translation. [?] marks a letter or reference-number not clearly legible.
43. The print says "caturthī-bahuvacana-anta"— "ending in the dative plural" — but "-bhiḥ" is the instrumental plural; this is evidently a slip in the source and is recorded here, not corrected silently.
44. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Reference-numbers in the verse citations below were printed in small Kannada numerals; where I could not be sure of a digit, the reference is marked [?].
The English glosses are mine; the source gives none for these.
45. Continuing the note on "tanā" from p. 36:
46. The reference "8-94-3" is as best I could read it; the verse is cited among the Soma-passages although the number begins with "8," which I flag rather than alter.
47. digits of these four references are not clearly legible
48. continues on the next page; this is the Kannada rendering of the grammar already transcribed in Sanskrit on p. 32

49. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
This is the Kannada rendering of the grammar already given in Sanskrit on p. 32; translated here in full, since it is short.

50. Continuing from p. 37:

51. Accent-notation note: in the Kannada print, the Saṃhitā and Pada texts carry accent-marks — short vertical strokes above, horizontal lines beneath — whose precise conventions I could not convert to Devanagari accent-signs with confidence. For this rik and the following ones, the syllables are transcribed exactly as printed and the accent-marks are not reproduced. Earlier pages of this volume give accent-signs in the Saṃhitā text; this is a known inconsistency, recorded here rather than guessed at.

52. Reading note: in the Pada text the print shows "viprajūtaḥ" with a faint mark between "vipra" and "jūtaḥ" — probably the avagraha-division of the compound ("vipra-jūtaḥ") — and "sutāvataḥ" with a similar faint division; I give the words undivided, as I cannot make out the dividing signs. The Pada text of the printed page also reads "dhiyā iṣitaḥ" for the Saṃhitā's "dhiyeṣito."

53. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script; it is rendered letter by letter into Devanagari/IAST. [?] marks places where the print is garbled or the reading uncertain.

54. Reading note: the print before "prajñayā" reads as something like "dhiyo 'smadiyā..."; I could not settle the exact letters and mark them [?]. The sense — "by our (priestly) understanding" — agrees with the Kannada Pada-meaning below.

55. Reading note: the count of the ṛtvij-names after "ādiṣu" is garbled in the print — something like "aṣṭa-" — so I give no number. The print has "ṛtvijñāmasu"; I take it to be "ṛtvik-nāmasu," names of priests.

56. short; given in full

57. Reading notes: (i) the print of the 'ṛjrendrāgra...' Uṇādi list is plain and read as given; (ii) the rule "nab-viṣayasyānisantasya" is hard to read here, but is printed plainly on p. 42, where it is attributed to the Phīṭ-sūtras, not to Pāṇini; I had first written "Pā. 6-1-223" from memory, and that attribution has been withdrawn above; (iii) "vāghata-śabda" is printed "vāghac-chabda"; I read the word as "vāghata."

58. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
The English glosses on the verses are mine; the source gives none. [?] marks an uncertain letter or number.

59. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Ṛg-vedic reference-numbers are printed in small Kannada numerals and a number of them are hard to read; every reference I am not sure of is marked [?]. Glosses are mine; the source gives none. The page also contains a block of English printed in the source itself, reproduced as printed.
60. the source here prints the list in English
61. the source's English list
62. Only the first of these — 1-3-5, the present Ṛk — is certain; the digits of the other ten are as best I could read them, and the whole list should be re-checked against the page before being relied upon.
63. Page header: "Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." This is the Kannada rendering of the grammar already given in Sanskrit on p. 39, translated in full. Sūtra-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where I am not sure of a digit.
64. The division of this list into words is my best reading; "kubra," "cubra," and the last few members are not certain to me.
65. in the Nighaṇṭu
66. Accent-marks in the Kannada print are not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
67. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script and rendered here into Devanagari/IAST.
68. Reading note: the first letter of "tadīya" is "ka/ta" in the print; "tadiya" — "belonging to him" — is what the sense requires, and I give it flagged.
69. The print has "pujer" for "tujer"; I read "tuj" as the root.
70. A transliteration of each cited sūtra is: "tujer liṭi liṭaḥ kānaj vā" (pā. 3-2-106) | "tujādīnām dīrgho 'bhyāsasya" (pā. 6-1-7) | "abhyastānām ādiḥ" (pā. 6-1-189) | "chandasīraḥ" (pā. 8-2-15) | "sambuddhau vugid-acām" [?] (pā. 7-1-70) | "saṃyogānta-lope" (pā. 8-2-23) | "nakārasya matuvaso ruḥ sambuddhau chandasi" (pā. 8-3-1) | "thāsaḥ se" (pā. 3-4-80) | "savābhyāṃ vāmau" (pā. 3-4-91) | "chandasy ubhayathā" (pā. 3-4-117) | "śloś ca dvirbhāvaḥ" (pā. 6-1-10) | "āto lopa iṭi ca" (pā. 6-4-64).
71. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." The English passages are printed in English in the source and are reproduced exactly as printed, including its misprints, marked [sic]. Reference-numbers printed in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where uncertain.

72. The reference-numbers in this list are hard to read in the print and the assignment of numbers to meanings may be off; the same number appears under more than one meaning as I have read it. Please re-check before relying on them.
73. continues on the next page; this is the Kannada rendering of the grammar characterized on p. 43
74. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 5 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." This page is pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, setting out for "tūtuajāṇaḥ," "harivaḥ," "brahmāṇi/upa" and "dadhiṣva" the same steps already given in Sanskrit on p. 43. Per the standing convention for dense Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā with no bearing on the sense already given, it is translated in compressed form rather than line by line; every sūtra the page cites is kept, in all three layers, so that nothing is silently dropped. Sūtra-numbers are as printed in Kannada numerals.
75. continuing from p. 44
76. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." As on p. 45, the grammar is characterized (compressed translation, every cited sūtra kept in three layers).
77. continued from p. 45
78. Reference note: the Uṇādi-sūtra number for "cāyater anne hrasvaś ca" is read here as "4-6-3?"; on p. 43 I gave it as "4-1[?]9." The two readings disagree, so the number should be re-checked on the page before use.
79. Reading note: in the Pada text, "carṣaṇīdhṛtaḥ" is a compound; the print shows a small sign between "carṣaṇī" and "dhṛtaḥ" that I read as the avagraha-division, "carṣaṇī-dhṛtaḥ," but cannot make out with certainty, so I give the word undivided.
80. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā" — the sixth varga begins here, the previous page having closed the fifth. This is a very dense Bhāṣya page, read in enlarged slices. The sense-portion at the top is transcribed in full in three layers; the long technical accent-debate that follows is characterized, not transcribed line by line, per the standing convention for dense Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā, and I say so again at that point.
81. Reading notes: (i) the Uṇādi-number "1-143" is read with low confidence; (ii) the word before "dānādinā" is printed something like "sṛṣṭi"; the sense "by creating, by giving, etc." fits, but I mark it [?]; (iii) the Uṇādi-sūtra's wording was first read here as "avi-si-vasi-śuṣibhyaḥ"; p. 51, which quotes it again, prints "avi sivi si śuṣibhyaḥ kit" and lists the roots as "av (rakṣaṇa), ..., ṣiñ (bandhane), śuṣ (śoṣaṇe)," so the reading here has been adjusted to that, still flagged [?].

82. and continues on the next page

83. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

The grammar at the top is characterized, not transcribed line by line, per the standing convention for dense Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā; every sūtra cited is kept in all three layers. Numbers in small Kannada numerals are as I read them; [?] marks doubt.

84. continuing from p. 47, where the objector argued that the conventional (rūḍha) sense of "deva" should be taken, not the etymological "shining one"

85. That is the end of the debate; the Bhāṣya's conclusion is that the etymological sense, "those who shine," is the one to be taken.

86. characterized

87. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The English glosses on the verses are mine; the source gives none. Reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and read with [?] where uncertain.

88. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Mandala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

This page of the Kannada commentary is full of counts and reference-numbers printed in small Kannada numerals. Many of them are hard to read; every number below is marked [?] and must be re-checked against the page before being relied on. The English phrases within the Kannada are printed in English in the source, and are reproduced as printed, with misprints marked [sic].

89. Continuing from p. 49:

90. the source's English: "of tne [sic] worshipper"

91. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." As on p. 50, the references and counts in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where I am not sure of a digit; they must be re-checked against the page before being relied on.

92. Continuing from p. 50:

93. Source pages 52 (even: "Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3"), 53 (odd: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6") and 54 (even). These three pages are pure Pāṇinian grammar in Kannada prose: the Kannada rendering of the derivations and the accent-debate that Sāyaṇa gave in Sanskrit on pp. 47–

48. Per the standing convention they are characterized in order rather than translated line by line; every sūtra cited is kept in three layers, with its number as printed (small Kannada numerals, read with care but not independently re-verified). Nothing in them alters the sense of the Rik given on p. 48.

94. continues p. 54

95. continuing

96. Reading note: in the Pada text the print shows a small dividing sign inside "apturaḥ" (read as "ap-turaḥ") and between "usrā" and "iva"; I give the words undivided.

97. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered into Devanagari/IAST; [?] where the print is unclear. The sense-portion is given in all three layers; the grammatical derivations at the end are characterized, with their sūtras kept, per convention.

98. Correction to my own IAST above: the Rik's word is "apturaḥ" — the stray "aptuaḥ" in the line is a slip in my transliteration, not a variant reading.

99. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." English passages are as printed in the source. Reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals; [?] where uncertain. Glosses on the verses are mine.

100. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."

101. English as printed in the source

102. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept

103. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." The grammar at the top is the Kannada rendering of what Sanskrit p. 55 already gave; characterized, sūtras kept.

104. continuing from p. 57

105. opening

106. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where the print is unclear. The grammar is characterized, sūtras kept; the sense is transcribed in full.

107. continuing from p. 58, at "adrohaḥ"

108. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."

- 109. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." The Taittirīya text below is transcribed from the Kannada print letter by letter; I have not corrected it from outside knowledge, and a few of its spellings look irregular, which I leave as printed.
- 110. Continuing from p. 60: "...the fish in the water told the gods that Agni was in the water."
- 111. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are read as best I can and all marked [?]; English in the source is reproduced as printed, misprints marked [sic].
- 112. English as printed
- 113. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." The grammar is the Kannada rendering of Sanskrit p. 59, characterized in order, with the sūtras kept; I note where the numbers differ from the Sanskrit page.
- 114. continues on p. 64
- 115. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Accent-marks are not reproduced in the Saṃhitā/Pada text; see the note at Rik 3.5.
- 116. Continuing:
- 117. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. The sense lines are in three layers; the grammar is characterized with its sūtras kept.
- 118. concluding the Nirukta quotation begun on p. 64
- 119. The number "36" is the continuation of the reference left open at the foot of p. 64.
- 120. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals read as best I can; [?] where uncertain.
- 121. The page continues on p. 67 with the remaining oblations.
- 122. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals; [?] where I am unsure of a digit. Glosses are mine and tentative.
- 123. Continuing the list of puronuvākya/yājyā mantras from p. 66:

124. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Reference-numbers: every number in the five lists below is marked as best-effort; the print is in small Kannada numerals and many digits are uncertain. English words are as printed in the source.
125. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals marked [?] where uncertain.
126. Continuing from p. 68, at the doubt whether praise of inanimate things like rivers would be forbidden in sacrifices:
127. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure. English words as printed.
128. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." All Ṛg-vedic reference-numbers on this page are best-effort readings of small Kannada numerals and are marked [?] collectively here and in the text; none should be relied on without checking the page. English words as printed.
129. Continuing from p. 70:
130. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3."
Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure.
131. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure. The modern river-names in brackets are printed in English in the source. The Sanskrit mnemonic verses on this page are compressed and partly garbled in the print: I transcribe them as I read them, with [?], and give their sense in outline rather than a line-by-line translation.
132. Continuing from p. 72, "...it is clearly stated which river is meant by 'Sarasvatī':"
133. columns: serial number; opening of the sūkta; Maṇḍala-sūkta; number of Ṛks; ṛṣi. Numbers as I read them; [?] where unsure. They agree with the standard list of the ten Āprī-sūktas.
134. rows 5–10 continue on the next page
135. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and are marked [?] where uncertain. The glosses on the verses are mine, tentative, since the source gives no translation of them.
136. Continuing from p. 74, "Sarasvatī ... for lightning, the one presiding..."

137. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Reference-numbers marked [?] where unsure. English words and the bibliographic list are as printed in the source.
138. All as printed.
139. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English words are as printed in the source. The Ṛg-vedic numbers in the list of senses of "vāja" below are in small Kannada numerals and I could not read them reliably; they are omitted rather than guessed, and the list should be completed from the page.
140. Continuing from p. 76, "...two small streams, Mārkaṇḍā and Gaggar..."
141. English as printed; the Ṛg-vedic references the source adds after each are not reproduced
142. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." English as printed; reference-numbers read with care but marked [?] where unsure.
143. all as printed
144. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The grammar is pure Pāṇinian derivation and is characterized rather than transcribed line by line, per convention, with the sūtras kept. Accent-marks in the Saṃhitā/Pada text are not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
145. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered letter by letter; [?] where unclear.
146. The print's first word reads "yo"; the sense needs "yā" ("who"), and I record the print as it stands.
147. characterized; the print is partly garbled in the middle, and I do not give a reading of the unclear stretch
148. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English words are as printed in the source. Nirukta reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and marked [?].
149. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." This page is dense accent-derivation in Kannada prose, repeating the Sanskrit grammar of p. 80. Per the standing convention it is characterized, not translated line by line; the sūtras are kept. Some details are garbled in the print and I do not give them.
150. Continuing "codayitrī":

151. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered letter by letter.
152. The final clause, "sarvotpādayatīty arthaḥ," is printed as I give it; I read it as continuing the sentence, and note the sense is a little loose.
153. characterized, sūtras kept
154. The print here closes the Bhāṣya with the marks "॥ ६ ॥ १ ॥" — I read these as the varga-end marks; the verse-number ॥११॥ itself is printed at the end of the grammar on p. 85.
155. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 1, Sūkta 3." English as printed in the source.
156. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 6 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.
157. Continuing "ketunā" from p. 84:
158. name not legible in the print

Sūkta 4

1. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script and rendered here into Devanagari/IAST; reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?] where uncertain. Heading printed: "॥ ओम् ॥ — ನಾಲ್ಕನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು (the fourth sūkta)".
2. Kannada commentary, translated
3. continues on the next page
4. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 2 [?], Varga 7, 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
5. Continuing:
6. Sūkta 4
7. number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 10
8. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.
9. Reading note: the print divides the compounds with marks I read as "sudughām-iva" and "go-duhe," "dyavi-dyavi"; I give the divisions as I read the printed signs.
10. Kannada, translated; continued on the next page

11. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed in the source. The verse cited below is as printed; I note that the same Ṛk was already quoted in Sūkta 3, p. 25 of this file's earlier text.
12. Kannada, translated
13. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Ṛg-vedic and Nirukta reference-numbers are in small Kannada numerals and all are marked [?]. The glosses on verses are mine, tentative; the source gives none. In the Nirukta passage one word is unclear to me and flagged.
14. Continuing from p. 89:
15. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Reference-numbers marked [?]; glosses mine.
16. Continuing "ūtaye":
17. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept
18. Page headers: p. 92 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4"; p. 93 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, the Kannada rendering of the grammar already given in Sanskrit on p. 88. Per the standing convention they are characterized in order, not translated line by line; each sūtra the pages cite is kept in three layers with its number as I read it. Sūtra-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. Nothing in them changes the sense of the Rik as given on p. 89.
19. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
20. Continuing "juhūmasi" from p. 93:
21. Accent-marks not reproduced.
22. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. The sense-lines are transcribed in full; the grammar is characterized, with its sūtras.
23. characterized; the print is somewhat garbled in the middle and I give only what I read clearly
24. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." English as printed. The count of "-dāḥ" words is in small Kannada numerals, read as "1?" and marked [?].
25. the number is not certain

26. Kannada; characterized

27. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the rendering of the Sanskrit of p. 95; characterized, with sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.

28. Continuing "savanā":

29. The page ends in the middle of this argument about which affix applies to "godāḥ"; it continues on the next page.

30. Page headers: p. 98 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4"; p. 99 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are an advanced scholastic grammatical debate in Kannada prose about whether the "ī"-substitution of घुमास्थागापाजहातिसां हलि (ghu-mā-sthā-gā-pā-jahāti-sāṃ hali, पा. ६-४-६६) can apply to "godāḥ" (the root "dā" with "kviṇ"). They have no bearing on the sense of the Rik, already given on pp. 95–96, and per the standing convention I characterize the argument in outline rather than transcribe it line by line, keeping the sūtras the pages name. Numbers as read; [?] where uncertain.

31. p. 99, end

32. Continuing "revataḥ" from p. 99:

33. The print's "tvā gahy" is read as the sentence "kiṃ tu ... gahi — come to us alone"; the second word of the clause is slightly unclear to me, and I give it as printed with the sense the Kannada gives.

34. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; English as printed.

35. Grammar, continuing "sumatīnām":

36. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." English as printed.

37. English as printed: "Beyond, besides &c."

38. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 7 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as read.

39. Reading note: the Saṃhitā text reads "pṛcchā" with a long final vowel (a Vedic lengthening); the Pada text has "pṛccha." The word "vipaścitam" is divided in the Pada text as "vipaḥ-citam," as I read the printed sign.

40. The Bhāṣya's reading "vipaścitam ... pṛccha mām hotāram" makes the ṛtvij the one to be asked; I give it as printed.

41. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed; reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. The Taittirīya citation below is transcribed letter by letter from the Kannada print.
42. the number is not legible to me
43. Page headers: p. 106 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4"; p. 107 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, the Kannada rendering of the grammar given in Sanskrit on p. 104, with a good deal of added scholastic debate. They do not bear on the sense of the Rik, which was given on pp. 104–105. Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, not translated line by line; the sūtras the pages name are kept in three layers, numbers as I read them, [?] where uncertain. Several sentences in the middle of p. 106 and the foot of p. 107 are crowded in the print and I do not reproduce them.
44. Continuing "parehi" from p. 105.
45. The page ends mid-sentence in this comparison, continuing on p. 108.
46. Continuing "sakhibhyaḥ" from p. 107:
47. Reading note: the Saṃhitā text reads "indra id duvaḥ"; the Pada text resolves it as "indre it duvaḥ." The printed Pada text shows "ā-rata" as one word.
48. Reading notes: (i) in the second sentence of the Bhāṣya the print has "utamapi ca"; the sense is "uta api ca," as the Rik itself reads "uta"; I transcribe the print as it stands. (ii) "ṇidi kutsāyām" is printed with the root-initial "ṇ," as in the dhātupāṭha. (iii) The reference "pā. 7-4-16" is printed "7-4-16," and I give it so, though I have not verified it.
49. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed.
50. English as printed
51. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.
52. Continuing "naḥ" from p. 109:
53. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced. Note on the varga number: the Kannada marginal note at the end of the grammar reads "ಇಲ್ಲಿಗೆ ಏಳನೆಯ ವರ್ಗವು ಮುಗಿದುದು" — "here the seventh varga is finished" — i.e. it says seventh (ಏಳನೆಯ), where I had expected the eighth given the page headers I read as "Varga 8 [?];" and

p. 103 above, which already closed a varga at the end of Rik 4.3, was marked "seventh" too. This is a discrepancy in the source or in my reading of the small numerals, and I record it without resolving it.

54. Continuing from p. 110:

55. Reading notes: (i) the printed Saṃhitā shows "subhagā" with a mark above the last letter which I read as a nasal sign, giving "subhagām" — standing for the Pada's "subhagān" — but I am not certain of it. (ii) The Pada has "ariḥ" with the "ḥ"; the Saṃhitā "arir" is its sandhi form. (iii) The Pada text, as printed, divides "su-bhagān" with a visible sign; I give it so.

56. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. The sense-lines are in three layers; the grammar is characterized, with its sūtras.

57. Reading note: the second sentence's "ariḥ uta śatrur" — the print has "ariruta śatrurvo 'pi"; the "vo" that follows "śatruḥ" looks to me to be a printer's slip for the next word's "vocēyuh" run on; I give it as I read it and mark it [?]. The final "syāmed ... bhavema eva" is printed with an irregular spelling, "bhavemyaiva," which I read as "bhavema eva."

58. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed in the source; Ṛg-vedic reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?], and most of the list in the "dasma" paragraph I could not read reliably.

59. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-saṃhitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Nirukta reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.

60. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept.

61. Note: the Sanskrit on p. 112 had called "uta" first-syllable acute (by the nipāta rule); the two pages differ, and I record the discrepancy without resolving it.

62. this is the form whose nasal sign I flagged at p. 111

63. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the rendering of the Sanskrit of p. 112, characterized in order, sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain. The sense of the Rik is already given on pp. 112–113.

¶ Continuing "vocēyuh":) ...लिङ्याशिषि... (liṅ āśiṣy añ, पा. ३-१-८६ [as printed; the usual number is different, and I record the print]) puts "añ" in the āśīrlīṅ; ङेर्जुस् (पा. ३-४-१०८) puts "jus" for "jhi"; the "j" of "jus" is an "it" by चुटू (पा. १-३-७) and the "s" ... elided by तस्य लोपः (पा. १-३-९); "vac + a + us" — वचिस्वपियजादीनां

किति (पा. ६-१-१५) and वचेरुम् [as printed "vace um," पा. २-४-२०] — before "aṅ" the augment "um" comes to "vac"; आद्गुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) gives guṇa; यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्च (पा. ३-४-१०३) — the augment "yāsuṭ" in the parasmaipada, acute and "ṇit"; किदाशिषि (पा. ३-४-१०४) — "yāsuṭ" in the āśirliṅ is "kit" (so no guṇa); the Mādhava school adds that by this very sūtra "yāsuṭ" comes. Hence "vac + yās + us." By छन्दस्युभयथा (पा. ३-४-११७) in the Veda the affix is both "sārvadhātuka" and "ārdhadhātuka"; hence "yās + us" takes the "sārvadhātuka" label, and लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य (पा. ७-२-७९) elides the "s" of "yās" ("s" not at the end); अतो येयः (पा. ७-२-८०) turns the "yā" (after an "a"-final stem) into "iy" → "voc-iy-us"; आद्गुणः (पा. ६-१-८७) → "vocēyuh." The "sārvadhātuka" accent is lost by तास्यनुदात्तेऽङिदुपदेशाल्लसार्वधातुकमनुदात्तमहन्वोर्ङित् (पा. ६-१-१८६) and the affix "aṅ" keeps its own acute; the single substitute "ē" of "i + a" ... is acute by एकादेश उदात्तेनोदात्तः (पा. ८-२-५). - "Dasma" — "dasu upakṣaye" with the Uṇādi ईषियुधीन्धिदसिश्थाधूसूभ्योऽमुक् [as printed] (उ. सू. १-१४४ [?]) the affix "ma" with the augment "muk"; as a vocative standing after another word it loses its accent (आमन्त्रितस्य च, as printed). - "Kṛṣṭayaḥ" — क्तिच्क्तौ च संज्ञायाम् (पा. ३-३-१७४): "ktic" and "kta" in a sense of a name: "ktic" is added to "kṛṣ," meaning "men"; "c"-marked, so the last syllable is acute by चितः (पा. ६-१-१६३). - "Syāma" — "as bhuvi" (to be) in the optative (vidhi-liṅ), first-person plural; "yāsuṭ"; by लिङः सलोपोऽनन्त्यस्य (पा. ७-२-७९) the "s" is elided; the affix "mas" loses its final "s" (नित्यं ङितः, पा. ३-४-९९); श्नसोरल्लोपः (पा. ६-४-१११) the "a" of "as" is elided before an affix that is "k" or "ṇ"-marked; hence "s-yā-ma" → "syāma." (The page ends mid-derivation of "syāma"; it continues on p. 116.

64. Continuing "syāma" from p. 115:

65. Reading notes: (i) the print of the first line in the Samhitā runs the words together as "ā īm āśum āśave ..."; in the Samhitā "ā īm" shows a svarita-type mark that I do not reproduce. (ii) The Samhitā has "patayan mandayat-sakham" with the final "n" before "m"; the Pada has "patayat | mandayat-sakham." The reading "patayat" in the Pada text is the one the Bhāṣya below also gives.

66. Reading notes: the phrase "patayat-patana-yuktam karmaṇi prāpnuvantam" is printed with some run-together letters; I read it as given and note that the Bhāṣya's gloss of "patayat" is somewhat loose; the Kannada Pada-meaning, on p. 117, renders it "the one with the power to bring about the actions that fall away / are lost," which shows the same uncertainty.

67. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā."
Grammar characterized, sūtras kept. English as printed.
68. Continuing "patayat" from p. 116:
69. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."
English as printed; Ṛg-vedic references in small Kannada numerals marked [?]; glosses mine and tentative.
70. Kannada; characterized.
71. Page headers: p. 119 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā";
p. 120 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "bhara," "yajñaśriyam," "nṛmādanam" and "patayat," with extended scholastic argument about "patayat"; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik, given on pp. 116–118. Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, not translated line by line; every sūtra the pages name is kept in three layers, numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain. A good part of p. 120 is crowded with technical objections and replies that I do not reproduce.
72. continuing from p. 118
73. Continuing "patayat":
74. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.
75. Concluding the grammar of "patayat" from p. 120:
76. The print of the last lines — the grammar of "asya" — is partly garbled, and it continues on the next page; I give the sense and not a reading of the garbled stretch.
77. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."
Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; English as printed.
78. the Sanskrit; given in outline
79. the print is cut off at this point, and continues on the next page
80. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Nirukta reference-number in small Kannada numerals marked [?]. English words as printed.
81. Continuing "asya" from p. 122:
82. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4."
Reference-number marked [?].

83. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the rendering of the Sanskrit on p. 121; characterized in order; sūtras kept; numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain. The sense of the Rik is already given on p. 122.
84. Continuing "asya" from p. 124:
85. Concluding the grammar:
86. The print here has the counts as I give them; the Nighaṇṭu quotation 'vājeṣv agmann' is printed as I give it and I flag it as hard to read.
87. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sūtra-numbers in small Kannada numerals; [?] where uncertain. English as printed.
88. the Sanskrit on the top of this page, transcribed as I read it, with its sūtras; given in outline since it is pure derivation
89. Reading notes: the sūtra-numbers in this paragraph are read from small numerals and are low-confidence; the sūtra wording "iṣṭhavaṇau prātipadikasya" is hard to read in the print and I transcribe it as I make it out.
90. number illegible to me
91. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
92. Continuing "vājayāmaḥ" from p. 128:
93. Reading note: the Saṃhitā text is printed with the avagraha-sign in "rāyo 'vanir," and "mahān" followed by a "t"-like mark and "supāraḥ" as "mahāntsupāraḥ" — the sandhi of "mahān + su..." — as I read it. The end of the page carries the Kannada page-footnote numeral "17" (a signature-mark).
94. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.
95. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. Reference-numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. The gloss on the parallel verse is mine, tentative.
96. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; the Sanskrit sentences here are technical and some letters are hard to read; [?] marks my uncertainty. English as printed.

97. I give the sense of the verse only in outline, because its last words are not clear to me.
98. Page headers: p. 133 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā"; p. 134 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 4." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, rendering the grammar of the Sanskrit on p. 130 and adding a long argument about the sandhi and accent of "yo rāyo 'vaniḥ." They do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 130–131). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, not translated line by line; every sūtra named is kept in three layers, with numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.
99. concluding from p. 132
100. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as I read them.
101. concluding from p. 134
102. The numerals in this closing note are printed in small Kannada digits; I read them as "4" and "8," and as the next page begins "the fifth sūkta," the "4" is secure. The "8" for the varga is less so, and it sits oddly with the "seventh varga" notes I recorded at pp. 103 and 111 — both are best-effort readings and should be re-checked on the page.

Sūkta 5

1. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, rendered letter by letter into Devanagari/IAST; [?] where unclear. Heading printed: "॥ ओम् ॥ — ಐದನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು (the fifth sūkta)".
2. Reading notes: (i) the print's first word reads "ā tveti" — the quotation of the opening words "ā tvetā"; (ii) the Sūtra reference "6-4" is read from small Kannada numerals and marked [?].
3. Kannada commentary, translated
4. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Kannada numerals in the permutation list at the foot of the page are printed in Kannada digits and are given here in Arabic as I read them.
5. Reading note: the second line's "yo" for the neuter-agreeing "yat" is as printed, and I give it so; the source of the verse is not named on the page.

6. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." The numerals are printed in Kannada digits; they are given here in Arabic as read, and each Ṛk-count agrees with the stoma's name (e.g. pañcadaśa = 15), which confirms the reading. The stoma and viṣṭuti terms are Sanskrit, given in three layers where they stand as citations.
7. Continuing the permutations from p. 137:
8. continues on the next page
9. Correction note: on pp. 136–139 I first wrote this technical term as "vispr̥ti" / "vipr̥ti [?]", the Kannada print on pp. 138–140 reads ವಿಷ್ವತಿ, i.e. viṣṭuti, and the text of those pages has been corrected in place to that spelling.
10. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The viṣṭuti names are Sanskrit, printed in Kannada script, and are rendered in all three layers (Devanagari, IAST, with the Kannada's own gloss where it gives one). Where a name is uncertain in the print I mark it [?]; I translate no name that the source does not itself explain.
11. Continuing:) ...the trivṛt stoma has three viṣṭutis, and so it is to be understood that each viṣṭuti has 9 Ṛks over its three paryāyas; the three viṣṭutis together make not 9 but 27 [?] Ṛks, and so on. (The Ṛk-figure "27" is the product the sentence implies, 3×9 ; the print's numeral is small and I give it with [?].
12. Note: the print's spellings of the viṣṭuti names — e.g. "samatryaṃśā," "pratyavarohiṇī," "nediyassaṃkramā" — are given as I read them; they are technical names whose meaning the source does not explain on this page, and I give no translation of them.
13. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Heading printed: "ತ್ರಿವೃತ್ತೀಮದ ವಿವರಣೆಯು" — "Explanation of the trivṛt stoma." The Sanskrit quotation is printed in Kannada script; rendered in three layers.
14. The source does not name the book's section and I do not add one. The word "parācibhiḥ" is explained by the Kannada as "in the order that is in the Veda."
15. Mine, following the Kannada gloss that comes next.
16. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Sanskrit quotations are printed in Kannada script; rendered in three layers. A few spellings in the print look irregular and are marked.
17. Mine, following the Kannada gloss.

18. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
Heading printed: "ಪಂಚದಶಸ್ತೋಮದ ವಿವರಣೆಯು" — "Explanation of the pañcadaśa stoma." The Ṛk-numbers in the lists are printed in Kannada digits and are given as 1, 2, 3.
19. Continuing the second paryāya of the kulāyini, from p. 141:
20. The source's summary of the second paryāya here is slightly compressed — "the middle ... first; the last ... middle," following the Brāhmaṇa's words — and I give the order its example list shows: 2, 3, 1.
21. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 8 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Sanskrit is printed in Kannada script. The sequences of Ṛk-numbers are as printed in Kannada digits.
22. the table continues on the next page
23. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
The tables below give the Ṛk-numbers (1, 2, 3) of the ṛca recited in each paryāya, as printed in Kannada digits. Check performed: for every viṣṭuti I added up the three paryāyas, and each total equals the stoma's Ṛk-count (9, 15, 17, ...), which confirms the reading of the digit strings.
24. continued from p. 143
25. Each totals 15. Source discrepancy, recorded not resolved: on p. 142 the viṣṭuti taken as the worked example — the one with 1,1,1,2,3 / 1,2,2,2,3 / 1,2,3,3,3 — is called "udyatī"; here that same pattern is the first, "pañcapañcinī," and the "udyatī prathamā" has a different pattern. One of the two pages' names for it is a slip, in the source or in my reading of a small numeral.
26. Note: this page spells the first two names "daśasaptānāmikā," whereas p. 139 gave them "daśasaptā"; I record both spellings as printed.
27. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Each row's three counts sum to 17.
28. Reading note: the fourth row's third paryāya and the fifth row's second paryāya are printed with small variations of spacing in the source; I give the sequences whose sums are 17 and which agree with the digit strings I could read.
29. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5."
These long digit strings were read from enlarged slices of the page, and each paryāya-set was added up as a check; where a set adds to the stoma's number, that is noted. Note on spelling: the list of names at the head of the

- ekaviṃśa section prints the third as "प्रतिष्ठति:" (pratiṣṭutiḥ [?]) while the heading over its table prints a form I read as "परिष्ठति" (pariṣṭuti [?]); I record both as printed and do not choose.
30. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Read from enlarged slices, with totals checked as above. One viṣṭuti does not add up and is flagged.
31. Note on (4): as I read the print, the three paryāyas of "pratyavarohiṇī" add to 32, not 33. One digit in one of the strings is probably misread (the first paryāya's run of 3's or the second paryāya's run of 1's are the likeliest places), or the source has a misprint. I give the strings exactly as read and do not adjust them. The strings for (3) and (5) wrap onto a second line in the print; I have joined them.
32. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." These long digit strings wrap over two lines in the print and were read from enlarged slices. To keep them legible I give each paryāya as runs ("1×3" = the digit 1 three times), with the count; the counts are my own tallies of the printed digits, and each viṣṭuti's total is checked against the stoma's number. A run of repeated 3's or 2's is the likeliest place for a one-digit miscount; none of the totals below fails, but the individual runs should be re-checked against the page if they are to be relied on.
33. Note: in the first paryāya of "prathamā" the print has the digits in the order 1, 1, 1, 3, 3, 3, then ten 2's — i.e. the 3's come before the 2's, which is out of the pattern of every other row. It may be a printer's transposition; I record it as printed. For the second viṣṭuti, whose table begins at the top of p. 149, I give the runs as tallied from that page.
34. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Āśvalāyana sūtra is printed in Kannada script; transcribed letter by letter, with one doubtful word marked.
35. continuing from p. 148: first paryāya 1, 1, 1, 2×12, 3; second 1, 2, 2, 2, 3×12; third 1×12, 2, 3, 3, 3 — each 16
36. Mine; see the correction note above.
37. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." The Sanskrit sūtra is printed in Kannada script; I transcribe it letter by letter and mark doubtful words. I translate only what the source's own explanation supports.
38. Continuing from p. 149, "...in the saptadaśa stoma the āvāpa is five" Ṛks:

39. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The table is printed with Kannada words and English column heads (the source's own, with its misprint "Secrifice"); the day-numbers are printed in Kannada digits and are given here in Arabic; each agrees with the name of the rite (dvādaśāha = 12, and so on).
40. Continuing: "Trikadruka" means the first three days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha mentioned earlier. For a sacrifice of sixteen days the Trikadruka and the Mahāvratā are added; for seventeen, the first five days of the Abhiplava-ṣaḍaha; for eighteen, all six. The same applies further on.
41. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.
42. Sūkta 5
43. number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 10
44. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed in the source; the Ṛg-vedic references in small Kannada numerals are marked [?].
45. Kannada, translated
46. The page ends in the middle of this list of examples; the discussion continues on the next page.
47. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." The Ṛg-vedic references are small Kannada numerals and all are marked [?]. The verses are printed in Pada style, word by word; given in three layers, with glosses of my own, tentative, where I can give them.
48. Continuing the list of examples of the doubled "ā" from p. 153:
49. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept
50. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." This page is a scholastic argument in Kannada prose about how the doubled "ā" is to be construed with the verb "ita" and about the accent of "ita"; it does not affect the sense of the Rik given on pp. 152–153. Per the standing convention it is characterized in outline, with the sūtras it names kept in three layers; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.
51. Reading note: the details of the Mīmāṃsā citation on this page are in crowded type and some of its words are garbled; I record only its drift. A fuller reading would have to be done against the page image.

52. Page headers: p. 156 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 157 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "sīdata," "indram," "abhi," "pra," "gāyata" and "stomavāhasaḥ," in part restating the Sanskrit of p. 152; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 152–153). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline; the sūtras they name are kept in three layers, numbers as I read them. The accent-sign discussions that fill much of p. 156 are crowded and I do not reproduce them.
53. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
54. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.
55. Reading note: in the Pada text the print shows "puru-tamam," divided; I give it so.
56. Kannada, translated; continued on the next page
57. he sakhāyaḥ — O friends, or priests;
58. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed.
59. Continuing the Pada-meanings:) पुरुतमम् (purūtamam) — destroyer of enemies | पुरुणाम् (purūṇām) — of many | वार्याणाम् (vāryāṇām) — of wealth, lordship and the like | ईशानम् (īśānam) — the master | इन्द्रम् (indram) — Indra | (abhi pra gāyata — sing well with stotras.
60. the numbers of these references are small Kannada numerals, read with doubt
61. Page headers: p. 160 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 161 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pages 159 (end)–161 (top) are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "purūtamam," "purūṇām," "īśānam," "vāryāṇām" and "sacā," a restatement and expansion of the Sanskrit of p. 158; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 158–159). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers; numbers as I read them in small Kannada numerals. The page is crowded and I do not reproduce its more technical sub-arguments.
62. from p. 159

63. Reading note: the print's Pada text for "yoga" in the Saṃhitā is "yoge" (locative); the Saṃhitā "yoga ā" is its sandhi; and "puraṃdhyām" is divided as "puraṃ-dhyām." In the Saṃhitā the print runs "bhuvat sa" together as "bhuvatsa."
64. the sentence continues on the next page
65. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear. English as printed.
66. concluding the sentence begun on p. 161:
67. ā bhuvat — let him be favourable
68. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The long list of Ṛg-vedic references given by the source for Hillebrandt's "puraṃdhi" is in small Kannada numerals and I give it only in the form I could read, marked [?].
69. English as printed
70. The page ends in the middle of the discussion of "yāsuṭ" with this verb: "...by the doctrine of Mādhava's school, किदाशिषि (पा. ३-४-१०४), and by the Vaiyākaraṇa view, यासुट् परस्मैपदेषूदात्तो ङिच्च (पा. ३-४-१०३)..." — continued on the next page.
71. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read. It restates the Sanskrit of pp. 161–162 and does not affect the sense.
72. Continuing "bhuvat" from p. 163:
73. Page header of the next page: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
74. Reading note: the print divides "saṃ-sthe" and "sama-tsu" as shown; the Pada text has "harī iti."
75. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." English as printed. The list of Ṛg-vedic references after "samatsu" is in small Kannada numerals and I could not read it reliably, so I omit its numbers rather than guess; the printed count is "about eighteen [?] Ṛks."
76. English as printed: "tawny or bay horse"
77. references omitted: unreadable

78. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, the Kannada rendering of the Sanskrit of p. 165, with extended argument on the accent of "vṛṇvate." Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.
79. The print's treatment of this accent runs onto the next page.
80. Page headers: p. 168 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 169 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, a very technical scholastic argument on the accent of "vṛṇvate" followed by the derivation of "harī," "samatsu," "śatravaḥ" and "tasmai." They do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 165–166). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers and the numbers as I read them; the argument on p. 168 is crowded and I give only its drift.
81. The page ends mid-sentence in this derivation, which is continued on the next page.
82. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Placement note: the heading "Sūkta 5, The Fifth Mantra" above was written before I had read to the foot of p. 169's grammar; the first paragraph below is therefore the last lines of Rik 5.4's grammar, which the print carries onto p. 170, and the Saṃhitā text of Rik 5.5 follows it. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.
83. Continuing from p. 169:
84. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; [?] where unclear.
85. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." English as printed. The verses are in Kannada script and the references in small Kannada numerals; every reference is marked [?]. Glosses are mine, tentative; the source gives none.
86. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 9 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." References are in small Kannada numerals and all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative.
87. Continuing the list of verses with "dadhyāśiraḥ":
88. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." References are small Kannada numerals, all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative. The verses were read from an enlarged slice.

89. Continuing the list from p. 173 — after verse (5):
90. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The varga number on this page is printed as "१०" ("10") — so the tenth varga begins on p. 175 or earlier. Accent-marks not reproduced; see the note at Rik 3.5.
91. Concluding the grammar from p. 174:
92. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from an enlarged slice; [?] where unclear. English as printed.
93. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." References are small Kannada numerals and all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative. The Taittirīya-brāhmaṇa passage is printed in Kannada script and given in three layers.
94. The source gives this blessing in Kannada script without a citation, and I do not add one.
95. Page headers: p. 178 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 179 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "tvam" (the pronoun "yuṣmad") and "sutasya," with long scholastic argument about which case-ending a rule refers to; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 176–177). Per the standing convention they are characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers; numbers as I read them from small Kannada numerals, and the long objections and replies are not reproduced.
96. the page ends here; continued on the next page
97. Page headers: p. 180 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 181 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose for "sutasya" (end), "pīṭaye," "sadyaḥ," "vṛddhaḥ," "ajāyathāḥ," restating the Sanskrit of p. 176; they do not bear on the sense of the Rik. Characterized in outline, with the sūtras named kept in three layers; numbers as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.
98. end
99. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from enlarged slices. Accent-marks are printed in the text on this page; they are not reproduced here, per the standing convention.

- 100. Concluding "ajāyathāḥ":
- 101. Grammar:
- 102. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed.
- 103. and let those Soma-juices
- 104. continues on p. 184
- 105. Page headers: p. 184 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 185 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose for "tvā," "viśantu," "āśavaḥ," "girvaṇaḥ," "pracetase." They do not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 182–183). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.
- 106. from p. 183
- 107. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.
- 108. Kannada, translated; continues on p. 187
- 109. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The Ṛg-vedic references in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative.
- 110. Continuing:
- 111. and
- 112. have praised
- 113. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." References are small Kannada numerals, all marked [?]; the verses were read from enlarged slices; glosses mine, tentative.
- 114. Continuing the list of verses with "vardhantu no giraḥ" from p. 187:
- 115. Correction note on the reference to the last verse: my first reading of the printed number as "2-3?-1" was a misread of small numerals; the verse is the well-known opening of a "śaṃ no" hymn, and I have given "6-73-1" with a [?], because I could not read the printed digits and I am relying on the wording. I record this rather than present the number as read.

116. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose for "stomāḥ," "avīrḍhan" and its reduplication, restating the Sanskrit of p. 186; it does not bear on the sense of the Rik (pp. 186–187). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.
117. The page ends mid-sentence in the discussion of the accent, which continues on the next page.
118. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.
119. Continuing "avīrḍhan" from p. 189:
120. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced here, per the standing convention. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.
121. Reading note: the Pada text prints "akṣita-ūtiḥ" as two parts; the Saṃhitā form is the sandhi "akṣitotiḥ." In the Saṃhitā the print runs "sanedimaṃ" (for "sanet imaṃ") together, as I give it.
122. sense-portion at the top; read from the enlarged slice
123. I do not transcribe the argument line by line: it is pure accent-theory and does not bear on the sense of the Rik given above.
124. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; the grammar at the top is a continuation of the argument of p. 191 and the Sanskrit of the Bhāṣya on "akṣitotiḥ," "sanet," "vājam," "indraḥ," "sahasriṇam," "viśvāni," "paumśyā." It is characterized in outline, with sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain.
125. Concluding the argument on "akṣitotiḥ" from p. 191:
126. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The Sanskrit of Skandasvāmī's commentary is printed in Kannada script and read from an enlarged slice; I give it in three layers.
127. The page continues with the next word on p. 194.
128. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." The verses were read from an enlarged slice; the references are small Kannada numerals and all marked [?]; glosses mine, tentative.
129. The page runs on into p. 195.

- 130. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, characterized in outline, sūtras kept; numbers as read.
- 131. Continuing from p. 194:
- 132. Page headers: p. 196 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5"; p. 197 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose. They do not bear on the sense of Rik 5.9 (pp. 191–193). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain. Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā text are not reproduced.
- 133. concluded
- 134. Reading note: the Saṃhitā is printed "druhantanūnām" as one run (for "druhan tanūnām"); I give it with the word-break, since the Pada text below shows "druhan | tanūnām."
- 135. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.
- 136. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." English as printed. The reference for the verse below is in small Kannada numerals and marked [?]; the verse was read from an enlarged slice; the gloss is mine, tentative.
- 137. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 5." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 198, characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.
- 138. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 10 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.
- 139. concluding
- 140. Note on the varga numbers: this closing note, which is plain in the print, confirms that the tenth varga ends here, with p. 201. It is consistent with the page headers "Varga 10" that I read on pp. 175–201 and shows that the earlier "seventh/eighth varga" notes at pp. 103, 111 and 135 were read from small numerals with errors or are source irregularities: the headers on pp. 152–174 read "Varga 9 [?]" and p. 175 onward "Varga 10." I leave the earlier notes as written and flag them for a re-check against the page images.

Sūkta 6

1. Page headers: p. 202 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 203 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11–12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. Printed title: "ಆರನೆಯ ಸೂಕ್ತವು" ("the sixth sūkta"). Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced, per the standing convention.
2. Kannada commentary, translated; p. 202
3. Reading note: the Kannada text here names the sixth-to-ninth Mārut Ṛks only by their opening words; the clause I give as "ata pari[?] gahi" is the print's reference to the end of that group and is crowded, so I mark it [?] and do not rely on it. The Ṛk-numbering of the deities I take from the Sanskrit above and from the Kannada's own count: Aindrī — 1, 2, 3, 10; Mārutī — 4, 6, 8, 9; both — 5, 7.
4. Sūkta 6
5. number of Ṛks in the sūkta: 10
6. the printed numerals are small; I give them as the Sanskrit above and the Kannada count require, and flag the line [?]
7. Rik 6.1; opening, p. 203
8. continues on the next page
9. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; read from an enlarged slice. The Taittirīya reference is in small Kannada numerals, marked [?]. English as printed.
10. concluding p. 203's Brāhmaṇa quotation
11. Kannada, translated
12. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The Nirukta passage is printed in Kannada script; read from an enlarged slice and given in three layers. Its reference ("Nirukta, Daivata-kāṇḍa, adhyāya 7, khaṇḍa 1–3") is in small Kannada numerals and read with care. English words in the Kannada are as printed.
13. Mine, following the Kannada account below.
14. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. The Brāhmaṇa reference is in small Kannada numerals and marked [?].

15. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] marks every place where letters are crowded or doubtful. The Brāhmaṇa-style argument at the foot of the page is very compressed; I give the Sanskrit as read and a translation in outline, saying where the sense is uncertain.
16. Source note on this long argument: Skandasvāmī's chief point is that Rik 6.1 has Indra, not the Sun, as its deity; his chief ground is the connection of "bradhna" and "aruṣa" with Indra's horses and with the "harī" of the next Rk. The details of the Mīmāṃsā-style reasoning are given above only in outline; the Sanskrit is preserved in full for checking.
17. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose, translated in full; the Sanskrit citations in it are given in three layers. References in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]; the Rg-vedic quotation was read from an enlarged slice; the gloss is mine, tentative.
18. of Skandasvāmī's commentary, in Kannada
19. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose, translated; references in small Kannada numerals are marked [?]. Veṅkaṭamādhava's Sanskrit is read from an enlarged slice and flagged.
20. Continuing from p. 208:
21. all these references are small Kannada numerals, read with doubt, and given as best readings
22. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; the English passages are printed in English in the source and reproduced as printed. Small-numeral digits in the list of Rk numbers are marked [?].
23. Continuing the question of the sūkta's deity:
24. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose translated; the verse below is read from an enlarged slice; its reference is in small Kannada numerals and marked [?]; the gloss is mine, tentative.
25. Page headers: p. 212 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 213 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Rgveda-saṃhitā." These two pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "yuñjanti," "bradhnā," "aruṣam," "carantam," "tasthuṣaḥ," "rocante," "rocanā" and "divi"; they do not bear on the sense of Rik 6.1 (pp. 203–204 and the commentary after them). Characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read, [?] where uncertain. Accent-marks not reproduced.

26. Accent-marks are printed on the next page; not reproduced here.
27. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.
28. Kannada, translated; continued on the next page
29. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose translated; English as printed; references in small Kannada numerals marked [?].
30. Continuing the Pada-meanings from p. 214:
31. numbers small and uncertain
32. English as printed
33. English
34. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."
Pure grammar in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 214; characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.
35. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced, per the standing convention. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.
36. concluding the grammar of Rik 6.2
37. opening, p. 217
38. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."
Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. The Nirukta reference is in small numerals and marked [?].
39. concluding
40. Kannada, translated; opening
41. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose translated; English as printed; the Nirukta and Taittiriya references in small numerals are marked [?].
42. Concluding the Bhāvārtha from p. 218:
43. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6."
Kannada prose translated; grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as read.
44. Continuing "maryāḥ" from p. 219:
45. Kannada; characterized, sūtras kept

46. The page ends in the middle of an argument about whether a single intervening letter blocks the operation — "vyavadhāna" — concluding that a mere letter-interposition does not prevent the rule when a rule's own wording requires it ("vacana-prāmāṇyāt"); it continues on the next page.
47. Page headers: p. 221 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā"; p. 222 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." The grammar on p. 221 and the top of p. 222 is pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 218; characterized in outline, sūtras kept; numbers as read. Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā/Pada are printed on p. 222; not reproduced. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear.
48. Continuing p. 220:
49. Continuing:
50. opening
51. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. English as printed.
52. concluding from p. 222
53. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; English as printed; Nirukta numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?].
54. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose translated; the Sanskrit quotation was read from an enlarged slice and is given in three layers, flagged where unclear. Grammar characterized, sūtras kept.
55. Continuing "anu" from p. 224:
56. Kannada; characterized
57. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Grammar characterized, sūtras kept; numbers as read. Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā text are printed; not reproduced.
58. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] marks letters I could not read with confidence — in particular the left-hand edge of the first lines of the Bhāṣya is cut off in my enlargement, so the beginnings of several lines (marked [...]) are completed only where the sense and the quotation that follows make the word certain, and are otherwise left open. Accent-marks not reproduced.

59. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; English as printed; the reference numbers in small Kannada numerals are marked [?].
60. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 11 · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Pure grammar in Kannada prose, restating the Sanskrit of p. 227; characterized in outline; sūtras kept; numbers as read.
61. Accent-marks are printed on this page; not reproduced.
62. Reading note: the printed Saṃhitā "acchā" in the first pāda is the sandhi-lengthened form of the Pada's "accha"; the Pada text divides "vidat-vasum" as a compound.
63. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The top of the page is the end of the Sanskrit grammar of the Bhāṣya, which I read at ordinary enlargement only; it is characterized, not transcribed, because it is dense accent-derivation that does not bear on the sense; the sūtras whose numbers are legible are kept. English as printed.
64. The numbers of the sūtras in this paragraph are small and I do not give them.
65. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; the Sanskrit of Skandasvāmī's gloss is given in three layers, read at ordinary enlargement and flagged where unclear.
66. Page headers: p. 233 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā"; p. 234 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 235 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?]." These three pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "devayantaḥ," "yathā," "matim," "accha," "vidadvasum," "giraḥ," "mahām," "anūṣata" and "śrutam"; they do not bear on the sense of Rik 6.6 (pp. 230–232). They were read at ordinary enlargement and are characterized in outline; every sūtra I could read with confidence is kept, and numbers are as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.
67. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Accent-marks on the Saṃhitā/Pada are printed here; not reproduced. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; [?] where unclear. Grammar characterized.
68. Concluding "anūṣata":

69. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." The top of the page continues the Sanskrit grammar of the Bhāṣya on "dṛkṣase," "saṃjagmānaḥ," "abibhyuṣā," "mandū" and "samānavarcasā." It is dense, was read at ordinary enlargement, and is characterized, not transcribed; the sūtras I could read with confidence are kept; numbers as read from small Kannada numerals, [?] where uncertain.
70. Page header: "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6." Kannada prose translated; English as printed. The Ṛg-vedic verse was read from an enlarged slice; its reference is in small Kannada numerals and cut at the left edge of my enlargement, and I mark it [?]; the gloss is the source's own English.
71. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Kannada prose translated; grammar characterized; the Nirukta reference in small numerals is marked [?].
72. Continuing from p. 238:
73. Page headers: p. 240 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā · Maṇḍala 1, Anuvāka 2, Sūkta 6"; p. 241 "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?];" p. 242 "Sāyaṇa-bhāṣya-sahitā." These three pages are pure Pāṇinian derivation in Kannada prose for "dṛkṣase," "saṃjagmānaḥ," "abibhyuṣā," "mandū" and "samānavarcasā," together with a note on the saṃhitā-sandhi of "saṃjagmāno abibhyuṣā." They do not bear on the sense of Rik 6.7. Read at ordinary enlargement; characterized in outline; sūtras I could read with confidence are kept, numbers as read.
74. Continuing "dṛkṣase":
75. Page header: "Aṣṭaka 1, Adhyāya 1, Varga 12 [?] · Ṛgveda-saṃhitā." Sanskrit printed in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; the left edge of the first lines of the Bhāṣya was clipped in my enlargement, so a few word-beginnings are marked [?].
76. Note on order: the grammar section, which in the print runs from p. 244 through p. 245, and the Pada-meanings are already given above under "Page 243"; what follows is the remainder of p. 244. Page headers: p. 244 "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 245 "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]."
77. as printed in the source
78. Accent-marks printed; not reproduced.
79. Page 246 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 247 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; the bhāṣya was read from enlarged slices. Accent-marks on the Pada text are printed but not reproduced.

80. The Nirukta numeral for the "ṛñjati" reference is printed with a Kannada digit pair I could not read with certainty; "Nirukta 2-1" for the parokṣa-kṛta definition reads clearly.
81. Printed sūtra-numbers in this paragraph are the least certain part of the page; I give them only where reasonably legible, with [?] where not.
82. Kannada, translated, p. 247
83. as printed
84. Kannada, translated; continues onto the next page
85. Page 248 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 249 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". P. 249 also carries a small "32" at the foot, apparently a printer's signature mark. The Kannada here is quite legible, but the sūtra-numerals are small and several are marked [?].
86. characterized in outline, with every named sūtra kept in three layers, as the page is dense scholastic derivation of accent and affix that adds nothing to the sense already given
87. Printed numerals in this section — all the reference-numbers in "पा." brackets — are small and some are uncertain; I have marked [?] where I could not confirm them. The ones I confirmed against my memory of the standard Aṣṭādhyāyī numbering — 1-1-55, 2-4-71, 6-4-22, 6-4-37, 6-4-105, 7-1-1, 8-1-19 — I give without comment; I have not checked the rest.
88. Page 250 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 251 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". Rik 6.10 is the last Rik of Sūkta 6. Accents are printed on the Saṃhitā and Pada of Rik 6.10, and not reproduced.
89. Kannada, translated; the page-top continues the "Rocanāt" discussion of p. 249
90. The print appears to read "upasarge ca" for "upasargeṇa" — the first word is read here from small type; I give the standard form of this well-known verse and flag the discrepancy.
91. Final Rik of the sūkta. Accents are printed on this page; not reproduced.
92. Kannada script; read from the page at 150 dpi and not separately enlarged. I mark [?] where a word is not clearly read.
93. Page 252 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 253 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". P. 252 is a page of continuous small print in Kannada script — the end of Sāyaṇa's own grammatical notes — read from enlarged slices; numerals marked [?] are not certain.

94. Sanskrit in Kannada script, read from enlarged slices; the first lines belong to the argument about "itaḥ" begun on p. 251, and I give only its tail
95. This stretch — the end of the "itaḥ" discussion — is a compressed objection-and-answer, with a half-clipped sūtra-quotation and a numeral I cannot read; I give the words as far as I could read them and do not complete them. Its upshot, as far as I can follow, is that the objection is answered, "itaḥ" standing as formed.
96. Kannada, translated, p. 252
97. Kannada, translated; p. 253
98. Reference numerals in this section follow the print where legible; the "सावेकाच" clause in the Sanskrit notes above is read from small type and is uncertain.
99. Page 254 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 255 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". Characterized in outline per the project convention; every named sūtra and paribhāṣā is kept in three layers. Numerals in brackets are small and several are uncertain, marked [?].
100. This whole passage is scholastic argument over accent-rule precedence and is too compressed and partly clipped in the print for me to reproduce line by line; the outline above is my best summary of its direction. I do not claim to have followed every step of it.
101. Page 256 header: "Maṇ. 1, A. 1, Sū. 6"; p. 257 header: "A. 1, A. 1, Va. [?]". P. 257 also carries a small "33" at the foot, evidently a printer's signature mark. Characterized in outline; sūtras kept.
102. I follow the print's direction here; the finer steps are clipped by the crowded type.
103. The ordinal is read as "eighth" — the word printed is "ಎಂಟನೆಯ" — and I record it as read. It disagrees with the closing note of Sūkta 5 (p. 201), which I had read as "tenth," and with the small-numeral page headers; I do not reconcile them. See the open flags below.

Sūkta 7

1. The top of this page carries the end of the Kannada anuvāda translated above; its content is given there.

2. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi: "13, 14". This fits the run of two Vargas per sūkta from Sūkta 3 (5, 6) and Sūkta 8 (15, 16), but not the "eighth varga" of the Sūkta 6 colophon; unreconciled. An earlier reading here of "9, 10" was wrong.

¶ The remainder of the Sanskrit on this page and the next carries Sāyaṇa's grammatical derivation of गथिनः [gāthinaḥ], बृहत् [br̥hat], अर्केभिः [arkebhiḥ], अर्किणः [arkinaḥ], वाणीः [vāṇiḥ] and अनूषत [anūṣata] — suffixes, accent, and Vedic irregularities of case-ending — in the standard dense register. Characterized rather than transcribed line by line (Convention 5); the sense of each word is already fixed by the passage above. In outline: gāthinaḥ is formed with the suffix than (from the root gai, "to sing") and then ini ("one who has gāthās"); br̥hat has its instrumental ending dropped (the standard luk of case-endings in the Veda); arkebhiḥ lacks the usual ais substitution by Vedic license; arkinaḥ is "those who have arkas"; vāṇiḥ is a nominative form standing in an instrumental sense; anūṣata is an aorist of the root nu ("to praise") in the middle voice with a Vedic irregularity.

3. as printed in the source

4. My rendering of the rik rests on the plain word-sense; the source here offers no Kannada translation of it, only the citation. Spelling of sātā follows the scan.

5. All numerals in this sentence are small and compressed in the scan; given with reservation.

6. Continues the Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā of Rik 1 in the same register — the optional-lengthening discussion for vāṇiḥ and the finite-verb analysis of anūṣata, completed on the next page. Characterized as above; not transcribed.

7. The first nine lines complete the Rik 1 grammar — the analysis of anūṣata, ending with the observation that, since the root nu belongs to the kuṭādi class, the sic aorist behaves as if marked ñit and so guṇa does not arise. Then the number ॥१॥ closes Rik 1. Characterized, not transcribed.

8. Sāyaṇa's grammatical notes follow on page 264 — in the Sanskrit itself — and are characterized there.

¶ The first part of this page is the Sanskrit grammar of Rik 2 inside the bhāṣya itself. Characterized, not transcribed. Points of substance: हयोः (haryoḥ) — "the two that carry" (harataḥ), from hr̥, with the suffix in; initial-udātta. सचा (sacā) — glossed "with" (Nirukta 5-5, "sacā saheti").

सम्मिश्रः (sammiślah) — "mixing" from miśra + ghañ (Pā. 3-3-18) with a Vedic l for r, so "one who mixes thoroughly"; accent of the first member retained in the bahuvrīhi. वचोयुजा (vacoyujā) — "yoked with a word"; the dual case-ending replaced by ā; the second member yuj has the final accent. वज्री (vajrī) — "having a vajra", suffix ini (Pā. 5-2-115). हिरण्ययः (hiranyayah) — by Pāṇini 6-4-175 [?] (the source's printed number reads "6-4-17[?]", the m of hiraṇmaya is dropped irregularly in the Veda, so hiranyaya is the form; it is udāṭṭa on the ā by the suffix-accent.

9. All R̥gveda numbers below are read from small print and are given with "[?]". The Sanskrit of each rik is transcribed from the Kannada script, with word-division as read. Where the scan made a word doubtful, it is marked.
10. Citation-heavy list: numbers and several words are low-confidence and are shown only so the reader sees the shape of the evidence; they must be checked against a clear copy before reliance.
11. Pages 266–268: the Kannada grammar of Rik 2 — characterized, not transcribed; Convention 5. Points of substance:
12. Page 267 continues the Rik 2 grammar; page 268 closes it. The last lines on p. 268 conclude that it is "proper," as explained in the Vedic commentary (Veda-bhāṣya), to accept the loss of the letter itself and say that the single-substitute vowel is udāṭṭa by Pā. 8-2-5, and the number ॥२॥ closes Rik 2. Characterized as above — the source is arguing a point of Pāṇinian procedure, not adding to the sense of the rik.
13. The pada-pāṭha's first word after indraḥ is read here as dirghāya, matching the bhāṣya and the saṃhitā; the final letter in the printed pada line is not fully clear in the scan.
14. The remaining Sanskrit on this page — grammar of दीर्घाय, चक्षसे, सूर्यम्, रोहयत्, दिवि, अद्रिम्, ऐर्यत्, i.e., which suffixes and accents — is characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below.
15. Source's Kannada: "adriḥ grāvā ādi" "mūvattu".
16. Pages 271–272. Characterized, not transcribed. Points of substance:
17. Page 272 begins with the final lines of Rik 3's grammar — the verb airayat takes its personal ending, and the word is unaccented by Pā. 8-1-28 — then the number ॥३॥ closes Rik 3.

18. The remaining Sanskrit on pp. 272–273 is Sāyaṇa's grammar of वाजेषु, नः, अव, सहस्रप्रधनेषु, उग्रः, ऊतिभिः. Characterized below with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā; not transcribed.
19. Pages 274–275. Characterized, not transcribed. Points of substance:
20. sic; the source cites a Phīṭ-sūtra on "sahasra"
21. Further grammatical material in the Sanskrit — on arbhe, havāmahe, yujam, vṛtreṣu, vajriṇam — occupies the rest of this page's Sanskrit. It is dense Pāṇinian derivation, characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below (Convention 5); not transcribed.
22. as the source quotes it
23. Pp. 277–279. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5); sūtra numbers are pointers only. Points of substance:
24. Page 279's first lines list the thirty-odd roots after which rak comes, including this one.
25. Continuation of the Rik 5 grammar — the discussion of havāmahe's saṃprasāraṇa and of whether num arises in yujam; characterized in the entry above.
26. The first lines complete the Dhātupāṭha-list noted above, then वज्रिणम् as above, and the number ॥५॥ closes Rik 5.
27. The remainder of the Sanskrit on p. 280 — the grammar of वृषन्, अमुम्, चरुम्, सत्रादावन्, अप, वृधि, अस्मभ्यम्, अप्रतिष्कृतः — is characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below; not transcribed.
28. The printed page carries no separate "English Translation" block for this rik; none is supplied here.
29. i.e., the Saṃhitā reads apā
30. Pp. 281–283. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:
31. Continuation of the Rik 6 grammar above — the long treatment of asmabhyam; page 283's first part completes the analysis of apraṭiṣkutaḥ and closes with the number ॥६॥.
32. The pada line prints तुञ्जेतुञ्जे with an avagraha between the two halves, i.e. as a single repeated word.
33. The rest of the Sanskrit on pp. 284–285 is Sāyaṇa's grammar of तुञ्जे, उत्तरे, स्तोमाः, विन्धे, अस्य, सुष्टुतिम्, dominated by a long scholastic argument (an objection and replies) on whether the prefix su in suṣṭutim is an upasarga whose presence causes s to become ṣ and fixes the accent, or whether it qualifies the instrument of praise rather than the act of praising.

 Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5); the conclusion that bears on the sense is given at the end of p. 285 and translated there.

34. Sanskrit continues: Yāska's gloss as above; then the word-by-word grammar of tuñje tuñje (doubling, the second member being āmreḍita and unaccented), uttare (from ud + root tṛ with ap ; ud meaning "excellent"), stomāḥ (from stu with man), vinde/vindhe (root vid lābhe; ātmanepada; the Vedic dh), asya, and then the opening of the suṣṭutim debate.
 Characterized as above.
35. First lines: the suṣṭutim debate concludes that the su qualifies the instrument [karaṇa] of praise; as a closing note Sāyaṇa adds the alternative analysis of the word. The Sanskrit tail of the page is translated here.
36. The sūtra reference is as it appears in the Kannada print; the same sūtra is cited in the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā on p. 290 — see below.
37. Pp. 287–290. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:
38. Characterized, not transcribed. The argument, in outline, as the Kannada commentary gives it:
39. This closing passage is the Kannada rendering of what is already translated above from Sāyaṇa on p. 285.
40. The pada line prints यूथा and इव joined by an avagraha; the form is read here as yūthā + iva, matching the Kannada Viśeṣa-viśaya note on yūtheva below.
41. The remainder of Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit — grammar of वृषा, यूथा इव, वंसगः, कृष्टीः, इयर्ति, ओजसा, ईशानः, अप्रतिष्कृतः — is characterized with the Kannada Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā below.
42. Pp. 293–294. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:
43. Completes the grammar above, ending with the accent of apraṭiṣkutaḥ and the number ॥८॥.
44. Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar of एकः, चर्षणीनाम्, वसूनाम्, इरज्यति, पञ्च, क्षितीनाम् — concerning the kan suffix on iṇ ("to go"), the accent of carṣaṇi, the u suffix of vasu, the yak suffix of irajyati, and the final-udātta of kṣiti — follows on p. 295 and is characterized with the Kannada grammar below.

45. as the source says
46. For the last two riks the Devanagari is a best reading from compressed Kannada print; the translations given are plain word-sense renderings, not the source's. Numbers uncertain.
47. Sāyaṇa has approved just this
48. A note for the Volume 2 table of contents: the printed contents list the explanation of "Pañcakṣiti" and "Pañcajana" at p. 296; it begins there and runs to this page.
49. Pp. 297–298. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:
50. Completes the Rik 9 grammar above, ending with the accent of kṣitīnām and the number ॥९॥.
51. The citation numbers are compressed in the scan; the bracketed first quotation, rendered "baṇ mahām asi sūrya", is the best reading of the Kannada letters.
52. Sāyaṇa's grammar of इन्द्रम्, वः, विश्वतः, परि, हवामहे, जनेभ्यः, अस्माकम्, केवलः follows on this page; characterized with the Kannada grammar below.
53. The Sanskrit ends with the rik-number "10" and a second marker read as "2" [?]. This fits the close of the second anuvāka, of which this sūkta is the last, though the source does not annotate it.
54. as printed in the source; the scan prints "imoke" and "onr" for "invoke" and "own"
55. Numerals compressed in the scan; all given with reservation.
56. Pp. 300–301. Characterized, not transcribed (Convention 5). Points of substance:
57. This page carries the last two entries of the Rik 10 grammar, above: the explanation of the loss of ṭi in asmākam and the accent of kevalaḥ; it ends with the number ॥१०॥, followed by a printed ornament marking the end of the sūkta.

Sūkta 8

1. Reference numbers read from small print.
2. small-print Kannada digits; fits the two-vargas-per-sūkta run, see the note at Sūkta 7

3. The remaining Sanskrit, pp. 303–304, is Sāyaṇa's grammar of सानसिम्, सजित्वानम्, सदासहम्, वर्षिष्ठम्, ऊतये, भर, grammar noted briefly (cost-saving rule); not transcribed. It concerns the suffix asi on the root vana/ṣaṇa ("to enjoy"), the replacement of samāna by sa, the suffix kvanip with the tuk augment, the replacement of vṛddha by varṣ before iṣṭhan, the Vedic ktin accent of ūti, and the root hr with Vedic bh for h in bhara.
4. as printed in the source
5. grammar page, noted briefly
6. All sūtra numbers read from small print; treat as pointers.
7. The rest of the p. 306 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar and an argument about ni ruṇadhāmahai's doubled verb and the case of vṛtrā — the sense is settled above; grammar noted briefly, not transcribed. The Rik's remaining apparatus follows in the next pages.
8. The first lines complete Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit on Rik 2: an argument, citing the Taittirīya Saṃhitā's "puroḍāsaṃ cādhiśrayati" and "prokṣaṇīś cāsādayati" (Taittirīya Saṃhitā 1-6-8-? / 1-6-9-? [?]), that in a sentence with two finite verbs joined by ca only the first-uttered verb escapes the lowering of accent, so that the verb ni ruṇadhāmahai is carried over to the second clause by supply. Then the word-grammar of त्वोतासः, अर्वता, नि, वृत्रा, रुणधामहै. Grammar noted briefly, not transcribed.
9. grammar pages, noted briefly
10. All sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The page 310 Sanskrit ends with the number ॥२॥.
11. The rest of the Sanskrit on this page is the grammar of त्वोतासः, वज्रम्, घना, ददीमहि, जयेम, युधि, स्पृधः; noted briefly under the Kannada grammar, p. 312–314.
12. grammar pages 312–314, noted briefly
13. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. Ends with the number ॥३॥ on p. 314.
14. The pada text prints the first vowel of this word short; the Saṃhitā lengthens it — see the Special Topics below, where the commentary says the sa is long in the Saṃhitā-pāṭha for the sake of the meter.
15. The first part of the page is the end of Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar of Rik 4: शूरैभिः, अस्तृभिः, त्वया, युजा, सासह्याम, पृतन्यतः. Noted briefly, not transcribed: that śūra is formed with kran and a lengthened vowel from the root sū ("to go; to be strong"); that astr ("thrower") comes from root asu kṣepaṇe with the

tr̥n suffix; that tvayā has the substitute tva for yuṣmad before the instrumental ending, with pararūpa and a single accent-bearing vowel; that yujā is formed with kvin; that sāsaḥyāma is an intensive-desiderative-type formation from saha marṣaṇe with yañ, doubling and a lengthened reduplicate, and the benedictive liñ; and that prtanyataḥ is a denominative in kyac from prtānā ("army") with the participial śatṛ.

16. grammar pages 316–318, noted briefly
17. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.
18. The Kannada grammar of Rik 4 runs to the top of p. 319 — see the next page.
19. The top of the page completes the Kannada grammar of पृतन्यतः: the denominative suffix kyac after prtānā with loss of the final ā by the sūtra on kavi/adhvara/prtānā; the śatṛ participle in place of laṭ; the initial-udātta, and accusative-plural accent of the form, ending the Rik with the number ॥४॥. Grammar noted briefly.
20. Yāska's first example is partly unreadable in the scan; the rest follows the Nirukta passage as printed.
21. grammar pages 322–323, noted briefly
22. Continues on p. 323.
23. The Sanskrit grammar of समोहे, आशत, नरः, सनितौ, विप्रासः, धियायवः on p. 325 is noted briefly: that samohe is final-udātta by base accent; vā and its class are unaccented; āsata is from root aśū vyāptau with the aorist (luñ), the cli dropped by Vedic license, the augment āt and the ātmanepada ending with at for jh; naraḥ final-udātta; sanitau the ktin with the locative; viprāsaḥ with the Vedic asuk plural; dhiyāyavaḥ a denominative in kyac, kyāc-chandasi with the loss of ā and the u-suffix.
24. Page 326 breaks off here; the grammar continues on p. 327.
25. The rest of the Sanskrit on this page, and p. 329's grammar — on सोमपातमः, समुद्रः, पिन्वते, उर्वीः, आपः, काकुदः — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.
26. grammar pages 329–330, noted briefly
27. The Sanskrit grammar continues: पिन्वते is not made unaccented as a verb here, by the rule yady-vṛtta-nityam, because the relative yaḥ precedes it in the sentence.

28. The rest of the p. 331 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of एवा, हि, अस्य, सूनूता, विरप्शी, गोमती, मही, पक्वा, शाखा, दाशुषे; noted briefly with the Kannada grammar below.
29. No "English Translation" block is printed for this rik in the source, as also for Rik 7.6; none is supplied here.
30. Skandasvāmī's "ā" before garjita is as printed; the Sanskrit is compressed.
31. grammar pages 333–335, noted briefly
32. Continues on p. 335.
33. Page 334 carries the Kannada grammar of सूनूता and विरप्शी, गोमती as summarized above; its closing lines, continuing on p. 335, treat मही, पक्वा, शाखा and दाशुषे.
34. Several sūtra numbers and the phrase after samāne are read from compressed print and flagged.
35. the printed page breaks off here; the grammar continues on p. 339
36. The Saṃhitā text prints evā hy asya as one run, एवाह्यस्य, as in the print; the pada text below separates it.
37. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The page ends with ॥१०॥.

Sūkta 9

1. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; they continue the run of two Vargas per sūkta: Sūkta 7 "13, 14", Sūkta 8 "15, 16"
2. The rest of the p. 343 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of एहि, मत्सि, अन्धसः, विश्वेभिः, सोमपर्वभिः, अभिष्टिः, ओजसा; grammar noted briefly. In outline: the ā + ihi becomes ehi by guṇa, with a discussion of how ā and the following i form a single substitute; matsi is the loṭ second-person of the root madī harṣe with hi optionally replaced and śyan dropped by Vedic license, and the d of the root becoming t before s; andhas is formed with asun; viśvebhiḥ with kvan and no ais by Vedic license; somaparvabhiḥ is a compound with the accent explained by the sūtra on gati-kāraka-preceded kṛdanta; abhiṣṭi is from iṣ gatau with ktin; ojas is formed with asun from ubja ārjave.
3. as printed in the source
4. grammar page, noted briefly

5. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The page's last lines begin the grammar of andhasaḥ; the rest follows on p. 346.
6. grammar pages, noted briefly
7. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The grammar ends with ॥१॥ at the top of p. 347.
8. Passages marked [?] are hard to read in the scan; the Nirukta quotation follows the Kannada print.
9. The Sanskrit grammar on p. 348 — एनम्, सृजत, मन्दिम्, मन्दिने, चक्रिम्, विश्वानि, चक्रये — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.
10. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.
11. grammar pages 350–352, noted briefly
12. Grammar: mad in the sense of praise, in the imperative: the augment num does not arise here, since it is optional; the verb matsva is unaccented as a finite verb; its accent remains that of the root; in the Saṃhitā the vowel is lengthened by Pā. 6-3-135 [the "dvyaco 'ta stiṇaḥ" rule]; the vocative suśipra is unaccented as a vocative within the sentence; the base accent of the stoma-word is initial by the suffix; the Vedic bahulam prevents the replacement of bhis by ais; the case-ending of eṣu is udātta by "ūḍidam-padādy-appum-raidyubhyaḥ.") (Several half-legible grammar phrases are marked [?]; the sense is not affected.)
13. The text breaks off at the page foot; it continues on p. 354.
14. Continuing Yāska on suśipra:
15. the list of mantra numbers is compressed and not reliable in the scan
16. grammar pages 354–355, noted briefly
17. The remaining Sanskrit grammar of this rik is noted briefly below.
18. grammar pages 357–358, noted briefly
19. the printed page breaks off here; the grammar continues on p. 358.
20. The grammatical remainder: codaya — root cuda preraṇe, causative, imperative; rādhaḥ — 'that by which they succeed' is wealth; the suffix asun after any root (Uṇ. 4-188 [?]), initial-udātta since the suffix is nit; vareṇyam — root vrñ with the suffix eṇya, initial-udātta by the vrṣādi rule; asat — root as bhuvī, the subjunctive leṭ in the third singular, the final i of tip dropped (Pā. 3-4-97), the augment aṭ (Pā. 3-4-94), giving as + aṭ = asat, the śap dropped by luk; augments are unaccented; vibhu — from root bhū with prefixes vi, pra, sam and the suffix ḍu (Pā. 3-2-180); ḍit so the ṭi of the root drops; the u is udātta by the suffix; and the same for prabhu.

21. Several accent clauses and sūtra numbers are compressed in the scan and marked [?].
22. grammar pages 360–361, noted briefly
23. In the Saṃhitā the words asmān su are joined as asmān tsu: a t is inserted between the n and the s by the Vedic sandhi rule, as the Special Topics below explain.
24. Grammar: tatra — formed with tral after tad (Pā. 5-3-10), the syllable before the suffix being udātta since tral is l-marked; indra — the vocative, initially udātta, but as the first word of a pāda not lowered; rāye — the case-ending udātta by "ūḍidam..."; rabhasvataḥ — root rabha rābhasye, 'the beginning of an act'; the suffix asun, initial-udātta since nit; matup is pit and so unaccented; by Pā. 1-4-17 and 1-4-19 the word is not a pada before matup, but has the technical bha status; tuvidyumna — 'he whose wealth (dyumna) is much (tuvi)', a bahuvrīhi, the vocative initially udātta; yaśasvataḥ — 'who has fame' with matup, not barred by vini (Pā. 5-2-121) since the two are combined everywhere; the word yaśas initial-udātta as a neuter not ending in -isan.
25. Several grammar phrases are read from compressed print and flagged.
26. grammar pages 363–365, noted briefly
27. The accompanying grammar, noted briefly: gomat and vājavat take their stem accent because matup is unaccented (the Sanskrit's word for this is garbled in the print, as marked); vāja is a vṛṣādi word, initial-udātta; asme is formed by the substitute śe for the plural dative ending after asmad, replacing the whole as it is śit, final-udātta by the stem accent; prthu — root prtha prakhyāne with the suffix ku and saṃprasāraṇa of r to ṛ (Uṇ. 1-29); śravaḥ — 'that which is heard' = wealth, with asun, initial-udātta; viśvāyuh — a bahuvrīhi 'in which wealth the whole life [is]'; with the Vedic accent on the end of the first member; akṣitam — from kṣi kṣaye with the causative sense inside, the past-participle suffix in the passive, with nañ.
28. Parts of the Sanskrit — noted [?] above — are compressed in the scan.
29. grammar pages 367–368, noted briefly
30. Grammar noted briefly: asme as in Rik 7; dhehi — the root dhā with hi, with the substitution of e for ā and loss of the reduplicate (Pā. 6-4-119); śravaḥ with asun; saahasrasā — 'one who gives a thousand': root ṣaṇu dāne with viṭ (Pā. 3-2-67), ā for the nasal (Pā. 6-4-41), final-udātta by the root, then the second-member rule; rathinyaḥ — 'those who have chariots,' feminine in nīp (Pā. 4-1-5), unaccented because pit; iṣaḥ takes the root accent if taken in its component sense and the stem accent if taken as a settled word.

31. Grammar, noted briefly: vasoḥ — root vasa nivāse with the suffix u (Uṇ. 1-11); vasupatim — the first-member accent by Pā. 6-2-18 when pati means 'lord'; gr̥ñantaḥ — root gr̥ śabde, śatṛ with śnā, the ā of śnā dropped before the śatṛ since it is treated as nī; ṛgmiyam — 'one who measures the ṛks' (rco mimīte) with kvip, the ī by Pā. 6-4-66, the voicing of the final consonant (Pā. 8-2-39); homa — root hveñ with the first-person plural mip by Vedic exchange, śap dropped, the saṃprasāraṇa of hve (Pā. 6-1-34), giving homa; gantāram — root gamlṛ with tṛn in the sense of habit, initial-udātta since nī; ūtaye — the ktin of ūti, udātta by the irregular formation.
32. Passages marked [?] are compressed in the scan.
33. The page opens with the end of the second quoted rik from p. 373, and a third:
34. grammar pages 374–376, noted briefly
35. The pada text prints सुतेसुते with an avagraha between the halves, as one repeated word.
36. The phrase marked [?] is compressed in the scan; the sentence structure is clear from the continuation.
37. The remaining Sanskrit on this page is the grammar of सुतेसुते, न्योक्से, बृहते, अरिः, इन्द्राय, शूषम्, अर्चति, noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.
38. These four verses are best readings from compressed print, each marked where doubtful; a clear copy is needed before relying on them.
39. grammar pages 379–380, noted briefly
40. Printed in Sanskrit at the end of the grammar, p. 380.

Sūkta 10

1. The Anukramaṇī quotation and the reference numbers are hard to read in the scan; the sense is confirmed by the Kannada rendering that follows.
2. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; they continue the two-vargas-per-sūkta run: Sūkta 9 "17, 18"
3. The rest of the p. 382 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of गायन्ति, गायत्रिणः, अर्चन्ति, अर्कम्, अर्किणः, ब्रह्माणः, शतक्रतो, वंशमिव, येमिरे, noted briefly with the Kannada grammar below.
4. as printed in the source

5. ... "Arka" means ekka tree, in Kannada.
6. Durgācārya's Sanskrit is given in the source in compressed print; this is a best reading.
7. grammar pages 386–387, noted briefly
8. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.
9. The remaining Sanskrit on pp. 388–389 is Sāyaṇa's grammar of सानोः, आरुहत्, भूरि, अस्पष्ट, कर्त्तव्यम्, अर्थम्, यूथेन, वृष्णिः, एजति, noted briefly with the Kannada grammar below.
10. the sacrificer, to fetch the Soma-creeper and the fuel-sticks
11. and
12. Soma-sacrificial
13. after knowing
14. grammar pages 390–391, noted briefly
15. Grammar noted briefly: yukṣva — imperative middle of yuj in the rudhādi class with śnam ; keśinā — "having handsome manes," with ini; vṛṣaṇā — root vṛṣu secane with kanin, dual in ā by "supām suluk..."; kakṣyaprā — "those who fill the kakṣyā," root prā pūraṇe with ka, final-udātta by the second-member rule; athā — the particle lengthened in the Samhitā; naḥ — substitute nas for asmān/asmākam (Pā. 8-1-21), unaccented; indra, somapā — vocatives, both unaccented; girām — case-ending udātta; upaśrutim — initial-udātta as an irregular formation; cara — unaccented.) (The bhāṣya's Sanskrit is compressed in places; two phrases are marked [?]).
16. grammar pages 394–395, noted briefly
17. Further Sanskrit on this page is Sāyaṇa's grammar of एहि, स्तोमान्, अभि, स्वर, गृणीहि, रुव, ब्रह्म, वसो, सचा, वर्धय; noted briefly in the Kannada grammar on p. 399. In outline: the n of stomān before abhi becomes the nasalized vowel with r-form by "ato roraplutād aplute" and related sandhi; abhi is final-udātta [as one of the evādi class]; svara — "sound," with the prefix abhi standing apart; gṛṇīhi — gṛ śabde, loṭ with śnā and hi, the ā of śnā dropped (Pā. 6-4-113 [?]) and ṇatva; ā ruva — the root ru śabde, with ā before it standing apart.) (The sūtra-numbers are compressed in the scan.)
18. The first lines of the page finish Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar: रुव — root ru śabde, loṭ second singular with hi (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]); śap where it should arise is replaced by śa-type by Vedic inversion, with the stem-accent; "āto heḥ" removes... ; ब्रह्म — root bṛha vṛddhau with manin (Uṇ. 4-[?]); वसो — a vocative unaccented as such; यज्ञम् — "yajayācayatayacchaprachcha..." with nañ; वर्धय — unaccented. The page ends the Sanskrit with the statement that, though the finite verb ruva is the second in the sentence joined by ca, the particle ca is understood to serve a continuing role so the earlier verbs lose their accent only as stated. Grammar noted briefly; not transcribed.

19. then

20. a best reading of compressed print

21. grammar pages 399–401, noted briefly

22. continues on p. 400

¶ Grammar page, noted briefly.) रुव (ruva) — ru śabde (adādi), loṭ second singular sip, sip → hi by "seryapicca" (Pā. 3-4-87 [?]). The adādi vikaraṇa śap ought to be dropped by "ādiprabhṛtibhyaḥ śapaḥ" (Pā. 2-4-72 [?]); here instead, by Vedic inversion, a śa-type vikaraṇa arises, which is ārdhadhātuka-like and blocks no guṇa because śa is śit (so sārvadhātukam apit, Pā. 1-2-4 [?], treats it as ñit); the u of ru before the vikaraṇa takes uvañ by "aci śnudhātubhruvām yvoriyañuvañau" (Pā. 6-4-77 [?]), giving ruv + a + hi; hi is dropped by "ato heḥ" (Pā. 6-4-105 [?]), so ruva; wholly unaccented as a finite verb (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]). ब्रह्म (brahma) — root bṛha vṛddhau ("to grow"), an idit root, so num by "idito num dhātoḥ" (Pā. 7-1-58 [?]), giving bṛmḥ; then manin by "bṛheror mano lopaś ca" (Uṇ. 4-[?]) with the augment am, n of num dropped; some read the Uṇādi sūtra as "bṛmher noccha ca"; the ṛ is changed to ra by "iko yañaci" (Pā. 6-1-77 [?]), giving brahman; manin is ñit, so initial-udatta. वसो (vaso) — a vocative, unaccented by "āmantritasya ca" (Pā. 8-1-19 [?]). यज्ञम् (yajñam) — nañ by "yajayācayatavicchaprachar akṣo nañ" (Pā. 3-3-90 [?]) after yaj; j + n → jñ ("stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ," Pā. 8-4-40 [?]). वर्धय (vardhaya) — a finite verb, unaccented by "tiñ atiaḥ" (Pā. 8-1-28 [?]); but since in this mantra two ca's are heard (brahma ca vardhaya, yajñam ca vardhaya), the verb is connected with the earlier clause too — so that the vardhaya of the earlier clause is the first finite verb of the joined sentence, and the rule "cavāyoge prathamā" (Pā. 8-1-59 [?]) prevents the lowering of the first verb in a sentence joined by ca and vā; hence no lowering applies where the first-uttered verb is concerned. (Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

23. The Saṃhitā prints णो for नो (the dental n becoming retroflex after the preceding ṣ), as the printed grammar explains.

24. The Pada text prints the fourth word of the second line as सरणत्; the vowel of its first syllable is not clear in the scan.
25. The Sanskrit grammar of उक्थम्, शंस्यम्, वर्धनम्, पुरुनिषिधे, शक्रः, सुतेषु, रारणत्, सख्येषु occupies the rest of pp. 402–403: that uktha is from vaca with thak (Uṇ. 2-2 [?]), and so on. Grammar noted briefly below.
26. Special Topics, p. 404, ends on p. 405 with the remaining examples of suta in the sense "son":
27. grammar pages 405–409, noted briefly; the scholastic arguments on pp. 406–408 are characterized in outline only
28. In the Saṃhitā the word सखित्वे prints as सखित्व before the following ई; the pada text gives the full locative.
29. Grammar, noted briefly: sakhitvam — "the state of a friend," with tva (Pā. 5-1-119); īmahe — root ij gatau, ātmanepada since j-marked (Pā. 1-3-72), śyan of the divādi class dropped by luk under bahulam chandasi; rāye — case-ending udātta; suvīrye — "he whose valour is fine," the abstract sense suggested by the future-referring word, suvīryatva, with the second-member udātta by Pā. 6-2-106 [?]; śakraḥ — "he who is able," with rak; śakat — root śakḷ śaktau, by the rule that the Veda uses luṇ, laṇ and liṭ interchangeably (Pā. 3-4-6), the aorist of śak with aṇ substitute for cli (Pā. 3-1-55), the augment aṭ not occurring by bahulam chandasi (Pā. 6-4-75), unaccented; vasu — root vasa with u (Uṇ. 1-10), initial-udātta; dayamānaḥ — root daya with śānac for laṭ, unaccented śap, the root accent remaining.
30. Several parts of the grammar are compressed in the scan; the sense is not affected.
31. we pray
32. grammar pages 411–412, noted briefly
33. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The grammar continues on p. 412.
34. grammar page, noted briefly
35. The long grammar of pp. 413–414 — on suvivṛtam (whether the compound takes the accent of a kṛdanta second member, with a discussion of the paribhāṣās "kṛdgrahaṇe gatikāarakapūrvasyāpi grahaṇam," Paribhāṣā 28 [?] and 31 [?]), sunirajam (from root aja gatikṣepaṇayoḥ with su and nīs; "īṣad-duḥ-suṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal," Pā. 3-3-126 [?]), tvādātām, yaśaḥ, gavām, apa, vṛdhi, kṛṇuṣva, rādhaḥ, adrivaḥ — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.

36. The Sanskrit is partly compressed; the clause marked [?] was not securely read.

¶ Grammar page, noted briefly. The page is Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit grammar, in outline: that the word sunirajam is formed with the prefixes su and nis and the root aja, with khal (Pā. 3-3-126 [?]), so that the su does not intervene with the retroflexion by nis; that tvādātam is from the root dāp śodhane, with the ñit-like treatment, the substitute tva for tvad by the rule for the third case singular, and the ending replaced by ā by "supām suluk..."; that yaśaḥ is from aśū vyāptau with asun (Uṇ. 4-190 [?]), initial-udātta by the stem accent; gavām takes its stem accent; vr̥dhi — root vr̥ñ varane, with hi replaced by dhi, śnu dropped by bahulam chandasi; kṛṇuṣva — root kṛñ hiṃsākaraṇayoḥ with uk, ś-vikaraṇa as u by "dhinvikṛṇvyor a ca" (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]) with va for ṇa; and adrivaḥ — "adriḥ vajraḥ tad asyāstīti matup," with matup in the Veda taking va, the vocative in matup with num (Pā. 7-1-70 [?]), and the rule "hal-ñyābbhyo dīrghāt sutisy aprktaṃ hal" (Pā. 6-1-68 [?]), the ru and visarga of the vocative.

37. printed on p. 415

38. the page breaks off here; the Special Topics continue on p. 416

39. Continuing "Tvādātam": ... dāp śodhane: "by the rule ādeca upadeśe 'īti (Pā. 6-1-45 [?]), taking the form of a different root, he explains it" — "purified by you, made clear," as the Bhāṣyakāra explains. According to Skandasvāmī's explanation, tvādātam is tvayā dattam, "given by you." The sense in the end is one, though the derivation of the word differs. The word tvādātam occurs not only in this rik but in Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 3-40-? [?], 8-?-?; the word tvādattaḥ occurs at Ṛgveda Saṃhitā 8-?-? [?], and tvādatrebhiḥ at 3-?-? [?] (the mantra numbers are compressed in the scan and are all marked [?]). (See also the explanation of the word adrivaḥ in this rik.)

40. The Devanagari of the Yāska quotation above is a best reading from compressed print.

41. grammar pages 417–422, noted briefly; the scholastic arguments on pp. 417–419 are characterized in outline only

42. The page ends with "so ends this great-sentence discussion."

43. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. Large stretches of the scholastic arguments were too long and too compressed to render line by line. The last lines of this grammar run onto the top of p. 423: the t of adrivat is dropped as the end of a conjunct (Pā. 8-2-23 [?]); the n of the num augment is not dropped, because under pūrvatrāsiddham (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) the rule on loss of n (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]) is "unseen"; and the final s of the vocative becomes ru and then visarga.

- ¶ The rest of the p. 423 and p. 424 Sanskrit is Sāyaṇa's grammar of नहि, त्वा, रोदसी, उभे, ऋघायमाणम्, इन्वतः, जेषः, स्वर्वतीः, अपः, गाः, धूनुहिः that nahi is "na + hi" with the accent resolved under the rule on compounds with nañ; rodasī is from rudh with asun, initial-udātta, and takes ī as a dual; ṛghāyamāṇam is a denominative from the root ṛgha (ṛghā "destroyer") with kyac, and sānac; invataḥ is from ivi vyāptau with num; jeṣaḥ is the Vedic aorist-subjunctive form (leṭ) of ji in the sense of prayer, with sip and aṭ; svarvatīḥ is "having svar" with matup and ñip, with the m changed to v; dhūnuhi is from dhūñ kampane with śnu and hi, the hi not dropped by the utaś ca pratyayād asaṃyogapūrvāt rule only because the u there follows a conjunct-less base [reading compressed]. Grammar noted briefly; not transcribed.

44. greatness

45. such as you are

46. after that

47. grammar pages 426–429, noted briefly

- ¶ The source remarks that this derivation follows the Vṛttikāra; in fact, no kyas is attached here, since the Lohitādi group contains only a-ending words; the Mahābhāṣya of Patañjali says the suffix kyas is not enjoined after consonant-ending words, and the Kāśikā-type analysis is therefore not tenable; another derivation is given: "ṛghāyate" = "ṛghā iva ācarati" with kyan (Pā. 3-1-11 [?]) — a compound from the word ṛghan followed by kyac (Pā. 3-1-10 [?]) optionally, then the technical name pada at the end of ṛghan by "svādiṣv asarvanāmasthāne" (Pā. 1-4-17 [?]) and the dropping of n by "nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya" (Pā. 8-2-7 [?]), the loss of n being "unseen" by "nalopaḥ supsvarasaṃjñātugvidhiṣu kṛti" (Pā. 8-2-2 [?]); and "pūrvatrāsiddham" (Pā. 8-2-1 [?]) means the loss of n is not "seen" when lengthening applies; kyac is c-marked, so the ātmanepada comes from "anudātta-ñita ātmanepadam" (Pā. 1-3-12 [?]); the rest as above.

48. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The ṛghāyamāṇam argument is characterized in outline; the print is long and compressed.

49. The grammar on pp. 430–431 is in Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit and is noted briefly: that āśrutkarṇa is a bahuvrīhi "he whose ears are āśrut," with the tuk augment after the short vowel of āśru before kvip (Pā. 6-1-71 [?]), a vocative; śrudhi — root śru śravaṇe with loṭ and hi, with śr as the substitute for śru (Pā. 3-1-74 [?]), the hi becoming dhi (Pā. 6-4-102 [?]);

havam — from hveñ with the Vedic saṃprasāraṇa and ap, "rdorap" (Pā. 3-3-57 [?]); nu — with the Saṃhitā lengthening nū (Pā. 6-3-133 [?]); dadhiṣva — root dadh ("dhā") in the loṭ ātmanepada; mama — "tavamamau ṇasi" (Pā. 7-2-96 [?]), mama for the genitive of asmad; kṛṣva; yujah; antaram.

50. The last lines of the Sanskrit are compressed in the scan.

51. grammar pages 432–435, noted briefly

52. Further paragraphs on havam, nu, cit, dadhiṣva, me, giraḥ, indra, stomam, imam, mama, kṛṣva, yujah, antaram continue to p. 435, noted briefly: the Saṃhitā lengthening in nū, the dhā → dadh reduplication with loṭ ātmanepada thās → se → sva and the lowering of śap to śluḥ; mama as the replacement for the genitive of asmad by Pā. 7-2-96 [?] with a technical discussion of whether the substitute is unaccented; kṛṣva with the lengthening in the Saṃhitā; and the final-udātta of antara.) (Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.

53. grammar pages 433–435, noted briefly; the argument on pp. 434–435 is characterized in outline

54. The grammar of vidma, vṛṣantamam, havanaśrutam, hūmahe, ūtim, sahasrasātāmām follows in the Sanskrit and is noted briefly: vidma — the substitute ma for mas in the laṭ of vid (Pā. 3-4-83), with the Saṃhitā lengthening; vṛṣantamam — root vṛṣu secane with kanin (Uṇ. 1-156), initial-udātta, then tamap (unaccented since pit); no loss of n because in the Veda the stem has bha status and so is not a pada; havanaśrutam — the lyuṭ from root hve with saṃprasāraṇa, then kvip with tuk; ūtim — the ktin udātta by irregular formation; sahasrasātāmām — root ṣaṇu dāne with viṭ, the ā for the nasal, then tamap and ṭāp.) (The final sūtra reference is compressed in the scan.

55. grammar pages 437–438, noted briefly

56. The grammar of तु, नः, इन्द्र, कौशिक, मन्दसानः, सुतम्, पिब, नव्यम्, आयुः, प्र, सु, तिर, कृधि, सहस्रसाम्, ऋषिम् follows in the Sanskrit on p. 439 and is noted briefly: the Saṃhitā lengthening of tu, su, kṛdhi; kauśika with the taddhita aṇ; mandasānaḥ — root maḍi stutimodamadasvapnakāntigatiṣu with sānac (Uṇ. 2-[?]) in the Veda, initial-udātta; sutam with kta; piba — the root pā with śa and pibādeśa; navyam — root ṇu stutau with yat ("ac-o yat") and guṇa by vānto yi pratyaye (Pā. 6-1-79 [?]) to give nav, "yato 'nāvaḥ" initial-udātta; āyuh with uṇ (Uṇ. 1-[?]) from iṇ gatau; tira — root tṛ with śa (the a-type vikaraṇa); kṛdhi — root kṛ with hi → dhi, the śnu dropped; sahasrasām and ṛṣim — root ṛṣi gatau with in (Uṇ. 4-[?]).

57. Sūtra numbers and some phrases are compressed in the scan.
58. you
59. grammar pages 441–443, noted briefly
60. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The grammar continues below.
61. grammar pages 442–443, noted briefly
62. The Sanskrit before 'khaṇḍe' is compressed in the scan.
63. The grammar of girvaṇaḥ, vṛddhāyum, vṛddhayaḥ, juṣṭāḥ, juṣṭayaḥ continues in the Sanskrit on this page, noted briefly: that girvaṇaḥ is "he who is served with girs," from the root vana ṣaṇa saṃbhaktau with the suffix asun, the preceding vowel lengthened by Vedic license, a vocative with initial-udātta by the stem; that viśvataḥ is formed with taṣil; that vṛddhāyum is a bahuvrīhi "he whose life is grown," accented on the end of the first member by "parādiś chandasi bahulam" (Pā. 6-2-199 [?]); that vṛddhayaḥ is from vṛdhu vṛddhau with ktin; and that juṣṭāḥ is from juṣṭi prītisevanayoḥ with kta, the augment iṭ barred.
64. Some of this is compressed in the scan.
65. grammar pages 446–447, noted briefly

Sūkta 11

1. The first words of the printed Sanskrit, as I read them, run indram viśvā ity-ṛcasya; the Anukramaṇī count aṣṭau — eight — agrees with the sūkta's eight riks.
2. a single numeral, read at 300 dpi as "21"; the earlier headings gave two numerals each, so this is a change of pattern — unreconciled
3. first read as "9" from the small numeral; corrected after the sūkta turned out to end at Rik 8, as the Anukramaṇī's aṣṭau also says
4. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 449–450 — on viśvāḥ, avīṛdhan, samudravyacasam, rathītāmam, rathīnām, vājānām, satpatim, patim — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below. In outline: viśvāḥ from viśa with kvan; avīṛdhan a Vedic ṇic-aorist (caṇ) with reduplication, with the augment aṭ and the loss of i by Pā. 6-4-51 [?]; samudravyacasam from vyaca with asun, a bahuvrīhi that keeps the first member's accent; rathītāmam from rathī + tāmap with lengthening; satpatim with Pā. 6-2-18 [?].
5. as printed in the source

6. grammar pages 451–453, noted briefly
7. The grammar continues on pp. 452–453.
8. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.
9. grammar page, noted briefly
10. Grammar noted briefly: that sakhya takes yat (Pā. 4-1-126 [?]) and the suffix accent; vājinaḥ "those who have food" with ini; bhema — the root ñibhī bhaye in the optative-type form with the s of mas dropped by Pā. 3-4-99 [?], the vikaraṇa dropped by Vedic license; śavasaspate — the visarga becomes s before pati by Pā. 8-3-53 [?]; ṇonumaḥ — the intensive of ṇu stutau with the retroflex ṇ of the initial and the lopped yaṇ ; and aparājitam with nañ taking the first-member accent.
11. Several grammar phrases are compressed in the scan; the sense is not affected.
12. for that very reason
13. grammar pages 454–456, noted briefly
14. The grammar continues on p. 455.
15. grammar pages, noted briefly
16. The Saṃhitā prints यदी with a long final vowel; the Pada prints यदि.
17. The Sanskrit grammar of the rest of this page and p. 457 — on pūrvīḥ, rātayaḥ, dasyanti, ūtayaḥ, yadi, gomataḥ, stotr̥bhyaḥ, maṃhate, magham — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.
18. the sacrificer
19. grammar pages 458–460, noted briefly
20. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 460–461 is noted briefly below: that bhindu is from bhidir vidāraṇe with the ku suffix by Uṇ. 1-38 [?] with the carried-over kuḥ and the dropping of the ṛ-marker; yuvan from yu miśraṇāmiśraṇayoḥ with kanin (Uṇ. 1-156 [?]), initial-udātta; kavi from ku śabde with i (Uṇ. 4-139 [?]); amitaujāḥ a bahuvrīhi keeping the first member's accent; dhartā with tṛc; vajrī with ini; puruṣtuta with the retroflexion of s by Pā. 8-3-105 [?] and the accent of a past-participle second member after a third-case or similar first member.
21. one who is
22. endowed with these qualities
23. grammar pages 461–463, noted briefly
24. The grammar continues on pp. 462–463.

25. grammar pages, noted briefly; the argument on p. 462 is characterized in outline
26. The saṃhitā word ऽपवर् joins apa and avaḥ, with avaḥ written as ar before adrivaḥ by the visarga rule; the pada text separates them.
27. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 464–465 is noted briefly below.
28. then
29. the source lists some twenty references in Kannada numerals — 1-62-4 [?], 2-12-3 [?], and so on, to 10-111-? [?] — all small print, not securely read and not reproduced
30. grammar pages 466–470, noted briefly
31. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The argument on pp. 467–469 on the iṭ of vas after bhī is characterized in outline; the print is dense and partly compressed.
32. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 470–471 — on tava, aham, śūra, rātibhiḥ, āyam, sindhūm, āvaḍan, atiṣṭhanta, viduḥ, kāraḥ — is noted briefly in the Kannada grammar below.
33. and
34. grammar pages 472–474, noted briefly
35. The grammar of māyābhiḥ, māyinaṃ, śuṣṇam, avātiraḥ, medhirāḥ, śravāṃsi, uttira is in the Sanskrit and noted briefly below: that māyā takes māj with the suffix mān ...; that śuṣṇa is from śuṣa śoṣaṇe with nak (Uṇ. 3- [?]); that medhira is from medhā with iran; avātiraḥ is the laṇ of tṛ with the augment aṭ in the Veda.
36. Some of the Sanskrit is compressed in the scan.
37. that is, to those who perform sacrifices and the like, being wise
38. grammar pages 478–479, noted briefly
39. The accompanying grammar, noted briefly: that indra is formed with ran (Uṇ. 2-28 [?]), initial-udātta since nit; iśānam with śānac for laṭ, unaccented because the root is anudātta-it; ojas initial-udātta; stoma with man; anūṣata — root ṇu stutau with luṇ in the Vedic ātmanepada, with cli → sic.
40. Parts of this Sanskrit are compressed in the scan.
41. to such Indra
42. grammar pages 480–481, noted briefly

Sūkta 12

1. The sentence about the meter and the deity-list are compressed in the scan; the Kannada rendering below confirms the sense.
2. small-print Kannada digits, read at 300 dpi; the first numeral is clear as "2" but the second digit of each is blurred
3. printed "1–12 medhātithiḥ kāṇvaḥ"
4. the deity line reads "agniḥ | 6 — agnir nirmathyo 'gnir āpavasiyaś ca |"; I give it as printed, with the second name uncertain
5. Grammar noted briefly: that hotṛ is from hveñ with tṛn in the habitual sense, with saṃprasāraṇa, guṇa and av, initial-udātta since nī; that viśvavedasam is a bahuvrīhi in which viśva with a name-sense ends in udātta (Pā. 6-2-106 [?]); that the case-ending of asya is udātta; and that sukratu has initial accent by Pā. 6-2-118 [?].
6. as printed in the source
7. The numerals are compressed and read with reservation.
8. grammar pages, noted briefly
9. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.
10. The first words of the bhāṣya are compressed; the sense is clear from the Kannada.
- ¶ The remaining Sanskrit, pp. 487–488, is Sāyaṇa's grammar of अग्निमग्निम्, हवीमभिः, सदा, हवन्त, विशतिम्, हव्यवाहम्, पुरुप्रियम्; noted briefly. In outline: agnim agnim is a doubling of the word with the sense "each and every"; the second member, called āmreḍita, is unaccented; havīmabhiḥ is from hveñ with īman (Uṇ. 4-[?]) after hve in the sense of calling, with saṃprasāraṇa; sadā is from sarva with dā (Pā. 5-3-15 [?]) and the replacement sa for sarva; havanta is the lañ of hveñ in the ātmanepada with the augment a dropped in the Veda and the Vedic ending anta; viśpatim has the genitive ending of viś replaced by s before pati (Pā. 8-3-53 [?]) and keeps the first member's accent; havyavāham is from vah with ṇvi (Pā. 3-2-64 [?]), a second member with the kṛdanta accent; purupriyam with the first-member accent of a bahuvrīhi.
11. grammar pages 489–490, noted briefly
12. Grammar, noted briefly: devān becomes devām before iha in the Saṃhitā by Pā. 8-3-9 [?] and the nasalization rule; jajñānaḥ — root janī prādurbhāve with kānac for liṭ, loss of the penultimate by Pā. 6-4-98 [?], doubling, final-udātta because the suffix is cit; vṛktabarhiṣe — root ovraścū chedane with kta, the augment iṭ barred by Pā. 2-... [?], a bahuvrīhi with the first member's accent; asi — the s of sip dropped by Pā. 7-4-50 [?], unlowered because it opens the pāda; hotā — root hveñ with ṭn, initial-udātta; īḍyaḥ — root īḍa stutau with nyat, initial-udātta by Pā. 6-1-214 [?].

13. grammar pages 492–494, noted briefly
14. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The argument on pp. 493–494 on the n of kta and the ś of vr̥scati is outlined only.
15. Grammar noted briefly: that tān becomes tām̐ before u by Pā. 8-3-9 [?] and the nasalization rule; uśataḥ — root vaśa kāntau with śatr̥, the śap dropped, samprasāraṇa of va, the case-ending udātta by Pā. 6-1-173 [?]; yāsi is not lowered because of the relative yat (Pā. 8-1-66 [?]); dūtyam — "the share or work of a messenger," with yat by Pā. 4-4-120 [?], the expected initial accent being set aside, leaving svārita on the suffix; satsi — root śadl̥ with sip, the śap dropped, and the substitute sīd not arising; barhiṣi — root br̥ha with isi, the i udātta.
16. for that reason
17. then
18. grammar pages 496–497, noted briefly
19. The Sanskrit grammar on pp. 498–502 is noted briefly below: that āhavana is formed with lyuṭ in the locative/instrument sense — "that in which they call [Agni] with ghee"; that, since juhōti is here treated as an intransitive, the ghee stands as an instrument and not as an object, so the third case applies, and the compound with the participle takes the first member's accent; dīdivas is the liṭ-participle (kvasu) of divu; raḥśasvin is formed with vini (Pā. 5-2-121 [?]).
20. Parts of the Sanskrit on this page are compressed in the scan; I give only the portions I read.
21. grammar pages 499–502, noted briefly; the long argument on pp. 500–502 is outlined only
22. The argument on pp. 500–502 is outlined only; the print is long and compressed.
23. The grammar of gr̥hapatīḥ, yuvā, havyavāt̥, juhvāsyah̐: that gr̥hapatī keeps its first member's accent by Pā. 6-2-18 [?]; yuvan is formed with kanin, initial-udātta; havyavāt̥ is root vah with ṇvi; juhū is from hu with kvip and the lengthening, doubling as if ślu had been added; the compound juhvāsya keeps the first-member's accent; the final ū of juhū becomes v before ā and the resulting vowel is svārīta by Pā. 8-2-4 [?].

24. such a fire

25. the list of mantra numbers is in very small Kannada digits and is only partly legible; I give only the first, which agrees with the present rik

26. references not securely read

27. grammar pages 505–506, noted briefly

28. Grammar noted briefly: that satyadharman takes the saṃāsānta suffix anic by Pā. 5-4-124 [?], keeping the first member's accent; that amīva is irregularly formed from the root ama "to be ill" with van and the augment īḍ (Uṇ. 1-154 [?]), initial-udatta; and that cātana is formed from cate (cada yācane) with the causative and lyu (Pā. 3-1-134 [?]), keeping the kṛdanta second-member accent.

29. O priests and others who sing praise!

30. grammar pages 508–509, noted briefly

31. Grammar noted briefly: that haviḥ is "that which is offered," with isi (Uṇ. 2-108 [?]); haviṣpati has the visarga turned to ṣ by Pā. 8-3-45 [?], keeping the first member's accent; saparyati is a denominative from sapara in the kaṇḍvādi class with yak (Pā. 3-1-27 [?]); and the verb is not lowered because a relative word yaḥ precedes it.

32. grammar pages 511–512, noted briefly

33. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only. The Mahābhāṣya quotation is a best reading.

¶ Continuation of Sāyaṇa's Sanskrit on devavītaye, noted briefly: that vī is from the root vī gati-prajana-kānty-aśana-khādaneṣu and takes ktin ("striyāṃ ktin," Pā. 3-3-94 [?]), whence vīti; that in the compound "devānāṃ vītir yasmin yāge sa devavītiḥ" the first member keeps its accent; that haviṣmān is formed with matup after haviḥ, the m becoming v (Pā. 8-2-9 [?]), initial and unaccented; that āvivāṣati is from vana/vā gati-gandhanayoḥ with san by Pā. 3-1-7 [?], doubling and the i-replacement of the reduplicate vowel, giving vivāsa, which has the root's accent; and that tasmai is in the dative (caturthī), because Indra... no — because the one for whom the act is intended receives the saṃpradāna name; that pāvaka is a vocative; and that mṛḷaya is the imperative of mṛḍa sukhane.) (The Sanskrit is compressed and partly illegible at the head of p. 513; I give only the portions I could read.

34. O

35. grammar pages 514–515, noted briefly

36. Grammar noted briefly: that diḍivaḥ is the participle of divu with kvasu and the reduplicate lengthened; that the vocative takes num and the rest is dropped; devān becomes devāñ before iha by the rule on n before a vowel in the same pāda; iha is formed with ha after idam in the seventh case (Pā. 5-3-11 [?]), with is for idam, is an indeclinable (Pā. 1-1-38 [?]), and its c-type final is udātta by the suffix.

37. and then

38. carry it so that it reaches them

39. grammar pages 517–519, noted briefly

40. Grammar noted briefly: that stavānaḥ is the passive-sense śānac of ṣtuñ, with the augment muk and the root accent standing; bhara shows bh for h in the Veda (Pā. 8-2-32 [?]); gāyatra is "that which belongs to the gāyatrī" with añ (Pā. 4-3-120 [?]); navīyas is the comparative of nava with īyasun; and vīravatī is unaccented in its suffixes, the ā carrying the stem accent.

41. O Agni!

42. The reference numerals of these three rikṣ, as printed in small Kannada digits, are compressed and doubtful; all are marked "?".

43. grammar pages 521–522, noted briefly

44. The last lines of the grammar of Rik 11, on p. 522, close the accent of vīravatīm — "the ā is udātta by the stem accent" — and end with the number ॥११॥; summarized under Rik 11 above.

45. The "12" at the end is the rik number.

46. you being such

47. grammar page, noted briefly

Sūkta 13

1. The Sanskrit is read with some doubt where compressed.

2. small-print Kannada digits, read at 300 dpi; the second digits are blurred

3. as printed, rik by rik

4. The rest of the bhāṣya, pp. 526–527, is grammar and a long argument on accent noted briefly below: that susamiddha is a karmadhāraya of su with samiddha by Pā. 2-1-57 [?], which keeps the first member's accent, with sam as a gati; that haviṣmate has the bha status that blocks the ru rule; that the two adjacent vocatives hotaḥ and pāvaka are treated as separate vocatives because each separately connects with the verb; and that yakṣi is the imperative of yaj with sip, the śap dropped, and ṣ and k by Pā. 8-2-36 [?] and 8-2-41 [?].

5. The Sanskrit is long and compressed in the scan; I give the legible portion.
6. for the purpose of favouring
7. as printed in the source
8. grammar page 529, noted briefly
9. Sūtra numbers read from small print; pointers only.
10. grammar pages 530–532, noted briefly; the long scholastic arguments are outlined only
11. Grammar noted briefly: that madhumat is formed with the suffix u (Uṇ. 1-19 [?]) from man with dh as the final replacement, initial-udātta; adya is formed irregularly with dya by Pā. 5-3-22 [?], final-udātta, an indeclinable with lengthening in the Saṃhitā; kṛṇuhi is from kṛvi himsākarāṇayoḥ with num and u-vikaraṇa by Pā. 3-1-80 [?], the hi not dropped under Pā. 6-4-106 [?] by the Vedic option; and vīti is a ktin udātta in the mantra by Pā. 3-3-96 [?].
12. Some Sanskrit is compressed in the scan; I give the legible portions.
13. grammar pages 535–536, noted briefly
14. Grammar noted briefly: that nara is from nṛ naye with ap; that śaṃsa is formed with ghaṇ in the locative sense by Pā. 3-3-121 [?], and in the compound narāśaṃsa the long ā is accepted because nara is in the vanaspatyādi list (Pā. 6-2-140 [?]), which gives both members their natural accent; iha is formed with ha; priya with ka (Pā. 3-1-135 [?]); madhujihva is a bahuvrīhi; and haviṣkṛt has tuk with kvip and ṣ by Pā. 8-3-45 [?].
15. Compressed in the scan; I give the legible portions.
16. Continuing Yāska on narāśaṃsa:
17. grammar pages 539–541, noted briefly
18. Grammar noted briefly: that sukhatama is formed with matup whose loss is permitted after quality-words, then tamap; ratha — from ramu kṛīḍāyām, 'in which they delight,' with kthan (Uṇ. 2-2 [?]), the augment iṭ barred (Pā. 7-2-10 [?]), initial-udātta since nit; īlita — root īḍa stutau with kta and the augment iṭ unaccented, the ḍ becoming l; devān — the n becoming ru and then y and dropped as before; asī — the s of sip dropped by Pā. 7-4-50 [?]; manu — root mana with u (Uṇ. 1-10 [?]); hita — root dhā with hi (Pā. 7-4-42 [?]); and the compound manurhita with the third case kept by Vedic license and the first member's accent.

19. having seated them
20. for
21. grammar pages 543–544, noted briefly
22. grammar pages 545–546, noted briefly
23. the source says: "the ā after m is udātta and the rest anudātta, then svarita after an udātta by Pā. 8-4-66 [?], and the remaining syllables are pracaya by Pā. 1-2-40 [?]"
24. The Devanagari for the last pāda is read as यत्रामृतस्य with the vowel mark on the printed ऋ taken as an artefact of the Kannada-to-Devanagari conversion; the pada text below and the bhāṣya give amṛtasya.
25. Grammar noted briefly: str̥ṇīta — root str̥ṇ ācchādane, imperative second plural, the thas → ta, śnā, ī by Pā. 6-4-113 [?], shortening by Pā. 7-3-80 [?], ṇatva by a vārttika; barhis as in 12.4; ānuṣak — root ṣaṇja saṅge with kvip; ghṛtapṛṣṭha a bahuvrīhi; amṛta — "that in which death is not" — with the first-member accent overridden by Pā. 6-2-116 [?]; cakṣaṇa — root cakṣiṇ with lyuṭ and no khyāñ substitution.
26. Parts of the Sanskrit are compressed.
27. O
28. grammar pages 549–550, noted briefly
29. grammar page, noted briefly
30. Grammar noted briefly: ṛtāvṛdh is formed with kvip after vṛdh with the causative sense, a compound with an upapada; devī has nīṣ by Pā. 4-1-48 [?]; asaścat is the śatr of saśca (Vedic c for j); adya as in Rik 2; nūnam final-udātta; yaṣṭave is the infinitive in tavai with ṣ by Pā. 8-2-36 [?].
31. The bhāṣya is read with some doubt where compressed.
32. grammar pages 554–555, noted briefly
33. Grammar noted briefly: naktoṣāsā is a dvandva of two deities, "night and dawn," in which both members keep their natural accent by Pā. 6-2-141 [?], with the Vedic ā for the dual ending and lengthening; supēśas is a bahuvrīhi "of beautiful form," initial-udātta; āsade is the infinitive of sad with the prefix ā and kvip in the sense of tumun, with the kṛdanta second-member accent.
34. Some of the Sanskrit is compressed.
35. grammar page 559, noted briefly
36. Grammar noted briefly below.

37. the two fire-forms called Daivya-hotārā
38. grammar pages 562–563, noted briefly
39. Grammar noted briefly: ilā from īḍ with the Vedic ḷ and kvip; sarasvatī from saras with matup and nīp; mahī with the Vedic loss of the t of mahatī; tisraḥ from tri with tisr (Pā. 7-2-99 [?]) and r for r̥ (Pā. 7-2-100 [?]), the ending udātta by Pā. 6-1-166 [?]; devīḥ with nīs; mayobhuvaḥ — 'that which makes happiness be,' with kvip from bhū with the causative inside; sīdantu with sīd for sad (Pā. 7-3-78 [?]); asridh 'without drying up' with nañ.
40. Some Sanskrit is compressed.
41. The Kannada explanation of Yāska's gloss continues on p. 566, to be taken up with the next batch.
42. The Kannada explanation of Yāska's gloss on p. 566:) "Bhāratī" — bharata is one of the twelve Ādityas; bhā means the lustre of the Āditya; hence bhāratī is the light of the sun, or the fire shining in the orb of the sun. "Iḷā" — iḷā means the earth. Manuṣvat cetayantī — having the power to urge as men do: she makes the people on earth take up food and other nourishment, and gives wealth; so the iḷā-deity is a special form of Agni who dwells in the earth-region. "Sarasvatī" — since she is the presiding deity of the lightning in the atmosphere, Sarasvatī is said to be the form of Agni who dwells in the atmosphere. Hence it is customary to say that the three goddesses Iḷā, Sarasvatī, Bhāratī are three forms of the fire that is in heaven, atmosphere and earth. (The source refers the reader to its pages 64–69 [sic: "೬೪-೬೯ನೇ ಪೇಜು"] for further treatment.
43. grammar pages 567–568, noted briefly
44. Grammar noted briefly: tvaṣṭṛ from takṣū/tvakṣū tanūkarāṇe with tṛn; agriya is formed with gha (Pā. 4-4-116 [?]); viśvarūpa is a bahuvrīhi; kevala is initial-udātta as a member of the vṛṣādi class.
45. The grammar in the Sanskrit is compressed in the scan.
46. that Tvaṣṭṛ
47. Continuing the Special Topics, p. 572:
48. grammar pages 572–575, noted briefly; the scholastic discussions on pp. 572–575 are outlined only
49. Grammar noted briefly: vanaspate is a vocative; deva stands at the head of the pāda and is not lowered; haviḥ with isi; dātuḥ — tṛc with the genitive ending ut by Pā. 6-1-111 [?] and loss of s by Pā. 8-2-24 [?]; cetanam — root citī saṃjñāne with lyuṭ, initial-udātta.

50. grammar page 577, noted briefly
51. Grammar noted briefly: kṛṇotana — the imperative second plural of kṛvi with tana (Pā. 7-1-45 [?]), the u-vikaraṇa (Pā. 3-1-80 [?]) and a for v; indra with ran; yajvan with ṛvanip (Pā. 3-2-103 [?]), the case-ending of the plural...; gr̥ha with ka, saṃprasāraṇa; tatra with tral; and devāṃ upa with the nasalization and loss of y as before.
52. The bhāṣya is compressed in places.
53. O priests!
54. Continuing Yāska on svāhā, the rik cited as example [p. 581]:
55. grammar pages 581–583, noted briefly

Sūkta 14

1. Table-of-contents title: "babhrur agne" — see the note under Rik 1 and in the open flags; the sūkta itself begins aibhir agne duvo giraḥ.
2. The ornament and the sūkta heading precede this note on p. 583; the first few lines of the page are the close of Sūkta 13, Rik 12, already covered.
3. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; the digits are blurred and might be 36, 37 — unreliable; the earlier headings ran 24, 25 for Sūkta 13
4. this is my reading of a four-line bracketed list in the print — the Kannada-script numerals before each item are small and I could not read them with confidence; the names themselves are legible
5. Accent-marks are printed in the source here; not reproduced, in keeping with the convention for the later riks of this volume.
6. small print, read from a 230-dpi slice; the left-hand edges of some lines are cut off in my slice, and the lines are as read from the full page
7. The first words of the second line of the print are partly unclear; "praty-ā(?)" stands for what appears to be pratyā ["towards; for each"] — I give it with a query.
8. Grammar passage: given as legible in part; "..." marks stretches I could not read at 150 dpi. Sūtras 2-4-32, 7-1-11 and 7-3-103 agree with the standard Pāṇinian numbering of idamo 'nvādeṣe 'śanudātta..., nedamadasor akoḥ and bahuvacane jhaly et; "bahulaṃ chandasi" is cited without number.
9. Grammar pages, pp. 586–587, noted briefly; my gloss in this paragraph is outline only.
10. Kannada
11. as printed in the source

12. The print shows a bare numeral "74" after the English, at the foot of p. 585, outside the text; I leave it unexplained [?].
 13. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced.
 14. In the print, the last clause names the item read after "kaṇva" with a letter-group that I read as rbhur; I give it with [?], and the Kannada Special Topics (below) confirms only that kaṇva itself is in the list.
 15. Crowded; reproduced in outline only.
 16. in the same way
 17. therefore
 18. The print ends the line with a comma.
 19. compressed; the reading is given as printed, with [?] where I am not sure
 20. Grammar noted briefly; "[?]" marks stretches where the print is compressed or the sūtra numeral is unclear. The numbers 6-3-26, 6-2-141 and 4-1-85 agree with the standard numbering.
 21. all these
 22. A bare numeral "75" stands after the English at the foot of p. 593; as with "74" on p. 585 it is outside the text — apparently a running number of the English renderings; I take it so, but flag it [?].
- ¶ Rik 3 grammar, pp. 594–596 — Vyākaraṇa-prakriyā, grammar pages, noted briefly: the Kannada treats indravāyū (P. 6-3-26 devatādvandve ca with the Vārttika that ānaḥ is barred for vāyu; P. 6-2-141 devatādvandve ca and the bar in P. 6-2-142 [?]), brhaspatim (the Vārttika on tasya... brhatoḥ karapatyoś coradevatayoḥ suṭ talopaś ca; Pā. 6-1-157 [?] for the kukkuṭādinām... discussion; P. 1-1-41 ādyantau ṭakitau; the Uṇādi ḍati from pā "to protect", Uṇ. 4-[?]; the accent rule P. 6-2-140 [?]), mitrā (P. 7-1-39 supāṃ sulug...; ekādeśa under P. 8-2-5), ādityān (P. 4-1-85 dityadity-ādityapatyuttarapadāṇ nṛyaḥ, with the nṛya accent; 6-4-148 yasyeti ca; 7-2-117 taddhiteṣv acām ādeḥ; 6-1-103 and 8-4-6 [?] for the accusative plural ān), and mārutam (Uṇ. 1-94 [?] mṛgror utiḥ, mṛj "to cleanse"; P. 4-3-[?] anudāttādeś ca with añ, P. 6-1-197 [?] ñnityādir nityam, the first-syllable accent). Sūtra numbers read from small print are pointers only.
23. Sanskrit printed in Kannada script; compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
 24. The remainder is grammar, noted briefly: for bhriyante the root bhr in the passive with the substitute riñ by P. 7-4-28; for indavaḥ the root undī "to wet" with the u suffix and i in place of the first letter; for matsarāḥ the root madī "to be satisfied" with a suffix carrying the indicatory c (accent on the last syllable); for mādayiṣṇavaḥ the causative of mad with iṣṇuc by P. 3-2-137 and the ay substitution; for madhvaḥ a note that the neuter madhu is here used in the masculine by vyatyaya and that the guṇa is not applied before jas (P. 7-3-109); for camūṣadaḥ the root cam "to eat", the formation camvaḥ "the vessels in which [soma] is eaten/drunk" with the Uṇādi ūḥ (Uṇ. 1-[?]), then sad + kvip (P. 3-2-61) and the ṣatva by the 'open-class' list suṣāmādi, with the accent of the compound that of its final member.

25. The print has "exhilarat-ing-" with a stray full stop and "(g;ods)" at the line break — misprints [sic]; I give the words as intended.
26. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
27. The words after "protection" in the second sentence are partly unclear in the print; I give them with a query.
28. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtras 7-4-33, 7-4-35, 7-1-50 are as read and match the standard numbering; the remaining numerals I could not read at 150 dpi.
29. A bare numeral "76" follows at the foot of p. 601, as with the earlier "74" and "75".
30. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.
31. Grammar pages (pp. 605–607), noted briefly, as above.
32. Crowded print; I give only the words treated and the sūtras I could read; numerals marked [?] are uncertain.
33. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā's first word is tān yajatrān, joined in sandhi as tāñ yajatrām — as printed: tānyajatrā.
34. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numbers 4-1-33, 6-4-102 and 7-3-37 are as read and agree with the standard numbering.
35. A crowded run of four pages; reproduced in outline only; I did not chase the numerals.
36. The print has पायय as in the Saṃhitā.
37. The print has no full stop at the end.
38. Grammar page; sūtra numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
39. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-1-215 as read agrees with the standard numbering.
40. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

41. Sūtra numbers read from small print at 150 dpi; they agree with the standard numbering where I could compare; pointers only.
42. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened pibā, the Pada the short piba.
43. Grammar, noted briefly.
44. The page runs on to p. 620 in the same vein; I give only the words treated and the sūtras I could read.
45. Sūtra numbers 7-4-42, 2-1-32 and 6-1-134 agree with the standard numbering; the others are as read.
46. Crowded; outline only; numerals as read, pointers only.
47. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. Saṃhitā has the lengthened yukṣvā, ihā, the Pada the short yukṣva, iha.
48. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-1-102 as read agrees with the standard numbering.

Sūkta 15

1. The Anukramaṇikā quotation begins with a word or two after "indra somam" that I read as ṛta... [?] and cannot complete; the rest is as read.
2. small-print Kannada digits; the glyph for 2 and 3 is hard to tell apart in this print, so the first digit could also be 3 — a "38, 39" reading is possible; I give the figures that continue the run of Sūkta 14 and mark them unreliable
3. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced.
4. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
5. Grammar pages, noted briefly; P. 8-1-63 and P. 7-1-50 as read agree with the standard numbering.
6. Numerals as read; pointers only.
7. as printed in the source
8. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened ṣṭhā, the Pada the short stha.
9. The Sanskrit reading of "potṛ-nāmakasya" is from small print and fairly clear; the closing clause is compressed.
10. This grammar run is compressed and crowded; the lines are given in part, with "..." where I could not read or condense them. It explains: why the verb pibata is not unaccented, since marutaḥ before it is a vocative treated as if absent; that potra is "belonging to the Potṛ" with aṇ, whose vrddhi is optional in the Veda; that punītana is the imperative of pū with the substitute tana for ta and the shortening of the stem vowel; the forms of yūyam (P. 7-2-93 yūyavayau jasi); and sudānavaḥ as a prādi-compound with the Uṇādi nu. The last clause says that by the particle hi the Maruts' power to purify is stated as the reason.

11. A crowded run of three pages; outline only, numerals as read, pointers only.
12. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Pada text has neṣṭar iti, the quoted form of the word.
13. Grammar, noted briefly.
14. Numerals as read; pointers only; the long treatment of the vocative accent of gnāvaḥ neṣṭaḥ is given in outline.
15. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened ihā, sādayā; the Pada the short forms.
16. The Sanskrit of the closing words was legible; the Uṇādi and Pāṇini numerals are marked [?] because I could not read them with certainty at 150 dpi.
17. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened pibā, the Pada the short piba.
18. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 8-3-2 as read agrees with the standard numbering.
19. The four verses are given from small print at 150 dpi; the second and fourth are the least certain, and their meaning is not clear to me beyond the first and the third — I give them as read, with no translation beyond the first line.
20. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read, pointers only.
21. therefore
22. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the final-short forms dhṛtavrata, mitrāvaruṇa; the Pada has dhṛtavratā, mitrāvaruṇā. In the Saṃhitā the word is spelt dūlabham with the Vedic ḷ.
23. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-126 and P. 7-4-70 agree with the standard numbering.
24. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
25. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.
26. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi number is as read.

27. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
28. This passage is printed in small type and the readings of its first words — here given as tatho waitat — are uncertain [?]; its sense, as the Kannada gives it, is:
29. The references are as I read the small numerals; each is marked [?].
30. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 8-2-7 and P. 3-4-81 agree with the standard numbering.
31. Grammar, noted briefly; the Pāṇini numbers as read; the standard numbers of 1-3-22, 1-4-80, 8-1-36 [?] agree with those I know.
32. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened smā; the Pada the short sma.
33. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-1-66 and 6-1-67 as read agree with the standard numbering.
34. A long, crowded grammatical argument about the accent of the cluster aśvinā ... dīdyagnī śucivratā ... ṛtunā yajñavāhasā; I have given its outline only, with numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
35. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 4-4-90, 4-4-110 and 4-4-98 as read agree with the standard numbering.

Sūkta 16

1. The Sanskrit phrases unnīyamānebhya 'nnāhā tvāvahantu and the Sūtra numerals are as read from the print and are uncertain [?].
2. small-print Kannada digits; the digit glyphs 2/3 are hard to tell apart in this print, so this is unreliable
3. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later rikṣ of this volume.
4. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
5. Grammar, noted briefly; the numeral of P. 2-4-54 as read agrees with the standard numbering.
6. Numerals as read; pointers only.
7. as printed in the source
8. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.
9. Grammar, noted briefly.
10. Crowded; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

11. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
12. we invoke
13. likewise
14. we invoke Indra
15. Crowded; outline only; the Pāṇinīya-śikṣā verses are partly read from small print and are given as pointers only.
16. The Saṃhitā prints the nasalised tām̐ indra; the Pada has tān.
17. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi number is as read and uncertain.
18. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened athā, the Pada atha.
19. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-2-58, P. 8-2-62 and P. 5-4-11 as read agree with the standard numbering.
20. The print has "you heart" for "your heart" — [sic].
21. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-67 and P. 3-2-87 as read agree with the standard numbering.
22. The print has "ceremoney" for "ceremony" — [sic].
23. The print of the first line has kāmamā; I give kāmam ā, the form the Pada and the bhāṣya both show.
24. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-121 and P. 3-4-92 as read agree with the standard numbering.
25. A crowded run of three-and-a-half pages; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.

Sūkta 17

1. small-print Kannada digits, re-read at 300 dpi; reasonably clear, but given [?] as for earlier headings
2. as printed: "೦-೩, ೬-೯, ಗಾಯತ್ರೀ | ೪, ೫, ಪಾದನಿಚ್ಛತ್"
3. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later riks of this volume.
4. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
5. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 8-3-25, 3-2-60 and 6-3-90 as read agree with the standard numbering.
6. Numerals as read; pointers only; a crowded run; outline only.
7. as printed in the source

8. Each IAST line above is also given in Devanagari in the print's Kannada script; I give the IAST and the Devanagari heading of the pair, as the Kannada glosses supply no English. Glosses of the pairs are the obvious ones — "Indra and Agni", etc. — and are mine.
9. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.
10. Grammar, noted briefly; numerals as read; pointers only.
11. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
12. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the shortened indrāvaruṇa; the Pada the long indrāvaruṇā.
13. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 2-1-6, 1-1-41, 2-4-82, 2-4-83, 5-3-55 and 5-3-63 as read agree with the standard numbering.
14. A crowded run of four pages; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
15. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi number is uncertain.
16. The mantra texts above are as I read the Kannada print; the numerals of every reference are small and I mark them all [?], as they are incompletely read. The English glosses of these riks are not given in the source.
17. Grammar, noted briefly.
18. A very crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
19. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 7-2-79, 6-4-64 and 3-3-161 as read agree with the standard numbering.
20. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the shortened indrāvaruṇa.
21. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numerals are as read and agree with the standard numbering where I could compare; the line beginning aci śnudhātv... is partly unclear [?].
22. Numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
23. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numerals are as read.
24. Numerals as read; pointers only.
25. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The print has su-stutiḥ in the Pada, though the Saṃhitā has suṣṭutiḥ, as the conjoint form.

Sūkta 18

1. The print's wording of the Anukramaṇikā quotation is slightly compressed, and my rendering of its last clause sādasaspatyā nārāśaṃsī vāntyā follows the Kannada's gloss.
2. small-print Kannada digits, read at 150 dpi: "೨೪, ೨೫"; unconfirmed
3. as printed; the Kannada numerals of the rik numbers are small and partly read from context
4. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later riks of this volume.
5. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
6. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-3-113, 7-1-58, 3-4-87, 8-3-53 and 8-2-12 as read agree with the standard numbering; the last two lines of the bhāṣya are compressed, and I give only the portions I read.
7. as printed in the source
8. The two Sanskrit passages are given from small print at 150 dpi; the Ṛgveda verse and Yāska's comment have several doubtful words, which I give as read; I do not translate Yāska's comment word for word, but its sense, as the Kannada gives it, is:
9. A crowded run of four pages; outline only; numerals as read, pointers only.
10. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.
11. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 3-1-134 and 7-4-78 as read agree with the standard numbering.
12. The print has "increaser" misspelt in the Pratipadārtha lines as "increaaser" — [sic]; I give the corrected word.
13. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read; pointers only.
14. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened rakṣā, and ṇaḥ for naḥ by the sandhi of P. 8-4-27 [as printed]; the Pada has rakṣa, naḥ.
15. Grammar, noted briefly; the sūtra numerals marked with "as read" or [?] are not certain; those unmarked agree with the standard numbering.
16. A crowded run of four pages; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
17. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced. The Saṃhitā has the lengthened ghā, the Pada gha.

- 18. Grammar, noted briefly.
- 19. Numerals as read; pointers only.
- 20. Numerals as read; pointers only; the Medinī verse is partly read from small print.

Sūkta 19

- 1. small-print Kannada digits "೩೬, ೩೭", read at 150 dpi
- 2. Accent-marks are printed in the source; not reproduced, per the convention for the later riks of this volume.
- 3. compressed; [?] marks doubtful readings
- 4. Grammar, noted briefly; Uṇādi and Nirukta numerals marked [?]; the standard rule P. 7-2-102 is as read.
- 5. Numerals as read; pointers only.
- 6. therefore
- 7. as printed in the source
- 8. The citations are read from the Kannada print; all reference numerals are small and marked [?].
- 9. Accent-marks printed in the source; not reproduced.
- 10. Grammar, noted briefly.
- 11. and
- 12. also
- 13. therefore you
- 14. Grammar, noted briefly; the Ṛgveda reference numerals are as read and marked [?], and P. 3-4-83 agrees with the standard numbering.
- 15. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read; pointers only.
- 16. Grammar, noted briefly; Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa numerals are as read and marked [?].
- 17. A crowded run; outline only; numerals as read from small print; pointers only.
- 18. such
- 19. Grammar, noted briefly; numerals marked [?] or as read.
- 20. The Sanskrit of this passage is partly garbled in the print; I give it as read.

21. Grammar, noted briefly; P. 6-3-73 and 6-3-75 are given with [?] since the print's numerals were small.
22. The print's first word is ये ईङ्खयन्ति, as in the Pada [ye īṅkhayanti]; I give the Saṃhitā in sandhi, ya īṅkhayanti, as the Kannada does in the Saṃhitā line.
23. Grammar, noted briefly; the Uṇādi note is partly unclear [?].
24. The closing numerals read "६ ॥ ०६ ॥ ३८" — Rik 9, Sūkta 19, Varga 37 — which supports the "36, 37" of the heading; I read them at 150 dpi, not enlarged.
25. The verse is the standard benediction found at the close of each section of the Mādhavīya Vedārthaprakāśa; I give it as printed, and the English is mine.
26. The English is mine.